59TH YEAR. NO. 23372

LONDON, ONTARIO, MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 26, 1922.

PRICE, THREE CENTS

SEES LONDON'S POPULATION 92,000 IN 1930

Completes London West $520,000 Sewer System

CITY ENGINEER ANNOUNCES END OF CIVIC WORK

Plares Residents Can Now Connect Homes To Sewers.

MUST OBTAIN PERMIT

To Prepare Bylaw Prohibiting Drainage of Water From Roofs.

Connecting the pumping station at Douglas and Cavendish streets with the pipes leading from streets in the district, city workmen Saturday afternoon completed the new sanitary sewer system of London West, constructed at an estimated cost of $520,000.

This fact was announced by City Engineer H. A. Brazier Monday morning, who stated that residents of London West may immediately proceed to connect their homes with the sewers fronting them. He warns them, however, that before such action can be taken a permit must be obtained from the plumbing inspector.

Will Serve Every Street. Work on the London West sanitary sewer system, which will serve every street in that district, except those on the city limits, where one side is in the township, and three streets on the Cove flats, which have not been built upon, was begun last summer.

According to the engineer's plans, the system should have been completed about ten days ago, but heavy rains prevented the workmen from laying a 27-inch pipe connecting the pumping station with the main system.

This connection, approximately 110 feet in length, was completed Saturday afternoon, and the pumps at the station, which are electrically driven, have been in working order for several days. They will pump the sewage across the River Thames to the main disposal plant, and they are four in number.

A bylaw will be prepared prohibiting any water from roofs or yards being emptied into the new system, as it is strictly sanitary in function, according to the city engineer.

The new station is ready to take all the sewage from London West, said City Engineer Brazier Monday morning. "The last connecting link was completed Saturday afternoon."

In addition to serving West London, the new sewer system will also serve Thames street, and a portion of South London, via a pipe which crosses the River Thames at Dundas street. This section of the system has not been completed, but will not interfere with the main system.

To Drain Water. Beneath the 27-inch tile connecting up the system with the pumping station, it was necessary to lay a six-inch tile to drain the water encountered by the workmen in digging the deep trench for the pipes. The presence of this water became a menace a few days ago, when heavy rains filled the trench and necessitated operation of the pumps at the station to drain it off.

However, this difficulty has been overcome, and the first complete sanitary sewers system for West London became a reality on completion Saturday afternoon.

STEAMSHIP ARRIVALS. Liverpool, June 24.—Montrose (British), from Montreal.

Guard Kills Veteran In Error For Escaped Convict

MONCTON, N. B., June 26.—William Fitzpatrick, aged 30, was shot and instantly killed about 1 o'clock Sunday morning at Port Elgin in mistake for an escaped convict named William McLean from the Dorchester Penitentiary.

The shooting was done by Guard Frank A. Dobson of the penitentiary staff, who had been specially dispatched to Port Elgin Saturday in response to a message that a man resembling the escaped convict had been seen near Port Elgin.

After hearing evidence, a coroner's jury exonerated the guard.

The dead man was a returned soldier, being a member of the New Brunswick 26th.

Fears Former Kaiser May Return To Germany

LONDON, June 26.—Apprehension exists in Holland lest Former Kaiser William attempt to slip away from Doorn and re-enter Germany in the event of a royalist rising following the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail at The Hague.

The writer, however, quotes J. B. Kan, secretary of the Dutch home office, as saying that such apprehension is groundless.

LIBERAL CHIEF DENIES UNION

Hay Brands Stories of Alliance With Farmers' "Pipe Dreams."

Hon. Peter Smith Also Declares He Knows Nothing of Amalgamation.

Toronto, June 26.—Ottawa stories to the effect that Premier Drury contemplated some sort of alliance with the Liberals in the Legislature may have some foundation, but it was difficult today to find anyone who would give confirmation of them.

Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, and Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, characterized the stories as "pipe dreams" and "fantastic."

Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, who, according to the Ottawa dispatches, was to have one of the principal portfolios in the new coalition, stated by long distance telephone from Listowel that "I have never been approached and know nothing about it. You cannot make that too strong so far as I am concerned," he added.

"Have you heard that five Liberals may accept cabinet positions?" he was asked. "It's very interesting," he replied, "but so far as I am aware it is nothing more than gossip."

Hon. Peter Smith, who is thought to be the gentleman referred to in an Ottawa story which speaks of "an emissary of the Ontario premier" being in the capital within the last two weeks, said he was in Ottawa, but only for an hour and a half; "Just passed through on my way to Renfrew County," he said, "I never heard of any proposed amalgamation. It's just a pipe dream."

CHURCHILL ASKS FOR FULL DEBATE ON IRISH AFFAIRS

Makes Promised Statement Before Commons Monday Afternoon.

LONDON, June 26.—Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, rising to make his promised statement on Irish affairs in the House of Commons this afternoon, said the government desired the freest and fullest debate, and one that could be determined by a division.

Mr. Churchill declared he did not hesitate to say that all the horrors that had occurred in Belfast were due to the organization in northern territory of two divisions of the Irish Republican Army, and the continuous efforts by extreme partisans of the south to break down the Ulster Government and force Ulster against her will to come under the rule of Dublin.

STOPS TRAIN TO SAVE AUTOMOBILE

Because he failed to recognize the right of a mere railway crossing gate, of slender proportions, to stop his progress, a man, giving his name as Pardee, believed to be from out of town, narrowly escaped a bad smash with a G. T. R. passenger train at Adelaide street Saturday afternoon.

For some reason the man failed to stop his car when the south-east gate was lowered. Crashing through the obstruction he drove onto the tracks and then stopped his car immediately in the pathway of a train approaching from the east.

Unable to start the car in time, he jumped from the seat and ran towards the train, excitedly waving his arms. Fortunately the engineer had his train under control and was able to bring it to a stop before the locomotive reached the stalled car.

MULTITUDES MOURN AS WILSON IS LAID AT REST IN ST. PAUL'S

In Far Corners of British Empire Minute Guns Sound, While Old London Bows Bared Heads As Funeral Passes in Drizzly Rain On Way to Hero's Grave—Verdict of Wilful Murder Brought Against Assassins By Coroner's Jury.

LONDON, June 26.—Londoners by the hundreds of thousands left their homes early today to pay tribute to the late Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson at the funeral services held for the late military chieftain, victim of the bullets of assassins.

For hours they stood patiently in line in a drizzling rain to watch the solemn procession making its way to the sound of muffled drums from the field marshal's late home in Eaton Place to St. Paul's Cathedral. The entire three-mile route was choked with spectators, and all traffic was at a complete standstill.

St. Paul's Square had never held so many people since the funeral of King Edward in 1910, while outside Sir Henry's home as the procession started a great multitude had assembled, former officers and soldiers being conspicuous amongst them. The throng stood with bared heads as the cortege formed and passed on toward the cathedral.

Throughout the city all flags were half-masted, and many offices and shops were closed to permit employees to witness the imposing ceremonial. Throughout the Empire, also, the day was one of national mourning, even from far-off New Zealand coming word that minute guns would be fired during the funeral and all flags half-masted. In Northern Ireland, the home of the slain soldier, there were special manifestations of grief, and memorial services were held in most of the churches.

The scenes in London contrasted with those of a week ago when the city rang with the cheers of the multitudes welcoming home the Prince of Wales. Today was sombre with the thud of muffled drums and the crunch of the feet of slow-moving troops on the gravelled pavements as they marched beneath a drizzling rain, the past throngs of the populace who stood with heads bared and bowed in tribute to the murdered soldier.

From the bullet-marked doorway in Eaton Place where he died, the body of the late field marshal was carried to its tomb beneath the great dome of St. Paul's where lie enshrined the bodies of Wellington, Nelson and others, who made British history on the battlefield and in the quarterdeck.

Coffin Draped in Flags. Thousands of cheering troops, horse and foot, carried in front of the flag-covered coffin the draped colors of some of the regiments which the dead field marshal had captained to victory in the great war, while alongside the rumbling caisson marched five field marshals, five generals and the chiefs of the naval and air services, who acted as pallbearers.

In its wake a lone enlisted man led the field marshal's dapper charger, riderless and with stirrups reversed. Six officers in resplendent uniform bore the late field marshal's medals and decorations and his baton on scarlet cushions.

Then marched the Duke of Connaught, turned to Page 9, Column 2.

PROPOSE REORGANIZATION OF POSTAL DEPARTMENT

London Authorities Advised of Contemplated Changes To Take Place Soon.

Reorganization in the London postoffice and postal department will take place within a month, according to word received by the local office.

The advice is to the effect that with the prorogation of Parliament, a reorganization similar to the one that occurred under the direction of the civil service commission last summer will be carried out.

When Parliament is in recess, opportunity will be given the ministers and heads of the departments of government to direct such a reorganization.

Immediately after this change has taken place, the long-delayed appointments in the local postoffice are expected to be made; or it is possible that the appointments may be made in conjunction with the reorganization.

COMMONS NEARS END OF SESSION

Ottawa, June 26.—(Canadian Press).—The railway rates reductions, according to notice given Saturday night, will come up in the House of Commons this afternoon. Notice to this effect was given by Hon. A. K. MacLean, who has been presiding over the committee sessions on this thorny subject.

The premier stated at the same time that the railway rate question was the only government business now on the paper of the House of Commons.

Mount Everest Baffles Effort of Man

LONDON, June 26.—Mount Everest has again baffled the best efforts of man. The Calcutta correspondent of the Daily Telegraph today confirms previous reports that Brig-Gen C. B. Bruce, head of the present expedition, has been forced to the conclusion that persistence in the effort to scale the peak would only result in useless tragedy.

Major H. T. Morshead was the worst sufferer from frost-bite. G. L. Mallory and another member of the party, also was badly bitten, and several others less severely.

SLAIN HERRIN MINERS BURIED

Protestant Ministers Commit Bodies to Earth in Potter's Field.

Coroner's Jury Holds "Unknown Persons" Responsible For Deaths.

Herrin, Ill., June 26.—Williamson County buried the dead in their latest mine war yesterday, conducted an inquest to determine the cause of their death, and today faced the responsibility of bringing the guilty to justice.

With not a single arrest made since the massacre of last Thursday, when at least nineteen men were killed, strike sympathizers turned the Lester mine, and with county officials making no visible effort to place the blame, the investigating is being done by state and federal agents.

Representatives of the department of justice, department of labor, the state attorney-general's office and the adjutant-general, are quietly delving into the cloak of secrecy which so far has surrounded the identity of the 5,000 men who marched from Herrin in broad daylight, took more than 50 unarmed men prisoners, marched them back down the road into a wood, and there killed nineteen and wounded nearly as many more.

