New Superior Chevrolet

Why You Should Prefer A Chevrolet

THE Chevrolet is built for "Economical Transportation" and delivers it. It is the world's lowest priced fully equipped automobile. Any combination of Chassis and body which operates as a self-propelled mechanism may be termed an automobile, but if it lacks important modern accessories or parts, which must be bought to complete it, this cost must be added to the original selling price. As to comfort and efficiency tens of thousands of Chevrolet owners will vouch for its Superiority. Comparisons are invited, for comparisons sell Chevrolet. Chevrolet has become the world's greatest motor car value.

Canada's Leather Industry

The leather industry of Canada comes within the thirty leading industrial activities of the Dominion. In the year 1921 there were 118 plants engaged in the industry in Canada in which a total of $32,137,488 was invested. These plants gave employment to a total of 4,208 people, who received in wages and salaries the sum of $4,081,062 during the year. The total Canadian leather production in that year was valued at $22,905,528. Of the total plants 5 were situated in Nova Scotia, 2 in New Brunswick, 64 in Quebec, 46 in Ontario, 2 in Manitoba, 4 in Alberta and 2 in British Columbia.

The progressive growth of the industry is exhibited in every feature. There were only 100 tanneries in operation in 1920 in comparison with 119 in the following year. Twelve were added in Quebec, 3 in Ontario, 2 in Nova Scotia and 1 each in Alberta and British Columbia. The capital invested in the industry in 1920 was $29,739,987 in comparison with $32,137,488 in the following year. Owing to the depreciation of prices the value of production was lower, being $22,905,528 in comparison with $29,967,831.

The principal items in point of production were sole leather and upper leather. Though Ontario falls below Quebec in the number of plants it leads in the value of production with a value of $15,900,356. Quebec fell very far behind with $3,517,555. The Maritime Provinces accounted for $268,192 and the Western Provinces for $219,225. Ontario, too, naturally leads in the amount of capital invested in the industry with $27,190,722 out of the total Dominion $32,137,488. Quebec has $4,540,978; the Maritime Provinces $280,800; and the Western Provinces $115,979.

A survey of the industry indicates that practically every imaginable sort of leather is manufactured and utilized in Canada, and that whilst a substantial import is found necessary, there is an export trade of equal volume to balance it. Over the past several years, there has been an almost exact balance between the import and export trade. Total imports in the year 1921 amounted to $4,059,222 in comparison with $8,467,528 in 1920 and $11,143,556 in 1919. The chief articles of import are waxed or glazed skins, glove leathers and upper leathers. The corresponding exports in 1921, $4,025,420, in 1920 $7,692,328, and in 1919 $10,199,698. The principal articles of export are harness leather, sole leather and upper leather.

Dandelions Outwit the Lawn Mower.

To see the manner in which a dandelion plant spreads itself close to the ground on a lawn kept closely cut is almost to believe that the dandelion is possessed of the power to think and to reason out a way to circumvent the constant menace from the whirling lawn mower. In tall grass the dandelion grows upright, taking the form of the erect-growing Cos Lettuce, or Swiss Chard. Now, if that grass is cut and kept cut the dandelion plant that formerly set its leaves almost perpendicularly into the air sends them out almost horizontally.

Why? If you will take a tin can and a glass jar and place them over dandelion plants on the lawn and leave them undisturbed for a day or two you will be astonished at the difference in the growth of the two plants. The dandelion growing under the glass jar will be found apparently just as it was in the beginning.

But when the tin can is removed a plant will be seen that is shooting its leaves up into the air just as did the dandelion in the tall grass. Light causes the upper sides of the leaves to grow more rapidly than the lower sides, so that they more closely approach the horizontal as the light becomes more intense. In the shade of the tall grass or the tin can this stimulus is removed and both sides of the leaves grow uniformly, they grow erect.

Every day for two years 35,000 War Service Medals were engraved with the recipient's name, etc., by an Edgeware firm of medal makers. This is a record in this work.

Electric light has been successfully used in Germany for forcing lettuce and other vegetables. This method is said to produce crops in half the time required by Nature's own method.

Surnames and Their Origin

MAYNARD

The name of "Maegenheard" does not sound very French. As a matter of fact it is distinctly Teutonic. Yet it should be remembered that while the French language is a modified development of Latin, the names of the French are in the big majority of cases of Teutonic origin, for ancient Gothic blood preponderates in modern French veins (certain localities excepted), being in somewhat greater percentage than that of the original Gauls or Celts, and overwhelmingly greater than Roman blood.

When the conquering Goths swept down over the ruins of the Roman empire they quickly adopted the superior language and civilization of their foes, but naturally did not change their own names, which in the course of time have been modified rather than abandoned.

"Maegenheard" was a given name in which were combined the roots of our modern English words, "might" and "hard," or "chardy." The Normans brought it into England with a "y." Thus the family name of Maynard is an English development of the given name, Menard, as might be expected from the further simplification to which the French tongue has tended, is the French form, a family name quite common in that country. Menard occurs as a variation sometimes of the English and sometimes of the French name.

BLEEKER

Variation—Bleeker, Blaketer, Blakman, Bleicher, Blegier.
Racial Origin—Dutch, English, German and Danish.
Source—An occupation.
Here is a family name which very well illustrates the common ancestry of the Teutonic tongues. It's an occupational name. That is to say, it was used first in connection with the given name to indicate the calling of the person referred to.

The number of generations it took such names to lose their descriptive significance and become mere family "tags" varied with the individual circumstances. It generally depended upon the continuity of occupation from father to son.

The "bleecker" of Holland was a bleacher of linens. In this country the form of the name has often been shortened to Blecker. Apparently (and history verifies the observation) the linen industry was more important in Holland in the middle ages than it was in England, for the imported Dutch name is more common to-day than that of English origin, which is Blaketer or Blakman.

