MUSIC ARRANGED FOR THE EXHIBITION

The Milltown Band Arranging an Excursion.

Local Bands Will Give Concerts Every Afternoon and Evening—Lots of Entries Coming In.

Arrangements have been made by the Exhibition Association for a fine musical programme for the coming exhibition. Contracts have been entered into with the bands of the 3rd Regt. Canadian Artillery and the 2nd Fusiliers, and the City Cornet Band.

A special excursion has been arranged for St. Stephen for one day during the exhibition by the Milltown Cornet Band and on that day the Milltown musicians will give concerts both afternoon and evening.

As the time of the big fair draws closer the entries are coming in more rapidly. A very large number were received this morning and the prospect is that the total number of entries will be much larger than usual.

Special attention is being paid this year to the conveniences of the exhibitors of live-stock and those who wish to see these exhibits. The buildings at the lower end of the ground have been put in excellent condition for this department.

BOY RUN DOWN BY AN AUTO WILL DIE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—An automobile said to belong to Eli Akis Ford, of Ontario, N. Y., and containing the owner and his wife, ran down Philip William, ten years old, of West 144th street, at Eight Avenue and 144th street, last night.

The owner took the boy to Harlem Hospital. He has a fractured skull and will probably die. A crowd of boys tried to wreck the machine in front of the West 125th street station where J. N. Scott, the chauffeur, was locked up, but a shower of nickels calmed them, which were thrown from the automobile.

The organization elected James Gibbs, President, a Delegate from Buffalo worked hard to secure next year's convention for that city, and 108 votes were cast for that place against 14 cast in favor of Louisville.

WILLEMSTAD, Aug. 28.—The Dutch battleship Jacob Van Heemskerck which sailed from Holland, August 11, arrived here this evening, and was saluted by the fleet.

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 28.—John Hopkins was hanged here today for the murder, last January, of Lena Craig, an eighteen year old school teacher. "I am an innocent man; cut the dog loose," exclaimed Hopkins, just a moment before the trap was sprung.

SYDNEY, Aug. 28.—The Lumpers Union has refused to permit its members to coal the American hospital ship Relief, on the ground that the battalions of the American fleet were coaled by its ownmen. American sailors are now coaling the Relief.

POLAND SPRINGS, Me., Aug. 29.—George F. Rowell, of New York, prominent for many years in the newspaper advertising business, died last night at the Poland Springs house. He was born in 1838.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 29.—Prince Markhanof, the celebrated physiologist, died here today, aged 82.

RESULTS EXPECTED FROM EXPERTS' VISIT

British and Foreign Engineers on Way to New Glasgow.

Had a Big Time in Sydney—They Will Probably Interest Capitalists in Canadian Industries.

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 29.—Members of the N. S. Mining Society and their guests, British and foreign mining experts, concluded their round of visiting to Cape Breton industries yesterday, and left this morning for New Glasgow and Digby en route to the Pacific Coast.

Yesterday's programme included a visit to the plant of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company at Sydney Mines. The party, including about eighty people, left Sydney this morning for North Sydney by steamer Pavo.

The steel works were probably the most interesting portion of the plant visited, the plant being in full running order, and the visitors were enabled to witness the running of molten metal and casting of pig iron.

In absence of President C. J. Coll, of the Mining Society, Professor F. M. Sexton, in a brief speech, thanked President Harris on behalf of the Mining Society and their guests for the splendid manner in which they had been entertained and congratulated them upon their fine plant, which they had just visited.

The party left at 7.40 this morning for New Glasgow where they remain for several hours, after which they will leave for Digby thence through to Cobalt, British and foreign mining experts are generally well pleased with what they have seen since coming to Cape Breton and their ideas concerning Canadian industries are greatly improved.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE

The German Crown Prince Disgusted With It.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The officials in the Ministry of the Interior suffered a rude shock on the receipt of the last mail from the Crown Prince, who is taking a vacation from his duties in the Ministry. His Highness returned a bundle of reports, which had been sent him for his perusal, with this message in plain letters on the outside: "Away with all this superfluous scribble."

MOTORIST INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

John H. Tyson Has Been Keeping Out of the Way Since He Killed a Man in February.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—John Hamilton Tyson, son of the founder of the Tyson Theatre Ticket Agency, was indicted by the Grand Jury yesterday for manslaughter in the second degree following the death of Olat Gunderson, formerly steward of the Columbia Yacht Club, in Roosevelt Hospital, February 24 last, from injuries received when he was struck by Tyson's automobile the day previous during what is alleged to have been a wild ride. Since the night of the accident the police, private detectives and interested members of the Yacht Club, with whom Gunderson had been a great favorite, had been making every effort to find the motorist. Tyson is now in Connecticut, but, it is said, he has offered to appear in court next Wednesday.

ANNUAL PENSIONS COST £34,000,000

Lloyd-George's Investigation of Germany's System.

The Workmen Contribute Two-thirds—Employes Pay £9,000,000 for Accidents.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—David Lloyd-George's investigation of the German system of pensions has returned to London. He said, when it was suggested that he discussed naval programmes in the course of his tour to Germany, that he had gone to that country simply to investigate the German system of old-age pensions.

It seems, according to Mr. Lloyd-George's statements in an interview, that he did not find the German system to be of such a Socialistic character as he and his friends advocate in Great Britain. He said: "Employers will tell you that nearly all their workmen are Socialists."

Referring to the pension system, he said: "What a gigantic scheme is theirs compared with ours. Thirty-four million pounds are distributed in pensions every year, but," he added, "of this the state pays £2,800,000, the cost of administration £1,000,000, the rest, £14,000,000, is sick pay. The workmen contribute two-thirds. Eleven million pounds is paid to the aged and incapacitated, masters and men contributing equally. Nine million pounds is paid for accidents, which expense the employers must meet."

QUEEN WILLHELMINA

Queen had the pick of almost every eligible member of the European royal houses ten years ago, and in selecting that extremely sensitive young man, Duke Henry, of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, she made a choice which she has never regretted.

The fact that Queen Wilhelmina and her consort have been childless recently brought the question of succession to the attention of politicians. According to the constitution, in default of a legal heir the succession to the throne is designated by the sovereign and a joint meeting of both Houses of Parliament, such augmented to twice its usual membership, or by this assembly alone. If the sovereign has died without designating a successor, there is also in the constitution of 1833 an article said to be in no way invalidated by the revisions of 1838 and 1887 which provides that the sovereign in case of their being no heir-apparent, may divorce his or her consort and take another spouse. Ever since their marriage in February, 1891, it has been more than once hinted that such would be the fate of the royal pair of the Netherlands.

PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO THE ROSS RIFLE

Captain A. Barry of Scotland Says it is Regarded as Coming Rife

FREDERICTON, N. B., Aug. 29.—Col. A. Barry of St. Andrew's, Scotland, arrived here today en route to the Miramichi woods, where he will spend the month of September hunting bears and moose, under the guidance of Henry Braithwaite, the veteran guide. Col. Barry was taken into a subject of controversy in Canada, and discussing this subject with your correspondent today, he spoke in terms of the rifle. He said he had discussed this rifle with experts in the old country, and they all seemed to regard it unimportant as the weapon of the future. He was surprised to learn that the Ross rifle was a subject of controversy in Canada.

CANADA AND SEA POWER.

"Pitt's Imperial War," which in seven years transformed the kingdom of Great Britain into the British Empire, affords the most striking illustrations of the stupendous influence of sea power that history has to offer. The paucity with which the Tarcentenary of Quebec - coinciding save for one year, with the semi-centenary of British dominion in Canada - is being celebrated is mainly of a military character; but this is wholly due to the relative values of the land and sea forces in spectacular displays, and should not for one moment be allowed to obscure the fact that Canada was won for us by sea power, and that, except against the United States, by sea power alone can it be held. The Seven Years' War, which began in 1756, enriched England with vast territories in America, India and Africa, and not one square mile in those scattered regions was brought under our flag other than through the direct action or influence of the command of the sea.

The war was world-wide, and involved all the great nations of Europe, England and Prussia, with a few minor German States, were pitted against France, Austria, Russia, Sweden, and Poland, joined in 1763 by Spain. It was primarily a Continental war, but England's strength lay then, as it always must, in her fleet, and in the brilliant direction of William Pitt her arm was wielded in such a manner that the effect of sea power alone was visible in the Peace of Paris, which brought the way to a conclusion.

NO FLEET. The conquest of Canada was but one incident in the struggle, but it involves nearly every principle that was brought into operation. Canada was gained by a French military force, and a British army advanced from the south against it, but Pitt saw at once that ultimate victory would go to the country that could obtain command of the communications between America and the base of supplies at home, and he saw that the only way to effect this was to direct the French colonial expansion, this principle was not discarded across the Atlantic, and when in 1759 the "The enemy can come to Quebec if we have no fleet," he appealed to unassuming common sense, and the result was that the French government being willing to spend its resources in providing ships to secure their communications with Canada, it is doubtful whether they would have succeeded. The grand scheme on which the war was organized by Pitt, and his conceptions of the principles of an imperial strategy, gave little hope of success to an army, which was caught at the opening of hostilities in a minority of one ship-of-the-line to the navy's majority of 100. The result was that the British expedition was despatched in comparative safety all over the world, the French fleet being gradually worn down, and finally extinguished.

A GREAT LANDING PARTY. The army which, under Wolfe, captured Quebec on September 13, 1759, was nothing more or less than a great landing party from the fleet, borne on the shoulders of a man whose name is as familiar to one Englishman as that of Wolfe is to a thousand. Charles Saunders, specially promoted to vice-admiral for this service, is probably so little known because he has left so little behind by which the man himself can be pictured; but this should not be allowed to obscure his memory, or to rob him of the credit which his services fully entitle him to. In 1711 an expedition had endeavored to reach Quebec with the result that eight ships and more than eight hundred men were lost; and this was probably in Wolfe's mind when he wrote: "I conclude he (Saunders) will send four or five of his smallest ships of the line to anchor before the Isle of Caundres ready to fight whatever fleet the enemy may send to disturb us." In a matter of fact, Saunders took his whole force up the river over a hundred ships, although the fleet was under the slightest mishap. When the actual siege of the fortress began there were present 12,000 men of the Royal Navy, 6,000 military and although there can be no doubt that Quebec would ultimately have fallen had Saunders remained at the Isle of Cedres, it is equally certain that the intrepid action of the admiral and the assistance rendered by the ships after they reached Quebec facilitated the whole operation in a remarkable degree.

SHIPS, ALWAYS SHIPS. It is, nevertheless, not on the fleet in the St. Lawrence that attention should chiefly be concentrated. The forces that won Canada were the British fleets in the Channel and the Mediterranean, which kept the communications open to the British and closed them to the French. An imperial war is always a war of navies, and no world-wide war is decided not by such minor forces which never have more than a passing and local effect, but by the conflict of the main fleets of the competing nations.

At the same time, however, it cannot be denied that the case is different when we consider a conflict with a distant power - say, Japan. Four years

THE MINISTRY IN GERMANY.

Germany has of late been giving some attention to the phenomenal decrease in the number of theological students in attendance at the universities in that country. In all other departments of German universities there has been during the past few years, a very marked increase in the enrollment and the church is lamenting the fact that within the past twenty years the number of Protestant theological students has fallen from a total of 4,572 to 2,106, or 54 per cent, this being all the more significant when it is noted that in the same period the total enrollment in all branches has increased only slightly less than 100 per cent. The cause of this undesirable state of affairs has been a subject of much discussion in synods, conferences and church papers, while even parliaments have given some time to the matter. Conservative papers and clergy of the older school are strongly of the opinion that advanced methods of teaching, the radical theology now favored at some universities, is the source of the trouble, and are appealing to the authorities to adopt views in harmony with the traditional faith of the church. These views are that the majority of the professors now in engagement are not in sympathy with the faith which candidates are expected to preach to the people. Many previously accepted points of doctrine and it is asserted that their principal aim in preparing young men for the university is to make the students doubt even the fundamental articles of faith as taught by the church in order that these students may of their own accord, work out their way towards a true belief in Christianity, and thereby become better men than if they accepted the church teaching from tradition alone. The advanced thinkers in reply to these attacks are undertaking to show that the decrease of theological students in Germany is not due to their presence. Statistics have been gathered from all Protestant universities giving theological courses and from these it is shown that the decrease in students for the ministry ranges from 23 per cent, to 79 per cent, and that the make up of the faculties has absolutely nothing to do with the rate of decrease. Indeed, in the three most conservative universities decreases of 58 per cent, in students during the past 20 years are shown while in the five institutions which are declared to be most advanced, or radical, the decrease has been only 38 per cent. They argue that through the tendency of the age all universities suffer more or less equally, that radical faculties do not draw large numbers of students. Nothing, it is maintained, will crowd lecture rooms excepting a revival of evangelical Christianity in the professors' chairs, and this when it makes itself felt will gain in strength irrespective of whether the teachers belong to the radical or conservative school.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE

STEALING.

