Investment News
St. John's, Nfld.,
Sept. 12th, 1913.
Slaves of the Present Day!
Under the above striking caption, a forcible article on thrift appears in this week's "Journal of Commerce."
According to the author, "the man who works for a salary or wages and saves nothing is virtually a slave while that condition lasts. He is absolutely dependent upon his weekly wages for subsistence. His escape from servitude lies only in saving a part of each week's or each month's income. In proportion as his savings accumulate freedom is won. Every such slave looks forward to the day when money saved will make him free."
These are strong statements—but they are true, and unfortunately, apply to the majority of salaried people. For those in this state of bondage, our new Partial Payment Plan offers the greatest incentive to saving and the financial independence obtained from savings well invested.
Our explanatory booklet is free for the asking. Why not write for a copy sometimes—now, for instance.

"BEAVER" FLOUR

Makes the True Home-Made Bread Your Mother Used to Make

Canadian women are the most attractive in the world because they are the most womanly. They are home bodies. Their interests are centred in their homes. They are proud of their skill in bread-making. They know that with "Beaver" Flour, they can make bread that equals anything turned out by the most skillful chefs in the world.

One of the first things noticed by travellers in Canada is the fact that "all you women know how to make good bread."

If they knew all the facts, they would add "all your best bread makers use "BEAVER" FLOUR.

The reason is quite simple. "Beaver" Flour is a blended flour. It is really two flours in one. It contains the quality, nutriment and flavor of Ontario Fall wheat and the strength of Manitoba Spring wheat. "Beaver" Flour is a perfectly balanced flour. It makes baking easy because it is always the same in strength, quality and flavor. You can make more bread to the barrel than with any other flour—big, brown, nutty, delicious loaves that will delight both the eye and the palate. Perhaps you have never tried "Beaver" Flour. Your grocer has it. Try it. You can't make the best pastry without it.

A Millionaire's Countess Westerloigh

CHAPTER X.

"You are right. I am a rich man. They say I'm worth a million. I don't know. Perhaps so—perhaps less, perhaps more. And I am your uncle—your mother's brother. Why don't you ask me who I'm going to leave my money to?"

He fixed a piercing gaze on the handsome, debonair face.

Vane laughed quite easily.

"I haven't cheek enough for that, sir," he replied. "And, besides, I've no desire to be kicked out of the house. I'm too comfortable."

The answer seemed to please the old man. He grunted and scratched his chin, still eying Vane.

"Oh! you are comfortable, are you?" he said.

"Extremely so," said Vane, with a shake of his head and a slight stretching of his long limbs. "I'll own that I was rather uncomfortable when I discovered that trick you'd played me. I don't think it was quite fair of you to play it so low down on me as to pass yourself off as a servant and allow me to tip you—"

"And to stick to the half-crown," put in the old man, with a grim smile.

"No," said Vane. "But I've got over that. I tell you frankly, sir, that whether you give me the money or not, I shall still be grateful to you for your past liberality to me, and that I shouldn't regret venturing to pay you a visit. And that reminds me, I'd better see about going."

The old man rose and stood before the fire, his pipe in his mouth, his head sunk on his breast, his eyes fixed on the floor.

"No," he said at last. "I wish you to stay. I will tell you when to go."

I wish to show you the estate—Stop!" he broke off, though Vane had made no attempt to speak. "If you think I've a notion of leaving I'll go to you—of making you master of Vale Hall—better get rid of it as soon as possible. You will never inherit a rod of my land or a penny of my money, Vane Tempest."

If he had expected Vane to look disappointed or chagrined, he himself was disappointed.

"All right, sir," said Vane, cheerfully.

"You wonder why?" said the old man, frowning at him.

"No," began Vane; but the grim, stern voice cut him short.

"Perhaps I'll tell you before you go—perhaps not. Now I'm going out—going round the sheep-fields. You can go with me, or stay at home, just as you please. This is Liberty Hall—to you."

"I'll go with you, of course," said Vane, springing to his feet.

He let his hand fall upon the old man's shoulder, not presumptuously but with that peculiar, half-tender frankness which made the young man so universally irresistible.

"Never mind the confounded mon-ny, sir," he said. "Let's be good friends and enjoy ourselves while I'm here."

CHAPTER XI.

The squire disappeared somewhere for the rest of the day, and Vane was left to himself. He sauntered about the place, and into the stables for one thing. He found several horses, all in good fettle, and evidently well cared for.

The gardens were extensive and admirably kept up, and the home-arms, he learned, was actually the arm on which the squire had worked in his boyhood and early manhood.

He was informed by James, the footman, who seemed to have been specially told off to wait upon him that the dinner hour was half past seven; and he went up to his room at seven, debating within himself whether he should dress or not.

He had brought an evening suit with him, and after a little hesitation, he decided to put it on; at any rate, he would be on the safe side.

When the great bell sounded out for dinner, he went down and found the squire.

The corduroy had disappeared, and in its place the old man wore an evening suit of dark blue, with lace ruffles to his shirt and brass buttons to his coat.

Vane had never, excepting in old prints, seen such a get-up. Probably the squire had never seen modern evening dress, for he looked Vane up and down, and grunted; but whether with approval or condemnation it would be difficult to say. At any rate, he must have found it impossible to refrain from admiring the stalwart form and the distinguished air which belonged to his nephew.

The dinner was an extremely good one; but the squire confined himself to a chop and his silver flagon of ale, and left the many and well-cooked courses to Vane, who did full justice to them.

The meal was eaten, like the lunch, almost in silence, and when it was finished the squire drew his chair to the fire and motioned Vane to do the same; but even then he did not seem inclined to talk, and smoked steadily, as if in profound thought. At last he said:

"If you care to stay here, Vane Tempest, you are welcome. There are horses, if you want them; choose one for your use. There is plenty of game, and you will find guns in the gun-room. As for society, you will have to put up with mine. I have no friends; no one comes to the Hall, and I never go beyond the bounds of the estate. Why should I?"

"Why, indeed, if it's large enough?" said Vane.

The old man smiled grimly.

"If you ride round it you will need a good horse, and the exercise will give you an appetite, nephew," he rejoined. "There is only one thing I want you to understand, and that is that I don't like questions."

"Questions?" said Vane.

"Yes," he said, with a frown. "If you happen to come upon anything that surprises you, keep your curiosity to yourself!"

"All right, sir," said Vane, in his

Varicose Veins and Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This letter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble, not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. R. J. Evans, 132 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

The meal was eaten, like the lunch, almost in silence, and when it was prompt, frank way.

Soon afterward the old man got up. "I am an early riser, and I go to bed early," he said, "but you can sit up as long as you like. There's claret, and there is whiskey and brandy. You can ring for anything else you want. Good-night;" and with a nod he walked out.

Vane sat over the fire and smoked his pipe. Should he accept his uncle's invitation and remain for a time at Vale, or should he get an answer from him respecting the two thousand pounds, and return at once to town, and prepare for the new life he had mapped out for himself?

He decided to stay at least for a few days. The place interested him; and, if the truth must be told, the owner interested him far more than did the place. Blood is thicker than water, and Vane had already conceived a liking for this grim old relative, who lived alone, and clad by day in a laborer's suit, in Vale Hall.

The events of the day had for a time driven from his mind the incidents of the Witches' Caldron and little Nora; but as he was undressing he came upon the shilling threaded on the ribbon taken from her hair, and she seemed to rise before him.

He looked from the window in the direction of the Caldron, and his last thoughts as he fell to sleep were of the singular girl who had tried to kill him.

The next day he chose a horse—the squire had evidently given instructions that his nephew's wishes were to be consulted, and his orders obeyed—and went for a ride round some portion of the estate. The squire had not exaggerated. It was vast. There were snug farms standing in wide fields and meadows, large stretches of well-timbered woods, and lastly, the mines.

Vane gazed down the shafts of these sources of his uncle's wealth with curiosity and interest, and he began to understand, as he saw the big piles of ore, the carefully constructed railways, the gangs of swarthy men and scores of horses, that the squire of Vale was indeed a millionaire.

The men—farmers and miners—received him at first with the reserve which characterizes the people of the western coast, but they soon thawed beneath the genial sun of Vane's manner. There was a frank light-heartedness about him which melted the most reserved and standoffish; and after a day or two he got into the habit of taking his lunch with him in a sandwich box, and a flask, and eating it and smoking a pipe afterward, among the men. He liked to hear them talk in their quaint, rude dialect, and he asked enough questions about themselves, their families, and their work to fill a book.

The Illogical Funeral.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The latest scandal brought to me by the neighborhood is this: Mr. M's mother had just died. She—the neighborhood gossip—went to the funeral, and, what do you think, "Mr. M. and his wife were there, of course, but they might just as well have stayed at home for all the respect they showed the dead. Why, he had on a light grey suit, and she wore old blue and had a light blue feather in her hat. They didn't even have the decency to wear black gloves. And they looked so cheerful! She was such a lovely woman, I should think they might show a little grief for her."

Of course, her children would naturally feel some selfish pain for their own loss, but if they truly loved her, that would surely be swallowed up in the knowledge of her happiness. As I have said again and again, if we really believe in the immortality of the soul, and if we believe that the soul of our beloved was fit for Heaven, we have no possible reason for a parade of grief. Some selfish suffering we must, of course feel, but isn't it our duty to conceal rather than parade it? Someone with whom I was talking on this subject called my ideas modern. Are they modern? Take up your Shakespeare and read the dialogue between the wise fool and the foolish lady in "Twelfth Night": "Good madonna," says the Fool when he finds Olivia grieving over her brother, "give me leave to prove you a fool." "Can you do it?" says Olivia. "Dexteriously, good madonna." "Make your proof." "Good madonna, why mournest thou?" "Good fool, for my brother's death." "I think his soul is in Hell, madonna." "I know his soul is in Heaven, fool." "The more fool, madonna, to mourn for your brother's soul being in Heaven. Take away the fool, gentlemen." Or better still, turn to Christ's own words to the disciples when they mourned his approaching translation: "If ye mourned me, ye would be glad when I said I go unto my Father." Do you think Christ would have approved of our conventional funeral? Never in the world. I certainly can not.

Fashions and Fads.

Melius will be much in fashion. Nearly all the neckwear will be cut low.

Very much in favour is the Medici collar.

Jeweled pins will be worn on the evening collars.

Fashion promises to use a great deal of fur trimming.

Oval buttons are decidedly effective and fashionable.

Some of the new hats have bows of the most white linen.

The smartest gowns are characterized by bright colors.

With costumes of white serge, apple green vests are worn.

The neckwear this season will be more important than ever.

Some of the most dressy trills are sparkling with rhinestones.

A single row of brilliant color is used as a clasp to a scarf sash.

French lingerie is lessening in fullness, but it is finer than ever.

Canary-colored vests of linen or silk are worn with suits of blue cloth.

The new silhouette has the effect of easy suppleness, but not ill-fitting.

Attractive for the fall costume are toulars and dark plaid silks.

Taffeta is in vogue in plain colors, changeable or figured patterns.

Many zibelines and velours will be used in the making of fall costumes.

Skirts are narrow at the bottom, not more than 1 1/2 or 1 3/4 yards in width.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well, you did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shonts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc."

That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more than his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this question is to carry insurance with Parole Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Baldness.

Thus we have presented to us the solemn truth that baldness is a sure sign of intellect. Nobody ever went bald without first thinking long and deeply upon some abstruse subject, such as dentifrice and patent hair renovators. Nobody ever saw a bald-headed man whose dome was not inflated with wrinkles caused by the effort of his intellect to escape from its environment and be at rest. Once in a while the intellect escapes and leaves a reverberating vacuum without being missed by the owner or anybody else.

The first efforts of a man to go bald are seldom appreciated by his wife, who would prefer less intellect and more hair. She immediately institutes a course of home treatment, including such payral remedies as rubbing vaseline into the scalp at the most available point of contact with a new Stafford's Liniment.

Question No. 1.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment has obtained such a large sale?

Answer No. 1.—Because every person who has used it says it is one of the best liniments that they ever used, and they tell their friends about it, and the consequence is that the demand is obtained.

Question No. 2.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment is recommended and guaranteed by the people who know it?

Answer No. 2.—Because the people who handle it know by facts and statements that they can thoroughly recommend and guarantee it to the utmost. Several persons have such confidence in it that they tell their customers that after using it, they didn't find it as good or even better than some other kind they used, they would give them their money back if it isn't confidence enough what is it?

Question No. 3.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment cures Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, and all kinds of Aches and Pains?

Answer No. 3.—Because when you are suffering from Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, or any kind of ache or pain, you have affected parts in very warm water (nearly hot) for about five minutes. Dry well and apply Stafford's Liniment freely, you will find instant relief. Now there is no doubt about it but Stafford's Liniment has obtained a large sale, and the orders being received nearly every day would convince you. You can see them if you wish by calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill, isn't it plain enough for you. We publish nothing but straightforward facts and challenge any person or persons to contradict them.

Message From the Ill-Fated Titanic.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—A bottle enclosing a letter was picked up on the beach half way between Cow Head and St. Paul's by Geo. E. Hewitt, on Saturday, 6th inst. The letter ran as follows:—

S.S. Titanic, April, 1912. To Mrs. Brown, 82 High St., Kensington, London, W.

My last loving wish is to you, look after my wife Annie and poor little Georgie; boat sinking fast.

Yours sincerely, GEORGE DOBSON.

