TENDERS!

Valuable Freehold Timber and Farm Land.

Tenders will be received at the Office of the undersigned up to 12 o'clock on Tuesday, May 4th, for that piece of land situate at Maher's Bog on the Reid Newfoundland way, only 3 miles from Brigus station, and belonging to the Estate of late Sir W. V. Whiteway. This splendid tract of land contains 8 square miles—4 of which are on each side of the track—and as railway runs through the centre, easy access, and has some splendid stretches of Birches and Spruce on the Birches on one side and Spruce and Fir on the other. It is also an ideal spot for farming, there would be no trouble experienced in loading produce, as there is a line where cars can be loaded at other desirable features in connection with the property is that the buying same would be the SOLE user of all waters on the land, there is no fishing and shooting same without license. There is a fine fishing in the ponds and gullies abundant on same. It is also an ideal place for Sheeping, being away from the ravages of dogs. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

CHAPTER VI. IN THE BILLIARD ROOM.

"Well-dressed, well-mannered, and free from all emotion—impossible to move. Shades of Milton, this is fashion!"

The individuals who are so fond of regretting the departed glory of ancient ornamentation should have paid a visit to the smoking and billiard-rooms of the Hermit Club and mourned no more.

Within these rooms, adorned by all that was beautiful in painting and sculpture, and furnished with greater luxury than ever an Oriental potentate could dream of, lounged, smoked, and played a score or so of hermits—hermits, not of the long serge robe and hempen girdle, but hermits attired in the latest fashion, and blessed with position, money, and, in most cases, good looks.

In the billiard-room a dozen gentlemen were playing pool—pool at five pounds a life—playing it, too, in the most approved fashion, that is, without the slightest appearance of interest, although an unguarded flash of the eye when a man succeeded in potting his adversary's ball, or a chary frown when a life was lost, showed that the languor and indifference were only skin-deep and assumed.

Upon one of the luxurious sofas ranged round the room lay extended at full length a fine-looking man with the regular features and well-made figure that generally win the good opinion of the opposite sex and the title of "handsome."

His eyes were closed as if in sleep, though the perpetual click of the balls and the conversation of the players would prevent any one but a very somnolent individual from dozing, and Reginald Dartmouth was anything but that; indeed, if you had asked the opinion of any of his friends—and he had many—they would have laughed at the question and quickly informed you that Mr. Dartmouth was "jolly," "sharp," "cute," "knowing," and "wide-awake."

Yet, as he lay there with his eyes shut, no one would have given the gentleman in question much credit for either of the qualities; but it only needed a glance from the clear, swarthy eyes to reveal the keen, restless

CHILDLESS WOMEN

Please Read This Letter And See What Normal Health Will Do For You.

Berwick, Ont.—"I had organic trouble, and after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier all my troubles passed away. I was made strong and well and have been ever since. Now we have a fine baby boy six months old, and I know that I would not have this baby and would still be suffering if it had not been for your remedies. My husband and myself say that your remedies are worth their weight in gold, and I recommend them to my friends. One of my aunts is taking them now."—Mrs. NAPOLSON LAVIGNE, Berwick, Ontario, Canada.

Among the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its ability to correct sterility in many cases. This fact is well established as evidenced by the above letter and hundreds of others we have published in these columns.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made women normal, healthy and strong.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

nature of the brain within—restless, yet outwardly calm, quiet, and languid, for Captain Reginald Dartmouth secretly prided himself upon his blase manner and immovable insouciance.

It was a saying at the club and the mess-room that "you never could surprise Dartmouth," and it merely amounted to a truism.

Rush into the room where he was lying—he preferred that posture to sitting—with the most astounding, most terrible news, and he received it and you with calm indifference, or, at the most, lazy interest.

Yet Captain Reginald Dartmouth was no "swell" in the ordinary acceptance of the term. He neither overdressed himself, talked childish nonsense, professed ignorance of the most ordinary everyday matters, as your idiots of that genus make a point of doing, nor hesitated.

He dressed well, and with the care of a Brummel, and he wore an eye-glass; but to dress well he considered the duty of every English gentleman; and as for the eye-glass, it served sometimes to heighten or intensify the piercing look of haughty disdain which was so effectual in killing the snob or smothering an insolence.

Game after game went on, and still he lay on the soft velvet apparently unconscious and asleep, and he would probably have laid there until the clock had struck his retiring hour; but suddenly the door was burst open and a slight-built young fellow entered, and nodding to the players with a pleasant smile went up to the sofa upon which Reginald Dartmouth lay and clapping him on the shoulder, with a laugh, said:

"Hello, Reg! Asleep as usual."
 "Ah, Charlie," said the captain, without rising or betraying the slightest surprise, "is that you? Of course, I might have known it. No one else in the world would have the impudence to wake a fellow. It's my opinion you'd wake Methuselah if you came across his grave."
 "It's my opinion," retorted Charlie Anderson, the gossip-monger and general favorite of the club, "that you'd sleep as long as that respectable old party, if some one didn't have the charity to wake you up sometimes. Why aren't you playing?"
 "Tired of it. I won three pools."
 "Ah, of course; you're such a great pot at pool. The fellows didn't like it, I suppose?"
 "I didn't ask them," said the captain, indifferently. "What's the time?"
 "Twenty past one," replied Charlie. "I shall be getting home. Are you going my way? I've got my car at the door."
 "As well your way as any other," replied Captain Dartmouth, carelessly.

"Come on, then," said Charlie Anderson. "The cob is a fidgety beast." After waiting to light a cigar and watch Lieutenant Pawton make a trifling hazard, Reginald Dartmouth put his arm within his friend's and the two passed through the handsomely decorated apartments into the inland hall.

At the door Sir Charlie Anderson's private cab was waiting, and the two, getting in, were whirled away at steam-engine pace by the fidgety cob.

"Charlie, what do you want with me to-night?" said Captain Dartmouth, when he had made himself comfortable in one corner.

"Why, how the deuce did you know I wanted you?" asked the young baronet, with admiring surprise.

The captain knocked the ash off his cigar and laughed lazily.

"My good fellow," he said, quietly, "a blind bat could see that you had something to tell me. What is it?"

"Well, you are a clever fellow; the sharpest—"

"Yes, never mind the other flattering adjectives, my dear Charlie," interrupted the captain, with careless indifference. "Let us have the pitch of the matter."

"Well, I've got some news for you," said the baronet, not a bit offended by the interruption. "You know I've a sort of cousin down in the west, an old maid—scarcely that, though, for she isn't very old—you know what I mean, rather passed, though she's a nice little thing, quiet, and the rest of it, and a deal better than the most of the run nowadays."

"Yes," assented the captain, as a patient hint.

"Well, don't be impatient."

"I never was in my life," said the captain, softly.

"She writes to me pretty regularly, and—and was very kind and liberal with her money—she's got lots of it—when I was thinly feathered. This morning I got a letter from her that contains some news more interesting to you than to me."

The captain nodded, but closed his eyes, looking as if nothing in the earth, the heavens above, or the waters under the earth, could interest him.

"It seems that the squire at the Dale, near them, Squire Darrell, has had a terrible row with his son and cut him off—turned him out, in fact."

The captain opened his eyes and knocked the ash off his cigar again.

"That isn't all. It seems the stupid fellow—the son, I mean—instead of hanging about until the old boy worked round, cleared right off in the most unaccountable way, and hasn't been heard of since. The dad, naturally riled at such beastly, unreasonable conduct, adopts a niece of his and proclaims her his heiress. Well, I thought, 'By Jove, Regy would like to hear of this' because I remembered hearing you say you were some revelation of the Darrells, and I fancied there might be a chance for you."

"So you threw up the dinner at Talbot House and the society of the five Miss Powells to come and tell me, Charlie, you are—well, I won't be abusive—say, a donkey."

"Oh, nonsense!" retorted the young baronet, blushing, however, with genuine pleasure, for he liked as well as looked up to his companion. "You'd have done the same for me."
 "Should I?" said Captain Reginald. "It's very doubtful."
 "Well, never mind," said Charlie Anderson, good-humoredly. "What are you going to do?"
 "I am going to bed," replied the other, "if you will put me down at the Albany."

"Nonsense—I mean, what are you going to do about the affair? He's a near relation, isn't he?"

"Uncle."
 "By Jove, you ought to have a shot, old man! Go down and marry the girl!"

"Thanks. I have an objection to bread-and-butter school-girls: they are insipid and abominable. I prefer, if the choice is a necessity, a red Indian squaw."

"Nonsense," retorted the other. "You mean you don't care to leave the charming Bell."

The captain smiled; it was almost a sneer.

"All the ballet girls that ever danced their legs off would go little to keep me if—"

When you get Indigestion

A few tablets of "Pape's Diapepsin" bring relief almost as soon as they reach the stomach.

"Pape's Diapepsin" by neutralizing the acidity of the stomach, instantly relieves the foot souring and fermentation which causes the misery-making gas, heartburn, flatulence, fullness, or pain in stomach and intestines.

"Pape's Diapepsin" helps regulate disordered stomachs so favorite foods can be eaten without causing distress. Costs so little at drug stores.

"If what?" asked the other.

"If I meant to play, for my sweet uncle's land and cash."

"Well," said Charlie Anderson, "you know your own book best, old fellow. Good-night."

Leisurely pacing the steps that led to his chambers, the captain turned into a handsome sitting-room, where his valet awaited him.

"You can go to bed, Williams; I shall not want you," he said, and the man, with a respectful bow, made silently off.

Then Captain Reginald Dartmouth sank into one of the easy-chairs and, stroking his silky mustache, muttered:

"So my amiable uncle has turned that hot-headed cousin of mine out of doors and taken a school-girl to reign in his place! It's fine property—too good for an idiot or a woman. I am in debt; I am poor; it does not look impossible—yet a raw-boned, giggling school-girl! Bah, it is too repulsive! but, notwithstanding his distaste for the picture he had called up, he rang the bell, and told his man to pack his portmanteau in time to catch the coach for Dale.

Fads and Fashions.

