The more matured speakers alluded to the detectives outside of the hall where the Congress was held as another sign of the dastardly tactics of the capitalist gang. Close scrutiny was given everyone seeking admission to the Congress and this proceeding seemed rather laboriously elaborated. Indeed in arranging such a mountain of precaution the authorities seemed to be providing the delegates to the Congress with additional enjoyment in the belief that, in very truth they were daring devils.

The convention was indignant, however, on learning that somebody had upset evil-smelling fluids in the Congress hall. The mischief was eradicated though in time to prevent the delegates' nostrils from being actually offended by the odor.

Service of Song
at Gower Street

At Gower Street Methodist Church last evening the service was largely choral. Beside the general hymns in which the large congregation joined, the choir rendered with splendid effect a number of selections of special merit. The solo was by Mr. F. Wylie, whose fine tenor voice was heard to excellent advantage in Tenyson's "Crossing the Bar," to a Werengast setting. Miss C. Woods and Mr. S. R. Steele repeated the duet "Love Divine, all loves excellant," given by them in the church a short while ago, and their glorious voices blended in entrancing harmony in Stamer's exquisite interpretation. They were also the soloists in the sextette selection, "The Day is Past and Over," which was delightfully rendered, and in which Mrs. L. R. Curtis, Miss S. Soper and Messrs. W. H. Peters and D. Fraser formed a well-balanced quartette. "Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing" was another pleasing selection rendered by a male quartette, Messrs. H. Polard, F. Wylie, D. Fraser and H. Macpherson. Two anthems, "Hark, Hark, when I call," and "Hark, Hark, my Soul," were rendered with great care and expression by the full choir. In the former the solo was taken by Mr. F. Wylie, and in the latter by Miss A. Russell and Mr. D. Fraser. The whole service was inspiring and uplifting. The Pastor, Rev. Hammond Johnson, spoke for a few minutes, his theme being the great Union of the Churches which will be consummated in Toronto on Wednesday next. Under the direction of Miss Tait and Mr. Fraser, the choir of Gower Street has been giving excellent service in recent months. Its service of song last evening was a delight and a blessing; and it has rarely been heard to better advantage.

Hampden, White Bay

Tuesday, June 2nd, was a time of great excitement when the scholars of the Kindergarten-Primary School gave a concert to their parents and friends who filled the long room. Dr. G. W. MacKeen presided and announced the various items during the evening. Miss Lowrie had spent much time and thought in preparing and training the pupils for their drills and songs, and the parents declared they had never seen anything like it before. The theme of the evening was Holland and the Dutch people. All the girls were dressed in paper costumes illustrating the Dutch colours, and the Dutch flag was carried by Alfred Noble, who introduced the little artists. The costumes and implements were made entirely by the scholars, with the exception of the Dutch Daffodil girl, whose costume was designed by Miss Lowrie. The drills and songs all had some story of Dutch life to illustrate, the chief characteristics of the people, the farming, gardening, thrift and cleanliness which teach us all a great lesson. Mr. J. Kearley read a paper on Holland for Miss Lowrie, who had unfortunately lost her voice. At the conclusion of the programme Dr. MacKeen expressed his thanks to Miss Lowrie for the way in which she had so patiently and painstakingly trained the little ones. He said it was a delight to all and called for hearty applause. In responding on Miss Lowrie's behalf J. Kearley said the evening's performance showed the perfection to which the pupils had been trained. Miss Lowrie was gratified at the large number of people in attendance. She had expended much time and patience on the children, and he hoped later on they might be able to have as enjoyable an evening again. Mr. Kearley thanked the audience for their attention during the evening. The following is the programme:— Song—"We're Little Holland People"—Scholars. Address—Alfred Noble—Dutch Standard Bearer. Churn Drill—Girls. Song—"I'm a Little Dutch Girl"—Girls. Spade Drill—Boys. Song—"I'm a Little Dutch Boy"—Boys. Wash Drill—Girls. Recitation—"The Dirty Boy"—Fanny Tackwood and J. Sacrey. Rake Drill—Boys. Song—"A Duck Has Little Red Dreshoes"—Scholars. Address—A Talk on Holland—Mr. J. Kearley.

INTERVAL.
Recitation—"We Are Three Dutch Cleaner Girls"—D. Gale, A. Drover, & Kearley (written by I. M. Lowrie). Dream Drill—Girls. Song—"The A-P-R-I-L" and "Spring Promises"—Scholars. Hoe Drill—Boys. Song—"Grandfather Made Us a King"—Scholars. Quoting Drill—Girls. Bumble Bee Song—Scholars. Cheese Carriers and Bulb Girl. Milking Drill and Kicking Cow (by I. Noble)—Boys. Grand Falls' St. Andrew's Children's Ball Success

GRAND FALLS, May 29—Fifty tired but happy little guests filed past the president to receive their favours, and one of the most successful social evenings of the Grand Falls St. Andrew's Society was concluded. For once the grown-ups were forced into the background while the children skillfully demonstrated the correct rendering of the Scotch foursome and eight-some reels. The feature dances, the Irish jig, by eight of the girls in the costume of the Shamrock Isle, the hornpipe by six sailorettes, and the Highland Fling by two kilted laddies, were especially well performed, and drew enthusiastic applause from the adult audience.

