Doomed to Die by Electricity.

CLINTON, N. Y., July 16.—Joseph Chapleau, the Hamburg murderer, is ready for the fatal chair and wire. The machinery of the law's revenge for the slaying of Ira Erwin Tabor is also ready for the slayer. He is sentenced to die some time in the week beginning Monday next. Isaiah Fuller has carefully made the necessary preparations for the electrocution with the firm belief that Chapleau will be the first victim of the new method of capital punishment. Chapleau is a French-Canadian farmer, born in Terrebonne, Canada, 40 years ago. His parents were of the middle class, very respectable, and he refuses to tell his wife where they are. Rumor has it that J. A. Chapleau, the present Secretary of State in Canada, who was born in Terrebonne, is his cousin. Joseph Chapleau was educated at the college at Terrebone. He enlisted at the Plattsburg garrison, served with credit for five years, then having married Eliza Cassidy he took a farm on the Miller road three miles from the village, and provided well for his wife and two children. One of these children is a girl of his own about 11 and the other is an adopted boy of about 13, the son of his wife's deceased sister. In the twenty years that Chapleau lived in Plattsburg his reputation for gentlemanly conduct, sobriety and industry was firmly established, and so far as his family was concerned all accounts agree that he was devotion itself.

The victim Tabor was 45 years old, a farmer, and lived directly opposite to Chapleau. He was a big and powerful man, while Chapleau is of medium size and physique. His reputation was like Chapleau's except as far as his disposition was concerned. Tabor liked to "hag" people, and nothing gave him greater pleasure than flinging contemptuous remarks. Mischievous stories told about Tabor's alleged familiarity with Mrs. Chapleau lead to a quarrel on Jan. 28, 1889, when Chapleau struck his opponent a fatal blow with a stick of wood.

TORONTO LETTER.

TORONTO, Wednesday, July 16.

Alexander Green, 192 Chestnut street, has been missing since Saturday. He is a man 33 years of age, five feet ten inches in height, with brown mustache and dark clothes.

The banquet given to General Middleton last evening was attended by about 60 officers and friends. Goldwin Smith was among those present, also Col. Dawson, Col. Miller, Col. Jones (Brantford), Col. Grassett, Capt. Stuart (Hamilton), Capt. Maclean, Maj. Mead, the Bishop of Toronto, J. D. Macdonald, S. Nordheimer, F. C. Pattison, W. R. Brock and David Creighton. In the course of his remarks, the General said that he might have made mistakes, but they were of the head and not of the heart. It was a gross lie that any of the militia had written that they would not serve under him. He said he had thought to spend the rest of his life in Canada, as his wife was a Canadian, but he regretted that owing to the treatment he had received at the hands of certain politicians, who had endeavored to ruin his character, he would not now do so. He refused to accept the finding of the committee of the House of Commons, but would willingly leave the evidence in the case to the people of Canada and trust to their fairness. The General was cheered when he resumed his seat. The General leaves town to-morrow.

Hickey sprang into the water after it, and was followed by Keegan, who sank at once. Deceased lived at 152 Macauley street.

Wholesale Poisoning at a Picnic.

IOWA CITY, Ia., July 15.—One hundred and fifty men, women and children at a church picnic at Solon, a few miles north of Iowa City, were prostrated yesterday with serious symptoms of poisoning. In a few moments the people had fallen from the tables upon the ground, writhing in pain. Physicians were summoned and administered remedies, and in a few hours the patients recovered, no case being fatal. The use of water from a well long abandoned is given as the cause of the sickness.

The B. M. E. Conference.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 15.—The B. M. E. Conference met here Monday, Supt. Hawkins, assisted by Supt. R. Miller, occupying the chair. The committee appointed to confer with clergymen of the city in reference to aid for the missionary cause made a most favorable report. Rev. Bro. Farris was introduced and made a feeling speech on the unity of the brotherhood. The committee investigating the case of Elder S. P. Hale also reported. At Tuesday's session on calling the roll all the members responded. The Committee on Sabbath School Education and Temperance submitted reports. That upon the subject of tobacco evoked considerable discussion, but was carried. A motion prevailed for an annual Sabbath school convention, but the time and place have not been yet fixed. Memorial services were held in Bethel Church this evening on the decease of Rev. John Chanacye, Bro. Bowers and Bro. Daniel Webster—all faithful workers in the B. M. E. Connection.

A Marvelous Escape.

GODERICH, July 15.—One of those accidents, the afterthought of which is fully as terrible and horrifying as the experience, occurred at Goderich Park Sunday afternoon. The two young children of Lawyer Sinclair, of Brussels, were left in charge of their nurse, one being asleep in a carriage the other playing on the sward along the unprotected brow of the precipice, which has a very steep and rocky descent to the lake. The nurse, fearful that the child in its rambles would fall over the edge, rushed towards him, neglecting for an instant her charge in the carriage, which before she could again reach it had shot like an arrow straight and swift down the awful incline. Her screams of terror attracted a large crowd to the cliff, who with bated breath watched the swiftly disappearing carriage in its flight to the lake. What a relief it was to the anxious and helpless spectators to finally see the frail vehicle plunge into some shrubs 50 yards down the cliff, turn over on its side and stop. Eager friends, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in reaching the unharmed infant and returned it to its overjoyed parents' arms. The young woman in whose charge the children were is in a very low condition consequent to the awful nervous shock.

A Big Camp of the Salvation Army.

LONDON, July 16.—The Salvationists are in full cry at the Crystal Palace, where the army, 60,000 strong, is assembled. The exercises are of a most fervid and demonstrative character, and as noisy as they can well be. Bands of music, playing the airs which the army has made exclusively its own, are in almost unceasing action, and the "knee drills" and other evolutions peculiar to the militant evangelical organizations, are abundant.

A Priest Charged With Murder.

PARIS, July 16.—Abbe Courtail is in prison at Rodez, charged with shooting Madame Calmet dead in the street with a gun-cane. The priest protests his innocence and declares he simply intended to tap the woman on the shoulder. The abbe has a poor reputation and his bishop had so little confidence in him that for years he has had no clerical post of duty.

KISSING IN THE PARK.

The Recorder of Montreal Lectures a Young Couple on its Immorality.

OTTAWA, July 16.—Last week there came before the Recorder of Montreal a very peculiar case. There happens to be in that city on a visit to one of its most respectable and well-connected citizens some ladies who belong to good English families, one of whom is engaged to a young Englishmen, who is also on a visit from South America. After dinner a walk was suggested in the park. They walked up McTavish street, where the engaged couple wandered away from the others, and the remainder of the party, supposing they had gone home, returned. What was their surprise on reaching home to receive a message from the police station that the young couple had been arrested and were prisoners in the cells. Their friends went to the station and bailed them out, when they discovered that the couple, when quietly sitting on some iron pipes at the head of McTavish street, saw two men approaching who really were park rangers, but it being dark the young Englishman did not notice the uniform, and being afraid his companion to run home, and, in his own words, "tackled them." He got the worst of it, and he and the lady were arrested and marched off to the station.

The Recorder fined the young Englishman $15 and treated him to a lecture on the immorality of kissing in public places, the defendant having admitted on the trial that he had kissed his intended while sitting on the iron pipes. The Recorder said that the English people must live up to their own standard of morality, of which they bragged so much. They were fond of reproaching the French—the Recorder is a French-Canadian—with the laxity of their morals—while they themselves pretended to be very rigid. At all events, public parks were not the place for kissing, and if future, if he wanted to indulge in this weakness, he must do so at home. The Recorder then turned to the counsel for the defense and asked what defense the young lady had to make. The counsel replied that she was quite prostrated and preferred rather to receive a judgment of the court than to make any defense, which she was quite unable to do. The Recorder thereupon fined her $10.

THE SEMAPHORE.

Henry Villard's Prophecy—How to Light a Headlight in a Storm—"Scooping" in Passengers.

Henry Villard is quoted as saying that in five years there will not be a steam locomotive on any railway in the United States, and every kind of machinery will be driven by electricity.

The Rochester Post-Express says that Thomas Connors, of Elmira, track inspector of the Rochester division of the Erie, began railroading in 1849 on the Delaware division of the Erie, and has, since 1852, been foreman and track inspector on the Rochester division. It is said the company has never had to pay a dollar for damage on his account.

A fireman says: "I know a little kink about lighting a headlight on stormy and windy nights. Take an old train order and curl it around on top of the lamp-wick so as to leave a portion of it sticking up, and by dropping a lighted match down the chimney it will ignite and the headlight is lit. You will find this way much easier and quicker than the old way of putting a coat over you head.

An inventive genius is said to have about perfected a device for catching passengers for express trains in the same manner as they scoop up water or take in mail bags when going at full speed. The luckless traveler is to be in a long trough between the rails upon a curved iron bed. From the bottom of the train a moveable piece of steel comes down which catches occupant and bed and throws them in. This is a "very good scheme—if it works."

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER.

Explosion of 1,300 Kegs of Gunpowder.

Ten Persons Killed and Thirty or Forty Wounded.

CINCINNATI, July 15.—A terrible explosion occurred here yesterday at King's powder mills, on the Little Miami Railroad, 29 miles east of this city. Two empty freight cars were being rolled on to a side track, where a car containing 500 kegs of gunpowder was standing. As the cars struck there was a terrific explosion, and immediately another car containing 800 kegs of powder exploded, making 1,300 altogether, or about sixteen tons. Wm. Fraula, a brakeman in the service of the Little Miami, was blown to atoms and no trace of his body has yet been found. Several others, supposed to be employes of the powder company, were killed. The King Powder Company and the Peters' Cartridge Works have works on both sides of the river along the railway. The explosion occurred on the south side and

THE DESTRUCTION WAS ENORMOUS.

