A QUEEN UNCROWNED
— OR —
THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XXI.

"Well?"
"He did not succeed—would to God he had! even that would have been better than the fate that awaited him. Wilton, child as he was, when abducted, had a vague remembrance still of the far different life he had led; and though he lived the life of an Indian, he had not an Indian heart. The desire of escape was with him night and day, but he was carefully watched and guarded, and for a long time he opportunely occurred. In fact, he was ten years old before he was able to make his escape from the tribe."

"He did escape, then?"
"Yes—after perils and hardships unnumberable, he reached the nearest town, ignorant of his name, birthplace, and family; for the Indians had given him a new name, and a child of five soon forgets. His story made him friends, though, and one of them obtained him a situation as cabin-boy on board a man-of-war."

"Of course, none of your family knew all this at the time?"
"No, they knew nothing of him—nor does my father till this day; all this I have learned of late. Well, he grew up a sailor; rose to the rank of lieutenant in one of the United States ships-of-war, under the name of his first friend, which he had adopted—that of Scott."

"Well?" said Disbrowe, as she made a long pause.

"Oh! how shall I go on with the rest—how shall I speak of myself any my deed of madness. Oh, Alfred! I cannot tell you!" she wildly cried.

"Go on, Augusta, and fear not! I think I suspect what is to come."

"You do? what do you suspect?"

"That you somehow met this unknown brother of yours, and—"

"Well?" she whispered, hoarsely.

"And fell in love with him?"

"Oh, worse—worse—worse!"

thousandfold worse! Oh, Cousin Alfred, I—"

"Augusta!"

"Oh, Alfred! I married him!"

With a wild, shivering cry, she sank down, and lay white and shuddering, with her face in her hands. Disbrowe started, and an expression of horror came for a moment to his face; the next, he raised her up, and said, gently and tenderly:

"Augusta, tell me how it was, Augusta, dearest, do not tremble so dreadfully. Look up, and tell me all."

She took her white hands from her pallid tortured face, and spoke in a voice scarce above a whisper.

"I was visiting a friend, and went with her to a ball on board his ship; I met him there—we loved each other, and—oh, my God! you know the rest!"

"You married him secretly?"

"Yes, I knew my father never would consent, on account of his poverty and low birth, and most of all, for his being a rebel against the king. He loved me passionately, and I—I—was mad, delicious, and consented to a private marriage. Oh, Alfred—Alfred! was there ever guilt like to mine?"

"My dear Augusta—my poor Augusta, you are not guilty—you did not know. Go on, let me hear all."

"I thought our marriage was unknown; but it was not; a son of Grizale Howlet—oh! why was all belonging to that wretched woman destined to be our evil destiny through life!—was in the church, and saw us and heard our names. The hour of our marriage we parted, he to return to sea, and I to go to Fontelle. Two months after, you came, and but for that, I might still be ignorant of my dreadful crime."

"But for me!" exclaimed Disbrowe, in amaze, "why, Augusta?"

"Even so, you remember your narrow escape from being murdered."

and how to save herself, it brought Grizale next day to the hall!"

"Yes—yes!"

"To save herself she told me what I have just told you, and I had wedded my own brother; and she threatened to make my guilt public, if I did not save her from the effects of my father's anger. The shock almost killed me. You have not forgotten that dreadful morning, nor how I pleaded for Grizale on my recovery, and obtained her freedom. Oh, Alfred, I would sooner have been burned at the stake than that my father should ever know."

"But, my dear Augusta, you are insane to believe a tale trumped up for the occasion by such a woman as this villainous old Grizale Howlet. It is in all probability false, every word of it."

"No—no! there is no such hope for me; her brother and the chief of the tribe still live to prove its truth, and to make assurance doubly sure, she told me to ask himself, and see if her story was not true."

"And did you?"

"Yes, he came a short time after your arrival, and wrote to appoint a meeting one night, and that night I met him for the last time."

Her voice choked, and she stopped. Disbrowe thought of the dark mulled figure he had seen with her that night at the north wing.

"I told him all; and, oh, Alfred, word for word it was true. He had been stolen in his infancy; he did remember old Tim perfectly, and he had escaped just as Grizale told me. Oh! that last dreadful parting! God grant I might ever forget it!"

"And this, then, is your secret, Augusta?"

"This is my secret—my dark, terrible secret—that is gnawing away my very heart—that in a few brief months will bring me to my grave. May God forgive us both, for we little thought of this!"

"And he—where is he, Augusta?"

"A wanderer over the wide world. We will never meet again."

She sank down once more on her seat, collapsed, prostrate, despairing. A bright gleam of moonlight broke through the quivering laurel leaves, and fell like the wing of some pitying angel on that despair-bowed young head.

CHAPTER XXII.

"Lord Austrey, my lord."

It was Mr. Norton—that respectable gentleman's gentleman—who spoke. Disbrowe, after his usual easy fashion, was lounging in his own room, chatting with Orrie but on hearing his friend's name announced, he sprang to his feet with a suddenness quite startling.

"Lord Austrey—when? how? where?"

"Whither—why—wherefore?" exclaimed the well-known voice of Lord Austrey, himself, as he unceremoniously entered. "I took the liberty of entering sans ceremonie, you see. Earncliffe, then, how goes it?"

"Austrey, my dear old fellow!" exclaimed Disbrowe, "welcome back! When did you come?"

"Two or three days ago. Hello! a young lady in the case! Why, Alf, what have you been about since I left?"

"Oh! this is a little Yankee friend of mine, Orriole De Vere—oh! she's gone! Well, Austrey, how has the world been using you lately?"

"Enchantingly—I'm a made man, Earncliffe, and the happiest fellow in England!"

"Ah, indeed! when am I to offer my congratulations?"

"As soon as you like—the honeymoon's over."

"What!" cried Disbrowe, starting to his feet, "you don't mean to say—"

"My dear fellow, don't get excited! I do say it—nothing shorter. Lady Austrey awaits your congratulations in London."

"And you are really married?"

"Just so! Miss Norma Macdonald no longer exists, and from her grave has risen Lady George Austrey—the handsomest peeress in England! Sharp work, my boy, eh?"

"Puissez-vous être heureux!" said Disbrowe, as he laughingly shook his friend by the hand. "I wish you joy with all my heart. Where were you married?"

"At Rome, at the ambassador's, two months ago."

"And you have come home for good, and all, now?"

Political Observers Unable to Forecast the Result of To-Day's Election

U.S. Coastguard Official Accused of Queer Practices—France Recognizes Soviet Republic—MacDonald Worn Out by the Strenuous Campaign.

RESULT IMPOSSIBLE TO FORECAST.
LONDON, Oct. 28. The people of Great Britain will provide themselves to-morrow with their third parliament within two years. What kind of a parliament it will be after the votes of the nation are counted, no prominent politician or political observer has been audacious enough to predict publicly. That the Labor Government will go the way of all governments seems, however, to be the opinion held almost everywhere; but some of the Laborists still appear confident that their party will be given a mandate to remain in office. Whether the Conservatives can recoup their losses of a year ago and return to the House of Commons with a majority over all other parties and thereby put themselves into office without the assistance of others, is a question no one has any means of determining or even reasonably forecasting until the returns come in. The whole pre-election political situation has been made utterly uncertain by the eleventh hour bursting of the "Russian bomb shell" with an effect on the country that cannot be gauged at all. Until this Red letter gave the campaign orators a real life topic to talk about the electorate wore an apathetic air, and it was rather the general expectation that the three parties would return to Westminster in the same relative positions they held numerically when the last parliament's life ended—the Conservatives first, Labor second, and the Liberals third, with the Conservatives lacking a clean majority, but nobody can say with any confidence what the result will be. In any event what happens will not be due to apathy, unless the voters are entirely unaffected by screaming headlines and unperturbed by political speakers.

ELECTION RESULTS TO-NIGHT.
LONDON, Oct. 28. The results of voting in 224 constituencies will be known to-morrow night, or early on Thursday, and the great majority of the remainder will be known later on Thursday.

BETTING FAVOURS CONSERVATIVES.
LONDON, Oct. 28. The latest rates at Lloyd's in connection with the election indicate that the wind has veered considerably in the past few days in favor of the Conservatives. The odds yesterday at Lloyd's approximately were 7 to 2 against a clear Conservative majority and 9 to 1 against a Labor minority.

SOLD LIQUOR TO GET EVIDENCE.
BOSTON, Oct. 28. The sale of confiscated wine by a coastguard officer after the recent raid on the rum fleet off Cape Ann was admitted in a statement to-day by Lieut. Commander S. S. Yeandle, Aide to the chief of the coastguard service, who has been here observing the activities of the prohibition enforcement fleet. Lieut. Commander Yeandle said the wine was sold to obtain evidence against the purchasers. Two cases of champagne were sold. The cases of the alleged rum runners were presented to the Federal Grand Jury today. Two men are charged with violation of the provisions of the Tariff Act of 1922. In his statement Lieut. Commander Yeandle declared that the rum running interests, falling in attempts to place spies in the coastguard service, were attacking the character of the coastguard officers in order to undermine public confidence in the service. They are endeavoring to place spies in the service on sea and land, the statement said. Only last week four men tried to enlist in the coast guard but when the time came to take their finger prints they separated, leaving their clothing behind. When spies succeeded in getting in they try to corrupt members of the organization. Lieut. Commander Yeandle said that Ensign Conner, who was in command of the prize crew on board the Bachman, was an officer of the highest character and record. To charge this man with crookedness is a dastardly outrage, he said.

NO INFRINGEMENT ON FREE TRADE.
LONDON, Oct. 28. "I am going to keep my promise to the Dominions," declared Stanley Baldwin in a speech at York last night, "but that will be no infringement on Free Trade."

NOVA SCOTIA SCHEMERE WRECKED.
TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 28. A two masted schooner wrecked near Marco, on Caxambas Bar, during a storm, has been identified as the Adelaide D. of Weymouth, N.S., according to a telegram received to-day. She is said to be about 2 years old and was about 90 feet long. The crew has not been heard from and a coastguard cutter has been sent out to investigate.

