MR. DILLON'S BALTIMORE SPEECH

Cardinal Gibbons Attended the Reception to the United Irish League Delegates.
As it is now out of the question for Mr. John Dillon, M.P., to attend the Home Rule meetings next week in Canada, The Register to-day gives the latest speech delivered by the member for Mayo. It was in Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, and Cardinal Gibbons was one of the many distinguished persons present.
MR. DILLON'S ADDRESS.
Mr. Dillon was greeted with long-continued applause. He said in part: "Our title to appear before you tonight is that we come as delegates from a united nation struggling against fearful odds for those elementary rights for which your forefathers struggled under George Washington more than 100 years ago. "Some years ago the forces in unhappy Ireland were divided and there was dissension among the people. I do not care to speak of that time now, but I think there is no more significant and indisputable evidence as to the ability of the Irish people to take their part in the politics of their country than the fact that they have healed those differences. We are sent to-day before our countrymen here and all the American people who love liberty the facts of the situation in Ireland and to explain the reasons why they exist. "In the first place a great many persons of this country, who are ever in a hurry and rush of events, ask why we have moved so slowly in Ireland. To these I would say cast your mind back to the time when our movement was begun in 1879. I assert to-night that at no time in the history of any nation has so much for the elevation and improvement of the people against determined and powerful opposition been accomplished without a bloody revolution. "For 89 years the experiment has been tried of ruling Ireland from England, and the result has been more fatal and disastrous than any ever recorded in the history of nations. A country of the greatest natural advantages and with a population that can hold its own against any civilized race in the world has been depopulated and desolated by an alien government. Our cities are decaying, our manufactures almost obliterated and our people flying from their native shores as if they were plague-stricken. Ireland alone of the civilized nations presents the ghastly spectacle of a perishing and diminishing population, and as the population becomes smaller the misery and poverty of the people become greater. "With all the natural endowments in the world; with a seaboard encircling the entire island; with a soil as fertile as any under the sun; with a most healthful climate; with swift running streams, furnishing unsuspassed water power in all parts of the island, why is it that the land has been visited by famine after famine, so severe and devastating in their nature that over one-half of the country's population has been sacrificed and the rest of them left sinking in poverty and misery. This was the condition of my country the last time I was in your city, and then I came here to beg bread for the starving millions in the land of my nativity. "This terrible state of affairs was brought about by the tyrannical and unrelenting rule of the English landlord, who held the farms that rightfully belonged to the people of Ireland and let them out at such exorbitant and tremendous rates that the tenants, in order to pay their rents, were unable to put bread into

JOSEPH DEVLIN M.P. AND HON. EDWARD BLAKE M.P.

The Register understands that Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., will take the place of Mr. John Dillon M.P., at the Association Hall meeting on Monday evening next. He will also accompany Mr. Blake to Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Devlin is the youngest member of the Irish Parliamentary Party, and at the same time one of the ablest. He has been connected with Irish politics for twelve or fifteen years, but until less than a year ago was unable to accept service in the Parliamentary Party. His maiden speech in the House made a powerful effect. He was instantly recognized as a debater of extraordinary power. Mr. Devlin is a Belfast man. It is a coincidence worth noting that Hon. Edward Blake's first speech in Ireland was delivered at Belfast in company with Mr. Devlin. Mr. Devlin's first speech in Canada will now be delivered in Mr. Blake's company and in Mr. Blake's native city. There will be a crowded and representative attendance at Association Hall on Monday evening, and those who have the good fortune to gain admission will hear an excellent presentation of the Irish cause.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN

(From The Catholic Universe, Cleveland.)
When Archbishop Ryan mounted the pulpit after the "Veni Creator," a silence that could be felt fell upon the great congregation. The Archbishop's reputation as an orator is as broad as the country. He has great natural power—a voice perfectly modulated and of remarkable sweetness and strength, and a delivery that is emphatic, winning and effective. Every word tells. The charm of his eloquence is enforced by a practical impressiveness rarely allied with this kind of oratory. With all the qualifications that tend to appeal to the emotions, he rather appeals to the reason, driving his points home, with cogent logic.
The Register is in receipt of an extremely kind letter from Archbishop Ryan expressing appreciation of its work and character as a Catholic paper.
CHRISTMAS SALE A GREAT SUCCESS.
The annual Christmas Sale in aid of the Sisters of the Precious Blood, which is now in progress in the Temple Building, promises a greater success than any of its predecessors. The ladies who, under the able direction of Miss Hoskin, are attending to the various attractive features of the programme are entitled to the greatest possible appreciation and credit. The lunch rooms are well patronized by business and professional men, the concerts are first class musical treats and the rooms have become a social rallying centre for hundreds. Tuesday afternoon a progressive euchre party was held, at which 120 ladies played for prizes. In the evening a good programme, under the direction of Frank Fulton, was given. Miss May Gallagher sang in excellent voice and received well-earned applause. Others who took part were Miss Annie Foley, Miss Alice McCarron, Miss Margaret George, Adam Dockray, Roy Floto, Mrs. Kleopfer, Miss Annie Dolan, B. Fulton and B. McWilliams. The concert on Wednesday evening was under the direction of Miss Helen A. MacMahon, and in the afternoon visitors were entertained at afternoon tea.

the mouths of their children. "These landlords were backed in authority by the unjust and unconstitutional laws enacted in the British Parliament. This body has passed laws preventing the manufacture of certain articles because the Irish manufacturer could, with better labor and better water power and better material, manufacture goods so far superior to that of the English manufacturer that they would be 'forced off of the market. "I claim that never have a people been subjected to such tyranny—a cruelty unparalleled in the history of mankind. "It is a fearful thing for a man to live with the constant knowledge that he can be turned out of his home at any moment if his landlord desires it, and that even in death he can never leave his children an assured home. "A man could not purchase his home at any price under the existing law. He was compelled to remain at the mercy of the landlord and it was to the interest of the landlords to clear off the tenants from the best land and leave to them only the poorest, which was frequently not worth cultivating. It is said that when Oliver Cromwell conquered Ireland he said the natives could 'either go to hell or to Connacht!' SOME OF THE GOOD THINGS THE IRISH PARTY HAS DONE FOR IRELAND. "This is a picture of Ireland as we found it. We have compelled Parliament by constant and almost ferocious agitation to pass a law requiring the landlord to sell the land to the tenant. The tenants now own nearly one-half the whole of the agricultural land, which is valued at $1,000,000,000. About 60,000 farms have