I had no idea there were so many thieves in the world until I began to leave things unattended and unlocked. There are so many umbrella, over-shoe, and rubber thieves that they are past counting. I caught my pastor taking off my umbrella and his deacon putting on my rubbers. As my pastor had never been known to steal anything of more value than a sermon before, I think he took my umbrella absent-mindedly. He is too good a man to be guilty of more than petty larceny, appropriating a sermon or some little thing like that. But the stealing I want to denounce and the thieves I want to see sent to penitentiary are not bank robbers, brigands, burglars and footpads, but the miserable thieves who steal my time. "I was just going by," he says, "and thought I would run in just a moment and see you." And then that miserable thief who would be in Dorchester for three years for stealing something not half as valuable, steals from ten to twenty minutes of my time, my business, my pleasure, my peace of mind. I have no doubt but what many a business failure—unwarranted for—could be traced to the thief who stole away the business man's time when it was worth many dollars a minute. Many a dull editor would have been brilliant, but for the thief who stole away the editor's minutes and diverted his thoughts by just running into his office for a "moment" and stayed ten minutes. Politicians have lost elections because from one to a hundred of their constituents have stolen away the time that should have been given to the rest of the electors. A Cabinet Minister (or a would-be Cabinet Minister) goes to his hotel and hopes while there to meet many of his political friends. Fifteen minutes after the papers announce he is in town, thieves begin to call upon him. If they were not thieves he would be glad to see them, but these thieves stay on and on and the politician leaves town with a feeling of disappointment he hoped to have met and talked for a few minutes with hundreds of his friends, and he has only seen dozens of them. The others are disappointed, and a little bored and some drop away from him and the rest only work him ill-heartedly and he loses his election. There are those that have been spoiled by thieves who have stolen away the poor preacher's time as well as his own. If he were not considered unministerial to kick a boot out of the study and down stairs, there would be a great deal better sermons preached than there are, and it is the same with the poor girl. Many of them would have been happily married who are lonely spinners, but for the fact that some selfish thief stole away her opportunity by monopolizing her time and keeping away one who would have been her lover. There are other girls who suffer untold agonies because he lingers and will not say good night. Well she knows of what her father is thinking as he and her mother go up to bed. She lives in dread of the time when she will hear her father ask from the head of the stairs, "If that young man there is well she knows how she will be chaffed by his sister and little brother who call him "The stay too late young man." I am not irreverent when I say from my heart. From thieves who steal my sermon, editorial and business and friend making time "Good Lord deliver us."

INFERNAL REGION OF NEW ZEALAND

Geysers, Boiling Lakes, Volcanoes and Steam.

A Bewildering Display of Hidden Force Seesby Man of the Battle Fleet. If you would see the earth used as a cooking stove and snift saucy under the world's most unique outdoor kitchen, you have only to journey to Rotorua, where two hundred of the geysers of the American battleship fleet went last Wednesday. Here you will find Dame Nature in the role of a cook, making light the duties of the housewife, and providing one of the most unusual wonders of the globe. In this thermal wonderland, away down in the charming dominion of New Zealand they even have "the frying pan." Within a few rods of what was until recently the world's greatest geyser, is a silicious crust covered with sulfurous clouds of steam and so perforated that the bubbling hot water beneath are strikingly suggestive of a pan of frying fat. Here in this strange belt of steaming mountains, colored lakes and springs and buried villages, the Maori daily draws his food from the ground, thoroughly cooked and never burnt to a crisp nor scorched in the slightest degree. Here the Maori lads do not have to carry firewood to their mothers, and so escape a task that occasionally makes grumbling in many other lands. Where nature's subterranean fires are always burning and constantly supplying hot water and steam, stoves are not needed and fuel men are scarce. Even white people follow the example of the natives of "Aotearoa," and cook their food in steaming holes and boiling pools. In the native village of Ohinemutu, hard by the world-renowned resort of Rotorua, we first saw the famous steam-cooking holes, and watched men and women, both brown and white, place in them utensils containing pork, chicken and potatoes. Then they covered the holes with boards and gunny sacks and returned to their other duties, leaving obliging nature to do the rest. We saw the Maori woman place a pot containing a chicken in a hot pool and sit comfortably by, stolid and uncommunicative, while we looked on in amazement. Not far away a white woman struggled to a steaming pool carrying a large section of pork, and within a few yards of the public road a middle-aged white man put a pot of potatoes in a hole, covered it, and returned to his house. KITCHEN ALWAYS READY. Hot water and steam so underlie Ohinemutu and its neighborhood and Whakarewera, two miles distant, that these kettles and ovens of the earth's crust can be obtained at almost any place, any time, by just a little digging. All around Ohinemutu—part of which was sunk in an earthquake twenty years ago—near the carved public meeting house and away over in the manuka swamp, with its labyrinthine paths, are scattered ponds, mud volcanoes, and kitchen crust, clouds and columns of steam, and within a few yards of the public road a middle-aged white man put a pot of potatoes in a hole, covered it, and returned to his house. But these are only patches in the cooking valley of Rotorua. Passing through Whakarewera, where cooking holes and pools and native chiefs are plentiful, one may reach after a long and somewhat uninteresting drive to the "inferno" spot, where the exhibition of hidden power is striking, in fact, bewildering. Really terrifying, however, is White Island, a few miles off the coast. This bit of land is being demolished quickly by the action of internal forces, and its only inhabitants, crabs and rats, may eventually find themselves cooking in the acidulous lake into which the island is crumbling. Hardly less forbidding and certainly nauseating, is Titikate, where the guide leads you from "Hell's Gate" to the "inferno" and near the carved public meeting house and away over in the manuka swamp, with its labyrinthine paths, are scattered ponds, mud volcanoes, and kitchen crust, clouds and columns of steam, and within a few yards of the public road a middle-aged white man put a pot of potatoes in a hole, covered it, and returned to his house. A WORLD RESORT. In this region, extending for 150 miles north and south and for several leagues east and west, are numerous geysers, steaming mountains and plains, volcanic craters, curative baths, colored lakes, and weird phenomena of subterranean fires. The hot lakes district of New Zealand is most easily reached from Auckland.

CURIOUS LEAP YEAR LEGENDS.

"Who started it, anyway?" asked a small boy who had just been spanked, and, with the instinct of a resentful historian, wished to know who had originated the practice of spanking naughty children. All he could learn, of course, was that there was ample historical precedent for such punishment; and that is perhaps even more than one can learn about the interesting tradition that in leap year girls may propose without being considered unbecomingly forward.

From away back somewhere comes the story that the men who established the right of women to propose in leap year and the first man to be honored by its practice, was no less distinguished a person than Saint Patrick himself, and that the woman who proposed to him was Saint Bridget, in whose memory the "Fire of Saint Bridget in Kildare of Ireland" burned for centuries without being extinguished.

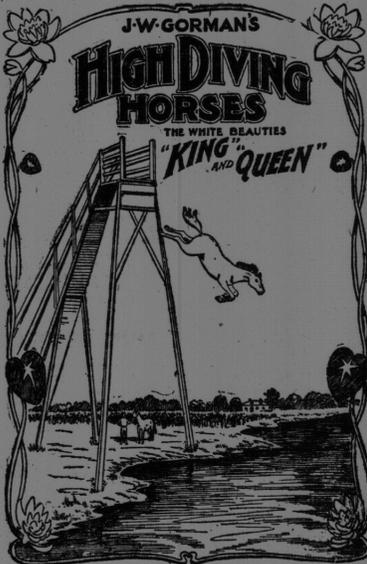

SAINTE BRIDGET.