Vests may be round or square, but they must all have deep silk borders. It is even suggested, that the back fullness of 1880 skirts will be revived. The twice-around Egyptian girls should be worn with Eton suits. Taffeta is considered to have abundant possibilities for evening wear.

The most popular sweater is made slip-on style and has very short sleeves.

A wide scarf of grey tulle is embroidered in Chinese fashion with gold thread.

Entire costumes of white—not a thread of color—are very distinguished.

Coats for practical use are being made of a new jersey cloth with a weavette tweed.

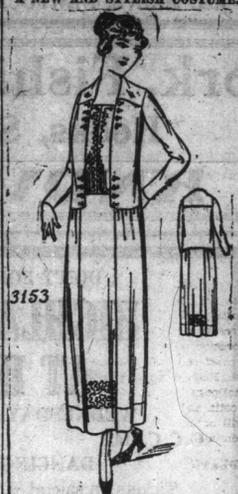

Jersey suits for Spring have collars and cuffs of brushed wool in a contrasting color.

A smart umbrella of blue silk shows a tan wood handle with an imitation amber top.

Natural colored carriage silk is a new material for riding habits and many other garments.

Fashion Plates.

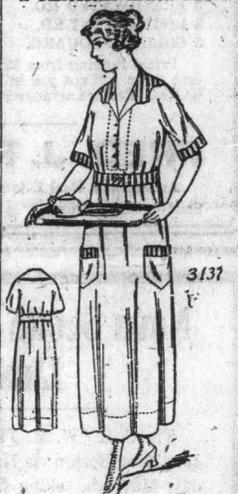

A NEW AND STYLISH COSTUME.

Pattern 3153 is here portrayed. It is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. The width of the skirt at lower edge, with plaits extended, is 2 1/2 yards. This model shows a new basque waist with vest portions. It is suited to mature as well as slender figures, and appropriate for silk, cloth and wash fabrics.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL APRON DRESS.

Pattern 3137 was used to develop this convenient garment. It is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 22-24; Medium, 26-28; Large, 30-32; Extra Large, 34-36 inches bust measure. For a Medium size 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material will be required. As here pictured, blue chambray was employed with striped blue and white gingham for the trimming. Linen, khaki, alpaca, voile, repp and poplin, also percale and lawn are suitable for this style.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

Eight Million Processionists in May Day Parade.

More Speechmaking Than Action --Princess Margaret of Connaught Died at Stockholm--English Universities Defeat Americans -- Polish Forces are Steadily Advancing in Ukraine.

MAY DAY IN LONDON.

LONDON, May 1. Eight million workers are estimated to have participated in Great Britain's observance of May Day, by taking a day off, parading and speechmaking, but there were no interruptions to the nation's essential public services, probably partly due to the fact that Saturday is normally the day-off holiday. A move to impede railway traffic through the "work to rule" policy, proclaimed by the London and Liverpool Railway Men's unions, proved a fiasco, not a single train of a hold-up due to this attempt to enforce the workers' demand for increased wages, unauthorized activities in the unions, being repressed. The feature, which gave more notice of distinguishing the day, was the inauguration of an overall-campaign similar to that in Canada and the United States by the Middle Class Union. The Union's officials appeared at their offices this morning, garbed in denim, and issued appeals to the membership of the Union to emulate their example. Miners, factory hands, shipbuilders, dockers, builders, painters, engineers, agricultural workers and municipal employees made holiday and joined in a locally organized demonstration or went to see the season's opening cricket matches. There were no disorders.

BRITISH WIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2. The Oxford and Cambridge Universities team of England won the two-mile college championship relay race of America here on Saturday afternoon, defeating seven of the leading colleges of the country. The University of Illinois was second, some forty yards behind. Penna was third and Cornell fourth. The race was won in a new world's record time of seven minutes and fifty and two-fifths seconds.

D. H. McDougall, President of the Nova Scotia and Coal Co., it is understood, will occupy an important place in the administration of the big Corporation.

DEATH OF SIR T. W. RUSSELL.

DUBLIN, May 2. The Right Honourable Sir Thomas Wallace Russell died here to-day. He was born in 1841. Russell for many years was a member of the House of Commons and took an active part against the Irish Home Rule movement in its early days.

FIRE AT SEA.

BOSTON, May 2. The Norwegian motor schooner Risover was abandoned to-day because of fire, five hundred miles east of New York, the crew being taken off by the British steamer City of Canton, which reported by wireless that she was proceeding to New York. No details of the fire were given. The Risover sailed from Norfolk for Denmark on April 27th.

FIGHTING IN TRANS-BAIKALIA.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 1. Severe fighting is in progress at Challa, trans-Baikalia, between the forces of General Veltzkoofsky, sole remnant of Admiral Kolchak's army in trans-Baikalia, and the opposing Bolshevik faction according to reports from a Russian source. The Japanese are declared to be supporting General Veltzkoofsky.

Engineer From S. S. Binca Comes Out With Facts

Tells of Wife's Long Suffering And How Health Was Restored by Tanlac.

"After what Tanlac has done for my wife, I'm always going to say a good word in favor of it whenever I get the chance," said William A. Snow, when in at Connors' drug store recently. Mr. Snow was engineer on the ill-fated S.S. Binca, which was recently lost in mid-Atlantic. His home is on the Waterford Bridge Road, St. John's, Nfld.

"For fully twelve months my wife had been in a badly run-down condition. She had indigestion so that sourness and gas would form on her stomach and her food would repeat a lot. She was frequently bilious and had a dull, sallow complexion. She was always having nervous headaches and would get so dizzy that she would nearly faint. Her nerves were in a very bad state so that she could not sleep at night and when she did doze off she was troubled with bad dreams, and would wake up and sometimes scream with fright; after that she would lay awake for hours, unable to get to sleep again. Her appetite was very poor and she ate scarcely enough to keep body and soul together. It's no wonder she got frail and thin, and weak in fact she could not do the housework. When I got home from my last trip across the Atlantic, I found her in very poor health and was very worried about her condition.

"She had had treatment and tried all kinds of remedies, but they had failed to do her any good, and so we got Tanlac, and I want to say right here, that it has helped her wonderfully. She has only taken three bottles, but she's like a different woman already. She is no longer troubled with indigestion, sourness or gas, her appetite is splendid, and she eats all kinds of food. She is fast putting on weight and is so much stronger that she can do her housework without any trouble. She sleeps peacefully the whole night through, and gets up in the morning feeling fresh and bright. Her complexion has greatly improved, and in fact she is stronger and better in every way. I wouldn't take their weight in gold for what those three bottles of Tanlac have done for my wife, and we both agree that it is a good medicine."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, and by the leading druggist in every town.

65 cents an hour are met, says the employees. The demands cannot be met until the right to increase fares is given, says the company. Let the two parties fight the question out in the attitude adopted by the City Council.

A Mercenary Landlord.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—Peace once more is felt in the world which such a short while ago was drenched with blood, and echoing the sounds of shot and shell, drum and bugle, with moans and lamentations. With the end of the war, must patriotism too end? Is there no desire for righteousness and love of country because the inspiration—bloodshed—is over? Are those who have been bereaved so forgotten as to have to submit to wrongs at the hands of their own countrymen?

When war broke out in 1914, there was a widowed mother who gave her three sons to her country. One—her eldest—was killed at Cambrai (well known and well beloved was Lieut. Walter Greene, first D.C.M. of Newfoundland), Gus, who has been ill for some time as result of wounds received and illness contracted, during his service with the Regiment, and Gregory, M.M.

To-day the treatment to this brave woman from the country that should be grateful to her, is to be put on the street for strangers—an alien husband and wife—because they could pay a lofty price as purchasers of a house she had rented. The lofty price, no doubt, induced her landlord to forget the duty he owed the widowed mother of three soldiers. Surely this fact will not raise him in the estimation of at least the soldier population of this city.

There was an excellent chance for this landlord to show the patriotism that every British gentleman is expected to feel, by waiting a little longer before selling his house, so that Mrs. Greene and family might have a chance to get another one.

It is said, sad record for our Colony, to think that foreigners can come here, and because they are in a position to do so, put a native born and soldier family on the street. It is sad too that Mr. Landlord should make such a poor return for the years of safety he enjoyed, when the sons of Mrs. Greene, and other brave mothers, went through the indescribable horrors and hardships of war. By way of reward soldiers might at least be given a little right to the country they fought for, and not always have to give way to foreigners. Thanking you Mr. Editor for space,

Yours truly,
PATRIOT.

Forty-One Years in the Public Service—The Evening Telegram

Superintendent of Child Welfare.

W. P. A. TAKING UP THE MATTER.

Miss Edith Haslam, who has lately arrived in St. John's from England and is at present a guest at Government House, is the Social Worker engaged by Lady Harris, wife of His Excellency the Governor, on behalf of the Women's Patriotic Association, to superintend Child Welfare in the island, the work that the Women's Patriotic Association has adopted since the war ended. In Miss Haslam Newfoundland will have a most capable exponent of the work of Child Welfare, one who is thoroughly experienced and eminently suitable for the big task before her. She was trained in general nursing for three years in England and holds the Central Midwives Board certificate, and is registered nurse in Philadelphia. For 7 years she was engaged in private nursing in England, the United States, and during the war worked in Paris under the American Red Cross. On her return to England at the end of the war, Miss Haslam was appointed Superintendent of a new Infant Welfare Centre in London which she organized entirely and ran most successfully. At the beginning of this year she obtained the Health Visitors certificate of the Royal Sanitary Institute. Miss Haslam is accustomed to giving lectures to mothers, and teaching first aid, home nursing and similar subjects; and though she only arrived here 10 days ago she has already addressed the wives of the Great War Veterans, the Cochrane Street Church Mothers' Meeting, and two or three other women's and young girls' Associations, in addition to which she has daily paid innumerable visits with Miss Kendall in order to get an idea of the condition of things and the greater needs of the people in the poorer parts of St. John's. It is Miss Haslam's opinion that in the young girls and future mothers lies the great hope of the work she has come here to do. Miss Haslam has been able to meet several of the doctors in St. John's by whom she has been most kindly received and has the great advantage of having gained their sympathy and co-ordination. She hopes still further to extend this by calling upon those whom as yet she has not had time to meet.