Yesterday six men of Williamson County—three miners, an electrician and the superintendent of the Herrin waterworks—were solemnly inducted into the evidence of witnesses and returned their verdict.

They found, and so recorded, that C. K. McDowell, murdered superintendent of the Lester mine, killed a union miner on Wednesday, the day before the massacre. Of the other dead, nineteen in all, including two strikers, the jury found they came to their death by gunshot wounds inflicted by unknown persons.

Yesterday morning sixteen unknown dead, all non-union workers and guards at the Lester mine, were buried by the county in Potter's Field.

In plain caskets, were placed side by side on the parched grass, four Protestant ministers of Herrin conducting the brief burial service, while a hundred overall-clad miners and a dozen newspaper correspondents looked on. The ministerial quartet, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," read a "salm," delivered a prayer, and committed the bodies to the earth.

No flowers graced the graves, but at the head of each the undertaker stuck a little metal sign, with a glass-covered card. On each card was a number and the date, "June 22, 1922." For each numbered card the undertaker preserved a description of the man buried beneath it, if relatives should appear to claim him.

FATHER BRADY RECEIVES HONOR FROM POPE PIUS

Pastor of St. Mary's Church Addressed as Monsignor.

HIS HOLINESS IS SPONSOR

Others of London Party Also Honored by Head of Church.

Rev. Father M. J. Brady, pastor of St. Mary's Church in this city, has had the title of Monsignor conferred upon him by Pope Pius XI, word to this effect reaching the city today.

Monsignor Vive Voce, as Father Brady is now known, is the first to receive the honor by word of mouth from the pope since he became head of the Roman Catholic Church.

The prevailing custom is to notify the recipient of any honor conferred by the Pope by wire or letter, but when Father Brady entered the presence of the Pope for his first audience he was addressed as Monsignor, thereby informing him that the title was being conferred upon him.

The Holy Father himself acted as sponsor. It was also learned today that Father Foley, who was one of the priests from London accompanying Father Brady to Europe, has been made Doctor of Divinity by His Holiness, and that another of the party has received the title of Monsignor.

Monsignor Vive Voce sailed to Rome a few weeks ago with Bishop M. F. Fallon, Father Foley, Father Forristal and Father Hanlan to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Rome. The party will sail for Canada from England, July 30.

The new Monsignor has been pastor of St. Mary's Church for about three years, coming to London from Wallaceburg to take the place of the late Monsignor P. J. Kennedy.

BRITISH PRESS DENOUNCES SLAYING OF DR. RATHENAU

Believes German Government Will Be Seriously Embarrassed by Loss of Minister.

LONDON, June 16.—Accounts of the assassination of the German foreign minister, Dr. Rathenau, fill the chief columns of the London newspapers this morning, and the crime is generally denounced with severe reprobation.

Its political significance is stressed in the editorial columns, and serious inferences are drawn. It is regarded as certain that the German government will be seriously embarrassed by the loss of its able foreign minister, while the evidence of a conspiracy against the republic is considered as affording ground for grave apprehension as to future events in Europe.

The Daily Mail declares the situation is not a matter for purely local concern, adding: "The Allies must see to it. The whole question of reparations is at stake."

The Morning Post urges France and Great Britain to take warning and co-ordinate their policy before the threatened storm bursts.

TO AFFILIATE WITH MOSCOW UNION

Truro, N. S., June 26.—The special convention of District 26 of the United Mine Workers of America, now meeting here, decided on Saturday to send a delegate to District 18, the Alberta and British Columbia division, to take up with the miners there the question of sending a delegate from Canada to the Red International Trades Union in Moscow to negotiate on the matter of affiliation with that organization. It was decided that District 26 would pay half the expenses of such a delegate. District 26 is the Nova Scotia section of the U. M. W. A. The miners further recorded their intention of asking all the "workers" of today to join into one union to "fight the battle of the wage earners."

ASK EXTENSION OF DEBENTURES

Citizens of London West Follow Suit of Northern Residents.

Latter Not Satisfied With 20-Year Term For Payments.

Following the procedure of residents of North London, in the vicinity of Huron, Regent, Victoria, Richmond and St. George streets, who have asked that debentures to pay for sewers constructed on the above thoroughfares be extended to 30 years, ratepayers of West London, are contemplating similar action with regard to the new sanitary sewer system in that district.

City Clerk S. Baker informed The Advertiser that a citizen of West London approached him Monday morning, and requested a form of petition to be signed asking for an extension of time in which to pay for these new sewers. The city clerk informed him that there was no form published for this purpose, as it is contrary to city council procedure to grant such an extended term for debentures.

"There was a property-owner from West London in this morning," said the city clerk Monday, "and he asked for a petition form to have the cost of West London sewers spread over a 30-year term instead of the usual ten years."

"Was the London West system constructed against the will of the ratepayers involved?" asked the reporter, having in mind the case of the North London citizens, who did not desire the local improvements, for which they are now being compelled to pay.

"Sewers in London West were petitioned for in certain districts," explained the clerk, "and because of these petitions the city had to make a whole system in order to grant them. These citizens who want the terms of payment extended should be made to understand that in doing so they will be paying three times as much as in ten years, owing to the interest. They want thirty years in which to pay."

"It would be a good-plain for London West ratepayers to find out what this sewer is going to cost them before petitioning to extend their debentures," advised City Engineer H. A. Brazier, who is in charge of this construction work. "They do not know their frontage rate yet, and therefore, do not know what the sewer is going to cost them."

The citizens of North London, who are not satisfied with an extension to twenty years of debentures on their sewers, but request thirty years in addition, will have their request which to pay, and financial relief in considered by members of No. 2 committee of the city council in session Tuesday night.

RECOGNIZE TURK NATIONALIST RULE

Constantinople, June 26.—Persia has formally recognized the Turkish Nationalist government by appointing as fully-accredited ambassador in Ankara, Mimitaz-Ed-Dovleh, formerly president of the Persian Parliament.

The diplomatic situation thus created is most unusual, as Persia already has an ambassador accredited to the Sublime Porte, which claims sovereignty over the same territory as does the Nationalist government.

HYDRO BOARD

FIGURES CITY'S GROWTH-TO-BE

Reports Yearly Increase of 4 Per Cent From 1902 to 1910.

ADVANCE MAINTAINED

Tabulates Data Gathered by Commission During Local Survey.

Based on its report on figures for the last twenty years, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, through its chairman, Sir Adam Beck, estimates that the population of London in 1930 will be at least 92,000.

This report was prepared in connection with a survey of the status of the London Street Railway Company by the commission on request of the city council.

Increased 4 Per Cent. From 1902 to 1910 population in London increased from 29,183 to 49,507, which shows an increase of 4 per cent each year. Between 1910 and one year later, there was a decrease of 5 1/2 per cent in the city's population. From 1911 to 1916 there was an increase in population of 4 per cent per year.

According to the report, it is not certain what caused the decrease in 1911, but a decrease in population from 1916 to 1918 in the city's population is attributed to the war.

From 1918 until the present time an increase of four per cent in London's population has been steadily maintained.

From this data the report says: "It would only be reasonable to expect a continued similar increase, and, in fact, conditions point to a more or less greater increase, but a four per cent increase for five years, in which time the estimated figures have grown to about 75,000 should be conservative."

"It would seem proper then to figure on a greater increase as the population enlarges, up to a certain limit, of course, but probably safe to assume five per cent for a further five years. This brings a population of about 92,000 by 1930. Statements of city officials, etc., point to a generally anticipated figure of 100,000 population in ten years as a fair estimate. We should safely be able to assume 92,000."

Estimated Figures. Following are the estimated figures as presented by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission on London's population:

	Calendar Year	Fiscal Year
1922	65,205	63,916
1923	67,813	66,500
1924	70,508	69,126
1925	73,745	71,891
1926	77,372	75,485
1927	81,259	79,259
1928	85,323	83,242
1929	89,580	87,404
1930	94,070	91,775

"Past records of population show figures for years as in January. We are taking this figure in fiscal year calculations, and average of that figure, and the one for following year as population for calendar year calculations."

Everyone Is Welcome at Any of These Churches On the Sabbath Day

Says Lasting Peace Can Come On Earth Only By Gospel of Christ

With a powerful and eloquent message from the United States, full of the spirit of love and friendship toward all and malice toward none, Rev. Kerison Juniper of St. Petersburg, Florida, during the morning service at First Methodist Church, showed clearly that "only by the gospel of Jesus Christ can lasting peace be expected among the peoples of the earth."

"My chief object," Mr. Juniper declared, "is a constant endeavor to create a more cordial feeling between the people of the British Empire and those across the international boundary line."

"That task during those strenuous days prior to the entry into the world war of the United States, was by no means an easy one. However, I maintain that a gathering such as I have just attended in Toronto—the Kiwanis international convention—has done more to bring the people of these two great countries together than most of us realize."

ASSERTS PENANCE NATURAL VIRTUE

Speaking on the virtue of penance at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning, at the 10:30 mass, Rev. Father Mahoney chose as a text the words, "There is joy before the angels in heaven upon the repentance of a sinner."

"The words are from the parable spoken by Christ to the scribes and Pharisees in the good shepherd, who, having lost one of his sheep, left the remainder to go and rescue the missing one. This parable was told as well as the one about the woman with ten groats, who, having lost one, hunted for it until she had found it, and having found it, called her neighbors together that they might rejoice with her over her discovery."

These parables, said Father Mahoney, were told by Jesus to the scribes and Pharisees in one of his many conflicts with them. At that time, he said, they were finding fault with Christ, for his association with sinners, in order to excuse themselves from following him as the Messiah, which he claimed to be. Christ had said, "There is more rejoicing in heaven over one sinner doing penance than over 99 just, who need no penance."

"It is over the doing penance that there is rejoicing," said the speaker. "Penance is a natural and a supernatural virtue," he continued, "which should be exercised by all."

"Penance, as a supernatural virtue, the priest went on to show, was made up of a hatred of sin, a sorrow for sin, an atonement and a purpose of amendment."

Sin, as the thing which separated creature and Creator, and took away from man his destiny and ultimate aim of eternal reward, was to be hated.

Sorrow was achieved by the thought that it was through one's own fault that sin was committed.

Atonement and amendment were each essential. Atonement by way of reparation was necessary, while purpose of amendment necessary for future conduct of life, after doing penance. Father Mahoney stressed the necessity of amendment in this connection.

