190 YONGE STREET

February, 1896.

TORONTO, ONT.

Semi-Annual Furniture Sale.

IN much the same way as we planned a White Goods Sale for January, we've anticipated a special movement in Furniture for February. The goods are all new and prices are all special. It is not an aggregation of unsalable old stock put before you in new fashion. It represents a complete, unique, concrete idea, fully marked out in painstaking and thorough fashion.

The idea covers all the reputable Furniture factories of the country. Our buyers scour the trade. They have ample cash at command. They relieve trade congestion everywhere by taking all the surplus. And the stocks so gathered are arranged for easy seeing and quick selling over an acre or more of selling space.

Where ordinary Furniture dealers buy twenty-five chairs, for instance, we sometimes order a thousand. Where manufacturers get overstocked or hard-up for money, we often go to the rescue. In many ways we collect new, worthy goods at prices considerably below the market, and we sell as we buy—sell as we buy.

The sales-force has been increased by the addition of intelligent men trained in the Furniture business. The entire organization has been strengthened to care for the crowds of people who will make February the most extraordinary month in the history of Furniture retailing. Nothing like it ever known before. Way ahead of anything in our own past.

If you can't get to the store, shop by mail. We fill all orders at the advertised prices, and send goods by freight or express at your expense. The chances are you will save half your money buying Furniture here during this sale.

Shopping by Mail!

THE tendency of trade is to pass the little near-by stores and come to the big ones. What is the reason for it? First, the means of communication are better and quicker than ever before, apparently about as good as they can be. Second, prosperous stores increase their variety, extend their accommodations and lower their prices according to their prosperity, and make themselves known in a great variety of ways. Of course, the city runs away from the country. But the fact is sharper than that: a few stores in the great cities run away from all the rest. How? Why? Is it that a leading store has better taste and judgment and credit for getting goods together, better organization for showing them, and better facilities for delivering? Very likely. But is not this the principal difference: they have the attention of buyers? How do they get it? By professing to serve them well, and by doing it better than others—that is what buyers have to choose between. The accuracy of our Mail Order organization during recent years is well known. A blunder occasionally—the means are human—but so seldom that the department is known as having a model system. Success proves it. We shall lift it this year above its own level, so that what has been good service before—far above the average—will be excellent now. These prices will give you a chance to make comparisons. We guarantee goods to be exactly as represented, and if by any means anything is wrong, you can send back and get your money. The best wit the store affords is placed at the disposal of out-of-town customers, and orders for any of these things will be filled promptly:
