HISTORIC SCENE VISITED BY MARITIME PRESS ASSOCIATION

Automobile Outing Given by Citizens of Amherst to Visiting Journalists and Representatives of the Press

In a former issue we made a brief reference to the meeting of the Maritime Press Association at Amherst, with the intention of giving later some of our impressions of the town and some by-ones of interest regarding the entertainment afforded the press-men. It is not to be expected that the general reader would be interested especially in the details of the business portion of the meeting, although the public will reap the benefits arising from the combination of the newspaper men in a larger way than the public may realize. Suffice it to say the principal object of the association is to make the press a more effective and dominating factor in the world's progress, to systematize the work of printing and publishing, to apply economical methods, and incidentally, of course, to learn how the newspaper man may get rich—or be happy though poor.

We cannot undertake in a brief article to describe all we saw, but will in a few short sketches give our readers a glimpse of the town of Amherst as it impressed us—and a description of some of the features of the outing provided for the press-men by the good citizens of the town, one of which was an automobile drive. One of the fraternity, Mr. J. T. Hawke, editor of the Moncton Transcript, has given such an apt and useful description of the visit to Fort Cumberland, or Beauséjour, and of the motor ride in which thirty automobiles figured, that we herewith present it to our readers, with the promise of a further descriptive article from the same facile pen:

"The automobile outing to Fort Cumberland, as now known, or Fort Beauséjour, as the Acadians called it, was most attractive. The long string of nearly a score of automobiles whizzing along the country road, through rich marsh lands, and over the pretty ridges, well timbered, and commanding a charming landscape, marked their course by a well-defined trail of dust. Every foot of the ground in that section of the isthmus of Chienecto is historic and the ruddy hue of the soil has at times been made ruddier through the stain of human blood. It was here that the Anglo-Saxon won those first petty victories which laid the foundation for the greater conquest of Quebec which changed the political destinies of the North American continent, for all time.

"The ruins of Fort Cumberland have within the memory of living man changed from well-defined walls built of massive stone to a mere line of ramparts covered with soil and scanty herbage. The only building remaining is that of the old powder magazine, whose crumbling masonry will soon succumb to the ravages of the climate, unless systematic restoration be employed.

"The press party and their Amherst friends sat in the sunshine on the slope of the interior of the fortress and with the Rev. Dr. Steele standing upon one of the blocks of masonry, as an extemporized lecture platform, listened to a really eloquent and forcible recital of the thrilling story of the struggles between the Acadians and the English in the long ago. To many of the provincialists the story was an old one, and its telling merely refreshed the memory; but to the Ontario visitors who were present the Rev. Dr. Steele's unveiling of the historic records presented an entrancing and exciting romance of Canadian history. They had no idea, until the story was told, that they were standing upon historic ground.

"From the old ramparts, the magnificent Beaubassin, or beautiful basin of the upper reaches of the Bay of Fundy, could be seen. The landscape sloped away down from the fort through upland to marsh until the last dyke was reached, pushing back the waters of Fundy. To the right, the fair shores of Westmorland county stretched away until they blended with the head waters of the Memramook and the Petitcodiac. On the opposite side, the shores of Albert county, with the Chapeau Dieu rearing itself aloft in mist-crowned summit, stretched away southward by the bolder shores of Cape Enrage and Point Wolfe, until lost in the hazy outlines of St. John county. On the near fore-ground, the shores curved away across Amherst marsh and down the coast line of Cumberland, with glimpses here and there of arms of the bay, penetrating at many points, and the far rolling between the higher hills looked in the intermittent sunshine like enclosed seas, now and then lost to view or revealed in new beauty. Turning to the north, a great expanse of marshland, ridge and a small chain of lakes stretched away to the north shore, and bordered by Northumberland straits, on the east, the busy town of Amherst stood like a sentinel on the upland near the margin of the marsh, with its cloud of overhanging smoke, denoting the importance of its many industries. Turning to the west, one beheld another vision of ridge and beyond that a wonderful stretch of fair marsh-land presenting a scene of busy hay-making, with heavily-laden wains carrying their precious freight to security. Beyond the marsh, on another stretch of upland was revealed the pretty town of Sackville, with its majestic educational institution of Mount Allison, its churches, its high school, its cluster of buildings, standing under the sunlight in bold contrast to the natural surroundings. The wealth of the marsh-land was indicated in the residences of the marsh-owners.

"Down from the ramparts the visitors were called by the siren voice of the photographer, and with the old powder magazine as a background they were photographed. Returning to their automobiles, they quickly wended their way to a point outside of the Suddall homestead, where the road takes a sharp curve, and there the entire procession of nearly twenty automobiles and their occupants were also photographed.

"Back from the fort, down a dusty highway, by farm house and school house, by woodland and marshland, over the muddy Missequash, from one province into another, across the railway track, and back to busy Amherst, formed the fitting close of the first chapter of a charming automobile outing.

"But this chapter deals with wonders of the past, and its crumbling story told in the fortress walls. A succeeding chapter will tell an equally wonderful story of modern enterprise, learned in a second automobile outing on the same day."

Satisfied as to Cook's Good Faith

When Dr. Cook arrived at Copenhagen he submitted himself to an inquisitorial process at the hands of some sixty assembled newspaper correspondents, of whom Mr. W. T. Stead was spokesman, and he came through the ordeal quite satisfactorily. The correspondent of the London Times confesses that while he approached the conference with Dr. Cook with a considerable amount of scepticism, Dr. Cook entirely satisfied him as to his good faith. As the result of half an hour's most searching cross-examination, the Times' correspondent expressed his conviction that Dr. Cook was an upright and honest man. On his arrival at New York Dr. Cook was again given the "third degree" by forty New York reporters, and again he emerged with flying colors.

Mr. Beckwith Declines One Year Contract

Following is the latest correspondence between the Town Clerk and Mr. Beckwith regarding the contract for electric lighting:

Bridgetown, N. S.,
Sept. 21st, 1909.
The Bridgetown Electric Light, Heat and Power Company, Limited,
Bridgetown, N. S.

Gentlemen:—At a meeting of the Town Council of the Town of Bridgetown held last evening a resolution was passed authorizing a contract between the town and the above-named company for lighting the streets of the town upon the same terms as the previous contract and also providing that your Mr. Beckwith re-arrange the lights in the best interests of the town and at the suggestion of the Electric Light Company and that such contract be made for one year and that upon the execution of such contract the above-named company be paid for lighting the streets from October 1st, 1908, to April 13th, 1909, at the old rate.

I will be glad to learn at your earliest convenience whether your company is prepared to enter into this contract.

Yours very truly,
F. L. MILNER,
Town Clerk.

REPLY.
Bridgetown, Sept. 23rd, 1909
F. L. Milner, Esq., Bridgetown.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of the 21st instant, we regret we are unable to enter into the contract proposed for one year only.

Yours truly,
The Bridgetown Electric and Power Company, Limited,
J. W. BECKWITH.

Canada's Gain the United States' Loss

(The Sun, New York.)

A recent despatch from Ottawa reports the arrival in Canada of no less than 9,208 American immigrants during the month of June. The arrivals during June, 1908, numbered 4,884, thus showing an increase for the present year of 60 per cent. Practically 60,000 Americans moved across the border last year to make their homes in Canada. It is estimated officially that this year the number will exceed 75,000. Should this prediction be fulfilled, as it probably will be, it will mean that in eight years we shall have lost and Canada will have gained 400,000 good citizens.

