"MURRELLS PUT ONE OVER YOU ALL," SAYS INSPECTOR AT COURT HOUSE INQUIRY

Evidence Given Today Shows That Regulations Regarding Food and Tobacco Were Consistently Broken—Father and Mother of Murrells Give Evidence—Bar Cut From Inside, Declares an Ironwork Expert.

Inspector W. W. Dunlop's investigation into the escape of Sidney and William Murrell, alleged murderers, from the county jail on Friday, September 2, closed this afternoon, having brought out the facts that the jail officials were ignorant of the rules governing the institution; that the escape was an inside job; that the Murrells had had saws smuggled into them; in short, that the prisoners completely outwitted the turnkeys.

"The Murrells put it all over you," declared Inspector Dunlop to Chief Turnkey William McLeod, who was recalled to the witness stand this morning. "They outwitted you. They sure did outwit everyone watching them. You know that now, don't you?" "I do," agreed McLeod.

TABACCO FORBIDDEN.
Governor James Carter was recalled on a point of food being allowed to be taken into the prisoners. He understood, he said, that prisoners on remand could be given food by relatives, but that men sentenced were to have the regular jail food served to them unless the jail physician ordered otherwise. Inspector Dunlop pointed out that only political prisoners, ones jailed for contempt of court, or civil prisoners, could have special parcels given to them. Tobacco, too, he said, was forbidden, except with the consent of the physician.

"If you want me to, I'll shut off the tobacco. I never use it myself, but I hate to see a man suffer," remarked the governor.

Sawn From Inside.
Richard Warren, a stationary engineer, who is visiting in London, and who has had eighteen years' experience in back saw work, stated that the bars in the cell had originally been a 19-inch or 22-inch blade, but had been cut down to six inches, he testified. The men had worked under very unfavorable conditions, and had made eight starts on one bar, showing that they had been interrupted. Under favorable conditions, Warren declared, the men would take a half-hour to saw one bar through. They could not do the work with one saw, he was sure.

Chief Robert Birrell, under examination, told that the police chief of Guelph had called him, warning him of a plot to liberate the prisoners.

Warned Officials.
He said that on two occasions persons had warned him by telephone, and that he had sent an officer to the jail to warn the officials.

Deputy Sheriff R. P. Waterworth did not know that parcels had been sent to the Murrell boys. In his 28 years' experience, he said, he had never known of such a thing.

COUNTY C. I. PUPILS MAY HAVE TO PAY FEE OF $10 A MONTH
No. 3 Committee of Board of Education to Consider Problem.

When No. 3 committee of the board of education meets next week, the members will consider the advisability of increasing the fee charged county pupils attending the local Collegiate Institute. At present these pupils are charged ten dollars per year, and in addition the county is required to pay 80 per cent of the cost of their education, including interest on debentures and sinking fund, for the cost of the building.

Although the interest on debentures and sinking fund was only added to the cost this year, educational officials point to the fact that the county pays only 80 per cent of the cost for county pupils and the ten dollars per year paid by the students is included in this 80 per cent. "Why should the county not pay 100 per cent?" ask the officials, and it is understood that P. J. Thompson, public school inspector for East Middlesex, favors such action as only fair and reasonable. For this reason, Mr. Thompson, No. 3 committee, and one official predicted in conversation with The Advertiser today that county students attending the Collegiate Institute here will likely be required to pay ten dollars per month in the near future instead of for a year's education as heretofore.

Raffles and Games of Chance Stopped By Toronto Order
Instructions have been received by Provincial Officer Palmer from the commissioner of provincial police at Toronto that no raffles or games of chance will be permitted at any of the fall fairs.

Mr. Palmer told The Advertiser today that he also received instructions to notify the press of this ruling so that the public may be advised on the matter.

In answer to a question Mr. Palmer said the ruling applied equally to the Western Fair with any of the smaller fairs, and that in event of the warning being ignored prosecutions will follow.

AUTO IS WITHDRAWN.
Officials of the Children's War Memorial Hospital notified The Advertiser that as a result of a letter received from Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, K.C., conveying a message from the attorney-general's department at Toronto, the automobile raffle which was being conducted during fair week in aid of the funds of the hospital will be discontinued. The auto has been withdrawn and no more tickets will be sold.

NON ATTENDANCE FINES WILL GO TO THE SCHOOLS

School Supported by Defendant in Case Will Benefit by Fine.

ONLY 10,550 PUPILS

Second Attendance Officer Is Not Needed in London At Present.

That all moneys received from penalties imposed under the school attendance act be handed to the board of education of the school of which the person penalized is a supporter is recommended by the minister of education, according to information received here. This means that all fines contributed to the local police court by parents or guardians who break these laws would be handed over to the board of education or separate school board, according to which school the defendant supported.

The minister also recommends that for an effective administration there should be one attendance officer for every 5,000 enrolled pupils. Although a report published here Monday declared that there is estimated to be a school population of 20,000 pupils here under the adolescent school attendance act, which figure means one school pupil in London for every two adults, board of education officials claim that the actual number of pupils is only approximately 10,550 public, separate and high and technical school pupils in London.

"There were 8,300 public school pupils enrolled opening day," Senior Public School Inspector C. B. Edwards informed The Advertiser today. "There are 900 in the separate schools, 850 at the Collegiate Institute, and 500 at the Technical School. The total is 10,550, which is a long way from 20,000 pupils. The man who wrote that just doubled the correct figures."

W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board of education, is of the same opinion as the school inspector. "The writer multiplied the correct figures by two," he asserted, "where did he get this information?"

It is not likely that the board of education will take any steps to appoint a second attendance officer here, as Dr. G. S. Weir, the present inspector, has rendered excellent service, and has not complained of overwork. It is pointed out that there is a separate school attendance officer on duty here, which makes two school local officers to look after 10,550 students.

ARBUCKLE BUT FEW MINUTES BEFORE SAN FRANCISCO JURYMEN Investigation Into Alleged Doings at Party To Be Resumed at Later Date.

MAIN WITNESS MISSING
Prosecutor Intimates Charge of Perjury Will Be Laid Against Woman.

San Francisco, Sept. 13.—The San Francisco county grand jury adjourned at 1:10 this morning without concluding the investigation into the alleged doings at a party last Monday, when the district attorney's office is seeking an indictment charging Roscoe (Patty) Arbuckle, motion picture star, with the murder of Virginia Rappe, another actress.

The investigation will be resumed at a date convenient to Matthew Brady, district attorney, it was announced. Arbuckle was brought before the grand jury at 1 o'clock this morning, but remained only three minutes, when he was led back to his cell.

Five witnesses were summoned by Assistant District Attorney Milton Uren when the sessions were started last night.

Mrs. Bambiina Maud Delmont, companion of Miss Virginia Rappe, was the first witness summoned by the grand jury. Al Somers, another guest of Arbuckle at the party, the screen star's business manager, was the next called.

Others who were called were Zey Provost and Alice Blake, also guests at the party last Monday, and Mrs. Jean Jameson, the nurse who attended Miss Rappe when she was dying.

After half an hour Mrs. Delmont emerged from the grand jury room, leaning heavily on the arm of Police woman Katharine O'Connor. Mrs. Delmont has been ill, she said, due to the shock induced by the death of her friend, Miss Rappe. She is under no restraint, police officials said, but is provided with a police guard to save her from annoyance as the star witness in the case.

In his statement District Attorney Brady charged that Miss Zey Provost, also known as Zey Pyron, had changed her testimony before the grand jury from that she had given previously to the police and officials of the district.

LIBERALS ARE FIRED WITH ENTHUSIASM, CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS IN COMING FIGHT

Conference Between Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and His Chief Lieutenants Today.

PLANNING THE CAMPAIGN
Reform Candidate Will Be Entered in Virtually Every Seat in Dominion.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The Liberal exhibition, and the pending elections have served to fill the capital with sightseers, sportsmen and politicians. To the flock of Government supporters which has thronged the lobby of the "Chalmers" and the outer office of Premier Melchior there has been added today a contingent of Liberals, from all parts of the Dominion, who have come to confer with Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King on general questions of organization. They comprise the first lieutenants of the Liberal leader in all the provinces and all profess to be highly hopeful of the result of the coming contest.

This is particularly so in the case of the delegates from Quebec, the maritime provinces and British Columbia. In the prairie provinces it is admitted that the Progressives are a formidable foe, unwilling to make any alliance against the Conservatives.

The conference will last a couple of days at least. While the danger of three or four-cornered fights is fully realized, it is rumored that the Liberals will place a candidate in every seat of the Dominion where it is humanly possible to do so. "The Liberal party," said a delegate this morning, "would be derelict in its duty to itself and the country if it failed in any seat to place a candidate in every seat to place the people. We believe that the policy which under Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave this country fifteen years' prosperity is good enough for all classes and all provinces."

Quebec Will Go Solid.
Reports from Quebec and the maritime provinces are to the effect that the Progressives will not be a formidable factor here. In Quebec, however, it is stated that there is an inclination on the part of the counties to nominate resident Liberals, instead of being satisfied with non-residents from the cities of Quebec, or Montreal. As a consequence, the 21 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 81; lowest, 55.

The official temperatures for the 12 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 59; lowest, 50.

URGE AGGRESSIVE TRADE CAMPAIGN BY GOVERNMENT

London Chamber of Commerce Will Indorse Action Taken by Hamilton.

LIVE STOCK INDUSTRY
Embargo Endanger Interests of Canada.

Convinced that if the government does not take immediate steps to relieve both temporarily and permanently the business depression which confronts the live stock breeders of this country as the result of the high tariff wall of the United States and the British embargo, Canada will lose one of its basic industries, the directors of the London Chamber of Commerce will take action at their meeting on Tuesday next on the resolution contained in a letter drafted by the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, and sent to Hon. J. C. Tolmie, minister of agriculture, and to the various industrial organizations throughout the country.

Serious Situation.
The letter reads: "At a recent meeting of the board of directors, a discussion was held with special reference to the serious condition confronting the western live stock industry owing to recent changes in the United States tariff and its injurious effect on the general interests of Canada. It is understood that some action is already being taken by your department in co-operating with the banks to provide temporary financial assistance to the western live stock industry, enable them to carry over stock until a market can be found for same without incurring serious financial loss."

Better Sires.
"We have given considerable attention to the subject, and are of the opinion that while temporary assistance may be necessary and desirable, that in the long run some permanent means should be provided to meet the situation and secure new markets. With a view to improving the condition of the cattle raisers, we understand that your department has been conducting an educational campaign, urging upon them the necessity of using better sires in the finishing of their well-bred steers, as notwithstanding the embargo in Great Britain, there would be a good market in England for properly fattened cattle, and there also appears to be a market in the United States, notwithstanding the embargo."

KILLED BY A TRAIN
WHEN HIS MOTOR STALLS ON TRACKS

William Carter, Maple Grove Cheesemaker, Is Victim of Crossing Accident.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Stratford, Sept. 13.—William Carter, who, with his brother, runs the Maple Grove cheese factory, a few miles from here, was instantly killed this morning when he was struck by the London & G. T. R. train. He was driving to town in a motor truck, and it is believed the machine stalled on the track in front of the incoming train. The deceased was thrown some distance, and landed a heap of wreckage in an adjoining field. An inquest will be held.

DECLARES CHURCH HAS NEGLECTED TO ASSIST IN SOLVING PROBLEMS
London, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Nellie McCung of Edmonton, noted Canadian writer, and representative of the Canadian Methodist Church, told this morning's session of the World's Methodist Conference that the church had failed to help women solve their problems.

Appeals to Englishwomen to demand prohibition in Great Britain were made by Mrs. Norman Sargent, Wesleyan Church, and other speakers. Rev. Thomas Sutherland, United Methodist Church, and Miss Belle Davis, Methodist Church South, also spoke.

HAVANA LEGISLATOR CHALLENGES OPPONENT
Havana, Sept. 13.—Disorders arising from a clash between representatives Juan Espinosa and Lucio De La Pena resulted yesterday in a challenge being sent by Espinosa to his opponent in the dispute and brought the session of the Lower House of Congress to an abrupt close. Prior to the tumultuous adjournment, the House approved an amendment to article 13 of the banking law, which would give the president opportunity to change the personnel of the federal bank liquidation commission.

COLLEGIATE IS OVERCROWDED, SAYS PRINCIPAL
One Class Has 50 Students And Two 45 Each Enrolled.

Principal W. H. T. Mooney of the Collegiate Institute, which opened the fall term last Tuesday, stated today that overcrowding has been noted in the institute of which he is head. In the upper school there is one class of 50 students, and in the lower school two classes in the middle school each numbering 45 students. That no teacher can handle classes of such size satisfactorily will be conceded by anyone familiar with educational matters of this kind.

As a solution to the over-crowding problem, it has been suggested that two drill rooms be used by the students be utilized as class rooms and temporary seats be provided by the board of education. Such a step could be abandoned on completion of the new Collegiate Institute on Waterloo street, which is expected, will be ready for occupancy in January, 1922.

However, according to regulations of the department of education, these drill rooms must be used for drill purposes only. It is thought by Principal Mooney that under the circumstances, the use of class rooms for local high school pupils who are "without a home after being burned out," the department inspectors must be under the circumstances stretch a point and allow these rooms to be used temporarily as class rooms.

BEAUTIFUL PAINTINGS IN GREAT NUMBERS AT WESTERN ART EXHIBIT
Peel Pictures Are Centre of Interest—Local Artists of the Present Day Have Also Creditable Works On Display—Poultry and Dog Shows Open—Every Department of Big Fair Now in Full Swing.

Attendance at the Western Fair Tuesday morning began very much slower than on Monday morning, but kept steadily increasing until at noon the crowds were fairly large, and some of the biggest shows on the midway were playing to good houses. The opening of the dog and poultry shows soon demonstrated that these departments were what many people had been waiting for. The Poultry Building, from the very beginning, was crowded with people, and the dog show was equally popular.

Beef Cattle Lead.
Judging continued this morning in a number of classes, and cattle showed up in the afternoon. One of the judges expressed the opinion that all classes considered the cattle department was not quite equal to the standard of last year, but in beef cattle there was a noticeable advance made. Many exhibitors of cattle are here for the first time. The falling off in Ayrshires was noticeable. There is only one exhibitor, J. L. Stansell, of Stratfordville, and the herd exhibited is of high quality.

Fine Art Exhibit.
Of especial interest to Londoners in the Art Exhibition are the six splendid pictures by the late Paul Peel, who was a native of London. The pictures are loaned by an art gallery in Toronto, and the subjects include two mother-and-child pictures, "Mother's Help," and "A beautiful pastoral scene, 'The Return of the Flock,' and three lighter subjects, 'The Milkmaid's Dilemma,' 'The Intruder,' and 'The Threshing Bee.'"

There is a beautiful picture from the Detroit museum of art, "Dear In Solitude," and one by Carl Melchers, "Child With An Orange."

W. S. Charnock is exhibiting an interesting collection of water colors, showing some beautiful scenes on the Thames at Springbank and other picturesque spots around London.

A number of pictures by E. R. Glen, now studying in Europe, are shown. E. O'Keefe of Aylmer, S. K. Davidson of London, Mrs. E. M. Smith of St. Thomas is a figure subject in striking manner. Ontario artists who have pictures entered in the exhibit.

"Meditation," by Mr. Bean of St. Catharines, is a figure subject in strikingly light shades. Whether the other shades in the picture are sufficiently in harmony with the deep auburn of the model's hair produce an altogether pleasing effect is a point for question.

A notable prize-winning picture, a very excellent and realistic portrait, is the work of Miss Kathleen Jeffery of London.

An interesting picture is an Italian art mosaic, entitled, "Vain Attempts," loaned to the exhibit by S. F. Lawrance of London. The picture is produced by pitching together pieces of colored marble. Even as a painting it would be a remarkable work of art.

Another London artist, who has some very creditable landscape work on display is Miss Mary Healey.

From the National Gallery at Ottawa are shown some famous paintings by most of the grades and later centuries of the world's art.

PRISONERS' BOX THROGGED WITH BOY OFFENDERS

Young Windsor Girl Also Apparently Overnight Lodger
in Police Cells.

Juvenile cases still continue to feature police court proceedings. On Saturday last some nine or ten youngsters appeared at the Carling street station to answer charges, and the way from tranquility to theft, and at Monday's session the prisoner's box was filled with youths varying from 14 years to 19 years, not including the young girl from the Border Cities who had been also apparently a lodger overnight.

Other youngsters to benefit by a morning in the sordid environment of police court to listen with rapt attention to the "ins and outs" of "disorderly charges," and so forth, were the youthful members of the various different cases. With little tots and mothers with babies in arms, the court resembled a mothers' clinic rather than a court.

Involving the theft of three or four bicycles, four juveniles faced the magistrate in a private session after giving general court. The two eldest boys, whom the police say have been in trouble before and are accomplished bicycle thieves, were sentenced to three months each in the common jail. Their companions were sent to the reformatory.