Two selections were given by the Mills Male Quartet, composed of W. H. Mills, bass, and his three sons, C. Mills, baritone; G. Mills, second tenor; and E. Mills, first tenor. The blending of their voices was productive of splendid musical harmony, and the finished way in which they sang was evidence of long and faithful practice and keen enjoyment in the work.

Both their numbers, "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping" and "The Lord is My Light," were thoroughly enjoyed and gave that desirable sensation of wanting to hear more.

Stainer's "Love Divine" was given an excellent rendition by Miss Lince and Mr. McFadden.

Mr. Gray, the musical director, and those associated with him have reason to feel gratified over the undoubted success of the whole evening's service.

Quebec do not know the people of British Columbia as they should. It is the same with other provinces, and for this reason, if no other, conventions and gatherings of this nature are of inestimable value.

"That principle should be applied in your own city, and the people of London ought to improve acquaintance one with another. It is the work of the church as well as these other organizations to strive to bring them closer together to follow in His footsteps."

"I ask that you try and understand better, those people who live across the border line from you, and that wherever you travel, you carry with you the gospel of Jesus Christ, whose word alone will prevent any other struggle such as we have just witnessed."

"The world realizes today that war is a hateful thing and you in Canada, in this congregation will understand that to avoid further conflict the world must be educated to realize the vast love of God, and with strength of His spirit rise to heights of love and friendship where war would be impossible."

SAYS 1914 ENDED SECOND WORLD

W. M. Hersee Addresses International Bible Students' Association.

Claiming that there is no other remedy for the world than the one that is of divine origin, Bible Students are concentrating their efforts on the proclamation of what they believe to be the divine remedy for the ills of mankind, the very near establishment of the kingdom of God on earth. W. M. Hersee, traveling representative of the International Bible Students' Association, addressed a large and attentive gathering at Hyman Hall Sunday on the subject, "Millions Now Living Will Never Die."

"For nearly nineteen hundred years Christians have been looking forward to a time when life everlasting will be offered to all the peoples of earth," said the speaker. "Their expectations and hopes have been based upon the combined testimony of the inspired prophets of old—from Moses to John—upon the testimony of Jesus of Nazareth, the Son of the living God, and upon the testimony of His inspired apostles."

"Who," he asked, "speaks of the world ending, it does not mean the literal earth, but to an epoch of time in which a certain arrangement or social order exists."

"The first world ended with a flood, at which time the second world began, and the Bible speaks of it as 'the present evil world,' to end with a time of fiery trouble. A description of this time of trouble was given by Jesus to his disciples in answer to their question as to the signs of his second presence, and the end of the world, which they knew would be for the purpose of establishing his kingdom, and beginning the work of blessing the human creation with life in perfection and all its concomitants."

New World Began 1914. "The scriptures indicate that the second world ended legally in 1914, and since that time a new order is coming into existence, a third world, spoken of by the scripture as 'the world to come wherein dwelleth righteousness,' and 'world without end.' The term 'gentile times' used in scripture designates a period of time during which the gentiles were to govern the peoples of earth. The gentile times began when God permitted the Jews to be scattered, Zedekiah, because of his wickedness. World dominion was taken away from the Jews and permitted to be assumed by the gentile nations. Babylon was first to rule a universal empire, followed by Medo-Persia, then Greece, and later Rome; out of the Roman Empire have grown all the gentile nations of Christendom. The period of punishment on the Jews by loss of their dominion, is fixed by the scriptures as seven symbolic times. See Leviticus, xxvii, 18. A time in scripture is used to represent a symbolic year. The Jewish method of calculating a year is 360 days, so that a day for a year would make each 'time' 360 years in duration. The seven times, totaling 2,520 years, and this is exactly the length of time between Zedekiah's overthrow in 606 B. C. and 1914 A. D. The coming of the world and other troubles was as it were the wrecking of the old building, a righteous and just government, to make ready for the new structure."

"Jesus, through John the Revelator, pictures the prophets, Jehovah's mouthpieces, as saying, 'I give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which was, and art, and art to thee thy great power and thou hast reigned. And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come.' Revelation ii, 17-18. The time has come for the return of divine favor to the Jew, as Jesus said: 'When the fig tree putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh; so likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors.' (Matthew, xxiv, 32-33.) The fig tree is a symbol of the Jewish nation. For these reasons the eyes of all devout Jews are turned toward Palestine."

First Disobedience. "It was the disobedience of the first man, Adam, that led to the present condition of turmoil, strife, wars, revolutions, etc. The perfect pair did not bear children in Eden; their condemnation and fall after their disobedience was the result. He was earning his bread in the unfished earth, undergoing the sentence of death. He was imperfect and could not produce a perfect race of people. His offspring were born in a dying condition. St. Paul, in reference to this says: 'Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for all have sinned.' (Romans, v, 12.)"

"The jubilee system typifies God's kingdom. The Jews were a typical people. Their law was typical, foreshadowing better things to come. God commanded Moses to institute the Sabbath system the year Israel entered the land of Canaan, 1575 years before A. D. 1 (Leviticus, xlv, 1-12), and every fiftieth year was to be a year of jubilee. Ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim freedom throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof; it shall be a jubilee unto all the inhabitants unto you, and ye shall return every man unto his possessions and ye shall return every man unto his family. Other scriptures show that 70 jubilees are to be kept (Jeremiah, xxv, 11, 12; Chronicles, xxxvi, 17-21). Seventy of these jubilees make a total period of 3,500 years. That period beginning 1575 before A. D. 1, would end in the fall of the year 1925, at which time the type ends and the great antitype begins. Jesus said: 'Not one jot or tittle shall pass from that law, till all be fulfilled.' What, then, should we expect at that time?"

"There has been so much done in the name of religion which is almost, if not irreligious, that the angels must sometimes have wept," said Rev. J. N. Norton, speaking on the purity of religion, in Wortley Road Baptist Church, Sunday night.

Mr. Norton took for his text, James, i, 27: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unstained from the world."

"This definition," said the preacher, "has two divisions. The first has to do with service to fellow man, while the second is in respect to the life we lead before the all-seeing eye of God."

"Service does not end with visiting the fatherless and widows, as stated. Those who are practicing pure religion will serve their fellows as Jesus Christ served his. The pure religion is that which is without a blemish when seen by God. The religion of the Pharisees was, as Christ said, 'to be seen of men.'"

Mr. Norton then said that the religion of many people was not the real thing, and compared such to certain brands of jam labelled strawberries, raspberries, which in reality was made from turnips. However, the pure food laws of this country protected the public from such products in that a statement as to purity was required to be printed on the label of every container.

"When the world discovers that a religion has been defiled there is the same turning away from it as from adulterated food products," said the preacher.

"God is seeking those who will worship in spirit and in truth. If you are going to hear 'Well done, good and faithful servant, enter.' You may hear it only if you practice pure religion as defined by James."

In the type there was full restoration; therefore, the great antitype must mark the beginning of the restoration of all things.

Restore Human Race. "The chief thing to be restored is the human race to life; and those to have first favor will be the faithful ones of old: Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, who lived up to the law, to witness the return of these worthy ones of Israel from the condition of death, resurrected, perfected, and made the visible representatives of the new order of things on earth. Messiah's kingdom once established, Jesus and his glorified church will constitute the great Messiah to administer the blessings so long deferred and prayed for. Then, 'Many nations shall say to us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem; he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. They shall sit every man under his vine and fig tree, and none shall make them afraid; for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.' (Micah, iv, 1-4.) The blessings are preceded by a great time of trouble. This trouble is now on the world, and Jesus stated that the generation witnessing these troubles would witness the fulfillment of the promised blessings of his kingdom."

"It is reasonable to expect that millions of people now living will live till 1925, and those of this number coming into harmony with the laws of that righteous kingdom, God's kingdom, will continue to live."

"The scriptures indicate that the second world ended legally in 1914, and since that time a new order is coming into existence, a third world, spoken of by the scripture as 'the world to come wherein dwelleth righteousness,' and 'world without end.' The term 'gentile times' used in scripture designates a period of time during which the gentiles were to govern the peoples of earth. The gentile times began when God permitted the Jews to be scattered, Zedekiah, because of his wickedness. World dominion was taken away from the Jews and permitted to be assumed by the gentile nations. Babylon was first to rule a universal empire, followed by Medo-Persia, then Greece, and later Rome; out of the Roman Empire have grown all the gentile nations of Christendom. The period of punishment on the Jews by loss of their dominion, is fixed by the scriptures as seven symbolic times. See Leviticus, xxvii, 18. A time in scripture is used to represent a symbolic year. The Jewish method of calculating a year is 360 days, so that a day for a year would make each 'time' 360 years in duration. The seven times, totaling 2,520 years, and this is exactly the length of time between Zedekiah's overthrow in 606 B. C. and 1914 A. D. CLAIMS MASONRY NOT A RELIGION

Rev. R. J. Bowen Preaches at Service Held by London Masons.

Observing the Festival of St. John, to commemorate the birthday of St. John the Evangelist, Masons of London and district gathered in the Masonic Temple Sunday afternoon, several hundred members of the craft being present. The service was in charge of Rev. Bro. A. E. M. Thompson, pastor of Centennial Methodist Church, and the sermon was delivered by Rev. R. J. Bowen, secretary of the Western Ontario Bible Society.

Sunday afternoon marked the first observance of the Festival of St. John in the above manner in six years, and the offering taken up will be devoted to the War Memorial Hospital for Sick Children.

Special music marked the divine service, the prelude and postlude being sacred selections rendered by the Masonic orchestra. Anthems were sung by an augmented choir of master Masons selected from blue lodges of London. Bro. J. Parnell Morris sang "Come Ye Blessed" during the service.

Tribute to God. In a powerful sermon, appropriate to the occasion, Rev. Bro. R. J. Bowen took for his text, "Whoever believeth in Him shall not be ashamed," and pointed out to those present that the brother who lives up to the ideals of Masonry is a living tribute to God.

"There will go from this building this afternoon impressions for good that no man on earth can tell where they may end," he began.

"I am convinced of one thing, and that is that Masonry is not a religion," continued Rev. Bowen, pointing out that this belief is the result of observations conducted in Canadian centers from coast to coast. "I realize, however, that Masonry is religious."

"Its tenets are bound up with the teachings of Christ. Its history goes back to the pre-Christian era, but we find ourselves ever and anon coming face to face with the great truth, 'do unto others as you would have done unto you.'"

"St. Paul brought us face to face with the facts of our order, when he said, 'For the scriptures saith who-soever believeth in Him shall not be ashamed.'"

The speaker pointed out that the world at the present time is prone to drift to individualism, always taking care of number one. He deplored this tendency, emphasizing that such is not in accordance with the teachings of Masonry.

