JEALOUSY BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN MOTIVE FOR WARLOW KILLING WIFE

Windsor Man Who Attemmpts Suicide After Shooting the Woman From Whom He Was Separated, Is Closely Guarded In Hospital—Doctors Expect He Will Recover From Self-Inflicted Wound.

WILL RECOVER.

Windsor, March 21.—Canadian Press.—John Warlow, confined to the Hotel Dieu under guard of the Walkerville police, suffering from a self-inflicted revolver wound, which he fired into his own body after fatally shooting his wife, was reported to be resting easily this morning. Doctors attending him state that he is in no immediate danger, and will probably recover.

Windsor, March 21.—Canadian Press.—Shot by her husband, John Warlow of Windsor, aged 40, as she left Clegg's Bakery, corner Kildare and Ottawa streets, Walkerville, at 10:30 Saturday night, Louisa Warlow, aged 36, died in Hotel Dieu Hospital at 12:35 Sunday morning. Warlow, immediately after shooting his wife turned the gun upon himself, inflicting a wound from which he will recover, doctors say. He was taken to the hospital where he lies under police guard.

Jealousy is thought to have been the motive for the crime, according to the police who say that Warlow complained to them of the attentions paid his wife by his cousin, Norman Warlow. Papers of separation had been secured by the wife who had not been living with her husband for the last three months.

Mrs. Warlow had been employed at Clegg's bakery since coming to Windsor in October last. She expected to return to her home in Croydon, England, within the next few weeks and had notified Mr. Clegg, her brother-in-law, that she would leave his employ Saturday night.

Her husband had evidently been waiting for her to leave the store as Mrs. John Tierney, with whom she boarded, an eyewitness of the shooting states that she saw Warlow follow his wife, as soon as she left the shop.

Had Presentiment.

Mrs. Warlow feared violence at the hands of her husband, according to Mrs. Tierney who resides half a block from the bakery store in front of which the shooting occurred. Mrs. Tierney in her account of the tragedy states that the dead woman had a presentiment of impending calamity—Mrs. Tierney—turned on the veranda light at 10 o'clock and came to meet her at the store at 10:30.

From her veranda Mrs. Tierney saw her lodger leave the shop and commence to walk towards the house. She noticed a man whom she at once assumed to be Warlow, step around the corner and follow the woman. Fearing trouble, Mrs. Tierney went to meet Mrs. Warlow who had paused in front of the store and was in conversation with her husband.

"John has been saying terrible things about me, but you know that I am

CHAMBERLAIN IS ELECTED LEADER OF UNIONISTS

Chancellor of the Exchequer Succeeds Andrew Bonar Law.

SELECTION UNANIMOUS

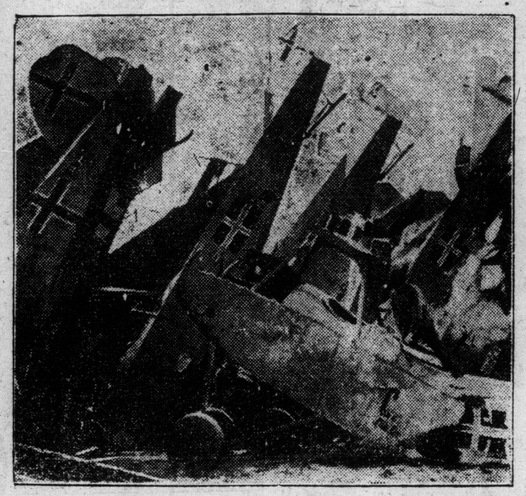

Choice Was Made at Gathering of Lloyd George's Supporters.

London, March 21. — Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, was today elected leader of the Unionist party. His selection, effected at a meeting of the Unionist members of the House of Commons at the Carlton Club, was unanimous. He succeeds Andrew Bonar Law, whose retirement, because of ill-health, was announced last week.

Wood Alcohol Claims Three More Victims

Marquette, Mich., March 21.—Three men are dead, one is not expected to recover and two are seriously ill at Covington as a result of a celebration Friday night of their return from a winter's work in the lumber camps. The party, it is said, imbibed near-alcoholic drinks for a time, and then set out to find something more satisfying. One of the number purchased a bottle of wood alcohol, which, according to William Crebassa, deputy state food and drug inspector, was responsible for the deaths. Crebassa is investigating reports that the bottle did not bear the customary "poison" warning.

CITY COUNCIL MAY SUSPEND PLUMBING BYLAW TONIGHT

Elimination of Plumbing Inspection Department Will Be Seriously Considered—Master Plumbers Refused To Pay License Fees.

Suspension of the plumbing bylaw and elimination of the city's plumbing be seriously considered by the city council tonight. The situation has been coming to a head for some time and decisive action is now expected.

The first plumbing bylaw adopted by the city two years ago was attacked on the grounds that it demanded much unnecessary plumbing which added to the cost without any advantage resulting to the shareholder. A new bylaw was brought in, but never was adopted. The inspection department continued its work, however, operating on a former bylaw covered the situation in a general manner.

Complications developed early this year when master plumbers refusel to pay their license fees. They maintained that it was unfair to tax them in this manner and yet not inforce the plumbing regulations. License Inspector McCallum prepared to bring several cases to court. This action was delayed to see what steps would be taken by the council tonight.

Greeks Prepare for Offensive Against Turkish Nationalists; Reservists Called to Colors

COAL DOWN 50 CENTS TON APRIL FIRST

Toronto Prices Will Be $15.50 Per Ton.

NOT SO CHEAP HERE

Local Dealers Do not Contemplate Any Large Slash.

While coal prices in London may drop 50 cents on April 1 it is not likely they will go lower than that, Charles Martin of the Martin-Lyons Fuel Company stated today. A Toronto report credited one of the largest firms in that city with a statement that the price there will drop from $16.90 to $15.50 a ton. Mr. Martin said he did not believe this to be correct, although it was possible that companies with a large trade in Toronto might make a reduction of that amount. He considered it more probable that prices would be only 50 cents lower.

The greater part of the coal trade is carried on by six large producing companies in the United States, Mr. Martin explained. Two of these have announced that there will be positively no reduction in prices; two have announced a cut of 50 cents, and the remaining two have made no announcement.

A reduction in prices in the spring is usual in order to encourage summer buying and enable dealers to lay in new stocks.

Premier Gounaris Is Confident That Sufficient Troops Can Be Sent Against Kemalist Forces To Bring About Their Defeat—Turkish Radicals Persist in Refusing To Accept Proposals of London Conference and Continue To Demand Return of Thrace and Smyrna.

London, March 21.—The calling by King Constantine of Greece of three classes to the national colors, announced at Athens Sunday, in all probability portends a Greek offensive against the Turkish Nationalists, in the opinion of Demetrios Gounaris, the Greek minister of war, expressed in an interview here today.

M. Gounaris, who came to London early this month to attend sessions of the supreme council, thought the offensive move was probable, "as obviously," he said, "we cannot await the completion of the Turkish concentration."

"This decree," said M. Gounaris, "is a natural consequence of the attitude of Turkey, who has again declared she will not accept the proposals of the London conference, and is demanding the return of Thrace and Smyrna, obtained by Greece as the result of the war.

"It is also being openly declared that the Turkish forces in Cilicia are being withdrawn for use against the Greeks, and we have news of a Kemalist concentration against our army.

"Therefore, the latter has been reinforced, and three classes of reserves, numbering 45,000 men, have been called out as the result of an urgent decision by the counsel, after consultation with the premier and myself.

"Such precautions must be taken, and the commander-in-chief has taken the usual measures for the safety of the army. I have no doubt that our army will more than suffice to deal with the Kemalist forces."

BIG MAJORITY FOR GERMANS IN SILESIA

Plebiscite Is Taken As Specified in Peace Treaty.

HEAVY VOTE IS CAST

National Status of Disputed Area Is Decided.

Berlin, March 21.—Germany won an overwhelming victory in the plebiscite held in Upper Silesia yesterday to determine the future national status of that region, according to official returns received here today. Two districts were still missing at 9 a.m. today, but the count showed that 876,000 votes had been cast for Germany and 480,000 for Poland.

Reports from Breslau state that the plebiscite was generally without untoward incidents.

Provisional returns published in newspapers here show that in Opheln, Germany received 20,000 votes to 11,000 for Poland. In Tarnowitz the Germans cast 55 per cent of the ballots and in the town of Beuthen they cast 78 per cent. In the Beuthen country districts the vote, as published, stood Germany, 59,322; Poland, 62,040. In Koenigshuette, the Germans received 32,000, and the Poles 10,851, and Kattowitz, town and country districts, gave the Germans 72,831 and the Poles 66,187, the town of Kattowitz voting German by 93 per cent. In Hindenburg, the Germans cast 36,676 votes to 31,625 by the Poles, while in Kruszburg the German vote was 33,980 to 1,556 for the Poles.

Area Involved 5,000 Square Miles.

Palm Sunday, the day of the voting in Upper Silesia, seems likely to go down in history as one of the most momentous days in the adjustment of European boundaries growing out of the recent war. The day had been looked forward to with intense interest by all Germany and Poland as well, while evidences of world-wide attention upon the balloting were not lacking in advices coming from abroad.

The area involved, comprising some five thousand square miles, was the

Commits Suicide When Not Invited To Attend Wedding

Ridgewood, N. J., March 21.—Because he was not invited to the wedding of family friends, William W. Smith, 12 years old, committed suicide on Saturday night by hanging himself to a bed post with a necktie at his home in Glenrock, near here. Earlier in the day the boy learned that his chum had been invited to the ceremony, and threatened to choke himself if he failed to receive an invitation. The body was found by the boy's mother on her return from the wedding festivities.

CHICAGO EXPLOSION PURELY ACCIDENTAL, BELIEF OF POLICE

Theory That Blast Was Work of Disgruntled Employee Is Discredited.

Chicago, March 21.—Wrecking crews today were clearing away the tons of debris scattered by an explosion on Sunday night in the elevator of the Armour Grain Company on the south side, under which the bodies of four victims were believed to be buried.

The two known dead were blown out of the structure by the blast, which, is believed, was due to spontaneous combusion which ignited the mill dust.

The damage was placed by E. A. James, secretary of the company, at $1,000,000. He said it was believed the other $3,000,000 worth of grain in the concrete bins could be salvaged.

Police and officials of the company declared that they placed little credence in a theory that the explosion might have been caused by a dissatisfied employee.

ASSOCIATIONS CANNOT ARRANGE FOR LISTING OF ADDITIONAL NAMES

Ottawa Returning Officer Gives Interpretation of Temperance Act Clause.

Ottawa, March 21.—The wholesale placing of names upon the voters' lists which are to be used in the coming referendum on April 18, is not to be permitted, as Clause 5 of Section 46 of the Canada temperance act specifies that persons desiring to have the name of another placed on the list must be a relative or the employer of the party whose name he seeks to have added.

Such is the interpretation of Sheriff George Clark Richardson, returning officer for Ottawa, who during the week-end announced that only persons who were "relatives or employers" would be listened to by the revising clerks, who were appointed by Judge J. A. McGillivray on Saturday, and who will have charge of the preparation of the voters' lists.

The announcement of the returning officer means, in effect, that leagues, associations or similar bodies cannot prepare a list of many names of persons who support their cause, and have them put on the voters' list by an individual bringing down the list and swearing before the revising clerk that the persons whose names are on his list are entitled to vote.

WILL SELECT SIX OR EIGHT MEN FOR BOARD TO PASS ON

Special Committee of Trustees to Meet This Afternoon.

POSITION OF SECRETARY

Rumors Current of Much "Lobbying" on Behalf of Several Applicants.

Selection of some six or eight men will be made this afternoon from the 24 applicants for the position of secretary of the board of education by the special committee appointed for this purpose and the names selected will be later reported to the board for final decision.

Considerable comment has been current during the past few days on the peculiar action taken by the board, following its appointment of a special committee to make selections of the best qualified men, in reserving to individual members of the board the right to require that the name of any other applicant, not recommended by the committee, shall be considered by the board.

"What is the use of appointing a committee to make a selection if immediately the committee presents a list of men whom it presumably believes to be the best suited for the position, the board may bring in a number of other names?" asked one city hall official today. "Such a proposition does not indicate much faith in the ability of the committee for the task imposed upon it and is a line of action that may easily lead to a considerable misunderstanding. Either the committee is able, as a body of presumably intelligent men, to judge the qualification of the men it will review, or it is not. In the latter case the appointment of the committee has been an absolute waste of time and effort."

Rumors are also current around the city hall that the time which has elapsed since the receipt of the applications has been actively used by certain applicants, through their own efforts and those of their friends, to boost their own chances of appointment, a number of additional recommendations having, it is alleged, been sent to the committee in at least one case. Efforts to verify this latter statement today met with little success. members of the committee declaring that they knew nothing about the matter beyond the fact that they had to meet this afternoon to study the applications and make a report on them to the board.

As the next regular meeting of the board will not be held till Tuesday, April 5th, a special meeting will probably be called immediately to receive the support of the committee and make the appointment.

The national railway service as proposed in the plan would be a purchasing agency for cars and other equipment, to be leased to the roads without profit.

CAYUGA HIGH SCHOOL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Loss Estimated at Nearly $50,000—Insurance $8,000.

Cayuga, March 21.—Fire, thought to have originated in the laboratory, completely destroyed the high school here about 4 o'clock this morning. Trustees estmate it will be impossible to replate the building for less than $50,000 and insurance carried o nthe old school was only $8,000.

The school was a four-roomed building modern in every respect. The laboratory was well equipped, and the library alone was worth $2,000. Principl James E. Steel is a heavy loser, as he had valuable books and papers in the library.

The school caretaker visited the building as usual last night to tend the furiace, but cannot suggest a possible cause of the blaze.

ALDERMAN-ELECT WILL TAKE HIS SEAT TONIGHT

Seldom do men elected to office of any kind take their positions so promptly as Ald.-Elect H. J. Childs intends to do. He was elected Saturday and will attend his first council meeting tonight. The necessary formality of being sworn in will be carried out this afternoon. It is probable that Mr. Childs will take the late Ald. C. G. Morhead's place on No. 2 committee and that there will be no rearrangement of the present line-up.

SIES CLOSER RELATIONS BETWEEN ENGLISH AND FRENCH IN QUEBEC

London, March 21.—Canadian Associated Press.—The Province of Quebec is solidly arrayed against any socialistic or experimental policy or departure from the principles which hitherto have guided the progress of Canada, according to Horace Gagne, the well-known Montreal lawyer, who has given an interesting interview to the Times. In the present relations between Great Britain and France, Mr. Gage sees an incentive to closed co-operation between the French and English-speaking people of Canada. Mr. Gagne, who has appeared in a case before the Privy Council, left for Canada on Sunday.

Leaders of Progressives Delivers Address Before Toronto Club.

Toronto, March 21.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressives in the House of Commons, this afternoon addressed the Canadian Club here on the subject of "The Canadian Farmer in Business and Politics." During the day, Mr. Crerar had conferences with Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario, and other leaders of the United Farmers of Ontario. Mr. Crerar declined to discuss the possibility of early by-elections for the five vacancies in the Dominion House or the probability of a general election within the next few months. He expects to return to Ottawa tonight.

WILL ABANDON SUMMER OPERA

London, March 21.—Abandonment of the summer grand opera season, which has been a part of London social life for a hundred years, appears certain this year, in view of the excessive cost and the difficulty of obtaining good singers. Adverse conditions in Europe, due largely to the war, says the Chronicle, have resulted in the migration of continental songsters to north and South America, where they find plenty of engagements and high fees.

LENINE TRYING TO FORM A COALITION

ENTENTE TROOPS WILL SUPPRESS ANY DISORDERS.

Oppeln, March 21.—Entente forces in Upper Silesia will promptly suppress any efforts on the part of the Polish army to override the decision in yesterday's plebiscite, or to anticipate the action of the council of ambassadors in Paris, General Lerond, head of the inter-allied plebiscite commission, told the Associated Press today. He said rumors that the Poles had been concentrating an army on the Silesian frontier were "wholly without foundation."

These rumors were to the effect that 30,000 Polish troops were marching toward the border of Upper Silesia with the intention of invading the plebiscite zone if the result of the voting today was adverse to Poland, have been current here.

The balloting in the plebiscite yesterday was virtually over by mid-afternoon. There was no disorder of a serious nature reported.

W. C. T. U. WILL BEGIN CAMPAIGN AGAINST USE OF TOBACCO

Chicago, March 21.—A campaign by the Women's Christian Temperance Union for strict Sunday observance, and against tobacco, was announced today to start April 3. U. branches, churches, schools and colleges will be distributed. The campaigners hope to prohibit golfing, pleasure automobiling, baseball, movies, theatres and dancing on Sunday.

NO ACTION TO BUILD ARENA IN TECUMSEH PARK

Will Be Taken Until Western Fair Committee Meets

TO DISCUSS PROPOSITION

Of Combined Stock Judging and Ice Arena in Queen's Park.

Until the Western Fair Board has had an opportunity to consider the proposed erection of an arena at Queen's Park, which shall serve the double purpose of stock judging during fair week and a hockey arena during the winter months, no action will be taken by the local businessmen who have had in mind the promotion of a scheme to erect an athletic arena at Tecumseh Park, was stated today in reply to inquiries made by The Advertiser.

"If the plans for an arena at Queen's Park are gone ahead with there will be no need to consider our scheme any further," said one of the promoters of the Tecumseh Park proposition. "The plans for such a building which we had in hand will be turned over to the Western Fair Board for their consideration, as possibly suitable for the purpose they have in mind.

London Needs Rink.

"That London needs such a building and needs it badly, has been recognized for a long time by the lovers of athletics and winter sports, and while we were planning ways and means for the construction of such an arena we are quite ready to support any other organization that will take up the proposition and go ahead at once with it.

Another promotor of the Tecumseh Park Idea expressed himself as "quite willing to await the action of the Western Fair Board. We will wait and see what their proposition is," he declared.

Answering a question as to the possibility of the arena, if erected at Queen's Park being used for a Winter Fat Stock Show, the speaker said: "I do not think there is any danger of that; there are already two such shows at Guelph and Toronto, and I hardly think that a third would be likely to be successful, at least for some years to come. And in the meantime we will give every support possible to any practicable scheme to meet what is one of London's greatest needs."

H. J. CHILDS WINS IN WARD ELECTION BY 1,585 MAJORITY

East London Druggist Defeats J. M. Donahue, Solicitor and Labor Candidate, in Contest For City Council Vacancy Left by Late Alderman C. G. Moorhead.

By a majority of 1,585, H. J. Childs, druggist, 632 Dundas street, was Saturday elected alderman for Ward 4 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ald. C. G. Moorhead. He received 1,944 votes and his opponent, J. M. Donahue, 359 votes.

Both the total number of votes cast and the majority for Childs were surprises to those in touch with the situation. The total number of votes cast was only about one-third of the vote recorded in Ward 4 at the last municipal election, when more than 6,000 ballots were marked for the eleven candidates who were in the field. Childs' vote, however, is the highest yet recorded for an individual alderman in a ward election. Ald. Moorhead's vote of 1,607 last January was the highest to that time.

Majorities Everywhere.

Everyone of the 22 subdivisions in the ward gave Alderman-Elect Childs tremendous majorities. The railway poll conducted for three days before the election resulted in 60 votes for Mr. Childs and 9 for Mr. Donahue. The greatest vote was recorded in subdivision 60, where 127 votes for Childs and 15 for Donahue were cast. Donahue made his best run in Subdivision 63, where he got 27 votes.

Better organization and the widespread popularity of the winning candidate, who has long been one of the ward's most prominent businessmen, are given as explanations of his overwhelming success. Mr. Donahue, although he has lately been active in labor circles, was not widely known throughout the ward. Labor has never received strong support in this section of the city. All three of its candidates were defeated there last January. Donahue's vote Saturday was well up to the average which they polled on that occasion.

Alderman-Elect Childs, after expressing his thanks to his supporters, pledged himself to exert his best efforts to the advancement of the city in every way.

IT'S ALDERMAN CHILDS NOW

H. J. CHILDS, well-known East London businessman, who was returned by a very large majority in Saturday's voting.

He deeply appreciated the work done for him by his friends, and was particularly impressed by the active interest taken by the women in going to the polls and also in urging others to do so.

Was Expecting Defeat.

Mr. Donahue was fairly certain of the outcome of the contest early in the day, although he did not expect the majority against him to be so heavy. He believed that under the conditions he had made a good run. He expressed thanks to those who had supported him in the campaign, and also complimented his opponent on the manner in which he had conducted his campaign. "It was a clean fight throughout, and I cannot speak too highly of Mr. Childs," he said.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN HEAR ADDRESS ON 'TRAINING WORKER'

Miss Ethel MacRobert Is Speaker At Meeting in Arts Building.

"The Training of the Worker" was the subject of a vastly interesting talk given by Miss Ethel MacRobert before the University Women's Club at the Western "U" arts building on Saturday night. Miss MacRobert, who spent last year in industrial research work in the United States, had a fund of interesting information on which to draw. Her talk was really a discussion of the conscious attempts at the present time to train the worker.

In referring to occupational and part-time classes in public and high schools, she maintained that the opinion of many investigators was not favorable to such part time classes; that in practice they did not work out as satisfactorily as they should. She mentioned, however, different centres of industry, where such classes were being tried out. In one instance she spoke of a city where 500 children had been rushed out of school to help in a three-day sale, and concluded her story by putting the question: "Which would profit, the child or employer?"

Vocational Schools.

A second attempt to train the worker was made in the avowedly technical, vocational or trade school, she said, mentioning the "Manhattan Trade School for Girls" as one of the most important of these institutions. Here dressmaking, millinery, lamp-shade making, etc., were taught, as well as the girl's own trade, in order to tide her over seasonal slumps in her own industry. She said that girls from such a school were snapped up immediately at a good initial wage.

Vestibule Schools.

Still another method of training the worker was by means of vestibule schools, maintained in the industry itself, and the speaker asserted that where such training was adequate to the needs of the workers, the girl was always found to be willing to do her share. There were several methods of giving this training. By one method the worker was given an opportunity of seeing something of all the operations in the mill during the first few weeks of her being there, and that she thus came to understand how her small job and all the other operations of the mill were related to the whole industry.

Three-Position Line.

A second way of training within the industry was to put one skilled worker and several others in various stages of learning on one machine, and constantly shift workers in this manner until each knew her job. Still a third way of training the workers was known as the three-position line of working, in this case a girl having not only to learn to be able to take the job above her, but also to teach the worker below her how to take her job.

The educational departments in big department stores were also discussed, as were the special classes maintained for those whose business it is to train others.

The speaker closed with the question: "What types of courses shall be given the girl between 14 and 16 years of age?" The solution of such a problem can only be arrived at by the careful thought and study of socially-minded men and women.

The tendency of the dictaphone to take the place of the shorthand writer and the probability of the wireless telephone taking the place of the wireless telegraph were touched upon by the speaker.

Will Join L. C. W.

In a short business session which preceded the address the club voted to become affiliated with the Local Council of Women, Mrs. Shanks and Mrs. Allright being appointed the representatives to that body. Mrs. Hungerford and Miss M. Ross were also appointed a committee to draw up some changes in the club constitution. At the close of the meeting a social half-hour was spent.

LECTURE ON "PROOF OF SUPERSENSUOUS PLANES"

Dr. R. W. Shaw Speaker At Meeting of Theosophical Society.

An interesting address was given by Dr. R. W. Shaw to a large audience in the Theosophical Hall on Sunday evening, his subject being "Proof of Super-Sensuous Planes." The speaker stated that spirit and matter are one and the same thing, two poles, one negative and one positive, and that every particle in space is separated by interpenatrating ether. Dr. Shaw stated that through the motion of ether heat was produced, and that heat produced the air; the air produces water, and then what was called solid matter. Science in its recognition of ether branches into the metaphysical, and practically recognizes the higher planes.

