JOHN CONNELL VETERAN GUIDE DIED SATURDAY

The death occurred on Saturday evening at 9 o'clock of Mr. John Connell, one of Chatham's most highly respected residents and one of the best known guides in New Brunswick. Mr. Connell had been in good health about a month when he was taken ill with diabetes.

He was 71 years of age and is survived by his wife and two sons Albert of Bartibogue and Fred of town. A daughter, Mrs. Joseph Cassidy, died a few months previously. The funeral was held this afternoon at one o'clock.

Mr. Connell's fame as a guide was widespread and sportsmen came from many sections of the continent to enjoy a week's fishing or a moose hunt at one of his hunting camps in the lower Miramichi woods. His rather sudden death will be heard with deep regret by fellow-townsmen as well as by many in distant and larger communities.—Gazette.

VERY INTER- ESTING NEWS

Discovery of the tombs of 26 generations of Ethiopian kings and the recovery of material buried for more than 2,000 years, which makes it possible for the first time to write the history of Ethiopia, were reported today by the joint Egyptian expedition of Harvard University and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The expedition, in charge of Prof. Geo. A. Reisner, of Harvard, was in Egypt ten years. Its findings in part have been reported from time to time.

The discovery of the lost civilization of Ethiopia was made at Napata, now called Gebel Barkal, Napata, the ancient capital of Ethiopia, lies in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, at the southern end of Dongola province. The royal cemeteries were found outside the city. At Nuri, to the south, on a low knoll near the River Nile, the archaeologists examined a group of pyramids which proved to be the tombs of the twenty kings and twenty-five queens of Ethiopia from 660 to 250 B. C. most of whose names had been lost to human knowledge.

Excavations gradually uncovered the burial chamber of Tirhaqa, the King of Ethiopia mentioned in the book of Isaiah, who was one of the five Ethiopian monarchs who ruled over Egypt, and then one by one uncovered the tombs of all the other kings, queens, princes and princesses of Ethiopia for a period of more than four centuries.

After the excavations at Nuri, four of the greatest kings of Ethiopia were still lacking—kings who like Tirhaqa, had ruled Egypt as well as Ethiopia. In the third year of search these four kings with their queens, and indeed six generations of their ancestors, were found at the second royal cemetery at El-Kur 'Uw on the north of Napata.

It was then discovered that the royal family of Ethiopia had sprung from a tribe of Libyan nomads; he entered the province, then a part of Egypt, about 900 B. C. had become Egyptianized, revolted from Egypt and finally, under Piankhy, conquered the older country. From this sun-searched place five of the kings of Ethiopia had ruled Egypt and 2,000 miles of the Nile Valley, and had sent their ambassadors to the courts of

THE ELECTION

The Election is over, and the Meighen Government is defeated. The result is a Liberal Government takes place and power. The fall and rise of Governments, is nothing new in the history of nations.

In our own County of Northumberland, a supporter of the Liberal party has been elected. All we ask the Electors of the County to do, is to watch closely his career in the House and judge him accordingly.

Up to the hour of going to press, the result for all Canada, as received by us, is Liberals 116, Progressives 61; Conservatives 52; Labor 1; to hear from 5. The result in this county is 5048 McCurdy, 6670 Morrissy, his majority 1622.

HOLDS OUT HOPE OF UNION SOME DAY IN IRELAND

London Nov. 29.—Admission of the possibility that Ulster and the South of Ireland may some day coalesce "of their own free wills" in the government of all Ireland is ascribed to Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, in an interview published today by the Daily Mirror.

"I do not say that Ulster will never accept an All-Ireland Council though the Sinn Fein says it will never accept any other scheme," Sir James is quoted as saying. "What we say is, let the Sinn Fein first prove its ability to govern itself along constitutional lines. Let it win Ulster's confidence by practical proof of its fairness and impartiality toward the Southern Unionists. Then in the course of time, the two Irish governments might coalesce of their own free wills."

Ulster's Position

"I cannot say whether this would be good or bad; of that I am not convinced. It might be very bad, for, while Ulster remains part of the United Kingdom, Britain can always land troops in Ireland by way of Ulster if Great Britain's safety is jeopardized by any cause affecting Irish harbors or coasts."

"If Ulster conceded all the Sinn Fein's demands," the interview continues, "the whole world would throw its hats into the air in a frenzy of joy and relief. There would be world wide thanksgiving services in the churches and wonderful scenes of happiness. But Britain would then banish Ireland from its mind, and turn its thoughts to its own problems, and if the Sinn Fein began to oppress Ulster under the All-Ireland Council, England would then answer Ulster's complaints by saying "You accepted the council; you must manage your own affairs now. Indeed England would have no right to interfere."

Sir James contended that the guarantees promised Ulster by Mr. Lloyd George would not protect her against such possibilities.

Assyria and western Asia.

Careful study of the objects and inscriptions found in these tombs has given the Harvard-Boston archaeologists a full chronological list of the kings of Ethiopia during this period, and a knowledge of the condition and development of the remarkable arts and crafts of the time.

