Swift Raid on Irish Suspects in Cities In England and Scotland

Ninety-Eight Men and Women Taken to Dublin—Irregular Leader Caught in Irish Capital—New Organization Is Formed.

(Canadian Press.)

Dublin, March 12—Ninety-eight men and women, arrested in England and Scotland, were landed here late last night. No official statement regarding the arrests was issued.

Glasgow, March 12—An official police statement issued today says that thirty-eight rebels were arrested in Scotland over the week-end. Twenty-eight of the prisoners were taken in this city. Several are alleged to have been leading organizers in the Irish Republican army.

Sensation In London.

London, Mar. 12.—The swift and great raid upon Irish suspects in Great Britain has created something of a sensation here and developments are awaited with much curiosity.

London, Glasgow and Liverpool, all of which have large Irish communities, were the main centres of the raids, but places as far north as Aberdeen, furnished their quota of captives.

It is said that the arrests in England were made under an order signed by Home Secretary Bridgeman. This order, issued under date of March 7, cited the Defense of the Realm Act, and the Restoration of Order in Ireland Act.

The arrests in Scotland were apparently made under the authority of an order signed by the secretary for Scotland charging the suspects with "acting or being about to act in a manner prejudicial to the restoration of law and order in Ireland."

Dublin, Mar. 12.—Frank Henderson, described as a leader among the irregular forces in Dublin, was captured in the street yesterday by Free State forces. Several other arrests were made in connection with the discovery of a big arms dump in the city.

New York, March 12—Three brothers, named Tisbo, who conduct a bank and a steamship agency in Mott street in the heart of New York's "Little Italy," disappeared mysteriously on Saturday, and immediately a crowd of depositors gathered demanding their savings, which were reported to total $200,000 to $300,000. It is estimated that 40,000 persons, mostly of the poorer Italian class, had entrusted the Tisbo brothers with their life savings.

When news of the disappearance reached the police, a hasty crowd of reservists was thrown about the bank. It was still there last night to keep back the hundreds who refused to leave and continued to demand their money. Many times the crowd had rushed the officers on guard in an effort to force a way into the building.

Meanwhile, police headquarters were busy on various clues and today called the Italian authorities to arrest the Tisbo brothers should they arrive in Italy by steamer.

The authorities say that the brothers were not authorized to conduct a banking business and that the money put in their institution came from persons who trusted them to safeguard it. Vincenzo Tisbo was head of the bank. Associated with him were Vito and Francesco. A fourth brother, Riccardo, was said to have served as the bank's agent in Italy.

Ottawa, March 12—(Canadian Press) A decision of Mr. Justice Galt in Winnipeg that the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, an "illegal organization," cannot sue its members in the courts has not created surprise in labor circles here.

It is said in high labor circles here that the case is the result of a dispute between the International and a Canadian association of railway engineers which recently seceded from the parent body. S. T. Starr, who was the defendant in the case, is the secretary of the Canadian association.

The decision is not regarded as likely to cause much trouble to the unions, as it is not looked upon as controlling the general situation. It is said that a Montreal court recently gave a decision pointing in the opposite direction.

Winnipeg, March 12—"It is a startling decision indeed for, as I understand the matter, it throws our labor unions open to plundering of all kinds on the part of members."

This was the comment made last night by R. C. McCutcheon, Canadian grand lodge vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers.

Montreal, March 12—A counterfeit plant for the making of fifty-cent pieces of Canadian currency was seized by the R. C. M. P. on Saturday and was followed by the appearance before Judge Perreault of G. A. Brisson of this city and A. Mariotte of New York. They were charged with counterfeiting and remanded in the sum of $1,000 bail each.

On Thursday the King and Queen dined with Viscount and Lady Astor, and among the guests were J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, and his wife. He wore the regulation knee breeches. Other labor leaders who met the King socially on the same occasion were J. R. Clynes and Phillip Snowden.

Clashes Mark Hearing in Mayor's Repair Permit Matter

Inspector Charged With Defying Law; Mr. Thornton With Abetting Him

Mayor in Turn Accused of Attempting to Evade the Building Law by Making Repairs Without Permit—No Progress Made in the Case.

Some sharp encounters between Mayor Fisher and Commissioner Thornton, during which charges were made against the mayor, the commissioner and the building inspector, marked a discussion on the matter of the Mayor's request for a permit to repair a building in Charlotte street, damaged by fire recently, when it came up at a committee meeting of the Common Council this morning.

The Mayor's contention was that James Carleton, building inspector, was defying the law and that he was being aided and abetted by Commissioner Thornton. Mr. Thornton, in turn, charged Mayor Fisher with attempting to evade the law in trying to repair a wooden building in No. 1 fire district, where he alleged repairs to wooden buildings were not permitted by the act. The debate waxed rather heated at times.

The matter was brought up when Commissioner Thornton presented a report on a recommendation presented to Council by the Mayor in which he characterized Mr. Carleton as not being a safe man for the position. Mr. Thornton, in his report, said that in his opinion the inspector was a safe man to carry out the duties imposed on him by law; that he had never been guilty of discrimination, and that the Mayor was receiving the same treatment at his hands as any other citizen received.

The Mayor said he had further evidence of his contention and presented the following report: "As further evidence that the building inspector is not a safe man to have charge of the inspection of buildings, I beg to report that on the 8th inst., without warrant or authority, he interfered with electric wiring work in a building on Charlotte street, engaged in the said work to quit."

Regarding alleged discrimination, Mr. Thornton said that Miss Hanson for repair to a building in North Market street, a case similar to that of the Mayor. He said that he had never known of any discrimination against anyone.

The Mayor in reply said that he was doing everything to uphold the law, but the Building Inspector was defying the law. The question before the meeting, he said, was the building inspector, not the matter of the permit. He said that repairs had been made in No. 1 fire district. He said that repairs that were not forbidden was upheld by the city solicitor.

His worship said that in conversation with Commissioner Thornton he inferred that the Commissioner was not in favor of the action of the building inspector. The Mayor said it was true that the police inspector had told the building inspector that no court would uphold him in his view. He said the only charge laid against him in the court was "infraction of the building law," without specifying in what way. He said he was going ahead with the repairs in order to have the matter brought into court and decided finally.

Commissioner Wigmore. Commissioner Wigmore said the letter from the solicitor stated that the building inspector should issue a permit attaching conditions under which the repairs might be made.

Commissioner Thornton—"The city solicitor is entirely wrong in his interpretation of that section."

Commissioner Frink. Commissioner Frink called attention to a statement made by the building inspector before the meeting, that he would not grant a permit for repairs with wood. He thought the charge that repairs were being made without a permit should be investigated. He said that the solicitor ruled that the permit could not be refused, but the building inspector could attach conditions to the material to be used.

As to whether the building inspector was a safe man, Commissioner Frink thought the evidence was that he was acting within what he considered was the law. Either the law must be amended to permit a change, he said, or the courts must be appealed to for a decision. On the main ground, he said he could not sustain the opinion of the Mayor that the building inspector was not a safe man.

Commissioner Bullock said that he had known of alterations and extensions in No. 1 fire district which were made in wood and he believed, without permits. Mr. Bullock said that repairs had been made to the laundry adjoining the Mayor's property, damaged at the same time. He said that the inspector told him that those repairs were allowed to protect the premises from the elements. He asked what would happen if a portion of a floor in a residence should be used.

Threatens Injunction. Commissioner Thornton said that he had not contended any infraction of a law. He said it was the duty of commissioners to notify the authorities of any infractions. He added that if the Mayor proceeded with the repairs he would instruct the building inspector to proceed with an injunction.

The Magistrate Offers To Retire on $2,800 Pension

Adds That He Will be Satisfied with Whatever Action the Council May Take in the Matter—Question to Come Up Again Tomorrow.

Man Hunt Is Ended By Death Of The Fugitive

Nashville, Tenn., March 12.—Lewis Douglas, negro desperado, who shot and seriously wounded five persons at Spencer, Vanhook County on Thursday morning, was shot to death at the home of a tenant on the property of Sam Hanson, one of the victims, by armed deputies, on Saturday afternoon.

The negro's death ended a two-day chase with bloodhounds. The shooting of the fugitive was the climax of one of the most brutal tragedies in the annals of the state, two men and two women being shot down as they watched beside the bedside of a dying woman at the home of Sam Hanson, brother of Tennessee's secretary of state. The negro had been accused of robbing a corn crib.

He said that superannuation allowance in the civil service was figured at seven-tenths of the salary. "If you are willing to do this, all right, I will be satisfied with whatever you do."

He said that he was of the opinion that it would be difficult to obtain a man to fill his position at present for $3,000.

Apologizing for not replying in writing to the council's offer, the magistrate said the council had set him a bad example, as he had written twelve letters, which had not been answered.

Commissioner Thornton said that he had done his part; if anyone wanted to do anything more, he could. He felt that the Council had dealt very generously with the magistrate.

Commissioner Bullock said that he felt that the matter could not be decided upon until the magistrate's resignation was received.

The matter was allowed to go over until tomorrow.

With a staff of distinguished military officers and educationists, it has turned out some of the cleverest civil and military engineers of the day. Many prominent Canadian civil engineers received their training at the R.M.C.

