CHAPTER IV.
Love's Bondage.

He had not been thinking of them, but her words brought them to his mind, and deepened the shadow across his forehead.

What if he did love? No, no; it could not be. He was poor. He had his way to fight, and could not drop his sword or unbuckle his armor to woo and wed a portionless girl, the daughter of a man whom the world called an adventurer, be she as queenly as Cleopatra and as beautiful as the first mother, Eve.

"We shall have a storm," he said, stretching his great limbs into an upright position. "How much longer are you going to toast your toes, miss? I must go and dress."

CHAPTER V.
Back from the Dead.

"Behold your house is left unto you desolate."

THE storm prophesied by Chudleigh had come, dashing the sleet against the windows of the library, and causing Sir Fielding to look up from his book with a start—rattling through the avenue of chestnuts as if it meant to strip the trees of their very branches, and sweeping across the moor, and amid the belt of trees around the deserted rectory, till they beat beneath the bitter blast and moaned like living creatures writhing beneath a scourge.

It would seem impossible for a human being to stand against the furious drenching of the icy sleet, yet the dark figure of a man, closely wrapped in a black coat of foreign make and shape, bent his head against the down-pour, and, struggling like a wrecking ship in the deep troughs of a heavy sea, literally fought its way across the moor in the direction of the wood.

Sometimes when the wind paused to gain fresh strength and fury, and the blinding sleet lifted and lightened for a moment, the man quickened his pace like one well accustomed to wrestle with the elements, and used the respite to good purpose, tightening his cloak around him; then, bending his head lower when the wind arose again, he relapsed into the old attitude of stolid determination.

It was a grand sight to witness the tall, massive frame, capped by a grand head, around which a wealth of thick, black hair was blown with each gust of the wind, the dark face lit up by large, piercing, sadly resolute eyes, and ennobled by a handsome though sternly set mouth, contesting inch by inch the desolate path with the furious elements.

For an hour the struggle lasted, the wayfarer progressing slowly but surely toward the friendly haven of the dark oaks looming in the distance; and relaxing his sturdy attitude not one whit, nor resting a moment till he had reached the rickety gate—which had been torn from its rusted hinges, and lay, a perfect wreck, upon the ground—and stood panting, but triumphant, beneath the leafless branches of a huge old oak.

Then, loosening his coat, he raised his traveling cap, and sweeping his scattered hair off his wet forehead, exclaimed:

"Whew! a tough fight. England, I left thee in a storm, thy thunders hurling menace at my back, and I come back to find thee no more courteous, but prepared to sweep me from thy face with ice and sleet!"

Then he leaned against the tree, and, folding his arms, looked moodily around upon what little he could see of the desolation around.

"A wreck!" he muttered, moodily. "A wreck! Heaven forsaken and man forsaken! Ah, old trees! what have you and I suffered since last you looked down upon me? We both bear traces of it, too. You are black and gnarled, and I—bah!—who says the Wandering Jew lives but in a fable? The old house must be almost within sight. Strange that my heart leaps at the thought of seeing it! I fancied there was scarce enough blood left in me to leap at anything! But the old house!—the old house!"

Then he relapsed into silence for a moment, his face growing darker and his eyes blacker, as he gazed moodily at the sodden ground; but suddenly his self-communing commenced abruptly, almost fiercely.

"Why should I see it? What good can it do thee, thou lost sheep, to stare at the old homestead? What good, say I? Rather, what amount of evil? A happy past is best forgot; it makes the bitter present more galling to the mind. Bah! does the air of England breed sentiment, or has the storm scattered the little brains I had?"

And, shaking himself till the wet flew from his coat in a shower of glistening drops, he emerged from the shelter of the trees and strode up the path which led to the front of the desolate mansion.

Then, looking up at the windows re-echoing the storm, his face grew white, and his hands, large and sinewy, clinched under his cloak across his heart, vainly trying to keep down the storm raging within, that threatened to burst forth in unison with the storm without.

For a moment he stood motionless as a statue; then, drawing a deep breath of pain, he groaned between his clinched teeth:

"Behold your house is left unto you desolate!"

And muttering this twice, thrice, a score of times, he stood exposed to the pitiless sleet and the fury of the wind, gazing at the ruined house as if he were, indeed, the senseless stone he resembled.

When the storm commenced, Maud

Was Completely Laid Up With Severe Case of Piles.

Sworn Statement From a Man Who Has Unbounded Confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There is no longer any debate as to the best treatment for itching, bleeding or protruding piles. But since about one person in every four suffers more or less from this annoying ailment it is necessary to keep on telling people about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Wm. Shaw, Island Brook, Que., writes: "I am writing this to let you know the benefit I have derived from your Ointment. I have suffered more or less for years with protruding piles and last winter I got so bad, I was completely laid up with them. I went to our local storekeeper and asked him if he had anything that was good for piles, and he recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment. I purchased a box and took it home and used it according to directions and for over one year I have not been troubled with piles. I had tried other remedies before but they only gave me temporary relief and that one box of your Ointment did more for me than all the others, as I have not been troubled since last winter. I consider it to be the best remedy for piles I have ever used and shall always carry a box with me, although I don't think I will need it for piles. We have used it for other purposes in the family, such as burns and cuts, scratches, etc., and my wife says it is one of the best remedies for such purposes we have ever had in the house. Although you only charge sixty cents a box for it, it is well worth $5 a box for any one afflicted with piles. Now, you can use this letter if you wish or refer anyone to me who wants to know about it for piles. I might say that in my business I am known all over the English portion of Quebec, and am having this statement sworn to before a Justice of the Peace."

"Sworn before me this first day of April, 1916. M. M. Holbrook, J. P., Island Brook, Que." Dr. Chase's Ointment 60c. a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

was in the drawing-room, idly fingering the keys of the grand piano, occasionally breaking away from her thoughts sufficiently to play a scrap from one of the operas.

Once she commenced singing an old English ballad, which her father had dug up from some forgotten collection, but the wind played so discordant an accompaniment to the soft, sad words that she ceased, and half determined to go in search of Chud, who was writing a letter in his own room; but, struggling against her weakness, she sat still to listen to the rattling sleet, and touching the keys restlessly, commenced Gounod's "Ave Maria," but as the first bar of the melody—surely, the most sublime of devotional—she succeeded in forgetting the storm, and, half closing her eyes, lost herself in the subtle wailing of the music, which rang through the room like a living friend bringing consolation and assurance.

As she played, the tall, dark figure, which but a little time since stood gazing at the deserted rectory, was rooted, bareheaded, outside the window, its face sunk upon its breast and its hands clasped in front of it.

With the last note throbbing, dying through the air, Maud arose, and, the glamor of the music still over her, seated herself in a low chair by the fire, and there, lulled by the storm and the dead red of the coals, she fell asleep, her beautiful face lit up with the smile that only the pure and childlike at heart can wear.

How long she slept she knew not, but a slight noise awakened her, and looking up with a start, she saw the dark figure standing in the room looking at her.

With a low cry of alarm, she arose from the chair, and pressing one hand against her heart, held out the other as in supplicating terror.

