Liberals Win Both Bye - Elections.

Burchill Elected in Northumberland by 180 and Upham in Carleton by 150.

A Serious Blow to Hazen Within One Year of His Assuming The Premiership.

Yesterday was Election day. The vote throughout the County was small.

Everything passed off quietly, and good nature seemed to prevail between the opposing parties.

Owing to the shortness of the time that elapsed between the bringing out of the candidates and Election day, the full force of the political enthusiasm usual in contests in this County was not in evidence. Mr. Swin was in the field only two weeks, and Hon. Mr. Burchill was nominated only twelve days previous to Election day. Campaigners were not able in that time to fully cover the large territory to be canvassed. Hundreds of voters had lately gone into the woods and most of them were unable to come out to the front to cast their ballots.

Whereas in Newcastle the vote on October 26th was 544, yesterday it was only 357, a little less than two-thirds. Only a two-thirds vote was cast in Chatham. The total vote in the County in October was 5,465; yesterday, only about 3,100. Each candidate carried his own parish four to one.

In this County Mr. Burchill was the nominee of the Liberals, but guaranteed an independent support of the Hazen-Morrissey coalition government. He has accepted and supported by the Chief Commissioner of Public Works. Mr. Swin, a Conservative, nominated at a convention most of whose delegates were Conservative, proclaimed himself a supporter of the government. The bulk of the Conservatives, and D. MacLachlan, M. P. P. and some other Liberals supported Mr. Swin; while the rank and file of the Liberal party with a few of the Conservatives worked and voted for Burchill. The influence of most of the big lumbermen was, as a rule, exerted in favor of Burchill, while the smaller operators looked to Swin as their champion. There had been, immediately after Swin's nomination, some talk of Thomas Barnett of Douglastown running on an Independent Labor platform, but the Labor party has not yet materialized on the Miramichi, the lumber workers generally voting as their employers do.

Mr. Burchill was heartily endorsed and effectively assisted by W. S. Loggie, M. P., with whom Hon. Mr. Morrissey and Mr. Loggie's late rival, James Robinson, ex-M. P., were in full accord. The most enthusiastic champion of Mr. Swin's candidature was T. W. Butler of Newcastle, who more than any other man was responsible for the former's nomination. Mr. Burchill received 53 per cent of the popular vote which is all the more flattering to him personally, as he issued no card and was absent during the contest. A most noticeable feature of the battle is the welcome extended to Hon. Mr. Morrissey by the liberal leader, on his decision to openly and permanently identify himself with the Liberal party. Much political history was made at the polls yesterday.

The returns from the various polls are as follows:

In Carleton County, Geo. W. Upham, the Liberal Opposition Candidate, was elected by a majority of about 150 over the Conservative government candidate, Wm. J. Owens.

BIG BLAZE ON PLEASANT ST.

Firemen Respond Quickly and
The Fire Is Soon Conquered.

ONE BARN DESTROYED.

Slight Damage Done Mr. Foley's
New Barn, and House Owned by Mr. Ed. Hickey.

An alarm of fire was sounded at 12.40 this morning for a blaze on the premises of Mr. Thos. Foley. The fire had so much headway when discovered that the barn, containing Mr. Foley's handsome five seated touring car, was completely destroyed with all the contents, and had spread to the house, but by the prompt response of the firemen, the blaze was soon under control. Too much praise cannot be given the firemen for the able and effective manner in which they handled what might have been a serious fire.

As far as we can learn the loss is between $3,000 and $4,000. As there was a big crowd around the barn yesterday, (it being election day) it is supposed that there was someone around at 12 o'clock and dropped a match among the hay and chaff.

There is a small insurance on the barn. The auto was also partly insured.

LORDS REJECTED

GOVT. MEASURE.

Defeated Licensing Bill by 272 to 96—Government Challenged to Test the Country on Question.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The House of Lords created an interesting political situation this evening by rejecting the Licensing Bill by a vote of 272 to 96. The Liberals are likely to make this action a rallying cry in their campaign for the curtailment of the power of the House of Lords, claiming that the Peers have defeated the will of the people. They set forth, furthermore, that the bill being a revenue measure is outside the jurisdiction of the House of Lords. On the other hand, the Conservatives insist that this bill is the most unpopular measure with the country in many years, and that the House of Lords in rejecting it has carried out public sentiment. They urge the Government to test the sentiment by going before the country in a general election but there is little likelihood of this being done.

HAMILTON TIGERS

Win The Football Championship of Canada Saturday.

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—The Hamilton Tigers, Champions of the Interprovincial League, and Varsity, Champions of the Intercollegiate League, met here Saturday to decide the Rugby football championship of Canada. The Tigers had a wonderful string of luck in the second quarter, when they scored thirteen points by Rouge, try and goal and touch and goal in quick succession. With a lead of nineteen points for their opponents, the Varsity put up a fine uphill game, and held the tigers down to a total of twenty-one, but the best the Varsity could do was seventeen, so the championship goes to Hamilton.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

E. D. Burkett, of Maine, Passed Away Suddenly on Saturday.

E. D. Burkett, of Maine, travelling in New Brunswick as representative of the Whitney Law Corporation of New Bedford, Mass., came to Newcastle from Chatham on the 23rd ult., very sick with la grippe and complications. He finally secured a room at the Harris House that evening. He was unable to attend to his work but refused to have a doctor called. Friday night he wandered out on the street, lost his way and was brought back by a boy. At five next morning, he was discovered with his clothing smouldering as the result of having caught fire from a cigarette. He was put to bed by the proprietor, who visited him several times during the day. Between four and five in the afternoon, Mr. Harris found him dead in bed. Dr. Desmond, being called in, declared that deceased had died several hours previously.

Mr. Burkett was 45 or 50 years old, a bachelor, and had been employed with the Whitney Law Corporation for about five and one-half years. The body was sent to W. E. Vinal, Thomaston, Maine, a friend of the deceased.

Extra train crews which have been running on construction work on the Indiantown branch of the I. R. C. have finished up, and the men have been laid off. The bridge crews are now at work on the Renouveau bridge, and according to what train men say, it is expected to have trains running into Newcastle from the Indiantown end of the Canada Eastern via the Indiantown branch this month.

St. John Exhibition will be held on Sept. 19th, 1909.

CHRISTMAS ANNOUNCEMENT

Our Christmas line this year is more extensive and varied, and is attracting more attention than ever before. The children stand each other in their efforts to see our window displays, and their expressions of delight are very vigorous.

NOVEL METHOD OF KILLING PARTRIDGE

The boy is about to start out on a partridge-shooting expedition in the Pampas of South Africa, according to The Sketch. The stick of the net used is of bamboo, which is both light and flexible. The horse is specially trained for the work. On sighting a partridge, the rider trots to within a few yards of the bird, which does not take wing at his approach, as it is used to horses. The horse, then goes round and round the bird, in a circle that grows smaller each time; and the boy, watching his opportunity, at last nets the bird with its back toward him. As many as fifty birds have been taken during the day by one hunter. Guns are very rarely seen in the particular part of the world with which we are concerned; hence this method of catch the birds.

WHITE DEER SHOT BY ONTARIO HUNTERS

PICTOU, Ont., Friday—Something unusual in the animal kingdom has been captured by Prince Edward hunters and brought home. It is a white deer, pure white in color, save two small black spots back of its ears. The animal is a fine-looking one of the male species and weighs about two hundred pounds. It is understood that Mr. Sprague, of Big Island, was the lucky shot. The animal was secured in the northern part of Hastings or Lennox and Addington.

Left Son-in-law Fifty Cents to Buy a Rope With Which to Hang Himself

PHILADELPHIA, Monday.—The feeling entertained by the late George D. Wolfe, of Somerville, a suburb of this city, toward Charles W. Wenzel, his son-in-law, was shown in the following paragraph in a will, which was probated today: "Fifty cents to be paid to my son-in-law, Charles W. Wenzel, a native of Huntingdon, Pa., to enable him to buy a good stout rope, with which to hang himself." The document left an estate valued at $10,000.

STORM IN CAPE COLONY.

PORT ELIZABETH, Wednesday.—A terrific rainstorm has swept over this part of the Colony and has caused a heavy fall of rain. A number of bridges were destroyed and a large amount of property swept away. Several lives were lost and the damage amounts to more than a million dollars.

CAMPBELLTON NOTES

A. Z. Landry of the Intercolonial Hotel, is making many improvements at his house. It is now one of the most comfortable in town.

Wm. Storey is removing his barber shop across the street to the office lately occupied by Dr. Pinault. This will make a fine barber shop.

