N. B. UNDERWRITERS AFTER NEWCASTLE

Passed Resolution Increasing Rates Fifteen Cents After September, 1905.

MORE HOSE NEEDED.

Other Matters Discussed by Council at Special Meeting Thursday Evening.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council chamber Thursday evening at 8.30 o'clock. There were present His Worship Mayor Miller and Alds Gremley, Russell, Ritchie, Desmond, Williston and McMurdo.

A communication from Chairman Malby of the Board of Health, with a bill for services $50.00 was read and the bill ordered to be paid.

The following communication from the New Brunswick Board of Underwriters was read.

St. John, N. B. 20th June '05

Dear Sir:—

At the last Regular Meeting of the New Brunswick Board of Fire Underwriters the following resolution was adopted.

Newcastle, N. B.—An act providing for the establishment of a Fire District in accordance with the requirements of this Board has been passed and adopted by the Corporation, but the latter has failed to provide an increased supply of water for Fire purposes as required by this Board. Your committee therefore recommend that a flat increase of fifteen cents be added to the present rates on all risks in aforementioned District, excepting on Churches and Sunday School Houses, to take effect from the 1st September 1905.

Your Obedient Servant,
Peter Clinch,
Secretary.

To His Worship the Mayor,
Newcastle N. B.

This was received and placed on file.

A petition of Samuel Matheson and others on McCullam Street for a side walk was read and referred to the Public Works committee.

Petition from the G. A. Lounsbury Est., The Lounsbury Co. Limited, The J. D. Creaghan Co. Ltd. and the Royal Bank of Canada re assessment, were read and referred to the committee on petitions.

Ald Desmond from the Public Works committee reported that they had examined the outlet of Castle street sewer and found it in a filthy condition and a menace to public health. It discharged at high water mark within a few feet of a public street. They recommended that the outlet be carried out through the ferry wharf, thence through wing block to deep water.

Ald Desmond explained that unless it was carried out this way difficulties would be encountered as the ice would wreck the outlet if carried out by the slip.

The report was received and adopted.

His Worship said that it was important that the Town Officers be appointed. The Police and Appointment to Office Committee had been granted a months extension, but through the absence of the Chairman, who had the prepared list, nothing could be done at that meeting.

Ald Russell of the Park and Fire Committee reported that the Fire Company had tested all the hose and found there was about 2000 feet of serviceable hose. He asked that an additional 1000 feet be purchased.

Ald Russell recommended that 500 feet be purchased and that tenders be asked for same.

Ald Williston moved as an amendment that 1000 feet be purchased as he thought this quantity was required.

The amendment was lost by casting vote of the Mayor.

The Mayor explained that he was obliged to vote against the larger quantity as no provision had been made in the

THE BELLES OF DARKTOWN.

Successful Concerts Given by Newcastle Young Ladies Monday and Tuesday Evenings

DREW GOOD HOUSES

Clever Local Hits; Good Music, Swell Costumes and Parts Well Taken.

The concert in the Newcastle Opera House Monday and Tuesday evenings by the Belles of Darktown were very successful from all standpoints. Good houses greeted the actors and the actors acquitted themselves with honor. In fact the concerts were voted the best of their class even seen in the province. (We have this from good authority.)

From the ringing up of the curtain until its final drop there was not a dull number. The young ladies took their parts nobly and are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The costumes worn were very elaborate and showed much clever planning, hard work and good taste, to attain the end in view, the production of a first class Musical Show.

The music was specially good and the different solos were loudly applauded. The jokes and local hits were all clever and evoked much laughter. The end ladies were funny and seemed perfectly at home in their assumed roles.

The following programme was rendered:

"Ladies, Please be Seated."

"Amblyna Snow," Miss Snowflake.
"Ceax Me," Miss Twilght.
"No Cake Comes too High for Me," Mandy Lee.
"Lonesome" Ballad, Miss Tennessee.
"I Just Can't Help from a Lovin' that Man," Miss Flashlight.
"Tommy," Rose Begonia.
"I am de Leadin' Lady of the Town," Miss Patricia Peppington.
"The Hoodoo-doo Man," Miss Angelina Primrose.
Curtain.
"Virginia Reel," Maudy Sykes and her band and the artists.
Mandy Lee.
"A Powerful High Stepper," Misses Peppington, Primrose, Flashlight and Sunflower.
"The Roving Minstrels" in a Darky Quartette.
Phebe Hobbs in her Inimitable Recitation Mammy Sykes will sing one of her "Old Favorites."
"The best of all Stump Speakers will give Advice to Young Ladies," Miss Snowflake.
Curtain.
"My Aunt From California," (Cast of Character)
Felicia Needy, Miss Ingram.
Rosalie Needy, Miss Doran.
Sally Needy, Miss R. Elliott.
Mrs. Needy, their mother.
Miss A. Burchill.
Miss Wilcoxgibs, their dressmaker.
Miss M. Elliott.
Mrs. Merry Muntoburn, their Aunt from California.
Miss R. Elliott.
Time Morning.

We wish to make special mention of a few numbers but among so many clever pieces it is difficult to discriminate.

"The Hoodoo Doo Man" by Miss Angelina Primrose was loudly applauded. During the rendering of this beautiful bouquet was handed to the young lady soloist which was charmingly acknowledged.

Mammy Sykes and Mandy Lee in the Virginia Reel and Step dancing brought down the house. In this number the stage setting was exceptionally good. The log cabin with trees, etc. was a work of art.

Miss Snowflake in her stump speech delivered in a clear voice gave sound advice to young ladies on Matrimony.

The performance closed with "My Aunt From California." This was a clever piece of acting in which Miss R. Elliott took the leading part in a very clever manner. She was ably assisted by the other members.

Copeland's orchestra played during the evening in a highly efficient manner and added much to the merit of the concert.

