WHITE'S PORTLAND CEMENT!

SOLD AT BOWRING'S Retail Store.

A Reminder to HOUSEKEEPERS:

Libby's Evaporated Milk is superior in many respects to ordinary milk

It is pure cow's milk reduced to its present consistency by evaporation. It is put up in cans containing a NET weight of 16 ounces. By adding one part of water to one part of contents of can a resulting milk product will be obtained which will not be below the American legal standard for ordinary milk. The retail price is very little (if anything) higher than the price charged for ordinary milk. It is NOT SWEETENED and therefore does not change the flavor of the tea. IMPORTANT.—It is carefully sterilized in the process of canning and is guaranteed by Libby, McNeill & Libby to be absolutely pure.

Ask your grocer for a can and try it.

PUBLIC NOTICE!

The following sections of Chapter 28 of the Consolidated Statutes (2nd Series) and the Act in Amendment thereof, are published for general information:

Sec. 12.—When any death takes place in this Colony, information of the same shall be furnished or posted within 48 hours thereafter to the proper officer appointed under this chapter to receive the same in the form of Schedule A, under a fine not exceeding Ten Dollars for every neglect to do so. The obligation to furnish this information shall rest, in the first instance, on the medical attendant; secondly, on the undertaker; and falling these, on the next of kin to the deceased person.

Sec. 14.—No sexton or other person having charge of a cemetery or burial place shall permit the burial of any person in such cemetery or burial place without first having received a certificate signed by a MEDICAL ATTENDANT, a CLERGYMAN, or TWO RELIABLE PERSONS cognizant of the facts, certifying to the death of the person for whom burial is required, and setting forth so far as is known the cause of death; and all such certificates shall be forwarded monthly to the registering offices concerned.

This law does not apply to the City of St. John's, where special and more strict regulations are enforced.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"What!" he said, halting instantly, "do you rate me so poorly? No, indeed, Miss Grey, John Alwyn's memory may rest for all me. Long ago I learned to forgive his luckless advice as freely as he would have forgiven my school-boy rage." She let him go by without another word, her spirit upspringing with great thankfulness. Mr. Babbington sauntered to her over the narrow lawn. His children had come to fetch papa home. Miss Jean had taken them in-doors to clear the desert dishes of sweets, while she mended—"so thoughtfully"—Belle's jacket. Looking at Mr. Hurst in the distance, the clergyman said, gravely, "It is never anything but a pleaser, is he? You must find the hours he exacts of you very trying, Miss Grey."

"No, I do not," said Sydney, quickly. "It is never anything but a pleasure to be useful here at Wynstone."

"Well, Miss Hurst certainly appreciates your—er—unusual capabilities," said Mr. Babbington, most politely. "She has told me so. But that dear lady is eminently conscientious. She sometimes feels a little anxious about you, Miss Grey."

"About me?" Sydney flashed such point-blank interrogation as her companion blinked under. "Anxious? Why? Do I not satisfy her?"

"Amplify, amplify. But thinking of others before herself, as she always did, always does, she fancies her gain may be your loss. She and I are friends of long standing. You will excuse her mentioning any small difficulty to me, Miss Grey. As a clergyman I can perhaps say what she scarcely could. If you have family ties that should supersede these at Wynstone don't disregard them: if, as some young folks have, slight family discords, heal them. Do not spend at Wynstone time you may afterward regret as having withheld from closer duties."

This was all very fine, very grandiloquent, unintelligible, impertinent! Between Miss Jean's surmises and Mr. Babbington's interference Sydney felt bewildered, half insulted. But she curbed herself with remembering that it was not for her to be angry with Miss Hurst. The injured are always armed. "I thank you, Mr. Babbington," she said, self-possessed by some effort. "I am glad to remain here. I think I must try my own judgment as to no higher duty call."

IN ALL OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

There Is Hardly A Woman Who Does Not Rely Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Princeton, Ill.—"I had inflammation, hard headaches in the back of my neck and a weakness all caused by female trouble, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with such excellent results that I am now feeling fine. I recommend the Compound and praise it to all. I shall be glad to have you publish my letter. There is scarcely a neighbor around me who does not use your medicine."—Mrs. J. E. JOHNSON, R. No. 4, Box 30, Princeton, Illinois.

Experience of a Nurse. Poland, N. Y.—"In my experience as a nurse I certainly think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine. I wish all women with female troubles would take it. I took it when passing through the Change of Life with great results and I always recommend the Compound to all my patients if I know of their condition in time. I will gladly do all I can to help others to know of this great medicine."—Mrs. HORACE NEWMAN, Poland, Herkimer Co., N. Y.

No Corns

Next Sunday

In 48 hours your corns will be gone if you use this simple method.

Apply Blue-jay tonight. Tomorrow you will not even think of the corn. Day after tomorrow the corn will be loosened. Simply lift it out.

Some people keep corns year after year, merely paring them once in a while. They wrong themselves. A famous chemist has solved the whole corn problem. And his invention—Blue-jay—now removes a million corns a month.

Go try it. Note how the pain stops instantly. Note how gently Blue-jay undermines the corn. Note how soon the whole corn comes out, without any pain or soreness.

Next Sunday you can be as free from corns as a barefoot boy. And, so long as you live, you will never again let corns bother you.

whole party; "lucky to drop into it!" Horace told me it was your own. Pretty piece of property for a maiden lady, or a married one, eh?"

Had "Horace" indiscreetly divulged much more! Miss Hurst colored, fluttered, and sent such timid glances at her impassible-featured brother that the Reverend Horatius hastened to disembarrass her. "Was not this the time for those flowering rushes she had promised his children? And could he get them now?"

So a move was made to the river-side, whereupon Mr. Carle fastened his society on Sydney, remarking,

"You are not a fixture here, Miss Grey, I think? You see, my cousin has told me the ins and outs of everything. Ah!"—twisting round his active figure and ferret face for a good look at the house—"it is a snug little box. Two, four rooms below—five, I suppose, above; servants' offices; bedrooms over them. Nice size for a small family. Pity it should be wasted on two, and one no business to be here, as it were."

Mr. Babbington had indeed disclosed the ins and outs of Wynstone! Sydney caught her very skirts together from contact with this man's coat! Her mouth curved into unconcealable disgust. "I think I can see some of the rushes Miss Hurst wants, if you will excuse me," she said, and all but ran from him to the water-edge, though she regretted freeing him when she saw him pounce on Mr. Hurst, and heard him start off a conversation of which the first words, "Pon my honor, a handsome young lady you've got there!" were all too many for her.

What followed was equally unpalatable. Mr. Carle was great on bladders. "I know a thing or two about that," he boasted, "for I've a dozen young chaps at my place by Pembroke, and none of 'em can see a stroke more than you can. Gentlemen's sons all. It's a speculation of mine. I train 'em and teach 'em, and—jocularly—"make a pretty penny out of it. They don't want things first chop, as if they could see. You understand that. I haven't sunk much in silver spoons and smart carpets, I can tell you. Now, I should say an able-bodied man like you, Mr. Hurst, would do a deal better picking up a living in such a place as mine than hanging on here, making an old maid of your sister, and being waited on by that pretty young party that's picking yellow flowers yonder—"

"Miss Grey!" Mr. Hurst interrupted, brusquely, "whereabouts are you?"

"By the last willow; getting lisses," Sydney's clear voice called back. "Then," peremptorily, "move away. No; stop. Let me come." Moving straight as a dart along the bank he knew every inch of till he reached her; then, "Never lean over for flowers or rushes just here," he ordered. "Half a yard from the edge this is the deepest spot on the bank. A slip would take you into ten feet of water—"

"And there'd be no getting out of that, young lady," put in officious Mr. Carle. "So just you mind what Mr. Hurst says; of course he only tells you what's for your good."

He looked very knowingly from one to the other, but neither face betrayed any sentiment, except not one flinching to himself; indeed, Sydney shrank into such frigid irresponsiveness that Mr. Montague Carle was as willing to get away as they to bid him adieu.

Miss Hurst watched her brother furtively when the callers were gone.

This Old Gentleman Cured of Rheumatism

By One Box of GIN PILLS

YARMOUTH, N.S. "I have been bothered with Rheumatism for the past year and have taken a good many different kinds of medicine and found no relief for it."

One day a friend advised me to try GIN PILLS, and after taking one box of them, I felt like a new man. I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know how thankful I am for the relief they gave me, and would advise all sufferers from Rheumatism to try GIN PILLS."

Wm. CONY. Don't bother with liniments and so-called "blood purifiers." They won't help your kidneys—and Rheumatism is caused by weak, strained or irritated kidneys. The only possible way to cure Rheumatism, is to cure the kidneys. GIN PILLS will do this as nothing else will.

Take GIN PILLS NOW and be free from Rheumatism this winter. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50—and money promptly refunded if you are not satisfied. Order from us if your dealer does not handle GIN PILLS. Sample box sent free. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto. 473 and they three had returned to the drawing room.

"Mr. Carle is an excellent business man, I understand, though he may not be very polished." No reply to this from either listener. "I hoped you would have chatted with him longer. For—moving ornaments restlessly about—"it is too dusk to read. And I am not inclined to walk any more—and—oh, Gilbert, if I find the evenings long, what must you do?"

"Do you feel them long, Jean? You used not."

"Oh"—fretfully—"people are not always alike at all times. How I wish you had taken to music, as poor papa did, though to be sure it made him more intimate with that wretched Mr. Alwyn, and so brought us no good. Don't say 'wretched!' Well, I think he was, Gilbert. I feel it more and more. The 'cello' was papa's instrument, Miss Grey. He played so well. When he was young he was offered two pounds a night to join an orchestra. Two pounds a night! Fancy if my brother could have earned that!"

"Could have earned! Could have earned!"

Sydney saw him turn away. The cuckoo cry was too hard to bear. Some one must speak!

"I fancy neither of you cared for music," she said. "I have not once heard your piano," looking at the never-opened instrument.

"Oh, I like it well enough," Miss Hurst returned, indifferently. "And you used to profess to be fond of it, Gilbert. But I fancied you cared nothing for my playing, so I gave it up. Some—people—used to like it, but no doubt it sounded poor to you, Gilbert—"

"Jean!"

"So I never even asked Miss Grey for fear she might not be more successful than I was."

The speech ended with a querulous choke.

Sydney moved to the instrument in desperation. "It is so long since I have, I may offend you both; but I shall like to touch the keys again," she said, and sat down to the Proadwood, tuneful still, though old.

The room was so still and full of soft twilight. The very birds outside were gone to sleep. Nothing seemed to stir save the ticking of one small time-piece, the throbbing of these troubled human hearts. Unbidden, except by the tense necessity of the moment, unpreluded, except by its few simple chords, Sydney's song broke the silence.

"Oh, rest in the Lord. Wait patiently for Him. Commit thy ways unto Him and trust in Him. And—"

He shall give thee thy heart's desire." She never thought of how to sing it; only put into it the unformulated imploring of her own soul, knowing that Gilbert drew nearer and nearer mute, not motionless.

When she ended, poor Miss Jean thanked her volubly, tears dropping freely down—but her brother had left the room without a word.

Report of Citizens' Committee on the City Taxes.

In the report of the Citizens' Committee submitted at a public meeting on February 12th, last, it was stated that as the subject required particularly careful study, the data for which were not available, the Sub-Committee appointed to consider the matter had not been able to report.

The following particulars were submitted:

"The total appraisal for the City is $97,855, of which the South Side of Water Street furnishes $28,530.

"The total amount of arrears on December 31st, 1913, was $30,657.75 (since increased to $91,093) of which amount $58,232 was considered good, $23,143 bad, $8,680 doubtful.

"A very cursory examination of the present system of taxation on rentals reveals the fact that it is very unfairly apportioned and operates exactly contrary to systems in vogue elsewhere. The rentals paid on the poorer class of houses are from 10 to 15 per cent on the value.

The better class houses are appraised at a rental of about 5 per cent. The total taxes amount to 11 1/4 per cent, so that while the former class pays over 1 per cent in taxes the latter pays less than 1/2 per cent.

"The Committee believes that a method of taxation can be evolved which will produce more revenue and be much more fairly distributed. Since the submission of the report some further particulars have been obtained and facilities instituted into the methods of assessment and collection. At the request of the Citizens' Committee the City Accountants have prepared a classified statement showing the payments made for the year ending December 31st, 1913. This classification has taken some time to prepare but will undoubtedly prove an interesting document to citizens.

Based upon the figures thus furnished the following table has been worked out, which, while not absolutely accurate, may be taken as approximately correct:

Classification.	Rent's.	Tax'n.	Paym'ts.	Arrears.	P. C. Unpaid.
$500 and over	$329,430	$36,995	$32,993	$4,000	11 per cent.
$200 to $500	146,167	16,444	11,247	5,200	33 per cent.
$100 to $200	183,409	20,662	9,162	11,500	55 per cent.
Under $100	202,461	22,775	7,137	15,600	70 per cent.
Total	$861,467	96,876	$60,529	$36,300

Of the total amount of arrears, $91,093, therefore the sum of $36,300 was incurred during 1913, and the balance $54,800 was the accumulation of previous years.

The amount of the arrears has increased steadily (with the exception of the year 1913) as is shown by the following table:

Year	Arrears.	Year	Arrears.
Dec. 31, 1905	$52,963.90	1910	$80,322.48
Dec. 31, 1906	56,494.01	1911	85,967.25
Dec. 31, 1907	60,384.90	1912	94,453.55
Dec. 31, 1908	72,215.89	1913	91,093.66
Dec. 31, 1909	78,351.65

While the amount of the arrears was lower on December 31st, last, than at the end of the previous year, the total collection for the year, including arrears, was $92,740, or 4.100 short of the assessment for that year.

After studying the above statements, citizens will have no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion, that the system of taxation and the methods of collecting the taxes are faulty in the extreme.

The city can never be properly managed unless the taxes are paid as promptly and unflinchingly as the Customs Dues. It is impossible to make up the City's Budget, and equally impossible to arrange a scheme of taxation unless the assessments which are made can be counted upon.

It is evident from the rapid increase of the arrears that the habit of shirking payment of the City taxes is very contagious; it being very naturally argued that when all are not made to pay, none need pay.

The foregoing may be considered a presentation of the facts of the case. An inquiry into the causes which have brought about this serious condition in the City's finances seems to indicate the following:

1. That the blame is in part due to the apathy of successive Municipal Councils and to their hesitancy in enforcing the laws of the city in this respect.

2. Cumbersome and expensive methods of legal procedure against defaulters.

3. Faulty methods of tax collecting.

Having thus ascertained, in some measure, the reasons for this rapid accumulation of arrears, it is possible to suggest remedies.

It should neither be the duty of the elected Councilors to collect, nor within their power to interfere with the collection of the taxes. Their province should be to ascertain the amount of revenue required, to decide upon the methods and rates of taxation, to appoint permanent officials, and to dismiss the same if their work is unsatisfactory.

The actual collection of the taxes should be a duty imposed by law upon some permanent official, say the City Treasurer, who should have no more power to remit taxes than has the Assistant Collector of Customs to remit Customs duties.

The Tax Collectors should be paid a fair salary, and be under the direction of the City Treasurer. Their work should be systematized, and visits arranged for, street by street, at stated intervals. After a certain number of visits, say three, which should be recorded by the serving of notices, any debts remaining unpaid should automatically pass to the legal department for collection. When legal action has to be taken, some simple, inexpensive and summary procedure must be devised, which will be effective.

Elsewhere the affidavit of the City Treasurer constitutes proof of indebtedness, and judgment issues immediately, to be followed by distraint, unless payment is made within some stated period, say three weeks.

Whatever the procedure may be which is finally decided upon, it should be ordained by law, so that no one can interfere with it. When this condition of things is realized, taxes will be paid as a matter of course, and no one will consider it a hardship to have to do so.

In some English cities the procedure is extremely summary. There are no Tax Collectors. Notices are sent out requiring the taxes to be paid in at the City Treasurer's office. If not paid within a certain time, a second and a third, notice are sent. After another short interval, if payment is still withheld a Broker goes into the house and sells sufficient property to pay the tax. No legal action is taken at all.

In order to induce prompt payment, without the cost of collection, a discount might be given to all who voluntarily pay their taxes within 10 days after they become due.

It is suggested that the City Taxes should no longer be called "Water and Sewerage Rates," which would seem to imply the furnishing of Water and Sewerage, but should be known simply as the City or Municipal Tax. Further, that the tax should not be made up as at present but be a flat rate of so much per cent.

The foregoing suggestions are based upon the supposition that the present method of taxation will be continued. It is possible, however, that other methods might be devised which would be more fairly distributed, and more easily collected.

One proposal is that the occupiers tax should be abolished and the owner of the house, whether leasehold or freehold, should become responsible for the whole tax, with the exception of the tax of 3 per cent on ground rents, which would be paid by the ground landlord as at present. In this case it would be necessary to empower the landlord to add the occupiers tax to the rent payable under existing leases or agreements. It is argued that while this plan would be an immense saving in the work of tax collecting to the Municipality, it would impose very little, if any, hardship upon the landlord, who could easily collect the additional amount half yearly with the rent.

The total amount of arrears for the year 1913 on December 31st, last, was $36,300, divided into classes as follows:

Classification.	Arrears.
$500 and Over	$4,000 10%
$200 to $500	5,200 14%
$100 to $200	11,500 32%
Under $100	15,600 43%
Total	$36,300 100%

It is probable that if an analysis of the whole amount of the arrears could be made it would be found that the classification would not differ greatly from the above. It has already been demonstrated that under our present system many better class houses are taxed at a lower rate than the poorer. Further, it is always the policy of Governments when imposing taxes to distribute them in proportion to the ability to pay. Therefore it has been suggested that the rate of assessment might be graded, the higher rentals paying a higher rate of assessment, and the lower rent also lower rate.

It would obviously be better business to reduce the taxation on the lower class of rentals, and collect the same, than as at present, to have a high rate and leave the taxes largely uncollected.

In Canada, and the United States the taxes are assessed upon the actual value instead of the rental value as is our practice. In many ways, this would appear to be a fairer system than ours, but upon examination it will be found that difficulties and anomalies are as likely to arise under one system as the other.

It is almost the universal practice elsewhere for the cost of pavement to be borne by the property adjoining. Also when it is decided to open up a new street, which can only be done by the City Council, the cost of making the street and of installing water and sewerage pipes is borne entirely by the property adjoining, which is benefited by the expenditure. This does not necessarily involve a loss to the owner of the property, who merely adds the cost of the improvements to the price of his land, and the man who buys land and builds upon the new street line and enjoys the benefits of water and sewerage, pays for the same, as is right and proper. The owner of the land can hardly expect for the city to make a heavy expenditure for the improvement of his property and for his private benefit.

In many Canadian and United States cities there is a tax for water as well as the general tax. This is generally graded according to the quantity of water used as shown by water meters installed in each house. The Committee is of opinion that meters might be introduced here in factories, or other places where an excessive amount of water is used, and a charge made according to the quantity.

The policy of the Committee at the present juncture is to collect such facts relating to the Government of the City as may be procurable, and to publish the same, with such comments as may seem advisable, in order that the ground may be prepared for the work of the Commission which is to assume office in July.

The question of Taxation is one of the most serious problems to be grappled with, and Citizens are urged to study the matter carefully, and to be prepared to back up the Commission in the difficult task which is undoubtedly before them.

The Committee desires it to be clearly understood that the above report is intended merely to be suggestive, and is not to be considered in any sense as a decisive opinion as the course to be adopted.

Clean Up Week!

The Municipal Council have decided that this year there shall be a Clean-up week for the purpose of a general Cleaning of the Town. The week will begin on Sunday, May 24th, and the following programme has been adopted, viz:—

SUNDAY—Church Day.—Start the week right.

MONDAY—Fire Prevention Day.—Clean up indoors.—Start in attic and finish in cellar. Put all rubbish into barrels ready to be carried away.

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY—Back Yard Day.—Gather up all rubbish, old papers, empty cans, all ashes in your back yard and put into barrels. Whitewash yards and cellars.

THURSDAY—Paint Day.—Call your painter in and look your property over and see what painting is necessary to make things span new.

FRIDAY—Fly Day.—Clean garbage cans, etc., put disinfection on stagnant waters and get rid of flies.

SATURDAY—Children's Day.—Ask the children to pick up papers in vacant lands and around parks and playgrounds. Reward the children that have helped with a few cents and some candy.

In this movement the Council requests the hearty co-operation of the citizens, Merchants and other owners of horses and carts are requested to lend their assistance by offering their horses and carts during the week, and the Council will welcome any volunteers who desire to assist the movement.

It is desired that the citizens should have all back yards cleaned and the materials piled conveniently so that they can be taken away without any difficulty.

Visit of the Duke of Connaught.

A cable despatch from Ottawa conveys the intelligence that the Duke of Connaught will visit here in July and will make a stay of ten days in Newfoundland. We have known for some time that His Excellency the Governor and the Government have been doing their best to induce His Royal Highness to pay us a visit, and we are pleased to find that their efforts have met with success. Newfoundland will give a right royal welcome to the Duke as a member of the Royal Family, as a son of Victoria the Good, a brother of Edward the Peacemaker, and an uncle of His Majesty the King. Newfoundland will also welcome him as one who has played his part well in the high offices he has held in the realm. She will not forget his services to the Empire as a distinguished officer at present as the Pro-Consul of one of the Great States of the Empire, the one which is nearest to us, and which has shown spontaneously her goodwill in the subscriptions, governmental, municipal and personal, to aid those whose distress is great from the effects of the two great disasters which fell on our seafarers at the ice this spring. We have no doubt that adequate preparations will be made to show Newfoundland to His Royal Highness in a way worthy of her.

Supreme Court.

Kinsella vs. Hickey.
This is an appeal from the decision of the magistrate as to the setting of a cod-net at Outer Cove. The appellant, Kinsella, to keep a berth had set his salmon-net by placing it five or six fathoms below water, but not on the bottom. The respondent, Hickey, set his within fifty yards of Kinsella's. Rule 49 of the Rules and Regulations respecting the Fisheries of Newfoundland, reads: "No person shall set on any of the fishing grounds of this Colony or its dependencies any cod-net or salmon-net at a less distance than fifty fathoms from any other cod-net or salmon-net previously set." Judge Knight in the magistrate's Court held that Kinsella's net was not "set" within the meaning of the Rule and dismissed the complaint. Kinsella appealed against the judgment. L. E. Emerson appeared for the appellant. M. F. Summers for the respondent. Court took time to decide.

(Before the Full Bench.)
Job Bros. and Co., Ltd., vs. John D. McMartin, Duncan McMartin, Robert Reid and Daniel Ford.

The hearing of this suit was resumed at 3 p.m. yesterday. Mr. Howley intimated that he would not cross-examine Mr. Paulding as he had not sufficient data upon which to base such cross-examination, and would not have until the papers arrived by an incoming mail.

Mr. Furlong, K.C., then called Mr. J. J. McGrath, notary, to prove the presentment of note for payment. Mr. Howley objected. The court overruled the objection.

Mr. T. D. Carman was then called and examined by Mr. Furlong, K.C. "I am accountant at the Bank of Montreal. This note has been in our custody, but I cannot say how long. We discounted it for Job's.

Cross-examined by Mr. Howley, K.C.—The Bank owns and holds the note. It was discounted for Job's by the Bank. It has not been paid. I cannot say when it was discounted.

Mr. Howley asked that the record of the Bank be produced and the transaction shown. The Court ordered the witness to return this morning with the data required.

The Court then adjourned until 11 a.m. to-day.

TUESDAY MORNING.

Mr. Carman.—To Mr. Furlong, K.C. The note was discounted on Nov. 18, 1912. It was not paid by the maker. After maturity of the note continued to hold it until Oct. 31st, 1913. Then Job Bros. own note was taken in its place and since that time the note has been held simply as collateral.

Mr. Furlong, K.C., asks that the Bank of Montreal be joined as plaintiffs to that Mr. R. H. Reid put me to work on building when I met McMartin. Mr. Reid knew me 16 to 18 years. Mr. Reid put me in touch with J. McMartin in March, 1912. I ceased superintending for John McMartin. I mean 1913. I was outside superintending. I received orders from Mr. Reid, who had charge of the work. I met McMartin 15 or 20 times during this period. I met Mr. Reid every day. Mr. Reid paid me and settled my wages and my duties. I did no office work. McMartin had an office in New York of four compartments. Mr. Reid gave orders and paid money on construction work. I do not know if there was any other business transactions except construction work. On one occasion I had to do with McMartin after business hours. This was in December, 1912. This was the only occasion I remember. I remember in March, 1913, Mr. Erskine and I had an argument as to my powers. Mr. Reid was out of the room. Mr. Erskine's stenographer, Miss Hunt, was present. I told him he would receive telegraphic instruction from J. McMartin as to my authority. I don't remember having any conversation as to my relations with Reid. I don't know where Reid is now. I saw him last four or five weeks ago. I left New York by the Florizel on May 8th I was in New York a month before that. I saw Reid in New York three or four weeks before I left. I had a telegram and a letter since I saw him last. I received the letter in New York in May from Montreal. I understood he was to come to give evidence in this case. After leaving McMartin I kept up my friendly relations with Reid. I met Mr. Reid and Mr. McMartin at the Belmont Hotel about 12:15 on Oct. 20th or 21st, 1912. Mr. Reid was going away to Halifax. I did not consult about work. He stated he was going to Halifax. It was desirable I should know his whereabouts. I met him in the lobby. Mr. J. McMartin and Mr. Massey were there. Mr. Reid told me a month ago it was Mr. Massey. We were talking about the evidence in this case. We discussed the note. We discussed the names on the note. I never discussed it with Mr. McMartin. I discussed it with Mr. Paulding. I don't remember discussing it with Mr. Reid and Mr. Paulding together. They were great friends. Mr. Reid asked Mr. McMartin if he had the note. Mr. McMartin said he had. Mr. McMartin looked at a note. Mr. McMartin handed the note to Mr. Reid. It was not folded. It was open. I was about two feet away. I saw the note was for $100,000. I saw three names on it. It was the largest note I had ever seen.

Mr. Paulding.—Cross-examined by Mr. Howley, K.C.—I entered the employment of J. McMartin Dec. 1911, left April, 1912. Did not know him previous to that. Mr. R. H. Reid put me to work on building when I met McMartin. Mr. Reid knew me 16 to 18 years. Mr. Reid put me in touch with J. McMartin in March, 1912. I ceased superintending for John McMartin. I mean 1913. TRAIN ACCIDENT.

CAR TURNED TURTLE—PASSENGER INJURED.
A train accident occurred near Come Bay on Sunday and one passenger, Mr. Joseph L. Ross, our veteran farmer and cattle dealer, who was coming home from Nova Scotia with a cargo of cattle that he had purchased, was injured. On Sunday afternoon, between three and four o'clock, when the east bound freight train was passing the place mentioned above, the caboose, which is the rear car of a freight train and which is used for the train hands to house in, left the rails, the car turning bottom up. Mr. Ross, the only person in the caboose at the time of the incident, was knocked about violently, sustaining three broken ribs and was otherwise badly injured. He was rescued later by the train hands and had to be taken out of the disabled car through a window and brought on board the east bound express, which stopped at the scene of the accident. Mr. Ross arrived in the city last night in a very weak condition and had to be tenderly lifted in a carriage and driven to his home near Quidi Vidi Lake. This morning he was attended by Dr. Macpherson. Mr. Ross received a severe shaking up internally. A man of advanced years and though of robust physique, it is thought that the accident will materially affect his old-time vigour.

Within an Inch of Death.

By Colonel "Buffalo" Jones, the Famous Big Game Hunter and Scout.