According to this legend, Saint Patrick, having purchased the "sermit" that drove the frogs into the bogs, and bothered all the varmin's, including snakes, was one day walking along the shores of a lake, when he was accosted by Saint Bridget in tears. Inquiring the cause of the good woman's weeping, the Bishop was informed that a mutiny had broken out in the nunnery over which Saint Bridget presided, the marriageable women claiming the right to "pop the question." Saint Patrick, who was plainly a generous-spirited man, was instantly ready to concede the privileges, and suggested that the right be extended during every seventh year. Thereupon, the old story goes, Bridget threw her arms around the good Bishop's neck and exclaimed, "Arrah, Patrick jowl, I daunt not go back to the girls wid such a proposal! Make it one year in four." "Bridget, acushla," replied Saint Patrick, "squeeze me that way again, and I'll give you leap year, the longest of the lot!" Bridget, according to Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," which retells the story, on the spot proposed to Saint Patrick himself. Instead of promising to be a brother to the good woman in order to soften the blow of his necessary refusal, Saint Patrick promised the gift of a silk gown, and all was well.

This is a good story, and makes good old Saint Patrick—and he was good, a hero indeed—thoroughly human and delightful, but, sad to tell, it lacks all historical sanction. It sounds altogether too modern, and seems a bit like taking liberties with revered personages. It serves to show however, that the traditional right of woman to

ALL GOES WITH MERRY SWING TOWARDS SUCCESS OF EXHIBITION

One of the most interesting and attractive of the amusement features to be offered at the coming Exhibition will be the Imperial Japs, a family of six direct from Tokio, and only in this country a few months. As a troupe they will be found the most finished and skillful Oriental artists ever presented to the public. Their wonderful acrobatic versatility is shown in a great repertoire of amazing athletic and juggling feats, combining every possible feat known to artists from the Flowery Kingdom.

It has been difficult to secure a Jap troupe, and with the exception of the diving horses, probably nothing at the fair will be anticipated with more interest. With the diving horses, Adgie's lions, Mrs. Tom Thumb and company, the Japs, pony circus, mammoth display of fireworks and the varied amusement features. This, together with the remarkable manner in which the entries for machinery hall, agricultural hall, and carriage exhibit, are coming in, gives every evidence of success for the exhibition of 1908.

In the matter of fireworks the coming show will stand beyond any of its predecessors and the grand spectacle of displays such as the eruption of Mount Vesuvius will compare favorably with those that the same firm are providing for the Toronto fair.

The sale of $1 season tickets at the drug stores has already reached large proportions as the fact that six transferable tickets can be procured for $1 commends itself to everybody. The sale of these tickets will cease on the evening of September 12.

and who among women made the first out and out leap year proposal, are shrouded in the mystery of unwritten history; unless indeed Saint Patrick and Bridget, started the practice.

WILESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Five men were killed, six seriously injured at the Warrior Run Colliery, of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, six miles from this city, late today. The men were being hoisted up a slope when a runaway car struck the train of mine cars which were twenty employees of the mine. Only six of them escaped injuries. Those killed were:

COMMON LAW GAVE THE RIGHT. In 1606, however, "Curious Love and Matrimony," a curious old book, was printed, and in it is this, which shows that the tradition was then an old one:

"Although it is now become a part of the common law,.... that as often as every bissextile (leap) year doth return, the ladies have the sole privilege.... of making love unto the men, which they do either by words or looks, as to them it seemeth proper; and, moreover, no man will be entitled to the benefit of clergy who doth in any wise treat her proposal with slight or contumely."

This at least seems to show that more than three hundred years ago the tradition that women might propose in leap year by "words" if they chose was firmly enough established to be called "common law." Making love by "looks," of course, goes much further back—away back doubtless beyond the days of Saint Patrick—and is undoubtedly as old as the practice of spanking naughty children.

When making love either by words or by looks was granted to women as a special leap year privilege, however,

STILL HARD AT WORK THOUGH NINETY-FIVE

Trucker Declares Labor, Plain Food and Good Hours Mean Longevity Began When Fourteen Years Old, and Thomas Bullion Expects to Keep It Up Still Longer

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 27.—If you want to live long and be happy, so grow old without being a burden to those about you, listen to the advice of Thomas Bullion. The man who at ninety-five is still able to do the work of a man can break a wild horse to harness in record time, who could outrun and outstride many men half his age, and who can do any ordinary day's work as mere play knows the secret of longevity, and he doesn't mind telling it.

Eighty-one years have rolled around since Bullion began doing manual labor for a living, and he is still at it, with every prospect of the century mark staring him in the face. When fourteen years of age he started out into the world to make his own way, and he hasn't taken anybody's penny yet.

"Perhaps I might have lived longer if I hadn't started in to work so early in life and kept at it so long," said Bullion, as he seated himself on the step of his home, No. 410 East Fort Street, a merry twinkle in his eyes at the thought of the joke he was perpetrating. "You see, I'm only ninety-five, which isn't much."

Bullion isn't exactly the sort of a man with whom you would want to have an encounter unless you had a running start. His figure is erect, his muscles, prodigiously developed are hard as iron. One blow from the fist that has knocked nothing out of him but plenty of hard toil and protecting its owner, and the resultant zap would continue for some time. It isn't that he is a pugnacious individual, for a more amiable man would be difficult to find. But as he sat there puffing contentedly at his pipe the possibilities of it came to a mix up were too apparent to be overlooked.

WORK DOESN'T KILL. "Let me tell you, my boy, when they come around telling you how work kills a man, don't you believe it. The trouble with most folks is that they don't do enough. Lots of hard work is what keeps you going. If people would cut out all the soft work and busy themselves along with their work, they would live longer and be healthier. When I was only fourteen I started out into the world, and there's not many of them could put it over me now when it comes to working."

"Sure I am, and most of the time, I can't remember when I began. I was once into an early decline. Everybody smoked where I came from. When my boy was three years old, if I was going away for a time and didn't want him to disturb his mother I'd put him in his little chair and he'd do as much as I could for me. He'd be there when I came back, too, and I take a drink once in a while, but not often."

"Don't worry about work. There's no man as would drop dead at the sight of it, but they're the only ones who kill."

"Then the nonconformist started off in search of the man who was raised on him on the truck he owns and operates."

The plucky fellow who has worked off his body all these years and finds Bullion in the best of condition was acquired early in life. He was fourteen years old when he became lame, and he has since become famous as the summer home of William H. Tatt, Republican nominee for President.

"I was in the same place then, not even supporting a parochial school or any other sort of educational institution."

BEGAN WORK YOUNG. Young Bullion was not destined to become a habitué and live the easy life of the natives. The family was too large, and he was numbered too far up among the arrivals. When fourteen years old he became lame, and he had to secure his own livelihood, and he decided while doing so to see something of the world.

"Then, as now, Quebec was the wonder city of the world to the simple dwellers along the lower St. Lawrence, and thither he journeyed. Always handy with tools, he secured a position in a shipyard, learning the ship carpenter's trade, which he followed in various places for half a century."

