JURY SAYS MURDER WAS NOT WILLFUL

Verdict at Inquest Over Body of David Magee.

WOMAN SHOT IN SELF-DEFENSE

Mrs. Kyle Tells Story of Magee's Threats and of the Tragedy of Tuesday Morning.

Ingersoll, July 19.—The coroner's jury in the inquest on the killing of David Magee by Mrs. Kyle, met this evening. It consisted of the following gentlemen: James Stirton (foreman), C. H. Crawford, William Thompson, J. J. McLeod, George Naylor, John Fotheringham, Richard Butler, Fred Dutton, John Lenihan, T. N. Dunn, A. P. McDonald, George Smith, C. A. O'Neill.

After once more viewing the remains, the jury retired and in a few minutes returned with the following verdict:

"That the deceased, David Magee, came to his death from a bullet wound in the head fired from a revolver in the hands of Mrs. Emaline Kyle, of the town of Ingersoll, but that the said Mrs. Kyle did not willfully murder said David Magee, and that she fired the revolver to frighten him away."

The Inquest.

The town hall was crowded to the doors tonight when the inquest on the death of Magee was opened. The affair has created intense interest in the town, and until nearly midnight the large gathering sweltered in the building listening to the evidence and awaiting the verdict of the coroner's jury. Magee was known either personally or by reputation to nearly everyone in Ingersoll. This is the home of his younger days, and by those who knew him at that time he was regarded as a desperate character. Public sentiment from the first has been with Mrs. Kyle. Several witnesses were called at the inquest, the principal one being Mrs. Kyle, who told a straightforward story of the trouble that she had had with Magee. Magee, according to the evidence, had been in town for upwards of three weeks. In days past he knew Robert Kyle, the husband of the woman who did the shooting, intimately, and it was on invitation from him that Magee first went to the Kyle home. He was a welcome guest at first, but in a very short time he began to appear there regularly at meal times and at other times in an intoxicated condition.

Threats of Poison.

Mrs. Kyle testified that he had abused her, made improper proposals to her, and made threats that he would burn the house and place Paris green in the well. He was told to stay away, but he persisted in visiting the house during the absence of Mr. Kyle. He had so terrorized Mrs. Kyle and a young lady, Miss Whitman, who met Magee some months ago in Berlin, and who chanced to meet him here, and whom he introduced over a week ago to Mrs. Kyle, that they at times had to lock themselves in the house. Finally Mr. Kyle complained to the police of Magee's conduct.

Tells of Shooting.

Regarding the revolver with which Mrs. Kyle committed the deed, the fact was established that it was borrowed yesterday by Mr. Kyle. She had requested him to secure a weapon of some kind for her, that she might frighten Magee away. The revolver was a 32-caliber, self-action, and contained four cartridges when handed to Mrs. Kyle, and one of these she exploded shortly after receiving the weapon and the other three she fired this morning. Regarding the tragedy, Mrs. Kyle testified that Magee unceremoniously entered her house about 7:15 o'clock this morning; she and Miss Whitman were at the breakfast table when he entered, and they did not see him until he was in the dining-room. She at once ordered him to leave the house, and he stepped towards a door at the west side. She followed him and he turned on her, striking her several blows in the face and chest. She finally pushed him through the door and turned the key. He appeared at the kitchen door, and she slammed it in his face. He, however, soon attempted to again enter the house through a kitchen window, and it was then that she secured the revolver.

Magee was partly through the window when she fired a couple of random shots to frighten him. Magee ran from the premises eastward on Frederick street, and Mrs. Kyle stepped into the yard and very shortly saw Magee returning towards the house. She called to him again, and as he advanced, fired, and he fell to the sidewalk. After sending for her husband, who is employed at the St. Charles condensing factory, nearly opposite the house, and giving instructions that a doctor be telephoned for, Mrs. Kyle proceeded to the police station and gave herself up. Robert Kyle and Miss Whitman both gave evidence corroborative in the main of that of Mrs. Kyle. Miss Whitman did not see the actual shooting. Having been frightened when Magee first entered the house, she ran to a neighbor's place.

In summing up the evidence, Coroner Neff pointed out that the jury must either bring in a verdict of murder, manslaughter or justifiable homicide.

Remanded Until 24th.

Subsequently, Mrs. Kyle was taken before Police Migistrate Morrison, when the charge of murder was read, but on advice of her counsel, Mr. J. H. Hegler, she did not plead, but was remanded to Woodstock jail until Monday, the 24th inst., at 2 o'clock when she will appear for preliminary hearing.

The Canon Turned Up.

Kingston, July 19. — There was agitation in the city this morning over the prolonged absence of Canon Starr, of St. George's Cathedral, who went off in a sailing skiff on Tuesday afternoon. It was feared the canon had been drowned, and searching parties were sent out, but at 10:30 a.m. Canon Starr turned up, having spent the night at a farmhouse down the river.

Thirty-Four Men To Go To Halifax from London

Nearly Half of Wolsely Barracks Force Ordered to the New Garrison.

Thirty-four soldiers are to be transferred immediately from Wolseley Barracks to Halifax. They will leave this city tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock for Toronto, under the command of Major Carpenter, who will hand the contingent over to Col. Otter, and then return to London. The London soldiers will remain at Stanley Barracks for some days, and will then proceed to Halifax, in company with a contingent picked from the Toronto command.

During camp time, Lieut.-Col. MacDougall received word from Ottawa to hold a number of men in readiness to proceed to the new garrison, which is being formed to replace the English soldiers at the Halifax fortress. Preparations were at once begun for the departure of the contingent, although it was not known at what moment the call would come. The volunteers at camp were invited to take the King's shilling and become members of No. 1 Company. Only about ten recruits, however, were secured from the two camps.

Last evening Col. MacDougall received a telegram from the military council at Ottawa to send his contingent to Toronto at once.

When No. 1 Company assembled for early parade this morning, therefore, they were treated to a surprise in the form of an order from the commander to the effect that the following 34 men should pack up their belongings and start for Toronto tomorrow:

Corp. McFadden, Lance-Corporals Campbell, Wallace, Burgin, Walsh and Fitzallen; Privates Davies, Brunditt, Calhoun, Collins, Carly, Crawford, Camp, Elkington, Dunlop, Gilbert, Griott, Harpell, Jackson, Joseph Kennard, Pett, Ralston, Treush, Tait, Smith, Worswick, Westwood, Whiter, Simpson, Myers, Johnston, Sullivan and Sipes.

All was bustle at the Barracks this morning, the men who are to leave being busy getting ready for departure. They will march to the East London depot of the G. T. R. tomorrow morning and take the early train for Toronto, No doubt, the depot will present a lively scene of leave-taking, and exchanging of best wishes for the future.

It is a long time since an event of such importance has taken place at Wolseley Barracks, and there has been no such stir there since the commencement of the South African war. Many of the soldiers who are leaving have been many years in the city, and have a large circle of friends here, while others have been on the force only a short time. The Halifax contingent was picked indiscriminately from old and new members of No. 1 Company alike. The friends of the departing redcoats will wish them all success and happiness in their new field of activity.

There is certainly some honor attached to the fact of being among the first Canadians to garrison the historic fort at Halifax. In the middle of the eighteenth century, Halifax was a bone of contention between the English and the French. It came into the possession of the British some years before the close of the Seven Years' war in 1763, saw Upper and Lower Canada transferred to England's ownership, and was regarded as a great point of vantage.

It will be noted that in the contingent which leaves tomorrow there are no sergeants or officers. All are rank and file, including one corporal and five lance-corporals. Capt. Uniacke, who was transferred to Halifax some time ago, has been the only officer to go so far.

CRIPPLE CURED AT SAINTS' SHRINE

A Detroit Boy Throws Away Crutches After Visit to Ste. Anne De Beaupre.

Detroit, Mich., July 19. — Edward, the young son of Edward Carroll, a painter living on Eighteenth street, who had had a hip disease from infancy, and for a year had used two crutches and a brace, and who accompanied Father Van Antwerp's pilgrimage to Ste. Anne De Beaupre ten days ago, has returned to his home cured. While at the shrine he threw away his crutches and announced to his mother that he was no longer a cripple.

HE'S A REALLY, TRULY KING

Edward of Saxe-Cobourg Assumes the Reins of Government.

Gotha, July 19. — Duke Charles Edward of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha assumed the reins of government today on attaining his majority. His state entry into the capital was the occasion of much ceremony. The new occupant of the ducal throne was received at the railroad station with military honors, and proceeded to the Castle of Freidenstein, where he met his mother, the Duchess of Albany. The formal ceremony of taking the oath of installation occurred in the room in the presence of Emperor William and King Edward and others, the cabinet ministers and a brilliant assemblage of officials and deputations from various parts of the duchy.

LIGHTNING KILLS SLEEPER IN BED

Boy Lying by Victim's Side Is Partially Injured—Bolt Entered Through Roof.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 19.—Joshua Goodwin, market gardener, who lived at Seventh avenue, Hintonburg, was killed by lightning in his bed at 1:30 this morning. His son was lying by his side and was partially injured. The lightning came through the roof. The old man called for a drink of water and his son was able to go for it, but his father died 15 minutes later.

LIGHTNING HITS DYNAMITE

Blow Six Miners to Pieces and Injures a Score.

Des Moines, July 19. — A telephone message from the mines here states that lightning struck the powder-house shortly after 6 o'clock. The building contained a considerable quantity of dynamite, and the explosion which followed was terrific. Six are reported dead, and it is stated that the wounded may number 20.

Five of those reported dead are: John Woods, Will Lattimer, Walter Evans, Seink Leavis, and Newell.

The dead men had gone into the powder-house to secure their daily supply of dynamite to be used in the mine. They had not been in the shed more than a minute or two when the structure was struck by lightning, igniting the entire supply of dynamite and blowing building and men literally to pieces.

DESERTIONS HAVE BEEN FREQUENT AT WOLSELEY BARRACKS OF LATE

Eleven Members of Permanent Force Take French Leave —The Explanation.

Eleven soldiers are absent from Wolseley Barracks without leave. This fact was shown by the "parade state" this morning, and is extremely significant. It means that eleven men have deserted from No. 1 Company. Of course, some of them may come back, undergo punishment for their absence, and resume barrack life again. The majority of the eleven will, no doubt, never be seen again on Carling's Heights.

There is liable to be a desertion or two at any time and at any military headquarters, but rarely, if ever, have so many men been missed from the London Barracks at one time.

The explanation, according to all indications, is that the deserters were afraid of being transferred to Halifax. It has been known all along that there has been great anxiety among the rank and file with regard to the personnel of the Halifax contingent. The majority of the soldiers did not, and do not, want to be transferred. They have many friends in this city, and good quarters at the Barracks. The transfer to Halifax means nothing to them but a change of place and a loss of associations and friends. The fact of being on the Halifax garrison will not mean greater pay, honor or opportunities.

If there had been a call for active service, as one private remarked, every man at the Barracks would be anxious to go. As it is, when those who wished to form part of the Halifax contingent were asked to hand in their names, only a few of the soldiers responded.

All who volunteered were, of course, placed on the list. Of the others who form part of the contingent, some "don't care" very much, and more are sorry. They were chosen by the commander indiscriminately from among the ranks.

Not knowing who would be chosen, and determined not to go, the eleven above referred to decamped during the past few weeks.

Today the parade state of No. 1 Company shows only 71 names on the list, including officers. The nominal strength of a company of the R. C. R. is, as is well known, 100. When tomorrow's contingent has gone, 37 soldiers will be left at Wolseley Barracks.

The general concensus of opinion among military men is that there are today too few inducements for young Canadians to join the permanent force. The pay has indeed been raised a little of late, but not enough, in the opinion of many. When the transfer of the Halifax and Esquimalt forts to Canada was decided upon, a general militia order, issued some months ago, ordered that recruiting be actively entered into. Recruiting sergeants were sent out from the barracks all over Canada. What poor success they met with is well known, and it has given rise to a great deal of discussion and thought on the part of those who have the interests of the permanent force at heart.

When the strength of the force is raised by the legislation which has been outlined in the Dominion Parliament, how are the men to be procured? Such is the question asked by many.

By the transfer of men to Halifax and by desertions, is seen from the figures given above that the Wolseley Barracks force has been seriously depleted. And when recruiting is so difficult, the question as to what will be done is an interesting one.

As for the desertions, the officers of the Barracks do not seem to regard them as serious, and say that the majority of the absent ones will be brought back.

LONDON PEOPLE PAY THEIR TAXES WELL.

Tax Collector Hayes has taken in over $60,000 of this year's taxes so far. At this time a year ago only $45,000 had been collected.

With the last day of this month the time expires for securing the rebate on the first and second installments.

The total taxes for this year amount to about $525,000, against about $325,000 when Major Hayes took over the office seven years ago.

PROROGATION THURSDAY

Although Senate Is Still Struggling With Trading Stamp Bill.

Ottawa, July 19.—Parliament will be prorogued tomorrow at 3 o'clock. The Commons has adjourned to meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow. The Senate is struggling with the trading stamp bill.

SAY JAPS WANT PEACE

Because Russian Manchurian Army Is in Fine Shape.

Headquarters of the Russian Army, Godzyani, Manchuria, July 19.—In conversation with a correspondent of the Associated Press regarding the present military situation, General Batjanoff, commander of the third Manchurian army, today adopted a most optimistic tone. He declared the Japanese were unable to advance both on account of the strengthening of the Russian positions and because they have not fully recovered from their own losses at the battle of Mukden. He said: "Never during the whole war has the Russian army been so strong in every respect as at present. The Japanese know this, and therefore they wish for peace."

WITHIN AN INCH OF DEATH

English Visitors to Colorado Mine Have Thrilling Experience.

Denver, Col., July 19.—To face death by drowning in the icy waters of a cavern 1,000 feet under ground, to feel a narrow strip of ground affording temporary safety crumbling away inch by inch into the black waters lapping at their feet, to see their only hope of rescue just an inch above their outstretched hands and, finally, to be saved after hope was gone, was the experience of Howard Wyndham and his companion, Sir George Berkeley, of London, in the Mohegan mine in Victor last Friday.

The visitors went to Victor to inspect the Mohegan mine and were being lowered in the shaft when they saw water below them. They jerked the bell rope to signal the engineer and broke it. The cage continued downward, and when the water was up to their chins they jumped for a ledge and reached it.

The engineer, puzzled by the one bell he had heard before the rope broke, began hoisting slowly, and the cage left them. Then they discovered that the clay ledge they were standing on was breaking down. Barely in time to save them, the cage was lowered again and stopped where they could reach it, and they were hoisted to safety.

The shaft had filled to a depth of 30 feet or more from seepage.

Mother Crazed by Heat Plunges Knife in Child

Greater New York Faces Another Day of Intense Suffering.

New York, July 19. — No relief, but rather a promise of more intense heat and even greater suffering came to New York today. Even with every park in the city thrown wide open, and with practically every restriction removed, hundreds of thousands have been unable to escape the severest suffering.

At 7 a.m. today five fatalities had been reported. Two of the victims fell from windows, where they were sleeping in hope of getting a breath of air, and were dashed to death on the pavement. The others died directly from heat exhaustion.

In Brooklyn, a heat-crazed mother plunged a carving knife into her sleeping 19-months-old child, killing it instantly, and then made an unsuccessful attempt to take her own life. Her wounds were slight.

Official figures given out by the Government weather bureau today showed that the lowest temperature recorded during the last 24 hours was at 6 o'clock this morning. The Government thermometer, reaching 76 at that hour, had fallen on an average of one degree an hour during the night. From that time on, however, it began to rise, reaching 80 at 8, and 84 at 9 o'clock.