The teachers and pupils of the Lowe Derby Union Sunday School held a very successful social evening at the home of Mrs. Annie Cluston on Tuesday evening Nov. 29th. Games and music were enjoyed by all. Lunch

THE ACE-HIGH MEDAL

The ACE-HIGH Medal was founded by the publishers of ACE-HIGH MAGAZINE to commemorate the heroes of peace.

The medal was designed and struck off by Tiffany & Company of New York. It is a solid gold medal, a replica of which will be awarded to the individual who has performed a deed of heroism beyond the boundaries of mere duty.

The recipients of this honor must be those who have performed the courageous act, not because of ulterior motives, or in the ordinary course of events, but because some inner urge prompted them to a deed the non-performance of which would have carried no censure.

To get the ACE-HIGH Medal means mounting the heights of heroism!

There are no other rules, and no bars against sex, creed, color or race.

Our purpose is simple: We aim to recognize in some enduring manner the heroes who would otherwise be passed over—forgotten.

To them we extend our hands, greeting them as heroes, and pledging that the ACE-HIGH Medal shall never be given to any but the most heroic, so that as an honor it may ever stand as a shining talisman of their unselfish devotion to humanity!

The first recipient of the ACE-HIGH medal is William A. Redd Jr., Ex-Marine. Our readers will remember the San Antonio flood disaster, of Texas which occurred early last Sept. Among other damage done by the flood, serious washouts occurred on railway tracks. Shortly after midnight Sept. 10th, a southern Pacific train was wrecked, and there was danger of a heavily-laden east bound passenger train running into the wreck. It was a terrible moment of anxiety. That passenger train had to be flagged. The hour and the danger, called for a hero. A raging swollen river, had to be crossed. Volunteers were called for, and ex-Marine William A. Redd, Jr. answered the call. Death stared him in the face but he went without thought of self, or dread of the turbulent stream, carrying destruction with it. He crossed the swollen river, signalled the passenger train, swam back again, and later made a second trip to carry aid to the injured fireman of the wrecked train. His manly, noble, fearless service, has placed his name for ever, on the list of true heroes—heroes of peace as well as of war. Long may he live to wear the medal, he has proved so worthy of.

ROD AND GUN

The Christmas issue of Rod and Gun in Canada is particularly attractive and is replete with many stories which will appeal to the heart of the true sportsman. Allen H. Kerr's "Trout Hunting in the opening article will prove a realistic tale, while the ever popular F. V. William's and Bonnycastle Dale's narratives are of the usual high standard. The article by A. F. Wallace entitled "Clam and Pearl Fish" will undoubtedly be of vivid interest as well as instructive. Guns & Ammunitions, Along the Trap-line, and Fishing Notes, contain several articles valuable to the various readers. ROD AND GUN IN CANADA is published monthly by W. J. John Paris Found Guilty of Murder of Sadie McAuley

Shortly after 11.30 last Friday night, John Paris was found guilty of brutally murdering the poor little cripple girl, Sadie McAuley. It was a horrible crime, in every respect. The prisoner was not sentenced at once, but remanded to come up again for sentence. The court adjourned Wednesday at 2.30 p. m. This was the second trial.

On the first trial the jury disagreed, standing seven for conviction and five for acquittal. The present trial lasted for ten days. The same line of attack and defence was adopted as before, and as each side had seen the other's hand, the battle was a gruelling one. G. H. Vernon, Truro, N. S. for the defence, made a vigorous fight for his client, and it is conceded that all that could be humanly done, for him, had been done. Attorney General Bryne conducted a vigorous prosecution and his address to the jury was regarded by those who followed the trial as a master-piece.

The verdict of "guilty" came as a surprise to those who thought the jury would disagree again. Judge Chandler thanked the jury and said that it was a fortunate thing that twelve intelligent men had been able to agree on a verdict. He then ordered Paris to be removed to the jail. The crowd started to follow, but were told by the judge to remain in the court. "This man has been found guilty of a horrible crime," he said, "and I will not allow him to go out in the midst of a crowd." The doors were locked and no one was allowed out until Paris had left the building.

NEWEST TOWER FOR CROWN LANDS BEING BUILT

The Department of Lands and Mines of the Province of New Brunswick has received a report from Edward Baldwin one of its officials at Bathurst, that the construction of the lookout tower at Red Pine is proceeding satisfactorily.

This tower with its accompanying ranger's cabin is situated on the height of land between Chatham and Bathurst near the centre of a large area of Crown Lands. The location is some eight hundred feet above sea level. A ninety-foot tower is being built with watchmen's cabin on the top. Windows on all sides of the cabin will permit of an unobstructed view of the surrounding country. A wide area will be under observation from this tower.

Telephone Connected

Through co-operation of The Snowball Lumber Company, telephone connection will be made with the line of that company and by a switch at Red Pine with the line of the New Brunswick Telephone Company.

To Use Fire Finders

The intention is to instal one of the instruments known as Osborne Fire Finders in this tower for the use of the watchman. The Geodetic Survey of Canada will make use of this tower for making observations for precise levelling. The Dominion and the Province are dividing the cost of construction. S. Godin of Bathurst has the contract for the erection of the tower at a price slightly in excess of one thousand dollars.