As Hiram Sees It

"Well," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter, "I see the Legislature is settin' agin—an' the papers is printin' columns of stuff nobody reads. Why don't you print the sermons that's preached every Sunday, an' all the lectures an' the speeches at the debatin' societies an' lodges an' things like that? Let's hev lots of it while we're at it."

"Hiram," said the reporter, "your education is deficient. You ought to know that when a man of whom a reporter is charged with wisdom and winged words is asked to print the sermons that's preached every Sunday, an' all the lectures an' the speeches at the debatin' societies an' lodges an' things like that? Let's hev lots of it while we're at it."

"No," said Hiram, "I didn't. An' what's more I don't know it now, an' if you think I'm goin' to read all them long speeches you got less sense than I thought you had—By Hen!"

London, Mar. 12.—(Canadian Press) The army estimates will be up for discussion this week in the House of Commons. It is expected that they will show a saving of £10,000,000. It is said that the Chancellor of the Exchequer is not yet satisfied that the bed rock of economy has been reached.

The general view is that the income tax and the beer duty will take precedence in any relief from the present burden of taxation.

Among the things he has to attend to is a divorce suit, filed by the Duchess of Leinster, a former Gaiety actress, and a bankruptcy action started by creditors.

French Occupy More Stations; Serious Clash And 8 Germans Killed

Berlin, March 12.—The French last night occupied the railway stations of Recklinghausen, Gestrup, Gammernsbach and other points to the south, according to special despatches to the Berlin newspapers.

Recklinghausen, March 12.—Eight Germans are dead as the result of clashes with French troops in the various parts of the Recklinghausen district last night. One French soldier and three Germans were wounded in a riot at Dortmund. A state of siege has been declared in the entire Recklinghausen district in consequence of these overnight disturbances. Additional troops have been sent to preserve order at Buer. Of the Germans who met death, two were shot down while trying to escape from gendarmes in the Buer disturbances. Five others were killed and several wounded an hour later when a crowd attacked a French guard post. The eighth German was killed at Dortmund when a crowd attacked a French detachment.

Dusseldorf, March 12.—The Recklinghausen district today faced severe penalties for what was perhaps the most serious incident of the Franco-Belgian occupation — the killing at Buer of Lieutenant Colin de Chausseurs and M. Joly, director of the Buer railroad station. French officials indicated that Buer would be placed under what will amount to martial law, in addition to a fine of one hundred million marks.

ASTOR DINNER AROUSES RE OF SOME LABORITES

Flood of Letters to Party's Official Paper in London on "Hobnobbing With Royalty."

London, Mar. 12.—Some of the rank and file of the labor federations appear to be aroused over the idea of Laborite members of parliament "hobnobbing with royalty," at the recent Astor dinner, judging from the large number of letters addressed to the Herald, the Labor party's official paper. Extracts from several of these communications are published today.

The writers want to know what it all means, and suspect that the incident has a "political significance" and will have far-reaching results, putting the Laborites in a false position.

The fear is expressed that the dinner reported an attempt "of the rank and file of the labor federations to reconcile the leaders to the state of affairs by dividing them."

One critic says: "Continuous association with the political opponents is likely to reduce our campaign in the House of Commons to the old sham fight between Tweedledum and Tweedledee, which we have done so much to expose."

The Herald, in its comment, declines to foster the complaints and says that the Labor "M. P.'s" are the best judges of their own action, and that the members immediately concerned are entirely without any weakness of character.

Paris, March 12.—Premier Poincare, accompanied by Minister of Public Works La Trocquer and a small staff of experts, left today for Brussels to attend a Franco-Belgian conference on the Ruhr.

Premier Poincare, in a statement to the Associated Press yesterday declared that Germany's recent complaint that the French and Belgian occupation of the Ruhr was illegal and in violation of the rights of man seemed strangely ill-founded when the world recalled what Germany was ready to do in 1871 had France not paid her indemnity to Germany. The Premier added that official documents proved that Germany wished to reinforce her army of occupation in France to a degree necessary to guarantee her rights, and that she was even ready to resume the war by mobilizing a half million men.

The report of the Department of Public Health of Nova Scotia, which was handed down in the House of Assembly last week by Hon. D. A. The vital statistics for 1922-23 are those which are quoted throughout this report and show a total number of deaths for that year of 6,073, or a general death rate of 12.54. The city death rate was higher in proportion, the rate being 18.85, and the rural rate 11.55.

The activities of the department during the year have been directed mainly as follows: Educational work in the various institutions, such as Normal College, and Inspectorial Schools where the provincial teachers were addressed, and at St. Francis Xavier, where classes of the People's School were met, the Provincial Educational Association, Municipal and Town Councils and in travelling clinics.

CLASHES IN CITY HALL HEARING (Continued from page 1) Commissioner Thornton's report was ordered received.

Mr. Bullock asked what would happen if one of the owners of a comfortable wooden home in No. 1 district asked for a permit for repairs in case of fire damage.

The Council, Mr. Thornton said, was not now dealing with "comfortable homes." There was a concrete case before the meeting.

Mr. Thornton replied, "but they will be stricter than those now in force."

Mayor Fisher said that in his report Commissioner Thornton had not touched the question at issue. He contended that the law should specify what percentage of damage should permit of repairs being made. He asked if Mr. Thornton had any amendments to the law in mind.

"Yes," Mr. Thornton replied, "but they will be stricter than those now in force."

Mr. Thornton charged that the Mayor had gone ahead and put men at work to repair the building in an attempt to get repairs completed before they came to the attention of the building inspector. He said that he knew all about the cost of the building, the amount of insurance collected, etc.

He was interrupted by the Mayor who said that this had nothing to do with the case.

Continuing, Mr. Thornton said that the lot was valued at $4,000 and the building at $5,000. It was insured for $3,000 and $270.00 had been collected in insurance after the fire.

He then read items in a big budget of correspondence which had passed between the Mayor, the building inspector, the city solicitor and himself in the matter, most of which had been published previously.

He said that after the council had deferred action until the Mayor made written application for a permit, the Mayor had done so, specifying that the proposed repairs would be of wood.

The permit was refused by the inspector.

INCREASE IN RENT FOR CITY PREMISES At a committee meeting of the Common Council this morning, Commissioner Thornton presented a resolution for an increase in rentals for several offices and other premises in his department, as follows:

FERRY BUILDING. S. P. C. A. from $50 to $75 a year. Police Lockup, from $75 to $100 a year.

H. O. Olive, from $75 to $100 a year. H. O. Clark & Sons, from $75 to $100 a year.

Dominion Coal Co., Rodney wharf, from $10 to $15 a month each. Two lurch wagons at head of Rodney wharf, from $10 to $15 a month each.

H. A. Gregory & Son, Wellington slip, from $60 to $75 a month. J. Goldberg & Co., Reed's Point, from $60 to $80 a month.

Gregory, McDermott, gear shed, new building, from $25 to $40 a year. Mr. Bullock said that all the tenants in the ferry building received light and heat.

A letter from the Civic Power Commission was read, in which it was asked that a correction be made in the recommendation regarding the temporary call for Leonard & Sons' for supplying mechanical equipment for the civic sub-station. This was agreed to.

Commissioner Frank was authorized to call for an additional fifty tons of asphalt to care for the Rodney wharf paving.

Calgary Street Car Fares. Calgary, March 12—Unable to gain increased patronage by the adoption of a five-cent fare, the Calgary municipal council has decided to follow a two-months try-out, today begun to sell tickets at the old rate of four for twenty-five cents.

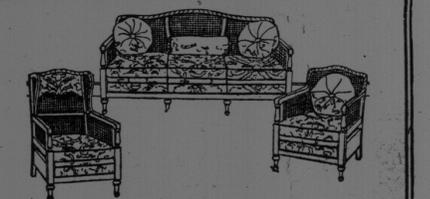

MONTREAL CHURCH BURNED. Montreal, March 12—Montreal street Methodist church was destroyed by fire this morning. The damage done is estimated at $30,000, partly covered by insurance.

He said it would be impossible for people in this country to form any idea of conditions in the far east unless they were actually there.

With reference to the Philippines he said a change for the better was noticeable since General Wood's administration. Residents there claim that conditions have improved one hundred per cent, and that the cost of living has been cut at least one third.

In Egypt, he said, there seemed to be an idea among the inhabitants that the best way to get rid of Great Britain was to murder all of her officials. The opinion was expressed that by so doing England would entirely withdraw in order to save the lives of her subjects. He said that at the present time the cost of living there had increased nearly one hundred per cent since their own Government had been in control.

HERE AFTER A TRIP AROUND MUCH OF WORLD

After completing a tour practically around the world R. I. Bowditch of Boston, Mass., arrived in St. John this morning on the Canadian Pacific steamship Melita and will leave this evening for his home. After passing through many of the principal cities in the United States and Canada he went to India, Egypt, China, Japan, Germany, France and England where he made a close study of business and conditions in general.

With reference to conditions in China he said they were badly upset mainly because there was no governing bodies, and the division was proving detrimental to all their interests.

The constant fluctuation of the currency in European countries was proving a handicap to business in general.

While travelling through Japan and Korea he saw the remnants of the Russian army, who had been driven out of Vladivostok accompanied by relatives they were pouring into the city.

He said that he was informed that young Russian girls were sold for forty dollars or the equivalent of $20 in American money. Many were said to be highly educated and able to speak several languages. It was reported that a number of suitors were waiting to call for one of the men were satisfied to secure work for food and lodging.