92 In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—Torrid weather prevails again in this city and vicinity. The intense heat continued through the night, and at 9 o'clock this morning the Government thermometer had reached 90 degrees, a rise of 5 degrees in one hour, and at 10 o'clock 92 degrees was the record.

Washington, July 19.—The high temperature of yesterday continued in Washington today, but a lower humidity and a stirring breeze offered considerable ease. At 8 a.m. the temperature recorded at the weather bureau was 82 degrees, practically the same as yesterday at the same hour. The temperature is rising rapidly, and doubtless the maximum will be from 93 to 95 degrees.

The heated term continues with little abatement in any quarter. The greatest intensity of the heated term centers in the Ohio Valley and the north portion of the Middle Atlantic States.

The outlook for thunderstorms during the next 36 hours in the Upper Ohio Valley and then eastward is fairly good. With the showers there will be more or less fall in temperature on Thursday afternoon or night, and it now seems probable that the prevailing high temperatures will be temporarily interrupted by Friday.

LONDON POLICE KNEW MAGEE

The Man Killed at Ingersoll Was Once Arrested Here for Abduction.

David Magee, the Toronto man who was shot dead at Ingersoll yesterday morning by Mrs. Kyle, had a slight acquaintance with the police of this city.

In August, 1901, Magee left Toronto with Maggie McIntyre, the 16-year-old daughter of a neighboring family, and started for Detroit. The couple came as far as this city, where they remained over night at a hotel in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk depot, registering as man and wife. The following afternoon they decided to continue their journey, but they were interrupted by the local police, who had received a telegram from Toronto notifying them to be on the lookout for Magee and the girl.

The arrest of Magee was effected at the Grand Trunk station. One of the through trains for Port Huron and Detroit was just about to pull out when the officers found the runaway pair in one of the coaches. In order to throw off any suspicion, Magee occupied a seat at the opposite end of the car from Miss McIntyre, and on being arrested and told that he was charged with the abduction of the girl, who was also detained, Magee professed that he had never seen her before and knew nothing whatever of her. The girl, evidently posted by Magee, also professed ignorance concerning the latter, but she finally admitted that she knew him.

Magee was taken back to Toronto and was sentenced to a term for abduction. Mr. McIntyre, father of the girl, was a member of a fraternal society, and he sent out a circular at the time asking the members to assist him in locating his daughter.

CZAR NOT SINCERE

Arranges for Peace Conference But Prepares for Prolonged War.

Tokio, July 19. — It is believed that Emperor Nicholas recently sent an encouraging message to Gen. Linevitch, promising him men, provisions and other necessaries for attaining an ultimate victory. It was reported that the Russian Emperor recently ordered the mobilization of four army corps. This fact, taken in connection with the reported limitation of M. Witte's power as chief peace plenipotenitary, is deemed to be a signal that Russia is not sincere in her expressed desire for the conclusion of peace.

Heavy seas are still raging off the coast of the Island of Sakhalin, and further reports of the Japanese operations there are not expected in the near future.

He Learned the Lesson.

Pittsburg, July 19.—Alexander Berkman, the alleged anarchist who attempted to kill H. C. Frick, the millionaire steel manufacturer, during the great Homestead strike in 1892, was released from the Western Penitentiary today and immediately arrested again on a commitment to the Alleghany County Workhouse to serve one year for carrying concealed weapons. Berkman was sentenced to 22 years in the penitentiary, but good behavior earned for him a commutation of nine years, so that he served but thirteen years. During his long imprisonment, Berkman devoted his leisure time studying and writing. As he left for the workhouse, he said to Deputy Sheriff Haggerty, "I hope there won't be any notoriety about me. I want to do my little bit, and then be a good man and live at peace with the world." The trip from the penitentiary to the workhouse was without incident.

TOT CARRIED OFF DOCTOR'S CASE

Swallowed Morphine Tablets Believing Them To Be Candy —Sad Story from Essex.

Essex, Ont., July 19. — A very sad death occurred on the Middle road today, whereby Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eldridge lost their only child, Ola, a little girl of 18 months. Mrs. Eldridge not being well on Tuesday sent for Dr. Jenner, of Essex, and while he was in the sick room the little girl in another room climbed up to the table on which was the doctor's medicine case. She took a vial containing morphine tablets, and at once took them to her playhouse outdoors, and when found had put over two dozen in her mouth, many of which had already dissolved and been swallowed. Emetic were promptly administered, and every effort was made to save the little patient's life, but she succumbed after twelve hours of faithful work on the part of the doctor and the friends present. The amount taken from the bottle must have been not less than eight grains.

Mr. Eldridge was one of the unfortunate farmers here whose crops were completely destroyed by the hailstorm that passed over on Friday last. Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge have the sympathy of the whole community in their trouble and bereavement.

Died From Injuries.

St. Thomas, July 18.—The dath occurred yesterday of the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. Affleck, of Dutton, as a result of burns received on Friday of last week. The little one had been left alone only a few minutes, when in some way she secured possession of some matches, which she ignited. Her clothing caught fire, and before the flames could be extinguished the child had sustained serious burns about the face and neck. Medical aid was at once summoned, but violent convulsions succeeded the burns, and death came to relieve the little one yesterday.

M. SERGIUS DE WITTE,
Appointed by the Czar chief of the Russian Peace Plenipotentiaries.

THE SENATE NOT YET TALKED OUT AND PROROGATION IS POSTPONED

Real Reason Is Opposition to the Trading Stamp Measure.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 19.—Both houses met at 11 o'clock today. The Commons had no special business before it, but proceeded to discuss a report of the debits committee. In the senate some time was spent in discussion of points of order. They worked up considerable opposition to the trading stamp bill, and this is the real reason why the senate is particularly busy just now. When there is a large majority in favor of the bill, it is hoped that it may be talked out, prorogation being so near. This is not likely to happen, and therefore, there is no chance of prorogation until tomorrow at the earliest, although the guard of honor was on parade at the drill hall at noon today.

JAPAN'S TERMS OR MORE WAR

Hayashi Hints They Will Not Be Moderate.

THE ZEMSTVO CONGRESS MEETS

More Sensational Rumors That Early Abdication of Czar Will Be Effected.

Moscow, July 19. — The Zemstvo congress opened at midday in the residence of Prince Dolgorukoff.

Jap Terms May Be Hard.

London, July 18. — Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister here, said today that Russia had appointed good men as peace plenipotentiaries. Nevertheless, M. Witte and Baron Rosen had not inspired Japan with confidence in a favorable outcome of the negotiations.

"We do not know," the minister added, "what powers have been delegated to them, and, after the events of the last eighteen months, Japan's public faith is only in accomplished facts.

"The terms will be communicated only at the conference. Then we will discover what powers the Russian plenipotentiaries possess."

It was suggested, the general opinion prevailed, that the Japanese terms will be moderate.

"I cannot see where people get such an idea," replied the minister; "the public evidently mistake the Japanese for angels."

Minister Hayashi intimated that Japan was ready to continue the war until she secured suitable terms. He called attention to the fact that the entire sum realized by the last two loans was unexpended, and said the capture of the Island of Sakhalin was not precipitated by the approach of the conference, but was a natural sequence of the Japanese campaign, the plans for which had not been altered since Russia acceded to a conference.

An earlier occupation of the island was not undertaken, because of the severe winter, and because the summer season was more preferable for campaign and the establishment of a new government in the island.

Will Nicholas Step Out?

London, July 19.—Advices from St. Petersburg are to the effect that the idea of deposing the Czar and establishing a regency for his infant son, Grand Duke Alexis-Nicholaievitch, is gaining ground, approval even being voiced in official circles, although guardedly.

The first rumor current yesterday was to the effect that a large party of the Zemstvoists and Doumaists in Moscow were in favor of a proclamation dethroning Emperor Nicholas and placing the infant heir to the throne in his stead, under the regency of four uncles.

This rumor has not been traced to its source, but it was spread as the reason for the prohibiting of all the all-Russian Zemstvoists and Doumaist congress, which was to have been held in Moscow today.

According to late advices, even more radical action is proposed, this time by revolutionists, being no less than the establishment of the regency, but with control taken from the hands of the grand dukes. Witte is mentioned in this connection, it being contended that he, of all men, is best equipped to direct the rehabiliation of the Russian Empire.

It is pointed out that Witte spoke Monday as if peace might not be brought about at the conference in America.

Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister, here, yesterday also gave the same impression in an interview.

Witte declared the Czar had so instructed him that the final decision, so far as Russia was concerned, would rest with the Emperor, and that the Emperor would not accept harsh terms.

Hayashi hinted that Japan was in a position to press whatever terms she might impose, and that these probably would be what Russia would regard as too severe.

Therefore it is argued in St. Petersburg, the war will go on, and Russia wants the war to cease.

The crisis probably will not come until the result of the peace conference is made known.

If Japan's terms are severe, the Czar will face two courses; either he will be forced to accede to them or he will be driven from Russia, is the temper of his subjects, and has not been overemphasized.

MAY GET $100,000 EACH

Speculation as to Doctors' Fees for Clark Operation.

New York, July 19.—Senator Clark, after undergoing one of the most serious of surgical operations, is on the road to recovery.

An interesting feature of the case is the fee that will be paid by the copper king to the men who brought him through the crisis. The operation itself is admittedly one of the most delicate known to surgery. Rare skill and iron nerve are required, and both Drs. McKernon and Mason possess these to a marked degree. Fortunes have been paid by men far less wealthy than Senator Clark for the services of experienced surgeons. His Majesty of Russia is said to have rewarded the physician of the Empress at the birth of the heir with a fee of $250,000 and a decoration.

Mr. Armour, of Chicago, paid more than $100,000 to Dr. Lorenz, of Vienna, for curing the deformity of his little daughter. The late Dr. Evans, of Paris, the American dentist who assisted the Empress Eugenie to escape from a mob, was made many times a millionaire in return for his work on the teeth of royalty and its friends.

It is felt by many that for complete restoration to health Senator Clark will draw his check to each of his physicians for $100,000. This means to the Montana multi-millionaire possibly two days' income from his vast mining interests.

Barns and Contents Destroyed.

Gananoque, July 19. — At Lansdowne last night a terrific thunderstorm burst over the village, lightning striking the barns and outhouses of the valuable farm of John T. Foley, and completely destroying them. Thirty tons of hay were consumed, while the implements and machines, all new and of the latest pattern, were ruined. One valuable horse also was burned. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

TOPICS OF TALK IN THAMESFORD

Thamesford, July 18.—The entrance examination candidates of the Thamesford public school have made a splendid record. Out of the five pupils who went from here to Ingersoll to try their exams the entire number were successful. The names are: Myrtle Reavely, Ethel Garner, Lorne Day, Besse Jones and Violet Kailey.

Mr. W. J. Turnbull, of Detroit, is spending a two weeks' vacation at the home of his grandfather, Mr. William Hogg, of the 9th line.

Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Watson are enjoying a six weeks' vacation, and are at present the guests of friends at Woodbridge.

Messrs. N. C. McCarty and B. B. McCarty left on Saturday on a two months' trip to points in Manitoba and the Northwest. They will be among the visitors at the Winnipeg Fair this week. These gentlemen have much valuable property in the west, including both farming and building lands. It is their intention to purchase considerable at this time, in consideration of the increased value of their present possessions there.

Rev. J. S. Lochead, of Thorndale, conducted the services in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday. Large congregations were present, and the sermons by Mr. Lochead were both interesting and practical.

The Thamesford Peat Manufacturing Company have had their buildings erected and most of the machinery installed. It is expected that the plant will be put in operation early this week.

The new cement walks are being laid as rapidly as skilled workmen can perform the work. Mr. George Clubb has the contract, and is losing no time in its completion.

Mr. C. M. Judge, who was accidentally hurt last week is able to resume his occupation.

Mr. J. S. Robinson, C. P. R. agent here, has been granted a month's vacation. Mr. Robinson is a faithful employe, and the company are conscious of this when allowing him a short rest at this time of the year.

The Thamesford Rockets won a hotly-contested game of baseball on Monday evening last. The visiting team was made up of a number of Ingersoll boys, together with a few of Rayside's stalwart sons. The game from start to finish was a fine exhibition of baseball, and at times it looked like a victory for the visitors, but the local team outclassed them in a score of 3 to 2. Mr. Adam Flath gave entire satisfaction as umpire. Bert Karn kept his eagle eye on the bats and gloves. The return game was played at Rayside on Friday evening, and resulted in a victory for the Ingersoll-Rayside team, the score being 2 to 1.

The regular meeting of the Nissouri Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurnace Company was held at Kintore on Thursday last. During June, policies were issued or renewed amounting to over $270,000, and new risks were taken totaling about $28,000. During the past six months the total loss by fire and lightning was only $500.

The Hotel Balmoral has been undergoing extensive repairs and improvements the past few days, and when completed Thamesford will have a real home-like hotel for the convenience of farmers and the traveling public.

Mr. Thomas Hogg, who recently left for Galashields, Scotland, in a letter to friends here, stated that he had a safe and pleasant voyage, and is enjoying himself immensely. While in Glasgow, Mr. Hogg attended the Highland Society Fair and saw many of the King's finest classes of horses and cattle. Mr. Hogg expects to remain away about two months.

Mr. A. W. Day, the popular school teacher of Thorndale, is spending his vacation at his home in the village. The pupils sent to the entrance examination from the Thorndale school were successful in passing, and much credit is due Mr. Day for the interest he has shown in their training.

Mr. J. M. Scott, principal of the Thamesford public school, is spending his vacation at his home at Eden Mills, prior to taking a trip to Muskoka.

Miss B. La Faive, of Beaverton, is home for the summer vacation, and will remain for a couple of weeks.

Six Perish in Fire.

Wabash, Ind., July 18.—Six persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Depot Hotel here today. The dead: Mrs. A. Hoffman and baby; Robert Johnson, expressman; Gertrude Stentsher, Rebecca Herman, James Hunt.

The ruins are being searched for other victims.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a gas tank used in an illuminating plant, with which the hotel was equipped.

A Poor Cook Makes Tasteless Postum

SEND IT BACK

DEMAND that it be boiled full 15 minutes AFTER ACTUAL BOILING BEGINS (not only 15 minutes after the pot is put on the stove). A curious chemical change takes place between 12 and 15 minutes after Postum begins to boil. This change releases the food elements and produces a crisp, snappy coffee taste so fetching that the makers have been many times accused of mixing coffee in. But that is false. The full analysis of Postum made by the best American authorities shows that it is made only of the selecter parts of cereal grains treated by complex methods in the factory.

Postum Is Absolutely Pure

and entirely free from the smallest grain of coffee.

Remember, you get a charming coffee taste if you insist on having your Postum made right, and that is easy. Full and simple directions on package.

Remember also that when you leave off coffee you stop the drugging of stomach and nerve centers and give Nature a chance to heal your ails. In this work Postum is a most powerful aid, for you not only have your hot morning beverage, but take a liquid food containing the very elements. Nature must have from which to rebuild the gray matter in nerve centers and brains, that have been broken down by coffee.

Ten days' trial works wonders.

Small matter what form of stomach, heart, kidney or nervous disease you may have, for the probabilities are that your troubles have originated from a nervous system thrown out of balance by coffee.

Prove your own case by leaving off coffee ten days and using Postum.

It may be worth more than a gold mine to you.

Get the little book "The Road to Wellville," in each package.

"There's a Reason" for

POSTUM

RECIPROCITY TO BE TALKED OVER

Leaders of American Political Parties to Confer On Tariff Revision.

Washington, July 19.—Unusual interest is manifested by the Government and the people in the national reciprocity conference to be held in Chicago Aug. 15 and 16.