It is evident that the bottle had been in the water for a long time, as the bottom was covered with moss. The letter was written with lead pencil and can be read distinctly. The paper which was of a blue color is now faded almost on the preceding night and when it was thrown on the beach the neck was smashed off. Mr. Hewitt is mailing letter to whom it is addressed.

Yours truly, R. T. SKANES. Cow Head, Sept. 8, 1913.

The cute man is looking wiser and cutter than ever and critics infer that something unsavory will be unearthed later.

It is said that if the Tories are returned this time a law will be enacted whereby the people of the North or South East arm will not be permitted even to look at a salmon jumping in the waters of either of these arms, only the few sports who get the warden's permission can do so.

How strange, not even conceptions made under the shadow of Dickens can escape the grasp of Nemesis. The big man and the little man (physically of course) should not arrogate to themselves the knowledge of the universe. There are others on this planet of ours who might be possessed of a little also.

A curious question was asked here the other day by a visitor who seemed serious enough too and it was this. Do game wardens play games? Foolish looking question wasn't it.

Sir Robert Bond

And the Nfld. Savings Bank--Judge Prowse's Testimony.

As we remarked yesterday Sir Robert Bond should have been the last person in the world to have been charged as a probable wrecker of the Government Savings Bank. For he is the statesman who has done more than any other man to strengthen and maintain the fair name of the Savings Bank and the Government which is behind that institution. His name has passed into history as the man who saved the Savings Bank and the credit of Newfoundland after the Bank Crash. Our statement is correct and we corroborate the evidence we produced yesterday by quotations from the second edition of Prowse's History. Judge Prowse says that on May 11th, 1895:

"The future of the Colony, seemed dark and gloomy, a heavy loading debt, and the large amount of interest due in July had to be met; our credit has been so injured by lying despisers from the enemies of the Island that many believed money could not be borrowed on any terms whatever; there seemed no alternative in this unfortunate state of affairs but to make default on our bonds or become a Crown Colony."

It was under these circumstances that Mr. Bond volunteered to try and obtain a loan and his offer was accepted by the Executive.

As to the Saving of the Savings Bank, Judge Prowse says that whilst Mr. Bond was in Montreal, there was a run on the Newfoundland Savings Bank, and the Bank of Montreal and Bank of Nova Scotia were appealed to in vain.

"In this untoward state of affairs a total collapse seemed inevitable, and unless a temporary loan of $150,000 could be obtained within forty-eight hours the Savings Bank would have to close its doors, and then all hope of obtaining the required loan for the Colony had flown. An effort was made by Mr. Bond, through a leading firm of brokers in Montreal, to obtain the sum required. As a consequence of the crash and of the defamations of the Colony that had been persistently practised by its enemies here, the Government securities held by the Savings Bank would not be accepted as a sufficient security by the Montreal Secretary, but with the deposit of the debentures, to pledge his personal security in order to procure $100,000. The Savings Bank for the time was saved; it was fortunate for the Colony that our enemy had not only the high-minded patriotism but also sufficient means and credit to avert a dire calamity."

And this is the man whom McGrath is assailing as an enemy to the credit of the Government Savings Bank. Sir Robert Bond risked his whole fortune to save the Savings Bank and yet today he is maligned by the Graball press as a man not to be trusted to guard the savings of the fishermen in the Government Savings Bank. Could malignity go further? Does it not almost pass human credulity that such attacks should be made? Does McGrath challenge our statement that Robert Bond gave the guarantee which secured the loan which saved the Bank? If not, why is he vilifying the able, honest, colonial statesman who saved the situation. He acted most contemptibly at the time when Robert Bond was striving every nerve for Newfoundland. He is acting most maliciously to-day. For what? To keep the Government for the Graballs and to secure a continuance of the grab which has been making the past four years or so.

The Mystery of Coal Boreing.

Why was it abandoned and the Drill given Oil Shale Borers. Let Morris answer.

There is some mystery surrounding the working of our coal deposits. What is it? Can Morris answer? What have the Reids to do with the delay in opening up these coal mines? Is it their interest in any way that the coal seams should not be developed for a few years? Let us try to help them to a conclusion by stating a few facts. The public knows how erratic the railway service has been. Trains are irregularly overdone, passengers have been loud in their complaints. Especially in the freight service complaints were most frequent. Every consignee of freight on the line knows the infinite trouble and delays that have taken place on the Reid system. It became a perfect scandal last year and the Board of Trade found it necessary to protest. Still there was very little evidence that any steps were taken by the Morris Government to improve conditions. The snow blockade for practically the whole of one winter became notorious as an instance of poor service.

Sir Robert Bond from his place in the House vigorously stated the Government for their remissness in not keeping the company up to its obligations and its contract with the line. But then, what else can the public expect from the present Premier, who, according to Mr. J. Alex. Robinson, the editor of the New World, has such leanings towards capitalists? The reason given for the wretched freight service was the insufficiency of rolling stock, which must be built in this country and which was being supplied as fast as the company could turn it out. Now it must be remembered that the above mentioned unsatisfactory conditions regarding freight existed before the branch lines went into operation. What can the public expect when the Bonavista, Trepassay, Heart's Content and Bay de Verde branches are working next year. It is admitted the amount of freight on the cross-country route is generally more than the company can handle with its present facilities.

Coal if found in workable quantities must be carried over the railway lines. None of it is near the seaboard. The great seams in which Mr. Howley has such faith are well inland, near Howley, Grand Lake and Sandy Lake. What then would it advantage the coal consumer of St. John's and the seaboard residents if the railway company had no facilities to handle coal in large quantities? Is this the "mystery" of the Reid's? Does this account for the Government's laxity in coal boring? They cannot say it is not there. The reports of Mr. Howley, F.G.S., the head of the Geological Department, and whom all will admit is a man who knows his business, speak otherwise. Mr. Howley has spent a great part of his life investigating our coal areas. No one is more competent to pass an opinion on this question. He is fully convinced coal in immense quantities exists. He says in his reports that prospects in the Grand Lake region are very encouraging, and that if this region was stripped of overlying debris, coal in workable and paying quantities would be found.

The public will also remember Mr. Howley's lecture on our coal measures, that lecture in which he made an earnest and patriotic appeal to have something practical done while he was alive, and was probably, almost certainly, the only one in the country who knew where workable coal could be found.

Now we may be asked why has nothing been done to develop the coal? None will forget the clarion tones in which Morris proclaimed that he was going to settle "once and for all" this coal question. He was going to find coal if we had it. What has he done to test the serious and earnest statements of Mr. Howley? He is present head of the Geological Department? Nothing but this: A contract was made with some English company with the result that it fizzled out like the Trefethen and Lord cold storage bubble. From the days of Sahlstrom and the Wright Cold Storage Company his name has been constantly identified with similar crude speculative schemes. With all his pretended astuteness he is the prey of any soft spoken promoter. Sahlstrom got him, and Soiling got him. This is the man who is held up as the head of a business government. The contract with the English company having fizzled out nothing more was attempted, coal boring was absolutely abandoned, and the Government drill was handed over to the Messrs. Reir, How, William C. Job, E. B. Job, S. J. Poole, and a number of other gentlemen interested in oil shale. That is how Morris decided "once for all" to settle the coal question. And still the price of coal goes up. It stands at $7.20, and poor stuff at that.

Men Nearly Drowned

From the Fort William Journal of August 8th, we learn that three men O. Erikson, P. Furi and L. Bolt narrowly escaped being drowned by the upsetting of their canoe. They were trout fishing for pickerel at 8-mile Lake when Erikson hooked a large fish and in the excitement of landing, the canoe went over in about 30 feet of water. Bolt and Erikson were thrown out clear of the boat but Furi held to the side and climbed up on the bottom. The trout line became entangled with Erikson's legs and he was nearly gone when Furi and Bolt got him up in the bottom of the overturned canoe. Fortunately the overturned canoe drifted Shannah Tucker and Mrs. Tucker at the Opera.

Tucker, Mrs. Tucker and myself attended the opera at the T. A. Hall on Wednesday night. Some of you will be anxious to know how we struck the tickets, but we will have to go on guessing. On the style of the ladies in the front of the hall was simply gorgeous. Cloaks all the colors of the rainbow; 'twas simply dazzling. We occupied seats in the Pit and were not smothered with the heat, for there was plenty room to kick. 'Twas like a dancing rainbow to watch the stream of ladies pouring into the dress circle. Bad fishery on the Labrador? said Mrs. Tucker. Why these people mustn't have heard the news yet. After a while the hall got pretty well blocked for'ard, a bell tingled and "up went the rag." We couldn't believe our ears, for, although we strained all our hearing machinery, not a syllable could we understand. Tucker gazed on with a pleasing smile admiring his Brazilian features. I nudged him and asked him what the song was about. Don't know, says Tucker. You omdawn, says I, why that's double Dutch. All the same, says Tucker, you're not supposed to understand anything at Grand Opera. Just pretend you understand, that's all. I took Tucker's advice and kept quiet. Grand singers came out and sang a lovely song, double Dutch also, but must be very pathetic, for one lady in the box wiped away a tear. All the folks in the front seats looked wise, but made an awful blunder. After the first scene in the opera closed the screen went down. All the grand cloaked people arose to go home—thought 'twas all over. Just as they were filing out some one passed around the word there was another act to come. Sheepsheady they glided back to their seats. Great moral in that, said Mrs. Tucker. Never pretend to understand what you can't unravel. An old dog for a hard road, says she. Do you know now I knew that the opera wasn't over? Can't say, says I. Well, I'll tell you, says she. The orchestra never played. God Save the King. Always look out for that when attending a double Dutch opera and you'll know when to go out.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. An English builder has been awarded the contract for turbine drums for the newest American battleships at a little more than one-third the price offered by the lowest American bidder. The accepted bid, $57,486, was submitted by the New York agents of the Cyclops Steel Iron Works, Sheffield, England. It is exceptional for the Navy Department to send a contract abroad, but Acting Secretary Roosevelt held the act is justified by the tremendous differences between English and American prices. The Sheffield bid includes payment of duty by giving work to foreign builders. The States saves more than $100,000. There were two American bidders: Bethlehem Steel Company, $169,568; Midvale Steel Company, $169,274.

Sister Mary Angela March.

The profession of Sister Mary Angela March took place in the Convent Chapel at Harbor Main on Monday, the 8th inst. Sister Angela is the daughter of James March, Esq., of Northern Bay, and niece of His Lordship Bishop March, who officiated at the ceremony. The ceremony was private, none but the immediate relatives of the new religious being present. The assistant clergy were Fr. Lynch, of Coacoman's Cove; Mons. Veitch, of Conception, and Fr. Shean, of Harbor Main. Since her advent in the Convent at Harbor Main, Sister Angela has endeared herself to the little ones who attend her classes, and that she may long be spared to fulfil the duties of the calling to which she nobly responded is the prayer of the whole community.—Com. Hr. Main, Sept. 10th, 1913.

J. W. Myer's Farewells

The Nickel Theatre last evening attracted a large audience, and all were delighted with the entertainment. Mr. Cameron, the English comic singer is a host in himself. His appearance was warmly applauded and his songs were of the greatest value. "It's a peculiar thing" as sung by him simply convulsed those present. Then he sang Delaney's Chicken, an Irish comedy, which proved as popular as the first. He has already made hosts of friends and the Nickel Theatre is to be complimented on having such a talented entertainer. Mr. Myer sang "The Armourer's Song" from Robin Hood, in a charming manner. Many heard it for the first time and were greatly pleased with it. To-night he bids farewell as he leaves by the Florizel to-morrow. His stay in St. John's has been most successful, as he has given the best of the high class songs in a perfect manner. He opens at Halifax next where we predict a successful season for him.

If the fog prevents the City-Cornwall shoot from coming off to-day the competition will take place to-morrow, Saturday, afternoon at 2.30. The men from the Sirius are now putting appointed if weather conditions prevent this match against a team that has such an excellent record for marksmanship as has the Cornwall's team. We understand that they have beaten all the West Indian teams. There are also some good rifle shots on H. M. S. Sirius, and a match will likely be arranged with them for next week. The men from the Sirius are now putting in their annual practice at the South Side Range, and it is well worth the short climb up the hill to see them at their work.

That is What

Patsy and the Banks Again.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The editor of the Herald still goes on shrieking indefinitely about a Bank Crash. Will he say what he means by a Bank Crash? Supposing he means to say that on the advent of a Bond Government, at the instance of a Bond Government, all the fishermen in the island who have money deposited in the vaults of the four Canadian Banks at present doing business here were to draw all their monies from these Banks, surely he doesn't mean the public to believe that such a course upon the part of the fishermen would bring about a Bank Crash. And again, bringing about a Bank Crash, about which insinuation he seems particularly anxious, if all the fishermen with monies there were to adopt the same course, does he want the people to think that even then we should have a Bank Crash? All this writing of the Herald about a Bank Crash is so palpably an election scare that, as we have already said, it is cruel writing for simple folk to read who don't know better and for whom it is specially intended, and it is an indication of sheer desperation when one contemplates that it emanates from a paper supporting the Government of the day.

Have the Banks themselves nothing to say in the matter? Most people who think at all would say that they had some interest in the question. Governments may come and governments may go, but the Banks here are well able to take care of themselves, and they are not having any sleepless nights now waiting for a Bank Crash that, according to Mr. McGrath, is to arrive here next fall if the Bond Government wins at the polls. One would suppose on reading the Herald that the Bank Crash of 1894 was brought about by the Government of that day! It is rather a late hour now to go into the causes that led up to that dreadful calamity, but who will feel here now that the Government had the remotest connection with them. It is simply an insult to the intelligence of the people of this city that such articles should find their way in a local paper.

