THE SITUATION. London, July 23.-Tonight the standing of the various parties in the House of Commons is as follows: Conservatives 309

McCarthyites..... 56

Ontoday's returns the Conservatives have gained three seats, the Unionists one and the Parnellites one. Among the defeated candidates are the Labor leaders, Tom Mann and Clem. Edwards, who shared the fate of many of their fellows. Mann ran as an Independent Labor candidate in the Colne Valley district of Yorkshire, and had as opponents Sir J. Kitson, the Liberal representative, and Harold Thomas, Unionists. The Liberals won with a smaller majority than they had in 1892, and Mann was third in the race, with 1,245 votes. Clem. Edwards had the Liberal and Labor support in the Tot-tenham division of Middlesex. At the start he had to face a Conservative majority of 1,720 in 1892. This year the Conservatives piled up a majority of

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, who was defeated in Derby, has been returned for West Monmouth by a majority of 7,243, or 23 less than the Libwarmington, who resigned his candi-made by S dacy in favor of Sir William on the latter's defeat in Derby, was to have stood without opposition. Sir William, notwithstanding his experience in Derby, persisted in declaring in his speeches in West Monmouth that temperance was still the chief plank in his platform.

FERDINAND NOT WANTED. London, July 23.-Truth tomorrow will print a dispatch from Carlsbad saying that Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, told some of his friends that he had telegraphed to his Ministers that he would return to Sofia immediately, but that the Ministers replied that they would resign if he returned just_now, and advised him to remain alroad for the present.

RUSSIA'S WARLIKE MOVEMENTS. London, July 3.-A dispatch from St. Petersburg, via Eydtkuhnen, Prussia, on the Russian frontier, says that preparations have been completed to place 68,000 Russian troops in two army corps on the frontiers of Manchuria and Corea, besides sending 12,000 men by transport steamer service to Vladivostock. West Siberian and Turkestan divisions will be ready within a month to operate on the frontier of Manchuria

DANGEROUS BLASTING. Niagara Falls, Ont., July 23.-Mayor Hanan of this town has received from Hon. W. H. Montague, Secretary of State, Ottawa, the following reply to his complaint regarding the heavy blasting by electric road contractors on the American side, the effects of which destroyed property and endangered lives on the Canadian side: "Telegram received. Have submitted matter to council, and communication is being had with British minister at Washington."

TO WHIP THE MACEDONIANS. Constantinople, July 23 .- It is announced that 20,000 men have been ordered to mobalize at Monastir, Macedonia. It is reported in an encounter at Uskup, 100 miles northwest of Salonica, betwen the insurgents and the Turkish troops the former were defeted with a loss of 30 killed and 30 wounded. The Ministers have decided to send 3,000 more men to reinforce the Turkish troops on the island of Crete. Sofia, July 23.-The grave of Stambouloff is guarded by police owing to threats which have been made to disinter the remains. The feeling here and in the large towns is one of disgust and dejection at the crime. Four persons, including Stambouloff's coachman, are in prison, charged with the crime.

Premier Stoiloff, of Bulgaria, in conrmity with Prince Ferdinand's wishes, undertook to promote a reconcilia-tion with Russia, but the movement has gone too far, and the Russophiles are now uppermost, and the Cabinet does not feel capable of checking the movement, which may result in the sacrifice of Bulgarian freedom, M. Stoiloff has proposed to resign.

BELGIANS BELLIGERENT. Brussels, July 23 .- A Radical and Socialist demonstration was made here today against the Government's sectrian education bills. The names of the King and his Ministers were hooted and the crowd became so disorderly that the police interfered. The efforts of the police to disperse the crowd met with much resistance, but after a time they succeeded in breaking up the gathering. Fifteen persons were arrested.

The trouble occurred at a fives' match at which King Leopold was a spectat-or. Cries of "Down with the school law" were hurled at the king, and the Loyalists responded with cries of "Vive le Roi." The mob tried to reach ten of the persons arrested, but the police charged the crowd and captured more of the rioters. Ten of those under arrest. will be tried on the charge of insulting their sovereign, and seven for issuing manifestoes without the printer's name.

DEADLY EXPLOSION. Chicago, July 23.-Dynamite instantly killed three men and seriously inured a fourth on the drainage canal this afternoon. The accident was caused by a premature explosion during the process of tamping. The dead are Wm. Kelly, aged, 32, Marquette, Mich.; Thomas Soaker, aged 45; Joseph Smith, aged 35.

A STRONG QUARTET. London, July 23.—The Daily News will tomorrow print a dispatch saying that Germany, Austria, Italy and England are in entire accord as to the course to be pursued in regard to Macedonia, and that Austria has been intrusted with the leading part. Austria as the first measure will secure the road to Salonica against the insurgents. It is believed that Servia and Greece will join in the movement.

TURKEY ALARMED. London, July 23 .- The Standard tomorrow will publish a dispatch from its Constantinople correspondent, saying it is reported that the council of Ministers had decided to call out the reserves along the whole seaboard of the empire in all European villayets. This, the correspondent adds, will entail great financial sacrifices, and can only be explained by an acute sense of the critical nature of the situation.

WOUNDED THE ADMIRAL. Toulon, July 23 .- A breech gun exploded on board the warship Bouvines during a trial here today, killing one sailor and wounding Admiral Chateauminois and two of his officers and several members of the crew. A majority of the wounded have been brought ashore and placed in the hos-

THE WAR IN CUBA. London, July 23 .- The Times tomorrow commenting on the situation in Cuba will say: At every turn Gome has out-gener alled the Spaniards. The troops have suffered harrassing attacks from the insurgents, and still more from the climate. It is not wonderful that the Spanish officers are discontented over their leader's generalship, although it is deplorable that they do not keep their dissatisfaction to themselves Unless they can capture the rebel chiefs it seems likely that the disastrous struggle will be indefinitely pro-onged. The Times expresses its sympathy with the inhabitants, who, it says, have but two good reasons for profound dissatisfaction with Spain. The paper trges that reasonable concessions be made by Spain to moderate Cuban au-

Rev. T. J. Conaty On "Roman Catholic Schools."

Religious Development of the United States-Educational Value of Women's Clubs-Toronto Newspapers Snubbed.

Toronto, July 23.—Rev. T. J. Conaty, Worcester, Mass., in his address on "Roman Catholic Schools," said: "If religion be left out of schools it will not be long before it is left out of homes and out of the church. He then very clearly and strongly mapped out the position which his church takes on the whole question of education and told his hearers how much the world owed to Roman Catholicism for preserving and developing in the dark ages the light of knowledge. This, he said, was an age of education, but the age did not owe everything to science. There was a great debt of gratitude to the past which could not be forgotten nor overlooked. He strongly combatted the contention that the Roman Catholic Church was opposed to mental devel-History during the past 100 years had been written with the pur-pose of proving that the church was despotic, but it d failed. The church had stood for education in every age and had ever been the friend of development. For 1,500 years the church had governed the world and had been solely instrumental in preserving the spark of knowledge. Monks taught mankind under the shadow of the church, and thousands drank learning from them in Alexandria, Jerusa-lem, Odessa and other cities. Ireland and England owed their standing as educational countries in the middle ages to the church, and it was through the efforts of the church that the great universities of Oxford, Paris, Padua Bologne and others had risen on the ashes of monastic teaching. The speaker pointed to the fact that many of the brightest names of mediaeval litera-ture were names of priests of the church. Touching upon the question of parochial schools, the speaker contended that they were very efficient under the direction of Christian Brothers. and that the education received in them was of as high an order as in any other schools. The attitude of the church to education was the same as its attitude to all other questions; it must serve to plant the kingdom of God in man; that must be its first and chief object.

Rev. A. Lazarus, Jewish rabbi, of Tollowed in a brief speech. At the educational section of the congress Mr. Caldecott, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, spoke on the "Industrial School." He asked if it would rescue boys from the danger of becoming criminals. Those who left the school, having learned a trade, did, according to statistics, show remarkably well, and he said he be-lieved it would. Drink, unthrifty habvicious associates, and want of skill, were the four great causes of poverty. Want of skill was, however, the great cause. There were too many young men who wanted to be above the work of their fathers, to many professional men, too many clerks, and not enough skilled labor. A boy or girl could be maintained in the industrial school for $100 to $110 a year, while each criminal costs the country $400

The closing meeting of the Pan-American Congress was held tonight. Rev. H. K. Carroll, editor of the New York Independent, discussed the religious development of the United States. He expressed his pleasure at the outset that there is no State church in his country, while he declared that all that was good in the state came from the church and the principles of the church.