The stranger lifted his head, with a grave smile, such that reassured her even before his lips opened, and, in a voice whose noble gentleness charmed all her fear away and filled her with a nameless thrill of pleasure said:

"Madam, be not afraid; I am not so harmful as my appearance may proclaim me. For this intrusion I crave with painful humility, your forgiveness. It was not intentional; I sought Sir Fielding Chichester. The night is dark, and the storm confusing, and I a stranger, missed the path. Nay rather your music drew me from it. By some chance a side door had been blown open by the wind; I entered—wrongly, I admit with sorrow—and meeting no one, found my way here where I would rather have perished in the storm than entered if I have caused you one second's uneasiness."

Pouring out this strange confession in a voice almost tremulous in its musical softness, with a slightly foreign accent that lent it an additional charm, and expressing, with a slight gesture, the most profound yet eager humility, he bent low before her.

"I—I am not frightened," said Maud, her gaze riveted on the face and form that were noble and kingly notwithstanding their expression of profound respect. "I will call my father. Will you be seated?" and still unable to remove her eyes from him, she walked toward the door.

With a gesture, he declined a seat and crossing to the fire, leaning one arm on the carved mantel, the firelight making a ruddy background to his stalwart form, looked toward the door and waited.

In a few minutes it opened, and Sir Fielding entered, and advancing toward the stranger, said, in his mild, dreamy voice:

"You wish to see me?"

The stranger fixed his dark eyes upon the pale, smooth face for a moment, seemingly absorbed in contemplation; then, waking, as it were, with a start, replied, in a voice from which all the tenderness had gone, leaving a cold, stern music behind:

"Do you wish to see me, Sir Fielding Chichester?"

The old man started, with an exclamation; then, going close up to the speaker and scanning the features anxiously, exclaimed, as his face lit up with the light of recognition:

"Maurice Durant!"

The son of Gerald Durant, for it was he, nodded.

"Yes, Maurice Durant. You are surprised, Sir Fielding, yet not so much as I, for a week since I had as little thought of seeing your Chichester Hall as heaven."

"Thank Heaven! thank Heaven!" exclaimed Sir Fielding, grasping the outstretched hand, and wringing it with his feeble one. "Oh, Maurice, Maurice! we all thought you were dead."

"Heaven has not proved so kind," muttered Maurice Durant.

"We never expected to see you again. And you have come back to us as suddenly as—"

"Why do you hesitate?" said Maurice, frowning. "Yes. A week since I was sleeping in a peasant's hut, beside an Alpine ravine. I dreamed of England, dreamed so vividly that when I awoke the vision had left a longing for the reality. I struggled against it, but—bah!—when a man fights himself what chance has he of victory? I decided to come—I came—I am here."

He strode up to the fire, extending his hands toward the blaze.

"Dear me—dear me," said Sir Fielding, thoroughly bewildered by the deep voice, the strange gesture and the foreign accent, as much as by the singular manner of the man.

"I heard no carriage drive up."

Maurice faced around.

"Nor do I see how you could, considering that I trod your moor and heath from north to south and fought my way against a greater storm than those which carry an avalanche upon their backs. I walked."

"Walked! Heaven bless me!" said the baronet; "then," catching at the cloak, "you must be—you are wringing wet. My dear sir, this is enough to give you your death!"

Maurice Durant smiled a smile without a particle of mirth in it.

"Death!" he replied. "Death will not come to me thus. I have slept in damper sheets than these, and found them frozen in the morning. Take no heed of me, but rather of your carpet, which I am gradually spoiling."

"Never mind the carpet," said Sir Fielding, hastily, and walking toward the bell. "You must change your clothes immediately. I will tell them to see that my room be got ready for you; meanwhile, if you will accept my son Chudleigh's, in which you will find a fire—"

Maurice Durant held up his hand, with a gesture almost of impatience.

"Sir Fielding, I shall be gone in five minutes. Cease, I beg of you, for it pains me to give you a refusal. A whim seized me to take one look at the hall. I fought my way here through the storm, and, standing outside the window, was drawn hither by your daughter's music. Why should I stay? I have seen her whom I left a child, you whom in the old time I had more than friendship for, and here is naught left for me but to return," and with calm composure and a majestic pace, he swung his cloak around him and held out his hand.

Sir Fielding stared at the stern, weather-tanned face, with its deep wrinkles and great, piercing eyes, in astonishment.

"Impossible!" he exclaimed. "You cannot again brave such a night as this; it would be an insult to me. At least," he added, hastily, as Maurice Durant shook his head, "at least, you will stay and eat something!"

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hanging-on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

RUSSIAN GENERAL'S CONFIDENCE

PETROGRAD, Jan. 22. The Ruskij Clove says General Brussiloff, Commander-in-Chief of the Russian armies of the southwestern front, addressing his staff officers said: "Information at my disposal and my personal conviction warrant me saying that I am as certain as I am standing before you that during the coming year the enemy will be completely routed."

SUCCESSFUL RAID AGAINST ENEMY TRENCHES.

LONDON, Jan. 22. The report from the British headquarters in France issued last night says a successful raid was made this morning against enemy trenches southeast of Loos. Dozens of Germans were bombed and destroyed, and many casualties inflicted on the enemy with small cost to ourselves. We secured some prisoners.

CONFERENCE ON ROMANIAN PROBLEMS.

The despatch says that tens of thousands of Roumanian refugees continue to pour into Besarabia and the adjoining provinces. Among them are 12,000 Roumanian boy scouts, whom the correspondent says, the Germans threatened to treat as guerrillas. Some refugees have arrived at Petrograd.

IS SHE SUNK?

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. The following cable has been received from Pernambuco, dated Jan. 21: A Prussian commerce raider, believed to be the Vineta, which wrought havoc with Allied shipping the last few weeks in the South Atlantic, particularly off the Brazilian coast, has been sunk by the British cruiser Glasgow, 130 miles off Para, according to a generally accepted report received here to-night. Although the report is not officially confirmed, previous reports of the raider's position caused the news to be regarded as authentic.

Buenos Ayres.—Laprensa publishes a despatch from Rio Janeiro saying that according to a cablegram received at Pernambuco, the British cruiser Glasgow has sunk a German commerce raider 130 miles off Para. No details are given.

GERMAN ATTACKS FAIL.

PARIS, Jan. 22. Two attacks were made by the Germans last night on the Verdun front, on the right hand of the Meuse, to-day's official announcement says. They were driven back each time by the French fire.

RUSSIANS PRESSED BACK.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 22. In the face of an attack by a considerable force in the Nanezi sector along the Sereth line on the Roumanian front, the Russians were pressed back towards the Sereth, the war office announced. Heavy fighting along the Moldavian frontier is continuing and an attempted offensive by Teutonic forces was checked by the Russians south of Lamuntelu Mountain, as was another offensive further to the south.

BRAZILIAN WARSHIPS ON THE MOVE.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 22. The Minister of Marine declared to-day that the Brazilian warships which were watching the coasts had been given strictest instructions to capture any raiders operating in any manner that might injure Brazil's neutrality. Without attaching any credence to the reports that German steamers were planning to escape from the ports where they were interned, the Minister said emphatically that orders had been issued to the captains of the ports to prevent any secret departures.