By way of diversion the juvenile guests engaged in some of those games which children play only when at the eyes of their elders. The supper provided by the ladies of the society was appreciated in the approved fashion and those parents who had worried over falling appetites at supper were again reassured. Mr. McVane was on hand with a sheet of new verses for "It ain't gonna rain no more," and the applause he received might easily have turned the head of a staidstard. The credit for the excellence of the evening's performance rests solely with Miss L. J. Fletcher, who together with Miss Marjorie Little, accompanist, who spent much time and an incalculable amount of patience to achieve such remarkable results. Mr. Gilmour expressed the appreciation of the Society for Miss Fletcher's efforts, and voiced the general feeling of surprise and delight with the quality of the evening's exhibition, in moving the vote of thanks. "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought the Children's Ball to a close.

Wesley Church Notes

There was a large congregation and expectations was high because of the announced preacher, Revd. Robert Taylor, F.R.G.S., of London Eng. The pastor Revd. Jos. G. Joyce, B.A., had the prayers and lessons so that the pale, youthful looking preacher would not have to stand too long after his illness. He announced his Text Job 5th. Chap. 15. Verse— "For He Maketh Sore, and bindeth up. He woundeth, and His hands make whole." In a few moments he expressed his gratitude to God, and the physicians of the Hospital his thankfulness, that for the first time in two months he was able to stand in a pulpit he felt that pain and suffering had not altogether been a misfortune. God had revealed to him the meaning of it, and the same hand that held the rod of chastisement had brought the ointment to heal—He then referred to the Book of Job—The theories as to his authorship that it was written by Moses being the more generally received view. To his philosophy, and poetry, and description value as it sets forth Job's testing and unflinching trust in God, and his patience under trial of the severest kind, until one calamity after another had stripped him of family, property, wealth and health, and were stunning in their accumulation, yet in all the disaster he resignedly submitted himself to God's will. Job believed that what God did was right, and resolved to trust Him. There comes a time when we may be placed with Job, ambitions and health fail, it is a testing time, but trials shape us, and should beautify our lives—in our despair we do not see this, we look into the future it is dark and gloomy, our faith wavers, and we feel forsaken, but God's presence is still with us and faith revives, we look forward with the eyes of faith and see a hill, a cross, a sufferer, a saviour, and there comes from that cross a light; flooding, illuminating the world. It reaches our souls with the light of hope. The sweet music of His voice stills the tempest of our fear, saying, "I am the light of the world he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness but have the light of life"—Yes overshadowing all the doctrines and theology of Christianity is the Cross. It points the way of service as He bore his, so we should bear ours, it may be heavy, but it can be borne through His strength and grace, which is sufficient for us, and following on in His footsteps we shall one day lose our burden, the heavenly road will lead to the throne of God we shall have come from tribulation to glory, to a life of nobler service and number with those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. He prayed that to such a height of glory all would endeavour to attain. The sympathetic audience were much pleased with the young man's sermon remembering he was but 20 and in the first year of his ministry amongst strangers.

St. Bon's Sports

Practically all arrangements have now been made for the annual sports of St. Bon's College, which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, and the programme promises to be the most interesting ever held at the College grounds. The pupils have been in hard training for some time past and some interesting events are promised. The grounds have been given special attention this year and are now in first class condition. Recently a new iron fence has been erected, and gives the place a greatly improved appearance. To-night, beginning at seven o'clock, there will be played two of the preliminary games of Senior League football. They are as follows:— Felidians vs. C.E.I. Cadets vs. C.L.B. Good games are anticipated and fans going to the opening game at St. George's Field will be enabled to see these games before the other begins.

After claiming 149 lives yesterday, 71 in Philadelphia alone, and more than 400 during the spell in the east, the torrid weather gave way in front of a brisk northwest wind. Beginning on the New England coast, temperatures catapulted as much as 40 degrees in five hours. The chilly breeze swept over New York City shortly before midnight, continuing over New Jersey and part of Pennsylvania. The final day of the torrid wave was first in the number of fatalities. In addition to the heat fatalities about 40 lives were lost by drowning in various parts of the east.

Mercantile Marine

(From Halifax Chronicle, March 28th, 1925) NEW YORK, May 26.—There has been no recent change in affairs of International Mercantile Marine Corp., to account for current weakness in the preferred around 38, against a high for the year of 52 3-4. A possible explanation might be found in refutation of rumors circulated early in the year that reviving earning power considerably heightened possibilities of an early resumption of preferred dividends. Another exploded theory was that certain cash balances in treasuries of British subsidiaries, enhanced in dollar value by rising exchange rates, would shortly be diverted here to liquidate preferred dividend accumulations. Opposed to these is the clearly stated policy to pay dividends only if earned and to consider inviolate any funds in British subsidiaries. Report for 1924 is in process of completion and there is no reason to believe the estimate of $1,250,000 deficit after interest and depreciation made here about a month ago will have to be revised. This result would compare with deficits of $2,551,728 in 1923 and $2,408,061 in 1922. Marine, like other transatlantic lines, is being carried largely by its cabin passenger business, which is very satisfactory and gives every indication of comparative permanence. Higher rates on this business prevail this year, and concessions on choice cabins and suites for prominent travellers no longer obtain, so that passenger receipts during the 1925 season should show a gain over last year. On the other hand, this is not at all a satisfactory condition. Freight is the profitable cargo, and until the European producing centres definitely improve, which they must do sooner or later, Marine will not enjoy prosperity or be in a position to consider liquidation of dividends in arrears. A further hindrance to liquidation of back dividends is necessity for new equipment. On return from Europe recently Pres. Franklin said the corporation was negotiating for an 18,000-ton passenger and cargo liner. It is understood negotiations are also under way for construction of at least two more vessels of the same type. Accumulations on Marine preferred total $8 per cent.