Other cases of trespass and truancy were heard, and in the case of a large family the children, which have apparently been shirking school, an effort has been made by the Soldiers' Aid to have them removed from the home. It is claimed that the mother is incompetent.

GOVERNMENT HELP IN SOLVING EMPLOYMENT PROBLEM SUGGESTED

Co-operation With City in Providing Work Will Be Asked.

The unemployment committee of the city council, deputing to endeavor to solve the unemployment problem here during the coming winter, met Monday night and started business in approved style. The members discussed the problem and the committee agreed to co-operate with the city in any public work scheme undertaken this winter to save the local unemployment problem, and to make up excess cost of such work because of the scheme.

The chamber of commerce and local organizations along with manufacturers of the city will be requested to appoint members to act in an advisory capacity with the committee this year. The latter body also decided that only those who have been unemployed for one year's residence will be looked after, and that married men will be given the preference. Each case will be investigated by License and Relief Officer J. W. McCullum.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier who was present at the meeting stated that a severe winter will necessitate an absolute shut down of the works department. At present there are 520 employees in this department and he urged that these men be given the preference. Last winter $70,000 was spent on public works of which amount $8,000 or 12 1/2 per cent was required because of the weather.

Look After All.
Ald. John Cameron Wilson, chairman of the committee, suggested that the city should look after all the unemployed men. "They have been well paid all summer," he declared, "we have got to look after them in the winter. The only way an extensive plan of public works can be carried on by the city with the Government. The city cannot afford any other way."

"It is better for the Government to pay for a proportion of the work than for the proportion of charity," opined Ald. Chibbs.

"We will look after bona fide citizens of London," asserted Ald. C. W. Wilson, "residents in the city one year. This point should be emphasized by the public so that we will have no crooks out of work, such as farmers out of work."

"The workmen of the city do not want to charity the way they want to be paid," said Ald. F. R. Watkinson. "Give them work and they will be contented. Provide the river, or make a swimming pool for the kiddies. Make a swimming pool a second Belle Isle. These are only suggestions. Let us act in conjunction with the Labor Bureau."

Prevent Stampede.
Ald. Cameron Wilson suggested co-operation of the chamber of commerce, labor organizations and local manufacturers. Ald. Chibbs moved that the operation of the Dominion and Provincial Governments be solicited in a public works scheme. The Wilson point out that such preliminary plans will prevent a stampede of unemployed on the city council next winter.

City Clerk Baker read a telegram from G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, stating that the policy of the Federal Government is unchanged, but that the Government will reimburse the city one-third of amount necessary to disburse unemployment relief here.

A second telegram from W. R. H. of the Provincial Government was produced, to the effect that a method of assisting unemployed was not definitely settled, although several suggestions are under consideration. Similar communications were read from the city clerks of Toronto and Hamilton.

LONDON WOMEN ARE WELL REPRESENTED AT FAIR THIS YEAR

Milk From Ray Lawson's Farm Attracts Numbers of Babies.

The women of the city are well represented out at the Fair this year. Not only does their work appear in the Women's Building twice as plentifully as in previous years, but their organizations are represented more prominently in booths and tents than ever before.

There is the Child Welfare Association tent, perhaps the most interesting of all, with its numerous straw baskets, filled with babies, cozy and happy, while their mothers enjoy the exhibit. This tent boasts a large portion of the forty gallons of milk donated by Ray Lawson, and coming direct from his farm, which is cooled by Silverwoods, for the little mouths is it to satisfy. A full layette, for the inspection of interested mothers, is also on display at this fascinating exhibit, which is located midway between the Crystal Palace and the Horticultural Building. Miss Bertha Smith, Mrs. Allison and Miss Fraser, local Child Welfare nurses, are in charge, assisted by Mrs. E. H. Young and others.

Emergency Tent.
Equally interesting is the Emergency Tent of the Florence Nightingale Nursing Division, located near by. It, like the Child Welfare Tent, is wonderfully complete, and has a clinic for the treatment of white coats, sterilized instruments for all emergency cases, an excellent medicine chest and other necessary appliances. The little white room is quite a "hospital" look. And it has not only a hospital "look," it has also a good service for many cases since the opening of the Fair on Saturday.

Lost Children.
Connected with this tent is a smaller one for lost children, with some more of the refreshing Lawson milk on tap. But a few hours ago as many as twenty children were returned to their parents through this splendid agency. Mrs. E. K. Swindall, superintendent of the division, has an excellent number of assistants in both tents.

In the Main Building the balcony is the scene of an attractive ice cream party lunch room, where the general offices of the Western Fair, where the Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. O. F., is in aid of the Children's Hospital. The chapter members in their white uniforms, sister caps make attentive waitresses, and the booth is indeed popular. The Children's Hospital chapter has seized this opportunity, provided by their sister chapters, and is selling a lovely baby picture, also in aid of the hospital.

Another undertaking of the women which must not be forgotten is the pretty lunch room, above the general offices of the Western Fair, where the Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. O. F., is in aid of the Children's Hospital. The chapter members in their white uniforms, sister caps make attentive waitresses, and the booth is indeed popular. The Children's Hospital chapter has seized this opportunity, provided by their sister chapters, and is selling a lovely baby picture, also in aid of the hospital.

Then there also is the long list of luncheon booths conducted by the various churches of the city, and including, of course, the well-known booth of the W. C. T. U. Here many a London woman toll daily in order to serve the Fair customers and to raise money for their various causes.

NEW ELEVATOR TO REMOVE ASHES IS BEING INSTALLED

Reason Why City's Busiest Corner Is Boarded Up Fair Week.

London would have passed through a week of record-breaking fact that her roadways are in excellent repair, if someone had not spoiled everything by suddenly deciding that a labor-saving elevator in the city's busiest corner was absolutely indispensable. The installation of this elevator has required the tearing up of half of the width of the sidewalk on the main corner, and, besides the inconvenience of pushing through congested traffic, visitors to the Fair will be forced to look at the ugly boards hastily thrown together and a gaping hole for the first half of this week at least.

Lifting ashes and garbage from the rear of the building to the sidewalk was considered much too hard work, and so a lift operating on the outside of the building through steel trap-doors to the level of the sidewalk was deemed necessary. Permission to install the miniature elevator was obtained from the city fathers last week, who gave no thought to the fact that the work would be undertaken during the busiest week of the year.

One-Armed Man Says Wife's Abuse Drove Him From Home.

Despite the fact that Chief of Police Birrell, Police Court Clerk Moule and all others involved evidently had the decks cleared yesterday for further action in the case of alleged violation of the Lord's Day Act against a local hotel, Deputy Police Magistrate Bartlett announced that next Monday was the time that he had set for his final judgment.

Although the defendant in the case, Smith vs. Smith, was all ready to proceed yesterday, the complainant, Mrs. Smith, explained that Crown Attorney McKillop would appear for her. As the latter was in attendance at the court house inquiry, the case was adjourned until the next Monday.

E. W. Scatterd, appearing for the husband, who is charged with desertion and failing to provide, explained to the court that "dire threats and abuse on the part of the wife had driven the defendant to leave the home."

The court was further informed that Smith is a one-armed man.

IMPPLICATES FRIENDS IN HIS CONFESSIONS

Chicago Youth Declares He Was Assisted in Committing Murders.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Two confessions obtained last night and early today were believed by the authorities to clear up the mystery surrounding the murders of B. J. Daugherty and Carl A. Ausmus, automobile salesmen.

Harvey W. Church, at whose home the men are alleged to have been killed, had led them there to receive payment for an automobile he intended he wished to purchase, late last night confessed that he was aided in committing the crimes by two accomplices, and implicated Leon Parks, employed in a garage where he formerly worked, and Clarence Widner, another friend, as accomplices.

Parks, who had been taken into custody several days ago when confronted by the police, confessed, according to the police, telling the part the three had played in the two murders.

Widner, the third man alleged to be involved in the crime, is in the custody of the police today, and is being questioned to essential details as to his alleged confederates.

Parks asserted the three had planned to steal the car from Daugherty and Ausmus, sell it and divide the profits.

Parks and Widner, according to Church, waited in the basement of Church's home until Church brought Daugherty there at the point of a gun. Daugherty, Church said, was driven to the Church home, Daugherty was handcuffed, bound, and then struck over the head with a baseball bat, and his throat cut. Ausmus, who came to look for Daugherty, suffered a similar fate. Parks, in his alleged confession, blames Church for the actual slaying of the two victims.

The three dug a home-made grave in Church's garage, where they buried Ausmus. The next morning Parks and Church took Daugherty's body and threw it into the Desplaines River, Church said.

FIREMEN ASSIST IN RAID AT NORTH BAY

Liquor Valued at $15,000 Is Seized by Ontario Government Officers.

North Bay, Sept. 13.—Startling developments in connection with the enforcement of the Ontario temperance act in this town, which have been promised for some time, started last night.

About 9:15 o'clock, a fire alarm was sent in from the foreign quarter in the north end of the town. When the firemen reached the scene, no fire was found, but a squad of plain clothes police on Toronto, with automobile trucks ready to make a raid on what has long been suspected as the seat of the lawless bootlegging interests in the north country. The members of the fire department, on their arrival, were sworn special police and the raid proceeded.

Fifteen thousand dollars' worth of booze was secured, and the alleged proprietor of the place, Charles Sandhill, is in jail awaiting trial this morning.

The liquor had been brought in as a "carload of horses," was taken to the town hall and placed under guard.

The deceased, who is a returned soldier, sustained serious injuries from the fall and his condition was considered serious. He enlisted with the 124th Battalion at Toronto and went overseas with that unit. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

BOY KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO.—George McLeod, 325 Grey street, aged 5 years, was struck by an auto driven by C. Davidson on Monday morning about 10 o'clock, when he attempted to cross in front of the car at Waterloo and Grey streets. Mr. Davidson rushed the little victim to Victoria Hospital, where a medical examination revealed the fact that he had a fractured skull and a bad shaking up. "Corp," as he is popularly known in the neighborhood, was not seriously injured. Eyewitnesses of the accident declare that it was unavoidable, as comment the driver of the auto for the prompt manner in which it was brought to a stop after knocking the boy down. The latter suffered several cuts on his face and bruises to his legs, but was removed to his home Monday afternoon. Mr. Davidson's family had motor car insurance to this city to attend the Fair.

MUST WASH GLASSES IN WARMER WATER.

Unless Lemonade Vendors Do So, Health Board Will Close Booths.

Refreshment concession holders at the fair grounds have been warned by Sanitary Inspector R. H. Sanders that their premises and utensils used in "dishing up pink lemonade" and other thirst-quenchers must be kept in a state of first-class sanitation, failing which their booths will be closed.

"I was out Monday and will be on the job all fair week," Inspector Sanders informed a reporter. He said that he had warned some of the refreshment people who were washing glasses used for lemonade in cold water that hot water mixed with a disinfectant must be employed on used glasses. They cannot be sanitary if washed in cold water.

Inspector Sanders reports that all refreshment concessions were in a first-class condition when inspected Monday, and that board of health officers will be on the job all week at Queen's Park to see that this condition is maintained.

DUNLOP'S FINDING IN ESCAPE PROBE TO BE ANNOUNCED

Will Report to the Provincial Secretary First—Bayly's Report Private.

SHERIFF NOT CALLED

Jail Officials' Unfamiliarity With Jail Rules Brought Out Clearly.

When the investigation into the escape of Sidney and William Murrell, conducted by Inspector of Prisons W. Dunlop, was concluded this afternoon, Deputy Attorney-General Edward Bayly, K.C., told the press that Mr. Dunlop's report would be submitted to the provincial secretary, and that an announcement of the finding would be given out later.

"I am going to make a personal report to my department," Mr. Bayly informed the reporters, "but it will not be for publication."

Sheriff Donald M. Cameron was not called as a witness during the investigation. This was probably because evidence had been given that he was no longer an active officer, and was incapable of giving evidence.

Other evidence showed that the jailer, the turnkeys and the night watchman at the jail were unfamiliar with the rules governing their duties and their positions, and that several rules had been broken. Some of the men had not even taken an oath of office.

During the investigation, while he was examining the jail officials, Inspector Dunlop remarked to them that he was trying to find out how they could realize the seriousness of their position.

In a public announcement at the close of the hearing, Inspector Dunlop said that he was trying to find out how they could realize the seriousness of their position. He said that he was trying to find out how they could realize the seriousness of their position.

POLICE DENY FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TO STOP STREET FIGHT

Police emphatically deny that a call was received by them from a Forward avenue home early Monday morning. It was reported that the resident of 71 Forward avenue, frightened by a fight in the vicinity of her home, failed to rouse the police by telephone and as a last resort called the fire department as a means of protection.

The police further claim that upon investigation, they learned that the call was a false alarm sent in by a little girl.

FOUNTAIN SANITARY, BUT NOT EASY FOR CITIZENS TO REACH

Drinking Bubbler at Wellington Road V Is Bone of Contention.

Complaints regarding the condition of the drinking fountain at the V, Wellington road and High streets, have been received by The Advertiser, one reader stating that it is in a "snooking position," surrounded by a circular horse trough, "where the horses' mouths can slobber all over it. The complainant further states that 'the person who would like to quench his thirst has to wade in a mudhole and reach out his neck (if he is a rubber-neck, all right). Children who are the most numerous users of it have to clamber over planking set around the trough. If they are fixed up in clean clothing you can guess the state they are in immediately. The chief point to the observer is, it is a condition of good health. It remains for the public utilities department to come up to date with a drinking fountain."

Interviewed regarding these complaints, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, said: "No installation of drinking fountain is made by the public utilities. Furthermore, these fountains are under the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission. The city engineer issues orders to us and we repair the fountains. That is our sole interest in them, although we installed the one at Dundas and Richmond streets."

"Why not interview the city engineer's department, which is responsible? We are very glad to supply the water for any drinking fountains."

Taking Mr. Buchanan's advice, the reporter sought out City Engineer H. A. Brazier, who made the following statement: "We are not responsible for the design on the fountain. There is nothing objectionable about it from a health standpoint. As for the horses slobbering, the water is running, and people are not supposed to put their mouths on the bubbler."

"We try to keep this fountain clean and sanitary to now and then. The design is the only defect, this type not being satisfactory to the citizens. If the city council orders a new type of fountain installed at this point we will see that it is done. However, there is no money in the estimates for this at present."

"As a general rule the types of fountains used for drinking here are better than those used elsewhere," commented Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health, who declared that in his opinion there was nothing more unhealthy about the fountain at Wellington street than with the usual bubbler.

"I do not know that it affects the health," declared an inspector of the board of health, regarding the fountain at the Wellington V, "but I do know that it is not very accommodating to the public. I cannot see any detriment to health, as much as to accommodation for the public. The water is running at the time, and the people cannot catch anything from the horses anyway."

WENIGE CRITICIZES DELAY IN SEIZURE OF L. S. R. RECEIPTS

The Irate Alderman Declares
There Is Nigger in Civic Woodpile.

ACTION STILL POSSIBLE

City Solicitor Only Received Instructions Monday, But City Clerk Explains.

Because the city solicitor had not received a copy of the resolution passed by the city council one week ago to-night, instructing him to take steps to seize receipts of the London Street Railway Company to satisfy a debt of $7,000, Ald. G. A. Wenige charges that "there is a nigger in the woodpile," and "someone is blocking this thing." The city solicitor had not received the copy of the resolution until 4 p.m. Monday, but it is understood that he is now in receipt of a copy of the resolution.

"The city clerk informed me that the copy of the resolution was forwarded last Friday or Saturday," Ald. Wenige stated to The Advertiser this morning, "but up until 4 p.m. Monday the city solicitor had not received it. It was not in the solicitor's hands. There is a nigger in the woodpile. Are they blocking this thing?"

City Clerk Baker, when asked his side of the story this morning, declared that the resolution had been copied for the city solicitor last week, and that he understood it had been duly forwarded. However, he learned Monday that this duty had been overlooked by a member of his staff, who was busily engaged preparing voters' lists for the coming election.

"There was no nigger in the woodpile, and no one is blocking this thing to my knowledge," declared the clerk to The Advertiser today. "The fault lies at the door of one of my clerks, and she was busy with voters' lists. The resolution is now in the hands of the city solicitor for action."

Action Still Possible.

City Solicitor Meredith, it is understood, may seize the cash receipts of the street railway company during the week to satisfy the debt of $7,000, which amount is legally due the city for paying the track allowance on Rectory street one year ago. It was in fear that the solicitor would not receive notice to act, this week that the resident of 71 Forward avenue prompted Ald. Wenige to investigate matters.

LATE MARKETS

New York, Sept. 13.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—At the hesitant opening of today's stock market, United Fruit fell 2 points to 102, and the market was generally quiet. Independent steels and the less prominent equipments, as well as junior rails and gas stocks, reacted moderately. Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Southern Pacific and the copper group were comparatively free from pressure. The foreign exchange market was more steady. British and German rates showing slight gains over yesterday's quotations.

COL. COCKSHUTT IS SWORN INTO OFFICE AS LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

Ceremony Takes Place in the Executive Council Chamber At Ontario Parliament Buildings.

