Therefore I hide the poor eyes that will not see behind dark glasses. I judge people by the same standard, too. LIBERALS USED FOWLER TORCHES

Bought Stock-in-Trade Laid in for Tory Celebration at Sussex

DIDN'T CELEBRATE

News of Defeat Changed Conservative Plans, and Band Hired for Their Expected Jubilee Was Turned Over to Their Opponents—Many Congratulations to Dr. McAlister.

Sussex, Oct. 27.—The election is over and business is the order of the day now. The campaign was conducted in the main without bitterness and there are few things to regret.

In the closing days of the contest party feeling sometimes ran dangerously near to personal differences, but today congratulations are in order, and Dr. McAlister, the Liberal representative for Kings-Albert, has received many hearty handshakes from those who opposed him yesterday. The Liberal club rooms were the scene of the greatest enthusiasm up to an early hour this morning. The returns from New Brunswick and all over the Dominion were received by special wire in the building, and announced to the waiting throng.

Arthur Keith, president of the Sussex Liberal Club, was the happy announcer, and the cheers that greeted his messages could be heard throughout the town. The fact that Sussex town gave McAlister forty-four and his assistants as R. H. Arnold, Messrs. McArthur, W. H. Gilbert, and scores of others who devoted much of their time and all their energy to electing the doctor.

An amusing incident of the early evening was the transfer of the Conservative torches and band engagement. Mr. Fowler's committee were so confident of his election that their preparations for celebrating his victory included an additional hundred or so of torches that came by express that afternoon and engaged the first four returns from Kings come in an enthusiastic Liberal committee invaded the Conservative rooms with a shout, "say fellows won't need torches or band tonight, better let us have them."

"They're yours," was the prompt reply and very soon the Liberal torches and band were lighting the streets with the Tory torches.

With band and plenty of illumination, the big crowd awaited McAlister's return and his reception and speech were features of the evening.

The kind words of the Liberal M. P. for his opponent won him many friends. He had no reason to feel unkind to anyone and every word of the Liberal outburst was here given.

A solid New Brunswick delegation Sir Wilfrid's selection of you as one of the great Liberal leaders of Canada and the soundness of the Liberal party's choice of you as its candidate in this province.

St. Martin Liberal workers won out against desperate tactics.

MICHAEL McDADE.

TWO SLAIN IN FIGHT; WEDDING FOLLOWS

Georgia Man Gets Sweetheart After Battle and Then They Elope.

Waycross, Ga., Oct. 27.—After a battle in which two men were killed, L. C. Edfield secured possession of Edie Carter, the 15-year-old daughter of the wealthiest man in Coffee county, hastened with her to a justice of the peace and made her his wife.

Edfield and Miss Carter had been sweethearts for some months, but her parents objected to the marriage on account of her youth. To get Miss Carter away from Edfield and prevent an elopement, she was sent by her parents to the home of her brother, John W. Carter, at Millwood. The girl noticed Edfield when he was there and expressed her willingness to elope if he would come for her.

Accompanied by D. A. Wilson, Edfield went to the home of the girl's brother and tried to steal her. He was discovered, and a battle occurred, in which Wilson was killed outright and A. J. Little, a friend of Carter, was so badly shot that he soon died.

When the fight was going on, Miss Carter rushed from her brother's home to her sweetheart. Edfield placed the girl in a carriage and drove off, leaving her father and she were quickly married.

It is said that Wilson, who accompanied Edfield and in stealing Miss Carter, was killed by her brother, and that Little, who was aiding Carter, was shot by Edfield.

A LEGEND OF MAXIMILIAN

Emperor's Fate Said to Have Been Foreshadowed by a Cracked Die.

The sale a few days ago for $27 each of two specimens of the gold twenty peso pieces coined for the unfortunate Emperor Maximilian of Mexico and dated 1866 brings attention to an interesting series of coins which made their appearance during the brief reign of the emperor and established a European monarch upon the throne of the Montezumas.

Of course one of the acts of Maximilian upon his accession to the throne was the striking of coins bearing his portrait and title. The silver coins were of five, ten and fifty centavos and one peso. The copper coinage of Maximilian consisted of but a single denomination, the one centavo piece.

The increase of the population was ninety-nine per cent of the time that only one denomination was originally struck.

It is a fact that the coin is scarce. The first of the issues of Maximilian attracted notice on account of the intricate design that the engraver of the pieces which show the Emperor's bust had executed the design in such a manner that by reversing the coin a likeness of a donkey was produced. It requires a great deal of imagination, it may be said, to work out such a resemblance.

There has been an impression that all the coins of Maximilian are scarce, but this is not so. Great numbers of them are still in circulation. It was not until many years before a favorite form of currency in the Orient millions of such countries during the reign of Maximilian. The idea that the one peso piece was held at a high premium may be accounted for by the rumor in general circulation that the Emperor had been seen buying up all the Maximilian dollars at five dollars each.

