THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1906.

The Helmet of Navarre

BY BERTHA RUNKLE. GROSSET & DUNLAP Publishers: New York.

 "You may speak before M. Lucas," he rejoined impatiently.
 "No," I persisted. "I must tell Monsieur alone."
 He saw in my face that I had strong reasons for asking it, and said to the secretary:
 "You may go, Lucas."
 Lucas protested.
 "M. le Duc will be wiser not to see him alone. He is not to be trusted. Perchance Monsieur, this demand covers an attack on your life."
 The warning nettled my lord. He answered curtly:
 "You may go."
 "Monsieur—"
 "Go."
 Lucas passed out, giving me, as he went, a look of hatred that startled me. But I did not say a word.
 "Well!" exclaimed Monsieur.
 By this time I had been thought myself what a story it was I had to tell a father of his son. I could not blurt it out in two words. I stood silent, not knowing how to start.
 "Felix! Beware how much longer you abuse my patience!"
 "Monsieur," I began, "the spy in the house is named Martin."
 "Ah!" cried Monsieur. "So it is Louis Martin. How he knew— But go on. The others—"
 "I lay the night in the Rue Comteparrets, not far from the St. Denis gate," I said, still beating about the bush, "at the sign of the Amour de Dieu. Opposite is a closed house, with a door from the garret to cellar. You can enter from a court behind. It is here that they plot. Monsieur's knives drew together, as if he were trying to recall something half remembered, half forgotten.

was, hideous as it was, yet he knew I was telling the truth.
 I had seen cowardly turn pale, but never the color washed from a brave man's face. The sight made my fingers itch to strangle that gray evil fiend.
 With a cry Monsieur sprang toward me. "You lie, you cur!"
 "No, Monsieur," I gasped; "it is the truth."
 He let me go then, and laid his hand on the collar of the dog, who had sprung to his aid. But Monsieur had got a hurt from which the dumb beast's loyalty could not defend him. He stood with bowed head, a man stricken to the heart's core. Full of wrath as I was, the tears came to my eyes for Monsieur.
 He recovered himself.
 "It is some damnable mistake! You have been tricked!"
 My rage blazed up again.
 "No! They tricked me once. Not again! Not this time. I know not who they were till now, when I talked with Marcel. The two things fitted."
 "Then it is your guess! You dare to say—"
 "No, I know!" I interrupted rudely, too excited to remember respect. "What I tell you those men were like? I had never seen M. le Comte nor M. de Grammont before. One was broad-shouldered and heavy, with a black beard and a black scowl, whom the other called Gervais. The younger was called Etienne, tall and slender, with gray eyes and fair hair. And like Monsieur!" I cried, suddenly aware of it. "Monsieur, how he is like, though he is light! His face, in voice, in manner! He speaks like Monsieur. He has Monsieur's laugh. I was blind not to see it. I believe that was why I loved him so much."
 "It was he whom you would not betray?"
 "Yes. That was before I knew.

"Not even you and Vigo," he answered. "Think you I would arrest my son like a common felon—blame him like that?"
 "He has shamed himself!" I cried. "I cared not whether I had a right to say it. He has forgotten his honor."
 "Aye. But I have remembered mine."
 "Monsieur! Monsieur cannot mean to let him go scot-free!"
 But his eyes told me that he did mean it.
 "Then," I said in more and more amazement, "Monsieur forgives him?"
 His face set sternly.
 "No," he answered. "No, Felix. He has placed himself beyond my forgiveness."
 "Then we will go there alone, we two, and kill him! Kill the three!"
 He laughed. But not a man in France felt less mortal.
 "You would have me kill my son?"
 "He would have killed you."
 "That makes no difference."
 I looked at him, groping after the thoughts that swayed him, and catching at them dimly. I knew them for the principles of a proud and honor-ruled man, but there was no room for them in my angry heart.
 "Monsieur," I cried, "will you let three villains go unpunished for the sake of one?"
 "It was what I had meant to do, availed back, but the case was changed now."
 "Of two, Gervais de Grammont is also of my blood."
 "Monsieur would spare him as well—him, the ringleader?"
 "He is my cousin."
 "He forgets it."
 "But I do not!"
 "Monsieur, will you have no vengeance?"
 Monsieur looked at me.
 "When you are a man, Felix Droux, you will know that there are other things in life than revenge."