These people are mere workmen. Most of them are home makers. An American Consul in Canada says of them that "a very large per cent. are well-to-do farmers, who at once establish their strong personality and ally themselves with the best and highest interests of the locality and the country to which they go." He says that "the total wealth which they bring amounts to many millions of dollars." It is officially estimated that the 58,312 Americans who moved to Canada during the Canadian fiscal year ending March 31, 1908, took with them money and effects of a value of $52,000,000. This is for Canada the most valuable and for us the least desirable of all our exports to the Dominion.

Within eight years we have lost to Canada people enough to make a city with a population numerically equal to that of Cleveland, greater than that of Buffalo or San Francisco, almost equal to that of Cincinnati with Albany added to it, almost equal to that of Washington and New Haven combined. To these there should be added an unknown number of Canadians of longer or shorter residence in the United States, sons and daughters of the Dominion, who have gone home to share in and to advance the prosperity of their own country.

A Canadian paper suggests the celebration of "The Century of Peace" between the United States and Canada by the "opening of a free bridge over the Niagara River at the Falls." There is a bridge there now, but it is a toll bridge. A far better plan than that would be the recognition of a hundred years of peace by the execution of a commercial treaty based on reciprocal advantage and common interest.

Our Shattered Illusions

(St. John's Editorial.)

Upon one thing at least, both Cook and Peckham are agreed—that there is nothing to be gained by the North Pole worth going to see. The goal of all these centuries of Arctic striving, the prize for which so many good lives have been spent, is a mere "common-place; just another day." And Cook describes it as "nothing to see but ice, ice, ice." No life. No land. No spot to relieve the monotony of frost.

And this endeth the ancient dream of Ultima Thule; of a strange land and people behind the stern barrier which has turned men back these many years; of a garden of Eden kept inviolate by guardian angels with swords of boreal flame. Knowledge has taken all this away and has left us "nothing but ice."

It seems to be the business of Science these days, this shattering of old and comfortable dreams. They took our fairies long ago, these men who peer and pry and prove things out for themselves. They have shown us our dryads and twisted trees glimpsed suddenly, our nymphs and shadows of leaves. They have followed the rainbow to its foot and found no gold. They have mined away the foundation of faith from under that City whose light so fired men's eyes was like unto a stone most precious. Almost they have taken away our Lord, and they themselves know not where they have laid Him.

But though we must be sad for visions lost, we must be glad that men would rather have knowledge, even though its taste be bitter, than the misty pleasantries of dreams; glad also that the solution of every wonder has given us a greater wonder still. They have found the place where the earth turns around on its axis, and they have given us the barometer, the sextant, the compass, our magic carpets and flying machines. Puck has vanished but we have wireless. We may have lost something of our vision of the life to come, but we have gained a new vision of the greatness of this life here. Half-gods are going, but gods arrive.

There will be—always other things to see, and after these things, the things of the earth and the things of the sky, and then there will be the things of the universe. The things of the earth, the things of the sky, the things of the universe, the things of the earth, the things of the sky, the things of the universe.

There will be—always other things to see, and after these things, the things of the earth and the things of the sky, and then there will be the things of the universe. The things of the earth, the things of the sky, the things of the universe.

Nova Scotia Exhibition

The annual Nova Scotia Exhibition opened at Halifax on Saturday. Up to the present, excepting the opening day, the weather has not been favorable for attendance. The exhibit is said to be exceptionally good in agricultural products, including apples, roots and grain. In live stock departments the exhibit is up to the usual standard. A departure is made this year in omitting the vaudeville attractions. It has been proven that this is not a profitable feature of the show, the chilly autumnal evenings and the many theatrical attractions of the city interfering with a satisfactory attendance. Band Concerts have been substituted and the only other special features are the horse races, in which the entries have been well-filled, and which are attracting the usual interest.

ATHLETIC RECORDS.

Prof. R. P. Williams, who for two years was Y. M. C. A. physical director in Sydney, C. B., and one season at Bridgetown, who is now director of athletics at Berkeley School, New York, made the following records at a meet at Niantic, Conn., Sept. 11th, 1909: 100 yds. dash, 9 1/5 sec.; 440 yds. run, 47 4/5 sec.; running broad jump, 23 ft. 6 in.; running hop step jump, 48 ft. 4 in.; 16 lb. shot put 44 ft. 6 in.; standing back jump w. w., 13 ft. 3 in.

Owners "Theresa Wolfe" Withdraw Action

The action brought in the supreme court by Stetson, Cutler & Co., of St. John, against Messrs. J. H. Longmire & Son, of Bridgetown, to recover $3,000 for injuries which the schooner "Theresa Wolfe" sustained while here in July of last year with a load of coal has been finally settled. The action was brought by Messrs. Ritchie & Robertson, of Halifax, and the plaintiffs claimed that the injuries to the schooner sustained were caused by the bed of the river where the schooner lay being uneven. The defendants pleaded that the injuries were caused, not by the unevenness of the bed, but by reason of the weakness of the schooner which was then thirty-four years of age. The plaintiffs took out a commission and took the evidence of the mate of the vessel in St. John last October and this was submitted to marine experts on both sides. After some negotiating the plaintiffs have finally agreed to withdraw their claim for damages and pay the defendants' costs. Mr. F. L. Milner acted for the defendants.

Branch Line Feeders

The Eastern Chronicle of New Glasgow expresses hearty agreement with the branch line policy for the extension of the Maritime railway. "The policy of taking over branches feeding the I. C. R. and constructing new ones, when necessary, should be put in operation without delay," says The Chronicle. "A branch railway of eighty miles from the I. C. R. in this county will add a constituency of 25,000 people and over a million acres of area to its territory. Besides such a branch would strike the Atlantic Ocean at a part teeming with edible fish—a part with limitless possibilities and a part where the trade in fresh fish would reach enormous proportions—in fact a limit could hardly be put upon it. Talk about the prairies—acre for acre of the harvest of the sea off the Guysboro coast would excel that of the prairie as ten excels one.

"Then again there is the Musquodoboit Valley with its fine agricultural land and the extensive lumber forests in contiguity thereto. We want an Emmerson, one imbued with his spirit of enterprise, with his far-seeing vision to carry out this great policy which owes its conception to the Hon. Mr. Emmerson."

Apple-Land

(Richard Le Gallienne in Delineator for August.)

Apples along the highway strewn,
And morning opening all her doors;
The cawing rook, the distant train,
The valley with its misty floors;

The hillside hung with woods and dreams,
Soft dreams of gossamer and dew,
From cockcrow to the rising moon,
The rainbow road for me and you.

Along the highway all the day
The wrens are filled with apples so,
And golden pumpkins and ripe corn,
And all the ruddy overflow.

From Autumn's apron, as she roes
About her orchards and her fields,
And gathers into stack and barn
The treasure that the Summer yields.

A singing heart, a laughing road,
With salutations all the way,
The gossip dog, the hidden bird,
The pig that grunts a gruff good-day;

The apple ladder in the trees:
A friendly voice amid the boughs,
The farmer driving home his team,
The ducks, the geese, the uddered cows;

The silver habble of the creek,
The willow-whisper—the day's end,
With murmur of the village street,
A called good-night, an unseen friend.

AGENT GENERAL HOWARD

FAVORABLY IMPRESSED

Nova Scotia as a Fruit Growing Centre Unexcelled.—To the Sportsman a Paradise.—Great Possibilities in Dairy Farming

(From Britannia.)

