

SIR JOHN FRENCH COMMANDS NOW NEARLY ONE MILLION MEN

Mr. Asquith Speaking in the House of Commons Says Germans Have Not Made a Net Gain Since April—Accepts Responsibility for Dardanelles.

By Special Wire to the Courier. LONDON, Nov. 2, 4.11 p.m.—In his address before the House of Commons this afternoon, Premier Asquith stated that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces on the Franco-Belgian front, was now in command of nearly 1,000,000 men.

Mr. Asquith said the total casualties in France and Flanders amounted to 377,000. He asserted the Germans had not made a net gain of a foot of ground since April. The Premier accepted his full share of responsibility for the first attack on the Dardanelles, which resulted in failure, with the loss of several capital ships.

Mr. Asquith said there was full agreement between Great Britain and France to maintain the independence of Serbia and not let her "become the prey of the sinister and nefarious combination of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria."

SIR EDWARD CARSON TO EXPLAIN RESIGNATION

Will Follow Premier Asquith To-day—Winston Churchill Expected to Make Important Speech if Dardanelles Operations Come Under Discussion.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Nov. 2.—Sir Edward Carson is expected to follow Premier Asquith in the important debate in the House of Commons to-day with a speech explanatory of his resignation as attorney-general, and in a large measure critical of the government's policy, although his friends repudiate on his behalf any desire to act as a leader or even a member of an opposition party in the House.

LONDON DOUBTS FOOD SHORTAGE IN GERMANY

Nevertheless Conditions Are Less Favorable Than They Were a Year Ago.

London, Nov. 2.—Discussion of whether the food situation in Germany really is as serious as has been pictured recently in some reports is continued by the newspapers. The Daily Mail believes it misleading to say that Germany is starving or in imminent danger of starvation, but adds, "there is no denying food conditions are vastly less favorable than at the outset of the first winter of the war."

Mr. Asquith referred to the "small cadre of professional whippersnappers which kept our enemies supplied daily with a diet of falsehoods." The government, he said, had no interest in concealing anything, subject to the one overriding consideration that its disclosures would not assist Great Britain's enemies.

CLOSE CALL FROM FATALITY

Runaway Team of Heavy Horses Crashes Into Light Buggy.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred to three contractors yesterday afternoon who were on their way to work at Winter's bridge, James Thompson, Harry Hill and Geo. Yake. The three men were driving in a light rig and had just passed the second toll gate on the Cockshutt road, when without warning, a farmer's team of heavy Clyde horses, which had become frightened at a passing motor cycle and were running away, crashed into them.

Brant County Recruiting Campaign Opened Last Night at Glen Morris

The County of Brant Recruiting League held the opening meeting of the recruiting campaign at Glen Morris last evening. The meeting was held in the town hall and was organized by Reeve Aitken of South Dumfries, who is the chairman of the South Dumfries recruiting league. The commodious hall of the township was well filled with the men and women of the locality. A programme was provided by local talent with the assistance of singers from Paris and Brantford. Very acceptable patriotic pieces were sung during the evening by Messrs. Whittaker of Brantford, and McCammon of Paris, and Aitken of South Dumfries. Madames Aitken and Pettigrew gave a patriotic instrumental duet, "To Arms," in an artistic manner, while Miss Easton gave a reading in her well-known style. Stirring addresses on the question of the war and the necessity of supplying immediately the men required to recruit the Brant Regiment were given by W. S. Brewster, K.C., W. N. Andrews, F.C.G.O., and A. E. Watts, K.C.

GOVERNMENT'S CHIEF WITNESS TESTIFYING AGAINST DIRECTORS IN NEW HAVEN CASE

This picture of Charles S. Mellen, for years president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and target of criticism heaped on that company in his incumbency, was taken as he took the stand as the government's chief witness against William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Lodge and nine other prominent financiers on trial in the United States District Court, charged with violating the Sherman anti-trust laws while directors of the railroad. Because of the testimony Mr. Mellen had given before the Congressional investigation his evidence in the present trial is expected to be even more sensational. In spite of this expectation Mr. Mellen expressed a hope that the financiers would be cleared of the government's indictment.

MEMORIAL SERVICE LAST NIGHT TO BRANTFORD'S DEAD

Rev. Archdeacon Patterson-Smyth of Montreal Preached Elloquent Sermon in Grace Church, Showing How Christianity Has Shown Death is Merely a Transition.

A very powerful and remarkable sermon was delivered in Grace Church last night by the Rev. Archdeacon Patterson-Smyth of Montreal, in commemoration of the dead who have fallen in this great war. Mr. Patterson-Smyth delivered a wonderfully cheering message to those whose hearts are heavy with losses of loved ones in battle. With great skill and simplicity he showed from various incidents in the life of Christ, where He touched on the life to come, how He showed that the next life was only a transition of this, and how after death, one still is the same being, conscious and susceptible of feeling, knowing that one is the same being that overcame the world, even our faith, "the preacher divided his discourse into two parts. The first dealt with National Faith, and the second, Personal and Individual Faith.

What is our national faith, was the question. Men say sometimes that this is the faith of England; we believe that God can, and God will give us the victory because we are in the right. Nay, but that is not the faith of England. God help us if she has no higher faith than that. For suppose God does not give us the victory, what then?

The speaker quoted the instance of the three faithful servants of God who refused to bow down and worship the God of Nebuchadnezzar. Their faith is the highest faith of all. "I can dare to hope that our poor faulty nation is rising to that higher faith during these days," declared the speaker.

"I see poor noble little Belgium, for the sake of right, trampled down into the mire and no delivery in sight. No delivery in sight. I see Britain stand before the burning fire of war, heated seven times more than it is wont to be heated, take awful risks for the sake of Europe. We are saying we believe God will deliver us, and some days we see that victory is not so near as we thought it was. Some days we doubt if it will come at all, but the grim resolution remains, whatever happens we are going on still."

Brantford and the county is sending out the greatest percentage of men in Canada. Why is this? Because the higher faith has grasped the community. Young men go out to fight. They may come back, but "if not" (referring to the defiance of the three men to Nebuchadnezzar) then they do not. Mothers pray all the time that their sons may return, but "if not" they nevertheless must go and fight.

"Through this trouble we are forging a great ideal for the new world, after the war. The nation that can say that has found its soul; be thankful that you have found yours," concluded the preacher in bringing the first part of his sermon to a close.

PERSONAL FAITH.