The proceeds of the first night were donated to Opera House and the second night to start a fund for a cottage hospital here.

It is difficult among the many good numbers to speak of any specially but among the best we might mention the recitation by Miss Nan Creaghan. Miss Fitzgerald in her "Little Pie" was very good, as were all her numbers, and she was repeatedly encored.

The Butterfly Drill and Song by a number of little girls was exceptionally good. The various manoeuvres were carried out in perfect order and time. The costumes were striking and their fairlike dances for such little girls.

As usual the music was of a very high order and speaks well for the Convent as a Musical School, in fact the whole concert reflects credit on the management and pupils of that institution.

HOSPITABLY ENTERTAINED

The Directors, Friends and the Press Enjoy Pleasant Excursion on the S. S. Lady Eileen.

When the Advocate scribe received an invitation to partake of the hospitality of the Inter-provincial Navigation Company in a complimentary sail from Campbellton to Gaspe and return, he lost no time in accepting the same as it had long been on his mind to see that great country familiarly known as the Gaspe Coast.

Arriving in Campbellton guests were immediately shown on board where the Steward and assistants were endeavoring to assign state-rooms to the ladies and gentlemen of the party, and also fulfil the many duties incumbent on them previous to the departure of the boat. In a short time all were comfortable established and the boat under way, gliding down the beautiful Restigouche River, renowned for its scenery.

As Dalhousie was reached some of us at least realized that it was going to be no smooth sailing as a heavy southwest wind was blowing, and it seemed to our landsmen's eyes the waves were mountains high. We will not enlarge on the first day it is only sufficient to say that outside of crew only about a dozen partook of dinner, and a few more of supper.

After dark the scribe and brother Stewart, of the World were pacing the hurricane deck when Pierce Rock was discerned looming up dark against a clear horizon, and it was a sight never to be forgotten. The perpendicular walls of rock, and the arch through which could be seen the light of the horizon. As it was still very rough only a few saw this sight going, but were favored later on our return.

The boat arrived at Gaspe Sunday at about 1 a.m. so that when the first call for breakfast was heard many who were unable to attend the former summons bestirred themselves and a goodly number appeared at table on Sunday. Altogether the day was disagreeable, its disagreeableness was not allowed to force itself on the members of the company, and a very quiet, pleasant Sabbath was observed. All were charmed with the beautiful scenery and also the evidences of prosperity to be witnessed on every hand. The fine residences neatly kept, and places of business, prosperous farms, etc. on every hand bespoke of a happy and contented home.

A visit to Gaspe would not be considered such without a visit to Mine Hosts of the Baker Hotel, who was on hand to extend a glad welcome to all.

We would that we had space to describe Gaspe more fully but we refrain as our space is limited.

While we were thus passing the day, the chef, steward, stewardess and assistants were hard at work preparing the dinner which was to be the event of the trip.

At seven o'clock this was announced and ladies and gentlemen repaired to the dining saloon where was beheld a bounteously spread and decorated board, to which all did justice to the eatables.

The following is the menu:

- DINNER.

After the above had been partaken of Mr. Mott acting as toast master proposed the following toasts:

- "The King."
"The Stars and Strips."—U. S. Counsels Dickson, Gaspe, and Benedict, Campbellton.
"Parliament of Canada and the Legislatures."—Ex. M. P. P. Quite M. P. P. F. H. McLatchy.
"The Lady Eileen and the Terminal Ports."—Capt. Pouliot, Messrs. Earight, and Blair, Mayor Murray, Collector Kanavah and Mr. Poirier.
"The Press."—J. L. Stewart, of the Chatham World, and Albert Laberge of La Presse, Montreal.
"The Ladies."—H. H. Bray.
"Our Next Merry Meeting."
"Old Lang Syne"
"God save the King"

At the conclusion of toasts Mr. Mott on behalf of the guests asked Capt. Pouliot to extend the hearty thanks of all, and something more substantial to the Stewardess Miss Lafontaine who by her kindness and sympathy and assistance had aided many during the trying time on Saturday.

The trip home was a smooth one the weather was fair, and all enjoyed a pleasant day on the promenade deck viewing the ever changing landscape.

Previous to the arrival at Campbellton all again assembled in the dining saloon where Mayor Murray in a few well chosen words expressed to the I. N. Co. the thanks of guests for the hospitality extended them and the party broke up with cheers for the Company for the Lady Eileen for Capt. Pouliot, and the Ladies.

Campbellton and the Bay Chaleur should be proud of this splendid steamer which through the enterprise and push of gentlemen along the route, is not serving this great growing country. The Lady Eileen was built last year by Messrs. Russel & Co. Port Glasgow, is of steel, 108 feet keel and 185 feet over all. She has accommodations for 100 1st. class passengers and 50 2nd. class.

The Capt. and crew are a fine set of men who thoroughly understand their business. We must in closing say a special word of the purser, R. E. Sutton, of Nelson, Miramichi. Dick by his courtesy and kindness made hosts of friends and all along the route is spoken of as just the man for the position. The Steward J. B. I. Fournier of Gaspe was untiring in his endeavors to see that all were looked after and we are sure all will remember his extreme kindness and attention. Always pleasant, genial, prompt and efficient he makes one of the best Stewards it has ever been our pleasure to meet.

That the Company is bound to succeed is assured by the wisdom in the choice of Managers. Messrs. Blair and Richards are young men of push and hustle and are thoroughly conversant with their work. We wish them and the Company every success which their spirit and enterprise merit.