Mr. George Chalmers of Bathurst, has been appointed I. C. R. station agent at Gibson, in place of the late John A. Hendry, and will enter upon his duties shortly.

The roads in the country are fairly good and some country produce is coming to market. There is a shortage in the egg and butter crop, and these are fetching good prices.

The marriage of Mr. Stanley Polier of Campbellton to Miss Edith Parent of Maria, took place at the Church of Our Lady of the Snows, Monday morning, Rev. Father Wallace officiating. The young couple left for a short wedding trip to Bathurst. They will reside here.

TO MONTREAL MASONS

Valuable Relic on Which George Washington Was Inducted as Master Mason

MONTREAL, Monday.—An interesting event occurred last night at the regular communication of the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 1, G. R. Q. A. F. & A. M. when a delegation from Zetland Lodge, No. 12, appeared and presented the Lodge of Antiquity with its old Bible amid great enthusiasm.

The history of this ancient relic is very interesting. It was printed, as stated on the title page, at London in the year 1599, and is an original "Breeches" Bible, famous for the passage in which Adam and Eve are described as having themselves breeches of fig leaves and is valued at a fabulous sum of money.

It is believed to be the Bible on which General Washington was inducted as a Master Mason when inducted as a Mark Master Mason when the 46th Regiment was quartered in New York previous to the American Revolution.

HIS 15 OPERATIONS IN A YEAR NOT ALL

Staten Island Physicians Marvel at W. Smith, Soon to Undergo Still More Surgery—His Hair Snow White at 38

William Smith is puzzling the medical fraternity in Staten Island. He is a patient in St. Vincent's Hospital, West New Brighton. Within a year Smith has undergone fifteen operations, and he is now being prepared for a series of others. He is only thirty-eight years old, but his hair is turned white as snow.

Smith has been operated on for appendicitis, intestinal trouble and stomach trouble, has had his right foot and left leg amputated and in the course of a few days will have his left foot taken off above the knee. By the time this has been healed his right arm will have to come off. He is suffering from tuberculosis of the bone.

When seen last night the patient was sitting upright, the hospital smoking a cigarette, and told of the plans of his dismemberment. The surgeons have told him what he is to expect, and have consented to his walking around, with cane and crutch, on his remaining foot until he gets tired, and then they will amputate it. His right arm is swollen and gives him much pain.

"I cannot even pray, for when I kneel I get so sore that I fall over," he said. "I cannot sleep because of the terrible pains and when I go to bed at night I turn and toss until the morning. The surgeons are unable to diagnose my case correctly, each of them giving a different opinion. The pains in my stomach are unbearable and they are caused, the medical men say, by the numerous operations on my intestines."

"I hope I die when they are taking off my other leg, but if I live through that I will only have to prepare for more cutting."

Before going to the hospital Smith was neglected, having neither home nor friends, and he eked out a precarious existence for ten years. His remarkable vitality in recovering from the operations is therefore deemed the more marvelous by the physicians who have been interested in his case. —New York Herald.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail then these organs must surely fail. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

If the American sugar interests fall out all the labor spent in proving that sugar is cheaper now than when 25 pounds were sold for a dollar will be wasted.

The announcement that Boston "cool teas" are to be "left how to dance as part of the work of physical education reminds one of the change of sentiment in a city where all kinds of dancing are prohibited so strictly by the puritans. Now it is generally conceded that dancing is commendable, if it be of the right form, at the right time and in the right place.

"THE NIGGER IN THE WOOD-PILE"

Thousands of people go through life feeling more or less miserable without ever knowing the reason. They suffer from headache, indigestion, pains in the back, and at the slightest chill get rheumatism or neuralgia.

They try to cure these separate outbreaks, never suspecting that the root of the whole trouble is the failure of the bowels to move regularly, and in many cases the sluggish action of kidneys and skin. The result, of course, is that the whole system gets clogged with impurities, which soon turn to poison, and show their presence in various ways.

"Fruit-a-tives"—or fruit juice tablets—promptly stir up the sluggish liver, regulate the bowels, and stimulate the kidneys and skin to do their work properly. Thus they cure all these troubles by removing the cause, and make it possible to really enjoy life. 50c a box—6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

NEWCASTLE, December 2nd, 1908.

NEWCASTLE THE PROPER PLACE.

A despatch from Chatham, to St. John papers, one day last week, intimates that it is the intention of the Canada Iron Corporation, who control the most valuable portion of the iron areas of Gloucester and Northumberland Counties, to ship their ore from, and eventually erect their smelting works at, Chatham.

Just why the Company should choose Chatham as the site, when it's deep water facilities are no better than those of Newcastle, and are eighteen miles further from the mines than Newcastle, is not apparent. The haul from the mines to Chatham would be nearly twice as long as from the mines to Newcastle, while Chatham is only five miles nearer the ocean than Newcastle. We think that the Company will hesitate before passing by Newcastle to establish their smelter in Chatham. There are only two suitable sites from a geographical standpoint—Bathurst and Newcastle. And Bathurst harbor is too shallow and too hard to keep clear, even if at tremendous cost it should once be dredged, to make that port the centre of such a great industry as the Canada Iron Corporation will have if all reports concerning the mines are true. So only Newcastle is left for serious consideration.

It has deep water; it is near the mines; it is on the main line of the Intercolonial Railway; it is nearer Nova Scotia, the United States and Europe than Bathurst, and practically as near as Chatham. What more needs to be said in favor of Newcastle? It is the logical centre of the Iron manufacturing industry of New Brunswick, and only the supreme indifference and neglect of its Board of Trade and influential citizens can cheat it out of whatever benefits would accrue from having the smelter, steel factories, etc., within its borders.

Providence has done very much for Newcastle in the way of position and natural conveniences. It only remains for the citizens to embrace their opportunities. If they delay too long some other place, less favorably situated but with more public-spirited citizens, may win the prize. Anyway, it is time our Board of Trade resumed its meetings.

THE WAR AGAINST GRAFT.

(St. John Sun.)

The fourth term of the Laurier government promises to make a record in the matter of reform administration and legislation. Already the heads of two of the greatest spending departments have abolished the time-honored patronage lists. That reform must naturally become co-extensive with government business. Government agents will henceforth buy their goods in the open market. The inquiry into the business of the Department of Marine and Fisheries is being vigorously pushed by a commission whose faults certainly do not include a lack of zeal and ability in the search for wrongdoing.

These reform measures will receive the approval of those citizens who sincerely desire the elimination of dishonesty from the administration of public affairs. But there is reason for greater satisfaction in the announcement from Ottawa that the government has under consideration a bill dealing with so-called "graft" in private as well as in the public affairs. According to the provisions of the proposed bill it will be a criminal offense to offer or to receive a secret commission or other valuable consideration with a view to corruptly influencing business transactions in which an employee or agent who accepts the commission, or favor, is interested.

In the consideration of such legislation the government very properly fulfils a duty not always popularly recognized. There is a very general insistence that the executive functions of government should be performed with absolute honesty. But there is on the part of many a failure to recognize the fact that a secret commission offered a government agent for a favor is no more and no less objectionable than a secret commission offered the agent of a private individual or corporation, with a like purpose. If it is the business of the government in its executive capacity to eliminate "graft" from public business, it is quite as much its business in a legislative capacity to define and provide for the punishment of "graft" in private business.

It would be interesting and instructive to discover the extent of the use of secret commissions, rake-offs and favors in ordinary business transactions. If, for instance, the commission now examining the affairs of the Marine and Fisheries Department were to extend their inquiry and allow their suspicion to fall upon the city generally, how many business men of minor or major importance would be qualified to hurl stones of condemnation? If every act of generosity toward an agent who could or did bring business to the donor of the gift, were to be interpreted as a direct bribe, it would place a good many very excellent men in an exceedingly embarrassing position. Where competition is keen and prices are fairly close and consequently very frequently becomes solely a matter of personal preference on the part of the agent. That preference is determined in various individuals by various means. Ordinary courtesy gains many a contract where considerations of value would defeat their object. The effect to gain the favor of a buyer offers the opportunity for the is the greatest help for babies and young children there is. It just fits their need; it just suits their delicate, sensitive natures; they thrive on it. Just a little does them so much good and saves you so much worry. You owe it to them and yourself to make them as strong and healthy as possible. Scott's Emulsion will help you better than anything else; but be sure to get Scott's. It's the best, and there are so many worthless imitations.

also exercise of a discriminating moral sense.

