MARY CALDER'S PITIFUL STORY.

Gives Damaging Evidence
Against Jos. Johnson.

"I Would Rather He Had Killed
Me" She Said—Case Still Going On.

Joseph Johnson, against whom the Grand Jury found a true bill on Tuesday of indecent assault, was brought into the circuit court this morning to undergo trial. The court room was crowded with the morbidly curious. Hon. H. A. McKewen, crown prosecutor, moved for trial.

Scott Morrell, for the prisoner, asked for an adjournment of the case, on the ground that he was not ready to go on with the defence.

His honor said that the prisoner was arrested some considerable time ago and he thought there was no occasion for delay. Unless postponement was consented to by the crown officer he could not grant Mr. Morrell's request. There was any possibility of a reconciliation between the parties he would allow a postponement.

Mr. McKewen said that he would agree to a postponement if reasonable bail was forthcoming for the appearance of the prisoner. The honor said that he would require two sureties for $250 each.

Mr. Morrell then retired to communicate with persons who might go the prisoner's bail. He returned in a few minutes and announced that he had secured Mr. Peters, of Peter's factory, and a brother of the prisoner, Mr. McKewen objected to the brother of the prisoner, and his honor upheld him in his objection.

Mr. Morrell said if he was given the time he would have no difficulty in supplying the required bail.

His honor made some strong remarks about delays. He considered delay in the present case absolutely uncalled for. Valuable time had already been wasted and he would agree to no delay. He would keep the court open until the bail was obtained.

The prisoner was then arraigned and pleaded "not guilty."

Mr. Morrell asked that the court be cleared. Mr. McKewen said that he agreed with Mr. Morrell in this. His honor, however, said there was no reason why the public should be excluded. He ordered the galleries to be put out all spectators under sixteen years of age.

Mr. McKewen then opened the case for the crown. He outlined the circumstances of the case, and told that efforts had been made to bring about a family arrangement between the prisoner and the complainant without success, on account of the prisoner's lack of honor.

The complainant, Mary J. Calder, was the first witness. She said she would be eighteen years old the coming summer. She had been in Bangor, and her father was dead. At present she was living with her grand aunt, Mrs. Wilson, Irving street. She had been working out at service. She then described how she became acquainted with the prisoner in December, 1900. From that time up to a few months ago she has kept company with him. He first promised to marry her a year ago. She said he was ready to start house-keeping, and she replied that she was. He sent a number of letters to her afterwards, while she was at Robbers.

A letter from the prisoner was then offered in evidence. The prisoner in it offered the complainant $100, and desired that their engagement be put an end to. Some considerable time after the occurrence in the park the prisoner tried to renew his familiarity, and tried to get her to secure medical assistance to remove her difficulty.

Under cross examination the witness stated that she was ready to start house-keeping, and she replied that she was. He sent a number of letters to her afterwards, while she was at Robbers.

The witness remained composed throughout her trying examination, though at different times she nearly broke down.

The court adjourned at one o'clock.

JAPANESE ACCOUNT OF VLADIVOSTOK ATTACK.

TOKIO, March 10.—Vice Admiral Kamimura, reporting the bombardment of Vladivostok on March 8, says the attack commenced at ten minutes to two in the afternoon and the firing was kept up about forty minutes. He believes the bombardment was effective and demoralizing to the enemy. The Russian forces did not reply to the Japanese fire. Japanese cruisers subsequently reconnoitred several adjacent places on the coast, but found no trace of the enemy. The full report of Vice-Admiral Kamimura, who commands the second Japanese squadron, says: "As pre-arranged, we reached the entrance to Vladivostok on the morning of March 8 through a frozen sea. The enemy's ships were not seen outside the harbor. We approached the batteries on the northern coast from a point beyond the range of the batteries on the Balzan promontory on the morning of March 8. After bombarding the inner harbor for forty minutes, from 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, we retired to the outer harbor. The enemy's ships were invisible and the batteries did not fire. ## BURGLARS AGAIN.

T. J. Cronin's Saloon Was Broken
Into and Liquor Stolen—Cash
Registers Untouched.

Once more the burglars have got in their work, and as in the case of the Eastbrook and Myers burglaries the police are in the dark.
This latest case is the entering of the premises of the late T. J. Cronin, on German street. The main entrance to the retail store is by a large single door, the upper portion of which is of glass. The large light "was cut off about half way up and completely removed, also a spider was from the frame a space sufficiently large for an ordinary sized man to enter. Officer Scott and his mate while trying the doors on their last round found the break and entered through the same hole that the burglar did. They secured a lamp and carefully searched the premises but found no one. From behind a stove they took a large tin shield which they nailed over the break and made their exit by a door leading to Market Place, letting the bar fall behind them.
This morning when the clerks opened the place they made a careful examination of the premises to see what was missing but all that had been removed was three bottles of liquor. Before the registers were practically emptied and the money placed in a safe. The drawers of the registers are left open. In one last night there was sixty-five cents, all in copper, and in the other three dollars. This money was found untouched.

SOME MARVELOUS FIGURES.