There is said to be one extremely rare variety of the one peso which was struck at the Mexico City Mint in 1866. According to one story, the first piece of this variety ever struck had been coined and this number represented the age of Maximilian when he was shot. It was said also that one day a piece of this variety was in the die spot where a flaw appears in the die. As a matter of fact, says an expert numismatist, the die did get stuck and the subsequent dies were of inferior workmanship. The coins struck after the first of this variety are shorter than those on the usual issues, and there is a depression in the temple of the Emperor's portrait. New York Sun.

THE EMIGRATION TO SIBERIA

(St. Petersburg Correspondence of the Times, London.)

According to recent statistics the population of Russia is annually increasing at the rate of two-and-a-half millions. It is now 150,000,000. In 1920 it will, at this rate, reach 180,000,000, and in 1950 more than 250,000,000. In other words the normal growth of the population will, in less than half a century, cause it to exceed the present combined populations of Germany, France, Austria, Great Britain, and Italy. About 110,000,000 inhabitants are concentrated in the 50 provinces of European Russia. Of these only 14,000,000 are town dwellers; the remainder for the most part are engaged in agriculture, the exact proportion being 74 per cent of the total population.

It has therefore long been obvious that the population of Russia is in a state of acute distress. The first of the issues of Maximilian attracted notice on account of the intricate design that the engraver of the pieces which show the Emperor's bust had executed the design in such a manner that by reversing the coin a likeness of a donkey was produced. It requires a great deal of imagination, it may be said, to work out such a resemblance.

MRS. CURREY IN TEARS

Much Affected at Husband's Story of Their Quarrels—Judge Threatens A. H. Hanington for Calling Plaintiff an Ugly Name.

Fredericton, Oct. 27.—The divorce case of Dr. Lemuel A. Curry and wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Curry, of St. John, and the contra cases were consolidated this morning by Judge Gregory after he had endeavored to get the parties to become reconciled and keep out of court. Dr. Curry's counsel saying that they had spent fourteen years at that without success. Questions of alimony and suit money have been deferred for the present and neither party asks anything regarding the care of the children, of whom there are five. Both parties charge the other with so much disgraceful conduct that Judge Gregory before adjourning the court at noon remarked upon the absence of any apparent gentleness in the endeavor to bring about the reconciliation and pronounced the conduct of both parties as unmanly and unwomanly, and said that they did not try as man and wife should to get on together and making life a hell upon earth for one another. Instead of only threatening to do so. Mr. Curry appeared in court with Hon. C. N. Skinner as counsel. Mrs. Curry did not appear, but was represented by Mr. A. H. Hanington, K. C., and Mrs. M. G. Teed, K. C., as her counsel. Dr. Thomas Walker and Miss Ada Tapley, trained nurse, were present as witnesses for the plaintiff, Dr. Curry. The defendant, Mrs. Curry, has about ten or twelve witnesses, but none of them were on hand today. This morning the court heard the papers in the case. Dr. Curry went to Montreal today, and will be here on Friday for examination. The libels of both parties and their respective answers were read. The libels preferred charges, and the charges denied, and in toto the charges made in the libels. Dr. Curry in his libel charges his wife with cruelty and one incident among those mentioned in the charge was that she had kicked him on the face and on the knee and the injury caused him to be lame for some time. The doctor also alleged that his wife threw a glass of water into his face and then threw the glass at his head and called him a lot of unavailing names, which are set forth in full in the papers in the case. It is charged that Mrs. Curry spent her time in amateur photography, invited bad boys into the house and they taught the children bad habits, is an infidel and secularist. Mrs. Curry in her answer to these charges gave a denial of almost all the charges of importance. She charged her husband with cruelty, trying to drive her from the house, refusing to allow her to go to sleep, calling her a thief and a liar, forbidding her access to the city stores, making her subservient to the servant in the house in giving the servant complete control of the house and other things. It is also charged that Dr. Curry misappropriated $1,800 of his wife's personal funds and once tried to murder her. Dr. Curry in his answer, denies the cruel charges and alleges that the money was his own. He admitted the police were at their house, but not on account of his cruelty, but his wife's ravings. He also alleges that his wife threatened to poison him as well as to ruin him and have him end up in the poor house, and promised to make life a hell upon earth for him.

Fredericton, N. B., October 28.—The hearing in the Curry divorce case was resumed before Judge Gregory in the divorce court this morning. Dr. Curry was called to the stand and when the court rose at 4 o'clock his direct examination had not been finished. He told the story of his matrimonial infelicities in detail and seemed anxious to impress upon the court that his wife was undomestic in her tastes and was responsible for all the trouble. At one point witness got into a bad mixup with A. H. Hanington, K. C., and was called "a liar" by that gentleman. The judge took Hanington to task for making use of such language and threatened to commit him for contempt if he repeated it.