WILSON ADDRESSES SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. President Wilson in a personal address to the Senate to-day laid down the question whether the United States shall depart from its traditional policy of isolation and no entangling alliances or take part in a world league to preserve peace after the war. Shattering a precedent of more than a century the President, regarding the Senate with its treaty-making power as his counsellor in foreign affairs, explained why he believed the time had come for the world to know America's position, and discussed general causes why the permanent peace of the world can be maintained. While President Wilson was speaking directly to Senators, after the manner of Washington, Madison and Adams, his address was in the hands of foreign governments on its way to them. No such history-making event with such far-reaching possibilities to the United States probably ever had been seen in the Senate Chamber. In the background of the fundamental proposition whether the United States should alter her foreign policy, laid down by Washington and carried out by a long line of Presidents, was the possibility that out of some such league of nations might come the way to end the present war. President Wilson's proposed basis for a lasting peace was in brief as follows: Add the authority and power of the United States to the authority and force of other nations to guarantee peace and justice throughout the world. A peace founded on an equality of rights, a united independent and autonomous world, so far as practicable giving freedom to all nations for full development of resources and direct outlet of great highways of seas; freedom of seas; limitations of naval and military armaments. For nearly half an hour the President spoke with the members of the Senate, the members listening with rapt attention. When he concluded there was a tremendous burst of applause. When the President had finished and the Senate returned to its regular business, Senator Follette epitomized the sentiment of President Wilson by saying, "We have just passed through a very important hour in the life of the world. Senator Stone, Chairman of foreign relations committee, declared the message was a "great state paper and should have a very striking effect upon the governments and people of Europe." It is the greatest document since the Declaration of Independence, said Senator Newlands. Generally the members of Congress regarded the address as food for thought to the civilized world. Some Republicans who said they did not wish to be quoted, said they were opposed to both the propriety and substance of the address. President Wilson's own view of his speech to the Senate was given in a discussion with a Senator just after he finished his address. He said, "I have said what everybody has been longing for, but has thought it impossible, but now it appears to be possible."

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

PARIS, Jan. 22. The official issued by the war office to-night reads: "The day was relatively calm except on the right bank of the Meuse, where artillery activity was very spirited in the sectors of Dounaumont, Bois, Caurieres and the Vosges, Chapellotta region. The Belgian reports that lively fighting with field trench artillery took place in the region of the sea. There was reciprocal bombardment on the rest of the front."

ENEMY RAIDS FAIL.

LONDON, Jan. 22. The war office to-night issued the following communication: "An enemy raid was attempted last night north of Arras. It failed with losses and without the enemy entering our trenches. This evening another attempt made against our trenches northeast of Poelsteert wood was also unsuccessful. We secured some prisoners last night and to-day as a result of patrol bombing encounters in the neighborhood of Grandcourt, Neuville St. Vaast, Fanguisart and Wytscate. Artillery activity by both sides has taken place during the day north of the Somme in the neighborhood of Serre and Ploegsteere. Opposite Arras our heavy artillery caused an explosion in the enemy's lines."

TO TRAIN FOR HOME DEFENCE.

LONDON, Jan. 22. The war office announces that all youths from 18 years of age up have been called to train for home defence until they reach the age of 19. Hitherto youths have not been called until they reached the age of 18 years and 7 months.

THAT COMMERCE RAIDER.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 22. Unverified reports were received to-day in maritime circles from Monte Video, Uruguay, that the German cruiser Vineta had been sighted at sea off Bahia Blanca, Argentina. Early reports of the raid of the German commerce destroyer in the South Atlantic Ocean, indicated that the unidentified raider might be the Vineta, but this has not been confirmed.

SHIPPING LOSSES.

LONDON, Jan. 22. Lloyds announce the following British ships sunk: Toftwood, 3,092 tons, supposedly sunk to Jan. 15, crew saved; Port Nicholson, 8,418 tons, previous to Jan. 17; Matina, 3,750 tons, previous to Jan. 18, crew picked up. The Shipping Agency announces also that the Norwegian steamer Espérance has been reported sunk.

IRELAND'S WORST FRIENDS.

LONDON, Jan. 22. About fifty members of the Sinn Fein, carrying a Sinn Fein flag, rushed upon the platform from which Thomas Landon, National member of Parliament, for the east division of Limerick, was addressing a meeting in Limerick yesterday. Landon was beaten over the head with clubs and kicked. He defended himself with a chair as best he could, but finally was beaten over the head with clubs and beaten bleeding. Later he was taken to hospital. The attack on Landon is attributed to a speech which he made in the House of Commons with reference to the disarmament of Irish Volunteers.

FILLING CANADIAN SENATE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22. Seven out of the fifteen vacancies in the Canadian Senate have been filled. Labor receives recognition at the hands of the Government in the appointment of Dutton Robertson, head of the Railway Telegraphers' Union to the Upper House. The new Senators are Charles D. Fisher, Picton; Adam Crosby, St. John's, Halifax; Frederic Nicholls, Charlottetown; G. W. Richardson, Merchant, Kingston; Geo. Lynch-Staunton, Lawyer, Hamilton; Gideon Robertson, Welland; Dr. F. J. Bourque, Richibucto, N.B.

BRITISH STEAMER ARRIVES.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 22. The British steamer Ortega, of the Pacific line, regarding whose fate some anxiety was felt, has arrived safely at Pernambuco.

Hockey Notes.

The first hockey practice for the League teams was held at the Prince's Rink last evening. In indifferent fashion the St. Bon's went on at 6.30 with only two of their regulars. We think this team should exert themselves a bit and put on an extra pound or two of steam to try and get out of the old rut they have fallen into to the past few seasons.

The Felidians turned out at 10 p.m. and with a greater degree of punctuality than their rivals. Capt. Jerritt has a good opinion of himself and crew and regards it as no hard proposition to carry off championship honours.

The Terra Novas and Victorias will go on the ice this evening. The former have practically the same line-up as last year and will have to be reckoned with. The Vics, as usual, are a strong aggregation. Fred Brien will do the roving again this season. Arrangements are being made to have the game between the Regiment and City, in aid of the W.P.A. Fund, played on next Thursday evening.

Fresh meat is required for the best soups.

Spirits of wine will clean a dirty wax candle.

When packing a trunk put the flimsy waists in a pasteboard box. They will not be damaged.

Take "Cascarets" If Headachy, Bilious And Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. "Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

Curling.

The curling rink was largely patronized all day yesterday and several exciting games played. The Committee of Management will meet to-night and to-morrow the Jubilee Medal will be contested for. The Natives and All-Comers will compete for the R. G. Reid Trophy.

OUR VOLUNTEERS.

The volunteers were given leave yesterday.

REMAINS BEING BROUGHT HOME.

The remains of the late Joseph McNamara who died at Brooklyn, N.Y., on Friday last are now enroute for here and are expected to reach the city on Thursday. The funeral will take place on the following day.

TUESDAY, Jan. 23rd, 1916.