SPRING CLEANING

Is considered a necessity by every one, and yet they fail to eradicate from their blood the accumulated impurities, whose presence is often shown by listlessness and loss of energy and by the occurrence of cancer and pimples. If these impurities are left in the body it is in a suitable condition to fall prey to tuberculosis and other diseases. For this purpose thousands of people take 2 bottles of

GATES' LIFE OF MAN BITTERS and 1 of Gates' Invigorating Syrup every spring. These increase the activities of the organs which remove wastes from the blood, and then the system is fortified to withstand the summer exertions. Sold everywhere at 50 cents a bottle by

A Good Point in Paint Making

The influence of temperature on the consistency of paint is not always sufficiently appreciated either in the factory or the paint shop, says an exchange. On the whole, the manufacturing is less liable to deviate from the standard of composition on account of differences in the consistency of his raw materials caused by variations in temperature than the painter is when the latter thins his paints himself, because the manufacturer works to a definite formula and uses the same relative proportions of the various ingredients winter and summer. The painter, on the other hand, mixes his paints by judgement only, his sole criterion being the ease with which the material can be spread with a brush, this necessarily implies that the proportion of the various thinners varies according to the temperature and other local conditions. This is only one of the reasons why ready mixed paints can never be as satisfactory as pure white lead and linseed oil mixed at the time of application, and put on by a practical painter. Without the power of anticipating the temperature at the time of use and the condition of the surface to be painted, the manufacturer of mixed paints can never make his mixtures such that they will perform their duties of protection and decoration without some defect. In house paint, the old fashioned kind is still the best, the cheapest for you to use.

What To Do

VOLUNTEER LIFE SAVERS SEND OUT SUGGESTIONS.

The summer bulletin for 1905, sent out by the U. S. Volunteer Life Savers, contains things of interest to bathers as well as to people who go out into boats. The following simple rules are worth perusing:

First—Do not go out in any pleasure of small or large dimensions without being assured that there are life-saving buoys or cushions abroad sufficient to float all on board in case of an upset or collision, or festooned with life-saving ropes.

Second—With a party, be sure you are all properly and satisfactorily seated before you leave the shore—particularly so with girls on board. Let no one attempt to exchange seats in mid-stream, or to put a foot on the edge or gunwale of the boat to change seats, or to rock the boat for fun. This, by rollicking young people, has upturned many a boat and lost very many lives every year.

Where the waters become rough from a sudden squall or passing steamers, never rise in the boat, but settle down as close to the bottom as possible and keep cool until the rocking danger passes. If overturned, a woman's skirts, if held out, by her extended arms, while she uses her feet as if climbing a stairs, will often hold her up while a boat may pull out from the shore and save her. A non-swimmer, by drawing his arms up by his sides and pushing down with widely extended hands, while stair-climbing or treading water with his feet, may hold himself up several minutes, often when a single minute means his life; or throwing out the arms, dog fashion forward, overhead and pulling in, as reaching for something—that may bring him help or may at least keep him afloat till help comes.

Third—In rescuing drowning persons, seize them by the hair or the collar, back of the neck. Do not let them throw their arms around your neck or arms. If unmanageable do not strike them, but let them drop under a moment until quiet, then tow them in to the shore.

If unconscious, do not wait a moment for a doctor or an ambulance, but begin at once. First, get the tongue out and hold it by a handkerchief or towel to let the water out; get a buoy, box or barrel under the stomach, or hold the victim over your knee, head down, and jolt the water out; then turn over side to side four or five times, then on the back, and with a pump movement keep the arms going from pit of stomach overhead to a straight out and back 14 or 16 times a minute until signs of returning life are shown. A bellows movement pressure on the stomach at the same time is a great aid if you have help.

Of course, you will at first loosen collar and all binding clothing. Let some one at once remove shoes and stockings, and at the same time rub the lower limbs with an upward movement from foot to knee, occasionally slapping the soles of the feet with the open hand.

Spirits of ammonia to the nostrils, or a feather tickling in the throat, often helps to quicken, but rarely anything more than the above mechanical means is needed. Use no spirits internally until after breathing and circulation are restored; then a moderate use of stimulants or hot tea and a warm blanket or bed is of the first importance.

After the ark had put out on the great volume of water Noah was observed to be very much provoked.

What's the matter? asked Mrs. Noah. Why, confound it, I came away and forgot my umbrella, replied Noah.

Oh, don't worry. I came away and forgot my rainy-day skirt. And then they both blamed it all on the poor weather man, who had predicted fair weather.

Queer Warning.

THAT MADE A YOUNG TELEGRAPH OPERATOR GIVE UP HIS JOB.

"I was once a telegraph operator in the employ of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway at Oconto, Wis.," said Edward H. Carleton, at the Pfisher, but an experience I had one night up in that town when I was a mere boy, drove me out of the business, and I have never pounded a brass key since.

"I was the night operator, going to work at 7 in the evening and remaining on duty until 7 o'clock the next morning. I seldom had to take any train orders and my chief duty was to report the passing of trains to the dispatcher. So the long hours used to pass night after night without incident, and I became so lonesome that I used to run into the woods nearby and yell, just to hear a human voice.

"One morning about 2 o'clock, just after the limited had gone through and I was sitting dozing in my chair, the sounder clicked my office call four or five times and then I jumped to the key and answered. There came to my ears in slow, measured and almost solemn words, this warning: "T-y sin will find thee out!"

"Every fifteen minutes through the long night the Biblical threat was repeated, and it was not signed, I had no means of identifying the sender. "At 5 o'clock in the morning the unknown sent: "The wages of sin is death." "He sent no more warnings, but the experience so scared me, boy that I was, that white faced and trembling I wired the dispatcher that I had quit, took the first train to Marinette and paid a board bill that I had jumped in that town.

"I had a vague idea that some occult agency had been at work to tell me that my hour of doom was approaching, and the unpaid board bill was the only sin of omission of commission that I could recollect. I have never touched a key since that night.