The proposed legislation cannot fail if it becomes law to have a valuable educative effect. Men who in the past have thoughtlessly distributed their favors in the effort to gain business will hesitate before placing a temptation in the way of an agent, if such an act is defined as a criminal offense. The mere fact of such a definition will lead honest men to revise methods of business which have been hurriedly and somewhat thoughtlessly acquired in the world of expediency.

It is apparent, however, that any effort to enforce the law would be fraught with grave possibilities of injustice. Such an act would aim at secret favors that were calculated to influence corruptly the agent receiving them, but as a matter of fact the matter of motive would and could find small place in legal action. Proof of the favor would be regarded as proof of the motive. Human nature is sufficiently cynical to guarantee that fact, and the human nature of a court of justice unfortunately seldom offers an exception to the rule.

The government very wisely is not attempting to create a standard of public business which shall be different from that permitted in private business. If it is wrong to "graft" through a government agent, it is wrong to "graft" through the agent of a private individual and corporation. Vigilance of inspection is necessary. But we believe that the government will do much more for the establishment of higher standards of business by legislation which shall carefully define those methods of securing the favor of an agent which may fairly be regarded as criminal. Such illuminating legislation could not fail to alter radically customs which have become common as a result of keen competition.

ALEX GIBSON RESIGNS.

Offer of an American Syndicate to Purchase the Gibson Property Not Yet Accepted.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Gibson Manufacturing Company last week, Alexander Gibson, sr., resigned his position as president and manager of the company, which he has satisfactorily filled since its formation. Col. H. H. McLean, M. P., was elected president, and Alfred Rowley, manager. It is understood that the company has granted a handsome pension to Mr. Gibson for the remainder of his life. The offer of an American syndicate to purchase the property of the Gibson company has not yet been accepted, nor does there appear to be any immediate prospect of this bargain being closed.

Mr. Gordon Donald went to Fredericton Saturday morning.

Mr. W. O. Nordin of Nordin was here on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Donald visited relatives in Blackville last week.

MOREHOUSE.

Nathaniel Morehouse of Morehouse Siding, Upper Blackhill, died on the 22nd inst. in the 75th year of his age.

Mrs. Morehouse had been dead but six months. Mr. Morehouse was a man greatly respected—perhaps no man more so on the Miramichi. He leaves several sons to mourn his loss. He died at the old homestead, lovingly attended to the last by his sons and their wives, who were all with him when he passed away. The funeral took place from the old home and the services were in Morehouse Baptist church, in the foundation of which he and his wife had a very large share.

There were married on Nov. 23rd, at Christ Church, Portsmouth, N. H., by the Rev. Charles C. V. Bruce, Alfred Ernest Clark of Lowell, Mass., to Mary Agnes Phinney of Newcastle, N. B. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Ethel M. Durland, of Newburyport, Mass., and the groom by his brother, Oscar R. Clark of Kittery Pt., Maine. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar R. Clark, Kittery Pt.

McCULLOCH-McAULEY.

A quiet and very pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. McAuley, Union Hotel, Wednesday night, when Miss Lucy McAuley was united in marriage with Charles K. McCulloch of Truro, N. S., Rev. H. C. Rice tying the nuptial knot. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the bride, a brother of the groom and a few intimate friends. The bride, unattended, was given away by her father, and was handsomely dressed in lavender crepe de chine with pearl trimmings, and wore a bridal veil.

After the ceremony an elegant supper was served the guests. The bride received some very handsome and useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch left next morning for their future home in Truro accompanied by the best wishes of many friends. The bride's going away dress was of brown ladies' cloth with hat to match.

OBITUARY

JOHN DELANEY.

The death of John Delaney occurred at his home in Lower Newcastle, on Thursday night, after an illness of two months. He was 74 years old. He is survived by a widow and one son, John, Jr.

DAVID AND ALBERT STEWART.

On Wednesday morning, David, son of Alexander Stewart of Millbank, died of scarlet fever and diphtheria, aged 16 years. The funeral took place on the same day at Moorefield.

Albert Stewart, brother of David, died on Thursday, from the same cause, and was buried on Friday afternoon at Moorefield. Deceased was 22 years old. The parents and Allan, a brother, and Miss Christina, a sister, survive. They were also ill, but are recovering.

JOHN URQUHART.

The funeral of John Urquhart of Chatham, formerly of Newcastle, took place at Chatham on Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. M. MacLean and H. A. Brown officiating. Deceased was 73 years old, and was born here. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Elizabeth McTavish of Northwick. His second wife, Miss Margaret Ritchie of Chatham, and his four children—three sons and a daughter, by the first wife, survive. His four surviving brothers were James, of Northwick; Robert, of California;

Alexander and William of Wisconsin.

The late Mrs. Chas. Crammond, Sr., of Newcastle, was the deceased's only sister. Deceased was a grandson of Rev. John Urquhart, the first Presbyterian minister stationed in Miramichi.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY

NEWCASTLE, N. B.

Friends and Patrons of St. Mary's Academy will be pleased to learn that the celebrated VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER, now so popular in all great musical centres, has lately been introduced at the Convent.

The Practice Clavier has been pronounced the most important labor-saving invention of the age in the successful teaching of pianoforte playing. In imparting a correct touch IT CAN DO MORE IN THREE MONTHS than is commonly accomplished in as many years of ordinary piano practice.

The well-known William Mason regards it as "of inestimable value to pianoforte students" in every degree of development as well as to the most advanced artists. Compositions learned on the Virgil Clavier are never forgotten.

All teachers of pianoforte are aware that the training of the fingers, called TECHNIC, costs more in time, labor, and money—frequently ten times more—than does the cultivation of the ear; and bad playing is ten times more frequently due to deficiencies of the fingers than to deficiencies of the ear. Therefore, it is no wonder that so many students, dismayed by the difficulties to be overcome, are tempted to give up the study of piano after a few months' trial.

Here is where the VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER proves its efficiency. By developing and strengthening the fingers to their utmost capacity of flexibility, delicacy of touch, and precision of action, by training muscles, mind and ear, it gives the very help that teachers have always wanted without knowing just what it was they wanted.

For the acquisition of a PERFECT TECHNIC, a PERFECT TOUCH, and a PERFECT MEMORY, the VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER stands alone.

Under the direction of a teacher who had the advantage of learning the method from the author and inventor himself, the pianoforte students at St. Mary's are being thoroughly drilled in the correct use of the VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER. They have also the advantage of a weekly lesson in HARMONY.

A MUSICAL KINDERGARTEN will be opened in January. For further particulars apply to the Mother Superior. No. 6-4.

The following are the questions, one of which is to be answered in writing each week on the date indicated with the question, for fifty-two consecutive weeks, by those who wish to compete for the gold and silver medals, books and Bibles. It will be much better for students to answer each question on the day it is dated, but if it has been neglected, or for any other reason has not been done, the questions may be answered at any time during the period of fifty-two weeks. Two weeks' grace are given at the close of this period, for students to deliver their written answers to this office.

The contest starts with the lesson for Sunday July 5, 1908. All competitors or their families must be subscribers to the UNION ADVOCATE. With this full list of written questions for the past, any of our readers may now commence to write on these questions, who have not before done so, and thus compete for the valuable prizes. There is no educational test whatever, as the answers will be valued exclusively from the standpoint of their common sense. Clergymen are the only ones debarred from this contest as it is not thought fair for them to compete.

All our readers are urged to write on these questions, especially Sunday School teachers and Bible Class-schoolers, for even if no prize is won, the benefit derived from writing on these great themes cannot be over-estimated.

As a rule, the question to be answered, cannot be fully understood without a reference to the setting of the passage on which it is based.

A full description of the prizes and the simply conditions of the contest may be learned by inquiring at this office.

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED IN WRITING.

July 5th, 1908.—I Sam. viii:7. Granted that God is a real, Almighty person, so to speak, right at the elbow of every man, to protect him, and to supply all his needs, then what is the great defect in modern preaching, and in average Christian experience?

July 12th, 1908.—I Sam. x:20, 21. When a company of godly men seek to know the mind of God, may that mind be found by a ballot or by the casting of the lot, or is there a better method? (See Acts i: 23-26; xlii: 2.)

July 19th, 1908.—I Sam. xli:1. When individuals or the people choose a wrong thing, can it ever be made to work out for their good?

July 26th, 1908.—I Sam. xv:3. How can you justify God for commanding this wholesale slaughter of men, women, children and animals? (Do not attempt the answer without thorough enquiry and investigation.)

Aug. 2nd, 1908.—I Sam. xvi:8-10. On what ground does God make his choice when he has a position to fill?