In point of service Mr. John Howard, Agent-General for Nova Scotia, is easily the doyen of Colonial Representatives in London, his appointment dating from 1892. He is Nova Scotia's second Agent-General having succeeded in that office the Hon. William Annand, a former Premier of the Province. For the past seven years Mr. Howard has made his headquarters at 57A Pall Mall, in premises overlooking the busiest part of that busy thoroughfare, and almost in the shadow of St. James' Palace and Marlborough House.

The duties of the Agent-General for Nova Scotia are practically the same as the duties of other Agents-General. Briefly, they may be summed up as promoting, consisting in promoting the individual interests of the Province, as circumstances may require, by making its capabilities and resources widely known, and by bringing forward the advantages it offers as a field for immigration to the better class of settlers. The Agent-General also acts for his Government in commercial and financial matters; and in this connection it is satisfactory to note that Nova Scotia's credit stands high as is proved by the fact that any of her loans placed on the London market are always freely subscribed for. The wealth of Nova Scotia lies principally in her fisheries, minerals, lumber, and agricultural products, fruit and dairying, as well as in her exceptional facilities for establishing manufacturing industries. It is in respect to openings on the land that inquiries are most numerous at the Agent-General's office. These inquiries come not only from the British Isles, but from practically every part of the world, and, as no assisted passages are granted to Nova Scotia, the applicants in general are of a most desirable class. Mr. Howard has unbounded faith in the great future awaiting the practical development of this Province through the introduction of capital and settlers. It is no disparagement of the West to say that in certain respects these Eastern Provinces offer superior advantages; nor is it any disparagement of a man to say that he is less suited for the West than he is for the East. Comparisons need not be odious. "Even among the Nova Scotians who have left their own Province for the West," says a recent writer in this connection, "there are some who might have done better by staying where they were, and others who, though they have certainly succeeded uncommonly well in their new surroundings, would have succeeded just as well in the old. On the whole, however, it may be said that the men of Eastern Canada, principally of Ontario, but partly also of the Maritime Provinces, have developed as it has without them. Long as Eastern Canada has been settled its settlers have had a good deal more roughing it to do in the past than the rural population of the Motherland, and even where the communities, as in the Maritime Provinces, have attained an eminently respectable degree of refinement, they have had to do more things for themselves than the farmers of an old country like England, where labor is cheap."

Whether the Nova Scotian who went west bettered himself in every case or not, the fact remains that a large number of them have gone, and it is this very migration to the West that explains the desire of Nova Scotia for reinforcements from the Motherland. The question is naturally asked when our farmers hear of great opportunities in Nova Scotia, and especially of cultivated farms to be had cheap. "Why are these farms for sale? Where have their owners gone to and why?" As Mr. Howard very popularly pointed out to the present writer, if there was not a completely satisfactory answer to the questions the Nova Scotia Government would not countenance any attempt to invite British farmers to take up these farms. What really happens is this. The farmer's children have been educated to look to a larger sphere and go out into the world to seek their own fortunes. Their ambitions have been stimulated, and what satisfied their parents is no longer sufficient for them. Consequently they frequently depart, and in many cases fare worse. "If the energy and work they devote to their new occupations and surroundings were put into the development of the old homestead they would more often than not be happier, wealthier, and more useful members of the community. The result is that in course of time these properties come into the market, the sons having gone away or taken up some other occupations. With so many varied interests in the Province the attention of the farmer has undoubtedly been distracted from the individual prosecution of the cultivation of the soil, and in many cases farming is not regarded as the be-all and end-all of his expectations. The average Nova Scotian is not by temperament an ideal farmer; hence the results obtained are not in many cases so satisfactory as they would be under the more extensive cultivation that an English up-to-date farmer is accustomed to give to the land. It will be seen, therefore, that given this necessary attention very gratifying results will be obtained.

Kidney Disease For Years

This Well Known Gentleman Strongly Recommends "Fruit-a-tives" to all Sufferers.

JAMES DINGWALL, Esq.

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' I was a lifelong sufferer from Chronic Constipation, and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was 'Fruit-a-tives.' This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring I had a severe ATTACK OF BLADDER TROUBLE WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE, and 'Fruit-a-tives' cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' for chronic constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is very mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action."

Harriman's Daughter to Manage Farm

Under an arrangement now being effected for the management of the E. H. Harriman estate, Miss Mary Harriman, the dead magnate's eldest unmarried child, will become the greatest woman farmer in the United States, if not in the world. She now virtually has control of Arden Farm, consisting of 26,000 acres.

Close by Arden her father quietly acquired before his death other tracts amounting to 19,000 acres. The exact locations of these tracts is not publicly known, as title to them passed in the name of a corporation with which Mr. Harriman was not known to have been connected. For reasons of their own, members of the family do not care at this time to reveal the holdings. This information, however, will necessarily be made public with the appraisal of the estate.

There are now under actual cultivation at Arden approximately 3,000 acres. The bulk of the huge farm is waste land. Most of this, or about 12,000, will be donated by Mrs. Harriman, as was the wish of her husband, to the State for a great public park.

These acres are heavily wooded and contain several lakes of marked natural beauty. This will leave Miss Mary Harriman at Arden alone a farm of 14,000 acres to care for. Altogether she will have supervision of a farm of 33,000 acres.

Already she has taken hold of the task with characteristic Harriman energy and skill. She is directing personally the unfinished work of road-making, the terracing of hills, landscape gardening, etc., just as had been planned by herself and father jointly. In a smart trap drawn by a high-stepping cob, she daily drives over the farm, giving instruction in detail to the foreman of nearly four hundred men now at work.

KILLED BY HIS THREE-YEAR-OLD BROTHER.

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 16.—Wm. Henry, the five-year-old son of Oliver Marriott, was accidentally shot through the heart last night, and died shortly afterwards. The little fellow was playing with his three-year-old brother, and the latter was holding the rifle which was supposed not to be loaded. In some manner the rifle was discharged, the ball entering the child's body near the heart.

St. John Factories Visited by Provincial Inspector

St. John Sun of September 17th—John Kenney, the newly-appointed factory inspector for New Brunswick, has been "on the job" since Monday morning last. In that time he says he has discovered that in every mill he has visited in St. John changes are necessary in order to afford reasonable safety to the men employed there, and he will make recommendations to the government that the provisions of the law be strictly enforced in the cases of the local mill owners.

"One mill at which I went," said Inspector Kenney, "was so dark that I could not inspect it. I could not know where I was going in the lower part of the mill, where the pulleys and belts are located which operate the pulleys and belts above. This was only one aspect in which I found the mills not up to the mark. Some of the toilets are fit subjects for inspection by the Board of Health."

"In almost all of the mills I have found unprotected cog wheels, or pinions, and projecting set screws which are a menace to the life of the workmen. A man's sleeve is more than apt to catch in these screws, which are used to prevent the shafts from moving endways, and to contend with which the men are constantly exposed. These parts of the machinery can often be protected at the cost of ten cents, a cheap expenditure indeed for the saving of a human life. Once one of these cogs catches the end of a man's finger, or his sleeve, it does not release its hold until his arm is crushed to the shoulder, or until the flesh or cloth gives way. In setting up to put on belts, the men are continually close to these projecting pieces of machinery."

"The only saws which I have been able to examine are those which have not been running at the time of my visit to the mills, but even under these circumstances, I have found a number of them crooked. A crooked saw is an intensely dangerous thing, liable, as it is, to fly to pieces at any moment and to be hurled in a direction which cannot be figured upon, with fatal force."