Beware of cheap imitations of the genuine Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. New Steel Invention

PROCESS WILL PRODUCE KNIFE THAT SHAVES AND CUTS GLASS

London, June 10.—A Sheffield concern is now making tools to put on the market that will revolutionize the cutting implement industry. It is declared that a man can use his knife to shave himself, cut the leaves of a magazine, carve wood, cut down trees or cut glass with a penknife that will be cheap and lasting. The invention that makes all this possible is a new water hardened process which will turn out a tool that will maintain a keen cutting edge longer any ever known. A blade of this steel will not only remove all traces of beard and carve a railway sand-wich with equal facility, but it can be hammered with iron bars and bent to an angle of 60 degrees without breaking.

Files made from it wear four times as long as those made from any other kind of steel, and it is expected that this marvellous product of modern invention will be saleable in bulk at about 12 cents a pound.

With a small blade of remarkable steel an expert recently shaved some hair from his arm, and then slashed a knotty billet of redwood in a way which would have reduced an ordinary knife to the semblance of a saw. But on re-testing the edge was found exactly as at the outset, without a dent.

A Thought For The week

'We may drop worry. The eternal life is serene. It is not care worn, nor knows it any foreboding of future ill. Only the serene soul is strong. Every moment of worry weakens the soul for its daily combat. Worry is an infirmity; there is no virtue in it. Worry is spiritual near-sightedness; a fumbling way of looking at little things, and of magnifying their value. True spiritual vision sweeps the universe and sees things in their right proportion. Let us hang life on the line, as painters say, and look at it honestly.

Seen in their true relations, there is no experience of life over which one has a right to worry. Ruskin says, 'God gives us always strength enough and sense enough for everything he wants us to do.' Sense enough; this thought comforts me. It is not the lack of ability that often worries us; it is the lack of a little savoir faire. It is not our failures that distress us so much as our idiosyncrasies.—Anna Robertson Browne in 'What is Worth While.'

INSURANCE RATES.

The New Brunswick Underwriters have notified the Mayor that unless Newcastle spends more money in improving its already up-to-date and efficient fire protection service the citizens of Newcastle will be held up for an additional fifteen cents flat rate on premiums of insurance on buildings in the town excepting churches and Sunday School buildings.

While Newcastle has been remarkably free from fire losses for some years the various insurance companies controlled by the Underwriters claim to have lost money hence the increase.

But if it is necessary to increase the insurance rates for the above reason why did not the underwriters come out honestly and do so, instead of endeavoring to put the responsibility of said increase on the Town Council. The citizens of Newcastle feel that at the present time they have an efficient fire protection service and do not take kindly to the threat that unless certain improvements are made and more money expended an increase will go into effect. We have frequently heard this same threat and have each time submitted, now we think it is time to cry a halt.

Previous to the installation of our Water system one of the strangest arguments in favor of such installation was the pledge of the Underwriters that the rate would be reduced. But what do we find. Some of the heaviest policy holders are paying an equal rate today and in some cases more is being paid than six or seven years ago.

As one Alderman said at the last meeting of the Council it was time we looked for Municipal insurance. We would suggest that a non tariff company be asked to figure on risks and are sure that in many cases where risks are rated, individually, much better rates could be secured in companies which are just as sound as tariff companies controlled by the Underwriters.

COTTAGE HOSPITALS.

The important announcement was made at the concert given by the lady minstrels that the proceeds of Monday and Tuesday evenings' performances would be donated to start a fund for the establishment of a cottage hospital for Newcastle.

The cottage hospital is becoming more popular each year and today throughout Ontario and the West each small town has its own hospital where its sick and injured are cared for by experienced nurses.

We trust that this fund will grow rapidly and that before long we may have one of these grand institutions in our town. Mr. Wm. Park has consented to act as trustee and donations can be sent to his address here.

VACATION.

It is time to think about vacation. You have only to turn one or, at most, two leaves of the office calendar and you can put your finger on the identical two weeks when you will give yourself over to the pernicious and immortal habit in spite of all that Mr. Russell Sage has said against it.

Mr. Sage is, of course, perfectly right in lifting a lone but eloquent voice against this almost universal debauch of summer-resorting in which the people of New York City alone squander a sum three times greater than the amount of water that Mr. Sage's friends put into Manhattan Railway and Consolidated Gas. Think of the possibilities for Manhattan and this if this vast yearly waste were put to a reasonable use!

Mr. Sage is right. The vacation is contrary to the American business gospel, which is, first and last, that Hard Work is the thing that counts. Who of Mr. Sage's fellow-captains of industry ever gave advice to the Young Man without assuring him that Hard Work would make him rich? And, if that is the royal and only road to fortune, how silly it is! of the Young Man to go wandering off fishing for two whole weeks every year when he might be enriching himself with one hundred and twenty precious hours of strenuous toil! It is no use saying that he will work harder the other fifty weeks for having taken two off, because, if he doesn't work as hard as he can the other fifty anyway, he isn't living up to the gospel and cannot succeed.

Why does the young man do it? Possibly it is because he has conceived a suspicion that Hard Work of itself puts nothing into a man, but only takes something out of him, and that he will succeed according to what he has in him. Perhaps it is because he has a notion that contemplation and reflection are as important toward success as oil; that a bright idea counts for more than callouses and backache. Maybe it is because he has figured it out that if Hard Work were really the great and only thing a treadmill mule would now be president of Standard Oil.—Philadelphia Post.

DEATH OF REV. H. A. MEAHAN.

A great shock was given the Catholic community on Wednesday afternoon when the news came from Moncton that Rev. H. A. Meahan, had died suddenly. The able and popular pastor of St. Bernard's church has been seriously ill a year ago but he had spent the winter travelling in Europe and the Holy Land and he had returned greatly improved in health. During the last few weeks he had not been as well as usual, but no particular importance was attached to that fact. On Wednesday afternoon he retired to his room to rest, and when his housekeeper went to call him about 4 o'clock he was dead. Heart disease had carried him off.