LOEB SR. PASSES AWAY.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28. Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard Loeb Jr., who, with Nathan F. Leopold Jr., killed Robert Franks, in Chicago, last spring, died last night in Charlevoix, Michigan. His death occurred shortly after nine o'clock at the Loeb Farm. Mr. Loeb, who for many years had been Senior Vice-President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., had been in failing health since last spring when his son's crime was first made public. His health declined steadily and the spark of life expired last night. Mr. Loeb was 56 years of age.

ASQUITH'S SEAT DOUBTFUL.
LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Can. Press)—Mr. Asquith's seat in Paisley is regarded even by Liberals as in jeopardy in the present election. He has represented Paisley in the House of Commons since 1920 and was re-elected last year in a four-cornered contest in which there were two Labor candidates as well as a Conservative candidate. Labor is not divided as it was in 1923, and the Labor nominee, Rosalyn Mitchell, is expected to poll the full strength of the Labor vote. Mitchell dresses better than the average Labor candidate and wears spats and gaiters.

BODIES HANDED OVER TO RELATIVES.
DUBLIN, Oct. 28. The remains of 77 men, executed by the military authorities of the Free State in 1922 and 1923 were handed over to relatives to-day for burial in consecrated ground. The public funerals will take place to-morrow and Thursday. The first five handed over by the Government included the late Lieut. Commander Edwin Shillwell, whose remains were given to former Deputy Robert C. Barton, in whose home children's were captured. The coffins were carried in a procession through the streets to a hall where they will lie in state until to-morrow when they will be removed to the Churches for services prior to burial.

TWO STOWAWAYS DIE FROM COAL FUMES.
MONTREAL, Oct. 28. Two stowaways, one a Pole and the other a Czech-Slovakian, were found dead in the coal bunkers of the liner Melita here yesterday. Investigators believe the men succumbed to coal fumes. According to papers found in their pockets the stowaways were W. E. Kolup, aged 33, and Marc Kodnar, aged 35.

FRANCE GIVES DE JURE RECOGNITION TO RUSSIA.
PARIS, Oct. 28. The French Government to-day officially accorded De Jure recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia. The recognition was granted in a telegram, the text of which officially was made public this evening.

HAVE LOCATED TREASURE SHIP.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28. The Ward liner Merida, which sank off Virginia Capes in 1811, with a fortune in gold, silver and jewels aboard, has been located by trawlers and the work of salvaging the treasure will be started soon, it was learned yesterday.

AUTHOR OF NICK CARTER STORIES DYING.
PIQUE, Ohio, Oct. 28. Thomas Harbaugh, 75, known as the writer of the Nick Carter stories, is near death here, according to announcement of the Miami County Infirmary, where he has been living for the past year. Harbaugh, once wealthy, in recent years has been living in poor circumstances.

AUTHORS QUARREL.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28. A suit for $200,000 damages, alleging libel and slander of title, has been started in New York County Supreme Court, by Mrs. Blanche Barrymore, wife of John Barrymore, against Sophie Treadwell, author and playwright. Mrs. Barrymore, who writes under the pen name of Michael Strange, charged in her complaint that Miss Treadwell had maliciously caused to be published a statement declaring that Mrs. Barrymore's play, "The Dark Crown," based on the life of Edgar Allan Poe, was a copy and an imitation of Miss Treadwell's previous written play entitled "Poe."

THIRD GAS VICTIM.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28. The third victim of "looney gas" poisoning in the research laboratory of the Bayway N.J. plant of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, died here to-day in reconstruction hospital. He was William McSweeney, 37, of Elizabeth, N.J.

MACDONALD PROFESSES CONFIDENCE.
LONDON, Oct. 28. Premier MacDonald in his final appeal to the nation before voting to-morrow says, "at the end of the hardest fight I have ever known, signs of Labor victories are unmistakable."

ASSERT LETTER A FORGERY.
MOSCOW, Oct. 28. Alexis I. R. Ykoff, President of the Council of Commissioners, and G. S. Zinovief, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Third International, yesterday followed the Soviet Government's note to Great Britain, denying the authenticity of the Zinovief letter with indignant expressions, reiterating that the alleged international letter was a pure forgery.

MACDONALD WORN OUT.
ABERRAON, Wales, Oct. 28. The last few days of strenuous election campaigning have had such a fatiguing effect upon Prime Minister MacDonald that he was forced to-day to cancel his scheduled address before a political meeting of his constituents and to spend the afternoon in bed. Although suffering from influenza and fatigue, the Premier began a vigorous eve of election tour this morning, but was forced to go to bed after making one address.

SEVERAL FATALITIES IN DETROIT FIRE.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28. Three unidentified bodies were found last night in the ruins of five-story building which was destroyed by fire here late yesterday. Five persons were rescued from the window ledges by firemen and a search is being conducted for other victims.

TEMPERS HOTTER AS POLLING DAY APPROACHES.
LONDON, Oct. 28. To-day the last day of the election campaign is being devoted to intensified canvassing and torrents of speeches by all parties. Political tempers have been growing steadily hotter for the last few days and show no signs of cooling as polling day approaches. Several meetings last night were marked by violent disturbances, and police in some instances were called to prevent dangerous developments. The worst violence occurred outside a hall in Battersea where a furious blow aimed at the Conservative candidate, Viscount Curzon missed him, but failed a companion unconscious. The tyres were ripped from Lord Curzon's automobile and the lamps were smashed.

AN OPINION ON THE ONTARIO VOTE.
LONDON, Oct. 28. The Morning Advertiser, the official daily organ of licensed trade in Great Britain, in discussing the Ontario results of Thursday last on the liquor question cynically infers that the vote which showed a majority in favor of the Ontario Temperance Act, did not disclose a high test of intelligence. The dry vote was in fact a rural vote, it states, and since in a country like Canada cities are likely to be in advance or rural districts in education, intelligence, and knowledge of the world, the probability is that prohibition has been fixed upon the people of Ontario for another spell by the less intellectual classes of the population.

PREVENTION CRUISER CHARGED WITH LOOTING.
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 28. Charges that the prize crew from the United States coastguard cutter Tampa aboard the British schooner Marjorie E. Bachman, which was captured with seven speed boats on run row off Boston last Friday, sold two cases of champagne over the side to bootleggers and then arrested the buyers, and that 150 cases of liquor were transferred to the cutter, were made before United States Commissioner Storey here last night by attorney's representing Harry Rideha, the master of the schooner. Other charges were made alleging the prize crew had taken personal belongings of the Bachman crew and that $150 worth of canned goods had been removed by the coast guard men. Allegations were made that 300 cases were sold to bootleggers who were allowed to leave the schooner without molestation by the Federal officers.

Things a Voter Should Know

IF A MAJORITY ELECTORAL VOTE IS LACKING.

When the House chooses a President—if no candidate for President receives a majority of the electoral votes, the Constitution provides that from the three highest on the list of those voted for, the House or Representatives shall choose immediately the President by ballot. But in choosing the President the votes shall be taken by States, the Representatives from each State having one vote. A quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In the case of the Vice-President, if a majority of the Electoral College do not unite on a candidate, then from the two highest on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, a majority of the whole number being necessary for a choice. If no President is elected by either the Electoral College or the House before the expiration of the current Presidential term on the 4th of March following, and if a Vice-President should be elected by that time, as J. A. Woodburn notes in "The American Republic and Its Government," the Constitution provides that this Vice-President shall become the President until an election of a President is accomplished. If neither President nor Vice-President is elected by March 4, he tells us, the Constitution does not indicate who shall act as President, and nobody is vested with power to determine the question. There would be an interregnum, unless the existing President and Vice-President should resign before the close of their term, in which case, by the provisions of the Presidential Succession Bill, the Secretary of State would act as President until an election is made. The Constitution should provide, he adds, that "an existing President should hold office until his successor be elected."

What happened in 1800—A Presidential election has been referred to the vote of the House of Representatives on two occasions—in 1800, when Jefferson was first elected; and in 1824, when John Quincy Adams was elected. The contest in 1800 between Jefferson and Burr resulted in the adoption of the Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution. Before the adoption of this amendment, the Electors voted for two candidates for President. The candidate receiving the most votes was made President and the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes was made Vice-President. This election of 1800 is notable also for the fact that the members of the Electoral College voted by parties for the first time. Jefferson and Burr, writes R. H. Fuller in "Government by the People," each received seventy-three votes, the full strength of the Democratic-Republicans. Adams received sixty-five, the authority relates, and Pinckney sixty-four, one Federalist Elector voting for John Jay so that Adams might have one more vote than Pinckney and thus be entitled to the Presidency if the Federalists should win. The Democratic-Republicans had not taken this precaution, we are told, and therefore there was a tie vote between their two candidates, Jefferson and Burr to the Presidency, although they had intended to elect Burr to the Vice-Presidency. Because of this tie, the election was thrown into the House of Representatives, where, after thirty-six ballots, ten States voted for Jefferson and four for Burr.

What happened in 1824—In the Presidential campaign of 1824 Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams, Henry Clay, and William H. Crawford were candidates for President. John C. Calhoun was chosen Vice-President by the Electoral College, but none of the Presidential candidates had a majority of the electors, the vote being: Jackson, ninety-seven; Adams, eighty-four; Crawford, forty-one; and Clay, thirty-seven. The election of the President, R. H. Fuller notes, was therefore again thrown into the House of Representatives and Adams was elected by a majority of the States, receiving thirteen votes to seven for Jackson and four for Crawford. Clay had been dropped because he was not among the first three in the Electoral College.

According to Professor Woodburn, in the volume above mentioned, it was charged that a corrupt coalition had been made between Adams and Clay, Clay being fourth on the list of candidates, could not be voted for, and it was said that his influence resulted in the election of Adams. Professor Woodburn adds that Clay was afterwards made Secretary of State by Adams, which gave color to the charge, though "there was not a bargain, corrupt or otherwise, between the two men." But Jackson and his friends always felt that the people had been deprived of their choice, and this election is said to have increased the democratic movement for a direct popular choice of the Electors and for a more popular system of party nominations. By the time of Jackson's second election, in 1828, the representative party convention system was coming into use.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups and more economical. Ready and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Let four dry sugar, 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and serves easily 24. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

To Cross the Pacific Alone

"Alain Gerbault, the young Frenchman who last year crossed the Atlantic alone in the little boat, Firecrest, has left France en route for New York, whence he is to sail in October on a lonely voyage across the Pacific," says the Paris correspondent of the Telegraph.

"On this occasion Gerbault is crossing the Atlantic in the comfort of the ocean liner, Paris, his little vessel having remained laid up in New York since he completed his daring Atlantic trip in her. The next voyage of the Firecrest is to be a good deal longer than the last, and Gerbault anticipates being away for about three years. From New York he intends to cruise in the Caribbean Sea, then passing through the Panama Canal to cross the Pacific to Australia, calling en route at the Galapagos Islands, and Tahiti. On reaching the northern coast of Australia he will carry out a series of explorations there.

"As on his last adventurous voyage, Gerbault is to live with elementary simplicity on salt pork, paste, such as macaroni and rice, with water and tea as his only beverages. In addition to the equipment he carried when he sailed alone across the Atlantic,

Gerbault is taking on this next trip a machine-gun. He will also have aboard fishing tackle and a case of books, including the works of Rudyard Kipling, Joseph Conrad, Coleridge, and Tennyson. A collection of old newspapers containing chess problems will also be on board, for Gerbault found the solution of these problems an absorbing occupation during the last lonely trip. "I became quite an expert in chess," he said.

"He is full of enthusiasm about his plans, and has not the least fear of the long days and nights of absolute solitude on the face of the world's greatest ocean.

"He talks of the sea like a poet and a lover. "I was born at Dinard and went through the whole training of a sailor. To me the sea is a faithful companion whom I do not fear. Even when I sleep I am dreaming of the sea and hear the sound of its waves. I never feel alone when I am with the sea." Human companionship on the voyages of adventure would, he thinks, entirely spoil their finest features. Only a man who is alone with the sea learns her secrets, he says."

Dame Nature as Politician

"Will Conservatism in the future be the party of Science against Sentiment?" asks Dean Inge in the Morning Post. "I see no reason why it should not; and the party which has Dame Nature on its side will be proved right in the long run, either by the triumph of a nation which has followed the precepts of Science, or by the ruin of a nation which has disregarded them. In either case, the so-called Stupid Party will be justified of its children."

NFLD. ATHLETES RETURNING TO-MORROW.

Among the arrivals by the Silvia to-morrow morning will be Ronald O'Toole, the runner, who represented Newfoundland in the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail Marathon Race at Halifax on Saturday last, accompanied by his manager and trainer, Mr. John Bell. In view of the splendid showing made and for the great care and attention displayed by Mr. Bell, it is only fitting that the citizens of St. John's should congratulate at the pier to-morrow morning and give our athletes a right royal welcome home. They did their very best to bring the much coveted distinction to their native land, and they should not be forgotten.

LOCAL ATHLETE DOING WELL ABOARD.

Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., held their annual inter-faculty track meet last week, and amongst those who took part and shared in the honours of the day was Mr. David Johnston, the M.G.C.A. athlete. "Dave" won places in all the sprint events, and was presented with the colors as a member of the Queen's Track Team, at the close. Mr. Johnston, it will be remembered, took an active part in the local sports held here last summer. At the A.A.A. Sports he won the hurdle championship. We extend best wishes for his future success in the athletic arena.

NOTED TROTTER STALLION SOLD FOR LONG PRICE.

W. M. Wright, of Chicago, President of the Calumet Baking Powder Co., who, the past spring, bought from H. J. Schlesinger his splendid estate, Fairland, has bought from him the noted trotting stallion, Belwin, 2:06 3-4, to head his stud, at $50,000, which equals the figure paid by Stoughton on Fletcher for Peter the Great, 2:07 1-4, when the dead king was in his 20th year. Belwin is just now by far the best trotting stallion of his age. This year he has added 15 new 2:10 performers to his list, a feat never before accomplished by a horse of any age. Mr. Wright is the breeder of the world's champion trotter, Peter Manning, 1:56 3-4.

"PITY YE POOR ED.

It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; and unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this "Old Rag of Freedom" pony up before long, he will need bread without a damn thing on, and Wisconsin is no Garden of Eden in the winter time.—Melrose (Wisc.) POLISH WRESTLER BEAT STEINBACH.

Wladek Zyzsko won in Twenty. Three Hinges—Yadall Aiso Won. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Wladek Zyzsko, to-night defeated Henry Steinbach, in the feature match of the international elimination wrestling tournament, to decide the most likely challenger for the world's title, held by Ed. "Strangler" Lewis. Zyzsko, threw his opponent with a head lock in twenty-three minutes, twelve seconds.

Three matches on the opening night's programme resulted in draws.

They were between Nick Lutz, Notre Dame Coach of Harvard; and Andreas Castanos, a Spaniard, and Rigo Siki, an Abyssinian, and Jim London, of Greece and Renato Gardini, of Italy. The first two were limited to twenty minutes and the other two to one hour.

In the other match Orde, Vadalid, of Italy, threw Sergeant Levett, America, in ten minutes, 54 seconds.

ABE GOLDSTEIN OFFERED BOUT WITH VILLA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Abe Goldstein has been offered a guarantee of $35,000 to defend his world's bantam-weight title, in a 20 round match in Manila, against Pancho Villa, Filipino holder of the world's flyweight crown.

The offer was made to-day by Willie Lewis, Goldstein's manager, by Frank Churchill, Villa's manager, who said he was acting for Manila promoters, who have the backing of the native government and want to stage the match early in 1925.

OLYMPIC HERO LOSES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Albin Stenroos, 40 year old Finnish victor in Olympic Marathon last July at Paris, was defeated by a runner in a modified marathon on the streets of Helsinki, Finland, according to reports reaching here. He finished sixth in the race but his poor showing was explained on the ground that he was handicapped by a foot injury. Because of his foot injury, he competed in this year's veteran class and won, but was beaten by rivals in the free for all category.

MIKE MCTIGUE TO LOSE LICENSE IN NEW YORK STATE.

Is in Wrong For Beating Out Of Tunney's Match.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The State Athletic Commission to-day recommended to its license commission that Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, be refused a license to box in New York for a year, because of his failure to accept a challenge to defend his title against Gene Tunney, holder of the American 175 crown.

The commission's action definitely ends prospects of a match between McTigue and Paul Berenbach, of New York, which Tex Rickard was seeking with the intention of matching the winner with Tunney.

The commission announced that while McTigue would not be deprived of his title, recognition as the ranking light heavyweight, while he is under ban, would be extended to Tunney.

JUDGE LANDIS IS READY TO GIVE OUT INFORMATION.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Commissioner Landis, baseball commissioner, said to-day that the testimony of Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell, members of the New York Giants involved in the bribery scandal preliminary to the world series, would be revealed whenever, in his judgment, it would serve a useful purpose in clearing up the situation. Answering the question whether Dolan and O'Connell had been banished forever from Organized Baseball, the commissioner said they had been placed on the ineligible list. He refused to amplify this statement. His original statement, issued at the time of his action against the two players covered the situation he said.

GIANTS WIN THRILLER AT ENGLISH CROCKET PARK.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox in their second exhibition game in England, to-day, gave several thousand fans a demonstration of big league baseball. The Giants won a most thrilling game by the score of 3 to 2 with a ninth inning rally.

Among the interesting spectators were the Duke and Duchess of York. The son of King George was received by Ambassador Kellogg and introduced to Manager McGraw, the Giant's manager. In addition the Duke met the players and insisted with shaking hands with each of them.

The Giants, playing at their best held on to a slim one run lead until the eighth inning when the Sox drove two runs over. But the apparent victors had their seeming triumph snatched away from them by the New York rally when two runs were scored.

On the fielding side there was a rare bit of baseball excellence in the sixth inning when the Chicago infield evolved a triple play.

Now and then many of the British spectators were moved to an expression of their feelings. Occasionally some of the natives even clapped their hands and a few followed the example of the Americans present by using their vocal cords somewhat strenuously, but they were the exceptions.

"Name The Man" Coming Monday

GREAT FILM WILL BE SHOWN AT THE NICKEL.

A forceful story by Sir Hall Caine, and an all-star cast which includes Conrad Nagel, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth, Patsy Ruth Miller and Creighton Hale, combine to make "Name the Man" a production of the first American production, "Name the Man" which comes Monday to the Nickel Theatre.

"Name the Man" is from the celebrated English novelist's recent best seller, "The Master of Man." It tells the striking story of a young judge whose first act of office is to pass judgment on a girl he himself wronged.

The courtroom scene, which is one of the intensely dramatic incidents in the story, calls for some of the greatest emotional and dramatic acting which has ever reached the American screen—with a man—human, earnest, whose deep and lasting affection for one girl is pitted in combat with his pledge to duty which calls him to say "you must die!" to a frail, sweet girl who owes her downfall to him, her judge.

Mae Busch plays the part of the wronged girl—her second leading part in Hall Caine stories, with Conrad Nagel playing the part of the judge.

A brilliant cast, with gigantic settings bringing the ancient pirate and castle on the Isle of Man, and superb photography add to the perfection of the distinguished European director's first Goldwyn production. It will make his name familiar to every picture fan in the country and help the films to come into their own as an art as well as an entertainment.

Pays $100,000 for Film Rights

AT STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

One of the events of the screen season is the translation to the silver sheet by Thomas H. Ince of Eugene O'Neill's dramatic masterpiece, "Anna Christie." It ran for a season on Broadway and on the road in this country and attracted so much attention with its realities and portrayal of life that it was named the best American drama of 1922 and awarded the Pulitzer prize. The play was taken to London with the original stage company and the British capital promptly capitulated, dramatic critics writing eulogies of praise such as have been accorded no other recent American drama.