President Wilson's Statement.

There is no denying the capital importance of the address which Mr. Wilson yesterday delivered to the United States Senate. It is not diminished by the fact that the momentous change which it foreshadows in the century-long and almost traditional policy of the United States is forced upon it from outside by sheer force of events and circumstances instead of springing from the native deliberations of her statesmen. While the speech, of which we have not the literal report, professes to concern itself almost entirely with the functions of the now familiar League to Enforce Peace and with America's share in it, a more natural celebrity which it is bound to acquire consists in the knell it rings of the Monroe Doctrine. Henceforth there can be no "America for Americans." The doctrine probably never had more than a theoretical foundation; it had never been put to any critical test before this war, and that has demonstrated its impracticability. The days are past when even the direct and most serious effects of war are confined to the geographical situations of the belligerents, at any rate when these are first class powers. The enormous extension of trade and of all international relations forbids it. A European war is a world war. Never again will the United States be able to stand aloof from such a war, if she succeeds in escaping this one. Probably, too, the corollary holds good, and an American war would prove equally a world war, so that the doctrine falls in both aspects.

The League itself, and the self-satisfied agreement of the American papers that their President has surmounted the obstacles that bar the road to peace, or found a future panacea for international ills—these are another matter. The view will be received elsewhere with respect, but a respect that reserves to itself the right to differ. We are rather inclined to share the opinion held by many that the surest guarantee of peace will be found for years to come in the abiding memory of the horrors of a useless and unnecessary war. No nation will again so wantonly, so carelessly embark on any war as did Germany on this one, for all nations see now, what Germany failed utterly to foresee, the consequences it may lead to. The mere league of nations, however solemn the pledges that bind them, is not likely to prove successful, for history will repeat itself, and the balancing of self-interests divide them as before. So at least a sceptic would anticipate. What is of the utmost importance, however, is the fact that henceforth to the number of powers that by design, as in the case of such a League, or by force of circumstances, as has hitherto been the case, are bound one to the other for purposes of peace or war, the United States must be added. This one mere fact may operate more powerfully to stabilize and ensure for generations to come the peace of the world than any other factor whatever.

MAY BE COMPULSORY SERVICE FOR WOMEN.

LONDON, To-day.—Compulsory National Service for women as well as for men is foreshadowed in the new regulations, which require every passport to receive the visa of the National Service Commission, which body has power to veto any person of either sex between the age of 16 and 60 leaving Great Britain. The result may be that no woman fit for manual work may be allowed to proceed to Canada. Canadians domiciled will be exempt, but the negotiations threaten to seriously interfere with emigration of domestics to Canada.

VARIOUS COMMENT ON WILSON'S SPEECH.

NEW YORK, To-day.—Excerpts from leading newspapers in the United States on Wilson's speech follow: New York World—"Our own belief is that President Wilson has enunciated the broad principle of liberty and justice upon which alone a durable peace is possible, and under which the democracy of the world can ultimately come into its own." New York Sun—"What Mr. Wilson is sworn to do is prescribed by the constitution. He is sworn to execute faithfully the office of President of the United States, and to the best of his ability to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States. He is not sworn to execute the faithful office of President of humanity. There is nothing in his official duties which requires him to demand the establishment of a free and united Poland, or to lay down to Europe the principle that all interior European nations, like Switzerland, for example, or the Republic of Andorra, shall be accorded free outlets to the sea." New York Times—"By one bold stroke President Wilson removes the obstacles to a world peace guaranteed by the world over which our league folks have been wrangling. The President makes it very clear that the only sort of peace the people of America could join in guaranteeing would be one that embodies the principles of the American Government, that is based on elements consistent with our political faith and practical convictions." New York Staats Zeitung—"Upon the principles enunciated by the President yesterday must be based the only saving peace that can come to the world and the only American people can willingly loan their support. Boston Globe—"What the road to peace needs is a half way house."

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS OUT.

OYSTER BAY, To-day.—Labelling President Wilson's address as a grand eloquent promise made in an attempt to conceal the pitiful ignominy and shirking of the present administration, Theo. Roosevelt took issue with the peace argument voiced this afternoon before the Senate. Roosevelt said that until an emphatic stand is taken by the American Government on Belgian deportations, any statement about our stand for righteousness on the nebulous issue is both ridiculous and insincere.

IMPUDENT ATTEMPT FRUSTRATED.

RIO JANEIRO, To-day.—The Danish steamer Hamnerhus was fired on last night by guns of the fort at Santa Cruz and halted while trying to put to sea secretly after receiving a quantity of provisions, and according to reports a large quantity of explosives from German ships anchored in the harbor. The Hamnerhus entered port at 10 o'clock last night and dropped its anchor close to the German ships. It took on board a large number of cases, and then attempted to leave the harbor. The movements of the ship were observed from the port and it was signalled to stop. The signals were ignored until the cannon shots were fired when the Hamnerhus halted and was boarded by the port police. The police compelled the steamer to anchor in the neighborhood of the Sole Brazilian warships, where it is being kept under surveillance pending an investigation.

The Passing of L-Corp. E. G. Horwood.

The many friends of Mr. E. J. and Mrs. Horwood will be sorry to learn of the death of their son, Lance-Corporal Ewart Gladstone Horwood, whose demise took place at the home of his parents at 2.15 p.m. yesterday. On April 1st last year, when not yet eighteen he left the Methodist College and enlisted in the Newfoundland Regiment and was soon after promoted to Lance-Corporal. While on parade he became wet and chilled, which resulted in rheumatism, which in turn became developed into the pleurisy that terminated the young soldier's career. While not privileged to take part in any active service with his Regiment, Ewart Horwood has nevertheless laid down his young life for the great cause, because it was while serving in the Regiment that he contracted the illness which caused his death, and his willingness to serve his King and Country will not go unrecoginized for his name will be enrolled with those who have made the Supreme Sacrifice. He will be greatly missed by his associates in the Methodist College where he was held in the highest esteem by teachers and pupils alike. As a member of the College football and hockey teams he was counted one of their best players, and on more than one occasion saved his team from defeat at the hands of an opposing team. Although not long connected with the Regiment he was thought highly of, and was loved by officers and privates alike. To the sorrowing parents and sisters the Telegram offers deep sympathy.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed. And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair, and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

Horse Case.

The Central District Court was occupied to-day between Patrick Brian, plaintiff, of the Gouids, and Ralph Murrin, defendant. The plaintiff swore that he had bought a horse for $65 from the defendant, accompanied by a verbal warrant that the animal was sound, could work well and could be used as a cab horse. Subsequently he found the horse to be unsound and broken-winded. He, therefore, claimed $75, including the purchase price of the horse and for its upkeep. The defendant testified that there was no agreement and that while driving along the street one day the plaintiff seeing the horse travel approached the defendant anxious to buy the animal. The sale then occurred. Mr. Hutchings, K.C., J. P., commented on the conflicting testimony of the parties, pointing out that it was one sworn testimony against the other and that there was nothing left for him to do but to dismiss the case.