It is now essential to co-ordinate finally and officially the position of the Women's Patriotic Association in this matter with the Department of Public Health and the Government, as this is the only way in which the Child Welfare Work can hope to progress satisfactorily and with the strides that Newfoundland now anticipates. Miss Haslam has expressed her high opinion of the work which the Community Nurses are doing as organized by Mr. Gosling three years ago. But every day the work is increasing. There are now 1400 babies being visited, making it quite impossible for three Community Nurses to give each infant more than one visit per month, and no visit can be paid after the child is twelve months old. To meet this it would be necessary to have a series of infant welfare centres started in the town to which the mothers can bring their babies, thus relieving the pressure on the community nurses.

The ideal Infant Welfare Centre is attended one afternoon a week by a doctor, whom the mothers are able to consult upon children's minor ailments, and where they are given instruction and help by the Superintendent and the community nurses in carrying out the doctor's advice. Mother-craft in all its branches is taught at the Centre by means of simple health talks and demonstrations. A cup of tea and a piece of cake, for which a small charge is made, gives the centre a home-like atmosphere, and a welcome is always assured. A Centre is not a charity organization; nothing is given away free except the services of the doctor and the nurses.

It is such a Centre that Miss Haslam hopes to have started very shortly in two rooms, put at her disposal in the Department of Public Health, Duckworth Street, and she considers it most important that there should be at least two similar centres in other parts of the town which would be within easy reach of the mothers. When there is no room or building available for the use of a Centre, a school room or any suitable place can be turned to good account for a few hours when not in use, if the authorities will allow.

WHY WE STILL WORK EIGHTEEN HOURS.

A letter friend who professes himself to have been interested in my remarks on the man who thought it a nuisance because he had to push a button to start the electric pump that supplied his home with running water, wants me to say something about the mechanical inventions of the century have been absorbed bringing men the leisure they have brought.

He says that these inventions in the efficiency of each worker a many times, and yet the work has not been reduced in any measure degree.

I am glad indeed to say something, have a feeling that the some one not exactly what he expects. It First It Does Seem So.

At first glance, it does seem unreasonable and unjust that the efficiency of the worker has increased to an enormous machinery, his day has only been reduced from 12 or 14 to eight and his rewards in terms of money increased no more than have been.

Let's look at the other side. The world's work could be done in a fraction of its present hours if mankind would be with what it had to be satisfied two centuries ago.

Some one will object that the wage working man does not get much more. Let's look at that side.

do without them and turn that fifteenth back into manufacturing necessities, we could lop one-fifteenth of an eight hour day, or 32 minutes, off our day.

Again, two centuries ago there were no railroads and a short journey was a great event. To-day almost everyone travels at least a few miles daily. It takes another fifteenth of our population to keep up the transportation service.

Shall We Give Up the Automobile? One-thirtieth of the working population is engaged in the pleasure automobile industry. Give up the pleasure automobile and you may take 15 minutes more off your working day.

Give up phonographs, movies, motor boats, bath rooms, theatres, grape fruit and other tropical fruit, daily newspapers, magazines popular novels, soft drinks, cheap mail service, high schools, colleges, hospitals, and all such accompaniments of civilization that were unknown two centuries ago, and you can lop off hours from each man's working day.

But just so long as millions of people have all these things, so long must a proportion of the working population be withdrawn from the production and manufacture of necessities to produce and manufacture and transport these other things for us.

Mind you I am not arguing that there are no injustices, no inequalities of distribution to be remedied. Far from it. But that side of the situation is well press-agented and needs no word of mine, whereas I do not think these counter-balancing facts are so generally known.

I wonder if my letter friend is satisfied.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited. I was very sick with Quinsy and thought I would strangle. I used MINARD'S LINIMENT and it relieved me at once. I am never without it now.

PATIENCE.

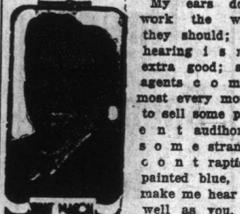

The world asks nothing of a man Beyond his power to do. He can who really thinks he can. And this is always true—Each in his place can reach his goal And find expression for his soul.

Sometimes the way seems hard and long. Sometimes the burden's great. But he shall conquer who is strong. And he shall come through weal and woe Unto the peace he hopes to know.

Grief strikes us in our gayest hours. And failures bear us down. But these are tests to try our powers. Before we gain the crown; All who the robes of fame would wear, First in its bitterness must share.

Great trials come to test us all. There is no easy road. He who has faith shall never fail Beneath his heavy load; For out of failure and distress The strong man builds his happiness.

DEAFNESS.

My ears don't work the way they should; my hearing isn't extra good; and agents come most every morn to sell some patent audiophones, painted blue, to make me hear as well as you. I shoo such agents from my door and tell them to come back no more. To buy such traps I'd be a loon; my deafness is my greatest boon. The fellow with a weary tale with fungus on it, it's so stale, will pass me by before he'll tell his story when he has to yell. I miss so many tales of woe, so many chestnuts all men know, so much of gossip mean and punk, so much of scandal-mongers' junk, that I'd despise the meddling men who brought my hearing back again. And when I seek my couch at night I'm like a child. I sleep so tight. The noise that keeps you awake my gentle slumbers cannot break. I do not hear the round-er yell, I do not hear the milkman's bell; the chugging motors scorching by can't make your uncle bat an eye. I'm satisfied, the way I am; you see me merry as a clam, and if I heard as well as you, no doubt you'd find me grim and blue.

Popular Novels a Century Ago.

John Galt, who was born at Irvine, in Ayrshire, on May 2, 1779, was a novelist whose writings perhaps are unduly neglected in these days. But his best work is of a high class character, and won for him a position at a time when Scott was still writing with little diminution of his power, although Galt removed to London in 1806, not without hope of distinguishing himself in literature, it was not until 1820 that he won his first real success with "The Ayrshire Legatees." By that time, of course, Scott had brought "Scotch novels" into fashion, and Galt probably benefited by what we should call the "boom" in them. At all events, he won a considerable public, which was led by the appearance of his masterpiece, "The Annals of the Parish," in 1821, to expect rather more from him than, as it happened, he subsequently gave. He was a most unequal writer; and though at times he touched a high level, there are long and languid intervals. Still, there is plenty to interest in "The Provost" and "Sir Andrew Wylie," published in 1822, "The Entail," of 1824, and "Lawrie Todd" of 1830. After the last-named, he produced no more novels; but he had done enough to show that he possessed a peculiar gift for the delineation of the life of small Scottish communities, a sphere in which he is not surpassed even by Scott. But though, after 1830, he abandoned novel-writing, his "Autobiography" appeared in 1833, and his "Literary Life and Miscellanies" a year later. He died in 1839, and it is interesting to note, as a proof of his lasting quality, that an edition of his novel, in eight volumes, came out as recently as 1895-6.

Fashions and Fads.

Evening frocks have no definite waist line, and often feature the over-tunic hung from the shoulders. Just because it is so expensive this year, linen is very much desired for charming, woolen-trimmed frocks. Braid appears on bolero suits, but used in a very novel fashion, being arranged differently on the two sides. A smart sports costume is composed of a silk tricotette sweater in yellow and a white serge skirt knife plaited. Fur pieces for Spring are combinations of moleskin and ermine, mole and blue fox, or male and grey squirrel. Capes have by no means lost in popularity, but they have decided to be plaited and to have huge, puffy collars of taffeta.

Captain (?) Jones, H. A.

An individual named Jones, styled captain by a stretch of courtesy, whose sole claim to fame is that he was elected by the voters of Twillingate District to serve them, according to his lights, in the House of Assembly, took occasion on Friday to instruct the Telegram how it should be conducted and edited. This shoal water mariner, who would not know a chronometer from a Waterbury time-piece, presumes upon his position, and only adds to his paucity of knowledge when he takes it upon himself to criticize what should or what should not be published in a modern newspaper. Other bumptious personages of this Jones type have fallen into a similar error, but have repented. We have not the honor of the acquaintance of this so-called captain and representative for Twillingate, but we opine that his knowledge of the working of a newspaper is on a parity with his ability to work out a problem in navigation on Mercator's projection. By his own admission Mister Jones is a fisherman (the only one of two in the House) therefore as a fisherman let him stick to his hooks and lines and air his knowledge on the subject about which he knows most.

The crime of the Telegram, which kindled the ire of—er—Captain (?) Jones, and which brought forth the denunciation of that broad-minded seaman, was the re-publication in the columns of this paper on November 18th last, of an article, which had previously appeared in the Catholic Register and Extension, the Toronto paper quoted by Mr. Jones, and the name of which he was apparently unaware or unacquainted. Mr. Jones declaimed most fervently against the Telegram and its editor, having been inspired thereto, no doubt, by his party leaders, and delivered a sentence in no unmeasured terms. Really Mr. Jones is swimming in great depths when he undertakes to dictate the policy to be pursued by an up-to-date newspaper, and being exceedingly desirous that the subject of his harangue should be carried farther than the ears which heard it, we, without apology, reprint to-day the article which caused so much vexation and soreness of spirit to the broad-minded Captain (?) Jones. It is particularly appropriate at the moment, in view of the unchallenged statement of Mr. F. C. Archibald, member for Harbor Grace, that the General Election last fall, was fought and won on sectarian lines. Had Mr. Jones the least knowledge of newspaper work, he would have known at once that the Register's article was published more to show the opinion of Toronto journalists on the manner in which they considered the last election was conducted. But Mr. Jones does not know, and therefore his ignorance would have been excused, but for the unwarranted and entirely indefensible attack made by him upon on the editor. But larger men than Mr. Jones, of Twillingate, had already given much time and talk to a discussion of this article, for no less a person than the Prime Minister himself, read it at the Grand Lodge Session of the Loyal Orange Association, recently held at Cupids, and commented upon it in much the same lurid style as did Mr. Jones, and all we can say is that Mr. Jones has merely repeated with his own additions the comments of Mr. Squires on the occasion referred to. Herewith is the article and the reply of the Telegram to the Advocate, which also evidently felt bad because of its publication:

(Telegram, Nov. 18.)
THE N.F.L.D. ELECTIONS.