Near the Highway

It is expected that the Red Pine Tower will be an object of great public interest during the summer as it is situated within a half-mile of the highway between Newcastle and Bathurst and is within easy access of those who might use that road. Numerous visitors to the tower are expected as the view from it will be over a large sweep of country.

Tiger of France Intends To Conquer the Prejudice That Followed the War

M. Clemenceau, the world-famous Tiger of France, celebrated his eightieth birthday recently, and then came news of his severe illness. Yet it is just possible that in a few months, or even weeks, his name may be ringing through the country as it rang in the dark days of 1917, and as it had rung, at frequent intervals, for more than forty years before. Clemenceau is in temporary eclipse because the French people believe at the moment that the Peace of Versailles was a snare and a delusion, and that Clemenceau was largely responsible for it. Clemenceau's own contention is that the treaty gave France everything she was entitled to, and that the fault for the present situation lies with those who succeeded him and who failed to enforce the provisions of the treaty. He has been attacked by pacifists and pulling philosophers abroad as a raging militarist, while at home the masses of French people have been taught to regard him as a timid weakling who in France's great hour refused to pluck the fruits of victory.

It would be unjust to blame the French people for this ingratitude to their greatest citizen. The blame lies with the politicians, and of all politicians the French politician is perhaps the most virulent. In the course of his career Clemenceau has made many enemies. Just now he appears to have far more enemies than friends. The present Government is not unnaturally inclined to blame him for what it has been unable to accomplish. The nerves of the French people are far from normal. The fear of Germany has not been wholly removed, and for this they hold Clemenceau and the Treaty of Versailles responsible. Thus the statesman who was regarded as the savior of his country three years ago has sunk into disrepute.

Clemenceau declines to coincide in the justness of the popular attitude. He refuses to take it lying down and intends to return to the political arena. Veteran newspaperman that he is, he will return through a newspaper. It has not yet been started, but it is understood that it will be called the French Nation, and will be edited by Andre Tardieu, formerly French High Commissioner to the United States. Georges Clemenceau will be the chief editorial contributor, as Theodore Roosevelt was after he had nominally retired from politics, but when he was in reality rousing for another spring. The original intention of the editors and those behind the paper, who are said to have unlimited funds at their command, was to launch the enterprise two years ago, when Clemenceau returned from Egypt. The business arrangements were then in the hands of M. Loucheur, formerly a Minister in Clemenceau's Cabinet, and Clemenceau asserts that Loucheur betrayed him. He is now a favorite of Briand's and must be reckoned one of the Tiger's enemies.

In making the announcement, Tardieu said that the intention is for Clemenceau to write one article a week, but he has confidence that once he gets started there will be no stopping him, and he is likely to dominate every issue of the paper. If Tardieu's remarks about the newspaper situation in Paris are correct, a great future awaits the French Nation. He says that, with the exception of a few Royalist organs, like the Action Francaise, all other papers in France are exactly alike. The French people do not get the news. Indeed, a presentation of news for the sake of news is not a feature of French papers. The Petit Parisien is about the only paper in France that would be accepted as a modern journal by people used to English-speaking newspapers in large cities. The others consider their own political opinions the vital news of every issue.

The "Zonda."

An intensely dry, hot wind called the "zonda," which blows down from the Andes on the plains of Argentina, was formerly thought to owe its heat to volcanoes. It is really a "foehn," such as occurs in Switzerland and many other mountainous countries, where winds, robbed of their moisture in crossing the mountains, are heated by compression during their descent.

Quicksands.

Quicksands are generally due to springs finding an outlet under a bed of sand. The rising water keeps the grains of sand from adhering to one another so as to form a compact substance.

MAKING DIAMONDS.

It Can Be Done But It Is Too Costly.

Diamond fakers are many, and they ply a good trade among the gullible, palming off white sapphires as Brazilian diamonds of the first water, and obtaining high prices for flashing stones which are known as diamond "doublets."

With diamonds fetching such high prices, it seems, on the face of it, an absolute certainty that a fortune awaits the man who can find out the way to make genuine diamonds. Dozens of men have spent half their lives and all they possessed in trying to make real diamonds, but their efforts have only led them to penury.

The fact is, that genuine diamonds, diamonds exactly similar to those that are mined in the blue earth of Kimberley, or found in the river beds of Brazil, can be made by man. Diamonds, and carbon, and the black lead which is brushed on firegrates, and with which we write in the form of a pencil, are all the same stuff. They are all carbon; the only difference is that diamonds are crystallized carbon.

How nature makes diamonds we do not know with any certainty. It is certain, however, that there must have been great heat and enormous pressures involved in the making of these gleaming precious stones. Men of science have at various times carried out many experiments to obtain these great heats and pressures, but all their money and time was wasted.

Then Moissan, the French chemist, set up an electric furnace which produced heats more intense than scientists had thought possible. The ordinary water which burns in our rooms in winter is ice cold compared with the temperatures that Moissan attained with his electric arcs.