THE D'YOUVILLE READING CIRCLE

Ottawa, Nov. 19, 1902
Editor of The Register.
The recent book discussed at the meeting held last Tuesday evening was "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn," by Hopkinson Smith. It is not Oliver so much as the Old South which constitutes the charm of the book. The evenings described are of the old-fashioned sort when grown-up sons came to take their dear old-fashioned mothers home at 9 o'clock. Thackeray and Dickens the book says were entertained at the old house in Kennedy Square and there is a fascinatingly refined gossip, Miss Lavigne Clendenning, who will tell you all about it. The hero is described as tall, well-knit and muscular, with fair hair and true blue eyes intended by his people for the law, but by himself for the study of art. Here Mr. Smith is quite in his element and give us many fine pictures of Bohemian New York after the War, artists' vacations, etc. All in all, it was pronounced one of the best and healthiest books of the year. The serious work discussed was a translation from the French called "The Ideal Teacher, or The Catholic Idea of Authority in Education," published by the Catholic Library of New York. Mention was also made of the new I. G. T. S. Bulletin, and the attention of the members called to a series of letters appearing in The Philadelphia Catholic Standard and Times, "Is Venice Doomed?" also authorized by this society The Law of Associations." A. France was longly discussed. It was spoken of as marking a serious and awful crisis in the history of France, and as standing for a sort of bloodless reign of terror. M. Combes, the Secretary of the Interior, said in his speech the other day that he was glad to announce the passing of the law as the first act of Republican France, the majority in its favor showing the definite victory of lay over monastic society. Waideck-Rousseau will go down in history as the author of a bill which wants to secure for the Government the right to declare null without any process of law any association deemed contrary to existing law, to force all associations to recognize the state as their source of power and to show that all associations controlled from abroad are dangerous. It has been passed and enforced, the property to be returned to the original donors or their heirs and falling these it will go to establish and support a workman's fund. Many protested, some communities left the country, officers refused to act, magistrates resigned, but it was no use, between the 27th of June and the 20th of August 2,500 schools were closed. "The questions which one naturally asks are, Is there anything with the character of 'the schools'?" and "What is going to come of all this?" The first we can answer by an emphatic negative, but the Republic thinks they are too numerous and that their powerful influence will become a menace to the state, fears very far-fetched to say the least. All in all it looks as if the government were going to take wholesale revenge for the way the Dreyfus case went by forming a sort of political-religious trust. Tonnyson was taken up in the poetic study and considered with a view to finding his real place. He comes in as a sort of relief from 19th century materialism standing as he does for a revolution backward to the ages of faith. In fact the more we get the soul of these earnest men, Newman, Faber, Wordsworth, etc., we feel that they express that cry for the freedom that is not liberation. Browning constantly teaches that our life here below is only a training for another and better one. The Idylls will be taken up next month and "The Coming of Arthur" was appointed to be read. The opening classed with a meditation of Father Tyrrell's on "The Grace of Utterance," like all his others tender, sweet and consoling. The date of the next lecture was also announced for Tuesday evening by Sir James Grant, on his recent trip to Europe.

DO NHUE-HOGAN.
Hamilton, Nov. 25.—St. Mary's Cathedral was the scene of a wedding this morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Donovan, the principals being Dennis Joseph Donohue and Miss Katie Hogan. The groom is the well-known oarsman and one-time aquatic champion, and both he and the charming bride have a large circle of friends and acquaintances, whose good wishes they enjoy. The bridesmaid was Miss Maggie McCarty, and the groom was attended by his brother, Jeremiah Donohue, also an oarsman of renown in the days when Hamilton was in the front in that sport.

HON. F. R. LATCHFORD AND THE C.M.B.A.

Hamilton, Nov. 25.—Hon. F. R. Latchford, Commissioner of Public Works, gave an address to-night under the auspices of St. Lawrence branch of the C. M. B. A. in St. Lawrence Hall. The gathering was large. Mr. James Keating in the chair. Hon. Mr. Latchford spoke of the aims and objects of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Society, and in an interesting speech urged the members of the society to be faithful to it. An excellent programme of music was given. The local Catholic clergy was well represented on the platform.

INTER-CATHOLIC CLUB DEBATING UNION.

The first debate of the Inter-Catholic Club Debating Union took place on the evening of the 21st inst., between the Catholic Students' Union and the St. Clement's Catholic Club, at the club rooms of the latter. The subject: "Resolved, That Strikes Are Justifiable," was debated in a very able and intelligent manner, and much light was thrown on this, perhaps the greatest question of the day. Messrs. Travers and Hartnett, representing St. Clement's, took the affirmative, while Messrs. Meader and Mullins argued in favor of the negative. The judges were Very Rev. J. J. McCann, V.G., Mr. H. T. Kelly and

Blessing and Opening of the Memorial Church Penetanguishene

The workmen of all trades are busy trying to get the Memorial Church to the Jesuit missionary martyrs, Fathers de Broheut and Lallemand and their companions, ready for the 11th of December. The intention of the pastor, Father Laboureau, and the church committee was to work quietly and wait for next year for the blessing of the beautiful church, but at the urgent desire of His Grace Archbishop O'Connor and through fear the building should be injured during the long winter months it left unoccupied, they resolved to make an effort and put it in such a shape as to allow its blessing and opening before Christmas. The day fixed for the ceremony is Thursday, the 11th of December. Of course the church will be in an unfinished state, as they could not crowd in a month the work of six months. Still it is advanced enough to show its fine lines and to justify the blessing and using of it as a church.
They intended to take the winter season to continue collecting for its entire completion. They presume, however, that under the circumstances the friends of the church and those to whom the work may commend itself, may not withhold their offering to help to put on the last finish.
The ceremony of blessing the church will be performed by Archbishop O'Connor, of Toronto. Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston, will celebrate the Mass.

Dr. Treacy, performed the ceremony. The bridesmaids were Miss Frances Gibbons and Miss Augusta Carroll. Mr. Frank Byrne was best man, and Mr. Bernard Hughes and Master St. Clair McEvenue the ushers.

MR HEALY ON THE ENGLISH EDUCATION BILL

The following is the report of Mr. T. M. Healy's speech on the English Education Bill, as it appeared in the daily papers. Mr. Healy, in listening to the debate, had experienced what the ancients called a feeling of morose dejection (laughter), because, for the first time an English Bill was to be dealt with by summary process. He intended to support the Government, because he saw in the Bill, for the first time a prospect of applying conditions of liberality and toleration to a sect which included the poorest among his countrymen...

AUTHORIZED TORTURE OF FATHER AUGUSTINE

A Washington despatch says, Cornelius M. Brownell, of Burlington, Vermont, former captain in the Twenty-sixth Volunteer Infantry, has acknowledged that he authorized the administering of the water cure to Father Augustine at Banate in the Philippines, from the effects of which the priest died. Captain Brownell's statement is a part of the mass of testimony presented to Secretary Root yesterday afternoon by Judge Advocate-General Davis...