Mrs. Charles Henrotin, of Chicago, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of America, spoke on "The Educational Value of Women's Clubs." She referred to the new woman, and maintained that woman from the beginning was the force making practical peace; she was the first spinner, the first agriculturist, the leader in the arts of peace. It is an error that her presence in the labor market is a new thing, for she has always been in it. Speaking of the Woman's Federa-tion, she said there were 467 clubs in The state and city associations have done much good, and the Chicago association particularly did noble work during the depression there. Mrs. Henrotin closed an able paper with the remark that it is her conviction that woman's reign is just beginning. Dr. W. H. Rogers, president of the Northwestern University, Ill., moved a resolution of thanks to the different committees and to the citizens of Torono for their hospitality. The Toronto newspapers were omitted from the vote of thanks. The chairman made no remarks on the subject, but he had in-timated previously that he had a pret-ty poor opinion of the local press.

Dr. Carns, of Chicago, presented a resolution dealing with future meetings of the Congress. It declared that the gathering recognize the good of such movements and the importance of continuing the organization and agitation on behalf of religious fraternity and human brotherhood in truth and love, and that to further this end they appoint in executive committee to which is committed the care of arrangements for the care of arrangements from the committee to which is committed the care of arrangements from the care of arrangements from the care of arrangements. rangements for future sessions. This committee included as its Canacian members W. B. McMurrich, Q.C., Toronto; Dean Harris, St Catharines; Rev. Prof. Clark, Toronto, and O. A. Howland, M.P.P., Toronto. The proceedings closed with a brief speech from President Smith, in which he spoke in congratulatory terms generally of the proceedings of the Congress now closed.

eight days ago by falling from a row-boat, has just been found. The wedding of Mr. John F. Stairs, M.P., of Halifax, to Mrs. Gerhart, daughter of Mr. Andrew Bell, of Almonte, and niece of Mr. B. Rosamonde, M.P., is announced to take place in Almonte on Aug. 14.

A party of bathers at St. Catharines Tuesday night discovered the body of Hogan (colored), the firebug, in the canal. He is supposed to have drowned himself after firing the premises of Stuart Jones. There is only 26 feet 5 inches of water in the harbor at Montreal at present. On the corresponding day last year the depth was 29 feet 9 inches. If the present lowering of the water continues, in less than a month the larger steamships will be unable to get in there.

Four of the officials employed in the Hamilton custom house received notice from Ottawa Tuesday morning that they are to be superannuated. Their names are A. T. Mackenzie, surveyor and acting collector; R. L. White, chief clerk; W. H. Woodward, clerk, and Herbert Dixon, chief landing waiter.

SILVER CITY IN RUINS. Scores of Buildings Washed Away by

Rains. Silver City, N. M., July 3.—The heavy rains of Sunday night wrought havoc at this point, many business houses being washed away by the floods and scores of private dwellings crumbling into the rushing waters. The loss will approximate $100,000. Another storm threatens the remainder of the city. The early reports of heavy loss of life are not confirmed.

DRIED UP!

Serious Results of I rought in Grey County-Farmers Obliged to Kill Their Cattle.

Toronto, July 23 .- In Grey county the rought is so severe that in order to feed cattle trees have been cut down to allow the animals to eat the leaves.

In other sections farmers are taking their cattle into the woods and shooting them. then cutting off the best portions of meat left on the poor thin carcasses and eating it, or distributing it to neighbors.

Meeting of farmers are being held at several points and petitions prepared for transmission to Ottawa, asking the Dominion Government to help the farmers bring hay from the Northwest to feed cattle.

Silver City, New Mexico, is said to have been nearly ruined by a cyclone on Monday. Fifty people are reported killed.

"Jack" Cannon, one of the most widely known and dangerous thieves in America, was arrested Tuesday morning at the Hotel Cadillac, Detroit, while he was in the act of using a skeleton key on the lock of a door occupied by a guest. The reports received by the United States Marine Hospital service from Cuba show for the week ending July 20 there were eighteen deaths from yellow fever and fifty-four new cases. For the week ending July 13 at Santiago de Cuba there were 41 deaths. The death rate has rapidly increased. A SOUTHERN "SOCIAL."

Huntington, W. Va., July 23.-A riot occurred at a country social last night in Union Ridge, this county, and a number of young men were badly injured. Floyd Daly was cut in the abdomen, Gordon Bryan had his throat cut, and Roscoe Bryan and Wash. Holley were severely clubbed. Holley has been unconscious ever since. MISSING EXPLORING PARTY

HEARD FROM.

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 23.—Definite news has been received at Lander, Wyo., of the Princeton geological expedition. The entire party is at the ranch of Eugene Amoretti, near Dubois, Wyo., 100 miles from the scene of the Indian troubles. The party had been in the mountains fishing and hunting, and knew nothing about the anxiety for the safety of its members.

THE EYE OF THE NEDLE.

(From the Philadelphia Press.) Elias Howe almost beggared himself before he discovered where the eye of the needle of a sewing machine should be located. It is probable that there are very few persons who know how it came about. His original idea was to follow the model of the eye at the heel. It never occurred to him that it should be placed near the point, and he might have failed altogether if he had not dreamed he was building a sewing machine for a savage king ina strange country. Just as in his actual waking experience he was rather perplexed about the needle's eye. He thought the king gave him 24 hours to complete the machine and make it sew. If not finished in that time death was to be the punishment. Howe worked and worked, and puzzled and puzzled, and finally gave it up. Then he thought he was taken out to be executed. He noticed that the warriors carried spears that were pierced near the head. Instantly came the solution of the difficulty, and, while the inventor was beging for time, he awoke. It was 4 o'clock in them orning. He jumped out of bed, ran to his workshop, and by 9 a needle with an eye at the point had been rudely modeled. After that it was easy. That is the true story of an important incident in the invention of the sewing machine.

SHEPHERDS AWHEEL

BICYCLES USED BY SHEEP MEN IN CALIFORNIA.

The Machine Supplanting the Horse on the Plains-Herders Run Down Coyotes on Their Novel Steeds-The Jackrabbit

Herding sheep on a bicycle is an innovation introduced by Frank Smith on the wide, roadless plains lying between Fresno slough and the foothills of the coast range, in the western part of Fresno county. Perhaps the wheel will not come into general use for that purpose, as It is nearly always impracticable to ride a bicycle over ranges where sheep find pasturage, but nature has provided one POR SALE — 76 LOTS WITHIN ONE black of electric cars; 16 farms at 30 per cent off former value; small cash payment; balance easy terms. J. F. SANGSTER, over C. P. R. ticket office. of the finest courses in the world on the open plains of the west side, where the ground is as level as a floor, and the wheelman can often ride fifty miles without changing his course, and all the time over a country where roads are almost unknown, and where not a fence or a ditch interpose to stop the journey. The cabins of a few homesteaders sometimes meet the view, dotting the horizon here and there, but aside from these there is little or no evidence of civilization in all the country as far as the eye can reach. That region is a dead waste, almost without vegetation, except during the ONEY-CERTAIN SUMS OF $300, $500, $600, $1,000 and $1,600 are in our hands for investment on first-class mortgage. Also various other sums. the earth, leaving the ground smooth and level as a race course. This season the unusual rains and the phenomenal warmth have produced a growth of verdure such as has seldom been known there, covering the earth like a carpet. The sheepmen have driven their herds to that quarter from all sides because pasturage there costs nothing. Frank Smith, who has charge of several herds, breaks the monotony, says the San Francisco Chronicle, by gliding on his wheel from band to band, thus dispensing OHN W. WINNETT — BARRISTER, solicitor, notary, 420 Talbot street, upstairs, Main street, Belmont. with a horse and deriving pleasure from what was before work. He can round up a herd quicker than a dog can do it. The dogs seem to view the bicycle with disgust, and look upon it as the latest device of labor-saving machinery. The most novel experience is in riding after coyotes, which always hang upon the outskirts of a band of sheep, ready to put a sick or orippled one out of its misery the moment the herder's back is thrned. A coyote is able to keep ahead of a bicycle, and enjoys the exercise for the first few miles. But when he has had an hour or two of the sport, and the tireless and unflagging wheel continues to hang upon his line of retreat, the fun begins to wear off, and the long-eared galloper of the plains realizes that the transaction is not intended for a joke. By the time another hour has passed, and ten or a dozen miles more of the level plain have been measured off, and the remorseless wheel continues not more than two hundred and twenty yards in the rear, or perhaps has gained a little, the situation becomes decidedly unpleasant for the coyote. The smile of scorn that curled his lip during the first ten miles of the race, as he looked back, first over one shoulder and then over the other, gradually disappears soon after the second ten miles is entered upon. The animal looks back as often as ever, but the expression on his impudent face seems to say that the joke has been carried far enough, and he is wheel by sudden turns. The jackrabbit is not so noble game as the coyote from the point of view of the bicyclist, but is harder to run down. It is not because of greater speed or greater endurance, but because the rabbit will not run very far in a straight line. When it finds itself pursued it may run in one direction for awhile, but it soon doubles back, and from that time on it runs in circles or more probably in an angular course, defying the wheelman, and continually keeping out of range of the Efforts have been made two or three times to run down the only antelope in central California perhaps, but the efforts did not meet with success, because these animals never venture very far from the foothills of the coast range, and when pursued they run for rough ground. An antelope, after it has drunk its fill, could not outrun a bicycle ten miles on smooth ground. The animals are swift for a mile or two, but they cannot keep up their pace long at a time. SIR WILLIAM DAWSON.