"Some correspondent in Newfoundland is trying to cheer up down-hearted bigots in Toronto by assuring them of a great Protestant victory in Newfoundland. The true character of this victory will be understood when we inform our readers that the leader of the Opposition who has won the election, represents a Catholic district. The fact is that the Opposition consists of an alliance between two groups. The leader and some others represent a group of Capitalists and Corporations who hate Sir Michael Cashin because he taxed their war profits, reformed the tariff so as to relieve the necessities of life and the materials of industry, and generally refuses to give away the resources of the country to the big interests. The other wing of the alliance consists of a Fishermen's Union in the Northern Districts, which corresponds to our Labour Party, and is radical and semi-Socialistic. The only way in which the dishonest leaders of this faction could camouflage their amalgamation with Tory Capitalists was by raising a sectarian cry against a Catholic Premier on the plea that there ought not to be a Catholic in succession to a Catholic. And as the Northern part of the Island is the most ignorant, bigoted, and glibble, they have easily succeeded in humbugging those poor, simple fishermen. However, the interests which this amalgamation aims at promoting, are not at all the interests of the Protestant religion, as their supporters will soon find out.

"Sir Michael Cashin has held office for ten years, most of the time as Minister of Finance, and lately as Prime Minister. He leaves his country at the height of prosperity, ten times as prosperous as he found it. He has shown himself the most enlightened and efficient of financiers, and has the consolation that his name will be honored in the history of his country, and that his career has not yet closed. The people have waxed fat under his regime and have looked. It remains to be seen whether it is the people who will prosper under his successor. The bigots in Newfoundland will find out, as the similar class in this country have found, that they are the dupes of designing politicians, who will soon be busy trying to prove to Catholics that they are not bigots or enemies.

"One thing has surprised us very much. That is to find a Toronto newspaper which is radical in politics and which professes to be religiously Liberal, proclaiming a Protestant victory in big headlines, when the victory is really a victory of Capitalists and Corporations. What makes the matter more remarkable is that this group of Capitalists in Newfoundland have always been the most determined Anti-Confederates and the most unscrupulous calumniators of Canada. These gentlemen do not at all scruple to warn the Catholics of Newfoundland against a union with "the bigots of Toronto." Their party is a strange object for the admiration of a "Liberal" newspaper in Toronto.

"It was reported in Newfoundland that the poorer wing of the Opposition had obtained a portion of their campaign funds from the "bigots of Toronto." This might be a mere election action or it might also be true. And if it was true, then it would explain why their agent has been so anxious to persuade "the bigots of Toronto" that their money was not wasted, but produced results. Yet wasted it was, if it was so invested."

(Telegram, Nov. 20.)

"Touching the Advocate's reference to the Telegram's reprinted article on 'The Newfoundland Elections,' taken from 'The Catholic Register' of Toronto, the Telegram merely wishes to state that in every case where either fair or unfair comment is made on local matters by the foreign press, we deem it our duty to publish same for the information of our readers, and we are not going to be deterred from so doing by any scare cries raised by journalistic Uriah Heeps. There are many 'startling revelations' in connection with the recent election that have yet to be presented to the people. Will they be interesting? Well, rather!"

A Worthy Cause.

It will be learned with genuine pleasure by all who were fortunate enough to be at the Cathedral last Thursday evening and by the many who did not then have the opportunity to attend, that the Sacred Concert by the United Choirs of the City will be repeated there to-morrow night. His Grace, Archbishop Roche, signified his willingness to have the spacious Cathedral used a second time,—on the second occasion for the worthy benefit of the Permanent Marine Disasterers' Fund. Professor Hutton, the talented director of the big choir, thereupon got in touch with the various choirs and received from them expressions of eager consent to repeat the splendid recital. Thus the city will again have the rare privilege of enjoying a veritable feast of music and vocal harmony. The thousands who for various good reasons could not go last Thursday night will doubtless embrace this last opportunity. In addition to the personal pleasure of listening to good music—not, unfortunately, any too often enjoyed—there is the added satisfaction of knowing that the most deserving of the many funds which have in the past, and no doubt will in the future, be brought to the attention of the country will be thereby augmented and many the little fatherless tots made the happier. Newfoundland is an island in the sea and her sons must brave the dangers ever present when sea and ocean are in proximity. To this braving of the sea's dangers and perils is due the wealth that is ours: the inevitable result is a long and ever-growing list of sea tragedies—with the consequent husbandless women and fatherless children. The country profits by the courage of her sons and the country must stand by the mothers and helpless little ones who are left, when the brave breadwinner is deprived of the joy of working and suffering that his family will enjoy the comforts which are their right. The fine feeling that such luckless ones will be helped must surely add to the pleasure of those who will on to-morrow night feast themselves at the shrine of Euterpe.

Visiting Home Town.

Mrs. (Capt.) M. E. Davidson (nee Miss DeGriah) arrived from Norway, via New York and North Sydney by s.s. Kyle last week, on a visit to her mother, who is very ill at Trinity. After a stay of about a month, Mrs. Davidson will leave en route to Japan, via Montreal and Victoria, B.C., to meet her husband who is at present engaged there. They will remain in Japan about five years when it is their intention to return to Norway and settle down. Mrs. Davidson is looking well after "her six years' absence, not having a day's sickness since leaving Newfoundland. She speaks the Norwegian language fluently, and tells many interesting stories of that far-away country, especially during the period of the war, in which that country was so much interested. We trust Mrs. Davidson's stay at her old home-town will be a pleasant one.—Com.

Seals Plentiful in Trinity Bay.

The Deputy Minister of Customs has received a message from Trinity saying that a large number of young harps had been killed in the Bay during the week. Boats in Trinity have secured from 2 to 12 seals each, and between one thousand and fifteen hundred had been shot from Ireland's eye to English Harbor.

Mr. Mews for plaintiff, began his argument, which he intended to confine to paragraph G., dealing solely with the charges of bribery, viz., public monies paid to voters by Mr. Woodford. These monies were allocated in the middle of the Election campaign and given under color of repairing roads and were not bona fide expenditures, as the work could be left for a further two or three weeks without being done. The argument will be resumed this afternoon.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, MAY 3.
Eppesdent Tooth Paste begins to show the results of its superiority over all other dentifrices almost immediately. It dissolves that yellow or brown film that collects round the teeth and which is such a harbor and breeding place of the tooth destroying germs, rendering it innocuous. By preserving the teeth too, it helps the general health in more ways than one. People who have sound teeth are of course far less liable to digestive troubles—dyspepsia, constipation, diarrhoea, malnutrition—and far less liable to toxemia and auto-intoxication, with their results in rheumatism and failure of the general health. If you have good teeth take good care of them; and one of the best ways of taking care of the teeth is by the conscientious use of Eppesdent Tooth Paste. Large tubes 60c.

Doubling Subscriptions.

Thirty prominent Catholic laymen held a meeting "behind the back" of Archbishop P. J. Hayes Saturday afternoon in the Catholic Church, 120 Central Park South, New York, and decided that instead of the $500,000 he has asked as the first year's support of his new Catholic Charity Foundation they will raise for him $1,000,000. One subscription was for $2,500 annually. Others for $1,000 followed rapidly. It was decided to limit the range of giving, however, so that none of the existing charitable agencies, hospitals, orphanages, etc., be affected by the possible withdrawal of financial support on account of the larger movement.—Ex.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
CODFISH—This week 6,333 qtls. were shipped from St. John's to New York by the S.S. Rosalind mostly for transshipment to the West Indies. The market in Portugal has improved recently, and the consumption at Oporto has gone up to 8,000 quintals in the week, and at Lisbon to 3,000 quintals. Norwegian fish is now arriving there and may affect the prospect of Nfld. sales. Brazil markets are in fair condition and sales so far, have been satisfactory. There are no transactions in the St. John's market as all exporters have as much as they require. The total in the city and outports is now reduced to 200,000 qtls.

COD OIL—During the week, St. John's Exporters sent to foreign markets 25,056 gallons of Common Cod Oil, and 1,781 gallons Cod Liver Oil, all of which went to New York by the S.S. "Rosalind." The price of the former in the local market is still quoted at $3.10, and Cod Liver Oil at $2.00. There is so far a shortage of 20,000 gallons of oil in the West Coast Winter fishery as compared with last season. This ought to sustain the prices, especially of Medicinal oil, and all factories should operate in full blast the coming season.

SALT—The salt situation is serious. There are no steamers to be had, like in other years with salt cargoes, as they are employed elsewhere, where their owners can make more money and avoid the risk of encountering ice. During the past three months, the trade here has been endeavoring to get steamers to come here with salt, without avail. In consequence, salt with be higher. The price to-day is $3.70 per hhd., and it has been selling at this price since last fall. It cannot be sold for less than $4.00 during May for the fishery to meet the expense of carrying salt all winter. There is barely enough in port to meet Spring outfitting and a steamer has been secured by Job Bros. & Co. to bring a cargo here about the middle of May. Another will follow in June.

PORK—No change in Pork quotations since last issue. The St. John's imports are now about 4,000 barrels in excess of last year's total at this date. Much of this pork was bought at prices which, owing to the recent decline must result in sharp losses to importers. The supply season being so near at hand when purchases are made, this condition of affairs was unavoidable. The market as yet, shows no sign of stability, and the situation is gratifying to all except the importers who are bound to lose on early importations. There was a decline of 40c. a barrel Wednesday in Chicago. The local price of Ham Butt is $59.00 on the spot, and $57.50 to arrive. Fat Back and Mess $49.00.

BEEF—The imports of beef to St. John's are 1,300 barrels in excess of last year's record at this date. The carry-over of beef at New Year was not so great as pork, hence the difference in the figures. Primes may now be considered cheap as compared with quotations ruling at the beginning of the year. The basic cause of the decline in beef is no doubt the falling off in importations to Europe, resulting in heavy accumulations at the packing centres, and there is no indication that exports to Europe will increase this summer. The outlook is favorable for a continuation of lower prices. Any slight advance that comes will be caused by the advance in premium of exchange. Local prices are: Special Family $29.50, wholesale $32.00 to $35.00, Pate $37.00.