Aug. 9th, 1908.—I Sam. xvi:38-40. Does the fate of a nation ever materially depend upon one man, according to the teaching of history?

Aug. 16th, 1908.—I Sam. xviii:14-16. Is it a rule that the good and the true are the admiration of God and of good men, while they provoke the hatred or jealousy of bad men? Give your reasons.

Aug. 23, 1908.—I Sam. xx:17. Which is the most God-like passion, a mother's love, the love of husband and wife, or pure sexless friendship?

Aug. 30th, 1908.—I Sam. xxvi:1-4. Are the majority of wars based upon passion, jealousy and misunderstanding, as was the pursuit of David by Saul?

Sept. 6th, 1908.—I Sam. xxxi:6. In the long run, is it possible that, in any instance, sin can result in final happiness, and if an act, which the world and the church label sinful, really results in all round happiness, was that act properly labelled?

Sept. 13th, 1908.—II Sam. v:2. To what extent does it depend upon ourselves as to our promotion or success in life?

Sept. 20th, 1908.—I Sam. xx. Do such friendships as existed between David and Jonathan exist between women, and may such Platonic and purely spiritual friendships, honourably exist between men and women?

Sept. 27th, 1908.—Isaiah vi:18, 19. Is it ever possible for a man or a nation to escape the natural results of wrong doing?

Oct. 4th, 1908.—II Sam. vi:6, 7. The Lord slew Uzzah after he put up his hand to steady the Ark; how in what did the sin of Uzzah consist to deserve a death penalty?

Oct. 11th, 1908.—I Chron. xviii:7, 8. To what extent is success, or a prominent position due to God's appointment or to our own efforts?

Oct. 18th, 1908.—II Sam. ix:1-5. What degree of merit would you give to kindness shown to one person, for the sake of another person?

Oct. 25th, 1908.—Psalm 32:11. What are the essential conditions for being glad and rejoicing at all times?

Nov. 1st, 1908.—II Sam. xvi:10-12. Is rebellion against properly constituted authority ever justifiable, and if so, under what circumstances?

Nov. 8th, 1908.—II Sam. xviii:1-32. Is a preacher or a priest defensible as a creed which he knows to be untrue, can his word be trusted in other matters?

Redeemed Pledges.

By J. LUDLOW LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Solomon Isaacs had been counted a prosperous pawnbroker for years. His little shop, located on the corner of a busy thoroughfare, showed a big profit, while large concerns in the neighborhood had failed during the hard times.

Real estate sharks had made tempting offers to Solomon for his precious corner, but he assured them all that he was doing very well and did not care to sell. Indeed, Solomon boasted of many fashionable customers, and this showcases often displayed gorgeous items, offered for sale at temptingly low prices.

Business seldom started in until after 10 in the morning, so Solomon was standing in the open doorway smoking a cigar when his attention was attracted to a fashionably dressed young woman looking in his window. Suddenly she caught his glance and darted in the doorway.

"I want to get this watch out of pawn," she said as Mr. Isaacs followed her into the shop. She handed him the ticket.

"Out early, ain't you?" suggested Isaacs as he glanced her over, wondering how she had happened to pawn a watch for $5. Clearly some one had arranged the matter for her. Isaacs never forgot a business face.

He took the ticket and went to the back of the store in search of the pledged article, and Nita Norcross spent the time in looking into a tempting case of old jewelry. One old locket attracted her and on his return she asked its price.

Isaacs took out the locket slowly, still searching the girl's face. The price seemed reasonable, and she bought it. Turning to leave the shop.

"WHY, I BOUGHT IT," SHE FINALLY ANSWERED.

she met face to face a huge policeman and a little youth. Nita's heart went out to the latter. In her imagination she pictured the young man as wayward and pawning, perhaps stealing, jewelry. Surely he must be a thief, or why his police escort? The suspected youth looked at her sharply as he passed into the shop, and Nita hurried home with her purchase. Once in her room, she told her maid to send the laundress upstairs. She wished to speak to her privately.

"Here is your watch, Mrs. Berry," said Nita as she handed the timepiece to her washerwoman, who began to weep copiously on a gleaming apron. "I hope you will never have to part with it again. The next time you need money for sickness or any serious trouble come to me. Never pawn anything again. It is a terrible habit," continued Nita. Then, recalling the picture of the handsome youth, she added: "It teaches young men where they can get extra money and offend against the law. Now run along to your work and never think of it again." And Mrs. Berry, clasping the cheap yet precious watch of her dead husband to her heart, went back to her tub.

Several weeks later Nita Norcross was invited to the clam bake given at Oak Ridge by her old friends the Clydes. Mrs. Clyde introduced her to the many new friends they had met since moving to Oak Ridge, and soon supper was in full swing.

Encircling the round table were thirty men and girls, and Nita casually looked them over. Directly opposite she recognized a new face strangely familiar. Where had she seen that man before? He had an almost imperious smile, and look where she would, their glances seemed always to cross.

Supper was over, and the guests were strolling about the grounds. The man with the familiar strange face came up to Nita as she stood beneath a group of laurels.

"This is Miss Norcross, I believe," he said. "I am Mr. Hildreth. We were introduced early in the evening, but I don't think you did catch my name. Have you seen the stolen locket of which Clyde is so proud?"

"Come away from the crowd, they found a considerable little nest along the water's edge, and the moonlight fell clear upon them."

"Gorgeous night, but I'll accept ed Nita. She could not explain why she had this subconscious compulsion feeling when with this man.

"Bully," he replied. "May I light a cigarette just to keep the bugs away?" "You certainly may," agreed Nita.

"I wonder if you would think me frightfully rude," began Mr. Hildreth, "if I were to ask you where you ran against the locket you have on your neck, Miss Norcross. It's a perfect beauty. I have seen but one other like it, and that belonged to my mother."

Nita blushed and nervously twirled the locket which hung on a fine chain about her neck.

"Why, I bought it," she finally answered.

"Yes, of course, but where?"

The silence which followed was painful, and Hildreth continued:

"You see, my mother's locket was stolen along with a lot of other jewelry that my valet relieved me of about a year ago, and I've spent hundreds of dollars and a world of time trying to locate the stuff. What he took of mine I don't care a rap about, but my mother's keepsakes—well, you could understand that would be a different thing. In my mother's locket there is a picture of a child—a picture of me. Whom do you carry in yours, Miss Norcross?"

Hildreth waited several minutes for his answer. Slowly the girl took the locket from her throat and reached it to him.

"Open it," she almost whispered.

He did so and revealed the picture of a curly headed child of about six, and while Hildreth looked long at the picture the girl told the story of how she came by it.

"And isn't it absurd," she was saying, "I thought you were a thief that day when I saw you with the policeman?"

"And I," said Hildreth, "though you were a society girl getting extra money to play the races or go to fortune tellers or some equally wicked dissipation." Then, changing his tone entirely, he continued: "I hate to ask the return of this, but mother valued it above price. But as she is now abroad I want you to show me how she no ill will by putting it back on your throat and wearing it while you are at Oak Ridge. When we part?"

He extended the trinket to her, and his hand touched hers. Without argument she clasped the fine chain once more about her neck. Nothing was said by either, but Lawrence lighted another cigarette and hit hard.

"I think we had better join the crowd," said Nita, "or they'll be instituting a searching party for us."

The next days and for many days after during Nita's stay at Oak Ridge, Lawrence Hildreth found an excuse to run over in his motor or to sail over in his boat to the Clyde lodge. The last evening of Nita's visit had come, and she and Lawrence were once more sitting by the water's edge. Nearly a month had passed, and another moon had come to shed its rays upon Oak Ridge.

"Tomorrow I am going home," Nita said, "so I will give you back the locket tonight. Your mother will be home soon, too, I hear."

He took it from her with reluctant hand.

"Nita," Lawrence's voice was tendered itself. "There is just one woman to whom my mother would give that locket—my wife. Will you take me, Nita? Take my locket and my love? Tell me, Nita, that you love me."

Nita looked straight into his eyes.

"Laurie, dear, I do love you, and I always will."

He clasped the locket about her throat again, pledging it to her for life, and the kiss he received in payment seemed priceless.

From Welsh to Spanish.

A very long time ago the British government ordered that English should be taught in Welsh schools. The result was a colony of persecuted Welsh miners fled from the British tyranny and settled in the deserts of Patagonia. These men were heroes, and with most magnificent courage they dared to live in a desert where not a plant would grow, where the water was brackish and the heat intolerable. They were surrounded by wild tribes of hostile savages and made them warm friends; they were ruled by a foreign government and became loyal citizens.