The Eminent Scientist Whose Works are

Well and Favorably Known. There is an impression in some quarters that the British provinces in this country, and Canada in particular, have very little to their credit in the way of the production of men and women who have made a large mark in the world. If this has been true at any time it certainly is not true of the present. Among the rising poets of the day Canada certainly has a full share. Among them are Bliss Carman, Archibald Lampmann, Charles G. D. Roberts, Duncan Campbell Scott, J. H. Brown and W. W. Campbell, whose names are familiar to the readers of our magazines. Mr. Lampmann has been ranked by Mr. Howells among the strongest of American singers. And as for men of scientific thought and achievements, there is no man living who ranks higher than the subject of this sketch. Sir William is a Nova Scotian by birth, having been born at Pictou, in 1820, but he has spent nearly all his active life in Canada, and is thoroughly identified with the educational and scientific interests of that country.

Dr. Dawson received his collegiate training at Edinburgh University, but returned immediately upon his graduation to the provinces, and entered at once upon his life work, which has been almost wholly that of geological research and teaching. His contributions to geological literature have been voluminous, rich and varied. In 1855 he became principal of McGill University at Montreal, and later was made vice-chancellor. In these capacities he has been connected with the leading educational institutions of Canada for nearly forty years. It is only within the past year that he has retired from active service. Dr. Dawson's services to the cause of science have had the most abundant and eminent recognition. He has been made a member of a large number of learned societies in Europe and America. In 1882 he received the Lyell medal of the Geological Society of London for distinguished service in geographical study and research, and for the same reason was knighted by Queen Victoria in 1884. He was selected by the Marquis of Lorne as the first president of the Royal Society of Canada, and in 1880 was president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and atterward held a similar position in the British society of the same name. These are only a few of the honors bestowed upon this fortunate and gifted Nova Scotian. To enumerate Sir William's writings would be to enumerate many of the best known and highest authorities on modern geology, such as "The Story o Earth and Man" and "The Dawn of Life." Dr. Dawson has commended himself specially to large numbers of people by his stout antagonism to Darwin's theory of evolution, and to the teachings of other scientists of the Darwin and Huxley school. He is regarded as one of the foremost champions of the Biblical view of creation as against that of Darwinians, and a number of his best books have been written in defense of his position. Although over seventy years of age, Sir William retains his intellectual vigor undiminished and continues to be a frequent and always interesting contributor to the popular scientific literature of the day.—Philadelphia Press.

THE CIRCUS GROUNDS. Clever Work Done by the Man Who Lave

"Out of the way, you boys," says Hunt, tape measure in hand, as he starts forward to mark the long diameter of the "big top." Two men trot beside him. their arms filled with iron rods two feet long and pointed at one end. Two others help him with the measurements, holding one end of the tape while he runs out the necessary distances. He locates first the five center poles of the big tent, an iron bar being driven at each point. Then in the same way he marks the circumference of the tent, indicating the points where the 208 poles will stand. A little red or blue flag flatters at the top of each iron rod, making the plan of the tent stand out on the sod like a geometrical pattern The "big top," 440 by 280, being thus laid out, Hunt and his men hurry to the side of the menagerie tent, which is connected with the main tent by a neck of canvas. This they mark out in the same way, the iron rods being topped with white flags. All is done with incredible rapidity, the plan of the two great tents being finished within eight minutes from the start. In other parts of the field are as quickly laid out the dressing-room tent, two horse tents, the wardrobe tents. the side-show tent, the freaks' tent, the freaks' dressing-room and half a dozen smaller tents for the blacksmith shop, the repair shop, etc. Thus, by four o'clock. Jack Hunt, who never went to college, has disposed of enough angles, circles, diameters and radii to drive a professor of mathematics frantic; and he has made no mistakes, there being no provision in the programme of a great circus for mistakes. -McClure's Magazine.

Animals Without Stomachs.

Cats get along perfectly well without stomachs, according to experiments recorded in the Archives de Physiologie. In one cat, which lived for forty-eight hours after its stomach had been cut out, the esophagus was found to have been completely united with the intestine. Another cat, which weighed four pounds when it lost its stomach, was alive and well and weighed four pounds and a half three months and a half after the operation. It found difficulty in digesting pure milk, but got along nicely when the milk was mixed with yolk of egg and rice, and ate cooked meat, cheese and puree of potatoes. This proves that all three classes of food, albuminoids, fats and farinaceous substances, are digested by the agastric cat. As it had been previously proved that dogs can do without stomachs, the next step would seem to be the production of agastric man.

The Mikado of Japan a Sport. The Japanese Mikado is a man of much energy and endurance, in spite of the fact that he is a great eigarette smoker. He is fond of outdoor sports and has warmly encouraged the introduction of football into Japan. He is a hunter and fisherman, and is quite a good shot with a rifle. His devotion to lawn tennis is marked, and he wields a very clever racquet. The Horse He Wanted.

"If I could run across a horse called 'Money," said the gloomy man at the races, "I'd bet on it."

Lord Salisbury's eldest granddaughter, according to a British Weekly correspondent, is a very clever child, and though she is kept wisely shielded from notice, several of her childish sayings have crept out at Hatfield. The following story is at least ben trovato. Towards the close of the last Parliament someone was asking Lord Cranborne when a dissolution might be expected. He replied that he had no idea. Mme. Refane is "down" on Americans. She says they show no feeling as spectators; one sees lines of eyes fixed on one, but one has no idea what passes in the brains behind. If the actress has pleased, heaps of flowers are left next day at her hotel-by ladies. The American man is too devoted to business to run round complimenting actresses like the French. Ladies' admiration only counts when the actress is a person of honorable life. If the ladies stood aloof the star would cease to attract. It sticks in the sparkling Frenchwoman's throat that Miss Kidder's "creation" was liked better and more liberally patronized than her own. And well it may! No wonder Rejane lost her temper at being a financial failure, and says with acrimony that the Americans are a fickle public. It is now understood in Paris that they have rushed to see Sara Bernhardt's dresses as much as to see her kill her stage lovers. Mme. Rejane killed no one, and though she dressed superbly, it was always in character with the part she played. Bernhardt's dresses as everyone knows, are not human; they are like evil dreams glorified, and

Recently the Egyptologist, Brugsch Bey, was transporting a mummy, believed to be a Pharaoh, to Cairo. As he took the royal relic in a passenger car, he was naturally obliged to take a first-class ticket. At Cairo a duty was demanded. He referred the offi-cials to the register; but neither mummies nor Pharaohs were found on the dutiable list. "Well," said the official, "we will enter this as 'dried fish' duty, three plasters."

Girls who are terrified by thunder and lightning lose a great deal of enjoyment during the summer, when we have storms as well as sunshine. It may not be quite possible for everyone to help being afraid when the sky is black with clouds and the lightning's flash, but it is within the power of most people to control the expression of fright. Once or twice having resolutely refrained from showing your terror, you will be suprised and pleased to find the terror itself lessening.

'At the last elections in Scotland, a ratepayer, after voting, continued to hang about the polling booth. He was heard to say that he wished he had not voted so early. Questioned why, he replied, "Oh, because in the morning I was Mr. McNaughton, but noo I'm only John."-Woman's Journal.

A public school teacher in the Chicago Evening Post, says of the cigarette: "The evil is worse than the alcohol habit, for it seems to threaten extermination. There are babies, two of them only 5 years old, who say they have been smoking for two years, and the statement is corroborated by their elder brothers. One of the little ones was a pouting-lipped Cupid two years ago; now his tiny face is pinched and wrinkled, and his mouth hangs loose and relaxed, like an old man's.

Simplicity seems to be the keynote of gowns this season. But what deceptive simplicity! A gown of organdy or batiste or fine lawn is not such an inexpensive affair when one considers the silk lining over which it is made, and the lace, ribman has been fully as much in evidence as the young man. Neither youth bon and other accessories which trim it. With what care, also, must the gown be nor sex now debars anyone from taking his or her part in the world's activities. made. The village maid, who originated this fad by capturing the hearts of men with her simple gowns, found her dresses easily put together. But the simple gown as it has been evolved, must have a skirt which hangs to perfection, and a bodice which fits as one of broadcloth would.