Colonel "Buffalo" Jones is a new kind of big-game hunter. Instead of shooting the animals he captures them alive with a lasso. Lions, rhinos, hippos, leopards, and panthers have all been caught in this manner, and he is now embarking on an expedition to the French Congo to obtain gorillas by the same method.

In my experience, lions are the most dangerous animals to hunt. They are after you like a flash, and unless you are well mounted they'll get you. If you have a gun, of course the lion stands no chance; but, personally, I don't approve of taking life. On my last expedition we released many of the animals after we had roped them. What's the use of killing them? If everybody were to kill, there would be no wild animals left for posterity. Once you have roped a lion he is at your mercy. You could pull him to pieces if you wished.

Lions and Rhinos.

One of the lions we captured last trip was pretty wild when we first saw him, but he soon realized that we meant to get him, and before the rope was actually round him he was almost begging like a cat. He hid in the long grass, scared out of his wits. We threw the rope round his head first, but it is a peculiarity of lions that their heads are smaller than their necks, and the rope came off. Or it may have been that he swelled the muscles of his neck and jerked the rope off. We got him round the neck again, and the same thing happened. Then, as I said, he knew we were determined to have him, and he hid in the grass under a hillock. I dropped down on top of the hillock and threw the lasso round one of his feet.

Rhinos are tough creatures to catch. They possess such enormous strength. One I caught weighed about 6,000 lb. When you've caught a rhino you can hardly do anything with him. Strain your horse as much as you will, you can't make Mr. Rhino budge an inch.

We catch rhinos in a different way from other animals. Instead of chasing them you must let them come after you. A rhino will bolt away right enough, but directly he finds his pursuers drawing uncomfortably near, he jumps in the air and charges back. It is a close call then, unless the hunter's horse is nippy.

Braver than their Husbands.

My practice is to let the rhino chase me, and, at the right moment, when one of his thundering hoofs is off the ground, I throw the lasso behind me and catch him round the hoof. Mind you, I've been handling a lasso for fifty years.

When I said that lions were most dangerous just now I meant the female of the species. Lionesses are more plucky and more vindictive than their husbands. If you kill or wound a lion, his wife promptly comes on your track and tries for vengeance. But should you injure a lioness you need not expect trouble from her hubby. He will be only too ready to slink away lest a similar fate befalls him. At the headquarters of our last expedition nineteen deaths were attributable to lionesses, and four to lions. These figures speak for themselves.

I have had some close calls in my time, many of them, I suppose, but I forget them. One of the nearest was when a buffalo had me at his mercy on the ground. He would have tossed me up in the air and put fins to my career, or he might have done it by stamping on me, if I hadn't had the presence of mind to lie perfectly still and pretend to be dead. He sniffed at me, walked round me and then ambled off. I have saved my skin several times by shamming death. A wild animal prefers to tackle something alive. If it has a hunter on the ground, and he doesn't move, and other people in the vicinity are moving, it will leave the prostrate body and attack the moving object. I don't know if lying perfectly rigid would save you if you happened to be alone with a lion. I have never tried it!

Hunting for Gorillas.

It is this preference for animation on the wild animals' part that permits a cinematographer to take pictures in the jungle. The camera man is rigid, all around him native boys and hunters move and make a noise. Naturally the animal goes after one of them and permits the photographer to get the cinema films in comparative peace.

A cinematographer accompanies us on this new expedition, and, besides operating a camera, he will work a graphophone in order to get voice records of a gorilla. A gorilla's roar is far louder than that of a lion, and he is harder to catch. A fully-grown gorilla has never been seen alive in captivity, though young ones have been brought to civilization. I don't know how we shall hunt them; perhaps climb trees. Other wild animals defend themselves with teeth, tusks, or claws, but the gorilla arms himself with a club. We are taking twenty "nigger dogs"—bloodhounds from New Mexico—to put us on the scent of the gorillas, who raid the villages at night, looking for bananas. Once our dogs get their smell we shall be up to them in half an hour.

Billy the Kid.

You want to hear some of my American adventures? Well, I have had plenty. A cautious headpiece has saved me from being snuffed out many times when Indian fighting on the plains. I can remember the days when the redskins hated us white men, because they said we interfered with their cattle. Perhaps we did! Once when I was busily skinning a buffalo I had just killed, and happening to look under my arm, I saw an Indian preparing to cover me with his rifle. Had I made the slightest sign that I was conscious of danger he would have put paid to my account right away, for my rifle was lying on the other side of the dead animal. I walked around the carcass as if continuing the skinning operation, then grabbed my gun and had the drop on the redskin before he could wink. Perhaps this doesn't seem very exciting to read, but it was a near moment for me. Anyway, I was everlastingly getting into trouble with Indians.

Now, here is something that really will interest you. I am the only man alive who ever held the drop on Billy the Kid. Probably you have never heard of this young fellow, but he was the most outrageous bad man who ever lived in the West. He didn't care a scrap for human life, and when killed at twenty-two years of age had altogether slaughtered twenty-three men. I have never seen a more handsome chap. Tall, perfectly shaped, with a complexion that a beauty queen would envy, it seemed incredible that he could have committed the cold-blooded shootings he did.

His One Last Wish.

As a deputy-sheriff I went after him with the sheriff and another deputy. We captured him, and with me pressing a revolver muzzle right against his heart we marched him to the blacksmith's shanty to have some temporary irons put on his wrists. As the smith fitted on the irons, he said, "Are they tight, Billy?" "They'll cut my wrists to pieces," answered the desperado. "Never mind," said the sheriff, "fasten them up." Billy the Kid flushed crimson, and blue veins stood out on his forehead. He changed from an angel to a devil, but he didn't start anything, for my gun was against his shirt.

We got him to the rough prison safely, and he was tried and sentenced to be hanged. The morning of the execution he broke down and cried like a child. When a deputy came he found him with his head in his arms rocking in anguish. "I have got one last wish," he said. "Let me drink a cup of coffee like a free man before I die. And don't let my mother know that I died in irons."

Where His Sweetheart Lived.

Billy had strong regulation handcuffs on his wrists and shackles on his legs, whilst the deputy held two loaded revolvers. He was touched by the outlaw's pleading, and, as there seemed no risk, unlocked one of the cuffs. This was just what the handsome young scoundrel had schemed for.

"Did the sheriff come home last night?" he inquired. The sheriff's house was directly opposite the prison, and the deputy turned his head to see if any smoke was coming from the chimney, in order to answer the outlaw's question. Quick as thought Billy the Kid had raised his manacled wrists and brought them down on the unsuspecting deputy's head. He dropped like a stone.

Billy then picked up his two guns and deliberately shot him dead. Hearing the reports, the sheriff and the deputy who had assisted in Billy's capture came running across to the prison. They thus played into the outlaw's hands for he shot them as they ran.

His next move was to visit the blacksmith and force him at the revolver's point, to break his shackles. He acquired a horse by the same determined means, and then made for a wild part of New Mexico, where his sweetheart lived. If I had been in the vicinity when he broke loose he would have got me for sure, for it was one of his boasts that he had killed every man who had held a gun up to him.