Newfoundland Firm

TAKES ACTION IN BARBADOS AGAINST AGENT.

Monroe Export Co. v. C. H. Kinch.

The Court of Chancery, May 13—Following is the evidence taken in the action brought by Mr. Michael Anthony Shea, Attorney for the Monroe Export Co. of St. John's, Nfld., against Mr. C. H. Kinch, M.C.P., Senior Partner of the firm of C. H. Kinch Co., Ltd., Commission Merchants in the Court of Chancery before his Honor William Chandler Kt., C.M.G., sitting Vice-Chancellor, on Monday last. Mr. Michael Anthony Shea was the plaintiff witness called, and said that he was the constituted Attorney on record in Barbados of the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., a company registered in St. John's, Nfld. The Company exports fish, salmon and herrings to Barbados and imports molasses from Barbados. The Company was formed in September, 1913. Mr. Kinch, the defendant, was their agent in Barbados of the company in 1913. The account shown him was dated January 17th, 1914. It is not signed by Mr. Kinch, but his name was on the bill. It represents a shipment of fish by the schooner "Ida M. Zinck." He knew that Mr. Kinch received that shipment because he found it in his letter head, and it was paid for previous to 1913, the firm was called the Monroe Company, after that they changed another company, and called it the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., in other words there were two companies in the same office existing at the same time. The Monroe Company were the purchasers of molasses, and the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., were exporters of fish. In March, 1918 the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., took over the other company and the two businesses became one. After that the accounts and bills of invoices were addressed to Monroe & Co. by the defendant.

Mr. Reece, counsel for the defence, has objected to the last statement being put in evidence, on the ground that the action was between the Monroe Export Co., Ltd. and Kinch, and not between the Monroe Company and Kinch. He also objected to it on the ground that the witness was not giving proof at that particular date that the plaintiff company had taken over; in other words Monroe Company were not the plaintiffs. After some argument his Honor admitted this evidence. The witness then continued. As regards the accounts being inaccurate, there was a shipment of fish by the "Ida M. Zinck," and the charges showed that customs duties were paid on 1990 drums, 3,173 half drums, of the total value $1173.48, while the account sales showed 2,885 drums and 2,570 half drums. Mr. Kinch had there 899 half drums sold in bond, 800 sold in bond, 800 shipped to Perambuco and 86 thrown away by Sanitary authorities, and one short landed. That makes a total of 2,197 half drums not duty paid. The statement also showed 370 drums sold in bond, 525 in bond, 300 shipped to Perambuco and 21 thrown away by Sanitary authorities; that made a total of 1,219 drums; while the total charge was 2,685 and represented a loss of $215.29. The Company claimed that as an over-charge. The firm's contract with Mr. Kinch was that he should be paid 5 per cent. on gross sales, and he guaranteed them the money for the fish. He applied to the Government for permission to inspect their books as regards the amount of duty that was paid, and they refused permission. The Court was then adjourned for luncheon. On resumption the witness was cross-examined by Mr. Reece. The signature on the letters produced in the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., in March, 1918, and the letter showing me signed by Monroe & Co. is dated Oct. 14th, 1918. There is another letter dated Nov. 22, 1918 signed Monroe & Co. in Oct., 1918, molasses was bought and paid for by the Monroe Export Co., Ltd. There was no such firm as Monroe & Co. since March, 1918. He had no letter to show that Mr. Kinch was notified of the change. He was aware of the fact that Mr. Kinch has been continually sending molasses up to Monroe & Co., and his letters are all addressed Monroe & Co. As regards the differences in the number of drums charged for, by the David C. Ritcey, as far as Mr. Kinch was concerned, when he balanced his receipts of expenditure, he should have found it out if it had only been an error. As far as Mr. Kinch is concerned, the Company placed every confidence in him, so much that if he said he paid $1,000 more for duty he would have been believed. He admitted that it could have been an error, but when he struck his trial balance at the end of the year the error should have been found out. Re-examined by Mr. Walcott he said that Monroe & Co. formerly dealt with fish, and in their letter of Nov. 23, 1918 which said that they noticed that defendant was getting good prices for "their" fish, it meant the Monroe Export Co., Ltd. Mr. Willet Taylor was the next witness called and said that he was a Commission Agent and was Mr. Kinch's chief clerk from February, 1920, to January, 1924. During that time Mr. Kinch was an agent for the Monroe Export Co., Ltd. The Monroe Export Co., Ltd., sent down to him fish on consignment; these shipments were first bonded and records kept of them in Mr. Kinch's office and in the Customs Bond Book. When sales were made to a local customer, warrants were passed and the number of cases sold, were duly paid. The duty paid on them would appear in the Customs Receipt Book, and the Bond Book should contain the number of cases that were duly paid. Receipts for the duty were taken from the Treasury, the local sales can be traced through the Day Book. In the Day Book items are entered with the name of the purchaser, the schooner that brought it, and the price obtained for it. When it was duly paid, the price was marked "D.P." A summary is made of this, in another book called the Consignment Sales Book. This book would show every shipment of fish and every sale of the same. Mr. Kinch exported quite a lot of fish to the British West Indies. No duty was paid on fish exported by him. A Customs warrant would be passed, and it would be written off Mr. Kinch's Bond Book with the name of the vessel. An entry of it would also appear in the Government's Bond Book. With regard to the account sales rendered by Mr. Kinch to the Monroe Export Co., Ltd., the duty was always charged on the whole shipment, irrespective of whether they were sold in bond or out of bond; and he took credit for paying duty when he paid none. Mr. Kinch has often taken over shipments of fish on his own account. If at the time the fish market was advancing by him from the plaintiff, and he would render an account sale as if sold. He would keep that consignment in bond, and when the market advanced, he would sell it and the proceeds would go into his own pocket. He did not always return the true prices for the sale of fish in the account sales. There were many shipments sold in bond and some were sold duty paid; but they were all returned as duty paid. At times, if an item was sold $30 in bond, it was returned in the sales at $30 duty paid. As regards the price returned in the account sales, the price per case was not correct; small slips of paper showing the number of cases, and the prices obtained, were carried upstairs to Mr. Kinch, by me. I made the slips out from the consignment book, when the shipment was closed. He (Mr. Kinch) would take the slips and alter the number of cases and if they were f.o.b. he would say, make it duty paid. Mr. Kinch would then hand me back these slips, he would then take them downstairs, and make out the account sales according to the alterations made by him. He would make out a rough copy in pencil and the stenographer would type them. Mr. Kinch would then sign the sales account. He (Mr. Taylor) may have signed one or two himself. That was the method of dealing with every kind of fish, both from the plaintiffs and any one else. With regard to the shipment by the "Francis Louise," in March, 1921, the duty was charged on the whole shipment, whereas it was sold in bond. The Court then adjourned until 10.30 a.m., yesterday.—Barbados Advocate, May 13th.