The most painful perplexing problem in this war is its waste. Even to the outsider it is an appalling war. So many young men, brought up with so much care have gone to death. Consolation is offered to the bereaved, but after all not all the talk since Adam can make death to be other than death.

What is the message of Christ to this sorrow. There is no death. As the little baby opens its eyes on this world, so the eyes that close on the fields of battle in France, open in a country whose brightness was never seen on land or sea.

The speaker then proceeded to show, and to cause his audience to realize the continuity of personal identity. Concentrate one's attention on the "I," the mysterious spiritual scene behind the man. I see, but I am not the eyes; I hear, but I am not the ears; I think, but I am not the brain. The body changes many

THE SERMON.

Basing his sermon on St. John 5:4. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith," the preacher divided his discourse into two parts. The first dealt with National Faith, and the second, Personal and Individual Faith.

What is our national faith, was the question. Men say sometimes that this is the faith of England; we believe that God can, and God will give us the victory because we are in the right. GEN. BERTRAM SAVED BRITAIN 15 MILLIONS

Shell Committee Cost Old Country Nothing for Its Maintenance.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Sir Frederick Donaldson and General Mahon, British experts, who have been visiting Eastern steel factories with a view to determining their adaptability for the manufacture of big guns, left for Toronto last night. They will visit factories there and elsewhere, and will probably inspect the Transcona shops which have been offered to the Shell Committee by the Government for use as a big gun plant if required.

General Mahon was entertained at luncheon yesterday by Gen. Sir Sam Hughes. With the departure of Mr. D. A. Thomas, Mr. Lionel Hitchens will take over work as regards the Shell Committee. An interesting fact in this connection is that the acquaintance between Mr. Hitchens and General Sir Sam Hughes dates back to the time of the South African war, when Mr. Hitchens, as a member of the famous C.I.V.'s, was in a number of engagements with the Minister of Militia. While the statement made by Mr. D. A. Thomas before his departure has cleared the air of many rumors regarding the Shell Committee, there are other details of its work not so far brought out.

Recent criticisms of the committee alleged that excessive prices have been paid to domestic manufacturers at the expense of the British taxpayer. The history of the method of fixing the prices paid to the Canadian manufacturers for shells shows that, with the exception of the first order for shells which the Dominion and the price has been fixed by the British Government, and that the Dominion Shell Committee has been merely an agency for distributing the orders. In the first order which came, however, the price was fixed by Gen. Bertram upon data secured by him from the working and experience of the Dominion arsenal at Quebec. This it may be noted, was the only institution of its kind in the Dominion, and the only place from which in Canada the necessary information for setting a price for Canadian manufacturers to make shells could be procured. And, as a matter of fact, the whole extent of the order was for only 200,000 shells, of small calibre.

SURPLUS OF $14,800,000.

Mr. Thomas statement referred to the fact that on orders amounting to $15,000,000 up to the present a surplus is being returned to the British Government amounting to $14,800,000. This was the result of a policy adopted by General Bertram of keeping back on each shell a sum amounting to approximately $1 for expenses necessary to the working of the Dominion Shell Committee, which would take in overhead charges, inspectors' salaries, etc. As a result of this Gen. Bertram is in the position of returning almost $15,000,000. In other words the Government has, by keeping the price paid to the Canadian manufacturers down even below that judged fair by the British Government, created a surplus, which he can now hand back, of the order of the whole bulk of shell orders. As a result it would seem that the Canadian Shell Committee, for both its establishment and maintenance, has cost the British taxpayer nothing.

In the concluding paragraph Field Marshal French pays tribute to the co-operation of the French forces with the British.

The heavy artillery. The arrival of these reinforcements in the field tested the capacity of the artillery as a whole to expand and meet the requirements of the army.

"Our enemy may have hoped, and not perhaps without reason, that it would be impossible for us, starting from such small beginnings, to build up an efficient artillery to provide for a very large expansion of the army. If he entertained such hopes he now has good reason to know they have not been justified by results.

"The efficiency of the artillery and the new armies exceeded all expectations, and during the period under review excellent services have been rendered by the Territorial artillery. The repulse of the enemy attack on October 8 in the neighborhood of Loos and Hulluch with such very heavy losses to the enemy, the capacity of the artillery to concentrate its fire promptly and effectively at a moment's notice.

TURKISH OFFICIAL

By Special Wire to the Courier.—Constantinople, Nov. 1, via London Nov. 2.—The following official statement was issued to-day by the Turkish war office:

"On the Dardanelles front, there were violent artillery duels. Near Seddul Bahr, two enemy cruisers shelled several places ineffectively. Near Ari Burnu our artillery destroyed three enemy mine throwing positions. Our batteries dispersed masses of enemy troops who were sighted near Mortizilman and Elias Burnu.

"On the Caucasus front we repulsed two enemy attacks."

EXPOSITOR WENT DOWN TO DEFEAT

The Bankers sprung a big surprise in the City Bowling League last evening by taking two games from the strong Expositor team. The Bankers have strengthened their team by the addition of Ernie Mould, a very popular manager of the "Brant," who rolled a nice single for a total of 212, and triple of 537. The games were all very close and exciting, and kept the supporters of both teams on their toes all the evening. Matthews was high for the Expositor with a triple of 558. Chris Cleator rolled three nice games for a total of 517.

The bowlers are starting to strike their stride, and good scores are being registered.

Bill Waddington and his skipper "Muggs" McGaw are practising most faithfully every night.

Frank Kingdon, who is skipper of the Verity Plow team has lined up some new material and will make them all hustle for supremacy.

Eddie Pitman rolled in hard luck last night and should have had much better scores.

The Printers will be much stronger next game, with Hearn and Harold Preston in their line-up they would be a tough proposition.

INDIA VERY IMPORTANT TO WHOLE EMPIRE

British Rule There Great Feat of Its Kind Since the Days of Roman Power.

NO UNITY THERE AT PRESENT

Scores of Different Languages in the Country, Not Counting Dialects.

India stands in an important place in the Empire, said Professor Sheppard, of Westminster Hall. Her people have been responding as loyally as any to the supreme needs of the Empire at the present time. There has been a great deal of criticism. Some comes from the people themselves. The Indian criticism is not a weighing of advantages, but a matter of feeling. It is enhanced partly by the character of the British administrators. The Indian considers himself superior to the Englishman. The Englishman on the other hand, carries with him that inborn sense of superiority bred through generations. Another cause of the criticism is due to the fact that civil servants doing practically the same work will often get less money for their work than the Europeans. The natives cannot take into consideration that it costs the European about five times as much to live as himself.