"Bleicher" is the German word for bleacher, and "bleger" is the Danish.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL.

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well, if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the bowels, sweetens the stomach, banishes constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthy sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

My Little Soul.

In church I sit, while all about,
I think of people bow in sober prayer,
In worship earnest and devout—
And yet my little soul goes out
And seeks the open air.

It wanders out among the trees,
It kisses all the grasses slim,
It whispers with the droning bees
While through the windows, on the breeze,
Come echoes of a hymn.

It flutters up among the throng
Of blossoming leaves that gayly nod
To welcome it; and while the song
Floats up from worship—glad and strong
My little soul finds God.

Treasure.

What have I counted as life's gold?
A tree, the smell of autumn fire;
Some hours of peace I could not hold;
Love, in a Western shire.

Stars when you lie upon your back;
Hills that hold a water-cup;
All gleaming parallels of track,
All brown roads leading up.
—Orrick Johns.

Make the Forests Safe for Trees.

One and one-half million dollars plus is the amount of the protection supplied from all sources to the Canadian forests. The plus represents the interest of the people of this country in the forests and their care in preserving them from fire. It is upon this latter the future of the forest and of the products of the forest are dependent. The money expended is largely used to guard against and counteract the carelessness of our people with fire.

The total value of forest products in Canada in 1920, the last year for which complete returns are available, was approximately $316,000,000, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior. To this, of course, must be added the increased value due to processes of manufacture through which wood passes in reaching its complete form. This would at least double its value, and there is total value over six hundred million dollars. The one and one-half million dollars, therefore, would represent an insurance cost equal only to about one-half of one per cent. of the value of the product of the forest.

We are in trouble without a match, when our newspaper is not on hand there is a real emergency for us, and in numerous other matters the products of the forest are indispensable. They enter so intimately into the lives of the people to-day that each and every one should reinforce this money expenditure with personal responsibility for care with fire in the bush, as well as interest others and do their part in making the Canadian forests safe for trees.

LOW SPIRITED AND DEPRESSED

A Condition Due to Poor Blood and Weak Nerves.

Nearly all women and most men suffer at times from fits of depression and low spirits, from which they are unable to free themselves. They cannot attend to their duties satisfactorily and are unable to get any pleasure out of life. People who suffer in this way soon lose their energy of mind and body. They lack vitality because their blood is poor and ill-nourished, and their nerves are starved in consequence. The only way to obtain new health is by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The new rich blood made by those pills will carry renewed health and energy to every part of the body. Your appetite will improve, your spirits brighten and you will be endowed with fresh energy and find a new joy in living. Mrs. G. Reid, Napanee, Ont., tells of the benefit she found through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on different occasions and cannot emphasize too strongly the benefits derived from them. I was growing nervous, my complexion was becoming sallow and my eyes dull and listless. My vitality was poor and I did not sleep well. I became despondent, losing interest in my work, which seemed to tire me so easily. I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking six boxes I began to enjoy life again. I looked bright and healthy and felt happier. My appetite improved, I gained in weight and could sleep without any nervous wakefulness during the night. I also used these pills while nursing my baby and found them a wonderful help both for myself and for making my baby better than I was. For these reasons, I gladly recommend them to anyone who needs a tonic for the rebuilding of strength and energy."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Song Sparrow's Nest.

Here where tumultuous vines
Shadow the porch at the west,
With tender enticements
Under a song sparrow's nest.

She in her pendulous nook
Sways with the warm wind tide,
I with a pen or a book
Rock as soft at her side.

Comrades with nothing to say,
Neither of us intrudes,
But through the lingering day
Each of us sits and broods.

Not upon hate and fear,
Not upon spite or doubt,
Not upon grief or sneer,
These we could never hatch out.

She broods on wonderful things;
Quickening life that belongs
To a heart and a voice and wings,
But—I'm not so sure of my songs!

Then in the summer night,
When I awake with a start,
I think of the nest at the height—
The leafy height of my heart!

I think of the mother love,
Of the patient wings close ferried,
Of the sky that broods above,
Of the love that broods on the world.
—Ethelwyn Wetherald.

"He is Called Jesus."
According to the "Matin," the oldest description of Jesus Christ has just been discovered in an old Latin text in the Vatican Library, which has been revised under the supervision of Pope Pius XI.

It is a police report under Pro-Consul Publius Lentulus, who, it is stated, was the predecessor of Pontius Pilate. The police description of Jesus Christ is as follows:— fair hair falling in curls on the shoulders. They are parted in the middle. Christ wears the double-pointed beard which is fairer than the hair. His eyes are light blue and wear a kind expression; but at times they flash under the stress of temper.

"He is of normal build and stands erect. The voice is soft. He was never seen to laugh, but people often saw him cry. His hands are very well kept."

"He is called Jesus, son of Mary. His friends also call him the son of God."

Defaced it stands! I do not know your name.
Who peeled this birch-bark tree, but ah, the shame!
You wanted on a bit of bark to send. A maudlin little message to a friend?
To make a napkin ring, or some such trash?
And so with pocketknife you needs A ghastly wound, and peel a birch-bark tree.
Out of my thoughts, Oh you, whoever you be!
—Margaret Clarke Russell.

No Scarlet Flowers Have Scent.

Have you ever noticed that the prevailing color of early spring flowers is yellow? The buttercup, daffodil, primrose, and cowslip are examples. There are many curious points about the colors of flowers. According to a list compiled by a botanist out of a thousand different species of flowers, 287 are white, 223 yellow, 222 red, 144 blue, 72 violet, 36 green, 12 orange, and 4 brown. The botanist speaks of two varieties as black, but it is generally understood that there is no such thing as an absolutely black flower.