While it is true that the Government will not be represented directly and officially, President Roosevelt undoubtedly will be asked to be present, and there is no certainty that he will not accept the invitation.

There is in the air a belief among public men that some sort of tariff revision will be undertaken at the next session of Congress.

The President personally favors such action, although with wise deference to the views of the congressional graybeards he thus far has avoided pushing the subject to the front.

Massachusetts Republicans are starting out on a campaign which will be openly for reciprocity, and Governor Douglas, Democrat, intends to make a campaign this year strictly on the tariff basis, without any regards to his own candidacy.

The deficiency in revenue has induced even ardent standpatters to suggest the return to stamp taxes, which, as the files of internal revenue show, were more personally offensive than any other of the war revenue taxation.

There is a growing belief here that the reciprocity conference in Chicago may become an entering wedge in precipitating upon the country a general fiscal decision.

Throughout New England, and particularly in portions of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, there is a strong sentiment in favor of a broad gauge reciprocity system to be inaugurated between the United States and Canada.

This sentiment is local to a large extent, and due, first, to the presence in New England of a large number of Canadians; and, secondly, to the close trade relations between New England and the northeastern Canadian provinces.

What has attracted the attention of thoughtful government people here is that the Chicago conference has been promoted largely, if not entirely, by farming interests.

In fact, it originated with organizations like the National Live Stock Association, the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, the American Stock Growers' Association, and similar bodies.

One of the things which is likely to attract the most attention in the Chicago conference is the avowed intention to discuss the wisdom of adopting in this country what is known as the maximum and minimum tax. For a number of years the closest students and strongest men in Congress have asserted privately that the only systematic and scientific methods of securing reciprocity is by the adoption of a maximum and minimum tariff.

People who are familiar with the sentiment in the Senate know the reciprocity treaties were rejected, one after another, because it was felt that a purely legislative function was being exercised in a room at the state department, and that one man, without consultation with Congress, was assuming to alter the entire tariff system and thereby to dictate the prices in the United States for almost every agricultural product and manufactured articles.

The maximum and minimum tariff idea, however, is pronounced by tariff experts to be a legitimate and scientific reciprocity system. In this way Congress yields nothing of its own legislative power.

It merely makes two tariffs at the same time, one containing the maximum and the other a minimum rate for each article on the customs schedule.

RECOGNITION FOR NORWAY

Statesmen Now in the U. S. to Push the Matter at Washington.

Chicago, July 18.—That the independent Norwegian Government is prepared to ask official recognition from the United States and that special envoys have been in this country for some time looking over the ground as private citizens prior to the assumption of diplomatic powers with which they have been invested, developed today with the return from New York of F. Herman Gade, mayor of Lake Forest, Ill.

Mr. Gade is an active worker for an international status for Norway. He has been in New York ten days in conference with J. Irgens, special Norwegian envoy, who, a few years ago, was secretary of the Norwegian-Swedish commission that dealt with the consular question.

The conference included Christian Hauge, who, up to the time of his resignation a month ago, was charge d'affairs and secretary of the Norwegian legation at Washington.

After consultation with eminent international authorities, an informal document was drawn up for presentation to the state department to serve a "Quenler" for official documents which may be expected to follow.

GEN. VILJOEN MARRIED

Hero of the Boer War Weds an Illinois Divorcee.

St. Louis, July 19.—Gen. Viljoen, nero of the South African war and one of the star characters of the British-Boer war exhibit at the World's Fair last year, is said to have surrendered to a fair divorcee of Pittsfield, Ill., whom he first met while giving spectacular exhibitions on the fair grounds last year. The name of the bride was Mrs. Myrtle Dickerson-Lowden. She was Miss Myrtle Dickerson when she first met Gen. Viljoen, but later was married to a man of the name of Lowden, from whom she was subsequently divorced.

The mother of the bride says that the couple were married in this city yesterday and at once started for Mexico, where the general has large interests. The wedding was to have taken place in Pittsfield, but Gen. Viljoen was taken ill while in in New York city and her daughter consented to meet him in St. Louis and have the ceremony performed here by the Rev. Dr. Fauntleroy. Dr. Fauntleroy admits the ceremony, but says that he did not know that the bridegroom was the Boer warrior.

After the close of the exposition here Gen. Viljoen was a frequent visitor in Pittsfield, Ill., and friends could not understand what the attraction was, but the wedding makes everything clear.

TITLES TO COBALT MINES

Suit Opens at Osgoode Hall as to Ownership of Properties.

Toronto, July 18. — An action involving the title to a mining claim in Coleman Township, which is probably only the first of many, was begun at Osgoode Hall today.

The plaintiffs are Murdoch McLeod and Donald Crawford, both of New Liskeard, and they are asserting their rights to lease No. 3465, part of lot three in the fourth concession.

This lease now stands in the names of the defendants, H. E. Lawson, of Toronto, and Thomas Crawford, of New Liskeard, whom the plaintiffs seek to have restrained from further working the property.

EYE FOCUSSED ON TOM LAWSON

Tells Boston of His Trip West, Where He Ran Across a Future President.

Boston, July 18.—Thomas W. Lawson returned last night from his western travels, and said he was "tickled to death" to get back home, though he had a most satisfactory trip.

He gave out a statement reviewing his experiences in the west and telling of the enthusiasm of his audiences, all of which, he says, shows him the people are aroused beyond quieting.

"My work," he says, "is now fourteen months old, and should long ago have been on the wane if it was ever to peter out. My trip convinced me that it is not the personality of Lawson that has aroused the people, but my work, my subject—finance.

"In the course of each two hours' talk I had every eye in the crowd focused, and I could see as I proceeded that my simple teaching landed, until just before I was through every man and woman, whether in Kansas City at the start or in Minnesota at the finish, understood how all had been robbed and how I proposed to stop it and punish and compel restitution.

"It was the general impression in the west, as it has been in the east, that my object was to get people to sell their stocks and bonds. Each of my audiences, when I was through, saw plainly that selling stocks and bonds was simply incidental to my work—that my remedy, when it came, would right things, even though stocks and bonds were not sold.

"Another thing that I cleared up absolutely in the west was the false impression that I was advising people to make runs on the banks. Before I got through they saw that my advice to take money out of the banks was contingent upon my remedy being so plain to the people when I gave it that they would take their money out of the banks with one hand and put it into circulation in a new way with the other.

"Another thing my trip showed me was that the municipal and federal ownership fallacy will not be adopted by the people at large, and still another thing, that they won't accept gifts from Carnegie, Rockefeller and other millionaire robbers. I will give you an illustration:

"At Albert Lea I flayed the people for allowing themselves to be placed in the position of paupers by accepting from Carnegie in the form of libraries the money he had plundered from them.

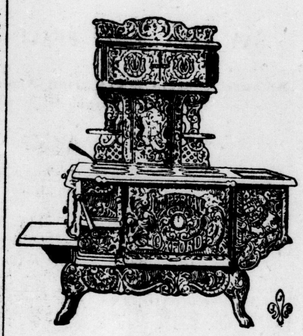

"At the reception in the evening, hundreds of men and women, the leading people of the town, told me they would immediately take steps to give back the library.

"I found in the west one of the sturdiest Americans I have ever run across—an able, honest, fearless citizen of the republic, a personality to whom the great body of American citizens would warm and quickly make a hero of—Governor Johnson, of Minnesota.

"It just did my heart good to shake hands with him and to stand off and analyze him, and I do not hesitate a second in saying that, barring accidents, if the Democratic party nomfnate him three years from now, and the American people get a peek at him, nothing will stop him from landing in the White House with a majority well up with Roosevelt's.

"I am no politician, and, as the American people know, I am not hired out to boom any man for anything, but I simply cannot hold back this expression."

NO ALCOHOL IN IT.—Alcohol or any other volatile matter which would impair strength by evaporation does not in any shape enter into the manufacture of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Nor do climatic changes affect it. It is as serviceable in the Aretic Circle as in the Torrid Zone, perhaps more useful in the higher latitudes, where man is more subject to colds from exposure to the elements.

CUCUMBERS AND MELONS are "forbidden fruit" to many persons so constituted that their indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are not aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they had on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints.

It costs money to live in South Africa. A woman resident of Johannesburg pays $50 a month for her cook, and $35 a month to a Hindoo servant. In India she would have had to pay only $5 a month for the Hindoo's services.

No furnace drudgery in the Bison

The most exasperating mystery a man can have is a cranky furnace. The dirt and soot, the ash sifting and draft worry of many heaters, make life a burden. With the new "Bison" hot water heater, there are no worries. Its drafts are so simple a child can understand them, the shaking down apparatus is operated with the slightest effort, shaking down and sifting in one operation. It is a clean, simple, economical heater, perfectly safe, as it burns its own gas no matter how the drafts are set. Write to H. R. IVES Co., Limited, Montreal, for an interesting booklet which fully describes it.

American Cities Sizzled in the Intense Heat.

STRICKEN FILL THE HOSPITALS

Many Deaths and Prostrations in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Omaha.

New York, July 18.—The mercury got up to 96 degrees in this city today and the effects of a real hot period began to manifest themselves forcibly. Enervated by the effort to sleep in the almost breezeless atmosphere of one of the hottest nights in the history of the boroughs, working people got up today unprepared to stand the assault of the strong sun. There has been only one hotter day in July since 1901, when, on the 2nd, the silvery hands of the mercury clasped the 99 degree rung of the ladder. In the unshaded and windless places, where a multitude made an effort to do their daily work, the temperature fluctuated between 98 degrees and 104 degrees, and hundreds were forced to abandon work in the afternoon.

Seldom has the city re-echoed with the clangs of the ambulances gongs as it did today. Eight of the big hospitals in Manhattan alone responded to nearly 200 calls, more than 70 of which were due to heat prostrations.

There was nothing in sight tonight that gave promise of even a temporary cooling of the superheated air. In the sunny hours of the day, particularly at 4 o'clock, when the temperature on the official tower was at 96 degrees, air breathed chiefly by residents of airships and balloons, the breeze rose to 23 miles an hour. But on Monday it was from the west and southwest, blowing right out of the sizzling heart of Tophet. Help from that point was hopeless. When the mercury was highest, however, the humidity was least, dropping to 37 per cent, from 62 per cent at 2 a.m.

In New York County the police recorded seven deaths ascribed to the heat, 66 prostrations, and nine sick cases. The totals were largely in excess of those of the day before or of any other day of the summer. On Monday one death and 29 prostrations were reported.

There were several places somewhat hotter than New York, notably Atlantic City, where the sun drove the mercury up to 98 degrees. Philadelphia and Baltimore also had 98 degrees. It was still very warm in the west and southwest. The lake breeze at Chicago went out of commission tonight, and the city was perspiring under 92 degrees at 8 p.m., when New York had 92 degrees. Chicago's maximum was 94 degrees, and Omaha's was likewise. Forecaster Emery noted a thunderstorm far out at sea at 7:58 o'clock tonight. At the same time there was a faint trace on top of the forecaster's perch.

Mr. Emery looked over his completed map and shook his head sadly. All the forecasters of all the stations had turned in their night report, and there was nothing but to agree with the Washington forecast that predicts for tomorrow and Thursday "continued high temperature; light to fresh southwest winds."

In Brooklyn there were five deaths from heat and 26 prostrations. Among the Brooklyn death were two at Coney Island.

"Come and sleep on the grass in the parks," was the invitation Manhattan sent out tonight, and the people responded by thousands. From the little triangle south of Cooper Union to the slopes of Riverside Park, and in all the downtown small parks, the grass, the benches and the band stands were populous. The "Keep off the grass" signs were called in.

"They won't be put out again this summer, either, if I can help it," said Park Commissioner Pallas. He sent a letter to Police Commissioner McAdoo in the afternoon, offering the parks within his jurisdiction in the Boroughs of Manhattan and Richmond to the weary and overheated.

It did not take long for the news to get about. By 9 o'clock at night Mulberry Bend Park, in the Italian quarter, looked like the beach at Coney Island on a hot day. There were over 2,000 women and children there, with a fair percentage of men.

Everybody in the park wore as little clothing as the law allowed. A shirt and a pair of trousers sufficed for the men, while most of the children slept under the stars in their birthday dress.

On the bank sloping down to the river from Riverside Drive, space was at a premium in the early evening. There was a breeze off the river, and weather conditions were quite comfortable.

Those who went into Central Park to keep cool were surprised when the police failed to turn them out at midnight. They had not yet heard of the new order. Many of them, learning that they might stay there all night if they wished, went home and got pillows.

Seaside Park, Coney Island, was a large dormitory. Thousands of people came from the city with the intention of sleeping on the beach. Between 5,000 and 10,000 of them, according to an estimate of Capt. Dooley, did so. At midnight the trains from the city were coming in packed to the doors, and the number of sleepers was constantly increasing.

Tokio is a few degrees colder than London in January and 15 degrees warmer in July.

EVERY DAUGHTER OF EVE

is a believer in the cause of ODONTINE, a fragrant, captivating dentifrice for the teeth and gums.

ODONTINE (C. & L.) refreshes the mouth, stimulates the gums, makes the teeth pearly white and beautiful. How every crevice and cranny about the pinkly gums revels in this bit of aestheticism! Gay little ripples of laughter are freighted with a violet-laden sweetness that is truly the very acme of feminine refinement, a gossipy confidence breathes in every word uttered, a tribute to this pleasant mode of adding one more charm to woman's makeup.

The genuine ODONTINE bears the name Cairncross & Lawrence.

REMEDY FOR HAY FEVER

After Trying Other Treatments, Hyomei Was Used With Perfect Success.

Before the discovery of Hyomei, the only advice a physician could give his hay fever patients was to go away from home; but now anyone who is subject to this disease can, if Hyomei is used, stay at home without fear of the annual attack of sneezing, watery eyes, and other discomforts.

J. F. Forbes, a well known western railroad man, whose home is at McCook, Nebraska, writes: "I have never had any relief from any remedy for hay fever, even temporarily, until I discovered the merits of Hyomei. I always recommend it when occasion requires."

There is no offensive or dangerous stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. This reliable remedy for the cure of all diseases of the respiratory organs is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, so that the air taken into the throat and lungs is like that of the White Mountains or other health resorts where hay fever is unknown.

The fact that W. T. Strong agrees to refund the money to any hay fever sufferer who uses Hyomei without success should inspire confidence in its power to effect a cure. A complete outfit costs $1, and extra bottles but 50 cents.

THE INDIAN ARMY NOT FOR WAR

Kitchener Says It Is Run to Meet Peace Requirements —Would Break Down.

London, July 18.—The official reports just published show that Lord Kitchener has not been afraid to criticise the army in India. Among other things, he said:

"No one dislikes change more than I do, but if necessary I do not fear it. I would certainly not continue a rotten system because I was afraid to stretch out my hand and take a sound one.

"The question is an imperial, and not merely an Indian one.

"The present system is faulty, inefficient, and incapable of the expansion necessary for a great war, in which the armed might of the empire would be engaged in a life and death struggle."

He explained how the military member of council is "really omnipotent in military matters, while the commander-in-chief cannot even issue orders for the movement of troops, although he is the man responsible to the Government.

"The fact is, our Indian military administration has been framed mainly to meet peace requirements, and the consideration that an army exists for war has been overlooked.

"Peace routine has overshadowed preparation for war, and unimportant details, together with the multiplication of criticisms and discussions on side issues, have absorbed the time and energies of the higher officials, while real requirements have been neglected.

"In war the present system must break down; and unless it is deliberately intended to court disaster, divided counsels, divided authority, and divided responsibility must be abolished.

"It is impossible to formulate or carry out any consistent military policy.