There are a number of cottages occupied by workmen in the powder factory, and situated close to the track. These were shattered by the explosion and their inmates intered by the explosion and their inmates injured. Twelve or fifteen girls at work in the cartridge factory were crippled by the explosion. The railway station, or the freight house belonging to the Little Miami Railway, with the adjacent buildings, were set on fire and totally consumed. The track and ties of the railway are fairly torn out of the ground. The Peters cartridge factory was burned to the ground. The names of none of the killed and wounded are as yet obtained. Peters' cartridge factory was a large building and fully supplied with a great amount of costly machinery, both for the manufacture of shells and the loading of shotgun ammunition. A large force of employes was at work at the time the explosion occurred.

TEN BODIES FOUND.

News from King's Mills at 9 o'clock tonight is that ten dead bodies have been taken from the ruins, and 30 are known to be wounded.

The passengers say the wrecked district presents a scene of utter desolation. In a dwelling shattered by the explosion an unknown woman had her back broken by the shock and an infant was killed. The reports of 10 killed and 30 or 40 wounded are also confirmed.

Everything combustible was burning. The roadmaster of the Little Miami road informed him there were three families living in cottages near the place of the explosion, but six hours search failed to find any trace of them. He says more than ten were killed.

Fort Worth's Wicked Mayor.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 16.—The citizens' meeting, called to take action on Mayor Pendleton's marriage to an attractive telephone girl, was largely attended by a number of indignant citizens. The resolutions adopted state that: "Whereas Mayor Pendleton lived with his wife for nearly a year after he had obtained, as it would seem to us, a secret divorce from her, of which she knew nothing; and whereas he married another while professing his loyalty to her, be it resolved that he, by such act, brought the name of our fair city into contumely and disrepute, proved neglectful to his friends and unworthy of the trust imposed in him; that he had broken the most sacred vows, and helped to bring disgrace upon his family and friends. Be it further resolved, that this city condemn and hold as unlawful and disgraceful such action, and that he be requested to tender his resignation."

It was resolved that Mayor Pendleton be communicated with by telegraph and asked whether the divorce from his wife was secretly obtained, and whether his wife was in ignorance of it; and it was determined that in case he answered in the affirmative or refused to answer, that steps be taken to bring about his resignation from the mayoralty.

For five days, the whole time the vessel was among the ice, there was a dense fog, and so difficult was it to see ahead that although the ship until she stopped altogether steamed dead slow, she several times nearly came into collision with icebergs. Capt. Bentley never left the bridge the whole time the vessel was in the fog.

An interesting but lengthy account of an Epworth League debate, which took place at Dorchester Station on June 20, was received at the ADVERTISER office on Tuesday, 15th inst., NEARLY ONE MONTH LATE. For this reason we cannot give it a place in our columns. Let all news items be mailed promptly and condensed as much as possible.

Wm. Thompson and John Weir, messengers for the Canadian Express Company at Woodstock, did not turn up at their respective posts on Saturday morning. It appears they left the town by the midnight express Friday night. As far as is known both were honest, industrious young men, and their motive in departing so suddenly is not known.

A poor German woman named Mrs. Bland arrived at Hamilton on Friday from Stratford in search of her daughter, from whom she has heard nothing for two months. Mrs. Bland, although 70 years of age, walked all the distance, which occupied two weeks. She failed to learn anything of her daughter there, and started to walk to St. Catharines.

Obstructions have again accumulated at Washago, and the waters of Lake Simcoe and Couchiching, swollen by heavy rains, are 28 inches higher than low water mark and nineteen inches higher than they were last year at this time. A great deal of valuable land in Ontario, as well as in York and Simcoe, has been flooded, and in many cases crops have been ruined.

The Crown has retained Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., along with County Attorney Ball, for the prosecution of Birchall at Woodstock. Old man Rabb testified at the inquest that he heard two shots fired in the swamp the evening of the day the murder was committed. Who fired these shots remained a mystery until Saturday last, when Mr. Rabb came to Woodstock and gave the names of two young men who were shooting in the swamp at that time. One of these is now in the States, but the other is still in Woodstock.

The annual Catholic picnic was held at Arthur on Friday last and was a great success, over 3,000 people being present. Athletic and other games were participated in, and at the close speeches were delivered by J. J. Landy, barrister, and John Anderson, registrar, of Arthur; James McMullen, M.P., Hon. Charles Clarke, M.P.P., A. Semple, M.P., John Craig, editor Fergus News-Record; Mr. Wissler, councilman, Elora; and J. P. McMillan, county crown attorney, and Mr. Hewson, barrister, of Orangeville. On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Hathaway, South Yarmouth, went to visit her sister, Miss Jones, and when near the Dutch tavern she was overtaken by two young men in a buggy, who jumped out and tried to assault her. Being a powerful woman she was able to drive them off. The young scoundrels were under the influence of liquor. Mrs. Hathaway ran into the house, which was near by, and informed her brother and another young man who was present, and they took after the rascals, but were unable to catch them, as they drove off at a furious rate.

S. Hodgins, a Dresden merchant, has found his father, Samuel Hodgins, of Walsingham Center, after having been separated from him, and not knowing his whereabouts for 35 years. The mother died on July 4, 1855, at which date the father and children were separated. There were three in the family, two sisters besides himself, and it appears that for a long time the brother and sisters were separated and each thought the other dead. The sisters located at an eastern city and were overjoyed to learn of their father being still alive and hearty, though over 70 years of age. He wears no glasses and is in the full possession of all his faculties.

The Hamilton Presbytery met on Tuesday morning. Arrangements were made for meeting the deficit of $152 in the augmentation fund. Rev. T. H. Peatchell, of Williamsport, tendered his resignation conditionally. A call from Cayuga and Mount Healey to Rev. W. Robinson, formerly of Waterdown, was sustained. Rev. Mr. Robinson obtained time to consider the call. Leave was granted Caledonia to mortgage the property for $1,000 and build a manse. Mr. Wither, high school teacher, of Simcoe, applied to be recognized as a student to the ministry. A petition was received from Locke street mission, Hamilton, asking that steps be taken to erect a church at the southwest end of the city. The claim of Rev. T. Wilson, of Toronto, for labors at Cayuga was ordered to be paid out of the Presbytery fund.

CARADOC.

The late Mrs. Robert H. Francis, of Caradoc, whose demise occurred on June 26, was a daughter of the late Charles Bateman, and was married in August, 1871. The young people at once settled on the farm which has since been their home, and by their united taste and industry soon made it one of the prettiest places in the vicinity. Though never remarkably robust, Mrs. Francis was a woman of considerable energy and fine taste. She took great interest in the Township Agricultural Show, and was an active member of the Episcopal Church. She leaves a son aged 15 and a daughter aged 6 to mourn the loss of a mother's care and sympathy. She was much respected in the township, and was particularly beloved by those who enjoyed the benefit of her intimate friendship. She bore with astonishing fortitude the sufferings of her final illness, and these were unusually severe. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. S. R. Ashbury, B.A., B.D., of Delaware. A large concourse followed the remains to their final resting-place. Mr. Francis and his family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Hilling Potatoes.

Experiments made by us twenty years ago and more showed that the common and almost universal practice of drawing the earth up in small hills around potato plants was attended with considerable loss. The practice was found on the erroneous supposition that all the roots and tubers were confined within a narrow space of comparatively few inches around each plant, and that a deep bed of earth in a narrow hillock was just what was wanted. On riding through the country most of the potato fields and gardens are seen still to continue the practice. The great mistake thus made may be observed by digging down a few inches in the spaces between the rows. It will be found that while the plants are still young, and before the tubers have formed or grown to any size, the horizontal roots have met and crossed each other between and in the three-foot spaces. By hilling the plants, the earth must be scraped or plowed away from these spaces, and the horizontal roots cut off or laid bare. This treatment will necessarily reduce the growth of the tubers, which, although near the center of the hill, are fed by the roots. The experiment is well worth trying. Select three or four rows and hill them well up. Select three or four more, and let the soil be well cultivated and kept mellow and flat. Count the bushels of each when dug, and it will be found that those from the flat rows have from 10 to 20 per cent. the most potatoes. There may sometimes be very peculiar conditions of the soil—shallow soil or rock, or otherwise—which may modify the result; but for common ground, plowed at a good depth and planted deep enough, there is but one result.—[Country Gentleman.

With regard to the above there is yet another point, apparently overlooked by our contemporary, and that is the habit of potatoes or some portion of them to protrude above the ground. Thus exposed they become sunburned and unfit for use. Moulding up carefully prevents this.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.