Mr. Bowditch said he was told that in Korea and Japan there were 10,000 men were bidden to land in Korea and were driven from China and it was reported that Admiral Stark, who had been in command of the old Russian navy, with seven ship loads of these refugees, went to Manila where he held a conference with General Wood and asked the allowance to go to Alaska or anywhere under the United States flag.

Mr. Bowditch visited Peking, which city he said was the most interesting he had ever been in. He travelled down to Central China and stopped at Hen-kiow, which is 600 miles up the Yangtze River. While en route he saw evidences of the work of the large band of revolutionary troops, who had fanned out gangs of bandits and made their chief occupation that of looting trains, etc.

While he had not witnessed any actual fighting he has seen Government troops returning after combats with large quantities of recovered loot. He told of a case where the bandits after looting passengers on a train seized a missionary and took him with them to a case where many missionaries and their attendant troops to open fire on them while a European was in their midst.

The last accounts he heard were to the effect that many missionaries and their families were leaving that section of the country and going to Hong Kong and Canton.

He said it would be impossible for people in this country to form any idea of conditions in the far east unless they were actually there.

With reference to the Philippines he said a change for the better was noticeable since General Wood's administration. Residents there claim that conditions have improved one hundred per cent, and that the cost of living has been cut at least one third.

In Egypt, he said, there seemed to be an idea among the inhabitants that the best way to get rid of Great Britain was to murder all of her officials. The opinion was expressed that by so doing England would entirely withdraw in order to save the lives of her subjects. He said that at the present time the cost of living there had increased nearly one hundred per cent since their own Government had been in control.

WOUNDED BY GUN IN HANDS OF YOUNG BABY As a result of what is believed to have been a shooting accident yesterday morning Mrs. Elizabeth MacKellar, 70 Queen street, is in the General Public Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the left breast. According to the story she told the police, Mrs. MacKellar, twenty-one-year old wife of C. P. R. Constable Weanymse MacKellar, went into her bedroom yesterday morning to put it in order, leaving her husband and his cousin, Miss Muriel McGee, in the kitchen. While working about the room she said she noticed that her baby, aged eighteen months, had taken a revolver from under the pillow on the bed and had got it to the floor. She caught hold of the child to take the weapon from him and it was discharged. Her husband and Miss McGee rushed into the room and at once sent for help. Mrs. MacKellar was rushed to the hospital in the ambulance and an X-ray was taken of the wound. The bullet penetrated the breast, and came out beneath it then re-entered her body and came out through the upper part of her back below left shoulder. It was said last night that her condition was not dangerous. Sergeant-Detective Power said last night that he was convinced that the case was one of accidental shooting and that no arrests would be made.

ROB SCHOONER OF HER LIQUOR CARGO; KIDNAP ONE MEMBER OF CREW While the Yarmouth schooner Eddie James, from Nassau for St. Pierre with a cargo of liquor, was lying off Jersey coast on March 2, she was boarded by a party from a motor boat, which had volunteered to bring water and supplies from shore, and 600 cases of whisky and $9,000 in cash taken. Some shots were fired by the raiding party and Supercargo Phillip Knowles fell unconscious to the deck although no wounds could be found on his body. Knowles was taken away in the launch with the stolen cargo.

Ames, Iowa, March 12.—Speaking of go-floor apartments and their attendant inconveniences, how many young brides would fancy setting up house-keeping where Mrs. Paul Beard resides? Mrs. Beard is one of the few women fire lookouts in the U. S. Forestry Service. During the summer she lives in a tiny glass house which is lashed by heavy steel cables to the top of a dizzy mountain peak at Harney, South Dakota. Her home can be reached only by climbing a twenty-foot ladder. If she cares for a wonderful scenic view she may look into four states from the windows of her house, which stands 7,240 feet above sea level. Food comes on the backs of burros up the mountainside from a tourist camp three miles away. Water is brought in bags from a distance of two miles. Wood for the single stove has to be carried up the ladder in armfuls; and furniture—well, there's no baby grand piano in that house. Most of her

FROM WEALTH TO FLOOR SCRUBBER

Once College Honor Man and Leading Salesman, Kills Man Who Taunts Him.

New York, March 2.—Forty years ago Joseph Murphy was graduated with honors from Nicolette College, St. John's, Newfoundland. Twenty years ago he was widely known as the leading wholesale leather salesman in Canada and the New England States. Last week police took him from a cheap hotel, where he lived while working in a former saloon at 474 East 146th Street, swabbing the floor and cleaning cuspidors for the few dollars a week that enabled him to get food and lodging. He is locked up, charged with homicide.

The climax of Murphy's life of misfortune came when, goaded beyond endurance first by taunts about his condition, and then by blows, he seized a cheese knife from the lunch counter and plunged it into the neck of Joseph O'Rourke, a laborer, of 465 East 146th Street, one of a group of loungers in the saloon, who were amusing themselves at old Murphy's expense.

Customers Called Him "The Sage."
Murphy, the police learned, was known as "The Sage" by the customers of the saloon, because they recognized in him a man with a past history, who faced his mental position as a porter and floor-scrubber with philosophy. Some of them, however, liked to tease the derelict, who is now sixty-two years old, and taunt him about his comments on life as he had seen it in his varied experience.

might not have been played had not the man who seemed only a human derelict vindicated the training and code of his youth and manhood. When searchers for him were beginning to think he would never be found, Murphy rang up the police at the Alexander Avenue station and quietly told them he was waiting for them in his room at the hotel.

Bad Investments Started Fall.
Detectives who discovered his past said that he came from Pittsfield, Mass. He prospered at his work, apparently, until ten years ago, when he lost much of his money through bad investments. This misfortune was followed by his taking to drink, and before long his associates knew him only as a "soak." Drifting along, Murphy finally ended up at the 146th Street saloon, where he was given work two months ago.

The man, whose only previous quarrel was with fate, was placed in the police line-up for the detectives of the city to look at and remember as an offender against the law, and later Magistrate Frothingham held him without bail for examination on March 14 on suspicion of homicide.

PROGRESS WITH HYDRO.

An enumeration of what has been accomplished by the Civic Power Commission to date shows that despite delays it has made a great deal of progress. The sub-station is to be ready by the first of May. The plans for the street lighting system have been perfected and approved. The plans for the general distribution system are under way. Canvasers are to be sent out at once to get contracts for light and power. It is only necessary to continue as speedily as a reasonable care for the public interest will permit and the citizens will soon be reaping the benefit of the Musquash development. It is the plain duty of the City Council and Civic Commission to cooperate fully, with a complete disregard of all talk about competition.

When the triumph of civic co-operative ownership of a great natural asset is written across the face of every bill for light and power.

Mr. W. E. Saunders, a wholesale merchant in London, Ontario, in a letter to the Globe, recently expressed the views of the people who have got the benefit of hydro. He said: "When hydro was created we were abundantly satisfied—nay, we were rejoiced—to have our rates cut in half. Now, if no change had ever been made in the rates since then, and we did still pay half of what we did pay to the privately owned companies, what a vast surplus hydro would have! My rates are about $50 a year. At former prices it would have been around $250. If the Commission saves to every user one-quarter of the difference shown, then two hundred thousand users are saving ten million dollars a year. If that money lay in the coffers of hydro it would have enough to pay outright for the Chippewa scheme and have a comfortable nest-egg remaining."

It would be well for every citizen and especially every member of the City Council and Civic Power Commission to take note of what Mr. Saunders has written. To show any weakness or hesitation in dealing with the situation in St. John would be to play into the hand of profit seekers and inflict loss upon the people. The progress that has been made calls for a continuous policy along the same line, without hesitation or delay.

THE LEGISLATURE.

A careful reading of the speeches of Messrs Richards and Fawcett in the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne suggests no cause for bitter discussion during the session, nor any reason for prolonging the debate on the address after the Premier has spoken. Both Mr. Richards and Mr. Fawcett had commendatory words for the new Premier, and neither had any charge to make against the Government other than that in their view it had been extravagant and that the Speech from the Throne was not sufficiently definite in regard to what may be done to make conditions better for the farmer. Mr. Richards thinks the Compensation Board costs too much, and he appears to fear that more money than the province can afford may be spent on the roads; while in regard to Grand Falls he uses the argument with which we are quite familiar, since incorporation interests always keep it to the front, that the province should proceed with extreme caution on this matter. Both he and Mr. Fawcett want more done for the farmers, but neither of them declares a policy in that regard. On the whole the Government may congratulate itself that its acts have caused so mild a degree of criticism as marks the speeches of these two members.

Mr. McKenna, in his admirable speech in moving the address, referred to the need of action to improve the schools in remote rural districts, and commended the subject to the attention of the Legislature. He also dwelt upon the advantage of cheap power, and what the development of Grand Falls by the Government would mean to the whole province. Dr. Violette, who seconded the address, was even more emphatic, and declared that justice to the northern part of the Province called for the development of Grand Falls, even as Musquash had been developed. Both Mr. McKenna and Dr. Violette paid a warm tribute to the Public Health Act and the Minister of Health. Mr. McKenna dealt with the handicap of high freight rates under which the farmers labor and urged co-operation of the Governments of the Maritime

WHAT'S WHAT

Some women, in conformity with the known wishes of those whom they have been bereaved, never show any outward mourning, dressing only a little more quietly than is their wont, and absencing themselves from the scenes of gaiety so distasteful to them in their lonely grief.