When announcement was first made that Ince had purchased film rights to "Anna Christie" at a top notch price of $100,000, the producer was immediately besieged with letters and telegrams offering congratulations, advice and encouragement upon this new enterprise and expressing opinions as to the choice of an actress for the title role. With surprising unanimity the hope was expressed that Blanche Sweet, already selected by Mr. Ince as the one actress of the screen entirely suited for the role, would be named.

The choice of George Marion, who created the role of "Chris," the father, in the stage play and of William Russell, for the role of "Hal Burke," the Irish night watchman, has received equal approval.

John Griffith Wray, known for his excellent work in Ince's "Hall the Woman," was chosen to direct the production, the continuity being written by Bradley King.

Months of exacting work, including long rehearsals of the difficult emotional scenes of the drama; thousands of dollars spent on the huge "ship sets" and on location; and of magnificent studies of the sea and of life were made, have resulted in one of the most finished productions ever offered picture-goers.

Coming as one of the first screen "specials" which offers a radical departure from the usual and conventional thing in pictures, "Anna Christie" promises to open the way for brilliant new offerings of the screen. Its story is one of the most daring, yet most appealing, ever told in drama.

Enjoyable Re-Union at Mount Cashel

What will prove to be a red letter day in the history of Mount Cashel Industrial School came to an end last evening with a big banquet given by the Ex-Pupils to the present boys of that institution. At 8 o'clock the Assembly Hall presented a scene that will be long remembered by those present, some three hundred present and past pupils being there collected to express gratitude and appreciation to those men who in the past gave them all that made them the successful men they are today.

A Century of Achievement

On Saturday we published the Annual Report of the Dorcas Society, an organization that celebrates to-day the anniversary of its foundation in St. John's 100 years ago.

The Society might well have been excused had they announced their centenary with a flourish of trumpets, but the modest reference to the fact which appears in the Report is in keeping with the manner in which the organization proceeds with its noble work of relieving poverty and ministering to the need of the distressed.

It is to be regretted that the destruction of the records of the Society in the fire of '92 makes it impossible to trace its activities with any degree of accuracy since that memorable occasion when the citizens of St. John's, prompted by the desire to help the afflicted, met together and chose as the first president Mrs. Ward, the wife of Rev. D. S. Ward, a Congregationalist Minister here at that time. It is known that in the early days of its career it was presided over in turn by Mrs. R. Job, a great aunt of Mr. R. B. Job, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. David Slater, the mother of Mr. William Slater, and while details are lacking, it is evident that these early pioneers in charity laid the foundations of the Society well and truly.

When the fire of 1892 ravaged the city, the late Lady Thorburn, who was then President, and her band of devoted workers rendered invaluable assistance in meeting the demands made upon the various charitable organizations of the city, and in the periods of stress through which the community has passed in recent years, the Dorcas Society has continued to respond to the calls made upon it in a manner which reflects the greatest credit upon Mrs. J. S. Pitts, the President, and her band of co-workers.

It is hoped that with the passing of the dark days which have been the cause of so much poverty in Newfoundland as elsewhere, the labours of the Dorcas Society will be lightened, but it is gratifying to know that we have in our midst an organization which devotes its time and care to the needy, and which can at all times be relied upon to meet any emergencies that may arise.

The Carnegie Endowment

The following message has been received by the Prime Minister from Dr. V. P. Burke, the Deputy Minister of Education:

Hallifax, N.S., Oct. 28, 1924.
 Hon. Walter S. Monroe,
 Prime Minister,
 St. John's, Nfld.
 It gives me much pleasure to inform you that our appeal to the Carnegie Corporation for fifteen thousand dollars per year to establish and maintain a Junior University College in St. John's was unanimously endorsed to-day at a meeting of University Presidents constituting the Central Advisory Committee.

VINCENT P. BURKE.
 The establishment of such an institution in connection with the Normal School has been receiving the consideration of the authorities for some time, and while it was hoped that the Carnegie Foundation might contribute towards the running expenses of such an object, it is gratifying to learn that an agreement has been reached and that this welcome assistance is assured.

Bankers' Dance Was a Big Success

Last night the employees of the city banks, with their friends, held a reunion in the Gaiety Hall. The affair was promoted by the lady employees of the banks and proved to be one of the season's successes. The Hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, whilst music for the dances was supplied by a special orchestra with the assistance of the Orchestra of the Young Adams Company. Special attractions were the Novelty Dance, and a "Tongo" danced by Miss Gertrude R. Milley and Mr. Ron Martin. During the interval supper was served by the Ladies' Committee. An excellent spread had been prepared and was done full justice to by all. Dancing was then continued until an early hour this morning. It was the intention of the Committee to have the dance solely for the employees of the city banks, but as many others were anxious to purchase tickets, they were allowed to do so. A portion of the proceeds will be offered as a link in the Marine Disaster's Chain.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

October 28th.—The weather still cold, and I suffer from a great cold of my head, which do trouble me mightily. But what is even a greater source of trouble to me is that all whom I do meet offer me advice for the cure of it, which, if I did take all of it, would kill me in a short time. Going to Water Street, meet Mr. Fox, and he tells me how the Masonic will again have their dances this year, which is a thing that pleases me mightily being the only dances I have enjoyed in many years. Talking with Povey this day, he to speak of the price of fish and tells me how Labrador is now fetching nigh on 3 dollars, which is the best it has been since the war days. The Sessions house this day sits on the charges against Mr. Meaney, and a postponement ordered 'till to-morrow. I do learn how Mr. Knight, the Attorney for Mr. Meaney has some discourse to make in the presence of the Minister of Justice and this like to take place on Thursday. The news of the first election might be scant, and the first count not expected before Thursday morning. Home all this night, and early to bed, being anxious to rid myself of my cold, and bed, I think, the only cure.

Stealing a Motor Car

During the early hours of Sunday morning a resident of Cochrane St. heard a noise in the side entrance to his premises and on investigating saw a man seated in his motor car, whilst another was straining with all his might to push it on to the main thoroughfare. He immediately telephoned the police, then grabbed a rifle and made for the motor car. He captured the man who was doing the pushing and held him by the collar of his overcoat, awaiting the arrival of the police. The Inspector General appeared on the scene in a few minutes but in the meantime the would-be thief slipped off his coat and made a getaway. The coat was brought to the police station and yesterday morning they rounded up the owner. In court this morning a laborer of the East End was charged with attempted larceny and was fined $50 or two months' imprisonment. The accused, who was represented by Mr. Hunt, stated he had been drinking and had no intention of stealing the car. He did not know the name of his companion, whom he stated he met at the Seaman's Institute. Mr. Hunt asked that the charge of attempted larceny be dismissed on the evidence which showed that there was no intent to deprive the owner permanently of his property. His Honor remarked that the evidence showed the accused was not as drunk as he wished to have inferred, but he would give him the benefit of the doubt as to malice. The fine as above was imposed. The man who was in the car cannot be located and it is believed has disappeared from the city.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

FRANCE AWAITS RUSSIAN REPLY. PARIS, Oct. 28.

France's recognition of the Russian Soviet Government was dashed at noon to-day from Eidel Tower in a brief message addressed to M. T. Chitchev, former Minister at Moscow. The French Government promises to make public the text to-night together with the text of the Soviet reply, but up to 10 o'clock neither text had been issued, as the Russian answer had not been received and the Government was firm in its resolve to publish the two simultaneously. A message was even sent to M. Rakovsky, the Russian Soviet Charge at London, requesting him to refrain from issuing the texts of the notes until he was assured they had been given out in Paris. However, the reply is not expected to be more than a few words acknowledging the receipt of the French message. It may be taken for granted, the Matin says, that the exact terms of the reply are known to M. De Honale, President of the Commission on Russian affairs, who would hardly have risked offering the Government's recognition without careful soundings and precise assurances, notably from M. Rakovsky, regarding the reception awaiting it. The next step will be the nomination of Ambassadors. But apart from that, according to the newspapers, a Franco-Russian conference for next week is under consideration, at which the economic and financial questions raised by the recognition will be studied. The French Government had originally intended that these negotiations should precede recognition, but Moscow demanded that the discussion should follow recognition, as it makes it impossible for Russia to bind herself by engagements if not officially recognized. The French agreed to this condition that the Soviet's undertook to show a conciliatory spirit during the ensuing negotiations.

NO APATHY LIKELY IN TO-DAY'S POLLING.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Great Britain's voters went to the polls to-day to choose a new Parliament to replace that dissolved at the instance of the Laborite Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, on October 9 following a vote of censure in the Commons. While some of the Laborites still expressed confidence that the result would show the people favorable to their remaining in power, the general opinion was that the Government would be repudiated. All activities in the election campaign ceased at midnight to-day. The vote will fill 574 vacant seats in Parliament, 32 others being already decided by unopposed returns, while 7 university members are to be elected by postal ballots. If the earnest appeals to the electors by heads of the respective parties are heeded, the polls should be much larger than in 1923, when the apathy of the 5,000,000 voters is said to have had considerable effect on the result. As far as the weather factor is concerned there was nothing in the forecasts for to-day to overawe the electors, who were promised mild temperature with alternate spells of fine weather and rain.

CAMPAIGN TACTICS DENOUNCED.

CALGARY, Oct. 28.—Speaking at a conservative executive meeting here last night Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition termed the liberal campaigns in Rimouski and St. Antoine the basest, vilest social appeal ever known. He said a minister of the crown had appealed to women of Rimouski asking if they were going to vote "for this man Meighen whose hands are red with blood of your sons."