Why cannot beet root sugar be made in Ontario? So far as growth of the roots is concerned, there is no question. We have the soil, the length of season and all the climatic conditions for the maturing of roots of the best quality, and although our farmers may have something to learn as to time of planting and style of cultivating, the information which they may need is easily acquired. The main secret is to thin out the roots to a proper space in the rows, and to keep them well covered with earth up to the crown of leaves. The tendency of the beet root, like that of the common table beet and the mangel-wurzel, is to grow out of the ground, but it is a fact not generally known that all the portion of the root growing above ground is of little value for sugar-making purposes, the exposure causing a loss of its saccharine properties. Special cultivation is therefore necessary, but with a suitable plow or cultivator this work is easily and cheaply done, and it does not cost more of time or labor than the common cultivation of corn and potatoes. The beet root grown in Germany contains about 14 per cent. of sugar, and the pulp which remains after it is manufactured is highly prized as a fodder for cattle, especially for milch cows. Experimental plots grown in various parts of Ontario last year from seeds distributed for the purpose proved that roots of equally good quality could be raised here, even although in several cases the farmers did not know the secret of covering up. The average of a number of analyses gave 14 per cent. of sugar, and in the case of a lot grown at the Guelph Experimental Farm the average was 17 per cent. Of course it is not to be supposed that the whole of the sugar in the roots can be extracted. One or two per cent. of it would be suitable only for the making of syrup, while perhaps as much more will be wasted; but a good deal depends on the process employed and the kind of machinery used. The Germans have made a careful study of processes, and we have something to learn from them as to methods and machinery. The American sugar king, Claus Spreckels, of California, had a plant imported from Germany about a year ago, and we believe that a second one is being set up by him this year. Each of these has a capacity to treat 300 to 500 tons of beets per 24 hours, and assuming a yield of 10 per cent. of refined sugar this means a daily sugar product of 30 to 50 tons. One such plant, producing 30 tons per day would give an output of 36,000 tons in 120 days, or say 72,000,000 pounds, and it would require at least three such mills to supply the Canadian market. Now let us see what that output means to the agriculturist. On the basis of a 10 per cent. yield, it would require 360,000 tons of roots to supply one mill, and at fifteen tons per acre a crop area of 240,000 acres would be necessary to grow the roots, or say 2,400 farms each having an average of ten acres in beets. It is reckoned that beets containing 14 per cent. of saccharine matter are worth $4 per ton to the farmer, and at this figure the product of 2,400 acres would represent $1,440,000. Thus the cost of raw material is 2 cents per pound of the refined product of 72,000,000 pounds, and as the present selling price of the latter at the refineries is about 4½ cents per pound it would appear that the margin of profit is sufficiently large to encourage the investment of capital in the industry. The question is well worth considering in the interests of the farmers of Ontario, and we are confident that, if men of experience and capital can be found to erect the mills, there is little fear of the farmers failing to supply the raw material in abundant quantity. The crop would pay as well as any other at current prices, and it would pay over again in the cleaning of dirty lands.

ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE.

It is not more than fifteen years ago that benefit societies began to play an important part in this country in the business of life insurance. They began upon a very modest scale, and at the first the social element of the societies was professedly the one of chief interest. Officers and members hardly cared to mention the insurance upon life which was provided, partly perhaps because among the masses of the people, and especially among the working classes, there was a prejudice against life insurance, or a dread of it, and partly because the scheme was stoutly opposed and keenly ridiculed by the regular life insurance companies. In a great many cases fifteen years ago if a man proposed in the hearing of his wife to take out a life policy, there was sure to be a scene. Did he expect to die? Did he intend to commit suicide? Did he mean to defy Providence? These and many more questions of like character were flung in his face, and tears and entreaties generally prevailed to dissuade him from his purpose. We know instances in which men took out policies and kept the fact a profound secret from their wives—just as men of a literary bent are sometimes known to sneak a book into their library—so as to escape the reproof which would surely be visited upon them. Those were the days, too, in which the regular liner agent made his reputation for sublime cheek; lightning itself couldn't color it or dint it, the newspaper wit used to say. And no wonder that the life insurance man got a name for pertinacity, because it was only by downright hectoring that he often succeeded in pursuading any one to give a policy. But when the benefit society began its operations, and the modest "beneficiary certificate" commenced to issue, a veritable school of life insurance was opened. Men under pretense of joining a lodge for social advantages were enabled quietly to get a policy of $1,000 or $2,000 upon their lives, and their sensitive wives never suspected that they had been and gone and done it. Then in due time members began to die, and policies began to be paid to desolate women, and the local newspapers made note of these things, and by and by thousands got to understand that the benefit societies were doing a noble work. In this quiet way men and women came to recognize the value of life insurance, and the business has been growing in volume year by year at a rate to astonish the old line companies. And what is more, the old line companies have been made to see that there is money as well as business in cheaper rates and various forms of policies, and everybody is better served as a consequence. Verily the world "do move."

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—The citizens continue to appreciate the band concerts on Victoria Park; but there is still much complaint because of the scarcity of seats. What is the aldermanic committee which has charge of the park about?

In British Columbia a new race trouble is looming up. The employers of labor are importing Japanese to take the place of the much-detested Chinamen. It would not be surprising to see an agitation spring up to tax the incoming Japanese also.

—The people over here are all interested in the price of fruit, but that does not necessarily imply that they cannot tell the truth.—St. Catharines Star.

Not necessarily, but we fear there is sometimes a great temptation to boom prices by making a poor mouth about the prospects.

—Canada has been importing a considerable number of Japanese laborers recently. Something will have to be done to maintain a correct balance of trade in humanity. Cannot we export a few of our embryo nobles in the shape of knights, beginning, say, with Sir Adolphe Caron, who does not seem to be wanted even by his own political friends? There is room in Japan for nabobs of his build, for the Japanese are an intensely democratic people. Their newly-organized House of Peers, indeed, contains but one noble, while of its 44 members 22 are farmers and 15 merchants. There seems to be a field in the kingdom of the Mikado for more blue-bloods. We in Canada can spare a few. Let the procession, headed by the Minister of Militia, start now.

—The Toronto World chronicles the return of Mr. Wm. Houston, Provincial librarian, from a week's sojourn at Chautauqua, New York, where he delivered a series of addresses on the teaching of English. "With excellent opportunities for observation he claims that Chautauqua is doing sound collegiate work, and after mingling on this and other occasions with leading educationists of the United States he returns with a strong conviction that in elementary education Ontario it fully on a par with the most advanced States of the Union, that in secondary education no State comes at all near us, and that when university federation becomes an accomplished fact and Toronto University is restored we will have no reason to fear comparison with any State of our population in the matter of higher education." This is high testimony to the manner in which our educational institutions have been conducted, even if it does not accord with the pre-election criticisms of opponents of the Ontario Government.

Sarnia Observer.

From the use the Tory press is making of the fact that a petition has been entered against Hon. G. W. Ross, it is evident that it has been put in for political effect to give our Tory friends something to brag about until the court sits and lets the wind out of the bubble. A similar petition was entered once on a time against the late Mr. Pardee, and when the court got a chance at it it was kicked out with ignominious haste.

LONDON TOWNSHIP RECIPROCITY WISDOM.

Clinton New Era.

We do not know anything about Thomas B. Scott, of Vanneck, but we do know that his head is level on the trade question, for in a letter to the London ADVERTISER he shows up the fallacy of a speech delivered by Hon. John Carling at a farmers' picnic the other day. Mr. Scott proves that although the Canadian Northwest is a better country than Dakota, the latter has a much larger population than the former, though both were equal in 1881. He also proves that although Ontario's population was at one time ahead of the State of Michigan the latter is now far in advance of Ontario, while it is not as good a country. And this disparity in population is the result of a foolish trade policy that prevents intercourse between two nations that should be as one commercially.

LONDON IN THE YEAR 1900.

LONDON, Ont., July 15, 1900.

To the Editor of the New York Herald:

SIR,—Since I left New York on my month's holidays, I have spent a week [illegible] and a week there, but no place [illegible] me more pleasantly than this [illegible] largely-populated and wholly charming city.

It has three or four good-sized parks, besides an open square in every ward in the city. In each square is a drinking fountain. There is music two or three times a week in each park and square. In addition to the squares referred to, each ward has a play-ground for the boys, and it has been found most salutary.

The old, dilapidated, unpainted boulevard fences of 1899 have been removed, the street trees scientifically thinned out, and there are good roads and walks throughout the city.

Within the ten years since my last visit I observe a great improvement in architectural taste alike in public buildings and private residences.

The River Thames, which used to be a stench at certain times, has been purified and become a delight. The picturesque riverside park about and below Springbank is now reached by an electric railway. The street railway is of course operated by electricity, giving quick transit at low rates.

Rubbish and garbage are not allowed to fester and pollute, but disposed of completely by being burned in the public crematories.

A great stride in the matter of Christian union has been made in the ten years since 1890. Ontario, you remember, was the first country to effect an organized union of the various Protestant denominations—the Presbyterians and Methodists uniting first, and the rest coming in finally a year ago, 1899. In London, Protestants and Roman Catholics compete in friendly rivalry, the view being held that their energies are better employed in fighting the common foes—unbelief and materialism—than each other.

There is in London not only a fine public library but a good art gallery, free to all, and it is thought the latter, in conjunction with the now noted art school, has had much to do with London's fame for originality of manufacturing design.

In London I have observed ladies invariably express their thanks to gentlemen who surrender street car seats, and the men are invariably too gentlemanly to expectorate on the sidewalks.

Contrary to the expectation entertained ten years ago by some, there is not yet complete prohibition in London, but there is little or no drinking, partly owing to the discovery of the new and agreeable non-intoxicating drink, partly to the shorter hours of labor and better social conditions generally, and partly to the complete abolition of saloons effected five years ago.

One admirable feature in London is that differences of view politically seem to make no difference in social relationships, there being tacit agreement to differ without smallness or bitterness.

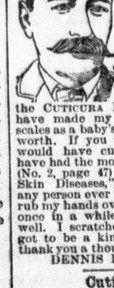

The City Council is now composed of the most reputable and capable men of the place, aldermen being here chosen for their fitness, apart from political or like considerations. The members of the Board of Trade and the best citizens brought many of the foregoing things about simply by working together and being willing to take some trouble to create the conditions necessary to a model city. Since 1895 women have voted at municipal elections as freely as men, and this has also helped greatly.

Altogether, London in this year of grace 1900 is a delightfully-environed and charming place of business and residence.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering, Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

A physician was summoned, and Donovan was carried home.

A CANADIAN LEAGUE.