There is no law obliging any one to wear "deep" mourning, all sombre black with a long, funeral veil. It is simply a widely-respected and observed convention. But the policy, that if a woman does wear conventional mourning, she wears it as a symbol of sorrow, and, in all consistency, her behavior should not make a mockery of her grief.

What, for instance, could be in worse taste than the manners of the "mourner" illustrated, who is making herself so conspicuous in a public place by her loud laughter, her undignified deportment and the festively short-sleeved black gown under the black "widow's veil," which is supposed to be indicative of a recent death in her immediate family? In a case like this, "deep mourning" presents the appearance of a heartless masquerade.

DEVELOPMENT OF GRAND FALLS

Edmundston Wants 5,000 Horse-power - Enough Business in Sight to Justify Expenditure.

C. O. Foss, chief engineer of the New Brunswick Hydro-Electric Commission, returned on Saturday from St. Leonard, Edmundston and other places in northern New Brunswick. He had a meeting with the town councilors of Edmundston on Friday at which he decided to contract for 5,000 horsepower upon the completion of the Grand Falls development if the province should decide to go on with the work.

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE.

A meeting of those in charge of the financial campaign for the Y. M. C. A. was held on Saturday afternoon with R. S. Stephenson in the chair and Wignone at once set a gang of men at work to repair it. Repairs were completed yesterday afternoon about four o'clock. It is thought that the frost was the cause of the trouble.

PROGRESS IN USE OF WATER POWER

During 1922 Installation in Canada Grew to About 3,000,000 H. P.

Development Under Way - New Projects When Completed Will Have Ultimate Capacity of 1,000,000 H. P.

(Montreal Gazette)

The water power industry may be likened to a flywheel in that it possesses a momentum which enables it to tide over periods of depression and great industrial activity without excessive fluctuations. The history of water power development in Canada has been one of steady progress, and the industry has been a stable one. Whether times have been good or bad the output has been steadily growing, when general business has been poor and interest rates high the increase has been provided for the gradual expansion of the industry.

From figures compiled by the Dominion Water Power Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, it is shown that during 1922 the total water power in Canada grew to approximately 3,000,000 horse power, which 240,000 were installed during the year, this figure does not include 190,000 horse power installed during 1921, but only brought into operation after that year closed.

The most significant feature of 1922 from the hydro-electric standpoint was the installation of new development. Projects are under way which will have an ultimate capacity of over one million horse power, this indicating in the five 25,000 h.p. units in 1921 this initial installation, the first was placed in operation in December, 1921; the second, third and fourth in 1922, and the fifth in 1923. The total installed capacity in the province for the year was 240,000 horse power.

Ontario Again Led. As in recent years the construction operations of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission during 1922 ranked first in magnitude. Work continued throughout the year on the 500,000 horse power Queenston-Chippewa development and the initial stage of this project now nears completion. With respect to the Trent River, the first installation, the first was placed in operation in December, 1921; the second, third and fourth in 1922, and the fifth in 1923. The total installed capacity in the province for the year was 240,000 horse power.

At Ranney Falls on the Trent River near Campbellford, Ontario, the 10,000 horse power development of the Commission was completed and placed in operation during August last. Additional powers on the Trent are now being investigated by the Commission; also powers at Bingham Chute on the South River and at Port Severn on the Severn.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

In the Province of Quebec the turbine capacity actually installed during 1922 did not reach the figure of the previous year, but a number of very important projects were commenced which will add very materially to the utilization of the large power resources of the province.

DEVELOPMENTS IN N. B.

In New Brunswick the province carries on an active development policy through the New Brunswick Hydro-Electric Commission. The development undertaken by the commission on the Musquash river near St. John, was completed and ready for operation by July, 1922, with an installation of 11,110 horsepower. Owing however, to differences between the city of St. John and the New Brunswick Electric Power Company, the agency of its final distribution was not settled until December, 1922, when the city of St. John contracted with the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission to purchase energy up to 15,000 k.w. hours per annum at a price of 12 cent per k.w. hour. The city and the New Brunswick Power Company have not yet composed their differences with regard to the distribution of the power, the civic authorities in the meantime are making preparation to build their own distribution system. The city of Moncton had already contracted with the commission for 5,000,000 k.w. hours per annum, and the transmission line to that city was nearing completion at the close of 1922.

The Nova Scotia Power Commission formed in 1919 for the purpose of creating a complete electric power system for the province brought into operation in June, 1922, its 11,000 h.p. development at St. Margaret's Bay. This plant has since been carrying the entire load of the city of Halifax, and under the present peak conditions the city load is rapidly approaching its maximum capacity. Additional installation of 5,000 h.p. may be added to this development before its ultimate capacity is reached.

BIRDMAN APPOINTED A. D. C.

Wing Commander W. G. Barker, one of Canada's most famous aviators, winner of the Victoria Cross, D. S. O., and M. C. has been appointed an honorary Aide-de-Camp to the Governor-General, Lord Byng.

In the completion of the 168,000 h.p. development of the Manitoba Power Company was passed on December 28th, 1922, when the first unit of 28,000 h.p. was placed in operation under partial head. This event was the culmination of a year of remarkable constructional achievement in which the programme, as planned by the company, was carried out in every respect.

The initial installation in this plant will consist of two units totaling 66,000 h.p. and provision has been made for four additional units of 28,000 h.p. each, giving an ultimate capacity of 168,000 h.p.

Construction Work in B. C. New hydro-electric construction work in British Columbia during 1922 consisted of the development of 2,200 h.p. on the Bull River in the southeastern corner of the province by the East Kootenay Power Company. This plant serves an important mining area in the Fernie, Cranbrook district. The same company also commenced construction of a 24,000 h.p. plant on the Elk River near Elk. The initial installation which will consist of two 8,000 h.p. turbines is expected to be completed by the fall of 1923.

The British Columbia Electric Railway Company has under construction extensive alterations to its development at Stave Falls, at the outlet of Stave Lake involving an expenditure of $1,250,000. The main dam is being raised 20 feet, and additional side dams are being erected which will approximately double the water storage. An additional unit of 18,000 h.p. was installed and placed in operation in November, 1922, which brings the total installed capacity to 32,000 h.p.; provision is also being made for the addition of a fifth unit.

The Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company in 1922 commenced construction of a large concrete storage dam on Falls Creek near Anxox as an estimated cost of $800,000. When complete this dam will provide additional storage of 25,000 acre feet which is intended to eliminate the necessity of steam-generated power for the company's plant and smelter. The company contemplates the installation of a new 3,600 kw. unit during 1923.

A PASTOR AND THE Y. M. C. A.

To the Editor of The Times: Sir,—Will you allow me a little space in your excellent paper to state, from the standpoint of a pastor, a few reasons why we should support the Young Men's Christian Association in its present appeal for funds? There are many of our citizens, of course, who will not need any urging to contribute, because, like myself, they have, on many occasions—both at home and abroad, both as civilians and soldiers, been recipients of the physical, social and spiritual benefits largely unobtainable elsewhere. What a splendid life in the army would have been but for the social ministry of this splendid organization.

But much as it met a need in the life of the nation during the period of our present association, I think that it is meeting an even greater need in the life of the community in these present days. It is one of the best things in the life of our city, and should be given the most generous support.

I am thoroughly convinced that our work among young men and boys could not be accomplished with anything like the same efficiency without the co-operation of the Y. M. C. A. There is a tendency in some quarters to regard the Association as a rival organization. This is a mistake. It is not a rival organization, it is a supplementary organization which aims to help in bringing about the all-round, four-fold, symmetrical development of our young men and boys. It is co-operative and not competitive.

New York, March 12—If it isn't one thing it's another with the girls. Now that the Ladies Home Missionary Society and the League to Rid the World of Flappers have put the skirts under the "bob," one might suppose the younger feminine generation would take the hint. But no. "Be yourself" will never be their policy so long as there's anyone around to copy.

Now it's Lady Elizabeth Bowers-Lyon who's to blame. All over the country, shears are being unheeded, and snip! off comes more of Milady's locks. This time it's a fringe across the forehead she cuts, in imitation of the Duke of York's fiancee.

Just why it should be Lady Elizabeth's "bang" and not her serious mien or her shy manner that has inspired the imitative instinct in the American girl, probably no one but Freud knows. Not content with a straight, mannerly little "fringe," as the English call it, however, the former flapper is twisting the "bang" into weird shapes never thought of by the hair-dresser nor intended by Nature.

Exaggerated cropping of the front hair, outdoing even the famous hay-rake effect made historic by Lily Langtry, has appeared in New York choruses, and, simultaneously, in every main street in the country in spite of the carping of the critics, whose disapproval was all that was needed to make the fad a success.