A MEAN METHOD AND A WEAK EXCUSE.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Council for captain Harry Ritchey of British schooner Marjory E. Bachmann seized by the coastguard cutter Tampa off Cape Cod last Friday as a run-runner declared yesterday in Federal Court that they would ask for extradition to Canada on charges of piracy, of the prize crew placed on board the schooner by the Tampa unless the 500 cases of liquor taken from Bachmann are returned together with money and personal effects alleged to have been taken from the schooner's crew. According to statement of Counsel the prize crew sold over the side from the Bachmann 150 cases of Champagne, sent another 150 cases to the cutter, and took nearly $1,000 in money from members of the crew of the schooner. In a statement to-day Lieut. Commander S. S. Yeandle aide to the Chief of Coast Guard Service admitted that the prize crew had sold two cases of champagne in the manner described but did so for the purpose of obtaining evidence against the purchasers.

Naval Reservists to Meet

A get together meeting of ex-naval reservists has been called to take place on to-morrow, Thursday night at 8 o'clock, at the Seaman's Institute. At present there are a large number of reservists in the city and it is expected that the meeting will be well attended, as matters of vital interest to the men will be discussed. Com. Howley, R.N., it is understood will be in the chair.

Labrador Fish Advances in Price

The price of Labrador fish made another advance yesterday and is now quoted at $7.80 per quintal. In some cases the fishermen are holding their catch in anticipation of the eight dollars being reached. Quotations on shore fish are hard to obtain. The ruling price for a No. 1 article appears to be between nine and ten dollars per quintal. The high price obtaining for Labrador fish will have a beneficial effect on the country as a whole and will lend encouragement to an increased prosecution of the voyage next year.

Must Obey Traffic Regulations

Several truckmen who were before court this morning charged with breaking the traffic regulations, were given a lecture by His Honor Judge Morris on the necessity of adhering strictly to the rules. He pointed out that the old conditions of allowing vehicles to move along the streets without any semblance of order had passed and, with but narrow short-oughts, it was necessary that every bit of space be utilized and it was of as much to the interest of the truckmen themselves as to the owners of motor cars that the traffic regulations be obeyed.

Young-Adams Co. Plays St. Elmo To-Night

POPULAR PLAYERS APPEARING IN POPULAR PLAY.
For some time past St. John's theatre goers have been asking for a repetition of the popular play "St. Elmo." The Young-Adams Company take great pleasure in presenting for the first time in many years this much talked of play by Augustus Evans, which is their mid-week offering in the Casino Theatre. The role of "St. Elmo" is in the capable hands of H. Wilmot Young, who we feel positive will do full justice to such a popular role. Miss Marjorie Adams will be seen as Edna Earle, and we all know what to expect from such an artist as Miss Adams. The other players have been well cast, and all St. John's look forward to seeing St. Elmo played as it has never been played before. Mr. Young has seen to it that the settings and atmosphere will be in harmony with the story and this will leave nothing to be desired. "St. Elmo" will also be the main attraction on Saturday afternoon and reservations for same can now be made at a Hutton's Music Store. On Friday night "The Great John Ganton" will be the bill. This piece should be seen by every professional man, employer and employee as it depicts the life of a man who is the employer of a tremendous amount of labour, showing the difficulties that he is confronted with in running a great stock yard. You'll remember this play for years to come as it carries with it a wonderful lesson. Mr. Young plays the greatest role he has ever had, as John Ganton.

Obituary

The death of Mrs. Annie Slaney occurred at St. Lawrence on the 27th of Oct., after a very short illness. Possessed of great ability in treating the sick, her good services were always in demand, and freely given, her unflinching charity and kindness had won for her a large number of friends by whom her death is deeply mourned. She is survived by her husband, Peter Slaney, one son, Philip, and daughter Leon, and a brother Henry at the old home; also two daughters in the city, Mrs. M. P. Murphy and Mrs. Walter Wyatt.

The Gordon Silver Black Fox Ranches

In the article on the Gordon Silver Black Fox Ranches which appeared in the Telegram of Oct. 28th mention was given of moving pictures to be shown at one of the city theatres. Through the courtesy of Mr. Coady these pictures will be shown at the Majestic to-night and Monday of next week. The pictures are intensely interesting and all will find that taken in action are exceptionally attractive. Donald C. Lewis, lecturer for the Ranches, will describe the movies after which he will give a short address on the industry. Mr. Lewis is a St. John's boy, but has been away for quite a few years. His story is interesting. It will be of the interest of all to hear him on a subject which has become prominent in America.—adv. 11.

Police Officer Fined $10 for Attacking Citizen

A citizen of Brennan Street was summoned before court by a police constable this morning, charged with obstructing him while in the performance of his duties. The evidence given by the constable referred to the arrest of a prisoner which took place near Duff's Theatre on Thursday night last. While the prisoner was being conveyed to the lockup a large crowd gathered, and in the excitement a number of the "onlookers" shouted at the officer, "Don't choke him" (meaning the prisoner). The complainant picked out one of the spectators in the crowd whom he took for granted used the words, and leaving the prisoner, dropped his cap and cape and struck the citizen three stinging blows in the face. The defendant in his evidence stated he was not one of the crowd and had nothing to do with the shouting and jeering, that about 10 p.m. he had left the Longshoremen's Hall in company with three men, and was proceeding on his way home when his attention was attracted by the arrest of a drunken man. He remembered hearing shouts from the crowd, and while standing near the sidewalk with his hands in his pocket, he stated that he was brutally attacked by the officer without any provocation whatever. Following the occurrence he reported the matter at the lockup. Witness in his evidence produced one of his jaw teeth which was broken off by one of the blows struck. After the evidence had been summed up it was proven to be a clear case of mistaken identity and the judge honourably acquitted him. A counter claim arising out of the above assault was settled by the police constable being fined $10 or in default 10 days imprisonment.

"Human Wreckage"

SENSATIONAL FEATURE WILL LIKELY BE SHOWN AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE ON MONDAY NEXT.

The picture that set the world talking; that set thinking minds thinking in the most extraordinary fashion; undoubtedly the most impressive story ever told is "Human Wreckage." For all probability, this sensational film will be exhibited at the Majestic on Monday. When "Human Wreckage" was first shown in the States, it was only in the high class theatres, when first seats were booked at $5.00 each. Unlike most pictures, it took the producer years to complete. To-day at the Majestic, Babe Ruth in "Headin' Home," will be shown. A special film will be shown, "At the Gordon Silver Black Fox Ranches," the largest ranch of its kind in the world. This film will be verbally described by Mr. Donald Lewis. Mr. Lewis, who came here with the picture to personally exhibit it, is an old St. John's boy, and is recognized as an authority in the fox business in Canada and the United States.

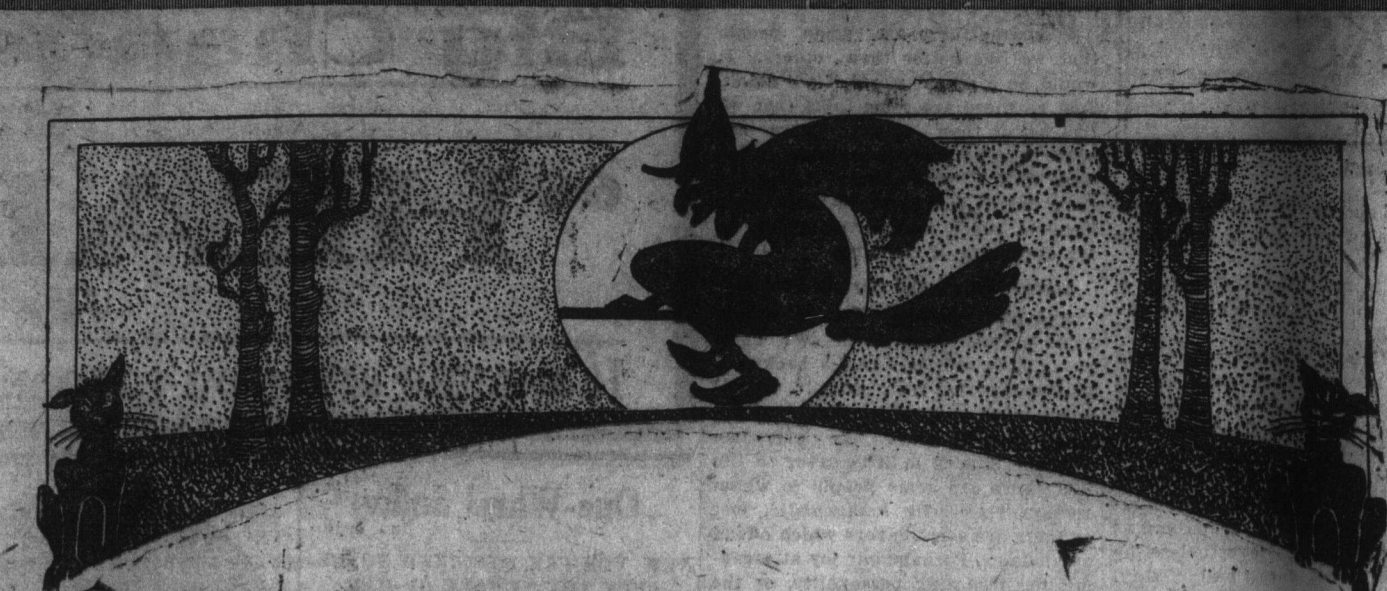

Resident of Carbonear Missing

Word has been received from Carbonear stating that much anxiety is being felt for the safety of John French of that town, who on Wednesday last went into the country to look for his horse, which had been out all summer on pasture. It is now a week since his disappearance, and in spite of the fact that large numbers of people are engaged in the search no trace of him can be found. On Sunday the Boy Scouts, a large number of citizens including the clergyman, Rev. Mr. Burden, engaged in the search without avail. The affair has cast a gloom over the south side of the town where Mr. French resided.

In Memoriam

IRENE KENNEDY.
The many friends of Miss Irene Kennedy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy will learn with deep regret of her passing away in New York, a message to that effect having been received by her bereaved parents this morning. About eight months ago Miss Kennedy went to New York for medical treatment and the letters received from her indicated that her health was improving. In fact only a few days before her relapse she had written to say how much she was looking forward to her return home. When word was received that her condition was serious, her brother, Rev. M. J. Kennedy left by the Rosalind on Saturday in order to be present with her. The deceased, who was twenty-three years of age, leaves to mourn besides her parents, two brothers and a sister and a host of friends. The Telegram extends sympathy in their bereavement. It is arranged to have the body brought to St. John's and the date of the funeral will be announced later.