"Wherever I have found cracked saws I have requested that they be not used."

"The wood hawkers to whom power is furnished by the mills conduct terrible places. I have visited one of them in whose establishment a saw broke last week, a portion of which was hurled over the top of the cog storage building. I found a boy there of 14 or 15 years working under horribly dangerous conditions. The lad was taking wood from the saw while standing upon a footing of the slippery bark stripped from the logs. He was liable at any moment to be thrown upon the 24 inch saw revolving at the rate of 1,200 revolutions per minute and to be cut in two."

"I showed the proprietor how the saw could be 'protected' at a cost of not more than a dollar, and he promised to make the change, but on coming back two days later I found that he had done nothing. He promised on my second visit to have his saws stopped and to make the change."

"In the case of shingle machines safeguarding is absolutely impossible. They work so swiftly that the operator has not time to look where he is putting his hand and cannot tell how near it is to the saw, but if you attempt to give the men protection you might as well shove the machine back into the corner."

"The matter of child labor is one of the most serious with which I expect to have to deal. I had heard before of the evils of the system, but I never began to realize them until I started upon my first tour of inspection. Even now I do not believe that I have by any means inspected the establishments in which the most flagrant breach of the law is in evidence."

"I used to wonder why there are so many men idle in the city, but I now feel that it is largely caused by the employment of boys in short pants who are taking the jobs which four or five years ago were supposed to call for the efforts of able-bodied men. Action in the matter is very difficult for me, because of the difficulty of obtaining definite knowledge of particular cases."

"I go into an establishment and see these boys whom I would bet money are not over fourteen years of age. Yet when I ask them as to this they are all fifteen or sixteen. I intend shortly to make close examination into the cases of a few boys at least, so as to have something upon which to take action. The only method which I can devise of ascertaining readily the facts in a boy's case is that of requiring by law that the parents of each boy who goes to work shall make affidavit, in the form of a certificate which shall be deposited in the office of the factories for reference, that the boy is over fourteen years of age."

"In some of the mills I found ridiculously small boys at work at cut-

SUNLIGHT SOAP

HOUSE CLEANING instead of being a monotonous drudgery becomes a pleasure when Sunlight helps you. Remember—Sunlight does all the work, at half the cost and in half the time of other Soaps. Follow directions off saws and the like and expect that in factories of other kinds I shall find the law much more noticeably violated. I have been warned to that effect. In one place which I visited I saw a number of boys when I first arrived, but when I looked around for them to make inquiries, they could not be found on the premises at all. "There are in the city places, such as the clothing factories operated by Jews, which are required to be inspected by law, but which have never been visited by the official appointed for the purpose. It is my duty to visit every establishment making stuff for sale or trade which employ ten girls or more. There are at least 200 such places in the city alone."

Important Announcement

S. N. Weare desires to announce to the readers of Monitor-Sentinel that they have secured the agency for Parisian Sage, the marvelous dandruff cure and delightful hair dressing. S. N. Weare is glad to state that Parisian Sage is a rigidly guaranteed hair restorer.

It cures dandruff in two weeks by killing the dandruff microbes; it stops falling hair; it cures all scalp diseases, or money back. It is a most pleasant hair dressing especially for ladies, as it makes the hair soft and lustrous. The price is only 50 cents a large bottle at S. N. Weare's, or by mail, all charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

THE MAN WHO WINS.

The man who wins is an average man Not built on any particular plan. Not blessed with any particular luck. Just steady and earnest and full of pluck.

When asked a question, he does not "guess"—He knows, and answers "No" or "Yes"; When set a task that the rest can't do, He buckles down till he's put it through.

Three things he's learned. That the man who tries Finds favor in his employer's eyes; That it pays to know more than one thing well; That it doesn't pay all he knows to tell.

So he works and waits, till one day There's a better job with higher pay; And the men who shirked the work they could do, they are glad to say: "Are you bossed by the man who made good."

For the man who wins is the man who works, Who neither labor nor troubles his head; Who uses his hands, his head, and his eyes; The man who wins is the man who tries. —Charles R. Barrett, in Royal Trust Monthly.

HERO OF A SIEGE.

Sir F. M. Hodgson, Governor of British Guiana, is at present in England on leave of absence. Ten years ago, while Sir Frederic was governor of the Gold Coast, he, with Lady Hodgson, was besieged in Coomassie by the Ashanti people. They were for some weeks in hourly danger of losing their lives, and had no food other than dog-biscuits and tinned meats. Sir Frederic is the son of a south country rector, and earlier in his career held a position in the General Postoffice. Once at a dinner given in his honor, a speaker referred to this fact. "Our honored guest," he said, "began life as a clerk in the savings bank." Sir Frederic, rising to reply, smiled dryly. "I am afraid someone has been fooling the last speaker," he said, "I began life as an infant."

DEFINITION OF A DIOCESE.

When the Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, was in London not long ago his fame as the "cowboy bishop" brought thousands of young boys and girls to hear him speak wherever he went. In one of his talks to the youngsters, he held them spellbound by telling them of his diocese in Wyoming, which was more thickly populated in the old days with bears and Indians than with Christians.

When he was finished with his description, he asked the children if anyone knew what a diocese was. One boy promptly raised his hand. "What is it, my lat?" "A diocese, my lord, is a body of land, with a bishop on top and the clergy underneath," was the answer.

GUM-DROPS.

Dr. Cook says he found Gum-drops to be valuable as an Article of Food, for the Eskimos, and he took two barrels of these sweets with him.

When I read within the papers of what Dr. Cook has did, When I ponder on the gum-drops that I swallowed when a kid; When I think that every gum-drop would have me through this season's quid For a jolly time and heavy, and Then my heart is glad, and my soul, Just to think of my stomach—how he would like to have my stomach's goal!

I have buried my sticky stuff which might have done the Pole-But, then, how do you know? REALISM

"Object" drawing has brought a new anxiety into the schools. In certain districts youngsters may be seen moving schoolward with hatchets, carvers, hammers, chisels, etc., as material for their drawing lessons. The other day, just as one of these lessons was about to begin, a small boy was found standing tearfully at the head-master's desk.

"I've swallowed my object," he exclaimed with an alarming gulp. "What was it?" asked the master. "It was a pencil," he replied the would-be artist, "but it got stuck in my throat."

THE FARMER.

The farmer now has corn and oats, And meat and eggs and cider; His sphere of influence, one notes, Each year is growing wider; He lets "us city fellows" grin At "Rubes" an' lives in clover, While we go broke for food in tins, Diluted and warmed over. —Washington Star.

TYPHOID AT ANDOVER.

Fifty cases of typhoid fever have been reported at Andover, N. B. The majority of the cases are women and children. It was at first thought that there was something wrong with the water in the reservoir, but after investigation the authorities found two of the screens in the filterer of the water pipe leading from the springs which supply the water for the reservoir, were out of place and vegetable matter and mud had gathered. This, it is thought, was the cause of the fever and steps have been taken to clean the pipe out and repair the screens.

—Reports of the sound condition of the apple market continue to arrive and prices are well up. Although the crop here is only an average one in size, in quality it is excellent. Over half a million barrels will be the total export this season and our fruit-growers will be richer by a million dollars, at least, as the season's profits. The three counties, Annapolis, Kings and Hants, as usual lead in the production of apples as well as plums and pears which are unusually fine and prolific this year. Lunenburg, Pictou, Shelburne and Queens are making increasing yields each year and the quality is good, showing that the industry of fruit-raising is becoming less confined to the Valley counties.