MOLASSES—Last week an advance of ten cents per gallon took place at Barbados, followed this week by another ten-cent advance. Twenty cents in Barbados is equal to 33 cents in Nfld., so that the cost of fancy Molasses is now $2.05 per gallon. At such a high price, the demand will likely be small, as compared with former years. Two cargoes have arrived here so far, and there are four on the way from Barbados.

SUGAR—A shipment arrived by the S.S. "Edmund Donald" which will keep the local demand supplied for a few weeks with what we must now regard as low priced sugar at $21 per 100 lbs. The higher priced sugar will be coming along before the end of May, and will have to be sold at about 50c. per lb. wholesale, according to present Kaffery quotation for White American Granulated. It is believed by the sugar importers, that this high-priced sugar will have to be used all the Summer. There is not a factor in the situation that would give the least hope of cheaper sugar for six months at least.

FLOUR—No change in the flour situation since last week. The countries of Central Europe are in dire need of flour, but they have been reduced to such a low economic position by the war, that they have no money to purchase food, stuffs and millions are on the verge of starvation. In the local market, leading brands are $16.75 wholesale, and other qualities are $15.50 to $16.50. Flour for fishery supplies will be about $18.00 taken in the usual way. Imports to date are short about 900 barrels as compared with a corresponding period last year.

Cathedral Men's Bible Class Mission to Seamen.

Season's Work Commenced Yesterday Morning--Services in Cathedral and Open Air.

Yesterday morning witnessed the annual resumption of the C.M.B.C. Harbor Mission work. Immediately after the corporate Communion in the C. E. Cathedral there was a service held on Bowring's wharf at which the new boat built last year, was dedicated by His Lordship Bishop White. Besides the acquisition of a new and better boat for the service, the Harbor Mission workers of the C.M.B.C. have this year affiliated with the worldwide "Mission to Seamen," thereby making a much stronger and more personal connecting link with foreign sailors. "The Mission to Seamen," of which the patrons are their Majesties the King and Queen of our Empire, and the Heads of the Anglican Church, have branches in most of the large seaports of the world, and the literature printed by the Society, goes to each port, and will be distributed by the C.M.B.C. workers in this year's work on the harbors. The Mission has been 64 (sixty-four) years in existence and each succeeding year sees a large advance and increase in membership, and more slowly, but not less surely, in finance, but of course the actual benefits of the Mission cannot be gauged correctly, for who can tell the influence of the little seeds sown by the ardent and oftentimes humble workers of the Harbor Mission circle. That the Mission to seamen is appreciated, wherever a branch is working is shown by the multitudinous letters received at the headquarters of the Mission in London from sailors of all creeds and nationalities. In 1917 there were 99 seaports in which the Mission was doing yeoman service, where there were in use about one hundred and fifty (150) seamen's churches and institutes, while 75 vessels were engaged in visiting lighthouses, lightships, etc. During the same year, about 400,000 seamen attended Mission services afloat and ashore and nearly 6,000 communicants participated in the Blessed Sacrament of Our Lord's Body and Blood. As illuminating the other work of the Mission it is only necessary to state that during the last 35 years roughly about 160,000 Bibles and 15,000 Prayer Books have been sold to seafaring men. An eloquent testimony of the value of the Harbor Mission workers. Besides the religious aspect of course the social question is handled with as much care, and with as good results as the spiritual, for where the mind and body are socially fed, the spirit not infrequently follows suit in its craving for wisdom and peace. The following clippings speak for themselves:

"You cannot know how many hearts enshrine your names and that of the Mission, but many a mother, wife and sister bless you and pray for you; women you will never know or see."

A sailor in describing the Mission says: "I have been to the Missions at Sydney, Melbourne and Brisbane, and think them fine places; the best places seamen can go to."

In a mother's letter received at the headquarters, was written, "I thank God there are such societies as yours which help to prevent boys going wrong when away from home."

When it is borne in mind that any people, insulated as we are, live at the mercy of the sailors, it is seen at once how important, and how fitting when they are in port. Many a sailor has echoed the remark once made to a Mission Chaplain, "When you come ashore after a long voyage you feel like a bird let out of a cage."

That is perfectly true, and it is then sailors need some nice roomy place where they can go and be at ease and comfort. With the incorporations of the C.M.B.C. workers into the older and larger Mission may we not see the growth of a larger endeavor to do more and more for the hardy followers of Neptune, and we in all sincerity trust that with the dedication of the new boat yesterday there will begin bigger efforts than ever to satisfy the sailors' wants, and an increased spiritual, as well as social growth.

"Like the winds of the sea are the waves of the fates. As we voyage along through life; it's the set of the soul that decides the good."

And not the storms or the strife." DEDICATION OF BOAT.

Yesterday morning, at 8 o'clock the C.M.B.C. held a corporate Communion in the Cathedral after which they repaired to Bowring's wharf for the annual opening services of the Harbor Mission work. This service constitutes the first, under the new name of the C.M.B.C. workers, viz., the C.M.B.C. Mission to Seamen, and as the numbers present at both church and open-air services yesterday morning were large we may rest assured that the new lease of life—if we may so term it—will be more resultant for good, as years go by. The chief item of interest, perhaps, in yesterday's service was the dedication of the new boat, the "Ethel B." to the glory of God, by the C.M.B.C. work and record.

The Lord Bishop was present and gave the address, the order of service being as follows:

Hymn.
Invocation.
A.—Our help is in the Name of the Lord.

R.—Who hath made Heaven and earth.
A.—Blessed be the Name of the Lord.

R.—From this time forth, and for evermore.
A.—Lord, hear our prayers,
R.—And let our cry come unto Thee.

Let us Pray.
Prevent us O Lord, &c.
Blessed be Thy Name O Lord our God, that it hath pleased Thee to put into the hearts of Thy servants to offer this Mission Boat for the service of Thy Church. Bless, we humbly beseech Thee, all those by whose pains, care, and cost this work has been done. Bless their families and their substance; remember them concerning this; wipe not out this kindness that they have showed for Thy Holy Church; and grant that all who shall enjoy the blessings procured for them by this Mission may show forth their thanks unto Thee for the same; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

By the authority committed unto us in the Church of God, we do now set apart and dedicate this Mission Boat—the "Ethel B."—in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Prayer for the C.M.B.C. and Harbor Mission.
The Grace, &c.
Hymn 370 (A.&M.)
Address by His Lordship the Bishop.

Hymn 356 (A.&M.)
The Blessing.

The boat, which is 30 feet long, on top, and fitted with an 8 h.p. cylinder Bridgeport engine, reflects great credit on her builder, Mr. Josiah Frampton, of Smith's Sound, Trinity Bay.

The appropriateness of the name "Ethel B." as His Lordship pointed out in his brief address, can be seen at a glance, because it is known all over our island as well as to numbers of foreign sailors, what interest and zeal has been displayed in the Harbor Mission work by the Chairman of the C.M.B.C., Rev. Mr. Brinton. Immediately after the ceremony the boat, manned by its volunteer crew of C.M.B.C. workers, started on its errand of love to the different ships in the Harbor, while other workers—equally as zealous, began a tour of all the wharves and docks distributing literature to each and all of the seafaring community. In this year of grace, 1920, may we not pray that the C.M.B.C. Mission to Seamen may grow in power, and that its influence—great and beneficial as it has always been—may be strengthened tenfold for the Glory of God, and the enlargement of His Kingdom.—S.J.H.

Annual Meeting.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE.

The annual meeting of the friends and supporters of the Lord's Day Alliance was held in the College Hall last night, a large gathering attending. His Lordship Bishop White presided, and with him on the platform were Rev. Canon Smart, Dr. Jones, T. E. Darby, D. B. Hemmison, Messrs. W. R. Stirling and A. W. Mews.

His Lordship Bishop White in his opening address referred to the Alliance as a movement in which all can come together on a common ground and bear united witness to this Christian institution, the Lord's Day. It offers an opportunity for constructive effort for many who would be deprived of the day but for the Alliance, and is one of the great bulwarks against the spirit of secularization that is a feature of the present. Failing a better programme, there are still several things that can be done; at least we can give patient study to the difficulties in the way of all classes of observing the day, or of having the opportunity to do so. We can hold to the restoring of the religious obligation resting on all Christian people, rich and poor alike. The Lord's Day is not an end in itself, but a means, a great help to all and if used as it should be, would continue as for ages, an inestimable benefit. His Lordship then called on Rev. Dr. Curtis to read the resolutions to be laid before the meeting, as follows:

WHEREAS at the present time there is no general Lord's Day Act upon the Statute Books of Newfoundland;

AND WHEREAS evidences may be found in many directions that such an Act is greatly needed, particularly in St. John's;

AND WHEREAS with the approval and support of all religious denominations of Canada a Lord's Day Act is in force and has been for several years, to the great benefit of the working classes of that Dominion;
BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that at this meeting of friends and supporters of the Lord's Day Alliance of Newfoundland urge upon the Legislature the importance of effecting legislation during its present session assuring to the workman his weekly day of rest;
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the meeting recommend that the Lord's Day Act of Canada, with such modifications and additions as may be necessary to meet local requirements, be placed upon the Statute Books of Newfoundland;
BE IT RESOLVED FURTHER that copies of these Resolutions be forwarded to the Prime Minister and to the daily papers.

Rev. Dr. Curtis said the Alliance has accomplished more than is apparent, but not all that is hoped for. Something of a constructive nature is now being attempted and will result in improvement in the keeping of the Lord's Day throughout the country. Foreigners come here and abuse our hospitality by abusing the ordinances of Sunday. They keep their business places open, leading the young astray with only too great success. The Department of Justice when approached says the law is lacking towards having conditions changed. Hence the resolutions seeking legislation at this session of the Assembly. He was pleased at the large gathering and felt many more would be present if aware of the importance of the work to be undertaken.