Fact and Fancy Mixed.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The calm, untroubled by any misgivings, way which some people have of announcing the things they think as facts is something which astonishes me every time I come up against it.

On our telephone line is a woman who calls up another woman every morning and talks to her about half an hour.

I was speaking about this habit to a neighbour of mine. "I sometimes wonder who can it be," I said.

"It's her sister-in-law," said my neighbour.

She stated it as a fact. It never occurred to me to doubt it.

She hardly speaks to the woman. A few days later I chanced to hear that the woman on my line and her sister-in-law have never been friends and barely speak when they meet.

The next time I met my neighbour I mentioned this fact to her.

"Is that so?" she said placidly. "Then it can't be she that Mrs. M. is talking to. It must be Mrs. L., then; I know they are very intimate."

Naturally, I took this information with a heaping teaspoonful of salt.

You Learn To Use Plenty of Salt.

That is what happens whenever you find you have to deal with a person who has this habit. You don't feel any assurance that anything he or she says is founded on a basis of knowledge. How should you?

It happens that I never caught this neighbour in such a statement before. She has told me many things which I have accepted as unquestionably so, because she has a large authoritative manner that predisposes one to be in-pressed by what she says. But since I have checked her up in one unfounded statement, I know I shall not be able to help wondering if all her statements are born of intuition rather than knowledge.

Men Can't Mix Fact and Fancy So Much.

Women, I think are more prone to this habit than men. Men have to know, rather than think. The world they live in demands it of them. They may sometimes make unfounded statements, but they are more apt to qualify them by "I think" or "I bet."

And yet I have met a few men who had this habit. One of these constantly announces the most astonishing things as facts. One was that Roosevelt wanted to be king of America; that he knew beyond question. Who told him? Nobody. He knew it. You might judge from this instance that he is rather unbalanced. Yet he is an unusually successful young business man.

The only answer, to my mind, is that he must keep this habit for his social life and exclude it from his business intercourse.

THE BANKER.

To blow in wealth I sometimes banker, on projects labeled "Get rich quick," but ere I blow I see the banker, who hits these projects with a brick. I am an easy mark, I know it; gold bricks to me appear all right, and men with come up and show it, and strongly urge that I shall bite. But long ago I made some pledges; I vowed I'd never pay the price of losses, wooden hams or wedges, without the bankers sane or wedges, without the bankers sane

TO MAKE YOUR NECK PERFECT.

It is in such regions of the body as the neck, arms and shoulders that the curve of beauty in all its sweet and seductive sinuosity is most attractive and therefore desirable. And it is just here that that graceful rounding of the human form is so often conspicuous by its absence. In the face, the complexion, the expression, the play of feature is the thing, but when we come to the consideration of the neck, shoulders and arms we look for form and line rather than for color.

Flesh full, firm and lustrous lends to these celestial regions of feminine anatomy. Muscular fibre, with the right sufficiency of fat to round off the angles and fill up the odd corners, is the only wear for the bones that lurk behind all human loveliness. This right roundness of lustrous neck, of snowy shoulders and dazzling arms, that simple as they move, is only obtainable therefore, by muscular development stimulated by judicious exercise. These tissues have got to be built up when lacking or toned down where superfluous.

Most imperfect necks owe their imperfections to a pronounced prominence of tendon where muscular tissue and fat should be, and those unfilled hollows above and below the collarbone, known to all and sundry as "salt cellars."

Arms and shoulders can only be

Everyday Etiquette.

"Is it proper for a lady to stand when being presented to a gentleman and should she extend her hand in greeting?" queried Mabel.

"She need not rise unless the gentleman is a good deal older than she is and she extends her hand first, unless it is a young man, when she merely bows," said her aunt.

Girls! Thicken and Beautify Your Hair And Stop Dandruff

Try this! Your hair gets wavy, glossy and abundant at once.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, softness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

come beautiful through being put to those uses for which they were designed. Arms which do nothing but swing idly and mechanically when their owner walks are certain to remain little else but skin and bone. It is perfectly useless to look for perfection in an arm which is never called upon to perform any of those functions for which it was presumably designed.

Exercise, and plenty of it, is the only cure for the scraggy arms and the angular shoulders. First aid, may, however, be rendered by a good skin food regularly and vigorously applied.

THE STORAGE EGG.

The storage egg is a pathetic example of the awful havoc man can wreak when his weaker is in good working order.

Ever since this country was settled by the white man at the expense of his red brother eggs have been considered as necessary to human happiness as a wife who can look at her husband and remain satisfied with the status quo. In the old days no home was thought to be complete without a few hens playing about the yard and producing fresh eggs in an intelligent and painstaking fashion. But as people became better acquainted with the hen and her insatiable appetite for garden truck, she fell in popularity faster than a hired girl falling through a laundry chute.

As a result of this personal disrespect to the hen the only egg which is now obtainable is the one which was laid in the fall of 1914 and has been stowed away for the use of generations yet unborn. This is the popular cold storage egg, which when new did not cost to exceed 12 cents a dozen, but now makes the ordinary angel's food cake more expensive than forgetting to turn off the bathtub faucet.

The storage egg is owned and controlled by a few, far-seeing citizens who buy all of the eggs which are not in immediate use, and then wait for the market price to hit the attic ceiling. By the time winter has set in and the domestic hen has ceased from her labors, the law of supply and demand begins to operate and produce dividends. There is nothing that earns dividends like the storage egg unless it is the untimely death of a private bank.

The surest way to defeat the sinister effect of the storage egg is to install an incubator in the front parlor in place of the piano. Music in the home is a good thing, but it should never be allowed to interfere with the appetite.

Naval Funeral

Naval Reservist Kirby Dies at Fever Hospital.

At 2.30 p.m. on Sunday the funeral of the late Royal Naval Reservist Wm. Alma Kirby, whose death occurred on Saturday morning at the Fever Hospital, took place from that institution to the Salvation Cemetery, Mundy Pond Road, where the remains were confined to their last resting place. The funeral was largely attended and the cortege which proceeded up Forest Road and west to the burial grounds was made up as follows: Royal Naval Reservists, firing squad with arms reversed, the S. A. Band, the remains drawn on a gun carriage by Naval Reservists, Commander MacDermott, Officers and Ship's Company of H. M. S. Briton, guards of honour from the Newfoundland Regiment and Legion of Frontiersmen, and a large number of citizens. At intervals along the route of march the S. A. Band rendered several beautiful hymns and on nearing the cemetery played the "Dead March in Saul." The service was conducted by the Salvation Officers, after which the firing squad under Petty Officer Scramble lined up in front of the grave and fired three farewell volleys as the bugle sounded the Last Post. The deceased young sailor was not yet eighteen years of age and was a son of Mr. Wm. Kirby, of Br. Buffett, P.B. In answer to the great call he left his peaceful little home in Placentia Bay, on November 30th, arriving here on December 4th. He enlisted on board H. M. S. Briton, but on Christmas Day he was removed to the Fever Hospital suffering from scarlet fever from which he never recovered. He passed away at 7 o'clock on the morning mentioned. To his sorrowing relatives the Telegram joins with the citizens of St. John's in expressing deep sympathy.