"A Woman Who Sinned"

A SMASHING HEART RENDING FEATURE AT THE MAJESTIC TO-NIGHT.

Here is a smashing drama of a woman who tastes for the first time in her sex-starved life the fragrant flesh-pots that bubble along Broadway—a woman to whose narrow soul Love has never come—a woman whose only knowledge of Love has come from a cold, sexless country minister—her husband! Then the blinding flash of passion—the lovely, soft, silky things that money will buy—the warmth, the glow, the sparkle of life in the nation's wickedest city! You can't afford to miss this. "A Woman Who Sinned," the Flax Fox production which opens at the Majestic Theatre to-night is a gripping story of a woman's redemption. It carries elements of appeal in its pathos, heart interest and melodramatic conflict. The story, briefly, is as follows: George Ransdell, a Wall Street gambler, a rotter who makes life miserable for his wife, becomes enamored of the young wife of a middle-aged clergyman. He lures the young wife to his yacht. The freed Wall Street gambler is killed by his wife, and thus pays for his moral crimes, and mother and son return to the little village where the father has been quietly living all these years. All ends on a note of rejuvenation and quiet joy. The acting is unusually convincing. Mae Busch's performance is superb, while Irene Rich, Rex Lease, Morgan Wallace and Lucien Littlefield lend admirable support. See this extraordinary feature to-night. It is certainly the greatest love drama ever screened.

THE MOST WONDERFUL STORY EVER SCREENED IN ST. JOHN'S

TO-DAY!

'A Woman Who Sinned'

STARRING MAE BUSCH, IRENE RICH AND BRILLIANT CASTE.

The stupendous story of a clergyman's love-mad wife who snatched at life and missed—who dreamed of love and found—what?

SEE this flaming and thundering revelation of New York's high spots—where human bodies and souls are seared and scorched in the blazing inferno of Love unbridled. FINIS FOX'S hitherto untold tale of the metropolis—the wickedest city in the world—projecting in terms of terrific drama the life of New York as hundreds of thousands are living to-day. See it—by all means see it!

The most Sensational heart-rending Story ever published. Finis Fox refused $50,000 for the screen rights of "A WOMAN WHO SINNED!"

STORY OF THE PLAY.

The story opens twenty years ago. George Ransdell, a Wall Street gambler, who is altogether a rotter and who makes life miserable for his loving, patient wife, becomes enamoured of Mrs. Hillburn, the young wife of a middle-aged clergyman, when his private yacht puts in at the little harbor where the clergyman lives and preaches.