Rev. Canon Smart moved the first resolution, pleasantly referring to being conscripted to do so, and said that anything that has to do with the keeping of the spirit of holiness of the Lord's Day has his earnest approval and support. He was a man of strong convictions and worked in the interest of the Cigarette Law, but when no attempt was made to enforce it he vowed he was done with prohibitive legislation. Until Prohibition came up forcibly, he had refused to take any part in the movement. Until it became a question of for or against, he was inactive. By word or deed he never supported the liquor traffic. He could not say that what has happened had increased his desire to put more prohibitive laws on the Statute Book. As he was bidden to move the resolution he would therefore do so. If we are going to put a law on the books we must do everything to enforce it. He had been here 33 years and knew our people, but feared the splendid traits of their make up were detracted from by the fear of offending. There are times when we must do so and take a firmer stand in regard to the Prohibition Act and he asked are we going to do the same in this. A public spirit must be created and maintained and the measure would be carried out. Something must be done towards ensuring a weekly day of rest. There is a tendency, however, to put in something in place of rest but it must not be made a day of sloth. When it comes to the observance of the day, the first part is not spent in rest, which is loving obedience in giving the Creator his just due. In his parish many are obliged to work on Sundays and his advice is to do so if they must in the interest of their families, but do so in the spirit of devotion and with the will to do what the Church commands. The problem of enacting legislation to give these referred to or railroad men a day of rest was a difficult one and he would leave it to the wiser heads of the Alliance. At one time the churches were crowded, such is not the case now.

Rev. T. R. Darby seconded the motion and felt if the previous speaker were living in the city and saw the benefits of prohibition he would be glad to have had something to do in bringing it about and steps are to be taken to see the law is enforced. There may be differences as to the way of observing, but there can be no doubt as to the benefits to body, mind and soul of the Lord's Day. No nation is great without it and those observing it bring the greatest blessings to their people. To desecrate it is to lower body and mind and the best that is in man. Medical science and political economy teach that one day in seven is necessary to the well-being of the race. Even machines do better work after the rest and it is certainly true of man as without it his physical powers deteriorate. His mental and spiritual nature needs it also. His drudgery is relieved in thinking of his destiny in the house of God. The day of worship is a moral necessity. We cannot have the day of rest without legislation as greed will have its toll and men be compelled to choose between work and worship. We must have legislation to keep them from being exploited. In the United States 7,000,000 work seven days a week. In Canada thousands are released from labor by the Lord's Day Act without reduction in wages and a lot of unnecessary work cut out. The law is necessary for those who cannot benefit themselves. The claims as to interference with personal liberty with which the idea will likely be met here have no justification. He hoped to see the law on the Statute Book and man granted his God-given right.

The second resolution was moved by Rev. Gordon Dickie who felt that all would be better spiritually and physically for the day of rest and it is the duty of everyone to see that we get it. Labor organizations endorse it, corporations have been compelled to grant it and it is best for the community.

Rev. Dr. Jones in seconding the resolution said he and Rev. Dr. Curtis had been assured by the Prime Minister that the Government would do all possible to see the act brought into effect. Under the Act in Canada provision is made for works of necessity, piety and charity. A deputation from Grand Falls has asked to have something done towards securing the day of rest, and the new law will apply to the whole Island. He deplored the lethargy as to enforcement of laws and hoped for unity in passing and keeping the new one. The legislation is not against certain forms of recreation, but to see that the day is not used for purposes of gain. He was sure the government would give it attention and he expected all to see it enforced.

The resolutions were passed unanimously. A vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. A. W. Mews, C.M.G., was heartily accorded. His Lordship, Bishop White, for his attendance and patronage, to which he briefly replied. During the evening several hymns were sung. Mr. Mews presiding at the piano. The meeting closed with Benediction by His Lordship Bishop White.

Some Notable Events

In Connection With Icebergs and Icefloes.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

There has been scarcely a year since the beginning of the past century that accidents have not occurred along our coasts and on the Atlantic, caused by the numerous icebergs which lumber along from their native haunts in the Far North. Only eight years ago (April 25th, 1912), the greatest marine disaster in history occurred, when the great steamship Titanic collided with an ice-berg, and out of the 2348 on board some 1500 persons were drowned. But we had many more previous to that disaster. It may be interesting to recall a few of the more notable ice calamities of the past thirty or forty years. Perhaps the most notable instance of an ocean liner colliding with an ice-berg (except the Titanic), is the case of the Guion liner "Arizona," on November 7th, 1879. Icebergs are found in the North Atlantic at all seasons of the year, and a record of mishaps to sea-going craft would exhibit disastrous misadventures almost in every week of the fifty-two. The "Arizona" at that time was a crack vessel of the Atlantic, and had some six hundred passengers aboard, when in a dense midnight fog she ran full tilt against an ice mountain, and smashed in her forepart from stem to foremast. If she had not been a staunchly-built ship she must inevitably have foundered; as it was, however, she succeeded in reaching St. John's forty-eight hours later. Those on board had a most nerve-racking experience. When the collision occurred the passengers stampeded for the deck, and only the most strenuous efforts of the officers and crew prevented a panic. After the panic had been allayed the collision bulkheads became endangered. Gradually the ship leaked more and more, and when she reached St. John's she had sunk almost to the water's edge, and could not have kept afloat more than a few hours longer. When the work of repairing her began two hundred tons of ice were taken from her forepeak, where it had been driven by the force of the collision.

MISSING SHIPS.

Not all ocean liners are so fortunate in the results of their encounters with ice as was the "Arizona." The mere recital of the names of big steamers that have gone to the bottom from contact with ice in the last sixty years would fill columns. There is reason to believe that the mysterious disappearance of scores of ships, with all hands aboard, upon which no light has ever been or ever will be thrown, is due to collisions with ice. Among these latter may be enumerated the White Star liner "Naronic" in the winter of 1898; the State liner "Georgia" in 1897; the Allan liner "Huronian" in 1902; the Field liners "Nutfield" and "Freshfield" in 1907; the Atlas liner "Athos" in 1907; and the Sydney liner "Stikklestad" in 1909, to name only a few out of the scores. I may here mention that the repairs to the "Arizona" were performed by the famous and skilful shipwright the late Mr. Daniel Condon, who was warmly congratulated for the successful accomplishment of the work by the Company, as well as the press and the English speaking of the world. The repairs were effected at Shea's wharf, and she sailed for Liverpool on November 23, 1879.

PERILS BY SEA.

The dangers and discomforts which fall to the lot of those aboard ocean liners which collide with the bergs, and which lose few or many of their personnel in these encounters are thrilling in the extreme. In 1861 the "Canadian," of the Allan service, struck a berg in Belle Isle Straits and went to the bottom almost at once, carrying fifteen persons with her, while the remainder of the crew and passengers were adrift for several days in open boats before they made land. On May 20, 1873, the steamer "Doverian" was lost off Cape Race by striking a berg at night, and of thirty persons aboard twenty-three perished. On May 2nd, 1876, the steamer "Caledonia" was lost off Labrador, having struck a berg and foundered soon after. She had eighty-two persons aboard, only eleven of whom escaped. These clambered on to the berg, and were there three days and nights, living on a seal which they had killed, until a passing fisher-boat rescued them. In June, 1875, the Dominion liner "Victoria" collided with a foe off Cape Race, and forty-seven persons went down with her. On March 28th, 1887, the steamer "Susan" struck a berg off Cape Race, and five were drowned.

THE LOSS OF THE "HUNTSMAN."

On April 28, 1872, the barq. Huntsman, Capt. Robert Dawe, of Bay Roberts, was dragged by the running ice over the Fish Rock, off Cape Charles, Labrador, and (if I remember rightly) forty-four of the crew out of sixty-two were lost, including the Captain and his son. One man, Solomon French, of Bay Roberts (who is still alive), was thirty-six hours on the rock, exposed to wind, wave and weather before he was rescued. I think, but I am not sure, that the eighteen survivors were brought home by Job Bros. & Co.'s steamship "Nimrod," Capt. Peter Cummins.

CANNIBALISM.

In 1897 occurred one of the most appalling tragedies of modern ice-berg disasters. In April of that year the French fishing vessel "Tallan" bound from Brittany (France), to St. Pierre, Miquelon, with seventy-four persons aboard, crashed into a berg off Cape Race and sank within ten minutes. Of her people sixty-two went down with her. The other twelve escaped in two boats, and were adrift for a week, being without food and poorly clad; some perished, and the others kept themselves alive by eating the dead bodies. Eventually the survivors became reduced to four, and these, when picked up, had their hands and feet so badly frost-bitten that these extremities had to be amputated. A similar experience to the above befell survivors of the French trawler "Kleber" in the Spring of 1900. The vessel had forty-seven persons aboard, of whom only nine survived the foundering of the ship. Four of these, having died, served as food for the five who remained. A rescuing ship on her way from St. John's to the Quero Bank came upon the hapless castaways perishing from exposure and thirst.

MELVILLE BAY HORROR.

To a like circumstance, the destruction of a ship by a mass of ice, is due the most terrible occurrence in modern Arctic annals. In 1851 the Greeley expedition, sent into the Arctic regions by the United States Government, established itself in Lady Franklin Bay for a three years' sojourn. Two years later the Newfoundland sealing steamer "Protos" was sent north with stores and supplies, to be left at Cape Sabine, at the head of Melville Bay, for the use of the explorers when they retreated to that spot. The ship, however, was pushed into the ice in that bay by order of the inexperienced American officer in charge, in defiance of the advice of that capable and experienced master mariner, and ice-pilot, Capt. Richard Pike, and she was crushed so that she sank within an hour. The crew had to make a three-hundred mile voyage in open boats to South Greenland, where the American warship "Yantic" picked them up and brought them to St. John's. When the explorers came south in October they found themselves faced with the apparent certainty of starvation and the terrible prospect that not a man in the party would escape the worst of deaths, for they were marooned on a desolate Arctic headland, without shelter, food or firing, with not a human being within hundreds of miles and absolutely no hope of relief, under the most favorable prospects, for six or eight months. It is impossible within the limits of this article to give anything like an idea of the tortures these thirty-one human beings endured during that desperate winter. After they had consumed the scanty supplies which they had brought with them from the

The staff at Marshall Bros. on Friday evening, last, presented a smoker's chair to Mr. Arthur W. Miller, who has been appointed to the Superintendency of the Poor Asylum. The presentation was made by the foreman, W. H. Parsons, Mr. Miller replying suitably. Mr. Miller, who has been with Marshall Bros. for 14 years as salesman, is very popular wherever he is known, and his fellow workers, as well as hundreds about the country will regret that his new duties will preclude him meeting them as in the past. It is said that one of the first steps to be taken by Mr. Miller will be the reorganization of the Poor Asylum and the rectifying of certain abominable conditions there.