Bullion was an ambitious youth, with whom nature had dealt kindly. He might have remained an ordinary ship carpenter and made a good living, but he didn't. Instead at the first opportunity he joined a plinking gang. Anybody familiar with shipbuilding knows what that means — more work, and also more pay. It meant even more in his case, for with it came physical development that has stood its owner in good stead.

Sixty years ago Bullion left Quebec, working at his trade in several late cities and finally reaching Detroit, where he was employed as planker at the dry dock at the foot of Orleans street. Then he moved to Saginaw. Steel boats had begun to make their appearance, and the death knell of the old time ship carpenter had been sounded. Bullion invested in a horse and truck and engaged in business for himself. He prospered. There was plenty to do, for the lumber industry was at its zenith and everybody in the Saginaw Valley had money. When the forests disappeared business collapsed, and he returned to Detroit, starting a trucking business here, which he has continued ever since.

Bullion has not depended solely on this for a livelihood, however. He is too enterprising to confine himself to a single line. There are few better judges of a horse and its possibilities than this self-made old man, to whom there is no water enjoyment than climbing up back of a spirited steed and taking a spin around town. FAMILIAR IN HORSE MARKET. For years he has been a familiar figure at horse markets. Many of the horses apparently in the last stages of decrepitude that has come into his possession for a few dollars and later developed into a healthy animal worth several times what he cost. If the number could be ascertained it would be found that scores of horses now working daily owe their existence to the treatment administered by Bullion. He will laughingly admit that he has been rather fortunate in this respect, but dealers familiar with his operations insist that there is more than luck back of his success—that he is a past master in the art of handling horses.

Time was when his favorite diversion was breaking wild horses to harness or the saddle. It didn't take long for the most spirited animal to discover that it had encountered its master and was one up on the struggle. Of late years he has done little in this line, although not because of physical infirmities. The nerves that used to perform the undying of tamed horses are as steady as ever, and the iron muscles are as capable of subduing the most fractious steed. He isn't taking any unnecessary chances, however, preferring to leave work of this nature to younger men.

Bullion came of long lived stock. His father and mother were both French-Canadians, the former reaching the age of 113 years and the latter 108. His mother and his father were both French-Canadians, the former reaching the age of 113 years and the latter 108.

Eight brothers and sisters are still living, one sister, residing at Lake St. John, Quebec, being eighteen months older than Bullion.

There is no apparent reason why this man, who lives with a son, Michael J. Bullion, should not reach the hundred mark. Work is the doctor's chief ally, and he is a consistent exponent of what he preaches. Not a day is passed in idleness and if constant toil adds to the span of life Thomas Bullion will remain on earth for many years to come.

AMUSEMENTS. GREAT HOLIDAY SHOW AT NICKEL. The Nickel is to the front again with a Saturday show that will delight the school children and the half-holiday workpeople to the very utmost. "The Will," has caught on like wildfire, but not any more so than "Uncle Bull Dog," which brought forth roars of laughter and much applause last evening, success being demanded one after the other. "Mum's The Word," "Weston's Song," is a hit likewise. Besides all this fun, pictorial, verbal and musical, the plain, motion photographs will be shown as follows: "Uncle Bull Dog," "The Animated Clock," "Twist Love And Duty," and "Get Me A Step-Ladder." Over 45 minutes of absolute laughing and jingling. Send the children early to avoid rushes.

THE PRINCESS THEATRE. There is a new and excellent programme arranged for the patrons of the Princess Theatre. The picture films are the longest in the city and are especially selected. The picture entitled "The Bandits" is a decidedly thrilling drama. The film "The Alps" is long, and is enacted on the Alps. The President At The Hospital is a picture that has many pathetic features.

SONG MAKES A HIT AT BIJOU. "Twas a day of days yesterday at the Bijou. There were more pleased people left that picture house, both morning and afternoon, than for some time, and that was just because they had the pictures being shown. There is one thing about the Bijou management and it is just this: When they say their pictures are good or new or have never been shown before, you can rely on it. When they advertised a good show for yesterday and today they certainly kept their word as in the five pictures they are showing, viz: "The Bargainman's Child," a very clever drama, both in acting and scenic effects; "Modern Artists," a delightful transformation and the three comedy pictures, very funny pictures, "Two Pranks," "The Tale of the Kodak" and "Troublesome Schoolgirls," they have one of the best of picture shows. When "Dave" Higgins got through singing his song, "I Don't Want the Morning to Come," at the last show last night, he was what the boys term "all in." "Dave" had to sing, the audience wouldn't take no for an answer. Every audience it was two or three encores, and no wonder! Dave's got the song hit of the day! Don't miss it whatever you do.

One of the most interesting and attractive of the many amusement features to be offered at the coming exhibition will be the Imperial Japs, a family of six direct from Tokio and only in this country but a few months. As a troupe they will be found the most finished and extraordinary skilled Oriental artists ever presented to the public, whose wonderful acrobatic versatility is shown in an almost exhaustive repertoire of amazing athletic and juggling feats, combining every possible feat known to artists from the flowery kingdom. It has been difficult to secure a Jap troupe, and with the exception of the diving horses probably nothing at the fair will be anticipated with more interest. With the diving horses, Adgie's lions, Mrs. Tom Thumb and company, the Japs, pony circus, mammoth display of fireworks and the varied amusements on the Pike they will surely be a record array of amusement features. This fact, together with the remarkable manner in which the entries for machinery hall, agricultural hall and the carriage exhibit give every evidence of success for the exhibition of 1908.

In the matter of fireworks the coming show will stand away and beyond any of its predecessors, and the grand spectacular displays, such as the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, will compare favorably with those that the same firm are providing for the Toronto fair. The sale of one dollar season tickets at the drug stores has already reached large proportions, as the fact that six transferable tickets can be procured for one dollar commends itself to everybody. The sale of these tickets will cease the evening of Sept. 12th.

LAST HALF HOLIDAY SHOULD BE THE BEST

For this afternoon there are numerous attractions. Special interest among the local fans centres in the base-ball match on the Shamrock grounds between the St. Peters and Marathons and a record breaking crowd should attend. A small number contemplate making the trip to Halifax to attend the Canadian championship meet there. Among the starters in the various events will be Bobby Kerr, of Hamilton, the world's champion sprinter, and the celebrated long distance runner Tom Longboat of Toronto.

Suburbanites in general, as well as many residents along the St. John and Kennedys rivers, will take special Interest in the illuminated parade, which takes place this evening. Boat races will also be held this afternoon. Lovers of roller skating are expected to turn out in large numbers at the Victoria Roller rink tonight to witness the mile championship race between Olive and Seash, two of the fastest skaters in the Maritime Provinces. Special matches will take place on the rifle ranges. The different moving picture shows throughout the city will run special programmes and there will be a band concert in the King Square stand by the City Cornet Band. With all these attractions the last half holiday of the season should be a banner one indeed.