Brownell has also stated that he made no report of Father Augustine's death to his senior officers and insists that the water cure was administered solely as an act of war to secure information from the prisoner as to the whereabouts of the insurgents, and not for the purpose of obtaining money supposed to be in the priest's possession, as has been charged.

AUSTRALIA IRISH EXILES OF LITERARY FAME

Three generations of Irish political prisoners exiled in Australia have all left literary memorials behind them. The memoirs of General Hall, one of the leaders of the rebellion of 1798, contains some of the most graphic descriptions of life in the early settlements. The leaders of the 1848 rebellion were mostly authors and journalists, and those of them that were convicted and transported continued to ply their pens in Tasmania. John Mitchell wrote his "Jail Journal," William Smith O'Brien jotted down his "Meditations in Exile," and Thomas Francis Meagher, afterwards a General in the American Civil War and Governor of the State of Montana, wrote a series of sparkling letters to The Dublin Nation, and published a book on "Anastasia." Of the Fenian prisoners transported to Western Australia in the sixties, John Boyle O'Reilly, afterwards editor of The Boston Pilot, and poetical contributor to the American magazines was the most notable.

SUPPRESSION OF THE RED MASS

Owing to the suppression of the 'Messe Rouge' in the Saint-Chapelle of the Palais de Justice on the occasion of the opening of the Law Courts, M. Cardinal Richard, at the request of many members of the Bar, directed that a Mass be said at Saint Germain l'Auxerrois. That was in January last, but the Cardinal has now decided that the 'Messe du Saint Esprit,' as it is also called, shall be celebrated at St. Germain l'Auxerrois in the first week of November every year.

A DISTINGUISHED THEOLOGIAN

The Paris diocese has sustained a great loss through the death of the Rev. Dr. Millot, chaplain of the College of Sainte Barbe. He was only 40 years old, and was a distinguished theologian and general scholar. He took a deep interest in all the social, philosophical and political questions of the day, and evidently succumbed to overwork, for he was collecting a large mass of material for a new work, and he died after having returned from Germany, where he had been perfecting himself in the language of that country, which was indispensable for him in his theological and historical studies. The deceased ecclesiastic was originally intended for law, but he left that profession for the clerical state, for which he had a strong vocation.

CARDINAL PERRAUD AND THE GOVERNMENT

His Eminence Cardinal Perraud, Bishop of Autun, has refused the offer of the priests of his diocese, and of other persons, to organize a subscription for him owing to the suppression of his State allowance by the present head of the Cabinet, a man who is unworthy to buckle the Cardinal's shoes. Even M. Jean de Bonfleur, the self-elected critic of Churchmen in the Paris press, has naught but eulogium for the learned Oratorian, who simply said, in refusing the subscription offer, that Providence would look after his needs. And yet, as M. de Bonfleur points out, the Cardinal will be in the position of the poorest of his priests next month. He will have to keep up his dignity and position externally, and this means expenditure personally. Cardinal Perraud does not require much for, as Bonfleur also remarks, he leads the life of a simple student.

THE STUDY OF THE SCRIPTURES

Apostolic Letter of His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., Appointing the Commission for Promoting the Study of the Sacred Scriptures.

(Translated for The Freeman's Journal)

Mindful of the vigilance and zeal which We of all others are bound to put forth for the proper custody of the deposit of faith We published in 1893 the Encyclical letter 'Providentissimus Deus' in which We dilated upon many points concerning the study of the Sacred Scripture. The importance and utility of this great subject demanded that We should devote the utmost attention in our power to this matter, not especially when the progress of modern scholarship has opened the door to so many new, and at times temerarious questions. We, therefore, set forth what all Catholics, and especially what those in sacred orders, might do in their respective spheres on behalf of these studies, and We described minutely the mode and manner in which these studies might be advanced in harmony with the present time. Nor was our document without fruit. It is pleasant for Us to remember the many expressions of obedience on the part of Bishops and other learned men which followed that letter, in emphasizing the necessity and importance of Our injunctions, and in promising their aid to have them put into effect. And it is equally consoling for Us to remember the efforts made in this direction by Catholics who gave themselves with enthusiasm to these studies.

But it is clear to Us that the causes which impelled Us to write that letter still exist and even increase in urgency, and We have therefore resolved to urge Our previous instructions with still greater force, commending the same again and again to the zeal of Our Venerable Brothers of the Episcopate. And in order that Our purpose may be more easily and abundantly realized, We have now determined upon adding a new and authoritative aid for this end. For, in view of the complexity of modern studies and the manifold errors which prevail, it has become impossible for individual interpreters of the Sacred Books to explain and defend them as the needs of the hour require. It has therefore become necessary that their common studies should receive assistance and direction under the auspices and guidance of the Apostolic See. We think this can be done by adopting in this matter the same plans We have followed in promoting other studies. We are, then, pleased to establish a species of Council or Commission, as it is commonly called, of serious men, whose duty it will be to devote their entire energy to ensure that the Divine words may receive that minute explanation and may be not only preserved free from all taint of error, but even raised above such opinions. The fitting seat for such a Council is Rome, under the very eyes of the Supreme Pontiff himself, that may, as the City is the mistress and guardian of Christian wisdom, so the teaching of this necessary doctrine may flow from its center, sound and incorrupt, throughout the whole body of the Christian republic. In order that the men composing this Council may collectively fulfill their most serious and honorable duties, they will have for their special guidance the following principles: First of all they will carefully investigate the modern trend of thought in this branch of study, and regard nothing discovered by modern research as foreign to their purpose; they will use the utmost diligence and promptitude in taking up and turning by their writings to public use whatever may from day to day be discovered useful for Biblical exegesis. Thus they will pay great attention to philology, with its kindred sciences, and carefully follow their developments. For immediately attacks on the Scriptures break out we must look for going down in the contest with error. So, too, we must see to it that the study of the ancient Oriental languages and the knowledge of the codices be not held in less estimation by us than by those who are not with us, in both these branches are of great moment in the studies in question. Next, with regard to the unceasing promulgation of the authority of the Scriptures they must exercise earnest care and diligence. They must work especially to prevent among Catholics the prevalence of that objectionable mode of thinking and acting which attributes undue weight to the opinions of the heterodox, almost as though the true knowledge of Scripture were to be sought principally in the show of erudition made by those who do not belong to us. For no Catholic can have any doubt about the truth which We have already dwelt upon at greater length, that God did not deliver up the Scriptures to the private judgment of doctors, but gave them to be interpreted by the teaching authority of the Church, 'in matters of faith and morals, relating to the formation of Christian doctrine, that must be held to be the true sense of sacred Scripture which has been and is held by Holy Mother Church, to whom it belongs to judge of the true sense and interpretation of the Holy Scriptures, and so no one may lawfully interpret Holy Scripture contrary to this sense or even in opposition to the unanimous consensus of the Fathers, that the Divine Books are of such a nature the laws of hermeneutics do not avail to dispel the religious obscurity in which they are wrapped, but for this a guide and teacher has been divinely given in the Church, and, finally, that the legitimate sense of Divine Scripture is not by any means to be found outside the Church nor can it be handed down by those who have repudiated the Church's teaching power and authority.