Ransdell lures the young wife to his yacht. She is more sinned against than sinning, but feels herself unfit to return to her husband and little boy, who think she lost her life in a storm. She goes to the city, tries to support herself by office work, and finally becomes the lavishly-supported mistress of her seducer. After having wheedled from him enough money to make her rich, she learns of his fraudulent financial dealings and betrays him to the Federal authorities. He is sent to prison.

Fifteen years later, when the man she betrays is about to be given his freedom, we find this woman rich and notorious, hard and bitter. She is the owner of a large downtown lot which some church people want to use for a tabernacle during a series of revival meetings. The young preacher, widely advertised as the mysterious "Boy Evangelist," is the spokesman for the church committee, and she first flouts religion; refuses to let her lot be used, but then relents because she finds the young zealot personally charming. This young follower of Billy Sunday is her son, but she does not know the fact.

The newspapers make a great do over the young preacher, and finally this wealthy and discontented woman goes to the tabernacle, drawn by a cynical curiosity. The Boy Evangelist, sincerely hoping to "save" this woman, preaches to her over the heads of the crowd in words that only she understands, and her harshness and cynicism vanish. The woman who sinned is converted, the freed Wall Street gambler is killed by his wife and thus pays for his moral crimes, and son and mother return to the little Connecticut village where the father has been quietly living all these years.

All ends on a note of rejuvenation and quiet joy.

HARPER GRACE NOTES
Mrs. J. Parsons, an aged resident of Bear's Cove, entered into rest, after a lengthy illness. She was a daughter of the late Captain John Parsons, and had reached the good old age of 81 years. Her husband predeceased her some three years ago, leaving her only child, Lillian, died some years ago. Mrs. Parsons possessed many fine qualities, which endeared her to all that knew her. She was a good neighbor and friend, and the funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, in the Methodist Church, and was very largely attended. And so, after life's sunset, she departed peacefully into the family plot, with sure and certain hope of a glorious resurrection.

Mrs. L. A. Whitman went to St. John's on Saturday last, for a short visit.

Mr. R. L. Stevenson left town recently, en route to Grady, where he will act as Wireless Operator during summer.

Mrs. Frank Davis and little girl, arrived from St. John's by Friday night's train, on a week's visit to Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Ida McRae, who had been on an extended visit to the United States and Canada, arrived home last week in a very pleasant trip. Miss McRae's many friends are glad to see her back again.

Mrs. (Dr.) Procunier, and infant son arrived from Lamaline by Thursday afternoon's train to spend some time here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Pugh.

Mr. Rose, representing E.W. Gillett company, has been in town during the week.

Rev. Ernest Davis, Pastor of the Methodist Church at Curling, Bay of Islands, and son of Mrs. O. Davis, of this town, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church here at the evening service on Sunday last. The Rev. gentleman delivered a very fine sermon, and the service was greatly enjoyed by the congregation present.

Wednesday, June 3rd, was observed here as a Government and Bank holiday, but not by the storekeepers. Many were flying in honor of the occasion.

Miners Will Carry On

IS STATEMENT OF SECRETARY—LEWIS WIRE EXECUTIVE.
Branding as false, reports that the Sydney Mines collier were preparing to accept the corporation's proposal of a separate contract at a 4 to 10 per cent. wage reduction as submitted by a committee of citizens to the miners of Princeps colliery at yesterday's mass meeting. A. A. MacKay, district secretary of the I.M.W., stated last night that the fight would continue.

Lewis Urges Miners to Carry On

Mr. MacKay reported the receipt yesterday of a telegram from International President Lewis emphasizing the "no reduction in wages" policy of the United Mine Workers, and urging the miners of District 28 to carry on a "vigorous fight." With regard to International strike relief, MacKay stated that the district had the assurance of the International officers that in as far as financial conditions would permit they would augment the minimum weekly allowance set for the local district. He also commented on press reports of relief drives in Calgary and other western cities and said that the campaign was now on across Canada and results would be forthcoming. "Our position is no worse now than it was two months ago," he remarked, "and we are going to carry on the fight."

Reports received last night to the effect that the Sydney Mines colliers were preparing to accept the company's proposal as submitted to a mass meeting by the citizens' committee yesterday, were strenuously denied by local union officials of the Princeps miners. "We'll go back to work, when the district goes back, and as a body," was the statement of District Board Member MacLellan of Sydney Mines as reported in a despatch received by the Post last night.

A meeting of the executive of District 28, to discuss the situation in the light of the company's refusal to agree to intervention by the Minister of Labor, will be held at Glace Bay this afternoon.—Sydney Post, June 3.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Would you please give me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks concerning the Main Line Road in Aquaforte. Mr. Editor, there is "a grey horse" here and he has a big ring, watch and chain. This past twelve years, he keeps about all of the grant, and this year he took a "small black pony" with a white star in partnership with him. He is a smart little fellow and wants a big share too. Mr. Editor, I am a family man with poor means, and I only got two days work, and was told that was all. He said he could work it all himself if he wanted to. He must have a big vote. I would wish when the House opens that the Hon. W. S. Monroe, Prime Minister, would try and get this, so that every poor man would get his share. There is nothing fair than an Elected Road Board. Thank you Mr. Editor for space.
Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.