CARD TOURNAMENT.—An enjoyable auction forty-five card tournament was held at St. Joseph's Hall last night in which upwards of eighty players participated. The prize winners were: Messrs. J. Field and Alex. Holliman.

As a result of recent development work holders of mineral claims at Placentia are enthusiastic as to the future, and have hopes that within a short while the district will be a big producer of lead ore. Yesterday an eight foot seam of ore was exposed on a claim near the old railway station held by those interested in Gallions' Point workings. Prospecting on the latter property is progressing with very satisfactory results. Reports from Argenta state that the Job shaft at Silver Cliff is showing improvement at each foot mined.

President Beatty Says Conditions Improving—Railway Not Ahead of Year.

Boston—Edward W. Beatty, president and chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which with steamship lines comprises the largest transportation system in the world, in interview with the Boston News Bureau says that industrial conditions in Canada are gradually improving, that net earnings of the railway are ahead of last year to date, and that the wheat crop although smaller than last year is high in money value. President Beatty is in Boston to address the New England Traffic Club.

He says: "We have a splendid wheat crop in the west and it is particularly good from the standpoint of money value. Present prices are 60% to 70% in excess of last year."

"So far as earnings of the railway are concerned a great deal will depend on the crop movement during the last three months of the year. This movement has been held back considerably by unfavorable weather conditions, delaying threshing, which is only about 80% completed. Good prices, however, will help to bring the crop to market. The wheat yield of Canada this year is estimated at about 300,000,000 bushels, against 450,000,000 bushels last year, which was a record."

Steamship Earnings Under Last Year. "Steamship earnings are less than in 1923 by reason of the late spring and despite the heavy movement of tourists to Great Britain during the summer. Of course, so far as the United States is concerned, reduced immigration quotas will cut down the movement. There is no restriction on immigration of agriculturists into Canada or those who desire to become agriculturists."

"With the settling of conditions in Europe and increased trade which should follow, shipping conditions on the Atlantic ought to improve from the low ebb of the last few years. There is still a greater tonnage of ships than the traffic requires. That is

SIDE TALKS.

WHY HANDICAP YOURSELF?

It is a great misfortune not to like all the common varieties of food, as anyone can testify who has put that handicap on himself as a child. Or as anyone can testify who has entertained a guest who has put that handicap on himself as a child. It is also a misfortune not to like all kinds of peoples. If you are apt to find that social menus vary as widely as culinary menus. And if you can only enjoy and appreciate a few kinds of people you will find yourself decidedly handicapped.

The Restricted Menu.
There are many people who care only to include certain types among their friends and acquaintances. They make some particular quality the condition of their interest. If a person is not brainy, or refined, or serious minded, or humorously inclined, or interested in sports, or whatever their particular sin qua non is they have no interest in him. It seems to me this is as much a mistake as to limit one's diet to one kind of food. I have a friend whom I value very highly for his sterling qualities of brain and character. He is what used to be called the New England type, dignified, reserved, very well bred. He was at my home one day when another man dropped in, a man astonishingly lacking in reserve, crude and at times almost ill bred. Nevertheless, he is a man of great force and vitality, original, kind-hearted to a fault, and one whom many find amusing and worthwhile if not taken in too large doses.

Who Was Unfortunate?
But my first friend did not find him so. It was plain that he could not understand our welcome to this other man, and on a subsequent occasion he admitted that he could hardly believe we could really like him. He seemed to think it our misfortune, or perhaps our fault, that we could see anything in this man. It seemed to us that it was his misfortune, or perhaps his fault, that he couldn't. Of course there are some people that we like better than others. It would be a stupid world if we didn't. Just as there are some folks that we like better than others. There are some people whom we see come in the door with a promontory relish of their favor, just as there are some desserts which we are delighted to see appear upon the table.

Tomato Salad And Certain People.
And perhaps there are inevitably some people whose favor we shall never fully get. As I cast a backward glance over my own social experiences I feel inclined to modify my demand that we must like everyone. Perhaps it adds a little savor to life that there are some people to whom we are vigorously antagonistic, just as there are some flavors which offend our palates. Perhaps our joy at escaping the irritating personality, or the tomato salad, is needed to give a piquant touch to existence.

But the more people we can enjoy and appreciate, the fuller life will be for us and the less often we shall be bored.

One-Wheel Sulky

NEW VEHICLE DESIGNED TO REDUCE THE NUMBER OF HARNES RACING ACCIDENTS.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 24.—Home after one of the most successful of his many seasons on the Grand Circuit, Thomas W. Murphy, premier light harness race horse driver of the year, is ready to experiment with a new one-wheel sulky, the invention of H. W. Hannan, the owner of Etta Drulen and Hope Frisco, two of the star horses in the Murphy stable.

The one-wheel sulky is proposed as a remedy for the many accidents which have resulted from horses putting a hoof through a wheel of the sulkies now in use, and from locked wheels, a common occurrence, particularly at the turns.

The one-wheel sulky puts the driver ten inches further back from the horse than the two-wheel affair. It also does away with the high stirrups which in the present sulky keep the driver's feet higher in the air than his hips.

The wheel is directly under the seat, and the driver sits upright, much after the fashion of a man in a saddle, with strong supports for his feet. The girth and wheel balance the sulky perfectly, it is claimed.

Mr. Hannan presented plans for the sulky to Murphy last June, just before the driver was getting ready for his swing of the Grand Circuit, and an actual test of it was delayed until after the season's racing.

An order for its manufacture was placed with an Ohio factory and word from there this week is to the effect that it will be delivered early next week ready for use.

FINE HAIRMENT.

Gaffer Doodle's looking seedy as he treads the pavement stones; you might think him poor and needy, but he has all kinds of bones. With his assets he is weighted, he is not an also-ran; he has rubles to go and created, he has kopecks in a can. Yet he's always looking dingy, and his neighbors sadly say: "Gaffer Doodle is too stingy to appear in brave array. He might be, in fine apparel, quite a credit to the town, but in frisk, tub and barrel he salts all his money down. And the strangers in our city, who are looking at the sight, say, 'It seems a beastly pity you've so many hard-up wights. Yonder gray-beard needs the hoodie that would buy a suit of clothes, and they point to Gaffer Doodle, as in rusty duds he goes. Oh, it is a public duty for a money-laden man to become a thing of beauty, or as near it as he can. But the gaffer buys a kelly for six bits, or ten cents more, hunts for clothing old and smelly in the cast-off garments store; yea, the way the old man dresses make the village boosters writhe, and he irons his beard and trousers with a sickle or a scythe." Gaffer Doodle mutters proudly, "I've been humble since my birth; man does not, by dressing loudly, prove he's fixed with sterling worth. Man may scoff, but I can bear it, for their jeers I care no boot; for a man of worth and merit needs no hundred-dollar suit."

Wettest Place in England

Which is the wettest spot in England? The "Book of Normals of Meteorological Elements for the British Isles," just published by the Stationery Office, states that Seathwaite, in Borrowdale, with an average of 129.45 in. of rain a year, can claim the honor. Averages are given from month to month, so that a holiday-maker knows that if he wishes to visit the Lakes, and goes to Rydal in June, he need only expect 4.03 in. of rain, but if he goes in August, he must expect more than 7 in. London is one of the driest spots with an average of only 23.50 in. a year at Greenwich Observatory.

A Pipeless Furnace

WHAT IS IT, YOU ASK?

The most modern and inexpensive heating appliance on the market. Thousands being sold throughout Canada and the United States.

HOW IS IT INSTALLED AND OPERATED?

In most cases can be installed in one day, causing no interruption or inconvenience in the house. It is placed in the basement immediately under the floor of the hall. It sends a flood of heat all up through the house,—into every room and corner, and at the same time draws all the cold air back again from the house, heats it and sends it back into the house again. It is thus a circulating system, which re-heats the air four to five times an hour in an average house.

A Schoolboy's Essay on Dogs and Cats

"The dog is the commonest of all animals. Its legs are four and one tail of all sizes. Cats are very common in all large towns and streets, but dogs are more so. There is only three things wiser than the dog, which is ourselves, all monkeys, and all elephants. Don't tease cats, for firstly it is wrong so to do and 2nd cats have claws which is longer than people think. Cats have 9 lives, but which is seldom required in this country because of Christianity."

The Battalion paraded in good strength Tuesday, with a total of 124 all ranks on duty.

The Finance Committee, under the chairmanship of Lieut-Col. W. F. Rendell, held a conclave on finances. All departments had their representatives. Mrs. W. H. Hynes, Secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary, also was present. The Committee requires funds to balance their budget and reminds all Honourary Members of the Brigade that Lieut-Col. Rendell and Major Outerbridge would be pleased to receive their contributions for 1924. Capt. Stuck, Adjutant, is arranging another "Stag" Card Party on the 10th November, the evening before St. Martin's Day, Nov. 11th.

Other departments are speeding up on the balance of their budget amounts, due the Treasury. The Staff have every confidence in making accounts balance if all ranks and their friends respond as usual. Thursday last, Sergt. Major Dwyling, M.M., was busy with a Company lady giving instruction in first aid, including fractures, pressure points, etc. The lady is keen to learn and are making good progress.

Grand Falls reports for September, with 75 on the roll and an average attendance of 27. Regular parades are held on Mondays and Saturdays. Saturday evenings are devoted to gymnastics and games. Two new buglers and a drum are being sent them. Pte. J. J. Embery is on leave. We are glad to welcome Corporal Berg back to the city from Boston. He has been in Rhode Island and Boston the past two years. Capt. Sheppard, O.C. of Portugal Cove, visited the city last week and reports his company going strong, and all lads as keen as mustard in drill and gymnastics.