The men who form the Council will, therefore, have to be sedulous in the guardianship of those principles, and endeavor to win over by persuasion all those who are prone to an excessive admiration for the heterodox, in order that they may more studiously hear and obey the true teacher, the Church. And although it has now become an established Catholic practice to take advantage of the writings of others, especially in criticism, this must be done always with caution and a judicious spirit. Our own workers will, with Our emphatic sanction, cultivate the art of criticism as being of prime importance for the understanding of the opinion of the hagiographers. We have no objection that in this branch they make use of aid furnished by the heterodox. They must be on their guard, however, not to be led thereby to intemperance of judgment, for this is frequently the result of the system known as the higher criticism, the dangerous temerity of which We have more than once denounced.

In the third place, with regard to that branch of the study directly concerned with the exposition of the Scriptures, seeing that this is a subject of the greatest utility for the faithful, the Council will have to devote special care to it. It is hard by necessary to say that in texts, the sense of which has been determined either by the sacred authors or has been authentically declared by the Church, men must be convinced that this is the only interpretation that can be approved according to sound hermeneutics. On the other hand there are quite a number of texts on which there has hitherto been given no certain and definite exposition by the Church, and here private doctors may follow and defend that opinion which seems to them individually to be the most reasonable, but in these cases the analogy of faith, and Catholic teaching are to be followed as a guiding principle. When the questions of this kind come under discussion great care must be taken not to allow the heat of argument to step the bounds of Christian charity, and the revealed truths and divine traditions themselves to seem to be made a matter of doubt. For it would be idle to hope for great results from the diverse studies of many individuals without a certain principle of agreement and the frank recognition of fundamental principles. Wherefore it will also form a part of the work of the Council to ensure a safe and dignified treatment of the principal questions discussed between Catholic doctors, and to afford all the light and authority of which they are possessed to the attainment of a decision. One important result of this policy will be that it will afford the Apostolic See time to declare at the proper moment what is to be invariably held by Catholics, what is to be reserved for further investigation, and what is to be left to the judgment of private individuals.

We therefore by these letters institute in this 'alma Urbs' a Council or Commission for promoting the study of the Sacred Scriptures according to the laws above defined, in the hope that it may conduce to the preservation of Christian truth. It is Our wish that this Council be composed of a number of the Cardinals of the Holy Roman Church to be named by Our authority, and it is Our intention to add to these with the title and office of 'Consultors,' as in other sacred Councils, a number of distinguished men of different nationalities, noted for their sacred, and especially Biblical knowledge. It will be the task of this Council to hold regular meetings, to publish reports either on certain days or as opportunity may require, to reply to those who may ask its opinion, and finally to promote in every way possible the defense and the increase of those studies in question. It is Our wish too that all matters treated by the Council in general be referred to the Pontiff by that one of the Consultors whom the Pontiff shall have appointed for this purpose.

In order to afford a timely aid for these labors in common, We have now set apart a certain portion of Our Vatican Library, and We shall see to it shortly that a large collection of codices and volumes dealing with Biblical subjects be here placed so as to be at hand for consultation. To carry out this plan it would be very desirable that Catholics of means should render their assistance by contributing funds or by forwarding useful books—so doing they will be cooperating by timely service with God, the Author of the Scriptures, and with the Church.

We have, indeed, full confidence that this undertaking of Ours, inasmuch as it concerns the preservation of the faith and the eternal salvation of souls, will be abundantly favored by the Divine goodness, and that through it all Catholics who have devoted themselves to the Sacred Books will respond with full and unlimited obedience to these prescriptions of the Apostolic See.

All the provisions that it has seemed good to Us to make in this matter, We hereby ordain and decree to have the full force of statutes and decrees, all other provisions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Given at Rome at St. Peter's, under the Ring of the Fisherman, on the October 30, in the year 1902, the twenty-fifth of Our Pontificate.

A. CARD. MACCHI, Conc. Vatic. sess. III, cap. II.

FREEDOM. We are not free! Freedom doth not consist in musing with our faces toward the Past. While petty cares and crawling interests twist Their spider threads about us, which at last Grow strong as iron chains to cramp and bind In formal narrowness heart, soul and mind, Freedom is recreated year by year, In hearts wide open to the Godward side, In souls calm-cadenced as the whirling sphere, In minds that sway the future like a tide. No broadest creeds can hold her, and no code, She chooses men for her august abodes. Building them fair and fronting to the dawn, Yet when we seek her we but find a few Light footprints, leading mornward through the dew, Before the day has risen, she was gone. And we must follow, swiftly runs she on, And, if our steps should slacken in despair, Half turns her face, half smiles through golden hair, Forever yielding, never wholly won.

—James Russell Lowell.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Do you notice anything odd about The Globe's selections of "captains of industry?"

The English Education Bill is being so amended that upon its final passage it promises to do more harm than good to the Catholics of England.

avoidable grant of Home Rule sooner or later is desperately kept up by party feeling in Britain. It is time that the party concerned was once more made conscious of the strength and well-nigh universal sway of sympathy for a people who are battling for such legislative institutions as their land only can find peace in.

The meetings to be held next week in the three chief cities of Canada will give ample action to Canadian sympathy with indeed, we hope result in another expression of the national voice in Ireland's favor.

TOO BIG A DOME

The editor of Saturday Night is always capable of distinguishing himself as a Catholic theologian. While others were wondering what the fuss over the arrangement of the toast list at the recent banquet to Sir Falconio meant, the editor of Saturday Night did not wonder a bit.

We wonder who could have coached him? We should not be surprised at all to hear that it was Dr. Beattie Nesbitt.

THROUGH BUSINESS SPECTACLES

When, at a banquet in Montreal the other day, Mr. Dixon, of London, stated that stability of tariff was of the highest importance to the commercial community, he struck the keynote of the situation in Canada to-day.

London, Nov 24—Speeches which were delivered to-day by the Earl of Dudley the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and by John Redmond, the Irish leader, have aroused much comment as striking a more hopeful note of conciliation in the Irish question.

