This entertainment last night drew but moderate audience. Readings are by no means popular in Guelph, and it is doubtful whether the Town Hall, limited ough its dimensions be, would not, even all that would honor the great Dickens himself were he to announce that he would read from his own works, charging ten cents admission. Shortly after eight o'clock Mr Urquhart came on the platform and made his bow. He immedi commenced the reading of Mr Pickwick's adventures in Ipswich, and did justice to the characters, but we imagined that he embodied Mr Peter Magnus and brought him out more plainly before his auditory than he did that more prominent individ-ual, the kind, the big-hearted Pickwick. 'Edinburgh after Flodden," is a bold spirited composition, and Mr Urquhart read it in tones that were manly and consequently appropriate. Mrs Nickleby's next door neighbor was the best part of the performance. The widow was plainly visible, not at all frightened by the sud the garden wall, talking to him in silvery strains, and giving a reluctant denial to his proposal that they should wed. In the trial scene the imitations of the Judge and Sergeant Buzfuz were good, but the reader, we think, did no more than ustice to Mr Sam Weller. "Horatius at the Bridge," had all taken out of it that Gibbon, although he does not narrate the incident, tells of many other heroic exploits, connected with Roman nistory, in stately and magnificent prothat embellishes the actions better than does Macaulay's poetry, and could be read to greater advantage in public. Berlin Telegraph says: On Monday, the 16th inst., a young man by the name of Louis Wach, a German, residing about two miles from Petersburg, deliberately committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a pistol. Deceased, who had lived in the neighborhood for about two months, was a stout, healthy young man, of abstemious habits and well educated He had never shown any tendency to insanity or even melancholy, though on one occasion he had told his employer's wife that should troubles weigh too heavy on him, he would ease himself of the shooting himself. In it he is up braided gently and feelingly for his disobedience of his father at home, and for other acts which wounded deeply the feelings of the near friends. From letters, papers, &c., found in deceased's trunk, he was evidently connected with a highly den apparition of the maniac at the top of respectable and wealthy family, whom no doubt this rash act of a thoughtless young man will plunge into unutterable grief. In regard to the late meeting of the bankers, we believe it the intention of the government to appoint a committee of the House of Commons in the early part of next week to examine into and report on the whole subject connected with the reinterests of the country in general. The bankers then resolved not to move for renewal of their charters, but to allow their applications to remain in abeyance until the committee of the House shall have reported and the course of the government determined upon. This virtually settles the point that there will be no legislation on the subject this session, altho' it is expected the committee will make its report before the House is prorogued.

The Massacre of St. Bartholomew, By Henry Whitte: New York, Harper Brothers; Clifton, W. E. Tunis & Co.; Guelph, T. J. Day.

The Massacre of St. Bartholomew will ever be regarded as one of the bloodiest episodes in history. Instigated by intolerance and bigotry, it was accomplished with a cruelty unparalleled and on a scale never before or since equalled. This work, which is a fit companion volume to Smiles' History of the Huguenots—lately published by the same house—gives a full, reliable and well written history of the atrocious massacre. It also describes with sufficient fullness the great struggle which devastated France in the latter half of the 16th century, and which culminated in the fearful tragedy of St. Bartholomew's Day, besides ample details of the cruel persecutions which the Huguenots had to suffer at the hands of their rulers and the dignitaries of the church of Rome. The book is one of the most interesting which has been published for many a day. Like all the Harpers' publications it is beautifully printed and bound in similar style to Smiles's Huguenots. Copies are for sale at Day's bookstore.

another kind of training in saloons and bar-rooms.