New York Lawyer's Advice to Wives

New York, March 12.—(By Canadian Press.)—Leonard McGee, attorney for the Legal Aid Society, from his experience in the handling of cases of domestic infidelity, has evolved twenty suggestions for husband and wife to follow to avoid estrangement. He presented them at a recent meeting of the society. Here are Mr. McGee's suggestions for wives:—

- 1—Do not be extravagant. Upon the proper and careful expenditure of your husband's income depends his willingness to exert himself for the maintenance of your home. Nothing appeals more strongly to a man than the prospect of acquiring that independence of which a bank account is the guaranty.
- 2—Keep your home clean. Nothing is more refreshing to the eyes of the tired, nerve-racked worker than the sight of a well-looked home.
- 3—Do not permit your person to become unattractive. A slovenly wife makes a traitor husband.
- 4—Do not receive attentions from other men. Husbands often are jealous and some are suspicious without cause. Do not supply the cause. Friendly attentions from others may be received in a spirit of perfect innocence. When reported by the busybody they become distorted, even criminal, in character.
- 5—Do not resent reasonable discipline of children by their father. Many mothers assume that all chastisement of a child by its father is severe and unjustifiable. Even just men consider this an interference. It may easily engender combative hostilities.
- 6—Do not spend too much time with your mother. In such case you may easily spend too little at home for the proper administration of your domestic affairs.
- 7—Do not accept advice from the neighbors or stress too greatly even that of your own family concerning the management of your domestic affairs. Think for yourself. Have a plan of your own for the solution of home problems. In all cases consult freely with your husband. Much advice of the wrong kind is worse than none.

- 8—Do not disparage your husband. Your ill-advised opinion of him, uttered in a moment of petulance, may be eagerly seized upon by others as the true measure of his character and abilities. Ideas often become entities.
- 9—Smile. Be attentive in little things. The smile is an antidote to the toxic effects of ill-humor. Consideration for your husband's feelings makes him respectful of yours. An indifferent wife is often supplemented by an ardent mistress.
- 10—Be tactful. Be feminine. Men in last analysis, are but overgrown children. They do not mind coaxing, but they resent coercion. Most men prefer their opposites. Femininity attracts and compels them. By the same token, masculinity in the female repels.

THE RIDDLE OF THE SPINNING WHEEL

Being An Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective
By MARY E. AND THOMAS W. HANSHEW

"Dollops," he said quietly, "I wouldn't barter this inheritance—this fortune which the good Lord has given me, for all the thrones and 'spectors' and 'crash-pots' that the world could hold. For true friendship is the best inheritance of all. But there are times when a man must be allowed to go down into the depths of his memory and take a maudlin joy in counting over the hidden pearls there. I've no doubt you do it yourself, lad—and shed a tear in solitude for the days when you had a mother to care for you, and you weren't just a frightened little sinner or an orphan boy."

"An' that's where you're dead wrong, sir," gave back Dollops with a vigorous nod of the head. "Per I never does anythink of the sort. Me muuver—Gawd 'elp 'er!—were a bruiser an' a footballer in one, an' there weren't an inch o' me poor little body which didn't ave a score of bruises upon it. As for me farver—well, I don't remember 'im, an' no doubt it's a good thing, too. No, sir, you've bin and gone and missed the bull's eye this time, I ain't no Wistful Willie, I ain't. You've been Muvver and Farver and Big Bruver and all the Whole darn Family to me, an' if ever I finks o' the blinkin' parst, it's just that I didn't live clean and strick an' an' decent, so's I could be a bit more worry uv yer precious kindness. . . . Lord! listen ter me a-borkin' like a bloomin' sermonizer! But them's my sentiments—strick! An' so long as yer ain't wiser'n ter go back to—then—"

"No, I'm not wishing that at all, sir," said Cleek quietly, with an odd little smile. "So don't you worry your ginger head over such fool notions as that. The day I want to get rid of you all—Miss Lorne, yourself, and Mr. Narkom—is the day that sees me in my grave. And then I'll only be waiting to wring your hands across the Big Beyond. And if you ever mention royalties and 'spectors' and 'crash-pots' to me again, Dollops, I'll— I'll cut you out of my will. . . . Finished?"

"Yes, sir." "Well, then, come along upstairs and smoke a weed with me. Unless you've something better to do. I've need of a man's company tonight, for my moods maundin, and a chat over old times will straighten things out for me." "I'm sorry," then to himself: "Miss Lorne, Miss Alisa, and that bloomin' 'lovesick strain," thought Dollops to himself, with a shake of the head. "Well, or I kin s'y is, Dollops me lad, it's a good thing you ain't in love with the gels—and a fairer deal it is, too. For yer can let when you're proper fed up, and starve a fellow in consequence. But the lasses!—well, they never lets yer leave 'em alone! 'E ain't ad no trouble this mornin'—that's what the trouble is, bless 'is 'ent!"

So Dollops followed Cleek upstairs to his room, and in the short twilight of the summer evening sat with him, snaked and laked and gazed at the great Castle in front of them, almost lost in the twilight mists, like the true little giant he was, until the lousome-ness had gone from Cleek's soul, and the night had tarowen her mantle over the sky.

"Time for you to be getting into your little 'downy' old chap," he said, with a stretch and a yawn and a smile down into the eager young face that rested against his knee, as a dog might do, faithfulness in the attitude. "Or we'll be having no salmon-fishing tomorrow, for you'll be over-sleeping yourself, and the fish will have swam to other waters, getting tired of waiting for you. Cut along now, there's a good boy."

"Ov' right, Guv'nor, thank yer, sir, for this—this rippin' fine evenin'! An' fer-lettin' me pertain' I've for the moment, like a real pal to yer. I shan't never forget that. Good-night, sir, and pleasant dreams."

For the darkness of that dark night had been cut suddenly by a ray of red light swung to and fro several times from the particular bit of darkness which Cleek knew was Aygon Castle; extinguished; re-lit; sent swinging across the darkness again like an arc of crimson light; and when this was done for a third time, Cleek knew that it was a signal—a signal from Maud Duggan to him—a signal, too, which meant distress. Something had happened out there in that grim darkness beyond the rim of hill and valley in that great, gaunt edifice of mediæval stone, something so serious that she had signalled for help to come, as she said she would.

He drew out his spot-light, and sent it slithering in the direction of the red light, just to let her know she had been seen and understood. Then, swinging round swiftly, he caught up his dark overcoat, slipped his arms into it, and was off into the shadows and pelting away down the narrow tortuous lane as fast as his swift feet could carry him.

CHAPTER VIII
When The Blow Fell
It was not an easy road Cleek traversed, for in the darkness and in the utter absence of lamps of any sort the lane became a thing of stones and pitfalls for the unwary traveller, and there were many times when he was down upon his hands and knees in the soft, sweet-smelling, heather-latched hillside, having lost footing with the road altogether, and only his pocket-lamp kept him from absolute downfall and disaster. But the great gates were reached at last, and he saw that they had been set ajar, so that he could slip in undisturbed, if he wished—a little forethought on Maud Duggan's part for which he silently thanked her.

He slid in between them, glanced a moment up at Rhea's great bronze figure etched out against the moonlit sky and taking on a supernatural life-likeness which was very beyond words, and then darted up the driveway, groping his way in the shadows toward the great house which of a sudden seemed to be blazing with light from every window, as though the soul of it had suddenly been awakened out of its sleep and it had come to life in one huge, simultaneous effort.

Under the tread of his light feet the gravel barely moved, and having got his bearings that same afternoon, he peeped up in the darkness toward the front door, stopped suddenly, listened, darted leftward toward the lavatory, and came—phut!—up against somebody who was running in the opposite direction, swift-breathing like a man pursued, and who, having met the impact of Cleek's taunted body, stationed there for just such a purpose, bounded back again and gave out an involuntary gasp of astonishment and ill-concealed irritation.

"When! I beg your pardon, I'm sure," said this stranger, as Cleek flashed on his lamp and sent its rays traveling up the man's slim figure from top to toe. "Who the—why the—what the—?"

"A' sorry, I'm sure," responded Cleek, with a light laugh, in his best blithering-fool manner, "but I happened to be strollin' up in this direction, and I happened to see Miss Maud Duggan, and fell into you. So be dark in these parts, donkerknow. After London, a chap is likely to lose his bearings. Excceedin'ly sorry and all that."

Tut! Tut! Not All "Ruins" Are In Egypt; Pre-Roman Relics in Panama

Carved from stone by the Mayas
John Q. Critchlow
Cherqui pottery taken from old graves in the province of Chiriqui, Panama

Salt Lake City, Mar. 12.—Why go to Luxor, Egypt, to delve into antiquity's secrets when this continent has volumes to disclose?
John Q. Critchlow, has found it interesting pastime to dip into American soil with an investigating spade.
The most valuable disclosures he has made are the product of a trip up El Volcans de Chiriqui, an ancient volcanic mountain on the Isthmus of Panama which rises 11,600 feet above sea level.

The wonders of a civilization that flourished before the days of Caesar were revealed in a pueblo on the mountain side, inhabited by the Maya people, forefathers of the Aztecs. Numerous examples of pottery and clay figures were found, similar to the work done by the Southwestern Indians.
A striking similarity between some of the carved stone "furniture" and that dug up at Luxor from Tut-ank-Amen's tomb was noted, however, particularly in the stone benches carved to represent animal forms.
No student of hieroglyphics, however, has so far been able to read the curious design carved on stones outside the pueblo. The curious circular writing, if it is writing, was made by scratching shallow grooves on the smooth face of huge rocks.
The symbols were so worn away by the elements as to be almost indiscernible, and had to be filled with salt before they could be photographed.

ed each other. My name's Macdonald, Angus, Fletcher Macdonald. I'm a particular friend of Miss Duggan's. . . . But time's getting along, and I've a good distance to go. So I'll be off, if you don't mind. Good-night."