British administration in India is the greatest feat of the kind that has been performed since the breakup of the Roman empire. It is easy to point out shortcomings, but it is difficult to remain that the successful administration of the Indian empire by the English has been one of the most notable and admirable achievements of the white race during the past two centuries. On the whole it has been for the immeasurable benefit of the natives of India themselves. England does not draw a penny from India for English purposes. She spends for India the revenue of India, and it is spent for the benefit of the Indians themselves. Undoubtedly India is a less pleasant place than formerly for the heads of tyrannical states. There is now little room for the successful freebooter. The British, for the despots who lived in gorgeous splendor.

Indeed, if the English control was now withdrawn from India the whole peninsula would become a chaos of bloodshed and violence. All the weaker people and most industrious and law abiding would be plundered and forced to submit to indescribable wrong and oppression and the only beneficiaries among the natives would be the lawless, the violent and the bloodthirsty. In this quotation from a speech of ex-President Roosevelt of the United States, Prof. Sheppard expressed his opinion before the American club recently when speaking on the subject "What Britain has Done for India."

Another cause for criticism from the natives is due to the fact that Great Britain blunders along in certain parts to take back-water in certain courses of action. This is looked upon by the natives as weakness. Some of the achievements which British Empire has brought about are first peace, order and good government. When Britain came to the country there was practically no government. It was controlled by various marauding tribes. There was in a chaotic state of war, of anarchy and of crime. There is no Indian unity at present. I doubt if there will be any unity within the next century. Her racial, religious, social affinities, traditions and customs are centrifugal. There are no less than 180 different languages in the country, to say nothing of the many dialects. There is a greater racial difference between the Mahatras and Bengalis, between the Germans and the Portuguese, between the Chinese and Tamil than between the Russian and Italian; between the Hindu and the Mohammedan than between the Protestant and Roman Catholic even in Ulster. There are no less than 2378 castes in India which prevent inter-association in anything more than a casual manner.

Britain has brought peace from marauding tribes, defended her borders from Afghans and others, and has protected the coast of India. The rivalries of party chiefs have been allayed. Thuggery and robbery have been stamped out. There is less crime in India to-day of a serious nature than there is in Canada or even in England. The record shows only two crimes in a 1000 of a grievous character. But while British administration is not vigorously applauded it is trusted. It is common that natives will flee to a station where British justice is dispensed in order to be arrested and tried there.

But the administration is not a mere autocracy. There is such development of representative institutions. In the Legislative Council of Viceroy's Council of the 66 members no less than thirty are elected by natives. Of the Executive Council seven are British and two are natives. The provincial councils are entirely native. The development of responsible government is taking place as fast as possible. The mission of Great Britain is to fit the people for self-government. But when there are 315,000 people to educate the growth must necessarily be slow.

There has been great advancement in morality also. There has been a stamping out of female infanticide, human sacrifices, the burning of women on her husband's funeral pyre. The Mohammedan can no longer kill a person who has left that faith for another. There is also a growing sentiment against corruption. It is looked upon as wrong. It is still practiced, but in this respect it is similar to the sentiment in this country.

A big example has been set to the people in the various lines of philanthropic work, such as the methods of famine relief, vaccination of 5,000,000 school children, hospitals and dispensaries, cholera and relief parties, inoculation against plague and distribution of quinine through all the post offices to allay malaria.

The severest critic will not deny that British administration has raised the intelligence of the people. College students have increased from 1,000 to 26,000 in half a century, school teachers from 500,000 to 6,000,000. But only five per cent. of the 315,000,000 people are literate.

The material advancement or development of the country has been great. When Great Britain went to India she had practically of no value. Today it is valued at $5,000,000,000 which is all held by the Indian people. There are 50,000 miles of canals and ditches irrigating 25,000,000 acres, an area equal to three-quarters of the area of England. India is now one of the great wheat growing countries, being second in this.

In the matter of communications the first railroad was built in 1853. There are now some 35,000 miles of railways in the country which carry 400,000,000 passengers annually. India has 18,000 post offices. The telegraph rate of country in the world. A letter can be sent any where in the country for one cent. The post office staff numbers 100,000 employees and there are 8,000 telegraph offices. The telegraph lines have 110,000 miles of wire and carry six million messages a year. The savings banks have on deposit $213,000,000.

There is also a vast trade and commerce which the country enjoys. When Britain went to India the trade and commerce amounted to $5,000,000. It now amounts to $1,000,000,000. Over 90 per cent. of the people are dependent upon agriculture, but the great need is sufficient capital to carry on farming by proper methods. Vast sums have been loaned to the farmers in periods up to 50 years. Great Britain has furthermore stimulated a system of co-operative banks, model farms and by the bringing in of new seed has greatly assisted the farmer.

Critics who refuse to be convinced by the evidence of economic prosperity say the country is impoverished by the economic drain to meet the "home charges," amounting to $90,000,000 annually. There is no such thing as an economic drain there any more than in Canada. All such money is for services rendered. Of this amount $31,750,000 goes for interest on capital borrowed to construct railroads, $15,000,000 for interest on public debt for canals, and $7,250,000 for stores not purchasable in India. The balance goes to the maintenance of the army and navy, civil administration for pensions and sick leave. The British administration in India is one of the most wonderful feats of administration of any people.

The Situation.

The Anglo-German forces have made important gains at their attacks upon the Somme and they have captured the great arsenal of the enemy country. Both John Constance and George Grey have been killed. The situation is now very serious. The opinion of the world seems to be that the war will not end until the German Empire has been completely destroyed. The British Empire is now in a position to take the offensive.

Canadian Patriotic Fund. Several tens of millions of population, men, women and children, was Canada's contribution toward the support of soldiers' families during the first year of the war. While this was more than sufficient for the requirements of that period, it falls considerably short of the contribution that will be required during the next six months. The total estimated requirements for that period will be $4,000,000, or about $100 per head of population.

GUM MACHINES SUPPRESSED BY CHIEF OF POLICE. Some weeks ago an agent of the Northwest Novelty Co. of Calgary visited in the city and placed a gum machine in a number of shops. Tupper and Confederation.

In a previous editorial referring to the death of Sir Charles Tupper the Courier made the statement that he took his political life in his hands in order to bring Nova Scotia into Confederation, and that without his course in this regard the movement would have proved a failure. This is literally the case. The incident occurred nearly fifty years ago, but it is interesting to recall it as an illustration of what the Dominion really owed to the dead statesman.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP VOTE TODAY.