LENTEN SERMON URGES RESPECT FOR PARENTS

"Honor Mother and Father," Text of Rev. J. T. C. Morris.

In a special Lenten sermon delivered to the young people of the Askin Street Methodist Church Rev. J. T. C. Morris urged the members of his congregation to hold in respect their parents, and to regard old age as holy. His message was based on God's commandment, "Honor thy mother and thy father."

This commandment, he said, applied to all children, and included all parents, for God did not say "Honor thy mother and thy father if they be respectable." It mattered not what position they held in the social scale or what their faults were; the mere fact that they were growing old, he claimed, was sufficient to command respect.

Mr. Morris emphasized that the little things counted much in making the old folks happy. He believed that the little kindnesses performed daily while they lived showed more love than all the rich funereal offerings and magnificent tombs which might be built after death.

Wisdom of Age.

The old, he continued, should be reverenced for their wisdom born of experience. They have wisdom which the young could know nothing about, for knowledge was much different than wisdom. He urged all boys to go to their fathers for advice. The worst father, he said, would give better advice than the best among strangers.

He strongly advised all mothers and fathers to never give their worldly possessions to their children while they lived. Too many young people, he said, forget what they owe to their parents, and so when they married they shut their parents in one small room. "Keep your money," he continued, "for while you have your possessions they will at least respect you in the knowledge that it will pay."

ASK CLEMENCY FOR NORMAN GARFIELD, SENTENCED TO DIE

Petitions For Commutation of Penalty To Be Circulated Here.

Petitions for the commutation to imprisonment of the death sentence of Norman Garfield for killing Ben Johnston, proprietor of a Woodstock restaurant, will be placed in circulation in London this week, according to E. M. Westland, who stated to The Advertiser last night, that he is opposed to capital punishment and believes further that Garfield did not intend to kill his victim.

"Garfield's crime was accidental," said Mr. Westland. "We do not attempt to condone his intended crime of robbery, but the crime of murder was not deliberate on his part. To my mind, it is a far greater crime for society as a whole to be guilty of a deliberate execution. It is another murder, and a murder in cold blood."

J. B. Wright, a member of the London Board of Education, was mentioned by Mr. Westland as another member of the committee which plans to place the petitions for clemency for Garfield in circulation here at once.

CRUSADERS INTRODUCED ENGRAVED WEDDING RINGS INTO EUROPE

SERMON ON "ENGINEER'S DEMANDS IN RELIGION"

Rev. Thomas Roy Addresses Kiwanis Club in Talbot Street Church.

"What the Engineer Demands in Religion," was the subject chosen by Rev. Thomas Roy in Talbot Street Baptist Church last night, when the London Kiwanis Club attended in a body.

Mr. Roy preached from the text found in Matthew 7:25—"And it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock."

"There is a world of philosophy in those words," said Mr. Roy. "Spoken by the greatest seer of the ages, the Son of God, they carry with them all the weight of a piece of eternity. The words give us the impression of stability, of solidity, of permanence. They lift us above the tides, above the flash of lightning and the crash of thunder, above all the material forces of the universe, and set our feet on a rock which will stand the shock of doom. It is fitting, therefore, that we should take them as the background of our thinking upon what the engineer or builder demands in religion. Back of all the success that we can have in the building of character is the unchangeableness of law." Mr. Roy drew arguments from Scripture, from history and from experience, to prove the unchangeableness of law in religion.

Honesty in Building.

"The second thing demanded by the engineer," he said, "is faithfulness and honesty in construction. The law must be kept to the letter in construction. Great engineering ventures have been failures because of failure to keep exactly to the plans laid down. The collapse of the Quebec bridge is an example. Is it not true in religion in the building of character that the laws must be kept? There must be no juggling with teh laws of God.

"The third thing demanded for success by the engineer is quality of materials. His plans may be perfect, but if the quality of the materials furnished him is not such that it will stand the strain put upon it, he faces failure. So in the building of character we must demand the highest quality in the materials going into life. A man will demand that the best of materials into his house or his automobile, but will build his life out of those sinful elements that will neither stand the test of time and eternity?

COHEN ON PROHIBITION.

Everybody laughs at what Cohen gives us in the way of Victrola records. This time he has got onto the subject of prohibition. The monologue describes a meeting called by Cohen who acts as chairman, for the purpose of discussng one of the most vital questions of the day. That it is brim full of nonsense goes without saying. One can get this record and on the opposite side another record entitled, "The Bureau," both for $1.00, from Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, 242 Dundas street, London.

51 CANDIDATES RECEIVED INTO ANGLICAN CHURCH

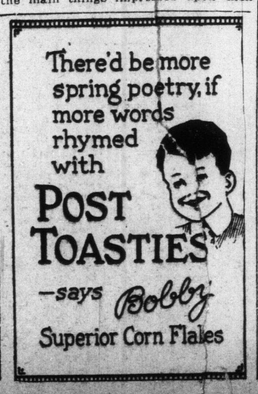

Bishop Williams Conducts Confirmation Services in Three City Churches.

Right Rev. Bishop David Williams performed the rite of confirmation in three Anglican Churches on Sunday. The largest class of candidates was presented by Rev. Canon G. B. Sage in St. George's Church, West London, where 25 were received into full membership on Sunday morning. In the afternoon a class of six candidates was presented at St. David's Church by Rev. R. D. Mess. The third confirmation service was held at St. James' Anglican Church. Here Rev. Leslie Armitge presented 20 candidates.

In his sermons at the three services, the bishop warned the young people who had received full membership with God against drifting, which is a tendency of the age. Read the Bible diligently, and paying earnest heed to the teaching of the scriptures were two of the main things impressed upon them by the bishop. He referred to the new religions springing up, and said unless such religions led to God they should be avoided.

"Cultivate the habit of giving some time to God each day, if only a few moments. You will find comfort in companionship with God, and when you partake of holy communion you will ever be reminded of Christ's words: 'Do this in remembrance of Me.'"

The bishop will confirm a large class in All Saints Church on Tuesday evening.

MEN'S UNION CONDUCTS ST. ANDREW'S SERVICE

Morning Address On "Brotherhood" Is Given by David Ross.

Yesterday morning's service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, conducted by the Men's Union of the church, was impressive. With the choir loft filled entirely with men to lead the singing, and with John Laughton, David Ross and Alexander Hay in the pulpit, the service was given over entirely to the men. One of the biggest moments of the service transpired when the choir of male voices sang alone the third verse of "Onward Christian Soldiers," while the congregation remained temporarily hushed.

The address of the morning was given by David Ross on "Brotherhood." Mr. Ross pointed out what a poor showing brotherhood among men had made in the past, and how far the world was from universal brotherhood even at the present time.

"There is still a lot of paganism among us," he declared. "We profess to see God in nature, but we refuse to see Him in man." The speaker also pointed out how frequently the great religious revivals were associated with great scientific advances in industry, and also how industry had been the means of severing the bonds of brotherhood between men.

Rev. D. C. Macgregor spoke briefly at the beginning of the service, stating that such a service signified the great place which the men were taking in the church today. He also referred to next week's nightly services in St. Andrew's Hall, leading up to Easter Sunday.

REVIEWS PASTORATE OF TEN YEARS PAST

"The Changing Years" Is Subject of Rev. W. R. McIntosh.

"The Changing Years, 1911-1921," was the subject of Rev. W. R. McIntosh at the King Street Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. McIntosh has been pastor of this church for ten years, and his sermon included some very interesting figures, which gave one an idea of the changes in that length of time.

"When I first came to this church," he declared, "I had a congregation of 560 people. Out of that number there only remain 133 at present, just about one-quarter of the congregation. Of these, five are elders. Just one member of the choir remains, and she has changed her name. I have had 215 baptisms, 160 marriages and 160 funerals.

"There is only one preacher of any denomination in the east section of the city who has remained at one parish for over four years. Figures show that every nineteen out of twenty Presbyterian church ministers change their field of work every five years.

"More than half the changes have taken place this past two or three years. They have been eventful. They were of a national and institutional kind. Some of my people have met with bereavement, and they fear God. But they were all of God's will, so why fear him? We all should live, grow and change in the sight of God," he concluded.

PIONEER OF LONDON DIED THIS MORNING

Philip Cook Well Known to Many Londoners.

BORN IN IRELAND

Was Father of the Shoe Business in This City.

One of the pioneer businessmen of London passed away this morning in the person of Philip Cook, 379 Queen's avenue, who had reached his 89th year.

The late Mr. Cook was born in Knockbride, County Cavan, Ireland, on May 5, 1832, both his parents being members of the well-known O'Reilly family of that county. Mr. Cook emigrated to America with his family and landed at New York City on Easter Sunday, 1835, and lived there for some years.

Mr. Cook's father, and his brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph Pocock, who had married Mr. Cook's only sister, hearing that there was a demand for shoes among the men engaged in the construction of the Welland Canal, removed to the Niagara district, and here Mr. Cook went to school.

He was very fond of recalling those school days. His teacher was a Scotsman named McLeod, who had seen service as an officer in the Napoleonic wars, but who got mixed up in the Mackenzie rebellion in Canada in 1837, and had to flee for refuge to the United States, thereby saving his life. McLeod returned to Canada when a general amnesty was granted. From this man Mr. Cook imbibed much useful knowledge, including a familiarity with the early political history of Canada.

On February 4, 1861, he married Mary O'Byrne, and three years later he established the shoe store of the J. P. Cook Company, and soon became prominently identified with the welfare and growth of the city. Those early days were replete with interesting experiences. For example, Mr. Cook witnessed the arrival of the first train in London, run on the Great Western Railway, and on one occasion, with some companions, he participated in a bear hunt on Dundas street. He was a veritable encyclopaedia of information regarding the establishment and progress of the city, and on the families identified with its early history, and up to the last was in possession of all his faculties, including an exceptionally keen memory.

Mr. Cook always took a lively interest in local affairs, and was one of the earliest members of the separate school board, in the establishment of which in London he took a prominent part. A Roman Catholic in religion, he witnessed the growth of St. Peter's Church from a struggling mission supported by donations from the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, till it became the centre of a bishopric.

Mr. Cook retired some years ago, and his business was continued by his sons, one of whom, J. P. Cook, who died a few years since, founded the Cook-Fitzgerald Shoe Company. The business has since been carried on by Philip Cook, Jun.

He is survived by two sons, Philip Cook, Jun., and Edward of New York City, and four daughters, Mrs. C. J. Fitzgerald of Riverside, Connecticut; Mrs. R. H. Dignan, and Mrs. William McPhillips of this city, and Miss Ella Cook at home.

The funeral will take place from St. Peter's Cathedral on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, when requiem mass will be sung by his grandson, Rev. Father R. H. Dignan of St. Mary's Church.

MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE APPROVES PROHIBITION

Resolution Advises That Ballot on April 18, Be Made "Yes."

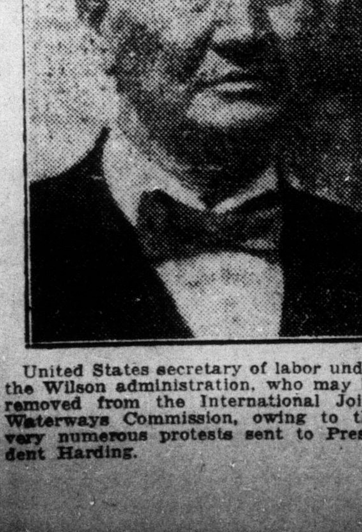

A short meeting of the London Ministerial Alliance was held in the Y. M. C. A. this morning, when a discussion on the necessity of total prohibition was held.

The following resolution was moved by Rev. R. G. Peever and seconded by Rev. G. A. Leichliter:

"That the London Ministerial Alliance here assembled place on record, in view of the coming referendum vote on April 18, that: First, we believe in the O. T. A. of 1919 as standing for the best interests of this province in the matter of temperance; second, that while we are conscious of the defects of the working of this act, nevertheless we believe in the absolute necessity of preventing the weakening of this act in any way and we would call upon all our people to vote 'yes' on April 18, thereby bringing into effect the will of the people."

Rev. W. L. Armitage, the president, was in the chair, and routine business was transacted. On account of the small attendance the address to have been given by W. E. Saunders was postponed.

WILLIAM B. WILSON

United States secretary of labor under the Wilson administration, who may be removed from the International Joint Waterways Commission, owing to the very numerous protests sent to President Harding.

ONLY ONE CRIMINAL CASE TO BE TRIED AT SPRING ASSIZES

Eight Civil Actions, Six Non-Jury and Two Jury, Listed.

With only one criminal case on the docket, the spring assize court opened at the courthouse at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The case is that of the King against Sylvia Sansone. The defendant, who is but 16 years old, is charged with attempting to break into Ward's cigar factory on King street, and with assaulting and attempting to rob Jacob Wolfe, an east end businessman.

Eight civil actions are listed. Six of these are non-jury and two jury cases. Of the latter, one was entered by special order of the presiding judge, Hon. Mr. Justice Kelly.

It is expected that the court will not last longer than Thursday and that the jury's work will be concluded by Wednesday morning.

COUNCIL MAY DECIDE TO COLLECT SERVICE CHARGE FROM GAS CO.

City Gas Company's Bill To Be Reviewed by Aldermen.

Determination of the council's attitude towards the settlement of the gas situation probably will be the principal business before the council at its regular meeting tonight. There is some dispute as to whether all the aldermen agree to the exact terms of the agreement which the City Gas Company will bring before the Legislature on Tuesday.

A recommendation from No. 1 committee that the city solicitor take action to recover from the gas company the service charges collected from the city will probably be another matter for debate. Contracts awarded by No. 2 committee at its last meeting will have to be confirmed.

EXCESSIVE HEAT AND WILD PIGEONS DOWNFALL OF PORK

John Must Pay $10 Fine or Take Ten Days' Rest.

John Pork has a flock of tame pigeons which occasionally become wild. Excessive heat Sunday caused a pair of them to get the spring fever. Whenever John's pigeons are afflicted with this particular ailment they refuse to stay at home. John said that he knew it was useless to try to catch them in the daytime so he waited until dark. Darkness fell, and out into the night went John in search of his pets. Such a thorough search did he make that neighbors called the police. It was a case of the hunter being hunted.

John was hot on the trail of his birds when two officers hove in sight. They had information that John was rapping on windows and knocking on doors. John was in the act of doing some spirit knocking on a door and the occupants of the house were holding their breath not knowing whether it was spirit-rapping or ordinary knocking, when he was arrested.

As John had been on parade before the magistrate before he was fined $10 and costs with the option of enjoying what little sunshine would filter through the bars at Castle-on-Thames within the next ten days.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHILD WELFARE ASSOCIATION TUESDAY

Nurses Attended to 710 Cases During Year.

476 UNDER OBSERVATION

Three-Fifths of Deaths Due to Prenatal Causes, Says Report.

The progress that has been made in connection with child welfare work in the city will be reported at the annual meeting of the Child Welfare Association to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Tuesday afternoon, March 22, at 4:30 o'clock. Three thousand four hundred and ninety visits were made during the year by the child welfare nurses, of whom there is now a staff of four. Seven hundred and ten different cases came under the observation and care of the child welfare nurses and doctors during the year; of these but 10 died, while 456 are now on the visiting list. Fifty-one clinics were held at Victoria Hospital for sick babies and 142 for well babies in the different public schools of the city. In all 3,061 conferences were given at clinics held throughout the year.

During the year 1920, 1,518 children were born, and of these 208 died, three-fifths of the deaths being due to prenatal causes. Hence the Child Welfare Association is trying to work up a greater interest in pre-natal clinics in the city. The infant mortality rate during the year 1918 was 116.7 per 1,000 live births; during the year 1919 it was 103.9 per 1,000 live births, and during the year 1920 was 137 per 1,000 live births.

GREAT WEALTH OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

Prof. J. W. Russell of Western Universitly Addresses Rotary Club.

"The wealth of Northern Ontario" formed the subject of an address by Prof. J. W. Russell of the Western University to the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon in the Tecumseh House.

"There is no area in the world that possesses such a large extent of potential mining," said Prof. Russell. "It has also, with the clay belt, as large an agricultural area as Southern Ontario, and will have in time within its borders a highly intelligent, highly moral and highly robust class of citizen. Our great heritage is in the north."

In a brief sketch of the rise and development of the Cobalt mining industry, Professor Russell pointed out that the late Hon. George W. Ross was the first to propose opening up the district by a railway from North Bay to James Bay. At that time the people did not realize that there were any valuable minerals concealed in the earth.

It was the construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway that led to the discovery of the rich veins of silver by the blacksmith, Larose, who staked out the first claim.

The sample of ore which Larose first secured had to be sent to the United States for assay, and the richness of the deposits having been proved, the Americans came in and staked out 800 acres.

"In this way $25,000,000 was lost to Ontario for the want of proper laboratories for the assaying of minerals.

"The mining wealth of this region," said the professor, "would have given the sum of $12 to eevry man, woman and child in Ontario if distributed; but America has now got the greater part of that $12. Ontario has, however, reaped the benefit in her wonderful prosperity and greatly increased trade."

In conclusion, Professor Russell referred to the gold discoveries in the Porcupine region and to prospective discoveries of platinum, a still more valuable metal, in the Sudbury region.

President W. R. Yendall occupied the chair at the meeting, and conveyed a cordial vote of thanks to the speaker.

Rotarian A. E. Silverwood briefly referred to the proposed sports arena for London, expressing the opinion that the city could not afford to be without such a building. He moved that a committee of two members be appointed from the executive to report on the matter, and this was unanimously adopted.

The report of the Rotarian delegates to the Saginaw convention will be submitted next week.

SILENT "BOBBY" IS ONCE MORE ON DUTY

London's first silent policeman who was beaten up by a drunken street car several weeks ago resumed his duties at the intersection of Dundas and Richmond streets today. His long period of convalescence in the city work shops not only restored him to his former health, but added a foot or two to his stature. He now holds his head high above the passing street cars and automobiles and the real live policeman on duty with him can direct traffic with his aid without the fear that the apparatus will come tmbling about his ears every time a street car passes.

"BILL" MOORE ARRIVES HOME FROM ENGLAND

Popular Londoner Is Already Boosting For the New Hockey Rink.

William Moore, better known as "Bill," well-known broker and sporting fan of the city, arrived home today after a three-months' business trip to England and France. "Bill" looks hale and hearty, although he was sick for some time while in England. Scores of friends called on him at his office today, and when informed of the proposed artificial ice arena he immediately set out to boost the scheme.

Mr. Moore arrived in New York Saturday evening on the steamer Aquitania. He asserted the trip home was anything, but pleasant and at times wondered why Columbus ever discovered America and who invented a boat.

Soon after his arrival in London, England, Mr. Moore met Frank Hobbs of the Hobbs Hardware Company.

During the first week of January he went to France. While in Paris he visited Col. Frank Reid and Fred Screaton, both former Londoners. During his stay there were continual downpours of rain, and he spent much of his time indoors.

"Conditions in both England and France are very bad," said Mr. Moore. "Thousands of men are out of employment, and each day there are unemployment demonstrations which generally result in the police being called to quell the riots. Prices of everything are down, but wages are also on the decline. At no time throughout the winter months was the weather cold, and this helped the poor greatly."

Prices of all food stuffs and hotel accommodations in Paris have not changed, but more food is being served. Eighty per cent of the tailors are out of work, but the unemployment situation is not as bad as in the old country.

"It is very hard to get used to the climate," he continued. "When the people learn that you are from Canada, they immediately set to work to give you a good time. There is a wonderful feeling of unity between the French and English. I was a guest of the American Club in London, and visited some of the noted golf links and country clubs."

When informed of the arena project, he voiced his opinion that the rink should be more centrally located. He suggested that if the Federal Square was not going to be used, this ground would be an excellent location. He also suggested the property of the old church on King street between Clarence and Wellington streets.

"The co-operation of every citizen is needed to bring this scheme to a head," he declared. "If the arena was built on the Federal Square it could be used as an auditorium for political meetings and anything pertaining to civic affairs. A city cold storage plant could also be run in conjunction with t."

He asked the reporter of the work of the local hockey team this winter, and said that the good showing it made was sufficient to warrant a rink that would be a paying proposition. He inquired as to the latest developments in the Michigan-Ontario ball league, and said he was ready to get out and root for London again this year.

Mr. Moore also stated that while coming home on the boat he met F. W. Woolworth, owner of the Woolworth stores throughout Canada and United States. He had a talk with Mr. Woolworth, who stated that he contemplated visiting this city in a month's time.

"I visited scores of places, but none could compare with good old London, Ontario," said Mr. Moore as he closed the interview.

FRANCE TO PRODUCE MUCH "BLUE COAL"

French Engineers Convince Government to Electrical Scheme.

Electrical power obtained from the Niagara River has long been known by the popular name of "white coal," but to France has been given the opportunity of giving to this same kind of power the name of "blue coal." The name being given to some 127,000 horsepower of electrical energy that according to an English electrical magazine is to be produced by making use of the great differences between high and low tides on the French coast.

So practicable do the plans of the French engineers who have studied the matter appear to the government that a grant of five million francs is to be made toward the cost of an experimental effort to be made at the mouth of the River Rance on the west coast.

The plan of the engineers is to erect a dam forty feet in height, and to use the inrush of water through turbines during high tide, this water will be imprisoned in a large reservoir, and will be again used through another set of turbines as it is allowed to return to the ocean during the period of low tide. In this way the same quantity of water will do double service.

The engineers estimate that this one plant will produce 127,000 horsepower, or 7,500,000 horsepower hours of electrical energy a year. They also state that there are thousands of points along the lengthy coast line of France, on the west, and along the English Channel, where similar plants could be erected to advantage.

PURCHASES "BELVEDERE"

W. S. Lashbrook Contemplates Addition of 100 Rooms to Hotel.

W. S. Lashbrook, who for a number of years has been lessee of the Belvedere Hotel at the corner of Dundas and Talbot streets, purchased the property from the estate of the late John McMartin, on Saturday. The price was approximately $65,000.

The property is assessed for $55,000. The building which is a four story structure measures 198 feet on Talbot street and 110 feet on Dundas street. At the rear there is a large garage Three stores connected with the building face Talbot street.

Mr. Lashbrook contemplates building an extension to the rear of the hotel and thereby adding 100 more rooms.

Dainty Miss Spring Wafts in On Cool September Breezes

"The Gladdest Time of All the Year" Not Favored With the Benign Smiles of Old King Sol — However, Pearl Grey Lids Are Being Worn, and Poets Are Manufacturing Deadly Verse.

Regardless of whether the temperature was up in the eighties last week or that there are prospects of a real old-fashioned blizzard before long, today is the first day of spring. Columbus and all the other astronomers, astrologers and star-gazers, who figured out the schedule on which the universe is run, picked on this day to mark the end of the winter season and the beginning of the "gladdest time of all the year." No matter whether the streets are knee-deep in snow and icicles are hanging from the town pump this date goes. The city council nor anyone else can't change it.

If it hadn't been for this, nobody would have picked today as the first day of spring, because it looked more like September morn. Everybody would have voted for Saturday afternoon or Sunday, because the sun was in midseason form, and had all the inhabitants fanning themselves with their hats and calling for ice-water.

Today the storm clouds were hanging around the city like Bolsheviks at a soup kitchen, and giving every indication that they intended to bury the place about a foot deep in snow.

In spite of this nearly everybody was willing to acknowledge the official arrival of the new season. The Beau Brummels of the modern male world made their appearance in pearl grey fedoras, like Pinkey's, and other spring attire, while the representatives of the gentler sex appeared in a variety of costumes that will only be surpassed by the Easter display.