"It is only the man who is afraid of a scrutiny of his life that cannot look you straight in the eye," he declared. "The man who, believing in God, humbly walks with God, is able to say, I believe and am persuaded to believe that He can keep."

"Keep that?" queried Mr. Bowen. "That which is committed unto Him. That is all God can keep. Just what you have committed unto Him. In times of imminent danger we have called upon Him. Is that the last time we called, as Masonry put us four-square before men?"

Bind Selves to King. "The separating power between God's children and their Father is the initial act of their sins. We want to bind ourselves to the King and walk with Him, and as Masons, this afternoon we are walking with Him. Unless you walk with Him, rest assured affiliations with church or order will not bring you close to Jesus Christ or the Father," the minister cautioned. "You only walk with Him when you live in tune with Him. What shall you as an individual give in exchange for your soul?"

"The greatest aggregate of red-blooded men of this earth is the church of God. If Christ purchased us by His own blood, the price must have been paid. I ask you, have you placed the high value that God placed when He gave His only Son to redeem you and all the world?"

"Brethren, when we are dealing with these things we are away down to the point where Christ said man shall not live by bread alone. This consecration is aided and assisted by the teachings of Masonry."

His mercy in building us into His living church should lead us to strength to strength," concluded Rev. Bro. Bowen.

BOY DROWNS WHEN CANOE OVERTURNS. SUDBURY, June 25.—Late Saturday afternoon a canoe, containing four boys, two aged 13 and two aged 8 years, capsized on Lake Ramsey during a big blow, and Donald Bissonette, aged 8, was drowned. One of the others swam 30 yards to shore, and the other two were rescued.

CHILD HAS FEET NEARLY AMPUTATED BY MOWER. 3-Year-Old Daughter of Ernest Chambers, Oxford Street, Walks in Front of Knife. WOODSTOCK, June 25.—A distressing accident occurred on the farm of Ernest Chambers, East Oxford, Saturday afternoon, when the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. Chambers had both feet all but amputated. Mr. Chambers was harvesting his hay crop, and going through a field in which the hay stood extra high, he failed to notice his little daughter, and before he had a chance to stop the knives of his mower had cut down the child.

Both feet were nearly severed at the ankle. Dr. Krupp of this city was called, and after giving first aid rushed the child to the Brantford Hospital. The attending surgeons, who had been called in an effort to save them, today Dr. Krupp stated that chances of saving at least one foot were fair.

Says Motion and Not Gravity Is Force Holding Universe Together

Religious persecution of Bruno Galileo and other great scientists of modern times in Italy and France, according to Fred W. Daly, who addressed the Social Psychology Center on Sunday afternoon, was the reason for the freer development of the natural sciences in Germany, England and the Scandinavian countries, and the resulting supremacy of races of Teutonic extraction in manufacturing, electrical engineering, scientific, chemical and other practical lines of activity today.

The recitation forced from Galileo by the church authorities was a lamentable thing for Italy, said Mr. Daly, pointing out how Kepler, the Dane, and Newton, the Englishman, continued where Galileo, Bruno and Copernicus left off. In Germany, under the reformation, science was given freedom to develop, although frowned upon by the Protestants as well as by the Roman Catholics.

Even Martin Luther declared the earth to be stationary in its relation to the moon, and the sun to be stationary in its relation to the earth and the other planets. There were also variations in the movement of the planet Mercury, which Newton did not explain, and which Newton himself knew he had failed to explain.

The keynote of Mr. Daly's theories was that motion, and not what is commonly called gravitation, holds the universe and its parts in place.

FIRST CHURCH S. S. HOLDS BIG PICNIC. Field Sports Feature Outing of Presbyterian Sunday School at Springbank.

Field sports and athletic events, keenly contested, made Saturday afternoon's picnic of the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian Church one of the most successful annual gatherings the church school ever held.

Fifteen classes of children of varying ages were the picknickers. At 2 o'clock the pupils gathered at the church, and then proceeded to the park. At 3, the first of the field events began on the big baseball diamond at Springbank.

Two baseball games featured the close of the day's sports, the last game being between the church and the benedictus versus the bachelors. Benedicts proved superior, winning by a score of 9 to 5. After the baseball, the athletic events were served.

The following were the winners in the athletic events: Wednesday he will receive the degree of doctor of laws.

MAY IMPROVE SCHOOL GROUND

Architect Believes Kingston Company Will Carry Out Collegiate Contract.

Sees Early Start Owing To Expiration of Time Limit.

But three days now remain before the contract expires between the board of education and the Kingston Construction Company, the creators of London's new Collegiate Institute, and so L. E. Carrothers, school architect, believes that "very soon the dirt would be flying up around that edifice."

Although declining to make any official or definite declaration, Carrothers admitted that he "had heard pretty definitely that the Kingston company had had representatives on the job when their contract expired in sufficient time to remedy any defects that may now be apparent and to remove all surplus dirt as requested by the school trustees several weeks ago."

The board still retains the sum of $15,000, in accordance with a side-agreement with the contractors last January, when the school was opened and such a storm of protest followed from members of the board, who alleged that the floors were improperly constructed.

The company was allowed until the summer holidays to re-lay these floors, if it was so requested by the trustees. In the meanwhile members of No. 3 committee, headed by Trustee A. E. Silverwood, chairman, raised the point that the grounds should be left in better condition, and while the proposition afforded a subject for several debates it was finally decided to request the company to take the required action.

Nothing, however, had been heard from the Kingston firm up until a day or so ago, and the local officials seem confident, however, that all will end well.

TO PLAN BETTER SERVICE FROM CLEVELAND TO PORT

Navigation Company Officials To Confer With Chamber of Commerce Regarding Schedule.

In an effort to arrive at an arrangement, whereby a more regular boat service would be maintained between Port Stanley and Cleveland, than the one which at present exists, the chairman of the Western Reserve Navigation Company and the secretary of the same company will meet with the directors of the London Chamber of Commerce.

It is hoped that some schedule may be drawn up which will enable the Colonial, the large steamer plying between Port Stanley and Cleveland, now to reach Port Stanley more frequently than twice a week. It arrives at the Port under the present schedule on Tuesdays and Fridays.

It is thought that a greater amount of freight and passenger transportation could be assured the company should they see fit to arrange for a more frequent arrival of the Colonial at Port Stanley.

TRAVELERS MISS TRAIN WHEN SCHEDULE CHANGED

Twelve Wait in Rain At Grand Trunk Station For 6:35 To Stratford.

Twelve commercial travelers waited in vain Monday morning at the Grand Trunk station for the Stratford train, which was scheduled to leave the city at 6:35. The reason for these "knights of the trip" missing the train was that a new timetable became effective Sunday, and the time of the Stratford train was changed from 6:35 to 6:05.

R. E. Ruse, the G. T. R. ticket agent in London, did not receive any notice of the changes in the timetable until it was too late to notify travelers of the revised schedule.

The only other change in the timetable is in the schedule of train No. 18, going from Detroit to Toronto, which formerly left the city at 4:20. No. 18 now leaves at 4:25.

Mercury Drops From 95 To 49 Degrees Over Night

LONDON experienced Saturday and Sunday one of the most rapid changes in temperature in many years. On Saturday, according to weather reports, the highest temperature was 95. On Sunday the mercury sank to 49 degrees.

There were no indications of frost Sunday night or Monday morning, but the fall in temperature was so rapid that the effect was doubly felt by those garbed in summer clothes.

ADJOURNMENTS will no longer be the order of the day in police court if Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon can help it. Monday morning he warned counsel that they could not adjourn cases in police court in order to go to other courts. He likened it, court, as it is today, to a church where the person arrived, but found the congregation absent.

REV. W. L. ARMITAGE of St. James' Church, London, officiated at the wedding of Beatrice and Ross W. Ball, who were married at the home of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Jacob. It is a unique fact that Mr. Armitage, as well as officiating at the baptism of the groom, officiated at the wedding of his father and mother.

ALEX. PARSONS has taken out a building permit to erect a 1-1-4 story store, costing $8,000, and J. Battersby has taken out a similar permit to construct a one-story frame dwelling on Trafalgar street at an estimated cost of $2,600. Building permits issued here this month number 192, their total estimated value being $279,195.

LONDON BRANCH of the Federation of Postal Workers' Clubs were entertained in very jolly fashion last week at the home of Mrs. Webber, 176 Emery street. It being the occasion of the birthday of the rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, the choir presented him with a large electric flashlight as a token of their appreciation.

Another delightful incident was the tendering of congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Husband, on their wedding anniversary recently celebrated.

AFTER 18 YEARS with prominent firms in New York City and Montreal, W. Stuart Pavey has returned to the city and opened an architect office of his own in the Standard Bank Building, Richmond street. Mr. Pavey in 1911 conducted an extensive tour of Italy, France, Holland, Belgium, Germany and England, where he was able to study to great advantage the various styles of architecture so necessary for his profession.

MEMBERS OF THE CHOIR of St. James' Anglican Church were entertained in very jolly fashion last week at the home of Mrs. Webber, 176 Emery street. It being the occasion of the birthday of the rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, the choir presented him with a large electric flashlight as a token of their appreciation.

ALTHOUGH GEORGE THOMPSON did not remember fighting at home, the fact that a constable arrested him there, and that his face was lacerated, betrayed in police court Monday morning that George was not going quietly about his business.

How To Accomplish Back Dive, Famed For Grace and Beauty

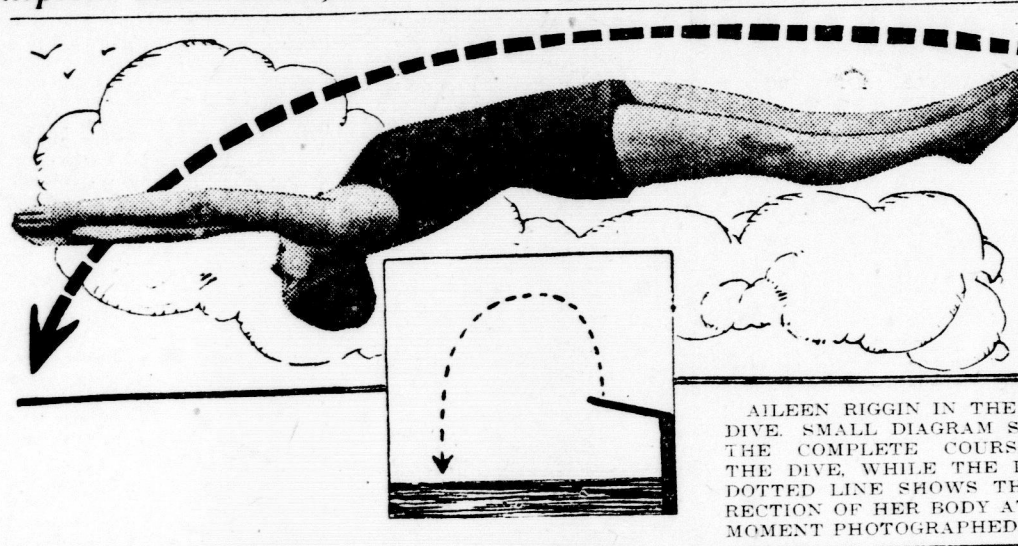

BY AILEEN RIGGIN. Special to London Advertiser.