Through long years of want and famine they never despaired. They have turned the desert into a beautiful fertile country, have become rich, numbering settlements right across South America, own a paying railway and ship large crops of wheat, wool, ostrich feathers and quano skins.

They left Wales to escape the tyranny of the English language and now, rather than talk Welsh, they converse largely of their freedom in excellent Spanish.

Germs, Their Friends and Foes.

Germs are powerless to affect a healthy body in which the vital resistance is maintained by good habits of living. Alcohol, tobacco and other such drugs, whether narcotic or stimulative in their effects, are aids and comforters to our invincible enemies. Too much food, especially hearty food such as meat and beans, forms supplies for the commissary department of the enemy instead of for the brigades of white corpuscles. On the other hand, every breath drawn deeply into the lungs of fresh, warm air is a direct blow struck at our foes and on the side of our defenders. Every sip of pure water aids the forces of life. So, too, does every motion in walking, running and other exercises when exercise is not excessive. Every mouthful of pure food adds fuel to the flame of life.

The Lady of The Lilacs.

By Philip Keen.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Sherwood called her "The Lady of the Lilacs" because always on spring days there was a bunch of lilacs on her desk, offerings from the girls to a best loved teacher.

"You simply can't help loving her," Betty Baynes said to Sherwood in her emphatic young girl way. "You simply can't help it, Uncle Jack."

"I don't see," Uncle Jack ventured. "Where her particular charm comes in."

"She's so sweet," Betty analyzed, "and dainty—and—and—Betty was getting into deep water. "Anyhow, she's lovely."

Sherwood always called for his niece after school and drove her out to Sherwood farm, where Betty and her widowed mother made their home with him. The farm was beyond the town—a great place, with great barns, where were housed the beautiful horses that had made the farm famous.

As he sat in the trap waiting he could look right into the windows of the room where Miss Duval taught, and he could see her head bent over her desk, with the great bunch of lilacs making a background.

"Look here," he said to Betty one afternoon as they drove away in the sunshine, "I'd like to paint her that way."

"What way?" asked Betty.

"Paint Miss Duval—just her head, bent a little, against a background of lilac blooms, with a circle of gold inclosing it like a halo."

"Oh, Uncle Jack," Betty's face was beaming. "It would be beautiful."

"I'd call it 'The Lady of the Lilacs,'" Sherwood planned. "By George, Betty, I believe it would be the best thing I've done."

But "The Lady of the Lilacs" when approached refused to be painted. "Oh, please tell Mr. Sherwood," she said breathlessly, "that I couldn't think of such a thing. I am sure he can find a better model, Betty."

"He can't," Betty said obstinately. "Please, please, Miss Duval."

The little teacher shook her head. "Don't insist, dear," she said. "I really cannot."

"Now, what do you think of that, Uncle Jack," said Betty, almost in tears as they drove away that night.

"I don't know what to think," said Sherwood. "I hate to give up the idea."

"Well, don't give it up," Betty said. "You know you always get your own way when you want it, Uncle Jack."

"Yes, I do," said Sherwood thoughtfully.

Several days later when Betty came out of the school arm in arm with the little teacher Sherwood met them at the door.

"Won't you let us drive you home, Miss Duval?" he urged. "We will go the long way round, and it will do you good."

Miss Duval hesitated. "Oh," she began, but Betty interrupted: "Of course you'll go. You've never driven behind the Buckner team, and they are such beauties."

It developed that Miss Duval was from Kentucky and that she loved horses, and she must come at once.

"Why can't you ride here?" Sherwood demanded. "We have a half dozen ladies' mounts in the stables that are growing fat and lazy for want of exercise."

"I haven't a habit," Miss Duval demurred.

"I have two," Betty announced promptly, "and you can wear one."

On Saturday Miss Duval in Betty's covert cloth habit and three cornered hat and mounted on Hilda Buckner was a transformed creature.

"I thought she was pretty," was Sherwood's mental comment, "but, by Jove, she's a beauty."

And more and more he yearned to paint her.

To that end he paid her most devoted attention, and it became a regular thing for the little teacher to spend the week ends at Sherwood farm. Betty's mother found her charming.

"I am glad to have Betty under her influence," she told her brother. "She is a lady to her finger tips."

"Yes," Sherwood agreed moodily, "but I wish she would let me paint her as 'The Lady of the Lilacs.'"

His sister stared indignantly. "I don't believe you ever look at a woman except from the standpoint of art."

Sherwood laughed. "I don't fall in love easily, if that is what you mean," he said and shrugged his shoulders and went on.

That afternoon he sauntered down to the end of the big garden where Dulce Duval was pouring tea. The little table was set under a lilac bush, and the fragrance of the blossoms filled the air.

Betty, on the other side of the bush, was playing tennis with a boy from town. Mrs. Baynes had been called to the house, and Sherwood was alone with the Lilac Lady.

"I wish you would let me paint your picture," he said to her.

"No," she said slowly. "I am not sure that I like the idea of my picture hanging in a gallery for the public to gaze at."

"Surely," Sherwood urged, "one should not keep beauty hidden."

"I am not beautiful," she said quietly. She leaned back in the big wicker chair. Her face was very pale, and there were shadows under her eyes. Behind her the lilacs under their pale purple glazes in the spring bloom.

"I am not beautiful," she repeated.

"but I think I ought to tell you why I do not want my picture placed before the public."

It was such a simple little tale. She was married. That was the fact that was borne in upon him with stunning force. Her husband had been her father's choice, not her own.

"We were rich," she explained, "but after my father's death my husband spent everything we had, and I was very unhappy. So I ran away and took my maiden name. And that is why I do not want my picture to appear. I do not want him to find me."

She said it vehemently, with a little flush on her cheeks. "My father said love would come," she went on hurriedly, "but it did not. I felt for Betty's sake I ought to tell you. It's such unpleasant history that you might not care to have me with her so much."

Sherwood flung up his head. Suddenly it seemed to him that there was nothing that he so much wished to do as to shelter her from misfortune.

"Betty will always be honored by your presence, as we all are—as we shall always be," he said, and she smiled at him and held out her hand.

"Somehow I felt that I had found a friend," she said simply. "That is why I told you. It seemed best, and I knew you would understand."

That afternoon Sherwood went for a long ride on his favorite horse, Maxtel, and during that ride he fought a battle. Now that Dulce Duval was out of reach she seemed the most desirable thing in the world. Indeed, from the first moment she had been desirable, but he had let the artist in him blind the lover. He had made himself think that it was her picture, not herself, that he wanted.

And now that he knew that he loved her he felt that he must go away—back to Paris to the studio—to the dreams that had of late been partially submerged in his practical plans for Sherwood farm.

When he came back that night, Betty met him on the porch.

"We are going for a ride early in the morning," she said, "Miss Duval and I, and I want you to go with us."

"Not tomorrow, Bettykins," he demurred. "I've got a lot of things to do. I am planning to spend the summer in Paris."

Betty's dismayed exclamation brought his sister and Miss Duval.

"He's going away," Betty cried, "and he doesn't know when he will come back."

And Sherwood, watching the face of the Lady of the Lilacs, saw it grow pale, and his heart leaped at the thought that she cared.

In the early morning from his bedroom window he saw them ride away. Five minutes later he was at the stables. "How does it happen that Miss Duval is riding Maxtel?" he demanded of a groom.

"Hilda is lame," said the man, "and Miss Duval insisted on riding Maxtel. We tried to get her to have one of the other mounts, but she wouldn't."

"Maxtel can't be trusted," said Sherwood sharply, "not with a lady. He never likes the flutter of skirts."

"I know, sir." The man looked worried.

"Well, get Buckner Belle ready," Sherwood ordered, "and I'll go after them."

As he cantered down to the gate a boy met him with a telegram. Without looking at the address, Sherwood tore it open, then as a half dozen words confronted him he saw that it was not for him, but for Miss Duval.

Her husband was dead, her lawyer was absent, and she must come at once. In that moment the whole world changed for Sherwood. He knew that it was unseemly for him to grow light hearted because of the death of a fellow creature. But for her it meant freedom, for him happiness.

He paid the boy and spurred his horse to greater speed, and at last he saw ahead of him Betty on a sturdy little mare; Dulce, holding in Maxtel, who danced along the road in a way that spelled danger.

And even as Sherwood looked Maxtel bolted!

And after him, like a shot, went Buckner Belle.

The big horse was not a match for the brilliant mare, and presently Sherwood was beside Dulce, his hand on Maxtel's bridle.