Dr. Curry's Story. This morning, D. L. A. Curry, one of the principals, was on the stand most of the morning. His testimony dealt largely with little squabbles and big ones, too, between himself and his wife and which led to their separation. Mrs. Curry, the other principal, made her first appearance in court during the trial and sat with her son Willie, a bright boy of about 12 years of age, and Miss Ada Tapley, a trained nurse. St. John, who is one of the witnesses in the case. When the case was first taken up by Mr. Teed, K. C., for Mrs. Curry, an application for alimony during the suit.

stating that Mrs. Curry had no means of support and was in need of funds for herself and children to live upon. Hon. C. N. Skinner, for Mr. Curry, contended that the children should be sent back to their father, having been taken from there by their mother without permission. Mr. A. H. Hanington, K. C., for Mrs. Curry, told of Mrs. Curry's desire to have the custody of her children. Judge Gregory said that upon the question, whether the mother had the children or not would depend the amount of alimony she would receive. Mr. Curry could apply to any judge for an order for the custody of the children and the burden would rest with the mother of anybody else to show good reason for taking them away. Counsel had some struggle over who was now paying the grocery bills for Mrs. Curry and her children. Hon. Mr. Skinner, for Mr. Curry, made a proposition that the children could not remain at their summer cottage all winter, that they be returned to their father's home and that the mother be given access to them. He thought Dr. Curry would be willing.

Dr. Curry—"I never turned her out and I won't if she comes back now." Judge Gregory thought that the wife and children might go to Dr. Curry's city home and Mrs. Curry might be given $50 per month on which to run things. Mr. Teed said that the charges made against Mrs. Curry were of a damnable nature and he did not consider it reasonable to ask her to stay there with her husband. Judge Gregory shut off further argument on this line by stating that he would set a day for hearing all arguments on the question of alimony.

The first witness called was Dr. Curry, who first told of their marriage in Jackson, Mich., on the 27th of December, 1884, by Rev. Roy Balcorn. After their honeymoon they went to St. John and took up their residence at the New Victoria Hotel. Five children, are the result of the marriage, the eldest being William Child Curry, named after his maternal grandfather. In 1906, after living on Queen Square, in a rented house, he purchased a house on Charlotte street. The summer of 1902 was spent at Red Head, and in 1903 a beautiful summer residence was purchased at Woodman's Point on the river to please Mrs. Curry. It was in the year of 1906 that Mrs. Curry first assaulted him. He slapped the eldest boy on the cheek for not obeying him when told to stop throwing porridge on a red hot stove. Doctor Curry swore that his wife struck him on the jaw. He left the house before having his breakfast and that closed the incident. On another occasion he went to the kitchen to ensure if his breakfast was ready. There was a wrangle and Mrs. Curry went to a drug store and claimed her husband had been abusing her. In 1907, Mrs. Curry took a dislike to the house and refused to put up any curtains or make it homelike. One of the boys was damaging the house and the witness told him to stop, but Mrs. Curry told him to go ahead and tear the damn house to pieces. Witness told the boy to go upstairs and he went, only to be followed by his wife, who kept telling him times at times at him "You damn miserable wretch." As she was passing him he said she kicked him. The kick did not hurt particularly Dr. Curry then brought in incidents when his wife hurt him by slamming the doors of the house against him so that once his forehead was cut open and once his shoulder was bruised.

(Continued on page 3, fifth column.) This stage, Dr. Curry said the last time he spoke to his wife was on the 26th of August at their summer home at Woodman's Point, when he said to her, "wife, can't we do something for the children's sake?" "No," she answered. "No," she said as their last conversation. One Sunday evening at the Woodman's Point house, Dr. and Mrs. Curry got into another wrangle over the question of allowing their daughter to spend the night with friends. This witness said, resulted in his wife throwing a glass of water in his face and throwing the glass at his head. On another occasion he got a bill from a store for eleven pairs of kid gloves that his wife had bought. She said she was taking advantage of a bargain day. They had another wrangle, and Dr. Curry had his finger jammed in a door. A number of other such incidents were gone over with minute details, all being quarrels arising from petty troubles. Dr. Curry said that he used to sleep and eat away from his home in order to get away from his wife's nagging and abuse. He used to take his meals at the Union Club and on the steamer Elaine, while the only place he slept when away from the house was aboard the steamer. Dr. Curry said that his wife used to disregard his orders and wishes, and used to say that she would never "obey" him. His wife said, had an unusual kind of a temper; she could make herself very agreeable, when she got into a controversy her temper would get very ruffled and according to the witness, "she acted like a crazy and insane woman." Dr. Curry was giving detailed statements of controversies between Mrs. Curry and him and female servants as far back as 1885, when the court decided to adjourn until 2:30 p.m.

The afternoon the witness continued his story of marital infelicities, as set forth in the libel, and charged against other things that his wife cruelly neglected the children, much to his annoyance. He went on to explain the incident which occurred at his home a short time ago, which resulted in the police being called in. He said that his wife had begun a suit against him in equity, and upon reaching home at a late hour one night, he went to her room and asked for an explanation. She got out of bed, and after roughly abusing him, threw open the window and began shouting "murder." He claimed this action on her part was nothing more than a conspiracy hatched by his wife and others, with the object of ruining him. Mr. Hanington sprang to his feet at this stage and characterized the witness' statement as a lie.