Sunday's Fire Alarm.

A slight fire broke out in the house occupied by Mrs. Lacey and owned by Mr. J. T. Martin, on Sebastian St., on Sunday afternoon. The Central and West End Companies responded and by the aid of the chemical extinguished the blaze. The damage caused was but slight, but is nevertheless a heavy loss to the occupant, who is a widow.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their vision restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere around my eyes with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and methods more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any retail drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto Tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should bathe your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and in continuation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take pains to have them sure to force it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

England Faces 1917 in Her Fullest Strength

Her Naval, Military, Industrial, Financial, and Spiritual Powers All at Their Highest Point in Great Struggle Against Her Foes.

By SYDNEY BROOKS.
This year, on the eve of which we stand to-day, will, I hope and believe, be Britain's year—the year in which, rising to our full height of power, we shall strike down with blows such as no other country can deliver the common foe of peace and democracy. I wish more Americans could visit England just now and see for themselves what it is we are doing, and the spirit in which we are doing it. The experience would enlighten them, would amaze them, would, I think, profoundly thrill them.

They would see a nation that has united all classes of its people under common sufferings in a common bond of helpfulness and sympathetic understanding. They would see the soul of that nation exalted and ennobled by the dignity of a supreme and long-continued sacrifice. They would see now in the past thirty months Great Britain has transformed the very essence of her social, political, and industrial arrangements in order to save Europe from being crushed under the jackboot of Prussian militarism.

They would see an England of which men will speak with even greater respect than of the England of Elizabeth or of Marlborough, or even of the England that warred down Napoleon. They would see gathered together for the discharge of her still unfinished task such an accumulation of power—naval power, military power, industrial power, financial power, spiritual power—as has never yet been amassed within the limits of a single State. And they would see the British people spending that power lavishly, almost gladly, that freedom and civilization may still exist.

And yet we shall be contributing in reality very little more to the common cause, in 1917, than we have been contributing all along. From the first day of the war circumstances have made us the prop and pivot of the whole alliance. Without us the war would have been over long ago and Germany would have won. Without us it would end even now in a very few weeks.

A Mahan of the future will have no need to go beyond this war for whatever illustrations he may require to point the deadly influence of sea-power. Suppose Great Britain had been neutral and the British navy had never moved. What would have happened?

The German and Austrian dreadnoughts, with a five to one preponderance over the combined dreadnought strength of France and Russia, would have held an easy command of the sea. Germany could then have supplemented her land attack by disembarking troops on both the Russian and French coasts in the rear of the Russian and French armies. She would have shut off all the French overseas trade. She would have captured or destroyed or driven into port practically the whole of the French and Russian merchant marine. France would have been blockaded.

The treat that its lovers learn to expect from a cup of "SEAL BRAND" COFFEE, is always realized to the full for "Seal Brand" holds its aroma and flavour to the last spoonful in the air-tight can.

In 1/2, 1 and 2 pound tins. Whole-ground-pulverized—also fine ground for Percolators. Never sold in bulk. CHASE & SANBORN, MONTREAL.

But sea power is not the only contribution that make Great Britain the mainstay of the alliance. We are its bankers as well as its protectors on the ocean. By now we must, I suppose, have advanced to our allies not much less than $4,000,000,000. Practically we have taken upon ourselves the responsibility for the credit of the alliance abroad.

And that is more than a remarkable demonstration of financial strength. It has been a service of inestimable benefit to all our allies and of literally vital moment to at least two of them. We did not know until this war and even now it is hard to realize, what wealth there was in the British Isles. We are spending in a single month more than the United States Government spends in a whole year. We have raised in loans and on credit since the beginning of the war about $15,000,000,000, or three times the generally accepted estimate of the cost of the entire civil war. And besides spending some $25,000,000 a day on Government account, there never, I suppose, was a time when the British people poured forth their private generosity in such an unmitigated torrent.

I should judge that by now they must have subscribed for their own sufferers by the war and for their allies at least $200,000,000, a sum over eight times as large as the people of the United States, who have certainly not been behindhand in their charity, have given to the war funds. And this at a time when we are raising over $1,700,000,000 annually by taxation, and when from one-tenth to over one-half of one's income is claimed by the State.

Besides being the maritime and financial bulwark of the Alliance, Great Britain is also becoming its supreme arsenal and workshop. Already, and on an enormous scale, she has furnished the Allies with indispensable supplies, munitions, ships, coal, clothing, and other material. To her all who are fighting with her turn as to an exhaustless treasure-house, and rarely turn in vain. Shells, field howitzers, heavy guns, grenades, machine guns, and small arms leave British ports in immense quantities day after day for the use of our allies.

shell steel goes to France. That fact alone, to those who understand the character of this war, is an epitome of the industrial services rendered by Great Britain to the common cause.

Three-fourths of the steel-producing districts of France are occupied by the enemy, and our ally absolutely depends on us for command of the sea to procure the essential basis of all modern warfare. It is the same with other metals; with copper, for instance, antimony, lead, tin, spelter, tungsten, mercury, high-speed steel, and other less vital substances. All these we are manufacturing in Great Britain or in other parts of the empire, or purchasing in neutral lands and delivering to our allies, under the protection of the British Navy, to the value of $30,000,000 a month. Millions of tons of coal and coke reach them from our shores every week; one-fifth of our total production of machine tools is set aside for them, and huge cargoes of explosives and machinery are daily dispatched to their address.

There is a factory in England wholly manned by Belgians and engaged in manufacturing nothing but guns and small arms for the Belgian troops. There are two or three that do nothing but supply Russia's needs, and two or three others solely devoted to making guns for the French. All the Allies, except the Roumanians, are fighting at this moment in British-made military boots, of which we have turned out some 30,000,000 pairs since the war began; and British workshops played their part in the Russian sweep through Galicia last May and the Italian repulse of Austria's offensives.

There are to-day in Great Britain over 4,000 firms wholly engaged in the production of war material, and not one of them before the war had had even an hour's experience of that class of work. Nearly 100 colossal plants have been erected, and some 2,500,000 people, of whom 700,000 are women, find employment therein. That is a miracle of improvisation that must, I suppose, be unique in industrial history.

We are now turning out in three weeks as much eighteen-pounder ammunition, in two weeks as much field howitzer ammunition, in eleven days as many medium-sized shells, and in four days as many heavy shells as we were turning out in the whole of the first year of the war. The enormous British armies overseas have been equipped with rifles and machine guns solely from domestic sources. Every month we are manufacturing twice as many heavy guns as the entire army possessed eighteen months ago, the production having multiplied sixfold in the last year, and being still rapidly on the increase.

Americans, I imagine, have little idea of the tremendous scale on which things are done. Since the beginning of the war we must have ordered and paid for abroad or manufactured at home—mainly the latter—about 100,000,000 yards of woollen cloth, as much of flannel, as much of cotton, about a thousand million buttons, and another thousand million horseshoe nails, 60,000,000 pairs of socks, nearly 20,000,000 blankets, 10,000,000 woollen gloves, 50,000,000 brushes, 25,000,000 knives and forks, a thousand million sandbags, 7,000,000 razors, over 2,000 miles of wire rope, a thousand million pounds of flour, 250,000,000 pounds of cereals, and at least 200,000,000 pounds of Tommy Atkins's delight—I mean, of course, jam and marmalade.