Plain, flaring skirts are finished with a broad hem, or flounce edged with narrow Valenciennes lace. The bodices are of lace or embroidery, enhanced with ribbon bows.

Madame has a gown of striped lawn, green and white. The bodice is tight-fitting, of white embroidery. The puffed sleeves of lawn are caught in with choux of the dress material. Black velvet ribbon, which enters largely into the adornment of every gown, forms shoulder straps which end back and front with small velvet choux.

The hat is of white straw, trimmed with green ribbon and white flowers. Black is introduced in the stiff wings which mingle with the ribbon bows.

Country House Decoration. The bamboo furniture brought out for country houses is singularly appropriate for summer use. Writing desks, music stands, tables, stools, hat racks, easels, are made of bamboo and wicker, the tops of the tables, desks and stools being covered with matting. The effect is light and graceful and a relief to the eye after the cumbersome furniture in use all winter. Even the curtain poles are made of bamboo. This bamboo ware is inexpensive as well as attractive.

New ornaments are constantly introduced from Japan. The latest are of straw or native grass curiously plaited and arranged so that they may hang on the wall and give a foreign air to hall or sitting room. A heavy fringe of grass or rushes overlaid with a plaited net is sold by the yard to cover the roofs of cottages and be matted against the balustrade of the piazzas, in imitation of the thatched houses of Japan. Stoutly plaited shuck or grass is twined around posts and pillars. Denim, canvas, tapestry and liberty chintz are all much used for country house decorations. The denim shown are so varied in shade and texture that they bear little resemblance to the old-fashioned blue denim so long associated, with the humble blue jeans. The plain blue denim has a place of honor, however, that the newer tints of old rose, green, bronze and buff are not likely to attain, in spite of their beauty. The blue harmonizes exactly with the old Delft tiles and plaques, and now that a wall paper has been brought out which exactly imitates the Dutch tiling in design and appearance, the denim is more than ever in demand. A room papered with this glossy, porcelain-like paper has portieres and curtains of denim, with shields of white bolting cloth applique on the blue surface and embroidered and outlined in blue cotton. The chairs, divans and cushions are covered plainly with the denim, finished at the edges with a blue and white gimp. The ornaments are in Delft the high shelves of the white, mirrored mantelpiece holding odd-shaped jars and mirrors of blue and white. This combination is singularly cool.

Simplicity is the fad now; that is, the idea must be simple, though a good harmony in color must be obtained at any cost, and while the effect may be rich there must be no ornate gilding and multiplication of ornaments. Friezes have gone out of fashion, along with fringes and other trimmings once considered indispensable, very little gilding is used in the mouldings, and the tendency at present is to have them plain and as nearly like the rest of the wood as possible. The French and English wall papers, which are now used, come without frieses, which is a distinct gain in the matter of brightness, while it possibly detracts from the apparent breadth of a room. Big sprawling patterns characterize the newest wall papers. Great yellow roses with immense leaves straggle over the walls of one room; giant caetus blossoms or poppies or hibiscus in vivid colors glow on another. But the paperings and appointments in drawing rooms are still of the most delicate and dainty description. There is just a hint of rose color or a wave of blue, the daintiest possible ecru, or green so delicate that it suggests the first upspringing grass in spring or the mat of natural moss about a fountain. The finest shimmering silk is draped upon drawing room walls, and for a library nothing can be more appropriate than canvas tapestry. This closely resembles coffee sacking in coarseness of mesh and even in color, but the tone is admirable. It comes in big designs, with palm leaves of some conventiol flowers in Oriental colors. The Persian prints shown for draperies, curtains and cushions are largely used for upholstering chairs and divans. These are shown in beautiful shades of blue, both in dull tones and bright tints. They are most effective on the large, hospitable-looking wicker armchairs now so much used.

Curtains for country houses are made of variegated Indian prints or thin Persian stuffs that are light in weight, cool, easily washed, and durable, yet not flimsy and liable to fall in strings. Curtains put up at the doors and windows seldom extend quite to the top, and the space thus left is filled with Japanese panels or fret-work, which come in both light and dark woods to suit the furnishings. This plan makes the rooms lighter and c

JOLLIED THE JEWELER.

Mr. Raymond McIntyre Failed to Win in His "Little Game."

Rochester, N. Y., July 23.—A tall young man with smooth face, who said his name was W. Raymond McIntyre, and that he was engaged in establishing branch offices for the firm of "Mc-Intyre Bros., importers of jewelry, Toronto," walked into a leading jewelry store here yesterday and after display-ing a business card of this supposed firm, he jollied the proprietor several minutes and said he would purchase a watch "just for a jolly, hoping you will return the compliment when you are in want of goods," and picked out a time piece valued at $150. He then discovered that he had only $23 with him, and tendered a check in for the rest. He had a card printed showing office rooms in the Power Plock. The Rochester jeweler said he would take down the number of the watch and quietly dispatched a boy to the Power building, who found the rooms were unoccupied. The jeweler then refused to accept the check, and the sharper disappeared before an offi-cer could be called.

Korns. Korns. There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground, and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts-one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard-headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which removes them painlessly in 24 hours.

ENMESHED IN THEIR OWN NET. The fifth session of the seventh Parliament of Canada ended this week and the Government has given the country a solemn pledge, with the sanction of the Governor-General, that a sixth session will be held, beginning next January. In no former Parliament since the Union has the number of ser ions exceeded the number of years which Parliament, by law, can live, thus necessitating an added expenditure of nearly half a million dollars, which the taxpayers will have to foot. At the same time, it must not te forgotten that premature dissolution has on more than one occasion been resorted to rather to serve exigencies of party than to conform to the provisions of the constitution.

This extra session is really e to the cowardice, incapacity and divisions which have existed in the Ministry. Our readers know very well that last winter the Government at Ottawa was on the point of dissolving Parliament, and had resolved to hold the elections without even a fifth session. But the Ministers realized before the proclamation of dissolution was issued that they were about to sustain an overwhelming defeat. This led to the holding of the session just ended. The session was intended to solve the Manitoba school question. But when the Government called Parliament together it found the divisions in the ranks of its followers were too serious to permit it to deal with the subject, and the Ministers also began to realize that the course which they had taken was one not called for by the principles and spirit of our constitu-

We have already expressed the opinion that Manitoba exceeded the limits marked out for her by the Act governing the power of the Province. The Act authorizes her to legislate exclusively on the subject of education, with certain reservations. The Province exceeded her powers, and were it not that the act of the Province is legislative and not judicial it would have been unquestionably ultra vires.

But we need not now discuss this question. It is clear that the constitution required that the matter should be diplomatically dealt with between the Government of Canada and the Government of Manitoba. It was the duty of the Dominion Government to have communicated the decision of the Judicial Committee of the British Privy Council to Manitoba, and to have assumed that the Government of Manitoba would have conformed to the view entertained by the Judicial Committee, and not persisted in disregarding it. But instead of entering into correspondence with Manitoba on the subject until the points of difficulty were clearly brought out, and of making an issue which the Province could either accept or reject, a remedial order was adopted and transmitted. A remedial order is an ultimatum. An ultimatum follows, and does not precede, discussion. That the Government had been unreasonably hasty and dictatorial in its action towards Manitoba was forced upon the Ministers themselves. They now have to confess that to propose legislation by the Parliament of Canada before every step had been taken which the law called for to secure legislation within the Province was an extremely arbi-

This blunder on the part of the Government has stood in its way in carrying out its original design, and so we have the question postponed in order that time may be had for that correspondence which ought to have taken place, and that an effort at settlement may be entered on which ought to have been started the moment the decision of the British Privy Council was received at Ottawa. Unfortunately for

has been allowed to drift, and those who hoped to profit by the agitation have in a large degree been permitted to have their own way. For this the Government is largely responsible. The Government intended to turn the remedial order into a weapon of political warfare, by which it hoped to gain party advantage at the expense of their political opponents. It was natural, under those circumstances, that those who were politically opposed to the Administration, whatever their views on the question, should have left the Ministers entirely to their own resources. The Government has no right to complain of the attitude of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and his supporters. They have simply awaited developments, and these are proving to be rather strongly disintegrating forces operating within the ranks of the party in power than rational plans for putting an end to the agitation and for the righting of

The session just ended proved disastrous to the Administration. It has served to emphasize the divisions which rend the Cabinet. It has brought to light the jealousies, the personal rivalries that are at work within the Ministry. It has shown that the Quebec Conservative leaders think only of the necesity for winning victory in Quebec, while the Ontario section of the Cabinet are figuring how they can prevent Mr. McCarthy from rallying the Protestant Conservatives of Ontario to his pew in the meeting house of that party. The present Government is in honor bound to call another session with a view to the fulfillment of the pledges which it has made, but it is more than doubtful whether a sixth session of Parliament will be held. We should not be surprised to see a desperate effort made to get rid of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and to form a new Government upon other lines, in which remedial legislation will be thrown to the winds, and a cry raised against "Quebec domination"-so "wobbly" have the men

In the meantime it is of the first consequence that Liberal newspapers should earnestly endeavor to make the public conversant with the legal and constitutional aspects of the Manitoba school question, inculcating the principle that it is the first duty of the citizen to keep faith with their neighbors and to obey the law. If there are those who are dissatisfied with the legal and constitutional results which flow from the law, they ought to advocate the amendment of the constitution, and not the disregard of the compacts for which it makes provision.