POLARIS EXPEDITION.

Two Thousand Miles on an Ice-floe.

Undoubtedly the most unique experience and miraculous escape in the history of the world was that of the crew of the Arctic ship "Polaris." Never in the wildest stretch of imagination have the writers of fiction and romance penned such a tale, which only men, who were in the flesh at the time, and had full information on the subject, would class it as incredible. For myself, I was telegraph operator in Harbor Grace at the time, and early in the morning of the arrival of the S.S. Tigress, Capt. Isaac Bartlett, at Bay Roberts, a message was flashed over the wires from James Gordon Bennett of New York to the chief operator in our office, the late W. H. Thompson, Esq., to proceed at once to Bay Roberts, and telegraph full particulars to the New York Herald of which Bennett was proprietor. There was no telegraph office in Bay Roberts at that date, and Mr. Thompson hired three horses and carriages, and proceeded to the above town in one of them, and so arranged matters, that according as he took down the statements of the officers, one of the horses and carriages was always at hand to rush the portion of the long message to the office in Harbor Grace. The message was sent down in installments, and the horses and carriages returned to Bay Roberts for a further supply until all particulars were obtained. I forget the exact number of words, but it was certainly over 3000, and must have cost the New York Herald quite a large amount. But, of course, Bennett of the Herald, did not mind the expense. It was something like when Stanley telegraphed him from Africa, when he was forsaken by his followers and required more assistance to prosecute his search after the famous Dr. Livingstone. Stanley asked Bennett "what he should do?" Back went the laconic reply from Bennett: "Find Livingstone," and Stanley found him, and the circulation of the Herald went up by leaps and bounds, which continued until after the death of James Gordon Bennett, a short time ago. But I must come to the story of the rescue of the poor castaways as related at that time, and which will be looked upon as the most miraculous escape from the jaws of death and the longest voyage on record in the annals of the world in connection with the ice-floes of the North.

People Urged to Attend Recital.

Cleans Thoroughly—Polishes Brilliantly

THE remarkable, beautiful effect obtained from the O-Cedar treatment, is due to the fact that O-Cedar "cleans as it polishes."

It is important that all dust and grime be removed from any surface, in order to give it that lustre which is something more than a mere surface polish.

This O-Cedar accomplishes. A few drops of O-Cedar on a wet cloth will form a soft lather that removes all scum and dust.

The final operation consists of a brisk rub with a dry cloth. The result is all that could be desired—a hard, dry lustre on furniture and floors; a dazzling radiance on your automobile.

Both O-Cedar Polish and the O-Cedar Mop are obtainable at your Hardware or Grocery Store.

BISHOP, SONS & CO., LTD.

Converted Jew's Wide Wanderings.

On Friday, May 2, 1862, Joseph Wolf died at Isle Brewers, in Somersetshire, of which he had been Vicar since 1846. Born in 1795, the son of a Jewish Rabbi of the tribe of Levi, he was led in 1812, by his study of languages, to be baptised as a Christian by Roman Catholics, the only Christians whom he then knew. He removed to Italy, but was expelled from Rome for attacking papal infallibility and other doctrines. Settling in England Mr. Henry Drummond, whom he had met and become friendly with, he joined the Church of England, of which he was ordained priest in 1838. From 1821 he travelled for five years as a missionary through Egypt and the Sinai peninsula, to Jerusalem, where he was the first modern one to preach to Jews. He sent some Greek boys from the island of Cyprus to be educated in England, but did not return himself until he had travelled through Mesopotamia, Persia, the Crimea, and European Turkey. In 1827 he married a daughter of Horatio Walpole, second earl of Oxford, who, upon his consent being asked, gently objected that, while he greatly respected the sufferer's race and character, there was a great difference in their position. Mr. Wolf prevented refusal by saying, "I know, my lord, that as a descendant of Abraham, I am superior to you, but I waive that in your favour." Their son was the late Hon. Sir Henry Drummond, ambassador in eastern Europe in Spain, who died in 1908 at 78 years of age. Except Levites like Joseph Wolf, including descendants of Aaron surnamed Cohen, which means "priest," no Hebrews now know what tribe they belong, as all were led Jews from Judah, in whose territory Jerusalem stands, so that most of the others became "lost tribes." Though Luke says Anna was of the tribe of Asher, James addressed his letter to the twelve tribes, and he says they were all "earnestly shipping God and expecting Messiah." When Wolf heard of a tradition amongst the original natives of North America, called Red Indians, that they were descended from the twelve tribes, he crossed the Atlantic. But when he asked them how they knew it, they replied, "Mrs. Monro from Scotland told us." Searching for the same information,

M. C. Girls Win Basketball Championship.

The intercollegiate championship was won Friday by the Methodist College girls, when they defeated the Spencer girls in the fourth match by a score of 19-15. Much interest was centered in this game as the total score of three previous matches (two being won by the Methodist College) was a tie. Each and every player worked hard and gave a good exhibition of basketball. The first period ended 7-6 for the Methodist, and the last two were 6-5. The total score for all games was 68-67. Considerable interest has been shown in basketball this year and it is hoped that it will take the same place amongst the college girls as hockey and football take among the boys. It is likely that a third college will be represented in the matches next year.

The line-up was:—
Methodist College—Forwards, M. Fenwick, M. Robertson; Centre, M. Lawrence; Guards, Ruby Roberts, E. Parkins; Substitutes, E. Martin, F. Soper, G. Sparkes, and G. Knight.
Bishop Spencer—Forwards, C. Crane, E. House; Centre, Sybil Chaliker, Doris Mews; Guards, N. Woods, I. Rendell; Substitutes, S. Hutchings, E. Scandrett, M. Campbell, and A. Mews.

Young-Adams Co.

IN "THE MARRIAGE QUESTION."
The Young-Adams Company will be seen in their farwell attractions this week, and each bill is a specially selected one, thus affording each member of the company ample opportunity of displaying their abilities. Tonight they present the well-known success entitled, "The Marriage Question," dealing with a young woman who wishes to marry for love, but through a designing old aunt she is forced to marry a man whom she does not love. This man is very wealthy, which accounts for her aunt's selection.
The role of Mrs. James Cantwell Hudson is in the hands of Miss Marjole Adams, which is full assurance of a perfect interpretation. Mr. H. Will, not Young will be seen as James Cantwell Hudson, a very prominent character, whilst the remainder of the company will also show to advantage.
On Wednesday and Thursday the presentation will be the big success on Broadway, namely "All-of-a-Sudden-Peggy," an English comedy written by Ernest Denny the famous English author.
Between the acts special vaudeville numbers will be rendered by James Irvine the Scotch Comedian. Mr. Irvine is noted for his Scotch dialect renditions.

Fishermen!

Here's the Boot for You!

Excel Boots

Have Pliable Uppers. Weather Proof and Weather Resisting. Tire-Tread Soles. Hard to Wear Out.

For Men and Boys.

Pliable Uppers, Weatherproof and Wear-Resisting, Tough Tire-Tread Soles. Hard to wear out.

You know from experience what happens to ordinary boots when used in fishing. You've seen how salt water seems to take the life out of the rubber and how the rubbers crack and the soles wear through in a surprisingly short time.

The "EXCEL" is a different and better kind of boot. It has been made especially to stand up under the unusually hard use a fisherman's boot gets.

The rubber and fabric in "EXCEL" boots are of the very highest quality. But it is the special method of curing, under tremendous pressure, that makes the "EXCEL" so wear-resisting. The pressure forces the layers of rubber and fabric together so that they are actually "one-piece", without losing the least bit of the life of resiliency of the rubber. Salt water has practically no effect on "EXCEL" boots. The UPPERS remain pliable and weatherproof, and resist the drying-out action of sun, heat and cold far longer than other boots, consequently they don't crack anywhere so quickly. The SOLES are almost wear-proof, because they are made like an Auto Tire, with 8 plies of rubber and fabric welded by tremendous pressure into a "tire-tread" sole that rivals an automobile tire for toughness and durability.

These are exclusive features of "EXCEL" boots.

The picture at the left, of an "EXCEL" boot, with every detail of construction visible, shows how "EXCEL" boots are reinforced at every point of strain. There is not a single feature but what has been proved necessary and desirable by tests of severest use. Your own experience will tell you that a boot with these features simply must be a better boot.

Study this picture. Learn these features. Remember them when you compare "EXCEL" boots with ordinary boots. And remember, too, that very important point which the picture cannot show, namely, that "EXCEL" boots are cured under tremendous pressure which leaves the rubber pliable, weather-proof, and wear-resisting. It is only by the use of this tremendous pressure combined with highest quality materials that the best results are obtained.

Below are listed seven special features which make "EXCEL" boots superior. Read them carefully so that when you need boots you will know how to get the best value for your money.

Seven Special Features that make the "Excel" Best.

- FEATURE No. 1—The entire boot is cured under heavy pressure, forcing all parts together in "one-piece", and retaining the full life and resiliency of the rubber.
- FEATURE No. 2—An 8-ply double sole of tough, durable rubber, made like an Auto Tire, running all the way under the full moulded heel. This sole and heel are so wear-resisting that they are commonly called the "tough on rocks" sole and heel.
- FEATURE No. 3—A heavily reinforced boot which will withstand the hardest kind of wear.
- FEATURE No. 4—Six plies at the instep relieves strain and prevents wrinkling or cracking.
- FEATURE No. 5—Reinforced five-ply leg for extra wear. Just the right amount of strength to stand up, yet not be uncomfortable.
- FEATURE No. 6—Four-ply top, very pliable.
- FEATURE No. 7—Heavy duck lining, and a heavy insole prevent dampness and keep feet dry and comfortable.