Besides this we have increased our navy by the tonnage equivalent of between fifty and sixty superdreadnoughts; our merchant marine is today all but as large as it was at the opening of the war. In spite of all losses London remains the financial clearing house of the world, and the British people have brought the value of their ordinary export trade to a figure that must soon surpass the returns of the most prosperous years of peace. And yet, I dare say, there are still Americans who believe that British labor has not pulled its proper weight.

But as the climax to all her other achievements Great Britain has converted herself into a military power of the first rank. After raising an army that far outdistanced in point of numbers any army ever raised on the voluntary system, she has thrown aside the prejudices of centuries and imposed universal military service on all her men between the ages of 18 and 41. Five million men enlisted in the army from the British Isles before conscription came into force. By the time the war is over at least 12 per cent of the population will have served with the colors.

And this new army, drawn from every class and profession and trade in the United Kingdom, has shown during the last five months on the Somme, in what is by far the greatest battle of this or any other war, that they can beat the Germans at their own game. The troops that could carry such positions as Fricourt, Contalmaison, and Thiepval can carry anything, and the Germans know it. We have developed the scheme of attack which they attempted at Verdun and we have turned it against themselves on a far bigger scale, with a far heavier weight of men and metal behind it, and with far greater results.

Since the battle of the Somme began over 700,000 of the enemy have been put out of action; and what has happened on the Somme is a mere joke to what is coming. We can continue it indefinitely; we can repeat it in other sectors when the right moment strikes. Combined with the strangle-hold which our fleets maintain on the arteries of German life, our armies in France and Flanders, backed up by a commissariat, medical, transport, supply, and repairing organization that is the last word in military efficiency, are a guarantee of victory as good as any nation could desire.

The world did not know, Germany certainly did not know, I am sure that we even knew ourselves, of what Great Britain was capable when all her resources of character and material might were extended to the utmost. But we know now; the measure has been taken; a great crisis has supplied the test; and the nation which Germany affected to despise has become the chief instrument of that downfall which the coming year will assuredly register.

Home Reaches Port.

The S. S. Home, Capt. Harbin, reached this port yesterday morning after an eventful passage from Pelly's Island, N. D. B., where she took on a large shipment of herring which is consigned to certain fish dealers in New York. The Home left the former port on the 15th inst., after completing her season's work of the Notre Dame Bay mail service. Proceeding east, favourable weather was met with up to leaving Stag Harbor Run when the ship plunged into the teeth of a violent northeaster which was later followed by a heavy sea. Not wishing to expose his ship to unnecessary danger Captain Harbin decided to run for Seldom Come By, where she was obliged to remain for several days. So far, no Arctic ice has been seen south of Cape John, though a lot of slob ice was forming in the harbors. Very few seals have been secured and the coming of the Arctic visitors is eagerly looked forward to by a number of fishermen in the Fogo District, who met with slight success in last year's cod fishery.

Stormy on S. W. Coast.

Along the south west coast lately the weather has been very stormy, putting the mail and passenger service out of kilter. Owing to the heavy sea raging at Belleoram on Saturday the Portia was compelled to run to Grand Bank. The Argyle and Meggie are both off schedule. The S. W. Coast banking fleet are late getting to the grounds this winter on account of the continuous boisterous weather.

HIGH MORTALITY.—The abnormally high mortality continues in the city. On Sunday afternoon five funerals met at the R. C. Cathedral and three reached there at the same time yesterday.

Steero Party a Great Success.

At the Prince's Rink yesterday afternoon and night the energetic workers of the Ladies' Khaki Guild served hot Steero and Christie's biscuits in the dressing room at the rear of the main gallery, which was fittingly decorated with advertising matter. During the time the Rink was open there was a continuous stream of visitors to the Steero department, including a large number of curlers who came in from their rink next door to extend their patronage to the Khaki Guild. Both Steero and Christie's were generously supplied by P. C. O'Driscoll, Esq., and the total proceeds exceeded all expectations. The faithful workers whose motto is: "Work Without Ceasing" are to be congratulated on the success achieved.

A False Alarm

Hot Words, Not Fire.
A young man while passing down James Street last night heard an unusual noise mingled with loud voices coming from one of the houses and immediately came to the conclusion that the place was on fire. Running at top speed to the nearest fire alarm he summoned the West End and Central Companies to the scene of the supposed fire, who on arrival made a hurried entry but found to their surprise that the blaze at its greatest was only fire from the human eye was almost extinguished, and seeing that their presence was likely but to add fuel to the fire they made a hasty retreat. The boss of the house, who demanded an explanation in words loud enough to be heard several blocks away, is anxious to meet the sender in of the false alarm.

Dear Editor,—It is "many moons" since last I wrote you. I was then in Belgium. Many things have happened since then and many of the "Old Brigade" have gone to a well earned rest, but I am still lucky enough to be on the job and hope to remain on it till the Huns are in complete disorder. I hope my countrymen are coming to the colors as they should. Those inviolated men from Gallipoli should shame them to enlistment. Those slackers who cannot appreciate the fact that they are now given the opportunity of fighting for the finest cause in the annals of history. Come to us, men, so that when the noise is over you may look the whole world in the face and say, "I did my bit."

We are in the midst of rain and mud as per usual. To-morrow night is my turn at the outpost which we have called "The Post of the Lone Tree." It is the only tree on our part of "No Man's Land." It's dead all right, but still defies the rain of shrapnel that splinters it nearly every day. At night it stands as our guide in the darkness 100 yards in advance of our lines and 40 from Fritz with no cover of any kind. In middy grass you lay ears and eyes tried to their utmost to find what the Hun is doing and hoping to goodness he does "nout." Suddenly the sparks fly from the barbed wire, that's his machine gun, and you make yourself like a flat fish while the bullets zip over your ears. This occurs at intervals during the night. It's rather nerve racking work, and one must be careful not to let 'our imagination run amuck, as what you can see in the dark is marvellous. At last, when you begin to think that the sun has stopped you see a streak of light in the east then you feel the wire (your front line for signalling purposes) give a sharp tug. Back you wriggle through the mud benumbed and disgusted to your pals then to their dug out, a cup of hot tea and rum and roll into your blankets letting the warmth of your body dry your clothes for another night's session.

But all this does not dishearten the boys and we look on it as only a day's work. Kind regards to the boys from the Peninsula.

Wonderful Bilious Remedy Actually Prevents Attacks

There are two great causes of biliousness,—they are constipation and defective liver action.
 When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well.
 Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach or bilious complaint. Get a 25c. box today.

Grand Scotch Act
 At Rossley's British Theatre.
 The clever Scotch act was produced to crowded houses and will be repeated to-night and Wednesday night. The work of the talented pantomime company is little short of marvelous for such young children. Miss Clara Squires is a born comedian and her imitations are wonderfully correct. She has a new monologue that had the crowds in roars. Her songs are beautifully rendered and the various dances show the long training. The pictures are very fine, clean and good. Coming Fox and Carr. They will produce both dramatic and comedy sketches. They have for many years played in the Vitagraph, Edison and other film firms.

AT THE CRESCENT.
 Go to the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and see the great Broadway Star feature: "Ashes" produced in 3 reels by the Vitagraph Company, featuring Corinne Griffith and Jack Mower. "The Catmated Nooz Pictorial," and Essanay Carton Film: "Lumbering in Fredericton, N.B.," an Educational Topical, and Ham and Bud in "Ham the Explorer," a very funny comedy. Professor McCarthy plays a high class programme of music for this big holiday show; don't miss it.

Obituary.

JOHN DWYER, M. H. A.
 An exemplary citizen and a splendid character was removed from our midst this morning when Mr. John J. Dwyer, M. H. A., entered into his rest, after a protracted illness, and it is with profound regret that we record the sad happening. Some months ago he was afflicted with a severe attack of paralysis. His remarkably strong physique helped him to rally, but his recovery was only temporary. Gradually the end came and this morning he breathed his last at his residence, "The Oaks," Carpasian Rd. Deceased was 78 years of age and one of the oldest men in the public life of the Colony; he was also one of the oldest members in the Legislature in the matter of representation, having been the city member for St. John's East for virtually 20 years. In the General Election of 1900 when the Bond Administration came into power he headed the poll in his district.
 His personality was such that both in the House of Assembly and in political campaigns his speeches and contributions to debate were always particularly attractive. He possessed a rich vein of humour which, combined with his experience in life, easily marked him as one whose opinion could always be based upon good, sound judgment. Despite his advancing years, his life had been such an active one and his constitution was so great that even in the last General Election of 1913 in which he took part, no more active candidate was in the field. He had a good reputation for the energy he would put into political campaigns and his personal acquaintance with the electorate outside the city limits was well known. He was a man without blemish as to his political life, and was commonly designated "honest John Dwyer." Almost foremost in looking after the interests of his district and the welfare of his constituents, he was at the same time an earnest and consistent advocate of the right. Even those who are disassociated with him by party ties are loud in their utterances of commendation of the fine sterling character of the man.
 He was engaged at farming all his life time and was looked upon as the best practical authority on agricultural matters in the Legislature and in fact in the country. Of his success as a farmer the farm on Carpasian Road is striking testimony. He was a great disciple of outdoor life as evidenced by his wonderful physique.
 He was a prominent member of the Benevolent Irish Society and other organizations and a devout Roman Catholic. Mr. Dwyer never married. He is survived by 2 sisters and nephew and a large circle of friends to all of whom the Telegram extends its deepest sympathy.

MICHAEL J. KENNEDY, M. H. A.
 With shocking suddenness the death occurred on Sunday afternoon of one of St. John's most prominent citizens and a member of the House of Assembly, Mr. Michael J. Kennedy. He had attended Mass in the morning and later spent a short time at the Knights of Columbus Rooms. On his way thence to his home he was seen to fall on New Gower Street, west of Stephen's Street. He was at once carried to Connolly's mortuary rooms, but death had already supervened. He had suffered for some time from an affection of the heart, which suddenly failed him. Mr. Kennedy was the senior partner of M. & E. Kennedy and among the very first of our local builders and contractors. Evidences of the firm's work are many and various, among the most noteworthy being the St. Bon's Aula Maxima and the Newfoundland Clothing Factory, and portions of the General Hospital, Roman Catholic Palace and the Lunatic Asylum. Thus the loss to St. John's of Mr. Kennedy's talent and ability is a severe one. It manifested itself outside his business. In 1902 he was elected a Municipal Councillor and was reinstated by a great majority at the following election. He had occupied a seat in the House of Assembly as member for St. John's West since 1908, when the Premier wisely chose him as a colleague, retaining his majority in the two succeeding elections. He was in his 58th year, having yet before him the promise of valuable years of work. He was prominent in the Total Abstinence and Benevolent Irish Societies and of the Knights of Columbus. He leaves a widow and a brother Edward, for whom, with many other relatives, general and sincere sympathy is felt.

Recruiting Meeting at Hr. Grace.
 Private W. Gladney, D.C.M., arrived in town last night from Hr. Grace, accompanied by nine young men, who enlisted at the second city. Six others had signed the roll but owing to personal business could not report for a few days. Last night a meeting was held at Riverhead, Hr. Grace, when a few more recruits were secured. This is a fine showing and a marked improvement. Well done, Harbor Grace!

Another Esteemed Citizen Passed Away

We regret to note to-day the demise of Mr. John J. Grace, which sad event occurred on Saturday afternoon last. Only a few weeks ago he was stricken, but the complaint from which he suffered was such that cure was impossible. He was 54 years of age. For very many years he was the collector of the Municipal Council and was universally popular amongst all classes in the community. He was a prominent member of our principal R. C. organizations and in each he took an active part. His activities as Chairman of the Mount Carmel Cemetery Committee were mainly responsible for the improvement and extension of that cemetery. Mr. Grace was a reputable swimmer and his several life-saving performances are too well known for comment. He leaves to mourn three sons, Patrick, of Harvey's employ and who is now undergoing an operation at New York; Charles, who is working in a munition factory in Canada and William, who is a Lieutenant at the front with Ours; also, one daughter Mary, of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. here. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in which the Telegram joins. The funeral of deceased took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Interment was at Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

Last Night's Concert.

An excellent concert under the auspices of St. Margaret's Guild was held in Cannon Wood Hall last night, the attendance being large. The programme which was of an exceptionally high order, was nicely rendered. Those taking part were: Miss Mare, Mr. Hague, Mr. Williams, Miss Johnson and Mr. Blackmore, while Messrs. Hutton and F. Emerson acted as accompanists. The concert was a song and chorus, while the two act farce "Winning an Heiress" under direction of Mr. H. W. Stirling added much to the enjoyment of the evening. H.M.S. Briton's band, under direction of bandmaster Jago was also present and rendered several musical selections. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of goods to make comforts for our soldiers and sailors. Miss LeMessurier and her band of energetic workers may feel proud of the success of the entertainment.

$5,000 Mark Attained.

A few months ago an editorial appeared in the Daily News headed "$5,000 wanted." It was in reference to the proceeds of the lectures being given by Pte. Phil Jensen in aid of the Red Cross which had then passed the $3,000 mark. It will interest all who have enjoyed his addresses to know that with his last lecture in St. John's he more than attained his aim. Of this some hundreds went direct to the Cot Fund; other monies started Red Cross work in the town where the lecture was given; between $2,000 and $3,000 swelled the Red Cross Work Fund of the W.P.A., a splendid gift from the efforts of one man; while his later lectures built the Jensen Camp for tubercular soldiers and sailors. The proceeds of the ring given him to dispose of in aid of the Red Cross will go into the Jensen Red Cross Fund for present use for invalided soldiers and sailors. We would request all interested to send in the money by the end of this month without fail to Mrs. Browning, St. John's, that the owner of the ring may be decided.