What Could be Done With the Rain that Fell Tuesday.
Tuesday last was a wet day in St. John. As a matter of fact, about two and a quarter millions of tons of rain fell within the four corners of the city (a topographical error in the Star yesterday morning in the Star yesterday morning is apt to be discredited by the skeptical, but just consider a moment the facts that conclusively prove it.
St. John has within its bounds over 3,000 acres of area, according to the official report, was 2 1/2 inches. It is an axiom with meteorologists that precipitation of one inch of rain per acre amounts to approximately 101 tons of water. On Tuesday, the precipitation was 2 1/2 inches, or 525 1/2 tons of water to the acre. By simply multiplying the area of St. John (3,000 acres) by 525 1/2, the amount of total precipitation of rain in St. John on Tuesday will be derived. It was 1,275,000 tons, or 44,625,000 gallons. What could be done with the 44,625,000 gallons of water?

It would keep No. 2 engine, which is of the most powerful type in Canada, for nearly three years, working ten hours per day, pumping water through an inch and a half nozzle. It would be enough water to run a city the size of New York for more than two days.
It would supply all the needs of St. John for about three months.
It would flood an acre field over a quarter of a mile deep.
Frozen into blocks and piled into a column one hundred feet square it would make a pillar of ice extending up about one mile and a quarter into the air.

ST. STEPHEN CHAMPIONS.

Sackville Defeated in the Deciding Game Last Night—Mohawks
Beat the Neptunes.

The largest crowd that has witnessed a hockey game in this city for years was in attendance at the Queen's Rink, the principal attraction, of course, was the contest between the St. Stephen and Sackville teams to decide the New Brunswick championship. The result gives the trophy to St. Stephen, but the difference between the teams is practically nil. As far as last night's game is concerned, the boys from the border city put up the better game. They kept right on top of the puck, except when one or another would loaf off side. This was one of the distressing features of the game, and one that lovers of good hockey do not like to see. Of course, any team that will not take advantage of the opportunity is not up to much and could never expect to get in the championship class. The referee, that is, Allen, of St. Stephen, was perfectly impartial, but allowed considerable leading and side. This, however, it is understood, has not been considered a very serious offence in several provincial towns where hockey is played.
The game was fast as far as individual play went, but was lacking in team work. It was a case of every man for himself. There was no heavy body checking, the game being tried from what at times tends to injure the sport in the eyes of some.
To St. Stephen belongs the credit of a well deserved victory, and to Sackville, the credit of giving the provincial centres some magnificent sport during the winter. They put up a good fight for the championship and that they were equally popular with the St. Stephen boys was evidenced by the reception accorded them last evening. After 25 minutes' play, Love scored for Sackville. Hill made a great effort to stop the puck, but it went off his pads although with not sufficient force to land in the net. Still it was behind the posts. In the second half Sackville scored after two minutes' play. Their making a pretty shot. Shortly before time was up McWha scored for St. Stephen amidst the greatest excitement, getting the puck in a mix-up in front of the Sackville goal.
The Mohawks and Neptunes crossed sticks in the third of the city championship series. The Mohawks won by a score of 2 to 1.

POLICE COURT.

Matters Were Rushed Today—A
Boy and a Policeman—Another
Sheriff St. Resident.

This was civil court day and as a result matters were rushed by Police Magistrate Ritchie. Joseph Dixon was fined $16 for resisting the police and $8 for drunkenness.

David Kilfoil, 25 years of age, but was looked up last night by Officer Silas Perry for calling the official names and otherwise conducting himself in an ungentlemanly manner. David's mother secured permission from the chief to take the lad home last night on condition that he should appear this morning. David was on hand good and early and said his little piece like a man. He told the magistrate that he sold papers for a living and played marbles as a pastime. He was enjoying himself when Perry appeared on the scene, but did not call the officer any names. He would not do such a thing.
The magistrate gave him a severe talking to and then dismissed him. John McDonald, 22 years of age, a native of P. E. Island, was gathered in last night by Officers Marshall and McNamee. He is charged with being a vagrant and an habitual frequenter of houses of ill repute on Sheffield street. The case will come up this afternoon.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

On next Monday evening our local theatre-goers will fill to the seats of the great English melodrama, "The Black Mask." This play has for the past three years been the sensation of England and the two companies presenting it are playing to crowded houses. "The Black Mask" is far above the ordinary run of melodrama, and it has a story and plot that is bound to interest all classes. It is a melodrama of the same class as "The Silver King," "Sherlock Holmes" and other English melodramas. New scenery has been painted and those who attend Monday evening will witness a splendid play. Already there is a large demand for seats and no doubt a large audience will welcome back their favorites.

GOING AWAY GIFTS.

A reception was held on Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. John Campbell, Prince street, West End, by a large number of young people, friends of Albert Hartley, who left yesterday morning for Portland, Me. Rev. W. Ferguson, on behalf of the young people, presented Mr. Hartley with a handsome presentation case. The Carleton F. C. Baptist Sunday school, of which Mr. Hartley was a member, presented him with a beautiful gold mounted fountain pen in token of their good wishes. Refreshments were served and music and games indulged in and the gathering broke up at a late hour.

THE FISH MARKET.

There is a good assortment of fish for tomorrow's market, both fresh and cured. Cod and haddock are quoted at 5 cents per pound, halibut at 15 cents and smelt at 10 cents. Shad are quoted from 25 to 30 cents each, herring at 18 cents per dozen and smoked and pickled fish at the usual prices. There are very few fish being caught at present, the fishermen being occupied fitting out for the halibut season. Probably in a week or so it will be necessary to send to Boston for haddock. All shad on the market at present are from cold storage.