Spring poets brought their latest effusions to the editor. Office workers began to feel the first touches of spring fever and most important of all, benches made their appearance in Victoria Park.

HUGH DAY DIES VERY SUDDENLY

Former West Nissouri Resident Victim of Acute Indigestion.

Death came most unexpectedly to Hugh Day, one of the city's best-known real estate agents, shortly after 10 o'clock last night at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Robinson, 502 Simcoe street. Mr. Day, after attending church, drove Mrs. Robinson home in his car, and went in to chat for a few minutes with other members of the family.

While enjoying himself and apparently in his usual excellent health, he suddenly complained of a pain in the region of the heart, and it grew so severe that a physician was called. He died a short time after. Acute indigestion, which brought on heart weakness, caused death.

Mr. Day came to London about twelve years ago, and had built up a very successful real estate business. Prior to coming to the city he was a farmer in West Nissouri, near Kintore. He was a magnificent physical specimen of manhood, standing about 6 feet 4 inches and weighing 250 pounds, and had seldom been ill.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, John, Mac and Ross. The funeral will be held from his late residence, 847 Hellmuth avenue, on Wednesday at 1 o'clock. Rev. James MacKay will conduct the services. Interment will be made at Kintore.

BAIL FOR ONE; LONGER REST AWARDED OTHER

Police Want to Know More About Elmer Miller.

William Wise and Elmer Miller, who a few weeks ago were found reposing under a spruce tree on the grounds of an orphanage, answered roll call at the Carling Street Court this morning. The former was let out for a few days on his own bail while the latter was told to go back to Castle Carter for a short period, in order that the police might ascertain whence he came and take a glimpse into his past. He says that his home is in Melville, Saskatchewan, but none of his relatives live there. He worked eight months last year, four in London and four among the golden grain of Western Canada.

Minor Offences.

Duncan Martin and William White were fined $5 and costs each for violating the motor vehicles act. For breaking city bylaws Robert Briscoe was fined $2; F. W. Renwick, two charges, $2 each; G. H. Davis, $2 and Percy H. Bradden, $2 and costs.

CREATION IS TOLD IN RED MAN'S LEGEND.

According to the legend of the Chippewa Indians, Menaboshu was the creator of all things. He avowed one day that he would make the earth. He rounded the soil between his powerful hands until it grew into a great ball. Then Menaboshu mixed water with the soil to form mud, and besides, molded it about a great rock, when, behold—a still larger ball, says Gershom Crane in the Boston Transcript, Menaboshu then undertook to devise the living things which dwell on the earth. The first bear escaped from its maker, leaped to the earth and bounded straightaway across the North American continent. But the land where the sprawling bear's huge paws struck the earth was still so fresh and soft that they left deep tracks.

These deep marks quickly filled with water. Scarcely had the frightened bear bounded away when the beautiful lakes—Superior, Michigan, Huron, Ontario and Erie—appeared, full to the brim. They are as old as the first bear's tracks.

The creator now hastened to make rain. At sight of the water filling the lakes he began to fear lest the soil again fall in a heap; and he caused the rain to fall from the sky so long that the lakes overflowed their shores. And the water from Superior, seeking the level, flowed toward Erie, the track of the foot which struck first and settled under the bear's weight much lower than the others—the water, on its way to the sea, dropped abruptly from Ontario into Erie. And lo! the falls of Niagara!

JEALOUSY BELIEVED

all right," said Mrs. Warlow when Mrs. Tierney reached her side. "Yes, yes, I know. It is time for you to come home," Mrs. Tierney replied, and taking the woman by the left arm she attempted to lead her away from her husband at the same time warning him to go away and leave his wife alone.

Turns Gun on Himself.

"Oh, no you don't," said Warlow, stepping in front of the woman. There was a report, a flash and Mrs. Warlow fell screaming to the pavement while Mrs. Tierney was thrown to her knees. Through a picket fence which divides the bakery property from the adjoining lot she saw Warlow turn the gun upon himself, fire and collapse in a sitting posture. Mrs. Tierney then ran to her home to summon her husband.

At 10:30 Night Constable James McIntosh of the Walkerville police force, on duty at police headquarters was notified of the shooting. He communicated with the chief constable of the town, James Smith, who was at the ferry dock at the time. Chief Smith commandeered a high-powered car and seven minutes from the time of the shooting was upon the scene having stopped once on the way to examine a car which was speeding along with lights out and which he thought might be carrying away the man responsible for the shooting.

Upon arriving at the corner of Kildare road and Ottawa street, Chief Smith found that the woman had been removed to the home of Mrs. Tierney and that Warlow, who appeared to be unconscious, had been carried into Clegg's bakery. He summoned doctors and later the woman was removed to Hotel Dieu in an ambulance while the man was sent to the same hospital in another ambulance. Guards were placed at the bedside of Warlow and upon his recovery he will be removed to custody to await trial.

Penetrated Abdomen.

The bullet which caused the woman's death entered her abdomen and took an upward course through the chest, passing out through her back. Warlow shot himself in the chest, the bullet glancing along the bone and passing out through his arm. An extra long type of 38 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver was used and is held by the Walkerville police to be exhibited at the trial.

In the pocket of Warlow's coat was found a letter, the contents of which Chief Smith declined to make public, but which is believed to contain a practical admission on the part of Warlow—the writer—that he intended to take his wife's life and his own.

Warlow, who is a baker by trade was born in England, came to Windsor with his wife about the end of November. Both he and his wife found employment with James Clegg who conducts a bakery in Walkerville, and who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Warlow, acting police court clerk of Windsor, and secretary of the police commission is a brother.

Warlow went to Montreal for ten days intending to remain, but returned to Windsor a month ago and obtained employment in Detroit. Since that time it is said that he had threatened his wife upon several occasions if she did not return to live with him.

Two weeks ago yesterday, Warlow called upon Chief Smith of Walkerville and asked for advice as to what he should do. The chief listened to his story and advised him to leave the city.

Accompanied by Norman Warlow, the man whom John Warlow accused of standing between him and his wife, Mrs. Warlow went to the Walkerville police station on Sunday, March 13, and asked if she could swear out a warrant against her husband, who, Norman Warlow declared, had threatened Mrs. Warlow with a gun on Saturday. The constable on duty explained that it would be necessary to have a justice of the peace whereupon the pair left the building.

largest section of territory to have its fate submitted to a plebiscite under the peace treaty, but even more important than the size of the district was the material which it contained in its mineral resources, including coal, iron, zinc and lead.

A notable feature of the plebiscite was the influx of both Germans and Poles, former residents of the district, who were entitled to cast their ballots. It is not known here how large a number of Poles were thus enabled to vote at yesterday's election, but it is estimated that not less than 140,000 Germans entered upper Silesia for the casting of their ballots, special trains for them being provided by the German Government.

WRANGEL WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE AT BOLSHEVIKI.

Constantinople, March 21.—Appeals are being made to many nations by General Wrangel, head of the South Russian Government, who was driven from Crimea by the Bolsheviki late last year, to come to the aid of the anti-Bolshevik forces. "Bolshevikism is tottering, and this is an ill-chosen moment to disband my troops," he said today in commenting upon the French withdrawal of aid from his forces, and the suggestion that his soldiers be repatriated to Russia.

Does Your Back Ache?

Have you swollen hands, ankles, feet, due to a dropsical condition, often caused by disordered kidneys?

Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous uric acid, which settles in the tissues of the feet, ankles, wrists or back as uratic salts.

It is just as necessary to keep the kidneys acting properly as to keep the bowels active to rid the body of poisons.

The very best possible way to take care of yourself is to take a glass of hot water before meals and an "Anuric" (anti-uric acid) tablet.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or grey. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all grey hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

YOUNG FARMER FATALLY HURT

Michael Hillyard Caught in Machine At Wood-Cutting Bee.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATHROY, March 20.—Michael Hillyard, aged 20, a returned soldier, died in the general hospital here this afternoon from injuries sustained yesterday while at a buzzing bee on the farm of D. Gardner, near Mount Brydges.

The saw and engine were set up and found to be out of position, and the engine was being moved when the belt came off the saw pulley, Hillyard tried to put it on again while the saw was still running from the momentum, and was carried around the pulley.

He sustained a compound fracture of the arm and a fracture of the skull. From the first little hope was held for his recovery. He has no relatives in this country. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon from C. Gardner's to Mount Brydges.

Headaches Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom, if ever, free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed, the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keep the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will climinate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes: "My system was run down and my blood out of order. I sufferod a great deal from severe pains in my head, which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health, so I took another, and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends, who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

EMBARGO ON CATTLE MAY BE LIFTED SHORTLY

Hon. Manning Doherty Confident Restrictions Will Be Removed.

LONDON, March 20.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario minister of agriculture, when leaving Liverpool for Canada today said it was practically certain the embargo on the importation of Canadian cattle into Great Britain would be removed, probably soon after the imperial conference in June.

Meanwhile, the effects of the dispute are extending. It is now learned that Earl Denbigh, a staunch practical supporter of the board of agriculture, has declared his hostility to Lord Beaverbrook's anti-embargo campaign by resigning his trusteeship for the debenture holders in his lordship's paper, the Daily Express.

In a letter to Lord Beaverbrook, he expressed great indignation at the methods of his newspaper campaign which has shown, not only indifference to the vital question of education among the urban population of the importance of agriculture, but "apparent ignorance of agricultural conditions only equalled by deliberate misstatement of the main arguments against the repeal of the embargo."

The letter denounces the action of the Daily Express in the Dudley by-election, where a seat was lost to the Government, and Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, minister of agriculture, defeated, as a dishonest press stunt, and describes as a scandalous untruth Lord Beaverbrook's own statement that the supporters of the embargo are "a bastard combination of landlords and big breeders."

Earl Denbigh concludes: "As I am ashamed of the part played by your press and still continued by you, I prefer not to have any further official or pecuniary connection with it."

Death of Mrs Dr. Leitch.

The death took place today of Mrs. Mary Leitch, wife of Dr. Archibald Leitch, Wellington street, after a brief illness. Mr. Leitch was suddenly stricken with an attack of paralysis a few days ago, and had remained unconscious up to the time of her demise. She was the daughter of the late John and Mrs. Campbell, and had been a resident of the city for over forty years. Mrs. Leitch was formerly Mrs. Trueman Duncombe. She is survived by her husband, Dr. Leitch.

Rev. Ben Spence in Town.

Rev. Ben Spence came to town last evening in the interests of the alliance, and is looking over the local temperance situation. It would look as if there will be little opposition or none to the campaign inaugurated here last week by Dr. Grant and the temperance organizations.

The branch of the Liberty League, which was established in the city some months previous to the taking of the plebiscite in October, 1919, went out of active business immediately after the vote was taken, and there are no signs in sight of its revival.

Police Find Booze.

The premises of Ben Goldhar, fish dealer, Talbot street east, was raided last evening by the police, and over one hundred bottles of whiskey was found in the upper story of the building. Goldhar was placed under arrest, and the liquor removed to the police station. A tally has been kept by the inspector of the consignments reaching Goldhar through the express office, and the last load having exceeded the limit of what a sober man would require for home consumption, Mr. Ross had a warrant issued. Goldhar will be heard tomorrow.

COST PLUS SYSTEM WILL BE ABOLISHED

Minister of Railways Makes Important Announcement Regarding Welland Canal.

TORONTO, March 19.—The Government "cost plus" system of building the Welland ship canal is to be abolished, according to Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of railways, in an interview with a local afternoon paper. It has just been decided, states the minister of railways in the interview, that the work might proceed faster and with less friction if the cost plus system was abolished, and that contractors again given the working out of the various sections.

In 1917 the contracts on the new canal were taken from the several contractors and the work put in charge of the engineers of the department. Engineer Grant of this special public work goes to St. Catharines on Monday to make arrangements concerning the engineering and labor problems that have to be met in putting the private building under way. The awarding of the new contracts has not been discussed thoroughly yet, but Hon. Dr. Reid says the work will be rushed to completion.

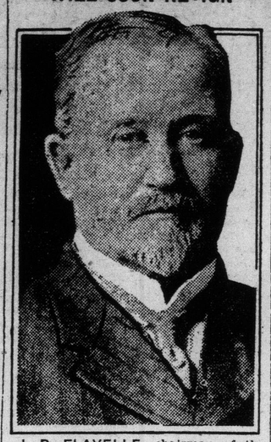

PRESENTATION AT BLENHEIM.

BLENHEIM, March 19.—Court Lent, No. 374, A. F., and A. M., held a very successful social evening last night in its lodge rooms as a farewell for a time at least to Bros. George F. Both are returned soldiers. The brethren gave each a gold locket engraved with the Masonic emblem and the name of the lodge.

TEN-YEAR TERM FOR OTTERVILLE RECTOR

WOODSTOCK, March 19.—Ten years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence imposed today on Rev. James Chapman of Otterville, when he appeared before Judge Wallace charged with an unmentionable crime against a number of small boys. He pleaded guilty. The offences were committed at Chapman's home. The guilty rector was well known throughout Western Ontario as a hockey player, and this winter was ranked as one of the best goal-tenders when he played on the Tillsonburg Pandried hockey team.

REBELS MURDER POLICE OFFICER IN COLD BLOOD

Found Blindfolded and Riddled With Bullets Near Kinsale.

DUBLIN, March 20.—The ambush of crown forces near Kinsale, County Cork, Saturday, occurred when reinforcements were proceeding to seek a military officer and a police sergeant who were missing as a result of a previous ambush, it was learned today. The missing officer has not been recovered, but the body of the sergeant has been found near Dungarvan blindfolded and riddled with bullets. A card pinned to his breast was inscribed, "Executed."

Crowds today gazed curiously at a man chained to the railing of the Protestant cathedral in Marlborough street here, but no one attempted to liberate him until the police came. It was said he had been chained to the railing because he worked during the executions of the six men in Mount Joy prison on March 14, in disobedience to the call for a cessation of labor.

Condemns Murder.

The Archbishop of Tuam, in a letter to the parish priest in Clifden, condemning the shooting of policemen there as a reprisal of the Mount Joy executions and the failure to obey his call for a cessation of executions by the republican forces, says:

"I must give my people moral guidance, even if corrupt politicians turn gospel teachings to bad ends."

The archbishop repeats his appeal for a truce, and urges the Government as the stronger side to call a truce and initiate peace negotiations.

KILLED TWO SOLDIERS.

DUBLIN, March 20.—Three bombs were thrown at a military lorry here last night, two of which exploded, killing two soldiers and wounding six others, including an officer. The remaining soldiers fired, wounding three of the attacking party.

From Monday night on the curfew has been fixed from 8 p.m. until 5 a.m.

The advancement of the curfew hour, which was due to yesterday's ambush, affects the whole of the Dublin area except the coast townships.

CONSTABLES WOUNDED.

CORK, March 20.—A police patrol, consisting of a sergeant and seven constables, was attacked by a band of armed men near Passage West, County Cork, tonight. Two constables were wounded and later were sent to a hospital. The casualties of the attacking party are unknown.

BLACK WEEK-END.

DUBLIN, March 20.—A "black week-end" has just been experienced by the crown forces in Ireland, according to official reports. Eleven members of the Government forces were killed and eleven wounded in various ambushes, while it is believed that thirteen of their assailants were killed and ten wounded. The reports do not take into account isolated murders and outrages, which are continually reported.

Captain Attackinson, an Ulster barrister, who acted as judge in a number of recent Dublin courts-martial, was attacked in his home Saturday night by three armed men. He was wounded.

John Sheehan, a former attendant at the Cork lunatic asylum, was shot dead at Cork last night. He had been suspected of giving information last December on the occasion of the arrest of a girl wearing steel armour, concerning a Sinn Fein arsenal. This was the second time Sheehan had been attacked. He received several wounds when the first attempt was made.

VETERAN LIBRARIAN DIES.

OTTAWA, March 20.—By Canadian Press.—The death occurred here suddenly last night at his late residence on Daly avenue of Martin J. The late Mr. Griffin, who had been in failing health for some time, retired last June from the post of parliamentary librarian, a position which he had held for 35 years.

Cuticura Soap AND OINTMENT Clear the Skin

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advt.

BRITISH NAVY HERO SAVES MANY LIVES IN LATEST EXPLOIT

Capt. Evans Goes To Rescue of Chinese Coolies in a Storm Tossed Sea.

PLUNGES OVER SIDE

Noted For Part in Polar Expedition and Fight With German Fleet.

LONDON, March 20. — Capt. E. R. Evans, commander of H. M. S. Carlisle, who was the last man to see Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, the Antarctic explorer, alive, added another chapter to the history of his heroic exploits when he went to the rescue of drowning Chinese coolies from the passenger steamship Hong Moh off Swatow (China) last Thursday, according to dispatches just received here. The Carlisle has arrived at Hong Kong with 200 survivors of the 1,200 persons on board the Hong Moh, the rescued men full of highest praise for what they call the amazing heroism of Capt. Evans, who was personally responsible for saving more than a hundred of them from drowning.

Capt. Evans put off from the Carlisle in a motor boat in a raging sea, and when he found it was impossible for him to get alongside the wrecked Hong Moh he plunged into the water with a life line, upon which many Chinese were carried to safety. Then when his motor boat's rudder was fouled in piece of wreckage from the Chinese vessel and the small craft was being tossed helpless in the sea, Capt. Evans again plunged into the water and freed the propeller of the obstruction, thus making it possible to continue the rescue work and save many Chinese.

Capt. Evans has previously been associated with two great stories of the sea, one of them being the Scott Antarctic expedition and the other the encounter between H. M. S. Broke and six German submarine destroyers which attacked Dover in April, 1917.

The Broke, with H. M. S. Swift, attacked a superior force of German destroyers. Capt. Evans, commanding the Broke, torpedoed one of the German vessels by open fire and then rammed another, whereupon the English and the German crews engaged in a fierce hand to hand fight. Then Capt. Evans tried to ram another of the German vessels, but failed. He succeeded, however, in torpedoing the German's consort, two of the raiders being sunk.

LONDON'S HISTORIC BREWERY FOR SALE

Documents Show It Flourished in Days of Queen Elizabeth.

London, March 20.—The oldest brewery in London is for sale. This institution holds the distinction of being the only brewery in the city of London surviving the days of Queen Elizabeth. Known as the City of London Brewery, it occupies nearly two acres adjoining Cannon street station in Thames street, and has a considerable river frontage.

The historic brewery was founded so long ago that it is next to impossible to fix the exact year. Documents in the archives of the brewery prove that it was a flourishing institution as early as 1580. A brewery was a thing of considerable importance in those days, and so Stow mentions it in his Chronicles, as follows:

"At the west end of the Church of Allhallowes the moor goeth down a lane called Hay Wharfe lane. Now lately a great Brewhouse was builded there by one Pot, Henry Campian, Esqr., a beere brewer used it, and Abraham his sonne now possesseth it."

The most notable men who brewed beer with Thames water on this site were the Calverts, a family of brewers celebrated for the quality of their porter. Sir William Calvert, in 1760, ranked as the fourth brewer in London, and Calvert and Seward of Whitecross street were the first. The former brewed 51,785 barrels of beer in that year and the latter 74,704. Not much of the original buildings remain, as part of the structures were burned in the fire of London of 1660. It was rebuilt and at the end of the eighteenth century important additions and alterations were made. Some of the walls of the present building date back to 1772.

The taphouse beside the brewery in Thames street, with its old hour glass sign, is not for sale, as its freehold site belongs to a private company.

HUNS ANXIOUS TO KEEP SILESIA FROM POLAND

Special Trains Bring Germans Home To Vote On Plebiscite.

TARNOWITZ, Upper Silesia, March 20.—All preparations had been completed when polls opened for the plebiscite today throughout Upper Silesia to determine whether the region, rich in coal, iron, zinc and lead, and comprising approximately 5,000 square miles, henceforth shall be under the sovereignty of Germany or Poland. From distant parts of the world Germans and Poles, former residents of Silesia and entitled to cast their ballots, had journeyed in the hope of aiding their respective countries to win the region.

The plebiscite, it is estimated, involved the pilgrimage of 140,000 Germans. Special trains were furnished at the expense of the German Government, and toward the end no tickets were sold except to men and women returning to vote, as the trains were so crowded that many of the passengers were obliged to stand.

Among the last contingents arriving from foreign countries were 40 from South Africa, which completed the representation of nearly every country except the Entente.

The final results of the balloting were expected to be delayed somewhat owing to the order of the inter-allied plebiscite commission suspending telephonic and telegraphic communications with the outside world, with the exception of press dispatches, which, however, were subject to the approval of the Silesian authorities.

SEVERAL WOUNDED.

BERLIN, March 20.—Special dispatches from Kattowitz, Silesia, report that Polish bands crossed the Silesian frontier into Rosenberg, and became involved in fights with British troops at Gross Lassowitz. Several persons on both sides were seriously wounded, the dispatches state.

DISAGREEABLE SCENES.

BERLIN, March 20.—According to the Vossische Zeitung's Hamburg correspondent, an Entente commission arrived today in the town of Ratzeburg, northeast of Hamburg, to inspect strong detachments of the Reichswehr. A military band in the barracks played "Deutschland Uber Alles," and disagreeable scenes ensued, owing to the offensive shouts of the troops, the correspondent declares.

NOT VERY ENTHUSIASTIC.

VIENNA, March 19.—The plan of the Allies to assist Austria, an outline of which was given in dispatches from London today, was greeted without enthusiasm by this afternoon's newspapers. In general the journals express disapproval of the stipulation that the league of nations shall administer internal sources of revenue.

Under the Austrian relief plan falls the revenues from the customs and tobacco monopoly would be administered by the financial committee of the league of nations as security for the payment of sums advanced Austria and due from her, under the peace treaty.

IMPORTANT REFORMS.

WARSAW, March 20.—Clauses in the new Polish constitution just adopted forbid corporal punishment, and do away with coats-of-arms.

JOHN STROWBRIDGE DIES AT INGERSOLL

INGERSOLL, March 20.—John Strowbridge, for the past three years foreman of the Ingersoll gas light plant, passed away at his home, Wellington street here, this evening, after an illness of some months. He was taken suddenly ill while at work some months ago, but after a short time at home was able to be about again, until recently.

He was for many years a resident of Ingersoll, and was well-known here and in the surrounding district. Besides his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Hamill, Ingersoll, and Mrs. Scofield, Toronto; and two sons, Frank of Toronto, and Stanley, at Byron.

SUPT. ROGERS SAYS HE IS NOT RESIGNING

TORONTO, March 19.—Characterizing all the stories of his resignation as wild rumors, Jos. E. Rogers, superintendent of provincial police since 1909, stated today that so far as he was concerned, there was not a word of truth in them.

"I have no idea what the attorney-general's idea of the reorganization of the provincial police means yet, Mr. Rogers said in reply to a question whether he would resign if a new chief were put over him.

Mr. Rogers just as definitely stated that he had no conversation with the attorney-general about taking the appointment to the new post himself. Mr. Rogers said he had read some of the rumors about his resignation, even that the attorney-general was going to ask him to resign. "But I don't believe there is a word of truth in them," he said.

SEND PROTEST TO GOVT. OVER FEE REDUCTION

Chief Referendum Officer For Elgin Is Taking Question Up.

ST. THOMAS, March 20.—In concert with other returning officers of the province, Hugh C. Cameron, the chief officer for West Elgin in the coming referendum, has sent a protest to the Government against the decision of the department to practically cut in half the returning officers' fees. The figures are reduced from $4 to $2 a poll, for the payment of himself, his election clerk, office rent, furnishings, etc. As there are 85 polls in the riding, Mr. Cameron would receive the munificent sum of $170 for about three months' work of twelve hours daily, and which he would have to divide with his assistant.