"No needed reform can be initiated, no useful measure can be adopted, without being subject to vexatious, and for the most part unnecessary criticism.

"The fault lies simply in the system, which has created two offices which have been trained to unfortunate jealousy and antagonism, and which therefore duplicate work, and in the duplication destroy progress and defeat the true ends of military efficiency.

"Owing to the separation of offices it is impossible for the commander-in-chief to know how his schemes are progressing, or whether a hitch has occurred.

"Thus the offices become paper-logged with more or less unnecessary verbiage, and I am not surprised that mistakes occasionally occur.

"Under this system no settled or continuous policy for the improvement of the army can be followed.

"Another defect is that the army can only with difficulty be brought to a state of efficient training, and even preparatory training for war is interfered with.

"The only continuity of policy that has been maintained by the present military system and is inherent in it, is that of making it easy to stand still, and extremely difficult to move forward — a condition which cannot be regarded as satisfactory."

Every one demands that his friend's memory should be poor enough to forget his wrongdoing and good enough to remember what ailed him when he saw him last.

SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE RUBBED IN.—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 19.

The Hot Spell.

The people in the great cities across the line are suffering fearfully in this hot wave. In the East Side of New York the poor are dying by scores. The sick and the infants, herded in stuffy tenements, must be undergoing tortures, which suggest the lower circles of Dante's Inferno. We in London can read of the ravages of the heat in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago with mingled compassion and gratitude; gratitude that we live in a place like London, during the summer at least, where trees and lawns and parklike streets are the refreshment of rich and poor.

The highest temperature in this city yesterday was 90½; in New York 96. This is not a great difference, measured by the thermometer, but in New York there were 26 deaths and 190 prostrations from heat. The tenements of the East Side contributed their quota, but not all. The down-town skyscrapers, shutting out the currents of air, make the streets like an oven. Stone, brick and asphalt absorb the rays of the sun and radiate heat like steam registers. Humidity is another dangerous element, which makes the thermometer deceptive. Ninety degrees of heat with excessive humidity would be worse in its effects than 100 degrees of dry heat. The following hot weather instructions, prepared by a medical expert for the New York Herald, are so timely that they are worth reproducing:

"Obviously, the more chance the skin has of disposing of excretory products and of maintaining a proper evaporation of perspiration, the better will the surface be protected against external heat. Nature indicates this by increasing the activity of the sweat glands during warm weather. It is one of the most effective methods of protection against sunstroke. The moment this function is arrested there is danger. The victim of heat prostration always has a dry, hot skin. It has been shown by scientific experiment that during perspiration the body parts with three times as much of its internal heat as when the surface is comparatively dry.

"It need not be said that clothing has very much to do with the comfort and safety of the individual under the varied conditions of outside temperature.

"In hot weather the great point is to protect the body from external heat by light coverings and at the same time to favor rapid dispersion of increased bodily temperature. Experience and experiment have quite effectually settled these points.

"Not only the texture but the color of the fabric is taken into account. Cotton clothing is perhaps the most desirable for summer wear in this climate, loose meshed woolen coverings being next in efficiency. The lighter the weight of the material the better. Starched underwear is always uncomfortable, as it prevents exhalation. The wilted shirt is the every-day argument against stiffened and impermeable coverings. Tight clothing is an abomination at any time and a special source of danger in summer weather, the corset being a conspicuous defiant offender along these lines.

"Colors differ in their power to absorb and reflect the heat of the sun's rays. White materials are always the coolest. Then come the colors in the order of their different cooling relations: Yellow, red, green and blue, while black is at the end of the list.

"Frequent bathing, and especially the frequent hygienic wash of the body with soap, will have much to do with keeping the skin in good condition, as also the regular and systematic change of underclothing, the regular airing of bed linen and the like. Above all, the man who wishes to be as cool as possible tries to do so by shunning all extra exertion.

"The necessity for lighter diet in summer is another thing that is not sufficiently considered. During the torrid spell meat once a day should be enough for any healthy man, and as for water, the more he can satisfy his thirst by it the better can he supply the needs of his skin, and the safer will be his kidneys. All alcoholic drinks have this great drawback, that those who are most addicted to their use are the most frequent subjects of sunstroke."

Sabbath Observance.

Church people in England are becoming alarmed at the increasing secularization of the Sabbath and are organizing, with the Archbishop of Canterbury at their head, to promote a more reverent observance of the Lord's Dav It is said the chief offenders against Sabbath decorum are members of "smart" society, who devote the day to all sorts of fashionable frivolities. The Archbishop of Canterbury cannot be called a strict Sabbatarian, since he recently chided a correspondent who asked him to rebuke Mr. Balfour (himself a foremost churchman) for Sunday golf-playing, so that it is probable that the organization to which he lends his name will confine itself to educational work, laying stress on the devotional aspect of the Sabbath, rather than crusading against particular forms of what it may deem desecration, or invoking more restrictive Sunday laws. The Lord's Day Alliance in Canada is also displaying unusual vigilance just now, its agent having set prosecutions on foot in several places mainly against Sunday vendors of refreshments. The question of jurisdiction in the matter of Sunday legislation is still unsettled. The legislative side of Sabbath observance bristles with difficulties, and must be approached in the most cautious and broad-minded manner, not from a strictly theological point of view, but from the point of view of the welfare of the greatest number. "It is certain," says Lecky, the philospher and historian, "that the legal prohibition of all Sunday labor had a religious origin, and according to modern principles no restriction based solely upon a contested theological doctrine should be generally enforced by law." The same very subsidiary part among the motives of the original legislators, have come rapidly into the foreground. It is now very generally recognized that a periodical and complete suspension of severe work is in the highest degree necessary to the happiness, to the health, to the full moral and intellectual development of men, and that one day in seven is the smallest proportion of rest which meets this want. Of all the failures of the French Revolution none was more complete than the substitution of a tenth for a seventh day of rest, which they established and attempted to enforce by law. The innovation passed away without a protest or regret, and the proportion which the Jewish and Christian churches had assigned was resumed.

"If a man by working on Sunday affected himself alone, I do not think the law would have any right to interfere with him, but in the keen competition of industry this is impossible. A shop or a manufactory which was open on Sunday would naturally distance its competitors, and a small minority would thus always have it in their power to enforce Sunday labor on a large majority. It is on this ground that the law is justified in imposing the restriction on all; and when this general prohibition is found to be on the whole a great advantage, legislators naturally hesitate to admit exceptions which, though plausible or justified in themselves, might tend to weaken its force."

The Lord's Day Alliance should have the active support of the public, especially of the working classes, in pressing for legislation against unnecessary Sunday labor. A tolerant discretion must be exercised, however, in drawing the line between necessary and unnecessary Sunday occupations. There are some which involve an amount of labor infinitesimal in proportion to the benefit and convenience they afford to the mass of the people, such as the running of street cars in large centers of population, the opening of parks, museums, picture galleries, etc. The question of Sunday amusements is complicated with the question of Sunday labor, and legal regulations must be framed with the greatest circumspection. It is impossible to lay down an arbitrary rule. Each case must be dealt with on its merits, having regard to the amount of labor it involves, and its bearing upon the moral and material welfare of society.

This Ingersoll tragedy has one remarkable feature: the woman hit the mark.

The grasp of a drowning man is very tenacious. That may be why Mr. Balfour holds on to office so successfully.

A great city has many advantages; but in weather like this the cool, sequestered vale of life has the bulge on it.

United States tariff reformers are calling a reciprocity convention. They begin to see the edge of Canada's new maximum tariff.

The Imperial Government has assented to the garrisoning of Halifax and Esquimalt by Canadian troops; but Canadian snobs refuse to assent, doncher know.

The payment of life annuities to cabinet ministers is a British precedent. It would have been better if the Canadian Parliament had not required a minister to serve five years to qualify for it. He would have more incentive to be independent if he became entitled to it when sworn into office.

Mr. Foster's hard heart has been touched at last. He had given notice of an amendment scoring the Government for the increased public expenditure, but after being voted a life annuity of $3,500 he felt so kindly and charitable that he dropped it. The vinegar in his composition was turned by a miracle into sweet wine.

Sonnet to the Cucumber.

[Joe Cone, in New York Sun.]

Hail, cucumber! Long green, the proper stuff!
We welcome you upon the festive board;
When I say "we" I mean the mighty horde,
For all bow at your altar right enough,
Beef eater and vegetarian bluff.
Buccolic in your habits, O cucumber, you are not the demon held by some,
But come to fill a long-felt want, I ween;
You are so sweet and cool and crisp and green;
A stomach ache by any other name,
O, luscious cucumber, would be the same;
Success succeeds, and so do you, O cuke!
Though seedy, you have not won by a fluke,
But pushed yourself by fair means into fame.

A Power for Temperance.

[Saturday Evening Post.]

The big corporations with their rules against drinking are doing a wonderful work for temperance. But more significant than their rules is the fact that they are able to enforce those rules. Twenty years ago these men would have kept on drinking, and the corporations would have had to yield, for 20 years ago it was among the best classes of workers that the drink habit had the most slaves.

The real cause of the improvement in this and every other direction is the simple enlightenment of public opinion. The habit of obedience to the clear mandates of public opinion is so ancient and powerful that it may be called instinctive and imperative. The public opinion that laughs at the man who varies his dress very far from the recognized standard has its way. The public opinion that causes the lip to curl contemptuously at sight of the fellow who has let a thief in at his mouth to steal away his brains also has its way.

Often "silly" is a stronger word than "sinful," and "Don't-be-an-ass" goes where "Don't-do-wrong" wouldn't.

Usual Performance.

[Puck.]

"Then, so far as you are aware," said the lawyer, who was doing a cross-examining stunt, "your wife was performing her usual household duties when the accident occurred?"

"Yes," answered the witness; "she was talking."

A Royal Wit.

[Exchange.]

England's heir to the throne, Prince Edward of Wales, now 11 years old, tended he was the son of a king, but he wasn't; he was the son of respectable parents."

Sans Souci.

[Kathleen Kavanagh.]

Sweet, sweet it is, to lie at ease,
Beneath the tall magnolia trees;
To watch the fleecy clouds go by,
The gilded wing of butterfly.

Sweet, sweet it is to hear the sigh
Of wandering wind pass lightly by;
To hear the gurgling soft and low
Of far-off bayou's dreamy flow.

To hear some bird pour out his praise
In gladdest notes of summer days;
Of sapphire skies his music tells,
Of lily beds and daisy dells.

Sweet, sweet to breathe the faint perfume
From the fields and fields of clover bloom;
To hear the distant buzz and whirr
Of myriad happy bees astir.

Sweet, sweet it is thus to beguile
Dull care away a little while;
With memory's hand in mine to stray
Unto another sweeter day.

Horse Torture.

[Goldwin Smith.]

Nobody can doubt that the check rein is torture, often very cruel torture. Nobody in his senses can suppose that it really does any good; that a horse is made sure-footed by having his head tied up in the air, and being made unable to see his footing. Nor is torture likely to quiet a horse and make him kinder and more manageable. In England, the King leading the way, they have banished the bearing rein. Why should an Englishman visiting Canada be scandalized by the sight of barbarism worse than the bearing rein here?

Regarding Phyllis.

[Philadelphia Press.]

She hath a dimple in her chin,
All hedged about with kisses;
And Cupid lies intrenched therein,
A wee sharp-shooting manikin,
Who very seldom misses.

The Real Hunt

Luther Burbank is now talking about getting up some cobless corn, but the really great desideratum is the cornless toe.

Michigan Arcanumites Do Not Take Kindly to Increased Rates.

One hundred delegates, representing practically all of the Royal Arcanum councils in Michigan, met at Detroit yesterday in a convention called by the Detroit councils of the order to discuss the recent increase in the rates of the Royal Arcanum. Two delegates from Ohio lodges attended the convention for the purpose, it is understood, of pledging the support of the membership in that state in any attempt to have the raise in rates reconsidered. A delegate from Ontario was also present at the meeting. Organization was effected at the first session, and speeches were made by delegates urging that action be taken toward rescinding the raise, which, they declared, would force the old man out of the order. Discussion among the delegates before the con-

ORIGIN OF LIFE THE ONE TOPIC

Burke's Tests Have Set Scientific World Thinking.

HEALTH STUDY NOW A MANIA

And Results of Its Study Promises To Be Far-Reaching to English People.

London July 18. — We are all thinking of the "Origin of Life," owing to Professor Burke's remarkable experiments at Cambridge with radium and bullion, experiments which it is suggested, may prove the possibility of spontaneous generation.

The scientists differ widely as to the possibility even of such conclusions. Dr. Boyes, the celebrated Paris doctor, frankly says, "I regard spontaneous generation as impossible."

Metchnikoff is more cautious, and says: "It is much too early to draw conclusions."

Among those most interested in Mr. Burke's experiments is Mme. Curie, the woman, who, in collaboration with her husband, made the discovery of radium. "I am not," she said, "a biological expert, and therefore I can express no opinion at the present juncture as to the possibility or otherwise of spontaneous generation by the direct agency of radium."

What effect would a revolution on this subject have in the theological world? has been the question.

Rev. R. J. Campbell, the well-known minister at the City Temple, writes: "Should Mr. Burke's discovery turn out to be genuine, I do not think it would at the present day produce any very serious changes in theological thought. Most liberal religious thinkers have long been prepared for the possibility of such a discovery.

Years ago Balzac exclaimed in an illuminating way, speaking of the great problem of the creation of species, "There is but one animal."

Wrote in Reverence.

He wrote this in a deeply reverent spirit. The idea. The plan of all things lving he held as one growing toward that image. Differences are only due to environment. The idea is the Word, the likeness of God himself. In the ceaseless struggle to grow they are molded by outward things, and thus we have in the world the tiny fly that wings its way through the summer air, the lion that stalks the forest, the man that rules the world.

The subject of health is becoming almost a mania. It is the one question of interest which absorbs men and women. Health spells happiness nowadays, and it is realized that the millionaire with a bad digestion is far worse off than the laborer who assimilates his food, be that food ever so poor.

Not only individual but national health is occupying the minds of those who have desire from themselves to consider the welfare of the world. "To save babies, to help children, to train youths, to teach parents and to lessen drink" are the words in which one of our greatest medical men describes some of the most pronounced work to be done by a proposed National League of Physical Education and Improvement, and the league so long expected has now been born, for the other day at the Mansion House the lord mayor, the lord chief justice, Sir William Broadbent, one of our foremost physicians, the Bishop of Ripon, Mrs. Bramwell Booth and many other distinguished people of very divergent views on most subjects met definitely to start the work.

The Children First.

Infant mortality and the feeding and physical training of children will probably be among the first subjects to be tackled, for upon those early years depends the career of the adult.

One thing is certain, that the league will not fail for want of enthusiastic supporters, for those who are giving their names and their time and their attention are among the foremost altruists in our country.

The changes which time brings about are not always to be regretted. If you wander on Sunday evenings into Lincoln's Inn Fields today, that center of the legal world in London, under the huge elm trees you can see rows of chairs crowded by people, the poorer inhabitants of the neighborhood, making a dark circle round the band stand.

This treat, which is provided for them every week, is probably the only change they have in their sordid, monotonous lives—the pale woman with the child, who scarcely ever gets a breath of fresh air, the weary workman, who comes to sit there to enjoy an evening's leisure, the old woman who has a faint recollection of a country home, where birds sang and cool evening winds stirred at night, and whose music brings back to her the only lovely thing she has ever known.

There are some people who would deprive these humble toilers of that pleasure, and would maintain that it was contrary to the will of God that they should have that recreation upon his day, but I never see those pale faces lit with pleasure that I do not feel the truth of the words: "The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath."