The fruit crop of the United States is quite limited and they will require what they have for home consumption. It is reported that in the New York apple belt 65 per cent of the crop will be fit only for the evapor-ator and cider mill.

—Distressing reports continue to come from New Orleans and vicinity regarding the loss of life and property by the recent tropical hurricane.
Miles of territory have been laid waste, property destroyed, crops ruined and forty-five human lives lost.

—The coal miners' strike in Cape Breton has continued for such a length of time that the families of the strikers are feeling the pinch of want. In view of this fact local labor organizations have begun the collection of money to aid the strikers.

—Sydney is after the shipbuilding plant to be established in the Maritime provinces. They propose to offer a bonus of half a million dollars with other municipal concessions in the way of tax exemption and free water.

MacLEAN—MacLEAN.

A quiet home wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John MacLean, on Saturday morning last, when Miss Alice Mac-Lean was united in marriage to Mr.
Fred Clarke MacLean, of Lynn, Mass.
The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Johnson, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr.
Joseph MacLean. Floral decorations lent a festive air to the occasion and the bride looked charming in a gown of blue broadcloth with white duchess satin blouse and hat to correspond. Only the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. The happy pair left on the noon express for their future home in Lynn, Mass., accompanied by the best wishes of many friends.

A SPRAINED ANKLE

As usually treated a sprained ankle will disable the injured person for a month or more, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle faithfully, a cure may, in most cases, be effected in less than one week's time. This liniment is a most remarkable preparation; try it for a sprain or bruise, or when laid up with chronic or muscular rheumatism, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which it affords. For sale by

There is one thing with which no man should part. Let everything else go, if you must—friends, property, bread and shelter, even—but never part with your belief in yourself.
Hold fast to your self-faith with your last breath; you are worth nothing without it either to yourself or to the world.

Mrs. James Clark went to Lynn,
Mass., on Monday. Her son-in-law,
Mr. Fred Bath, accompanied her.

James H. Johns, son of Mr. Edward Johns, Port Wade, was married in Digby on Wednesday last to Miss Sarah B. Cosman of that town. The happy couple came over on the Port Wade the same day, and a reception was held at the residence of Mr.
Johns' parents the same evening. A large company was present and many valuable and useful presents given to the bride. We extend congratulations and wish them a long and happy married life.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Mr. Charles E. McWhinnie to Miss Carrie McGrath, the happy event to take place on Wednesday evening, the 29th inst.

Capt. S. V. Melanson has started a factory near Littlewood's wharf far canning clams, sardines, etc. It is intended to enlarge the premises and can fruit another season.

Capt. James McNeil is now in charge of the schooner Coronella, making weekly trips to St. John.

West Dalhousie

Mr. John McLeod and sister, Miss Kate, have been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. William Whitman and daughter, Viola, of Clarence, spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. J. B. Best.

Miss Annie Marshall is visiting friends and relatives in Bridgetown.

Mrs. James Gibson and niece, Miss Ida Marshall, left for Boston last Saturday where they will make an extended visit.

Mr. C. Jackson made a flying visit here this week. His many friends are very glad to see him so much improved in health.

Quite a number of our young people attended the Pie Social at the "Hill" last night.

Outram.

The sad news reached here last Tuesday of the sudden death of Mr.
Willard Balsor in British Columbia, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Balsor of this place. Mr. Balsor when a young man went west. Much sympathy is felt for his bereaved parents and relatives.

Mrs. Susan Risteen, an aged lady of this place, had the misfortune to fall and break her hip last Thursday.

Mr. Osborne Marshall, of Boston, and Mr. Freeman Marshall, of Haverhill, have been the guests of their sister, Mrs. Byard Marshall, for the last two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Byard Marshall started for the Hub on Saturday, Sept.
25th. They will visit their son and daughter in New Hampshire and other places of interest for an indefinite period.

Mrs. Eliza Healey is visiting her daughters at St. Croix and Hampton for a few weeks.

Miss Annie Marshall, of Middleton, is spending a fortnight with Miss Edna Marshall.

Miss Goldie M. Brown, of Keene,
N. H., is at home for a few weeks.
We understand Miss Brown will change her name in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Milbury, of Port Lorne, were guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph Best last week.

Mr. Joshua Banks met with a loss last Wednesday. A young steer was hooking at his cow seemingly in play when the cow fell down and was unable to stand again. It seems her backbone was broken.

MRS. HENRY SIMPSON.

At her home in Round Hill, on Sept. 17th, 1909, there passed peacefully away Alison Cameron, wife of Henry Simpson, and daughter of the late Donald Cameron, of "Brookside," Annapolis Royal. She is survived by her husband, four daughters and two sons, and also by two brothers and two sisters, three of whom live at Annapolis Royal. One brother, Rev.
James Cameron, of Corinth, N. Y., it will be remembered, supplied the pulpit of Gordon Memorial Presbyterian Church one Sunday in August last.
Mrs. Simpson was in the congregation on this occasion. Her death came as a shock to a large circle of friends, as her illness was brief. The funeral services were conducted at the home on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 19, by the Rev. George Johnson, the glory of the perfect autumn day seeming but a foretaste of the "land of cloudless sky," whither she had gone. Mr. Johnson, in his fitting address, spoke touchingly of the devoted wife and mother, whose supreme earthly ambition had been the welfare of her family, and those present could not but realize how true were his words. Surely Mrs. Simpson had attained unto the description of her whose "children rise up and call her blessed." One never-fading remembrance will be the unbounded, cordial hospitality with which guests were ever welcomed in this home. The beautiful flowers and the unusually large concourse of friends were tokens of the respect and sympathy which can only so find expression on such occasions.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Watch for Mrs. H. E. Brown's Special ten days' sale.

It is rumored that a third meat market will be opened in Bridgetown shortly.

Commencing on Sunday next and continuing until further notice the evening services in the various churches will begin at 7 o'clock.

The Misses Dearness & Phelan wish to announce that their fall opening will take place on Friday and Saturday, October 8th and 9th.

Owing to the absence of the rector, Rev. E. Underwood, who is in Halifax, there will be no service in St. James' Church on Friday next.

Rev. W. H. Warren will occupy the pulpit of the Bridgetown Baptist Church next Sunday morning and evening, and at Centrelea in the afternoon.

The remains of Mrs. Fred Covert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Gesner, of Belleisle, were brought from Boston on Friday last for interment at her old home.

Mr. A. Bent, of Granville, who has been selling meat from his cart during the past season, is opening a market in Mr. Beckwith's corner building next to Monitor Office.

Hugh Fletcher, of the Canadian Geological Survey Department and one of the greatest authorities on the mineral resources of Nova Scotia, died at Amherst last week of pneumonia.

The Acadian Orchardist is informed that Mr. Ray Clarke, of Lakeville, has sold his hard fruit to J. C. Smith, the Ontario apple buyer, for the sum of $4,500. Mr. Smith has purchased a number of orchard tree runs in Kings County.

On Monday evening, 27th inst., in the Methodist Church, Dalhousie, at the close of a brief religious service, the congregation enjoyed a social chat, different kinds of fruit were served and to wind up the good time Rev. Mr. Johnson was presented with $15.00 as an expression of their appreciation of his occasional visits.