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Col. Harry Cockshutt was sworn in this afternoon as new lieutenant-governor of Ontario. The ceremony took place in the executive council chamber at the Parliament buildings here at 2 o'clock, the oath of allegiance being administered by Rudolph Boudreau, C.M.G., clerk of the privy council, who came up from Ottawa for the purpose. Representatives of the Government and Parliament of Ontario were present at the brief proceedings.

DETROIT YOUTH IS REMANDED AGAIN

Stole Ride to London With 15-Year-Old Girl.

Joseph Tyson, the Detroit youth who was arrested by the local police a week ago while in the company of a 15-year-old girl dressed in boy's clothes, with whom he had ridden from the border in a freight car, was remanded still another week by Deputy Magistrate Hardtack when he appeared in police court today. Tyson is held on a charge of trespass.

The boy asked the magistrate to bring the girl back to London as he was not in the company of her. He said, however, that the magistrate would be necessary. Mr. Hardtack stated that he was endeavoring to get in touch with Tyson's father.

URGES AGGRESSIVE

the unfavorable tariff for quality beef cattle.

Chilled Beef.

"From information we have received it is believed that the encouraging of the chilled beef industry with Great Britain and possibly with other countries offers one solution. We understand that a shipment of chilled beef made to England this summer arrived in first-class condition and realized a good price. In a recent report from the Canadian trade commissioner in England, attention is called to the possibility of building up a large business with England for chilled beef, not frozen beef, which is not wanted."

Three Suggestions.

"We suggest, then:

"First—That as a temporary measure of relief, government assistance should be given in effecting a reduction of ocean freight on live cattle for export.

"Second—That the campaign you are now conducting urging the use of better steers be continued and enlarged upon if possible.

"Third—As a permanent measure of relief, that the government consider an aggressive advertising campaign in Great Britain to encourage consumption in that country of chilled beef. Further, if this campaign is successful, that it be extended to other countries where the demand already exists or can be created; and it is the opinion of the board that the sale of chilled beef in Great Britain is to be preferred to that of beef on the hoof, as it would mean economy in transportation by eliminating freight on offal and other waste, and which could be utilized to advantage in Canada in the manufacture of by-products."

attorney's office, that Miss Rappe had told her Arbuckle had caused her injuries. Earlier last night it was reported Miss Rappe refused to sign a statement that Miss Rappe had told her this, and later, it was said, she denied that she had ever made the assertion concerning Miss Rappe, Brady said.

Miss Blake Missing.

District Attorney Brady also charged in his statement that Miss Alice Blake, another prosecution witness, was missing.

District Attorney Brady's statement follows:

"We have sent Miss Pyron home, under surveillance. The girl changed her story completely before the grand jury. Whether or not we shall arrest her and charge her with perjury will depend on further developments. I am convinced, however, that perjury has been committed by her."

"I am convinced that undue influence and pressure of a sinister character has been brought to bear on her and other witnesses, one of whom, Alice Blake, has mysteriously disappeared from her home in Berkeley. We have been unable to find her."

"In spite of these efforts to thwart the ends of justice, the investigation will proceed, and no effort will be spared to bring the guilty ones to their just deserts."

"Whenever wealth and influence are brought to the bar of justice every similar case is a case of the rich man's effort to free the accused. It is always easy to convict a poor man. The wealthy malefactor are the ones who find means of using their wealth to their advantage. Wealth and influence should not count in favor of a defendant, neither should they count against him. This case should be handled just as the cases of the other gangsters are handled. The Pyron woman made a statement in the presence of Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson, Assistant District Attorney Milton U'Ren, and George Duffy. She repeated this statement time and again. Last night before the grand jury she changed her testimony."

Arbuckle, the last witness summoned by the grand jury during its five-hour session, was aroused from a sound sleep about 1 o'clock this morning. Arbuckle, it is said, was in the grand jury room when the hearing was reported to have declined to make any statement further than to explain that his lawyers had advised him to keep silent.

Ask More Evidence.

Mrs. Bambina Maud Delmont had previously testified concerning the party in Arbuckle's rooms at a hotel here on Labor Day, at which Miss Rappe was present. Other witnesses were heard.

After Arbuckle left the grand jury room the jurors began to deliberate upon the testimony given. When closed doors the jurors argued, it is said, for half an hour, having excluded District Attorney Brady and his assistants. The conclusion then was reached, it was announced, to defer action until further evidence could be presented. No date was set for the resumption of the inquiry. After the adjournment, Clifford Curtis, foreman, said: "We have decided to continue the hearing to give District Attorney Brady the opportunity to secure certain information which we desire. It was thought best not to vote on an indictment tonight."

POLICE COULD NOT PROVE OWNERSHIP OF FRENCH COGNAC

John Clark Frees Himself by Eloquence of O. T. A. Charge.

Pleading his own defence with a forceful eloquence, John Clark, 257 Thames street, this city, freed himself of a charge of having liquor in a place other than a private residence, contrary to section 41 of the O. T. A., when he was arraigned before Judge Magistrate P. H. Barrett in police court today. Because the police failed to determine the ownership of two quart bottles of real French cognac which were discovered in a room in a boarding house at 229 Clarence street, Clark and two friends, George Brown, who occupied the room, and Michael McCullough, 601 Dufferin avenue, escaped with a fine of only $5 and costs for being disorderly.

Through the assistance of the owner of the house, who gave evidence for the prosecution, and through the evidence of Police Sergeants James Cuskey and McCullough and Constable B. Irwin, Chief of Police Barrett were able to build up a strong case, especially against Clark. The owner of the house claimed that he saw Clark enter the house late in the evening, with a bulky something that resembled bottles in his hip-pockets. Later on when he went to the room to get the cognac, he heard them quarrelling about money, and saw liquor in bottles on the dresser. He believed that Clark was endeavoring to induce the other two men to pay him, first a "sawback," which he believed to be ten dollars, and four dollars, for the liquor.

Constable Irwin, who was passing heard the noise floating through an open window, and calling the two sergeants to his assistance proceeded to investigate the why and wherefore of

LOST 29 POUNDS

DYSENTERY WAS THE CAUSE

Dysentery is one of the worst forms of bowel complaint, and hardly any other disease so quickly undermines the strength and brings about a condition of prostration and utter collapse that often terminates fatally.

To check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation you should use that grand old remedy with a reputation extending of 75 years,

DR. FOWLER'S

EXTRACT OF

Wild Strawberry

Mr. G. H. McVagh, Mawer, Sask., writes: "About eight years ago I had a severe attack of dysentery. I was sick for three weeks. I weighed 154 pounds when I took sick and 125 when I got it stopped. I think I tried every medicine on the market, but did not find relief until I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and one bottle did it. I think there is nothing like it for diarrhea or dysentery. I always keep some on hand, as a person does not know when he will need it."

The New Laws on teeth cleaning—five of them

Dental science has adopted new laws on teeth cleaning. They mean whiter, cleaner, safer teeth to those who follow them.

Millions employ these new methods, largely by dental advice. Now this ten-day test is offered to show every home the results.

1—Fight the film

The first law is to fight film—that viscous coat you feel. It dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Old ways of brushing do not end it. So few have escaped some form of film attack.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Two methods now

Two ways are now known to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

Both are embodied in Pepsodent—a scientific tooth paste. They keep the teeth uniquely clean and also highly polished.

Three other laws

Modern starch diet also calls for other helps to Nature. So every use of Pepsodent brings these three desired results.

1—A multiplied salivary flow.

LOWER HEELS BROADER TOES IN SHOE STYLES

Oxfords and Spats Popular With Women Again This Fall.

MAHOGANY—BROWN

Brogues and Spats Are Losing Favor With Men Wearers.

For many, many years, perhaps ever since the time when the styles of the present year were first fashioned after those of "Gay Paree," matrons, doctors and other guardians of the young have protested loudly against the unprotected heel. But their cries and warnings have been in vain, for Dame Fashion has been all powerful and rules with an iron hand.

Lower Heels Decried. In 1920 and in the early part of the present year there were signs, however, that the whimsical damsel was tiring of the French and Spanish heels, and within a few weeks a new style of shoe with the first showing of fall and winter styles came the announcement that all such styles must pass into the discard.

The windows of the many shoe stores in London bear indisputable evidence that the decree has already become law. The showing of low and high shoes with low heels and slightly broadened toes is enough to prove the fact. The showing of low and high shoes with low heels and slightly broadened toes is enough to prove the fact.

Shoes and Spats. Everywhere the window displays give evidence that in footwear for women the low shoe still predominates and the indications are that the low shoe with spats will be most popular throughout the winter. The style came into favor for a while last winter, but with the coming of the heavy English and Scotch brogue the spat gave way for a time to the heavy wool stocking.

The brogues have evidently had their day, however, and with the coming of a lighter shoe the spat will be welcomed back.

The low shoe, or "Oxford," is more moderate in design. The "Ball" strap, which is similar to the saddle strap of the summer months, promises to be very popular, and the light brogue, which has much less punching or decoration than the Scotch brogue, will be worn considerably. The plain Oxford in dull black and "Vici" kid is quite widely shown.

The mahogany and brown, with a tendency towards lighter shades, are the ruling colors, but black is evidently on the ascendancy. Among those who are inclined towards the ultra smart, the patent leather is quite the thing.

Shoes promise to be higher this year by at least two buttons on the average. Any shades ranging from dark brown, taupe, to light fawn will be correct. The buttons as a rule will be fancy. High shoes, always more or less staple, will be worn a trifle higher, judging from indications. Last year eight buttons predominated, but one button more will be correct this fall. In the fancier styles the light brogue and "Ball" strap is shown.

Heels higher than an inch and three-quarters are tabooed, while on an average they run from an inch and a half to an inch and a quarter. All women's shoes have shorter vamps and broader toes. Strapless pumps are not being shown, but a one and two-strap upper with fancy buttons and small buckles promises to be very popular. For even ing wear, patent, suedes and satins, in black, brown and combined black and white, will all be good. Contrary to the expectation of the dealers, dark brown is the leading shade in men's shoes. It was fully expected that black would predominate this fall.

Everywhere the tendency in men's shoes is toward a broadened toe with more conservative lines. The popular "Duck-bill." The styles are getting away entirely from the narrow English shoe.

It is quite evident from the shoe windows in London, and from what the dealers say, that men are getting away from the Oxford, and the faddish spat for winter wear. A few, however, will stick to the spat and high shoe it is expected. In men's shoes, as in men's, the brogues are going out of favor, while the "Saddle" strap is growing in popularity.

High shoes will be widely worn this fall and winter. In this style men are getting away from the hidden eyelet, and already the hidden eyelet, let alone hooks are being shown. Heavy soles will be looked upon with favor, it is predicted.

In children's shoes brown will be the leading shade. In all children's, even to the wee tot's, the button is passing out of favor, and laced shoes are being shown.

In all classes of shoes the prices seem to be lower than at this time last year.

HABERDASHERS' WINDOWS SHOW MANY NOVELTIES

Heather Mixtures Favorites in Ties—Soft Hats Smaller With More Dip.

Nothing very violent, but quite a few innovations are being displayed in the haberdashers' windows. It's a trifle too early for the new fall styles in collars, the dealers explain, but there are many styles in neckties, hats, caps and socks already showing.

New shades are predominant in the hat line. Browns and greens are favored, and there is also a considerable run on mixed colors, particularly what are designated as the "heather mixtures" of green and brown.

Rough felts in extremely light grey and brown shades are being offered, as well as in darker shades.

In caps there is not a great deal of change in the previously accepted styles and shapes, but the tweeds promise to be popular, and bright colors and heavy patterns are in the majority. The new stiff hats or derbies are remarkable for their lower crowns than usual.

Soft Hats Smaller. Soft hats are about the same size as last year, which was a smaller size than for some previous years. There is also more of what the haberdashers or expert critics technically call "dip" in the new soft hats.

In the neckwear line there are some distinctive new offerings in narrow batwing ties. The popular lines of neckties are also tending to a more marked fullness in the ends, and they are narrower in the middle, making it easier adjusting it. This feature quite obviously will tend to a decrease in the output of profanity, and ought to also show results in better natures and happier dispositions, not to mention increased popularity in getting to work in the morning.

Knitted neckties are also coming back into vogue.

Brogue Hosiery. Socks, hosiery and with brogue wools, are to be considered quite fashionable. In the finer-looking styles of hosiery the "heather" colors are also noticeable. In the brogue lines of hose a few stores also offer heather shades.

Square silk mufflers are also to be quite the proper thing. They come in a variety of patterns, reddish-brown and yellow shades being most common, and the patterns suggest at a distance the symbolical designs followed in Persian rugs.

Men's styles in clothing never show the marked variations characteristic of women's apparel from season to season, and there are as usual few outstanding changes this fall in suits and overcoats for men. For young men double-breasted models and two-button single-breasted models are considerably in vogue. For men of middle age, two and three-button single-breasted, slightly-tipped suits are the most fashionable, but in large ulsters camel-hair linings are an innovation and plaid backs and double-texture cloths are also being shown.

For fall topcoats, covert cloths are considered the highest thing in style and in plain colored winter wear the old notion is still popular, particularly in brown and dark grey shades.

"Made in Canada" Equipment

Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways.

An added attraction for Western Fair visitors is the magnificent all-steel train of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, conveniently placed near the Exhibition entrance. Conspicuous signs advertise the fact that it is "Made in Canada," and much favorable comment is forthcoming.

The train consists of huge Pacific type locomotive, all-steel Standard Sleeping Car and Dining Car, similar to those in use on the "Continental Limited" and the "National" daily all-steel trains from Montreal and Toronto respectively to the Pacific coast. The berths are made up ready for occupation, and the tables in the dining car are set, the glittering silver and the spotless linen making a very pleasing appearance. The kitchen is a marvel of compactness, and is the envy of every housewife. How do they ever manage in such small space is the general question.

Visitors are welcome to examine the locomotive and all parts of the train, and courteous attendants will answer all inquiries. S.12.14.15

LONDONDERRY ASKS TO BE ASSOCIATED WITH SOUTHERN IRELAND

Dublin, Sept. 12.—Officials of the city of Londonderry, voiced today the desire that their city should be associated with Southern Ireland rather than with Northern Ireland. The mayor of the city and an influential deputation of its elected public representatives, put before Eamonn de Valera their objections to the Ulster Parliament having jurisdiction over their municipality. Londonderry's business relations, it was pointed out, are closer with County Donegal, in the southern area, than with the county of Londonderry, in the northern group, on the edge of which the city is situated.

ALBERTA NOMINATIONS. Calgary, Sept. 12.—United Farmers of Alberta Political Association for West and East Calgary federal riding will convene on October 7 to discuss nominations for one of the Calgary ridings. An agreement exists at present with the Labor party that the U. F. A. shall nominate in West Calgary and the Labor party in East Calgary. But this agreement is yet to be ratified by the rank and file.

MIDWAY ATTRACTIONS BEST EVER BROUGHT TO WESTERN FAIR

C. A. Wortham Shows Occupy Two Midways—Many Startling Novelties Presented.

North America's great outdoor amusement enterprise, the C. A. Wortham shows, are furnishing the midway attractions this year, and they are the best that have ever been presented to fair patrons here. There are so many shows and riding devices, and they are of such magnitude, that it has been necessary to arrange two midways, one behind the other, but the fair visitors found all of the shows yesterday. The midway were on hand before all of the shows were ready to open, anxiously awaiting the time to buy tickets, and then were mighty busy going from one attraction to the other, until they had made the rounds of all the shows.

Jan Van Alst, the Holland giant, who stands 9 feet 5 inches in height, is one of the outstanding features of the Wortham shows, as are Rosa and Josephine, the grown together twins, and their son, Franz. The Beach Models, with a number of original Mack-Sennett diving girls, are an attraction few will miss, as the diving Venuses are both clever and pretty. The Autodrome, with its daring men and women riders, is the thriller of the entire midway, and those with good sporting blood in their veins will see this show first. Very fallowing, with his Tex-Mex wild west show has an excellent program arranged, and gives a very complete show. The Follies of 1921 is a musical comedy attraction of merit.

No Trouble To Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty.) There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 to 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone. Mix fresh, as wanted.

Kemp's model city and Swiss village is the mechanical marvel of the Fair Grounds. The Swiss village was built in 1850 by Joseph Bergman, a Swiss watchmaker, and was first exhibited at Crystal Palace, London. When Bergman died, it was purchased by P. T. Barnum for $30,000, and brought to this country, and has been exhibited at all the large fairs and expositions. The Hippodrome, with its trained animals and clever performers, made a big hit, and the Coney Island illusion show mystified and thrilled many yesterday. There are a number of other good shows on the midway, which is the best ever at the London Fair.

The Texas fat girl, Alice Wade, who was married to the tattooed man in Toronto last week, is here with the Palace of Wonder show and has attracted a great deal of attention.