But years ago these same fields were the great blot upon London. It was a place through which it was unsafe to pass at night, where the thief lay hidden, and where men were held up for a ring or a purse, and if they showed resistance would be found lying dead in the morning.

Our prosaic generation has certainly done some good things, we cannot but feel, as we see the clean-shaven lawns on which the gray buildings of Lincoln's Inn stand and the pale faces lit with smiles.

How good Food may turn Poisonous.

DECAY is not digestion, you know, even when it takes place in the stomach.

Food decayed in the body after being eaten, is as dangerous to health as food decayed before being eaten.

Delayed Digestion means Food Decay,—always.

Food therefore, nourishes or poisons, just according to how long it remains in the Bowels undigested.

The Pure-food laws cannot protect us against this kind of poisoning.

So, other protection is needed.

* * *

Cascarets are the simplest and surest safeguard against Delayed Digestion yet discovered.

Yet,—they cost you only a dime.

Sold in a thin Enamel box, half as thick as your watch, which fits into the vest pocket as if it grew there.

This Vest Pocket Cascaret Box glides into my Lady's purse like a silver dollar, and its contents are better than Gold, in Emergencies.

In this round-edged Enamel box are found six small Candy Tablets.

One of these toothsome tablets works wonders for digestion.

Soon as placed in the mouth it starts the Saliva flowing, which at once gets to work dissolving it.

* * *

Perhaps you don't know that Saliva is practically Gastric juice, which digests Foods chemically, in the Stomach and Intestines.

Well, that's what it is!

The Saliva becomes blended with the Candy Cascaret tablet, and from the moment they start going down your throat together they start working together.

Now, what do they work at? Bowel-work, of course,—Digestion.

Some folks think Digestion takes place in the Stomach only.

But that's a great mistake!

Most of the Digestion occurs in the thirty feet of Intestines that connect with the Stomach.

* * *

Now these Intestines are 30 feet long, for a purpose.

They are lined with a set of little mouths, that squeeze Digestive Juices into the Food eaten.

This Muscular squeezing begins whenever a piece of Food touches these little suction pumps, and continues while it is near them.

The Digestive Juices thus mix with the food, just as Saliva mixes with Cascaret tablets, dissolving and changing that food into nourishment, as it passes along the channel.

The Intestines are also lined with millions of little suction pumps, that draw the Nutriment from Food, as it passes them in going through.

This Nutriment is then carried into the Blood, and spread over the Body as Brain, Bone and Brawn.

* * *

You see, it is the friction of the Food, as it moves along the Intestines, that makes the Bowel-Muscles tighten-up to drive food onward, to squeeze these Digestive Juices into it, and to draw Nutriment out of it.

But, when the Bowel-Muscles are weak, the Food moves too slowly to stimulate the little Gastric Mouths by friction. Then there is no flow, or too little flow, of Digestive Juice, to change the food into nourishment.

Then, the food decays in the Bowels, and in the thirty feet of Intestines.

When this Decay begins the little suction pumps draw Poison from the decayed Food, into the blood, instead of the Nutrition it should have drawn.

Is that clear to you, Reader?

The Food is Nourishment, or Poison, just according to how slow the Bowel-Muscles move it along in the Intestines.

* * *

Now, Cascarets Stimulate these Muscles of the Bowels just as open-air Exercise stimulates a Lazy Man.

Cascarets act like Exercise!

They produce the same Natural result that a Six-Mile walk in the country would produce.

Sold by all Druggists, at Ten Cents. Should be carried constantly, because, the time to take a Cascaret is when you first suspect you need one.

You can try Cascarets FREE before you buy. Write for Free Sample and booklet, "The Curse of Constipation," best ever printed on the subject. Address Sterling Remedy Company, 374 St. Paul Street, Montreal. 665

PREVENT DISORDER.—At the first symptom of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Spots Before the Eyes—Dropsy Indicated—Cured by Bu-Ju, the Kidney Pill.

Dropsy is the effect of bad blood, and bad blood is caused by deranged kidneys. The sewers of the body become clogged, and uric acid and other foreign elements are not thrown from the system. Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, the best kidney remedy on the market, heals and strengthens the kidneys, enabling them to perform their important functions. Read what a resident of Thamesville says:

"I have taken three boxes of your Bu-Ju Pills, and feel greatly benefited by their use. They have entirely removed the pains from my back, and the spots before my eyes have entirely disappeared. My ankles were badly swollen, but I now feel quite well. WM. McKENZIE,

WIDER STREETS FOR LONDON

Royal Commission Recommends the Expenditure of Millions.

London, July 19. — The royal commission appointed in February, 1903, to inquire into the means of locomotion and transport in London, has issued its report. It declares that everybody knows that the existing means are seriously defective. It adds that improvement is imperatively necessary in the interests of public health and convenience, for the prompt transaction of business, and to render decent housing possible.

The narrowness of the streets lies at the root of the problem of surface locomotion. The commissioners recommend the widening of many important thoroughfares, and what is one of the most striking points of their whole report is the construction of two great avenues, one running east and west, four and three-quarters miles long, and the other running north and south four and a quarter miles long. Each avenue would be 140 feet wide, with four tramway tracks on the surface and four electric railway tracks underground. The commissioners apparently regard this somewhat as the counsel of perfection, at any rate for the present, for the estimated cost is £6,000,000 to £30,000,000. Nevertheless, they strongly urge this plan if it is found to be financially practicable.

In dealing with tramways the report remarks that the existing tramway mileage is quite insufficient and is conspicuously inferior to that of American, European and provincial English cities. It recommends a large extension and the linking of various systems. More railways also are needed, and they should be, if necessary added by the local authorities. Shallow subways are regarded as preferable to deep-laid tubes although the former in some cases are admitted to be impracticable. The opinion is expressed that motor omnibuses will never take the place of tramways.

As can be seen, the construction of the two avenues and the carrying out of the commission's other recommendations would be enormously expensive. The commissioners recognize that this will prevent the adoption of an ideal scheme, but in view of the apparent fact that the metropolitan population will reach 11,000,000 in the near future they declare that the utmost possible ought to be done, and they urge the creation of a permanent body to deal with the question.

THE WESTMINSTER GEMS

Beautiful Duchess Attends Trial of Servant Who Robbed Her.

London, July 15. — The Duchess of Westminster, whose magnificent jewels were stolen a few weeks ago, attended the trial of the thief, who proved to be the night-watchman, who had broken into the duchess' bedroom and abstracted her pearls, diamonds and other jewels. The man had subsequently walked to Cambridge, where he had deposited the jewels with a friend.

The duchess, beautifully dressed, could not restrain her laughter when the man gave evidence in court that he had "never for a moment thought that the jewels which were brought to his house could possibly be real, and had asked Chapman, the thief, whether he had gone into the cheap jewelry trade."

The pretty duchess does not probably know enough of the seamy side of life to appreciate the burden laid upon the unfortunate man. The terrible social contrasts that such trials must inevitably disclose give long thoughts to many who are more acquainted with the grief of the world than the handsome young woman, who, in her beautiful clothes, gave evidence at the trial.

The night-watchman had been discharged, it appears, for inebriety. He had previously borne an excellent character, and his parents were respectable people.

CURZON AND KITCHENER

Latter So Far Has Better of Indian Army Agreement.

London, July 18. — The struggle for premacy between Lord Curzon, the Viceroy of India, and Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief of the military forces, continues. When Lord Curzon threatened to resign if he did not have his way Lord Kitchener hurried to follow his example, and Gen. Elles actually did resign. So far Lord Kitchener has been successful. He set out to make a complete reform of the Indian military organization on the grounds that it was not only dating from the time of the mutiny, but also useless for war conditions.

These reforms were handicapped by the military member of the Viceroy's Council, Gen. Elles, who had the right to refuse taking them before the Viceroy. As the commander-in-chief is not the man to be balked in the work he has set out to do, he laid the case before the home Government, and threatened to resign unless he was freed from the clog upon his actions. The clog was removed. In other words, Gen. Elles resigned on having his powers curtailed. Lord Curzon stepped in. In his memorial to the Government he protested that, freed from the military member of the council, "the autocracy of the commander-in-chief would be unchallenged;" that to change the old order would be a "fatal error," and would subvert the military authority of the Government of India as a whole. To emphasize these opinions he, too, has threatened to resign if the "fatal error" is permitted. Under the circumstances his threat is not unnatural.

ELECTRICAL POWER FOR N. Y. CENTRAL

Makes Big Contract With Company at Falls for Lines West of Syracuse.

Toronto, July 18. — The Ontario Niagara Power Company, of Niagara Falls, Ont., has entered directly into a contract to supply the New York Central Railway Company with all the electrical power that road will use in the operation of its traction lines at Syracuse and all ponts west of that city.

The contract was not made directly with the Ontario Power Company, but with a transmission company to which the Ontario Company had sold the first 60,000 horse-power.

The transmission company will build the line for transmitting power and will distribute it at the various points where needed.

The distance from the Falls to Syracuse is a trifle more than 150 miles, and the problem of the loss of energy in transmission of high-speed power was the subject of exhaustive experiments before the contract was signed.

The Ontario Power Company will begin to supply power very shortly and will increase its output from time to time in the next two years until a maximum of 180,000 or 200,000 horse-power is attained.

THE OBSTINATE SENATE

Looks Like Obstruction to Defeat Trading Stamp Bill.

Ottawa, July 18. — Late tonight the Senate struck an obstinate vein, and the probabilities are that prorogation will not take place until late on Wednesday and perhaps not until Thursday.

The Upper House resumed consideration of the militia bill, when Senator Ferguson took advantage of the opportunity to talk of the British preference and other matters far removed from the subject. The idea seems to be to kill time and prevent the passage of the trading stamps bill.

BROTHERS IN QUARREL

One Said to Have Been Badly Injured by the Other.

Stratford, July 18.—Richard and John Stewart, two unmarried brothers living together in Logan Township, about two miles from Mitchell, quarreled, and the latter, it is stated, struck the former on the head with a spade, inflicting a wound about three inches long, which has placed the victim in a precarious condition. John was arrested and is now in jail here pending the result of his brother's injuries. The cause of the trouble could not be learned, but the defense is made on the part of the brother that he is somewhat weak-minded.

NOW AWAITS THE ROYAL ASSENT

The Autonomy Bills Pass the Senate With Slight Opposition—Military Matters.

Ottawa, July 18. — A cablegram has been received from the British Government assenting to all the propositions which Sir Frederick Borden made on behalf of the Canadian Government. These propositions are as follows: That the army council be asked to allow officers and men of the imperial forces, now at Halifax and Esquimalt, to be transferred to the Canadian permanent force, should they be willing to accept such transfer. That Canada should agree to pay to the war office the whole cost of maintenance of Esquimalt defenses and garrison, instead of only one-half the cost as at present, until she could relieve the whole of that garrison similarly to that of Halifax, in due course, but not later than July 1, 1906. That the army council should further be asked to allow a small number of officers of all branches of the service to be seconded in the imperial army for one, two or three years, as may be agreed upon, for temporary service with the Canadian forces. This number is estimated at not exceeding the following: Staff 3, Royal Artillery staff and Royal Artillery 3, Royal Engineers staff and Royal Engineers 6, infantry 2, services and departments 8. Sir Frederick Borden said tonight that the Imperial Government had expressed a willingness to vacate the Halifax fortifications whenever the Canadian Government thought necessary. He thought this would be about Sept. 1 next.

Both autonomy bills received their third reading in the Senate at 5 o'clock this afternoon and now await the royal assent. Numerous amendments, including one by Senator Perley for religious teaching in all the schools, were put and defeated. The last stand of the Opposition was made when Senator Lougheed moved to strike out the educational clause. This was lost on a vote of eight yeas to thirty-five nays. The minority consisted of Senators Baker, Bowell, Ferguson, Lougheed, Macdonald (P. E. I.), McKay, Merner and Wilson. The motion for third reading was carried on division. The bill creating the Province of Saskatchewan was then carried, on the understanding that the same proceedings as in the case of the other bill had been followed.

NEW GIANT COLD STORAGE COMPANY

Canadian Capitalists to Establish Plants in Canada and England.

Ottawa, July 18. — A meeting of a large number of prominent Canadians has been held in Ottawa to consider the formation of a $5,000,000 cold storage and transportation company.

Mr. J. E. Armstron, M. P. for East Lambton, is the projector, and among those interested are such widely-known and representative Canadians as John Dryden, former Minister of Agriculture for Ontario; Thomas Greenway, former Premier, Manitoba; George E. Foster, Senator Black, Amherst, Nova Scotia; Senator Yeo, Prince Edward Island; Senator Wood, Sackville, New Brunswick; Senator Thompson, Fredericton, New Brunswick; Mr. E. D. Smith, former M. P.; Winona; R. J. Graham, president of the Belleville Cold Storage Company; E. Kidd, formerly M. P., Carleton; Patrick Burns, the Alberta cattle dealer; R. M. Ballantyne, president of the Montreal Produce Markets' Association; Messrs. Pickford & Black, steamship owners, of Halifax, N. S.; George McVittie, St. John, New Brunswick, and Mr. Orp, Montreal.

This will be the largest concern of its kind ever established in Canada. Its charter, which it is expected, will be immediately applied for, will ask extensive powers.

It will seek the right to carry on the business of a general cold storage and transportation company; to establish cold storage plants at all points deemed expedient; to build and operate steamships; to construct refrigerator cars for use on any railway, and the right to acquire at any time any existing company doing business in the same direction.

The most up-to-date cold storage system for the transportation of Canadian farm products will be introduced, and in this connection cold storage plants will be erected at various strategic points throughout the Dominion and also at the ports of arrival in the British Isles.

Mr. Armstrong is the president of a large produce company in Western Ontario.

WORLD'S GREATEST FAIR

May Be Held in New York City During Year 1909.

New York, July 19. — The three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River by Henrick Hudson is to be celebrated by the opening in New York city of the greatest international exposition that has ever been seen. A committee consisting of the following societies—the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, Hudson Tricentennial Association, the New York Society of the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, Holland Society, St. Nicholas Society, National Arts Club, Municipal Art Society — today communicated with Gov Frank W. Higgins, of New York State, as well as with Mayor George B. McClellan, of Greater New York, requesting each of these officials to name a committee of 50 or more representative citizens to consider the plan.

Among the signatures to this request are those of such well-known men as Robt. B. Roosevelt, uncle of President Theodore Roosevelt, and Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, former United States minister to Spain.

If the plans of the present preliminary committee are carried out, September, 1909, will see the opening of this world's fair.

Dr. E. Parmly Brown, one of the New Yorkers who signed the letter, said today when asked about the exposition: "The great trouble with all former exhibitions has been that the immense and costly buildings which have been erected have been of a nature which necessitated their being torn down immediately after the end of the exhibition but the city of New York could well afford to build for this suggested world's fair buildings intended to be permanent, and which could afterwards be used for a permanent exposition.

"This has been done, in part, at least, in Paris, where many of the buildings constructed on the Champs de Mars for the great exposition of 1889 and 1900 are still standing, and are being used for the exhibition, annual or permanent, of works of art.

"Financially I think the planned exposition will be a success, and, judging from the enthusiasm we have met everywhere, I have not the slightest reason to doubt that both the governor and the mayor will give it their indorsement, and that within a very short time we will be actively engaged in preparing for this great undertaking."

LORD BROOKE NEEDS AN HEIRESS

Heir to Warwick Earldom in Need of Money—Is Good Fellow From Great Family.

London, July 18.—Young Lord Brooke, heir to the earldom of Warwick and the fine old castle, and its 10,000 odd acres, is hard up. The interest in that statement for readers lies in the fact that the prospective peers' impecuniosity spells opportunity for an heiress.