The young lady friends of the prospective brides, Misses Lee Lloyd and Winnie Hoyt, paid their respective visits on recent evenings and treated them to "showers" of mementoes suitable to the occasion. Refreshments were served and pleasant social intercourse enjoyed, leaving pleasing memories for guests and hostesses.

Two interesting matrimonial events will occur on Wednesday next, the marriage of Miss Winnie Hoyt, daughter of Mr. W. J. Hoyt, to Mr. James H. MacDaniel, manager of the Union Bank at Lunenburg, and the marriage of Miss Minnie Piggott, daughter of Mr. Charles G. Piggott, to Mr. Charles Allison Bent, of West Somerville, Mass.

The launch of the "Jeanne A. Pickels," the new schooner built in the ship-yard of L. D. Shafer, takes place shortly after noon today. The new schooner registers 350 tons, is 125 ft. keel, 35 ft. beam, and 12 ft. hold. The builder was S. Comeau, of Meteghan. The schooner will be captained by Captain Richards, of La Have, and will load here with lumber for a Cuban port for her maiden voyage.

The D. A. R. was notified on Wednesday of last week that the town would be unable to supply them with water from the railway tank owing to the low state of the water supply. The railway company requested a few days' grace to enable them to complete repairs on the Middleton tank. In the interval the springs at the source of supply were fed by timely rains, and the order will not be enforced at present.

Dr. A. A. Dechman, of Tusset Wedge, has bought the beautiful town property of Mr. Daniel McKeown, on the south side of the river and will take possession next week with his family consisting of his wife and four children. Dr. Dechman is not a stranger in Bridgetown, being a brother-in-law of Town Clerk Milner, and doubtless Bridgetown will heartily welcome the newcomer.

Mr. Beckwith, of the Electric Light Company, has refused to consider a yearly contract with the Town for lighting the streets, as will be seen by correspondence published elsewhere. It is quite a question whether the Council have authority to make a five years' contract as required by Mr. Beckwith, although we doubt if the rate-payers would be inclined to hinder or interfere with such a procedure should the Council deem it advisable. Of course it would be easy for the Council to get the feeling of the rate-payers by calling a public meeting.

PINS ITS FAITH TO COOK.

An exchange says: The New York Herald must have had convincing reasons for pinning its faith to Cook or it never would have accepted his story as authentic. No journal with a record like the Herald's would lightly risk being identified with such a colossal "fake" as Peary represents Cook's story to be. The truth, whatever it is, will not long be hid. The probable thing is that both men reached the pole.

Historical Sketch of Old Port Royal

In Nicholson's Journal of the Siege and Surrender occurs the following entry—"Tuesday, the 10th (October 1710) was solemnized a day of Thanks giving for the success of Her Majesty's Arms in reducing Port Royal, etc., being so appointed by the General. After Divine Service, which was performed in the Chapel by the Reverend Mr. John Harrison, Chaplain to Commodore Martin, of H. M. S. "Dragon," (and now left Chaplain to the Garrison by Commission from the General) a sermon was preached by the Reverend Mr. Samuel Hester, Chaplain to the Hon. Col. Reading's Marines."

The Chapel referred to was known as St. Anne's and was built and used by the Church of England previous to the capture of the place. Later in the same year, Nicholson states that General Nicholson was pleased to "commissionate" before he left from Boston on the expedition to Port Royal among other officers, "John Harrison, Clerk (who is now) Chaplain to the Garrison of Annapolis Royal." The Rev. John Harrison was the first English Chaplain at Annapolis, and was a resident of that town as late as 1732. One of his first official acts was the marriage of William Wirtlett, a French Protestant, an officer of the besieging army, to Madeline Massonet, a resident of the town previous to the British occupation. He also baptized their child, Annie Wirtlett, born March 20th, 1712. Many descendants of the family reside in Annapolis County at the present time.

In 1720, Governor Richard Phillips selected Rev. John Harrison as one of the first Council of Nova Scotia, along with John Boucett, Lieutenant governor of the fort, Melor Paul Mascarene, then and later a prominent figure in the military government of the Province, and other officers of the Garrison and public departments. The seat of Government was Annapolis until 1749, when Halifax was founded.

In November, 1732, Rev. John Harrison received from Governor Armstrong a grant of four acres in the lower town, as glebe land for the chaplain or "if a parish be established" for the parish minister.

It is possible that Mr. Harrison retained as senior Chaplain, but that as he grew older he needed assistance. His assistant or successor were Rev. James Hester, 1728-38; and Rev. James Hester, 1728-38 (schoolmaster) on a salary of £10 a year.

The S. P. G. D. refers to Rev. R. Wattle, who was the Society for "an allowance for teaching the poor children" at Annapolis Royal. "The Society voted him £10, which was doubled in 1731, and sent a supply of Bibles, Prayer Books and tracts for the school, which was opened at Easter, 1728, and in which he taught fifty children. At his own charge he built in 1727 a schoolhouse for the good of the public, and especially of the poorer sort" in Annapolis, "and appointed it for that use 'for ever,' with other necessary conveniences." He is thus the first schoolmaster at Annapolis, adding secular instruction to religious education, and probably antedated Robert Raikes, the famous Sunday School teacher, by fifty years.

During the siege of Annapolis by the Indians under Abbe le Loure, in 1744, the little church at Annapolis was burned "through a mistake of orders," and it is doubtful if the church was ever rebuilt.

One word more concerning Col. Nicholson. After the capture of Port Royal he went to England to urge the complete conquest of Canada (still in the hands of France), taking with him five Iroquois chiefs, whom he presented to Queen Anne. The expedition against Canada was made but was unsuccessful. Nicholson was appointed Governor of Nova Scotia on October 12th, 1712, and at the annual meeting of the S. P. G., held in the following February, he was requested "to take cognizance of, and make enquiry concerning all the Society's missionaries, schoolmasters and catechists; as also of the churches, glebes, parsonage houses and libraries sent by the Society in the plantations within the verge of his commission (as a person who has well deserved of the Society in his ministry and for his laying the foundations of churches. Accordingly a deputation has been given him under the common seal of the Society, for the purposes mentioned, with a salvo to the Queen's prerogative and the jurisdiction of the Lord Bishop of London."

Governor Nicholson was a man of very considerable influence upon the early history of the church in North America. Wherever he was Governor—and he was successively governor of more colonies than any other British-

RETURNED TO WORK IN A WEEK

Mr. P. M. Shannon Cured of Catarrh by one Single Treatment of "Father Morriscy's No. 26."

Dalhousie, N.B., Nov. 23, 1908. FATHER MORRISCY MEDICINE CO., LTD.
 For three years I had suffered from Catarrh in the head until March, 1903, when I had to leave my work, then in shingle mills, after trying 4 different so-called catarrh cures, and two doctors who claimed there was no cure. One single treatment of Father Morriscy's prescription cured me and I returned to work in a week after starting to take the treatment, and have never had so much as a cold in the head since.

P. M. SHANNON.
 We have plenty of letters like this proving positively that "Father Morriscy's No. 26" Combined Treatment has cured hundreds of cases of Catarrh, generally after other treatments had failed. Why shouldn't it cure you? In justice to yourself give it a trial. Combined Treatment (Tablets and Salve) soc. At your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 21 er ever has been—he sent frequent letters to the S. P. G. informing them of the progress of the church and making suggestions for the Society's work. While Governor of Virginia, he helped secure a grant of 20,000 acres of land for the endowment of William and Mary College in that Colony. While Governor of Maryland he wrote the Archbishop of Canterbury that "unless bishops can be had the Church will surely decline." During his term of office as Governor of Nova Scotia, he could have been of very little assistance to the Society for it is said he made but one short visit to the Province, Colonel Caulfield being his lieutenant. His term of office as Governor of Nova Scotia ended in January, 1715. He was knighted in 1720, appointed Governor of South Carolina in 1721, returning to England in June 1725, dying in London, March 5th, 1728.