The judge will have no such talk as that in this court. If you repeat it I will have you placed in custody. Mr. Hanington went on to explain that he understood Mr. Curry to intimate that he (Hanington) was concerned in a conspiracy. Dr. Curry declared that he had not mentioned Mr. Hanington's name, but had stated that it was his wife and others who had entered into the conspiracy to ruin him. The judge gave both witness and counsel to understand that he wanted no more talk and the incident was closed. Dr. Curry, continuing his testimony, said that his wife had a lot of fads not conducive to domestic life and the bringing up of children. If he wanted peace coming home he found it best not to open his mouth. She was constantly nagging at him, and he found it difficult sometimes to keep from replying to her. If he spoke to the children with the object of correcting them, she would fly at him and make a continuous nagging, morning, noon and night.

Witness was questioned in regard to his wife sleeping with and making a companion of the servant girl. He said that it was true that she had done this, and he had protested strongly against it. He had told her that she could not expect to be recognized by society if she did such a thing. He did not think she slept with the servant girl because she was lonesome, as she did not seem to be afraid of anything. In regard to the children, he claimed that they were neglected by Mrs. Curry, and it was largely on this account that they had differed. She did not put the children to bed at that proper hour, did not look after their clothing, and allowed them to keep bad company. He had complained of this frequently, but it seemed to make no difference. His wife spent about six months on one occasion, preparing a lecture on Russia. She got a lot around her and annoyed both the witness and neighbors in her effort to commit the lecture to memory. He had often told her that it would be much more for her credit to give out the lecturing business and look after the children and her home.

Speaking of his wife's religious belief, the witness said that when he married her she was a Unitarian and said she was a teacher in the Sabbath School. At first he thought it was an ultra Christian from her talk. The judge—Did she try to reform you? The witness replied in the negative, but went on to say that he was induced to join his church. He had some difficulty in inducing her to go to church and upon returning home he never failed to complain about it. She used to say that church going was all folly, and she lost no opportunity to scoff at religion. At 4 o'clock the witness closed his cross-examination and the court was adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

In answer to Mr. Teed, His Honor stated that he would probably give his decision on the question of alimony on Thursday morning. WILD SCENE IN BRITISH COMMONS Two Suffragettes Chain Themselves Fast in Ladies' Gallery and Shriek for Rights Their Removal Accomplished After Great Disorder—Speaker Bars Admission of Strangers and Women in Future.

London, Oct. 28.—Suffragette disturbances have driven the government to the unusual course of temporarily closing the strangers and ladies' galleries in the House of Commons. This was announced by the speaker in response to a question from Premier Asquith and Mr. Balfour, the leader of the opposition, as parliament was adjourning tonight. During the course of the evening, while the House was discussing the licensing bill, a sensation was caused by the display of a banner and by the shouting of a ladies' gallery demanding votes for women, while simultaneously a bundle of handkerchiefs fluttered down from the gallery. A man shouted protests against "injustice to women." Attendants hurried to the gallery and the male offender was unceremoniously ejected, but from the ladies' gallery sounds were heard of a desperate struggle. Two suffragettes firmly chained themselves to the grill and resisted for a time all efforts to remove, crying continuously in shrill tones demands for votes. The scene was watched with amazement from the floor of the house, but finally the suffragettes were dragged from their posts and removed. The women who were on the grill itself were removed with them. Ten minutes later there was another dramatic scene, a man in the galleries flung another bundle of handkerchiefs down upon the house and shouting "why don't you give women votes and relieve the unemployment?" He was removed from him, but he resisted fiercely at the attempt made to carry him bodily from the gallery. After a desperate struggle with attendants succeeded in ejecting the man.

About the same time a large number of suffragettes chained themselves to the entrance of a building, and fifteen of them were arrested. EXAMS. GOLDWIN SMITH ON MAN'S DESTINY

No critic stands higher in the esteem of English-speaking people than Goldwin Smith. His conclusions, hostile as they may be to ordinary religious beliefs, are the result of earnest, open, reverent, study, and are invariably expressed in terms of once moderate and respectful to those whose most cherished convictions he is assailing. Whether we agree with him or not, his erudition as a scholar makes his views of particular interest, and to the New York Sun he has been in the habit of communicating them at irregular intervals from time to time. Recently he has been engaged in a controversy with other writers to the paper, at the end of which he sums up his ideas under the heading "Man and His Destiny." He begins by referring to the growth of what the Church of Rome has denominated the "Mediterranean civilization," a grand pageant of uniformity, beneath which, however, lurk Anglo-Catholicism, Evangelism, and Liberalism, but by no means devoid of fanaticism. He refers to the Protestant churches proper respond to the new spirit by relaxing their old tests, by a tendency toward union, and by increasing the aesthetic and social attractions of their cult. So general is the drift toward scepticism that we are invited to consider the possibility of a new world without trust in Providence. Classes that have hitherto acquiesced in their fate "in that station in life to which Heaven has called them" are revolting. They refuse to wait until the hereafter levels things up, and demand that the process begin here. The leaders of humanity in the future," observes Goldwin Smith, "may find it necessary to make up by an increase of the powers of government for the loss of the powers of religion."