Under date of October 18th, we hear Major R. H. Tait, M.C., now editor of The Newfoundland Weekly, in Boston, U.S.A. and formerly Adjutant of the C.L.B. is improving rapidly from his recent operation and hoped to be out of hospital in a few days. All his pals at headquarters are glad to hear that he is convalescent and send him their best wishes.

Hallowe'en Card Party and Dance

A most enjoyable Hallowe'en Card Party and Dance, under the auspices of the T.A. Ladies' Auxiliary, was held last night in the T.A. Hall. First on the night's programme was the card party, and a large number of players participated, the prizes being won by Mr. L. Kennedy and Mrs. Summers. Canid Canon was next served by the ladies, and was in no small way responsible for the evening's pleasure. After the tables had been cleared away dancing was begun to the music of the C.C.C. Orchestra and continued until an early hour this morning. The stimulation dance was won by Mr. L. Mackay and Miss Lovatt, and as the "witch" called on the many dancers and paid her hallowe'en respects, she provided no end of amusement.

"Big Family" Prize Goes to Father, Who Has Twelve to Feed

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The "big family" prize of 25,000 francs has been awarded by the French Academy, at former Premier Poincare's request, to Devouste Dubreuil, whose family has been struggling against the high cost of living with ten small mouths to feed.
The children include quadruplets—two boys and two girls—born during the war, for whom M. Poincare, who was then President of France; King Albert of Belgium; King George of England, and the Empress of Russia were God-fathers and God-mother.
M. Poincare induced the Academy and the multi-millionaire founder of several score such annual prizes to waive the rules which limit the awards to families in which the parents are under 40 years of age. Dubreuil is 63.

Stars Brighter Than Ten Thousand Suns

Stars in the Magellanic Clouds are greater in size and in brightness than any of the giant stars heretofore known to astronomers, according to Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard College Observatory. Many of these stars are believed to excel the far-famed red giants, Betelgeuse and Antares, and in diameter probably approach the diameter of the orbit of Jupiter, some 666,600,000 miles. Says Science Service Daily Science News Bulletin (Washington):

"Extensive photometric work has led finally to the determination of the distance of the Small Magellanic Cloud. Similar investigations are under way for the Large Cloud. These stellar systems, visible only in southern latitudes, derive their name from descriptions given four hundred years ago by the navigator Magellan. They look like the Milky Way. Only this year has it been possible to give a decisive value for the magnitude, to measure the distance and dimensions of the system. It is now found that the diameter of this Cloud is sixty-five hundred light years. The distance from the earth is thirty-two kiloparsecs, which is equivalent to a little over a hundred thousand light years. A star of the luminosity of our sun would at this distance be if the twenty-third magnitude. Stars as faint as our sun in this cloud, however, are far beyond the range of modern telescopes.

"The studies of brightness on the Harvard photographs, which were made at the Arequipa station in Peru, go down only to the stars of the eighteenth century. More than half a million stars that are at least a hundred times as luminous as our sun are contained in the Small Magellanic Cloud. A few hundred of them have each more than ten thousand times the solar brightness.

"The very brightest of the super-giants are shown by photographs of their spectra to be of the redder classes of color.

Greatest Film of Its Kind Ever Made

IS "NANOOK OF THE NORTH" AT NICKEL TOMORROW.

Tomorrow St. John's will see the most marvelous screen story that was ever projected in a local theatre. Read what a noted critic says about this film:

"Nanook of the North" was produced on the East Coast of Hudson Bay for Revillon Freres by Robert J. Flaherty, a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society and a noted explorer and engineer. It is a picture that defies classification. It is not the adaptation of a "story" in the accepted sense of the world, yet it has drama—the drama of life where mere existence is a continual battle against the forces of nature in their most cruel form. It is not a scenic in the accepted sense of that word even though its scenic splendors are magnificent, because it is a real, true human document. It cannot be placed under the general head of an educational, but it brings the South up to and through the door of the vast North and shows how it lives.

It is a stark, staring disclosure of the holy life known to the Eskimo, a race of people that endures the greatest hardships, knows only the severest climate and has the least advantages of any other, and yet is probably the happiest among all the races. And you laugh with them. It is the drama of a slice of the life of the Eskimo, the great hunter, and his continual struggle to feed his little family. It has vital interest for everyone. "Nanook of the North" is a screen classic.

"Nanook of the North" is the first picture of its kind to reach our screens. It is distinctive and different to say the least. It is a cross section of reasonable life of the Eskimo that, it should be repeated, is "enriched" with drama and supplied with humor, although there is no plot in the accepted sense.

Breaking up a Battleship

A Vivid Description of How a Battleship is Broken Up is Given by J. Penne in the "Christian World."

THE MAN IN CHARGE.

"It was like Micah's prophecy being fulfilled before my eyes. Instead of hearing words into ploughshares and spears into pruning-hooks, however, it was breaking up battleships and converting their steel and timber to peaceful uses. On a visit to Dover, Mr. Robson, secretary of the Brotherhood, asked if I would like to see the battleships in course of demolition by which he serves as foreman. Of course I accepted the invitation.

"Mr. Robson himself began life as a working shipbuilder at South Shields, his native town. It is a little irony that he is now superintending ship destruction. He is one of those men who can turn their hands to anything. He went to Kent to assist in experimental sinking of shafts in the Kent coalfield. He believes there is a great future for the coal and iron industry in Kent. Between the Shakespeare cliff and Folkestone splendid coal has been found in thick seams. Iron ore of exceptional richness has been located in close proximity to the coal. Then there is excellent fire-brick clay and shale. Dover may well become a Newcastle or Sunderland of the south.

SCRAPPED BY WASHINGTON.

"But to return to the battleships. M. Herriot, the French Premier, watched the naval review at Spithead from the same ship as did Admiral Sir David Beatty. M. Herriot made some remark about the might of the British Navy, and the Admiral reminded him that seven of our battleships had been scrapped under the Washington Agreement. It was three of those ships I saw in the breakers' hands. Those ships cost $2,000,000 each at about the beginning of the war. It was easy to believe it when one saw the armour plates of finest steel, ten to twelve inches thick, and the teak that serves as a buffer between the plates and the inside 'skin' of the ship. The teak is a foot thick, and it costs new $17 a ton. If a $2,000,000 building were put up, and it depreciated at the rate of $200,000 a year, everybody would be aghast, but here were a good $6,000,000 worth of material and skilled workmanship melted away at that rate. Even apart from scrapping, war-time experience has made ten-year-old battleships almost as obsolete as Nelson's Victory.

AN EXPERT JOB.

"The breaking up of battleships is a highly expert business. The ships look as if no power short of a torpedo, a mine, or a well-directed shot from a 14-inch gun could make any impression on them. The bolts and rivets that fasten the plates together seem as if they would hold them till the Day of Judgment. But the company has found ways of stripping the mighty monsters of their protective armour. Mr. Robson showed me heaps of neatly shaped two to five-ton blocks of steel ready for conveyance by ship or rail to the purchasers. How are the blocks shaped and sized? I was shown the yard-long cylinders of acetylene gas. Three cylinders, each with its tube, are united to supply the incredibly fierce heat before which a section of steel armour is melted as butter, and carved into sizes and shapes at will. A five-ton block looks very small.

CARRYING THE SHIP AWAY.

"Most beautiful work is taken out of the ships and sold, if possible, intact. There were boilers weighing thirty-five tons. The difficulty is to find railway cars that will carry them. Teak, as every schoolboy knows, is the hardest and most intractable of timber, but orders for furniture made of the teak from particular ships are received and executed with neatness and despatch.

"A ship is bought with everything on board at the time of the sale. Among the contents are crockery, glass, cutlery, beautiful fittings, carpets, baths, and a hundred other desirable things. The breakers gradually carve the ship away downwards from the turrets and upwards from the bow to stern. It is sometimes dangerous work but such precautions are taken as to reduce the possibility of casualties to the minimum.

"That is a beast," said Mr. Robson pointing to the Vengeance, which had been in the thick of the big fighting in the war. When the scrapping came the Vengeance broke loose, during a storm, from the towing tugs, and was lost for a fortnight, drifting on the high seas a danger to ships in the darkness or a fog. When picked up the breaking-up had to be a careless workman pulled out a stop-cock and forgot to replace it. In the morning the ship was too full of water for even six-inch pumps, that will each pump out 400 gallons a minute, to empty her. She sank, and it was a toilsome and expensive job to get her up.

THE "VENGEANCE."

"Mr. Robson has two sons on the work, both chips of the old block. One very early glacial period." Summarizing the evidence, Dr. Coleman said: "On the whole, the pre-Cambrian formations, the earliest in the geological history of the world, indicate cooler climates than those which existed in the next, or Paleozoic era, as far as the time of the coal-forming, or Carboniferous age. "The climates were certainly cooler than in the next era, the Mesozoic, and during much of the time were probably very similar to the condition to-day."

Scouts Theory of Fiery Heat in Earth's Youth

TORONTO, Aug. 12.

Climate in Canada in early geological days did not differ much from the present conditions. This fact was brought out in geology section of the British Association by Prof. A. P. Coleman of the University of Toronto, who explained how older theories required an extremely hot atmosphere during the time when the earth was supposed to be cooling and solidifying. According to the latest surveys of primitive rocks in Canada, however, it now seems certain that the oldest rocks were formed when the weather was much as it is now, and certainly under cooler conditions than prevailed during the later geological ages.

"Geologists previously thought that the oldest rocks on the earth, formed at the beginning of the pre-Cambrian era, were the frozen crust of a cooling and freezing mass of molten material," Dr. Coleman said. "This required a climate exceedingly hot—so hot that no form of life could exist, and the supposition was that it was only after a long interval that the globe cooled down sufficiently for water to remain on its surface, and that a much longer period elapsed before life came to be established.

"Evidence is now growing that climates and geological processes in that early time were not widely different from those of later times," Dr. Coleman substantiated his claim with descriptions of the pre-Cambrian rocks, which are found in huge areas in Canada.

"The latest rocks of this era, of the Keweenaw formation, include red sandstones, indicating desert conditions," Prof. Coleman said. "The slates of the Animikie, which preceded this series, point to a cool, moist climate.