More than one flower changes its color during its period of blooming. For instance, the beautiful double flowers of the Hebeus mutabilis are white on opening in the morning, become pink at noon, turn red at sunset, and at night fade to a bluish tint. The tree is a native of China and Japan, but grows also in the East and West Indies.

Another shrub, the Chinese hydrangea, has flowers which are green when they first open and change later to a rose color. Third in the list is the Cheiranthus mutabilis, of which the blossom changes from yellow to orange, then to red, and ends by becoming a deep purple. Even so common a flower as the phlox is first blue and then pink, while the forget-me-not changes from a yellow tint to its true and beautiful blue.

Among white flowers only fifteen out of a hundred have any scent; among yellow and violet each about nine per cent. Few blue flowers are scented, the most notable exception being probably the Roman hyacinth, which, whether double or single, is deliciously fragrant.

Among scarlet flowers there is not one which has any scent. As a rule, the more brilliant the color of a flower, the less likely it is to be scented.

Plants with sweet-smelling flowers are more common in dry than in moist climates. Thyme, sage and lavender, for instance, bloom profusely on dry uplands and fill the air with their scent, but the wild flowers of low or swampy ground are seldom highly scented, and if they are their odors are unpleasant.

Insect Bites.

The insect enemies of man are numerous, especially in the tropics and the North during the summer, and their stings are often extremely painful; fortunately, however, they are seldom dangerous.

The parasites of man and of his couch and also the flying bloodsuckers such as gnats and mosquitoes, inflict a painless sting, but one nevertheless that causes swelling and considerable itching. The irritation is owing to formic acid or some other substance that the insect injects for the purpose of thinning the blood and preventing its coagulating until it can be sucked in. The itching ceases when the acid is neutralized by an alkaline application such as ammonia, soda, lime-water, glycerin or soap. The application should be made immediately after the bite, before scratching has abraded the skin and has given opportunity for the germs of inflammation to infect it.

Attacks of insects, especially of the flying ones, can be more or less prevented by the external use of oil of citronella, cedar oil or kerosene. The most serious stings are inflicted by outdoor insects—ants, bees, wasps, hornets, spiders, tarantulas, scorpions and centipedes. The ordinary ants of temperate regions are not formidable, though black ants may inflict a somewhat painful sting. In the tropics some of the ants are vicious and dangerous on account of their numbers. Tales are told of ants surrounding men and animals and actually killing and eating them.

The stings of bees, wasps, and hornets are familiar to most of us. A few spiders, among which are tarantulas, centipedes, their bite causes an inflammatory and often painful swelling together with general symptoms such as dizziness, faintness, nausea, blurred vision, headache, numbness of the extremities and sometimes even slight paralysis. In the case of children the symptoms may be alarming, and with infants the swelling may be fatal. It is best to apply ammonia to the bite at once and to give strong coffee or some other stimulant to drink.

Mrs. Connor Declares Stomach Trouble Was So Bad She Could Hardly Eat At All.

"If I hadn't gotten Tanlac when I did I believe I would have had to go to a hospital," declared Mrs. Wm. Connor, 226 Hess St., Hamilton, Ont., recently. "My stomach was so disordered that everything I ate made me deathly sick and caused pains in the pit of my stomach that nearly drove me distracted. Often the agony was so great I couldn't help crying, and for two or three days at a time I wouldn't eat a morsel of food. I was as nervous as a witch, miserable for the want of sleep and often wonder now how I lasted through it all.

"The splendid results my husband got from Tanlac about a year ago caused me to try it, and the treatment ended my suffering in a few weeks' time, and gave me a new lease on health. I don't believe there's a healthier woman in Hamilton than I am now, and I can't praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

Concerning Moonlight.

It is probable that very few persons are aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the half moon. They may be still more surprised to learn that the ratio is approximately as nine to one.

Stebbins and Brown, taking advantage of the extreme sensitivity to light of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surfaces of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter.

27 world-wide tests establish proof of Studebaker Light-Six economy

The fuel economy of the Studebaker Light-Six has been positively proved by 27 world-wide tests, which established an average of 26.9 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Light-Six consumption of gasoline and oil is low. Tire mileage runs high. And its low repair cost will be attested to by Studebaker's limited volume of repair parts sales, which in 1922, averaged only $13 per car for all Studebaker automobiles in operation.

When you consider that the cost of the Light-Six is but $1375, and that your purchase will enable you to enjoy the economy, smoothness of operation, and the flexibility of a perfected six-cylinder engine, isn't it sound business to invest in a Studebaker Light-Six—just as thousands of other buyers have done?

FEELS LIKE A YOUNG GIRL AGAIN

Dragged to the Verge of Despair by Twelve Years' Unbroken Misery; Mrs. Garnett's Case a Most Remarkable Recommendation for Drecto; Also Helps Her Husband.

Picture the joy of Mrs. E. E. Garnett, of 715 Maitland St., London, Ontario, who has found quick and permanent relief from twelve long years of suffering that was rapidly wrecking her life. Picture how, in her new found happiness and faith in the medicines of Drecto, which she recommended to her husband and saw it quickly overcome for him a particularly distressing case of catarrh and rheumatism. Then you may have some appreciation of the great gratitude of this woman to Drecto, the greatest of all root remedies.

Says Mrs. Garnett: "For twelve years I suffered from chronic constipation and for the past three years the cruel torture of rheumatism added to my misery. I suffered agonies of pain through my right shoulder and was hardly able to lift my right arm. My limbs ached and I had severe pains through my back. My stomach was in a terrible condition. Gas would build me up and press against my heart. I got very little sleep and would get up in the morning dead tired. Every medicine I tried was a failure, until in the depths of my discouragement I tried Drecto. I can eat anything, have no palpitations or gastric formations after meals and the pains in my limbs and shoulder are almost gone. My constipation is fully relieved and I wake up in the mornings refreshed and bright and as happy as a young girl. Drecto also brought immediate relief to my husband, who had suffered severely from rheumatism and catarrh. It has aided his digestion and helped him in every way. Drecto is the greatest medicine we ever heard of and we cannot thank it enough for renewing for us health from our years of distress."

No suffering from kidney, stomach, liver or intestinal disorders is too severe or too deep rooted for Drecto to overcome. It acts quickly and gently, toning and regulating the whole system. This natural herb and root remedy is bringing new life and hope to the most despondent sufferers.

Drecto is being especially introduced in Glencoe by P. E. Lumley, and is sold by a good druggist everywhere.

Virginia's Different Dominion Day

BY MABEL MARTIN

"Don't waste any more breath! I'm going to stay home. I'll have a different Dominion Day this year, if I have to sleep all day. Every year since I can remember we have gone to Mayfield. You couldn't drag me there this year." And Virginia Bolton looked obstinate, daring her family to oppose her.

"But Virginia," remonstrated her younger sister Myrtle, "there'll be young folks there from all over the county. Maybe you'd meet someone new you'd like."

"At this Walter laughed. When he wished to exasperate Virginia he told her she was unmarried at twenty-eight, not because she liked her teaching and valued her independence, but because she seldom met men other than those with whom she had grown up.

"Just think, Virgie," he admonished, "you might meet your fate. You ought to go as a matter of principle."

"And you ought to stop teasing your sister as a matter of principle," placidly retorted Mrs. Bolton. "Of course, Virginia, stay home if you really want to. But won't you be lonesome with just Uncle Jerry? There's to be a fine parade this year, speeches in the grove. And special speakers coming from the city. You'd like to hear them."

"Not I, mother dear," replied Virginia. "I can't think of anything I'd hate worse. So we'll call it settled. And Uncle Jerry and I will keep house and 'tend the chickens.'"

Tending the chickens was a stock joke with the Boltons, since it was Uncle Jerry's invariable excuse for staying home from festivities and dozing on the south porch with his pipe and favorite farm paper.

So it happened that on the morning of a cloudless Dominion Day the Boltons packed themselves into the surrey with their lunch baskets. Virginia waved a gay farewell from the steps of the porch. She had planned a lazy day with a new book and a pantry stocked with left-over goodies.

"It'll rain," commented Uncle Jerry. "Nonsense, not a cloud in the sky," said Virginia.

"Can't help it. Allus does rain on Dominion Day an' allus will," and Uncle Jerry settled himself and his pipe in the old cushioned rocker. There was an imposing pile of magazines and books dealing with the doings of chickens on the table at his elbow. But whether Uncle Jerry read a great deal and dozed a little, or dozed a great deal and read a little, was a mooted question in the family.

Presently Virginia took her book and a two-pound box of chocolates to the hammock under the maple tree and near the clump of lilacs that had made spring a glory in the Bolton front yard.

Virginia's thin dress was cool and comfortable. The hammock swung lazily. The chocolates were all that could be desired and so was the book. Virginia sighed contentedly. Soon her eyes were shut and she was dreaming of floating along on one of the puffy clouds that were piled wily near the western horizon.

Suddenly Virginia dreamed that she fell from the cloud into the chicken yard, and awoke, really to hear a fearful squawk by her side. An automobile was coming rapidly along the road and the hen had decided that her only safety lay in getting home. There was a grinding of brakes, a series of explosions and with a snort of defiance, the machine came to a stop in the grassy gully a foot or so from the fence.

The man who had been driving leaped from the car and walked around it, looking it over. He made a number of remarks, half under his breath. Virginia could not hear all of them, which she thought was perhaps fortunate but, after serious investigation he began to look wildly about the landscape. He did not see Virginia but he did see that the house door was open and he started up the path with that air of determination and fine carelessness of convention which characterizes motorists in trouble.

Virginia saw that he was young. His brown hair clung damply to his heated forehead. His face was streaked with black. His hands were wet and grimed unspcakably. His linen duster was torn at the pockets. Altogether, he had a ferocious aspect. But Virginia was used to such visitors since she lived on a main road. She knew them for a mad but harmless tribe. Her glance struggled between a proper demure and definite amusement. His face took on a deeper shade of red.

"If you heard me—um—talking, I hasten to apologize. It's serious. I'm due to make a speech at Mayfield at one o'clock and it's nearly one now."

"Can't you fix it?" Her glance sought the disabled roadster.

"Not without repair parts I haven't with me. Maybe your father has them. What kind of a car does he drive?"

"Horses. He thinks them more trustworthy in the long run," said Virginia coolly. She felt cool and very impish.

"How about a train?"

"Three miles, and no train to Mayfield until five," Virginia responded, adding in a tone that she hoped would penetrate his armor: "You see we are entirely out of the world. You'd better telephone to Mayfield and tell them you can't get there."

"A telephone?" he cried, surprised and somewhat cheered. "Sure enough. Judge Curran went over from the city this morning on the train. They can get him to speak. Lead me to the telephone!"

Virginia was still more piqued by the stranger's extravagant welcome of the telephone. Convinced that she did not like having her quiet day disturbed by a wild-looking young man who demanded cars and repair parts and trains and telephones, and who looked with scorn upon country people, she grudgingly indicated the open front door of the house and said in a tone of edged politeness:

"Walk in and make yourself at home. The screen's not latched. The telephone's right there, in the hall."

Her manner at last made an impression. The young man said stiffly:

"Awfully sorry to inconvenience you. I must telephone but after that I won't trouble you. My name is Atwater. Donald Atwater. I was to speak at Mayfield. After all, you have some responsibility. 'Why didn't you call your chicken off?'"