He found he could obtain the temperature he needed. The problem remained whether he could obtain the pressure. It is a well-known fact that molten iron expands as it cools; Moissan wondered how to make use of this property in iron so that it would help him to make diamonds. Eventually he took a crucible and melted iron within it. Then he mixed some carbon into the molten iron, and dissolved it.

Taking the crucible, he inserted it in his electric furnace and subjected it to a heat of 4,000 degrees Centigrade. Whipping the crucible out of the furnace, he plunged it straight into a crucible full of molten lead.

The queer thing is that the temperature of molten lead is so much lower than that of molten iron that it was like plunging the iron into cold water. The iron immediately on making contact with the crucible became solid at once, and as it solidified it exerted enormous pressure on the molten metal in the centre.

Moissan, waiting until the iron was solid throughout, gradually dissolved away all the iron by using acids, and in the centre he found several minute diamonds, all black and discolored, and one or two diamonds that were quite white. Thus he showed men how to make diamonds.

But it doesn't pay to make them. They cannot be made big enough to be of commercial value. You can buy a bigger diamond for $50 than you can make by expending $50,000.

Experiments in making real diamonds have not been quite fruitless. After one experiment that was carried on in the United States at enormous expense, the experimenters looked in vain for the nice-sized diamonds they rather expected. Instead they found a quantity of fine black dust that was practically as hard as a diamond. That dust is now known as carborundum, and it is more useful than diamonds in the realms of commerce.

It is used both in the form of powder and made up into wheels and blocks by being mixed with wet fine clay and fclapar, moulded and pressed.

Oxide of Iron. It is oxide of iron that gives to your blood its brilliant red color. If blood contained no iron all men and women would look like walking corpses. Nowhere in nature is iron found in a "native" or pure state. It occurs only in the form of oxides—that is to say, as iron rust. Man's greatest triumph was achieved when he discovered how to "undo" iron rust, and get the iron out of it. But for that our civilization-to-day would be no further advanced than that of ancient Egypt or Assyria. Edwin E. Slosson, in his remarkable new book, "Creative Chemistry," says that every year the blast furnaces of the world release 72,000,000 tons of iron from its oxides, and every year one-fourth of that quantity reverts to rust. Should man cease his efforts in this direction for a generation there would be little left to show that he had ever learned to extract iron from its ores.

Scottish Cities' Populations. Of the Scottish cities, Glasgow's population is now 1,034,069, an increase of 25,582 on 1911, while Edinburgh's stands at 420,267, a decrease of 5,779.

WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

The present Conference of the Nations of the world, in Washington, on the question of disarmament and the peace of the world, should result in vast good. Owing to the troubles in Ireland, the presence of England's great Premier Lloyd George has been required at home. There is now, however, somewhat of a lull in home affairs, and it is likely Lloyd George can make a visit to the Conference.

Kazubazua--The Happy Hunting Ground

Kazubazua! What is it? Where is it? Does it exist outside the comic papers? Thus the ignorant and untravelled.

How many Canadians know that Kazubazua is situated in one of the most beautiful sections of the Gatinneau district, that the word, far from being one with humorous intent, is of Indian origin, meaning "hidden river," which is descriptively accurate of the Gatinneau at this point? Very few, it is to be feared.

It takes the sportsman to prick up his ears at the mention of the name. For he will probably know that near Kazubazua lies one of the finest trout streams in the province, and that it forms the base of many famous hunting expeditions.

Notable among these were the two trips which have given the Gatinneau a staunch friend in Rex Beach, who claims to have hunted over thousands of miles of country without finding anything that could touch the Kazubazua region.

To Conn Teeple, a resident of Kazubazua and the most renowned of Gatinneau guides, a measure of Mr. Beach's enjoyment and success is certainly due.

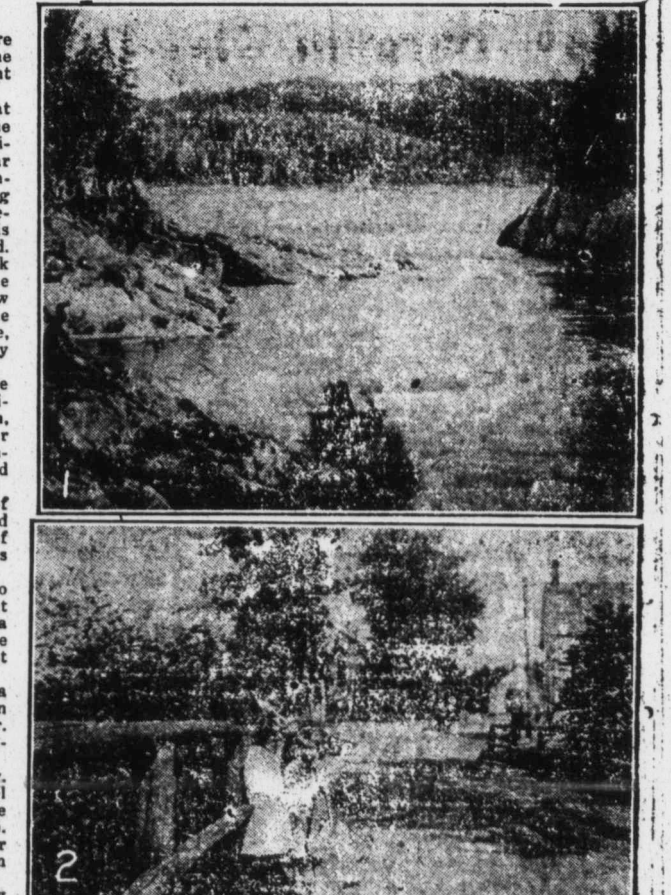

Teeple, a spare, wiry man who does not look his age—whatever it is!—has "called" moose for many a hunter, but save for bears, whose skins adorn his home, he does not care "fer killin'."