Hope For Conciliation in the Irish Question

The Earl of Dudley, accompanied by the Countess, was making an official visit to Belfast, and, in reply to the speeches delivered at his reception, he declared that he had come to Ireland with the same spirit of impartial inquiry that animated Mr. Chamberlain in going to South Africa.

London, Nov 24—The Earl of Dudley, the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and by John Redmond, the Irish leader, have aroused much comment as striking a more hopeful note of conciliation in the Irish question.

From such general reflections we might with advantage descend for a moment into the more practical field and consult those whose interests are most affected by the policies of succeeding governments.

THE TIMES IN A FURY. London Nov 25—The Times this morning, evidently feeling some yielding on the part of the Government, publishes an editorial in which it presents the suggestion made by the Earl of Dudley, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland at his reception at Belfast Monday.

The following editorial in The Toronto World of Wednesday, headed "A Glimpse of Irish Sunshine," is noteworthy.

The new Viceroy of Ireland and the leader of the Irish Parliamentary Party have been delivering concurrently their views upon the situation in the Green Island.

Fate and Marriage

(By Clara Mulholland)

For human bliss and woe in the frail thread of human life are all so closely twined...

CHAPTER XI.

The days and weeks dragged on wearily, and then, slowly and imperceptibly, the old life was resumed at the cottage.

And gradually Isabel's grief, though as profound as ever, became softened. She began to talk with some composure even, of these last precious hours with her beloved husband.

She still looked white and wan, a mere shadow of her former self. But her health was good; she slept and ate fairly well, and though at times she wept softly to herself her tears grew less frequent, and her interest in passing events returned, for her All this Jerry Otway noticed with much joy.

"The stronger she gets the better," he would tell himself, and then he would sigh and groan, remembering that, terribly as she had suffered, she knew nothing of the real tragedy of her life.

"What thing that was discussed constantly, and that was the advisability of returning with her children to New Zealand. She had friends, relatives there, he reminded her, who would be glad to welcome her and her children back amongst them.

"Oh Isabel," Jerry cried, in a choking voice, "I only knew."

She smiled, and her eyes lit up with a gleam of real love and affection as she looked at him. "I know, Jerry. No woman ever had a better friend. True as steel Archie used to say you were. And you know what a judge of character my noble husband was."

ger of this. Before long many difficulties would arise to prevent the keeping of the secret. This desire to visit his grave would probably be the first. If she persisted in wishing to do that the truth must be told.

"I don't believe Archie ever made a mistake in that way," continued Isabel, not noticing his silence or agitation. "He was too honest and straightforward ever to suspect anyone, but he seemed to know a man by a sort of intuition at once, and I always had the greatest faith in his opinion, and I don't think I ever found him wrong. Certainly," smiling again, "in your case, dear friend, I don't know what I should have done without you all this terrible time, and I am deeply grieved that you have to leave us and go back to New Zealand."

"Come with me, Isabel," Jerry cried impulsively. "Your happiness there will be my one thought, my—"

"I will not," Jerry bowed his head feeling sad and disappointed. "But you know my feelings upon the subject. They will always be the same. So, remember, if at any time you should change your mind and think it well for you and the children to get away from this you have only to let me know, and I will find you a home. Promise me, Isabel," he spoke with great earnestness—"that in any trouble or difficulty you will always turn to me for help and advice."

"Assuredly I will. The children and I both love you dearly, Jerry. After their father, my beloved Archie!"—her voice shook—"there is no one they love so well."

"Thank you, dear Isabel, and believe me, you and they are all the world to me."

There was a short silence. Isabel, sitting with clasped hands and eyes upraised to Heaven, had drifted away again into thoughts of her beloved dead Jerry's love and goodness, his very presence, were quite forgotten, whilst he watched her every movement, absorbed in her, and her only thought.

John laughed. "She's always longing for me when I'm away. When I'm there she takes me pretty cool. But, I say, you're looking green, Mr. Otway. Aren't you well?"

Jerry struggled hard to recover his self-possession. "Well? Of course I'm well! But run off John. Do."

"All right, I'm going." And whistling and throwing an occasional stone at the birds as he passed under the trees, John at last vanished into the cottage.

Jerry strode rapidly backwards and forwards on the lawn. His heart throbbed painfully. He did not dare to look at Isabel, and, much as he longed to soothe and comfort her, he knew not what to do or say.

Presently Isabel raised her eyes, full of utter bewilderment, from the portrait on her lap, and looked at him inquiringly.

"Jerry!" she gasped. "Tell me; what does this mean? Who is this Lord Linton?"

Jerry shivered. The moment he had dreaded so much had come. His face twitched, and he pressed his hands spasmodically together.

"Sit down, do, and speak to me," stammered Isabel, and quivering all over. "There is something you dread to tell me. But, Jerry, I must know. Who is this man? Oh, God! It is—it is—it must be Archie!"

He was deeply agitated and overcome with emotion. She paused, and sat silently gazing at the portrait, her tears falling thick and fast upon her hands, kindly face.

"And you, Jerry," she broke out reproachfully after a time, "you have known this some days—some weeks, perhaps—yet you have not told me. Was that fair?"

"Fair?" Jerry clenched his fists. "Oh, yes, Isabel, since I did it for your good, and would to God, my poor child, that I could have kept it from you always."

She gazed at him with dilated eyes. "Jerry, and you our friend! Oh, surely you would not defraud my John of his birthright? For he—my boy, Archie's boy—is now Lord Linton."

"No, dear. Alas! No. Would that he were—!" A sob choked him. "But now, Isabel—I must—must tell you all. And, sitting down by her side, he told her in a low, broken voice the whole sad story exactly as it is had been given in the papers."

Isabel remained strangely calm, and listened and weighed his every word in a manner that surprised him.

"There is a mistake—a mystery here that must be cleared up," she said, thoughtfully. "Archie's first wife died some time before he asked me to marry him."

"He told you so—"

CHAPTER XIII

The funerals were over with the utmost pomp and ceremony. Old Lord Linton and his unfortunate nephew and successor had been laid side by side in the family vault at Newstead Abbey, and to his intense satisfaction and delight, Tristram Fane found himself undisputed master of title and property.

"I am uncommonly lucky, 'pon my soul," he said to himself one evening about six weeks later, as he sat over his wine in the beautiful oak-paneled dining-room at the Abbey, and glanced approvingly at the Vandykes and Arches decorating the walls, "for if Archie had married and had a son after I wrote telling him of the real Madeline's death my fate would have been very different, for I now know that she did perish in that hotel years ago, and he, of course, knew the truth that night. Well, all's well that ends well. So his gone and left no heir. So much the better for me, for I was well nigh at the end of my resources. Debts pressed heavily. There was scarcely a town or place in Europe where I could manage to escape from my creditors. These men are so importunate. They will worry for their money. It's really too absurd!"