POINTS.

Our civic authorities should take note of the statement made by Mr. J. M. Denton to an "Advertiser" representative with regard to the moth which is attacking city shade trees. An expert should be set to work, under proper directions, to combat the pest. Mr. Denton has done the public good service in sounding the note of alarm. In this matter, prevention will certainly be better than cure, for cure may not be possible if precautions are not taken.

The New York World is discussing the question, "Is tragedy dead?" This has reference to tragedy on the stage. Tragedy in every day life is probably just as live as ever it has

What with winning the Queen's prize at Bisley, carrying off most of the honors at Saratoga, and having Edward Blake returned to Parliament without opposition—Canada is doing pretty well, thank you.

The Ottawa Cabinet ought to be prepared for any shock now—its members have cultivated the virtue of resignation so assiduously.

It is said the Provincial Hospital for Consumptives will be built in Muskcka. Why this city, the center of good health, purity of atmosphere, and of water, is passed, is something which the board of directors of the new institution do not explain.

Lucan was once the scene of much lawlessness, but the great majority of the people joined hands together and put it down. Like co-operation should follow the incendiary outbreak reported from that village. The good name of the place should be upheld.

Chicago aldermen are paid an indemnity of $3 a week. Some of them, however, look upon the position as worth more to them, and help themselves. Peculations by those in official positions will take place as long as public opinion fails to demand condign punishment to guilty ones. Official boodling will be impossible at Ottawa so soon as every tainted member, whether Minister or follower of Minister, is jailed, or at least sent into private life, so soon as discovered.

What would our taxpayers say if the fire department were as inefficient as similar institutions are in old world cities? In Paris recently a big fire took place, when it turned out that in the whole city there were only eleven steam fire engines. The Parisians see no reason why they should introduce the American system when their firemen can get ready to leave the engine house in twelve minutes! Here not many more seconds are consumed by the firemen between the alarm and an appearance on the street.

WHY DISCRIMINATE?

While Lieutenant-Governor Daly, of Nova Scotia, whose term expired three weeks ago, was promptly reappointed, the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba has been kept dangling before Lieutenant-Governor Shultz and other aspirants for the office for many months.

No condemnation is too strong for the conduct of the Administration at Ottawa in thus prostituting high offices for partisan purposes.

WHAT EXPERIENCE TEACHES. Premier Bowell disclaimed the reports that it was intended to "milk" the discredited and defeated $2,500,000 grant to the Hudson Bay Railway. The denial would be much more forcible but for the fact that every large expenditure on public works in recent years has been boodled to supply election funds with which to purchase power for Premier Bowell's friends. An acquaintance of Mr. McGreevy, M.P., who was sent to jail for a few days as a scapegoat for guilty Ministers, spoke to him on the subject of the $2,500,000 bonus a few days after Parliament met. The bosom companion of Sir Hector Langevin and Sir Adolpho Caron admitted that $2,500,000 was a large sum to hand over to railway speculators without effective conditions and for a work of very doubtful utility; but, with a twinkle in his eye, which meant much, doubtless, he expressed the belief that, after the expenses were counted, there would be a big hole in the subsidy. Mr. McGreevy is a man of experience in these matters; he knows how persistent were the neversatisfied demands of the manipulators when he was treasurer of the funds collected from contractors, railway companies, and combines given favors by the men in power at Ottawa.

Big Crowd at the Finish in Queen's Park.

Mr. W. M. Carman Out with a Challenge to Radway-Turf, Baseball and Other Sporting News.

THE WHEEL.

RADWAY DEFEATS CARMAN. Frank F. Radway, the crack rider of the London Bicycle Club, and 100-mile champion of Canada, defeated W. M. Carman, one of Toronto's best men, in a road race last night. The race was a handicap, under the auspices of the London club, and the route was from the grand stand at Queen's Park to Crumlin and return. Carman and Radway were the only scratch men. and when they started out 5 1-2 min-utes behind the limit men, went around the track and disappeared through the Dundas street .gate together, the spectators—and there were 2,500 of them gave them a great send-off. Then there was a wait, seemingly long and anxious, before any of the riders came back. The small fry were first, but everybody's attention was riveted on the scorchers in the red suits, and when at last they wheeled through the gate and on to the track, hundreds of necks were stretched to see the finish. On they came together, and past the grand stand they shot almost shoulder to shoulder. Then it came to genuine hard work, and as the pair escorted each other around the ring on the final lap the interest became intense. Radway was slightly in the lead, and before the stretch was reached, he be-gan to spurt. Carman stayed right with him, but left his renowned spurt until it was too late-Radway passed under the wire not a foot in advance. It was a decidedly brilliant race, with a very exciting nnish, both riders were lustily cheered. Radway's time was 26 minutes, Carman's a fraction slower.

As for the rest of the riders, there were fifteen of them and they had these handicaps:

George Crabb 5 1-2
Percy Millman 1-2	minutes
L. Bittle	minutes
Harry Pavey 5 1-2	minutes
E. Bernard 4 1-2	minutes
C. Beckett4 1-2	minutes
C. Stevens4 1-2	minutes
W. F. Horton	minutes
W. Goodwin 4	minutes
David Mills4	minutes
Ashton Brown 3 1-2	minutes
Allan Levs 3 1-2	minutes
Clay Manville 3 1-2	minutes
George Macbeth2	minutes
C. Boyers2	minutes

Crabb was the first man to return, and he was closely followed by Millman, who had a similar handicap. The balance of the grist was somewhat scattered. The finish was: Crabb first, time, 27:46 1-2; Millman second, time 28:11; Horton third, time 29 minutes; Beckett fourth, Pavey fifth, Boyers sixth, Leys seventh, Goodwin eighth, ernard minth, Brown tenth, Stevens eleventh, and Radway and Carman. The rest of the field dropped out.

The road was in very good condition, and everything passed off successfully, thanks to the officers. Thousands of persons lined the route, all the way from start to turning post. The officers of the evening were: Starter-Dr. Balfour.

Timer-Mr. Thomas Gillean. Referee—Mr. James McCormick. Judges at finish—Messrs. H. C. Mc-Bride, Sam Stevely and Dr. Belton. Scorers-Messrs. Bert Glover, John Millar, R. A. Bayly and W. Mann. Judges at turn-Harold Southam and Frank King.

CARMAN CHALLENGES RADWAY. Having been beaten by Frank F. Radway in last night's road race, I derire to meet him again, and to this end challenge him to race me over the same course any time between the 6th and 26th of August, he to give me five cays' notice of the date on which the race is to take place.

London, July 24, 1895. PETROLEA ROAD RACE. Petrolea, July 23.-The Waddell tenmile handicap road race was run off here last night, having sixteen starters. The course was from Waddell's drygoods store to Marthaville and return, finishing on Eureka street. Following is the time and winners: Morris Duncan (six minutes handicap), first, 38 minutes 16 1-2 seconds; James Cameron (12 minutes), second; John Collins (4 minutes), third. Mr. Róbert Craise, who was the only scratch man, made the test time, doing the course in 33 min-utes, 53 4-5 seconds.

The members of Court Forest Queen. A. O. F., to the number of 50, paid a fraternal visit to Court Brighton, of South London, last evening. D. C. R. Bro. Rossiter and the High Court S. C. R., Bro. A. O. Jeffery, were among the visitors. After a hearty reception by Court Brighton, the visitors took up the programme of the evening. The High Court S. C. R. made a neat speech, followed by the D. C. R., Bro. Holiday, who gave a musical selection. and on being encored sang a song. J. Stevenson, chief ranger of Forest Queen, then made a brief speech. Bro. Gregory followed with a song. A very interesting address was then given by Bro. Boyd, the delegate elected to represent Court Forest Queen at the coming High Court meeting. Bro. Doby gave a recitation, Bro. Walton a reading, and the D. C. R., Bro. Rossiter, a song. Bro. F. W. G. Ball, treasurer of Court Forest Queen, in a short address, showed how that court was progressing financially, as well as numerically. Bro. Holiday again gave a song and Bro. Doby a reading. Then Bro. Pearce, one of Court Forest Queen's cldest P.C.R.s, addressed the brethren. A comic song, which brought down the house, was sung by Bro. Holiday, after which Bro. Cambridge, who had been chairman of the entertainment committee; Bro. Brock, secretary of Court Queen, and others made speeches. Altogether a very enjoyable time was spent, and after a vote of thanks to the visitors, the court closed.