"Good-night." Cleek nodded to him in the half dark, then as the man swung away from him down the wide drive, turned in his tracks and watched him till the moon, hiding under a cloud, hid him, too.
"Macdonald, eh? The unfortunate lover whom the father will not countenance. H'm. Wonder what he was doing here at this time of the night? Rather nervous, I should say, at our encounter. And why the dickens—if anything happened—didn't he know something about it? It's a good twenty minutes since she signalled to me, and he's just come from the house—"

"Of a sudden he stopped short and sucked in his breath as a new thought penetrated itself into that perfectly pigeon-holed and regulated mentality of his. 'Gad! surely he hasn't!'"
Well I ought to have detained him and brought him back on some pretext— if anything really has happened to cause her to want me at this hour of the night. . . . Well, I'll nip along and find out. And if anything's really wrong, I shan't forget that gentleman in a hurry."

He reached the house without further adventure, and rang the door-bell with a steady hand. But he was hardly prepared for its response. For at the sound of it Maud Duggan came running toward him, her face white as a dead face, her eyes wild, her hair untidy, and clutching him by the arm fairly hauled him into the hallway, just as the butler, hung out of his calm demeanour by the happenings of that night—appeared from the end of the hall and came toward them.
"Oh, I'm so glad you came, so glad, Mr. Deland!" she shrielled out in a high-pitched, terrified voice. "It was lucky you turned up as—as you promised. But I'm afraid our game of cards cannot take place. Because—oh, how can I say it? How? A terrible thing has happened, Mr. Deland, and that which I feared has come to pass, only in a much more awful manner! My—father has been murdered, in full sight of us all, right there in the library, just as he was about to draw up a new will to disinherit Ross. Foully. . . murdered. . . poor. . . darling!"

15 New Cases of Sleeping Sickness Reported in N. Y.
Increase, Believed Due to Presence of Influenza, Falls to Alarm Doctors—112 Deaths This Year.
New York, March 12.—The increase in the number of cases of encephalitis lethargica, commonly known as sleeping sickness, has not alarmed the Department of Health, Dr. Louis I. Harris, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said last week. Reports showed a total of fifteen new cases, as against the five cases of the preceding day. Deaths decreased from four to two. Since January 1 there have been 360 cases and 112 deaths, slightly higher than the figures for the same period last year.
No specific cure for the disease has been found, Dr. Harris said, but general instructions for its prevention are being issued by the Health Department. The public is urged to obey the simple rules of health, breathe fresh air, sleep eight hours in a well ventilated room, eat enough, and avoid the presence of those suffering from influenza.

"Sleeping sickness affects the body in the same way that respiratory infections do," Dr. Harris explained. "We have found that it is coincident with influenza. After the flu epidemic in 1918 sleeping sickness found a footing here and records show that after the epidemic of Spanish influenza in 1890 sleeping sickness was also attendant. That is the reason we are warning the public to keep away from influenza cases and to avoid the spray of a sneeze, cough or expectoration. Poor resistance, a chill, wet feet and fatigue, the same things that expose the body to influenza, also invite sleeping sickness."
The symptoms of the disease are not always introduced by a stupor. Dr. Harris said. Pronounced excitement, irritability, delirium and wakefulness are common indications. A combination of symptoms, such as neuralgic pain, a fluctuating temperature, local paralysis, like the drooping of an eye lid, and public fever, should be investigated by a physician. The drowsiness is a later symptom.
The Health Department is working on the theory that a germ is responsible for sleeping sickness. It is a mildly contagious disease, not being confused with African sleeping sickness.

Four Attendants Chosen For Wedding
Lady Elizabeth's Presents Not to Have Public Display; Tut-ank-amen Necklace Among Them.
London, March 12.—Four attendants have been chosen for the wedding of the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowers-Lyon, at Westminster Abbey, April 26. They are: Lady Katherine Hamilton, youngest daughter of the Duke of Abercorn; the Honorable Diamond Harding, daughter of Lord Harding, former British Ambassador to France; the Honorable Cecilia Lyon, niece of the bride and daughter of Lord Elphinstone; and Lady May Cambridge, daughter of the Earl of Athlone and a bridesmaid of Princess Mary's wedding.
While there will be no public display of the wedding presents, it is learned that many gifts already have arrived. One which has still to come is an ancient Egyptian necklace found at the tomb of Tut-ank-amen and sent by Lord Carnarvon's party.
The interior of the Abbey will be decorated with foliage and white flowers for the wedding, but the ceremony itself will exhibit less pagantry than did the wedding of Princess Mary. The only reception will be an informal wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents in Burton street.
Lady Elizabeth has not yet chosen her wedding dress, but on Saturday will examine a selection of models that are to be sent from Paris.

Many British Going to U. S.
London, March 12.—If the flood of English emigration to America continues at the present rate, Great Britain's quota under the American law will be reached long before July 1, the end of the fiscal year.
Contrary to general impression, it is learned that Britons are going to America at a rate almost never equaled and there is room for only 28,000 more in this year's quota.
Emigrants are leaving Glasgow alone at a rate of more than 800 weekly, which is greater than the number from all other English ports combined last year. The annual quota for Great Britain now is 77,243.
To show the increase in emigration since January 1, last, it is only necessary to state that only 846 persons sailed the first week of January, whereas in the last week of February the departures numbered 1,973. According to emigration statistics, more Britons are going to America than to all the British colonies combined.

Third Generation is Using Syrup Pepsin
No other Laxative can replace Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in the confidence of those who use it.
THERE are thousands of healthy, robust young men and women who have never in all their lives taken any other laxative for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.
Their parents were given it by their parents; the grandparents are using it today. It is the one laxative ideally suited to all the family, safe for the little ones, effective in grownups, so compounded that elderly people, who are constantly forced to take a laxative because the intestinal muscles are weakening, find increased dosage unnecessary. This wonderful constipation remedy has been used continuously for 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are now sold annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. The cost averages but a cent a dose. Every druggist sells it, and under a guarantee to do as claimed or your money will be refunded.

SCHOOL SUICIDE
STARTS OUTCRY
AT "BULLYING"

Hundreds of British Parents
Aroused by Act of Boy
Who Ended Life When
"Mildly Kicked" by a
Pupil.

London March 12.—It is a matter of history that one of Britain's wars was fought because the subjects of a foreign power clipped off an ear belonging to a loyal subject of the King of England. That was several hundred years ago. Today a miniature version of "Jenkins' Ear" is being conducted in the London newspapers and magazines because a public school boy, after being kicked by his schoolmate and "ragged" by others, committed suicide.

To understand the reason why the majority of distinguished educational authorities of the kingdom have participated in the keen discussion that has followed one must know that in England practically every one who can afford it sends his children to "public" schools, which, of course, are really not public in any sense of the word. Education in England is free and compulsory, but the "board schools," which correspond to the elementary public school as it is known in the United States, are patronized, as a rule, only by the children of the poorer classes. The son of ordinary middle-class parents does not necessarily go to a school of the stamp of Rugby, Eton, but he does attend one of the innumerable privately run institutions which dot the country.

Many Parents Interested.
Instead, then, of being a matter of concern merely to the wealthy, the tragedy holds a personal interest for thousands of parents, who naturally ask themselves:

"Is this the sort of thing which goes on in all public schools, and are my children subjected to it?"

The facts of the basic incident are these:—
Vivian Merton Tanner, fourteen, was a student at Christ's Hospital (the "Bluecoat" school immortalized by Lamb). While acting as a linesman at a rugby football match he made several errors, which angered the players and other officials, and at the end of the game was sent to a senior boy, named Jeffrey, who emphasized his reprimand with what was described as a "mild kick." Later on, Tanner was "ragged" by several other boys, and, in a moment of uncontrollable temper, whipped out a heavy knife and stabbed himself in the breast. The knife blade entered his heart and he died.

Both the headmaster (W. Hamilton Fox) and the medical officer of Christ's Hospital gave it as their opinion that Tanner had been an exceptionally sensitive boy, not fond of games, and that he had not intended really to kill himself, but merely to frighten the other boys.

This general opinion was upheld by Canon, the Honorable Edward LITTLETON, formerly head master of Eton, who asserted that the truth is that the all-fashional bullying is no more, and it seems most improbable that it will ever revive. It is known only to schoolmasters. Canon LITTLETON would have us believe that bullying is one of those "old unhappy far-off things" that happened long ago—sixty years ago, he says, which conveniently throws it back to the time of Lord Salisbury's exposé martyrdom.

Bullying Is Not Extinct.
"But the suggestion is utterly misleading. Bullying has never been ex-

BUSINESS AND ROMANCE BLENDED ON KARAKUL SHEEP RANCH

BRITISH COLONIAL PRIZES LTD., TORONTO.