Ultimately he was shot dead by a Santa Fe railway detective, who obtained special leave and tracked him down. The detective was himself shot dead shortly afterwards, so I am the only man alive who has held the drop on Billy the Kid.

PURITY

"More Bread and Better Bread" and "Better Pastry Too."

So that you may use less flour, we do what a home cook would do if she were in our place.

From every shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

We find that some samples make more bread and better bread than others. So we keep the shipment from which the more and better bread comes. The others we sell.

You save money by using FLOUR that bears this name. And you get better bread.

Divorced Life

Helen Hassong Fuesle

The Girl Who Wasn't Lonely

The engine coughed impatiently as it paused to let a solitary passenger off the train at the village where Ann Stewart had her studio.

"Greetings!" cried Ann, running up to welcome the traveller. "So glad you came," she added with the warm cordiality of an old friendship.

The two gazed into each other's faces, each with the instinctive attempt to read the record made by the elapsed years since they had met.

Marian looked up into a pair of kind eyes, set in the fascinating face of her class-mate, glowing with the coloring of good health and capital spirits.

She had known hard work during the passing years. Her struggle for artistic expression was still exacting its hardships. Almost daily she had lugged her painter's traps for miles across country in search of subjects.

In quest of certain moods of nature, also, she had done her kitchen work, along with chores about the house. She had known the pinch of lean years. Even yet she had not won her way out of the wilderness into safe recognition. Now and then, however, she had managed to sell a picture, renewing the fires of her ambition, giving her the incentive to fight on.

"This is beautiful," exclaimed Marian, as they proceeded up the silent, snowy village street of unpretentious cottage homes. The glimmering rays of oil lamps came warmly from some of the windows.

The soft, curling smoky of kitchen fires, rising from chimneys, was visible through the gathering dusk. The city's glare and turmoil seemed a thousand miles away.

"It's a good place to work," answered Ann. "There's a wonderful piece of woods off here to the north that only needs a group of masters to make it as famous as the Forest of Fontainebleau. Corot would have raved over it at dawn and twilight."

"But don't you get most awfully lonely!" broke in the woman from the city.

"Heavens no! Not while I have my work. That's why I'm here. The loneliest I've been for a long time was the two weeks I spent in New York last winter. I was dragged around to teas, and dances, and theatres, and exhibits so much that I didn't get a chance to touch a brush. I tell you it felt good to get back here to the work-shop. Wait until you see it. It's the cutest little place!"

"I'm crazy to see a place in which someone doesn't get lonely," replied Marian wistfully. She was thinking of miserable hours she had spent during the past three months in her dwarfish room at the boarding house, hours of consuming loneliness, of regrets for the past, of forebodings for the future.

"We'll have a great time," rejoined the artist cheerfully. "I'm going to try to help you forget your troubles."

"Greetings!" cried Ann with the warm cordiality of an old friendship.

Clears The Head, Opens The Nostrils Stops Sneezing, Cures Catarrh.

You Get Instant Relief by Inhaling the Soothing Vapor "Catarrhazone."

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhazone the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhazone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Its antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old—everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhazone."

T. W. O'NEILL'S TREATMENT GUARANTEED TO CURE. PRICE $1.00; small size 50c.; trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The little accident to the dock machinery last week has been repaired and everything is now going along with a swing again.

Dr. Parsons arrived from St. John's on Saturday night with his new motor car. The car is a very fine one, and the doctor will now be enabled to get around to his many patients at a very quick rate.

A few herrings were on sale this morning. They were brought from Bristol's Hope.

Mr. Thomas Carroll, locally known as the handkerchief king, is holding entertainments in different parts of this and other bays, having in view the laudable object of placing a suitable monument in some public place here to the memory of the brave fellows who lost their lives in the sealing disasters this spring. Mr. Carroll's thoughtfulness and generosity is very much appreciated by our people. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll spent the winter at Bristol's Hope, with Mr. C's parents, and will shortly leave for New York where he will remain some time. All his friends will wish him success.

Coal is now a scarce article here, and cannot be purchased for any money. However, Mr. Morison, the manager of the Coal Co., tells us that we will soon have a full stock again. Quite true, stocks of coal, but we'll want stacks of money to purchase it.

Bell Island C.L.B.

Will Hold First Parade Empire Day. The new Company of the Church Lads Brigade which was recently launched at Bell Island and which is a branch of Avalon Battalion, will hold their initial parade on Monday next, Empire Day. The Battalion's brass band will take part in the ceremony and are now preparing special music for the occasion. The officers from the city will proceed to the island on Saturday to witness the event.

Spicy conversation should be handled gingerly.

St. John's, May 19th, 1914.

Founded 1776

A remarkable and possibly not generally known fact is that one department of Robin, Jones & Whitman's business has been in successful operation for over one hundred and thirty-eight years—having been inaugurated by Charles Robin when he established his first fishing and trading post at Paspébiac on the Gaspe Coast of Quebec in the year 1776.

After many years of steady growth and various amalgamations with kindred concerns, this humble Paspébiac business of Charles Robin's has developed into the great fishery house of Robin, Jones & Whitman, Ltd., with activities extending throughout the Maritime Provinces, and transacting a large export trade to Brazil, to the West Indies, and to the European markets. An interesting review of this great industry and its last year's record may be had on application.

St. Dunstan. PICHTE born 1762. Professor of Philosophy, first at Jena and then at Erlangen and later Rector of the University of Berlin. His works had great influence upon the thought of his time, the idealist philosophy he taught being marked by much purity of conception. His chief works are "The Destination of Man," and "The Way to the Blessed Life."

GLADSTONE died 1898, aged 89. The Grand Old Man, the most prominent English statesman of the latter part of the 19th century. He first entered Parliament as a Tory member, but later his political opinion changed and he became the famous leader of the Liberal Party. He has left behind him a great reputation as a writer, especially on Homeric studies and theological subjects.

"Fichte struggles forward in the sunshine of pure thought which sectarianism cannot see, because it weakened vision is already filled with a borrowed and imperfect light."

Cable News.

SANDWICH, May 18. Travers, the amateur champion of the States, was eliminated in the first round for a British Amateur Championship. It was Palmer Handward defeated him by two up.

LONDON, May 18. Suffragettes burned the Grand Stand and other buildings at Birmingham race course yesterday. Admiral Sir Charles Drury is dead. U. S. Consul General John Griffiths died suddenly of heart disease.

Great Two-Reel Picture and Big Act.

There is a splendid show at Rossley's. Last night there was a big house, and all enjoyed the show. The theatre rapidly filled after the closing of the stores. The Rossleys, Jack and Marie, assisted by Orth and Burkhardt, Bonnie Rossley and the eight Sunshine Girls, the pick of the pantomime, presented a dandy act, for which they received many encores. Mrs. Rossley, in a handsome costume received a big round of applause on her entrance; Bonnie Rossley also wore a gorgeous costume as did the clever eight. M. Handford, in a beautiful man-o-war suit made a dashing boy and with Clara Squires put on a new song and dance, in great style. The feature picture "A Human Target" in two reels, is one of the most intensely thrilling pictures ever witnessed in St. John's. It is a capital show all round.