Mr. Cameron reasonably claims that the honor bestowed upon him by a generous government isn't near worth the difference. In proportion to the duties undertaken by Mr. Cameron, and the responsibilities involved in his appointment, every subordinate officer, from the deputy returning officer down to the constable, is better paid than the returning officer. The deputy returning officer receives $7 a day, the poll clerk $4 a day. Returning Officer Cameron, say $85 for three months, or about $1 a day.

Funeral of Rev. Mr. Brownlee.

The funeral services of the late Rev. W. F. Brownlee of St. John's Anglican Church had a large congregation Saturday afternoon. The exercises were in charge of Bishop Williams of London, who was assisted by several of the clergy from the diocese. Afterwards the remains were forwarded to Alvinston, accompanied by Rev. J. W. J. Andrew, rector of Trinity Church. Mayor Brinkman, as a mark of respect for the deceased, ordered the flag at the city building to remain at half-mast all day Saturday.

Miss Irla Campbell Passes.

Miss Irla Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell, Dutton, secretary to the head of the Oddfellows' Society, Toronto, died yesterday while under an operation in a hospital of that city.

On account of the limited stock of gas on hand at West Lorne, a St. Thomas Chinese returned home in tears last evening, with his paraphernalia, because the village could not supply the heat.

COAL MINES IDLE IN CAPE BRETON

Worst Slump in Years Is Being Experienced Just Now.

SYDNEY, N. S., March 20.—Cape Breton tonight is in the grip of the worst slump that has hit the eastern coal industry for many years past. Every one of the 25 mines of the Dominion Coal Company is idle, and will remain closed until Tuesday, and it is just a question whether many of them will be ordered to resume production then. Not a wheel has turned on the Sydney and Louisburg Railway, a subsidiary of the Dominion Coal Company, since Saturday noon, with the exception of one regular express, one regular freight, and one or two switch engines. The closing of the collieries leaves the coal road without a pound of extra freight to move.

The order to close all the Cape Breton collieries of the Dominion Coal Company follows on the heels of President Wolvin's statement on the bad condition of the local coal market, and it is feared here that the bottom of the decline has not yet been reached. About 10,000 railroad workers, miners and other classes of labor are affected by the shut-down order.

IMMIGRANTS HAD A ROUGH PASSAGE

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 19. — After battling through mountainous seas and facing strong headwinds, the C. P. O. S. liner Empress of France reached port today direct from Liverpool, completing one of the most stormy passages of the season, but in the fast time of seven days. She sailed from Liverpool on March 11, and for a thousand miles was forced to face a storm which raged for four days. Even some of the crew suffered from seasickness. The Empress brought 1,304 passengers comprising 65 cabin, 594 second cabin and 700 third class.

There was a special party on board for the Ontario Government in charge of Major J. Clarke of Tillsonburg, Ont. They will settle in Ontario.

RUPTURE KILLS 7,000 ANNUALLY

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the harmful opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO. Block 413, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.

THE BIG PROBLEM.

The Government will no doubt try to anticipate inevitable criticism regarding the discouraging showing of the Canadian National Railways by undertaking at an early date a complete reorganization of the present board of directors. Such reorganization has been urged for some time past, but it was felt unfair that the board should be changed without having been given a fair chance to make good. Two years, however, have passed since its creation, and the financial condition of the system is worse than ever, while the service, especially in the west, is not improving.

That the irritation created among the public through increased rates, increased deficits, and unimproved service must militate strongly against the ultimate success of public ownership is realized by parliamentarians. Confidence in the directorate is badly needed. Such confidence can only be obtained through complete reorganization, and may presumably be made without prejudice to the existing board. Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways, has thrown upon Parliament the onus of finding a solution of the problem which increasing deficits present, and Parliament is in a mood to make suggestions of a frank and unvarnished nature. The minister has declared that the problem is too big to be made a political football of; criticism, therefore, may conceivably not be confined to any one side of the House.

In fact, it is hard to see how a vote of lack of confidence in the existing directorate can be averted unless the premier is in a position to announce to Parliament that reorganization will be forthcoming. That he will do this at an early date is anticipated. The date set for the completion of the Grand Trunk arbitration is April 9. An extension of the time is sought, but the Government is not at present inclined to give it. In any case, it is not expected that the reorganization of the board of the Canadian National as at present constituted will be delayed until the Grand Trunk has finally been acquired.

Hon. A. K. MacLean has placed on the order paper a resolution calling for the inclusion in parliamentary machinery of a standing committee on railways and transportation, which is under Government control. At the present time the directorate of the Canadian Nationals comes but little into touch with Parliament, only, in fact, when it wants money. There is a certain cabinet control, but very little control by Government.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN PACT.

The trade agreement made between Great Britain and Russia will be generally welcomed, in spite of certain conditions, by all except the rouble and bond-holders and their friends or absolutely uncompromising extremists, who will have no dealings with Bolshevia. It has been a long and difficult negotiation, and as finally settled will be one more diplomatic achievement of the Lloyd George Government.

The Moscow dictators simply had to make concessions in order to remedy the desperate situation of Russian industry. Many are Russia's needs. Particularly locomotives and their parts are required if the Russian people are to be fed and clothed. On the other hand, England needs wheat, oil, timber, metals, furs and other products which the Russians will supply, while her own unemployment situation can be alleviated in part by resumption of export to the land of Lenine. There should be great opportunities for Canadian manufacturers of agricultural implements and machinery, especially as the Russian peasantry, now in complete possession of their land and becoming gradually better educated, will be both more able and more willing to improve their methods of tillage.

Another, though doubtless less pressing, reason for this trade agreement is the danger of Russia's turning to Germany and becoming economically and politically interlocked with our enemies, as we must still think of them. This would be dangerous for Poland, and for the whole settlement of Versailles. Probably such a development was in Sir Philip Gibbs' mind when he said the other day that Europe was lining up for another general conflict. Gustave Miller writes in the New York World that the communists are rapidly gaining ground in Germany, supported by many of the old Junkers, those who monopolized the thousands of government offices before 1918, and have since, some of them, lost their positions, and all become more or less impoverished. These now think, while still hoping for an ultimate restoration of the Hohenzollerns, that an alliance with the German and Russian communists may temporarily serve their interest by providing the means to tear up the Versailles scrap of paper. Practically all Germany agrees with them in this object, as is shown by the utterances of their press, their government and Dr. Simons. Russia has no more reason than anyone else to trust the shifty Huns, but might be driven into their arms by a rebuff from England, coaxed and cajoled also by a pretended coup of communism in Germany.

So very sensibly London and Moscow have come to a settlement, each sacrificing something for better relations. Great Britain makes her traditional sacrifice of money due, while the "Bolshies" agree, if we may believe them, to discontinue and discountenance all propaganda against British institutions, or interests, particularly in Afghanistan.

THE PACKERS' FIGHT.

The fight that is developing between the packers of the United States and their employees appears to centre almost as much around the question of the eight-hour day as around the issue of wages paid. There is evidence that the packers are trying to break the eight-hour day as part of their "Americanization" plan. In an interview given on March 8, J. Ogden Armour, president of the Armour Company, said that hours were being revised in order "to assure work in return for the wages which are paid, thereby obviating the penalty incurred through the payment of large sums for which no work is performed." In line with this policy announcement had been made that overtime was to be paid only after ten hours' labor in any one day, or after 54 hours in any one week.

It would scarcely be thought that in this enlightened age it should be necessary to argue in favor of the eight-hour day. The United States Steel Company does not believe in it, of course, their view, as judged by their performance, being that a man should work twelve hours a day, and thus make it necessary to have but two shifts in the 24 hours for their plants. But humanity condemns this overworking of men, science condemns, and morality condemns it, and any industry that deprives a man unjustly of the time which should be his own is committing a crime against society at large.

The president of the Armour Company hints that his firm is not getting value for the money they pay in wages. It may be that the fault lies in part with the technique which has been adopted in the packing industry, and which has brought about marked changes in the personnel of the employed class. The packing industry was manned by Americans at one time. It has gone through successive changes, from Americans to Germans, Germans to Slavs, Slavs to races of Southern Europe, and, finally, within the last four or five years, from Southern Europeans, in part at least, to negroes from the Southern States. The intelligence of the vast body of workmen can scarcely be said to have improved by the successive changes, but each step has brought in a class somewhat more amenable to the whip of scientific management. Carlton Parker, the economist, pointed out the obvious results of this whole transition in an article that appeared in the Atlantic Monthly of January, 1920. He described clearly the effect which must come from so-called "speeding-up" processes as they were practiced in the Chicago packing plants. His article laid bare one of the weaknesses of the highly-organized industrial system of the packing industry.

"Americanization" is a term that has been taken up by some of the big industries in the United States to cover their very obvious plan to wrench back from labor much that it has gained through the last generation. Wages, it will be admitted generally, are bound to vary back and forth, but those things which go to make a happier and more contented people are the concern of society, and should not be in the discretion of a small group whose main concern must inevitably be dividends rather than lives.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Meet Alderman Childs!

Chicago reports a big drop in the price of coffins, but think of the price one has to pay to take advantage of it.

Sir Philip Gibbs says the world is preparing for another war. The reports of some of his meetings would give the impression it has commenced.

LETTERS

LANDLORDS AND TENANTS.

I notice in your paper some remarks made by some of our landlords about repairs being high, which no doubt they are, but I think that the majority are putting on enough rent on their tenants to cover same. I, one of many tenants, have lived in same house that I am occupying now for six years, and have had my rent raised three times, but my landlord has failed to make any repairs, papering or cleaning, of any kind. During that time he has not spent one nickel on the place. All paper on these walls have been on for six years, or might have been ten years.

We tenants have to put up with it or we may be politely told to get out. Now, sir, I think that you will agree with me that some of our landlords do no repairs, whether these are cheap or expensive, and no matter whether taxes be high or low. The tenants have to shoulder the burden. Yours,

EDWARD GEORGE.

OTHERS' VIEWS

THE CHOICE OF JUDGES.

[Le Devoir.]

It is opportune to observe that the magistrates ought not to be recruited almost exclusively from amongst the politicians. Why should not the supreme council of the bar of each province draw up a list of three or four lawyers judged to be worthy of consideration for appointment to the bench when a vacancy has to be filled? The government could make its choice from that list. The bar is more interested than anybody else to see that the prestige of the bench should remain intact, and that those before whom cases are inscribed should be men of learning and judgment, and practiced in the law. It seems to us that this manner of appointing magistrates would be the best. A political creature does not offer sufficient surety to those under their jurisdiction, and even if the government should make only one bad nomination in five years, that would be one too many. The choice of the men who are to interpret the laws cannot be made with too great care. If there is one domain from which politics ought to be excluded, it is surely the magistrature. When will this reform be accomplished? Some progress has been made, but still more remains to be done.

RENT CONTROL.

[La Patrie.]

Whatever might be the mode of consee that its only effect would be to discourage building construction and tend as a result to perpetuate the present crisis. Like all other kinds of commerce, real estate is subject to its ups and downs. We have known the time when proprietors considered they were fortunate when they obtained a revenue of 3 per cent from their property. Conditions today are different, and proprietors are profiting thereby. If, however, a law is passed which will restrict the profits of the landlords when conditions are favorable, without providing means of protection when conditions are unfavorable, capital will inevitably seek other fields of investment than dwelling house property. A better solution is to be found in giving an impetus to building construction, which at the present time is handicapped by the high cost of materials and labor, and in Montreal especially by a high property tax.

CHEERED UP.

[Edmonton Bulletin.]

The new British minister of agriculture suffered defeat in his qualifying by-election. The result is said to be due to his insistence that the embargo against Canadian cattle must be retained. Canadians are, of course, in the position of interested spectators so far as the controversy over that question goes. It is the right of the people of Great Britain to admit or exclude our cattle as they choose. But it is the right of the interested spectator to be pleased when things seem to be going the way he would like to see them go, particularly when his interest is one of dollars and cents, and not merely that of idle curiosity. Next to the defeat of one of our own coalition ministers on any issue whatever, the downfall of the British minister of agriculture on the question of excluding our cattle will provoke whatever measure of satisfaction Canadians may properly feel without seeming to intrude upon the prerogative of the people of Great Britain to do what they please about it.

WOMEN MAGISTRATES.

[Toronto Mail and Empire.]

That a proposal would be put forward at some time or other to appoint women magistrates, was to be expected. In Britain there are women jurors and women members of parliament, as there are in our own province of British Columbia. Here in Ontario we have women school trustees and women aldermen. Not every woman has the temperament to make a suitable magistrate, but neither has every man. The probability is that the average woman has a less judicial mind than the average man. On this account greater discrimination in appointing women to the bench will be required. It might prove wise at first to limit their jurisdiction to cases in which women are concerned, in which sphere they might reasonably be expected to show more comprehensiveness than men, for women are credited with knowing their own sex better than men know it.

CRUEL WORDS.

[Manitoba Free Press.]

The Ottawa House is considering taking a two weeks' recess at Easter. Well, if the members will agree to spend the fortnight doing a little more thinking and a little less talking, the scheme might work out to the country's advantage.

TRUE.

[Financial Post.]

When Sir Philip Gibbs states that 95 per cent of the people of the United States are friendly to Great Britain, he reiterates the conviction of all level-headed Canadians.

WORKING AGAINST GERMANY.

[New York Times.]

Mr. Briand in his speech before the Chamber on Tuesday made one observation which ought to be carefully considered in Germany, although probably it will not be. "The German people," he said, "must understand that their leaders who try to cheat the Allies are working against Germany." Those leaders—Mr. Stinnes is probably the strongest, certainly the richest, and by his aggressiveness at Spa and since has earned his leadership of the group—have succeeded to an extraordinary degree in concentrating the control of German industry, and the profits of that industry, in a very limited circle. Germany today, if we may believe most of the evidence of foreign observers in that country, is more of a rich man's paradise than any nation in the industrial era has ever been; but the condition of the masses is considerably worse than before the war. For almost the first time in history, Karl Marx's Verelendungstheorie is working out.

EVERYTHING

HOW FOREST FIRES START.

The record of forest fires in the United States shows that 25,000 timber conflagrations are started each year by human carelessness. Canada's record is estimated at about five to eight thousand annual forest fires and nine-tenths are due to the following human causes:

Throwing away lighted tobacco and matches while in the woods.

Leaving camp fires unextinguished. (Every such fire should have at least two gallons of water with every ember thoroughly stamped out.)

Clearing land in newly-settled districts by uncontrolled burning.

Carelessness by locomotive drivers.

From what appeared like innocent causes many of Canada's worst forest conflagrations have taken their start. Last summer several thriving communities of New Brunswick were destroyed (with no insurance), because a few settlers took no precautions while burning off their lands. When prosecuted in court, the settlers confessed that they "did not know a little fire could get out of hand so quickly."

THE ROAD OF REMEMBRANCE.

[Lizette Woodworth Reese.]

The old wind stirs the hawthorn tree;
The tree is blossoming!
Northward the road runs to the sea,
And past the House of Spring.

The folks go down it unafraid;
The still roofs rise before;
When you were lad and I was maid,
Wide open stood the door.

Now, other children crowd the stair,
And hunt from room to room;
Outside, under the hawthorn fair,
We plucked the thorny bloom.

Out in the quiet road we stand,
Shut in from wharf and mart,
The old wind blowing up the land,
The old thoughts in our heart.

THE PARASITE.

Mrs. Chapman Catt, the eminent suffragist, said on her return from England:

"Woman the world over, now she has got the vote, tends to become more self-reliant. The parasite woman is already a thing of the past.

"And isn't that delightful? What could be more contemptible than a parasite woman? I saw one the other day in Fifth avenue.

"Though it was freezing weather, her frock was very decollete, her skirt very short and her stockings very transparent. A fat man in a fur coat walked beside her, and as she passed I heard her say:

"'Tomorrow's your birthday. What are you going to give me?'"

THE SLANDERER.

[Alice Brown.]

The angels of the living God,
Marked, from of old, with mystic name
O'ervail their vision, lest they see
One sinner prostrate in his shame,

And God, himself, the only great,
Preserves in heaven one holy spot,
Where, swept by purifying flame,
Transgression is remembered not.

Yet thou, O banqueter on worms,
Who will not let corruption pass!
Dost search out mildew, mold and stain,
Beneath a magnifying glass.

If one lies wounded, there art thou,
To prick him deeper where he bleeds;
Thy brain a palimpsest of crime,
Thy tongue the trump of evil deeds.

X-RAYS AND EXPERTS.

Edward W. Redfield, the noted painter of snow scenes, said the other day at the Philadelphia Art Club:

"I see that in Paris the experts are proving the authenticity of dubious old masters by means of the X-ray. This is a good idea. It will do away with a lot of hoaxing.

"I heard the other day of a dealer who tried to hoax a profiteer. The dealer offered a Raphael for sale, pointing to the signature triumphantly, but after examining the signature, the profiteer said:

"'The name don't look like Raphael. Looks more like Rachel to me,'

"The dealer examined the signature himself.

"'Yes, it is Rachel,' he said. 'I'll tell you the history of that. When Raphael painted that picture he was in hard luck, y'understand, so he put it in his wife's name.'"

BOTH ON DUTY.

[Buffalo Times.]

"I hate to hold you up," said the polite footpad, "but you see what happens to people who stay out late."

"But business kept me out late," protested the pedestrian.

"Same here," replied the footpad, as he returned the pedestrian's tin watch and kept his bank roll.

LONG TREK OF AN AIREDALE.

[Letter of John McLennan, Edmonton, in Literary Digest.]

T. A. Fee, an architect, of Vancouver, British Columbia, owns an Airedale dog, and in the spring of 1919 he sent it by express over the Canadian National Railway to a brother-in-law, Thomas Paton, at Ardrossan, a station on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, sixteen miles east of Edmonton, Alberta, at the same time notifying Mr. Paton of the shipment. Express charges were prepaid, as well as a sum of money and food given messenger to care for the dog to destination. After waiting for some time and no dog arriving, Mr. Paton notified Mr. Fee of the non-arrival of Buster. Mr. Fee made inquiry of the railroad company and the express company produced a receipt from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway showing that the dog was delivered to the latter company at Edmonton, the junction point. The express company connected with the Grand Trunk road acknowledged receipt of the dog at Edmonton, but had no record of how it was disposed of. Ardrossan station on their line has no station agent, and the presumption is that the dog was put off at the station in the hope that Mr. Paton would come and claim him. This, however, is only conjecture, as Mr. Paton never received the dog, and he was given up for lost.

Buster was not of sufficient value to make much fuss about him and the matter was allowed to drop.

In about six weeks' time Buster arrived at his home in Vancouver, emaciated, tired and footsore. The distance from Vancouver to Edmonton is 770 miles on the Canadian National, and Ardrossan, as already stated, is sixteen miles east of Edmonton on another line. From Edmonton to Vancouver there is no travelled road except the railroad track, which passes through and over three chains of mountains, two-thirds of the distance without habitation except the railroad section-houses and at long intervals small stations, many of them without a single inhabitant.

Having in mind that there are twelve lines of railroad converging in Edmonton and that his road home was through mountains and uninhabited for the most part, not only is the feat of finding his way marvellous, but it is equally strange how he subsisted on the way.

GHOST SHIP IS GOING TO PIECES ON SHOALS

The Carroll A. Deering Is Wrecked Off Carolina With No Trace of Crew.

Beaufort, N. C., March 20.—A grim spectre stood unseen at the helm of the Bath built schooner Carroll A. Deering when she cleared Rio de Janeiro harbor last December, riding light and winged out to sea with Norfolk port to make, via the Barbados.

The ship was tough and trim from truck to keelson, sound throughout and no more than sweetened to the ways of the sea by her year off the building stocks. A stout New England shipmaster, weathered to all the gales that blow, trod her quarterdeck. Above him clean, sound canvas towered away to the five great masts that drove more than a thousand tons through the water on airs than no more than fanned the cheek.

Today she is "The Ghostship of Diamond Shoals," her bones bleaching in "the graveyard of the Atlantic," her master and crew vanished, no man knows where or why. She has added one more page to the sea's great book of mystery; paid tribute to the grim power of the deep that on occasion strikes through all that men and science can do to shackle it, to claim its own.

There is no record of the Deering's last voyage. She sailed full handed, thrilling with life and power. A month later she staggered blindly shoreward, alone by night, to ram her way to her last berth on the shoal. No hand tended her wheel; no man stood to slack a sheet or spill the wind from her tortured canvas to ease her death struggle. She was a dead ship. No living thing saw her end.

Sunset was drawing down the gloom of night on a Sunday evening when patrols from the life-saving station looked their last for the day across the storm-fretted shoals. The surges ran white over the lurking menace of the sands, headstones with relics of many a stout craft. But there was no sail in sight. The wide reach of the sea beyond was empty in the gathering gale.

In the morning, the Deering lay before them in the grip of the sand, her canvas set and slatting to ribbons in the wind, her boat gear hammering overside, her boats and her people vanished. All day the life savers sought to reach her. Some of her crew might still be aboard. Time and again they were beaten back by wind and sea, and it was a day later before it was known positively that she was an empty ship, stripped of all life before she had plunged into the death trap.

There was no mark on her to show why she had been abandoned. She was apparently undamaged until the wind and sea and sand had their will of her and slowly ripped her, timber from timber, on the shoal. Under the drive of her sail the ship was buried beyond the power of tugs to pull her out. And in the weeks that have passed not a word has come to tell what became of her crew. Nobody has been washed up; no remnant of lifeboat or clothing come ashore.

The battered hulk of the big vessel, forlorn with toppling masts and grimy, torn canvas, the hull filling with sand through open seams, stands a ghostly monument to the unconquered power of the sea.

Miss Agnes Irwin of English street is visiting friends in St. Thomas.

On Saturday afternoon the girls at Western University entertained at another of their delightful students' teas.

Mrs. Fred Matthews of Toronto is spending a short time with her mother, Mrs. N. S. Williams, Cheapside street.

Mr. H. V. Canton, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Diggs and Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Steele of this city have been visiting in Tampa, Florida.

Miss Myrtle Kent and Miss Olive Nobbs of Otterville are visiting in the city, the guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. H. G. Collamore, 471 English street.

Miss Katharine Cronyn entertained the members of the Alliance Francaise at her home on Friday evening, when French conversation prevailed throughout the evening. Piano numbers by Miss Madeline Simson and Mr. Bateman Edwards, vocal numbers by Mr. Gilies, and readings by Mlle. La Mieux, Madame Foley and Mlle. Foley were given, and French choruses, with Mrs. A. D. Jordan at the piano.

ROWELL—SCOTT.

A quiet wedding took place at the Talbot Street Baptist Church on Wednesday last, when Miss Clara Agnes Scott of this city was united in marriage to Mr. W. F. Rowell of Winnipeg, formerly of Woodstock, the Rev. T. S. Roy officiating. After a delightful wedding supper had been served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowell took the evening train for Toronto and other eastern points. They will later spend a short time in London before going to their home in Winnipeg. The choir of the church showered the bride with many handsome and useful presents previous to her marriage.

HUTTON—HAVES.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Haves on March 9, when their only daughter Hazel, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Hutton of Uniondale. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of white crepe and myrtle by Rev. Eric Anderson of Wellburn. The bride entered the parlor accompanied by her father, to the strains of Wedding March played by her aunt, Mrs. Robert Haves, while Master Lawrence Haves, brother of the bride, and Master Warren Haves, cousin of the bride, acted as pages. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of Old Colony silver, and to the organist a gold brooch. After the ceremony the happy couple led the way to the dining-room, which was beautifully decorated with pink carnations and yellow daffodils. The bride wore a navy serge suit with pink crepe blouse embroidered in blue and wore a corsage of Ophelia rosebuds. Immediately after the wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton left on the evening train for London and Lawrence, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm on 9th con. of East Nissouri.