A business enterprise being successfully carried on at a ranch fifteen miles from Calgary by Dr. O. H. Patrick has a history full of romance and adventure. In spite of Russian export and Canadian import prohibitions, Dr. Patrick succeeded in bringing to Canada in 1918 a flock of 26 Karakul sheep from Bokhara, Russia, the sheep which produce the famous "Persian Lamb." The animals cost $85,000. In ten years this flock has increased to 800 and the doctor is marketing the finest quality Persian lamb skins, and lambs and mutton of the highest quality. The Karakul sheep were cross-bred with other varieties and the quality of the fur thereby improved. In the picture is shown, in the lower left hand corner, Dr. Patrick with one of his famous rams. Next to it a lamb, under two weeks old, at which age they are killed for their fur. Above, Welsh shepherd is demonstrating the use of the shepherd's crook. In the centre a "Persian Lamb" pelt, and to the right a group of the rare and valuable little animals.

tin, and is as lively as ever. I may remind Canon LITTLETON that during his head mastership of Eton there was a matter in a certain house, in which a number of boys were implicated, and that this led to the issuance of all housemasters of a new set of regulations in restraint of caning."

The reference to the late Lord Salisbury recalls what is probably, excepting in fiction, the strongest indictment of English public school life of the early Victorian era. Lord Salisbury (or, as he then was, Lord Robert Cecil) in 1844 wrote to his father a series of letters which found their way into print many years afterwards. They contained such extracts as:—"Eton has become insupportable. I am bullied from morning to night. When I come into dinner they kick and spit me, and I am obliged to go without eating anything. . . . I have hardly any time to do lessons because I pass so much time in being bullied."

It is not seriously contended that the majority of public school boys undergo any such systematic torture as was undoubtedly meted out in the larger schools during the last century.

Some reconciliation of the extreme views of Canon LITTLETON on the one hand, and Sir James Crichton-Browne on the other has been attempted by Guy Kendall, headmaster of University College School, London, and by Alec Waugh, a well-known writer on public school life. Both these authorities believe that the broader sense, bullying is comparatively rare.

Perhaps the most acute attempt to gauge the psychology of the school boy was that of Mr. Kendall. "A really mild kick," he wrote, "hurts no boy physically, but the very mildest of kicks may cause exquisite mental torture if there is any feeling of injustice in the deed, and especially if the victim is of a sensitive nature."

Remarkable that there is seldom a now-famous school bully, Mr. Waugh tended to believe that unfairness on the part of other boys was the cause of the bullying. "Canon LITTLETON would have us believe that bullying is one of those 'old unhappy far-off things' that happened long ago—sixty years ago, he says, which conveniently throws it back to the time of Lord Salisbury's exposé martyrdom.

Rev. J. W. Williams of Keswick, N. B., Suffered Greatly From Stomach Trouble and Constipation, Found Lasting Relief in Drego—Recommends It Very Highly.

An outstanding testimonial to the merits of Drego is the case of Rev. J. W. Williams, clergyman of the United Baptist Church of Keswick, N. B. Mr. Williams, who had long and patiently suffered the pangs of indigestion and constipation, says: "I was troubled for a long time with my stomach and various treatments gave me no relief whatever. My appetite was very poor and I was forced to be content with very little food. Even then, it would cause severe pain and gas would form after each meal. My bowels were also very irregular. Then I decided to give Drego a trial and since taking it feel 100 per cent better in every way. I can eat things now that I couldn't eat before and my bowels are very regular. I am also sleeping better. Drego is the best stomach and general builder that I ever tried and I can honestly recommend it very highly."

Drego is restoring health and strength to men and women in every walk of life. Indigestion, kidney, liver and intestinal disorders yield quickly to its regulating influence and it tones up and invigorates the whole system. Drego is being specially introduced in St. John by Ross Drug Co., 100 King Street. Go there today and ask for Mr. Arthur, the Drego Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. MONTRÖSE ARRIVES

The C. P. S. Ltd., liner Montröse, one of the three new oil-burners, made her first arrival here yesterday afternoon, docking about 2:30 o'clock at Nos. 2 and 3, with 128 cabin and 449 third-class passengers as well as a large mail and freight. The Montröse left Liverpool on Friday, March 2, and escaped most of the wild storms. She had a fairly uneventful trip. Miss Bullock, who is in charge of the Vondra, is in charge of the Montröse. She was present at the steamer's arrival. An unusual number of Finns, Swedes and Poles were carried for boat which did not touch at the Continental point. Among the passengers on the Montröse were three lady missionaries belonging to the Congregational church, who are on their way to China from England. The missionaries are: Miss A. G. Hamner, of London, Eng., and Miss N. M. Thompson, of London, Eng., both of whom are going to Shanghai, and Miss I. Smith, of Southampton, Eng., who is on her way to Korea. Among the other cabin passengers were: Rev. A. S. Crouch, of Winnipeg, Man., and his son, Capt. J. C. Herper, of Blackpool, Eng.; Capt. H. B. Pileher, of London, Eng., and Capt. E. E. Sanderson, of Prince Rupert, B. C.

IF BACK HURTS
BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water.
No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidneys and prevent the body from getting rid of its waste. The result is rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys. The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the aged grapes and lemon juices combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system. The debate was held in the Y. M. C. I. auditorium, and the judges were J. Frank Owens, C. A. Conlon, Jr., and B. P. McCafferty. L. S. S. was chairman. The points were announced as fifty-two to forty-eight. It will be necessary to hold a special debate to decide the question of leadership in the Inter-Society League, both the Knights of Columbus and the Men's Society of the Church of the Assumption having lost only one debate.

OUR PORTRAIT IS OF MR. MICHAEL T. RODNEY, OF 85, GRANVILLE AVENUE, LONG BEACH, ENGLAND, WHO WRITES:—

"Some years ago whilst touring Ireland with 'Sanger's Royal Cure,' I contracted some kind of an irritable skin complaint, which seemed to baffie different treatments in the way of ointments and lotions, all of which utterly failed to give me the slightest relief. Recently at Long Eaton, where I am engaged as Advertising Manager of The Pictorial, the conductor there begged me to try Clarke's Blood Mixture, but I refused. However, he, knowing its curative powers from experience, made me a present of a bottle, which I began to take. Recognizing a slight improvement in my limbs, I got another bottle, and continued the treatment until I had used four bottles, and now my skin is perfectly healthy again."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, etc., should realize that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief to be sure of the complete and lasting benefit, the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, and free from injurious ingredients.

INGS TO MISS JEAN SOMMERVILLE WHO IS IN HONAN, CHINA.

As Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson was in New York attending the graduating exercises at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York, where his daughter, Miss E. Hutchinson, had just completed a very successful course of training as a nurse, there were special prayers in the Main street Baptist church yesterday. In the morning Rev. Dr. S. S. Poole, of German street, conducted the service and in the evening the pulpit was occupied by George S. Gardner, agent of the Inter-Provincial Home for Young Women at Moncton. Mr. Gardner was the preacher in the German street church in the morning.

Rev. John Hardwicke occupied the pulpit of Knox Presbyterian church for both services, taking over the duties of Rev. R. Moorhead Legate, minister, who has been ill for four weeks. Mr. Legate has been able to be up for the last two days and his many friends are pleased to learn that he is progressing favorably.

An interchange of pulpits was made by Rev. E. E. Styles of the Carmarthen street Methodist church and Rev. H. B. Clarke of the Portland Methodist church for the morning service.

Some interchanges of pulpits were made by the Anglican clergymen yesterday as follows: The Rev. Canon R. A. Armstrong, rector of Trinity church, exchanged with Rev. A. L. Fleming, of St. John's (St. John's) in the morning and Rev. H. A. Cody, of St. James church and Rev. E. P. Wright, of St. Luke's church, also made an exchange.

Dr. George Steel was the preacher at the evening service in the Carleton Methodist church on Sunday, which was conducted by the minister, Rev. F. T. Bertram. There was a large congregation and Dr. Steel's sermon on "Drifting" was listened to with much appreciation. He took for his text "Let ye should drift away from them."

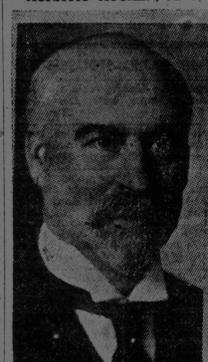

The evening service in the Portland Methodist church yesterday was in charge of the young men of the congregation and was impressive and full of interest. A male choir led the singing. The hymns were announced by Fletcher Kirk, and Frank Merrill led in prayer. The scripture portion was read by Robert Maxwell and William Killam gave out the notices. During the service a solo was nicely sung by Leslie Berwick and the McEachern quartette sang a special number. The pastor, Rev. H. B. Clarke, gave a powerful sermon on the subject, "Does God Punish Sin?"

In the Charlotte street Baptist church last evening evangelistic services were begun by Rev. C. R. Freeman and will be continued through the week. The subjects of his addresses yesterday were "A Peculiar People" and "The Unavailable Meeting." Sacred music was rendered by the choir at both services.

A short prayer service was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Waterloo street Baptist church preparatory to launching a special evangelistic campaign. At the regular morning service, Rev. J. A. Swetnam spoke on the kind of Christians that are needed today. Preparations were made for a banquet at a meeting of the Bible Class in the afternoon. Mr. Swetnam preached on the greatest need of the men, women and children in our city at the evening service.

The week's missionary conference in St. Luke's was brought to a close yesterday with special services at which the speakers were Miss Mary Butter, W. H. Sampson addressed the club held, missionary from Palestine; Rev. Dr.

HORATIO HOCKEN, M. P.

The Dominion House on Monday passed without division a resolution by H. Hocken, on the desirability of "encouraging the publication of Canadian magazines and periodicals."