With a cry Monsieur sprang toward me. "You lie you cur!"
 Thinking of the thrust I had given him, my wrath boiled up again. Monsieur took me by the shoulder and looked at me as if he would look through me to the naked soul.
 "How do I know that you are not lying?"
 "Monsieur does know it."
 "Yes," he answered after a moment. "Aha! you know it."
 He stood looking at me, with the dreariest face I ever saw—the face of a man whose son has sought to murder him. Looking back on it now, I wonder that I ever went to Monsieur with that story. I wonder why I did not bury the shame and disgrace of it in my own heart, at whatever cost kept it from Monsieur. But the thought never entered my head then.
 I was so full of black rage against Yeuzeux—him most of all, because he had won me so—that I could feel nothing else. I knew that I pitied Monsieur, yet I hardly felt it.
 "Tell me everything—how you met them—all. Else I shall not believe a word of your devilish rignarole," Monsieur cried.
 I told him the whole shameful story, my gossip with Marcel in the antechamber, he listening in hopeless silence. At length I finished. It seemed hours since he had spoken. At last he said, "Then it is true." The grayness of his face drew the cry from me.
 "The villain! the black-hearted villain!"
 "Take care, Felix, he is my son!"
 I got hold of my cross and tore it off, breaking the chain.
 "See, Monsieur. That is the cross which he swore the plot was not against you. He swore it, and Gervais de Grammont laughed! I swore, too, never to betray them! Two perjuries!"
 I flung the cross on the floor and stamped on it, splintering it.
 "Profane!" cried Monsieur.
 "It is no sacrilege!" I retorted. "That is no holy thing since he has touched it. He has made it vile—sacrilegious, assassin, perjurist!"
 Monsieur struck the words from my lips.
 "It is true," I muttered.
 "Were it ten times true, you have no right to say it."
 "No, I have none," I answered, ashamed. I might not speak ill of a St. Quentin, though he were the devil's own. But my rage came uppermost again.
 "I can bring Monsieur to the house in twenty minutes. Vigo and a handful of men can take them prisoners before they suspect aught amiss. They are only three—him and Grammont and the lackey."
 But Monsieur shook his head.
 "I cannot do that."
 "Can I take my own son prisoner?"
 Monsieur need not so, said I, wondering. In his place I would have gone and killed Yeuzeux with my own hands. "Vigo and I and two more can do it. Vigo and I alone, if Monsieur would not shame him before the men." I guessed at what he was thinking.

TERRIBLE PAINS ACROSS BACK

SUFFERED EIGHT MONTHS WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE. WOULD HAVE TO STAY IN BED FOR THREE DAYS AT A TIME

Doan's Kidney Pills CURED HIM

Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald, Hazeldean, Ont., writes us as follows: "I was a great sufferer from kidney trouble for eight months. I had terrible pains across the small of my back. I would have to stay in bed for three days at a time and could not do any work. I tried several remedies but of no avail, and also plasters but they were of no use.

One day a neighbor of mine advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I was so much discouraged I told him I was tired of trying remedies, but he urged me to try one box so I purchased one, and before I was through using it, I found a change for the better so I got five boxes more, and I have had no trouble with my kidneys since. I would not be without Doan's Pills in my house."

It is really not difficult to cure kidney trouble in its first stages. All you have to do is give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. They are a never-failing cure for all forms of kidney trouble. They quickly relieve the congested, overworked kidneys, and gradually bring them back to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills 50 cents per box, three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

JUDGE GILBERT OF ROTHEWAY DEAD

Head of Kings County Probate Court Passed Away Just Before Midnight

George G. Gilbert, judge of probate in Kings county, died at 11.34 o'clock last night at his home, in Rothesay. For three weeks he had been gradually sinking and death had been expected at any time. He was conscious until yesterday morning and realized that his end was near, and he was well content to lay down life's burden. He passed peacefully away just before midnight.

Judge Gilbert was seventy-nine years of age and death was the result of the infirmities which old age brings. Three years ago Judge Gilbert lost his sight but an operation was performed, a cataract removed, and he was able to see and read and attend to the duties of his office, which he did until a short time ago. He leaves an honored name and the record of a life well spent. Beside his children, he is survived by his brother Thomas.