WHITE—McKAY.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. A. McKay, Wyoming, when his only daughter, Alma Florence, was married to James J. White of Wyoming. Miss Rae White of Sarnia, sister of the groom, announced the coming of the bridal party by playing the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. The bride, escorted by her father, took her place under a bridal arch of evergreens banked with carnations, tulips and sweet peas. She looked sweet and girlish in her wedding gown of ivory satin and maline with maline veil, caught up with her mother's orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, orchids and fresias. The attendants were Miss Ida McIntyre and Mr. Sam Robb, the former wearing a pretty gown of robin's egg satin with large black hat and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The Rev. J. P. McLeod read the marriage service.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was an opal ring; to the pianist, a wrist-watch, and to the groomsman, gold cuff links. During the signing of the register, Miss Ida McIntyre sweetly sang, "O Perfect Love." Then a dainty wedding dinner was served in the dining-room, which was artistically decorated with pink roses and white tulips.

Mr. and Mrs. White left on the afternoon train for Port Arthur, Winnipeg and Saskatoon. The bride travelled in a blue tricotine suit with small hat to match, and wore the groom's gift, an Australian fox fur. Among the many lovely tokens of esteem shown the bridal couple was a beautiful walnut dining-room suite, a gift of the bride's father. Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home to their friends after April 16.

HOME ECONOMICS

MRS. ELIZABETH KENT, MacDONALD COLLEGE.

COTTON FIBRE AND YARN.

The expansion of the cotton cloth industry in the last hundred years is almost a measure of industrial development. More clothing is made from cotton than from any other fibre.

Cotton fibre is the downy substance or seed hairs which inclose the seeds of the cotton plant with the pod or "boll," until it is ripe. Under the microscope it shows a flat ribbonlike fibre, with thick edges and a slight twist at intervals throughout its length, which varies from one to two inches. These twists give it elasticity, and make it valuable for spinning. The fibre has a single cell, the thick walls of which are covered with vegetable wax and oil. The absorbent quality of cotton is from 5 to 8 per cent, and is higher in a moist temperature.

When the cotton bolls have ripened and opened, the cotton is picked and ginned, that is, the fibre is separated from the seeds, a process formerly done by hand at the rate of a pound a day, but since Whitney's invention of the cotton gin late in the eighteenth century, by machinery, in increasingly large quantities.

Rid of the seed the cotton is packed in bales of 500 pounds, covered with heavy bagging and bound with iron hoops. These bales are compressed and shipped to factories to be spun into yarn.

For yarn, the cotton is cleansed, and the fibres are smoothed out and laid parallel to each other by machinery. As it issues from the last machine it is drawn into a thick strand called a sliver. For very fine yarn only long fibres are used, and the consequent waste of short fibres increases the cost of the cloth.

BANANAS.

Bananas, containing a high proportion of starch and some oil, are far more nutritious than other fruits, and should be used with this fact in mind. In the places where they are native they form, with plantains, from which they differ little, the staple article of food, like potatoes or rice in other countries.

A banana with whole milk and two good slices of bread and butter constitutes a meal for a child from six to nine years old. It contains a hundred calories, two cups of whole milk, three hundred and fifty and the bread and butter another two hundred. Such a child needs from fourteen hundred to two thousand calories a day, about six hundred a meal.

Bananas should not be given to children under five, for they can not easily digest the starch, and for children of delicate digestion the fibrous covering inside the skin should be scraped off and only the soft pulp given. Bananas should not be given between meals as oranges and apples should, but as a considered and considerable part of the day's food ration.

There are many ways of using bananas at meals, and nearly everyone, child and adult alike, is fond of them.

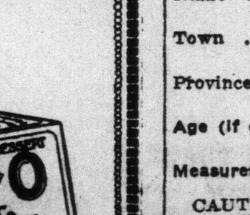

For banana pie, take a half dozen bananas, one eighth of a cupful of powdered sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, and a cupful and a half of whipped cream. Bake a single crust of pastry, fill it with the sliced bananas, add salt and sugar, and cover with whipped cream.

A pretty way to serve bananas is to slice them lengthwise and serve them in their skins, either with powdered sugar, as dessert or with salt or mayonnaise dressing, as a salad. Salt really brings out the flavor of mayonnaise better than sugar. Halved English walnuts served on bananas sliced lengthwise make a rich salad, equal in nutrition to meat.

BUSHELS OF EGGS ON SATURDAY MARKET HERALD EASTER TIME

Maple Syrup Drops Ten Cents But Is Very Scarce.

It certainly was an egg market on Saturday. There were bushels and bushels of them, which began selling at 40 cents a dozen, but which came toppling, toppling down as low as 35 cents by noon. And even then there were so many of them that the farmers' wives who brought them to market must have had to carry many of them home again. The Easter season will not be lacking in the proverbial egg food this year, and Johnny will be able to eat as many as his little "tummy" will hold. Poultry, however, was very scarce, and sold at the fabulous price of 41 cents a pound wholesale.

Maple syrup had dropped ten cents a quart, but there were only six or seven syrup merchants on the market, with the warm weather pointing to very little more to come. Even at the high price of 90 cents a quart, it seemed to find buyers, however, and they could be assured that the article they bought was genuine, as the Government pure food inspector was on the market, ready to convict any seller who failed to have his name and address prominently affixed to his cans or jars.

Fresh salad vegetables, such as parsely, radishes, lettuce and green onions were conspicuous, while pretty fresh bunches of rhubarb sold for 15 cents or two for 25 cents. Bottles of fresh-looking ground horse-radish sold for from 25 to 30 cents, while mushrooms and a very little celery could be purchased by those willing to pay high prices.

Great quantities of freshly-dug parsnips were also noticeable, as well as the regular all-winter roots, and some very fine-preserved apples and potatoes. Flowers in profusion were shown, the seasonable Easter lily selling at 50 cents a bloom or about $1 a plant.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Facts about your name; its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

MADGE.

The numerous names which come from the Persian word for pear, Murvarid (child of light), include the very charming Madge. It made its first appearance as Margarite and named the virgin martyr, who became, before the 5th century, the recipient of the allegory of feminine innocence and faith, overcoming the dragon. Though the legend was Greek, it did not flourish in the Eastern Church, but Cremona laid calm to the maiden's relics and Hungary, in its first Christianity, eagerly adopted the name.

Curiously enough it reached Scotland almost at once, and from there it went to Norway with the daughter of Alexander III, whose bridal cost the life of Sir Patrick Spens. It nearly came back from Scandinavia with her child, the Maid of Norway, but the Maid died on the voyage, and her name reached England through France and Germany.

There were many English forms of this 'pearl-name.' Margarite was the general favorite, though Margery ran it a close second. It is from the latter that Madge is descended. It found great popularity in England, but it remained for its appearance in this country to mark the zenith of its vogue.

The pearl is, of course, Madge's talismanic gem. The Persian notion that a pearl is formed from a drop of dew on which the moon's rays shine, imbues this gem with the power to bestow its charm and its exquisite purity on its wearer. Monday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XLII.—AT THE RAILWAY STATION.

People passed her in the streets like figures in a dream. Several looked curiously at the pretty, pale-faced girl with the dark, tragic eyes staring unseeingly straight before her.

"How am I going to face the future?" she was drearily asking herself. "How can I go back to the old routine, when my dreams have all been smashed to atoms?"

She walked along, her young face set and rigid, tragedy lurking in her lovely eyes.

"I trusted him with my whole heart—it isn't as though I'd ever trifled with love before. I believed in every word he said."

Ah, it seemed incredible, the whole affair!

That enchanted evening of a night or two ago—spring, with its rush of passion, its bewildering scents, its heavenly song—finished with, broken, done!

"And I've got to go on living—without him!" whispered Betty brokenly.

Life seemed stretching out before her, no longer with glad, welcoming hands, but as a dreary, unending, hopeless vista. . .

To think that Jack Trevor—the image in her mind of all that was fine and straight and true—should have acted so! Was there no chance of a mistake?

April Moore was involved in the affair, and Betty had always instinctively distrusted April. She had been ashamed of the feeling, and had tried to crush it—but it had been very real all the same. Was it not possible that April was at the bottom of the whole wretched business?

Ah, but it was Jack's love for April that had drawn him back to her! Even though April had schemed, Trevor's treachery, the lies he had poured into Betty's trusting ear, could never be explained away. . .

"He has been outrageously false all round!" A little sob rose in Betty's throat.

He had told them both the same old tale. He was utterly untrue where either of them was concerned.

April, of course, had sent the anonymous letters. But they were so badly written, with such an air of illiteracy about them?. Ah! that was merely a blind—April was their instigator—the actual writer of them, had been delegated to the pert maid.

That was clever of April, distinctly clever. But why—why had she summoned Betty from the country all the way to town merely that Betty should witness her own humiliation?

If Trevor loved April, then why drag Betty into the affair? April's motives seemed incomprehensible. She had surely gone to a considerable amount of trouble to humble Betty.

Did the apartment belong to April? The girl had always spoken so pathetically about being homeless. . . certainly this didn't look like it.

It was an expensive apartment—even the pert maid looked expensive.

Betty could not know that moneyless ostentation had always been April's stock in trade.

"There's one thing of which I'm positive," she told herself. "Jack didn't know I was hidden in the next room and overhearing things . . . he isn't quite so cruel as all that. . . I shouldn't have read his letter. . . I did it because I thought it was meant for me. . . ."

On through the busy city streets walked Betty, mechanically, yet tirelessly. For a great unhappiness seemed to drive all physical fatigue out of the human frame.

Some force within her compelled her feet on and on. She tramped for miles and miles. There was a relief in action, and for nearly two hours she roamed the streets. She had had no food since early morning, and it was now almost six o'clock.

At last she found herself in surroundings that seemed familiar. All unconscious of it, she had reached the railroad station.

The clock, moon-faced stared down at her. Why, a train was due to leave for home in five minutes!

"My head feels so light and queer—I wonder what's the matter with it?" Betty put a hand up to her throbbing forehead.

Had she a return ticket? She couldn't remember. Thinking seemed now a stupendous effort.

She ought to go to the ticket office and buy a ticket. Where was the ticket office? How curious that she had forgotten its whereabouts!

And the people in the station seemed swaying about in a ridiculous sort of ragtime step!

She found herself mysteriously at the ticket office, purse in hand.

Only three minutes till the train was due to start!

Several people were crowding in front of the ticket window . . . she would never catch that train.

Mechanically she opened her purse and looked inside. There lay the return half of her ticket!

"And now to run for it!" she said.

She took a few uncertain steps away from the ticket office. Turning, she saw a man and a girl were hurriedly buying tickets. The man's face was towards her, though he did not see her. . . It was Trevor!

The fair-haired girl who accompanied him and who was laughing up into his face was—April Moore!

"They're traveling—together—on the same train as I am!" Betty whispered. "Oh, it's too cruel—"

She gave a little shivering sigh, and swayed, with one hand out to steady herself . . . then a kindly darkness swept over her, dragging her down, down into its depths. . .

Tomorrow—"Mrs. Jones in New York."

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

The Feeling of Forty.

When I was twenty years old I used to feel sorry for poor ginks who had arrived at the advanced age of thirty. At thirty my sympathies went out to those unfortunates who had ten years less than I had still coming. At thirty-seven or thereabouts I firmly and highly resolved never to have another birthday. I peered forward at forty with an actual shudder. What a sad life it must be when you're forty, and only thirty years left to spend! To realize that in all likelihood you had already spent more than half of your fortune and there was no chance to recoup, for no matter what success you might have attained, there could be just so much left to spend! It didn't seem right. It was a most unhappy subject to cogitate late at night when you really should have been asleep. Not so horrible to think about in broad daylight, but it had a way of obtruding on your thoughts around bedtime, this idea of the extreme brevity of human life. Of course, death was not at all terrible, just the appropriate end of the play, and yet forty seemed a bitter pill to swallow.

Well, morning comes and dispels all these gloomy thoughts. And forty, after all, turns out to be not half bad. Indeed, it would be a happy enough event if some low, mean wretch did not go out of his way to call your attention to the prominence of the bald spot on your unconscious dome or to comment on the crow's feet about your eyes or your noticeable shortness of wind or your increasing girth or some such thing.

It is a sound idea to get into training a year or two before forty, so that you will have a good running start and hit the peak of life at fair to middling speed, which will carry you along for quite a distance down the other side. In lieu of time and opportunity for sufficient daily walking or play or work in the open air, if you can persuade yourself to devote just fifteen minutes a day to a regimen of room exercises, that, together with what daily walking and occasional play you can enjoy, will go far to fit you to sail around the Cape of Great Promise in good shape. It certainly is a shame to round the cape with your vessel already beginning to give under the strain of ill use and bad management.

Dr. Osler would have been right had he said what the reporter said he said. You may become rich or famous or happy or president after forty, but if you do, it is because you laid the foundations before forty. You may publish your first story or buy your first home or win your first election or have your first baby after forty, but you've been preparing for it long, long before you ever dreamed of that venerable age. The world is slow to hand you what you have earned.

No use pretending you wouldn't go back to thirty or twenty or ten, if you could, and do it over again just as you have done it thus far. And still, at forty you find a lot of contentment which you never suspected was there, and aside from the great demands poor old geezers of fifty make upon your sympathy, the halfway station proves a delightful vista in your exploration of life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

I don't agree with your opinion that every married couple should have a baby in their home. How could a nervous, highly-strung young woman be bothered with a pettish, crying infant? Do you not think that a young woman when married should have seven or eight years' of recreation among her friends before settling down to raise a family? (Mrs. I. J. L.)

ANSWER—It is properly a swearing matter, but in printable words, why should that kind of woman burden herself with a husband at all? Every married couple without at least one baby ought to be taxed so heavily that recreation would be out of their reach. Your idea of marriage seems to be that it is still rather fashionable, but a great bore. The responsibility of motherhood, displacing selfishness in your heart, might change you from a nervous, high-strung filer into a normal, happy woman. If your mother had been cursed with your selfish outlook on life—

The Nutriment in Oranges.

Is there any nourishment in an orange or a grapefruit? Is macaroni with cheese a nourishing food, and is the cheese contained in it, or the cooked milk, liable to cause constipation? (C. H. W.)

ANSWER—The food value of an egg is about 80 calories, of an orange about 70 calories of an average grapefruit about 80 calaries. Macaroni cooked with cheese is an exceedingly nutritious and wholesome dish. Cooked milk or cheese is not constipating. Cheese is a concentrated food, leaving little residue after digestion; likewise milk leaves little residue—hence if the diet is limited to such foods wholly or to a large extent, there is little occasion for intestinal evacuation. But such foods do not produce constipation. Indeed, I know of no food that can be considered constipating, save boiled tea or boiled coffee (boiling extracts tannin from these otherwise wholesome foods).

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

If you have gracious words to say,
Oh, give them to our hearts today;
But if your words will cause us sorrow,
Pray keep them till the last tomorrow.

Seven Little Shirts.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending Fuzz Wuzz seven little undershirts for the baby brother; hope some others will send along some dresses. There were 149 letters in the Mail-Box in the month of February, all real live folks too. I see where Anchor was asking for the book "The Lost Ten Tribes"; will send it to her if she hasn't already received one. Please send me Annie's address; I will send magazines for her Laddie to read. Can anyone tell what to do for lice on a dicky-bird? "For Love of Betty" is a real live story. Please find inclosed stamped addressed envelope, also dime for S. C. H. Wishing the Mail-Box every success, JULY.

Ans.—Am mailing you Annie's address. It is lovely of you to help so many. Thanks for dime.

Attention, Busyville Reader.

Dear Miss Grey,—Just a line to thank Busyville Reader for pillow case lace, and as she asked me to return it I am sending it to Miss Grey. I am not very good at crocheting, but that pattern was very easy to copy. Well, I guess this will be all for this time. I will close, wishing Miss Grey and readers good luck. I remain,

JEFF'S SISTER.

P. S.—Am sending mite for hospital fund.

Ans.—Thank you very much for hospital mite.

Attention, Matilda Jane.

Dear Miss Grey and Boxites,— have not written to your page for some time, so thought I would write again. The last time I wrote I sent some Shirley poppy seeds from Flanders Fields to Matilda Jane in exchange for some orange perennial poppy seeds, but I never received any from her.

I am glad that you are discussing books now in the Mail-Box. I like L. M. Montgomery's books, "Anne of Green Gables," and am just reading the last one "Rainbow Valley"; also Nellie McClung's "Sowing Seeds in Danny" and "The Second Chance," are favorites.

Aren't you all glad spring is coming soon? I have had spring fever early this year, as I have been looking forward to spring time and flower time all winter.

I am inclosing another mite for the wee kiddies. Will you please send me a sachet bag when they come in?

I saw where someone had taken my pen-name, or is hers Miss K.? With best wishes for the Mail-Box, K.

Ans.—Thank you for recipe and hospital mite. Have put your name down for a sachet. We will have to call the other Boxite "Miss K."

To Remove Apple Stain.

Dear Cynthia,—I am coming to you for help. Could you tell me what would take apple stain out of a light fawn coat? The child sat on an apple, and it lift a big dark mark. Some day before long I will send you in some poppy seeds for the readers, and would you send me some seed of The Snow on the Mountain? I certainly do enjoy your corner of the paper. Inclosed please find mite for S. C. H. I wish you and all the Mail-Box readers success. LOVER OF POPPIES.

Ans.— Iam sorry there are no seeds left of the variety you ask for. Many thanks for the hospital mite. Can anyone tell how to remove this stain?

Jed.

Dear Miss Grey,—Am sending recitations back that you sent me, and thank you. Am sending self-addressed envelope for the other two, "I Want a Man," and "Should Woman Propose." Where is Ima Goat keeping herself these days. As she is my cousin I'd like to see her name in Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box. The days now are just like spring, aren't they? Well, good-bye, everybody. Will sign as before, JED.

Ans.—The recitations you ask for were sent out and never returned, Jed. If they are sent back I shall forward them to you.

Easter Lily.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have just read where some of the readers are giving clothes to help the needy. Now, I wonder if there is anyone among the wealthy of the city people who would care to help me out a little in this way. I have a friend who has been an invalid for about then years, whom I am taking care of in my own home. She is still young, under 35. She has a very trying, lonely life, and all those years has been unable to earn anything to help herself, and her expenses for medical treatment and other necessities has been very heavy, and we find it takes all we can earn to get along without the extra cost of clothing, which she requires, as I wheel her out as much as possible when the warm days come. Now, if anyone has a discarded suit, spring coat or separate skirt (bust measure 40) which could be turned or fixed over, as I am a good sewer and could easily fit over anything like that, I would be very grateful for anything that may be sent in to Miss Grey, and will gladly send her the postage to send the parcel on to my address. Will sign myself,

EASTER LILY.

Ans.—You did not inclose your address, Easter Lily. Kindly send it in, in case it is asked for. It is much more satisfactory to send parcels direct than to send them to the Mail-Box to be forwarded.

Requests and Mites.

Dear Miss Grey,—Have you room in your cosy corner for another new comer? I have read your paper for a long time and take great interest in it, especially the Mail-Box as there are a lot of good things in it. Now, Miss Grey, will you please send me Anchor's address for I saw in February 28th's paper that she had some quilt patches that she did not need? Now I would like to get them if I could and would gladly send what they were worth to the S. C. H. fund. Now I must close as my ink is getting low. Will try and be of some help next time.

HAPPY MOLLY.

Ans.—Am mailing you Anchor's address.

Dear Miss Grey,—Ass so many are suffering from colds just now I thought it might not be too late to send to the Mail-Box a remedy or preventive. This was used most successfully by an American physician during the "FLU" epidemic and nothing but the old remedy Oil of Eucalyptus and Mineral Oils. Keep in a good sanitary condition and use in a spring tonic a day or more, this mixture: 2 ounces of Mineral Oil and 1 dram "Oil of Eucalyptus." If found too irritating use less eucalyptus. If there are any white aster seeds or morning glory seeds left, may I have a few? Inclosed please find ten cents.

G. E. M.

Ans.—Thank you for sending in remedy G. E. M. also for hospital dime. Am mailing you morning glory seeds, but there are no white asters left.

FROEBEL SOCIETY.

The kindergarten of the Talbot Street School presented a most attractive appearance on Friday last, when the members of the local Froebel Society held their annual banquet there, Miss Ethel Teasdale, the president of the society, acting as hostess. Dinner was served from small tables centred with sweet peas and adorned with tiny colonial bouquets of sweets at each cover. A large central table was beautiful with daffodils, pussy-willows, and violets under the soft light of candles. About forty-eight were present, including two guests, Mrs. Dorland and Miss Wallace of Toronto. A delightful social evening followed the banquet, which was one of the most successful yet held by the society.

The Froebel Society members are now looking forward to the big International Kindergarten convention, which is being held in Detroit during the first week of May. For this occasion the local kindergartens will be closed, and the members of the London Kindergarten staff will attend the convention. This is the first convention in twelve years, which has been held near enough to the city to permit of a large attendance there.

RED CROSS DANCE AT WESTMINSTER.

The local Red Cross Society visiting committee, is entertaining the men at Westminster Hospital at a dance on Tuesday evening, when the orchestra of the Oriental Lodge, Oddfellows, will provide the music.

Mrs. James Eggett of Dean street is holding a talent tea at her home on Tuesday evening next under the auspices of the Wortley Road Mothers' Club. This is one of a series of teas which the club has been holding in aid of relief work in the district.

RUTH CHAPTER, O. E. S.

The social committee of the Ruth Chapter, O. E. S., recently entertained the chapter to a euchre and supper party, the function being held in Ulster Hall. A handsome cut-glass bonbon dish and a pack of cards donated by Miss Blanche Rowe, the worthy matron, were won by Mrs. Farrow and J. C. Doidge, while Miss Margery Rowe was the winner of a $5 gold piece donated by Mrs. George Logan and drawn for at the meeting. Forty dollars was realized from this drawing, Miss Carrington, winning the library scarf donated by Mrs. Lois Russell for the member selling the largest number of chances on the gold piece.

DUNDAS CENTRE C. G. I. T. GROUP.

The Dundas Centre C. G. I. T. group held a very enjoyable St. Patrick's social last week, the guest of honor being Miss Helen d'Avignon, Y. W. C. A. girls' work secretary. Green and white streamers and Irish flags were used effectively as decorations, while the St. Patrick's idea was further carried out in an interesting contest. A vocal solo by Miss Gertrude Andrews; violin solo by Miss Dorothy Cahill; the telling of a ghostly Irish folk tale by Miss Eleanor Higgins, and an Irish sing-song brought the program to a close.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 20.—Brandon defeated University of Toronto, 2 to 0, in the first game of the two-game series, Saturday night, to decide the holder of the Allan Cup.

The margin of two goals is no indication of the marked advantage that the holders had over the easterners at nearly every stage of the fracas. They outclassed Varsity in every period and to such a great extent that the collegians can consider themselves mighty lucky that they enter the final game on Monday night only two goals behind. The performance of the Brandon team was a complete revelation to the thousands of fans, who never gave the players a quiet moment from start to finish. The Manitobans outclassed their shifty opponents on the attack, on the defence and even in team play. It was a wonderful exhibition of all-round hockey that the cup holders displayed, and only a marvelous exhibition of goal-tending and a stout defence allowed the Varsity boys to escape so easily. The contest was a typical Allan Cup one in every way.

All Keyed Up.