Red Cross Heroes.

CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF DEED OF SPLENDID BRAVERY.

From Hill 212, overlooking Fere-Tardenois and the valley of the Ourcq, William Slavens McNair, Collier's correspondent, watched the American infantry start the Germans on their final retreat from Reims-Sols-sons-Chateau Thierry pocket. He says:

And then I saw the most painfully dramatic thing I have witnessed in all this war. Out from the little strip of wood that the Americans had just captured, walking slowly out into that open, bullet-swept field over which the charge had passed, I saw two men with the brassard of the Red Cross on their arms bearing a wounded man on a litter. They had perhaps 300 yards to go back across that open field before the curve of the hill would shelter them from the machine gun fire from the hill above. And they could not duck, they could not take cover. They must walk upright on their work of mercy, walk upright in that storm of lead, and walk slowly for the burden they bore!

"There go two dead men," the captain said solemnly. "They haven't got a chance in that field. The machine guns'll get 'em, sure! Watch!"

I watched. I have never watched anything so intently in my life. And with all the fervency of reverence and belief that there was in me I prayed for those two men of mercy over there who could not fight back; those men who had made the charge up the hill with their comrades of the gun and bayonet and must now march back bearing a wounded fighting man to safety; back through that storm of lead that was sweeping the field from the big wood—march back standing straight and walking slow. So slow! They had made perhaps a hundred yards when one of them slipped to his knee and rolled over.

"I told you," the captain exclaimed. "They've got 'em!"

"Only one," I said. "The other fellow's not hit."

"They'll get him," the captain prophesied gloomily. I saw the unwounded man kneel by his stricken comrade. For the space of a minute he knelt there, I suppose applying first aid. Then he stood erect. And then the man who had been hit, the stretcher bearer on the ground, rose slowly—oh, so very slowly—till he was propped up on one elbow. Then to his knees. Slow! Then very, very slowly he got to his feet. Once up, he leaned over—and, from where I was, through my glasses, I could see by the movement the pain it cost—leaned over, grasped the handles of the litter, and straightened up again. He had been hit, but he was going on!

On they went. I have no power to describe how slowly they seemed to be moving across that deadly open field. A hundred yards! Another hundred would mean comparative safety under the slope of the hill. Fifty of that accomplished! Twenty-five more! And then, slowly yet, they vanished from sight under the protective slope. They had made it!

I think I shouted. I know I tried to, and I know that my knees were suddenly too weak to hold me up and that I abruptly knelt and grasped the slim pole of the little lone tree near by to steady myself.—Red Cross Bulletin.

Telephone Courtesy.

(From the Chicago News World.) A million times a day telephone subscribers are telling telephone operators what they think of them. The fact that the girls must listen to this storm of abuse and protest ought in itself to be sufficient reason for checking the irritation which somehow will come, and will find expression at the phone. The girls stationed at the switchboard are unable to resent the petty insults and the attempts at sarcasm which men fling at them. No business man would dare talk to his stenographer as he does to the operator. One girl suggests that if men, instead of women, were on the switchboard the male users of the phone would present a far more humble public voice. Women, they tell us, are not so abusive. It is not a pleasant commentary on the sex. There is no doubt that the public knows but little of the mechanism of the telephone system. We are told that the girls are worked to the limit of their endurance, that it is impossible to get enough girls properly to handle the switchboards, that even with full complement new mechanical devices must be found before the service can be improved. The real point is found in the fact that we lose our temper too easily at the phone. When asked in ordinary conversation to repeat what we have said we do not scold or abuse. Why take it out on a girl who cannot even talk back? There are few of us who have not been guilty of abusing Central in fits of momentary irritation, of which afterwards we have been heartily ashamed.

Women Stop Alien Plows With Their Bodies.

Poughkeepsie, April 24.—When ploughmen to-day began to turn the soil of a farm that Mrs. M. L. Koebel, a proprietress of the Swastika Inn, in Pleasant Valley, near here, recently bought, Miss Grace DuBois, tenant of the farm, who had been asked to vacate when it changed hands, came from the house and asked: "What are you doing?" "Ploughing this farm for Mrs. Koebel," was the reply. "Well," said the woman, "I have decided to stay here, notice to vacate or not, and there'll be no ploughing.

That's where I am going to have my garden."

And when the men started to plough again she threw herself on the ground in front of the horses. After conference with Mrs. Koebel the men returned with another plough. They tried to focus the attention of Miss Du Bois while the other ploughed. Miss Du Bois promptly called:

"Oh, mother!"

And her mother came out and assumed a reclining position in front of the second plough. Then the ploughmen withdrew. That's why Mrs. Koebel came here to-night to find out how she can get possession of the farm she bought.

GENUINE ASPIRIN HAS "BAYER CROSS"

Tablets without "Bayer Cross" are not Aspirin at all

Get genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a "Bayer" package, plainly marked with the safety "Bayer Cross."

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are now made in America by an American Company. No German interest whatever, all rights being purchased from the United States Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. The "Bayer Cross" is your only way of knowing that you are getting genuine Aspirin, proved safe by millions for Headache, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger sized "Bayer" packages can be had at drug stores.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 751) of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetacidester of Salicylicacid.

Sugar at 32 Cents in June Now Predicted.

So serious is the sugar situation confronting the United States that when the heavy consuming season starts, near the end of June, the staple will then be selling to the public at from 32 to 37 cents a pound. This prediction was made by a man who has been for the last forty-four years in a position to study the sugar trade from all angles. Most men in the sugar market are of the same opinion, he said.

No permanent relief in the situation may be expected before two years at least, this informant asserts, depending entirely upon how quickly the best producing nations of Europe recover their pre-war productivity. The war has practically destroyed the best sugar industry in France, Germany, Austria and Russia, and as a consequence Cuba, Porto Rico, Java and the Philippine Islands are called upon to furnish more than two-thirds of the world's sugar supply.

"You Are Losing Weight— You Are Anaemic"

"WHAT does that mean, doctor?"
"It means that you are not deriving proper nourishment from the food you are eating."
"I eat enough, I think."
"That may be, but your blood is thin and watery, your nervous system is being starved and your weight is below normal."
"Is that what makes me feel so tired? I don't seem to have the energy to do much."
"Exactly, you have not enough nervous energy to drive the machinery of the body. Digestion fails and you do not derive proper nourishment from your food."
"What should I do?"
"You need a treatment that will supply to the blood in condensed form the elements which are necessary to build up the nervous system."
"How about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"There is nothing better. I could easily give you a prescription that would cost you more money, but Dr. Chase's Nerve Food contains all the elements necessary for the enriching of the blood and restoration of the nervous system. If you keep a record of your weight each week you will be able to prove this for yourself."
"You think I am anaemic then?"
"Yes, your blood is weak and this is why your nerves are starved and exhausted. The headaches, tired feelings and sleeplessness are the result of this condition, but you will soon be all right if you follow this treatment faithfully."
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is sold by all dealers. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

OUR MAIL SERVICE.—Recent letters received from Barbados state that some of the mail posted here in December is turning up. People there are still waiting for mail that was posted Christmas week.
MEIGLE FROM SYDNEY.—S. S. Meigle, Capt. Cross, arrived in port yesterday from North Sydney. During the entire trip dense fog was encountered necessitating constant watch on the part of the captain and crew. The Meigle brought 28 cars of freight and 162 sacks of mail.

S. S. Anniversary at George St. Church.

The sermons and addresses, given to the Sunday School gatherings at George Street Church yesterday, were calculated to stir the aspirations of all young people, and stem the tide of indolence that besets the life of the youth of this community. The sermon delivered by the Rev. Mr. Dickie, of St. Andrew's Church, had in it the thought of success attained through opportunity seized and used. By aid of striking illustrations the preacher impressed the certainty and abundance of opportunity and the necessity of individual alertness in the attainment of success.

The Rev. Dr. Jones, of St. Thomas's Church, aroused the same incentive to ambition as he spoke from the standpoint "If I were a child again." Taking care of the body, forming good habits, creating essential virtues were the elements of success to which he directed attention. Honesty and truthfulness he declared to be inseparable from real success. Reading and helpful friendships are potential factors.

The Pastor, Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, dealt with the fatal consequences of indolence as depicted in the case of the man with one talent in the Parable. Self-indulgence gives rise to indolence which finds ready excuses for inaction. The results paralyze the powers and weaken the aspiration, leaving the subject a standing apology for his own failure.

In all these addresses to the young people of George Street Church there was much to stimulate youthful ardour and ambition, a result which is so sorely needed in this community where youthful indolence abounds and appears to be on the increase. The services were replete with musical and elocutionary features, the principal parts being taken by Mrs. H. G. Christian, Misses Marjorie Johnston and Frances Cummins, and Mr. Lloyd Woods, all of which were of very high order. The Hon. F. H. Steer acted as Chairman at the afternoon session to the great satisfaction and delight of all concerned.

Obituary.

There passed away, at North Hr. on April 24th, Thomas Power, son of the late Thomas and Ellen Power, aged 25 years, leaving 5 brothers and four sisters beside a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn the sad loss of a kind and loving brother and sincere friend. It may be said of him that he was of a kind and gentle disposition and well liked by all with whom he came in contact, and his early demise has cast a gloom over his home. The remains were inclosed in a handsome casket and taken to St. Joseph's Cemetery for interment. May his soul rest in peace.

Why Go Out Into the Rain Expecting Protection From a Sponge?

Rather a foolish supposition, you say; but nevertheless you do when you wear a raincoat in which the rain protection is embodied in the proofing of the outer cloth only, which absorbs the rain much as a sponge does, making a heavy, uncomfortable, dragging load for you to carry 'round.

These are the disadvantages that come with every coat that has not an oiled silk lining between the outer cloth and the cotton lining; the greatest feature in raincoat making and guaranteed rain protection that the manufacturers of have yet devised.

Why experiment with the sponge idea?