Mexico City, Sept. 12.—Clay T. Yerby of Los Angeles, Cal., has been granted a concession to construct an oil pipe line from Puerto, Mexico, on the Gulf coast, to Salina Cruz, on the shore of the Pacific. Announcement that this concession had been granted was made here last night by J. P. Flynn, representative in Mexico City of Mr. Yerby. It was said the pipe line would follow the Tehuantepec Railroad.

Mr. Flynn said more than one pipe line would be laid, but that work on the first, a ten-inch line, would begin at once. It is estimated that the cost of the work will be $10,000,000 gold.

HAD LUNG PUNCTURED BY HEAVY HAYFORK

Thomas McQueeney, of 486 Elias street, in St. Joseph's Hospital in a precarious condition from injuries he received while helping unload hay at the farm of Dr. J. Stevenson, Monday on Saturday afternoon. Mr. McQueeney, who is 70 years old, was struck in the back by a heavy hayfork which ran four inches into his lung. The blow knocked him off the load of hay and Mr. Wilkie, who was close at hand, rushed to his assistance and pulled the fork out. He was rushed by auto to London, where he was attended by Dr. J. Stevenson. Although his condition is very serious it was stated last night that there is every hope for his recovery.

Crowds of Excited Youngsters Enjoyed Sights At Big Fair

Attendance at Western Fair on Monday Record for First Day—Over 25,000 on Grounds, Say the Officials.

Before packed grandstands, which must have contained not less than 8,000 or 9,000 spectators, a brilliant program of varied acrobatic and comedy acts closed the first big day of the Fair, which registered the greatest attendance for any Monday in recent years. There must have been not less than 15,000 children on the grounds during the day, and with an adult attendance of at least 10,000 or more, the total attendance for the day must have been well over 25,000.

Two bands provided plenty of excellent music, the 1st Western Ontario Regimental Band playing throughout the program, and the W. O. R. Pipe Band, as a feature attraction, was enthusiastically acclaimed when it came marching around the ring.

Clever Mirth-Provokers. Morris and Morris have an unusually fine novelty act comedy and their equipment including a made-to-order horse and cab, with which many a well-known situation has been produced. Their fancy trapeze work with a broomstick is also very clever.

The Four Ortons, a high pair of highly-trained ducks provide a remarkable amount of merriment, as they uniquely perform.

Dutton's Equestriennes, a company of splendidly trained riders and horses, are exhibiting a splendid display of equestrianism, including dressage, jumping, and many other features.

Daily Mack and Daly are roller-skating artists in a class which they themselves, their marvelous skill on the rollers evoking repeated rounds of applause.

Bear and Bicycle. Robinson's baboons, as trick bicycle riders, perform riding feats that are truly remarkable, while well-trained bear sports himself in almost every original manner, both on a large globe, which he rides, and also on a bicycle made to his measure.

The Four Baltons perform great feats of acrobatic stunts, including hanging, whirling and other swinging acrobatic stunts, difficult to surpass.

Perhaps the biggest and most original feature of the fair is that of the Hand's International Nine, in the person of which is represented Arabian, Japanese, Mexican, Russian, French, Italian, Polish, English and American races and nationalities.

Harry Thompson, a very fine vocalist, opens the program with song numbers.

The fireworks were as good as ever in years past. It was varied and beautiful, and while it included nothing strictly new in the matter of display or color, some pieces of it probably surpassed anything ever heard at the fair.

Despite the large crowds of school children, many of them from the town and grounds, there were no accidents of any moment suffered by the young folks. Fifty or sixty of them, however, were taken to the hospital, or lost their chaperones, teachers or parents with whom they came to the fair.

Members of local clubs took home in autos all whose parents failed to call after the fireworks. Members of the Florence Nightingale Division and the No. 51 Division of the Canadian Ambulance Brigade had not milk waiting for all the local kiddies who were brought in, and this in most cases caused them to be somewhat impatient, and they were taken home quite happy.

Several Emergency Cases. Serious cases handled by the emergency hospital include one nasal hemorrhage, which a workman suffered following a blow on the nose, a fractured shoulder and elbow suffered by a foreign-speaking woman who was kicked by a horse while crossing the grounds, and an incident case of blood-poisoning attended just in time. In the last case the sufferer had injured his knee on the way to the fair, and the infection probably would have resulted more seriously had not the emergency hospital been close enough at hand for him to be treated conveniently.

Lions Treat Orphans. Two hundred children from the various orphanages in the city enjoyed the Fair through the co-operation of members of the Lions' Club of the city. Thirty automobiles brought the little orphans from the Protestant Orphan's Home, the Mount St. Joseph's Home, the Byron Preventorium, the Ronald Gray and Thomas Alway Homes, Candy, Ice cream, horns and balloons were also provided for each child.

The Lions' committee in charge included Charles Graham, Wismer, Forge, Sherwood, Whittle, Wray, Hamilton, Moore, Foster, Stirling, Orme, Chambers, Keene, McFie and Lewis.

NOTABLE EXHIBITS AT WESTERN FAIR

THOMAS BROS.' EXHIBIT

"Keep your eyes on Thomas," when you visit the Western Fair this year.

See this exhibit on the second floor of the Crystal Palace. The charm of a perfectly appointed parlor or living-room is always emphasized by the Thomas Bros. exhibit. It is a luxuriously comfortable davenport, or lounge, which opens in a jiffy into an absolutely beautiful, full-sized bed. It is offered in a splendid variety of modern over-stuffed, colonial and period styles, and is luxuriously upholstered in the richest of tapestries, velours, leathers or leather substitutes. All woods are made long and short—for rooms large or small. But either size is equipped with fine size patented, elastic, metal, folding bed-frame and springs, and also with a luxuriously comfortable 35-pound Kroehler made-and-fitted resilient mattress. For the fastidious housekeeper there is a booklet containing all the necessary information on this davenport will be given if asked for.

For stoves and heaters of the better kind, "Keep your eyes on Thomas" in the Machinery Building.

CHRISTIE-BROWN BISCUITS

One of the most attractive exhibits at the Fair is the splendid display of biscuits made by the Christie-Brown Company, Limited, in the Pure Food Building at the Western Fair. Among the collection of the chocolate and coconut macaroons, which are such a welcome addition to the tea or dainty luncheon, there is a new and interesting variety, which is no greater treat than a visit to the booth of this popular firm.

Christie-Brown biscuits have become famous the world over, and the many new brands exhibited are sure to please the most discriminating housewife. "Which biscuits are absolutely best?" is the question that every housewife asks when she buys the best, and when you eat a Christie-Brown biscuit you eat the best. This is the slogan of the company.

Fair visitors were intensely interested and well delighted with the display of the sample biscuits, which were generously supplied to the always large crowd in front of the booth.

Pre-war biscuits for afternoon tea, such as Philadelphia, acorn, wafers, rolls, and an absolutely new line, lucerne chocolates, are on exhibit.

WHO SAID ORANGE CRUSH?

That snappy drink that so many people are talking about at the fair grounds this year is Orange Crush. It is made from the juice of the choicest of California oranges, and is exceptionally healthful and appetizing. Fair visitors were intensely interested and well delighted with the display of the sample drinks, which were generously supplied to the always large crowd in front of the booth.

Pre-war biscuits for afternoon tea, such as Philadelphia, acorn, wafers, rolls, and an absolutely new line, lucerne chocolates, are on exhibit.

BEEKEEPERS' SUPPLIES

The largest manufacturing concern of beekeepers' supplies, which is located at Ingersoll and has factories throughout different cities in the States, has set up a booth in the Machinery Hall at the Fair this year. This exhibit was one of the most popular at the National Exhibition in Toronto.

It is well worth the while of beekeepers to see this exhibit. Valuable information can be obtained regarding the rearing of bees from a very obliging staff. This firm also mails queen bees to all parts of the world. Bees actually hatching can be seen in the brood chamber. All the necessary utensils for the bee-keeper are on exhibition.

"CHARM" THE CLEANER

In the course of research work when the war was at its height the discovery of an entirely new method of cleaning was made. This new method has been made adaptable for household and other purposes, and is now being offered to the public as the chemical product called "CHARM." This is on exhibition in the Machinery Hall at the Western Fair this year, and free samples of the product are being given away. It cleans clothes, dishes, floors, or you may wash your hands and face with it. It forms no suds, has no odor and dissolves completely in water. A little goes a long way and lasts a long time.

This product is for sale at all grocers, and is the friend of all housewives. Ask for it!

A BUSINESS TRAINING

The young man or woman who contemplates taking a business college course in the near future should visit the exhibit of the Western Business College in the machinery hall at the fair. This college was established 27 years ago in this city by J. W. Westervelt, Sr., who is still head of the penmanship and commercial papers departments of the school. The business men of this city recognize this school as the best place to get office help from. The school is equipped with the best mechanical bookkeeping machines. A full line of calculators, adding and electrical bookkeeping machines are shown here. Students are taught to use these at the school for adding, subtracting, dividing and multiplying.

Each member of the teaching staff has received the very best of experience. The principal, W. E. Marshall, has had eleven years' experience in teaching. He was formerly principal of the Sarnia Business College. J. W. Westervelt, Jr., C.A., is head of law, rapid calculation and advanced bookkeeping departments. Mrs. Harris, who is head of the commercial department, has been teaching for eighteen years. Miss McArthur and Wright, who have charge of the Gregg shorthand department, have been teaching for a number of years. Miss McCoig is in charge of the Pitman shorthand department and Miss Selman is head of the typewriting department.

COOKING BY ELECTRICITY

A popular exhibit in the pure food building shows in a demonstration of cooking and baking with the McClary electric range. The simplicity and sanitary advantages of electric cooking are shown to the always large number of onlookers.

There are many reasons why this range has become so popular. The heating system under your control. You turn the switch to either full, medium or low. There is no heat of your oven. With definite heat you can time the process of cooking or baking to a nicety. There is no constantly watching—relaxing, anxiety and toil.

Four types of McClary's electric ranges can be seen at the exhibit in the machinery building. They are of battleship gray porcelain enameled finish. This finish is the same as the finish of the enamel on your bathtub or kitchen sink. It is clean and indestructible.

McClary's electric ranges, which are used, all exposed parts are enameled. McClary's electric ranges with the enameled finishes makes it possible to have such a charming kitchen, so pleasing to the eye that it is a joy to work in it, so easily kept immaculate that it noticeably brightens the day's work. Make it a point to have one of these stoves demonstrated to you.

CHEVROLET AUTOMOBILES

If you want a remarkably fine car at a low price, buy a Chevrolet "F-P" Model. These are now being offered at unusually low prices by the Ontario Garage and Motor Sales Company, and are on exhibition in the Automobile Building at the Fair. These cars have always been known for their high quality. They are always classed with cars of higher price. They are equipped with every essential convenience and riding comfort. Each model is modern and beautiful in design.

The Chevrolet valve-in-head motor is famous the world over. Its four cylinders afford ample power and speed, and at the same time conserve fuel. "F-P" models are known everywhere for their economy of operation. The new price place these models in a class alone at the greatest time car value in the world. Tourings, sedans, coupes and special roadsters are on exhibition.

The efficiency of a commercial car depends on its motor. The dependability and endurance of the Chevrolet "Four-Sixty" light delivery wagon in every-day use, its stamina under unusual loads and road conditions are due primarily to the famous Chevrolet valve-in-head motor. In addition, the construction of the Chevrolet is simple. Cylinder heads are removable, affording ready access to all working parts. And there are fewer parts to require attention. Anyone can understand this motor and take care of it. The fact that expert attention is not required represents another saving in upkeep.

Make it a point to have these cars demonstrated to you.

PRICE GREATLY REDUCED

The latest model of the Dodge car which is exhibited at the fair this year shows many improvements over other models, and many new specifications are shown. In the past the Dodge has been a popular car for many reasons. Chiefly because of the service which it has given, and secondly because of the minimum cost of upkeep. "First Cost Is Last Cost," Dodge Bros. Company attained this motto because of that, and the latest models indicate that the slogan is amply lived up to.

Lately the price of the Dodge car was reduced $35 and at that time extra equipment to the value of $125 was added. Stock models are equipped with 32x4 oversized cord tires. A 35 H. P., 3-point suspension unit, power plant, 4 cylinder "L" head cast in block, water-cooled, the water being circulated by a centrifugal pump. The carburetor is of a special design, an automatic air valve type. Transmission is of a selective sliding rear type, that speeds forward and one reverse. There are two annular bearings. All gears are heat-treated and hardened.

When at the Western Fair this year do not fail to see the Dodge Exhibit in the automobile show.

SAVE GASOLINE

The Maxwell and Chalmers exhibit in the auto show, which is under the supervision of a local expert, A. H. Burrows, 34 Ridout street, is very interesting, and many new models of both cars are on exhibition.

The motor car problem of today is gasoline. It has gone down in grade. Yet experts say there is just as much power in the heavier, inferior gasoline today as in the fuel of five years ago. The Hot Spot and Ramo Horn motor has been so designed that it will extract all possible power from this inferior grade of fuel. These engines have lifted the Chalmers to high peak of efficiency, and the public now accepts it as one of the few great cars in the world. The Maxwell is a somewhat similar make of a car, the specifications of the engine being practically the same as those of the Chalmers. To those who are contemplating buying a new car, it would be advisable for them to see this exhibit in the auto show.

ART IN BAKING

Asain T. Dexter's exhibit of his Snow White Flour can be acclaimed as the most beautiful in the Crystal Palace. The splendidly adorned buffet wedding breakfast table is the first to catch the eye. The delicacies on this table were made by the C. J. Leach Bakery Company, 110 L.O.F., and No. 10, L.O.F. The exhibit is a beautiful illustration of the art of baking.

Huge white asters add to the beautification of the exhibit.

Another prominent attraction is the loaf of bread made from Snow White Flour in the form of a sheaf of wheat by the Neal Baking Company. This depicts splendid art in baking.

As an example of the popularity of Snow White Flour, leading baking companies of the city are now using it to make their bread and pastries. All these firms have on exhibition a sample of their work. Companies using Snow White Flour in this city are: The Neal Baking Company; F. E. Leavens, 110 L.O.F.; The Edgar's Marched 110 L.O.F. The exhibit is about a mile from town, headed by the Clinton

RECONSTRUCTIVE WORK.

Archie McColg has every reason to be pleased with the cordial reception he received at Chatham on Saturday. It was evident that he carried his audience with him, and the whole atmosphere indicated that at heart the country is as strongly Liberal as ever. There may be certain phases of Liberalism which do not directly appeal to all alike, but reform is reform from whatever quarter it comes, and the true Liberal is first and foremost a reformer. A constructive, not a destructive, policy is the aim of the true reformer, and this policy to be sound and lasting must be along Liberal lines.

The Conservative Government has had a splendid opportunity of showing what could be done by a policy of reconstruction following the Great War, and as a first step in that policy the obvious and honorable course was to go to the country with their post-war program and let the people pass judgment upon it. But what did the Government do? They immediately set to work to strengthen their own defences, with the selfish object of retaining a position which they held only on trust for a specified period, and thus set public opinion at defiance.

On the retirement of Sir Robert Borden the Government was again afforded an opportunity of retracing its steps on honorable lines, but Mr. Meighen stepped into the breach, and the chance of doing the right thing was lost sight of in the ruling desire to hang on to office by fair means or foul. In constructive work the Meighen Government has done absolutely nothing. They have been too busy patching up the dints in their rusty armor to find time to champion any movement for the country's good that would be worth while, and have done nothing to restore that period of unexampled prosperity which characterized the term of office of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

It is therefore refreshing to find that despite the discouragements which have been handed out, money rebuffs that have been met with in real reconstructive work, there are men like Archie McColg who are keeping the wants of their constituents and the good of the country steadily before them. Mr. McColg's endeavors in securing the standardization of parts of farm implements are in themselves worthy of the highest commendation, for this is one of the things that really matter in the development of agriculture along sound economic lines.

Another matter which Mr. McColg touched upon is the equipping of a number of vessels of the Canadian Merchant Marine for the carrying of chilled meat to Britain. As we mentioned a few weeks ago, experimental shipments of this important product from Toronto arrived in London, England, in good condition, and brought prices 10 per cent higher than chilled beef from the Argentine. In fact, experts have stated that the Canadian beef, if properly handled, can be delivered to the consumer in Great Britain in as prime a state as the home-killed product, and if this idea can be developed and brought to a successful issue, the question of the cattle embargo will be solved. Had the Meighen Government devoted its energies to development problems such as these, in place of frittering away their time trying to pump air into collapsing propositions, they might have retired from office with more credit to themselves and benefit to the country.

AT THE FAIR.

The Western Fair has had an auspicious start, and bids fair to become, both in point of popularity and attendance, one of the most successful ever held. Progress is the keynote of all successful enterprises, and the Western Fair is nothing if not progressive. Year after year the aim of the directors is to add to its after year the aim of the directors is to add to its scope and to introduce new features, and their efforts have been invariably crowned with success.