The ADVERTISER's proposition that a Canadian league be formed is thus indorsed by the Toronto News: "Had the players been Torontonians, or even Canadians, a city crowd could consistently go to the grounds and cheer them on to victory, but what interest could Torontonians have in a lot of hired men brought here to exploit the game for mere money. Such an arrangement reduced the so-called sport to a competition among the clubs as to which could afford to hire the best players. In effect the honors, if there were any, rested with the club with the longest purse. It proved a disastrous failure, proving that it had little to rest upon in this city. Why not get up a Canadian League of Toronto, Hamilton, London and Guelph with Canadian players in whom there could be some local interest. They might not be as expert as the imported crowd, but they would learn."

FLYS.

Fessenden is to manage the Syracuse team.

The Des Moines Baseball Club has disbanded.

Leighton made a good showing in his first game with the Stars.

Mansfield, Ohio, has applied for Toledo's franchise in the American Association.

The new men, Friel and Leighton, made a splendid showing yesterday.—[Syracuse Standard.

The attendance is increasing everywhere, and baseball is not dead by a long shot.—[Sporting Life.

The Y. M. C. A. Athletics left here this morning to participate in the big Y. M. C. A. tournament at Grimsby Park.

The Hamiltons offered Chris Von der Ahe their whole outfit, including a mascot, for $3,000.—[Syracuse Standard.

Virtue has signed with the Cleveland league team and left for that city. The other Detroit players have received offers.

Formal application will be made by the Wheeling Ball Association for the vacant place in the American Association, caused by Toledo falling out.

The Toronto and London hotel-keepers met at Ward's grounds near Springbank yesterday afternoon and the game resulted in a victory for the Londoners by 26 to 5.

Wheelock and Virtue have consented to sign with St. Louis, and the fact has been wired to Von der Ahe, who will be sued if he does not take them. Smith and Goodfellow have good offers from several clubs, but are undecided.—[Detroit Tribune.

Pete Conway, the pitcher of the Brooklyn (P. L.) team, who so mysteriously disappeared, has been heard from. He sent a letter to Ward stating that he has been laid up with malaria, but is now on the road to recovery, and expects to be with the team in another week.

A Cleveland dispatch says: "The Directors of the Cleveland National League Baseball Club signed a lease to-day for new grounds at the corner of Lexington and Dunham avenues, a twelve-minute ride from the center of the city on the cable line. The lease begins in October and lasts eight years.

A game of ball was played on the military grounds yesterday afternoon between the Stars, of the north end, and the Olives, of the Y. M. C. A., resulting in a victory for the Stars, 17 to 12. Batteries—Whateley and Arscott, Struthers and Reid. Umpire—Pat. Quinn.

Judge McSherry, of Frederick, Md., has filed his opinion declaring that baseball-playing on Sunday by men who are under contract for the season at stated salaries, no one being admitted to witness the games except those who pay, can be construed as nothing else than work, and therefore comes within the purview of the prohibitory statute.

Anson thus unbosoms himself: "I've signed Demaris, pitcher of the London club, and Stein, of the Bay Citys, and Second Baseman Wright, of London, and Glenalvin, of the Wheeling club. You may say in your paper that there can and will be but one outcome to this fight for the League pennant, and that is that the Chicago club is going to win it. No, sir, the Boston club is not in the fight at all."

CRICKET.

Gunn, the Notts' batsman, playing for the Players of England against the Australians at Lord's, on June 19 and 20, made 228 runs, the highest individual score ever made in the old country against the Australians.

THE CANADIANS DEFEATED.

WISSAHICKON, Pa., July 15.—In the international cricket match to-day play was resumed at 11:15, when the over night not outs, Hamilton and Lyons, went to the wickets to face the bowling of Brown and Bailey. The Canadians made a good show, putting together a total of 141 before they were disposed of, out of which Saunders, Lyon, Gillespie and Ferrie played good cricket for their respective scores. The Canadians having to follow their innings, only reached the small score of 97, Lyon again distinguishing himself with a patent inning of 34, which proves that he fairly earned his place on this International team. The inning closed for 97, leaving the Americans victors by a single inning and 31 runs.

In the first day's play of cricket between the Winnipeg Club and the Longwood Club, of Boston, the former made 142 in their first inning. The Longwoods had made 61, with seven wickets down, when play was stopped for the day. The Winnipeg team gave a splendid exhibition of cricket.

THE TURF.

The owner of the English 2-year-old, The Deemster, refused £12,000 for his colt, though he is not engaged in the classic races of next year. On the following day The Deemster was only third in the Kempton grand 2-year-old stakes.

Just about two years ago the Buffalo mare Belle Hamlin startled the horse world by trotting a half-mile over Buffalo track in 1:02½—a 2:04½ gait. Yesterday she trotted an eighth in 13⅔ seconds, which is 27¼ for a quarter, and is a 1:50 gait, though no horse could carry that clip further than an eighth. She was driven by W. J. Andrews, who gave her her head and allowed her to go as fast as she wanted to, and without the least urging or touch of the whip. It is certainly a wonderful performance, and has never been equaled by any trotting horse, and the only pacer that has ever been credited with such a burst of speed is Brown Hal, who recently paced a quarter in 28 seconds. Belle Hamlin is credited as being one of the speediest trotters in the world, but it was hardly thought she could brush an eighth as fast as that.—[Buffalo Courier.

TROTTING AT LONGUEUIL.

MONTREAL, July 15.—The Longueuil trotting meeting, the first held under the auspices of the National Trotting Association, was held to-day and yielded some good sport. The following is a summary of the results:

3-minute class—Redmon 1, Honest Tom 2, St. Jerome Boy 3, White Bruce 4, McGinty dis., Berthier Boy dis. Time, 2:39½.

2:30 class—Cremonia 1, Black Rind 2, Blackstone 3, Sergeant 4, Ben H. 5, Musical Boy 6, Fannie H. 7. Time, 2:30½.

2:40 class—Montreal Girl 1, Winooski Maid 2, Gold King 3, Grey Jim dis. Time, 2:34½.

Redmon and Cremonia are Aylmer (Ont.) horses, and Hurricane and Ansonia were taken to Montreal by R. Stewart, of that town.

CHESS.

LONDON, July 15.—A chess match between Lee and Blackburn began here yesterday. Yesterday's game was drawn. Twenty-three moves were made. To-day's game was won by Blackburn in 44 moves. The winner is to be the one who first scores six wins, drawn games not to count. The match excites considerable interest in London chess circles, and a handsome purse has been provided for the winner.

THE TRIGGER.

The Canadians at Bisley, Eng., made a fair start yesterday. No competition has yet been finished. Bisley is in some respects superior to Wimbledon, but the Canadian camp is not so well placed.

LONDON, July 16.—At the annual matches of the National Rifle Association, the Canadian team fired in the Alexandra match, ranges 500 and 600 yards, seven shots at each range, Martini-Henri rifles. Staff-Sergeant Ogg, of the first brigade field artillery, Guelph; Private Hutchinson, of the 43rd Battalion, Ottawa, and Color-Sergeant Henderson, of the 62nd Battalion, of St. John, N. B., each won £3; Corp. H. Marris, 13th Battalion, Hamilton, won £2. This is not so good a record as the first day last year, when the team's winnings amounted to £25.

THE TURF.

Robert Wright says he has been offered $100 to get the Toronto sports who sold pools at the Windsor races last week across the river to Detroit. Some person who attended a recent meeting at the Latonia race course, near Cincinnati, he says, want to interview them.—[Detroit News. What about?

A QUESTION OF PEDIGREE.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: Permit me through your valuable columns to contradict a false and lying report now being circulated by jealous and envious parties regarding my trotting stallion "Improved Mambrino Hatchet." This report is to the effect that my stallion was bred and raised in Dorchester. Now, I can give the most reliable testimony on oath as to his pedigree and breeding. The horse was bred in Kentucky and was purchased by me from J. Crouch, Lafayette, and his pedigree and breeding are beyond question. Yours, etc., DAVID CARROLL.

LACROSSE.

A lacrosse match played at Tilsonburg Tuesday between the Junior Brants, of Paris, and Lisgars, of Tilsonburg, was won by the Lisgars by 3 goals to 1.

St. Mary's Lacrosse Club will play a game with the London Lacrosse Club at Tecumseh Park on Friday. As this will be the first game played by the home club since its organization, a large crowd is expected to attend.

The lacrosse match between the St. Marys and Ingersoll junior clubs at St. Marys Tuesday resulted in two straight games for the home team, when the Ingersoll club left the field and refused to play longer, claiming that senior players were playing in the St. Marys club, contrary to the rules. The referee gave the game to St. Marys.

THE OAR.

Hanlan, Teemer, Hosmer and Wise will accept the challenge of the Eries, of Buffalo, to row them a four-oared race for $5,000 and the championship of the world as soon as the details can be arranged.

THE WHEEL.

The final race for the Irvine medal has been postponed until Wednesday evening next. The reason is that Lawrason hurt his knee cap at the last run and is not yet in proper condition. The contestants, Owens and Lawrason, will start from Lucan at the usual hour and finish at the Guns in Victoria Park. The race promises to be the most exciting of the season as far as the F. C. B. C. is concerned, and experts say it is merely a toss-up as to who will win.

THE SEVENTH AT CAMP.

Everything Around the Place Working Like Clockwork.

Officers and Men Delighted with the Breezy Surroundings—Prospects of a Good Time—The Standing Orders of the Day—All About the Campers and What They Are Doing.