"The sediments of the Huronian formation include the Cobalt tillite, which is a rock formed under glacial conditions, similar to boulder clay. "Still earlier than these deposits are the rocks of the Keewatin and Grenville districts," the scientist stated. "These were evidently formed under conditions not unlike the present, and they indicate alternating deposition corresponding to seasonal changes of the year.

"The conglomerates of the Dore series probably represent another very early glacial period."

Summarizing the evidence, Dr. Coleman said: "On the whole, the pre-Cambrian formations, the earliest in the geological history of the world, indicate cooler climates than those which existed in the next, or Paleozoic era, as far as the time of the coal-forming, or Carboniferous age.

"The climates were certainly cooler than in the next era, the Mesozoic, and during much of the time were probably very similar to the condition to-day."

Making Cold Storage Arrangements in England

A movement is on foot to establish and develop direct shipments of meat from Australia to Great Britain, according to advice just received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service. New Zealand meat interests, desirous of direct trading without the intervention of trusts or vested interests, have formed a meat board, and Australia is now following this example by organizing a meat council.

which has the same object in view. Delegations from these associations are now in Great Britain investigating the cold storage and other facilities required to enable these dominions to successfully compete in the British market with meat shipments from South America. One suggestion is that the Government should provide free cold storage facilities in Great Britain for chilled meat coming from the Dominion. The reason for this is that, while shipments from South America come regularly, arriving every week, and therefore cold storage is unnecessary, cargoes from New Zealand and Australia arrive irregularly. This necessitates cold storage somewhat. At the present time cold storage in the dominions themselves are used. From the point of view of buyer and consumer, supplies are spasmodic and a steady, regular disposal of the shipments is harder to cultivate. The argument is that until such time as regular sailings can be organized, it would be helpful to have cold storage facilities in Great Britain, from which the supplies of meat, although irregularly received, could be regularly fed out to the trade.

A Colored Minister's Repartee

"At a prayer meeting in a colored church the pastor was expounding the passage which tells of the passing of the children of Israel through the Red Sea.

"It is all very simple," he said. "You know that water generally flows down hill, but in this year instance things was jus' reversed. The water, instead of flowin' down hill, does deny flow up hill, leavin' the bottom of the sea all dry—yes, brethren, dry, so that all the children of Israel passed over without even wetting their feet. Then—

"But," interrupted a young colored brother who had been to high school, "it wouldn't have done that, pasture would have been against the law of gravitation."

"You jest set down, sah," answered the pastor, with a patronizing air of the hand. "You don't know you are talkin' about. This all happened three thousand years 'fore the law of gravitation done been discovered."

The Issue
MacDonald Dodged

About five years ago it was proposed in these columns that Soviet Russia had become an issue which would last for a generation at least. It was an issue which would be an intrigue within and without the ranks of the Labor party clearly brought matters to a pass where the Liberals were forced to adopt independent action.

Ramsay MacDonald claims that the financial arrangements are not the subject, but merely a contingent part of the treaty which Mr. Asquith has described as "nursery diplomacy" and which George as a fake. But there is no doubt that the Soviet emissaries regard the cash consideration as the main and indeed the sole purpose of the negotiations. The immediate amount involved is said to be fifteen million pounds, or an pre-war reckoning, twenty-five million dollars. During the Great War Great Britain voted to Russia, as an Ally for the prosecution of the war, the colossal loan of seven hundred million pounds. At the time the Russian Revolution broke out the Allies repudiated the Allies and by the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk practically aided Germany, an unrepented balance of fifteen million pounds remained in London banks to the credit of Russia. It was proposed to hand over this sum to the Soviet Government and to negotiate a further loan of from thirty to fifty million pounds, guaranteed by the British Government. The agreement makes no provision for the settlement of the earlier debt of six hundred and eighty-five million pounds on which the British taxpayer is to-day paying interest annually to the extent of about thirty million pounds. The new payments of cash are to be secured by the credit of the Soviet Government, which theoretically at least regulates all theories of credit; and four years ago murdered hundreds of thousands of Russian business men by advocating the credit system.

The question of Britain's generosity to a favored nation treated as a matter of trade. But as pointed out a few weeks ago, the purchasing power of the Russian people was very low in comparison with the numbers, has been reduced almost to the vanishing point under Soviet rule. The purchasing classes of the Russia of 1913 have been slain and branch to the number of three or four millions; and their substance wasted.

The tone of many British journals exposed to Ramsay MacDonald has been temperate; and they have given consideration to the trade phase of the proposals; but among the electorate at large there is a strong sentiment against Soviet Russia which would endanger the treaty even if its terms are fair, and its advantages offered, tangible. Britain is today willing to deal with Germany, because Germany was an open foe and was soundly beaten. But Russia was an Ally who turned traitor in 1917 and by subsequent policies prolonged the war, and promoted international disturbances in countries that were her friends and still are her enemies. Treachery and assassinations are written in large letters over Russia's recent history; and in the heavily burdened British people to come to her rescue in a spirit of altruism, Ramsay MacDonald is tempting too severe a strain on human nature. But though the Russian question has brought about the present crisis, the main and salient fact is that the group system which permits government by minorities, has become unworkable in Great Britain.

Empire Naval Defence

London Daily Telegraph: When the Dominion Premiers, at the Imperial Conference, welcomed the Admiralty's proposal to despatch the Special Service Squadron, they may have foreseen and welcomed in advance the reactions to which its presence would give rise. They may have felt that the visit of the squadron would arouse public interest in the Empire's Navy, and convince their self-governing peoples that the problem could no longer be ignored. We can only hope that something practical will come of it. The many hundreds of thousands of people who have boarded the cruisers at the various Dominion ports have, at any rate, seen what an efficient squadron can do, and they know that this is not the only navy in the world. It remains for their leading statesmen, to devise the means by which the problem of Empire naval defence may be put on a new footing, and the cost of it distributed more equitably than it is at present.

Borrowing Communists

Mr. J. Sexton, M.P., at the Trade Union Congress, said it was all very well to denounce the British capitalist, as had been done by one speaker, but no good was done by capitalism, he said. He proceeded to denounce the Communist Party and said that the Moscow Communists were absolutely admitted failures, and were coming to a capitalist country to borrow money to enable them to carry on their work. (Cheers and roar.)

"You cannot start a successful revolution on elevenpence," Mr. Sexton included, amid laughter.

Gasoline Prices

STATEMENT OF MANAGER OF IMPERIAL OIL CO. SHOWS SITUATION.

Much is being said as to the price of gasoline. Naturally those who have to buy gasoline would prefer that the product should be made as cheap as possible, but there are various angles to the problem, and they must be considered. A statement issued by F. T. McKean, manager of the Imperial Oil Company, Montreal, covers the situation admirably. It reads:

"It is unfair to Canadian refiners and distributors to compare the prices in Canada with the prices ruling at some one or more local points in the United States. Some of the newspapers have taken Detroit as a point of comparison. This is extremely unfair, for the reason that the price of gasoline in Detroit would appear to be out of line with the prices ruling in other large cities, such as Cleveland, Chicago, etc. As to why the wholesale price in Detroit should be actually below the wholesale price in Chicago, when practically all the gasoline sold in Detroit either moves through Chicago from the mid-continent field, or is refined just outside of Chicago, is a question which Canadian refiners can hardly be expected to answer.

"The following are the more important factors affecting the price of gasoline in Canada:

"(1) The cost of crude oil. There is practically no crude oil produced in Canada. Canadian refiners are dependent entirely in foreign fields for their supplies; they buy from the crude oil selling companies in these fields at the price posted at the wells from time to time. These posted crude oil prices fluctuate with supplying demand. The price paid, i.e. the cost to the Canadian refiner of his raw material is one entirely beyond his control. An average of at least 90 days ensues after the date of the purchase of crude before the same is delivered to the refiners in Canada, so that to-day we are refining crude oil purchased from two or four months ago at prices materially higher than to-day's price of crude oil.

"(2) The climate of Canada makes the sale of gasoline a distinctly seasonal business. In some of the summer months as high as 13 per cent. of the total yearly consumption is sold and distributed, whereas in some of the winter months the consumption declines to as low as 4 per cent. This wide fluctuation in demand necessitates an investment in plant, distributing equipment, as well as stocks of either crude or gasoline, far in excess of the investment necessary if the gasoline sales throughout the year ran fairly uniform one month with another. This results in materially increasing the cost of manufacturing and distributing gasoline in Canada as compared with similar costs over the greater part of the United States.

Over-production.

"(3) The unusual conditions existing at the present moment are the very considerable over-production of crude oil, particularly in the mid-continent producing field. This over-production of crude oil has brought about during the past few weeks a decline in the crude oil markets. In addition to the decline in crude oil prices, there are to-day in the hands of certain refiners in the States, larger stocks of gasoline than they had on hand a year ago at this time, and active efforts are being made to now dispose of this surplus gasoline stock, regardless of cost, rather than carry such through the coming winter.

"These are the reasons for the two recent reductions in the price of gasoline. Reductions in the States have been followed by reductions here in Canada, and it is possible that in the re-adjustment now going on, further reductions in gasoline prices will follow, not only in the City of Montreal, but throughout the entire Dominion of Canada. This is exactly what has happened in the past when similar conditions prevailed.

"The statement in the press that the wholesale price of gasoline in the City of Montreal is 26 1/2c is misleading. The wholesale price of gasoline in the city to-day is 23 1/2c, per imperial gallon, plus 2c a gallon Quebec Government road tax; net 25 1/2c, to the dealer 75 per cent. of this grade of gasoline is sold in the City of Montreal, and is retailed by garages and service stations to the public at 29c, including the Government tax.

Underground River Discovered in Savoy

An underground river passing under Mont Blanc has recently been discovered and may prove to be one of the sources of the Rhine. The river, which is known as 'Eauxelles', is said to contain many fine grottoes and cascades. It is thought that this underground stream is the source of many rivers flowing through Switzerland, Germany and Austria.