Detroit Voting on Question Whether It Will Take Over Street Railway System. For years all efforts of the local traction company to obtain new franchise grants have failed. As a result, while the population has increased with great rapidity, street car service has not kept pace, and the referendum therefore is said to have aroused the personal interest of most of the voters.

GENET'S MEN MAKE RECORD IN LONG MARCH

Only Eight Casualties, and Three of these Due Directly to Exhaustion. Toronto, Nov. 1.—The long reception given the 17th Battalion on their arrival in the city Saturday was repeated for the 10th Battalion yesterday when Lieut.-Col. H. A. Genet and his men were met in the Harbour Bridge by Mayor Smith and members of the City Council.

Canadian Patriotic Fund. Several tens of millions of population, men, women and children, was Canada's contribution toward the support of soldiers' families during the first year of the war. While this was more than sufficient for the requirements of that period, it falls considerably short of the contribution that will be required during the next six months.

GUM MACHINES SUPPRESSED BY CHIEF OF POLICE. Some weeks ago an agent of the Northwest Novelty Co. of Calgary visited in the city and placed a gum machine in a number of shops. The machine was to be used in a shop and a package of gum would be put out and also small things up to ten cents.

The Situation.

The Austro-German forces have made important gains in their attacks upon the Serbians and they have captured the great arsenal of the latter country. Still King Constantine of Greece, brother-in-law of the Kaiser, makes no move. He is yet at Salonika, manifestly watching the trend of events. The opinion still seems to be warranted that he has some secret understanding with the German Emperor, but that would not stand in his way if he thought the signs pointed to the success of the Allies. This, as far as the Balkans are concerned, does not seem to be immediately possible. However, an unconfirmed rumor states that the Russians, with a considerable force, have obtained a landing on the Bulgarian coast, and this should help. In the Eastern theatre the Huns are showing signs of exhaustion after five months of fighting, and the Russians continue to show manifestations of added strength.

The most noticeable feature of the latest report of General French is the greatly improved artillery equipment of the British forces.

Canadian Patriotic Fund.
Seventy cents per capita of population, men, women and children, was Canada's contribution towards the support of soldiers' families during the first year of the war. While this was more than sufficient for the requirements of that period, it falls considerably short of the contribution that will be required during the next 12 months. The total estimated requirements for that period will be $7,500,000 or about $1.00 per head of population.

This amount should be easily raised once the prime importance of the Patriotic Fund is realized. Soldiers are essential to British victory. Soldiers are only obtainable if decent provision is made for their families. The public, through the Patriotic Fund, must make that provision.

The following tables show the contributions by provinces during the first year and the estimated requirements by provinces during the second year.

Province	Population	Amount Raised	Contribution Per Capita
Maritime provinces	$ 900,000	$ 325,000	35
Quebec	2,100,000	1,675,000	80
Ontario	2,600,000	1,750,000	68
Manitoba	525,000	750,000	142
Saskatchewan	600,000	240,000	40
Alberta	500,000	238,000	48
B. C.	475,000	372,000	78
Average for Dominion			70 cents per capita.

Second Year.
Estimated requirements for year commencing Sept. 1st, 1915.

Province	Population	Amount	Per Capita
Maritime provinces	$ 900,000	$ 550,000	61
Quebec	2,100,000	1,250,000	60
Ontario	2,600,000	2,400,000	92
Manitoba	525,000	1,000,000	190
Saskatchewan	600,000	600,000	100

B. C.	475,000	650,000	137

Head Office Relief and expenses $7,500,000. Sav $1.00 per head.

The expenses of administration are interesting as showing what can be done by effective organization and business management. The Fund has not merely to spend its money. Much of its energy is devoted towards safeguarding itself against the greedy and the unscrupulous. But for the thorough work of the Head Office and Branches many thousands of dollars would have been given to persons not entitled to assistance. To get through the first year of its existence, therefore, on a combined expenditure of $9,000,000 is a feat to be proud of. By far the greater part of this amount was covered by the bank interest earned on deposits, so that the actual impairment of the fund only amounted to 65 cents for every $100.00 of expenditure.

General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, concluded his visit to England and returned to France Saturday night.

Tupper and Confederation.

In a previous editorial referring to the death of Sir Charles Tupper the Courier made the statement that he took his political life in his hands in order to bring Nova Scotia into Confederation, and that without his course in this regard the movement would have proved a failure. This is literally the case. The incident occurred nearly fifty years ago, but it is interesting to recall it as an illustration of what the Dominion really owed to the dead statesman and the respect named. In 1864, Tupper, then Premier of British Columbia, proposed a conference for the union of the three Maritime Provinces. While negotiations were in progress, Sir John Macdonald and others suggested a union of all the provinces. The Canadian Parliament adopted this in 1865, and shortly after it became clear that the people of Nova Scotia were bitterly opposed to the plan and public meetings were held everywhere in protest. Sir Charles had a large majority in the Legislature but a number of his supporters said that they would oppose ratification. Then Miller, one of the Opposition members proposed the appointment of delegates to meet representatives of other provinces in London, for the purpose of framing a scheme of confederation more favorable to Nova Scotia. Tupper promptly took advantage of the suggestion. He submitted a motion embodying Miller's proposition and by every bold measure that it was possible for an indomitable man to exercise, secured the passage of this resolution and the field was thereby ripe for a colonial conference in London for the framing of the British North American Act.

It was charged that Tupper had used Miller as a catspaw, but both strenuously denied that they had any understanding and in later years Miller brought an action for libel against a paper which resurrected the story. Nova Scotia feeling was still bitter, but Tupper by his strong personality and indomitable will, forced the thing through, and took the necessary steps to bring Howe, the leader of the anti, into line.

GUM MACHINES SUPPRESSED BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Some weeks ago an agent of the Northwestern Novelty Co. of Calgary, arrived in the city and placed a gum machine in a number of the stores. The method was to put a nickel in a slot and a package of gum would come out and also small rings up as high as twenty, if luck was with the speculator. These rings could be used to play the machine again or else be exchanged for goods at the value of 5 cents a ring, the company giving the storekeeper cash for rings returned.

CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY REPORTED DEAD

It is said that news has been forwarded to the Vatican.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Turin, Nov. 1, via Paris, Nov. 2.—Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany, is dead, according to a Rome despatch to the Gazzetta Del Popolo, whose correspondent asserts he was informed by a diplomat accredited to the Vatican, that the news had been received by the secretary of state in a cipher message from the papal nuncio at Vienna, Monsignor Scapinelli. The diplomat is said to have released further details, but to have assured the correspondent the news was authentic.

