Coroner Finds Mrs. Wood Killed Hus band, Son and Self, Fearing Exposure After Using Funds.

New Haven, Conn., March 17 .- That Irs. Christopher G. Wood shot and tilled her husband at their home, in Branford, on March 8, their ten year old son, Valdema, on the day following, and then inflicted fatal wounds upon herself, was the finding of Coroner Eli Mix, made public Tuesday. In his report the coroner found that on the day before his death Wood learned that his wife was indebted in large amounts for dry goods and othr purchases. He rebuked her, and next day discovered that large sums deposited by him in several banks had been drawn by his wife upon orders purporting to be signed by him. Mrs. Wood, the report states, fearing exposure, or that criminal proceedings might result, killed her husband, her

Early Closing.

Yesterday in the House of Assembly the Bill for the further amending of the law in relation to the Sale of In toxicating Liquors was laid before the members in the form proposed by Hon. D. Morison. On Friday it had been read a first time before it had been given an express form. This is not an unusual course. When the printed Bill was distributed, it was seen that it had several objects. The most important was to stop the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquors on licensed premises between 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. Such licensed premises as were not grocery stores were to be closed absolutely during these hours. Grocery stores, however, were permitted to open at 8 o'clock in the morning and to close at 9 o'clock at night. but were ordered not to sell or deliver intoxicating liquors between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. At the suggestion of Mr. Bennett this proposition was changed and under the final form; which the House adopted, grocery stores with retail licenses must be closed absolutely siderate and unfair.

As to the 6 o'clock limit for the sale of intoxicating liquors, there is no room for doubt that the weight of public opinion is in favor of it. The extraordinary number of signatures attached to the petitions favouring the o'clock closing and the absolute absence of counter petitions settles this beyond peradventure.

There was a number of other amendments to which we have had no time to give consideration, but which at the first glance appear to be declaratory of the meaning of the Act of 1906, and which on the whole seem to be fair and proper

We cordially agree with the provis ion for open session of the Licensing Board and for the right of persons to appear at such sessions in opposition to any application for a license.

We also agree with the provision for an appeal to the Supreme Court in case any person feels aggrieved at the granting or refusing of a license. We append a copy of the Bill in its amended form:-

A BILL.

An Act to Amend the Law in Relation convened, as follows:-

1.—Section 2 of the Act 10 Edward St. John's. the following is substituted therefor: 33.-All licensed houses shall be absolutely closed and no business whatever done therein and no intoxicating liquor delivered or consumed therein between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 a.m., and no intoxicating liquor shall be sold, delivered, or consumed in any licensed premises on Sunday, Christmas Day or Good Friday, under a penalty not exceeding forty dollars for the first offence, eighty dollars for the second offence, and for a third offence forfeiture of license

Sunday Services.

Rev. Mr. Matthews preached at George Street Church on Sunday morning; and was followed in the evening by the Pastor of the Church, Rev. Mr. Bartlett, with a practical address to young women, from the fol lowing text taken from the Book of Ruth: "So she gleaned in the field until even." The whole address was de livered in very forceful language and it was singularly striking and interest ing. Mr. Bartlett first applied his sublect to the many young women comin o this city in quest of employmen respect. They should glean not only with fidelity and industry but with due respect for the loved ones the had left at home. The young woman who employed all her leisure time i reading love stories was not gleaning what was really essential to virtuous womanhood nor was she following an what it otherwise might be. It had been estimated that the pul sation of the heart was sufficiently powerful, if it could be concentrated upon the hardest stone, to break it after a certain lapse of time, and the pulse of womanhood, if properly directed would be sufficiently strong to break the forces of evil and bring about the greatest moral reform that had ever yet been witnessed. Mr. B. showed that good women were usually behind great men and this was per haps more than anything else the secret of their success. Ruth did not go out to look for a husband, but so went out to glean and in doing so she obtained a husband. Gleaning wa perhaps the best way to a success of this nature. The idea that domesti service was mere drudgery and that was humiliating was most absurd, i was ennobling and dignifying to be engaged in domestic duties. Home du ties were sometimes very lightly

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

When I am groaning with the grip-an ill that sorely tries me-my neighbors, in good fellowship, come over to advise me. One says I ought to take some pills to stop my coughs and sneezes, another THE LIMIT thinks a dose of squiils would cure all such diseases. One tells me I should go to bed, and drink some warm molasses.

Another says: "Go, soak your heads that will dispel the gases." And every man who's sick endures this brand of mortal anguish; beneath a thousand kinds of cures he has to weep and languish. But patience still abides with him until he meets the duffer, who cries, with loud and brutal vim: "You only think you luffer! Get up, get up and cease your groans, abandon this confusion! You have no aching head or bones--it's all a cheap delusion! Why have the doccer make a trip, and bring his train of nurses? There are no things like colds or grip, or sneezes, coughs or cures. Don't sit around and weep and sigh, and say things wild and wooly; swear you are well, though it's a lie, and you'll be feeling bully!" Such language jars me to the quick, when I am weak and ailing; what fun is there in being sick, if one must quit his wailing?

treated. There were young ladies who would not stay at home for one hou to play their pianos for their own others, but they would stay home a ong as possible to play for som other person's brothers.

The idea seemed to be growing that young ladies should engage in the professions and take lessons in first aid, but it would perhaps he fitter for them to take lessons in the first principles of cooking. Speaking of ten perance Mr. B. said; If women willed it and were as diligent, and earnest about it as they were about social and kindred matters the needed reforms would speedily be accomplished.

The address was heard by a crowd ed and a most appreciative congreg tion. The singing was simply excel lent. Mr. Gordon Christian presided at the organ.-Com.

After the Early Closing Bill ha assed the Legislature last night th embers of the T. A. & B. Society men their hall to discuss the reat reform. It was the first time the history of the Society that men ers took a working part in inaugurat ng legislation for temperance re orm. The Society did most effective work in securing signatures, and r gard the legislation as a great vio ory. Some of the members worked both night and day in getting name on the petition and they felt satisfied with the outcome. The Secretary report showed that they had obtained 2,800 signatures. At the next monthly meeting of the Society it is likely that the event will be celebrated in a suitable manner.

TAKEN ILL IN CHURCH .- A wellknown young man, who resides in the West End of the city, became very ill while attending service at the R. C Cathedral last night. During prayers ne was seized with some internal ouble and bled profusely from the nouth. Temporary assistance was given him, and he was afterwards taken to a doctor, who drove the man home to his residence. His illness was not a serious one, and we are glad to learn that the man is much better in health to-day.