The centre of a rich agricultural district, what may aptly be termed the garden of Canada, the Fair is first and foremost an agricultural exhibition. It is well to keep this in mind, for agriculture is the mainstay of the country, and it is both edifying and instructive when the city dweller for once in the year at least forgets his city ways and his pet hobbies, if he has any, and takes a real live interest in the products of the farm, especially the fine pure-bred cattle and sheep and the stalls in the agricultural buildings. He will not be able to chew a straw and to poke a big fat may not be able to do the nonchalance of the farmer expert, but he can admire the fine points of the thoroughbred and commend the patience and skill which has brought it to such a high state of perfection.

That this part of Western Ontario is truly a land of milk and honey is exemplified by the splendid show of dairy products, and the appetizing display of both extracted and comb honey in the horticultural building. The choicest treasures of the orchard and garden are here exposed to view in all their beauty and lusciousness, and this is in itself a sight to delight the eye and inspire the mind. The show of poultry at the Fair is in itself worth going many miles to see, and is a proof that Western Ontario is doing its part in keeping at a high level what has become one of Canada's most important industries.

For those who delight in the fine arts a special effort has been made this year to bring forward works well worthy of inspection, and the industrial section has also as usual its particular fascinations. Agricultural machinery of all descriptions is of interest to all those who are taken up by the problems of the farm.

and are striving to bring the life of the country more into line with that of the city. Finally, there are all the special attractions of the arena and the midway, which give the Fair its time-honored flavor, and afford to young and old that touch of novelty, which has been called the spice of life.

THE CLYDE INDUSTRY.

The Clyde has long been famous for its shipbuilding. Here some of the world's finest ocean liners first struck the water, and here during the Great War some of our most formidable battleships were built. In manufacture, Scotland's principal industry is shipbuilding, and the output of ships from the Clyde area has been about one-third of the total for the United Kingdom. But the present state of the industry has been forcibly brought home to the whole country by an announcement last week that one of the best known of the Clyde shipbuilding firms had decided to close down its yards at the end of November.

This firm states that this step has been forced upon it "by repeated strikes, reduction of output and demarcation disputes," making the cost of the finished ship excessive and the date of delivery uncertain. This company recently tendered for a steamer for the Indian trade at a price which left no margin of profit, but although this tender was the lowest in the country it was £6,000 over that of the Dutch firm which secured the contract. It is announced that the yard will be reopened when the business can be carried on with any chance of success.

Fortunately there are signs that labor is settling down and will assume its proper place in the economic conditions of the nation. A strike of ship joiners which has been in progress for eight months has at last been settled, and this will afford relief to thousands of other shipyard workers who have been thrown out of employment in the air and wages and other costs are veering in the favor of lower quotations for finished ships. With the level-headedness which usually comes to his rescue in the long run, the British workman has come to the conclusion that "salvation to himself is to be found by hard work and thrift; by returning to the employer an honest day's work for a reasonable wage."

Inspired by insidious propaganda, and hardened by an apparent lack of sympathy on the part of the authorities, the workers have for many months been maintaining the thesis that the inevitable movement for the reduction of wages which forms part of the aftermath of war has been a conspiracy on the part of the Government and the capitalist to lower the standard of living; but the fallacy of this supposition has made itself apparent, and substantial cuts all around have been accepted as inevitable and just. It is now hoped that conditions will gradually revert to normal, and that, strengthened by the lessons of the war, and spurred on by the formidable rivalry of other nations to attain by industrial supremacy, both employer and employed will show more of that spirit of co-operation and mutual sympathy which has been sadly lacking in the past.

A QUESTION FOR MR. MEIGHEN.

There must be a good many people puzzled to know just what point Premier Meighen intended to prove when he stated in his address in this city that only two-thirds of one per cent of the federal income tax came from the farmers of the country. There are just two constructions to be placed on that statement, and they are these:

1. Either the farmers of this country are being allowed to "put it over" the federal tax collectors to a degree that is truly amazing, considering the boasts the Government has made of their efficiency; or

2. The farmer is quite right in his contention that it is the city man, the middleman, who is making the money out of his labor, and making so much of it that he can afford to pay ninety-nine and one-third per cent of the federal income tax.

We would suggest that Premier Meighen explain his argument a little further when next he appears on the public platform.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The latest slogan in the Golden West is "Speed the snow-plow."

The Western Fair is now in full swing, and the Western fair ones are there by the thousand.

By pooling their energies the Ingersoll Kiwanians will soon enable the kiddies in that town to be in the swim.

It is suggested that skating contests and snowball fights be added to the attractions of some of the western fairs this fall.

John Shell, a Kentuckian, who has just passed his 133rd birthday, claims to be the oldest living human being. He is evidently come of a hard-shell family.

Free drinks of milk are to be distributed among all the younger pupils attending the Wellington school, St. Thomas. This is apparently the milk of human kindness.

Although the newspaper accounts of the career of the new Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario differ in some particulars, there seems to be no doubt that he began life as a barefooted boy.

In order to mitigate the rigors of the northern winter Government liquor stores are to be opened in the Yukon. Doubtless, frost-bite will prove as good an excuse for procuring a "per" as snake-bite.

The latest device is a burglar-proof bed. By this contrivance an electric light makes it impossible for "the man under the bed" to remain undiscovered. Thus will many a lonely spinster lose that evening thrill.

Visitors to the Western Fair who wish to impress all and sundry that they are experts in things agricultural, horticultural and avicultural had better stop talking about Shorthorn horses and Clydesdale cows, Jersey cabbages and Shropshire hens.

It is said that the doom of the country church is sealed, owing to the fact that the motor car enables the farmers and their families to drive into the cities on Sundays. The situation might be saved by introducing movies and other similar attractions as supplements to the country services.

Lloyd George's greatest need at the present time is for someone to tell him where to spend his holidays where deputations cease from troubling and politicians are at rest. The British premier would do well to study the life of Bonnie Prince Charlie, who managed to elude publicity in the Scottish Highlands for many months.

LETTERS

MELBOURNE INDIGNANT.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
After the sensational escape of Norman Garfield from Woodstock jail, one would naturally have supposed that the prison authorities of London would have taken warning and have used every precaution to have prevented a similar occurrence. Had this been done, the Murrell brothers would not have made their escape, and the people in and around the city would not now be terrorized by the fear of Melbourne's have just cause to feel indignant. With the loss of one of its best citizens and the lives of others endangered, they captured these men and handed them into the custody of the provincial authorities—and what is the outcome? The officials of the London jail have allowed these desperate men to escape; and now the county is to be soaked $2,000 and the province $3,000 for their recapture.

MRS. J. W. DYKES.

BLAMES IT ON PATRONAGE.
To the Editor of The Advertiser:
Kindly grant me sufficient space to ventilate a humble opinion gained after many years of dears, we some of the deplorable in Toronto. I think the reason so many are escaping from justice is patronage, besides not being able to judge between honor and dishonor. Only a few years ago, when I was of Euphemis, I received from the inspector's department a letter, with a few forms inclosed, asking me to have our medical health officer sign them, the letter also intimating that the aged lady's property could be handled from that department. Our medical man, an honorable gentleman, refused to sign, intimating that his signature would mean that she was insane. This neighbor was cared for in a better way, living and acting as a sane person, with some money left for her heirs. When we find things of this kind going on at headquarters, how can we expect competency locally? Yours truly, Cairo, Sept. 8, 1921.

A. A. ANNETT, J. P.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
It is a fact, for years established beyond fear of successful contradiction, that men and boys alike must play as well as work if the development of body and brain is to be the happiest and the best. It therefore follows as a natural sequence that it develops upon those to whom the municipal government is entrusted to see to it that the opportunity to play is placed within the reach not only of those in comfortable circumstances, but that it is afforded to those in the humbler walks of life, whose purses can ill afford the sports in which, under present conditions, only the wealthier can engage.

It goes without saying that the pastimes which should be made available to all citizens should be such as tend to develop in their participants, those traits of character which we so much admire in our fellowmen. The desire for an hour's respite from the strain and stress of life has frequently led young men, and older ones alike, into places, the influence of which is other than elevating and refining. The foundation for a life of crime has often been laid in places where men congregate to find amusement, and to seek the companionship of their fellowmen with whom they associate during hours of labor.

The writer of this letter recently had the very great pleasure of spending some considerable time with the company of a noted Scot, who for 25 years was a member of the municipal council of the city of Glasgow, Scotland—a man who is mentally vigorous, eager, alert, and deeply interested in the welfare of all citizens, but especially active and self-denying in his efforts in behalf of those citizens who are in humble financial circumstances, and who must of necessity remain strangers to the pastimes of those who have been reared in the lap of luxury, or who have been blessed by fickle fortune, unless some municipal provision is made for them whereby they may enjoy such healthy, wholesome, happy sports as are accessible to the more favored fellowmen—sports which if conditions were nearer ideal would be the heritage of every free-born Anglo-Saxon man. The distinguished Scot to whom I refer is none other than James Willox, J. P., D. L., other than James Willox, J. P., D. L., who so greatly endeared himself to so many of our soldier boys while on leave of absence in Scotland and partaking of the hospitality of the people of Glasgow—an unstinted hospitality not soon to be forgotten.

Judge Willox and his splendid wife have, for many years, traveled very extensively. They have visited nearly every country in the world, and have everywhere studied the social, moral, and religious condition of the people. They are now on their fourth visit to Canada, the vastness, beauty and fertility of which has wonderfully impressed them.

Judge Willox is a splendid conversationalist, and his favorite theme is: "The Welfare of Our Fellowmen." During the course of our conversation he informed me that in his native city many of the tennis courts, bowling greens and other places of like character are municipally owned and are available to all citizens at a fee which the poorest toiler can afford. Notwithstanding the fact that for an hour's pastime the fee is so low that no one is barred, yet these places of amusement are self-sustaining, and provide a revenue for the city besides.

Judge Willox, while visiting in London, took a run down to Springbank and was most favorably impressed with this place of beauty so conveniently situated to the Forest City. Incidentally he suggested that if the city council would fit up a bowling green of moderate size and supply bowls for the men who visit Springbank, that it would not unfavorably affect the greens located in the city and privately owned, but, on the other hand, would foster a wholesome desire for the game, and in so doing would very greatly assist them. This action on the part of the council would also supply a long-felt want in the lives of those who are not in a position financially to provide bowls for themselves, and maintain greens which are owned and operated by bowling clubs as our city greens now are.

Will the city fathers note the suggestion and give it the consideration of which it is worthy?
J. H. MCINTYRE.

OTHERS' VIEWS

THE SHAREHOLDERS' ALTERNATIVE.
[La Presse.]

"The injustice of the recommitments of the Grand Trunk shareholders in Great Britain is evident, even taking into consideration a resentment which is natural amongst those who find they are likely to lose the capital they have invested in the Grand Trunk Railway. Canada has advanced and expended in favor of the Grand Trunk Railway more than $225,000,000 over and above the guarantee of $10,000,000 annually in interest to the debenture holders and creditors. Canada, therefore, has very generously played her part in going to the aid of the company—in fact, the Dominion has done more than the circumstances and the resources of the treasury seem to have justified, if we had considered solely our own interests. Canada now has a right—and it is her duty—to consider the national interest. In order to avoid the failure of the Grand Trunk, the country should not expose itself to bankruptcy. It remains to the shareholders to reject the purchase proposed by the Government, and they may take back their property and continue to exploit the railway, but are they prepared to pay the millions of indebtedness which has been contracted and the larger part of which is long overdue?"

SENATOR DAVID AND CANADA'S FUTURE.
Senator L. O. David, writing in La Presse in commendation of an article by Mr. DeCelles on "Our Future," says: "It is a powerful, irrefutable plea against the annexation of Canada by the United States. Mr. DeCelles enumerates, with clearness and strong reason, the great dangers that annexation holds out against our religious, social, national and material interests. When Laurier was once asked what his views were regarding Canada's future, he said: 'He would be a very rash man, who would venture to predict that future. Events happen so quickly these days, and the unforeseen plays such an important part, that everything may change from one day to another. However, whatever the changes may be, I do not hesitate to say that we ought to maintain the English political institutions and the benefits we enjoy under our constitution, and that our present care ought to be to cultivate the elements of progress and prosperity we possess and develop our autonomy as much as possible.'"

"That," concludes Senator David, "ought to be the opinion of everybody who realizes the dangers that lurk in annexation and independence. We should prefer the conditions as they exist to unforeseen contingencies until Canada is free enough, and great enough to decide her own destinies, and until we, French-Canadians, are strong enough to decide our own national future. That also is the conclusion one can draw from the articles of Mr. DeCelles, although he confines himself to a denunciation of the dangers of annexation."

POETRY AND JEST

THE THRILL OF AUTUMN.
[Clinton Scollard, in New York Herald.]

The creeper is crimson, and crimson the birch;
The haw and the hip are both scarlet with fire;
The south wind of autumn is low like a lyre.

The birch is like amber of tenuous fold;
The bow of the linden waves pennons of gold;
As though topaz tipped are the ferns on the wold.

Like fairy-sun silver the gossamer gleams;
The valleys are filled with the singing of streams;
The watches of twilight are purple with dreams.

From hilltop to hilltop the sky is an arc
Of glimmer or glory, whereon, like a barque,
The round moon sails up through the aisles of the dark.

And we who are thrall to the bounteous store,
Spread widely before us on height and on shore,
Feel hither unto all of the autumns of yore.

A SPOONERISM.
[London Daily Chronicle.]

Mr. G. B. Burgin, the veteran novelist, has some good stories to tell in his entertaining "Memoirs of a Chubman," which Messrs. Hutchinson publish. He tells one of a nervous young girl who had written a couple of novels and was taken in to dinner by no less a person than Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

"Well, my dear, what do you do for a living?" gruffly asked the great man. "The girl was so embarrassed by this unexpected inquiry that she faltered out, 'I bite rooks.'"

THE TALLY.
[Richard Lord.]

It isn't the job we intend to do
The labor we've just begun
That puts us right on the ledger sheet;
It's the work we have really done.

Our credit is built upon things we do
Our debt on things we shrink.
The man who totals the biggest plus
Is the man who completes his work.

Good intentions do not pay bills;
It's easy enough to plan.
To wish is the play of an office boy;
To do is the job of a man.

A SAD BLOW.
[Boston Transcript.]

The Newbreds have a home in the suburbs and Mrs. N. was relating her disappointment with her garden to a sympathetic caller. "We did hope to have luck with our tomatoes," she said, "but even those failed us."

"You know there are several kinds of tomatoes, and we thought we had planted old tomato bushes are just covered with green ones, which we don't want at all, as we never eat pickles."

AMONG THE HEATHER.
[J. Lewis Milligan, in the Globe.]

(A Reminiscence, Ten Years After.)
sands of Dee,
Dreams arise and thrill us with wild
On the hill-top among the purple
heather,
Gazing on the Welsh hills across the anticipate Visions so too splendid, like you sunset on the sea.

Slowly wanes a day of love and joy and beauty,
Laughing skies have canopied our pathway all day long Woodland, stream, and meadow, highway, hall and cottage, Loving kind, and bleating sheep, and birds' sweet song.

We shall never utter these exquisite emotions
That from the base of being at close of day arise:
Turning from the hills and the sunset's golden glare
We find articulation in the language of the eyes.

Not from out the hills, the sea, or lingering skyline Comes the certain answer to these stirrings strange and wild;

Mystery confounds us and a dumb desire oppresses,
Till we turn and listen to the laughter of a child.

WASTED TACT.
[Tit-Bits.]

"Do you know what day this is, John, dear?"
Unpleasant recollections of previous memory lapses flashed through John's mind. He wouldn't be caught this time.

"Why, of course, my love! How could I possibly forget? This is our wedding anniversary," he said.
"No, it isn't. That was three months ago," she responded coldly. "This is the day when you promised to take the afternoon off from the office and be home."

BLESSINGS ON OUR HEADS.
If it were possible to call down blessings in the shape of chapeaux as illustrated, every mother's daughter of us would be over-exercising our "divine right," for the French models are nothing short of ravishing. In fact, that is about the only adjective that adequately describes them.

The display at the recent millinery exhibit gave some idea of what we may expect the fall style to be. Following the costume trend of Spanish accessories, it is not illogical to anticipate the same trend in the millinery modes, and one is not disappointed for it is all here. The Spanish types in chenille and lace, large picturesque hats, and the smaller close-fitting toque that seems especially designed for the bobbed haired lassies, certainly make for variety and give one an opportunity to select a becoming style that is also the mode of the moment.

Wearable Types in Black.
When one thinks of French models it is quite natural to have visions of a chic little hat having "snap" and "dash"; but there are other large graceful types that come under the French stamp that make up in charm what they lack in snap. An exquisite model of black hatter's plush softened with a facing of Maria Guy's, while a heavy black satin ribbon, faced in brown American broadtail, and worn with a choker of the same material, is a contribution to the fall modes from the Paris shop of Evelyn Varon. Lewis offers a Spanish shape of black panne and trimmed down at the back in black and white chenille, and Reboux, not to be outdone, contributes a black felt shape trimmed in Capuchine ostrich, and faced in velvet of the same color. Varon, on the other hand, places a color on one of the same models in a trimming of long, trailing feathers of French blue off the side, although the shape is of black hatter's plush.