He goes on to say that belief in the Bible as inspired, and God's revelation of Himself to man—and Himself being spelled with a small "h"—in the Sun—can hardly now linger in any well informed and open mind. It has been destroyed by the growth of science, and science, as we know that the authorship of a greater part of the Old Testament is unknown. The most casual study reveals the wide difference between the ethics of the Old Testament and the New. Even the New Testament has been shaken by the blasts of criticism, and science. One of the most important books, he says, is "Contra. There are obvious errors and contradictions. 'It is incredible,' he argues, 'that God is revealing Himself to man should have allowed any mark of human error to appear in the revelation. We have, moreover, to ask why the word of the world's salvation depended should have been withheld so long, and communicated to so few.' With all its defects, there remains in the Old Testament much that morally still impresses and exalts us. 'Of the New Testament there remains the moral ideal of Christ, which no uncertainty as to the authors of the narratives and miraculous embellishments common to biographies of saints, need materially affect.' This moral ideal of Christ comprised the ancient world when the Roman was its master; and it has lived through all the centuries since, despite the crimes committed, the scandals cloaked in its name. As a permanent standard for human conduct, Goldwin Smith points out, only one defect is its preference for poverty and antipathy of wealth, which would arrest progress and civil civilization if sincerely accepted. (Otherwise, the moral ideal of Christ stands out as a guide for all time. Good and evil continue to contend, and slowly and fitfully, with many reverses, the good seems to prevail. Humanity as a whole advances, but we have no assurance of an ultimate goal to be reached and which will be good, as being worked out by the good. But the world is still full of that which is evil, and the good is still full of that which is evil. The good is still full of that which is evil, and the good is still full of that which is evil.

BRITAIN READY WITH CAPITAL Moneyed Men Are Anxious to Invest in Canada MORE KNOWLEDGE WANTED

The need of capital for the development of Canada was the keynote of the address delivered by Lord Northcliffe at the opening luncheon of the Canadian Club here yesterday. That very necessary thing, he suggested, British capitalists are willing to provide under certain conditions, and it was entirely in the hands of Canadians whether they took advantage of their opportunities or not. Lord Northcliffe's advice in this regard is well worth considering, for, as he said, he can reasonably claim to be acquainted with John Bull, inasmuch as the old gentleman buys $1,000,000 of his papers and periodicals every week. The president of the club, Mr. R. Home Smith, occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance of members. Lord Northcliffe expressed his appreciation that such a body of busy men should have found time to entertain him, and commented on the vast strides that Canada had made since last he had visited the Dominion some fifteen years ago. The past Canada had rather frightened people by its advertisements of ice carnivals, but now wiser councils were prevailing, with the result that a great stream of immigration was being attracted to this country. At the same time he regretted that there was not a greater knowledge of Great Britain among Canadians. He also regretted to see advertisements appearing in Canadian papers with the addition, "No English need apply." The notion, he said, "that no Englishman need apply has unfortunately gained ground in England, and it is very likely to keep able and capable young men from coming here. It certainly has the effect of deterring capital." Personally, he was hopeful, through the medium of his papers, of increasing travel to Canada, and a return current of Canadian travel towards the greatest of all business partners, the British Empire. "With fact steamers, cheaper cable rates, more Canadian news in British newspapers, and more British news in Canadian newspapers, business relations between both countries will be surely strengthened."

HERE'S A SNAKE STORY Many Persons Bitten by Effectives Since "Dry" Laws Became Effective in Georgia—Roam About the City Streets.

An Atlanta, Ga., dispatch to the New York Herald says: Along with Georgia's non-prohibition law has come a plague of rattlesnakes. Many persons have been bitten this fall. It seems to be destined to be a big snake year in Georgia. From Columbus comes the report that Miss Lily May Thorne opened the door of a closet to get a skirt, when a rattlesnake fell from its folds. The reptile leaped into the arm and it was with difficulty that her life was saved. Paul Morris, five years old, of Morrisville, Ala., close to the Georgia line, was bitten three weeks ago by a rattlesnake, but his life was saved. A few weeks ago he was again bitten by a rattlesnake in the same field and his recovery is in doubt. From Valdosta comes two stories of rattlesnake bites. William Peters, a laborer, was found lying in the cotton field and died before whiskey could be secured. Thomas Robinson, also a farm laborer, was bitten, but his life was saved because whiskey was at hand. Both snakes were big ones. At Augusta, just after the flood, three cases of rattlesnake bites, two of them mortal, were reported. In each instance the snake was killed. Frank Morris, white, and Will Stamp, colored, were the victims. From Cornelia, Ga., comes the story of May Williams' battle with a four foot rattlesnake upon which she stepped in a country path. The nine-year-old girl was struck at by the snake and its fangs became entangled in her swollen dress. She fought it with her bundle of school books, screaming until a negro woman ran up and killed the snake with a stick. The girl was uninjured. At Dalton, Ga., Clarence Dolson, aged eleven, returned to his home after a swim in the swimming pool with a bite on his hand. He was treated with whiskey, and the bite healed. At Dublin, Ga., Mrs. Nannie Rustler killed a seven foot snake with eighteen rattlesnake fangs. She was sitting at a table and the snake crawled under her feet and bit her on the ankle. She was treated with whiskey, and the bite healed. Even Atlanta has furnished its quota of rattles. Policeman Cooper had a battle with a six footer in Mangum street, where some workmen were tearing down an old house. He shot at it four times and missed, and then used a club more successfully, the rattler striking at him repeatedly. Just off fashionable Peachtree street a woman, rolling a baby carriage, encountered a large rattlesnake crossing the sidewalk from a vacant lot. She left the baby and ran to give the alarm. Some small boys chased the rattler from the woman's side and she was saved. Even old inhabitants say they never heard of so many snakes as are reported this year. There has been no unusual number of other snakes reported.