If Mr. McGrath must have some election bugaboos to let off to frighten

EAST-WATER STREET--WEST

Marcus Tabloid Co.

Last night the crowd was so large at Rossley's Theatre, that the box office was closed at 8 p.m., as there was not even standing room, and the Minstrel Maids gave a real New York style of show. The ladies dressed were very dainty and much admired; the stage setting and new scenery looked splendid, while the performance was the finest ever. Tommy Levene is a big favorite here already and his appearance is the signal for a laugh; he is the very funniest comedian and put his jokes over in great style. The singing of River Shannon was a great success as was the violin playing by one of the ladies of the company. Little Baby Queen is a natural born artist; in fact it would be impossible to single out any one. They are a company of first class performers who give a first class performance.

Will Speak on the Judgment Day

Pastor MacMillan, of New York is still in the city, and will speak at the British Hall again next Sunday. At 2 p.m. he will answer questions, as announced last Sunday. A number have already been received in regard to the resurrection of the dead. In answer to these he will discuss the two phases of the resurrection, viz., the first and the general resurrection. Bring your Bibles that you may be able to follow him. The topic for the evening service will be "The World's Judgment Day." This topic never fails to interest thinking people, for we have all heard many awful things about that day, which are likely to fill the future with fearful forebodings. Mr. MacMillan says that he will deal with this subject in a thoroughly Scriptural manner, and that when thus viewed from a Bible standpoint the subject is a very comforting one, and one that appeals to the reason, 250 more chairs have been put in the hall and it is hoped that all will be seated.

Team Dined.

On Tuesday evening, the D.I.S. football team of Bell Island were given an enjoyable dinner at Wabana Staff House, by their friends and supporters. The cups won this year and other trophies all decorated with the D.I.S. colors, were prominently displayed and exhibited the prowess of the D.I.S. boys. Excellent speeches were given in the discussion of the following:

TOAST LIST:

THE KING—Prop. The Chairman, Resp. God Save the King.

T. H. E. DOMINION FOOTBALL TEAM—Prop. Mr. Leo C. Murphy; Resp. Mr. H. Noonan, Capt. football eleven.

RECITATION—Mr. J. M. Greene.

OUR ABSENT FRIENDS—Prop. Mr. H. J. Leff; Resp. Should Aid Acquaintance be Forgiven?

Another Missing

The story of Wednesday is not yet half told. The dangerous fog of Wednesday evening did not seem to be properly appreciated and another woman is missing—Mrs. Tucker of Hamilton Street. She went about in the most dangerous place people can go in foggy weather on the Blackhead Road. Yesterday Const. O'Neill, Whelan and Stamp tried to find her, but up to midnight had not discovered a trace of her. The Telegram's strictures on the dangers of people going out over the hills in dense fog seems to be all right. Many an experienced water famillias was asked to go but returned, and these were right.

The America's Cup Races

Special to The Evening Telegram.

ISLE OF WIGHT, To-day. Signed conditions for America's Cup races next year received by Lipton last night. He announced the fact to his guests. Sir Thomas said it took nearly seven months to arrange the contest. He more than once feared it would fall through. While I was personally always willing to race under any conditions with ninety or seventy-five footer, he continued, I had been careful not to agree to terms that would impose any undue handicaps to future challenge boats from this side. Several times I was advised to withdraw challenge, but I stuck to it. Now the signed conditions are in my pocket. I am glad that I did. I am perfectly satisfied with them. It is true they do not compel Americans to meet me with a boat the same size as the Shamrock, but I was always convinced this would be done. Sir Thomas expressed the belief that Nicholson, who is building Shamrock the Fourth, was the finest designer in the world, and that Burton, who will command the challenger knows how to steer to victory.

Child Meets Accident

At about 1 o'clock this morning, a little girl, named Roseworthy, of Adelaide Street, met with a peculiar accident and one which might have terminated fatally. The little one is only 12 years old and while the child was seated on the knee of a blue-jacket from one of the warships here, who mostly frequent the place, the man took a bottle of soda water in his hand and broke the neck off on the table near the child. The result was that flying pieces of glass hit the little one in the throat. Had the jugular vein been severed of course nothing could save the child, but fortunately only the superficial arteries were severed and though she lost much blood there is a fighting chance for life. The unfortunate blue-jacket got a scare he will not soon forget. He was so frightened that he attempted to run to the hospital with the child in his arms, but her sisters Florence, Mabel and Annie as well as Maggie Whalen stopped him. The cries of these females brought Serjt. Noseworthy to the scene and he applied first aid. He also sent watchman Art Rice for a doctor and soon Dr. O'Connell was present. He closed the severed arteries with a d'spach, but the child received a bad shock, lost much blood and it is feared may not recover.

Gentlemen.—With reference to POLARINE OIL, we desire to say that we operated six Winton Six-Cylinder Cars on the Cariboo Road in 1912, and these cars travelled 82,450 miles during the season. We used POLARINE exclusively, and found it superior to any other oil which we had previously tested, and while the cars were operated under all sorts of climatic conditions, we were so well pleased with the results obtainable from the use of POLARINE oil, that we propose to use nothing else on the eight Winton cars which we will operate this year.

No More Picnics That is What the People Say

Patsy and the Banks Again.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The editor of the Herald still goes on shrieking indefinitely about a Bank Crash. Will he say what means by a Bank Crash? Supposing for argument sake that on the advent of a Bond Government, at the instigation of crooks, all the fishermen in the island who have money deposited in the vaults of the four Canadian Banks at present doing business here were to draw all their monies from these Banks, surely he doesn't mean to believe that such a course would mean the end of the fishery? Would he then say that the fishermen would then go to the Savings Bank, about which institution he seems particularly fond of talking, and ask the fishermen who had there to adopt the same course, does he want the people to think that even then we should have a Bank Crash? All this writing of the Herald about a Bank Crash is so patently an election scare that, as we have already said, it is cruel writing for simple folk to read who don't know better and for whom it is especially intended, and it is an indication of sheer desperation when one considers that it emanates from a paper supporting the Government of the day.
Have the Banks themselves nothing to say in the matter? Most people here think at all would say that they had some interest in the question. Governments may come and governments may go, but the Banks here are not able to take care of themselves, and they are not having any sleepless nights now waiting for a Bank Crash that is according to Mr. McGrath, due to arrive here next fall if the Bond Government wins at the polls. One would suppose on reading the Herald that the Bank Crash of 1894 was brought about by the Government of that day? It is rather a late hour now to go into the causes that led up to that disastrous calamity, but who will say that the Government had the remotest connection with them. It is simply an insult to the intelligence of the people of this city that such articles should find their way in a local paper.
If Mr. McGrath must have some election bugaboos to let off his frighten the children during the election campaign, surely he can find something better than the Banks.