Father Meahan was in his fifty third year. A native of Bathurst, Gloucester County.

The Adventure of the Empty House

No. 1 of the Series

(Copyright, 1905, by A. Conan Doyle and Collier's Magazine, Inc., New York, N. Y.)

That was not literally true. A few small footholds presented themselves, and there was some indication of a ledge. The cliff is so high that to climb it all was an obvious impossibility, and it was equally impossible to make my way along the wet path without leaving some tracks. I might, it is true, have reversed my boots, as I have done on similar occasions, but the sight of three sets of tracks in one direction would certainly have suggested a deception. On the whole, then, it was best that I should risk the climb. It was not a pleasant business, Watson. The fall roared beneath me. I am not a fanciful person, but I give you my word that I seemed to hear Moriarty's voice screaming at me out of the abyss. A mistake would have been fatal. More than once as tufts of grass came out in my hand or my foot slipped in the wet patches of the rock I thought that I was gone. But I struggled upward, and at last I reached a ledge several feet deep and covered with soft green moss, where I could lie unseen in the most perfect comfort. There I was stretched when you, my dear Watson, and all your following were investigating in the most sympathetic and inefficient manner the circumstances of my death.

"At last, when you had all formed your inevitable and totally erroneous conclusions, you departed for the hotel, and I was left alone. I had imagined that I had reached the end of my adventures, but a very unexpected occurrence showed me that there were surprises still in store for me. A huge rock, falling from above, boomed past me, struck the path and bounded over into the chasm. For an instant I thought that it was an accident, but a moment later, looking up, I saw a man's head against the darkening sky, and another stone struck the very ledge upon which I was stretched within a foot of my head. Of course the meaning of this was obvious. Moriarty had not been alone. A confederate—and even that one glance had told me how dangerous a man that confederate was—had kept guard while the professor had attacked me. From a distance, unseen by me, he had been a witness of his friend's death and of my escape. He had waited, and then, making his way around to the top of the cliff, he had endeavored to succeed where his comrade had failed.

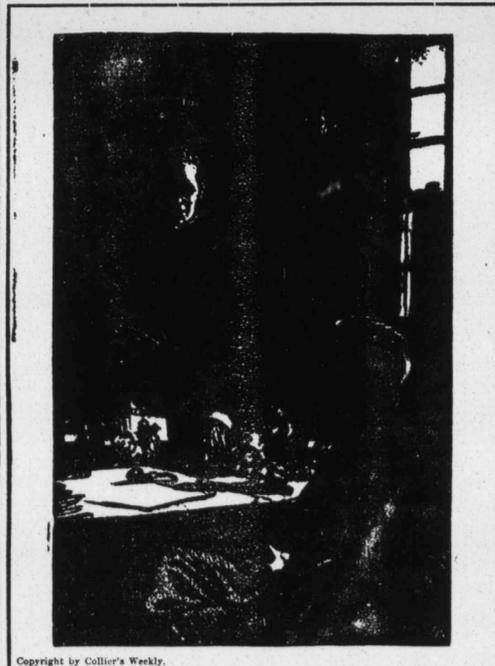

"I did not long to think about it, Watson. As I saw that grim face look over the cliff, and I knew that it was the precursor of another stone, I scrambled down on to the path. I don't think I could have done it in cold blood. It was a hundred times more difficult than getting up. But I had no time to think of the danger, for another stone sang past me as I hung by my hands from the edge of the ledge. Halfway down I slipped, but, by the blessing of God, I landed, torn and bleeding, upon the path. I took to my heels, did ten miles over the mountains in the darkness, and a week later I found myself in Florence, with the certainty that no one in the world knew what had become of me.

an account of my unhappy end had you not yourself thought that it was true. Several times during the last three years I have taken up my pen to write to you, but always I feared lest your affectionate regard for me should tempt you to some indiscretion which would betray my secret. For that reason I turned away from you this evening when you upset my books, for I was in danger at the time, and any show of surprise and emotion upon your part might have drawn attention to my identity and led to the most deplorable and irreparable results. As to Mycroft, I had to confide in him in order to obtain the money which I needed. The course of events in London did not run so well as I had hoped, for the trial of the Moriarty gang left two of its most dangerous members, my own most vindictive enemies, at liberty. I traveled for two years in Tibet, therefore, and amused myself by visiting Lassa and spending some days with the head lama. You may have read of the remarkable explorations of a Norwegian named Sigerson, but I am sure that it never occurred to you that you were receiving news of your friend. I then passed through Persia, looked in at Mecca and paid a short but interesting visit to the khalfat at Khartoum, the results of which I have communi-

to the foreign office. Returning to France, I spent some months in a research into the coal tar derivatives, which I conducted in a laboratory at Montpellier, in the south of France. Having concluded this to my satisfaction and learning that only one of my enemies was now left in London, I was about to return when my movements were hastened by the news of this very remarkable Park Lane mystery, which not only appealed to me by its own merits, but which seemed to offer some most peculiar personal opportunities. I came over at once to London, called in my own person at Baker street, threw Mrs. Hudson into violent hysterics and found that Mycroft had preserved my rooms and my papers exactly as they had always been. So it was, my dear Watson, that at 2 o'clock today I found myself in my old armchair in my own old room and only wishing that I could have seen my old friend Watson in the other chair which he has so often adorned."