T. Barclay Robinson narrowly escaped serious injury at the I. C. R. yard last evening. Mr. Robinson was going over a fence in the yard about 7.50 o'clock when he tripped and fell, striking his head on the iron rail. He was badly stunned and was assisted to his feet by bystanders and later was able to proceed on his way.

SMALLEST HORSE IN THE WORLD COMING

The smallest horse in the world is coming to the St. John exhibition. The management has received an application from a party who is desirous of exhibiting the animal. It weighs just exactly thirty-nine pounds and is a great pacer. It is fully grown. Among the entries for the stock department received yesterday was a big one from Sir William Van Horne of St. Andrew, who will send two head of Dutch belted and twenty-three heads of French-Canadian cattle. These breeds are very rare in this part of the county.

"When I see what Barlow accomplished I am forced to admiration," said Bunting. "He has great physical endurance."

"Yes," replied Gargyle. "That man has the constitution of a debutante."

THE SPEED OF THE MODERN BATTLESHIP

The magnificent performance of the battleship-cruiser, Indomitable, which crossed the Atlantic in five and a half days, at the more or less even speed of twenty-six knots, calls attention to one phase of warship design in which Great Britain continues to lead the world. This is superiority in speed.

Although it is unfortunately true that our latest vessels are inferior in gun-power to many of our foreign rivals, no other nation has held a candle to British designs in the matter of speed.

The Indomitable, with a horse-power of 41,000 was designed to reach the speed of twenty-five knots, and on her trials, which were run only a couple of months ago, she succeeded in reaching no less than twenty-eight knots off the log. This is equivalent to about thirty-two land miles an hour and considerably exceeds the speed made by the average passenger train. The performance is the more remarkable when the enormous size of the ship is borne in mind. She displaces 17,360 tons, and is thus nearly three thousand tons larger than the largest ship of her class previously afloat.

FOREIGN RECORDS.
The extent of her superiority over foreign ships may be seen in the following figures, which give the speeds of the fastest armored cruisers in foreign navies:—

Tennessee (United States)	22 knots
Scharnhorst (Germany)	22 knots
Kurama (Japan)	22 knots
Ernest Renan (France)	22 knots

Further there are several British cruisers in the British navy besides the twenty-four knots. Among them are the Kent, Lancaster, Bedford, Berwick, Donagel, Conwall and Cumberland, all vessels of 9,800 tons; the Hope and Drake of 14,100 tons; while the King Alfred, also of 14,100 tons, can do now-runs years after she was built—over twenty-five knots, and is the fastest armored cruiser afloat after the three vessels of the Indomitable class.

Of course, the vessels now building for foreign Powers are all designed for higher speeds. Thus the new Japanese armored cruisers, of 15,450 tons are to make twenty-five knots, while the only armored cruiser of the German vessels now building; but it is permissible to doubt whether they will be capable of lowering the Indomitable's twenty-eight knot record, and also whether subsequent British vessels will not take another leap to the front.

It is not only in armored cruisers that British designs can give the lead. The Indomitable's twenty-eight knot record for a heavy battleship, for example, is there also for four vessels in the Italian navy—the Vittorio Emanuele class—which can do twenty-two knots. For all other armored cruisers, from the modern point of view, their displacement being only 12,625 tons to the Indomitable's 17,360, and the main armament comprising only two 12-inch guns to the British ship's ten.

The fastest foreign battleships, of 24,500 tons, this month, however, will complete two new vessels, the Aki and Satsuma, of 19,700 tons, the design speed of which is 22½ knots. Most foreign Dreadnoughts now building are designed for twenty-one knots.

ONE EXCEPTION.
The only class of warship in which Great Britain is not well ahead is in protected cruisers. At the present moment our fastest ship of this class is the Amethyst, of twenty-three knots, while the United States has two vessels—the Salem and Chester—which exceeded twenty-five knots on their trials, and Germany is building several of 24½ knots.

The Boadicea is, however, nearing completion at Pembroke, and as she is designed for twenty-five knots, it may safely be assumed that she will lower foreign records.

In the smaller classes of ships British superiority is again clearly evidenced. A few months ago we were expressing our pride at the performances of the Tribe class of torpedo-boat destroyers. They were the largest ships of their class in existence, and displaced more than 800 tons, while seven years ago the limit was 280. Designed for a speed of thirty-three knots, all three vessels reached or exceeded thirty-four knots on their trials, while the Tartar, the best of the five, made a rate of thirty-five knots for four hours, and did 37½ knots in her best hour. This is equivalent to more than forty-two land miles an hour.

This performance, splendid as it was, did not long remain a record. A few weeks ago the new destroyer Swift—a vessel displacing 1,800 tons—ran her trials. The contract speed was thirty-six knots, and on her first trials she exceeded this by 2½ knots.

This performance, so satisfactory from some points of view, was rather disappointing from others, for it is believed that no less than forty-four knots was anticipated.

Foreign nations can show nothing to compare with these figures. Germany has one experimental destroyer which did just over thirty-three knots on her trials, but, apart from this, the highest figure outside British waters is thirty-two knots—and only a very few can do that. Japan, however, has just given an order to a native yard for a destroyer of 1,100 tons, and thirty-five knots, but she will not be completed for a couple of years yet.

The list of British success is completed by submarine boats. The latest of this type built for our navy can do thirty-six knots, while the fastest foreign craft are designed for fifteen, and cannot do more than thirteen.

MINISTERS HAVE A BUSY TIME OF IT

Hold a Lengthy Session and Transact Considerable Departmental Business

LEMEUX FOR GASPE

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—There was a lengthy meeting of the cabinet today at which a large amount of business was transacted, though none of the pending appointments to the civil service commission, the railway commission or the governorships of Ontario or Quebec were put through. This was due to the fact that there were a number of the ministers absent. Hon. Mr. Fisher and Hon. Mr. Paterson are in the eastern townships, holding meetings in the public interest, and Hon. Mr. Templeman is on the Pacific coast.

There was a great accumulation of departmental business disposed of, the basket being cleared as a preliminary to the members of the government acceding to their various districts on campaign work. The appointments of James Hunter as deputy; Arthur St. Laurent, assistant deputy, and Napoleon Tessier, secretary of the public works department, of S. T. Bastien as superintendent of government ammunitions; Rear Admiral Kingsmill as commander of the marine service, and Commander Spain as commissioner of wrecks are gazetted, as was announced in this correspondence some time ago would be done.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemeux has again been tendered the nomination for Gaspe.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA FOR SEVEN WEEKS

Thousands of infants die annually who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

There can be no doubt about it. Sixty-three years experience has proved this sterling remedy to be the best for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, and all bowel troubles in both children and adults.

Many of the imitations sold are positively dangerous, as they often check the diarrhoea too suddenly and cause inflammation.

Always insist on the genuine Dr. FOWLER'S, sold at all medicine dealers at 35 cents a bottle.