Sad Fate of a Milkman at Collingwood— Killed by the Cars.

Collingwood, Ont., July 23.-Robert Bateman, milk collector for Foreman & Co., cheese factory, had delivered his last can on his homeward route, and was returning along Ontario street today, when he reached the railway crossing the noon train was coming down the track. A youth waved his hand to Bateman, who pulled up.

But the horse became fidgaty, and just before the train dashed past the animal started across the rails. The engine missed the horse, which escaped entirely, but caught the wagon midway, carrying it down the track 50 yards, where it struck the switch post, smashing the vehicle to atoms and throwing Bateman 60 feet. He was taken to the hospital, where it was found that his leg was broken in two places and his head and arm badly cut. He died at 4 p.m. today, having never in by a Policeman With a Lariat. (From the San Francisco Chronicle.) It was growing late in the afternoon and a ribbon of fog was winding itself around the crest of Strawberry Hill, when a bicyclist of mature age, who were a white jacket and cap, and whose whiskers, caught by the evening wind, fluttered over each shoulder, burst into the music concourse at Golden Gate Park, and pedaled merrily past the thousands of people who fringed the plaza. This is a heinous offense, especially while the orchestra is playing on a Sunday, and wheelmen who have nei-ther white jackets nor whiskers have been stopped by policemen for violating this sacred regulation of the park commissioners. The man who burst into the parade ground yesterday while the musicians were praying a spirited march was A. McClever, who has ridden his wheel in the park for the past nine months or more, and who must have known the rules governing the concourse while the orchestra is playing. He is a member of the cycling club, and his daring is believed by Capt. Thompson, of the park police, to have been inspired by wheelmen to test the legality of the regulation which has hitherto prevented the passing of bicycles through the carriage concourse while the musicians were play-With his whiskers astray in the wind. McClever boldly rode into the presence of the officers. City Policeman Van Kuren was the first to see the audacious wheelman. He raised his cane and called to the whiskered rider to come back. McClever did nothing of the kind. He doffed his white cap, laughed impertinently and continued on his way. Officer Van Kuren, who is a tall man, made after the bicyclist, and, as he did so, he hailed Officer Bailey, who drew his long legs out of the Bermuda grass and nasturtiums, and in a loud voice, which the throbbing of the drums could not drown, commanded the wheelman to stop. Again the invader of the sacred spot doffed his cap and laughed. The two officers threw their canes, but missed. "Come on, you fellows!" McClever cried, and then he leaned still farther over his handle-bars as he "scorched" through the dust towards the city. Officer Wagner was the third officer who raised his mace and ordered the wheelman to stop. But McClever had a merry chuckle for this policeman, as well as for the two heimsted men who were tearing down the roadway and crying to Wagner to make more haste. It was about this time that Capt. Thompson, who sat astride his welltrained horse near the fern grotto, was told that three policemen were in pursuit of a bicyclist who had whiskers, a tantalizing laugh, and a white jacket and cap. With his lariat in one hand and his other grasping the reins of the bridle, the famous vaquero in blue

"Stop, or I'll rope you!" he cried, but the wheelman laughed again and kept on his way. Horseman and bicyclist were now in a fierce race, while standing in the shade of a tree a few feet distant were three policeman, who glared savagely as they mopped their red faces and talked about the "nerve" of the man who was making a desperate effort to escape the officer on his trial. For several hundred yards the race was run at a furious clip. Then the captain whirled his lariat three or four times around his head, and in another instant a well-seasoned noose was circling through the air. It fell over the bearded face of the man on the bicycle and yanked him from the saddle of his machine. He was taken to the park station house, and afterwards transferred to the city hall, where he was charged with violating an ordinance of the park commissioners.

NO TRACE OF THE BOY. Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Detective Geyer, of Philadelphia, gave up the search for the missing Howard Pietzel this afternoon, and left, in response to telegrams received about noon calling him to Indianapolis, where, it is said, certain developments have been made in the case. He says: "There is one thing certain, if Howard Pietzel ever came to Detroit, he was destroyed in the furnace at the Forest avenue house, and the indestructible portions of his clothing were carried away."

WATER POWER AND ELECTRICITY

The substitution of steam for water power marked the beginning of a new era in the history of mechanical production. It would be curious if the reentrance of water power into the field of the generation of energy should mark the close of the age of steam. The application of water power to productive use has never been quite abandoned. But it has survived the domain of its mighty rival as implements of the stone age are found co-existing with the age of bronze. The water wheel has been reserved for humble uses, and has held its own only in places either remote from railroads or where water power was peculiarly remarkable for its convenience and constancy. But the alliance between the water wheel and the electric dynamo opens up new fields of usefulness for the power of the cascade, and has already begun to oust steam from its long undisputed position of industrial supremacy. There is a vast interval between the power of Niagara and the presence of an artesian well whose waters spring from the strata underlying the basin of the Misscuri. But at every point of this there are applications of water power to the generation of electricity, and the application of the power electrically transmitted to the purpose of manufacture and transportation. The problem of the long distance transmission of energy by means of electricity has been at least partially solved. Just how far it can without serious waste we shall know better after the Niagara experiment is fairly under way. But in a science so progressive as that which has to do with the application of electricity to the service of man it would be absurd to assume that the experience of this year will be more than an introduction to the triumphs of the next. In any case, we know that the power derived from the water wheel has assumed the form of electrical vibration, it may be effectively and economically transmitted 20 to 30 miles from its source. How much that means for the region between the Missouri and the Rocky Mountains, where the dearness of coal puts a prohibitory tax on the employment of steam for manufacturing purposes, is only beginning to be realized. How much it may mean even where coal is abundant and cheap has yet to be demonstrated.

It is not alone where there are waterfalls as a source of power, or artesian wells developing a pressure of 50 to 200 pounds per square inch, that the combination between the water wheel and the dynamo is beginning to work wonders. A great prairie state like Nebraska, traversed by rather sluggish rivers, has in these the potentiality of enormous reserves of power. It only needs a canal of sufficient length to tap the river at one point and discharge its waters with a fair head at another to develop all the power needed by a fairly large group of manufacturing establishments. There are two such canals already in Nebraska-one eleven miles long and the other ten and a half miles long—which yield the equivalent in power of probably 40,000 tons of coal per annum. There is another, 40 miles long, projected for the use of the city of Omaha, which, with an available head of water at its lower end of 140 feet, will yield about 15,000 horse power. These are but the beginning of a movement destined to have a very important influence on the industrial future of the far west.

VALUE OF THE BALL NOZZLE. According to Chief Bonner the ball nozzle which has excited so much interest throughout the country is destined to work a radical and highly beneficial change in the system of fighting fire. Instead of working at a distance. with straight streams, firemen, by using the ball nozzle, can enter burning buildings and work at close range, thus not only doing more effective work. but averting to a considerable extent the serious damage to interior property, and in many cases this system will enable firemen to save the lives of inmates of burning buildings. The man who has given the world an appliance of such value is certainly entitled to the gratitude of his fellow-men.—New York Tribune.

TORONTO.

Toronto, Ont., July 23—The Toronto live stock market today was dull and easy. Cables were no higher and the demand from buver's here was not heavy. Receipts 68 cars, including 900 hogs and 85 calves.