Settled down at last for a two week's camp—that is what the members of the Seventh Fusiliers have done, and a right good time they expect to have. It is something like a soldier's life to camp out in the green fields and open air and not be sweltering in the heat of the city during this torrid weather. If anyone dares to doubt this statement let him ask one of those at the camp and he will receive a convincing answer in the affirmative. On Monday afternoon the party, 60 strong, boarded the train for the Port and pitched their tents that evening on Fraser's farm. If the entire coast of Lake Erie had been at their disposal a more suitable and healthful site could not have been chosen for the purpose. Situated just west of the Frazer property on the well-known heights, the cool breezes of the lake are never wanting, while the open surroundings afford an excellent locality both for general camping purposes and for drill maneuvers. The ground is skirted by the pleasant trees and ravines of Mitchell's farm, and directly overlooks the broad expanse of Lake Erie. In fact, everything about the place is delightful, and should any of the volunteers who camped at Stratford visit the present abode of the Seventh Fusiliers they would surely turn green with envy. The boys are all in splendid trim, and when off duty amuse themselves in wandering round the beach or lying around the tents inhaling the invigorating air and dreamily listening to the surf as it breaks on the shore below them. There is no laxity of military discipline, nevertheless, and although there is plenty of leisure for all, yet all things are conducted with the regularity of clockwork. A more orderly set of men than those at present in the camp would be hard to find, and the officers are loud in their praises of the general good conduct which has hitherto prevailed. Not a single offense has been reported, and the members of the Seventh Fusiliers will do nothing to sully the good name they have always held.

NAMES OF THE CAMPERS.

Following are the names of the officers and privates at the camp:

Lieutenant-Colonel Tracy.
Captain H. Payne, "A" Company.
Lieutenant and Adjutant Wm. Butler.
Lieutenant W. C. Coo.
Sergeant-Major R. Ironsides.
Sergeant-Instructor M. R. Anderson.
Color-Sergeant Garside, "A."
Color-Sergeant Brown, "C."
Sergeant Freeland, "A" Company.
Corporals—McCrimmon, "B" Company; Robinson, "A" Company; McNamara and Allen, "B" Company; Anderson and Jeffrey, "C" Company; Hayman, "D" Company; Beale, "E" Company.
Lance Corporals—Vick, "D" Company; Hayden and Brown, "E" Company.
Privates — "A" Company — Bobier, Ritchie, Taylor, Essery, Watson and Mountjoy; "B" Company—Ferguson, Rankin, Robinson, Stickles and Drummer Conroy; "C" Company—Finchamp, Gordon, McDonald and Drummer Saunby; "D" Company—Gauld, Simmons and Yates; "E" Company—Parkes, Peacock, Shirley, Moran and Riggs; "F" Company—Tuke, Johnson, Wyatt and Bugler Jones.

THE ORDERS OF THE DAY.

Following is the list of the standing orders of the day:

Morning—		Afternoon—
Reveille	5:30	Dinner bugle	12:30
Bathing parade	5:45	Tea bugle	5:00
Physical training,		Retreat	7:30
	6:45 to 7:30	First post	9:30
Breakfast bugle	7:45	Last post	10:00
Dress for guard	8:30	Lights out	10:15
Guard mounts	9:00
Dress for parade	9:30
Skirmishing drill	10:00

HOW THE DAY IS SPENT.

Promptly at 5:30 a.m. the reveille is sounded and the citizen soldiers are aroused from their peaceful slumbers. After the bathing parade to the lake, where an exhilarating plunge is indulged in, the physical training takes place. When these appetizers have been performed the breakfast bugle rings out most acceptably, and it may be depended upon that the rations do not spoil. From breakfast until dinner the time is chiefly occupied by the skirmishing drill and musketry practice. During the afternoon the men are at leisure, with the exception of the guard, which mounts at 9 a.m. Three guards are appointed for every day, all of the men taking turns. Each guard is on and off duty for two hours and four hours respectively. No man must be out after the last post at 10 o'clock. At 10:15 the lights are put out and all retire to sleep or dream of imaginary tussles with unseen foes—generally mosquitoes.

THE RATIONS.

The rations supplied for the camp are first-class both in respect to quantity and quality. At breakfast, oatmeal, coffee, milk, bread and cheese constitute the meal. Soup and roasts are served out for dinner every alternate day in addition to potatoes and vegetables. A lighter meal is provided for supper, consisting usually of tea, bread, cheese and berries.

CAMP JOTTINGS.

Sergeant-Major R. Ironside looks after the provisioning of the camp in fine style. Much of the efficiency in that line is due to him.

The men are delighted with their position. They say that the two weeks they will spend in that pleasant and healthful spot will brace them up for the city again.

Messrs. Brown, of London, two youths, aged about 12, are the guests of number 5 and 6 camps respectively. They stole away from the city to the Port, and the boys kindly took them in to act as bootblacks.

The familiar figure of Mr. John Price may often be seen on the grounds disposing of his wares to the boys.

The genial John Gauld, is postoffice orderly. John is very fond of fishing, and procuring a pole and some bait started to fish out of his tent Monday night. One of the men caught the string and tried to fool him, although he avows he had a sucker at the end.

The mosquitoes at the Port are veritable wonders and it is almost impossible to hear the last post owing to the noise they make. Lieut. W. C. Coo mistook this sound for that of a partridge Monday night, but changed his mind after loading an air-gun.

Capt. Payne is acting commander in Lieut. Tracy's absence.

Private McNamara's melodious voice is heard singing "Annie Rooney" from reveille to the last post.

A few more men are expected down this week. There are about twenty tents standing at the present time.

Lieut.-Col. Tracy left for the city yesterday morning and will return on Saturday. Before going he addressed a few words to the men complimenting them upon their appearance and orderly conduct, and impressing upon them the necessity of its continuance.

ONTARIO DENTISTS.

Annual Meeting of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

TORONTO, July 16.—The tenth bi-annual meeting of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons was held in the Y. M. C. A. lecture-room yesterday afternoon. Dr. G. E. Hanna, of Kemptville, was chosen president, and Dr. A. H. Hipple, of Stratford, secretary. About 60 members were present. Dr. Willmott presented the report of the directors, showing substantial progress. In the two years ending July 15, 1889, 90 matriculation certificates have been presented and 88 indentures signed, as against 85 and 69 the two years before. The financial report showed cash on hand at last meeting, $2,820 27; received since, $2,792 64; disbursements, $1,943 93; a balance on hand of $3,668 98.

These directors were elected for the ensuing year: Drs. Woods, Toronto; Willmott, Toronto; Davis, London; Clement, Toronto; Bosanko, Barrie; Fisher, Wiarton; Martin, Ottawa. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Dr. N. Pearson, London; vice-president, Dr. C. V. Snelgrove, Toronto; secretary, Dr. Bosanko, Barrie; treasurer, Dr. W. A. Spaulding, Toronto; auditors, Dr. Hipple and Dr. Swan.

The newly-elected president, Dr. Pearson, expressed his thanks for his elevation. He had been associated with the members of the society for the past twenty years. Then they were not a profession, but now they feel that they should take rank as one of the learned professions.

Dr. Davis, the retiring president, delivered an interesting address, dealing with the history of the society and matters of internal interest. He explained that the old dental society had been dissolved because it contained certain undesirable men, and that the present society was organized to build up a professional standing for dentists and purge themselves of those whose only object is to obtain the almighty dollar by any means calculated to gain the custom of the ignorant in the community. He urged that they faithfully and fully observe the code of ethics of the society, and expressed a warm belief in dental democracy. Those with large practices should aid their less fortunate brethren. He pressed upon the society the importance of putting the college upon a more permanent basis, and urged the need of sustaining a good dental journal.

On the invitation of Dr. Bosanko, it was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Barrie on the second Tuesday of July, 1891.

The object of the society is to raise the standard of the profession and have a code of ethics presented to every member for signature.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, July 14.—The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the grain trade says: Continued rain renders the outlook less favorable. Ripening is backward and quite four weeks distant. Corn is badly laid and twisted in Kent and Sussex; it stood well elsewhere. English wheat is higher. The sales of English wheat for the week amounted to 31,820 quarters at 33s 2d, against 25,402 quarters at 32s 3d for the corresponding week last year. The trade in foreign wheat was brisk. California wheat is higher. The imports for the week were large and prevented a greater rise in prices. The large stock of flour prevents an advance in that staple. Barley was 3d dearer. Maize also advanced. To-day the market disappointed holders who expected that the unfavorable weather would enliven trade. Grain was hard to move at the advances; foreign wheat was 9d and red 6d dearer. Barley, beans and peas were dull, dearer. The market closed 6d dearer. Flour was 6d dearer. The market ruled heavy dearer for Russian and 9d dearer for heavy oats. Maize sold well at an advance of 3d.

LONDON, Wednesday, July 16.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The grain market here has experienced a few important changes during the past week, the most notable being in wheat and oats. There has been a steady demand for both articles with a light delivery; this has made prices stronger.

Oats have sold at $1.25; the opening figures for No. 1 white and black was $1 10 to $1 12, showing an advance at highest point for the week of 13c. Heavy receipts would likely drive the price back considerably, but not beyond the opening values. It is not expected that the deliveries will improve, however, for some time.

Wheat closed for the week at $1, an advance of 2c per bushel.

Other lines were steady as to price; the deliveries were irregular.

Butter and eggs have been a shade higher. Butter closed at 15c for pound rolls; other grades were affected less, and no alteration is recorded. The principal inquiry was for pound rolls.

Eggs—Receipts light; sales averaged about 1c up.

Fruit was scarce and prices very firm.

Vegetables quiet and steady; receipts were good.

New hay came forward fairly well; sold at $7 50 to $8.

The Dairy Markets.

INGERSOLL.