Lord Brooke has been trying to raise money in the city, and his experience there has convinced him that unless he weds a rich girl the financial outlook for him is a dismal one.

An American girl with a few millions at her disposal might do a great deal worse than marry the Warwick heir. In fact, most of the American heiresses who in recent years have married titles have done a great deal worse—at least, as regards the sample of husband that went along with the hereditary dignities.

Lord Brooks has good looks, lots of brains, and an abundance of pluck and energy. He will never be content to play the role of a mere titled idler. He went out to the front during the South African war and remained until the fighting was over. Something over a year ago he joined Kuropatkin's army in Manchuria as a war correspondent and did excellent service there. When he returned a little while ago he was summoned to Buckingham Palace to tell the King all about it.

The Earl of Warwick counts only as Lady Warwick's husband, and it is from his mother that Lord Brooke inherits the qualities which may some day confer distinction on the title that is coming to him. Lady Warwick's beauty alone would have made her famous, but it constitutes the least part of her claim to distinction. She has been a poor law guardian and the mayoress of Warwick; she has run a millinery shop in Bond street, founded a home for crippled children, started an agricultural college for women, written the life of Joseph Arch, and has now turned socialist.

She has never tried to make money for herself out of her enterprises. Her fads are nearly all philanthropic and have cost her much money. There are half a dozen good reasons why an American heiress would be regarded as a welcome addition to the family. Lady Warwick, from all accounts, would make an admirable mother-in-law.

Lady Bateman, formerly the rich New York widow Mrs. Knapp, has had a hard time of it since she started to housekeeping over here, in trying to solve the servant problem to her satisfaction, but at last has got things running fairly smooth. When she took the house she now occupies in Bruton street, Mayfair, she expressed a wish to the outgoing tenant that the servants should be retained for her use. But soon after her ladyship moved in she discovered that the servants did not come up to her exacting requirements, and in twenty-four hours she had cleared them all out. The discharged servants laughed at the predicament in which they thought they had left their mistress.

But Lady Bateman is a woman of resource. She locked up the house and went to Claridge's hotel. She then communicated with a fashionable registry office for servants, stipulating that none but French applicants for a position should be sent to her. By 6 o'clock that evening the house in Bruton street was equipped with what Lady Bateman thought to be a most desirable household staff. Some were French and some American, but it turned out there was no entente cordiale between them. There soon arose a rebellion in the kitchen, and her ladyship, to show her impartiality, bounced the lot the next afternoon.

Lady Naylor-Leyland, the fair American chatelaine of Hyde Park house, has done little entertaining this season, but some time this month she will give a royal dinner party—one of the small ones in which the King delights, where the guests do not exceed twenty, and are selected by himself. The gold plate at Hyde Park is famous, and when displayed amid a lavish profusion of orchids, which are Lady Naylor-Leyland's favorite flowers for her table decorations, the effect is dazzling.

His Majesty the King, whose sartorial sway still reminds us of the days when monarchs could make sumptuary laws, has set a new fashion which has added a desirable touch of color to the rather drab and somber life of London town. At Ascot he wore a pink shirt, with buttonhole flower to match, and now pink shirts have be-

I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. C. P. R Debating Second Track For William to Winnipeg.

Montreal. July 18. — The arrival of Second Vice-President Whyte, of the C. P. R. from the west today is a sign of the final settlement, one way or the other, of the question of double-tracking the main line between Winnipeg and Fort William.

This statement is made on well-informed authority. This important improvement for the western lines for many months has been in the balance, and since the last annual meeting of the board of directors here, new developments have threatened alternately to ratify or nullify the project, time and again.

The possibility of the sanction of the huge appropriation that would be needed to carry on this work, running, it is said, close to $10,000,000, has interfered with the appropriations for many other smaller improvements, and the company has decided finally to close up the matter.

The construction of the second track is chiefly for the purpose of facilitating the wheat movement in the fall.

But the company has yet to decide whether the advantage in this matter for two months of the year would warrant the vast original expenditure and also the maintenance of the roadway for the other ten months.

It is said that the company is also wary of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and wishes to get a cinch on the business at competing points.

LOCAL MARKET.

Wednesday, July 19, 1905.

About a dozen loads of new hay were on the stand. Sales were fairly brisk, at $7 to $7 50 per ton. Several loads of oats sold at $1 42 to $1 45 for the best loads. A couple of loads of barley and oats, mixed, sold at $1 35 per cwt.

The markets held here during the past six days were well attended, especially when it is taken into consideration that the majority of the farmers are busy on their farms. The bulk of the produce offered was confined to the smaller lines. Trade was brisk in almost every line represented, especially for small fruits. Prices were well maintained.

Grain—The prices of oats varied considerably during the week. On Saturday they reached the highest point in several years, viz.: $1 49 per cwt. On Monday prices dropped to $1 45 per cwt. The dealers have imported several carloads, which, no doubt, accounts for the decrease in prices. Barley sold during the week at $1 to $1 02 per cwt. No wheat has been offered for several days past.

Hay and Straw—New hay has displaced old hay in the market. Sales are made at $7 per ton for the majority of the loads, occasionally $7 50 per ton is obtained for a choice load. Straw is scarce at $6 per ton.

Butter and Eggs—Butter sells quite ready; nearly all of the offerings are in crocks. Sales are made mostly at 16c to 16½c per pound wholesale, and 17c retail. Eggs are in good demand at 16c to 17c per dozen for crates and basket lots.

Poultry—Spring chickens are the chief supply in this line. Sales are moderately brisk at 50c to 75c per pair dressed, and 40c to 60c per pair alive. Old fowl sells at 70c to 90c per pair dressed, or 60c to 80c per pair alive. Dressed ducks sell at 70c to $1 10 per pair.

Fruits—Red raspberries sell well and prices paid are considered high. Sales are made at 9c to 10c per box by the crate. Cherries are in good demand. The crop will be light, at 10c to 12c per quart by the pail or basket. Black currants sell well at 12c per quart; red and white at 6c to 7c per box. Gooseberries are dull at 5c to 7c per box.

Potatoes — Very few old potatoes have been on the market, the past week. Sales are made at 90c per bag. New potatoes are easier at 90c to $1 per bu. Prices will go lower during the next ten days.

Dressed Hogs—The supply is light; sales are made mostly at $8 50 per cwt.

Live Hogs — Price paid last Monday was $6 per cwt; since then the Toronto markets have advanced 25c per cwt. The figures for Monday will be $6 15 and perhaps $6 25 per cwt.

Butchers' Meat — Prices are about steady as per quotations. Sales are slow owing to the warm weather.

Honey—Trade is slow at 8c to 8½c for strained and $1 20 per dozen for sections.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, next Free Press building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, July 19. — Noon. — Although the market has been very dull and commission business practically at a standstill, there has been a better undertone, and the professionals, who, yesterday were looking for lower prices, seemed inclined to cover their shorts. London houses did little or nothing, the differences between foreign markets and ours being too small to allow of arbitrage business. Illinois Central was bought up to 171, presumably by people who expect the dividend to be increased to 7 per cent. Of the specialties, Rubber, common, was the feature, but the buying of it seems to be largely by traders. The attendance on the floor is light, and promises to be lighter as the end of the week approaches. Sales to noon, 176,700.

KITCHEN ECONOMY

There is triple economy in using Strong's Baking Powder:

1. It costs less than other good powders.
2. It goes about twice as far.
3. It gives uniformly good results.

The amount of money lost in one "spoiled" baking, through the use of impure powder, would pay the entire cost of Strong's Baking Powder for several months. This powder is always pure, fresh and full of strength, hence you can always depend upon it producing uniform results. Price, 25c a pound.

ONE ON THE MAYOR

Orphans Will Have Outing at Expense of Dr. Campbell.

Mayor Campbell has determined to give all the inmates of the Protestant and Catholic Orphans' Homes a trip to Springbank.

Today he told Inspector Sanders to make preparations for the entertainment of the little ones.

The inspector has not decided when the picnic will be held, but it will probably take place some day next week.

LITTLE TYPHOID IN CITY

Only Four Cases at Present—London's Health Good.

Medical Health Officer Hutchinson's records show that there are but four cases of typhoid in the city at present —three in the hospitals and one in a private house, which by the way, has been placarded. It is on King street.

"The city was never so free from disease of all kinds before," Dr. Hutchinson said today.

HODGSON IMPROVING

Young Man Injured at Port Arthur May Recover.

Rev. Dr. Daniel received word from Port Arthur today to the effect that the injuries sustained by Harvey H. Hodgson in that town the other day are not as serious as anticipated. The young man's skull was fractured by the brick which fell on him while working at the front entrance of the new Methodist Church at Port Arthur, but the doctors are now confident that he will recover. The members of Colborne Street Methodist Church congregation will be much relieved by the news. It is probable that Hodgson will return to this city as soon as convalescent.

THREAT OF A CONTRACTOR

Mr. Morkin Will Quit His Job If Fine Is Imposed.

Contractor Morkin called on City Engineer Graydon today and told him that if he (Morkin) is fined for not watering the streets of his section on certain days, he will throw up the contract.

As a guarantee of good faith, Mr. Morkin demanded the keys of the city yards so that he could hand over the watering carts without delay.

Mr. Graydon has, however, refused to accept the resignation of any of the contractors. He says the resignations must be sent to the council, and until such times as they are accepted by that body he will expect Morkin and all others to keep up to their contracts.

In the meantime more fines will be heaped on to the contractor if he does not get a wiggle on.

The engineer is in no humor for farce-comedy in hot weather.

MARTIN—CLARKE

Wedding at St. Paul's Cathedral of Two Young Londoners.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, at St. Paul's Cathedral, the marriage was celebrated of Mr. Wm. A. Martin, the Canadian representative of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, and Miss Mary Hortense Clarke, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Clarke, of 478 King street. Rev. Canon Dann, rector of the cathedral, officiated.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, no guests being in attendance. The groom was supported by Dr. George L. Clarke, brother of the bride, while the latter had as bridesmaid, Miss Edna Walker, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have numerous friends in the city who will join in extending their best wishes. The young

WILL NEXT GET AFTER THE AUTOS

Police to Rigorously Enforce the Bylaw—Speed To Be Regulated.

Mayor Campbell and Chief of Police Williams today had a conference at which automobiles and high-geared chauffeurs were discussed.

His worship told the chief that while he has no desire to be hard on the men who own autos in this city, he has no intention of allowing certain of them to make a racecourse of Queen's avenue and other thoroughfares.

The mayor declared that he has seen several of the autos go down Queen's avenue at an express train rate, and he wants a stop put to the practice. He has also noticed that none of them have numbers on the lamps, and it is consequently impossible to ascertain their identity at night.

The chief pointed out to his worship that the police will be instructed as to the provisions of the new law at once, and the law will be rigorously enforced. He will see to it at once that all autos have their numbers in plain figures on their lamps.

He suggested to the mayor that the city council pass a bylaw regulating the speed of autos and their conduct while in the city. Thus the hands of the police will be strengthened by a municipal law as well as the provincial law.

His worship promised to bring the matter up at the next meeting of the council. Autos will in all probability be compelled to run at a speed not exceeding eight miles an hour, and as slow as is necessary in the heart of the city. The suggestion has been made that certain streets be set aside where the chauffeurs may let the machines out to say fifteen miles an hour, and the suggestion will be considered when the bylaw is being framed.

STOLE TIMEPIECE; GOT THREE MONTHS

Newcomer to Canada Will Serve a Term at Toronto—Payne Fined $10.

At the police court this morning William Morgan, a bright-looking young Scotchman, who has been in this country but a few months, was up, charged with stealing a watch during a drunken bout. He admitted his guilt, and was sent to the Central for three months. Drink has been responsible for all of Morgan's troubles.

"The Tale of a Horse, or Why I Got Up So Early in the Morn," was a touching duo put on at the police court this morning. A West Londoner was charged with allowing his cattle to run at large, a lady being the complainant. The latter had been roused out of blissful repose at 4 a.m. by the animals. The offender conducted his own case, but when it came to arguing he took a rear pew easily. He was taxed $1 and costs. He paid the pasturage.

Walter Payne, who broke in a window at the solicitation of his lady-love, as reported on Monday, paid $10 for his fun.

One lone drunk who was so overcome by the heat yesterday that his legs wobbled and he had to be brought in in a wagon was allowed to go, as it was his first offense.

MR. GRAYDON'S LATEST

Says C. I. S. Should Hire Man to Detect Short Cut Fiends.

Acording to City Engineer Graydon, the Civic Improvement Society is hibernating just now, and has been asleep for several seasons.

He thinks the society should take a hand in the work of preventing the depredations of short-cut fiends.

"You should appoint a man at $1 50 a day," he told a member of the society this morning, "and this man's sole duty should be to detect the people who cut across lawns, and thereby destroy the beauty of the city."

"But there is a bylaw, and the police should do this," the C. I. S. man told the engineer.

"The police have their hands full now, and will not do it," Mr. Graydon declared. "It's now up to to society to do something. Look at the good work similar societies have done in Hamilton and elsewhere. I can't see that you people are doing anything."

ROAD READY FOR USE

Vitrified Brick Pavement on King Street Completed.

The vitrified brick pavement on King street, between Ridout and Wellington streets, is now completed, with the exception of a little filler which must yet be put in near Wellington street.

John Gerry was the contractor. The pavement stands the city about $26,000.

City Engineer Graydon will officially inspect the work some day this week.

PAVEMENT BEGUN

Warrens at Work on Dundas Street, East of Adelaide.

The Warren Paving Company began work today on the bitulithic pavement which is to be laid on Dundas street, between Adelaide and Lyle streets.

The contract for this work was signed in ex-Mayor Beck's time. The street railway people have been given permission to pave their portion with vitrified brick, so that the bitulithic will be laid in two stripes on the sides of the roadway.

ENGINEER WOULD FIX PAVING MEN

Make Them Pay $1,000 License or Else Send Them to Jail for Life.

City Engineer Graydon grows sarcastic as the battle of the paving agents over the Richmond street pavement continues.

"I don't wish to appear rabid," he said today, "but if I had my way I would impose a license of $1,000 upon all paving agents who desire to do business in London. The city would be well rid of the whole bunch of them, I think.

"One agent tells the people one thing —which I dare say is not always correct—and the opposition agent comes along and hands out another fairy tale to beat it.

"It is my opinion that we will never be able to get ahead of these agents until such times as the council is given the power to lay a pavement on any street upon the recommendation of the city engineer and a two-thirds vote of the council.

"I would also amend the law, so as to allow the city to pay for one-quarter the cost of the pavement in addition to the cost of the interseotions which the city now pays. It would not be right for the council to select a pavement for a street and then make the people pay almost the full cost, as at present."

Mr. Graydon concluded by declaring that his experience with paving agents had led him to believe that they should be imprisoned for life, and longer, if possible. And if they ever made their appearance in the city at the expiration of their sentences, he avers that they should be hanged.

NEW LAW WILL DEBAR JUDGES

Some Who Must Sever Connections With Business Concerns.

Today's Toronto World says: When the new scale of salaries for judges goes into effect, those judges who are directors of banks and loan companies, industrial concerns, etc., will be called upon to resign their places on the board. Quite a number of the judiciary are identified with these commercial concerns. A few of them are:

Chancellor Sir John A. Boyd, Canada Landed and National Investment Company, the Union Trust Company.

Mr. Justice Britton, the Mutual Life Assurance Company, National Trust Company, Ontario Building and Savings Society of Kingston.

Mr. Justice Garrow, the Mutual Life Assurance Company.

Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Montreal City and District Savings Bank.

Judge Snider (Hamilton), the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society.