In his last illness Judge Gilbert was attended by Dr. W. B. McVey, of this city, and Dr. W. A. Fairweather, of Rothesay. Beside his children, he is survived by his brother Thomas.

A Prominent Family.
 George Godfrey Gilbert, K. C., who had been regarded as one of the most able lawyers in St. John, was born in this city Oct. 9, 1828. He was a son of Henry and Eliza (Simonds) Gilbert. His first ancestor (Mass.) about 1638. In 1857 there is any authentic record, was John Gilbert, an Englishman, who settled at Dorchester (Mass.) about 1638. In 1857 he removed to Taunton (Mass.), where he died between May, 1654, and June, 1657. He is mentioned in other children—see son Gile. His son Thomas returned to England in 1633. He was married and left his family in Taunton.

Thomas Gilbert, second son of Thomas and grandson of John, married Anna Blake, of Milton (Mass.). Eight children were born, one of whom, Captain Nathaniel Gilbert, married Hannah Bradford, daughter of Samuel Bradford, of Duxbury (Mass.), a grandson of Governor William Bradford, and had a family of seven children.

In 1783 Thomas Gilbert, third son of Captain Nathaniel Gilbert, came with the Loyalists to New Brunswick and eventually settled in Gagetown. He was the great-grandfather of the late Judge Gilbert, whose grandfather was an early settler in St. John, where he carried on mercantile business as a member of the firm of Gilbert & Hasford and was a member of the assembly in 1796. He died on Jan. 10, 1814.

His son, Henry Gilbert, father of the late judge, married Eliza Simonds, youngest daughter of James Simonds. She was born in 1792 and died on July 18, 1854, having been the mother of seven children. These were: Bradford Simonds, born on April 12, 1814, who died on July 18, 1854, in this city, and died in 1872; Sophia, born on Jan. 16, 1816, who married Rev. Canon Scott; John, who died at a time we do not know; George, who died in 1872; Thomas, born on July 31, 1830; James S., born in April, 1832; George G., the subject of this notice, and Elizabeth, widow of Henry W. Wilson.

High Reputation as Lawyer.
 George Godfrey Gilbert was educated at King's College, Windsor, where he took his B. A. and the University of Harvard where he took his B. L. In the same year he was made a Q. C. and from the first enjoyed a high reputation at the bar in this province.

In 1838 he married Sarah, daughter of William Hammond, at that time a prosperous merchant of this city. His children are Edith E., Mabel S., George, who is an attorney residing in Bathurst; Florence and Walter Gilbert. Henry is engaged in mercantile business at Rothesay, and Walter is proprietor of the grocery business at the corner of Charlotte and Prince streets.

Judge Gilbert had held his position of probate judge for a number of years and was regarded as most efficient. In private life he was genial and kindly, a man who numbered friends wherever he counted acquaintance. He was public spirited and took interest in matters affecting the welfare of the community in many ways he will be greatly missed.

NERVOUS CHILDREN.

St. Vitus Dance, Neuralgia and Headaches Common Among School Children.

St. Vitus dance is a disease that is becoming more and more frequent among school children. Young people tire the nerves with study and the nervous cry and sometimes the trouble takes the form of neuralgia, headache, nervous exhaustion, weakness of the limbs and muscles, and other symptoms. It is a long, drawn-out disease, and the sufferer frequently loses all control of the limbs, which keep up a constant jerking and twitching. There is only one way to cure this trouble—through the blood which feeds and strengthens the nerves. And Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the only medicine that can make the new, rich, red blood that feeds the nerves and strengthens every part of the body. The case of Flossie Dwan, of Crowland, Ontario, proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Dwan wrote: "A couple of years ago my daughter Flossie was dangerously afflicted with St. Vitus dance. She became so nervous that after a time we could not let her see even her friends. She could not pick up a dish, lace her shoes, or make any movement to help herself. She had grown thin and very pale, and as she had been treated by several doctors without benefit, I feared she would not recover. A friend advised me to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after she had used a couple of boxes I could see that they were helping her. We gave her nine boxes in all, and by that time she was perfectly well, and every symptom of trouble had passed away and she is now a strong, well developed girl."