July 15.—At the cheese market held here today very little business was transacted, the only salesmen boarding being those who held June cheese. Amount of June make boarded, 2,550; sales reported as follows: 1,100 at 8 5-16c, 140 at 8½c; market dull; no July cheese offered; factorymen report the usual shrinkage for this time of year, but, as a rule, the make is holding up well on account of recent showers and favorable weather for pastures. The June cheese west of Toronto averages sold up to about the 19th of the month, and, so far as known, there are none yet gone into cold storage. Factorymen are accepting the situation, and think it is better to keep their goods moving at these prices than to hold back and cause an accumulation.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—The Board of Education will hold a special meeting this evening.

—The annual holidays of the Dundas Center Methodist Church choir have commenced, and for the next month or two the congregation will not have the aid of its well-know musical organization.

—Mr. M. R. Clissold (formerly of London, Ont.,) representing the Toronto Telegram and the Freemason, is here attending the Grand Priory meeting. He is a Sir Knight and a coming Mason.—[Kingston News.

—Mr. G. St. C. Smith, Montreal, resident secretary of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Smith was accompanied by Edward Towe, the agent of the company, and found during his drive through the principal streets and other points of interest that London was much improved, and was pleased with its appearance.

—The various city lodges of the Independent Order of Foresters, through their representatives, desire to return thanks to the Board of the Congregational Church, who on the occasion of the annual church parade last Sunday, arranged matters so comfortably for the visiting Foresters. The thanks of the committee are also due the choir for the excellent music rendered on the occasion.

Captured an Eagle.

Last night at 10:30 o'clock Louis Paladino was walking west on Queen's avenue when he noticed a large feathered creature standing on the eastern steps of the Custom House. Closer inspection proved it to be an immense specimen of the bald headed eagle. An attempt was made to grab its wings but it flew across the street to the vicinity of the Club House. There Mr. Paladino made another attempt and secured its wings, carrying the bird to his home on Queen's avenue, where it is now. In its struggles for freedom the eagle made some rents in its captor's clothing, besides scratching his legs with its claws. Whether the bird was a wild one or not is unknown, but in the meantime the crowd which witnessed the capture is talking over the wonder.

An Ancient Document.

The Forest Free Press says: Richard Browne, of this place, has in his possession an autograph letter written by Bishop Steward, at that time the only Church of England Bishop in Upper or Lower Canada. The letter, which is dated York, U. C., Feb. 25, 1833, was addressed to Capt. Browne, at that time a resident of the town of London, and relates to the appointment of Rev. B. Cronyn (afterwards Bishop Cronyn) to the parish of London. It is written on parchment and reads as follows:

I am happy to be able with the concurrence of his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, to accede to the request of the inhabitants of the town and township of London, and to station among them the Rev. Benjamin Cronyn as their minister. Mr. Cronyn is appointed by me to the cure of souls in the town and township of London. In making this appointment I feel it my duty from the peculiar state of the diocese, to inform those who will enjoy the benefits of his ministrations that since it is not in my power at present to assign him what I consider an adequate salary, there is a strong call for the exertions of the friends of the church to make such addition to his income, by voluntary fixed annual contributions or otherwise, as may enable him to dwell amongst them in that proper comfort which is his due. I trust that the necessary arrangements will at once be carried into effect to meet my wishes and his claims in this respect, and that his labors among you may be abundantly blessed by our Lord and Master. Yours sincerely,

C. J. QUEBEC.

Drowning Disaster—Two Victims.

SANTA ANNA, Cal., July 16.—Lieut.-Col. Donaldson, of the Twenty-Fourth United States Infantry, and Miss Lottie Spurgeon, daughter of W. H. Spurgeon, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, were drowned yesterday at Newport Beach. Miss Spurgeon, who was an expert swimmer, went beyond her depth, when she was carried out by the current. B. F. Hall and his daughter went to her assistance, but they too were caught by the current and were carried out to sea. Lieut. Donaldson plunged through the surf and succeeded in rescuing Hall and his daughter. He then returned to Miss Spurgeon's assistance, but just as he reached her they both disappeared. The bodies were recovered.

The Grand Lodge of Canada Opens in Kingston.

Interesting Report on London Lodges—Corner-Stone Laying.

KINGSTON, July 16.—This forenoon the Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. and A. M., was opened here, Grand Master Walkem presiding.

The Grand Master delivered an interesting address on the progress of the order, which was most encouraging. He also feelingly referred to the loss which the craft had sustained through the death of R. Wor. Bro. Judge Macpherson and other prominent members of the craft. The visit of the Grand Master to Europe and the splendid reception he had there formed a pleasing part of the address.

Last night Grand Master Walkem and his wife entertained the members of the Grand Lodge at a reception. This afternoon the corner stone of the Nickle wing of the General Hospital was laid by the Grand Lodge, there being a large attendance of members as well as the general public. To-night the Kingston fraternity entertain the visiting brethren, and to-morrow evening other festivities are promised.

It is a foregone conclusion that R. Wor. Bro. John Ross Robertson, of Toronto, will be the next grand master, and it is believed that London will be the next place of annual meeting.

MASONRY IN LONDON DISTRICT.

One of the most interesting reports presented to the Grand Lodge was that made by R. Wor. Bro. Doherty, of St. Thomas, D. D. G. M. for No. 3 (London) district. The report will be of especial interest to the London brethren. R. Wor. Bro. Doherty says of the London lodges:

"I have paid official visits to all the lodges in this district but six, and I was prevented from visiting these through illness in January and February, and from the fact of the Provincial elections taking place in the month of June. However, from inquiries that I have made, I am satisfied that the lodges which I have been unable personally to inspect are working satisfactorily, and are in as good a condition as the majority of the county lodges in the district. The general condition of Masonry in this district is good, with some few exceptions. In the cities of London and St. Thomas Craft Masonry has never been in a more flourishing condition than now. All of the lodges in these cities are well officered, and have had all the work possibly do. The material taken in, too, has, so far as I have been able to ascertain, been of the kind calculated to do credit to our ancient craft. The same state of things largely exist in the majority of the country lodges, though there are some few which are or have been in a semi-dormant condition. I find that the work is done in nearly all the lodges by the regular officers, and is generally very well done, and in the cases where I found any lack of efficiency I advised the holding of special meetings for drill and instruction in the work. The books of the different secretaries are, almost without exception, neatly and correctly kept, and the only fault I have to find with these officers is that very many of them are very negligent about sending the D. D. G. M. copies of the summonses for lodge meetings. I think a mistake has been made in the past in instituting new lodges. In some parts of this district, there are altogether too many lodges for all of them to be prosperous. As, for instance, I would mention that in the northeasterly portion of the district there are five lodges within a few miles of each other, namely, Thorndale, Harrietsville, Belmont, Dorchester Station and Thamesford. As a consequence, it is impossible that all of these lodges can succeed, and one in particular, Merrill Lodge, of Dorchester Station, has taken in no new material for years.

St. George's Lodge, No. 42, London—I paid an official visit to this lodge on March 5, 1890. There was a large attendance of members. Regular officers were in their places at the opening, but the W. M. had to leave through illness before the work of the evening began. One candidate was raised, the work being done by W. Bro. Munson, P.M. The work was well done, and the lodge appears to be in an exceedingly prosperous condition, and its financial condition is good. Dues are considerably in arrears, but the brethren are taking steps to have the amount of arrears reduced.

St. John's Lodge, No. 20—I visited this lodge on March 11, 1890. All the regular officers were present; one candidate was initiated according to the ritual of the Irish rite. I was greatly pleased with the manner in which the work was exemplified, not only by the W. M., but by all the subordinate officers as well. I was particularly struck with the lengthy and exhaustive examination to which the candidate for advancement was subjected—an examination that spoke volumes not only for the candidate, but also for his instructor. The financial condition of this lodge is sound, and may be said to be in a flourishing condition.

Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, London—I paid an official visit to this lodge March 20, 1890, and though I had given them no notice of my coming, I found a large attendance of members. The officers were all in their places. There was no work on hand, but the W. M. kindly volunteered to exemplify the work of the third Degree for my inspection. This was the first attempt the present staff of officers had made to confer this degree, and lack of sufficient practice as well as great nervousness on the part of some of them, prevented them from doing the work as well as I am satisfied they will do it before the end of the year. I recommended the weekly holding of lodges of instruction by the officers till the work has been thoroughly mastered. Kilwinning has always had a good record in the past, and I have no fear that the present officers will not maintain its reputation. The lodge is in a prosperous condition in every way. Like most of the London lodges, the P.M.'s are numerous, and they do not forget their lodge duties, but are pretty regularly on hand on the nights of meeting. Dues are fairly paid up, and a number of brethren in arrears were notified to show cause why they should not be suspended at the next meeting. Two applications were received on this evening.

Tuscan Lodge, No. 195, London—I paid an official to this lodge on the evening of March 3, 1890, and found a large attendance both of members of the lodge and visiting brethren. I am also happy to report that I found every officer in his place. The lodge was opened and closed in the three degrees for my inspection, and a candidate was initiated. I spent a most pleasant and enjoyable evening with the brethren of Tuscan, particularly so from the fact that the work, not only of the W.M., but of all the officers, was most efficient. Whatever may have been the fortunes of Tuscan in the past, I have no hesitation in predicting for it a successful career, so long as its chairs are filled by the present staff of officers.

St. John's Lodge, No. 209a, London—Paid an official visit to this lodge on March 27, 1890, and found a very large attendance of brethren, there being in the neighborhood of 150 present. The officers were all in their places, and one candidate was raised to the third degree according to the ritual in use in this lodge. I cannot speak too highly of the way in which this degree was conferred both by the W. M. and his subordinate officers. 209a has the largest membership of any lodge in the city of London, having some 170 on its roll, which is steadily increasing. It is hardly necessary for me to state that the lodge is prosperous financially and otherwise, as under the skillful and careful guidance of the W. M. and his officers, it could not well be otherwise, and also in view of the fact that its members are amongst the most enthusiastic Masons to be found in the district.