"He's an awful dear man," said a neighbour of his one day, and when pressed to give a reason for Mr. Teeple's expressiveness, he explained: "He can spot a deer miles away. Seems almost as if he could feel 'em in the air. Where nobody else can bring in game. Conn Teeple can. He knows by lookin' at a hill whether there's deer on it. Yep, he's an awful dear man, he is!"

Mr. Teeple's tastes are frankly rural. He looks with disfavor upon metropolitan inventions, especially the motor car. Walking to him is the natural method of locomotion, though the advantages of a "team" are at times apparent. He walks 25 miles a day with true enjoyment, but one evening after motoring sixteen miles, he returned to his home exhausted. "Tuckered right out," he complained. "It's a cruel strain on a fella's, you know, jus' settin'."

The station at Kazubazua holds itself haughtily aloof from the town. Conveyances of every description meet the trains and transport travellers over a sort of sandy table-land, profusely covered with blueberries in summer, to the cluster of cottages that form the village. This blueberry patch is about 9 miles in area and its output would practically feed Montreal.

Kazubazua presents a very different appearance to Low for example. The hills seem farther away, the country is wilder, in spite of a relatively larger settlement. Deer are seen close by, bears are not unknown, moose drink by the "creek" and yet telephone bells whirr in almost every home and three hours' travel will take one to the Capital of the Dominion.

(1) A typical view of the Gatinneau River and Hills. (2) Kazubazua has a main street.

There is a main street in Kazubazua, a carding mill, a cement plant and a flour mill. Outside the latter stand the old grinding stones that were used in past years, and on the main road there is an earthen oven, upon which one might look as the granddaddy of our Community Kitchen. It has been extensively used within recent times.

Kazubazua will not attract the commonplace, the type of vacationist to whom six wardrobe trunks and ten hatboxes are a necessity. There isn't a moving picture palace in the place, nor a Chinese restaurant, nor an apartment house!

There are two stores, however, and gold has been found in the district. This is true because at one of the stores there are postcards for sale showing a robust looking gentleman leaning on a pick-axe and shadowed by a huge mound, which is supposed to represent my dirt, probably, but which peepish non-investors regard merely as a futile attempt to alter the position of the Gatinneau hills.

There is a hearsay at Kazubazua that the functions are not confined to those generally associated with that melancholy carriage. On occasions it will draw up smartly at the hotel, the sombre-clad driver will jump nimbly from his box and assist a passenger to alight. Then, in a hearty tone quite at variance with that he is wont to use, he will explain for the benefit of the gallery, "Wern't no room in the riga over to the station, so I brought this fella' along with me. One dollar please!"

Where is Kazubazua? What is it? Ask any of the men who from now until the close of the hunting season may be seen driving their motors along the main road and into the hills. Observe the sportsman's restless eye, the anxious frown, the ready hand on the trigger, the intermittent bark of a gun in the distance! Or, if an answer is not forthcoming from these signs, sit at some luscious table a little later in the year, feast the laded palate upon the succulent steaks of venison or moose and ask: Where is Kazubazua? Your huntsman host will tell you!—Madge Macbeth.

PROTECTION OF PLANTS IN WINTER

A little protection will often bring plants safely through the winter, when, if they are left exposed, they may either be killed outright or badly injured, and, in the case of fruit, the crop may be much reduced. Plants are also protected from mice in winter. The plants usually protected from the weather are strawberries, raspberries, grapes and roses.

It has been found by experience that, although strawberries will often go safely through the winter without being mulched, there are winters when it pays well to have the plants protected by a light mulch as in such winters if the mulch is not there the plants will be killed. In mulching strawberries the plan is to wait until hard frost or just before winter sets in, and then spread a light covering of loose straw over the plants. All that is necessary in most places is enough to prevent sudden thawing and freezing, or just enough to cover the plants. A thick mulch may do more harm than good. The cleaner the straw the less work there will be in eradicating weeds next summer. Marsh hay, where it can be obtained, is good as it is comparatively free of weed seeds, and it will not lie too compactly over the plants.