Mrs. A. B. De Marchand, Bath, N.B., writes: "My baby was troubled with Diarrhoea for nearly seven weeks. I tried three different doctors, but none of them could do her any good. I was advised to try Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and less than half a bottle cured her."

QUEBEC GUNS MAY GO TO THE U. S.

Ottawa Man Offers to Sell Two Used During 1759 Siege to a Detroit Man.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., Aug. 28.—C. M. Burton, of Detroit, has received a letter from Gustave Evanturel, of Ottawa, in which the latter offers for sale two historic cannons used in the defence of the Citadel of Quebec during the siege by Gen. Wolfe, in 1758.

The cannon with two pyramids of balls, now stand in front of the residence of F. E. A. Evanturel, in the village of Alfred. Each gun weighs 1,600 pounds, and is set upon a carriage of the same weight. The barrels of the guns are about five feet long. Each pyramid has thirty cannon balls of thirty-two pound weight. The cannon were preserved in the Quebec Citadel until about seven years ago. Gustave Evanturel has offered the guns to the city of Toronto, but that has received no reply. In the meantime he tells Mr. Burton that he will deliver both guns and balls at Windsor for $1100.

BICYCLE RACES AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

One of the biggest bicycle events arranged in Canada during recent years is the meet to be held on the last day of the Toronto Exhibition, Saturday, September 13th. The programme of sports to take place in the ring in front of the Grand Stand, during the afternoon, will comprise nine bicycle races and one motor cycle race. Four of these races: the half mile, one mile, two mile and five mile events, will be for the Dominion bicycle championship records. The other five races are for novices and invite the appearance of every young man who owns a bicycle. The programme is designed to attract the attention of the public by the promise of fast performances by Canada's crack riders, and to draw out the young and untried rider by offering liberal prizes for winners in the novice class. There is a two mile handicap on the programme: a one mile event for boys 17 years and under, and one entry each for the 250 and 230 class.

Entries, and full information, may be obtained from A. E. Treasgold, 151 Bay street, Toronto, Secretary of the Exhibition Bicycle Races Committee. All entries must be in by September 8th.

Anty Drudge Talks to a Woman Who Hasn't Tried the New Way of Washing.

Anty Drudge—"You poor unfortunate victim of the old-time washday habit! Why won't you wash in the Fels-Naptha way, and strike off the chains that bind you to the steaming washboard and the all-day hard rub-rub on the washboard?"

If you really believed what we say about Fels-Naptha you would use it, wouldn't you?

But you think that it's too easy—impossible.

Many men are wealthy to-day because the majority thought the same thing about the telephone.

To you boiling seems necessary to thorough cleansing.

With soaps of the old sort it is. The clothes must be boiled in order to get the dirt out by rubbing.

Incidentally much of it gets rubbed in.

Fels-Naptha separates the dirt from the fabric in cool or lukewarm water.

Once separated it is easily rinsed away.

But you must remember that Fels-Naptha is made to be used in cool or lukewarm water, summer or winter.

Get Fels-Naptha to-day and follow directions on red and green wrapper.

TELEGRAMS PER OCEAN BILLOWS

of one John Gardner, an English engineer, who uses for his particular species of wireless telegraphy ordinary sound waves transmitted through water.

These waves are used for producing effects of various kinds through electrical agencies affected by vibrations set up by the waves. By using musical notes of a definite pitch, to which his receiving instruments are tuned, he insures immunity from interference, since his instrument hears only one tone and is deaf to all others.

RECEIVES THE VIBRATIONS. At the sound-receiving station the essential apparatus consists of a vibrator sensitive enough to answer to the faintest impulse of the proper sound waves.

This vibrator, or resonator, is a strip of thin metallic tape attached to the inside of a vessel's bottom, floating in such a way that it may receive all the vibrations given to that part of the "ship's skin" exposed to the submarine sound waves.

In this way the tape vibrates sympathetically to all the impulses reaching the craft's submerged plate. But, being furnished to a definite note, the required magnitude of these responsive vibrations takes place only on the arrival of the right tone.

Then the tape starts the electric action upon which depends all further effects at the receiving station.

LIMITED BY SOUND WAVES. Mr. Gardner has devised not only these single tone instruments, but also a three tone instrument, which requires the simultaneous sounding of all three notes in order to release the relay tongue before the desired operation which follows can take place.

The invention is thought to be especially valuable in naval or military operations where secrecy and non-interference are highly esteemed. Also it can be used for turning on and off the lights in boats.

There are many other possibilities of usefulness developing, so that the applications of the invention, becoming limited only by the range of sound of the directive signal generator. To increase this range Mr. Gardner has in mind a powerful sounding apparatus by which he expects to control a distance of many miles.

SHIP THAT CANNOT BE SUNK

Ships that cannot sink are the invention of E. B. Goulet, of London. They are much broader than they have been or are at present, with their length the same or even somewhat longer.

This form and construction provides triple transverse corridors, running lengthwise. These are rendered possible by the extra breadth of the vessel, and are intended to reduce to a minimum the quantity of water that may enter through injuries or openings made in the underwater skin.

The increase of breadth is made at the expense of draft of water, so much so that the ratio is 4:1 instead of the usual 2:1. In the wide transverse there are safety longitudinal corridors surrounding nearly the whole length of the vessel.

So far as practicable there are to be no other water-tight or other kind of doors, but only the smallest possible permanently closed manholes for the purpose of giving access to the cellular compartments along the corridors from the top.

cables would be cut and Britain, severed from Greater Britain, would be unable to fight in the dark. The lack of information as to the whereabouts of our fleets on the high seas, the impossibility of communicating with our possessions over-sea, save by mail steamers, the total ignorance of what our enemy might be contriving for one and doing behind the expense of blue water—all these elements of danger had to be taken into account as adverse factors in the war.

REMOVED FROM OUTER SHELL. The double bottom and double sides of vessels introduced in the '60s, by Sir Edward Reed, were well enough in anti-torpedo days. But now something different is needed. Goulet has it in his cellular side corridors, which he purposes to make about eighteen feet in width. Thanks to this, all the internal vital parts of the ship, especially those liable to explosion, like the steam boilers, magazines, shot and shell rooms, etc., are removed from the outer skin for a distance of about eighteen feet inward on each side of toward the centre of the vessel, thus efficiently securing their protection from outside explosion or any other mode of attack.

PRACTICALLY UNSINKABLE. In larger ships a distance of twenty feet is proposed for the corridor width. The old objection that a vessel of this beam would be slow is met and answered by recent experiments indicating that at high speeds the horse power needed to drive such a boat is really less than for the ordinary hull, owing to the lessened draft. The smaller draft is considered by the inventor a distinct advantage. The broad beam vessel would be practically unsinkable and unapproachable. Her rolling would be heavy, not jerky.

Goulet asserts that he has had offers to build an armor clad of his type, together with a floating dock, large enough to hold it for the cost of a vessel of the same tonnage of the ordinary model.