Export cattle met with slow sale, and the fact that the quality was poor kept the demand down and prices low. The best sale was 20 head, weighing an average of 1,180 lbs at 4c, less $5 on the lot. Some sold as low as 3½c per lb, but the ruling price was 3½c to 4½c. Choice butchers' cattle were scarce; the best sold at 6c per lb. This was an exception, and the ruling price for picked lots of today's oflerings was 3½c to 3¾c. Common sold of 2½c to 2¾c. price for picked lots of today's offerings was 34c to 33c. CANADA A LAND OF SURPRISES. More Latent Stores of Wealth Than in any Other Country in the World. There is no country in the wide world in which so much can be accomplished in the last decade of the century, for the benefit of mankind, as in Canada. This is a broad statement; but when the progress made in the United States in the twenty years preceding is recalled, a measure is afforded by which to judge what might be accomplished in Canada if the same conditions are allowed to prevail. If, therefore, this same relative progress can be made in Canada as in the United States no greater achievement in the shape of growth and development can take place in the world at large than will be shown on the northern part of the continent in the next ten years. Canada is peculiarly a land of surprises, and possesses more latent stores of wealth-producing power than any other country in the world. Aside from her great possessions in five thousand miles of coast-line fisheries, her almost limitless timber regions, her ninety-seven thouand square miles of coal, her vast iron deposits, her silver and gold mines, she has other minerals in a variety nowhere else to be found. This is instanced in the matter of nickel, of which deposits are now found to be of enormous proportions, and which metal is likely to be brought into use to a degree never before dreamed of. The latest and best development in this line are the tests in armour-plates at Annapolis, and subsequently at Pittsburg, by which it is ascertained that an alloy of nickel with steel will make guns unburstible, and armour-plate impenetrable. Much that has been hoped for in the aluminum, which in the dim distance has been dreamed possible, nickel will immediately perform in strength, density, and perfection of the metal. In asbestos, mica, gypsum, phosphates, platinum, and the numerous other minerals, Canada abounds; but all these are unimportant compared with her food producing forces. For it is a fact already dawning upon the minds of thinking men, that the exhaustion of arable lands within the Union itself threatens within a very brief period to make this vast country, agricultural as it is, dependent upon outside sources for supplies of food. Vast areas beyond the borders, like the Valley of the Saskatchewan, which Lord Selkirk said would sustain a population of thirty millions, are available in Canada; and it is from this source that the gerat wheat supplies must be had for the food of the people, for the employment of transportation facilities, the manufacture of flour, and the creation of new markets. So that what occurs in the next ten years in Canada has a direct bearing upon the future food supply of the United States. ifornia, and on his return found his If within fifty years the population of son and Hattie Klingensmith marthis country will, as it is claimed, reach ried. He ordered them out of his house two hundred and fifty millions, and if the wheat areas have already reached their limit in the northern tier, from what other source is the supply of the bread of the world to be had, except the provision which Nature has made in that Miss Klingensmith by his father. singular conjunction, whereby in the most northern latitudes the longest summer days prevail, with the fructifying influences resulting from constant exudation of frost from the ground beneath?-

The Independent. The Great Wall of China. Authorities differ as to the exact date when the great wall of China was built. but the concensus of opinion appears to be that it was begun, at least, in the reign of the Emperor Che-Hwang-Te, the founder of the Tsin dynasty, who ascended the throne in 231 B.C., and died 210 B.C. There does not seem to be any reason for doubting its actual existence. It is true that the late Carter Harrison, of Chicago, when visiting China in 1886, wrote home that he was inclined to look upon it as a myth. Subsequently a paragraph went the round of the papers, copied from the Loudon Times of August 5, 1887, which attempted to show on the authority of Abbe Larrien that the great wall "does not and never did exist," that there are, indeed, "square towers of earth faced with brick at considerable distance from each other, but these were never joined together as was originally intended." This paragraph called out a lively controversy which was settled in favor of the wall. Among others H. S. Ashbee wrote to Notes and Queries insisting that he himself had seen the great wall, that he had climbed upon it, and, though he had never measured it nor traveled along it for any great length, he could bear ocular evidence that it extended from the point where he stood upon it in a straight line. unbroken save in places where it has been allowed to fall into decay, as far as the eye could reach in either direction. "While crossing the Gulf of Liao Tong I plainly saw, from the deck of the steamer, where the great wall started from the sea. Further, in the same part of China, but unconnected with the great wall, I observed the square towers in question."

A French Auction.

The French mode of conducting auctions is rather curious. In sales of importance the affair is placed in the hands of a notary, who, for the time being, becomes an auctioneer. The auctioneer is provided with a number of small wax tapers, each capable of burning about five minutes. As soon as a bid is made, one of these tapers is placed in full view of all interested parties and lighted. If, before it expires, another bid is offered, it is immediately extinguished and a fresh taper placed in its stead, and so on until one flickers and dies out of itself, when the last bid becomes irrevocable. This simple plan prevents all contention among rival bidders. and affords reasonable time for reflection before making a higher offer than the one preceding. By this means, too, the auctioneer is prevented from exercising undue influence upon the bidders, or hastily accepting the bid of a favorite.

The Opium Trade in India. The opium manufacturer in British India has been for more than a century a Government monopoly. Half a million acres are under poppy cultivation, and the whole crop is delivered to the Government manufacturers at a fixed contract price. The crop is delivered in the form of juice at two Government agencies, where the juice is dried and the residue packed in chests of 140 pounds' capacity. It is sold monthly by auction at Calcutta. The last report obtainable, that for 1893. shows more than 4,800 chests sold for export and nearly 4,300 chests for consumption in India. The Government made a profit of nearly $4,000,000 on the amount sold for use in India.

Thinks Duelling is Ridiculous. M. Henri Rochefort, who has often settled his man on the field of honor, has come around to the view that the days of duelling are about over in France. He believes that the whole practice is ridiculous, and he knows that nothing Parisian has ever survived that accusation.

Chicago, July 23.-A dispatch from Tacoma, Wash., says: Henry Veazie, aged 23, has married Hattie Klingensmith, who was thought to be his step-mother, aged 46. His father, Wm. H. Veazie, a prominent and wealthy millman and logger, has disinherited him. For twelve years the elder Veazie had lived here with Mrs. Veazie. He informed her recently that she was not married to him, because the man who performed the ceremony was not is-gally authorized to marry him. However, a few months ago he had Mrs. Veazie sign deeds to all his property, which had been given to her, to You can save 25 to 40 per cent by his son Henry. THE BICYCLE RISK.

Report of Meeting of Accident Underwriters, Alexandria, Bay, N. Y.

Mr. Turner spoke on the subject he had introduced-the bicycle risk. He reasserted that the line drawn between riding for recreation and pleasure (racing and coasting barred) and riding for business. believed the former should be in the first class and the latter a more sericus risk-taking. The experiences of the various companies represented had been much different, some of the western companies finding the bicycle risk up to the average, while some of the eastern companies found that claims were coming in very fast from this class, and that nearly one-third of the indemnity claims since January 1 were for bicycle injuries. It was generally conceded that bicycle injuries were generally very serious, disabling the insured for a long time. Messrs. Swisher and Hooper believed the indemnity to this class should be reduced and remarks on the subject were made by all the delegates. It was agreed that it was largely a matter of locality; that the west, being level, accidents to bicycle riders are not so numerous as in the east, where there is such an extent of hill country. Swisher offered a resolution that a committee of three be appointed to make a report at the next meeting in regard to lessening the indemnity for bicycling, football, baseball and other dangerous pastimes.

HE SQUEEZED HER HAND. Tennyson was one of the party invited some years since by Sir Donald Currie on a yachting trip, the yacht provided being an ocean steamer on the South Africa line, known as the Pembroke Castle. Mr. Gladstone was another guest. There was on board a young English girl, since married and dead, whose beauty and intelligence and charm were all remarkable. nyson attached himself to this brilliant and sympathetic creature. He was often asked to read, and it became his habit to read holding her hand, which, in the fervor of recitation, he often pressed. The ship put in at Copen-hagen, and the Frincess of Wales and the Empress of Russia, then on a visit to her old home, came on board. There was luncheon, and after luncheon Tennyson was asked to read, and did, sitting between the Empress on one side and the English girl on the other. When it was over and they had gone up on deck, he asked the girl whether she thought the Empress liked it. "Well," answered she, "her Majesty must have thought it a little unusual." "What do you mean?" "I mean that I don't think the Empress is in the habit of having her hand squeezed in public, even by poets." It seemed proper to Tennyson to offer to the Empress his most humble apologies for his mistake. The Empress laughed, and told him she had enjoyed the reading

When any of the younger representatives of the gentler sex got wearv of the evening service she would invariably rise and go out. The Secret Out.

"You are angry with me," she mur-mured, "justly angry. My conduct ap-pears to you light, and my prevarications unpardonable. I do not wonder, Walter, I do not wonder; but there was no guile in my heart, only weakness. I acknowledge it, and I crave forgiveness. Is it an impossible thing for you to

He did not answer. Seizing her by the hands, he drew her further down the hall, into a recess which was lighted by a large window of colored glass. "Genevieve," he cried, "I am not thinking now of your prevarications; I am thinking of what you said to Mr. Cryce when he asked you if you left Mildred Farley behind you in your room when you went down to be married. You replied, 'Yes,' and yet I distinctly saw you, on that right and at that time, lock the door behind you when you came out, and put the key in your bosom. If there was a woman there whom you did not expect to see when you returned, why did you do

"Because"—she moistened her lips, but did not drop her eyes from his gaze because I did not know what I was I was terribly excited, Walter —I wonder if all brides are when they are married—and then I had that pain; it came upon me just as I was crossing the threshold-from the excitement, I suppose-and what with the one thing and the other, I was all in a daze, and ecked the door and took the key away. I thought of it afterwards, but it was too late; and the mystery to me then and now is, how she managed to escape in my absence. There is no other key and no other door, yet she was gone when I returned, and I neither know

"Do not let that disturb you," said a soft voice at their side. "It is a matter easily to be explained." And Mr. Gryce, steeping round the angle of the hall, motioned towards the room from which they had just come. "If you will step back with me for a moment I can show you how Miss Farley managed to escape."