Spanish Sailor Types Popular.
Typical of the Spanish sailor, one of the fall models is a large shape of black velvet with drops hanging from the brim and a fitted crown of black panne, the large rolled brim worked on the edge with white ribbon made into points to simulate the thick edge, and ending in little streamers at the sides.
It is reasonable to expect that the Lyons velvet, panne and hatter's plush are the materials favored for the new hats, and that the fuchsia colorings will be used for the trimmings—mostly there being very few all-fuchsia types. Uncurled glycerine, metallic and willow ostrich, as well as chenille in trails and balls, are among the impressions one gets of the favored trimmings.

LXXVII—Eve Humiliated

"Back to town? Julian Vandaveer gone back to town? Why, whatever do you mean?" Eve's stare was insolent.
"He went back on that fine old Mary, giving a last, deft touch to the centerpiece."
"How do you know? And—why didn't he leave word for me? Wasn't there any message?" Eve's tones were sharp.
"The sweet, old-fashioned role slipped from her like a mantle. 'Why wasn't I informed at once?'"
"I believe that you were out," replied the other girl, twining a spray of gloriously tinted autumn leaves around the bottom of the crystal jar which held the roses.
"What—what made him leave? Where and when did you last see him?" Eve was peremptory.
"I spoke to him this afternoon. I happened to be out walking through the woods!"
"Indeed?" Her question regarded Mary furiously. "So you were taking a stroll with Julian Vandaveer?"
"Oh, no! I shouldn't put it in that way!" Mary was not a bit afraid of Eve. "He overtook me, accidentally. That was all!"
Eve bit her lip. This pretty, quiet girl—she was always poaching somehow on Eve's preserves. It really was too irritating!
Julian had actually gone away without a word or message.
"When is he coming back? Tomorrow?" It was humiliating to be forced to question her guardian's paid secretary, but it must be done.
"He didn't tell me," answered Mary simply. "He—and his fingers—were vanishing—here she gave a tiny shudder—"have both gone tonight." Eve glowed with indignation.
"This is some of Carrington's work! I'll make him pay for this!"
Mary looked faintly surprised.
"Oh, I think Mr. Vandaveer remarked—that is—"
She broke off rather awkwardly.
"Yes. What did he say? Don't hesitate! Eve could willingly have shaken the other girl—who knew so much.
"I oughtn't to repeat that," Mary seemed quite flustered. "But I don't want you to misjudge Mr. Bellairs."
"What did my friend say?" Eve demanded sharply.
"He—he gave me the impression that he was rather tired of—of being in the country—that it was too quiet for him."
"Did he, indeed?" Eve's tones were icy. "Isn't it rather odd that you and my guest should discuss my hospitality together?"
"You're quite mistaken," Mary said, still calm. "Mr. Vandaveer merely said he wished to spend a night in town. Some friends of his had invited him to join a theatre party—"
"There! That will do!" cut in Eve majestically. She was seething now. She had come to humiliate Mary—and Mary had succeeded, all unconsciously, in humiliating her! The tables were turned with a vengeance.

MUSICAL DIRECTOR.
HARRY T. DICKINSON

The London Conservatory of Music has been entirely reorganized and fitted for its great work of 1921-2. Its staff of teachers is unique, each one having peculiar and special qualifications for the particular grade they specialize in. The equipment has been brought up to date to meet all demands made of it, and the directorate realizing that scholarships are frequently won by people well able to afford to pay for their tuition, have decided to replace these by several courses of FREE TUITION to such musically endowed people as may be, by existing circumstances, unable to equip themselves for a professional musical career. Information will be gladly received of any people so situated.
Special residence has been reserved and a matron's care provided for pupils from distant points.

DISTINGUISHED HEAD OF THE MANOR COURT HOSPITAL IN LONDON

Miss Harold Was Closely Associated With Dr. Clifford Reason in Late War.

Perhaps few Londoners know of the distinguished visitor in their city for the past few days, Nursing Sister M. W. Harold of the Manor Court Hospital, Folkestone, Eng., whose name is dear to the heart of many a Canadian soldier, and who was closely associated with Dr. Clifford Reason of this city in his work overseas. Miss Harold, who is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Reason, Central avenue, not only won distinction in the late war for her service to the empire, but is the possessor of two medals won in the South African war, when, though yet a girl in her teens, she was attached to the Princess Christian Hospital Train, Miss Harold is a woman who believes in putting praise where it is due, and consequently speaks out frankly as to the splendid work done by Dr. Clifford Reason during the past war.

Manor Court Hospital, "Manor Court," Folkestone, Eng., was perhaps the first estate to be turned into a hospital during the late war. The estate and the nursing sister herself become even more interesting when it is known that her estate bordered on that of the late Lord Kitchener, and that they were firm friends. In fact, the last picture one taken with Miss Harold and Dr. Reason of this city.

The way in which Miss Harold's estate became a hospital is charmingly told by the owner herself. It was early in the war when the first Belgian wounded were sent across the Channel. They arrived at the dock roughly clothed, and wearing black bandages, and when they first met the clothes in which they were to be put, and so they were left lying on the dock. Miss Harold heard of their plight, and went down with thermometer and other medical equipment, gave them what little help she could, and then ordered nine patients be taken to her own home. In the morning more beds were furnished her by her neighbors, and she took in the beginning of her Manor Court Hospital, through which 4,000 men passed during the war, over half of them Canadians. For her services the Government paid her 3 shillings a day, and it cost her 30 pounds sterling a month to run the hospital.

Now Miss Harold, who has been ordered to take a rest, is in Canada, visiting the boys whom she nursed. While in Quebec she was a guest at "Spicer House," the home of Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Fitzpatrick, and in Ottawa with Madame Caron. "It was worth the while," she said, "to have a hospital cost me to receive such a welcome as I have in Canada," she said.

Miss Harold took a special interest in the Canadian boys, because they were so far from home, and she is deeply grateful to the Canadian women who sent out supplies to her hospital, which she felt could not have been run without them.

Miss Harold leaves London to visit at the home of the Hon. Mr. Lucas.

HOME ECONOMICS

MRS. ELIZABETH KENT, MACDONALD COLLEGE.

FUEL FROM ANIMAL SOURCES.
derived from vegetable carbohydrate or fat, and animal carbohydrate, derived from any of the three vegetable substances, but chiefly from vegetable carbohydrate. In his animal food man gets protein from milk and its products, lean meat, fish and eggs. He gets very little carbohydrate except from milk, though scallops, oysters and clams yield a certain amount. Fat he gets from meats and fish, from milk and its products, especially butter and cheese, and from the yolks of eggs. Milk is the animal food that gives all three in considerable amounts.

When we consider the immense variety of foods eaten by civilized men, the complicated processes of preparation through which many of them pass before man eats them, and finally the delicate complexity of the machine by which man assimilates them, we can understand something of the difficulty that confronts the student of diet, and we must admire the patient intelligence which has been brought to bear on it. It makes us think that we will not shun such words as protein, carbohydrate, caloric and vitamin, and that we will bravely and out there they mean, and make use of them in feeding our families.

THE WOLF DOG.
Part Three.
The old mother wolf was out hunting for food or the first time since her wolf cubs had been destroyed. She had grown quite thin and hungry, and if she hadn't gone this day, no doubt she would have died. She traveled a long way from her pack and wandered into the country, where she knew a man had been killed. She hoped to find the man who had killed her young.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

The very best years of life are the later—after fifty, after sixty—when you know what the world really is, and what it has to offer.—Jowett.

Wants Envelopes.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am writing to ask for these envelopes that Wife offers, as I think I can fill them all for you. I can fill over 200 with phlox alone. I have a very fine mixture of this lovely flower. I also have a large quantity of Salpiglossis, nicotiana and hollyhocks ripe, also zinnias, and will have asters (they are just blooming now) and morning glories; perhaps some verbenas and pansy seed, although the chickens are showing a liking for the seed pods of the pansy just now. I wonder if any one could send me "Dreams of Long Ago," as sung by Caruso. We have it on a record, but I can't get it all, as he was not a very distinct singer. Well, perhaps, I had better close for this time.

P. S.—Inclosed find dime for fund. Ans.—If a Wife sees your request I am sure she will send you some envelopes. Aunt Rose, thank you for offering your seeds; also for sending us a mite for the fund.

No Name.
Dear Miss Grey,—I have been reading your page for some time and certainly enjoy it, so I thought I would write and get the address of some of the correspondents.

On seeing Pete's letter in your column I thought I would like to correspond with her, so if you will please send me her address I would be glad to correspond with her if she would like to do same.

I also congratulate you on your page for giving such education and I think there is some fine ideas distributed through it. Well, I hope I have not taken up too much of your page, so I will close, signing myself,

LOVER OM MUSIC, No. 2
Ans.—Thank you Lover of Music for your kind tribute to the Mail-Box. I cannot mail you Pete's address as you neglected to sign your name.

Hal Abbe Takes Opening 2:15 Pace

Last Three Heats in Straight Reels by Norwich Gelding.

Dr. Meldrum of Norwich, won the 2:15 pace with his brown gelding Hal Abbe by The Abbe, taking the last three heats in succession after Billy Bishop had romped off with the first.
J. Mullen of Alisa Craig, owner of Billy Bishop, drove his Bergen gelding to second place in the second heat and then was fourth with him in the last two heats.
The four heats were well contested, and the order in which the horses finished in each heat was never the same, and it showed determination on the part of the drivers.
The showing of Mack Royal, owned by the Lancaster Stables, was most encouraging. After finishing fourth and fifth in the first two heats, he got up for a piece of the money by finishing second and third in the last two heats.
Famous Horn, a famous Dillard gelding, owned and driven by J. Horton of Sheddin, stepped right along in the first two heats, but failed to get better than fifth place in the last two.

G.W.V.A. WILL HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH POLITICS, SAYS COLES

London Will Be Represented by One Delegate At the Annual Convention.

Col. W. G. Coles, president of the London Branch of the G. W. V. A., talking to The Advertiser today, stated that there is no doubt London will send at least one delegate to the Dominion G. W. V. A. convention at Fort Arthur during the week commencing October 17.

"It would be unwise to send more than one man," he added, "as the trip expenses will amount to quite a large bill, and we want to cut down expenses as much as possible."

Among the most important matters to be thoroughly discussed and decided upon will be the amalgamation question and the unemployment problem. The latter will affect us, as returned soldiers, to quite an extent, and it is more than probable, that the question will be thoroughly threshed out by the Federal and Provincial Governments, and perhaps the municipal parties may have something to say in the matter, said Col. Coles.

Regarding politics, he said, "I think I may be safe in saying that we will have nothing to do or say in the matter, as a body. All we want is fair legislation for the men who fought for the people and first choice of positions and other things, especially Government positions, and I think that the people as a whole will back us up in this."

It is understood in local G. W. V. A. circles that quite a number of distinguished officers of the allied armies will attend the convention, among whom will be Baron Byng, governor-general of Canada; Marshal Foch, and others.

MURRELLS PUT

ing them with his hands. He thought that the bars had been cut from the inside, and thought that more than one saw had been used. He had examined the bars on Friday morning and found them in good condition.

Dr. James D. Wilson, jail physician, said that he did not prescribe the tobacco for the Murrells brothers. He had been jail physician five years, and it had always been the rule to allow the prisoners to have tobacco.

"A gross irregularity had become a custom," commented Dunlop.

"Did not prescribe tobacco," said Dunlop.

"On the night of the escape he reported at 6 o'clock. Blake was there until 7 o'clock. At 6:40 o'clock he turned on the lights in the prisoners' ward, and heard one of them say, 'Thank you, he did not know how to escape, but he had expected it, as he always appreciated this recognition. The man who spoke would be in the centre of the ward, judging from the voice, he opined.

The Discovery.

"On that night, McLoud was to take my place. I took the night watchman's place." (The night watchman resigned on the previous evening. "Someone came to the door that night. I think a man from No. 3 ward was brought out to see him."

"I went with McLoud and the others to perform the duty of locking up. McLoud went into their ward, and called, 'Come on, boys.' They did not answer. McLoud said: 'They are not here.'"

Hodgins said that he had helped to examine parcels sent to the Murrell boys. He had also handed in tobacco to prisoners. The prisoners to whom he gave the tobacco had money to buy cigarettes.

Dunlop was surprised that the prisoners should have money, and asked if the required search of the men was made before they were jailed. Hodgins said that it was, but he did not think that the men's last change should be taken from them.

Gave Murrells Tobacco.

He said that he used to give the Murrells tobacco, but understood that it was permitted in the local jail and prohibited in other jails.

"Do you know that 'Slim' Williams is shaving himself with an old-fashioned razor?" queried the inspector.

Hodgins explained that the razor was passed into men considered dangerous, as it was not thought advisable to bring them out to shave them.

Dunlop permitted Hodgins to explain how the jail system could be "cast iron" when eight bars were sawn off.

He said that the general attention given to all things around the jail was what he meant by the system.

"There were eight feet away from the once, but did not study them."

"If you had taken an oath of office you would have had to study the rules, and to have seen that others lived up to them," remarked Dunlop. "We have two glaring instances where you read the rules and did not observe them."

Father On Stand.

William Murrell, father of the escaped prisoners, when questioned, stated that he had not seen his boys since June. Then he had only been allowed to speak to them through a hole.

On July 1 he had taken them some tobacco, but was not permitted to see them.

"Was some person at your house in an auto a few days prior to the escape?" inquired Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, K.C.

"No," replied the witness.

He denied that he had made any remark predicting their escape.

Mabel Murrell, the boys' mother, had not heard anything of the escape until the following day. She had been visiting the home of a Mrs. Edmundson in Toronto.

This friend had met Sidney when he was in hospital in England. On the Saturday prior to the escape she had taken the boys some butter and sugar.

The ladies and a few fears. She visited them every Saturday. On July 28 she took a roast chicken to them. An 18-year-old son had also taken them some food. She declared that she had never been given anything by outsiders to take to the boys.

She declared that she had not received any communication from them since their escape and had no idea where they were.

OFFICIALS IGNORANT OF RULES OR DISOBEDIENT.

"If you had followed the rules and regulations those men would be here today," declared the inspector.

W. W. Dunlop to Governor James Carter of the London jail, when the governor was on the stand at the investigation into the escape of the Murrells, at the court house yesterday afternoon.

Various jail officials were in the witness box during the afternoon session, the governor being the first, and their evidence showed that they were either ignorant of the jail rules and regulations or disobeyed them.

Ordered It Locked.

Carter stated that he had told Turney William McLoud to lock the gates after the laborers who are constructing a county machinery shed in the southeast yard, and to unlock them in the morning. Two men drawing clay from the yard spoke to the Murrells, the governor thought, but he did not think that they held any long conversation. In answer to a question from Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, who was examining the night watchman, Carter said that Ellison Hodgins had been hired as an extra turnkey, and that after he had been employed each man received a day's pay. "I did not know exactly their system of working out this day off."

When Night Watchman Spoke.

Charles Lilley was hired in his place.

No One on Guard.

The governor admitted that although work had been going on in the yard no one had been placed on guard there.

He said that the bars were inspected a couple of times a week.

"You have been governor of the jail for sixteen years," pursued the inspector.

Dunlop replied that he was familiar with the rules and regulations.

He cited rules 18 and 19, which provided that the jail should be kept in order and that the prisoners should be kept in their cells.

The governor stated that he trusted his men to carry out their duty, and that's God Almighty," remarked the inspector.

Against the Rules.

Then he read rule 103, which was to the effect that no dirt should be piled against the jail walls.

"What about the pile of ashes by the wall?" asked the inspector.

"What about the pile of ashes by the wall?" asked the inspector.

he was hired as night watchman. He admitted that he had purchased an auto on the day previous to the Murrell brothers' escape. He had paid $5 on it, and $95 when he received his pension check from the Government.

Questioned as to his instructions when he was hired, Lilley said: "My only instructions were to keep the stove going, cook the porridge, and look after the boys. I worked thirteen hours a day. I was never told about the Murrells. I never knew where they were until I went with the turnkey to lock up."

Was Not Enforced.

Rule 50 of the jail regulations provided that the night watchman was to accompany the governor on a tour of inspection each time the former went on duty, to discover if all the prisoners were present. This, he declared, he had never done.

Lilley resigned on the evening preceding the night when the Murrells escaped.

"I had no intention of quitting when I left home," he explained, "but Deputy Sheriff Waterworth annoyed me by saying that I was asleep on the job."

Never Sworn In.

Turnkey John Anderson, when put under a fire of questions, admitted that he had never been sworn in to office.

On the evening of the escape he had left work at 5:55 p.m. He had closed the gates at 5:15 p.m. The workmen had then gone. He found a little child playing in the yard at that time. Coming back to the jail wall he noticed one of the ladders, but said nothing about it being there. He said that while he went out to lock the gate, and had the keys to the entrance from the yard to the Murrell ward, and to the yard gate in his hand that another turnkey was watching him. The other man had not been posted to watch him, but just happened to be there.