King Solomon Lodge, No. 378, London West—Paid an official visit to this lodge March 19, 1890, all the officers being present, with a fair attendance of members. One candidate was raised to the third degree. The work was done in a highly creditable manner by the W. M., especially so as this was the first time he had conferred this degree. The lodge has a membership of about 60. Considerable work has been done during the past year and the prospects for the future are most favorable, as there appears to be plenty of good materia coming in. They have a small but convenient and well appointed lodge room. Financial condition sound.

Corinthian Lodge, No. 330, London East—I visited this lodge on March 4. There was a large attendance of members. At the opening all the regular officers were in their places, but the W. M. (Dr. Gardiner) was obliged to leave to make a professional visit before the conferring of the degrees began. The second degree was conferred on one candidate by the I. P. M. The general work of the lodge is good, especially that of the S. W. Dues are fairly well paid up. I had much pleasure, during the evening, in presenting the I. P. M. (W. Bro. Toll) with a past master's jewel, in recognition of the lodge's appreciation of his services. The lodge meets in a rented hall in London East, which is large and convenient. The books are well kept, and the lodge's condition is in every way satisfactory. I noticed that several of the P. M.'s are regular attendants, and continue to take, as they should do, an active interest in the work.

A New Insect Pest.

The Renfrew Mercury says: Some of our observant farmers lately noticed that oats were somewhat affected, and fancied at first that it was from a touch of frost. On Mr. James O'Connor mentioning the matter at the farmer's picnic to Mr. T. Barr, the latter said it was the blight—it was not due to frost, but to a small "nitt" or louse, which were eating the leaves. On Dominion Day, as Mr. O'Connor was coming to the village, he examined some of the oats in Mr. James Carswell's field, and found some of the stalks covered with these nitts, which vary from a very minute size to that of a pin-head. But the parasite has got its enemy, in the shape of, let us say, a six-legged creature, like a slim, long variety of a potato bug, when it is first hatched out. It is six-legged; half an inch in length; with small black spots along the back, and larger orange spots or belts at the side. The general color is of a faint, neutral tint of blue. Mr. O'Connor captured one of these, which was actively employed in devouring the nitts, and so helping to save the oats. Perhaps some of our friends who have studied entomology can tell us the name of the parasite and of its enemy.

How to Cure Hoven or Bloat.

Every farmer is liable to have one of his cattle troubled with bloat, and as it is a matter that requires attention in season, we give a cure mentioned by George H. Hogan, in Hoard's Dairyman: Get a smooth round stick ten to twelve inches long and large enough to keep the animal's lips apart when placed in the mouth; then with strings attached to each end, place in the mouth and tie back of the horns. The effort to dislodge the stick will work the gas out of the stomach. This is a very simple means and should be remembered by all farmers.

The great lung healer is found in excellent medicine sold as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

A True Balsam.—DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is truly a balsam. It contains the balsamic principle of the Wild Cherry, the balsamic properties of tar and of pine. Its ingredients are all balsamic. Coughs, colds, sore throats, bronchitis and consumption speedily disappear under its balsamic influence.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

DIANA WENTWORTH.

PROLOGUE.

It was an exquisite summer evening, not moonlight, but not yet dark, so that the young man and woman walking slowly along the West Fields could still dimly see each other's features. They were very young; he looked about 20, she could not be more than 17. He had a tall, well-made figure, and a face which expressed resolution and a certain degree of pride, although his clothing was that of a country workman, and his speech betrayed him as a dweller among the hills. The girl was very pretty, with soft brown hair, and eyes which were alternately appealing and roguish. One sought in vain in her features for some sign of the high purpose which animated his, yet, in spite of this want, it was a very winning face. She wore neither bonnet nor shawl, so that it was easy to see that her figure was slighter and more upright than is that of most girls of her class, and the arrangement of her dress bespoke an evident knowledge and appreciation of her advantages. She had slipped her hand through the young man's arm, and rather nestled against him as the walked along. The light was fading fast; the river rushing at the foot of the cliffs, on the top of which they were walking, made its presence known to the ear rather than the eye; the outlines of the hills, which rose around them on all sides, were becoming dim; the woods on the other side of the valley were an indistinct mass. They had walked for a long time before they began to speak. Then the man said:

"It's a bonny spot, Mary, lass; I shall often think of it when I am far away."

"Eh, John," she answered, with a little toss of her head, "you are a queer fellow. Any one else would have told me they would think of me."

"I shall think of you. This place and you are so bound up in my mind, I can't think of one without the other. We have walked here so often together."

"An' now I mun walk alone. It'll be dree work. Are you boun' to go to-morrow, John?"

"Yes; I'm off in the morning, as soon as it is light. I shall walk to Bellingham, and take the train from there."

"And you can't tell when you'll be back."

"Nay, how can I tell? I've my fortune to make; but as soon as I can come back, I will."

"I doubt it will be a long time to wait," she said, with a sigh.

"And what if it is," he answered quickly. "You won't be waiting alone; I shall be keeping you company, though I am a long way off. You don't think you'll get tired of waiting, Mary?" he concluded, rather anxiously.

"No," she answered, "no; no, I won't get tired, though it's a dull place, and there is very little to see. But I shall be glad when you've made your fortune; then you'll be a rich man, and I shall be a lady."

"It's not only riches as makes ladies and gentlemen," he said; "it's many a lot of other things besides; and I doubt if ladies and gentlemen is any happier than us poor folk. The've just as hard a time in many ways, and I can't tell why you hanker after it so. A good, honest, working woman's better than an idle fine lady, and if you were a lady, Mary, you would be an idle one, I fear; you are not fond of work," he concluded, half playfully.

"No," said Mary, "I am not. It's a life as would suit me finely, to ride i' my carriage and do nothing all day, because there was servants to do the work. Eh, I should like to have servants, and keep my hands white and clean."

He laughed at her tone of enthusiasm, and then said more gravely:

"I can promise you servants, if you will only have a bit of patience. And now, Mary, we must say good-bye. Here we are at your father's farm, and they will be angry with me if I keep you out any longer. Promise me once more to be true."

"Eh," she cried, "how you do go on! Do you doubt me?"

"No, I don't doubt you; but I don't like leaving you so long. You are very pretty, and there will be lots of men asking you to wife. And maybe they will try to persuade you at home; they have not much faith in me, you know."

"John," she cried, with a sudden tone of fear in her voice, "you never can tell. If father began wishing me for to marry some one else, and you not here to help me, I'd happen to say 'Yes' for peace and quietness. Let me swear, and then I shall be quite safe; I could not break an oath."

"I don't like oaths," said John; "I would rather have an honest promise from some one I trusted."

"Ay, but John, to please me," she pleaded. "We will swear to one another, and then we shall both be safe. Do now, John; it's the last thing I shall ask you for a long while."

"Well," he said slowly, "but it's to please you, mind."

"Yes, yes; and you swear first."

So he swore: "I, John Garthwaite, swear to be true to you, Mary Metcalfe, as you are true to me."

And Mary said the oath after him:

"I, Mary Metcalfe, swear to be true to you, John Garthwaite, as you are true to me."

Then there came the last parting kisses, blessings, and a few last words, and then Mary went into her father's house, and John set off home across the hills.

CHAPTER I.

PROFESSOR WENTWORTH'S WILL.

Professor Wentworth was dead and buried, and his will had created a certain sensation among those who heard it and those who heard of it. It was an un-English will, and those who talked about it said that if he had not all his life been an eccentric man, there would have been grounds for thinking him of unsound mind when he died. To his sons, aged respectively 23 and 18, he left £500 apiece—all his savings. He had money invested, which was bringing in £150 a year, and this he bequeathed to his widow and only daughter, to be shared equally between them until his widow's death, when it should all go to his daughter. There was a letter directed to his sons, which he had desired they might read after hearing his will, and in which the following passage, relating to the way in which he had left his money, occurred:

"I have done my best for you, and now you are both started in life and must look to yourselves alone. With £500 to fall back upon, you cannot come to harm. It is in accordance with what I have taught you all your lives, that the women must have the settled income. Your sister may never marry, in which case she must be provided for; or, if she does, she cannot go penniless to her husband.

The lads were fond and proud of their sister, and had acquiesced in their father's judgment. Wilfrid, the elder was well placed in New Zealand — Harold, the younger, was in a large Whitfield warehouse; clearly it was Diana, beautiful, fastidious Diana, who must be provided for and shielded from the wintry winds of care and privation. As for their mother, they were both good sons, and would always care for her. They thought their father had acted quite rightly, and went back to their work perfectly contented with what had fallen to their share.

CHAPTER II.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

"It is from Uncle Philip, Diana; you may read it," said Mrs. Wentworth, handing her daughter an open letter.

Diana put down her mother's breakfast-tray, and sat down on the edge of the bed to read the following letter:

"My dear Alice,—I have your letter telling me of your changed arrangements. I think it is a pity Harold cannot make up his mind to stay in England near his mother; but since Wilfrid is doing so well in New Zealand, I suppose it is only natural that he should wish to share his good fortune. Young blood will be young blood, and life in a Whitfield warehouse cannot be as attractive as sheep-farming in New Zealand. I wish the lad every success. Under the circumstances, I think it quite natural you should wish to leave Whitfield, and I feel gratified that you should ask my advice as to a suitable place for a future home. I need not assure you that, were it necessary, any help I could give you in the expense of removing I would willingly offer. I have, however, another proposal to make, which I trust will prove agreeable to you. You cannot live in comfort anywhere upon the income to which you have been reduced, and I write now to suggest that you and Diana should henceforth make your home with us. I have consulted Guy and the girls, and I need scarcely say that they join with me in offering you a hearty welcome. Your income will be sufficient for your personal wants; and as your presence in my house can only be a help and an advantage to my girls, I think the arrangement will be a mutual gain. Of Diana, I cannot speak, since I have not the pleasure of knowing her; but I trust she will be happy with her cousins. Perhaps I am biassed, but I think intercourse with Gertrude and Dora cannot fail to influence her for good."