Starting Business.

Mr. R. J. Rendell has taken over the business conducted hitherto by Mr. F. Sonerton. At one time Mr. Rendell was a Church of England teacher and taught in Trinity and Catalina. Nine years ago he left the teaching profession and became a book-keeper at Ryan's, Bonavista, which position he held until he took over this business at Catalina. He is now in the city, staying at the Crosbie, and purchasing supplies for the summer business. We wish him every success in his new venture.

Successful Native.

Mr. F. G. Bradley, LL.B.

We are glad to record the fact that Mr. Frederick Gordon Bradley, of this city, recently graduated at Dalhousie University, Halifax, obtaining the degree of LL.B. after a brilliant course of study there. During his residence there he passed the full course of twenty examinations, and obtained First Class Honours in seventeen of the Exams and in the remaining three won Second Class Honours—no mean record. In the 1912 Examination he obtained 100 per cent for his papers on "Contracts," a result which elicited from Judge Russell (the examiner) a very warm tribute of praise. His fellow-students elected him to be Secretary, and then Treasurer of the Law Library, and last year made him President of their Law Society, all tangible evidence of their confidence in him and his ability.

At the annual dinner of the Alumni of Dalhousie this year when past and present Dalhousians united in paying a parting tribute of regard to Dean Weldon on his retirement after 31 years service as Dean of the Law College, it fell to Mr. Bradley's lot as President, to make one of the presentations to the Dean from his fellow students. This he did, we are informed, with marked grace and ability.

Dalhousie is doing its work as a University so thoroughly, that it is under the necessity of finding more room to accommodate the growing number of its students and professors. The law students there have pledged themselves to raise $80,000 as their share of the work, for a Students' Hall. Others will add other buildings. Mr. Bradley has been acting (by request) as Business Manager of the Students' Dramatic Club which was formed for that purpose. They have been touring the Provinces recently on that mission, and will resume it a few months later.

Mr. Bradley obtained his education at the Methodist College and the School of Art of our city, winning many distinctions at each. Prior to taking up the law, he spent three successful years as Principal of the large Methodist Superior School at Bonavista. Since then he has been articled to J. M. Kent, Esq., K.C., here. We understand Mr. Bradley will shortly present himself for his Final Examination before our local Law Society and hopes to gain admission to the Bar.

We heartily congratulate Mr. N. Bradley on the marked success of his son, and trust he will in every way prove a credit to his Alma Mater.

Big Pictures.

The House of Features can certainly lay claim to its name as the programme last evening ranks with the best ever seen in St. John's. The special picture was "The Struggle," a very pathetic two-part story. The Old Kent Road, featuring Maurice Costello, Van Dyke, Brooke and other stars was a feature in itself. Pearl White in the roaring comedy "Willie's Great Scheme" created no end of amusement, as did also the very humorous sketch, "The Turkish Rug." The song "When Old Folks were Young Folks," as rendered by the vocalist Mr. Earnshaw, was very good and the instrumental programme by Misses Arkandy and Bradley, added greatly to the performance. To-day the same programme is repeated and on Wednesday and Thursday a scoop will be recorded for the Crescent when the great display of pictures promised will be exhibited. See tomorrow's papers.

Scarcity of Fish.

Owing to lack of bait, the local fishermen have yet been unable to secure any codfish. At this date last year codfish could be purchased daily in the local market, and salmon were also fairly plentiful. Several salmon nets have been set at the outlying places, but so far only one small fish has been secured.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office,—its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—3277.

Grand Falls Road Board.
For several days notices have been displayed at various points in the town, that a public meeting would be held for the purpose of electing a Local Road Board for Grand Falls. On Thursday, the 14th inst., this meeting was convened, in the Town Hall, by Magistrate Fitzgerald, who, in a few clear and concise explanations stated the object of the meeting, and the method of procedure. Proceeding to business, he asked for a chairman to be appointed to preside over the meeting, and Mr. V. S. Jones was proposed. He, however, made another proposition that Mr. Fitzgerald should retain the chair, which was carried. Mr. D. A. O'Flynn was appointed Secretary, and after a few pertinent questions were put and answered, the nomination of candidates began. There were twelve nominated, and of these the five elected were: Messrs. Josiah Goodyear, John Lambert, Patrick F. Dwyer, Wm. R. Down, and Fred W. Lake, and the result seems to be generally most popular. These gentlemen possess the respect of the people of Grand Falls, and some of them have had very extensive experience previously in matters of this kind. The public took considerable interest and quite evidently did not shirk their civic responsibilities, and all feel sure that the newly elected Board will amply justify the confidence placed in them. At a meeting of the Board held on Friday, the 15th, Mr. Goodyear was made chairman. The consensus of opinion is that no more suitable choice could be made. Mr. Goodyear has had experience extending over many years, and is a man of practical knowledge and the highest integrity; in the fulfilment of his new duties he will have the co-operation of all. —O.F.

ZAM-BUK
MRS. A. SAICH, of Canington Manor, Sask., Writes: "My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."
This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing powers of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.

Clyde Reaches Lewisporte.
The s.s. Clyde, Capt. Job Kneec, arrived at Lewisporte yesterday after a fine day's run from this port, being delayed by the ice conditions. The following message was received by the Reid Co. from Capt. Kneec yesterday afternoon: "Arrived at Lewisporte at 2.20 p.m. The only way to get here was to go around Hornet Island and up through Birchy Island tinkle, a route the Clyde never passed through before. From Round Head of Foxe, as far as the eye can see, there is a solid jam of ice, but loose close to the shore on Saturday. No chance of getting to Botwood. Think we will be able to do our work if the weather continues as it is. Landed all freight and passengers."

Grim Visaged War.
Our Uncle Sam despises strife, a little though he knows no fear; he likes the calm and peaceful life, with happy faces near. He'd rather suffer for a while and hold his anger down, than change his double-leaded smile for grim and war-like frown. And so some foolish nations think that they can rub it in, and twist his nose till it is pink, and kick his starboard shin. He's slow to anger, so he is, but mighty in his wrath, and when he does get down to biz you see him mow a swath. And when he sheds his vest and coat, and mixes in a spat, remarking, "I will get the goat of those who kicked my hat," we all stand up for Uncle Sam, our hats on high are tossed, we do not care a tinker's jam how much the scrap may cost. Before the fun begins to fly we argue and debate, and roast the government sky high, and kick up ructions great; but when our Uncle Sammy plans an enemy to scrag, we all are good Americans who love the starry flag. We hate a scrap, but when it comes, we kiss our weapons, grind up our swords and beat the drums, and fairly burst our hemes.

Makes Hair Grow
The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.
If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.
The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.
It destroys the dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

Football Notes.
There appears to be new interest taken in football and a lively series of matches will be witnessed on St. George's Field this year. Every morning and evening the teams are practicing hard. The favorites so far are the St. Andrew's who have a particularly strong aggregation, and it is alleged, will make a solid bid for the championship. No doubt football enthusiasts generally are glad to see a revival of the game and will be equally glad to see the "Salts" amongst the close runners up.