The players and the crowd were all keyed up to something out of the ordinary, and it was just one succession of thrills. The Brandon team secured a well-deserved goal in the first period, and landed another near the finish of the second session. The teams played scoreless hockey in the third period, which was a terrific one.

The showing of the easterners, though disappointing to some, because they failed to dent the Brandon tapestry, may be accounted for in many ways. They found the Brandon team playing right at the top of their form and doing everything just right but scoring goals. It was their first appearance on a sheet of ice new to them, and the strange surroundings, together with the fact that they were performing after a long trip, may have had something to do with their failure to uncover the form which carried them through to the top of the heap in the east. But there is no doubt that the furious back-checking of the Brandon clan, who never let a player free for a second, had a lot to do with the bottling up of the easterners. The Varsity boys, who were given a grand reception by Winnipeg fans, looked capable of better things, but only for about five minutes in each period did they appear actually dangerous, as the rest of the time they were too busy stopping the speedy rushes of the cup holders to do very much in the attack.

Varsity Netminder Star.

Jack Langtry, guarding the Varsity nets, uncovered the most sensational performance of goal-minding seen in these parts for many a day. He was nearly unbeatable, coming out time after time to save a very awkward predicament, when it looked as though everything was lost. He had no chance on the two goals scored against him, and it is a wonder that at least a half dozen other counters did not beat him.

The system followed by the Brandon team in checking their opponents practically into submission, and breaking away like lightning to bombard the enemy's citadel, seemed too much for the eastern champions to solve. Never at any time of the match did the Varsity crew uncover the form which they showed against the Winnipeg Falcons at Toronto last year. They showed a lot of speed and checked back to advantage, but had little or no combination and failed badly in finishing. They had only two golden opportunities of getting into the scoring column, Ramsay missing an open net in the first period, and Carson doing the same thing in the final session after he had pulled the goalkeeper out of the nets.

The game had gone a little more than six minutes, with Brandon pressing strenuously, when Ambie Moran, the "human cyclone," rushed up the ice, dodged a couple of opponents, and made a sweep outside the Varsity defence. Moran was also responsible for the other tally just a few seconds before the end of the second period. The big fellow galloped down the ice, worked in around the goal, and gave Langtry another shot from close quarters. The puck bounced off the goalkeeper's pads to "Ty" Arbour, the former Midland boy, who shot it through a nest of legs into the corner of the net.

Stan Brown electrified the rink with his spectacular rushes for Varsity, though he was always stopped, while Ramsay also proved very effective, both in blocking and on the attack, and these two boys carried the burden of the work in both ends of the rink. The forwards were outplayed by the Brandon squad. Bill Carson, at centre, failed to show the class expected, and was outplayed by the lanky Bob Armstrong. Wright was the best of the wings, but both Arbour and Hill outshone him in both puck-carrying and back-checking.

Hill and Moran stood out as the two most prominent players on the ice. The contest was exceptionally clean, only a few penalties for minor offences being handed out, and the work of Bobby Hewitson of Toronto and Jimmy Rollo of Regina was beyond reproach.

The line-up:

Varsity.		Brandon.
Langtry	Goal	Stuart
Ramsay	R. Defence	Moran
Brown	L. Defence	MacNeill
Carson	Centre	Armstrong

IROQUOIS FALLS AND TIMMINS PLAYERS ARE EXPELLED BY N. O. H. A.

Shown by Investigations That Game Between Towns Were Thrown.

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 20.—By Canadian Press.—At a meeting of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association executive held here last night it was decided to expel from the association A. Joliet and R. E. Compbell of the Iroquois Falls team, and Manager J. R. McGrath and R. Worters of the Timmins team.

This action followed a thorough investigation which has been under way for the last three weeks into charges that a game between the teams of which these players were members had been "fixed." The investigation was undertaken by the executive, with the assistance of a committee of citizens of the two communities involved. The evidence before the investigating committee was to the effect that in a replayed game won by Timmins, Joliet and Campbell were promised money by Worters, provided they would throw the game, and that F. Burke of Timmins, through McGrath, agreed to supply the money, which was paid over to the players on the following day.

No evidence was found of any other game not having been played on its merits. The executive of the two clubs concerned were exonerated from having had any connection with the deal, the affair being a private arrangement between the players and the betting men named.

BUSH GOING GOOD

To all intents and purposes, Dan Howley, Ty Cobb's first lieutenant at the helm of the Bengals, never is quite so contented as when he is involved in an argument with Donie Bush.

Howley actually was lonesome until the little shortstop reached camp this spring because he didn't have anybody to snap back at him over everything, no matter how trivial.

Hush would fight at the drop of the hat for Dan, yet the middget never gets nearly so mad at anybody as he does when Howley, with deliberate intent, corners Donie somewhere and starts a debate.

It doesn't make any difference what the argument is about, prize fighters, ball games, automobile racers or whether the moon is made of asbestos, Dan always takes the opposite view.

Often Donie becomes so enraged that he pulls his cap off his head, and, throwing it on the floor of the hotel lobby or in the turf of the ball field, stamps on it in his hysteria.

Howley and Bush played together in Indianapolis before the little Hoosier came to the Tigers to star, back in the season of 1908, and a friendship that started there cemented through the intervening years.

Dan started the controversies this spring when he referred to Donie as the mud turtle. Bush first wanted to bet that Dan didn't know what a mud turtle looked like and then took a kick at Howley when the Tigers' coach remarked that he had the pattern of one right in front or him.

W.O.R.'S AND TRUNKS WIN EXHIBITION SOCCER GAMES

First Spring Surprise On Fast R. C. R.'s Side.

Over 1,500 fans saw the opening exhibition soccer games at Carling Heights Saturday afternoon. 1st W. O. R. sprung a surprise when they defeated the much-touted R. C. R. eleven by a score of 1 to 0. In the second game Grand Trunks, last year's league champs, beat Army and Navy Vets by a score of 1 to 0.

The R. C. R. team won the toss and took advantage of the strong south-westerly wind blowing at an angle into their opponents' goal. Play was of the grand old forcible quality, with a few healthy charges of the give-and-take style. Stilway, outside left of the R. C. R.'s, played a nice game, sending over some lovely crosses which kept Hall, the W. O. R. custodian, busy, but he kept his charge intact. No score at half-time.

On resumption of play both teams settled down to business, with the W. O. R. pressing. Fred Fudge had a try for goal, but McQueen, the R. C. R. goalie, cleared well.

But five minutes from the kick-off in the second half Sergt. F. Wallace, inside right of the W. O. R.s, secured the sphere and passed to "Wee" McFarland, who notched the one and only point of a well-contested game.

The line-up:

R. C. R.		W. O. R.
McQueen	Goal	Hall
Taylor	R. B.	Wilson
Gale	L. B.	Hudson
Watkin	R. H. B.	Garley
Rowbotham	C. H. R.	Widdicombe
Pushman	O. S. R.	Fudge
Tanner	I. S. R.	Wallace
Wright	C. F.	Bell
Stillway	O. S. L.	Milliken
Curran	I. S. L.	McFarland

Referee—B. Devlin.

The Second Game.

When the Grand Trunks and A. and N. Vets took the field on Saturday afternoon a good deal of young blood was noticed on both sides. With one or two of the old veterans to steady them up and coach them along, both showed form.

After twenty minutes of play Evans outside right of the Trunks, scored a clever goal.

Second Half.

On play being resumed, the outside left of the Vets had a splendid run and crossed the ball right in front of the Trunks' goal, but Downey and Brown warded off the attack. The A. and N. kept up the pressure, but couldn't find the net.

The line-up:

Vets.		Grand Trunks.
Russell	Goal	Askew

Shamrocks Defeat Toronto Girls and Tie Hamilton

Saturday Night Win Puts Brownies and Colleens Tie For Lady Beck Cup—Hussars Beat C. O. T. C.

L. O. B. A. STANDING.

	Won.	Lost.
London	5	1
Hamilton	5	1
Toronto	1	5
Stratford	1	5

Shamrocks pulled themselves up even with the Hamilton Brownies at the armories Saturday night, by defeating the Toronto West End girls by a score of 18 to 13, in the fastest game of the league yet played on a local floor. Toronto showed great improvement over their form on the home floor, and had the Shamrocks uneasy in the early stages of the contest. A play-off will now be necessary to decide the custody of the Lady Beck cup. Home and home games may be played, or it is possible a sudden death will be ordered for Guelph.

Helen Wooley was the star of the Irish Colleens. Jeanette Allen, a former London girl, and R. Grosse, divided the stellar role for the visitors.

The line-up:

London Shamrocks—Pearl Blackwell, Helen Weelley, Kae McAvoy, forwards; Lottie Garrett, centre; Edna Holland, Mary Lindsay and Carrie Blackwell, defence.

Toronto West End "Y"—J. Allen, R. Groise, forwards; C. Hennessey, centre; M. Bain and L. Reid, defence; Miss Gibb and Miss Campbell, substitutes.

Referee—A. T. Taylor.

CAVALRY NOSE OUT WIN.

The Hussars nosed out a 33-31 victory in the last minute of play with Western U. O. T. C. five in the second game. It was a nip and tuck battle all the way, with the soldier students having the best of the argument at half time, 17-15. The Hussars managed to draw even just before the last three minutes, and then galloped out in front in the last few seconds.

The line-up:

Hussars.		C. O. T. C.
Johnson	R. Forward	Beemer
Bennett	L. Forward	Campbell
W. Lightfoot	Centre	Dougall

Brantford and District May Be Association Again

Are After Reinstatement In Six Soccer Teams In Senior League.

BRANTFORD, March 20.—Following two meetings held here Saturday local soccer men are confident that their application for the reinstatement of the Brantford and District Senior League as an association will go through. At the afternoon meeting Secretary Bob Muir of the O. F. A. gave the Brantford men much encouragement, but the W. F. A. president, H. Brown, says the local league heads washed a lot of linen over the W. F. A. executive of last year. President Dean of the O. F. A., Past President G. Howard of the D. F. A., and G. Elliott of the W. F. A. were also present at the afternoon conference. Six teams will play in the local association.

PETERBORO WON.

PETERBORO, Ont., March 20.—Peterboro Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, 39 to 22, winning the round by 63 to 49, and with it the right to meet St. Catharines in the O. A. B. A. finals.

Midgets Dally in Win Over Sudbury Cubs

Were Beaten 2--1 At End of Second, But Ran in Three Quick in Third—Meet Quebec Next.

TORONTO, March 20.—Stratford Midgets, holders of the O. H. A. junior championship, defeated Sudbury here last night, 4 to 2. At the end of the first period the score was 2 to 0 in favor of Sudbury, and at the end of the second period the boys from the north were still in the lead by 2 to 1, but in the early part of the final frame Stratford ran in three goals, and then held their opponents scoreless for the balance of the game.

Stratford will meet the junior champions of Quebec tomorrow night, and the winners will meet the western junior champions in a two-game series to decide possession of the O. H. A. memorial cup.

Toyed With Cubs.

Although they lagged in the rear for the first two sessions, Stratford seemed at all times confident of the result, and were apparently husbanding their strength for the games to follow. Carson and Roth, the two wings, semed to take little interest in the first two periods. With Carson not playing his usual game, more of the work fell to Morenz, the Midgets' able centre player, who was equal to the occasion. Stratford's defence was, as usual, steady and reliable. The result of the games was due principally to the better combination and generally more finished work of the winners. The line-up:

Stratford—Ruston, goal; Robson and Richards, defence; Morenz, centre; Carson and Roth, wings; Swanson and Pratt, spares.

Sudbury—McCann, goal; Quenneville and Boucher, defence; Lafrance, centre; Wright and Miller, wings; Croteau and Jessop, spares.

Referee—Tom Munro, London.

LOOKS LIFE FALCONS.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 20.—Unless a miracle happens, Winnipeg Falcons will represent the West for the memorial cup, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of Canada. The Falcons on Saturday night defeated Fort William Y. M. C. A., junior champions of the Thunder Bay League, 9 to 3.

The game was played in slush.

ORME HAS SIGNED THREE MORE FOR THE RED SOX

BRANTFORD, March 20.—The Brantford Red Sox team for 1921 is being strengthened by three players, whom Manager Orme has just signed. The team is shaping up well, and a good array of pitchers will be lined up shortly. Harold J. Fitzwiler, who was rounded up by Harry Stupp, will report here as pitcher for the training season, and from his past records he shows a likely boy to make the team. Nolan of Quincy, Ill., is on the roster, having been signed by Orme. Dell Lindoff of Hamilton, Ohio, who has been signed by Manager Orme, is in an industrial league at Hamilton. He has been treading on air, and was picked up by Orme while playing with a bunch of American Association players in an independent team. Johnnie Nunan, a right-hander with a reputation, is one of the boys who has been lined up, and his contract was received by the management today. He made a good showing with Bay City and then was outlawed by that team on account of illness.

CALEDONIA BOWLERS ARE READY FOR BIG SEASON

CALEDONIA, March 20.—The Lawn Bowling Club is preparing for the largest season yet.

The following officers are in charge this year: Honorary president, John Lawson; president, W. M. Salkeld; vice-president, B. E. French; secretary-treasurer, A. S. Smythe. Committee—C. E. Shaw, C. E. Warner, H. H. Berscht, G. R. McColl, Dr. A. E. Rossell and S. Avery.

With the Majors In the Southland

The bulletin of minor league contracts shows that Eddie Mullaney, who held the oddest of all baseball positions with the Reds, has signed with Chattanooga. Mullaney, nominally a catcher, never played an inning with the Reds, even in an exhibition game. Herzog signed him and used him in the strange role of official goat. Whenever it seemed needful that the umpire be verbally castigated, Mullaney rushed forward and called the ump all the things that were required. Then the umpire would run him off the field and the game would continue, with none of the regular players missing.

SAN ANTONIO, March 19.—So certain does Manager Cobb feel that Bert Cole has come to the Tigers to stay that he is willing to go on record with the prediction that the southpaw purchased from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League will win his first start as a Bengal.

Nervousness in his initial appearance in new surroundings, and before a crowd larger than he has been accustomed to performing, might have a tendency to cause his defeat, thinks Cobb, but on efficiency in the art of deceiving opposing batters Ty is convinced that the young side-wheeler possesses the necessary qualifications to erect a defence against the accepted sluggers in the strongest circuit in baseball.

Cole has everything a pitcher requires to make "good" in any league, a good fast ball, a deceptive curve ball, and a change of pace that Cobb himself admits it is hard to adjust oneself to.

SOX RECRUITS FLASHY.

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, March 19.—The infield obtained by the Chicago White Sox from the Salt Lake team of the Pacific Coast League, exhibited some sensational fielding in yesterday's game with the New York Giants' second team, executing two double plays. Both sides played errorless ball. Dick Kerr and Joe Morris allowed one hit each in their three innings on the mound for the Sox, and Hodge allowed three hits.

INDIANS GO TO GALVESTON.

GALVESTON, Texas, March 19.—The world's champion Cleveland Americans will play the Galveston team of the Texas League here on April 1, according to a telegram to Persident Leopold of the locals from President Dunn at Dallas today.

CARDS WANT TOPORCER.

ORANGE, Texas, March 21.—E. C. Landgraf, president of the Syracuse club of the International League, came here to visit the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp, and indications are arrangements will be made for the Cardinals to acquire George Toporcer, the infielder, who wears spectacles while playing. Toporcer is the property of the Syracuse team, but has been at second base for St. Louis since the training season began.

CUBS HAVE SORE ARMS.

PASADENA, Cal., March 19.—An epidemic of sore arms has struck several members of the pitching staff and some of the infielders of the Cubs. Batting practice has been curtailed on this account, and the usual practice games abandoned. An extensive skull practice took their place today, mythical baserunners being run down between the bags.

BRAVES ALL IN CAMP.

GALVESTON, Texas, March 19.—Arrival of Outfielder John L. Sullivan completed the roster of the Braves at their training camp here. President Grant and Manager Mitchell are reported as "at ease," for they have "every man expected on hand."

RED RECRUIT LOOKS GOOD.

CISCO, Texas, March 19.—Dennis Williams, a recruit with the Cincinnati Reds, training here, yesterday got his first chance in right field, a position he had never played before. His performance was so creditable that George Paskert, who complained of not feeling well, has been excused from playing in the Chicago White Sox series.

LONDONERS BEAT TORONTO VISITORS AT BADMINTON

Members of the Toronto Garrison Officers' Club played London in a badminton tourney Saturday afternoon at the armories, the vsiitors being one down at the end of play. Three teams played in the men's doubles, four in the ladies' doubles, and six in the mixed doubles. The local club will hardly return the visit owing to the lateness of the season.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE BREAK EVEN ON TRACK

LONDON, March 19.—Oxford and Cambridge broke even in their annual dual track and field games at the Queen's Club here this afternoon. Each team won five first places in the ten-event program. Cambridge, which was the favorite, led with five points to four when the last event, the running broad jump, was staged, and Oxford's victory in the final contest gave the dark blue an even break in the day's sports.

SOCCER KICK-OFFS

Charles Milne, who as Uno, is one of the most widely read soccer scribes on the other side of the water, writes of the Scotch soccer team which will tour Canada this summer, the following:

It was not surprising to me to learn that there should be such a widespread desire in Canada to see the world-famous Jimmy Quinn. He is coming over as trainer to the team. Without doubt he was the most outstanding centre-forward of his time, a veritable terror to his opponents, and the heart-break of goalkeepers. I wonder if he could be induced to turn out, if only for one game of the series? It would be a terrific attraction. Since he stopped playing his girth, has not diminished, as you can imagine, but he has sufficient wind left, I should say, to give his opponents a sample of his shooting powers. Quinn was a Trojan. He did not stand in the order of his going. He went. And so did the ball. Sometimes an opponent "went," too, for the famous centre had a fine pair of shoulders which he could use with effect when occasion arose, and a test of stamina was the deciding factor. It was a happy idea to bring Quinn out.

The team to take the field for the first match in Montreal will likely be—Brownlie (Third Lanark); McNair (Celtic); and Dodds (Cowdenbeath); Gordon (Dunfermline); Cringan (Celtic); and McAndrew (Third Lanark); Scott Duncan (Cowdenbeath); Bennet (Albion Rovers); Wilson (Dunfermline); McMenemy (Partick Thistles); and Alan Morton (Rangers).

Brownlie is still Scotland's best goalkeeper. He has a style peculiarly his own. His methods are somewhat similar to those employed by the great Harry Rennie, perhaps the best goalkeeper Scotland ever had. Jimmy has a safe pair of hands. You can volley a ball with as much leg power as is at your command, and Brownlie will catch it as easily as if you were throwing a snowball at him. See Jimmy advance a pace and invite the approaching wing to risk a drive for goal in the hope of finding the net. It is long odds on the guardian of the "virgin bag." I don't think I ever saw him deliberately fist a ball. Doesn't believe in it. Sound judge. It is much too risky, spectacular, no doubt, but certainly risky. Yes, Jimmy will impress you.

Alick McNair of Celtic is the "daddy" of the team, and I fancy the Stenhousemuir man will be the cynosure of all eyes when he trips on to the field. He is possessed of very scanty locks, but he is not an octogenarian by any means. His "bald heid" contains much matter which, is almost as valuable as radium. Judgment is his great asset. He will probably appeal to you as being a little tired, and not over energetic but he has the happy knack of reducing the fastest man to his own speed, not by using his weight, but his "thinking piece." Were Applegarth a footballer, McNair would slow him up to the trot of a cart horse in a gig.

At the moment of writing it was not absolutely certain that Joe Dodds would be able to accompany the team—the likelihood is that he will—but if he does it will be a memorable revival of a famous partnership. As a pair, McNair and Dodds have a wonderful understanding. Dodds goes out "into the country" foraging, McNair drops behind. He is the watch dog, and he is never far away from the "kennel," not infrequently acting as a kind of second goalkeeper. If Joe does not travel however, Davy Taylor of Burnley, whose club has made football history this season, will occupy the left back berth. I don't know if it could still be claimed for him that he is the fastest back playing football, but as a sprinter he does not hop along on one leg, I can assure you, and when he hits a ball it usually travels an inch or two, or thereabouts.

Jimmy Gordon, the right half, Scotland's international captain of last season, created a sensation when he left Rangers and signed for Dunfermline. You have heard of that place before, of course, in a Carnegie connection. There were dollars to be picked up in the late millionaire's birthplace, and as any self-respecting Scotsman would, whose native proclivities were normal, Gordon set about pocketing a few of the "kopecks." All the same, I think Jimmy made a mistake, but that, after all, is his business. Gordon is unquestionably a brilliant half back, but with equal skill he can occupy any position on the field. Even as a goalkeeper he is not a "dud" by any means. Jim is very much is the cinema business in civil life.

Willie Cringan of Celtic is the best club centre half in the Scottish League. He is a strong, forceful player, built on the accepted lines necessary to one occupying the pivotal position, is not unlike Charlie Thompson in his methods and almost as indefatigable as the famous "Fatty" Wedlock of Bristol City, who in his "palmy" days was the concentrated essence of virility. On his left he will have Willie McAndrew, whose true position is centre half, but, och, Willie could not fail to shine anywhere. He had the misfortune to fall into the hands of old friend "Jerry" while he was a lieutenant in the army, and when he was released from captivity he was out of sorts to the extent that he doubted his ability to return to the football field. Third Lanark, however, were soon on his track, and Willie has been on the warpath of troublesome opponents ever since. He is the best looking fellow of the lot, girls!

Scott Duncan, the outside right, has had a queer career. Newcastle United was his first senior club. Jackey Rutherford was then with the "Geordies." He was "first violin" at St. James Park, and Scott Duncan had to play second fiddle. But he got a guaranteed benefit of £500 all the same, and was then transferred to Rangers, to Celtic, and then to Dumbarton. This season he is among the Fifers. His place ought not to be among the "pit"-men, however, but in the "upper circle." If he doesn't know it he ought to.

He will be partnered by Alick Bennet, famous with Celtic, famous with Rangers, and like Johnny Walker, "is still going strong" with Albion Rovers. "Laughing Eyes" I call him. A smile is always on his face, and he is one of the greatest practical jokers one could wish to meet. He's a dandy wee player, and runs McAndrew hard for classic features, but perhaps it were better to leave the ladies of Canada to decide this highly important matter!

Andrew Wilson, who will lead the Scottish attack, is the most talked-of player in the football world. It is a fortunate circumstance that enables him to come across with a representative Scottish eleven, for no team would have been truly representative of Scottish talent without him. He is really Middlesboro's player, but because he won't don a jersey for them, the Boro' bosses won't transfer him to any other league club. Sporty gentleman, aren't they. And you don't jolly well think. Wilson, who was severely maimed in the war appealed to the English League to have his transfer fee fixed, but that august body would take no action. Nice sort of feeling to prevail in the world of sport, isn't it? Wilson, who was the hero of the Scottish international match against Wales, must perforce play for a club which is not associated with the league and so he is hanging around Carnegie town this weather. It may appear an exaggerated statement, but all the dollars in Canada could not buy him—because?—well, he isn't for sale. That's all. Middlesboro have to be bought before Wilson can be sold. They won't let you say that over there, but it is the truth nevertheless.

I am personally looking forward eagerly to the partnership of Jimmy McMenemy and Alan Morton on the left wing. I can safely bespeak for Canadian enthusiasts, a mystifying exhibition of football juggling by these players, which will make the people on this side wonder just how it is done. McMenemy—"Napoleon" as he is popularly known—is the tactician of the team. He doesn't believe in covering much ground himself, but he does have a fondness for making others gallop. He is a veritable master of manoeuvre, and if he does make an opponent look silly occasionally, realize that he cannot help it. It's his way. "Wait and see," as Asquith said very foolishly on one occasion. Wedged between Scotland's finest left and the world's greatest centre forward, McMenemy will have unlimited scope for his wizardry. Any one who cannot play with "Napoleon" should stop it.