He lit a cigar. "And then there was Miriam Danvers. She would have her pound of flesh, and was perpetually threatening to hand Margaret back to me unless I paid up for the child. She is an austere and unfeeling person, is Miriam. I could never make her understand that a gentleman must live as a gentleman; that he must dress and play cards, and drink wine, and smoke cigars like his fellows. But she and poor Meta were not fancy," with a sarcastic laugh, "far from it. Their former father had very different ideas from mine. Well, no wonder. And decidedly my marriage with Meta, as I soon found out was a mistake. But men are mostly fools when they are young, and I was no worse than many another. Then, when I first saw Meta she was pretty and a lovable enough little soul, so much so that I was really sorry when she died."

"If Margaret promised to be one-half as fair, I might bring her home now, and make much of her as my daughter. But she's plain, distinctly, and decidedly, so Miriam may keep her. I'll raise their allowance, and then, except an occasional visit, trouble little about them. I have a great future before me. I am a comparatively young man, and by-and-by a girl of that sort would be surely in my way. One day, and that not very far distant, I may marry again—and well, Tristram Fane, Lord Linton and Tristram Fane, bankrupt and beggar—for I gave my uncle little peace with my constant petitions for money—are very different people. From this hour I'll have the entrée to houses whose doors were once closed to me. The magic key of gold and title will open them. To me now, I shall have my pick of the best families in the land. But the first thing to be done before launching my new life is to come to an arrangement with Miriam. Tomorrow then, I'll make my way to Canterbury and interview my sister-in-law."

Every reader of The Catholic Register, who is ailing or in poor health or has some friend or relative who is sick, should be interested in the offer on page 6, headed "Personal to Subscribers," made by Prof. Noel, the geologist, of 101 York street, Toronto, Ont. Prof. Noel is the proprietor of the famous Vitas-Ore, a natural mineral medicine discovered by him many years ago while prospecting in the southwest, which he offers to send on 30 days' trial to every ailing person, who requests it, and will promise to use it carefully according to directions. Many readers of this paper have already used V. O., and can testify to its merits, but those who have not should not fail to avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer made by an advertiser. Prof. Noel, whose main establishment is at Chicago, Ill., is entirely reliable as what he claims and will do his promises.

PLEASE MR. DRUGGIST give me what I ask for—the one Painkiller, Perry Davis', I know it is the best thing on earth for summer complaints. So do you. Thank you. There is your money.

IRISH LANGUAGE AND HISTORY

Tournafulla, Newcastle West, County Limerick, 31st October, 1902. To the Editor of The Register. Sir—During the twenty years that I was a resident in London I spent a considerable time at the British Museum, the State Paper Office and other libraries collecting materials for a thorough and impartial history of Ireland, and an Irish Dictionary. During the same period I spent my holidays in Ireland along the western and northwestern coast and the adjacent islands, where our mother tongue is still a living language. The English-Irish portion is now ready for the printer and I am bringing it out by subscription—for Great Britain and Ireland 10s. to subscribers, America and the Colonies, three dollars post free; to non-subscribers at home 12s 6d., abroad, four dollars post free.

I am very glad to be able to state that I have already received splendid support from men of all classes and creeds in Ireland irrespective of politics, including His Eminence Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh, His Grace Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin and Primate of all Ireland; the Lords Dunraven, Mayo, Ardglass, Barrymore, Iveagh, and the following Bishops: Dr. Jas. Browne, Bishop of Ferns, Wexford, Dr. Robert Browne, Bishop of Cloyne, Cork, Dr. John Coffey, Bishop of Kerry, Dr. John Conroy, Bishop of Nidar, Dr. John Foley, Bishop of Kildare; Dr. Jno. Healy, Bishop of Clonfert, and Henry Henry, Bishop of Down, and Connor, Dr. Joseph Hoare, Bishop of Ardagh, Longford, Dr. Francis J. McCormack, Bishop of Galway, Dr. John K. O'Doherty, Bishop of Derry, Dr. Patrick O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe, Donegal, Dr. Edward. Thos. O'Dwyer, Bishop of Limerick, Dr. Richard Alphonsus Sheehan, Bishop of Waterford, the great majority of the parish priests and other priests, both secular and regular, whose names appear in the list which will be inserted at the end of the book, as well as the professors and presidents of our colleges and the lady of every denomination.

The ancient nobility of Ireland is represented by many grand old names, amongst them being "The King of Morohoo" (lineal descendant of the Kings of Leinster). Then I have members of Parliament, magistrates, doctors and merchants, and farmers too numerous to mention. My knowledge of and love for the Irish language dates back as far as I can remember, and I was only very young indeed when I could read and write it. I was born some fifty years ago near Bresna, in Kerry, where Irish was then and still is spoken in the sixties. I had a good collection of Irish books and nothing used to delight the neighbors so much as to come into our kitchen in the evenings to hear me read out Oislin and his son Oscar, Fain MacCool, Goll MacMorra, Cuchullain, Drarnid and Grainne, Conan Maol and the other great personages of the heroic period of our history. The same thing gives me the greatest possible pleasure now which only serves, once more, to show the truth of the saying that the child is father of the man.

I am bringing out the English-Irish portion of the Dictionary forthwith because we have at present no book of the kind on the market and because it is needed now more than ever was before. The revival of the Irish language is practically accomplished and some of our students will be making translations into Irish of the Masterpieces of the world. For them my book will be absolutely indispensable as the old dictionaries contain but a small section only of the spoken words. I trust that such of my Irish brothers and sisters in whatever part of the world they may be, who can without detriment to themselves or their families afford it, will subscribe for a copy of the book I should like to see a large number of their names in my list of subscribers, apart from any pecuniary advantage which it might bring me. Irish is one of the fundamental languages of the world. It has undergone comparatively small change and little corruption during the lapse of ages. Its natural growth was, however, rudely checked centuries ago and it could not, therefore, keep pace with the spread of knowledge and the growth of science, consequently there are few scientific terms in our dictionaries. I have endeavored to repair this loss and I think I have succeeded.

The work was conceived and has been executed for the honor of Ireland and the glory of our Grand Old Native Tongue, and I am anxious to make it a complete success—Sian Ith go leir o'm'anam istig (Health to you all from my innermost heart).

Mr. Thomas O'Donnell, M.P. and other Irish scholars have kindly undertaken to read through the proof-sheets for me, which will materially tend towards its complete accuracy, which has been my great aim. I am, dear Sir, Yours faithfully, T. O'NEILL LANE.