LIKE the swan dive, the back dive is known for its grace and beauty.

Begin by standing at attention at the lower end of the board. Then walk gracefully the full length of the board, and, turning, stand on the balls of your feet at the free end, with your back to the water, the hands being straight at the side, fingers straight.

Spring upward and slightly backward, keeping the hands at your side until you have reached the highest point of your spring, and then fully extend the arms over the head, being careful to have the fingers straight, and the toes pointed, and curve over backward.

Enter the water with the body straight up and down.

HOLD REUNION AT SPRINGBANK PARK

McClurg-Marshall Family Gather To Participate in Annual Picnic.

The close of a successful series of meetings of the D. R. Club, which were held during the past winter, culminated in the second annual McClurg-Marshall reunion, which took place in picnic form at Springbank.

Saturday, June 24. The party gathered at the west end of the park early in the afternoon and the members of the club welcomed the out-of-town relations. Acquaintances were renewed with relatives, many of whom had not met for many a year. An old-time baseball game was the feature of the afternoon, when the older members proved themselves worthy matches for the younger men. The agility, dexterity, catching, skillful pitching, to say nothing of home-runs, surprised the onlookers.

Eighty plates were laid at the long tables under the spreading trees where the picnicers enjoyed a real picnic supper. The party ended with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and all are looking forward to the next reunion.

To Mr. William McClurg and Miss Violet Liddell of London, great praise is due for the success of the gathering. The out-of-town guests were: Dr. and Mrs. John McClurg and Mrs. Woodson of Ray City, Mich.; Dr. and Mrs. McClurg, Detroit, Mich.; Dr. and Mrs. Jim McClurg, Sault Ste. Marie; Mr. Percy McClurg, Phillips, Wisconsin; Mrs. Jane Shipley and Mr. Leland Shipley, Lexington, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Connor of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Esther and Mr. Shipley, Harbour Beach, and Mrs. Geo. Shipley, Northern Ontario; Mr. Bert McVicar of Toronto; Mrs. William Smythe, Montreal, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. John Siddle and family; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Siddle and family; Mrs. Lowry, Watford; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hunter, Teeswater; Dr. and Mrs. Bice, Delaware; Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClurg, Miss Ethel McClurg, Miss Otis Parker, Mrs. Cochrane and Misses Cochrane, Mrs. McFarlane and Miss Edythe McFarlane of Ailsa, Craig.

C. CADY, MUNCEY INDIAN, ARRAIGNED FOR THEFT

Remanded On Charge Of Stealing Automobile Tires And Tubes.

Another resident of the government reservation at Muncie is in the toils. This time it is Cecil Cady, Indian, who, arrested in that district Saturday afternoon by County Constable William Finkel, was arraigned Monday morning in county police court before Judge Squire W. H. Chittick, and remanded for trial July 29, charged with the theft of automobile tires and inner tubes.

The authorities state that most of the property, alleged to have been misappropriated, has been recovered. While the county police have, contrary to their expectation, effected no arrests in connection with the theft and butchery of cattle on the reservation, they report that further investigations in that direction will be rewarded with but little delay now.

BRITISH MAILS

The next mail for Great Britain and Europe will close at the local postoffice on Monday, June 26, 1922, to be forwarded via S. S. Empress of Scotland, sailing from Quebec on June 27, 1922. This mail will consist of all classes, letters and registered matter at 10 a.m.; parcel post and newspapers at 2 p.m.; also letters and registered matter at 10 p.m. via S. S. France, sailing from New York.

The prisoner, however, remembered fighting in some place other than his private dwelling, and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined $10 and costs. The fine was paid.

WHILE IT IS UNDERSTOOD that the Kingston Construction Company has not as yet settled with those sub-contractors who accomplished their work in connection with the new Collegiate Institute, board of education officials are evincing no worry as to the possible outcome, secure in their knowledge apparently that "if the worst comes to the worst the trustees have available finances remaining with which to liquidate the debts and so prevent seizure of the building, as was threatened."

Sign On Church Bulletin Announcing "Dancing Tonight" Startles Citizens

"Dancing Tonight" is a sign that in the minds of the present-day generation would ordinarily excite little or no comment, but when the above notice appeared on the bulletin board of one of the city's largest places of worship people began to wonder.

It was in front of the Dundas Center Methodist Church that the notice, in bold black letters, invited the passers-by to trip the "light fantastic" that Saturday evening.

However, everyone was reassured that the world had not gone altogether to the "how-woos" when a small urchin explained that the sign had fallen off a Springbank car, and in order that it might not be lost he had placed it, unnoticed, on the church bulletin board.

Two hundred and fifty employees of the London Holeproof Hosiery Company, who attended the firm's annual picnic at Port Stanley last Saturday, unanimously voted it "the best yet."

The day's program included a novel and keenly interesting variety of sports, a special Scottish dance exhibition by 6-year-old Miss Florence Paddock, and a highly appreciated feature, a supper provided by the firm and served by the L. and P. S. cafeteria on Invererie Heights.

In addition there was a tug-of-war between a team picked from London Holeproof employees and the employees of the Hosiery Company, who had also picked Saturday as the day of their picnic, with the Hosiery team coming out victorious in spite of strenuous opposition.

Another feature entered into with much enthusiasm was a baseball game between "London Knits" and the R. C. R. team, with a score of 4 to 3, in favor of the Knits.

Much of the success of the picnic was due to the capable committee, composed of the following: Chairman, C. D. Millman; sports committee, J. Elsdon, M. Greason, K. Tait, D. Parker, W. Element, A. Deves, R. Freshmont; committee—M. Lethbridge, H. Ross, E. Hardy, W. Laing, G. Oliver, A. Aitken.

The ball teams were: London Knits—G. Nichols, c.; G. Oliver, p.; C. Millman, 1b.; W. Element, 2b.; W. Kirk, 3b.; J. Murray, ss.; W. Laing, c.f.; G. Harris, l.f.; A. Deves, r.f.

The following are the results of the sports: 50-yard dash—M. Greason, A. Gramlick. Men's 100-yard dash—J. Elsdon, H. Eldridge. Ladies' egg and spoon race—L. Thompson, L. Claxton. Coat race—M. HUNT CLUB SEEKS TO RECOVER LAND

As joint complainants, the London Hunt and Country Club and the township of London, seek to recover from the present holder, Helen C. Davidson, certain lands adjoining the former's premises, just north of Broughdale, and across the river.

The necessary action has been taken in the civil courts, and a writ was issued Monday, seeking to "recover possession of lands and premises, being that part of the original road allowance occupied and fenced in by the defendant, and being part of the original road allowance lying between lots 16 and 17, concession 3, London Township, and fenced or partially fenced by defendant."

SEEK RELIEF FOR CROWDED SCHOOL

Residents of Southeast London Urge School Trustees to Provide Accommodation.

What provision, if any, will be made to relieve the congestion which prevailed at the Chesley avenue and Ealing public schools the past term, and which Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer warns will be greatly aggravated by increased attendance when the schools reopen September next? is one of the numerous questions of the hour inasmuch as the ratepayers and parents of children, residing in Southeast London, are concerned to a great degree.

Now that the Dakin street school proposal has been seemingly definitely "shelved" for this year at least, the electors feel that the responsibility for the next move rests upon the shoulders of the school trustees. Certain of the latter, realizing that immediate action should be taken in this direction, it is suggested that an effort should be made to locate halls or buildings of a nature that would be suitable for school purposes. This issue was discussed at a considerable length at the last meeting of No. 2 committee of the board of education and certain likely sites were considered.

The entire question was finally recommended to the board with recommendations, but when the latter convened no quorum was obtainable. As Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman, asserts that there will be no regular session until July 20, and it is the intention of the trustees to dispense with the August meeting, the interested citizenry of Southeast London are trusting that something tangible will be derived from the July gathering.

In the meanwhile it is expected that Mayor Wilson's civic commission will meet again this summer when a decision will be forthcoming respecting the request for $82,000 debentures for a school on the Dakin site.

A. D. Jordan Gives Talk.

Mr. Jordan, the musical director of the institute, gave a short talk, in which he pointed out the value of the original part of the method and sight reading, and spoke with great appreciation of the work in Fletcher method done at the institute by Miss Tury.

He expressed the hope that he would have four teachers in this department next year. He then introduced Mrs. Fletcher-Copp, who has come to London to give a teacher's normal course.

Mrs. Fletcher-Copp began with a few words of appreciation of the teachers the world over, who had made the tremendous sacrifices to come long distances to study this system. She pointed out that child psychology had been little understood in the past, the general impression being that almost anyone who could play a piano was perfectly capable of taking beginners.

Just as the foundation of the house is the most important item in the construction so the musical foundation needed the best prepared and most musically trained teachers.

Having trained over nine hundred music teachers during the past 25 years, Mrs. Fletcher-Copp is in a position to judge of the effects of the older methods of musical education as contrasted with her own system, which has proved to develop the happiest, self-expression and the power of concentration and reason.

Mrs. Fletcher-Copp issued a whole-sale invitation to musicians, students and parents to attend the two opening lectures of her normal course on Monday and Tuesday afternoons at 2:30.

The last part of the program was a charming recital given by some 25 of Miss Tury's pupils. The children played with great expression and intelligence.

Pupils Taking Part.

The names of the pupils are as follows: Helen Chivas, Roy Louch, Daisy Higgins, Lois Fry, Jean Howie, Ardyth Crossley, Frederick Crossley, Laurie Everingham, Mary Bowker, Nora Campbell, Nancy Green, Patricia Jones, Janet Smith, Nora Gauld, Edna Ramer, Donald Emerson, Margaret Kennedy, Francis Gibson, Marian Hooper, Ethel Cannon, Madeline Erskine, Kathleen Beard, Nina McFarlane and Edith Gauld.

Those who transposed melodies in several keys were: Betty Poutre, Woodrow Ward, Janet Smith, Laurie Everingham and Marjorie Eddy. Original compositions were played by Gordon Keillor, Frances Gibson, Marion Eddy, Marian Hooper and Donald Emerson.