Deeply convinced of these truths, and equally convinced that the Sabbath-School affords one of the best opportunities for training the young in temperance principles, this Society has petitioned successive Sabbath-school Conventions to recommend the formation of Bands of Hope or other temperance organizations in connection with Sabbath-Schools, and at the convention of the past summer, held in Toronto, the following resolution, to which we call special attention, was adopted:

"Resolved.—That this convention viewing with distress and apprehension the fearful ravages of intemperance in our land, and believing that it is both safe and serjetural to abstain from intoxicating drink, carnestly recommends to the teachers and managers of Sabbath schools the inculcation of the principle of total abstinence upon the young, as one of the most effectual remedies for this evil."

The contingent committee, at a meeting on Thursday, resolved to recommend the dismissal of 21 messengers. The committee seem determined to reduce expenditure of this kind.

It is understood that Mr Cartier will bring down his Militia Bill on Tuesday. It is believed that Sir John and Mr Rose have withdrawn their opposition to it, and that it has received the assent of the Council without any modification, as prepared by Mr Cartier's own hand.

To parties so enlightened as those we address, it is unnecessary to present further arguments on a matter so obvious as the need for some efficient system o as the need for some efficient system of training the young in temperance princi-ples; and we think you will agree with us that judiciously managed temperance organizations, in connection with Sab-bath-schools, would be a most effectual means of promoting this object. It is hoped therefore, that you will use your influence in establishing such organiza-tions.

The Absorption of Poland.

We take the following from an article in the N. Y. Tribune:—It appears to be the general opinion in Germany and France that the recent visit of Prince Napoleon to Germany was made for a political purpose. No official or semi-official statement on the subject has been published, but it is naturally surmised that France is desirous to secure the friendship and co-operation of Prussia for some part of her foreign programme. If this supposition, is correct, the visit of the "Red Prince" must have concerned the Eastern question, in. which both France and Austria have for months been mest auxious to enlist the sympathy of Prussia. The article of the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, one of the best political papers of Continental Europe, which states the object of the visit to have been to hold a conference with the signers of the treat. the visit to have been to hold a conference with the signers of the treaties of 1815, for the purpose of bringing about a joint protest against the absorption of Poland, is in itself very plausible, and probably not far from

But whatever the motive of this mission of Prince Napoleon to Germany may have been, we know that France and Austria do not hesitate even officially to attack the foreign policy of Russia, especially in the Eastern question, and the language of both Governments towards Prussia is invariable most friendly. One of the principal charges which Austria and France-and on this question they have the full support of England -bring against Russia is that of violating the territorial arrangements of 1815-a ridiculous charge, if we consider that the Emperor of France has more than once denounced these treaties as detestable, and that, in 1859, his aid alone enabled Italy to undo an important part of these treaties, and wrest a large province from the Emperor's present ally, the Emperor of Austria.

But though France, Austria, and England may have no right to remonstrate with Russia against violating a treaty for which neither of them has shown a great respect, a joint intervention, diplomatic or otherwise, in behalf of Poland, would be enthusiastically applauded by all parties in Europe, especially by the Liberals. The decree for the absorption of Poland into Russia is an act of monstrate with thas hardly a parallel in the history of the nineteenth century. It is difficult to see how a Government, in many respects so farsighted as that of Russia, and which, in the Eastern question, pleads in justification of its plans against Turkey the rights of the Christian nationalities of that country, should ever have conceived the idea of suppressing by decree, a nationality.

Russia, after defying the remonstrances of public opinion and common sense in this question, may be too proud to mind the protests of other European powers. In this care we should have another European complication, in which, however, the circumstance that Austria and Prussia are partners of the wrongs of Russia against Poland will, probably, be sufficient to prevent a European war.

'Ha!'

'Yes. You have been expecting him for some time, I suppose?'

'True, and my wonder is that he has been so long. But I'm ready for him. Sloggan—quite ready for him. If he thinks to have any advantage from me he is mistaken.'

'Better go to him at once, then,' growled the trooper, as he took the horse to lead it to the stable.

'Harkye, Sloggan, I've news for you,' said Allan, as the man moved away.

Sloggan stopped at once, and looked back with a silent stare.

'M-me, Captain. How-how can you talk like that?'