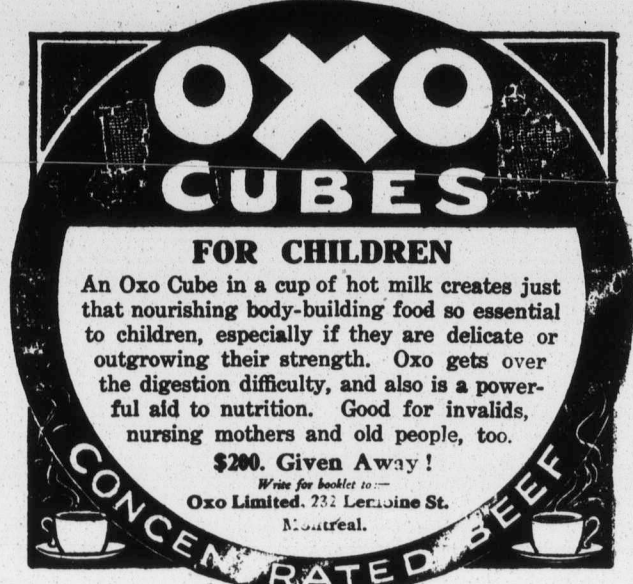

Where raspberries are injured in the winter, they will be much protected and will, taking one year with another, come through much better if the canes are bent over just before winter sets in and the tips held down with soil. The snow will cover them sooner than if they are not bent down. Where there is very little snow and the winter are very cold it has been found desirable entirely to cover the canes with soil.

Except in districts where the grape can be grown commercially, it is necessary to protect the vines to ensure a crop. A few days before the ground is expected to freeze up, the vines, having been previously pruned, are bent down and covered with soil, which is left on until the following May as it is spring frosts which may cause the loss of the crop.

Roses must be protected in most places in Canada to help ensure their coming through the winter alive, and protection is not always successful. The most reliable method of protection is to cover the plant with soil.

Where this is not easy or possible, the base of the plant can be mounded up with soil to a height of twelve inches or more, and the top then bent over and held down with soil. Then if boughs or leaves are thrown over the top to help collect the snow and give greater protection it is desirable. In the case of climbing roses, a good plan is to cover them with a box filled with dry leaves making the top water tight so the leaves will keep dry.

Each winter many trees are injured beyond recovery in Canada by mice. This can be prevented by wrapping the trunks of the trees with building paper just before winter sets in, having the paper come close to the ground and putting a little earth about the lower end of the paper so they will not get at the tree from below. Mice will not usually eat through the paper and, as in most cases they are close to the ground, the paper need not be more than eighteen inches to two feet high. The paper should be tied after wrapping so that it will not come off.

RESERVE CASE TO BE ASKED FOR

It was intimated on Saturday that an application will be made to Judge Chandler, of the supreme court for a reserve case in the matter of John Paris, against whom a jury on Friday brought in a verdict of guilty on a charge of murdering Sadie McAuley. The grounds for the application will be alleged misdirection and non-direction on the part of the presiding judge.

It is not expected that sentence will be passed on Paris until after the criminal docket of the present session of the court is completed. The court will resume on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, when several other criminal cases will be taken up.

Hon. J. P. Byrne, attorney-general who conducted the prosecution, returned to his home in Bathurst on Saturday evening. To a reporter before leaving he spoke highly of the manner in which the St. John detective department had handled matters in connection with the case. He said that Sergeant-Detective Power and his assistants deserved great credit for their work. G. H. Vernon, of Truro, who defended Paris, also returned to his home on Saturday.

of Hon. William Pugsley he had taken a lease of the residence of Mrs. Timothy Lynch, Regent street. The lease is for a period of four months beginning January 1st. His Honor, Mrs. Pugsley and suite will occupy the residence during the session of the provincial Legislature in 1922. The property which is known as Evelyn Grove is well adapted to entertaining on a large scale and for that reason was selected by His Honor.

At the last session of the legislature an act was passed providing that the interest from the proceeds of Old Government House sale could be used for the maintenance of a gubernatorial residence.

Former Wilmot Residence

Evelyn Grove was built by Hon. L. A. Wilmot the first native lieut-governor of the Province. In his day it was the scene of extensive entertainment although an official residence for the lieut-governor existed in this city.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

To reach the highest point of perfection in the manufacture of baking powder, many years of scientific experimental work by expert chemists are required to determine the exact proportions of the ingredients and the proper method of blending same to produce a baking powder of the maximum leavening quality and at the same time obviate the possibility of deterioration without the use of ingredients so frequently used as preservatives. This is the reason that MAGIC BAKING POWDER has become so universally used from coast to coast and has earned by demonstration the reputation of being Canada's perfect baking powder.

The 4 master Avon Queen which experienced considerable difficulty in getting down river from Nelson, this week, sailed yesterday for Philadelphia with a cargo of laths from the Fraser Cos saw mill at Nelson.

A belated arrival was the three masted schooner Alva which came into port Thursday night and which is loading deal at Ritchie's mill, for the United Kingdom. The Alva is only a small boat of 150 tons and will no doubt be the last arrival of the present season.

this winter. A portion of the land which formed part of the Evelyn Grove property was sold some weeks ago to Fred J. Tims of this city for building development purposes.

Building Well Suited

Mr. Barker has made a careful inspection of the residence and has found it particularly well suited to the purpose of His Honor. State and other dinners require a large dining room and such exists in this residence. The lower story is well adapted for the holding of balls and dances on a large scale.

The term of His Honor will expire late in 1922 and a lease of longer duration than a few months is not taken on that account.