REJECTED SUITOR KILLS BRIDEGROOM

At the same time he regretted that there was not a greater knowledge of Great Britain among Canadians. He also regretted to see advertisements appearing in Canadian papers with the addition, "No English need apply." E. A. Van Ingen Is Shot on Train as He Starts on His Bridal Trip.

Poquoson, Va., Oct. 24.—F. S. Beaurie this morning boarded a train at Alexandria, on which F. A. Van Ingen, his successful rival, and his bride were starting on their honeymoon. "I congratulate you both," he said, leaning across the aisle towards the couple. "Thank you," replied the bride. "We are so happy," and she turned to caress her husband. "This is too much," exclaimed Beaurie, springing to his feet, and he whipped out a revolver and fired at Van Ingen. The young bridegroom fell back into his wife's arms and died almost instantly. The rejected suitor then attempted to shoot the bride, but was prevented by an aged fellow passenger, who rushed in and placed his thumbs between the hammer of the revolver and the cartridge. Beaurie was then placed under arrest. Van Ingen, who was a teacher of Alexandria, was married last night to Miss Marjorie Parks. Beaurie did not attend the wedding, but is said to have been in town having ammunition for his revolver. The heavy weight championship at a Sheffield body show was won by a infant of fourteen months, who weighed 21 pounds.

LABOR LEADERS DIFFER OVER TAFT'S ATITUDE

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—President H. R. Fuller, of Beaver Falls, Pa., national legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Firemen and Railroad Trainmen, tonight gave the Associated Press a copy of a letter which he yesterday mailed to President Roosevelt, commenting upon the president's letter to P. H. Francis, of Lodge No. 36, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in behalf of himself and associate railroad employees who were protesting against his attitude on questions affecting labor.

Mr. Fuller said at a press conference that he was at a loss to understand why Mr. Grace should seek information and advice regarding Judge Taft's attitude towards the railroad employees of the country from the very one whose influence and administration were used to bring about his nomination and is now, in the person of Judge Taft, the chief obstacle to his re-election.

WHERE ASPHALT COMES FROM

The Story of the First Use Made of It in Paving—A Swiss Engineer's Idea. (Business Man's Magazine)

Although the largest producing asphaltum deposit of the world is in Trinidad, the island of Switzerland, Sesselon, on the Rhoda, Cuba and America; the legendary story of the first use of asphaltum in paving is a story of the world's total annual production of 700,000 tons, 140,000 of which are imported by the United States.

This immense deposit occurs in the form of a lake, or basin, consisting of large quantities of asphaltum, which is gradually surrounded by banks three to six feet high. In the centre of this peculiar lake is a continual eruption of steam, which is accompanied by large bubbles of gas.

LIEUT. WELDON McLEAN GETS CAPTAINCY IN CRACK CORPS

Son of M. P.-Elect for Queens-Sunbury Promoted to Higher Rank in Royal Horse Artillery of the Imperial Army—Home to England from India, and May Get to St. John on Furlough—Has Forged Rapidly Ahead.

CAPT. C. WELDON McLEAN

Hard on the heels of his victory in Queens-Sunbury, Col. H. H. McLean, M.P.-elect, yesterday received good news from his son, C. Weldon McLean, who is now a captain in the Royal Horse Artillery of the British Army and has just been promoted to a captaincy in this crack corps of the Imperial forces.

At the age of twenty-seven, Capt. McLean holds rank which usually is not attained in that corps until years beyond those which have passed over his head. He has had a remarkably successful military career and the latest good news from him will be received with great pleasure by admiring friends in St. John and elsewhere throughout Canada, while Col. McLean has an added reason for the hearty congratulations of his friends at this time.

Has Forged Rapidly Ahead. Captain McLean, as will be well remembered, was lieutenant in G company of the first Canadian contingent from Canada to the South African war and was then only eighteen years of age. He received flattering notice of his conduct during the war and correspondents sent excellent reports about him, among them being the following reference in the Halifax Herald to Lieut. McLean at Paardeburg: "The boy McLean of G company never ceased to smile even under the hottest fire, and if ever there was a lad who won his spurs it was this strapping in his teens who, given the opportunity, showed what sort of stuff he was made of."

Frederick Hamilton, war correspondent, also wrote highly of him. Lieut. McLean drew the favorable attention of Lord Methuen by his clever maps of the country where he faces were operating and Lord Methuen had him appointed to a commission in the Royal Field Artillery as lieutenant. Later he was appointed A. D. C. to General Colville, divisional commander-in-chief in South Africa. The present Lieut. Kitchener was then one of the brigadiers of Colville's division, which included the Canadian contingents.