Maxtel, meek as a lamb at the sound of the well known voice, stopped so suddenly that Dulce swayed and slipped from his back inertly. Sherwood, dropping the bridle, caught her in his arms.

"Dulce," he said impulsively; "Dulce, dear!"

She opened her eyes. "Please," she said faintly, "let me go. You must let me go."

"Hush!" he said. "You are not strong enough to stand alone, and you have light here. You are free at last, I hear."

Her startled eyes met his. "How?" questioned.

"He is dead," he said quietly. "You too to Kentucky this afternoon. Your mother will go with you."

Released her then and went on in his tears.

At you will come back, Dulce. You feel that it is right—you come back to me!"

It was pounding down the road the sturdy mare Dulce looked up at Sherwood, strong and grave because of the beautiful horses.

"Yes," she said, and suddenly her face was illumined. "Yes, I will come, and you shall paint me—your Lady of the Lilacs."

Feminine Amantics.

What did you think of the wedding? "Well, a little bit first, dear, but not Reggie had said 'I will.'"

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School

Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

Dec. 6th, 1908.

Solomon Chooses Wisdom.—1 Kings 3:1-15.

Golden Text.—The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. Prov. 1:7.

Verse 4.—What is the chief dependence alike of a king and citizen?

What was the chief object of sacrifices in those days? Was it to appease God, or to develop a spirit of giving to God, and did they have any idea that it prefigured the death of Jesus?

What are the chief benefits to the givers, of money given to the church, to missions and to the poor?

Which is the richer man and the one who has lived to most purpose, he who dies leaving no estate, but having given to God's cause $10,000.00 during his life, or one who dies leaving an estate of $20,000.00, and having given away practically nothing during life?

Verse 5.—Are such visions or dreams, as Solomon had, unusual in these days to spiritually minded people?

How could Solomon distinguish this dream from an ordinary dream?

Does God still give his children a choice as to what they would like, or does he choose for them?

If God does not choose for his children, does he influence them in their choice, and what is the difference in the two supposed methods?

Verse 6.—What help is it to us, to be able to praise God for the lives of our fathers and mothers?

Do you think it probable that our fathers and mothers, on the other side, look back and see their sons and daughters here, and take pleasure in their prosperity?

Verse 7.—Should we, like Solomon, recognize the hand of God, in putting us into our present positions?

Nov. 15th, 1908.—Psalm 32:1. May we learn of the reality of God's individual, and constant care of us, by the practice of the presence of God?

The same as we learn to think and see, and do, almost everything else by practices?

Nov. 22nd, 1908.—I Kings 15-10

Are great men ever boastful; and is true humility always a mark of greatness?

Verses 8-9.—Solomon's chief desire was, to have wisdom to properly administer the trust committed to him; what should be our chief desire?

No matter how grave our responsibilities, or difficult our position, is it absolutely sure that God will give us in answer to our prayer, the necessary wisdom and facilities to successfully administer our trust?

Should all men in positions of public trust, feel their insufficiency and call upon God as Solomon did?

Verses 10-12.—Why did Solomon's request please the Lord?

Does God to-day answer every true or wise prayer, as he did this prayer of Solomon?

Would not all public, and private, sin and folly be prevented, if men only relied upon God?

What is some of the evidence, that God gave Solomon great wisdom?

Verse 13.—If our prayers are for goodness, and not greatness, to be of service, and not to be served, may we depend that God will give us every necessary thing, without our asking? (See Matt. 7:3-4.) (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Will every true Christian have all the riches and honor, that are good for him?

Verse 14.—Were God's promises in this case conditional upon obedience, and are they so conditioned in every case?

Verse 15.—Does communion with God always make us strong and brave and generous?

Lesson for Sunday, Dec. 13th, 1908.—Solomon Dedicates the Temple.—1 Kings 8:1-21.

How do you explain the fact that Absalom and Adonijah, sons of the same mother, and very handsome men, both turned traitors to their father and to the plans of God?

Nov. 29th, 1908.—Isaiah xxviii: 10. In what consists our chief hope for the suppression of the ravages of the drink habit?

SCARLET FEVER SPREADING IN NORTHUMBERLAND
Country Districts also Affected—Four New Cases at Chatham Last Week, and Quarantine on Public Places
Continued

CHATHAM, Nov. 23.—Scarlet fever has spread to an alarming extent in the out-of-town districts. Today Lieut-Col. R. L. Maltby, chairman of the Board of Health, quarantined several houses at Wellfield. A Mrs. Ahearn, a widow, has several suffering from the disease, and very little food in the house. One very young child not expected to live. Four new cases developed in town during the week. At the meeting of the Board of Health on Saturday it was decided to extend the ban placed on amusement houses, churches and schools for another week. There were no deaths this week.

DARING HOLD-UP IN MONTREAL
Cashier Stopped by Burglar and Valise Containing $4,000 Snatched From Him

MONTREAL, Saturday.—A daring hold-up took place at St. Henri in the outskirts of the city this afternoon. While R. C. Tolmie, cashier of the Colonial Blockading and Printing Co., was on his way from the bank to the head office of the company at St. Henri he was held up by a man who snatched a valise he was carrying containing $4,000. The man pointed a revolver at Tolmie, exclaiming, "I'll shoot you if you follow me, and then made off at a run with the valise. Tolmie followed the man, who after running a short distance, dropped the valise and made his escape.

RUSHING WORK
Mr. D. A. Stewart has the contract for the erection of the King Edward Hotel. This will be a wooden building, of pleasing design, modern in every respect, and work is being rushed. Mr. H. R. Murray, the proprietor, expects to be in early in the new year. The building has a frontage of fifty eight feet, three stories high. WILL NOT CONNECT MAIN
The contractor has about finished his contract on the laying of the sixteen inch main, but owing to the fact that no provision had been made for the pipe through the core of the reservoir, and as it is too late in the season now to drain off the water, this will not be connected this year. The right of way is to be arbitrated, and this would not prevent the work being proceeded with.

CHERBURG, Saturday.—The French cruisers Admiral Aube and Gueydon Tokay, received orders to take on board provisions for a long cruise. The destination of these warships is believed to be St. Pierre, Miquelon, where there has recently been more or less trouble and disorder among the people on account of the local school situation.

PRESENCE OF MIND ALONE SAVED WILBUR WRIGHT
Aeroplane Began to Turn Over But He Was Able to Avert an Accident
LEMANS, France, Friday.—Wilbur Wright, the aviator, had a narrow escape yesterday from serious injury in an accident similar to that which happened to his brother Orville's aeroplane at Fort Meyer a few weeks ago. The plane, which was being flown by Wilbur, began to turn over. Wright, with marvelous presence of mind, re-established the balance of the aeroplane by leaning to one side and cutting off the motor.

NO TIME TO LOSE
Those who have not yet ordered The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal for next year should do so at once. It is said there is a bigger rush of subscriptions than ever this year, and the publishers are earnestly urging their present subscribers to renew at once before the December and January rush. A new series of short stories is to commence next week, and these alone are considered to be worth the whole year's subscription. At one dollar a year no better investment can be made than by ordering The Family Herald and Weekly Star for 1909.

SOCIETY LADIES KISSED
BURGLAR ASLEEP IN CHAIR

WINNIPEG, Saturday.—When two young society ladies returned from the theatre last evening to their homes on Armstrong's Point they heard on entering the house some one snoring in the library, where the reflection of a fire in the grate could be seen through the door. Supposing their father had fallen asleep they planned to pleasantly surprise him and rushed in and threw their arms around the sleeping figure and implanted kisses in the dark. The man raised his head and revealed the face of a burglar, who had decided to take a comfortable nap before proceeding with his work. He escaped before the astonished ladies could give the alarm.

MONCTON GIRL DRANK WOOD ALCOHOL AND DIED

MONCTON, Monday.—Facts have been learned regarding the death of Gertrude McEllen, whose sudden death occurred Sunday afternoon. It appears that the young girl was the victim of wood alcohol poisoning. She was of a weak mind and had previously threatened to do away with herself by taking wood alcohol. Friday last, according to her story, she drank a quantity of wood alcohol, and this morning the poison began to take effect. She took violently ill, and although three doctors were called and everything possible done to save her life she died in convulsions about half past two this afternoon.

An English society has been organized to make the spelling of the language. That will be more satisfactory than efforts to make the language of the spelling.