Master Woodrow Ward, a vocal pupil of Miss Nellie Burnip, sang "A Fat Little Fellow," by Gordon, to the delight of the audience.

35 Y.M.C.A. BOYS PICNIC AT SAGE FARM SATURDAY

Aquatic Sports Are Order of Day on Hottest Day of Year.

Thirty-five junior boys of the Y. M. C. A. took refuge from the heat Saturday afternoon in the cooling waters of the north branch of the Thames running through Sage's farm. The annual hike for the boys was held to the farm by Wilfrid Spearman, assistant boys' secretary, and he declared that the boys seemed to enjoy themselves. Saturday more than they have ever done in the past. This he attributes to the fact that he allowed them to stay in the water nearly all afternoon.

Aquatic sports were the order of the day, as Paul and Ralph Christenson brought along two inflated auto inner tubes, which the boys discovered made first-class rafts.

Mr. Spearman said that his only worry was to look after Marcelle, the smallest hiker, who had the habit of getting lost at inopportune moments.

Among the boys who attended the weekly hike are: Paul and Ralph Christenson, Art Glenn, Harry Dyson, Marcelle, Ray, Donald and Leonard.

SEEKS LIGHT ON CITY SCHOOLS

Provincial Department Requests Details of London High School Program.

Local Trustees Assume More Collegiate Accommodation Is Desired.

Obviously the provincial department of education, Toronto, fails to view the local collegiate institute situation with the same degree of enthusiasm as the school trustees. While several weeks ago the latter forwarded to the Hon. Dr. Grant, minister of education, a report of what was intended as the high school program for this year, a reply is now at hand from Toronto expressing the desire that the local authorities furnish more precise detail upon the issue.

It is assumed that the Toronto officials adopt the attitude that London is not exerting itself this year, respecting collegiate institute classroom accommodation. At the last regular meeting of the board of education a communication was presented from the deputy minister of education, reminding the trustees that they were bound by formal agreement to furnish this year branch high schools, properly equipped, in East and South London respectively.

The department was forthwith tendered a report explaining that the old Victoria public school would be fitted out as a branch collegiate, to be opened Sept. 1, while it had been decided not to move toward the construction or maintenance of a similar institution in East London. The report stressed the fact that all public school construction was at a complete standstill, and would evidently remain so, the city council holding that the city's financial status would not warrant further expenditures.

This explanation seemingly does not satisfy the authorities at the provincial capital, and the trustees are now confronted with a problem that they felt had been solved with certain satisfaction, which will be again submitted for earnest consideration at a special meeting of No. 3 committee of the board, to be called this week.

Seeing Week-End Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes

"Wasn't it the most wonderful market?" exclaimed the young woman who seldom goes.

"It was," said Aunt Maria, thinking of broilers, last year's fowls, the tender duck that was the first of the season, the mouth-watering green peas, potted and otherwise, the cherries, on with a rush, the passing strawberries, the luxuriant choice of edibles for the family refrigerator.

She thanked her stars a moment later she hadn't spoiled and revealed her mundane soul.

"It was simply lovely," continued the young woman—who seldom goes—enthusiastically. "I got a HUGE bunch of larders and sweet william, and I don't know anything in the world that gives me such joy as larkspur."

And the wonders of the market didn't stop with the flowers and merchandise for the table. A whole menagerie of livestock added to the merry throng and variety of interests.

Of course there were "squealers," several crates of them, plagues seven weeks old, for which eight dollars apiece was asked by one farmer. Others were selling for sixteen, seventeen and eighteen dollars a pair. If memory is not treacherous, prospective bacon has taken a considerable jump in price since the flowers began to bloom in the spring.

While "broilers" dressed (as much as they ever are dressed in the Covent Garden Market) were announced 90 cents, $1 and as high as $1.50 apiece, with the exception of one case of a farmer in the square, selling for 75 cents apiece, live White Leghorns, this spring's hatching, could have been bought for 65 cents each.

The owner of a crate of fifteen insisted they were beautifully plump. But who could have the heart to chop off the heads of such graceful, snowy birds, just for the sake of tickling the palate?

Of course, there were rabbits and hares, white-furred, wiggly-nosed, pink-eyed, "just bunnies," Belgian hares, and Black Siberians, including one euddiesome mite that had just opened its eyes on June 1. A number of them, old stories at the week-end market, but never failing to attract their gallery of admirers. A wee boy almost shrieked his lungs out because his hard-hearted guardian wouldn't buy him the puppy with which he fell in love at first sight. He soon forgot his woes, however, when he discovered the biggest curiosity of all.

Presents Mr. Black Crow.

It was nothing more or less than a big black crow, safely confined in a home-made cage, evolved by tacking neat little wooden bars along the side of a box. The only other equipment was a rounded bar on which the prisoner stood.

There were no caws on Saturday morning, ecstatic or chagrined. Mr. Crow looked out through the bars at the throngs who gazed upon him, anxiety, and perhaps something of terror in his bright eyes.

What was he for?

"Why, a pet," said the gentlemanly little lad who had brought the novel offering. "They make fine pets. When my mother was a little girl she had a crow for a pet, and it used to follow her around, everywhere."

"What about that crow?" Will it follow you around?" asked an on-looker.

The boy was most optimistic. "I've only had it about a week and a half," he said, "but it is very friendly already. No, it doesn't look it just now, but you see it is kind of frightened."

A few feet away, children showed one another for position around a fascinating crate of plums. Fifty cents a pair, the boy exhibitor wanted (or was it apiece?). There were two among them that were double this price, because they were a sunburst set with pearls, to the pianist an amethyst brooch and to the ring-bearers, gold pencils.

After the ceremony the guests, numbering about fifty, repaired to the dining-room, which was prettily decorated with roses and peonies.

Following the repast, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McCallum proposed a toast to the bride and Mr. Robert Campbell proposed one to the groom, which were heartily responded to by the groom.

The young couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on their honeymoon to Niagara Falls and points east.

The bride traveled in a suit of navy tulle with picture hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. McCallum will be at home to their friends on the groom's farm, "Maple Crest," after September first.

KIPPEN-KILPIN.

The marriage of Louise Kilpin of London, England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kilpin, to John M. Kippen, of Tillsonburg, son of Mr. John Kippen, formerly of London, and late Mrs. Kippen, took place quietly at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the groom's brother-in-law, Mr. A. G. Barnard, Evergreen avenue. Rev. J. D. Stewart performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a graceful gown of gray canton crepe, with a French hat to match, and a corsage of orchids and roses. Mr. and Mrs. Kippen left on a boat trip up the lakes, and upon their return they will reside in Tillsonburg.

OSMOND-KNEAL.

On Wednesday, June 21, the marriage took place at Fernwood, North Norwich, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kneal, of their daughter Ada, to Wesley Osmond of West Oxford.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. B. Edwards of Burgessville, the immediate relatives being present. The wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Jones, cousin of the bride. The bride looked very lovely in white champagne satin and lace, with a bridal veil, and carried a bouquet of roses, sweet peas and lily of the valley.

She was attended by two little nieces of the groom, Margaret Dennis and Geraldine Hughes, who wore pretty little frocks of pink and green, gay with ribbons and organdy flowers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of delta pearls, to the pianist a gold bar pin and to the flower girls pretty enamel and silver pins.

The rooms were prettily decorated with roses and ferns, the color scheme of the dining-room being pink and white. After luncheon the happy pair left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls, the bride traveling in a navy tulle gown with hat to match. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm, West Oxford.

WESTLAND-BROWN.

A pretty wedding took place at Wyoming on Saturday afternoon, June 17, on the lawn at the home of Mrs. J. G. Brown, when her only daughter, Elizabeth Wanless, was married to Edwin Boyd Westland, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Westland. The bride looked lovely in a white satin gown with pointed d'espirt overskirt with tiny lace ruffles, and touches of blue and pink. She wore a bridal veil and orange blossoms and string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and valley. She was given away by her uncle, Mr. R. A. Anderson, son of Chicago. The bridesmaids, cousins of the bride, were Miss Margaret Ewart, in an apricot-colored organdy dress, and Miss Alice Wood, in dainty apple-green dotted swiss, each wearing a large white hat and a gold flange bar pin, gifts of the groom. They each carried a sheaf of Columbia roses, and scattered petals along a carpeted way to the middle of the lawn, where a tiger rug was laid for the bride party.

Mr. John S. Brown, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Rev. Thomas Boyd, uncle of the groom, officiated, this being the fifth marriage at which he has performed the ceremony in the Westland family of Wyoming.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Ruth Anderson, who was becomingly dressed in orchid organdy, with picture hat and gold pins, the gift of the groom. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served in the home, which was beautifully decorated throughout with roses, peonies, syringes and daisies, covers being laid for forty guests. Many messages of good wishes were received and were read while the party dined. Among those sending telegrams were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Rawlings, California, and Captain John M. Fisher of Mexico, relatives of the bride. The bride party left for a trip by water to Duluth and the Thousand Islands, the bride traveling in a navy blue outfit with touches of crimson and hat to match. They will reside at Binghamton, N. Y.

The out-of-town guests were: Rev. Thos. Boyd, Bronte; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Westland, Windsor; Mrs. Jas. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Anderson and Miss Alice Wood of Chicago; Mr. Malcolm Fisher, Sarnia; Miss Randall, Petrolia; Miss M. K. Ewart, Pt. Huron; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Ewart, Miss Ewart, Misses Jessie, Jean and Ellen Ewart, and Mr. Hugo Ewart, Petrolia; Mrs. Robt. Wanless, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. WORLD KNOWN MUSIC METHOD BORN IN CANADA

Famous Founder and Interesting Family in London For Summer.

Children Clever Musicians, Even If Miss Margaret "Cooked Tea in Kettle."

After a week spent in Toronto and Hamilton, Mrs. Fletcher-Copp of Boston, founder of the Fletcher method of music, and her interesting family have arrived in London to take up their residence for the summer in the picturesque home of Mrs. McHardy-Smith, "Corgariff," Grand avenue. They were found there at the tea hour the other day, the gracious artist-mother, who is very much the pal of her children, Miss Margaret, who has fallen in love with Canadian afternoon tea, Mr. Colin, chauffeur on the long journey from Boston, and Mrs. Fletcher, who is an enthusiastic young gardener. Theodore, the eldest son, who is in Columbia University, is joining them shortly. In Toronto they visited Mrs. Fletcher-Copp's brother, Major Fletcher of the Queen's Own, who served overseas for six and a half years, during, and in connection with the wind-up of affairs after the great war.