I dare venture the opinion that Scottish people at home will not witness a finer exhibition of football by the side to meet England in the great match of the year at Hampden Park, than will be served up by the team chosen to tour Canada and the States. I am looking forward to the feast myself, and I have partaken of many delectable Scottish "dishes" during my association with the game. Talent spotters on this side should get busy early on, and I shall be glad to take a hand in the task. There is plenty of time in which to make a studied choice of the stalwarts playing under the wing of the Dominion Association.

WAR ENDED GERMAN MUSIC WORSHIPPING IN FRANCE

Paris Says It Can Offer as Many Tuneful Sensations As Bayreuth—Wagner Revival Has a Poor Outlook.

PARIS, March 20. — France is able to offer as many musical sensations as Bayreuth and the pre-war worship of German music has been superseded by loyalty to things French from giving the former enthusiastic support to the citadel of Wagnerism when it opens its doors March 6, in the opinion of French commentators.

For instance, Andre Messager, composer of "Veronique," insists that Bayreuth's quality began to depreciate long before the war and that Wagner's creations are now being sung much better at the Paris Opera than elsewhere.

"Besides, if French amateurs risk being seen at Bayreuth, where their welcome is likely to be doubtful, the Germans will not hesitate to register their presence as another victory for their art," said M. Messager. The Countess de Noailles, prominent among French contemporaneous poets and a friend of all the arts, summarizes her views on the matter as follows:

"I have never been to Bayreuth and do not intend going. I can have Wagner here in Paris under the best conditions, and I do not desire more."

Pierne, composer of the "Children's Crusade," does not believe that the French will listen again to music sung in German. He cites recent opposition manifested at a Paris concert to the use of German words by singers. Even one of Schubert's melodies sung in German was not well received.

Risler, a faithful Wagnerian, declares that Bayreuth's prestige has so diminished and the French interpretation of Wagner's music has become so much more effective that he has not the slightest intention of bowing at the German altar, as did most of the French musicians before the war.

PARIS HOPES TO LURE WOMEN TO BULL FIGHT

Believes They'll Turn Out As At Boxing Matches.

Paris, March 20.—The interest shown recently by American women in boxing contests has encouraged the promoters of entertainments at the Pershing stadium to hope that French women will take a similar delight in the bull fighting exhibitions soon to be given in the arena in an effort to make the big stadium pay.

Many believe that if the idea now proposed of not actually killing the bulls is adhered to a large feminine audience is sure to be attracted, while others argue that the women will be the first to demand the unadulterated article, just as is done in Spain and Mexico, or nothing.

In any event, the question will soon be decided, as the promoters are said already to have engaged several of Spain's foremost toreadors for performances which they hope will fill the stadium the American doughboys gave to the French nation.

REVIVE ESPERANTO AS HUMANIZER FOR WORLD COMMERCE

Paris Commerce Chamber Sees More Hope In It Than in League of Nations.

SPREAD IT ABROAD

Director Enthusiastic After Having Mastered Language in Two Weeks.

Paris, March 20.—Hopes of building the nations of the world together in President Wilson's league have been abandoned by the Paris Chamber of Commerce in favor of Esperanto. Henceforth the systematic distortion of ancient and modern roots devised 35 years ago by Dr. Zamenhoff, a Pole, will be taught in all French commercial schools. The Chamber of Commerce has agreed to spread Esperanto propaganda throughout the world to the best of its ability, having decided that this is "the best method for facilitating commercial relations with all peoples and developing international friendship."

So, Mr. American Businessman, if you get a letter from Paris in a few weeks which seems to be a jumble of meaningless prefixes, do not get discouraged. It is Esperanto, and all the nations from Japan to Weehawken can understand it after six simple lessons.

The decision of the Chamber of Commerce was taken only after the most careful consideration. In fact, the commission studied the theoretical as well as the practical value of Esperanto for more than three months before it decided to authorize the employment of scores of Esperanto instructors.

"It is as easy as falling off a log," the commission declares. "There are only sixteen grammar rules, and in order to conjugate all verbs it is only necessary to memorize twelve terminations. Think how long it takes to learn French or English, or even the irregular verbs in those languages. Moreover, the pronunciation is wholly phonetic, the twenty-eight letters in the alphabet conforming almost wholly to our own. This alone is a great boon, for sometimes it is almost impossible for a businessman in Marseilles to understand what Brittany farmers are trying to sell."

But the test which caused the commission to reach its decision was made with four difficult French commercial letters which were translated into Esperanto and handed to trained Esperantists, who retranslated them to the original text without a single change or omission.

"It will not disturb world affairs, but will help to solve all difficulties," says Andre Baudet, director of the Chamber of Commerce, who himself became proficient as an Esperantist with two weeks' practice.

LOUVAIN LIBRARY IS TO SHOW U. S. SKILL

Dr. Butler and Other American Educators Will Be At Stone-Laying in July.

Paris, March 20.—The cornerstone of the Louvain library, destroyed by the Germans and which is being replaced under the direction of Whitney Warren, will be laid early in July, with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, president, according to Warren, who has begun the plans with the help of three assistants, Carroll Greenough, Ronald Pearse and Lessing Williams, well known American architects.

Mr. Warren's assistants have been sent to study the Flemish buildings in the small towns of Belgium in order that the final structure may harmonize with the best Belgian architecture.

Although the original library had 2,000,000 volumes, only 500,000 have been returned, and these have not yet been unpacked, as there is no place to store them. To overcome this difficulty the architects intend to begin immediately to construct the stack room on the American plan, around which the architectural facade and reading rooms can be built. This work will make the edifice not only a tribute to American capability but the equal of any public monument in Europe.

Mr. Warren and his assistants have been guests of the Government at dinners where Cardinal Mercier was present, the latter declaring that he intends to issue an appeal so as to make the July dedication the scene of a great international university festival, to which will be invited representatives from every American university and college that has promised to aid in collecting the $500,000 necessary to complete the structure.

MARK TWAIN'S CABIN IN NEVADA DESERT.

In a lonely gulch in Nevada's desolate desert region stands one of America's most interesting literary relics—the old cabin of the late Samuel Langhorne Clemens, better known as Mark Twain. It is situated in a place called Aurora, which boasts of a population of a score or so, mostly old men. It was here that Mark Twain lived and toiled and starved while he evolved "Roughing It." But for the cheerful spirit of the humorist, who originally helped to put it on the map, its entire population would doubtless long since have wandered away into oblivion.

In his ramblings Twain never passed by a good-looking tin of fruit with a bright label, and in a corner of the cabin, carefully covered, he had a pile of them. At mealtimes, especially if he saw anyone passing, he would nonchalantly toss two or three out of the window. The natural assumption was that he was preparing his regular feast, and while he actually subsisted on sparse crusts the populace envied him his supposedly well-stocked larder. Eventually his ruse was discovered. In those days a square meal was a luxury to Mark Twain, but his pride never deserted him, and none knew when he hungered.

REFUGEES TELL TALE OF HORROR AT KRONSTADT

Revolutionary Forces Were Repeatedly Betrayed by Bolshevik Sympathizers.

STOCKHOLM, March 20.—Details of the fall of Kronstadt before the repeated onslaughts of the Bolshevik army under command of Leon Trotzky, the soviet war minister, have been brought here by refugees.

In the citadel, according to the refugees, some 1,700 men were left endeavoring to fight their way toward the East, and in the other fortresses approximately 1,000 were made prisoner by the Bolsheviki. All officers and leaders among the military forces and civilians were immediately picked out, and on Trotzky's order, given before the final attack, were executed. Their bodies were thrown on the ice of the Gulf of Finland with stones and scrap iron in their pockets so that they will sink when the ice breaks up, probably a fortnight hence. All the other rebel soldiers interned are awaiting the future, which, according to the refugees, most likely will bring more executions. As food is scarce and the victorious soviet army is on half rations the situation of the prisoners is easily understandable, the refugees point out.

Repeatedly Betrayed.

The horrors of the days of storming cannot be described, the refugees say. The insurrectionary forces were repeatedly betrayed by inhabitants sympathizing with the Bolsheviki, and small bodies of the rebels were fired on and mowed down by machine guns in the hands of the local communists. The garrison was strong enough to rush these forces of communists and simultaneously repulse attacks from the outside. Everyone, old or young, man or woman, with or without weapons, who got in the way of, or was hunted up by the Bolsheviki, was killed immediately, the refugees assert, no pardon being asked and none being given.

The town of Kronstadt suffered severely. At the beginning of the retreat by the insurrectionists big fires were burning in five places, but by Friday night no smoke or flame could be seen.

Crept for Miles.

The stream of refugees from Kronstadt has ceased, according to dispatches received from Terioki, on the Finnish frontier, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Only a few men arrived this morning, after an adventurous night, clad in white and with badly wounded hands, sustained in creeping for miles along the ice in order to escape detection by the many Bolshevik patrols. The Bolsheviki, the refugees say, have established a circular chain of sentries and patrols around Kronstadt, through which it is impossible to break.

Finland will have great difficulty in feeding the hungry refugees, as normally she must import more than two-thirds of the grain and flour consumed. With exchange rates unfavorable, keeping some 15,000 destitute refugees indefinitely will be a heavy burden. The Finnish press, in opposing care of the refugees by the Government, urges that it is an international affair, and that the League of Nations or some of the great powers should intervene.

THRILL TAKING PHOTOS OF DEAD

Foreigners Often Demand Photographer 'Shoot' Corpse Standing Upright.

Hamilton, March 20.—Of all businesses, that of a photographer might be imagined as the least likely to afford thrills. What could be less thrilling than aiming a camera at a victim, ordering him to assume a ghastly smile, and petrifying it on a glass plate? So the average person imagines; but some unusual feats are accomplished by some photographers, and very peculiar objects photographed.

One photographer drives a brisk trade at funerals. Rarely does a native of Poland, Russia or Serbia play the star role at a funeral without being photographed. Although with Canadians photographing the dead is mainly limited to those from foreign lands.

"Shooting" the Dead.

The procedure is most informal. The protographer appears generally at the church with his trusty camera and cleared for action. The coffin is placed on end against the wall, the lid opened, and the body of the dead person revealed standing upright, apparently. About this gruesome centrepiece the sorrowing relatives gather in several rows and are duly photographed.

On one occasion a commotion was caused by the deceased sliding out of his coffin when the picture was about to be taken. On another occasion the photographer's nerve was tested when the relatives demanded that the eyes of the corpse be opened to make the picture look more natural. The hardy cameraman complied, and the resulting picture was strange and horrible.

Sometimes the relatives would have the casket brought out of the church, lifted on end, and the lamented photographed in the open street.

Pictures Sent Overseas.

One reason for the strange custom is said to be that the pictures are sent to relatives of the dead person in the old land—Russia, Poland, etc.—the idea being to prove beyond doubt, that the person in question is dead or pretended to be, when the picture was taken.

What appeared to be a miracle was performed by a photographer for an appreciative foreigner who had the misfortune to lose one eye. The gentleman applied to have the picture taken to send away and wanted to look as nice as possible.

By enlarging the picture and drawing in an extra eye, the wily photographer was able to produce a photograph with two perfectly good eyes. When the foreigner called for the picture he chortled with joy.

REVISING CURRICULUM.

TORONTO, March 19.—If the interim report of the Ontario provincial committee on high school education issued by Dr. F. W. Merchant is adopted only a few subjects will be obligatory, chiefly in the lower schools. The optional subjects admit of variations according to local needs.

FARMER IS FOUND DEAD.

OWEN SOUND, March 20. — Robert Cherry, a farmer of Keppel, Ont., who had been missing from his home since last Wednesday, was found dead today. His body was lying, face downward, in a pool of water in a marshy tract of land at the rear of his farm. He was 54 years of age. It is thought he succumbed to heart disease.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR EGGS LOWER

Hen Fruit Sells at 33 to 34 Cents Per Dozen—35 to 40 Cents Retail.

The high cost of living was given another blow on Saturday, when the wholesale price of eggs dropped to 33c and 34c per dozen. The present wholesale quotations are the lowest that have been reached at the local market since pre-war days. A general decline in prices started through Ontario one week ago today, and every day since quotations have been lowered one cent per dozen. There was an exceptionally good demand on Saturday. It was intimated that there would be lower prices at the end of the week.

Oats were the chief offering Monday. All loads sold at $1.50 per hundredweight. The demand was not as good as it was on the opening day last week. The price per bushel was 51c.

Clover hay was slightly firmer when the demand became active and the supplies were small. Timothy remains firm at $23 and $25 per ton. The clover quotations were $21 and $24 per ton.

It is expected that buying of live hogs for the shipment to Toronto on Wednesday will be brisk.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, March 21.—Wheat opened ⅛c to 1½c up at $1 75½@1 76½; July 1⅛c up at $1 64½.

May oats opened ⅛c higher at 47¼c; July ⅛c higher at 48⅝c.

Corn—May, 67¼c; July, 70¼c.

Oats—May, 41½c; July, 43¼c.

Chicago, March 21.—Buying on the part of houses with seaboard connections gave a decided upward swing to the wheat market today. Indications pointed to considerable export business, and country offerings were light. Besides, gossip concerning a new emergency tariff bill counted somewhat in favor of the bulls. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1c up, were followed by sharp gains all around.

Corn rose with wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅝c to ¾c higher, the market scored a moderate general advance.

Damage resulting from the elevator explosion here had a bullish effect on the oats market, which started ⅛c to ½c higher, and then hardened still more.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, March 21—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—On 'change today trading began with a resumption of the recent uncertain movement. Mexican Petroleum was the most conspicuous feature, falling 1 to 2 points in the first few transactions on selling attributed to latest industrial advices from across the Rio Grande. Atlantic-Gulf opened with a fractional gain, but immediately reacted 1¼ points, and rails were disposed to ease. Firmness was shown by General Asphalt, American Tobacco, Crucible Steel, American Linseed, Pierce-Arrow and International Paper.

PICTURE AND TALK REEL OFF AT ONCE BY RANKINE'S PLAN

Movie Invention by Originator of Telephoning Fluctuating Beams of Light.

REVOLUTION PROMISED

Actor Without Good Speaking Voice Will Have to Quit Film Business, Is Contention.

London, March 20. — New talking "movies" have been invented, according to Dr. A. O. Rankine of the University College of London, who is celebrated as the scientist who perfected the method of telephoning by fluctuating beams of light through solenium cells, a system which was used in the naval service during war time. His talking film is a combination of his light telephone and the ordinary method of projecting motion pictures.

An actual reproduction of spoken words has been made by Dr. Rankine on a film by the use of a solenium cell camera. This film can be run through an ordinary "movie" projector, the beam of which is trained on Dr. Rankine's light telephone and the spoken words are then repeated simultaneously with the action on the screen, through a telephone trumpet, the sound being sufficient to fill a large hall. Experts believe that when the discovery is developed it may be possible to film pictures and the speeches of the actors at the same time, with the result that there will be real talking films.

Motion picture people, probably jealous of their art, say the chief objection to the general use of such an apparatus is that in speaking, except for casual words, it is not permissible in good acting before a camera for an actor to open his mouth, as it photographs black, while facial distortion caused by talking would spoil a carefully-acted film.

Dr. Rankine asserts he has perfected something on which the world's greatest scientists have been working for a long time and he predicts a new era of motion picture film business soon. He says an actor without a good speaking voice will not be able to make good in films any more than he would be able to do on the stage. His success in his war work commands great respect for his new invention among experts who have studied.

MAY TAKE 20 YEARS TO REPAIR ST. PAUL'S

Stone Pillars Cracking Under Weight of Great Dome of London Cathedral.

LONDON, March 20.—The work of repairing and strengthening the eight pillars which support the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral may take another 20 years. Canon Alexander, the treasurer of the cathedral, stated that the original estimate of $350,000 for the completion of the work would have to be supplemented by at least $500,000, owing to the increased cost of labor and materials.

"The repairs were started just before the war," he said, "and so far we have been able only to tackle the two pillars of the south transept. In fact, one of these is not quite finished. The proceeding is of necessity a slow one, as the greatest care has to be taken in removing and replacing stone, for fear the pillars should collapse.

"The trouble is that the dome is too heavy for the pillars which support it. Sir Christopher Wren originally intended to build a taller dome, but he was so worried by members of the committee which had the matter of the rebuilding of the cathedral that he had to alter his plans. The result is that the eight pillars (two in each of the north, south, east and west transepts) were cracking beneath the dome's weight.

"We have used three thousand tons of stone to reinforce one pillar, and the other is in such a bad state as to need the support of steel girders while the work is being finished. At the present rate of procedure the work will take at least another 20 years to accomplish."

An example of how the cathedral is known and loved among the people of Great Britain is illustrated by Canon Alexander's story of a little girl in South Wales, whose last request when dying was that a dollar should be sent to the cathedral preservation fund.

BEWARE PERSONS WHO LAUGH HYSTERICALLY

You Might Get Sleeping Sickness, Paris Warns.

PARIS, March 20.—If your neighbor suddenly begins to laugh hysterically, get at a safe distance from him. That is the advice of Professors Netter and Sicard addressing the Paris Medical Society. After studying scores of cases of sleeping sickness they have discovered that the lethargy is followed by uncontrollable spells of laughter this suggesting that the bacilli are still active.

Some cases of this illness have been succeeded by fits of sobbing, hiccoughs and sighs, but the most typical symptom of the last stages of the malady is incessant hilarity.

"Inasmuch as the malady is contagious, it certainly is safer not to approach anyone who is laughing too heartily," the savants say. Special preparations, highly mentholized, are being sold in some Paris drug stores wherewith gauze is intended to be saturated and strapped over the nose and mouth during the night as the most reliable method of warding off the sleep germ.

SEA SHELLS USED AS MONEY BY INDIANS

"Butter tasters" is the name children give to the violet-tinted, worn fragments of clam shells that are to be found on most beaches. These "butter tasters" were an important medium of exchange among the Indian tribes living along the shore in their trading with other natives farther inland.

It can readily be understood that Indians sufficiently adept in the art of chipping arrow heads and other implements of hard flint could easily manufacture "money" out of the more attractive pieces of these water-worn shells; and this they did, giving to this medium of exchange the name luckahauk, somewhat after the style of wampum.

It may be surprising to many, especially to craft workers, to know what really beautiful "stones" these same so-called luckahauks will produce when cut and polished into symmetrical form from pieces of sufficient thickness, and showing the rich and beautiful violet colorings that many of them possess.

Such as are found on the beach are necessarily dull, with no polish, due, of course, to the wear of the sea and sand, but by proper treatment on the laps are brought to a very high polish, and look very rich indeed, being entirely unlike any other "gem."

Having considerable hardness, they will wear almost indefinitely when once polished. The colors blend beautifully with silver, either in bright, or antique finish, while their beauty is heightened by treatment or embellishment with small baroque or seed pearls, small amethysts or other harmonizing stones.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

CHEMICAL PRODUCTS, LIMITED.
This company manufactures sulphuric acid, acid phosphate (chemical fertilizer), sodium nitrate, refined, and Aspirin from the raw materials located near its plant at Trenton, Ontario. Most of these products have been heretofore imported into Canada. The demand for these products is greater than this company supply for a great many years. They are manufacturing now and the estimated net returns for this year is about three times the amount of the dividends required for preferrd stock. That is why the common stock will have a substantial rise in market price when listed. Our advice is to make immediate application for this stock.

AMERICAN ARTISTS' WORKS ON VIEW IN LONDON GALLERY

More Than 150 Paintings Shown by Mrs. H. P. Whitney and Francis Howard.

LONDON, March 20.—Today London had a private view of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's and Francis Howard's venture for the exhibiion in England of contemporary American art. The Grafton Galleries in Bond street showed to a fair cross section of London intelligentsia and society a fair cross section of American art. Some items met with unstinted praise from the critics, such as Robert Chandler's brilliantly intricate deep sea screen design and George Bellows' grisly rendition of Edith Cavell leaving her cell for execution, but on the whole the critics said American art though showing greater life and initiative than that of their British brethren, seemed to suffer even greater handicaps in the matter of unsound technique.

Among the sound landscapes and portrait studies appeared several lacking either inspiration or skill, while other sketches on the famous walls displayed the same unfaeile mediocrity about which British critics have complained in most of the important exhibitions here.

The works for exhibition, numbering more than 150, arrived in the middle of the week, and were rushed in motor trucks to London, the hanging having barely been completed before the press view yesterday, and the catalogue was still wet from the printer when the show opened today. Society, nevertheless, was well represented and was kindly in its comment.

Among the exhibitors are William J. Glackens, Childe Hassam, John Sloan, George Bellows, Thomas E. Akins, E. Lawson, Gifford Beal, Guy Pene Dubois, Rockwell Kent, Robert Chandler, Allen Tucker, Arthur B. Davies, Max Kuehne, Samuel Halpert, E. W. Redfield, Robert Henri, George Luks, Randal Davey, Kenneth Frazier, John H. Twachtman, Eugene F. Spicher, Maurice Stern, William Rush, Paul Burlin, J. Alden Weir, Theodore Robinson, Abbott, S. Thayer, Howard Gardner Cushing, Alfred Collins and Paul Dougherty.

The exhibition is under the patronage of Princess Hatzfeldt, Countess Curzon, Countess Beatty, Countess of Donoughmore, Countess of Essex, Countess Howe, Countess of Sandwich, Countess of Stafford, Countess of Suffolk, Viscountess Astor, Viscountess Harcourt, Lady Barrymore, Lady Bingham, Lady Calthorpe, Lady Channing, Lady Cheylesmore, Lady Decies, Lady Ellenborough, Lady Huntingfield, Lady Newborough, Lady Ribblesdale, Lady Wavertree, Lady Herbert, Lady Lowther, Lady Malcolm, Lady Ross, Lady Cunard, Lady Hawkins, Lady Lister Kaye, Lady Randolph Churchill, Lady Leslie, Lady Lavery, Lady Paget, Lady Forbes Robertson, Mrs. Cecil Bearing and Mmes. Coventry, Mary Anderson Navarro, Burton, Carnegie, Spencer-Clay, Brinsley-Fitzgerald, Francis Howard and T. P. O'Connor, most of whom were present at the private view.

LOSES RIGHT ARM.

WOODSTOCK, March 19.—Frederick Smith, a farmer residing on the 14th line in East Zorra, met with an accident this afternoon which resulted in the loss of his right arm. He was using a cutting-box, when his arms was drawn into the knives, severing it about the wrist. The doctors found that the arm above was so badly mangled that a second amputation was made above the elbow.

FARMER CRUSHED TO DEATH WHEN BARN IS BLOWN OVER IN STORM

Hugh McArthur of Glammis Is Victim of Tornado.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kincardine, March 19.—Hugh J. McArthur, a farmer residing near Glammis, was instantly killed this afternoon during a tornado, when the barn of John Bowie, in which he had taken refuge, was demolished. A neighbor, George Parrish, who was with him, was terribly injured and is in the local hospital in a critical condition.

The storm came up shortly after noon, and reports that are coming in indicate that the loss may reach $100,000. All over the district barns have been blown down or unroofed and buildings wrecked. The big barn of W. Coles, a mile and a quarter south of Underwood, is a complete wreck.

Badly Damaged.

Part of the roof and two bents of the fine barn of Andrew McKeever on the sixth concession of Kincardine were demolished. A barn on the farm of Allan Murray, also of the sixth concession, was blown down.

The barn of Thomas Scott, B line, Kincardine Township, was unroofed, and also that of John Drummond, a mile and a quarter north of Tiverton.

The storm was accompanied by heavy hail, and at times the wind blew from 50 to 60 miles an hour. Trees were uprooted all over the country, and general reports show that the loss will be heavy.