The Woman on the Jury

AT THE STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.
This most wonderful production opens at the popular Star to-night and as will be noted from the ad, on another page it is for two nights only, and patrons will therefore govern themselves accordingly. The story centers around beautiful Betty Brown when Fate took her by the hand and led her to a secluded mountain cabin. There she was told she would be eternally bappy.
"There she had her 'Peter Pan.' He was the finest man in the world, he talked of marriage, but he was a man of words. Then comes by far the most pathetic story yet seen on the screen. It sweeps you off your feet, and arouses your sympathy as a picture never did before. As will be seen from the ad, the Management of this popular Theatre has booked the famous Jimmy Johnson, and his colored troupe of musical entertainers, with Miss Ruth Penn as violinist, and Minnie Fraction, saxophonist. Jimmy himself, is the headliner in this class and no doubt many of our people have seen him on Broadway last year when he had an extended engagement. They left New York on the Silvia Saturday last, and open here on Friday next.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

BUT WILL HE REALLY FEEL IT?
I was sitting on the porch with the little neighbor who honors me with her girlish confidences (the one whom I have quoted before in these columns) when the sound of loud voices came to us from the other side of the house and presently an angry woman appeared before us dragging by the hand a sulky lad of ten or thereabouts.

"Everett has just run through your flower bed," she said to me. "He broke down two of your geraniums and he's come to say that he's sorry, and that it won't happen again. Everett," turning to the boy who was kicking at the gravel in an agony of embarrassment, "tell her you're sorry, and that you're going to take the money out of your bank to pay for them."

"Oh I'm sure he is," I said hurriedly, anxious to relieve the painful situation. "I'm sure he didn't mean to do it, and I know he's sorry."

"But that wasn't enough for Everett's mother. 'He has come to' say he's sorry," she repeated stubbornly, with a shake of the arm she was holding so tightly, and Everett, overcome with anger and humiliation and the desire above all things to get away, muttered

"I declare I don't know what to do with that boy," sighed his mother. "He's so careless and he never seems to care. When I saw him go stivering right through your new geranium bed, playing tag with the boys and never stopping to look where he was going, I was so mad! I don't blame you for being good and mad, too. I just made up my mind he was going to come over here and tell you he was sorry. I'll see to it that he brings you some new plants and sets them out, too. And with a word or two more of regret and apology, Everett's mother went back to her interrupted work.

My young friend gazed after her retreating figure thoughtfully and disapprovingly. "I don't see what grown ups gain by bullying children," she remarked gravely. "It was always a consolation to me, when I was little, that I didn't have to be sorry even if they made me say so. It's like Gareth says in Tennyson, 'Though I be a slave, my thoughts are free.'"
Parents, take note.

There Are Ways But Not That.
The regret which doesn't come from within, but is imposed from without, isn't likely to be very sincere.

Game Called On Account Of A Chicken's Congested Chest.

I know a father who burned a book which he caught his boy reading surreptitiously. He burned it in a rage and made the boy say he was sorry. "Don't you ever let me catch you reading such trash as this again," he stormed. And, doubtless, the boy never will be caught!
There are ways of making a child feel sorry, but "bullying" him into saying so isn't one of them.

IDEALISTS.
Each trade will draw the charlatan and knave, the trickster and the liar and the cheat. But those who love the work are strong and brave and scorn the base temptations which they meet.
They seek a joy the profit does not bring. They have a pride the purse cannot supply. They have a high ideal to which they cling. A goal ahead for which they dare to try.
These are the good men known in every trade. On charlatans they build from year to year; They stand behind their work and all they've made. While charlatans and tricksters disappear.
Idealist men call them, for they hold the task is greater than its little gain. Nor would they, for a petty sum of gold Upon the craft they follow leave a stain.
Let cynics scoff and point the cleverer way. Let weak men fear the base temptations fall. Tricksters and sharpers have their little day. But men with high ideals outlive them all.

