New Crossings Suggested. To the Editor of the Maritime Farmer t

Sir.—Why have not the City Council served all citizens alike, with regard to putting down crossings on Queen street. Is Regent street more important than Carleton or York and is the creeking the Court House Ferry more necessar, which is the City Hall Ferry? A few planks for crossings at these necessaries and two many to the here neglected points, and two more to the cost Office, would not cost a great deal. Perseps Ald. Edgecombe, or Ald. Davis, or Ald. Hore, the only marriageable members of the Council, will take this matter up and merit the thanks of Sing.—I wish to draw the attention of our city fathers to the fact, that there are a numbers of breakages from frest in the water mains, and having measured some of them; I find that their depth does not exceed in the city schools will be held next week, as follows: Church Hall, Regent Street, Brunswick Street and Morrison Mill's Schools on the contract; also I understand a number of hydrams have been frozen during the winter. Now where does the fault is. Sin-I, with a great many other citizens fear, that the military element will soon beome to ue, if they are not more severely dealt with by their officers than they were for the rowdyism committed by two of their number Friday night. I happened to drop into the Police Court, Saturday mornimes of the rowdy in the rowdy is the rowdy in the rowdy is the rowdy in the row Wright's head, he would have been jailed for months, and perhaps would have been sent to the military authorities, I in the penitentiary, but these soldiers when handed over to the military authorities, I understand, received only a few days' confinement in barracks. I know Col. Mauncell to be a kind hearted gentleman, but I believe he will have to cast aside his feelings when he is called upon to sit judicial on such a case as came before him Saturday. Order in the city must be maintained, and the residents of the barracks must be taught that three is civil as well as military law to which they will be compelled to submit.

A CITIZEN. Fredericton, April 21, 1884 The School Law Amendments

the Editor of the Maritime Farmer:

BIR.—I notice the Government have passed Bill in amendment to the School Law of ar sountry, which reduces the Government salaries, and I am grieved to think that, after having worked a system of Education up to the present state of perfection, the Government should suddenly find it advisable to tear it all down, and return to the old system again. I am also surprised to see the Telegraph speak in the way it does about the present smendment. It says:—"On the whole it will be more satisfactory than the whole it will be more satisfactory than the present Law to both teachers and people; for the teachers will find in the certainty of the amount of their grant, a full compensation for the slight reduction of salary."

I think it Eddies the majority of teachers would much rather run the rick of gatting their schools ranked, and thereby receiving the bonus provided for the present spream, than throw the ten per cent. away altogether. Again, the people are not willing to the same up yeaterday, and with the "Star" will do the business between here and St. John this season. The river is altogether. Again, the people are not willing to tax themselves directly, for the twelve thousand dollars which this most economical Government of ours, claim to have saved by the transaction, and I am sure that the teachte the Feed thousand dollars which this most economical Government of ours, claim to have saved by the transaction, and I am sure that the teachers of our country cannot afford to work without it, for their salaries at the present, do not compare at all favorably with those of other professional classes. I believe that the present system of inspection and ranking the schools was building our schools up and making them what they should be, and the teacher was sercouraged to greater efforts in his work by this same system of ranking, and thus more work and work of a better class was done in our schools during the last few years than ever before. The only teacher who would grumble at the present system, was sither unwilling to do his work, or was incapable of imparting his knowledge to the pupil, and the country, I think, could well afford to lose the services of such a class. What the present system of Inspection and ranking the schools was designed to do in may opinion, was to drive out the drones, and place in their stead, men and women who were qualified and willing to do the important work assigned to them. I think if the members of the Society for Prevention of the subscribers to take, of the subscribers to take, of the subscribers to the fredericton Society for Prevention of the subscribers to the fredericton Society for Prevention of the subscribers to the fredericton Society for Prevention of the subscribers to the fredericton Society for Prevention of the following list to date, of the subscribers to the fredericton Society for Prevention of Society for Prevention of Society for Prevention of Society for

I think if the Government felt obliged to make some alteration in the present system, and had passed an Act which would compel the parents to send their children to school a part of the year at least, such an Act would have been received with a much better grace from their hands, than the recent amendments.

In conclusion, I may say, that if the Government intend to carry out a general plan of reform is the School Law on the basis they have laid down in this amendment, the sconer the country is rid of such an administration in gentlemen were elected provisional A TRUSTEE.

I live for those who love me,
Whose hearts are kind and true,
For the heaven that smiles above me
And awaits my spirit, too;
For all human ties that bind me,
For the task my God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And good that I can do.

I love to haif that assum,
By gifted minds foretold,
When man shall live by rease

When man to man united, And every wrong thing righted, The whole world shall be lighted