Nicholson and Harrison are names which the Church cannot forget in her history in this Province. The Church moreover cannot forget the importance of that day in October, 1710, when John Harrison, Clerk, Chaplain to the Garrison of Annapolis Royal, and Samuel Hester, Chaplain to Reading's Marines, preached the faith in this new land—"a day of thanksgiving."

What a setting for a national commemoration! The first service, one of thanksgiving,—on the oldest battlefield in the Colonies of the British Empire. British forever, a half century before French Canada came to herald forth not long ago as the British Crown—that great event, beginning of Canadian history as a British possession.

The events of 1710 are events in which the greatest Empire, the premier Dominion, the oldest Canadian Province, and its first Christian settlement may read inspiring and great lessons of indomitable courage, far-sighted self-reliant statesmanship and faith-abiding deeds.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY

Mr. Frank C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist, of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others of the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." ### A PLANT WIZARD.

Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, must have had a vast deal of fun in life. He began work in a plough factory, and kept his wonderful mind on the improvement of machinery just long enough to make some money with which to undertake the remodeling of the vegetable world. Then he invented a new potato, and made a little more money and moved to California, where he opened a plant factory. Any one who does not know of the marvels he has done should read about him. There is joy, of course, in creation, else things wouldn't have been created. Burbank must have tasted that joy in abundant measure. He, it is said, has never made much money for himself, because his mind has never dwelt much on that subject. He has been too busy; but he is one of the fortunate men of his generation, a marvellous creature who has followed his bent and really benefited mankind. It is—at least it ought to be—one of the conditions of having any notable amount of fun that there should be resulting benefit to mankind.

Advertising Hints

SOME THOUGHTS FOR YOU, MR. ADVERTISER—THE PERSONAL APPEAL—THE FORCE OF SUGGESTION—YOU MUST TEMPT PEOPLE TO BUY

A property owner said the other day that if he had any pride it was being taken out of him by the painters. He is conscious of the fact that his house needs painting (though not quite ready to have it done), and the painters are unwittingly rubbing it in. One after another has told him the same story and suggested that it would be a good idea to have it done this summer. These painters were merely advertising. They did not go at him hammer and tongs. They were satisfied to let the solicitation go with a hint at the end that their services were at his disposal, and laid all the stress on how shabby the house looked and how nice it would be to have it freshly painted.

Probably the ideal form of advertising would consist in seeing every prospective customer and in making suggestions to them personally. But that is obviously impossible, and in any case it would require the exercise of judgement differing according to the individual. The newspaper or circular is really the better method as well as the easier, for there you can make general suggestions to your heart's content and no one can take offence, for the suggestion is general and the people probably have some preconceived ideas on the subject that make them susceptible.

Perhaps you have seen some advertising published by some of the good paint manufacturers. Did it ever occur to you that suggestion was the most powerful force in it? Here is a booklet illustrating in detail how the housewife herself can transform the appearance of her house by using Such-and-such Brand of Ready Mixed Paints. Another booklet has pictures of houses painted with the brand of paint advertised and suggesting other color combinations—all done in such glowing terms that frail human nature can hardly resist. It is the appeal to the human feeling for the thing that does the business.

The same idea lay in an advertiser we once saw which endeavored to attract the thirsty public to a certain soda fountain. It ran: "Reuben, Reuben I've been thinking What a nice thing it would be. If you and I were only drinking Soda at Blank's Pharmacy."

We don't advise the average advertiser to call upon the poetic muse, but we can recommend the appeal to human desires. Create the longing and you create the business. You must tempt people to buy.

Human nature hankers after nice clothing, and the skilful clothing manufacturer sends forth pictures of men handsomely clothed, accompanied by descriptive matter, telling of the good points about the products of his factory. Suggestion is put to work again and it works powerfully, as any advertiser can tell you whose appreciation of human nature has led him to dwell upon the proper notes. Suggestion, indeed, is one of the most powerful forces in nature and in certain phases is being used for the healing of sickness today. The principle at the bottom of hypnotic influence is simply suggestion.

The moral of this for the advertiser is to make his advertising suggestive. If it be something to eat, dwell upon the toothsome until the reader's mouth must water. If it be something to wear, dwell upon the beauty of the commodity until the reader fairly becomes jealous in anticipation of the neighbor who may

wants to cure his friends

Mr. Everett L. Holland, a well-known Canadian, moved to the United States some time ago. The change of climate brought on a serious and painful illness, which three physicians said was Stone in the Kidneys, but were unable to relieve his terrible sufferings.

In his agony Mr. Holland thought of an old and reliable remedy which had a great reputation in his Canadian home—the famous Gin Pills.

He wrote to a former neighbor and secured a supply. On March 20th, last, Mr. Holland in a letter to the National Drug & Chemical Co., Toronto, said: "I am well!"

He is now anxious to have Gin Pills put on sale in the United States in order to cure his new friends of Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

If you have any Kidney or Bladder Trouble take Gin Pills and we guarantee the cure or your money refunded. Gin Pills are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. In order to show our faith in these pills, we will send you a free sample on request. National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. N S Toronto, N. S.

buy before her. If it be something to appeal to the artistic sense, dwell upon the pleasure that will come of the possession of such a thing. If it be bargains you are offering, dwell upon the way the money saved will jingle in the buyer's pocket or get stacked up in the savings bank. These are the things that get the human mind thinking of you and the human heart hankering after what your ad. is offering.

This method of appeal is infinitely more effective than the stereotyped way of saying that you have the best, or not, and you are not inflicting them a whit by the bald statement that you have. Besides, even if there should be people who do not know what kind of goods you handle, they have had so much experience with advertising that they have come to regard this statement as a stereotyped, meaningless formula. This does not mean, though, that quality should not be emphasized, for nowadays people think so much about quality that it is very important. But you have to tell about it in a convincing way, and here again the language of suggestion can be employed with great effect. You can suggest that the quality is of the highest grade by various tokens, whereas to say "the best" is merely to excite the comment that every one says the same, or perhaps to arouse the suspicion that your goods are not the best after all.

Carterhall, Nfld. MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., Limited. Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disfigured for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly, W. A. V. R.

It should be distinctly understood in the family that the child who is too ill to go to school, and to learn his lessons, is too ill to be out of bed. If a child play truant, the lessons he loses should be made up at home in his playtime, and the mother should take pains to see that this is done, so that he will find truant unprofitable. He may be put to bed as soon as he returns home on the assumption that nothing but illness should keep him from going to school.—Educational Review.

SUPPRESS THE NERVOUS LAUGH.

A musical laugh is a rare gift; a hearty one is infectious; but if you are incapable of either, suppress a laugh that means nothing.

The woman who really laughs is a joy to those around her. Her laugh may not possess a pitch that delights a musician's ear; it may have infectious little notes that do not stand for harmony; but if it is real and joyous it will make all those who hear it smile.

The laugh that is annoying is the one without meaning. It is a nervous ripple that is often used as a period or an exclamation point. It is placed at the end of nearly every sentence, and takes from the spoken word any meaning or emphasis it might have. Many women who do it are not conscious of it. They are far from silly women. They have noise and sense, and are not as easily confused as one would judge by the futile laughter they give after their sentences.