Took "Redmac," The Great Tonic GAINS 22 POUNDS

A Montreal Man's Amazing Experience

Mr. Tremblay, of Montreal says since taking Redmac, the Great Herbal Tonic, he has gained 22 pounds. I feel and people say, I look 30 years younger. I had been suffering from a run-down condition, nervousness, loss of strength poor appetite and thinness; today I feel hungry, sleep well, nervousness has disappeared and hard work never bothers me. Redmac was a God-send to me. The reason REDMAC brings such wonderful results is because it feeds run-down glands the cause of many run-down conditions, by supplying them with the extracts of Certain Herbs and Roots and Tropical plants, the glands are made strong and healthy—just like re-charging a storage battery.

If weak, pale, thin, or run down try REDMAC the King of Tonics. This remarkable medicine brings results quickly. It has helped thousands to regain youthful health and strength. Try a bottle: a large generous bottle can be procured from your druggist at a reasonable price. If you have indigestion or Stomach trouble, if you feel all out of sorts, REDMAC will put you on your feet in a short time.

PROPOSES TO BRING UNKNOWN'S BODY

The body of an unknown Canadian soldier is to be brought from the old western battlefield and buried beneath the Victory tower of the new parliament buildings.

"It is proposed," says an official statement issued by the prime minister's office, "that the body of Canada's unknown soldier should be interred at the base of the main entrance to the House of Parliament within the confines of the Tower of Victory at peace. At the entrance of the tower is a symbolical representation of the struggle between civilization and barbarism. The dominant figures upon the tower are warriors with arms reversed. In sculptured stone upon the walls and in the niches is written the romance of history embracing the beginning of the nation.

"The memorial chamber forms the first floor of the tower above the archway, is entered from the main floor of the central hall, the proportions, arches and columns of which will attune the visitor's mind to the dedicated place where he will presently stand over the sacred dust beneath it."

Montenegrin Refugees

Have Caused Much Trouble

To Queen Helen of Italy

Although Queen Helen of Italy is a daughter of the late King of Montenegro and despite the fact that the former sovereign dynasty of Petrovich and its followers, have been a terribly heavy tax upon the generosity of the Italian crown and Government, yet the Montenegrin refugees in Italy, and especially at Rome, including the former Cabinet Ministers, Popovitch, Antonievitch and Plamenatz, have been behaving so badly that the Police Department in the Eternal City has been obliged to make a descent upon the pseudo Montenegrin Legation and Consulate-General, also upon the residences of the three former Ministers, and to seize all the documents and papers there, with a view to criminal prosecution.

The charges brought against these Montenegrin refugees, who, as in France and elsewhere, have behaved with characteristic ingratitude and complete disregard of the obligations of hospitality, include those of conspiracy with the Socialist forces which are seeking to upset the Italian Government and dynasty and likewise of gross fraud and dishonesty in connection with the funds set aside for the relief of the two or three thousand Montenegrins who have sought refuge in the dominions of King Victor Emmanuel.

A sum of some seven million dollars is involved, and naturally there is much bitterness, both in the national legislature at Rome and in the Italian press, over the idea of this money being accorded to worthless and dishonest Montenegrin refugee dignitaries to enable them to live in luxury, instead of being employed in affording relief to the widows and orphans of soldiers who had fallen fighting for their country in the great war.

It must be thoroughly understood that the pretensions of these more or less questionable hangers on and parasites of the late former King Nicholas still represent an independent Montenegrin Government are without the slightest foundation. It must not be thought that Queen Helen has encouraged them. The Queen of Italy is a diplomatic woman, and realizes that no good can come from such plots. Still the fact remains that her former countrymen have placed her in a very embarrassing position.

Nicholas and his precious sons behaved so badly in the great war, abandoning their country to its fate, under the most suspicious circumstances, that long before the former king's death his fellow-countrymen had renounced their allegiance, and made clear their determination never to permit him to return to their Black Mountain. The Montenegrins, wise in their generation, voted to join the Jugo-Slav Confederation, under the sceptre of the late King Peter of Serbia. Nicholas denounced him as a usurper.

But Peter's death changed the situation. For he is succeeded as monarch of the Jugo-Slav Confederation by his second son, King Alexander, who, with a splendid war record behind him, can hardly be looked upon as an alien ruler by any Montenegrin, since he is a grandson of Nicholas, and may therefore be considered as one of his immediate heirs. King Alexander's mother, now long since dead, was a Montenegrin princess, and the eldest sister of Queen Helen of Italy.

If King Alexander is now ruling over the Montenegrins, it is by virtue of their well nigh unanimous votes, recorded in the form of a plebiscite; and that they are satisfied with their lot, and that things are working smoothly there, is demonstrated by the fact that most of the officials of the civil and military administration of the Montenegrin portion of the Jugo-Slav Confederation under the sceptre of King Alexander are Montenegrins by birth.

"Here, boy," said the wealthy motorist, "I want some gasoline, and get a move on! You will never do anything in this world unless you push. Push is essential. When I was young I pushed, and that was what got me where I am." "Well, gov'nor," said the boy, "I reckon you'll have to push again, 'cause we ain't got a drop of gas in the place!"