If your growing children are weak or nervous, if they are pale and thin, lack appetite or complain of headaches or backaches give them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how speedily the rich, red blood these pills make will transform them into bright, active, robust boys and girls. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 20 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AN ARTISTIC SUCCESS

Excellent Sacred Concert Given in St. David's Church Last Evening.

A sacred concert was held in St. David's Presbyterian church last evening before a large congregation. The singing was of unusually good quality, many of the leading soloists in the city taking part. The concert was composed of prominent singers from the choir of other churches, and was highly successful in every respect. The following soloists took part: Mrs. R. T. Worden, Mrs. J. D. Allen, Miss Murray, Miss Blenda Thomson, Miss Sinclair, Messrs. J. A. Kelly, S. J. McGowan, and T. DeWitt Cairns. The numbers on the programme were principally selected from Mendelssohn's Elijah, and the remainder were taken from the works of Gounod, Gail, Metzka, and Handel. All the singers were in excellent voice, and while the surroundings did not permit of any outward show of appreciation by those present the opinion was very generally expressed that the concert in an artistic sense could hardly have been improved on by any body of singers in the city.

Mrs. T. M. Barnes ably filled the duties of accompanist, and Miss Cochran presided at the organ. John Lloyd conducted the chorus work, and the success of the performance was to a great extent due to his careful training.

The Carleton Cornet Band Felix last evening attracted the largest number of visitors since the opening night. The successful events will close this evening and special attractions are being arranged. Last night the prizes were won as follows: Door prize, B. Earle, a writer; J. Black, a lemonade set; J. Belyea, a shaving outfit; bagatelle, J. Robinson; ring, toss, bean toss and excelsior, L. Lord; air gun, J. Britt; guessing contest, J. Robinson; the evening a silver water pitcher and a set of silver souvenir spoons will be given as door prizes.

A meeting of the St. John Tennis Club was held last night and three members were elected. The new members are Miss May Harrison, Miss Alice Schofield and Mr. Killen. It was decided to give permission to twenty junior members to play on the courts from 9 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

RAILWAY TO HUDSON BAY

(Ottawa Free Press.) The agitation for the construction of the Hudson Bay railroad has taken firm root in the West. In the new province of Saskatchewan the people are apparently a unit in favor of the federal government providing for the construction of the road as a work not only in the interests of the west but of Canada as a whole.

A railroad to Hudson Bay has long been contemplated. No less than eight different railroad companies have received charters to build lines. Some of these companies have even surveyed lines from Winnipeg to Port Nelson and also from Fort Churchill. The belief seems to be gaining ground that ultimately the greater part of the grain of the West will go over the Hudson Bay route to Europe.

The principal advantage of the new line would be in the transportation of grain and other freight. The wheat of western Canada would be brought a thousand miles nearer salt water. By transporting western wheat by way of Hudson Bay it is estimated fifteen cents a bushel can be saved.

GERMAN SLAVERY

An official report on the conditions of life and labor of the cottage workers of the Kingdom of Saxony shows that the average wages of the lace workers is a half-penny per hour. A penny for spinning and a penny for weaving. The earnings of a woman are estimated at fifteen cents a day for a weekly wage of about four shillings.

Ald. Vanwart, Tilley and Holder, with director Wisely and the city engineer, went to Fairville yesterday afternoon and inspected a strip of land adjoining the C. P. R. track and forming part of the school lot, the railway company having asked permission to place a four foot drain there or to purchase from the city.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
 WASHINGTON, D. C. May 10.—That the bill for the regulation of railroad rates will receive a favorable vote within the next few days is the best piece of news that can come from Washington. This question, which has agitated the interest of the country scarcely less than Congress is soon to be settled and it is a matter of congratulation to both the country and Congress. That it is to emerge from the apparently hopeless muddle of manœuvres now predicted for a certainty and before many days it is probable that the Hepburn bill with the so-called Allison amendment, which provides for broad court review will have been passed by the Senate. No proposition has come before Congress in many years that more vitally affects the interests of the country at large or involves such colossal properties. The country has watched with apprehension the evolutions of Congress in the matter and has not been without fear that the great corporate interests might still have sufficient power in that body to influence its action in their favor. As a matter of fact though the will of the people has been too strong for the monopolies and whatever the wish of corporation Senators like Aldrich and others may have been it has been demonstrated that the popular demand for the regulation of rates has been too unanimous and too imperative to be ignored or withheld. The bill as it will pass the Senate is in reality a compromise. The extreme position held by the administration has not been maintained and there are many who will assess that it is a "defeat" for the President inasmuch as the Senate amendments provide that the entire of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be subject to the review of the courts but the people at large are little concerned about the personal feelings involved in the passage of the bill and can only rejoice that any reasonably satisfactory compromise by which the tyrannical and arbitrary exercise of power by the railroads may be restrained has been reached. One important point in curbing the menace to the industrial world has not been sacrificed in the compromise. It is that rates fixed by the commission shall go into effect and remain effective until action has been taken at the courts. By this clause