The last previous report of the death of the Crown Prince was in March last, although prior to that time he had been frequently reported killed. It was stated in September that he had broken down as the result of the strain of the offensive undertaken in the Argonne by the troops under his command.

Two hundred cases, containing the equivalent of $5,000,000 in British sovereigns, were received at the assay office, New York, for the account of J. P. Morgan and Company.

GENET'S MEN MAKE RECORD IN LONG MARCH

Only Eight Casualties, and Three of These Due Directly to Exhaustion.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—The civic reception given the 37th battalion on their arrival in the city Saturday was repeated for the 58th battalion yesterday when Lieut.-Col. H. A. Genet and his men were met at the Humber bridge by Mayor and members of the City Council, with the band of the 48th Highlanders. The battalion, after its rest over Sunday was in splendid condition, and the march from Port Credit camp was made in good time, the unit marching off at a little before 9 o'clock, and reaching the Exhibition Grounds at 12:30, in time for lunch, only short pauses being made on the way. The early hour at which the men arrived, coupled with the fact of the day not being a holiday, resulted in a much smaller number of spectators to greet the march, but they were warmly welcomed by the students of the Parkdale Collegiate, also by the school children at the Sunnyside Orphanage, the children providing the cheers which were lacking in the reception of the 38th battalion on Saturday.

On the departure of the 37th battalion, which led the line of march from Niagara, the members of the 58th battalion, with their band, were lined up along the road as their comrades marched by. It was the opportunity of the 37th battalion to return the compliment at the Toronto end of the march, and accordingly, the battalion yesterday was met at the grounds by the earlier arrivals, who welcomed them with cheers.

A SPLENDID SHOWING
Like the 37th battalion on Saturday the 58th yesterday arrived in fine condition, and, indeed, the unit has a record for approaching nearer the medical report as received by Lieut.-Col. F. W. Marlow, A.D.M.S., at the camp headquarters yesterday giving a total of only eight men who had not been able to complete the march, and of this number there were three alone that were suffering from disabilities due to the effect of the march, two of them being foot cases, and one of exhaustion. The other casualties, included two men who were sent in suffering from powder burns due to the members of the marching force approaching nearer the battalion than the rules of mimic warfare permitted, and, in their excitement, firing their rifles in the faces of two of the marching men. "Of course, the worst damage done was to "powder-mark" the men, and it is likely that precautions will be taken to prevent a recurrence of an accident of this sort. Of the other cases, one man was suffering from a sprained ankle, due to a fall over a tent peg, one was a case of ringworm, sent on as a precautionary measure, and the last was a case arising from the after-effects of vaccination. This is the first official statement of casualties received by the A.D.M.S., and the reports of later units will look forward to with some deal of interest. The highly satisfactory showing of the battalion was attributed in considerable measure to the care taken of the men by Capt. Cosby, battalion medical officer, who had issued orders that at the first sign of foot trouble the men should drop back to the ambulance wagon and have their feet dressed. In this way after being attended to the men were able to resume their line of march.

ATTACKED THE ENEMY.

At Port Credit the 58th battalion was subjected to an attack by the enemy troops, carried out in a novel method, scarcely in keeping with the rules of the game. The Divisional Cyclists commanded a freight train and on this rode alongside the camp, which they then attacked. Unfortunately, they had not reckoned on the battalion outposts being close at hand, and the result was that Capt. Schwartz and a number of his men who formed the enemy were taken prisoners. It was in this engagement that the 58th battalion men were injured. Although provision had not been made for it, it was considered by the officers of the 58th battalion that the railroad should be out of bounds, since it was impossible for them to interfere with traffic by removing rails, as they would have done on active service.

The 58th battalion men have been given quarters in the Poultry Building at the Exhibition, and the battalion orderly room is being fitted up in one of the stables.

A Hoboken man is suing for a refund of $2.00 paid in advance for a furnished room in a house from which he was ousted because the landlady's husband was jealous of his good looks.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP VOTE TODAY.

Detroit Voting on Question Whether It Will Take Over Street Railway System.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—This city, if the municipal ownership plan being voted on to-day carries, will be the first in the United States to own and operate its entire street railway system. For many years Detroit has resounded with the arguments for and against the plan. Chicago and Cleveland adopted settlement ordinances which eliminated, for the time being, at least, municipal ownership. In San Francisco and Seattle only a comparatively small proportion of the mileage is owned and operated by the people.

To carry the plan must have 66 per cent affirmative vote.

For years all efforts of the local traction company to obtain new franchise grants have failed. As a result, while the population has increased with great rapidity, street car service has not kept pace, and the referendum therefore is said to have aroused the personal interest of most of the voters. The lines have been operating for the most part on a day-to-day agreement, with tickets selling seven for a quarter at all times except during the two rush periods, when eight for a quarter tickets must be honored. Only on a few miles of track on the old Pingree 3-cent fare lines are the eight for a quarter tickets good at all hours.

If municipalization carries the traction system will be managed by three commissioners serving without pay. They will be James Couzens, until recently vice-president of the Ford Motor Car Co.; John E. Dodge of the Dodge Motor Car Co., and James Wilkie, of the Parke-Davis Chemical Company.

Criticism of the plan includes opinion that it will make a political football out of the lines. To this answer is made that the commission will have complete power, that the mayor is pledged to retain in office the commission named, and that the commissioners have agreed to stay in office. Labor organizations have objected to two grounds, namely, that the plan will invalidate the arbitration agreement between the company and the union, and that the civil service provision of the plan will weaken if it does not disrupt the union.

That the voters do not know precisely what the lines will cost is another objection raised. An appraisal of the lines by Prof. E. W. Hemis gave the value of the property as $17,000,000. At one time the company declined a municipal offer of $23,285,000 for the lines. According to the present plan the valuation will be fixed by the circuit court of Wayne County (Detroit). The plan provides that a rate of fare sufficient to meet all obligations shall be charged, and it has been argued in some quarters that this might result in a higher rate.

Beere, on the occasion of her marriage, and presented her on behalf of the Young People's Society with a beautiful Morris rocker chair, in appreciation of her faithful services as secretary of the society. The floors were then cleared and a contest of games was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served. A vote of thanks to the ladies, proposed by the Rev. D. Alexander, and seconded by Deacon T. Dawson, brought a happy gathering to a close.