Chief Justice Sir William Ralph Meredith, the North American Life

Judge Bell (of Chatham), Chatham Loan and Savings Company.

Judge Idington, London and Western Trust Company; was a member of the board before being appointed a judge.

Mr. Justice Maclennan—Queen City Fire Insurance Company. Judge Maclennan was a director of this company before he was appointed to the bench.

The resolution increasing the salaries says:

"That no judge hereinabove mentioned shall, either directly or indirectly, as director or manager of any public corporation or firm, or in any other manner whatever, engage in any occupation or business other than his judicial duties; but every such judge shall devote himself exclusively to his judicial duties."

A legal gentleman points out that although the corporations with which the judges identified are not "public" corporations in the legal sense, the resolution is sufficiently clear to preclude the possibility of their engaging in any occupation other than their judicial duties.

TWO BIG EXCURSIONS

Chosen Friends and Grocers Carry Big Crowds to Sarnia and Niagara.

Today was a big day for railway passenger traffic.

First of all there was the big concourse of grocers at Niagara Falls. Ten carloads of London provisioners and their friends pulled out of the M. C. R. depot shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, bound for the neighborhood of the big cataract.

At the same time, special G. T. R. trains were carrying 3,500 grocers from Hamilton and about 1,300 from Brantford to the falls.

The Chosen Friends' excursion from here to Sarnia over the G. T. R. proved to be one of the biggest in the society's history. Nearly 500 Londoners took in the trip. Connections by boat with Detroit were made.

Altogether the city's population is considerably depleted today. All the grocery stores and some of the confectioneries are closed.

With a brisk west wind to temper the sun's rays, none of the excursionists had anything to say against the weather man.

He was thrown from his wheel, and sustained a fracture of the shoulder, besides having his face and head badly cut. The fracture to the shoulder was so severe that it was deemed necessary to have the injured man removed to the hospital.

COOLNESS SAVED THIS BOY

Patient and Hospital Visitor Rescue Lad From Drowning.

A young lad about 11 years of age went swimming yesterday afternoon behind Victoria Hospital. He took a notion that he would cross to the other side of the river, and holding his clothes above his head he started to wade it. When about half-way over he went down. Mrs. Dunn, who was visiting her sick son at the hospital, was looking out of the window, and saw the lad disappear. She made no outcry, but rushed out to the river bank. She noticed a patient, Fred Haley, asleep in a tent, woke him up, and told him about the boy. In the meantime the latter had come to the surface, and was crying lustily for help. Haley immediately rushed into the water and began wading out to assist the youngster. Part way out he secured a boat, and when the youngster came up caught him and took him ashore. He was soon brought around, and in a short time departed, none the worse of his experience. No doubt the youngster would have drowned had it not been for Mrs. Dunn's and Mr. Haley's presence of mind.

BY MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

[Copyrighted by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.]

"It was foolish of you. I flattered myself for an absurd little while," she added mockingly, "that he might see something pleasing in me; but, alas and alack! Olive stole him away from me, and she didn't have very hard work doing it, either. But you will help me to start Olive off happily, won't you? You know there's nobody to do anything for her except up. I think she ought to have a church wedding, and you could give the bride away and Aunt Julia could have a wedding breakfast or a large reception for her—all to show the community that we Merriams are really a united family. Maybe Olive will have a military wedding! The prospect is positively thrilling. In any event, you will do your very nicest for her, won't you?"

"I don't see any way out of it," he said, in a tone that was wholly kind. "Olive is a pretty girl and a sensible one. If she's going to be married, I'll let you buy my wedding present for her. Good-bye."

It rained the next day and Pollock telephoned to the members of his party that the excursion would be postponed. Zelda hoped that Olive would come up to the house, and when the bell rang she thought it was her cousin, and called to the black Angeline, who still acted as Polly's assistant, to bring Miss Merriam directly upstairs. But it was Morris Leighton whom the girl announced.

"I'll be down in a moment," she said, but she waited, sitting at the table, where she had so often pondered great and little matters during the year, a troubled look upon her face, considering many things. The fact that her mother and Morris' father had once been lovers, as blurted out by her father in his rage, and confirmed by her uncle, had impressed her profoundly; she was not a morbid girl, but there seemed something uncanny in the story, and she had determined that Morris should never again speak words of love to her. It was all too pitiful; she had no right to any happiness that Morris might bring her; and here again her mother's memory seemed to follow and lay a burden upon her. She was sorry that she had not asked the maid to excuse her, but it was too late and she went down to the parlor with forebodings in her heart.

Morris was standing by the window watching the rain beat upon the asphalt in the narrow street outside. He turned quickly as he heard her step.

"You are a brave man to venture out in a storm like this! Of course, you knew that our excursion is off? Captain Pollock telephoned that we'd wait until a better day."

"I understood so. But I was keyed to vacation pitch and I thought you wouldn't mind if I came,—if I didn't stay very long."

"Oh, of course—if you don't stay very long; but you needn't stand—all the time!"

"You wouldn't have had me keep my office a dreary afternoon like this. It's rather cheerless in our office on rainy days, I should like you to know."

"But I've heard that the office is picturesque. You ought to give a tea or do something of that sort, so that the rest of us, who daren't go down otherwise, may see it."

"You should make the suggestion to Mr. Carr when he gets home. It would have weight coming from you."

"I can't imagine it! The firm would probably lose all its clients if a social function were held there."

"I see that you're not really interested in us; you're afraid of the microbes. I suppose our old office must have a lot of them."

They both laughed at the inanity of their talk. The room was chilly, and she rose and found the matches on the mantel.

"No! I can't allow you," she said. "I superintend the laying of these pyres—I know exactly where the paper is—behold!"

The flame leaped suddenly through the little kindling, and as she watched he felt that her interest in it was the simple unaffected interest of a child. Her dark-red gown enhanced her faint color; he accused the slight black velvet line that crept here and there over the cloth of trying to match her hair and eyes; then he turned his attention to her hands—that were, he told himself, like swift little birds in their quickness and certainty.

Her father came to the door and hesitated.

"Won't you come and share our fire father?" Zelda asked.

"No, oh, no! I'm quite busy. It's a very bad day, Mr. Leighton." He turned and they presently heard him climbing the stairs to his room.

It was very still in the parlor, and the wind outside sobbed through the old cedars in accompaniment to the splash of the rain. It was very sweet to her to know that Morris was so near; there was in his presence in the house at this unwonted hour of the day a suggestion of something intimate and new. She was looking away from him into the fire when he rose and drew close to her.

"I have come to ask you to do something for me," he said. "I want you to sing me the song—my song—the one that means—so much—that means everything."

"I can't, I can't! Please don't ask me,"—and she clenched her hands upon her knees.

"You hurt me once,—when you knew you did, when you wished me to be hurt, when I spoke to you of the song,—of my song,—of our song! But I want you to sing it to me now, Zee, and if you can sing it and then tell me that you don't care,—that you don't know what love is,—then I shall never again speak to you—of love—or anything."

"No; I don't know—the song. I can't sing it,—ever again!"

"Is it because you are afraid,—is that it? You can't wound me now by anything that you may say; but if you will sing me the song and then tell me that your word will always be no, then I shall go away, Zee, and I shall never trouble you again."

She remembered, as she listened with her head bowed over her hands, the first time she had heard his voice, that was deep and strong. It was only a year ago, in Mrs. Carr's drawing-room.

She rose and walked away and looked out through the window upon the rain-swept street; she saw the wet leaves clinging in the walk; it was a desolate picture; and something of the outer dolor, the change of the year, touched her.

"I can't sing your song—any song!" and she turned to him suddenly with laughter in her eyes. "My throat is very painful," she added and laughed.

He did not smile, but took a step nearer.

"Is the reason because you are afraid? I must know—I have waited a long time to know."

"Some other time—when the sun is shining, then I may sing it," she said, her eyes upon the window.

"Then if you won't sing it—if you are afraid of it—then you mean for me to believe—"

"Nothing!"

"But I won't be thrown off so easily, Zee," he said, as though he had always addressed her so. "You may as well take me seriously—"

"I'm not—" and mirth lighted her eyes—"I'm not taking you at all!"

"Zee,"—and he drew still nearer, so that he could have put out his hand and touched her.

"Please," she begged, grave again, "please forget all about the song—and me! I wish you to—very much. There are reasons—a great many reasons—why you must forget all about the song you liked, and everything that I may—suggest to you. Won't you believe me—please?"

"There can't be any reasons that make any difference."

THICK KALSOMINE FOR THE SAINTS

St. Thomas was given a beautiful dose of kalsomine at Ingersoll yesterday in the Western Ontario League. Millen for Ingersoll, was very good yesterday, and gave the Railroad City boys just three singles. He had them sewed up all the way. Killingsworth, of the Saints, was hit hard at times, although the infield behind him was very loose and lost many chances. Taylor, of Ingersoll, made five hits in five times up. That's hitting some. Ingersoll fielded fast. The score:

Ingersoll	9	14	2
St. Thomas	0	3	4

AMERICANS VICTORS IN TENNIS DOUBLES

London, July 18. — To the surprise of a large gallery at the Queen's Club today Holcomb Ward and Beals C. Wright, the Americans, rather easily defeated Norman E. Brookes and Walter Dunlop, the Australasians, in the finals of the doubles for the Dwight L. Davis, international lawn tennis cup.

This settles the question of the challengers for the cup, play for which commences July 21 at Wimbledon. The matches in the singles tomorrow between the Americans and Australasians will not change the result.

In today's play the Australasians showed unexpectedly poor form, and the set lost by the Americans was due to careless play and not to any brilliancy on the part of their opponents.

Brookes plainly showed the effects of his match with Wright, and did not give his partner any material assistance. On the contrary, Wright played at top form. Both the Americans avoided giving chances except in the third set which they practically gave away.

The scores were 6—4, 7—5, 5—7, 6—2.

MISS HAYES AND MISS LOVE TO PLAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Finals Reached in Ladies' Series at the Thistle Club's Tournament.

The big tennis tournaments, in which about 80 young men and women have been active, and which have been in progress now for about two weeks at the Thistle Club, are drawing to a close. The handicaps were drawn up carefully by the committee, and the "newest" player has had a fair chance to compete successfully with the best.

The series for ladies has now reached the finals, leaving Miss Hayes and Miss Mary Love to decide the championship, both of them having defeated the 30 or 40 others who survived the first rounds. The final match will be played early next week and will be very interesting, since the two contestants are two of the best lady players in the city.

The men's tourney has also been hotly contested and has almost reached the semi-finals. The fact that it is holiday season, and that many of the contestants have been away from the city for a week or so at a time, has considerably arrested the progress of this tourney. It will however, be finished before another fortnight has passed.

The scores which have not already been published are as follows:

LADIES' TOURNEY.

Round Two—

M. Hayes, minus half 40, won from E. Bland, minus half 40, by 6—4, 6—4.

M. Callendar, minus 30, won from T. McMechan, minus half 30, by 6—4, 6—4.

M. Love, minus 40, won from H. Gillean, plus 15, by 6—3, 4—2.

E. Macpherson scratch, won from M. Reid, plus half 15, by default.

Semi-Finals—

M. Hayes won from M. Callender by 6—3, 7—5.

M. Love won from E. Macpherson by 6—2, 6—0.

MEN'S TOURNEY.

Round One—

Duncan, scratch, won from Jackson, plus 15, by default.

Macorquodale, minus half 40, won from McLennan, minus half 40, by 6—0, 2—6, 6—4.

Beltz, minus 15, won from Dann, minus 40, by 6—3, 6—4.

Calder, minus 15, won from Ferguson, minus half 30, by default.

Saunders, scratch, won from Govenlock, minus half thirty, by default.

Phelps, minus 30, won from Scandrett, minus 30, by 6—4, 6—2.

Hueston and McHattie were awarded byes.

Round Two (unfinished)—

Macorquodale won from Duncan by 7—5, 6—2.

Phelps won from Hueston by 6—1, 6—0.

TONGORDER BEATEN BY KING OF TROY FOR CANADIAN DERBY

Dyment Horse Could Not Stick When Collared by Hendrie Entry.

Fort Erie, July 18. — The name of King of Troy, not that of Tongorder, was added today to the list of good horses that have won the Canadian Derby. It was only a three-horse field that went to the post before a crowd of about 5,000 people, but it was a keenly-interesting event, inasmuch as it brought together the two horses named for a second trial. This one was conclusive, for King of Troy won decisively and Tongorder was beaten also by McIlvain, Henry Spencer, "the iceman," who rode Mr. Dyment's horse, went to the front when Starter Dwyer sent them away, but was nicely rated and did not attempt to open a big gap. He led past the stand, around the lower bend, and up the back stretch till just about opposite the stand. Here D. Austin, a vigorous rider, working hard on King of Troy, drew up level with Tongorder, who had been galloping along with his ears pricked. Head and head they raced for a few strides, and then, amid a burst of enthusiasm from one portion of the crowd, and cries of consternation from Tongorder's admirers, the Barrie colt lost his jaunty style, and fell behind the big horse from the Hendrie stable. Then McIlvain moved up, too, and even he passed Tongorder. Spencer nursed his mount around the top bend for a stretch run, but his speed was gone, and he never could close the gap. King of Troy won handily from McIlvain. The only explanation for Tongorder's defeat is simply that he did not stick when collared.

The track was good, but rather slow from yesterday's thunderstorms. Starter Dwyer did not arrive for the first race and the horses were sent away in good style by Secretary Parmer.

First race, for 2-year-old fillies, 4½ furlongs—Skeptical, 105 (D. Austin), 4 to 5, won by a nose; Marvel P., 110 (S. Landry), 11 to 5, 2; Sonnet, 105 (S. McDermott), 3 to 1 3. Time 56 1-5. Fairy Flush and Baby Willie also ran.

Sixth race, for 3-year-olds and up, selling, 1 mile—Colonist, 104 (J. Shea), 4 to 1, 1; Lord Hermence, 106 (C. Phillips), 3½ to 1, 2; Edna Tanner, 89 (Taylor), 10 to 1, 3. Time, 1:43 3-5. Fairbury, Monadnock, Edgely, Golden Flower, Annie Alone and Big Mac also ran.

Seventh race, steeplechase, short course—Balzac, 145 (Ryan), 3 to 5, 1; Wellington J., 149 (Powers), 9 to 1, 2; Apteryx, 125 (Gormally), 3 to 5, 3. Time, 3:46. Springwater, Sallust, Gearholm, Gypsano and The Guardsman also ran.

HANDZARRA STEPS FAST.

New York, July 18.—Handzarra, an outsider in the betting, won the Glencove handicap at Brighton Beach today, defeating Wild Mint by a length and a half. Handzarra stepped the six furlongs in the fast time of 1:12 2-5. Cnieftain was the early pacemaker. In the stretch Handzarra took the lead and won, driving. Three favorites were successful.

THISTLES TAKE TWO IN THREE

Win Another Quoiting Match From the Forest City Club.

The third of a series of matches between the quoiters of the Forest City and Thistle Clubs was played last evening on the grounds of the latter. The Thistles were again the winners (although by a very small margin), making two victories for them in the three games already played.

Jim Bell was once more pitted against Bob Walsh, and won easily by 18 shots. John Talbot also had something of a cakewalk in his match with Storey, defeating him by 12 shots.

Pevler and Robertson were the Forest City players who held their own, Pevler defeating Rowe by 16 and Robertson winning from Simpson by 9. The scores were:

Thistles.		Forest City.

Majority for Thistles, 5 shots.

The next game will be played on Monday evening next.