Speaker Cannon celebrated his seventieth birthday in Washington this week by the biggest birthday party that any public man has had. Over one thousand persons called at the hotel where the Speaker and drank of the champagne and partook of the elaborate supper provided for them. So far as age is concerned, there were none of the visitors of either party who believed that the Speaker was not eligible to the Presidency. He is a hale and hearty old man who can walk three miles at a stretch and who preserves the uncommon faculty of being able to recognize every man in Congress and call him by his name, generally his given name at that. For an unpopular man the Speaker enjoys a remarkable popularity in Congress. No position to which a man may attain, rewards him with more daily, than that of the Speaker of the Lower House, but "Uncle Joe," although wielding a tyrannous power in that body, at the same time manages to retain a cordial good fellowship with a great many of the members and to be on terms of intimacy even with those whom he snubs during the sessions. Among those who attended his reception and presented their good wishes were the

The annual Health Camp meeting on the river came in for his support each year, he being one of the promoters of these meetings in the early 90's.

The deceased was a son of John D. and Mary Short, who reside in Garden street, and leaves besides them his wife, who was Miss Agnes Campbell, four daughters and one son. The daughters are Lois, aged seventeen; Agnes, aged eight; Mary, aged five, and Janet, aged three. The son, Paul, is aged twelve years.

Mr. Short was twice married. His daughter, Lois, and his son, Paul, are children of his first wife, who was Miss Harriet Davis, of Philadelphia.

Speaking of Mr. Short last night Rev. Myles S. Frazer, who was his pastor, said: "I have known him since I have been pastor here, about nine years, and I have always found him one of the most Godly men I have ever met; always diligent in business yet fervent in spirit, serving the Lord."

Barnum & Bailey's circus may yet come to St. John. Yesterday an offer was received from the agent of the circus, Mr. Harvey, who is now in New Glasgow (N. S.), that he would give a certain sum for the use of the Clark grounds at Lunenburg. The matter was given due consideration, and a reply sent to the effect that the grounds could be had for a figure a little larger than that offered.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alexander came in from Montreal yesterday.

George W. Fowler, M. P., reached the city from Ottawa yesterday.

President, several of the cabinet members, diplomats, supreme court justices and senators.

Congress has been asked by Secretary Taft to make another appropriation of half a million dollars for the benefit of San Francisco, making the total amount appropriated by that body for the purpose three million dollars. The president has transmitted Secretary Taft's recommendation to Congress, and it is likely that it will receive prompt action.

An amendment, that to the rate bill hits at a glaring evil in the system of the transportation companies, has been introduced in the senate by Senator Ellins. Its object is to prevent railroads from entering into competition with shippers of coal and other commodities. During the debate in the senate it has been shown that the railroads owning coal fields have discriminated against the independent operators, and the supreme court has proclaimed that common carriers should not be permitted to deal in commodities. Senator Ellins believes that the business of the railroads should be confined to the carrying of passengers and freight, and the production of his amendment to that effect provoked a voluble discussion in the senate. It spent an entire day wrangling on the subject, and finally adjourned to "sleep over it," as Senator Hale suggested. The senate is having an unhappy time these days anyway. Speeches are limited to fifteen minutes and senators who have been accustomed to talking fifteen or more hours to expressing their thoughts, find now that they have scarcely finished the preamble when time is called. This is disturbing and annoying, but it is not the only effect, for by the rule amendments to the rate bill are introduced so fast, and amendments to amendments, and substitutes for amendments, until no one in the senate can tell what is being done. As Senator Tillman expressed it the other day when things seemed to be in a less tangle, and eighty senators were all trying to get fifteen minutes each in which to talk, the senate is "balled up." An inexperienced person looking on at the proceedings would suppose that by no possible means could anything lucid ever proceed from such confusion and cross purpose work.