AT THE BRANT

Yesterday's programme, which will continue to-day and to-morrow, and the stars presenting same, are a good sample of the productions shown regularly at the Brant. The entertainment consists of an excellent five reel dramatic sensation "The Fairy and the Wolf", presented by an all star cast, including Mary Miles Winster and Will Arlidge, favorite movie artists. In addition to this select photo plays of a varied and interesting nature were presented. The vaudeville consists of Mack and Van in their novelty sensational act "A bunch of Squirrel Food" and five noted musical artists in a big song hit, "Ye Old Song Review." On Thursday and for the remainder of the week will be shown the beautiful serial story "The Goddess" which story is running also in the Courier.

PLEASANT EVENING

A pleasant evening was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Crooker, 7 Victoria street, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their wedding. The guests present were from London, Toronto, Salford, Nelson, Zimmerman and Brantford. Supper was served about 6.30, after which congratulatory speeches were engaged in by Rev. Mr. Kelly and other guests present. Mr. Crooker responded in a neat address thanking the friends for their good wishes to himself and Mrs. Crooker. Mr. and Mrs. Crooker were the recipients of many gifts, and they were especially moved by a gift of a beautiful silver flower basket, accompanied by a written address from the choir and musical committee of the Congregational church.

AT THE ARMOURIES

Work on the remodelling of the armouries for the use of the men of the 84th, who are going to winter here, is being carried out and everything is being put in first class shape. A few recruits are still coming in. Three new men were signed up yesterday for the 38th Dufferin Rifles: Henry King, English, age 29, groom, George Angus, Scotch, age 18, laborer, 139 Nelson St.; Robert Angus, Scotch, age 21, laborer, 139 Nelson St.

MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE

The Ministerial Alliance met yesterday and discussed a splendid paper read by Mr. Clifford Higgin on church music. The paper was a practical exposition dealing with the subject from the various standpoints of organist, choir, minister and music. A number of organists were present who took part in the discussion. There was also present, Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, evangelistic workers and Rev. Mr. Gray of Niagara Falls, brother-in-law of Rev. L. Brown.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The girls in residence at the Y. W. C. A. held a halloween party last night. The usual halloween goblins, ghosts, etc., were presented through dark mysterious passages and tested the nerves of the most brave. Mysterious witches were also present and indulged in fortune-telling games of all kinds which were much enjoyed, one of the chief attractions being the stunt ball. At the close of the evening's entertainment, dainty refreshments were served and an enjoyable half hour was spent in story telling.

EXCITING TRIP

Messrs. Brewster, Watts and Andrews, who motored to Glen Morris last night in connection with a patriotic meeting had an exciting time on the return trip. After getting on the Paris Road, a runaway horse was heading full tilt after the car, when Mr. Watts put on full speed and finally got away from the nuisance. He had just slowed up when another car came along recklessly that Mr. Watts was forced to pull to one side to the very edge. As it was the other machine just sidwiped Mr. Watts' motor. All three after the second escape reached the conclusion that they might just as well be at the front.

RELIGIOUS DAYS

Catholics all over the world are commemorating yesterday, All Saints Day, and to-day All Souls' Day. Yesterday at St. Basil's church three masses were celebrated. The first at 8.30 was very largely attended. High Mass, held at 9.30 was well attended by children and their parents. Last Saturday being the anticipated eve of All Saints Day, was a day of fasting and abstinence. To-day for the first time in centuries, priests are allowed to celebrate three masses. Pope Benedict has allowed this on account of the great number of soldiers dead. A touching scene was noticed at St. Joseph's church last Sunday afternoon, when three priests with bared heads recited the rosary and the prayers for the dead in the presence of a large assemblage.

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S.

A very interesting meeting of the St. Andrew's Y.P.S. was held last evening. Mr. Will Johnsoner acted as chairman. The subject under discussion was "Tasks awaiting the church of Christ" and was taken by Misses E. Beamer, A. Simons and Mr. A. McWhirter, each paper pointing out the splendid opportunity there is, especially at the present time for the church to do a mighty work. "The Gazette" read by the Editor, is proving of great benefit as it keeps all in touch with matters concerning church and Y. P. society work. It was decided to accept Mr. Cameron's offer to give a lecture on "Telegraphy" and which will be held in the near future. It was also decided to have a copy of the "Gazette" sent to the boys of the Guild who are now at the front.

THE GODDESS

Unique Serial Story
By Gouverneur Morris.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

After the tragic death of John Amesbury, his prostrated wife, one of America's greatest beauties, dies. After her death, Prof. Stilliter, an agent of the interests, kidnaps the beautiful three-year-old baby girl and brings her up in a paradise where she sees no man, but thinks she is taught by angels, who instruct her for her mission to reform the world. Tommy Barclay was her childhood chum.

CHAPTER II.

"So you are the little boy who is trying to find the little Amesbury girl," said Barclay.

Tommy Barclay had never been in such a magnificent room. The walls were lined almost to the ceilings with books in leather bindings. There was a table of some dark, dully shiny wood in the centre of the room, and here and there glowed Chinese porcelains that any self-respecting museum would have committed a crime to obtain. There were a thousand things to have drawn the attention of a sharp-eyed small boy but Tommy never took his eyes from Mr. Barclay's eyes. This pleased the great man, who disliked people who showed fear or inattention.

"Sit down," he said.

Tommy almost disappeared into a leather arm chair.

"You were very fond of her, weren't you?"

"Yes, sir," said Tommy. "Can you tell me where she has gone?"

Barclay did not answer at once. "I understand," he said, "that you, too, have lost both your parents?"

"I live with my Aunt Sallie," said Tommy.

"Is she married?"

"Yes, sir."

"And has boys and girls of her own?" asked Barclay.

"Yes, sir; five."

"I understand that your aunt and uncle are not as rich as they might be, and that it is asking a good deal of them to take care of even one extra mouth. Now, I have a great big house and servants and good things to eat, and the only thing I haven't got is a little boy or girl of my own. How would you like to pay me a visit, and if we find that we like each other, to live with me as my son?"

"I should like," said Tommy naively, "to pay you a visit."

Barclay laughed heartily. "You shall," he said, "and you won't have to tell your aunt about it, because I have arranged all that. You won't even have to change your name, as it is the same as mine.

"We thought perhaps you would be willing to come, and so she has packed up all your things and sent them here." He touched a bell on the great table in front of him, and almost instantly and without noise what soever, a man servant appeared in the room.

"Show Barclay to his room," said Barclay, and with a pleasant nod to Tommy, "I dine at half-past seven," he said.

Tommy lingered for a moment. "You haven't told me," he said, "where she has gone."

Barclay rose and laid his hand almost caressingly on the boy's shoulder. "Tommy," he said, "your little girl has gone to heaven."