SHOOTS HERSELF IN MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Woman of the Underworld Had Just Been Sentenced for Three Months

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 28.—"Every one is against me. They have all I have got. I guess God will be a friend to me." With these remarks Della Clayton, a woman of the underworld, pulled a revolver from the folds of her dress in the police court this morning and before the officials could prevent her fired a shot into her head.

The story was given with the true New England atmosphere and the author of the play could hardly wish for a better interpretation of his various characters.

The company is exceptionally well balanced and harmonious. The personality of the members of the troupe is completely subordinated to the interpretation of the play. No character is given prominence beyond its due and no part is slighted by lack of ability in even the minor parts.

It can be safely said that few stock companies ever visited St. John which made a deeper artistic impression or whose members won so firmly the sympathy of the audience.

Dorothy Lee appeared as Lois Halcomb in the title role. She played the part with great skill, showing the many shades of the character of the gentle little country girl who believing her lover to be false marries a New York millionaire.

Angela Hakomb, the New England old maid, was delightfully presented by Eugene Du Bois. Her brother Jerome was one of the best parts of the play as presented by Wm. Townsend.

Robt. Robson as the country woodman, was extremely funny. Joseph Selman as the millionaire, gave an even and finished interpretation of the role.

Decided hits were made by Misses French, Herman and Eastcourt. Theodore Daly as the artist and Harry Wilson as the college boy were both very good. Attractive specialties were presented between the acts.

The play will be repeated this evening at the Saturday matinee. "When We Were Twenty-one."

ARE YOU LUCKY? The love of chance has inspired many to secure seats for the Monday evening performance of that splendid musical play, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," which the Joseph Selman Company are producing at the Opera House, Aug. 31. Mr. Selman has commissioned Don Carlos Du Bois, a well-known artist to paint a portrait of the one holding the lucky seat coupon. After the first set of coupons will be collected, placed in a hat and the owner of the one drawn will be entitled to the portrait either of himself or his seat. Painting completed in four or five sittings.

ERUPTION OF MOUNT VESUVIUS AT THE EXHIBITION, SEPT. 18. One of the features of the places in the elaborate programme of fireworks prepared for the coming exhibition will be the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

The management have this year spared no expense in providing a display which it is hoped will at least equal previous efforts in this direction. A complete programme of the fireworks which will shortly be published will contain a list that requires thirty minutes to show.

IS IT ANY WONDER? From one of the shortest streets in North End came three young men whose combined salaries today, aggregate three thousand dollars.

All three were trained and placed by the Currie Business University, within the past four years.

Is it any wonder that this institution controls ninety per cent. of this city's business.

"Remember," said the earnest inventor, "it isn't so very many years since the telephone caused laughter."

"That's true," answered the man who has trouble with Central. "At first it caused laughter; now it causes profanity."

TWO BIG RACES ON SEPTEMBER 14TH

Events Arranged for Yachts and Sailing Boats

Valuable Money Prizes Offered for Sailing Contests During Exhibition Week.

At a meeting of the R. K. Y. Club at Millidgeville held last evening it was decided to hold two races on Monday, Sept. 14th. One race will be for yachts and the other for salmon boats. The races will be sailed over the following course—Starting from a point off Reed's Point wharf, thence to the whistling buoy, leaving it on the starboard hand, thence round Maloosay Island, leaving it on the starboard side, thence home, leaving Partridge Island, and the bell buoy on port hand, and finishing at the starting line. The time limit, which will be the same in each race, will be three and a half hours. Two judges will officiate for each race, and starters, timers and measurers will be selected by the sailing committee of the R. K. Y. C.

The yacht race will be open to all yachts of registered 90 ft. displacement not to exceed below 20 ft. by the Seavonahaka measurement. The salmon boat race is open to river salmon boats, and the fishermen of the bay. Entries are to close on Sept. 10th at 6 p. m., with H. Bevelley Robinson, secretary. There will be an entrance fee of one dollar for salmon boats, and five dollars for yachts. All yachts and salmon boats must have distinguishing numbers on the sails. Those not already supplied can secure them at the time they are entered.

The salmon boat race will start at 11.30 a. m. and the yacht race at 12 p. m.

The following yachts are expected to start—Canada, Louvina, Viking, Rena, Vagabond, Per Yuen, Glencairn, Possum and Savitar, all of the R. K. Y. C., Hermes, of Yarmouth, Ulvra and Sigina 3rd of St. Andrews. It is also hoped that entries will be received from other yacht clubs.

In the salmon boat race it is expected that practically all the river salmon boats will take part while the bay fishermen are showing an active interest in the event.

Prizes have been arranged as follows for the yacht race:

First prize, $50.
Second prize, $30.
Third prize, $15.
Fourth prize, $5.

And for the salmon boat race—
First prize, $25.
Second prize, $15.
Third prize, $10.
Fourth prize, $5.

It is hoped that the merchants of the city in the interests of sport will also present other prizes for these events, as the boys are going to considerable expense of money and time to make these races a success. The races promise, because of the many fast boats available, to be as good as any ever held here. Most of the courses can be seen from the exhibition grounds.

It has been decided that the salmon boats will race boat for boat, no extra sails allowed.

The above conditions are subject to change by the sailing committee of the R. K. Y. C.

CHRISTIE CO. AND THE STREET SIGNS

A Number of Pointed Questions for the Aldermen.

Inference Is That the Method of Dealing With Tenders Was Rather Loose—An Enquiry Asked.

To the Editor of The Star:

Regarding your item on the tenders for the street signs our position in this matter is open and above board.

We tendered on the signs, submitting two carved signs which we thought might be preferred over the enamel sign, and being higher priced than the painted sign would not come in competition with the painters.

As the papers stated we were asked to submit a price for these done in black and gold. This tender we placed in the hands of the Director Department of Public Works the following morning—not several days afterward as did Vincent and Charlton.

The reason we withdrew our tender was that Mr. Vincent had been able to tell us what our first price was and from his conversation we were lead to believe that he had information about our second price. It looked as if our tenders had been handled either carelessly or unfairly and that it would be useless to let our figure go before the committee. That our suspicions were justified is born out by the fact that this second tender of Vincent and Charlton's was just low enough to beat ours while Mr. Vincent's first tender was 19 cents a sign higher.

As to backing Mr. Sullivan we have no connection with him whatever.

Now as to the "under hand methods" we are ready for an investigation. Are Vincent and Charlton? Why did they join hands leaving only one other tender—ourselves? Why did Mr. Vincent then approach us for a price on the boards? How was he able to tell us what our first price was? How was it that their final price was just low enough to beat ours when Mr. Vincent's first price was 19 cents a sign higher? We hope that this matter will be gone into fully as it may show all the members of the Common Council the importance of having all tenders treated in a fair and business-like way.

Yours respectfully,
The Christie Wood Working Company, Ltd.
C. S. CHRISTIE, Secy.-Treas.