"It may have been our chicken," retorted Virginia, "but why didn't you stop before you got to it? It made noise enough."

He turned toward the house without answering. He had been driving mechanically, with his thoughts far from autos and farther from chickens. He looked so ludicrous with the black streaks decorating that expression of wounded dignity.

Virginia relented and called softly: "Mr. Atwater, you can get Mayfield by calling Mayfield 226 and the operator there will find a way to put your message through. It is altogether too bad!"

He made no sign that he had heard and disappeared into the house. After an interval he came out and without a glance in Virginia's direction he reached the roadster.

In the hammock Virginia swung idly; in the road Donald Atwater appeared to work energetically on his car. In the west there was a low rumbling of distant thunder. Virginia looked up as the hurrying clouds obscured the sun. Uncle Jerry, who had comfortably dozed the morning through, appeared at the corner of the porch and gazed in some surprise at the roadster by the fence.

"Goin' to rain, Virgie," he called. "I said it in your young man to eat. 'Nofful storm comin'." Then he hobbled to the house.

Virginia glanced toward the roadster. The "bumpious creature" was putting down the hood of his engine and wrapping up his tool kit. He looked rather forlorn and somewhat like a sulky boy. Virginia gathered up her chocolates and her book and went swiftly across the grass to the gate.

"Mr. Atwater, I really beg your pardon. Won't you come into the house. It's going to pour. Er—my Uncle Jerry invites you to have lunch. Surely you are hungry enough by this time to forgive me for my rudeness."

The combination of a promised lunch, the rain and Virginia's really disarming penitence were too much for Donald Atwater. Like two friendly children they ran up the path and reached the house as the storm broke in a furious onslaught.

An hour later the storm was over. The sun slanted through the dining-room. They were making a hearty luncheon of which the main ingredients were a huge platter of cold chicken, a crisp apple pie and a three-storey layer chocolate cake.

In the cool of the evening the service station at Mayfield responded to a telephone call for help and the roadster started, ignominiously towed, to finish its journey. Its owner, after slightly fervent good-byes, went with it, intending to catch a night train for Gorton from Mayfield.

Virginia was left sitting in the hammock in the summer night. Walter came toward her from the gate, having seen their guest disappear over the hill.

"Some Dominion Day for you, all right!" he remarked inelegantly. "If capturing the main speaker of the day and keeping him to yourself while the crowd went without, isn't different? I don't know what is."

"You know he couldn't help it!" retorted Virginia warmly.

"Sure he couldn't help it!" responded Walter. "Who can stand against a hen—or even a chicken? Didn't act much as if he wanted to help it. I'd give a cookie to know, though, just what the matter with his car."

"Maybe you'll have a chance to ask him Sunday," said Virginia kindly. "He's coming out. He asked to call properly."

Community Picnic for July First

By Pearl Bailey

Community picnics are becoming more popular every year as the best means of gathering families, friends and neighbors together to celebrate the First of July.

The picnic place should be an attractive outdoor spot where everyone may share in games and fun, and be central or easy of access so it can be reached without too much effort on the part of those responsible for getting the dinner there and served.

The men usually take charge of the entertainment part of the picnic and have a committee appointed to assign duties and look after the games and prizes. Girls should be on this committee too. It is most important to have a committee of the women folk and girls to take charge of the dinner arrangements and serving; the men folk can help on this committee.

This committee should consist of three or five or more, if it is a great picnic. The committee assigns duties to the different families, plans the menu several days beforehand and knows definitely what each one may be depended upon to bring. In this way there will be no danger of food shortage or excess.

A dinner to be served to large numbers in the open is best prepared at home and carried to the picnic grounds ready to serve. Coffee should be made on the grounds, and plenty of it, piping hot, should be provided.

Where distances are not too great, almost any good hot dish may be prepared at home and carried in some way that it will be hot at serving time.

Hot foods are best cooked in large granite pans which retain the heat and are safer than other pans. Be careful about using tin pans as serious poisoning may result from a careless use of tin.

Cold salads are put into glass jars and these, if heavily wrapped in damp cloths, carry very nicely and remain quite cold until serving time.

Remember to cut sandwiches thin and make them neat and attractive. Keep them moist by wrapping them in a damp cloth or paraffin paper. Wrap two or three together for individual serving.

In planning the amount of food, count the approximate number to be served, and allow two good servings for each one.

Ask each family to bring enough silver, cups, plates and napkins and a table cloth for their own needs; and to be responsible for their own belongings and dishes after the dinner is over.

Two coffee pots for the coffee are much better than one large pot—for one may be kept hot while serving from the other. The coffee may be served from the end of the table and in this way very little waitress work will be required.

After the dinner is over each picnicker clears up his own dishes, scraps and crumbs and one appointed member of each family puts away all the things belonging to that family.

I am offering a few simple hot and cold dish suggestions which may be useful to the committee in planning the community dinner menu.

Hot Dishes—Creamed potatoes, scalloped corn, baked beans, coffee, chicken pie, baked rice with cheese, baked rice with tomatoes, fried chicken, chocolate.

Cold Dishes—Veal loaf, beef loaf, cold tongue, boiled ham, pressed chicken, sandwiches—olive, nut, cheese, lettuce. Cake, cookies, berry pies, strawberry tarts, lemonade, egg salad, potato salad, salmon salad, fruit jelly, cabbage salad with pimento, pickles, conserve and jelly, ice cream and candy.

PICNIC COFFEE.

Allow one tablespoon rounded measure of coffee for each guest to be served. Measure coffee into a bowl. Add the white of one egg for every seven persons to be served. Stir all together thoroughly until the coffee is wet evenly. Put in clean glass jars, cover tightly and it is ready to carry to the picnic.