BENEDICTINE SALVE

This Salve Cures Rheumatism, Felons or Blood Poisoning. It is a Sure Remedy for Any of These Diseases.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS

193 King Street East, Toronto, Nov. 21, 1902. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR—I am deeply grateful to the friend that suggested to me when I was a cripple from Rheumatism, Benedictine Salve. I have at intervals during the last ten years been afflicted with muscular rheumatism. I have experimented with every available remedy and have consulted might say, every physician of repute, without perceptible benefit. When I was advised to use your Benedictine Salve, I was a helpless cripple. In less than 48 hours I was in a position to resume my work that of a tinsmith. A work that requires a certain amount of bodily activity. I am thankful to my friend who advised me and I am more than gratified to be able to furnish you with this testimonial as to the efficacy of Benedictine Salve. Yours truly, GEO. FOGG

Tremont House, Yonge street, Nov. 1, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR—It is with pleasure that I write this unsolicited testimonial, and in doing so I can say that your Benedictine Salve has done more for me in one week than anything I have done for the last five years. My ailment was muscular rheumatism. I applied the salve as directed, and got speedy relief. I can assure you that at the present time I am free of pain. I can recommend any person afflicted with Rheumatism to give it a trial. I am, Yours truly, (Signed) S. JOHNSON.

288 Victoria Street, Toronto, Oct. 31, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Nealon House, City: DEAR SIR—I cannot speak too highly of your Benedictine Salve. It has done for me in three days what doctors and medicines have been trying to do for years. When I first used it I had been confined to my bed with a spell of rheumatism and sciatica for nine weeks; a friend recommended your salve. I tried it and it completely knocked rheumatism right out of my system. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine on the market for rheumatism. I believe it has no equal. Yours sincerely, JOHN MCGROGGAN.

478 Gerrard Street East Toronto, Ont., Sept. 18, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Nealon House, Toronto Ont. DEAR SIR—I have great pleasure in recommending the Benedictine Salve as a sure cure for lumbago. When I was taken down with it I called in my doctor, and he told me it would be a long time before I would be around again. My husband bought a box of the Benedictine Salve and applied it according to directions. In three hours I got relief, and in four days was able to do my work. I would be pleased to recommend it to any one suffering from lumbago. I am, your truly, (MRS) JAS COSGROVE

7 Laurier Avenue, Toronto, December 13, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto, Ont. DEAR SIR—After suffering for over ten years with both forms of Piles, I was asked to try Benedictine Salve. From the first application I got instant relief, and before using one box was thoroughly cured. I can strongly recommend Benedictine Salve to any one suffering with piles. Yours sincerely, JOS WESTMAN

12 Bright Street, Toronto, Jan. 15, 1902. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR—It is with pleasure I write this word of testimony to the marvellous merits of Benedictine Salve as a certain cure for Rheumatism. There is such a multitude of alleged Rheumatic cures advertised that one is inclined to be skeptical of the merits of any new preparation. I was induced to give Benedictine Salve a trial and must say that after suffering for eight years from Rheumatism it has, I believe, effected an absolute and permanent cure. It is perhaps needless to say that in the last eight years I have consulted a number of doctors and have tried a large number of other medicines advertised, without receiving any benefit. Yours respectfully, MRS. SIMPSON

85 Carlton Street, Toronto, Feb. 1, 1902. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., 189 King Street East: I was a sufferer for four months from acute rheumatism in my left arm, my physician called regularly and prescribed for it, but gave me no relief. My brother, who appeared to have faith in your Benedictine Salve gave enough of it to apply twice to my arm. I used it first on a Thursday night and applied it again on Friday night. This was in the latter part of November. Since then (over two months) I have not had a trace of rheumatism. I feel that as to the efficacy of Benedictine Salve you are entitled to this testimonial in removing rheumatic pain. Yours sincerely, M. A. COWAN

Toronto, Dec. 30th, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR—It is with pleasure I write this unsolicited testimonial and in doing so I can say to the world that your Benedictine Salve thoroughly cured me of Bleeding Piles. I suffered for nine months. I consulted a physician, one of the best, and he gave me a box of salve and said that if that did not cure me I would have to go under an operation. It failed, but a friend of mine learned by chance that I was suffering from Bleeding Piles. He told me he could get me a cure and he was true to his word. He got me a box of Benedictine Salve and it gave me relief at once and cured me in a few days. I am now completely cured. It is worth its weight in gold. I cannot but feel proud after suffering so long. It has given me thorough cure and I am sure it will never return. I can strongly recommend it to anyone afflicted as I will cure without fail. I can be called on for living proof. I am, Yours, etc. ALLAN J. ARTINGDALE, with the Boston Laundry

256 1/2 King Street East, Toronto, December 18, 1901. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR—After trying several doctors and spending forty-five days in the General Hospital, without any benefit, I was induced to try your Benedictine Salve, and sincerely believe that this is the greatest remedy in the world for rheumatism. When I left the hospital I was just able to stand for a few seconds, but after using your Benedictine Salve for three days, I went out on the street again and now, after using it just over a week, I am able to go to work again. If anyone should doubt these facts send him to me and I will prove it to him. Yours forever thankful, PETER AUSTEN

Toronto, April 10, 1902. MR. JOHN O'CONNOR. DEAR SIR—I do heartily recommend your Benedictine Salve as a sure cure for rheumatism, as I was sorely afflicted with that sad disease in my arm, and it was so bad that I could not dress myself. When I heard about your salve, I got a box of it, and to my surprise I found household duties, and I heartily recommend it to anyone that is troubled with the same disease. You have this from me with hearty thanks and do with it as you please for the benefit of the afflicted. Yours truly, MRS. JAMES FLEMING. 18 Spruce street, Toronto, Toronto, April 18th, 1902.

J O'CONNOR, Esq., City DEAR SIR—It gives me the greatest pleasure to be able to testify to the curative powers of your Benedictine Salve. For a month back my hand was so badly swollen that I was unable to work, and the pain was so intense as to be almost unbearable. Three days after using your Salve as directed, I am able to go to work, and I cannot thank you enough. Respectfully yours, 72 Wolsley street, City J. J. CLAREN

114 George street, Toronto, June 17th, 1902. JOHN O'CONNOR, Esq.: DEAR SIR—Your Benedictine Salve cured me of rheumatism in my arm, which entirely disabled me from work, in three days, and I am now completely cured. I suffered greatly from piles for many months and was completely cured by one box of Benedictine Salve. Yours sincerely T. WALKER, Blacksmith Address C.W. JOHN O'CONNOR, 189 KING ST. E. A correspondent in Whitehorse (Yukon) sends the following account of the arrival of the Right Reverend Bishop Gabriel Breynat, Dr. Pare and Inspector Fitz Horrigan, representing the congregation, went as far as Caribou to meet His Lordship.