Prospero Returns From North

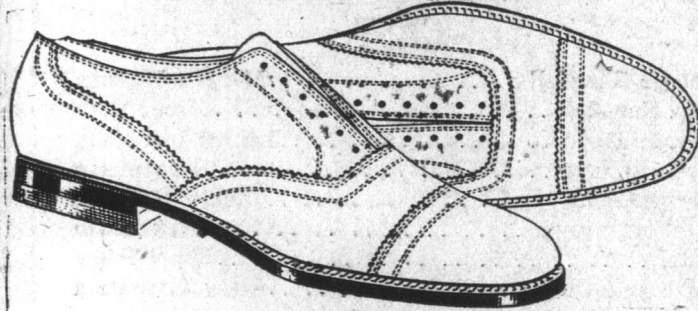

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Wes. Keen, returned from the westward at 2 o'clock this morning and docked at Bowring's north side premises. She brought a small freight, besides the following passengers:—Revs. Chamberlain, Holland, Hiscock, Gosse and Gilbert; Dr. and Mrs. Hall; Messrs. E. Martin, D. A. Ryan, Chaffey, Parsons, Young, Carter; Mrs. Sheering, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Dominey, Miss Hart, and several in steerage. Capt. Keen reports that no ice is to be seen along the coast, and although the weather has been boisterous, the ship made all ports of call both going and returning, and the trip was accomplished in eleven days. The fishery along the French shore has been good, and when the ship was coming south on Friday, several small skiffs were seen going into St. Anthony loaded. At Twillingate, Herring Neck and Fogo, the fishery to date has been poor, owing to adverse weather conditions. Several of the traps had to be taken up owing to heavy seas. The best traps to date have been about 50 quintals. Salmon have been more plentiful in Green Bay than for years past, one trap accounting for 1,600 lbs.. When the ship was returning south on Friday a large number of schooners were sighted bound for Labrador, but on the following day a storm came on and many of them had to put back to Twillingate and Herring Neck, for shelter. Several families have left Hampden to engage in the fishery at Coachman's Cove and vicinity.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

Creakerty, creak, creakerty creak! Went the wheels on the donkey sike. And it wasn't long ere the creaky song Disturbed old Peter Pig.

"Goodness me," he exclaimed, "I must grease the axles as soon as I get home." "Wish you would," begged the donkey, turning his head. "The wagon would run much more easily. It's no joke pulling it up hill!" Just then they reached the Old Brush Heap under which Mrs. Cottontail had built a comfortable bungalow. A wonderfully safe place, well hidden from sight, for the trailing vines that clambered over the pile of brushwood made it seem like a green hill of leaves.

Picking up an old brass bell, Peter Pig rang it loudly. The next minute out hopped Cousin Cottontail, followed by her little family. "Any old rags for sale?" enquired Peter Pig, taking from his pocket five little pink candies and handing them to the rabbit children. "Nice old Pig," thought Cousin Cottontail, "come to think of it," she added out loud, "I think I have a bag-full in the closet," and turning back into her neat little house, she returned in a few minutes.

"Dear me," she exclaimed, as Peter Pig counted out a dozen or more Carrot Cents, "one doesn't get much for the trouble of saving."

"Save the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," answered Peter Pig wisely, and clicking his tongue against his teeth, he turned the old donkey down the little winding path to the Pleasant Pasture. As he passed the Old Duck Pond, Granddaddy Bullfrog looked up from his green lily-pod seat and shouted:

"Do you buy old clothes? My last year's suit is for sale. I have an old umbrella too, which you may have for a cent or two."

"Business getting better every minute," granted Peter Pig to himself, and pulling in the donkey, he waited while Granddaddy Bullfrog went for the old suit. Just then Duckey Waddles waded through the shallow water and up on the bank. "Do you buy feathers?" he asked, flapping his wings, which sent a shower of water-drops over Peter Pig.

"I'd better buy a rubber coat if I'm to meet you often," answered the old pig, wiping his face with a red bandanna handkerchief. "No, I don't buy feathers."

As Duckey Waddles turned away, Granddaddy Bullfrog hopped out from the long water-grass.

"Here's the coat and here's the umbrella. How much will you pay for them, old fellow?" Untying the string of his money bag, Peter Pig carefully counted out three Pumpkin Pennies. "That's all they're worth," he grunted, dropping the pennies in the old frog's hat, and without another word he snapped his whip and drove away. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that if your parents will obey and be respectful every day.

Motors in Collision

On Saturday afternoon a collision occurred at the Junction of Church and Rennie's Mill Road between two motor cars owned by Larry Cashin and David Churchill of Pleasant Cove. Mr. Cashin was motor east along Circular Road, and about to take Rennie's Mill Road when Churchill's car hit him from behind. Both cars were going along the turn. The dasher of Mr. Cashin's car was slightly damaged, and Churchill's car had its head lamp smashed. The point where the accident occurred is a very bad spot for vehicular traffic.

Yesterday afternoon as motor No. 5696, owned by Moses Carroll, driven by his son William, was proceeding down Job Street it collided with a motor car No. 5281, owned by James Carew. The car was damaged quite a lot, but was put out of working order. One head light on the motor car was smashed. At the time of the collision the motor car was proceeding along Water Street.