"Everything seems to 'just happen,'" remarked the inspector.

Sent a Warning.

On June 21, because of the number of escapes from provincial jails, a letter of warning had been sent to the sheriffs of each county to be read to the jail officials. All the officials declared that it had been read here.

"You took the position of jailer?" declared Inspector Dunlop. "You are in the position of jailer."

"You are a public servant, and you have some of the worst men in the country under your charge. You are a public servant."

The public servant, who is a public servant, and you have some of the worst men in the country under your charge. You are a public servant."

"Did you check up the turnkeys?" queried the inspector.

The governor stated that if he was too strict with the men that they would quit.

"It is a low type of man who cannot stand up to the men that they are presiding over," remarked the inspector.

Referring to the materials in the yard through which the Murrell boys made such an easy escape, Inspector Dunlop asked: "Who will remove the ropes, the pipe-threading machine which stands four feet high against the wall, the tool shed and the ashes?"

Governor Carter made a reply to the effect that it was none of his business.

Speaking of the rope which stretched from the scaffolding to a tree at an angle, Inspector Dunlop observed: "I've seen a ten-year-old boy go up a rope higher than that!"

Jailer Questioned.

Then Night Watchman Charles Lilley was the subject for some questioning of the jailer.

"What instructions did you give that man?"

"I told him to keep away from the prisoners."

Governor Carter did not know whether Lilley read the rules, and he admitted that he had no record in writing of giving Lilley instructions.

"You know I feel this keenly," remarked Inspector Dunlop. "I had no word of this work going on in the yard. It was not there when I was here last."

As far as Turnkey William Blake knew no one went into the Murrell ward between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m. Each day, he told the inspector and Deputy Attorney-General Edward Bayly, K.C., who was also on the bench. Blake said that he had worked 85 hours each week.

Saw the Ladder.

He admitted that when he went to lock the gates of the yard one night he noticed the ladder.

"Did it not occur to you that there was any danger?" began the inspector.

"Yes."

"Didn't you speak to anyone about that?"

"No. I thought I had no authority."

Every fourth night Blake worked, he testified. On those nights he tested the bars. He was satisfied that they were not sawn on Wednesday night, because he inspected them that night.

Tempting Fate.

Emphasizing again the fact that so much material was on the jail premises, Inspector Dunlop remarked: "Anything a man wanted was there. He could get to the moon if there was enough rungs on the ladders."

"If anyone was in the yard would you speak to him?" continued the Government official.

"No."

"You wouldn't!" exclaimed the questioner.

"No. I would take him and hand him right over to the authorities."

"Why did you lock the gate?"

"Because I was ordered to."

"You're like the man on the railroad at Hamilton, who was testing car wheels, and when asked why he did it he said: 'Oh, I don't know. I had to do it around here.' He didn't realize that the safety of the traveling public depended on him," was Dunlop's next shot.

"Why did you lock the gates?" was again the question.

"To keep people from coming in."

"And to keep prisoners from going out," added the inspector. "That's better."

The bucket-handle, which was used as a handle for Murrell's backwash was off Thursday, Blake thought. When asked as to the conduct of the prisoners, Blake said that the tobacco had been taken away from them when they started a fire in their ward.

Chief Turnkey William McLoud said that he viewed the bars from the outside. That was his inspection of them.

He had seen the ladders, but had not spoken to anyone about it. The long ladder, which the Murrell brothers used, he had not seen until the morning after the escape.

He stated that he was ordered to open the gates by Governor Carter.

Only One Had Gun.

County Constable Arthur Corsaut, special guard of the Murrells, was the only man armed, McLoud swore.

McLoud confessed that in his ten years' experience he had never seen a long way the worst men ever under his charge.

He admitted that he did not close the jail gates until half an hour after the laborers had left their work.

Asked why he was so late in this respect, McLoud replied: "We were so cautious we did not think that anyone would set in."

Blake had said that he and McLoud had examined parcels of food sent to the escaped prisoners. The only way they inspected the parcels was to bend them. They did not cut them. In one parcel there was roast chicken.

"How many backwash blades could be put in a roast chicken?" inquired the investigator.

"Quite a number," admitted McLoud.

A Good Hiding Place.

"In a dozen bananas there might be a dozen backwash blades," was the next shot of Inspector Dunlop's volley of remarks aimed at the witnesses during the afternoon.

Dunlop then told of how easy it was to smuggle in morphine in food. He said that the only thorough examination would be of such a nature that it would render the food unfit for use.

McLoud had not said anything about the ladders. The laborers needed them in their work.

"So the erection of a new wall is more important than the escape of a murderer," interjected Deputy Attorney-General Bayly.

Charles Lilley was put back on the stand in the afternoon to produce his bankbook, declared that he had never heard of a ladder, and that he

the combination of adequate mechanical equipment on one hand and thorough vigilance by those in charge of the prisoners on the other.

In this conclusion, I wish to emphasize certain facts brought out during a recent investigation into the escape of a prisoner. This prisoner was under sentence of death. He was kept in a cell made specially secure. Two extra guards were supposed to watch him day and night. Special instructions had been issued, urging constant vigilance and a strict observance of the rules to prevent escapes. Notwithstanding all these precautions, the prisoner was allowed to escape, and the cause was wholly due to the carelessness of the jail officials and the special guard. Apart from the cost to the province of recapturing this prisoner, the moral effect is disastrous to discipline, as it shows a lack of co-operation with the department.

One thing seems clear: it is quite possible to provide a secure cell, extra guards—and issue special instructions, and this is as far as the department can do—yet when jail officials fail to realize the supreme importance of adherence to the rules, it is not possible to prevent escapes.

There is only one way to accomplish this purpose: that is by every officer in charge of prisoners understanding the fact that it is the one thought in the mind of every prisoner to escape, and means to get his liberty, and it should be the one idea in the mind of every jail officer to prevent it. In-vestigations invariably disclose carelessness and neglect of the rules, which is the prime cause of all escapes.

QUEBEC VOTES FOR REPEAL OF SCOTT ACT

Overwhelming Majority Is Given In Favor of Taschereau Act.

QUEBEC, Sept. 12.—The plebiscite held here today to decide between the Scott act and the Quebec liquor law, gave an overwhelming majority in favor of the Taschereau act.

While the official figures will not be made known until Wednesday morning, it was announced unofficially tonight that the majority in favor of the repeal of the Scott act was 11,250, and those in touch with the voting believe that with the official count the majority will reach 12,000.

The polls closed at 7 o'clock tonight and the reports were made to the official headquarters until 10 o'clock. There are still several polls to be heard from.

The number of persons entitled to vote is given as approximately 25,000, but there was a heavy downpour of rain throughout the day which was responsible for keeping many from voting and particularly the women.

THUG STABS MAN IN BED; MANY WOUNDS INFLICTED BY KNIFE

Two Struggle in Darkness For Several Minutes—Assailant Escapes.

DETROIT, Sept. 12.—While Ralph Ishphoring, 634 West Warren avenue, lay asleep in his bed this morning he was slashed and stabbed with a knife in the hands of a thug, nearly a dozen wounds being inflicted on his body. The thug afterwards escaped. Ishphoring told the police he was awakened by feeling a man's hand clutching his windpipe. He grasped the intruder about the waist and the two men struggled in the darkness for several minutes.

Suddenly the assailant released his hold on his victim's neck and drawing a long knife he cut, slashed and stabbed Ishphoring until the latter was a mass of bleeding wounds.

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—At this afternoon's session of the conference of Eastern Ontario executives of the Great War Veterans' Association a resolution was adopted reaffirming the Port Arthur resolution on amalgamation.

A vote of confidence in the Dominion Commandant's unemployment policy was also adopted, and there was a general discussion on matters affecting the welfare of the organization. It was decided that frequent conferences such as today's would be held.

MANY ARRESTS ARE MADE IN TURKISH PLOT

Vast Revolution Was Organized and Subsidized by Nationalists.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 12.—The discovery of a vast revolutionary plot at Constantinople is announced by the British authorities here.

Last June it was reported from Constantinople that a great uprising by Bolsheviks and Turks there had been frustrated by the vigilance of the police and military officers. Allied troops, acting under orders from General Harrington, commander of the British forces in Constantinople, raided various hotels and houses, seized large quantities of arms and ammunition, and arrested more than fifty persons alleged to have been implicated in the movement.

Later Cecil B. Harmsworth, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, stated in the House of Commons that the arrests were justified and were necessitated by the discovery of a plot to start a revolution in Constantinople beginning with the assassination of General Harrington.

Many of those involved were Russians.

SUBSIDIZED BY TURKS.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The British intelligence department at Constantinople has discovered a plot, organized and subsidized from Ankara, the Turkish Nationalist capital, to foment a revolution at Constantinople, according to Reuter dispatches.

It was planned to spread disaffection among the loyal Indian troops and assassinate the leading Allied officers. Seventeen desperadoes, it is reported, were brought to Constantinople to carry out the murders. The British authorities have demanded the arrest of those implicated.

REV. R. A. LAWSON IS CALLED TO GRANTON

Mayor Gregory has been notified that the French sample train touring Canada will visit here on Monday, October 17.

1,400 SHEEP LOST WHEN BARN BURNS

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 12.—Fourteen hundred head of sheep were burned to death Sunday morning, when lightning struck a large stock barn on the E. G. Stephens farm, near Muncie, Ill. Three thousand head of sheep were in the barn, but volunteers succeeded in herding 1,600 of the animals to safety. The loss to the barn, etc., will total more than $40,000.

ABOLITION OF WAR IS URGED BY CONFERENCE

Strongly-Worded Resolution Is Passed At Methodist Convention.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The World's Methodist Conference this afternoon adopted a strongly worded resolution calling for international disarmament and the complete abolishment of war. This action was taken after a spirited controversy over the question as to whether mention should be made in the resolution of the League of Nations.

The conference finally decided to adopt a resolution which did not mention the league and to ask the business committee to frame a separate resolution dealing with the league which would be voted on later.

The resolution adopted says the conference, "speaking in the name of thirty-two million followers, declares without reservation its belief in the absolute necessity for international disarmament and the complete abolishment of war."

"Sitting in the shadow of the most terrible conflict in human history, with its unparalleled wastage in human life and property, and with its inevitable aftermath of human sorrow and its burden of woe, we declare war an unmitigated curse to humanity," the resolution continues.

"On behalf of millions of youths who suffered and died; on behalf of millions of homes broken by bereavement; in the name of the silent multitudes who still suffer, we insist that our statesmen and leaders find a way for the settlement of international differences by other means than arbitrament of arms. We repudiate the doctrine that war is a necessity, justice, not force, must be the final arbiter of right. Differences must be settled by reason, not by human slaughter."

Will Find Way.

The resolution says that if there are those who refuse to listen to reason, then let a way be found by which such Ishmaelites may feel the collective disapproval of the world."

The conference, the resolution adds, advocates no plan, but it calls upon the Allies "to give themselves without reserve to the Christian task of finding a substitute for war." It condemns armaments and says the conference especially appeals to the meeting that is soon to be held in Washington to discuss limitation of armaments "that no word be left unsaid, no deed undone, that shall help to relieve the world of its burden of armaments and the threat of war."

The conference today discussed missionary work and world peace. A number of the speakers lauded the League of Nations.

WAR DECLARED BY SOVIET ON BESSARABIA

Trotzky Has Gone To Ukraine To Direct the Operations.

RIGA, Sept. 12.—The Russian Soviet Government has declared a state of war in Bessarabia, in the Rumanian frontier zone.

According to the Rosta News Agency, Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik minister of war, has gone to the Ukraine, apparently in connection with the reported mobilization of Rumanian or anti-Bolshevik troops recruited in Rumania.

At Zhitomir, according to the Rosta Agency, Trotzky said: "We want peace, but those who want to penetrate Russia, forcibly will collide with Red fighters."

PLAN TO SELL COAL AT COST

Windsor Council Will Wage War On Fuel Dealers.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WINDSOR, Sept. 12.—By a vote of 6 to 5 the council tonight favored a recommendation of the transportation committee to enter the coal business on a more extensive scale than last year.

The committee was authorized to visit London to inspect a coal-loading device, the purchase of which equipment was authorized. Ald. Mitchell and Ald. Hooper led the coal-at-cost advocates, while Ald. Howell and Ald. McTavish championed the cause of the dealers, who, they asserted, are selling at a profit of less than $1 per ton.

Ald. Mitchell's attack on dealers, during which he charged them with "robbing and profiteering," was punctuated with applause from a large congregation of taxpayers. Ald. Hooper said coal is just as much of a necessity as water, and should be sold at cost by municipalities.

An amendment to the committee's report, fathered by Ald. Howell and Ald. McTavish, to send the recommendation back for further information, was defeated, the mover and seconder, with Alderman Fraser, Keyser and Weber, supporting it.

SENATOR POWER DIES AT HOME IN HALIFAX

Was One-Time Speaker in the Dominion Parliament.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 12.—Hon. Lawrence Geoffrey Power, member of the Senate of Canada, from 1877, and a former speaker, died at his home here this morning at the age of 80.

Born August 18, 1841, the late Senator Power was only 36 years old when he was summoned to the Upper House. At the time he was practicing his profession as a barrister and was an aide-man of the city of Halifax.

His education had been obtained at St. Mary's College, Halifax; Carlow College and Catholic University, Ireland.

He was a graduate of the class of '68. Just previous to the election of 1896 he published a pamphlet, entitled "Remedial Bill From the Standpoint of a Catholic Member," which was translated into French, and had a wide circulation throughout the country. He was also the author of papers on Richard John Uniacke, "The Whereabouts of America," and "The Discovery of America," all of which were read before the Nova Scotia Historical Society. He served in the militia during the Fenian troubles of 1866.

LEAGUE SESSIONS OPEN TO PUBLIC

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(By Canadian Press.)—A Reuter dispatch from Geneva says now that the sittings of the various committees of the League of Nations have been thrown open to the public, more attention is being paid to the proceedings.

The committee dealing with amendments to the covenant of the League of Nations finally decided not to propose any modifications of the terms of Article Ten, but adopted a resolution detailing the scope of the article.

Regarding discussions of the committee on transit, in which Sir George Perley took a leading part, the committee agreed that conferences of the committee on communications and transit between countries should take place freely at the request of one-third of the members of the league.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Dr. H. H. H. medical health officer today issued another official denial of the rumor that there is a serious outbreak of typhoid in the city. The purity of the water and milk supply, usually the source of such an outbreak, are, he says, beyond question. He declares that there have been only twelve cases reported in the city in the last 45 days and only one death.

JAPAN AND FRANCE WILLING TO INVITE BELGIUM AND HOLLAND

Other Powers Are Expected To Give Their Assent Also.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Japan and France have formally given assent to the United States proposals that Belgium and Holland, because of their large interests in the Orient, be invited to the conference on limitation of armaments. Favorable responses from other powers are expected at the state department within the next few days, but no formal invitations will go forward to the Belgian and Dutch Governments until there is unanimous agreement on the subject. While these negotiations are proceeding state department officials are feeling out the attitude of the other participants on what subjects are to be considered at the conference. The British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, conferred with Secretary Hughes today, and it is understood the problem of framing a conference program was discussed, although there was no indication that the embassy had received detailed instructions from London or that the secretary had formulated any definite proposal on the part of the United States Government.

Conferences of a similar nature have taken place between Mr. Hughes and other ambassadors, the intention being to keep the negotiations in an informal phase until the views of all the interested nations have been more or less clearly defined.

PARDEE WILL LIKELY RUN IN LAMBTON

SARNIA, Sept. 12.—Activity started today in the various political camps in the Imperial City, and chiefs of the Conservative, Liberal and United Farmer parties are now actively engaged in preparing for the general election. Leaders of the Conservative party announced that they would likely name their candidate during the latter part of the week.

It was stated by Liberal chiefs that they were naming their candidate, and Pardee, M.P., but as yet no official announcement has been made. It is rumored that Mr. Pardee may not seek reelection.

The United Farmers are busy grooming their candidate, and it is expected before the week-end the regular pre-war election campaign will be under way in both East and West Lambton.

WINDSOR COUNCIL DECIDES TO FIGHT SERVICE CHARGE

Will Test Right of Company To Collect Extra Dollar.

[Special To The Advertiser.] WINDSOR, Sept. 12.—Natural Gas Referee Henderson came in for another "panning" tonight, when the city council decided to storm the referee's office at Chatham on the 29th. Acting mayor and all members of the council with the city solicitor and city engineer will journey to Chatham in an attempt to induce the court to cancel the service charge of $1 a month.

Ald. Mitchell, in answering the charges of Ald. Hooper, that the municipalities had not placed their case before the referee in a proper way, asserted that had the referee "been on the job" no such price would have been allowed the companies.

Not in Evidence. "The price was struck," Ald. Mitchell declared, "not on the evidence given, but on what the referee believed the public would stand."