YOUNG MAN LOST FOOT ON INTERNATIONAL R. R.
Crew was Placing Bridge Over Whites Brook When Accident Took Place

Seeley Pratt, a young man engaged on the International Railway had his leg so badly crushed that it had to be amputated.
The accident occurred Nov. 22. The construction crew engaged in placing a small bridge over White's Brook. The steel structure was jerked up off a car, and was being lowered down in place when it toppled over and fell into the brook below, carrying down a mass of timbers and blocking. Pratt was pinned between the timbers and had his leg badly crushed. He was extricated with difficulty and immediately brought to his home here and medical aid summoned.
Upon examination it was found that the leg was so badly crushed that there was no hope of saving the foot and it had to be amputated. The young man was suffering intensely yesterday.

CELEBRATED PAINTER DIED IN SQUALOR AND DISTRESS

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—Mrs. Imogene, a celebrated portrait and historic painter, died early today in a room of a lodging house, alone and friendless and amid surroundings of squalor and distress. Mrs. Morell enjoyed the distinction of being the only woman whose paintings occupied a space in the United States Capitol, she having painted the notable picture of Gen. John A. Dix. More than 200 works of her brush were destroyed in a disastrous fire twelve years ago. She was a native of Attleboro, Mass.

THREE KILLED ... C. P. R. COLLISION

PETERBORO, Monday.—Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning a collision occurred on the C. P. R. four miles west of Pontypool, caused by a switch having been left open. A double header going west collided with a light engine coming east. The engineer and fireman of the light engine, with a brakeman named O'Connor, who was also on the engine, were killed. The engineer was named Pindley and the name of the fireman was Sweetman. All three were on the front engine of the double header.

A STORY OF HERRISM
Showing How Brain Men Can Calmly Meet Death.
WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. What of the Crew Were Lost and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the grounds a simple memorial tablet placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 26, 1902. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking reinforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 470 men for the troops engaged in the Boer war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the cape. On board were also 100 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where the officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in an orderly and as quietly as on the barracks square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board, impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The survivors of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain platform on the lower after deck and held off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on the tackles of the paddle box boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to ease the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander next ordered the officers' chargers to be pitched out of the gangway. The plunging and terrified horses were got up and cast over, five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew man's pay and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat, and crushing the men on the tackle. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up. The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out, "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to, as the boat with the women and children were in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine, but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage as in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued, but of fourteen officers and 400 men no fewer than nine officers and 240 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every woman and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the King of Prussia for the rescue of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment in his army, and it was spoken of in every school in Prussia and Germany. —London Globe

Christmas Stamps

A Million to be Sold Before Christmas.

Every penny from the stamps, after paying for printing and distribution, will be used for the maintenance of poor patients at the MUSKOGEE FREE HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES, and for extending the fight against the dread White Plague.

This Christmas Stamp idea was started in Denmark about four years ago, where the cash returns have built and financed a Consumptive Hospital. A year ago, the Red Cross Society of Denmark sold over 400,000, with the co-operation of stores, churches, clubs, and boys and girls. In fact, everybody helped in this popular movement, and this year their National Red Cross Society is selling the stamp all over the States.

A STAMP FOR CANADA
The neat little stamp in red and white, like above cut, and selling at one cent each, is published by the National Sanitarium Association in the interests of the Muskogee Free Hospital. The stamp does not pay postage, but may be put on letters, packages and Christmas cards of all kinds, and will bear the happy Season's Greetings everywhere.
Willing workers all over the Dominion are organizing little bands for stamp selling. The hospital hopes to raise over a million stamps, which will be sold before Christmas, and the work for the consumptive poor from now on, will be greatly strengthened. Other interesting information may be obtained by writing Mr. J. E. Robertson, Secretary, of the Association, 811 King Street West, Toronto.

HELPLESS 3 WEEKS

HANDS COVERED WITH ECZEMA AMPUTATION FEARED, BUT ZAM-BUK SAVED.

"For three long months I was not able to attend to my own needs; and for three weeks the eczema on my hands was so bad that I was unable to feed myself. I had to be fed as one feeds a baby, because I could not hold knife, fork, spoon, or cup." So says Miss Violet McSorley, of 75, Gore Street, South Ste. Marie, in telling how Zam-Buk cured her of eczema. She adds: "Hands, wrists and arms up to the elbows were covered with eczema. The itching and the sores were night unbearable. As the disease developed, the skin actually peeled off leaving raw sores. The palms, fingers, backs of my hands and wrists were all in this shocking state, and I was forced to sit in agony all the while."

"The raw sores were soon in a foul condition, and my finger nails, all except two, fell off. During the different stages of my trouble, I sought the advice of three different doctors and received treatment, but although getting slight relief at first there was no cure. Amputation was at one time thought necessary but the timely introduction of Zam-Buk prevented this fearful ending."

"Zam-Buk was recommended by a friend and we bought a supply. The first few applications gave me a little ease, but it was not until I had continued with it for some time that I felt a decided improvement. After that my cure went on quickly. Zam-Buk did what everything else had failed to do. Now my hands and arms are quite freed from the terrible eczema."

Are you suffering from skin disease? If so, take Miss McSorley's advice and try Zam-Buk.

No report from bye-laws and Ferry Committees, and none from Police Committee re Scott Act Inspector's work.

Ald. Morrissey asked if it were not possible to have the Newcastle-Nelson ferry running till nine o'clock at night. He wanted to know what the fares should be for two people and a horse.

Ald. Doyle said that the charge for two people and a horse and carriage was 20 cents.

Ald. Morrissey said he had always paid 25 cents. Was there a special rate for the chairman of the Ferry Committee?

Ald. Morrissey and McMurdo moved that the Ferry Committee request John Russell & Co., to run ferry till nine o'clock, last trip to leave Nelson not earlier than nine.

Ald. Morrissey brought up the question he had introduced several months ago, viz., that the Town should supply electric light fixtures and install the light at cost. People were not taking light as rapidly as expected when the one-third discount system for prompt payment was adopted. Their backwardness was due to the heavy cost of getting their houses wired. He would have the town buy out John Ferguson & Son's electric light stock at say, ten per cent. profit, and have the town do the business in future. He would have Electrician Follasbee attend as far as possible, to the installation of light.

The Mayor suggested that the Light Committee get the names of those willing to take light, if expense of installation were reduced. More consumers were needed. Fixtures should be supplied and put in at cost.

Ald. Falconer and McMurdo spoke along similar lines.

On motion of Ald. Morrissey and Falconer, it was decided to spread upon the minutes an invitation to all parties who desired to have electric light installed in their buildings, if cost were reasonable, to make known their wishes and opinions in the matter to the Light Committee or the Town Clerk.

Ald. Falconer asked if it was the intention of the Council to keep a day policeman during the winter.

Ald. Falconer wanted to know what reason there was of not keeping that officer.

Ald. McMurdo said that he had been approached re this matter, before this meeting. A Scott Act Inspector and tax collector was needed. It was only two or three months now till men would be coming out of the woods and the day policeman would certainly be needed. It was too late now to talk of laying him off.

Ald. Doyle had suggested that a mar could be got for $5.00 to do the Scott Act work, or that Mr. Hill would do it. But Mr. Hill would not do it, and another could not be got so cheaply.

The aldermen who wanted this thing done should have spoken of it earlier in the meeting.

Ald. Morrissey thought it was necessary to keep the day policeman. He was paying his way. He had brought $1400 into the town treasury through Scott Act fines. He had collected during last six months $1500 in back taxes, this saving the town $150 in commission. He had also collected $19 in license fees and $43 in dog taxes. It was, he said, too late in the season to talk about laying him off.

The Mayor asked the Police and Appointment to Office Committee to have a full report re this matter of day policeman to present to next meeting, regular or special.

His Worship said that, notwithstanding the ruling of the great tribunal, whose occupant, Col. Malby, thought himself so high and mighty and important, he was not satisfied with the throwing out of the charge he had made against Policeman Hill. He ever again a policeman hit a man over the head he would have him arrested. Col. Malby need not think he was the whole show.

Ald. Doyle asked if the Council had any power to check the expenditure of the Board of Health. Why could not policemen act as guards over the quarantined houses?

Ald. McMurdo agreed.

The Mayor said that the work of the Board of Health was all or nearly all, done by the Chairman and Secretary. The Council should have a representative on the Board, and reports should be presented monthly.

Finance committee should confer with the Board and find out what is doing.

Ald. Morrissey said that in many cases where poor people were quarantined the Board of Health had to spend money for food, medicine, etc. If the Council were represented on the Board, the expenses would probably be as high as now.

On motion of Ald. Morrissey and Falconer, the Mayor was appointed a committee to interview the Board of Health re having policemen act as guards and having monthly reports sent in by the Board.

His Worship reported that the decision re Town and Anderson Co., had not yet been rendered by the Supreme Court.