Costly Laughter.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market," says Charles Lamb.

Much as I love that gentle philosopher, I register a protest to-day against such a sweeping statement.

There is a time to laugh, but there is also a time to weep. There are good laughs, but there are also bad laughs. There are laughs that are worth a hundred groans, and there are laughs that had far better have been groans.

A laugh may be one of the wickedest things in the world.

The other day I happened to be standing in front of a half built house when one of the carpenters, a rather downcast looking lad, arrived at his work. He was evidently late, for the others had already taken up their tools. But all work was suspended at his arrival, and he was greeted with hilarious comments and hearty laughter by his fellow workmen. "Feel better this morning, Charlie," said one. "Did you put your head under the pump," asked another. "You certainly had a beautiful load on yesterday," called a third.

The downcast look which Charlie had worn at first gradually changed to a sheepish grin under the banter. That in turn gave place to a half defiant, half pleased with himself air. And when my car finally came along he was giving back their chaff with a swaggering appearance that showed he was no longer ashamed of himself, and telling with evident pride how he took off his boots to keep from waking his family.

Tell me, reader friends, was the laughter that caused that change good or bad.

In Shakespeare's day insanity was regarded as intensely humorous. That seems almost incomprehensible to us, and yet we laugh at drunkenness!

There are many opinions about prohibition and total abstinence. But it doesn't seem to me there can be two opinions about the folly, the lack of self-respect, the bestiality which a man shows when he lets the control of his faculties slip away from him through drink.

Disgust, pity, grief—these are the emotions that should be aroused by such a state, not amusement.

Other vices are too often regarded as subjects of laughter by thoughtless people. Many a boy who might have been revolted from his own follies if his companions had shown disgust at him, has been led on and on by their chaffing and laughter and thought himself smart and manly when he was only vulgar and wicked.

Again, the laughter we give to wicked and cruel wit is a wicked laugh. We share the cruelty and encourage the fault of the jester. I used to know a brilliant and beautiful girl with a keen wit which she sometimes used in a cruel way. I have frequently heard the very people who laughed most heartily at her criticize her behind her back. They had no right to. Their laughter was as cruel as her wit.

Now mind, I'm not deprecating the right kind of laughter. No one knows its better value than I. But there are plenty of healthy, harmless things to laugh at. We can laugh a hundred times a day and hurt nobody. So be careful what you laugh at. Remember a laugh cost too much if it is bought at the expense of unkind fun or making light of something serious.

Paragoric.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Paragoric is a substitute for brains, patience and exertion, which is used with great success by thousands of parents who are not enthusiastic about the fact.

That is—the use of paragoric is a great success as far as the parents go. It gives them more peace and quiet. It is not so successful from the baby's standpoint. Many a baby has been given paragoric instead of medical attention and discipline until it has contracted the habit of not waking up at all. Shortly after this the undertaker arrives and great sympathy is expressed by all hands for the bereaved father and mother—whereas they should really be congratulated. They have gotten their chief desire—peace and more sleep.

Paragoric, however, is also very useful when applied to adults. Only in this case it is not poured out of a bottle into a spoon. When a minority stockholder becomes very much disturbed and howls until the directors of the company cannot sleep nights he is often given paragoric in the shape of a check for his stock at ten points more than the market price. This has a marvelous effect upon him. He cannot be heard with the keenest ears after he has had his dose. When a politician has been neglected by his party he often organizes a league of terrified patriots and heads an insurrection against the bosses. For several weeks he charges up and down the street shouting so loud that the central committee could not hear itself think even if it wanted to think. In this case the patient is usually given a dose of oil. It is wonderful how effective oil is in a case of this kind. Appointing a man oil inspector for ninety days has often put him to sleep so effectively that he has not waked up enough to kick again for several years.

Paragoric is often used upon the voter too, with great success. A slight education of taxes often causes him to close his tired eyes and remain oblivious for years to the need of better sewers, pavements and morals in his cities.

Altogether paragoric is a great cure. It should be wiped out in the interest of better babies and better business and better politics.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly.

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how your fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G. C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along with out Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throat, coughs, ear-ache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

Well, H a n s, doggone your big Dutch soul, I see you still swing Spalding's pole and waddle round at short. For ten or twelve past seasons now we've read a lot o' bunk 'bout how you planned to quit the sport. But ev'ry year along in May, those Pittsburg fans sit back an' say: "He's good for ten years yet." You're some ways from the picklin' vat, an' though ten years is long, at that it's not so worse a bet.

You're not exactly what I'd call Apollo's rival, not at all—on beauty you fall shy. But then the way you are is best—big shoulders, half-acre chest, an' one swell battin' eye. Your ol' right whip has got the juice—a pretty one would be no use to head a runner off. Your gun-boat feet may weigh five pound, but they sure can get over ground, so let the scuffers scoff.

I'm glad your fish commission job ain't one where Ponsy'd have to rob us of our baseball star. The fish can get along O.K., but how about the Pirates? They need you right where you are. We want to see you on the bill a few years more to swat the pill—we like your dazillin' pegs. So, Hans, you'd better stick around. A sub for you ain't easy found, doggone your ol' bow legs.

When I Am Gone.

When I am dead, if men can say, "He helped the world upon its way, With all his faults of word and deed, Mankind did have some little need Of what he gave,"—then in my grave No greater honor shall I crave.

If they can say—if they but can—"He did his best; he played the man; His way was straight; his soul was clean.

His failings not unkind; nor mean; He loved his fellow-men and tried To help the,"—I'll be satisfied.

But when I'm gone, if even one Can weep because my life is done, And feel the world is something bare Because I am no longer there; Call me to blame, my life mis-spent—No matter, I shall be content.

Alas for him who never sees The stars shine through the cypress trees!

Who, helpless, lays his dead away, Nor looks to see the breaking day, Across the mournful marble play! Who hath not learned in hours of faith The truth to flesh and sense unknown; That life is ever lord of Death, And Love can never lose its own.

Little Brain Waves.

Towels and eggs can never be too fresh.

A man's popularity generally ends when he gets home. It's a wise barber who never illustrates his stories with cuts. Every man has his price, but some men give themselves away.

Even the woman who is looking for bargains doesn't want a cheap man. Among other things that it isn't safe to fool with are toy pistols and platonic love.

A critic is a person who is unable to do a thing in the way he knows it ought to be done.

Next to going to a matinee the most exciting thing for a girl is to think that the leading man looked at her.

The worst of being right is you always have to prove it. If you're wrong the other fellow will prove it for you.

What a Woman Can Do.—She can do more in a minute than a man can in an hour, and do it better.

Six of them can talk at once, and get along first-rate; and no two men can do that.

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while a man is getting one under his thumb-nail.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can come to a conclusion without the slightest trouble of reasoning on it; and no sane man can do that.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her, and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can walk half the night with a squalling baby in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She is as cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will sweat and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk as sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's heads before they had exchanged ten words.

She can—but what's the use? A woman can do anything or everything, and do it well.

Dear Sir,— I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March. I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I, therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.

Yours very truly, JOSEPH STEWART.