GIBSON DELIVERING GOODS FOR PIRATES

"Mooney" Gibson appears to be making good with the fast Pittsburg Pirates, of the National League. He caught the whole game yesterday against the New York Giants, and delivered the goods. He made one hit, which happened to be good for four sacks, off the mighty "Christy" Matthewson. It was a fast game, Pittsburg winning 2 to 1. "Mooney" accepted four chances and not one of the speedy Giants purloined a sack on him. Pretty good? Well!

THE WHEEL.

DAVIDSON STILL AT IT.

Detroit, July 19. — Harley Davidson was successful in beating the relay team in the 5-mile race at Belle Isle roller rink, Jefferson avenue, last evening. Two new men were on the team, Fournier and Fishpoole, these two doing the first two miles, and Rich, Gordon and Trombley following in order named. Davidson gained a lap on the first mile, half a lap on each of the others, and an additional 30 yards in the last round. The time for the five miles was 16:30, a considerable improvement over the previous race. A good crowd saw the contest.

PEDESTRIANISM.

BUTLER'S RECORD-SMASHING.

London, July 18. — At the Putney Velodrome, J. Butler, Polytechnic Harriers, performed a remarkable walking feat and established a new crop of amateur records from 22 to 50 miles. The event was a 50-mile walking race, and there were 31 starters. Butler knocked 5 minutes 9 seconds off the old mark for 50 miles, held by F. B. Thompson, and continued on for eight hours, in which he covered 50 miles 1,190 yards, which is 753 yards better than the previous record, held also by Thompson. Butler covered the first mile in 7:26 2-5.

ALLOWED ONLY ONE HIT.

The Ridgetown team defeated Dutton at Ridgetown yesterday in the fastest game ever seen in the town. Davis pitched a very fine game of ball, allowing but one hit. An infield error gave Dutton their only runs. Each pitcher had a dozen strike outs. The score:

NINE HOTELS GOT LICENSE FOR YEAR

But a Number Are Still Hanging Fire—Four to Close Aug. 1.

The license commissioners met last night and dealt with a number of licenses which in the spring had been extended for only three months. The result of the meeting was that the following were extended for the balance of the year:

Royal Hotel—J. W. Humpidge.
Bernard House—F. Babcock.
Brown House—W. G. Brown.
Collins House—Wm. Collins.
Duke of York—Frank McLean.
Morkin House—Edward Morkin.
Clyde House—A. Sadleir.
Britannia House—W. F. Dulmage.
Metropolitan Hotel—Cyrus Stockton.

For Three Months Only.

The following licenses were renewed for three months only:

European Hotel—Jerry McDonald.
Ontario House—John Westman.
Boswell House—Brammer Harrison.
Central Hotel—W. S. Hodgins.
Oriental Hotel—T. M. O'Hagan.
Clarence House—J. Fitzpatrick.
Grand Central Hotel—W. H. Mahon
Wellington House—W. G. Blake
Brunswick House—M. J. O'Donohue.

No action was taken in regard to the Office Hotel and the Richmond, as the owners have not as yet met the requirements of the commissioners as to the alterations demanded. As a deal is on for the Tecumseh House action on its license was also deferred.

No action was taken on the request to allow the hotels which have been cut off to remain open until after the Old Boys' reunion. One of the commissioners stated this morning that outside of the Gustin House the hotels which have been cut off could not furnish, all told, accommodation for a dozen persons. The action of the commissioners means that all four places will be closed on Aug. 1.

The board adjourned for one week.

ANIMAL DUEL TO DEATH

Dog and Deer Fight It Out to Finish in Bronx Park.

New York, July 19. — In the Buffalo range in the Bronx Zoological Gardens yesterday a savage St. Bernard dog and a yellow deer fought a duel to the death. The dog had fastened its teeth in the throat of the deer and there it hung with the grimness of despair while the deer fairly tore the dog into strips with its keen horns.

The St. Bernard would not let go until a watchman shot it dead. Then it released its hold and dropped while the deer staggered a few feet and himself rolled over dead.

It was 3 a.m. yesterday when Night-Watchman Treanor heard a commotion in the Buffalo Range. He found the St. Bernard and the largest deer in the herd circling around each other waiting for an opening.

They had evidently been fighting for some time, for both were panting heavily. It was clear, too, that the dog had swam the Bronx River and entered the range through a gap in the fence that had not been repaired.

Before Treanor, who tried several times, could get aim at the dog to shoot it, the deer had lowered his head and made at the canine. He tossed him high in the air and the dog came down with a crash, but was not even stunned. He was on his feet in a flash and he made a straight run for the deer, dodged the antlers and fastened his teeth in its throat. In vain did the deer try to shake him off. The dog hung on, while his opponent gored strips of hide and flesh from its sides and back.

Twice the deer came to his knees in an endeavor to rub off the hold of the dog, but the latter would not let go. At last the watchman, getting a clear aim, sent a bullet through the dog's heart.

CASH TO PAY JAPAN

English and German Syndicates Offer Loans to Czar.

London, July 19. — The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Standard says there is reason to believe that the peace negotiations will center on the amount of the indemnity to be paid to Japan by Russia. Although the Government continues to maintain that none will be paid in any circumstances, it is a fact that the ministers are now studying the question of who will supply the amount when it is fixed and also the funds for the re-establishment of the Government after the war.

The correspondent asserts that two financial syndicates have already declared their willingness to underwrite loans. One of these syndicates is English and the other German. It is believed that the former includes some American banks. The German syndicate is likely to grow into a continental group, in which French capital will be represented if no French offer is made independently.

Quieries Answered.

EKFRID. — A teacher, who engaged with school trustees for one year from the 3rd of January at a salary of $400, sent in her resignation, to take effect on Aug. 21. Resignation accepted. Was she entitled to receive pay for all the summer holidays? How much money should she get from trustees as salary? Ans.—She is entitled to be paid her salary in the proportion which the number of days during which she has taught bears to the whole number of teaching days in the year. The holidays, therefore, do not affect the amount.

Monday Held the Record Only for a Single Day

Thermometer Yesterday Went It a Degree Warmer, and All Classes Suffered.

The highest registration of the thermometer yesterday was 90.5 in the shade. This is one degree greater than on Monday.

A degree doesn't appear much on paper, but it does look a heap when it is chalked up on a thermometer. As compared with Monday, yesterday seemed simply unbearable. The air was stagnant at times, while at others the slight breeze appeared only to drive the heat with more force.

The people again sought shelter from the sun at Springbank and Port Stanley, while the city parks were well populated, especially in the afternoon.

In the city none were on the streets except those who had urgent business. Traffic of all kinds was greatly reduced. Sedate horses plodded around in the latest styles of horse millinery, and one drayman's horse attracted not a little attention by wearing a parasol, attached to its bridle, for a sunshade.

The demands on the icemen were very heavy. The people were all looking for double quantities, but the icemen would not give more than 30 pounds to residences. Ice is too scarce, they said. It is being brought from Hamilton and Port Huron and it depreciated fully 30 per cent on the road.

Last summer ice was sold to housekeepers at $5 50 for the season. And the icemen were generous in the amount they placed in the refrigerators. This year ice costs at the rate of $11 for the season. The people are paying dearly for the regulations of the board of health.

At night the mercury fell three degrees, but it afforded the people no relief. The heat was intense, and during a great part of the night sleep was almost an impossibility.

Doctors continue to deplore the heat wave and say that if it does not ease up the mortality among the very young and the very old will be great.

So far no cases of prostration have been reported.

JUDGE MACMAHON TO WRITE OF EARLY ONTARIO POLITICS

Former Londoner Preparing Interesting Reminiscences of Confederation Days.

The Toronto News has the following article regarding Mr. Justice MacMahon, who is a former Londoner, residing at one time at the corner of Dufferin and Park avenues:

Out of his wealth of experience and knowledge of early Ontario politics and the political history of Confederation days, Mr. Justice MacMahon, of the supreme court, proposes to write a volume of memoirs which promises to be the most interesting contribution yet made to the too scant literature of our Province. There are many men living who remember those days, and some who took an active part in the making of their history, but there are few who were so intimately connected with the stirring events as Mr. Justice MacMahon, and none who has the same mass of material and notes and papers carefully collected, which place him in possession of all the important facts with absolute accuracy.

Judge MacMahon was acquainted with most of the leading men in the political field of Confederation days, and was intimately connected with some of them, notably the late Thomas D'Arcy McGee, of whom he has the most pleasing recollections.

Hearing that he had been urged to publish his reminiscences, a representative of the News called on Mr. Justice MacMahon at his residence, and learned that for the past fortnight he had been going over the material which had accumulated during the past 35 years, with a view to selecting what was best and most interesting for publication. The manuscripts, notes, scrap-books, pamphlets and the rest of the material formed a veritable mountain, and it was evident that the mere task of making proper selection would be laborious, and require much time and patience.

Mr. Justice MacMahon indicated it with a smile. "It is no light work, I have undertaken," he said; "especially in view of the limited time at my disposal, but I hope to reduce it to some kind of form before the end of the year."

As the judge took an active part in the political contests in most of the western constituencies from 1867, when the "no party" cry triumphed at the polls, down to 1883, and as he during that time had come in contact with the leading politicians of the day, a narrative of what then took place will be not only entertaining, but of value as political history.

A Page From History.

In 1867 Judge MacMahon supported Sandfield Macdonald, but in 1871 he opposed his Government with such vigor that the Hon. David Mills stated he considered that Sandfield's defeat was largely due to Judge MacMahon's efforts.

In 1874 Judge MacMahon was a candidate in London for the House of Commons, and in 1878 ran against the late Rufus Stephenson, M. P., in Kent. He remarked, however, that on principle he should have refused contesting Kent and said that he would indicate in the reminiscences what the principle was he considered had been violated by his candidature.

But this volume of reminiscences will be no mere dry recital of political history, and in the material that will go to make it up are to be found many vastly interesting stories and details in which Judge MacMahon acted as counsel while at the bar.

HELENA PICNIC WAS WINNER; EVERYBODY HAD A GOOD TIME

Young Ladies Played Ball Like Professionals, and Won Tug-of-War With Men.

The picnic of the Helena Costume Company employes at Springbank yesterday will go on record as one of the best of the season—certainly as the best ever tendered the staff by the Helena Company. About 175 of the prettiest, wittiest and brightest young ladies in the city were present, and they had a good time. The sports in the afternoon were very fine, each event being closely contested. Everyone went in to make the picnic a success, and they succeeded to an unexpected degree. Mr. C. D. Burdick, the manager, was in it from start to finish, and did everything possible to make all enjoy themselves. He developed into somewhat of a sprinter, too, and won a couple of races quite handily.

The distribution of the prizes was an event, and caused no end of amusement. The winners of the races were as follows:

75 yard race, girls in short skirts—1 Irene Clark, 2 Myrtle Robinson.

50 yards race, girls in long skirts—1 Uphie Turnbull, 2 Carrie Newans.

Boot and shoe race—1 Mr. Burdick, 2 A. Cave.

Partnership race—1 Irene Clark and Ed Mason, 2 M. Smith and Garnet Arthurs.

Girls' hopping race—1 Irene Clark, 2 Carrie Newans.

Necktie race, 1 Charles Waters and Jean Michael, 2 Mr. Burdick and Lou Hardy.

Girls' soda biscuit race—1 E. Turnbull, 2 Ethel Tye.

Wheelbarrow race—1 C. Waters and M. Smith, 2 E. Mason and E. Turnbull.

Needle and thread race—1 G. Arthurs and Miss M. Hardy, 2 E. Mason and Miss R. Comiskey.

100 yard dash—1 C. D. Burdick, 2 G. Arthurs.

Hippety-hop race — 1 Miss F. Cavanagh, 2 Uphie Turnbull.

Roly-poly race—1 Garnet Arthurs, 2 W. Hilbert.

The candle race by the young ladies was a very amusing event. The wise ones kept their lights lit, but the unwise were classed as "also rans," and did not get the prizes. The winners were Miss N. Axford and Miss Carrie Newans.

Fourteen young men in the employ of the company imagined they could pull twice as many young ladies in the tug-of-war. What those girls did to those boys was a shame. They yanked them all over the lot. The boys were sorry that they spoke.

After the games, a splendid supper was served in the pavilion. This was followed by a toast list, which likewise proved that the employes could do more than run, as some good speeches were made.

The toast list was as follows:

"The Employes," Mr. C. D. Burdick.
"Punctuality," Mr. Brown.
"Marriage," Mr. Harry Ruth.
"Single Blessedness," Miss Hogarth and Miss Grimshaw.
"The Gentlemen," Miss Smith.
"The Ladies," Mr. Walter Langridge.

Mr. Burdick and Mr. Brown both had pleasant things to saw about the employes, who were noted for their punctuality and other good qualities. Harry Ruth almost got into trouble when he said that people did not know they were living until they were married. This caused a storm of disapproval as—well, there were several unmarried people in the crowd.

The feature of the day was, beyond a doubt the baseball match between teams captained by Miss Smith and Miss Robinson. Now, this was real ball, none of your first-bounce-is-out, look-out-or-I-will-hit-you-with-the-ball, games, but real ball. The game was most enjoyable, because few thought they could play so well. The game ended at the sixth inning—a tie—one all. The first base playing of Miss Gray was the fielding feature. Miss Jeannie Michael made a beautiful catch at short. Miss Hill batted and ran bases equally well. Miss Gray made a two-base hit to deep center. Miss McKinnon batted well and the Misses Hardy also played good ball. Miss Meaden had no less than thirteen strike-outs to her credit. Miss Weir also pitched very well. The teams were: First team—Misses W. Weir, M. Hardy, U. Turnbull, Colebour, Robinson, L. Hardy, F. Ward, J. Michael, J. Wilson. Second team—Misses McLean, McRoberts, Meaden, Hill, Gray, McKinnon, Smith, McIntyre and Lutman.

A dance was held in the pavilion in the evening, and about 50 couples had a most enjoyable time. The musicians were Mr. Fletcher, piano, and Mr. Brigglier. The music was fine.

The committee to whose tireless efforts must be given credit for the good time was composed of the following: Mr. Harry Ruth, Mr. C. Waters, Mr. A. Carswell and Misses L. Meaden, A. McIntyre, W. Turnbull, B. McCullogh, M. Forter, A. Jack, L. Russell, M. Hardy and E. Kompass.

CHANGED HUSBAND

Wife Made Wise Change in Food

Change of diet is the only way to really cure stomach and bowel trouble.

A woman says:

"My husband had dyspepsia when we were married and had suffered from it for several years. It was almost impossible to find anything he could eat, without bad results.

"I thought this was largely due to the use of coffee and persuaded him to discontinue it. He did so, and began to drink Postum Food Coffee. The change did him good from the beginning, his digestion improved; he suffered much less from his nervousness, and when he added Grape-Nuts Food to his diet he was soon entirely cured.

"My friend, Mrs. ——, of Vicksburg (my former home), had become a nervous wreck also from dyspepsia. Medicines had no effect, neither did travel help her. On my last visit home some months ago, I persuaded her to use Grape-Nuts Food. She was in despair and consented. She stuck to it until it restored her health so completely that she is now the most enthusiastic friend of Grape-Nuts that I ever knew. She eats it with cream or dry, just as it comes from the package—keeps it in her room and eats it whenever she feels like it.

"I began eating Grape Nuts Food myself when my baby was 2 months old, and I don't know what I should have done without it. My appetite was gone, I was weak and nervous and afforded but very little nourishment for the child. The Grape-Nuts Food, of which I soon grew very fond, speedily set all this right again, and the baby grew healthful, rosy and beautiful as a mother could wish. He is 2 years old now and eats Grape-Nuts Food himself. I wish every tired young mother knew of the good that Grape-Nuts would do her."