There was much more—plans arrangements and sympathy; but all breathed a confident spirit, as though the writer felt sure of his invitation being accepted, and the letter concluded very affectionately with a hope of a speedy meeting.

Diana, having finished reading, let her hands sink into her lap and sat looking at her mother.

"How like your uncle!" said Mrs. Wentworth, enthusiastically. "What a noble, generous, offer! and what a simple way out of all my difficulties."

"What does it mean?" asked Diana; "I don't understand it. Have you been writing to Uncle Meredith about money matters?"

FUN, FACTS AND FICTION.

A Judicious Compound of Wit and Wisdom.

As the sun breaking forth in winter, so is joy in the season of affliction. As a shower in the midst of summer, so are the salutary drops of sorrow mingled in our cup of pleasure.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority

Every man's success is within himself and must come out of himself. No true, abiding and just success can come to any man in any other way.

"Hair Magic"

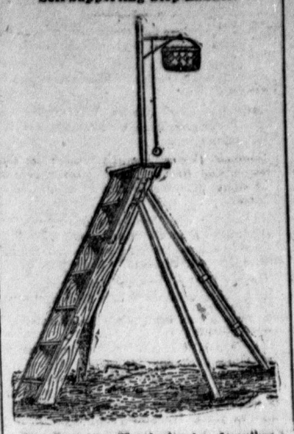

Is a good name of Dr. Dorenwend's German preparation for the hair. It really works like magic. All who have used it pronounce it to be unequaled for remedying the lost vitality of the hair roots, restoring gray hair, removing dandruff, etc. Just try it. It is first-class. All druggists sell it.

A human being should be improving with every day of a lifetime, and will probably have to go on learning throughout all the ages of immortality.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

What's well begun is half done.

Self-Supporting Step-Ladder.

The Canadian Horticulturist describes a self-supporting step-ladder as resting on five bearings, three of them adjustable as to length and position, and easily adapted to all inequalities of surface, perfectly secure and very profitable. The crane, or basket and hook-holder, rotates, or may be shifted to either side of the operator, will support 30 pounds of fruit in basket with ease, and the legs all fold in when required. It provides a safe stand, and at the same time increase the facilities of the operator in picking fruit, pruning trees, etc., giving him the full use of both hands and placing the basket within easy reach of the same. If you are going to have any apples, pears, plums or other fruit of the kind to pick this season, provide yourself with a ladder like the above.

Cheese-Makers' Work, Wages, and Thinking.

In an address at a convention of dairymen at Stratford, Professor J. W. Robertson said: "I would also have every cheesemaker become an experimental cheesemaker. The whole business of making cheese is experimental. No man knows the peculiar qualities of any cow's milk right down to their ultimate and peculiar characteristics, from day to day, and therefore every day's work is experimental. Now, we will reach safe conclusions only when cheesemakers learn to carry on experimental work with clearness by regarding every relation and result, and when cheesemakers do that, they will find by-and-bye a plan by which they can make uniformly better cheese. I would not have a cheesemaker blindly grinding out blind results by routine practice. I would have him so think out his business that his thought will go ahead of his curd-knife or steam pipe. No machinery and no printed code of instructions can take the place of personal thought with any man who wants to succeed in his business. This is rather trying for some cheese-makers. It is probably tiresome sometimes for a man to think, or even to be stimulated to thought. Some men dislike to think, or even to be stimulated to thought. Some men dislike to think seriously as much as they would dislike to be called out of bed at half-past 4 to catch the train by which they might be going to get married.

Vigilance is necessary against unexpected attacks of summer complaints. No remedy is so well-known or so successful in this class of diseases as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Keep it in the house as a safeguard.

ABOUT HAIR

Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Sir,—I have, as you know, for some time advertised in Canada and the States a preparation for the hair called "Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic." I have received some thousands of flattering testimonials from those who have used it as to its merits as a restorative of gray or faded hair; also as a promoter of the growth and a certain cure for dandruff.

A great many of my correspondents ask the questions: "Why is my hair turning gray so early? Why is my hair falling out?" As it is impossible for me to answer every one, I take the liberty of encroaching on your valuable space to make a general reply. A great many persons do not seem to be aware that excessive washing and rubbing is injurious to the growth of the hair; such is the case, however. Constant washing and rubbing the scalp and hair causes over-irritation and removes the oily substance which gives strength to the hair; undue heat caused by the wearing of heavy headgear is also injurious. Anything that will tend to dry up the sap or life of the hair will cause dandruff, falling out of the hair, gray or faded hair and finally baldness. Of course there are other causes as diseases, hereditary tendencies, etc., but the first mentioned are the main and most common.

Dr. Dorenwend, an eminent German physician, has given to the world after years of toil and experiment his now famous "Hair Magic." The object of this preparation is to assist nature in the production of this oily substance absolutely necessary to the growth of the hair. It is now sold by all reliable druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, or will be sent on receipt of price to any address. See that each wrapper bears the seal and signature of the manufacturer.

Methodists' Picnics.

The heights of Port Stanley were alive yesterday with the blithesome Sunday school scholars of the Colborne Street, King Street and London West Methodist Churches. Every manner of innocent festivity was indulged in, and a large number went out in the steamer Ruby. Those indispensable appendages to a picnic at the Port—lunch baskets—did their share of the work admirably. The excursionists returned to the city about 9 o'clock, tired and happy.

George Brunton and the Gormans.

George E. Brunton, the well known Londoner who has just closed a two-year's engagement with the celebrated Gorman Minstrels, has been re-engaged for next season, as the Gormans consider him a decided acquisition to the company in the opera of the Gamboliers (being a travesty on the Gondoliers). He will appear as one of the gay Gamboliers, the part being especially written for him. The Dancers' Dream, with an allegorical tableau of Columbus discovering America, will be a strong feature. The Gormans, who for ten years were the mainstay of the once famous Haverley Minstrels, have fairly outdone themselves in the way of new productions for the coming season, and with a company of comedians, vocalists, dancers, specialists and musicians unexcelled, bid fair to win new laurels and add to their wealth.

Walker Arrested.

A Montreal dispatch says: "Chief Detective Cullen last night received a telegram from Toronto, signed B. B. Allan, London, Ont.: 'Arrest James Walker, G. T. R. agent of Clandeboye. He is wanted for forgery. He is supposed to have left here by G. T. R. No. 3 to-night. Age about 50, height 5 feet, 7 inches, red face, curly hair, clean shaven, walks lame with a cane. If arrested, telegraph. I hold warrant.' Mr. Cullen was on hand at the Bonaventure station this morning and immediately spotted his man. 'Good-morning, Mr. Walker,' said the detective. 'Have you just arrived?' 'I have,' said the new comer, 'but who are you?' Mr. Cullen gave him the information necessary and escorted him to the Central Station, where he was locked up. Walker protests his innocence. He had no baggage, and had on his person in the way of valuables only a watch and chain and a few dollars. The London authorities were immediately notified of his arrest."

VOICES OF THE PEOPLE.

That Glorious Gathering.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

The School Board have reason to be satisfied with the success of the demonstration of July 1, and certainly no one will blame them for any efforts they may make to get it fairly on the page of history along with that other "raising of the standard." They deserve and I believe have got credit for an honest effort to "boom" education in the city. Let this suffice and let the majority see to it that any one or more members who may have too much enjoyed the glory of being gazed at, wondered at, and admired by the little folks do not make it a basis of persecution against either pupils or teachers. A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia.

Neuralgia is one of the most common and painful affections incidental to this climate. Life to thousands is made miserable through its agency, and as it affects the nerves, only the most powerful and penetrating remedies can reach it. Nerviline has created wonder in the minds of those who have uselessly tried other remedies, since its action seems magical. To all suffering from any kind of nerve pain, internal or external we request a trial of Nerviline. Sold by all dealers in medicine, 10 and 25 cents a bottle.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Miss McIntyre has resigned her position in Maxwell (Grey county) public school.

All French schoolboys wear uniforms, and every institution of learning has its distinctive dress.

The late J. J. McElhone, stenographer of the United States National House of Representatives, could report equally well with either hand, and in taking a long speech in the House he would frequently shift the pencil from one hand to the other without interrupting his speed. Why should boys and girls be taught to write with one hand only?

At the Brantford Collegiate Institute Board meeting on Friday evening an acknowledgement was read from Mr. A. H. Morrison, stating that he had been injudicious with reference to some of his remarks regarding future punishment, and pledging himself not to make any such reference in the future. He will be retained on the staff upon this understanding.

The man who offered to spell "coffee" without putting a single one of its letters into it, and rendered it "kauphy," could perform many like feats with that absurd and contradictory foundation of learning that we call our alphabet. Has not the time come to revise it, and have one letter and no more appointed to designate each sound? The teaching fraternity should lead in a movement of this kind.

In the canton of Geneva a sanitary inspection of infant and primary schools is made at least twice during the year—once in January, and again after the summer holidays. How strict this examination is is shown by the fact that each child is examined individually. Every child who shows symptoms of any contagious disease has to be sent home at once, and is not allowed to return to school without presenting a doctor's certificate to the fact that his or her return will have no bad consequences for the rest of the school.