HEAVY PAVING FOR WATER ST.

People Want to Know When the Granite Pavement is to Be Laid there.

The question is being persistently asked, "When is the granite pavement to be laid on Water street?" This street, in constant use by teams hauling heavy loads, and is greatly in need of repair.

It is stated by a man who is in close touch with civic affairs, that the matter made at last meeting of the water and sewerage board, asking Director Murdoch to submit a report on the water main situated in Water street, was unnecessary, as the director submitted a report on that subject last fall, stating that the main was all right.

The Times informant stated that the pavement was ordered laid a year ago last March, and that in October last Director Murdoch submitted his report, but owing to the contention raised that the concrete could not be laid during the cold weather, the matter was allowed to lay over.

It was also pointed out that during the winter the work of laying concrete pipes on the water extension was not stopped on account of cold weather, but was continued right along, although in the instance of putting down the pipe in Lake Latimer they had to cut through the ice.

Director Murdoch, when seen this morning, said he made a report last fall on the Water street main, in which he expressed the opinion that some sections might have to be renewed. At that time he said he would look further into the matter and submit a more complete report. This report he now has ready for the next meeting of the board.

YACHT WAS DELAYED.

The Yacht Maple Leaf, from Chester, Left Liverpool Yesterday for St. John.

Some time ago Captain Thomas Lavin, Bert Flaherty and Carter Titus went to Chester, N. S., to bring Sydney Ker's yacht, "The Maple Leaf" to this city.

During the last few days considerable anxiety was felt as to their safety. Last night, however, word was received that they had reached Liverpool yesterday.

Capt. Lavin and Messrs. Flaherty and Titus left Chester a week ago Monday last, and after two days had gone by Liverpool, and were no tidings from them or no one could be communicated with who had seen the yacht, which was in charge, doubt of their safety was expressed by their friends in this city.

The Western Union wires were kept charged, and last night word was received that they had reached Liverpool yesterday.

What was the cause of the yacht taking nine days to go from Chester to Liverpool could not be ascertained, but it is believed that some mishap must have happened to her going to the rough weather of last week.

WHY NOT COME TO NEW BRUNSWICK?

"If immigrants leaving Upper Canada because of unfavorable conditions, there is no reason why they should not be induced to settle in our own province, where plenty of idle farms are to be found."

The above remark was made by a prominent North End man, while chatting with the Times today. Continuing, the gentleman referred to said:

"I can point to dozens of farms in Kings, Queens and Sunbury counties, as well as in different places through the province that offer splendid opportunities to people desiring to settle down and make new homes. The soil for the most part is fertile and could with proper handling be turned to valuable account, thus benefiting both the farmers themselves and city people."

"The young people are leaving their homes in the country districts and seeking employment elsewhere, and it is only a question of time when the old folk must vacate the farms, many of which are equipped with houses and barns, and I can hardly say that it is a great pity to see such places standing tenantless, especially in view of the possibility of settling new settlers who could develop them in such a manner that they would pay handsome rents."

Witnessed, all such people that we can get in the province of New Brunswick, and I think it would be well to have the matter placed before the Minister of Agriculture. He would I believe be very advantageous to bring these people here, and, if necessary, have a competent instructor, a man thoroughly acquainted with the agricultural resources of New Brunswick, to demonstrate the best methods of turning the soil to good account."

MY PARTNER, A GOOD PLAY

"My Partner," the play made famous by the late Louis Aldrich, will receive an early presentation by the Gage Stock Co. at York Theatre. It is a story of the west in its early days, and deals of the life of two men, who through years of privation and hardship formed a friendship that was almost inseparable.

The comedy elements is supplied by "Wing Brit," a true western type of man of that period, when the search for gold in California was at its height. Miss Davis will be seen in the part of "Miry Borden," which will give her excellent opportunity to display her versatility. The Gage people open Monday, in The Parish Priest.