Let Bond Bring Order Out of Chaos!

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I once listened to a conversation held by the commodore captain of a large shipping firm and one of the principal owners, referring to a young man who had a few months previous been appointed master of one of their vessels, and had made a bad break—trouble with his crew, trouble with his consignees, and worse than all, wrecked his vessel totally a short time previous. That young man, sir, was one of the smartest first mates that ever sailed with me, but you see as soon as left in supreme power, a real duffer. And this peculiarity applies in many cases. Take Sir E. P. for instance. As long as he was subordinate to Sir R. Bond he made a fairly good lieutenant, occasionally breaking bounds and quickly getting out of his depth; but the firm, strong hand of his superior prevented him going to the dogs altogether. As soon as he obtained supreme power he showed his incapacity at once, mistaking mad heading rushing into engagements, he was utterly incapable of carrying through in a sound financial manner, for statesmanship, when it was really a travesty, on even a tyro at the business, and what is the consequence? It is simply that we are burdened with a huge increase of debt, and a dissatisfied and murmuring people, and in all probability, when the truth is made manifest, on the near borders of bankruptcy. To specially refer to his blundering can serve no good purpose now. His whole business the past five years has been one huge blunder, and in years we shall feel the bitter effect of it. It only remains for us, the people, as a body politic, to dismiss him as quickly as possible and let Sir Robert Bond do as he did before, bring order out of chaos and save our country once again.
MORRIS MUST GO.
Yours truly,
PASCOE.

A Call to Terra Nova.

Men of Great Britain's Ancient Colony.
On you a stricken, suffering country rings round with wrongs whose magnitude appals.
Rouse ye from sleep; your bounden duty see.
In righteous wrath arise, and manfully sweep clean from graft the legislative halls.
Crush down the power that holds you in its thrall.
And hurl the heelers headlong to the sea.
Now is the time and now the appointed day.
That you must prove your love for public weal.
Let tyrants fall before the onward sway
Of gallant patriots fired with public zeal.
Shame on the recreant souls content to bow.
Enslaved by greed's corrupting influence now.
Vain would it be for you to draw the sword
Or couch your lance, unless you thrust them straight Through wrong's black-hearted legions, which await.
Entrenched, your onslaught at your captain's word.
Fear not to face their fierce and lawless hordes,
Or pause their evil strength to estimate.
Right must prevail your cause will make you great.
Engage then with your enemy ahorréd.
Might has no force to wrest the crown from right.
Our leaders brave can never know defeat.
Rare trophies will reward the victor's fight.
Rich prizes will be strewn before your feet.
In stricken ranks arrayed behold your foes.
Since you are freemen, strike your mightiest blows.

We understand that P. T. McGrath

despises Puritanism though he brags with Puritanic fervour of his particular brand of total abstinence. If that is not open to suspicion, it yet accounts to some extent why he goes to extremes in other ways. Note, for example, his pugnacious cupidty on the one hand, and his capacious putridity on the other.

A tear stood in his shifty eye,
But still he answered with a sigh,

Special to The Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—William Gaynor, Mayor of New York, died on board the steamer Baltic, of heart failure, in mid-ocean on Wednesday afternoon, according to a message sent by wireless by his son, who had sailed with him. He left New York on the morning of Sept. 4th. Up to an hour before he sailed, only one man, his secretary, knew of his plans outside the members of his family. He announced his purpose was a brief vacation on the ocean, and felt that the effect of the salt air would restore him in some measure to health. The Baltic is due at Queens-town today. He died as she was nearing the other side, and the news of his death was sent by wireless to Cuxhaven, and relayed to New York. Before the Mayor sailed his secretary issued a statement, denying reports of his serious illness. The recent attack of his old throat trouble due to a wound inflicted on him on August 9th, 1910, by James D. Gallagher, just as he was about to leave the city for a vacation to Europe, had entirely disappeared, according to the secretary. Mayor Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitetown, N.Y., in 1851. He had to help his family in the struggle for existence, and during the fight had to take time for his own education. His career as Mayor of New York bore the imprint of his personality in many striking innovations.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Commenting editorially on the action of the Canadian Immigration officers, in deporting Harry Thaw, the Tribune says: "This country must take off its hat to Canada. It has found a way to put a summary end to the Thaw game of trifling with its courts, and while the Thaw lawyers were talking fighting the issue in a leisurely way through the Colonial courts, and thence to London, the Immigration officers suddenly cut the whole tangle of technicalities, and lumped the bewildered lunatic across the border line, leaving a lot of attorneys and alienists sorrowing for the loss of vast prospective fees. Canadian swiftness dazzles us, hurried to the worship of legal red-tape as we are, and has this to commend itself. Justice has been done and done promptly. What would have been aken months, and perhaps years to accomplish here, has been accomplished at once. The Canadian legal system has been spared the disgrace which would have sprung from seeing its processes employed to defeat justice." The World says: "Thaw and his money bedevilled the administration of justice in New York for seven years, but a little more than three weeks proved enough for Canada."

PERKINS, Sept. 11.—Japan's demands, growing out of the killing of several Japs at Nanking, were presented to the Chinese Government to-day, though the full details regarding the nature of the note are not available. Sufficient information has been gleaned to show that the demands are tantamount to an ultimatum for an apology, an indemnity and punishment of the guilty soldiers and officials at Nanking. It is demanded, it is understood, that China must accept the terms without any bartering.

HALIFAX, Sept. 11.—The steamer Bonaventure, from Hudson Bay, arrived here to-day, reporting a fair voyage to and from the north. She is here to refit, and sails again next week. She does not report the Sindhaf or Cerange, which sailed from here recently.
LONDON, Sept. 11.—J. Foster Stakehouse, who was associated with the late Capt. Scott in originating the South Polar expedition, is arranging an expedition to start from London, August 1914, to explore King Edward VII. Land. The party will away about two years, and will sail in the steam yacht Poraris, built for navigating in Polar regions.
WEST ORANGE, N.J., Sept. 11.—Thomas A. Edison is ill at his home, the first time in eight years. He was unable to go to his laboratory, and is suffering from a cold, but not seriously ill.

Mother! Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."
Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.
When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.
Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits; sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contentment any other fig syrup.

U. S. Picture & Portrait Co.

To the People of Newfoundland.

LETTER NO. 2.

Sir—My first letter to the people of the Colony was not intended to disparage anyone. The question at issue is a matter of life and death to many. It means the saving of cruel and unnecessary suffering to men's bodies, much mental anguish to families, much saving of capacity to earn a living, and therefore much economic loss or gain to the Colony.