Such was the remarkable narrative to which I listened on that April evening, a narrative which would have been utterly incredible to me had it not been confirmed by the actual sight of the tall, spare figure and the keen, eager face, which I had never thought to see again. In some manner he had learned of my own sad bereavement, and his sympathy was shown in his manner rather than in his words. "Work is the best antidote to sorrow," my dear Watson," said he, "and I have a piece of work for us both tonight, which if we can bring it to a successful conclusion will in itself justify a man's life on this planet." In vain I begged him to tell me more. "You will hear and see enough before morning," he answered. "We have three years of the past to discuss. Let that suffice until half past 9, when we start upon the notable adventure of the empty house."

It was indeed like old times when at that hour I found myself seated beside him in a hansom, my revolver in my pocket and the thrill of adventure in my heart. Holmes was cold and stern and silent. As the gleam of the street lamps flashed upon his austere features I saw that his brows were drawn down in thought and his thin lips compressed. I knew not what wild beasts were about to hunt down in the dark jungle of criminal London, but I was well assured from the bearing of this master huntsman that the adventure was a most grave one, while the sardonic smile which occasionally broke through his ascetic gloom boded little good for the object of our quest.

I had imagined that we were bound for Baker street, but Holmes stopped the cab at the corner of Cavendish square. I observed that as he stepped out he gave a most searching glance to right and left and at every subsequent street corner he took the utmost pains to assure that he was not followed. Our route was certainly a singular one. Holmes' knowledge of the byways of London was extraordinary, and on this occasion he passed rapidly and with an assured step through a network of news and stables the very existence of which I had never known. We emerged at last into a small road lined with old, gloomy houses which led us into Manchester street and so to Blandford street. Here he turned swiftly down a narrow passage, passed through a wooden gate into a deserted yard and then opened with a key the back door of a house. We entered together, and he closed it behind us.

The place was pitch dark, but it was evident to me that it was an empty house. Our feet creaked and crackled over the bare planking, and my outstretched hand touched a wall from which the paper was hanging in ribbons. Holmes' cold, thin fingers closed around my wrist and led me forward down a long hall until I dimly saw the murky fan light over the door. Here Holmes turned suddenly to the right, and we found ourselves in a large, square, empty room, heavily shadowed in the corners, but faintly lit in the center from the lights of the street beyond. There was no lamp near, and the window was thick with dust, so that we could only just discern each other's figures within. My companion put his hand upon my shoulder and his lips close to my ear.

"Do you know where we are?" he whispered.

"Surely that is Baker street," I answered, staring through the dim window.

"Exactly. We are in Camden House, which stands opposite to our own old quarters."

"But why are we here?"

"Because it commands so excellent a view of that picturesque pile. Might I trouble you, my dear Watson, to draw a little nearer to the window, taking every precaution not to show yourself, and then to look up at our old rooms—the starting point of so many of your little fairy tales? We will see if my three years of absence have entirely taken away my power to surprise you."

I crept forward and looked across at the familiar window. As my eyes fell upon it I gave a gasp and a cry of amazement. The blind was down, and a strong light was burning in the room. The shadow of a man who was seated in a chair within was thrown in hard, black outline upon the luminous screen of the window. There was mistaking the pose of the head, the squareness of the shoulders, the sharpness of the features. The face was turned half around, and the effect was that of one of those black silhouettes which our grandfathers loved to frame. It was a perfect reproduction of Holmes. So amazed was I that I threw out my hand to make sure that the man himself was standing beside me. He was quivering with silent laughter.

"Well!" said he.

"Good heavens!" I cried. "It is marvelous!"

"I trust that age doth not wither nor certain stale my infinite variety," said he. Add I recognized in his voice the joy and pride which the artist takes in his own creation. "It really is rather like me, is it not?"

"I should be prepared to swear that it was you."

"The credit of the execution is due to M. Ocker Mennier of Grenoble, who spent some days in doing the molding. It is a bust in wax. The rest I arranged myself during my visit to Baker street this afternoon."

"But why?"

"Because, my dear Watson, I had the strongest possible reason for wishing certain people to think that I was there when I was really elsewhere."

"And you thought the rooms were watched?"

"I knew that they were watched."

"By whom?"

"By my old enemies, Watson. By the charming society whose leader lies in the Reichsbach fall. You must remember that they knew, and only they knew, that I was still alive. Sooner or later they believed that I should come back to my rooms. They watched them continuously, and this morning they saw me arrive."

"How do you know?"

"Because I recognized their sentinel when I glanced out of my window. He is a harmless enough fellow, Parker by name, a garrotter by trade and a remarkable performer upon the jew-harp. I cared nothing for him. But I cared a great deal for the much more formidable person who was behind him, the bosom friend of Moriarty, the man who dropped the rocks over the cliff, the most cunning and dangerous criminal in London. That is the man who is after me tonight, Watson, and that is the man who is quite unaware that we are after him."

My friend's plans were gradually revealing themselves. From this convenient retreat the watchers were being watched and the trackers tracked. That angular shadow yonder was the bait, and we were the hunters. In silence we stood together in the darkness and watched the hurrying figures who passed and repassed in front of us. Holmes was silent and motionless, but I could tell that he was keenly alert and that his eyes were fixed intently upon the stream of passersby. It was a bleak and boisterous night, and the wind whistled shrilly down the long street. Many people were moving to and fro, most of them muffled in their coats and cravats. Once or twice it seemed to me that I had seen the same figure before, and I especially noticed two men who appeared to be sheltering themselves from the wind in the doorway of a house some distance up the street. I tried to draw my companion's attention to them, but he gave a little indication of impatience and continued to stare into the street. More than once he fidgeted with his feet and tapped rapidly with his fingers upon the wall. It was evident to me that he was becoming uneasy and that his plans were not working out altogether as he had hoped. At last at midnight approached and the street gradually cleared he paced up and down the room in uncontrollable agitation. I was about to make some remark to him when I raised my eyes to the lighted window and again experienced almost as great a surprise as before. I clutched Holmes' arm and pointed upward.