Seated in the cosy library, there was much merriment over the fact that Miss Margaret, in her young American enthusiasm, had "cooked the tea in the kettle," instead of making it in a pot, according to Canadian traditions.

Her mother, though, knows better, notwithstanding years of residence in the United States.

"You see, I am a Canadian," she said. "My father was an Englishman, a barrister in Woodstock, Ontario, and went back to England to marry my mother. I spent my childhood and early girlhood in Woodstock as a consequence, and received the first part of my musical education there. I was subsequently sent over to England to school, then to the continent for further musical education."

"Then the Fletcher method, which has now world-wide recognition, is a 'Canadian product'?" asked The Advertiser.

"It originated with a Canadian," replied the founder.

"For a long time, while studying in England and Germany, the idea was gradually growing up in my mind that there was something needed in the teaching of music to children which would make it a more natural thing, something needed that would make music the joy of self-expression, and not just painful imitation. The old idea was to begin by copying, then to do the thinking afterwards. My method was evolved on the idea of recognizing music as a language and treating it just as the English or any other language."

"When a child is learning to talk in his native tongue you do not begin by making him memorize long passages of Shakespeare or Emerson. You let him frame sentences with words he knows about the things that come within his experience. The language of music should be used in just as natural a way, and that is the secret of entire familiarity with it which makes impossible the nervousness found in so many skilled performers."

A proof of the Fletcher method is that the sons and daughters of the founder are skillful young musicians, each with a chosen instrument. Colin considers the 'cello the one instrument in the world. Miss Margaret is sure that no one has such a meaningful tone as the viola, and Fletcher has elected as his piano.

Says Miss Margaret: "The 'cello is too deep, and the violin—" "Too squeaky?" "Oh, no, not that," quickly, and perhaps a trifle shocked, "but, well, too frivolous."

And Miss Margaret tips the chronological scales somewhere between—but it isn't safe to guess even such a very young lady's age.

Asked To Teach H.R.H.

One story she likes is about the time mother almost went to England to teach her method to the British royal family. The Prince of Wales, fairy prince, the Prince of Wales, and the younger members of the royal family.

At that time, though, the king was "Just the Duke of York," and Queen Mary, "Just the Duchess of York." When they were touring Canada, the duchess was very much impressed with the progress the young son of Earl Minto, then governor-general of Canada, was making with music. She inquired with regard to the little boy's tuition, and after returning to England, wrote out to have Miss Fletcher go over as musical instructor for young Edward, England's future king.

The founder of the Fletcher method was faced by a big problem. Should she make her method a fad of give its benefits far and wide on the American continent which had supported her in her pioneer experiences?

She stayed in the new world. From far and near on the American continent, and all the way from England, teacher-students have been thronging to London the past few days for the summer course Mrs. Fletcher-Copp opens Monday in the London Institute of Musical Art. Recommended by Sir Henry Wood, the eminent conductor, to take the course, Miss Elaine Jepson has arrived from London, England. Others enrolled from a distance are: Miss Mayla Williams, Penitence, R.C.; Misses Norine Selzer and Charlotte Tutt, Saskatchewan; Mrs. Hughes, Jackson, Tenn.; Miss Jean McJanet, Ottawa. Other summer students will be here early in the week from Hartford, Conn., Maine, and several provinces of Canada.

ADDRESSES WANTED.

Dear Miss Grey—Isn't this lovely weather we are having? I think it's just fine, but we could have more rain for our gardens. The seeds I got from the Mail-Box are all coming up. Have you got any pansy seeds left? If so, would like a few, please. Will send a small mite but wish it was more. There certainly are a lot of needy ones that belong to our family. I wonder if the members have about given all the

Miss Brydges of New York, supervising nurse for the Metropolitan Life, with all Eastern America as her territory, including Canada east of Fort William, and the United States east, was a week-end visitor in the city, holding a conference on Saturday with the Victorian Order Nurses.

She took after the Metropolitan work here. She expressed herself as well satisfied with the efficiency of the service in London.

At that time, though, the king was "Just the Duke of York," and Queen Mary, "Just the Duchess of York." When they were touring Canada, the duchess was very much impressed with the progress the young son of Earl Minto, then governor-general of Canada, was making with music. She inquired with regard to the little boy's tuition, and after returning to England, wrote out to have Miss Fletcher go over as musical instructor for young Edward, England's future king.

The founder of the Fletcher method was faced by a big problem. Should she make her method a fad of give its benefits far and wide on the American continent which had supported her in her pioneer experiences?

She stayed in the new world. WOMEN'S CLUBS

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE expected that the reports will show very large increase. The president.

An interesting report of the work being done by the various subdivisions of the Catholic Women's League was given by the diocesan president, Mrs. B. C. McCann, at the regular meeting of the London League, held Sunday afternoon, in St. Peter's Parish Hall. Mrs. McCann has just returned from Chatham, Tecumseh and Windsor, where she spoke at meetings of the league.

Mrs. Roach also gave a report of the Social Service Conference held recently at Brantford.

The final returns of the membership drive are not in as yet, but it is very large increase. The president, Mrs. Joseph Leech, urged Catholics women to become members, which would greatly strengthen the league.

Reports of the weekly visits to Victoria and St. Joseph Hospitals were given, also of the visits to the jail and Byron Sanatorium.

A splendid report was read from the Cheero Club, a branch of the league, referring to the field day given for the orphans, May 24, at Mount St. Joseph.

This was the final meeting for this season. Plans were made for next year, but nothing definite was decided.

SCARAMOUCHE

by Rafael Sabatini

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

There were two burning motives in the heart of ANDRE-LOUIS MOREAU, which drove him to seek vengeance on the great noble of Brittany, the MARQUIS DE LA TOUR D'AZAYR. The profligate noble was suing for the hand of the young and beautiful ALINE DE KERCADOU, niece of the Lord of Gavillac. QUENTIN DE KERCADIOU, who was popularly believed to be Andre-Louis' father, but more burning hatred of the Marquis had been caused by his brutal murder of Andre-Louis' dearest friend, the young and idealistic PHILIPPE DE VILMORIN, a divinity student. The Marquis, believing that Philippe had a dangerous gift of eloquence and fearing that the rumblings of discontent which were making way for the French Revolution would bring danger to his class, deliberately provoked a duel and killed the young student.

"I have informed you, monsieur, that a duel—so-called—has been fought, and a man killed. It seems that I must remind you, the administrator of the King's justice, that duels are against the law, and that it is your duty to hold an inquiry." The door behind Andre-Louis opened softly. M. de Lesdigueres, pale with anger, contained himself with difficulty. "You seek to compel us, do you, you impudent rascal?" he growled. "But I give you a last warning, master lawyer: keep a closer guard over that insolent tongue of yours, or you will have cause very bitterly to regret its gibberish." He waved a jeweled, contemptuous hand. "To the door!"

CHAPTER VII. HE had broken his futile lance with the windmill—the image suggested by M. de Kercadiou persisted in his mind—and it was, he perceived, by sheer good fortune that he had escaped without hurt. There remained the wind itself—the whirlwind. And the events in Ren-

An artisan who stood shoulder to shoulder with him in the press enlightened Andre-Louis on the score of the increased excitement. "They've shot him dead. His body is lying there where it fell at the foot of the statue. And there was another student killed not an hour ago by the cathedral works. Pardi! If they can't prevail in one way they'll prevail in another." Andre-Louis left him still talking, and clove a way through that human press. At the statue's base he came upon a little cluster of students about the body of the murdered lad, all stricken with fear and helplessness. "You here, Moreau?" said a voice. He looked round to find himself confronted by Le Chapelier, a lawyer of Rennes, a prominent member of the Literary Chamber of that city. "Ah, it is you, Chapelier! Why don't you tell them what to do? Up with you, man!" And he pointed to the plinth.

Le Chapelier's dark restless eyes searched the other's impassive face for some trace of irony he suspected. "Your notions and mine on that score can hardly coincide," said he. Andre-Louis looked at him without surprise. How should Le Chapelier suspect his present intentions? "If you won't tell them what is to be done, I will," said he. "Non, de Dieu! If you want to invite a bullet from the other side, I shall not hinder you."

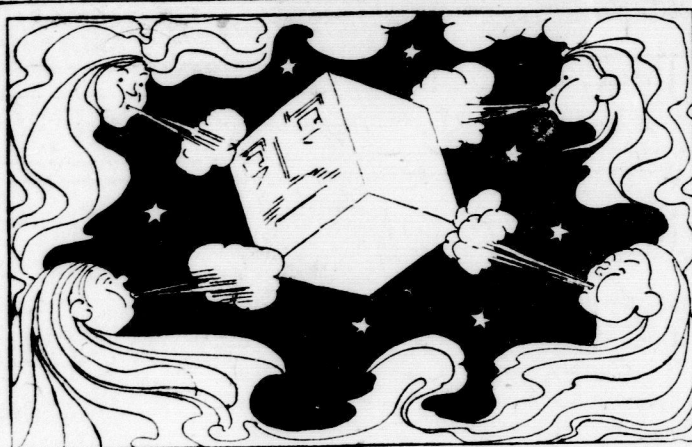

Scarcely were the words out than he repented them: for as if in answer to that challenge Andre-Louis sprang up on to the plinth. Alarmed now, for he could only suppose it to be Andre-Louis' intention to speak on behalf of Privilege, Le Chapelier clutched him by the legs to pull him down again. "Ah, that, no!" he was shouting. "Come down, you fool. Come down!" Andre-Louis maintaining his position by clutching one of the legs of the bronze horse, flung his voice like a bugle-note over the head of that seething mob.

"Citizens of Rennes, the motherland is in danger!" The effect was electric. A stir ran, like a ripple over water, across that froth of upturned human faces, and complete silence followed. "Shuddering in horror of the vile deed here perpetrated, my voice demands to be heard by you. You have seen murder done under your eyes—the murder of one who nobly, without any thought of self, gave voice to the wrongs by which we are all oppressed. Fearing that voice, shunning the truth as foul things, you have sent our oppressors to their agents to silence him in death." Le Chapelier released at last his hold of Andre-Louis' ankle, staring up at him while in sheer amazement. What had come to him? "If assassins what shall you look for but assassination? I have a tale to tell which will show that this is no new thing that you have witnessed here today; it will reveal to you the forces with which you have to deal. Yesterday . . .

There was an interruption. A voice in the crowd, some twenty paces, perhaps, was raised to shout: "Yet another of them!" Immediately after the voice came a pistol-shot, and a bullet flattened itself against the bronze figure just behind Andre-Louis. (Continued in Our Next Issue.)