LOSS WILL BE $100,000.

TORONTO, March 20.—Tornadoes, heavy sleet and hailstorms, and very heavy rains visited several sections of Ontario on Saturday afternoon and caused a great deal of damage.

Probably Port Hope suffered most in a material sense from Saturday's rainstorm, as the estimated loss there is over $100,000, and the Midland Railway was damaged so badly that the service may be tied up several days.

There were two wash-outs on the Midland Railway at Mount Albert.

At Capreol a cloudburst caused a good deal of damage, and the Grand Trunk Railway track was undermined at one place.

A terrific hailstorm struck the village of Stouffville and smashed almost 1,000 panes of glass.

BAD AT PORT HOPE.

PORT HOPE, March 20.—This town suffered severely on Saturday from floods as a result of an exceptionally heavy rain, and the total loss is estimated at $100,000. The Canaraska River, which ordinarily is a modest stream, became a raging torrent and rushed through the business section of Port Hope and the northern part of the town, causing considerable damage. Several business places on the main street were flooded to a depth of five or six feet.

The two sections of the Midland Railway here were undermined, and some rails slid into the river. The railway is in such a bad condition that traffic on it may be tied up several days.

Factory Flooded.

Among the business places flooded was the Nicholson File Factory, where six feet of water caused damage to stock and machinery. The rush of water through the Cosmos Chemical Company's factory carried about 20 barrels of oil down the river, besides causing loss in other ways. One hundred logs belonging to the Port Hope Veneer Factory were carried away by the swirl of water. A portion of Spiers & Tye's sawmill was wrecked. The Port Hope Felt Factory was badly damaged, and the flume at the lass factory was carried away.

All the streets adjacent to the river were undermined, and cement walks and crossings were broken up by the flood.

TWO COLOR RAINCOATS EDICT FROM LONDON

Pajama Coat Without Collar Also Decreed by Fashion.

(London, March 20.—A marked drop in some cases amounting to 50 per cent, in the cost of men's clothing is indicated at the second annual exhibition by clothing outfitters and the woolen trade. Among the interesting features is what is obviously a determination of the manufacturers to break away from sombre coloring in raincoats and two-color waterproofs will soon be worn here. the collar and cuffs being of a color different from that of the coat itself.

The death knell of the shirt with silk front is sounded in the exhibition. Such shirts always have caused considerable trouble to laundries because of the amount of washing necessary, for the non-silk portion of them destroyed the silk.

Men's outfitters find a large demand for silk pyjamas, the price of them having dropped 50 per cent recently. A pyjama coat without a collar is the latest thing.

PRY OFF LIQUOR LID, IS PLEA IN COMMONS

166 Members Demand That Prime Minister Abolish War Time Control Board.

LONDON, March 20.—Protests against the liquor control board have cropped up again in the House of Commons. A requisition signed by 166 members of all parties was handed to the prime minister asking for a date to discuss this resolution: "In the opinion of the House the continued existence of the wartime control board is contrary to the undertaking given by the Government at the institution of the board and is considered by the people to be a breach of faith and as being a fruitful cause of unrest. The board should be dissolved forthwith, the regulations annulled and the services of the staff dispensed with, that these transactions finally can be completed by Whitsuntide."

In the estimates for the year the control board is down for £72,540, and the question undoubtedly is causing considerable ill feeling. At the close of the last session the Government promised to submit a new bill, but intimated that the condition would not be drastically changed. Premier Lloyd George explaining that there is no inclination to forget the lessons learned by the war.

The law has many restrictions which the brewers call absurd. It is impossible to buy a bottle of beer from 2 o'clock Friday until noon Monday and it is also impossible to buy liquor and take it away except in quart bottles.

At the same time, despite the protests there is a decided sentiment in the House of Commons to keep the restrictions, especially regarding the closing hours, of all "pubs," limiting the time they can be open. After international affairs and the problems of Ireland have been talked out this is liable to become one of the most important issues before Parliament.

JOHN DOUGHTY TO BE TRIED TUESDAY

TORONTO, March 20.—John Doughty, for many years secretary to Ambrose J. Small, theatre-owner of this city, who has been missing since December 2, 1919, will be placed on trial at the county criminal court here on Tuesday.

ENGLAND YIELDING SERVICES IN AIR TO FRENCH AND DUTCH

Handley Page Company Follows Airco in Suspending Trips to France.

DUE TO RIVAL SUBSIDIES

France Aids Private Companies and Holland Firm to Start Amsterdam Line.

LONDON, March 20. — England has dropped out of the air as far as commercial flying is concerned and definitely has relinquished her claims to leadership in aviation. The clouds causing the limitation of this activity, as predicted in dispatches to the New York Herald several weeks ago, have been gathering for a long time owing to the necessity of high prices due largely, the companies say, because the government neglected to take action to safeguard legitimate business flying.

Business flying collapsed sharply this week when the Handley Page Company, the largest company in operation, suspended its service between Paris and London, shelved its ambitions to connect up the larger cities of Western Europe and is now wondering how it can dispose of its spacious flying fields. It is the last of the famous British companies to come down after setting such a promising precedent immediately after the armistice.

The Airco, the first company temporarily to run a London to Paris line, was forced to quit three months ago, explaining that its war machines could not compete with the larger passenger carriers and that it could not afford to buy new ones because it was not getting any encouragement from the government.

British Service Ended.

England now has no plans commuting to the continent, and the discouragement has caused an apathy even worse than that in America after the armistice. While the English ships have been riding the bumpy air since last fall they really have been forced down by French competition. The French Government has substantially subsidized its struggling companies, which has enabled the French companies to cut the London-Paris price in two. It is now possible to commute by air as cheaply as by water, and even cheaper, figuring the meal on the boat and customs tips. As soon as the Handley Page Company heard this announcement from Paris it ordered the doors of its hangars closed.

Hitherto the price has been ten guineas. Now the French charge 300 francs, or between five and six guineas, owing to the rate of exchange.

Here is the extent of the aid the French are getting from their government: Each company received by way of subsidy 8 francs for each kilometer flown by a plane provided by a single engine, and 12 francs if flown by twin engine machines. In addition the government guarantees 50 per cent of the money required for aircraft construction. Each company in order to come under this subsidy advantage, must have a minimum of fourteen twin engine planes and twenty-eight single engine planes. The French government also is doing everything possible to insure an adequate supply of pilots. Men who have served in the French air service are invited to use the government aerodromes, and machines and petrol is placed at their disposal for practice flights. The life of one who is training to become a pilot is insured by the government for 50,000 francs for each flight, which compares favorably with America's soldier insurance in wartime. Also the government indemnifies the owners against damage to their machines.

French Get Results.

In all the sum of 33,000,000 francs has been devoted to this work and the French are getting results from this money. By way of comparison England is spending £1,000,000 on aviation of which £940,000 goes to meteorological research and administrative charges. The remainder is governed by what the aeroplane companies assert to be quite impracticable terms, being allotted on a percentage of the gross receipts for passengers and freight. In addition to the other aids the French are conducting a publicity campaign to popularize flying, while everything here tends to discourage it.

Belgium is doing even more than either country to popularize flying. The fare from here to Brussels now is 175 francs, from Brussels to Paris 150 francs. This makes the air rate to Brussels from here cheaper than the trip by boat and in addition the air route has many other advantages, chief of which, of course, is the saving of time. The Belgians are trying to build up their air service and to extend it both east and west, and they have succeeded to such an extent that England can't compete.

Handley Page himself says that the outlook for British commercial aviation is distinctly bad and that before long there will be practically none. It is known, however, that the air ministry is alarmed and is carefully considering the position that has developed out of the French challenge, and hopes still are entertained that there will be an announcement soon from the government that help will be given civil companies to aid them in meeting the highly subsidized foreigners.

Dutch Replace English.

"When the British people see the Fokker flying across England regularly from London to Liverpool en route to Amsterdam, they will perhaps wake up," says Mr. Holt-Thomas, one of the leading authorities on aviation in England. "Such an invasion is now inevitable. A big service is being started by the Dutch from Amsterdam to London this summer, and they will have a station at Liverpool or Southampton in order to accommodate passengers on American liners."

The service between London and Copenhagen which it was proposed to open in the spring has now been abandoned. The inability of the British to operate will also prevent the reopening of the Copenhagen-Berlin service because the Allies prohibit Germans from taking part in foreign air traffic, and it is impossible to maintain the connection solely with Dutch machines.

SAYS TRADE PACT WILL HELP BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(Canadian Press.)—"The trade agreement recently signed between Great Britain and Soviet Russia is to all intents and purposes a recognition by the British Government of the Russian Soviet Government," said Senator Borah, one of the peace treaty irreconcilables, yesterday. He said the United States should follow the example of Great Britain and without delay resume trade relations with Russia, as he regarded the action of Great Britain as of vast benefit to the people of that country.

STRATHROY C. I. FIVE IN TRAINING FOR TOURNEY

STRATHROY, March 20. — The Strathroy Collegiate Institute Basketball team are busy these days training for the basketball tournament to be held in London on March 31 and April 1. The locals have not lost a game in the last two seasons, and it is expected they will have a pretty fair chance to land one of the trophies. A large number of supporters will accompany the boys to London.

FELL IN THE RIVER.

SARNIA, March 20.—D. Waters, Sen., had a narrow escape from drowning in Sarnia Bay last night, according to reports made to the police. About 8 o'clock a phone call was received from Brown's ice-house that a man was drowning. P. C. Walter Leigh investigated and found that Waters had accidentally fallen in. Had he not been discovered immediately he might have drowned. He was taken to his home in a taxi and a physician summoned. No serious results are anticipated.

IMMIGRATION IS ONLY SOLUTION FOR DEFICITS

President of C. P. R. Urges Importance of Restrictive Policy.

MUST BAR UNDESIRABLES

Canada No Place For Foreigners Not Willing To Assimilate.

MONTREAL, March 20. — E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, interviewed by the Canadian Press on the subject of the deficit of $659,593,441 on the last year's running of the Canadian Government-owned railroad systems, said that without immigration the prospects of the Canadian national lines were, in his opinion, hopeless, and any legislation which would stem the tide of desirable immigration must inevitably pile up further deficits.

It was, he said, an aggressive immigration propaganda that built the Canadian Pacific railroad, and he claimed that Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, struck the right note when he declared before the Canadian Club in Montreal recently that a wise and vigorous policy of immigration would help solve the problem.

Mr. Beatty added: "I quite agree with those who object to immigration of city-bred continentals of poor physique and doubtful health who would at once drift into slums, or of large communities of foreign-born who frankly declare that they do not intend to assimilate with English-speaking Canadians. But the gates of Canada should be opened once more not only to the British, French and American immigrant but also to the Scandinavian and the more desirable type of continental."

Mr. Beatty pleaded also the cause of the skilled mechanic in addition to that of farm hands and domestics on the ground that Canadian industry would be handicapped in its progress without them. He concluded:

"Policies which are perfectly appropriate in the case of the United States would not necessarily be applicable to this country. By all means let us exclude the undesirable immigrant, but admit those who in time will contribute to this country's commercial prosperity and economic strength."

WELLINGTON U. F. O. DOING BIG BUSINESS

GUELPH, March 19.—The annual meeting of the general organization of the U. F. O. for South Wellington this afternoon was largely attended. Reports for the year were presented and were of a very satisfactory character. Wm. Cowan, shipper of the organization, in his report stated that the total shipments during the year were $161,178, as compared with $241,000 for the year previous. This was due to the decrease in the prices of live stock during the year. Included in this total were 2,780 hogs valued at $39,235, and 596 cattle valued at $61,942. There were 50 carloads shipped in all. Samuel McKee, of the U. F. O. live stock shipping department at Toronto, delivered a lengthy address on co-operative shipping, which was greatly appreciated by all the members.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Hopenadel, Puslinch; vice-president, Guy Thurtill, Guelph Township; secretary-treasurer, T. J. Mahon, Puslinch, shipper, Wm. Cowan, Guelph.

VETERANS CLAIM PATRONAGE SHOWN IN APPOINTMENT

Strong Letter of Protest Sent To South Perth Conservative Member.

ST. MARYS, March 19.—At the regular meeting of the local branch of the G. W. V. A. outspoken criticism was made of the recent appointment of chief census taker for the riding, and the following letter was ordered sent to the Conservative member, Dr. Steele:

"Dr. M. Steele, M. P., Ottawa, Ont.:

"Dear Sir,—At the regular meeting of our branch a resolution was passed without a dissenting voice protesting against the appointment of chief census enumerator being given to a man who was not a returned soldier. We refer to the appointment made for South Perth. The members of the G. W. V. A. feel that there are a great many returned soldiers in the riding who are qualified in every way to perform this work, and according to the promises of the Government, made many times, they would have the first choice when such an appointment was in the gift of the Government.

"The members of this branch resent the fact that they were not consulted, and the inference is the appointment was purely political patronage, something we have been told was abolished by the Government.

"We have been instructed by our members to send this letter to you.

"Yours very truly,

"F. G. SANDERSON, President.

"F. E. MUTTON, Secretary."

The branch also indorsed the work of the provincial command of the G. W. V. A. in its endeavor to secure increased legislation, whereby the mothers' allowance act, now operative in Ontario, would include a wife with only one child. At present the act does not include such cases.

Donations amounting to $450 were received and gratefully acknowledged, $300 from the town council, $50 from the Community Patriotic Club, $50 from the McConnell Club, and $50 from the Daughters of the Empire. With a membership campaign now in full swing the branch finds the club rooms too cramped, and therefore will move to larger quarters very shortly.

STRATFORD LAD IS MENINGITIS VICTIM

STRATFORD, March 20.—Spinal meningitis proved fatal today to Joseph Reginald Spence, aged 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Soence. The lad had been ill for about two weeks, but recently his condition showed improvement, and his death was unexpected. He was born in Woodstock, coming to Stratford with his parents two years ago. His parents, two brothers and one sister survive.

Would Be Agreeable.

"If this is shown to be the better system, personally I am quite agreeable to undertake the duties," commented Police Magistrate J. A. Makins, on the recommendation of the public service commission that police magistrates instead of doctors be coroners in charge of inquests proper, the doctor being associate coroner and conducting the preliminary investigations.

Convention Opens Today.

The annual convention of the City Sunday School Association will be held in St. Andrew's Church on Monday, when six experts in religious work will be present.

Today the visitors occupied various city pulpits.

YOUTHS ARE HELD ON THEFT CHARGE

STRATHROY, March 20.—Chief of Police Wilson apprehended William Benjamin and Albert Ashton of Toronto last night and charged them with breaking into and stealing from Cuddy's hardware and Keyser's poolroom last Wednesday night. Benjamin used to live here at one time and landed back here with Ashton last Tuesday, after spending a term at Burwash, and took up their abode in an empty house near the Middlesex factory. The chief visited this place and found some evidence of the loot. He came across the pair last night in a Chinese cafe and locked them up. He found the watches and safety razors and some jackknives which were stolen from Cuddy's, and cigarettes, which were stolen from Keyser's. The youths, who are about 20 years of age, will appear before R. M. Trueman, police magistrate, tomorrow.

GUELPH BATTERIES MARCH TO CHURCH

GUELPH, March 20.—The first military church parade held in Guelph since the war took place this morning when the members of the 16th and 29th Batteries and the 1st Wellington Rifles attended divine service at St. George's Church. A sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by Rev. G. F. Scovil. A large crowd of citizens turned out to see the units march from the armories to the church, headed by the 1st Wellington Rifles' Band. The parade was in charge of Major George Drew, officer commanding the 16th Battery, while Major D. Crowe, M. C., and Major J. B. Doughty headed their respective units.

Sinn Fein Leaders Stop Emigration

DUBLIN, March 20.—A resumption of emigration to the United States has become evident, and Sinn Fein leaders are taking steps to prevent it. An emigration agent in Listowel, County Kerry, has been threatened with death if he books any males between the ages of 16 and 45 for passage to the United States.

Used His Old Red Sock to Stop Train Near Bad Washout

TORONTO, March 20.—An incident of the storm was a serious washout on the Grand Trunk Railway track north of the village of Holland Landing. Sam Lowe, a well-known character of Holland Landing, discovered that the track was submerged and a part of it washed away. This was a few minutes before the train from North Bay was due to arrive.

Realizing the necessity of stopping the train with its load of passengers before the washout was reached, and acting on the impulse of the very short time in which he had at his disposal, Lowe immediately pulled off his boots and socks. He happened to be wearing red socks at the time, and these he used as a flag. He succeeded in bringing the train to a standstill in time to save a catastrophe. The passengers took up a subscription and handed Mr. Lowe $28 as a token of appreciation.

UNDERTAKER DIES OF BLOOD POISONING

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., March 20.—J. Curtiss Grobb, undertaker, died last night of blood poisoning, contracted two weeks earlier while laying out the remains of Bandmaster Frank Weis, who had died from the same cause. Mr. Grobb was 72 years old, and is survived by a grown-up family.

His assistant was working with rubber gloves, but not satisfied with the speed being made, Mr. Grobb took part in the work barehanded, and one of his hands, on which the skin had been punctured by a splinter, became infected.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

LACHUTE, Que., March 19. — Ann Wilson appeared before Magistrate Calder in the police court today to answer a charge of causing the death of her husband, Edward Fletcher, by shooting. Only two witnesses were heard, C. A. Richards and Dr. Drew. Counsel for the defence agreed to a commitment and voluntary statement was proceeded with. In an ante-mortem statement Fletcher stated he had attacked his wife.

SAYS WAGE-CUT WOULD NOT BE FAIR TO MEN

Vice-President Murdock Says Railway Employees Will Not Submit.

TORONTO, March 20.—James Murdock, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, a former member of the Canadian Board of Commerce, in an interview here, said the railwaymen of this country would not submit to have the burden of the Canadian National Railways' "deficit of almost $70,000,000 saddled on them." Mr. Murdock declared: "If Hon. Dr. Reid or Hon. Frank Carvell or Mr. D'Arcy Scott are figuring on this as a solution of the problem, they are making the mistake of their lives."

Mr. Murdock asserted that $5.12 was not too much pay for a railway brakeman for an eight-hour day for a run of 100 miles, and that $6.48 a day was not too much for a switchman for eight hours' work in the yards, and that the United States Railway Wage Board three weeks ago had referred to these wages as reasonable and fair.

"The cost of the necessaries of life has not dropped so you can notice it since then," Mr. Murdock added. He said that D'Arcy Scott might be right in his theory that if wages were reduced freight rates might also be lowered, "but who will say that such a proposal is fair to the men?"

"I have not met one railwayman who will admit that he should cut down his wages," Mr. Murdock said.

LIBERALS MAY ATTACK RANEY ON AMENDMENT

Fireworks Promised in Legislature During the Coming Week.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 20.—The major portion of the time of the Ontario Legislature this week will probably be devoted to the consideration of new legislation. Scores of bills amending the statutes of the province are in various stages of consideration, some in committee, and some awaiting second reading, and the Government's hopes is that the week-end will show real progress to have been made in this direction.

Promises Fireworks.

As far as proves practicable that will be the House program for the week—a program of advancement of legislation pending. The half-dozen or more adjourned debates will remain on the shelves during afternoon sessions at any rate.

Most contentious among the legislative items which the House will likely consider during the week is Attorney-General Raney's bill to amend the public inquiries act. Its purpose is to override the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company's injunction halting the timber probe. H. H. Dewart, Liberal leader, has characterized it "a bill to place the attorney-general above the law."

May Discuss O. T. A.

There is just a possibility that the Government's amendments to the Ontario temperance act will be brought down in the House toward the week-end. With that legislation is linked up the issue of appeals under the O. T. A., the subject of one of the Legislature's numerous adjourned debates.

Another big item of discussion yet pending which has been generally overlooked is that of the Backus deal. Premier Drury, in defending the transaction, promised that opportunity would be given before the end of the session for full discussion.

SICKENING CALOMEL NOT FAVORED; MORE AGREEABLE MEDICINE DESCRIBED

Calomel and Blue Pills are not used as they once were. When the head aches, when the stomach is upset, when the liver is not working right, don't resort to harsh calomel, use a pleasant, agreeable remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Being largely vegetable in their composition, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are extremely mild, yet they surely flush out all impurities and wastes. No remedy is so well adapted for general family use. For constipation and bowel trouble, Dr. Hamilton's Pills can't be improved upon. Good for the young, the old, the sick, the well ones. The benefits of Dr. Hamilton's Pills are manifold. Needed and useful in every home; 25c at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Montreal.

MILK PRODUCERS ARE OPPOSED TO DAIRY ACT

Vigorous Protests Are Made At Meeting in North Oxford.

INGERSOLL, March 20.—Discussion of the dairy standards act was an outstanding feature at the annual meeting of the patrons of Connolly's cheese factory, North Oxford. Vigorous opposition to the act was registered. Following considerable discussion of the act now before the Ontario Legislature, a vote was taken, only one milk producer supporting it. Those who discussed the matter were very emphatic. One opinion discussed was that if the Ontario Government has the money with which to pay men to go around checking up the cheesemakers that they could use the money to better advantage by having these men cut the weeds on the public highways, where they would be real checkers of the spread of noxious weeds in the province.

GREEKS ARE BEING CALLED TO COLORS

Greater Protection Will Be Afforded Residents of Asia Minor.

ATHENS, March 20.—A royal decree was issued today calling three classes, those of 1913, 1914 and 1915, to the colors. King Constantine, in a message to the people, explained that the measure was adopted to insure greater protection to the Greeks in Asia Minor, pacification of the near east, and to assist the Allies to secure execution of the terms of the peace treaty with Turkey.

Ruberoid Shingles Are Coated On Both Sides

Ruberoid Strip Shingles are the only shingles made in Canada that carry a back coating—a feature which greatly increases their protective qualities and lengthens their life.

This coating prevents damage from sweating, it serves as a binder between two rows of shingles, it adds weight and strength to the shingles thus rendering them more resistant to the ravages of high winds.

Ruberoid Strip Shingles carry a weather surface of evenly crushed slate immovably embedded in the top coating. This slate comes in a pleasing red or attractive green. It is safe to say that no roof can be more attractive than one finished with Ruberoid Strip Shingles.

"A Friendly Word--"

The earnest wish of every daily newspaper publisher is to make his advertising columns profitable to the local merchants who use them.

For this reason, and with due recognition of the merchant's experience, it is proposed occasionally to give suggestions in these advertisements that may help merchants to prepare more effective copy and so secure greater returns, and, correspondingly, be encouraged to extend their appropriations.

The first thing to do with a proposed newspaper advertisement is THINK ABOUT IT. Never mind the form of the wording — THINK WHAT IT IS YOU WISH THE PUBLIC TO UNDERSTAND.

If you begin by considering form and wording you may lose sight of your real purpose. You may be "unable to see the forest for the trees."

First, be absolutely clear yourself what message, fact or impression you want the public to gather from your copy.

Having got thus far, write your idea out. Question it. Criticize it. Simplify it. Lick it into shape. Do anything you like with it, but, above all, have it a natural-looking job when it gets into the paper.

Always, if you can, tell your story in the headline, because, unless you arrest attention, everything else is unimportant. It may never be read.

Don't advertise to yourself.

That is really one of the greatest dangers of advertising. So many men, who are paying the bills, are apt to write matter that is pleasing to themselves—forgetting that the public look at it through different colored spectacles.

One of the most enjoyable things you can do is to spend an hour or so, a few evenings a week, thinking out a well-balanced newspaper advertising campaign for your store and your merchandise, and, having thought it out, carry it through, regardless of other people's opinions or whims.

You have three of the best trading months ahead. Do, then, as we suggest and watch results.