Low Vitality of Old Age

Brought this man to death's door, but he was rescued by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Dr. Geo. W. Lawson, a well known farmer of Orono, Ont., writes: "One year ago I was taken sick, and felt myself falling every day. I consulted and doctored with several eminent physicians, and received no permanent benefit. In fact, they told me they could do nothing for me except to afford temporary relief, as it was a general breaking up of old age. My nerves were exhausted and my whole system completely broken up."

"I was just at death's door, and, thinking my time to die had come, I gave up hope. Hearing of the wonderful cure being brought about by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I began using it. This treatment helped me from the neck, and I continued it for six months, when I was fully restored to health. To-day I am a well man, and made so by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Though in my seventy-fifth year, I feel as well as I did at twenty, and can walk as fast as any of the boys."

JUST BREATHE.

When Worn Out Don't Take a Stimulant; Just Breathe.

Don't take a stimulant; just breathe. This is the advice of a doctor who does not believe in the old medical policy of mystery, but who undertakes philosophically to explain to any patient why such and such a remedy should be beneficial, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

"When you are 'let down,'" continued this physician, "don't take a cocktail; just breathe. Put your finger on your pulse and get its rhythm. During eight beats draw in the breath, breathe deep and low and forcing the diaphragm down first, then filling the upper lungs. Then exhale this breath during four beats of the pulse."

"Now, if you are working with a piece of machinery, say a typewriter, what do you do to make it run more smoothly? You don't put a lot more oil on it and gum and clog it all up. You clean it first. You can best clean the blood by breathing. The blood passes through the lungs, and it needs and expects to find plenty of fresh air with oxygen in it. If it can't find perfectly fresh air it needs more air which is not perfectly fresh. It needs to be cleaned by contact with the air."

"Once in awhile hold the lungs full of breath as long as you can without expulsion. In doing this you are simply cleaning the machine. You are cleaning the blood. At the same time you are giving that little filip to the action of the heart and the nervous system which you thought you were giving when you took the cocktail. In the latter case you didn't clean the machine. You simply ran it a little faster and gummed it up a little more. You can get the same results, the same feeling of exhilaration and of accomplishment, without taking the cocktail, and at the same time the machine will steadily improve in its running quality. Breathe the best air you can get and plenty of it. It is as necessary as food. The heart and lungs act involuntarily. In hurried business life they become too involuntary. In that case don't take a cocktail; just breathe."

Students Can Enter At Any Time

As we have no summer vacation, do not divide into terms, and the instruction given is mostly individual.

We do not find it convenient to give a summer vacation, as many of our students are far from home, and would be seriously inconvenienced by an interruption of their work.

Besides, St. John summer weather is so cool that a vacation is not necessary.

Catalogues free to any address.

REASON NO 22 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because of the care in Selection and Blending.

My agents in the east are expert tea tasters, and every lot of tea that is sent down from the Gardens has to pass their inspection. They take samples from the chests and carefully taste them, then if the tea is fully up to the Red Rose standard, it is accepted and shipped; if not it is rejected.

The most important test of all, however, is when the tea arrives here, as during the passage through the Red Sea, the very great heat often affects the Tea very seriously. Immediately on arrival, samples are taken from each lot and subjected to the most rigid tests, and only those teas which have retained all their original flavor and strength are used for Red Rose (the balance is jobbed off in bulk).

When blended and ready to be put into sealed packages, it is tested again just to make sure no mistake has been made in the blending; nothing is left to chance.

Will you test us by ordering a package?

NEURALGIC HEADACHE IS USUALLY

Attended with blinding pain, but relieved comes quickly when Nerviline is applied, for it is the strongest pain reliever in the world. "I consider Nerviline a most magical remedy for neuralgia. I am subject to violent attacks," writes Mrs. E. G. Harris of Baltimore, but never worry if Nerviline is in house. The prompt relief that Nerviline brings makes it priceless to me. A few applications never yet failed to kill the pain. I can also recommend Nerviline for stiffness in the joints and rheumatism." Try Nerviline yourself. Price 25c.

HELPLESS WITH SALT RHEUM

"For many months my wife was unable to serve herself with her hands because of salt rheum. Dr. Chase's Ointment has entirely cured her and we strongly recommend it to any who suffer from similar ailments, believing that it has no equal."—Mrs. DUGGAV, Pigeon Hill, Mississippi Co., Ore.

The Editor—Of course not. Otherwise it wouldn't have been poetry.

Abscess Became Running Sore

The doctor failed again and again, but Dr. Chase's Ointment made a complete cure. The antiseptic and healing properties of Dr. Chase's Ointment are well illustrated in the following case, in which a running sore was completely and permanently cured.

Mrs. S. J. SAUNDERS, Prospect, Lanark Co., Ont., writes: "In July, 1903, my little girl took what the doctor called abscess on her cheek. The doctor lanced it, but could not do it any good. By September it had become a running sore, and, though we had the doctor again he could do nothing. In December we began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, which has made a complete cure. There has not been the least return of the trouble, so we believe that the cure is permanent."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has become standard the world over, because it succeeds in effecting cures when all other treatments fail. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cts., at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

FOOLS USE WASHES AND SNUFFS,

Thinking perhaps they will cure Catarrh, but no one ever heard of a genuine cure following such senseless treatments. There is just one prompt and thorough cure for Catarrh and it is fragrant healing Catarrhose which goes right to the root of the trouble. It destroys the germs, heals the inflamed mucous membranes and cures any case no matter how obstinate or long standing. "I experienced for years with Catarrh remedies but found Catarrhose the most rational and satisfactory" writes W. J. McEcherra of Waterville. "It cured me for all time." For a sure cure use only Catarrhose. Complete outfit, $1.00; trial size 25c.