To make the coffee, add to this mixture, in the pot, one large coffee cup of freshly drawn clean water, for each guest; stir grounds and water until well mixed and put on to boil. Let boil hard for three to five minutes and decaf it if it boils over. Remove from fire and let stand a few minutes to settle.

VEAL LOAF.

2½ lbs. veal, ½ lb. salt pork, 4 eggs, juice of small lemon, 1-3 cup catsup, 1 cup cracker crumbs, cayenne, salt, pepper, bit of butter.

Mix ingredients thoroughly and shape into a loaf, placing butter on top. Bake two hours in covered pan.

JELLIED CHICKEN.

Remove the skin and bones from a cooked chicken. Pick the meat apart and mix the fat and dark meat. Remove the liquor highly with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Cook down to about one cupful. Butter a mold and decorate the bottom and sides with slices of hard-boiled eggs. Pack the meat in solid, pour the liquor over and set away to cool for several hours. When ready to serve, dip the mold in warm water, turn out carefully. Garnish with celery tips and lemon.

THE UNION JACK.

Prophetic flag—
Flag of the Free!
Of right's eternal victory—
The cross emblem.
Thrice crossed with His insignia who we serve,
Laid and overlaid
On blue as colorful as the sea.

Triumphant flag!
Surely thy crosses red
Of Britain, speak the martyr dead,
By word and song
Carried on the glorious faith
Of Israel's prophetic race,
Which on thy wind-flung breadth we trace
In triple glory.

O, gallant flag!
Where thy unfurled folds have waved,
Freedom and righteousness have followed.
No enemy as yet hath stayed thy wide Dominion;
Far with thee, the race was dedicated
To carry on
Until the world be consecrate
To Him, who holds the winds
Upon which flow thy folds
Across the seven seas.

Dear flag!
Beloved in every land
Whose heritage is ours—
And by sister nations
Who name the name of love and freedom—
Surely at Heaven's command
Thou wert create
To fling abroad thy crosses three
Upon the sea.

So that we, who call thee ours,
Victoriously give thanks,
Give thanks to Him who called thee forth,
His word that saves to shield.

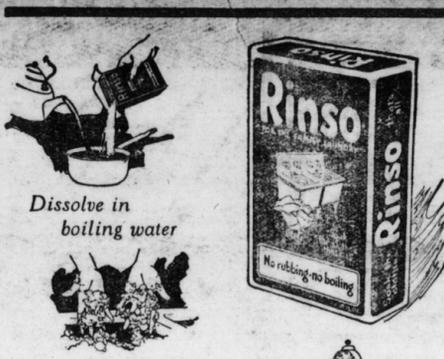

Brave flag!
Sustained by righteous power;
Under thy protecting
The inspired words of life
Goes forth upon the wave
Triumphantly
Unto the ends of all the earth
Making all peoples free.
—Mary Diamond Blomfield, Toronto.

Canada is bounded by three oceans; its 13,000 miles of coast line is nearly equal to half the circumference of the earth.

Perhaps if we farmers could get those who play golf to take their exercise in agricultural labor, the farm labor shortage would not be nearly so great.

Canada is the largest unit in the British Empire, with more than one-third of its area, being twice as large as the Roman Empire at its greatest extent.

Every section of Canada engaged in fruit production was successful in securing awards at the Imperial Fruit Show, London, England, in October, 1922, securing 46 prizes. Ontario led with 21, British Columbia 8, Nova Scotia 13, Quebec 2.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

Our Feathered Friends—Golden-Winged Woodpecker.

BY LERKINE BALLANTYNE

This is the season of the year many folks go househunting. When we see a house which suits them, they usually look at the outside and then go inside to look around. This is not the case with Mr. and Mrs. Woodpecker. When they see what might be a good home, they stand outside and hammer at the walls till everyone in the locality wonders what all the racket is about. You see, they hammer the walls to make sure they are strong and durable. Some times they beat the tattoo from sheer exuberance of joy, however, just as the robin sings his spring song for us.

The Golden-winged Woodpecker, or Flicker, as he is sometimes called, is a very beautiful bird, wearing a coat of golden brown striped with black, and across the top of his head is a bit of brilliant red. They make their nest in holes which they dig in dead poles or trees, and it is a well known fact that tree swallows, fly-catchers, and other species use their old nests, which they find very comfortable, since they are unable to bore one out for themselves, not having a bill like the flicker's, constructed for the purpose. The feet of the woodpecker fit in a remarkable way when he is tapping at trees. He has three toes in front, and a hind toe so well developed and as long as the middle front toe, and tipped with an unusually long claw by which he balances himself and can stand against a vertical surface with ease.

Unlike other woodpeckers, the flicker feeds upon ground insects, his particular delicacy being ants. They may take a little fruit in some localities, but if driven away or destroyed, the insects they feed upon would do far more damage than these beautiful feathered friends.

Getting in Harmony.

In the good old days of pioneer farming the scythe was a very important piece of farm equipment. Even now we can hark back and see the haymaker as he completed the swath at the end of the field, bring the heel of the scythe to his breast, pull from the hip pocket a worn whetstone, and fit the keen blade for another round.

At first the stone clangs against the side of the blade. Shortly one can detect a slight musical note creeping into the grinding noise. Then in a moment the iron and the stone lose their clamor entirely and the tone of the one becomes exactly harmonized to the tone of the other. There is music and then the haymaker knows that it is ready to lay another swath with the least muscular effort.

It would appear, in a general way, that this is what we should seek in life, to get ourselves working harmoniously with those about us. Let the clang knock off the superstitions and suspicions, and then, keep on in faith and hope till our life has been adjusted to that of our neighbor, and our community is adjusted to other communities. It is simply another way of repeating in concert the old, but much broken, golden rule.

Canada has 600 historic sites.