His Lordship celebrated Mass and in the evening gave Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The ceremony of the blessing of the new statue of St. Joseph was held.

deep felt gratitude and pleasure in welcoming you to their midst on an occasion so auspicious as the present and so fraught with high promises for the future and well-being of our mother church.

A little over a year ago the corner stone of our noble edifice was laid and later on, was dedicated to the worship and service of Almighty God. We have heard and many of us have been eyewitnesses of the beautiful church which was erected by the Catholics at Dawson and we also felt anxious that, according to the measure of our ability, something worthy of the great interest to be subserved and the important ends of religion, should be erected in this place.

We trust that God will ever prompt you and give to you all knowledge and zeal, so that you may continue to maintain the grand and noble example given to the world by your illustrious predecessors, of a Christian life and a sincere devotion to the church in our country.

On behalf of the congregation of the "Sacred Heart," Whitehorse, Y. T.,

DR. PARE, CAPT. MARTIN, D. CAMPBELL, CAPT. SIEWERD, FITZ HERRIGAN.

His Lordship replied in the following eloquent manner:

"I am quite embarrassed in presenting myself before you to-day. Having always lived as a poor missionary among the Indians, the possibility of being one day obliged to assume the responsibility of the care of souls in so important a district as this, never so much as entered my mind. It will be, however, that such is the will of God, for it has happened contrary to all that, humanly speaking, could be foreseen.

"All that you say of your beloved Father Lefebvre does not surprise me at all. I know by myself what he did when among the Indians; everybody misses him there yet. But if circumstances oblige me to take him off from you I hope that you will appreciate the devotedness of Rev. Father Corbell who volunteered himself to come and take care of your spiritual welfare. It is the same spirit that lives and acts in every Catholic priest, the spirit of God promised to us, from which derives it not opposed to the efficacy of our actions.

"As for me, what could I say more? I have been made a bishop and have been given spiritual charge over this country, contrary to my desires. But now that God has spoken by the mouth of His Vicar on earth, the Sovereign Pontiff, and notwithstanding the dignity he has conferred on me, the platitude of sacerdotal power, I assure you that I am ready to spend myself in your service, to sacrifice my time, my ease and tranquility and even my life if necessary for the salvation of your souls.

"I hope that before long I will have proven to each one of you that if my long stay amongst the Indians has rubbed off some of the polish of civilization it has not hardened my heart, which will always be for you that of an affectionate father.

"I am not here for my own interests. I am here the servant of every one and I wish each one of you to have free access to me. If circum-

PERSONAL TO SUBSCRIBERS

WE WILL SEND to every subscriber or reader of The Catholic Register a full sized ONE DOLLAR package of VIT-CO-FE, by mail, POSTPAID, subject for one month's free trial, to be valid for within one month's time after receipt. If the recipient can truthfully say that it has done him or her more good than all the drugs and dopes of quack or good doctors (or patent medicines) he or she has ever used, read this over again carefully, and understand that we ask our part only when it has done you good, and not before. We take all the risk; you have nothing to lose. If it does not benefit you, you pay us nothing. VIT-CO-FE is a natural, hard, adamantine rock like substance—mineral—crystalline and from the ground and refined and requires about twenty years for oxidation. It contains free iron free sulphur and magnesium, and one package will equal medicinal strength and contains 5000 grains of the most powerful, efficacious mineral water, drunk fresh at the springs. It is a real good discovery, to which there is nothing added or taken from. It is the marvel of the century for curing such diseases as Rheumatism, Bilious Disease, Blood Poisoning, Head Trouble, Diptheria, Catarrh and Throat Affections, Liver, Kidney and Bladder Affections, Stomach and Female Disorders, La Grippe, Neuralgic Pains, Nervous Prostration and General Debility, all thousands testify, and as no one, anywhere, writes for a large, will not cost anything. Give us, his and set. This offer will challenge the attention and consideration, and afterward the gratitude of every living person who desires better health, or who suffers from any of the ailments which have defied the medical world and grown worse with age. We care not for your skepticism, but ask you to realize, and at our expense regardless of what it will cost you to have, by sending us for a package. You must not write on a postcard. stances have not allowed me to good I wish you." The Right Rev. Bishop Gabriel Breynat was born the 6th of Sept., 1867, at St. Vallier, France. Came to the north in 1902, taking charge of the Seven Dolours Mission at Ford du Lac, on Lake Athabaska, his charges being the tribe of Chipewyans. In view of his promotion he was sent as visitor to the missions on McKenzie River in July, 1901. Received notice of his promotion in middle of September; went back to see his Indians and shake hands with them for the last time. His journey to his mission at Edmonton occupied 23 days, 18 with dogs and 5 with horses. Consecrated at St. Albert by the Right Rev. Bishop Groulx, who ordained him a priest at Liege, in Belgium. After his consecration he visited the missions under his care as far north as the Arctic Circle in the McKenzie district, journeying over two thousand miles.

THIS PICTURE PUZZLE represents a Celestial engaged at washing. About him are pictured faces of three customers. Find these three faces, mark each, then read and sign the accompanying request, return it to us and we will give you ABSOLUTELY FREE, without any money, your choice of the herein illustrated magnificent Prizes:—either the Solid Arizona Silver Sugar Shell or the finely gold-finished Chatelaine Brooch and Secret Locket.

WE WISH to impress upon any who may be suspicious owing to the unusual generosity of this proposition that we do actually give the prize you select if your answer to our puzzle is correct, no matter whether we have ever had or ever will have any further business dealing with you. There is no double-meaning catch phrase or deception in our advertisement—nothing whatever to cause you disappointment in any way. Frankly, we have adopted this method of prize-giving, simply that you may become acquainted with us and give us an opportunity of doing business with you. We want your goodwill, and enlist your services only by offers that will merit your approval. Upon receipt of the prize you select you cannot help being impressed with the generosity of our business methods, as the prizes are both desirable and well worth many times the trouble of writing for. The Solid Arizona Silver Sugar Shell is made from a lump of Solid Arizona Silver. It is better than sterling silver from a practical point, as it looks just as well, will not tarnish as quickly and will wear longer. All our Arizona Silverware is the same beautiful metal right through, and is guaranteed to wear for 50 years. The Chatelaine Brooch and Secret Locket is admired and worn by the most fashionable ladies. The Locket opens and will hold two photos. It is the embodiment of artistic skill and beauty, and makes a most charming decoration. With the prize you select we will send you 10 boxes of Standard Electric Medicines to sell, if you can, at 25 cents each, then return us our money and we will give you, absolutely free, a Butter Knife, a Pickle Fork, a set of 6 Solid Arizona Silver Teaspoons and a