"M—me, Captain. How—how can you talk like that?"

"Because that pale face of yours is apt to breed suspicion. Only the scent is strong in another direction."

'It is?' gasped Sloggan.

'Yes, everybody believes that Richard Wayland is the murderer. Don't you think it very likely he is?"

'In course I do, Captain,' answered the trooper, with a ghastly smile.

'Ha! ha! ha!' laughed Charlie.
'Ho! ho! bol ho!' sounded harshly from the deep chest of Sloggan.

'Better go to the kitchen, Slogan, and have a cup of brandy.' said Allan. 'You look as if you needed it. And drink it to the speedy capture and conviction of the suspected murderer of Jabez Cringan.'

'I will,' answered the trooper, with a horrible leer, and another ferocious oath.

'Now for a fencing with the Baronet,' auttered Charlie, as with a bold insolent tread he traversed the long passage which led to the room in which he was waited for by Sir (filbert Barton.)

TO BE CONTINUED.

The London, Chatham and Dover Railway Company appear as claimants on the estate of Sir Morton Peto and his partners for the large sum of $33,000,000. An English paper thinks "there never was such an account filed in any bankruptcy of a private firm since the world began."

Let us hope there never will again.

WINES and LIQUORS,

To Thinking Invalids !

A few plain, earnest words, with such of you as suffer from Indigestion, and its usual accompaniment Habitual Costiveness. The means of obtaining relief, of accomplishing a cure, is tendered to you in Bristol's Sugar-Coated Pills, the only cathartic and alterative in existence which reopens the obstructed passages of the bowels without a pain, and restores to the stomach and liver the yigor stolen from them by disease. This genial aperient never enfeebles any organ, or reduces the general strength. On the contrary, it infallibly renews the natural health of the digestive and secretive functions. Rarely will it be necessary to call in a physician, where this family medicine is kept in the house. In all cases arising from, or aggravated by impure blood or humors, Bristol's Sarsaparilla should be used in connection with the Pills. To Thinking Invalids!

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

Consumption, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat Pains and Oppression of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

THIS Balsam is introduced to the suffering public after its merits for the positive cure of such Diseases have been fully tested. The formula from which it is prepared is referred to by the leading medical journals as being equal to any prescription that can be made up for such diseases by the medical faculty. The Balsam is, consequently, recommended by physicians who have become aquainted with its great success.

As an Expectorant it has no Equal. It is composed of the active principles of Roo and Plants, which are chemically extracted, so as to rebin all their medicinal qualities.

Ministers and Public Speakers, who are so often afflicted with Throat Diseases, will find a sure remedy in this BALSAM.— Lozenges and Wafers sometimes give relief, but this BALSAM, taken a few times, will insure a permanent cure. Will the afflicted clergymen please test its merits?

TESTIMONIALS OF PHYSICIANS Dr. Nathaniel Harris, for many years a resident of Middlebury, Vermont, recommends the Balsam as being superior to all other remedies for Bronchitis. He says:—'I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tuber and the Lungs."

Dr. Lloyd of Ohio, surgeon in the army during the war, from exposure contracted consumption. He says:—'I have no hesitancy in stating that it was by the use of your Lang Dr. Fletcher, of Missouri, says:—'I recommend your Balsam in preference to any other medicine for Coughs, and it gives satisfaction."

DR. A. L. SCOVILL, who has for many years been known to the public throughout the United States as the inventor of remedies for the Lungs, recommends AILEN'S LUNG BALSAM as surpassing anything that has ever been offered to the public for the cure of Lung Diseases. He has used it in his own family with great success in the case of his sister, who was supposed to be in the ast stages of consumption. This lady is now well, and has been permanently cured by ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Physicians who have failed to cure their patients should try this medicine before they give the case up, as we know very many valuable lives have been saved by being persuaded to give it a trial.

DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed, but try this remedy, and you will not be decived. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