Genevieve's eyes dilated, and for a moment she seemed to hesitate. Did this man appear to her like a shadow, and was she beginning to dread his eye

"I cannot imagine-" she began, but tions and hastily followed her husband, who was only too anxious to have this mystery explained.

You say there is no other door," de clared the detective, as they re-entered the room from which they had just "That is true; but there is still way of escape easy enough for a person who is very anxious to effect one. See there," and he pointed to-wards a window at the end of the alcove I have before mentioned.

Dr. Cameron advanced. "Ah, I see," he observed. The window opened on to the roof of a piazza. "This room has not been entered since that night," resumed Mr. Gryce. 'Yet this window, you observe, is unlocked. Now, if any of the other windows opening upon this roof were also unlocked, it would require only a little climbing for her to pass into the room adjoining and so by way of the hall to the back stairs.' 'It is so," assented the doctor. "We may regard the matter as set-tled, then," proceeded Mr. Gryce. "But what is still to be decided is why this veil of Miss Farley's, which I hold in my hand, should have been found by me under the heap of clothing at our feet. If Mrs. Cameron can explain this as easily as I can the method of the girl's departure, I shall be much obliged, for I own it seems inexplicable to Dr. Cameron turned and looked at his wife. She had not followed them into the alcove, but stood in the center of the main room, with her eyes fixed, not on him but on the heap of clothing to which Mr. Gryce had pointed. 'Do you hear, Genevieve?" he asked. "Mr. Gryce wants to know if you can account for this veil of Mildred Farley's being found under this pile of clothing.' She tore her eyes from the spot where they were looking and fixed them upon

"How does he know it was Mildred Farley's veil? By the color I had one of that color myself. But let me see it. I can soon tell if it is mine or

She held out her hand. Mr. Gryce left the alcove and laid the veil in it. She gave it a cursory glance and tossed

"It is not mine," said she; "it must be hers. As for its being found where you say, there is nothing so strange about I was dressing and I wanted an article of clothing. I had difficulty in finding it, and being nervous and in haste, I tore down half the dresses in my closet and flung them on the floor. When Mildred Farley came, she carried them into the alcove to get them out of the way. Her veil must have slipped off her hat as she stooped over them." How simple. Dr. Cameron's head rose in complete relief. Mrs. Gretorex appeared satisfied and swept from the room; only Mrs. Cameron looked fatigued, harassed and half indignant. The detective saw it, but allowed himself to put one more question. "And was the light gray veil which was found on Miss Farley yours?" "I do not know. I bought so many things about that time that I cannot remember what I had. I only know I found no suitable veil when I came to for purse snatching at Windsor, has petitioned the Governor-General for his release after sixteen months. He is the man who terrified many Detroit girls last year by hugging them and then picking their pockets. A case of senseless cruelty occurred at the First Presbyterian Church sheds at Brantford on Sunday night. Mr. John Sanderson left a fine driving mare there, and when he came out after the service he found someone had slashed it in the hindquarters with a knife. Harry Lynn, one of Lobo's councilors, while clearing his slashing the other day, came across a nest of snakes under a log. Seizing a club he succeeded, after a considerable time, in dispatching the lot, and found, after an accurate count, that he had slayed the enormous number of 63 young ones and one old one, which measured about

The Presbyterian Church at Port Stanley was reopened on Sunday after being closed for repairs. Rev. E. H Sawers, of Westminster, conducted the service in the forenoon, and preached an admirable sermon. In the evening the pulpit was occupied by the Rev J. A. Macdonald, of St. Thomas. Rev. Dr. G. L. Mackay, the returned Formosa missionary, and his student, Koa Kau, will be present at both services next Sabbath and deliver addresses.

A LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice. I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

"Well," said the ghost of the man who had been killed by a dynamite ex-plesion, "I must confess I had one bangup time before I died."

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief, and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething. "Isn't he rather fast?" asked the anxious mother. "Yes, in one sense of the word. I don't think he can get

EARLY PEACHES.

Saugatuck, Mich., July 23.—The ship-ment of peaches from this place last night is a record breaker, the total amount going by boat to the Chicago and Milwaukee markets, being 23,000 baskets. Never before in the history of the peach business here have the shipments of July aggregated as much as one-half of last night's shipment. The cause of this is the excessive hot and dry weather, which has caused the early peaches to ripen in a bunch.

FIERCE STEAMBOAT WAR. Watertown, N. Y., July 23.-An important legal action has been begun in the Supreme Court by the Alexandria Bay Steamboat Company, which runs a line of pleasure steamers on the St. Lawrence River in opposition to the Thousand Island Steamboat Company, against the New York Central Railroad Company, the amount of damages claimed being $25,000. The compplainant alleges that the New York Central has given unlawful preference in rates, sale of tickets, dockage privileges, etc., to the rival steamboat company to the detriment and damage of the plaintiffs. The suit is the outcome of a fierce steamboat war which has been waged unceasingly among Thousand Island summer resorts by the two companies for seasons past.

MISTAKES ABOUT THE GOLD

opinion existed that only those who were extremely hard drinkers and thoroughly incapacitated for business took advantage of the Gold Cure treatment. At such times when a man would take the treatment public opinion would express itself with doubtful hopes. There was a time when Ministers of the Gospel and physicians discountenanced and discouraged its efforts for good. Now how different; ministers write open letters of recommendation: the best physicians endorse it, and the general public are awakened to the fact there is a cure for all grades of alcoholism at Lakehurst Institute, Oakville. Why do they know it? Because, amongst the hundreds of its graduates they know some one, who, through its influence has right-about faced from a rapid flight down the ladder of degradation and won their way back to respect, esteem and public confidence. Mrs. Foster, of Kent street, has just recovered from a serious attack of La Grippe. This is the second siege she has had of this influenza, the first of which attacked Mrs. Foster about three years ago, and left her with a very troublesome cough, accom-panied with chronic bronchitis, and a complication of other diseases, which made it almost impossible for her to attend church without disturbing the congregation by coughing, and, indeed, Mrs. Foster assures us that so bad were the spasms that she often feared she would burst a blood vessel during one of these severe attacks. It was very natural that under such circumstances numerous friends would recommend as many different "cure alls." She tried Cherry Pectoral, Tar, Linseed and other preparations, but was growing generally worse when a friend who had been benefited by Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam advised her to try that, and in a few days she was out of bed, and the best feature is that she is now entirely freed from all simptoms of the Bronchitis, of which she never hoped to be cured. Mr. Millar, a neighbor, also had a bad cough and was completely cured by the same preparation.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE,

Churches Is Impeded.

Differences Between a Toronto Firm of Contractors and the Local Union As to the ? ime of Payment of Wages.

When the bricklayers engaged in the construction of the new church to take the place of the Queen's Avenue building went to the scene of their labors yesterday morning they had an interview with the contractor, and as a result they picked up their tools and went home.

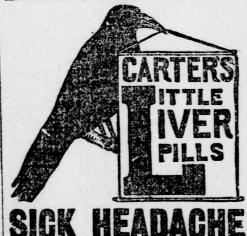

The firm of Blanshard & Nurse, Toroto, have charge of the brick work, and Mr. Nurse personally superintends the job. The bricklayers engaged by him were ten in number, about half being Toronto men, and the other half Londoners. In Toronto the Bricklayers' Union stipulates that the bosses 1 ay their hands every two weeks. The rule with London contractors is to pay every week. There has been more or less trouble ever since the first brick was laid owing to Mr. Nurse's failure to conform to the London method of payment, and matters at last reached a crisis, the crisis resulting in a strike. It was a very quiet strike, to be sure; but still it is a strike. The men who are striking would of course sooner be at work, but they feel bound to be governed by the regulations of the union, which have hitherto been acceeded to by local contractors. Mr. Nurse says he has "laid off" the men. He paid them up to the day at all events. Mr. Nurse felt very sore over the turn affairs had taken, as he walked around the almost silent building yesterday. "What business is it of yours?" he snapped at the reporter who asked him for a statement of his side of the case. He was in very ill humor and absolutely refused to talk, except to say that he had laid off the men. The reporter called at the Labor Hall last night and asked a representative bricklayer what the union intended to do about the matter. "I do not know just yet," he replied.

"Nothing will be done for a day or so."