After the war, Lieut. McLean was commissioned to return to New Brunswick to recruit 125 men here for the South African Constabulary, and it is remembered with a great recollection he was accorded in well come home. He recruited his men and set sail from Halifax with them. Lieut. McLean was selected from the officers of the Royal Field Artillery for appointment to the Royal Horse Artillery and became lieutenant of G battery. This is the crack corps of the British Army. The battery distinguished itself in the Sanna's Post affair in which a gallant receipt of guns from the Boers was made. For this four Victoria crosses were won by members of the corps, each rank winning one of the so much coveted honors.

At the end of the South African war, Lieut. McLean went to London with the battery, spent some time on duty at Woolwich and in Ireland and two years ago was sent to India, where he has served on the frontier force with T battery. He has been principally in the north of India and found time to engage in hunting. He has written two clever stories of hunting trips in Kashmir and Burma and these have been published in small book form.

Lieut. McLean's promotion to be captain in the Royal Horse Artillery, as stated, has come sooner than in the ordinary course and is a tribute to his fitness for and ability in the military career. He will be transferred back to England and it is hoped will have a chance to visit home on furlough soon.

ST. JOHN MARKETS

Now that the elections are over, business is resuming its normal tone in the local markets. In the produce market, butter keeps scarce and unseasonably high. This may be partly due to the fact that large quantities are now stored in the cold storage warehouses here and in Sussex, but of course the nature of the season has a good deal to do with it. Eggs are reported plentiful, owing to the mild weather and they are fairly cheap. Hens' eggs selling wholesale for 25 cents to 28 cents a dozen, while case eggs are bringing no more than 19 and 20 cents. The plentiful crops have had the effect of reducing the price of canned goods to a level that they have reached for years. Canned vegetables also are said to be a good deal lower for the same reason. There have been no great changes in the fish market. Herrings reported scarce here, they were ever known to be. Other fresh fish are about the same price as before. There is no great change in dried or pickled fish. The following were the principal wholesale quotations on Thursday:

COUNTRY MARKET table listing prices for various goods like Beef, Pork, Mutton, etc.

FRUITS, ETC. table listing prices for items like Apples, Pears, Peaches, etc.

GROCERIES table listing prices for items like Sugar, Flour, Tea, etc.

PROVISIONS table listing prices for items like Ham, Pork, Bacon, etc.

PISH table listing prices for items like Haddock, Salmon, etc.

GRAIN, ETC. table listing prices for items like Wheat, Oats, etc.

LIVELY SPARRING IN CURREY CASE

(Continued from page 1.) store, and when Mrs. Currey endeavored to get more groceries from that store she was informed that her husband had instructed them not to furnish her with anything more and charge to him or to allow her any credit.

M. G. Teed, K.C., for Mrs. Currey, then opened his address to the court, asking for alimony to the amount of $300 to date and $100 per month hereafter. In the course of this address there was a lively tiff over the allegation that Mr. Currey, in the endeavor to starve his wife out of the Woodman's Point house, had refused to allow the milkman to take milk to the house.

Dr. Currey heatedly stated that his last visit to the place was on August 29th, and he did not then see the milkman. Mr. Hanington claimed that the milkman's name was Mullin and that Dr. Currey was keeping away from the truth, as he had called the man to town and there told him he would have the privilege of seeing property, thus stopping him taking the milk to the house.

Dr. Currey denied that Mullin was the milkman and that he was the caretaker of the place. Mr. Teed was still continuing his argument at adjournment.

Afternoon Session. When court resumed this afternoon, Mr. Skinner made an objection to Mrs. Currey's application for alimony. He claimed that she had no right to consider the children in the application, as she had taken them from home against her husband's consent, which she had no right to do.

Mr. Teed pointed out that as Mrs. Currey had supported the children she should be paid for it. Mr. Skinner proposed that the children be taken back to Dr. Currey's home, and if this was done he was perfectly willing to pay his wife a board and allow her to go where she pleased. He was also willing to share the custody of the children any hour in the day.

Mr. Hanington argued it would be an insult to Mrs. Currey to ask her to take the children back to Dr. Currey's home after the way he had treated them. The judge contended that there was no law under which great wrong could be done to the children under the circumstances. He held that Mrs. Currey had no right to take the children from home without her husband's consent.

Mr. Hanington declared that Dr. Currey had accused his children of practicing bad habits and further declared that his wife knew about it. In his opinion there was no reason why Dr. Currey should have the children at his mercy after calling them bad children. It was proposed that Dr. Currey stand or fall by his honor's decision. He wanted the children left out of the argument altogether as if they did not exist.

His Honor thought it might be possible for him to live under the same roof with two people living together with such a wide cleavage between them. He did not think it would be reasonable for Mrs. Currey to live with her husband, and Mr. Teed said that Dr. Currey was willing to allow his wife the use of his home.

Mr. Hanington—Your honor knows from your own experience what human nature is that they could not possibly live together. His Honor thought it might be possible for him to live under the same roof with two people living together with such a wide cleavage between them. He did not think it would be reasonable for Mrs. Currey to live with her husband, and Mr. Teed said that Dr. Currey was willing to allow his wife the use of his home.