The council near midnight authorized City Clerk Miss Martha Dickinson to refuse the payment of the service charge of $1 a month on all city bills. The council, by taking this action, forces a test case of the right of the companies to make such a charge in the face of the franchise.

Taking Their Time. Asked to send a check to the Provincial Government for $24,699, the amount said to be due the province for fines collected for violation of statutes, the council grinned, and then the attorney-general's curt demand for settlement to the city solicitor.

"Please send a check at once," Mr. Raney wrote. The aldermen, however, seemed in no hurry, and the city solicitor will report in two weeks. In the meantime, the province must wait along indefinitely, because there seems to be no disposition on the part of the aldermen "to settle" as demanded by Mr. Raney.

Fiance of Dead Actress Will Press Prosecution

Attorneys of Fatty Arbuckle Declare He Is Innocent of All Charges Made Against Him—Many Theatres Are Temporarily Withholding Plays.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Henry Lehrman, motion picture director, who was engaged to marry Miss Virginia Rappe, the film actress for whose death Roscoe Arbuckle is held in jail in San Francisco, today said he would devote every moment he could spare from his business to pressing the comedian's prosecution.

Mr. Lehrman said he would supervise funeral arrangements after the inquest in San Francisco Thursday. Miss Rappe, he said, had no near relatives. Burial will be in Los Angeles.

DECLARE HIM INNOCENT. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Before an inquest into Miss Rappe's death began today, Arbuckle's attorneys issued a statement asking the public to withhold judgment until the court has rendered its verdict. The statement says in part:

"With a full knowledge of our position as attorneys we assert that Roscoe ('Fatty') Arbuckle is innocent of any and all charges made against him in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe; and that the courts of California will sustain our confidence in his innocence.

"We appeal to the conscience and the heart of the American public to hold in abeyance any judgment until the courts have determined upon the guilt or innocence of our client. We, the attorneys, have complete knowledge of all facts, know that he is innocent.

"The patrons of the silent drama, having a knowledge of the smiles and the heart of 'Fatty' Arbuckle will not believe he is guilty of the charge made against him until proved in a court of justice."

The manager of the Hotel St. Francis, where Arbuckle had his suite, was ordered today to appear before the district federal prohibition enforcement officer to be questioned regarding the liquor said to have been consumed by the Arbuckle party.

FILM IS CANCELLED. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 12.—The latest film production featuring Roscoe ('Fatty') Arbuckle, held in jail in San Francisco in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, the largest local motion picture houses. The film had been showing all last week, and last night was to have been its final appearance.

The owner of the theatre declined to comment upon the cancellation. No Arbuckle pictures were advertised by any local theatres today. At the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Film Exchange, distributors of Arbuckle pictures, no comment was made.

RAIN AND SNOW GREATLY DELAYS GRAIN-CUTTING

Grades May Be Lowered As Result of Western Storms.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—(By Canadian Press.)—Harvesting in Western Canada has been held up by rain and snow in most districts and it will be generally towards the end of this week before the grain can be harvested. Prospects today are for fair and cool weather with a tendency towards moderating. Details of the situation in each province are given in the weekly report of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Heavy rainfalls in Manitoba have caused delays of three days a week in thrashing, it is reported, and grades may be lowered.

Nearly Finished. In the central and southern districts about 75 per cent of the thrashing is done and in the north about 49 per cent.

Cutting is completed in Saskatchewan with the exception of 15 to 25 per cent of late coarse grains in the north. Thrashing has been suspended by rain and snow and temperatures two degrees to ten degrees below freezing have been reported. There has been no damage from frost, but the excessive moisture may cause reduction in some cases. The situation will improve with the arrival of further help from the east and with the release of workers in Manitoba, when the earlier harvest in the province is completed.

Thrashing Stopped. Practically all grain in Alberta has been cut, but snow and rain and low temperatures have combined to stop thrashing, which will not be resumed for four or five days. Thrashing is 50 per cent done in the centre and south, and 20 per cent to 25 per cent in the north.

Unusually heavy rains have fallen along the Edmonton-Dunvegan and British Columbia line, and there has been some damage to uncut grain from frost, but most of the crop is too far advanced to suffer injury. Seventy-five per cent of all grain is cut.

DECLARE STATES CAN DO BETTER THAN CRITICIZE

Indian Lawyer Makes Eloquent Speech Before League of Nations.

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—The assembly of the League of Nations today heard a great deal about the United States and the proposed conference at Washington in November in connection with the league work on disarmament, and also with reference to criticism in the United States on the work of the league. It was the most picturesque session of the assembly.

Scores States. Srinavasa Sastri, a native Indian lawyer, wearing the Indian costume and speaking perfect English with an eloquence rarely surpassed by English lawyers, had the floor at the morning session. He suggested that the United States might do something more practical than merely criticize what the league was doing or had failed to do. He touched lightly on the race question in connection with mandates, hinting at a difference of views on this question between India and her sister dominions, South Africa, which is one of the mandatory powers.

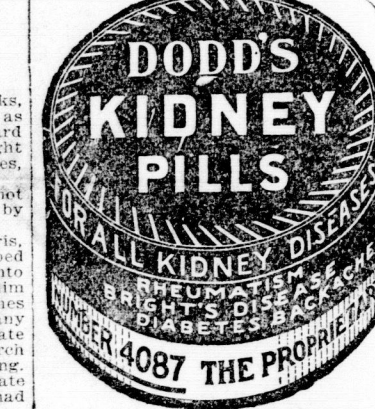

Various Difficulties. Taking up the subject of disarmament, the Indian lawyer said: "India is suffering under difficulties of various kinds. We would gladly accept disarmament, but, as Mr. Balfour said, we are not in a peaceful world. We have as neighbors Russia, Afghanistan and Turkey. Conditions there indicate to us that Mr. Balfour was right. We must proceed cautiously with disarmament."

Hopes For Best. Mr. Sastri raised the race question in connection with the mandates. Referring to what he termed discrimination in the laws of some of the mandatory powers between people of the white and colored races, he demanded that these countries use the power conferred upon them with consideration for the mandated people.

Mr. Sastri said he hoped it would not be necessary for India or for Japan to take part in the future to the people of the mandated territory. "You are worse off than you were under the Germans," he said. "You are worse off than you were under the British."

Count Gimino, a Spanish delegate, pointed out before he praised the league's work. Count Gimino spoke in Spanish, which was the first time this language had been used on the floor of the assembly. His speech later was translated into both English and French.

BISHOP HORNER PASSES. KINGSTON, Sept. 12.—A telegram announcing the sudden death of Ivanhoe, Hastings County, where he was taking part in a camp meeting of Bishop Horner, founder of the Holiness Movement and the present standard church, was received here this afternoon. The remains will be sent to Ottawa for interment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Leon Parks, named today by Harvey W. Church as an accomplice in the murders of Bernard Daugherty and Carl Amsinus, tonight confessed his implication in the crimes, according to the police.

Another man, whose identity was not disclosed, had also been named by "Church" as an accomplice.

Church, according to Chief Fitzmorris, named Parks as the man who helped him load the body of Daugherty into the automobile and later helped him throw the body into the Des Plaines River. Parks had stoutly denied any connection with the murders until late tonight, when the police brought Church and links face to face for questioning.

Chief Fitzmorris would not state whether the third man in the case had been arrested.

BRANTFORD COUNCIL CONGRATULATES NEW LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

Aldermen Believe Col. Cockshutt Will Fill Position Creditably.

[Special To The Advertiser.] BRANTFORD, Sept. 12.—The city council this evening, on motion of Ald. P. D. Reville, formerly editor of the Brantford Courier, Conservative, and liberal, congratulated the new lieutenant-governor of Ontario, Col. Harry Cockshutt, a former member of the council and ex-mayor of Brantford, on his appointment to the post of lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

A post they felt he would fill with honor to himself, his native city and county which had sent forth so many distinguished leaders of federal and provincial governments.

The council favored the removal of the old Harley store building, Nelson and King streets, bought by the city to round out the Bell memorial plan, and now in the way with paving operations on.

Meetings were arranged for all the wards to get behind the Murray street bridge and Parkdale trunk sewer by-laws to be submitted shortly to the ratepayers to provide for the unemphatic during the winter months.

Ringleader Is Given Four Years

Solly Platter Sent To Kingston For Jail-Breaking.

[Special To The Advertiser.]
QUELLEN, Sept. 12.—Five of the prisoners who escaped last week from the Ontario Reformatory here and were later captured near Woodstock, came before Magistrate Watt today charged with jail breaking and stealing a motor car after getting away. Solly Platter, of Toronto, the ringleader of the gang, who admitted seeing the bars from the jail corridor windows, through which the gang got away, was sentenced to three years in Kingston for jail breaking, and an additional year for stealing the auto.

Platter was undergoing a two-year term when he escaped. He was sentenced in Toronto last June for attempted robbery and receiving stolen goods.

At the conclusion of the Kingston term he will be brought back to Guelph to serve out his original sentence.

Alex. Morgan (colored), Platter's chief assistant in planning the escape, goes to Kingston for three years, while three others, George Miller, John Smith and Nicholas Torosky, go back to the farm for an additional year.

WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY.
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The British cruiser Dauntless, assigned by the British Admiralty to bring home the bodies of the United States airmen who lost their lives in the ZR-2 disaster, will arrive in New York at 2:30 p.m.
next Friday.

BREAD PRICES LOWERED.
[Special To The Advertiser.]
INGERSOLL, Sept. 12.—The price of bread today dropped to eleven cents per loaf. It has been selling for months at twelve cents. The drop, the bakers stated, is made possible by cheaper wheat.

AT THE MAJESTIC.
Take three acts filled to the brim with sparkling comedy and mix it well with an equal amount of cleverness, and you have a most enjoyable evening.
It is with enough spice to make it decidedly interesting, and it is well known that a very good cook you might produce something almost as good as the farcical comedy in "The Hill."
It was played by the William A. Grew players at the Majestic Theatre on Monday evening. It appears there during the whole of this week.

Hardly too much could be said about the play. The plot is ingenious to an extreme. Based on what might happen when divers pieces of interesting woe-man's lingerie go astray throughout a house filled with four or five perfectly respectable, but eternally suspicious couples, and one not yet entered into the bonds of matrimony, it provides innumerable laugh-producing situations.

The plot is filled with peculiar little twists and turns, and yet is so well worked out that it is always easy to follow. The comedy permits both the acting and the spoken word, and it is clear as it is generous in quantity.

The cast, almost without exception, did excellent work, but it was Robert Hyman as Garry Ainsworth, a husband of a month, who did no wrong in the whole of his life, but much to his discomfort was very foolish just once. He provides much of the comedy and creates the many humorous situations. His work is that of an artist. Opposite him, as his wife, Rose MacDonald was splendid despite a difficult part to play. Gertrude Dustin as Mable Essington had a strong role. Except in one or two instances her presentation of the part was very colorful. Duncan Penwarden as Arthur Penwarden had a rather thankless role, but he made the most out of it. He suited the part exceedingly well. Rickey Secret as Jimmy Larchmont and Donna Bartlett, as his wife, ably assisted Garry Ainsworth in producing the plentiful humor and comedy. Thelma H. McKnight as Carlie, Garry's man, was exceptionally

KIDDIES' DAY AT THE WESTERN FAIR

One photo shows a group of interested kiddies snapped as they stood entranced at the spiel of a "ballyhoo man" in front of one of the midway attractions.

The other photo shows one of the committeemen distributing tickets to the kiddies. The committeemen had a busy day seeing that the kiddies saw everything there was to see, and incidentally most of them had just as much fun out of it as the children.

AT THE ALLEN.
He was the black sheep of the family and preordained, seemingly, as are thousands of his kind in real life, to get more hard knocks, beatings and luck than all the others, but through it all there was one who trusted and believed in the little mother—and there are millions of her kind also in the world today—serving and sacrificing always that her own shall succeed through the years to come. But when it narrowed down to the last analysis it was the black sheep who, when all the rest had miserably failed, was the one to save the father from disgrace and the old, frail, dim-eyed mother from a pauper's ending.

Probably the greatest human interest story that has ever been adapted for the screen, let alone shown in London, is the William Fox production "Over the Hill," appearing as one feature only of the big special program at the Allen Theatre the first half of this week.

"Over the Hill" is the story of a man, as a "true-to-life" production it has yet to be equalled and cleverly interwoven throughout the tale is the smashing rebuke to the selfish and the hypocrite. Incidentally it deals a telling blow at the typical and apparently popular public school theory that has survived the ages, "spare the rod and spoil the child." Undoubtedly "Over the Hill" will compel even the best of the moralists to reflect not a little.

AT LOEW'S.
Louise Glaum, the popular emotional screen artist, scores another great success in the movie version of J. Parker Reade, Jr.'s stirring drama "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," which was shown at Loew's yesterday. The plot is a representation of the eternal triangle with the circumventing of a master criminal's plans as a source of numerous thrilling scenes.

A Mark Sennet comedy and a Loew's news film make up the balance of the bill drama offering. An overture and selections of high merit by the orchestra and three vaudeville turns, a tumbling act, a mandolin and comedy dialogue with artistic setting, complete the bill, which will be presented again today and on Wednesday.

GODERICH BABE WAS POISONED BY TABLETS

[Special To The Advertiser.]
GODERICH, Sept. 12.—The sixteen-month-old babe of Mr. and Mrs. F.
Davies was poisoned yesterday afternoon, when while playing about the house he found some tablets which had accidentally fallen from the sill. The babe ate eight tablets and died soon after.

Mrs. (Capt.) Sheppard met with a serious accident today. With her husband she had started on a motor trip to Toronto, and they were nearing Bayfield when in some way the car took to the ditch and turned turtle. Mrs.
Sheppard had her arm broken and may be more seriously injured. She was immediately brought to the General and Marine Hospital here. Captain Sheppard escaped with a severe shaking up.

WILL MINIMIZE DANGER.
REGINA, Sask., Sept. 12.—Cool, dry weather following recent rains will minimize danger to crops, according to government officials interviewed today. They declared the worst menace was not summer drouth. It is said that flood operations in this district will be held up for a week or ten days.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.
SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 12.—An attempt upon the life of Admiral Baron Minoru Saito, the Japanese minister here, was made today by a Korean who threw two bombs at the rooms in the Government Building where Governor Saito was assuming his duties after his return from the country. The governor was not injured.

CLEVER MAY ROBSON

PLEASES AUDIENCE IN
"IT PAYS TO SMILE"

Excellent Company Plays But One Night At Grand.

May Robson came to play a London house last night—came with all her cleverness, her subtlety and her wit to the Grand Theatre and left behind her an audience shrieking at her funniness and struck with admiration at the big-ness of her talent. "I could sit through that play all over again," a remark heard at the close of the performance, voiced practically everybody's feelings and it is to be regretted that May Robson's program called for but one night in London.

As "Freedom Talbot," the elderly chaperone of Mayflower descent, who came to the family of the very rough and ready Peggie, as a "society monitor" to the youthful but self-willed Alma Peggie, May Robson humorously opens "It Pays to Smile." But as the play progresses and she absorbs something of the Peggish slanginess and scorn such the little conventions of her own class, she provides cause for even greater merriment in the play. Clever as was her acting throughout, perhaps the most skilful piece of dramatic work last night was her representation of a clever woman whose her glass of Ince-pinger ale was misplaced by the elder Peggie's special concoction.

Excellent Company.
Although Miss Robson is, of course,
the star of the production, her company is so excellent that it stands well up with the best of the theatres. Special mention should be made of the honorable acting of Miss Margaret Bosworth, who plays the role of Alma Peggie. Such a vital personality as this young actress cannot remain in the background. In the opening scene of the play, the versatility of her acting is remarkably shown, when in a word she is transformed from the swearing, selfwilled daughter of an indulgent and wealthy father to a remorseful, unhappy, motherless child.

"It Pays to Smile," the dramatization of Nina Wilcox Putnam's stories, is a delightful little comedy, full of humor and with just enough serious plot running throughout to give it unity of interest. The mysterious Italian duke, about whom the clouds of suspicion hang until the final act, is really an intense patriot in disguise and the proper lover for Freedom Talbot's youthful charge, Alma Peggie, whom he snatched from the arms of the villain on their wedding eve.

It isn't too much to wish May Robson and her company another visit to the city.

LORD BYNG OPENS FAIR AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—His Excellency
Lord Byng of Vimy, governor-general, formally opened the Central Canada Exhibition today. The opening was in connection with the directors' luncheon, and immediately after his excellency and party inspected the veterans who had come to the grounds in the Pageant of Progress, a monster parade which traversed the city streets before the opening.

It was Veterans' and Citizens' Day, as far as the directors luncheon was concerned. Joseph Kent, president, presided, and associated with him at the head table were Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Sir Edgar Morrison, Mayor
Plaunt, Mayor-Deputy, J. H. MacBrien,
Lieut.-Gen. Sir Henry Bursill, Senator

Belcourt, R. H. Maxwell, Hon. J. G. Foster and others. The guests included men prominent in various walks of life.

persons were injured.

The gale, which lasted only a