How the Moon Was Blown Round

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

THE Twins were riding up to the Moon on Mr. Sprinkle-Blow's umbrella. He had been telling them about Comet-Lee, the wicked fairy, who had turned the Moon square. Mr. Peerabout, the Man-in-the-Moon, was lost, you know, and they couldn't find him. "How did you make the Moon round again, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow?" asked Nick. "Well, I'll tell you," answered the

STRAWBERRY PIE

(This recipe has been tested and proved right in laboratories).

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

CREAM butter, add sugar, and beat thoroughly. Then add well beaten eggs and the milk alternately with the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder. Beat well, add vanilla and bake in two-layer cake pans 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven. When cool, remove from pans and put between layers and on the top the following sauce:

1/2 cup butter
1 cup confectioner's sugar
1 cup strawberries

Work butter and sugar together until creamy, add strawberries, slightly mashed, and beat until light and foamy.

Weatherman, guiding the umbrella. "Perhaps down on the earth it hasn't been noticed. North Wind, you go there, and East Wind, you go there, and South Wind, you go to the other corner. I'll stay here. And when I say, one, two, three, ready, go! All blow at once!" Mr. Sprinkle-Blow waved his hand. "See for yourself, my dear. If that old Moon isn't as round as a winter-apple, I'm losing my eyesight." And so it was. "But that's not all," said the Weatherman. "Comet-Lee heard what they said, so he stuck out his legs and got the curves blown back into them again. "We'll have to watch out for him now. I tell you. "He'll be able to straddle his star now and away he'll go."

Washing only makes them prettier

Whoever thought that the time would come when silks, satins, chiffons and laces could actually be washed in soap and water!

And that this washing not only wouldn't harm them but would renew them, keeping both color and fabric as fresh and attractive as the day they came from the shop.

Because modern manufacturing science has perfected special soap for washing dainty materials.

Introducing Princess Flakes

This superfine soap is as pure and mild as the finest toilet soap.

It is snowy white soap, flaked into crisp wafers.

It is de luxe soap with a dash of perfume as the final refining touch.

It dissolves like magic into the richest and thickest of creamy lather.

These soft suds in turn gently dissolve all soil from fragile georgette frocks and blouses, delicate crepe and silk underwear and all the laces and chiffons of your wardrobe.

Sheer voiles and batistes, frail in fabric, delicate in color, need as careful handling as silk.

Brilliant ginghams, dazzling cretonnes—everything that is in the least likely to fade—wash all these fancy cottons with Princess Flakes and protect their beauty.

For everything of wool

Princess Flakes are the ideal soap for washing all woolen things. It doesn't shrink them, it keeps them soft. No danger of boardlike sweaters or underwear, or little caps and leggings stiff and hard.

The dirt just falls out of blankets washed with Princess Flakes. And how soft and warm they seem!

Cheaper than buying new clothes

If you used Princess Flakes for all laundry work you would be practising real economy. First, because they are all soap and go much farther. Next, because it is cheaper to buy pure fine soap than it is to be continually replacing worn-out clothes.

For you mustn't blame broken threads and thin places which dissolve into holes to poor material. This is due to the rotting of the fabric by the destructive ingredients of average laundry soap.

Princess Flakes give splendid satisfaction in washing machines.

For economy

The way to make the use of Princess Flakes, as great an economy as it is a convenience, is to buy them in large packages.

They are packed for the dealer in one pound cartons. Many users buy them in this quantity to take advantage of the big saving. We recommend it to you.

If You'd Possess Charm—Pick the Right Setting!

WHETHER you're a demure little home girl anxious to please the "one man" who calls every Sunday afternoon—

Or a wife eager that the charm which originally drew your husband to you shall not fade—

You can learn some things of interest from Mademoiselle Lisette Gaucry. She's the queen of Paris mannequins, or style models. She was selected by Paul Poiret, famous artist-designer, to exploit his latest fashion sensations.

She wears Poiret's creations in surroundings of wealth and splendor that would make the court of Louis XIV. tawdry by comparison.

The rooms are hung with silken fabrics. In one room furniture is entirely of dull gold. In another there are no chairs, only floor cushions of priceless materials.

And says Mademoiselle Lisette: The background is as important as the gown. A woman without lovely surroundings is an unsatisfied jewel.

And Mademoiselle Lisette is right. But a woman does not need the luxurious surroundings she enjoys to show herself at best advantage. Good taste, judiciously used, will enable you or any other woman to attain the same end.

To look beautiful on the street, against bricks and commercial buildings, a woman must be lovely indeed, but one who cannot be beautiful in a garden, against soft foliage and blossoming flowers, must be hopelessly ugly.

The point is, that most women are neither raving beauties nor hopeless frumps. They simply need a favorable environment to bring out their charm.

The only place a woman can really create her own setting is in her home.

Drab surroundings mean a drab, uninteresting personality. Color means imagination and a viewpoint.

A woman need not spend a fortune on her home, she should spend what she has, intelligently.

A rigid color scheme is a mistake, for it is completely upset when a person wearing an inharmonious color enters it. But one can combine almost any colors in the same room if they are properly handled, and are sufficiently subdued and well-mixed.

A light, sunny room brings out the beauty of the blond. Blue and gold tints can always be introduced to advantage in her setting. The dull reds and purples are more effective in bringing out the deeper tints of the brunet.

A large woman makes herself look ridiculous and out of scale if she fills her home with trinkets and small objects. She should aim for dignity and unbroken spaces.

Dull green is an excellent background for most types, and so is tan or certain tones of brown or gray. Rose-colored lampshades always cast a flattering glow, while blue or green ones are staid.

Very colorful, extreme of exotic backgrounds should never be attempted unless one has an unerring color sense or a highly-developed artistic ability.

The knowing woman selects her background as carefully as her clothes, and makes one serve the other.

"AND WHO, SIR, IS THE MAN YOU CHARGE WITH THIS?"

Andre-Louis decides to set out for Rennes and lay the case before the King's Lieutenant.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

IT was on a horse hired from the Breton Arme that Andre-Louis set out next morning; and an hour's brisk ride brought him to the city of Rennes.

He rode into the upper and principal part of that important city of some thirty thousand souls and came at last to the Place Royale, where he found the crowd to be most dense. From the plinth of the equestrian statue of Louis XV a white-faced young man was excitedly addressing the multitude. His youth and dress proclaimed the students, and a group of his fellows acting as a guard of honor to him kept the immediate precincts of the statue.

Over the heads of the crowd Andre-Louis caught a few of the phrases flung forth by that eager voice.

"It was the promise of the King . . . It is the King's authority they flout . . . They arrogate to themselves the whole sovereignty in Brittany. The King has dissolved them. These insolent nobles defying their sovereign and the people . . ."

Had he not known already of the events which had brought the Third Estate to the point of active revolt, those few phrases would fully have informed him. The popular display of temper was most opportune to his mood, he thought. He put up his hired horse at the Corne de Cerf, and set out to the Palais de Justice.

That the King's lieutenant condescended to see him at all was probably due to the grave complexion of the hour. At last he was ushered into a fine, well-lighted room furnished with enough gilt and satin to have supplied the boudoir of a lady of fashion.

It was a trivial setting for a King's lieutenant, but about the King's lieutenant there was—at least to ordinary eyes—nothing trivial. At the far end of the chamber, before a gilded writing-table with Watteau panels, sat that excited being, above a scarlet coat with an order flaming on its breast, and a billow of lace in which diamonds sparkled like drops of water, sprouted the massive powdered head of M. de Lesdigueres. It was thrown back to reveal with expectant arrogance.

M. de Lesdigueres considered him very sternly.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Andre-Louis Moreau."

"Well, Andre-Louis Moreau, if you can state your case briefly, I will hear you."

"You shall be the judge of that, monsieur," said Andre-Louis, and he proceeded at once to state his case, beginning with the shooting of Mahey, and passing thence to the killing of M. de Vilmorin. But he withheld until the end the name of the great gentleman against whom he demanded justice.

"And who, sir, is the man you charge with this?"

"The Marquis de La Tour d'Azayr."

"Who?" he shouted, and without waiting for an answer, "Why, here's a piece of justice for you. To come before me with such a charge against a gentleman of M. de La Tour d'Azayr's eminence! How dare you speak of him as a murderer?"

INDUSTRIAL TRACK MEET REGISTERS BIG SUCCESS

Jimmie Dellow, Thrice Winner, Takes Modified Marathon Fourth Time Easily From Mediocre Field.

Jimmy Dellow of the Gladstone Athletic Club, Toronto, ex-St. Marys boy and winner three years successively of the cup, won the annual 12-mile modified marathon held in connection with the Manufacturers' Amateur Athletic Meet, Saturday afternoon. Dellow made the distance in 1:14 and was an easy winner.

Charlie Morton of the Hamilton Y. M. C. A. was second, doing the 12 miles in 1:25. The other three who finished were: Art Allison, Gladstone, A.C., 1:32; J. Henry, Fordwich, Ont., 1:43; D. H. Davies, London, 1:55.

At the crack of the starter's pistol 11 runners loomed off on the 12-mile grind. Jimmy Dellow setting the pace, with E. Rae of Hamilton close behind. At the end of the first lap Dellow was leading by a tenth of a mile, Rae was second, and Morton, also of the Hamilton "Y", third.

Held Lead Briefly.

In the second lap Rae lengthened his stride, went to the lead, but fell back at the start of the third, being evidently in distress, and before the end of the lap fell exhausted. Afterwards it was found he was suffering from sunstroke. Dellow continued to hold the lead the rest of the race and won with apparent ease. Davies, the only Londoner to finish, although coming fifth, seemed fairly exhausted of any of the runners.

General last year's winner, and Albert Smith, the two Catholics crack, both Olympic entries, failed to take part, as the race would probably have been a coroner's.

Although 11 men started only five finished the entire distance on account of the extreme heat. The race was won by Dellow, who was not up to the standard of those who took part in the annual marathon.

Those who started were: George Murray, London; J. Henry, Fordwich, Ont.; Willie White, Gladstone; E. Dugley, Gladstone; A.C. M. Allen, G.T.R.A.A., London; C. Morton and E. Rae of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A.; D. H. Davies and C. Day, London; and Art Allison of the Gladstone Athletic Club.

Events Good.

A record crowd witnessed the 14 events at Queen's Park staged under the auspices of the L.M.A.A.A., and although no running was done, the events were all closely contested. The five bicycle races scheduled had to be cancelled on account of a subway being built under the track.

Water Dutton, D. B. Wainwright and J. B. Gillies were the three outstanding favorites of the day. Messrs. Diddle, McCrimmon and Rose presented the prizes afterwards.