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of Mrs. Albert Peterson, who died Nov. 27, 1920.

One year has gone, oh how we miss her;
Miss her more than words can tell
On the border land we left her;
Soon to meet and part no more.
Never to be forgotten by her lone-some husband and children.
"May she rest in peace."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Edward Sinclair Mullen, who died at his home of influenza Nov. 19th 1918.

We who loved him sadly miss him
As it dawn's another year,
In the lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near,
Friends may think we soon forgot him
And our wounded hearts were healed
But little do they know the sorrow
That's within our hearts concealed
God knows how much we miss him
He counts the tears we shed.
And whispers "Hush, he is only sleeping
Your loved one is not dead."

GOVERNMENT PROFITS

HOCKEY LEAGUE
Bathurst, Dec. 2 (Special)—As a result of the meeting last week under the auspices of the New Brunswick Hockey league three individual leagues were formed, one for the south, one for the north, and one for the east. All of them will operate under the same rules and regulations, and upon the close of their respective seasons the champions of each section will play a series of games to decide the championship of the province.

The three leagues comprise twelve teams divided as follows: Northern section—Bathurst, Campbellton, Chatham and Shediac. Southern section—Fredericton, Marysville, St. John and Sussex. Eastern Section—Charlottetown, Moncton; Dorchester and Sackville.

Dr. Stirling of Fredericton was elected president of the league for the ensuing year, and Mr. Mowatt of Campbellton, vice-president.

Bathurst sent three delegates to the meeting, as follows:—Messrs A. E. McLean, H. O. Schryer, and Wilfred McManus president of the Bathurst Hockey club.

BOOTLEGGING PROFITEERS
A short time ago the schooner Isma was seized by customs officials, and 65 barrels of groggy inspiration taken up. There was a fight over it, and about half of it was recovered by the smugglers, and it is now in use to wet the parched throats of the local guzzlers, and add to the wealth of bootlegging law breakers. It is quite a money making business, as the following illustrates.

The liquor can be purchased at St. Pierre, at about $5 per gallon, according to information obtained by the Sydney Post. Say a man gets 300 gallons of the stuff, he pays over $1,500. The liquor sold at about $8 a bottle, six bottles to the gallon, or $48 per gallon, gross return $14,400; net profit $12,900. Even if the stuff was sold anywhere from $4 to $6 per bottle, big business would make the law breakers rich.

In the case of the Isma, 33 Barrels were captured again by the smugglers and their friends. There were about 330 gallons in this lot, which yields $15,840. This turned over to the bootleggers and others handling it, a net gain of $12,590 quite a nice investment as profits go. An honest price—if there is any honesty in the business—would be about $12 a gallon or $2 a bottle, and an extraordinary profit would be gained by letting it go at $2.50 a bottle, but it cannot even be purchased, "according to law" now a days, at that price. Some one, bootleggers included—is making big money out of the business; and it is not a very reputable business for any one to be engaged in. However, there are those who think otherwise, and the money there is in it, is quite an inducement, besides there are still a large number of people opposed to prohibition, who are not necessarily disreputable because they are so. The respectable portion of them are just as much opposed to bootlegging, and fiscally profits, as the most ardent advocate of Temperance, could be.

TO THE SENATE
Mr. P. F. Martin, Halifax, N. S.; has been called to the Senate to fill the place of Mr. A. B. Crosby, deceased. A new Governor of Nova Scotia is to be appointed after the Election.

TWO PROMINENT MEN DIE SUDDENTLY

Sackville mourns the loss of Col. J. M. Baird who died suddenly at his home in Middle Sackville, about two o'clock last Sunday morning, death was due to heart failure.

Well known, and highly esteemed throughout Westmorland Co., he had lived in Sackville for many years, where he had a host of warm personal friends.

For the past sixteen years Col. Baird had been connected with the firm of J. L. Black & Sons, as Treasurer of the firm.

He was prominent in Military circles, and was Col. in command of the 74th battalion for several years. He was also well known at Camp Sussex, and was popular with both officers and men.

He was a Methodist in religion, and a staunch Conservative in Politics. The deceased gentleman, was 70 years of age, and is survived by one son, Walter Baird, Manager of the Royal Bank; Vanderboon B. C.

The other death, is that of a prominent cleric of the R. C. Church, Mgr De La Durantage. He was vicar-general of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Montreal, and departed this life suddenly, at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Montreal, Sunday evening. A brother clergyman, Father Lesage had called on a visit and receiving no answer to his knocking at the door of the prelates' room, entered only to find him on the floor. The House Doctor, said life was extinct.

He was much beloved by his people, who will sadly miss him. He had suffered from an attack of Angina pectoris recently, and had gone to the Hotel Dieu. It was thought he only needed a rest, but his condition became serious, ending in death; his sudden taking away causing much grief among all who knew him. He was born at Vaudreuil, Quebec, April 21st 1859.

The library, only a small part of which has been saved, consisted of 10,000 volumes, comprising costly missals and some very valuable early Shakespeare editions. Some of the furniture destroyed dated from the early Scottish kings.