Ald. McMurdo asked if it would be worth while for the Town to lend a man $5000 if he would employ 20 men steadily.

Mayor Miller said that such a case must be submitted to the people. If any definite proposition were made he could at once lay it before a public meeting.

KIT CARSON.

Part of Which the Hardy Frontiersman Had No Recollection.

One of the most noted of the hardy western frontiersmen was Kit Carson, to whom, with Daniel Boone, belongs the credit of having always dealt fairly with the various Indian tribes, as they themselves acknowledged. The withdrawal of Carson by the government was the cause of a great war. Captain Henry Inman in his book, "The Old Santa Fe Trail," relates an amusing incident of the gallant pioneer.

My own conception of Kit Carson as a child was that he was ten feet high, that it would have required the strength of two men to lift his rifle, that he usually drank a river dry and picked the carcass of a whole buffalo clean as easily as a lady does the wing of a quail. Years after, when I made the acquaintance of the foremost frontiersman, I found him a delicate, red-corned, undersized, wiry man, the very opposite type of what my childish brain had created.

One day while Kit was at the fort I came across a periodical that had a full page illustration of a scene in a forest. In the foreground stood a gigantic figure dressed in the traditional buckskin.

On one arm rested an immense rifle. His other arm was around the waist of the conventional female of such sensational journals, while in front half a dozen Indians lay prone, evidently slain by the hero in the impossible attire in defense of the preposterous female. The legend stated how all this had been effected by Kit Carson.

I handed it to Kit. He wiped his spectacles, studied the picture intently for a few seconds and then said: "Gentlemen, that that may be true, but I haven't got no recollection of it."

A JOURNALISTIC HOAX.

Trick the Harvard Lampoon Played on the Crimson.

Speaking of the Crimson, Harvard's daily newspaper, reminds every Harvard man of the Lampoon's master stroke—or joke—played on that dignified and unsuspecting sheet on Memorial day, 1901. The Crimson had announced that it would not appear on that holiday, but inconspicuously, so few were surprised to find their Crimson at their door that morning as usual. Their surprise began, however, when they scanned its contents. This always serious sheet seemed to have become most frivolous and irresponsible during the night, for in its columns all sorts of wild and fantastic statements appeared.

The news, though clothed in the usual heavy, dignified Crimson style, was wildly revolutionary in character. Among the items that appeared were: "A Plot to Blow Up Memorial Hall," "Strong Men to Get the Varsity H," "Wellesley Crew to Be Guests of the University" and most important of all a notice, "Lampoon Celebration at 7 Tonight." Then the joke came out. The Lampoon had published the famous "fake Crimson," the joke was known throughout the country, and that night Lampoon's sanctum was the scene of bacchanalian revelry. When the following year the Crimson editors sat up all night with injunctions against a repetition of the fake the joke was again on them, for Lampoon differs from history in that he never repeats himself.—K. B. Townsend in Bohemian.

Mississippi Oratory. Jasper county has been noted for the high grade of eloquence produced by the public men of that part of Mississippi. An appeal to the "mighty men of Jasper" made by one of that county's great men when a candidate to the voters who elected him is as follows:

"Mighty men of Jasper, if I can be instrumental in the hands of my people in adding a few jewels to those that now shine in imperishable lustre on the queenly brow of our proud commonwealth, whose associated radiance, like the lambent beauty of the star, is to guide the footsteps of her children along the paths of peace and prosperity, security and happiness, I shall then have accomplished the ambition of my life."

Superlative Beauty. A Swedish newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was carried off by an anonymous answer, "The eyes of my mother." More imaginative was the reader who won the next prize by suggesting, "The dream of that which we know to be impossible."

The most amusing answer was that which read, "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

Proved Useful. "When you was little was you spanked like I am to make me smart, papa?" "I was, my son, and spanked hard too."

"You can't find me no more, 'cause if it didn't hurt me, I wouldn't make me smart."

I AM A MOTHER

How many American women in lonely homes to-day long for this blessing to come into their lives, and to be able to utter these words, but because of some organic derangement this happiness is denied them.

Every woman interested in this subject should know that preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by the use of

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Maggie Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was greatly run-down in health from a weakness peculiar to my sex, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. It not only restored me to perfect health, but to my delight I am a mother!"

Mrs. Josephine Hall, of Bardonia, N. Y., writes: "I was a very great sufferer from female troubles, and my physician failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound not only restored me to perfect health, but I am now proud mother."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

I. R. C. EMPLOYEES RELIEF

REPORT FOR THE MONTH.

The report of W. O. Paver, secretary of the I. R. C. Relief and Insurance Association, ended Nov. 25th, shows that there were four deaths in that period. They were as follows: George Horsemann, Moncton, $250; Louis Bolduc, Emil Bouchard, River du Loup, $250 each; David Trevois, Newcastle, $250. Joseph Cameron, Moncton, received his total disability claim of $250. In addition, Baptiste Dupuis, of the temporary employees accident fund was killed. Fees and levies for the month are Class A, $1.40; Class B, ninety cents, and Class C, sixty-five cents.

CHATHAM CHORAL SOCIETY.

A notable musical event will be the concert of the Chatham Choral Society, in the Chatham Opera House on Thursday, Dec. 17th. The first part of the program will be almost exclusively from Handel's immortal oratorio, the Messiah. The second half will include the famous chorus "Hail Bright Abode" from Wagner's Tannhauser, and also Canada's New National Anthem, "O Canada," which has created such a furore in other cities. As soloists, the society will have the assistance of Mrs. E. C. McLeod, whose singing has delighted St. John and Toronto audiences; and J. A. Kelly, of St. John, a popular favorite both here and elsewhere. In addition to solos these two artists will sing a duet. An orchestra of about a dozen pieces in charge of Arch. McEachern will assist with the choruses which will also have both organ and piano accompaniment. Secure your tickets early.

COAL BRANCH S. O. T. CONCERT.

A very enjoyable time was spent at Coal Branch on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 25th, when a concert was given under the auspices of the Division of the Sons of the Temperance. It is scarcely two months since this division was organized but already there is a large membership and the local talent that has been developed is of a high order. Rev. R. H. Stavert presided and the following programme was well rendered:

Solo, Andrew Robinson.
Address, Rev. R. H. Stavert.
Reading, Elmer Little.
Recitation, Miss Winnie Howard.
Reading, Mrs. Fred Little.
Dialogue, "Tattle-Wood Gossip" by a number.
Reading, Miss Drusilla Smallwood.
Recitation, Miss Margaret Mills.
Solo, Miss Mary Irving.
Reading, Roy Little.
Dialogue, Everett Little and Willie Casady.
Reading, Miss Ethel Kenney.
Solo, Robert Reid.
Reading, Mrs. Anthony Kenney.
Recitation, Miss Maie Howard.
Reading, Mrs. Andrew Robinson.
Tableau, "Kitchen Scene."
Solo, Andrew Robinson.

At the close of the concert lunch was served. The whole entertainment was much enjoyed by all and reflects great credit on the ability of the members of the division.

The sum of $6.25 was realized. This is to be devoted to the alleviation of the cause of temperance, "The Cause of all mankind."

Don't forget the Christmas Opening at Shaw's Drug Store on Thursday, Dec. 3rd.

For the first time this fall, there was sleighing in Newcastle yesterday morning.

All are cordially invited to attend the Christmas Opening at Shaw's Drug Store on Thursday, Dec. 3rd.

A GOOD ROOFING.

Amalite is a self-reliant roofing. You don't have to go out and coat it every few months or patch it up to stop-leaks. After it is laid, you can go off and forget about it and it will stay at its post and do its duty year after year. A booklet about it and a sample may be had for the asking from the Barrett Manufacturing Company, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Allegheny, Kansas City, New Orleans, Minneapolis.

With a view to considerably increasing their warehouse capacity, the Lonsbury Company are building an extension to their present building on Main Street, Moncton. The addition being built between the main building and the rear warehouse will connect the two buildings and afford almost double as much room for stock as the company have at present. A story is also being added to the rear building, raising it to the same height as the main building. An elevator will be put in and altogether the improvements, which were decided upon at a recent meeting of the company here, are on quite an extensive scale.

EASY TO MIX.

Prepare at Home By Shaking Ingredients Well in a Bottle.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. A well-known druggist here at home when asked regarding this prescription stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed for rheumatic affliction with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

PRINTED STATIONERY.

It is as important that you use neatly printed stationery as it is that you dress well. Many People with whom you correspond judge you by the business paper you use.

WE HAVE THE MOST CORRECT STYLES.