Mark Twain and Bishop Doane

Maak Twain as a humorist is no respecter of persons, and a story is told of him and Bishop Doane which bears on the point. It occurred when Mark Twain was living in Hartford, where Mr. Doane was then rector of an Episcopal church. Twain had listened to one of the good doctor's test sermons one Sunday morning, when he approached him and said politely: 'I have enjoyed your sermon this morning. I welcomed it as I would welcome an old friend. I have a book in my library that contains every one of it.' 'Impossible sir,' replied the rector, indignantly.

'Not at all. I assure you it is true,' said Twain. 'Then I shall trouble you to send me that book' rejoined the rector, with dignity. The next morning Dr. Doane received, with Mark Twain's compliments, a dictionary.

Thirty Days' Work.

Last year the editor of Zest, published in Chicago, made a collection of the doings of the cigarette as recorded in the press during thirty days. He culled from thirty-one newspapers fifty disastrous happenings due to the 'paper pipe.' Here is a summary of them:

Two young men were seriously burned, through sleeping at night with cigarettes in their mouths—a common custom with victims of the habit.

Eight serious illnesses, among them paralysis, heart failure and blindness, and thirteen deaths were credited by attending physicians to cigarette poisoning.

Twelve crimes (among them four murders) were laid at the door of this deadly pest, not by philanthropists, or extremists, but police courts records.

Five cigarettes fends gave up the struggle to reform and tried, with success in three cases, to commit suicide; eleven others went insane.

If the cigarette can do this much harm in thirty days, what must it accomplish in a year?

In considering the appalling account just given we must not forget that not one in hundreds of those who use tobacco in this form bring themselves to the notice of the public through the press. They go down into the valley of moral corruption and physical decay by slow degrees. They crush out the hopes of those who love them, become useless lumberers of the ground, and without committing any crime that would throw the X-rays of the public notice upon the cause of the trouble, are carried off by lung, or liver, or heart diseases.

Internal Revenue Figures FOR THE CIGARETTE.

According to the Dominion Internal Revenue Department, Statistics for the Year ending June 30th, 1899, the Consumption of Foreign Leaf Cigarettes is entered at 100,750,828, being an increase over the previous year of 21,084,511. The Canadian Leaf Article Totalled is not given in the returns. One firm in Hamilton is now turning out one hundred thousand cigarettes per day.

'THE CHATHAM PLANET' ON THE CIGARETTE.

Albert Wright of St. Louis, fourteen years old, became addicted to the cigarette habit over three years ago, and for the last year he smoked, according to the statement of a brother-in-law Dr. Conway Bates of Clayton, from forty to fifty cigarettes a day. He had been ill for two weeks, but no one thought his illness serious until a couple of days ago, when he suddenly grew worse and finally expired. Dr. Bates made an examination of the boy and found that his left lung was eaten almost entirely away. His death was due to the cigarette. Now, all boys don't die from smoking cigarettes, but it certainly injures their health and

His last Request.

Pat was in the habit of going home drunk every night and beating his wife Biddy—not because he disliked her, but because he thought it was the thing to do. Finally Biddy lost patience and appealed to the priest. The priest called that evening, and Pat came home drunk as usual.

'Pat,' said the priest, 'you're drunk and I'm going to make you stop this right here. If you ever get drunk again I'll turn you into a rat—do you mind that? If I don't see you I'll know about it just the same, and into a rat you go. Now you mind that.'

Pat was very docile that night, but the next evening he came home even worse than ever, kicked in the door and Biddy dodged behind the table to defend herself.

'Don't be afraid, darlint,' says Pat as he steadied himself before dropping into a chair. 'I'm not going to bate ye. I won't lay the weight of me finger on yet. I want ye to be kind to me tonight, darlint, and to remember the days when we was swatehearts and when ye loved me. You know his river-ence said last night if I got drunk again he'd turn me into a rat. He didn't see me, but he knows I'm drunk, and this night into a rat I go. But I want ye to be kind to me, darlint, and watch me, and when you see me gettin' little, and the hair growing out on me, and me whiskers gettin' long, if ye ever loved me, darlint, keep yer eye on the cat.'

FACIAL PARALYSIS

MR. W. J. BRENSAN, Western Hill St. Catherine, Ont., writes:—"My face was all twisted out of shape with facial paralysis, and five doctors failed to cure or even relieve. By the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been entirely cured, and have returned to work strong and well. I have gained in weight and feel that I have a new lease of life."

Good Complexion

When Pimples and Blisters Disfigure the Skin
it means bad blood, bad digestion or constipation. First two are the result of the last. FRUIT-A-TIVES cure all three. When the bowels don't move regularly, poisonous matter remains in the intestines. Instead of the blood taking up wholesome nourishment to build up the system, it absorbs part of this poisonous matter which causes pimples and blotches on the skin. Gases are formed by this matter, which get into the stomach, upset digestion, coat the tongue, and taint the breath. Fruit-a-tives purify the blood—correct digestion—and clear the complexion—because they cure constipation.

"I am on my second box of Fruit-a-tives now and can honestly say they are the best medicine for Constipation and Stomach Trouble I ever used."
MRS. F. CODY, OTTAWA, ONT.

These wonderful little tablets are pure fruit juices—prepared according to the secret formula of an Ottawa physician who discovered the method of using fruit to cure disease. Last week good catches of salmon and mackerel were caught in the bay. The shad fishing has been a failure this year. For a number of years it has been dropping off. In conversation with a well known river fisherman, the Advocate was informed that the salmon fishing was the only one which is holding its own and this was attributed to the artificial propagation of salmon. Years ago large quantities of alewives and shad were caught on both branches of the Miramichi now there is only a very small catch.

The Methodist Church at Tabusintac has undergone considerable improvements this spring.