It was a very sad little boy who bathed and dressed himself in an Eton suit, a little too small for him, and went down to half-past seven dinner. But he wasn't so sad as he might have been for he was too young not to be excited and elated by his new surroundings. He not only had a dressing room as big as a cottage, but a dressing room and bathroom. The former covered with the thickest and softest of rugs the latter all glass and white tiles and silver plate. While he was bathing the valet laid out his clothes for him, coat and trousers over one chair, underclothes and socks on another chair, and necktie and handkerchiefs, on the dressing table, and here also was the nickel-plated watch that he carried and the few dimes, nickels, and pennies that he had had in the clothes he had taken off; also the top, one fairly long piece of fish line, half a stick of bicorne, and a rusty pocket knife. In a very small glass of water was a boutonniere, consisting of one gardenia, three green leaves, and a twist of silver paper.

His first dinner in the great house was a little trying; the room was so big and he was so small. He would hear a little boy say something and realize suddenly that it was he himself who had spoken. The butler, with two footmen to assist him, served them, and of the three exceptionally tall and imposing men, Tommy was in not a little awe. His host, however, although he had none of his own, seemed to understand small boys thoroughly. It is possible that some time in his life he may have been a small boy himself. He did not patronize Tommy to talk down to him, but to treat him in an offhand, matter-of-fact way, just as if Tommy had been his equal, so if the room had been a little smaller and the men servants fewer Tommy would have soon felt at home. In time, however, Tommy grew up to his surroundings. In time it would seem to him natural to eat in a place as big as the waiting room in a railroad station and to sleep in a bed that might have contained a half a dozen other small boys.

When dinner was over Tommy sat on and ate nuts, while Barclay drank coffee and smoked a cigar. At nine o'clock the little boy went to bed. It was natural that she should feel a little sad and lonely with the unfamiliarity of everything, and that he should have one dream after another. But they were all about the little Amesbury girl in heaven.

The heaven that he dreamed about wasn't a very big place. There was no part of it indeed that could not have been contained within the arch of a theatre. There was a dog or two; there was at least one red Indian with wings and many streets paved with gold trees all made of gold and silver, and green enamel and jewelry. There were many curious domestic

HOOD'S PILLS

Cure Biliousness. Best for all liver ills. Try them.

What little he did expect he was not likely to get. But he was very fond of him and tried to make the best of him. Tommy spent all his leisure time playing polo or tennis or dashing off on hunting trips, and some fourteen or fifteen years after this story opens he became very much interested in Miss Mary Blackstone.

He hadn't forgotten the little Amesbury girl. He never would forget her, but what is the use of a little girl who lives in heaven to a young man who doesn't?

Tommy often dreamed about her. As he grew older she grew older, and the heaven in which she lived and was educated by the most scientific and philosophical of the saints and angels became more and more sophisticated and less and less like the palace scene in a comic opera.

But Mary Blackstone did not live in heaven, did not wear a halo, and did not sit in a golden throne. She was a girl and she looked as if butter wouldn't melt in her mouth. She lived in a low, white house near Southampton, L.I. It had gardens full of gigantic boxwood, and it had so many verandahs that Tommy with his distaste for figures, was never able to count them. Some people said the house had a hundred rooms in it; other people said there were two hundred. Tommy, however, did not affect figures and intimate terms with her father, and there was one south-west room in which he spent many and many a week-end, and which was always known to the Blackstone family as Tommy's room.

Mary Blackstone rode horses, played tennis and swam in the surf as well as a strong and courageous boy. Tommy never knew her when she was more attractive in athletic clothes or when, as she expressed it, she was dressed to look like a real lady. Every phase of her appearance charmed him. Unfortunately, these charms faded and everything else about her charmed a good many other men.

If she liked Tommy better than anybody else she was in no hurry to tell him so. She had her own self off from all the other young men, whom she liked almost as well, Carlton Fitch, for instance.

Carlton Fitch was Mr. Barclay's nephew, and in some ways was a great favorite of his uncle's. He took so much interest in his uncle's banks, railroads, mines, etc. that you might have thought that he expected to own them some day. He was not only a great sportsman, but a great many corporations, but a very real director in the affairs of half a dozen of the more important. He never neglected work for play. Some people admired him tremendously; others said they wouldn't trust him around the corner with a five-cent piece.

Outwardly, he and Tommy were always friendly and polite to each other, even after he had become an open rival for Mary Blackstone's approval, but inwardly each had a certain contempt for the other, and in addition to this, Carlton Fitch was jealous of Tommy, for he had had a bad experience with the whole of Mr. Barclay's money, and since Tommy's adoption it looked as if he was going to inherit very little of it indeed. He would be rich, anyway, but he was very greedy for power, and he was very greedy for money.

Tommy, though he loved to spend money, was given to asking foolish questions about the ways and prerogatives of capital. He couldn't understand the majority of people in this world have to be poor and dirty and unhappy. Why the real producer should have such a small share in what he produces. He did not go into these questions very deeply, but he was coming to be something of a Socialist at heart and to feel a certain contempt for people to whom the collecting of money was the most important thing in this world. Perhaps he only took up Socialistic ideas in order to amuse himself at the expense of those who maintain opposite theories, for he didn't go into anything except games very seriously or very thoroughly. He did feel very sorry, however, that in a world containing so many able minds it was a shame that so much poverty and misery should be allowed to exist.

"You couldn't live in a house that had a dirty attic and a filthy cellar and tuberculosis rats behind the wainscoting," he once said to Barclay. "How then, can you live in a city, nine-tenths of it full of dirt, misery and disease?" To which Barclay had answered: "In my own house I am the master. But in the city, if I wanted to clean it up, they wouldn't let me."

"Why the world people who make it dirty. Understand, Tommy, that in this country, any man who is willing to work, oh! not six or eight hours a day, but as hard as he can, and will live on less than he earns, can be clean and rich. It's a small price to pay. Some pay it. I paid it. Others would like to pay it but still others won't let them. It isn't the rich who keep the poor down. It's the poor who band together to keep each other down and to pull the rich down on top of them, if they can."

Mr. Barclay was supposed to be the coolest calculator of possibilities in America. As a matter of fact he was a man who owed his greatest success to impulse. But in the case of Tommy Barclay, whom he had adopted, not after careful deliberation and calculation, but upon impulse, it looked as if he was going to be disappointed.

He had planned in complete detail a splendid destiny for Tommy. The boy was to be one of the world's

SUDDEN DEATH OF EDITOR OF STAATS ZEITUNG

Herman Ridder Passed Last Night After a Linger- ing Illness.