To allow one's self to be led away into personalities would only endanger the issue, which is this—vizably that great need exists for more humane transportation of our sick. The corollary is that they must have it.

The undisputed facts are that some patients discharged from these hospitals have died on the steamers which were their only means of reaching home, in order to say a last good bye to their loved ones. As a larger and more continuous stream goes on and from the General Hospital at St. John's, it is not unfair to suppose that they have had similar sad experiences.

Secondly, Mr. Panarelli states that we cannot expect the owners of steamers to desire sick to travel on them.

Thirdly—Tourists and the general travelling public are undoubtedly inconvenienced, and possibly endangered.

Fourthly—Mr. Panarelli states that the time is come for two fully equipped hospital steamers to be paid for by the Government. He suggests this would solve the problem.

We contend first of all that questions of this kind, which are of infectious public moment, must no longer be discussed from the point of view of what those who contract with the people to provide for their wants desire or don't desire. The people have needs. Through the Government only can they expect these needs to be provided for. The emphasis must be laid on what they want, and that should be considered absolutely of primary importance.

There are no high roads, and there are no doctors between Twillingate and Bonne Bay, except at our two small hospitals, Piley's Island and St. Anthony. This part of the Colony is becoming increasingly populous. It provides a very large proportion of the fish caught in the Colony, so that directly and indirectly it affords the Government a very material revenue.

Secondly, a long experience of hospital vessels convinces us that they will not solve the problem. Even the authorities in the Navy, as well as those who may suffer with sickness demand to have all serious cases treated on shore. We think hospital steamers are very expensive, and quite inefficient, except as mere carriers to and fro of sufferers. We do not think the demand would justify the outlay.

Thirdly, we do not think that the danger is as serious to travellers as Mr. Panarelli suggests, nor the proportion who are offensive or likely to injure others very large. Fever cases very seldom travel. Mr. Panarelli has not got the sentiment of modern science on his side in labelling cancer and tuberculosis as necessarily dangerous to others. We think that two cabins with three berths in each would, judging from our own experience, meet the requirements at present. The larger proportion who come to and fro can be perfectly accommodated with the ordinary provision made. We have accurate records, however, and could give the exact percentage.

Fourthly—The necessity for proper wharves and landing-places for the sick is of far greater importance than Mr. Panarelli infers. Many cases coming to hospital suffer more during the short transference from their homes to the ship and from the ship to the hospital than they ever do lying aboard in the steamers' cabins. The Government has emphasized this of late by appointing a man to meet the sick as they come in public conveyances as well as seeing that proper what's-are-you provided in St. John's. Many must come to St. Anthony, it being a far easier and shorter journey for them. Why is it unreasonable therefore for these people to demand some similar privilege?

Just as legislation is so apt to consider first of all the desires of the rich, though these are really paid by the public to provide what they need, rather than consider the actual affliction the poor man gets, so letters to newspapers and protests are apt to degenerate into destructive criticism, rather than by single-minded attempts to help those who are really trying to solve the problem.

The Government has a honest desire to do right, the steamship-owners are well known for their philanthropy. For our part down here, we are honestly anxious to do our best. We eagerly court intelligent and helpful criticism. We have no time to waste in arguing why our supply-boat which comes only twice a year to our own wharf to which the Government has never contributed a cent, did not in the middle of a fine flat calm sunny day get out of the way of steamers that visit us three times in every two weeks. Surely this cannot interest the general public. We have made the wharf as long and as good as our purse-strings would allow. Although seeing that even the construction material for the public lighthouse had just been landed on it and allowed to block it for several days, its value to the public certainly gives it some claim to a subsidy.

Lastly, the poor girl whose sad case has been so frequently referred to, had surely a right to die at home if she could get there. She would not be on board many hours, as she only had to go to LaSalle.

It would not be uninteresting if the doctors and nurses in the hurry and overwork of so many patients overlooked supplying her with a paper spatum cup. Mr. Panarelli states "this left her to spit at random the whole journey through, which was a cruelty to her and distressing and dangerous to the general public." He asks, "Why in the name of humanity and common sense the doctors did not provide her with one." One of the protesters, at least, on board all this while was a trained nurse and a Newfoundland, though living in the United States. The kind of criticism best calculated to have solved the problem in this instance would have been for her to spend two minutes making a paper cup, or tearing up a handkerchief and supplying the girl with tags to use, which is an infinitely better method to adopt with such very sick patients.

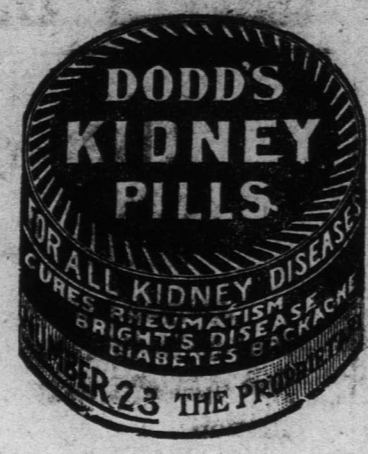

The direct result of the protest so far has been that orders were immediately issued to Captain Keen not to allow patients on stretchers to avail themselves of the Prospero to come for help. Accordingly, Captain Keen was forced to refuse an unfortunate creature at Leading Ticks. This poor fellow, it turned out afterwards, had been badly gored by a bull. He was left to suffer.

Only, sir, when efforts are unselfish and every one renders the best help he can, instead of blaming others for not doing better, will any of our difficult problems be really solved.

What legislation and criticism need is unselfish love at the heart, then only can we hope for ideal conditions to prevail.

While I am on this subject I may say there are many other vital questions of practical importance to be solved.

On our modest records we find two stewards serving public tables though suffering from acute tuberculosis; the lack of inspection of milk, although definite proof of tuberculosis cows being used as a source of supply has been produced; the endless frauds on many patent medicine concerns causing delay, suffering, and death to their dupes. Money can still purchase for the rich the seclusion of a stateroom.

DEAR SIR—In the afternoon of Tuesday, a rumor became current around Water Street that the ss. Glencoe was coming to St. John's for repairs, and that matins, passengers and freight for the S. W. coast between Placentia and Port aux Basques due to leave Placentia yesterday, would not be despatched until the 17th inst. The Postmaster General when communicated with had no knowledge of the fact. It was not until parties who had important mail to despatch made enquiries and the P.M.G. had phoned the Reid Nfld. Co. that he became aware of the interruption in the service.

What Does This Mean?

THE GLENCOE TAKEN OFF THE ROUTE—CAN REID DO AS HE PLEASES?

Dear Sir—In the afternoon of Tuesday, a rumor became current around Water Street that the ss. Glencoe was coming to St. John's for repairs, and that matins, passengers and freight for the S. W. coast between Placentia and Port aux Basques due to leave Placentia yesterday, would not be despatched until the 17th inst. The Postmaster General when communicated with had no knowledge of the fact. It was not until parties who had important mail to despatch made enquiries and the P.M.G. had phoned the Reid Nfld. Co. that he became aware of the interruption in the service.