His Honor enquired if Mr. Hanington thought Dr. Currey should give Mrs. Currey sufficient money to enable her to take the children and go where she pleased. Mr. Hanington thought his client should be asked what was reasonable.

His Honor said that Dr. Currey had offered Mrs. Currey a portion of his house. Mr. Teed stated that Dr. Currey had made a statement from him I will consult my client about it.

His Honor said that if Mr. Teed did not think she should be allowed to get the children and go where she pleased, Mr. Teed said that he did not think she should be allowed to get the children and go where she pleased. Mr. Teed said that he did not think she should be allowed to get the children and go where she pleased.

YORK COUNTY BOY ARRESTED FOR MURDER

Fourteen-Year-Old Chester Urquhart Will Be Tried for Killing Cousin During Hunting Trip.

Fredricton, Oct. 29.—As a sequel to the regrettable shooting affair at Covered Bridge, a few weeks ago, Chester Urquhart, a fourteen-year-old boy, belonging to that place in the county jail charged with the crime of murder. He was arrested on Wednesday afternoon on a warrant issued by Colonel Marsh by Constable Hawthorne and brought to this city and lodged in the county jail. He will be arraigned in the police court for examination on Saturday morning and in the meantime an effort is being made to procure the attendance of witnesses from Covered Bridge.

The arrest of the boy on such a serious charge has created quite a stir in the vicinity of Covered Bridge and has induced considerable sympathy felt for him and his relatives. The shooting took place on the afternoon of Friday, the 16th inst. The two boys, who by the way are cousins, were out shooting together and a 22 calibre rifle, which Urquhart was carrying, was in some manner discharged, the bullet striking Clark in the neck. He passed away in twenty minutes before medical aid could reach him.

It was thought at first that the shooting was accidental, but information which subsequently came to hand, led Conner Wainwright, of Stanley, to hold an inquest. A number of witnesses were examined and on the strength of their testimony the jury brought in a verdict in which they expressed the opinion that there had been culpable negligence on the part of Urquhart.

On the strength of the coroner's report, Mr. H. B. Rainford, clerk of the peace, after consulting with the crown officer, had Urquhart placed under arrest. It is claimed by friends of the prisoner that the shooting was accidental, but the authorities hold that even if such was the case a thorough investigation can do no harm.

THE EDMUNDSTON SMALLPOX CASES

John M. Stevens Brings Report of 50 to 60 Cases Instead of 125 as Despatch Stated.

A Fredericton despatch yesterday stated that there were now in Edmundston 125 cases of smallpox, also that the disease had broken out at Grand Falls.

John M. Stevens, of Edmundston, who was in the city last evening, said he led Edmundston on Wednesday and at the most there had not been more than fifty or sixty cases, all of a very mild type.

Mr. Stevens said he had a conversation with Dr. C. J. Main, a member of the county board of health, and had been informed that the disease was now well under control. When smallpox first broke out the people were careless in taking the proper precautions and cases of neglect of the quarantine regulations were frequent. A joint meeting of the town council and board of health was held and steps were taken to see that the regulations were strictly obeyed. At the present time there is no trouble in that respect. The doctors had been making a house to house visitation and vaccinating freely. The poorer class of the population were liable to attempt to conceal cases but the doctors had not met with any resistance.

Dr. Fisher, secretary of the provincial board of health, Mr. Stevens advised, had attended the joint meeting and had taken a strong stand on the importance of observing the regulations. He intimated that in the event of any further trouble to quarantine the town, that had the desired effect.

With regard to Grand Falls Mr. Stevens said he had never heard of an outbreak since he arrived in St. John.

At the last meeting of the St. John Presbytery, the project of bringing about a corporate union between St. John and Calvin churches was brought up. A committee was then appointed to wait on the congregation to endeavor to make arrangements. The committee met with the members of Calvin church and the matter was discussed, but the decision was that the union was not desirable.

The question which is puzzling Bishop Ingram is whether it is possible or the shorter Cretion which given the Scotchman so much backbone.

LAST RITES OF THE CHURCH ADMINISTERED

Miraculous Escape from Death of Mrs. Lorette, of Sorel, Que.

"I look upon my recovery from approaching death as a miracle and it was 'Fruit-a-tives' alone that cured me. I suffered from severe stomach disease for seven years, and I suffered from severe constipation, great weakness and constant pain all the time. I was treated by six different physicians without any benefit and took every medicine I heard of, but nothing gave me any relief. My suffering was so intense that for a year I was unable to get out of bed—and I was so ill that my friends did not expect me to recover and the last rites of the Church were administered to me. At this time I was induced to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and at once I began to improve. Those tablets cured the constipation and relieved the dreadful stomach pain. I began to improve and 'Fruit-a-tives' entirely cured me. Nothing did me any good but 'Fruit-a-tives'. I took in all 18 boxes and I am quite as well as ever—and entirely free from the use of this 'miraculous medicine'. 'Fruit-a-tives' is put up in a new 25c trial size as well as the regular 50c boxes, in order to enable everyone to try these wonderful fruit juice tablets. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not have them.