The Maple.

I am a tree, a great tall tree,
Sturdy and steadfast, fearless and free,
Golden-tipped arrows, that all the day long,
Swift from the Sun,
Flick and fan,
Dance with my leaves in their mad Summer song;
Till the great sun, in a rose and gold nest,
Carries them off to the world in the west,
Then, when my shadow lies black at my side,
All through the night,
Silver and white
Moonbeams creep down from the heavens and glide
Swift through the darkened earth,
Shunning the shade,
—Swift to the darkened west—
tremble and fade.

Mad merry Summer in mad merry flight;
Bright, happy morning, to still shadowed night.
On to the chilly winds, shortening days,
Clear sunny distances, shrouded in haze,
Clouds swelling up with the promise of snow—
After it all,
Late in the Fall,
Paint I my leaves in their gaudiest glow,
Flaunt them all proudly in one last fling,
Scatter them gaily and slumber till Spring.

—Dora Sanders, Norwich, Ont.

Two Mammoth Mistakes.

The almanac, that volume solemn
Which never says "Perhaps," "We guess,"
Or "Maybe," but in every column
Is positive as great Queen Bess,
Makes two mistakes so large and glaring
It's really very strange and queer
That editors, to faults unsparring,
Should let them pass from year to year.

Why, 'tis enough quite to dishearten
Some folks to read this statement,
Through
Which any child in kindergarten
Would know at once must be untrue.
I mean, there where it says (you've seen it)
In June the longest days are here.
Vacation days! No one could mean it;
Why, they're the shortest of the year!

Then blunder number two: Remember
When Christmas Day is most in sight,
About the middle of December,
And you are counting day and night,
When shopping's thrilling and mysterious,
And folks have queer deceptive ways,
That almanac (it can't be serious!)
Declares those are the shortest days!

—Minnie Leona Upton, in Youth's Companion.

Fruit Crops in Canada.

Last year, according to the Fruit and Vegetable Crop Report of the Dominion Fruit Branch, a bumper crop was harvested of practically all varieties of cherries, plums, peaches, and pears. The plum crop was particularly heavy, averaging almost 300 per cent. over that of 1921, and the peach crop in the Niagara district of Ontario was not only one of the heaviest on record, but also of excellent quality. The production of apples was less in every province; in 1922 than in 1921, excepting only in Quebec, where there was an increase of over 75,000 barrels, as an offset against a total deficiency in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Ontario of 227,778 barrels. British Columbia was shy 172,449 boxes, the numbers being 3,000,000 boxes in 1922 compared with 3,172,449 in 1921. Ontario produced a large crop of all small fruits, with the exception of raspberries, which suffered from winter injury and later on from disease. In British Columbia the small fruit crop was rather less in 1922 than in 1921, strawberries and raspberries both suffering winter injury. The Report states that on the Canadian markets the wholesale prices throughout last year were low, mainly due to the large shipments of inferior quality low-grade stock. All the provinces report a backward season this year, but trees and plants are generally stated to have wintered well.

Canada has constructed 18,000 miles of good main roads.

Canada's average farm is 150 acres. Based on this estimate the Dominion can provide for an agricultural population of nearly 15,000,000.

Canada's grain wizard, Dr. Charles E. Saunders, late Dominion Cerealist, discovered Marquis, Prelude, Ruby and Early Red Fife wheat, and Liberty (hull-less) oats, thus adding millions to the wealth of Canada.

DEATH FROM CYCLONE IN SASKATCHEWAN

Others Badly Injured—Great Loss to Property is Reported.

Saskatoon, Sask., June 17.—One death, several injured, and a rapidly mounting toll of property damage had been reported here to-night up to eight o'clock in a hurricane which swept Central Saskatchewan on Saturday night. Storm fronts were demolished, farm buildings carried hundreds of yards through the air, telephone lines blown down and a farm house destroyed by lightning, according to reports received here from points over a two-hundred-mile radius. Victor Cassidy, 15, was killed when a bunk house in which he was staying on a farm near Roseston, was picked bodily and blown twenty yards through the air. The lad fell on and was dashed to death on the ground. Ten miles northwest of Roseston a shack in which Mr. and Mrs. Nile Woods were sleeping was picked up by the wind and tumbled for a mile and a half across the prairie. The woman escaped with a bad shaking up but Woods is reported in a serious condition.

Winnipeg, June 17.—Slight damage resulted from high winds at Brandon, Man., where windows were broken, trees uprooted and fences blown over, according to reports reaching here to-night. Dust clouds blackened the city for fifteen minutes and a slight rainfall followed the storm.

Souris and Portage la Prairie, Man., are reported to have suffered considerably from wind damage, but with telephone lines working erratically, no confirmation of the report could be obtained up to a late hour to-night. In Winnipeg there was a light shower of rain during the afternoon and a heavy wind storm of a few minutes' duration early this evening. But no damage is reported.

Ernfold, Sask., June 17.—Terrific electric storms and cyclone struck Ernfold and the vicinity Saturday night at twelve o'clock, demolishing all large barns and overturned out-buildings, carrying them several yards and depositing them on new lots. Many windows were broken. Rural districts have not yet been heard from owing to telephonic communication being cut off east of here.

Regina, June 18.—The village of Ernfold, Sask., 67 miles west of Moose Jaw, is to-day a mass of wreckage as a result of a cyclonic wind that swept over the district at midnight Saturday. The damage to buildings in the immediate vicinity is placed at $40,000. Buildings are down in all directions, practically every window in the area being blown out. The high wind damaged growing crops to a considerable extent. Flocks of poultry have simply disappeared.

The nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rudd of Uren, who was returning to her home from Chapin with her parents, was blown from the buggy just at the outskirts of Uren, and was lost for ten hours. The buggy was upset just as the child was torn from her mother's grasp. In the inky darkness and raging wind and rainstorm the little one could not be located by the frantic parents, who shouted and sought in vain.

Provincial police officers organized a search before 1 o'clock, and assisted by residents of the district, found the little girl sound asleep in a deserted shack a mile and a half from the point where the buggy upset. The child appeared none the worse for the experience.

Duke and Duchess of York Receive Canadian Rug

A despatch from Ottawa says:—During his recent visit to England, Major H. K. Hodgson, private secretary to His Excellency the Governor-General, presented to Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York the wedding gift of Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy. The wedding present was a handsome rug made of the hide of the largest Buffalo killed at Wainwright Park last year. The presentation was made at Buckingham Palace, and Their Royal Highnesses expressed their pleasure at receiving such a characteristically Canadian gift.

France Shivering Under Blanket of Snow

Paris, June 18.—In the week of midsummer, France to-day is shivering beneath snowdrifts. Telegrams from Bourg-en-Bresse, only some thirty kilometres from Macon, state that snow is falling heavily. The same news is reported by Remiremont. Aurillac is suffering from an intense cold, which, it is believed, has killed all the crops.

Canadian Minister of Justice, who heads a delegation to Washington seeking for the restoration to Canada of property owned by Germans resident in Canada, and seized by the United States during the war. The property involved is said to be worth two million dollars worth of stock in Canadian corporations.

Low Death Rate in England, and Fewer Births

A despatch from London says:—The vital statistics of England and Wales for the first quarter of 1923 show that nearly all records were broken. There were fewer births than in any similar period except during the war. The death rate was the lowest ever recorded, as was also the mortality rates for infants under one year.

Canada's total exports (Canadian produce) in April, 1923, were valued at $63,642,251, of which $25,941,321 went to the United States and $33,607,566 to the United Kingdom. This is an increase in the total of more than $20,000,000 over exports of Canadian produce last April. Imports for consumption during the month of April last were valued at $72,181,820, compared with $47,695,464 for the corresponding month a year ago.

Trees to the number of 10,000 were distributed among Saskatoon school children by the Parks Officials and Dominion Forestry Branch on the occasion of Arbor Day. Each child received one maple and one ash. Last year only 5,000 trees were distributed.

Parasitic Wasps to Fight Corn Borers

United States Bug Experts Send Insects to Assistance of Dominion Entomologists. A despatch from Winnipeg says:—Dominion bug experts will import from the United States this summer a horde of parasitic wasps which they will turn loose in the Canadian corn belt to destroy and fatten upon their hereditary enemy, the corn boring worm.

Until the United States entomologists discovered in France the tiny wasp, there was no known means of destroying the borer without also destroying the corn. This insect does the trick, according to Mr. Walton.

Brought to America to a new hunting ground, it was discovered he liked the climate, reared large families, and had a predilection for corn borers, making his home in the husk of the ear within easy striking distance of his game.

With the aid of this parasite considerable progress has been made toward exterminating the borer from the corn fields of the United States, Mr. Walton reported. It is now planned to bring several armies of the insect from the Government nurseries across the border and liberate them, in midsummer, in Ontario and other provinces of the corn belt where the borer has been most destructive.

Since the commencement of the year to the end of the first week in May, over 58,000 acres of homestead lands have been filed on at the Edmonton Land Office. The total number of persons filing on their lands numbered 365. Figures for the year 1922 show that 1,500 homesteads were filed on in the Edmonton registration area, giving a total of 254,400 acres in all.

The tree planting division of the Dominion Forestry Branch from their nurseries at Indian Head and Sutherland, Sask., have completed the 22nd annual distribution of seedlings and cuttings of trees for shelter belt and windbreak planting in the three prairie provinces. From 58,000 trees with less than 100 applications in 1901, the demand has increased yearly to the present annual output of 6,000,000 trees to well over 4,000 farmers.

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—Dominion bug experts will import from the United States this summer a horde of parasitic wasps which they will turn loose in the Canadian corn belt to destroy and fatten upon their hereditary enemy, the corn boring worm.

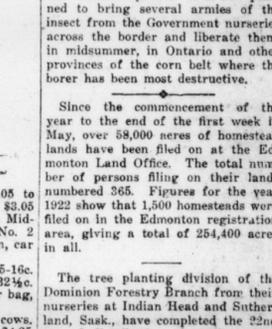

The campaign will be waged along lines drawn by W. R. Walton, superintendent of the insect division of the United States Bureau of Entomology, who offered his aid at a recent meeting of grain growers. Wherever corn is grown in America, there lives the corn borer, taking his toll of millions of dollars from the value of the crops each year. He makes his home within the green husk of the tender plant, and eats his way over the milky ear, completing his work of destruction long before the crop matures. Until the United States entomologists discovered in France the tiny wasp, there was no known means of destroying the borer without also destroying the corn. N. R. Hendershott, of the Bank of Montreal, moved with his family to Windsor last week, having received promotion. While every one wishes them all success, we cannot but regret very much the removal of this family. Mr. Hendershott as manager of the bank was well thought of, and for his interest in every thing that went for good citizenship he and his wife will be greatly missed. Mr. Hendershott is succeeded here by R. E. Winters, formerly accountant at the Brantford branch. Another change in the bank staff here is the resignation of Jas. Marshall, teller, who has secured a good position in his home town, Guelph. His successor, W. S. Bowland of Tupperville, has arrived and taken up his work.

Cause of Asthma. No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asthmatic conditions. Dust from the street, from flowers, from grain and various other irritants may set up a trouble impossible to eradicate except through a sure preparation such as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but there can be no uncertainty regarding a remedy which has freed a generation of asthmatic victims from this scourge of the bronchial tubes. It is sold everywhere.