New York, Nov. 2.—Herman Ridder, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and publisher of the Staats Zeitung, died suddenly last night at his home in this city.

The cause of Mr. Ridder's death was kidney trouble in an acute form. He had been ill about ten months, and for two weeks past his condition had been critical. He was in his sixty-fifth year.

Among a large number of prominent German-American citizens of the United States Herman Ridder was one of the most conspicuous figures in the newspaper publishing business and in politics. His associates in the publishing business had honored him at one time with the Presidency of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and for many years he held high offices in the Associated Press as treasurer and director. In politics he was such a factor that he was talked of at the national Democratic convention in Denver in 1908 as a possible nominee for vice-president on the ticket with Bryan, who, however, Mr. Ridder opposed at that time. He was also discussed later as a likely selection for Ambassador to Germany.

Mr. Ridder was owner and editor

the idea that is wanted.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAP-TERS.

A bitter feud has existed between Colonel Arthur Stanley and his cousin, Judge Lamar Stanley. The feud has been engendered in family jealousy over an heiress, the diamond from the sky, that was found in a fallen meteor by an adventurer ancestor. Also, the succession to the Stanley earldom in England may come to an American Stanley. When a daughter is born to Colonel Stanley of the oldest branch of the Stanleys in America and the mother of the child dies at its birth, the chagrined colonel buys a newborn gypsy boy and substitutes him as heir. Three years later the gypsy mother, having had no part in this bargain, steals the colonel's little daughter, being reared in secret, and leaves her own son undetected as the heir. The gypsy mother has also obtained possession of the diamond from the sky, and a document holds the Stanley secret of the false heir. She rears the little girl, Esther Stanley, as her own and grows to love her. When Esther is grown a beautiful young girl, Hagar, now gypsy queen, returns to Virginia with her. She has a wild plan that Dr. Lee, the late Colonel Stanley's old friend, may adopt Esther, as originally intended. Her hope also is that her son, the supposed Arthur Stanley, may fall in love with Esther, and thus the innocent girl may become his bride. Dr. Lee also informs Hagar that her son, the supposed Arthur Stanley, is a profligate and not worthy of Esther, but Hagar hopes for the best and with her people departs. Arthur Stanley does fall in love with Esther and so does his boon companion, Blair Stanley, the cousin who would be the rightful male heir of Stanley were the Stanley secret known. In stealing the diamond Blair causes the death of the doctor. Outside is Arthur, serenading Esther.

CHAPTER V.
The Silent Witness.

CAUGHT like a rat in a trap, with Arthur Stanley outside the window serenading the dead as well as the living, and Esther stirring o'erhead, Blair Stanley nerves himself with a supreme effort and turns the knob of the study door and stents down the darkened hallway. He unbolts the front door, and, closing it softly behind him, as though he would shut out the face of the dead man, Blair slips across the broad piazza like a phantom of the night.

But Arthur has heard the grating of the bolt, the soft opening of the door,

"What are you doing here?"
and has stepped from the side to the front of the house, hoping it is Esther who comes in answer to his serenade and to receive his contrite pleadings for forgiveness. He reaches out to embrace the gentle girl, only to find he has clasped the stalwart, struggling frame of a man. The moon breaks through a cloud as his prisoner struggles, and its rays illuminate the face of Blair Stanley.

"What are you doing here, coming out of Dr. Lee's house at this hour?"
whispers Arthur, tensely.

"Keep quiet, you fool!" Blair Stanley hisses, like a snake. "A girl's good name is at stake."

As Arthur staggers back in horror at the shameful inference, Blair Stanley with a rapid movement draws his revolver and fires. He would do a double murder, and win an earldom and the diamond from the sky, if he can escape without detection. But the quick arm of Arthur throws up the pistol and as Blair fires he wrenches the weapon from him. To avoid the shame and scandal, even of the inference of the base speaking Blair, the frenzied Arthur grags him down the pathway and down the silent village street, as the cocks are crowing, presaging the coming of the dawn. Panting and struggling, the cousins stumble off the village highway into the village graveyard. Their feet sink into a mound of soft earth by an open and newly dug grave. Standing panting and facing each other with rage and hate in their hearts and on their faces, the young men pause a moment in their struggle. Then Arthur brings out his own pistol and the long white silk handkerchief that protrudes from his breast pocket.

(To be continued.)

TORONTO WILL RAISE FIVE
BATTALIONS

One Battery of Artillery
Also, While York and Peel Will Recruit Two More.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Five new battalions and one new battery of artillery are to be recruited in Toronto, and two county battalions are to be formed in York and Peel. This was unanimously decided upon at a conference of commanding officers of Toronto units and the 12th York Rangers and 6th Peel Regiment, presided over by Col. Logie last night at headquarters.

The first city battalion is to be commanded by Col. W. B. Kingsmill of the 10th Royal Rifles. All the commanders of the city units agreed to stand behind Colonel Kingsmill and to furnish his battalion within two weeks' time. After which the other battalions are to be raised in the same manner.

It is proposed to simultaneously form one battalion in Peel county under Colonel Hamilton of the 36th Peel Regiment, also a battalion in York county under command of Col.
E. F. Clark of Kapuskasing.

These will run concurrently in the counties in accordance with the Minister of Militia's system of billeting.

The present recruiting depot, which has proved very satisfactory, will handle the recruiting for the new battalions.

SCHOOL FOR OFFICERS.

A provisional school for the training of officers and non-coms, will be in charge of Col. Lang. The school will raise 500 men. Provisional schools at billeting headquarters will train any surplus over the 500 at the central school.

Recruiting commenced yesterday for the 95th battalion, under Lieut.
Col. Biers for the 95th are to be selected according to their ability in commanding a double company of men. All officers aspiring to places in the new battalion are to be tested this morning at 9:30 on the University Campus. Application should be made to Captain Meredith at the Armories.

OVER 3,000 MEN AT CAMP.

get a box of Cascarets from the drug store now? Eat one or two to-night and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or bother you all the next day like cal-but thoroughly. Mothers should give cascarets to sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and children love them.

TORONTO, ONT., Oct. 1st, 1913.

"I have lived in this city for more than 12 years and am well known. I suffered from Rheumatism, especially in my hands. I spent a lot of money without any good results. I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" for 18 months now and am pleased to tell you that I am well.
All the enlargement has not left my hands, and perhaps never will, but the soreness is all gone and I can do any kind of work. I have gained 35 pounds