Can the Reid Nfld. Co. do as they please? Can they take a subsidized mail boat off one of the most important services in the Colony at this time of the year, without first notifying the P.M.G. and subsidizing another steamer? Has any action been taken to supply another boat during the interruption, which may mean a loss of thousands of dollars to the people of the S.W. coast? Is the Reid Nfld. Co. Government, so subversive to the contractor, that they dare not maintain the people's rights? The Morris-McGrath twaddle of Godless Schools, Bursting the Banks and filthy references to public men have already proved the rottenness of the Government's cause, while in this Glencoe incident we have striking proof of the weakness of the Government.

Be it remembered by the fishermen, laborer, farmer, mechanic, clerk and all who work for a living, that if your money wrung from you by excessive taxation since Morris has been in power, which is being paid to carry on these public excesses and if it is your duty to yourselves, your families and your native land to hurl from office next November Morris, the Simon-pure, who draws no salary, J. C. Crosbie (spars), the get-rich-quick Executive member, Donald Morrison, the forgetful Minister of Justice, who advised an agent that public timber could advantageously be stolen from Crown land, together with the rest of the placemen upon whom hundreds of thousands of dollars have been squandered the past four and a half years, Sir Robert Bond must be returned to power. Of his unselfish character, his able statesmanship and his fearless fighting grit against corruption in high places, we have ample proof. Morris has spent $22,000,000 since he has been in office. The graft must end. BOND CAN'T LOSE. CITIZEN.

Tobin's Beer is Not Overproof

So Says Head-Constable Sheppard. Dear Sir—As I was the cause of having Mrs. Thomas Tobin's name brought before the public after the police raided her home at a very late hour, and after she had retired, I think it only fair to make an explanation now. The circumstances are well known to all our townspeople. Head Constable Sheppard rapped at this woman's house at 11 o'clock at night, two hours after she had retired to bed. Being of a delicate disposition she received a bad fright and had to call the doctor. The Head took two bottles of spruce beer to send them to St. John's for analysis. Sheppard has since called on Mrs. Tobin and assured her that her beer was found to be all right, and that she could sell all she could, provided she made it no stronger. To make this explanation now the writer considers only—FAIR PLAY.

EMPIRE'S BENEFIT.

To-morrow afternoon there will be an interesting cricket match held on St. George's Field when a city team and one from Cornwall will play a match, proceeds to be given to Mr. P. J. Myler, the crickette excellent bowler in the days of the Marleybones, Terra Novas, Avalons and Shamrocks, and later an umpire whose decisions, especially when compared with the late Sergt. Scarlet, could not be disputed. Come, boys, be on the grounds and give Pat a good game. Anyhow, we all like to see a game of cricket.

Political Pointers.

The Honourable F. T. looks pretty glum these days. He has reason to, defeat stares his party in the face and this means disaster for himself. That reference to "building the concrete sidewalks with a base" brought back old memories to many when they read the Telegram Tuesday. That attack on the proprietor of the Telegram, served its purpose. It's taken more votes to the Liberal Party than any other episode has. The people are all up in arms against this scurrilous and now senile Government. The popularity is Bond Can't Lose. And didn't the Evening Telegram give Morris and the heblers a jolt on Tuesday. It completely flattened out the Premier and disheartened his adherents. It infused more vitality into the Libs. The reason is evident. Every word of it was true. Morris meets his Waterloo this time in St. John's West.

Time to End

The Grab-Alls' Rule

To the Electors of Newfoundland:

GENTLEMEN.—We are now on the eve of a general election and before the mind of the people is expressed at the polls, I wish, without being actuated by an overzealous partisan spirit, or by any measure of mere political hostility to the powers that be, to ask one or two straightforward questions on the present political situation, offering some brief explanations myself in relation thereto.
First I wish to say that it is not my intention to endeavor to impose on your credulity, nor to bring business or banking relations into polemics of a political nature.

I observe that the Herald editor,
McGrath, the chief supporter of Sir Edward Morris—the man upon whose head he formerly heaped abuse—has thought well, for a vile mercenary purpose, to call up the memory and name of the dead whose responsibility ought to have ended with his life and would have ended with his life but for the depraved desperado who thinks nothing too base, or mean, or vile, to employ with the forlorn hope of securing another $10,000 from the Morris-Morison combine for the use of his scurrilous pen in the political campaign now begun.

A Combination of Extravagant Reckless Defaulters.
I ask you, gentlemen.—you who have received the full weight of all the country's ills—you whose energy and laborious toil gather in the wealth of the country, are you satisfied to leave the immense finances of the country in the hands of such a pack of loafers, whose only object is to reap fortunes for themselves whatever evil and disaster may come to you and your children afterwards?
Or, is there anything better you can do, or bring about, by concerted action, to retire the good name of your "Island Home" and bring

Redress and Permanent Benefit to Your Homes and Wives and Children?

If you have servants that despise your authority, break your laws, disregard their obligations, fitch your pockets and waste your hard-earned economic savings, what do you do with them?

You Turn Them out of Course, and put others in their places from whom you have reason to expect better things.

You say—How can we find out who the suitable parties are?
You can only find them out, gentlemen, by their records.

Have these two wily gentlemen—Morris and Morison—any virtue, or recommendation, or claim, of any description, to the public positions they now occupy? If they can prove that they have, why, of course, don't disturb them, but if they cannot, why of course it is your unquestionable privilege and your most important duty to stand out in all your integrity and fearlessness of spirit and say to the defaulters,

"Thus far Shall thou go, and no Farther."

And furthermore gentlemen—if you desire to know the qualifications of these defaulters and their vile supporters, you have only to consult the records against them. Read the uncontradicted and unexplained charges against them in the public press and you will discover that their honor and integrity must rest upon concealment rather than upon sound innate

If Meals Hit Back And Stomach Sours.

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fulness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin.
then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

The Cheery Smile

It isn't hard to smile and sing
on mellow days
Fall or Spring, when skies are bright and sunny; a man in comfort then can stroll and kick his heels and caracole, and be quite pert and funny. It's easy then to scatter jokes, and say to grouchy, gloomy folks, "If you've a grief, behold it!" we all are optimists in May, and many cheerful things we say, and claim all kinds of credit.
But when grim August burns the air,
what kind of smiles do you then wear to cheer the people? Are your remarks still safe and sane, or would your language jar the vane from off the steeple? The optimist most worthy fame is he who plays his joyous game when weather's frightful; who smiles serenely through his sweat, and says,
"These days, already yet, are most delightful!" But where, oh where's this noble gent who won't confess to discontent, who smiles and chortles? I fear me much he's in his grave; he was too radiant and brave to dwell with mortals.