This noise, which is a rattle in girls, an insane laugh in women, is the result of pure thoughtlessness. In youth, it more often comes from self-consciousness. A girl is not sure of herself, she is ill at ease in a company of people who are not her own or her intimates, and with every sentence she adds a giggle. It is not well running over the measure. As the girl grows into a woman she keeps to her little good-will rattle because no one has shaken it out of her. Possibly none of her kin was about her when she was doing this self-conscious performance. The penalty has not been administered at the proper time, and the foolish little habit has become ingrained in her nature.

The kind of woman she grows up to be is possibly charming in every other way, but giving the impression of a "lightweight" character by her conversation.

"It is raining at last," she will say, then add a forced smile and a crescendo laugh. "How good of you to share your candy; I must own up to a sweet tooth," then a laugh.

Not one of her phrases deserves a laugh. Each of the subjects she mentions is a trivial matter, and when a remark is made or an act performed that deserves laughter the sound she gives is utterly different from the forced one.

The remarkable sound given to man alone, called laughter, should be used only to express mirth. When it is not spontaneous it is not laughter and the men who write dictionaries should give it another name. Giggling is the only substitute so far, but it does not designate that insipid, mirthless sound that hundreds of women permit themselves. — New York Times.

THE ART OF BEING A WIFE

"I was a wife before I was a mother," remarked a woman who has a remarkable husband and remarkable children. "My children never drove my husband out of my mind for a moment. He has always been first." "And the result?" asked her friend with a skeptic smile. "Well," remarked her companion with a happy little laugh, "it has been most satisfactory, as I will show you. I have a place of honor a queen might envy. Think you my children love and revere me less in consequence? Not so. I am the first in their hearts and thoughts. I am the centre from which all draw the inspiration, or think they do. Why? Because I simply keep my first place as a wife and sweetheart of my husband. Our children have always been accustomed to see their father first in their mother's thought, their mother first in their father's thought. They learned instinctively that this love was first, and the love for the children second. Our home is run for the family. But if one person must take precedence, it is the father, because his place and work are of first importance to the home and the world.

"Our children, as you will observe are well-mannered, because never for a moment do they think themselves of first importance. This has not restricted individual liberty. They have been allowed to choose individually or collectively, where choice affected them only. Never in our home has any important decision affecting the welfare of one or all of our children been the decision of one parent. And in matters of discipline it has been the same. We have always consulted when the welfare of the child demanded it. It is the unity of thought and common interest which has made our family life so satisfactory and happy.

"The greatest mistake a woman can make is to thrust her husband in the background of her thought, or give him a second place in the home.

She makes the most serious blunder if she permits him to take the attitude that the children are hers. The wise woman, without contention, compels recognition that the children are theirs, and that the children's best interests can be promoted only when the moral intelligence of father and mother is directing their training.

WALKING PARTIES IN CANADA.

"Did you ever hear of a walking party?" asked a young woman who had just returned from a long stay in Canada. "No, I don't mean little walking trips across country, in which a group of persons engage, but a form of evening's entertainment. Those Canadian girls seem to be taking exercise continually, and any social affair is all the more enjoyable across the border if it includes what seems to some of us, a lot of hard work.

"Invitations to a walking party are sent out with just as much ceremony as if the affair was to be a dance or a theatre party. It is essential for a perfect walking party that there shall be an equal number of young men and young women. Those invited meet at the home of the hostess at the usual hour for an evening affair. The guests are paired off, and the route of the walk is announced.

"It isn't any walk around the block by any means. Five miles at the least. One man acts as a master of ceremonies, and he and his partner lead the procession from the house. When the parade has moved a certain specified distance the leader calls a halt and turns his partner over to the man of the next leading couple. Then each man moves up one, the leader taking the girl at the foot of the line.

"The march is resumed until the next stage is reached, and then another change of partners goes into effect. By the time the party returns to the house there has been usually a complete change of partners all around.

"This isn't any summer amusement in fact, a tramp through the snow with the thermometer somewhere down near zero, is considered actually good sport. But be it summer or winter, the participants in a walking party return ready to enjoy the supper which winds up the evening.

"One thing against these walking parties, to my mind, is the continual changing of partners. You no sooner get interested in your companion than you have to turn him over to another girl. Maybe you draw a good partner at the start, and a few minutes after get a stick. Of course it is eminently fair to every girl and to every man, but some girls, you know delight in being unfair when there is a man in the case. As an aid to flirtation these walking parties aren't worth one of those biz Canadian cents you see sometimes, but as an exerciser they are all to the good. And, after all, the exercise is what these Canadians are looking for." — Washington Post.

GRAPE DIET.

Grapes deserve more room than our bounds will allow today. "I write it down as an indubitable fact that it is a physical impossibility for a healthy man or woman to eat enough ripe grapes to hurt him or her," is a familiar quotation from the writings of a renowned authority upon health and diet.

He said it over fifty years ago. In that time I have kept a sharp lookout upon the grape market and grape consumers, and I believe he spoke the truth in soberness, if not in love for his race.

To borrow again from my own library. "The large amount of water, sugar, salts and organic acids they contain purifies the blood and acts favorably upon the secretions of the body."

And a final and significant hint to women of all ages, especially to the young:

"Fruit eaten before breakfast and at meals tends to reduce the redness of the nose and otherwise improves the complexion."

N. B. and P. S.—Pastries and hot doughs have a tendency to thicken the blood and muddy the skin. This is emphatically true in hot weather.

—Marion Harland

SWEETS ARE GREAT BABY SAVERS.

The young, unspoiled human animal has a liking for sugar just as it has for sunlight, for fresh air, for play.

for paddling in the surf and plunging in the stream or for food when it is hungry and sleep when it is tired and, subject, of course, to reasonable limitations, as wholesome as any of the others. This is precisely what our specialists in children's diseases and broad minded family physicians have been urging for decades past, and it would be safe to say that, next to the banishment of starchy foods, crusts and paps from the nursery and the substitution of pure, sweet milk, few things have done more to increase the vigor and happiness of modern children and to cut down our disgraceful infant mortality than the free and intelligent use in the nursery of sweet fruits, preserves, sugar, taffy and butterscotch. — Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

FALL SKIN DISEASES

An Article For Mothers

When the children "break out" with eruptions and skin diseases, so common in the fall, don't run to useless and nauseating medicines. Zam-Buk is what is needed. It is a skin food as well as a healing balm.

Mrs. Charles Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so fearful that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk effected a cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30 Glenside Street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praises. She says:—"Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with other children. Prior to the boils breaking out he had had a bad eruption, but Zam-Buk cleared this away too, and made his skin clear and smooth. It is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sore, blood-poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores carry 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

GOLDEN SHADOWS.

As on my bed at dawn I mused and prayed,
I saw my lattice pranked upon the wall—
The flaunting leaves and fitting birds withal,
A sunny phantom interlaced with shade.
"Thanks be to Heaven," in happy mood I said;
"What sweeter aid my mattress could befall
Than this fair glory from the east hath made?
What holy sleights hath God, the Lord of all,
To bid us feel and see! we are not free
To say we see not, for the glory comes Nightly and daily, like the flowing sea;
His luster pierce through the mid night glooms,
And at prime hours, behold! He follows me With golden shadows to my secret rooms."
—Charles Tennyson Turner.