ANY SET Calibrating the Wavemeter

PART I

Yesterday we described a very simple wavemeter. To-day we tell how to calibrate this wavemeter, or any other one similarly constructed. There are seven broadcasting stations in the United States whose wavelengths are sufficiently accurate and close to their assigned value that they can be relied upon for calibration purposes. These are WEAF, WCAP, WRC, WEB, WGY, WBZ and KDKA. These stations are checked up at regular intervals by the Bureau of Standards and their wavelengths are within a very small variation of their assigned meters. Tune in any of these stations and advance the regeneration control until the station comes in as a whistle. As the regeneration control is advanced the whistle will decrease in pitch until it disappears. Further turning of the tickler control will cause the whistle to start up again from a low note to one so high it loses its audibility. This point where the note is lost—where the note is "zero" between the two adjustments which cause it to run up and down is the point we want. It is called "zero beat." Tune in a broadcasting station and adjust for this zero beat. Now bring the wavemeter up close to the secondary coil of your tuner and (leaving the receiver controls alone) vary the tuning condenser on the wavemeter. If the coil on the meter is close enough to the secondary when the condenser dial is varied there will be a certain point at which a loud click will be heard in the headset of the receiver. Further turning of the condenser will cause another click to be heard. Now move the wavemeter away from the secondary coil slightly and these two clicks will appear at two points closer together on the wavemeter condenser. There will be a certain position of the meter with respect to the secondary at which there will be only one click no matter how much the wavemeter condenser is turned. When this particular point is found, note the exact setting of the wavemeter condenser dial. This position may be, say 55 degrees. Note this on a piece of paper and look up the wavelength of the broadcasting station on which the calibration of this particular point has been made. If it happens to be a station broadcasting on 450 meters we now know that when the wavemeter condenser is set at 55 the wavemeter is tuned to 450 meters. In similar manner tune in on other stations and get different "points" as was done with the first point. You should get at least 10 stations as widely separated wavelengths in order to get a good calibration curve. To-morrow we continue this calibration.

Solution to Thursday's Puzzle.

IMPORTANT CONVERSATION BETWEEN BRITISH AND FRENCH MINISTERS.

GENEVA, June 7. Consideration of the peace of Europe through the pact of security as suggested by Germany and operating under the League of Nations, with Germany as a member of the League, is the object of important conversations begun here to-day by the Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, and M. Briand, the French Foreign Minister.

Notes About Hr. Deep

Dear Mr. Editor.—The Prospero arrived at Harbour Deep early Friday morning, welcomed by all; the blast of the ship's whistle, coupled with the firing of guns, announced, we suppose, the presence of spring and the opening of navigation once more, although the coast has been clear of Arctic ice as well as bay ice, a month before her arrival, and motor boats had made trips from Green Bay to St. Anthony and from all parts of White Bay, and nothing to prevent a ship like the Prospero, that could prosecute the seal fishery, from coming on the coast earlier and relieve the people so long cut off from civilization.

By the Prospero there arrived from Canada a Mr. H. Richardson, and Messrs. J. and W. Darker, the former representative of the Company, the latter Engineers for the Company. We understand the construction of a mechanical ground wood pulp plant is under consideration by the company and it is rumored that F. J. Dove, the enterprising and genial manager at Hr. Deep, is to be in charge of all the works there. If rumour has it right, we wish him every success. We think the company has been wise in the selection of a man who knows the business from "stump" to office, and who is so well liked by the labouring class. A cut was put in the past winter under the supervision of Mr. Dove. Competition was keen among the loggers for the best camp's cut; the prize given was awarded the camp run by Foreman Wells, of Exploits. The roasting plant is being got in readiness and roasting and shipping will continue until definite arrangements have been made to begin construction of the pulp mill.

The winter passed without sickness or disease of any sort and without medical assistance, which speaks well for the healthy condition of the place.

The firm of A. Northcott is now kept pretty busy and the presence of fishermen in their motor boats from all parts of the bay, getting ready for the fishery, goes to show that Mr. Northcott means to rush things this year. We understand they have bought a schooner to collect their fish and to supply the requirements of their branch stores this summer. We trust that they will be successful and may long continue to do business in White Bay.

Mr. G. N. Valars, the school teacher at Harbour Deep the past winter, went by return Prospero. We scarcely need say he was liked by both parents and children and did good work there last year. We are informed he received practically nothing for his services and was boarded free at a private home.

Truly that reminds me of information given us that a certain politician travelling White Bay and Green Bay a few years ago fairly exploded when denouncing the deplorable educational conditions in this country, and stated that if he was returned to power he would have every man and every man's son educated in no time. Wonder where he is now?

The absence of Capt. Field and his two officers was felt by many in all parts coming along, and it is the opinion of most people in the Northern Districts that few may do as well as Capt. Field and render as good a service to the travelling public, but none can do better. The unassuming manner, kindly attention and willingness to help one in every way won the respect and admiration of all who came in touch with Capt. Field and officers Saunders and Peckford. The record set by Capt. Field will we think be watched closely for comparison by the people of the Northern Districts who have to rely solely on the Coastal boats for quick passage and freight deliveries.

Thanking you for space.

Casino Opens With Summer Attractions

The Casino Theatre opens to-day for the summer season with appropriate attractions. During the past week the theatre has undergone a complete transformation, and for the holiday months will be an emporium of fun and amusement for which the entrance fee will be only ten cents. The lobby of the theatre presents a picturesque Italian scene, being painted by Mr. Dan Carroll and upon entering the main hall the spectator is met by a spectacular sight of glittering colors and novel effects. In the centre is a splendid dance hall nicely fitted up and beautifully decorated. For a small fee any person can enjoy a dance accompanied by entrancing music. Another feature is the Slide-a-way similar to that which can be seen on Consey Island. This runs from the back of the balcony almost around the entire hall. In another section of the hall is a revolving stage, which is running at all times. Various other novel attractions have been added and a big time is assured all who participate in this big exhibition which is open from 2 to 11 each day.

The children will have the time of their lives in the afternoon when everything will be in full swing and small admissions will be charged to the various attractions.