Edgar Caple, general superintendent of the Knowlton conference, and Rev. M. Roffe, Canadian General Secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Miss Butterfield spoke in the Ludlow street Baptist church yesterday morning. Rev. W. A. Robbins, the pastor of the church, conducted the service.

STEAMSHIP BUILT IN MAINE ASHORE

Seattle, March 10.—Efforts were made today to refloat the 6,998 ton steel freighter Sagadahoc of the Isthmian Line, which went ashore last night at Point Shannon, three miles west of Anacortes, Wn. Her captain reported No. 1 hold had twelve feet of water, but that the other holds were dry. The Sagadahoc was built at Bath, Maine, in 1918, for the shipping board. Three tugs have left here to aid her.

SLIGHT NORTH END FIRE

Fire broke out early this morning in the Portland Carling Mills, in Hillary street, in a place where a pile of rubbish was near some ashes. The fire department had some difficulty in reaching the scene of the blaze on account of the distance from a hydrant and the very deep snow, but put the fire out with little difficulty when they did get there. The damage was estimated this morning at between $100 and $150. The fire broke out in the rear of the building near the water front.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Aid, which went ashore last night at Point Shannon, was held here. It was decided to meet twice a week in future. Plans were made for an entertainment. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Eva White; vice-president, Miss Frances Lanyon; secretary, Miss Gertrude Belyea; and treasurer, Miss Muriel Ellis; executive, Miss Ethel Urquhart, Miss Maud Reid and Miss Maud Keslie; entertainment committee, Miss Frances Lanyon, Miss Evelyn Brown, Miss Ursula Ellis, Miss Gertrude Belyea and Miss Pearl Howard.

You Won't Cough After Taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

On the first appearance of a cough or cold do not neglect it, get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia, or other serious lung troubles. In Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup you will find a remedy that will relieve the cough or cold on its first inception by soothing the irritation, and healing the diseased lining of the lungs and bronchial tubes.

Mrs. Percy McLean, Little Shemogue, N. B., writes:—"Three years ago I had the 'flu' which left me with a very bad cough. I tried different medicines which did me no good, so I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It relieved me of that awful cough in a short time."

"Dr. Wood's" is 35c and 60c a bottle, at all dealers; put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

10 P. C. RISE IN WOOLENS

New York, March 12.—Prices for the full 1923 line of dress of the leading mills making high class woolen and worsted goods for the women's wear trade, which will be opened next week, will show advances of approximately 10 per cent over those made a year ago. This advance will be less than shown by many of the medium and lower priced lines, a condition which is traceable to the raw wool market, where the higher grade wools have advanced less in price than the lower grade wools.

GERMAN REPORTS CAUSE OF SOME LIQUIDATION

Opening Prices in Wall St. This Morning Reactionary With Large Volume of Selling Orders.

New York, March 12.—Opening prices in today's stock market were reactionary in response to the large volume of week-end selling orders, some of the liquidation apparently being due to reports of disturbances in the occupied section of Germany. U. S. Steel advanced 1/2% on announcement of an increase of 373,213 tons in unfilled orders but the independent steel lost ground.

Noon Report

New York, March 12.—Bullish demonstrations in sugars, motors, motor accessories and Market Street Railway issues gave an appearance of buoyancy to these groups, but price changes in the balance of the list were generally inconsequential. Trading was relatively light during the morning, the demand of bankers for 5% per cent for time money at all maturities, the highest price since 1921, apparently having a restraining effect on business.

THE MAN WHO SIGNS MUST MAKE GOOD!

A responsible man puts his name to a piece of paper and it becomes a check—the equivalent of money.

He signs his name on the back of another piece of paper and it becomes an endorsed note—good for money.

He writes a letter and it becomes a binding contract.

The adding of the name makes these things solemn and legal obligations.

The man who signs is responsible.

Just so with an advertisement—the moment a man signs his name to it he has made a pledge to the public.

He is bound by his word as much as if he signed a check or a note. He must do what he promised on the terms he promised.

If he does not, he courts business disaster. The man who advertises a lie publicly proclaims himself a liar. Such men are seldom in business but frequently in asylums.

It is safer to buy advertised articles than nondescript ones. It is safer to deal with merchants who advertise than with those who do not.

An advertisement is a signed pledge of good faith to the public.

$80,000 FIGHT ON FOR ESTATE OF LITTLE IRISH NEWSTAND WOMAN

Grandchildren Contest Right of Uncle and Aunt to Fortune That Ellen Corcoran Saved Year by Year From Pennies of Passers-by on Park Row.

New York, March 12.—For many years and up until a few years ago Mrs. Ellen Corcoran, a hardy, pleasant little Irish woman, kept a news stand in front of Perry's Pharmacy, in the Pulitzer Building. In sunshine and rain, in the heat of the summer sun and in the cold of winter evenings she stood by her stand and shouted her "latest extras." There was nothing exactly pathetic about the old news woman, but often when a patron dropped pennies into her wrinkled and sometimes nearly frozen hands there would be a glance of sympathy for her. But Ellen Corcoran never asked man or woman anything but their patronage of her newspaper business, and for that she always added to the odd pro quo a cheery "Thank ye, sir," or "Thank ye, ma'am."

Mrs. Catherine Malone, who, with her husband, Patrick Michael J. Malone, used to live with Mrs. Corcoran, and her son Michael J. Corcoran. The court proceeding was the trial of a contest brought by three grandchildren of the testatrix. One of these contestants, Mrs. Catherine Droge, testified that her aunt, Mrs. Malone, had told her that her grandmother intended to leave her money to her and her brother. Another witness was Madeline Droge, thirteen years old, a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Corcoran. The little girl said that she called upon her grandmother just before she was to be confirmed at St. Joseph's Church. She told Mrs. Corcoran that she was not sure of having a new dress for her confirmation, for she was not sure her mother could afford to buy her one. To this, said Madeline, Mrs. Corcoran replied: "If I could do with my money as I want to I'd buy you a new dress to be confirmed in, but I can't do anything without Katie (her daughter). Another time, said the girl, her great-grandmother said: "I'll leave you my mother enough money when I die so you and your mother can get a good education."

Mrs. Ellen Corcoran died in October, 1922. Her passing was not noted, as has been the passing of many other Park Row characters, and the men and women, some of whom began to patronize her stand when they were mere boys and girls, will learn of her death only now. The Mrs. Ellen Corcoran, over whose estate, valued at $80,000, eminent attorneys engaged in legal battle in the Surrogate's Court, it developed, was the same Ellen Corcoran who used to stand at her news stand on Park Row. She was not a mere tenant in the tenement house at 83 Catherine street, where she died, she was a landlady. That property, valued at $80,000, is the chief asset of her estate, all of which she left to her daughter,

However, there was no provision in the will of Mrs. Corcoran for her grandchildren, who assert in their contest that Mrs. Malone, her daughter, had control over her and her money and used to handle her business affairs. No evidence was adduced showing Mrs. Corcoran was not of sound mind and understanding when she executed her will, while two witnesses testified to the execution of the will was regular in every particular. Edmund L. Mooney and Terence Farley appeared as counsel for Mrs. Malone and her brother, Michael J. Corcoran, the executors, while Goldstein & Goldstein represented the contesting grandchildren.

FIRST GUN FIRED IN CAPITAL WAR ON SOCIETY RUM

$10,000 Seizure in Fashionable Apartment

Only "a Drop in Bucket," Agents Say, Beginning a Clean-up—Customers of High Rank—List Seized, With Messages from Vessels.

Washington, March 12.—Police and prohibition agents today declared they had begun a clean-up of "society bootleggers" in Washington, and meant to keep it up until the national capital takes on some semblance of order. Last Wednesday night they raided the fashionable apartment of William Edward Swanson and seized imported liquors valued at $10,000. In the collection were more than 250 gallons of champagne, cordials, Scotch whisky and rye whiskey. The liquor was sent to Internal Revenue Bureau warehouses today. In addition to seizing liquors, the officers took an automobile and obtained telegrams from alleged rum ships docking at Norfolk and a list of several hundred alleged customers of Swanson. The names have not been made public, but they are said to include persons of high social and official prominence. Swanson is free on bond.

A WESTERN LEADER

H. W. Wood, leader of the Progressive in Alberta, has a pessimistic view on Canada's population problem. He said that the United Farmers of Alberta, he declared that Canada in the years between 1911 and 1921 lost a population equal to her total population and almost three-quarters of a million of her natural increase as well.

It appears the drive has begun largely as a sequence of the wet parties which marked the farewell of members of Congress at the Capital March 4 and thereafter. Agents watched the Capitol and office buildings of the House and Senate to get information.

Washington, March 12.—A German technical scientist recently has designed a new type of airship primarily intended for trans-Atlantic flying which may surpass the famous Zeppelins in safety, speed and other features, according to advice to the Department of Commerce from Vice-Consul Harry J. Anslinger, at Hamburg. The projected craft will be about 900 feet long, 150 feet wide, 180 feet high, and will occupy a space of 300,000 metres. It is estimated the "ship" will be able to develop a speed of seventy to eighty miles an hour and will have a passenger capacity of 300 with baggage and a crew of sixty men. The cruising radius is put at 5,000 miles.

Man Shot in Gang Feud Refuses to 'Squeal' on Slayers

"They Got Me, But Keep Out, It's My Busy Day," Dying Victim Tells Police With Smile on His Face.

(New York Tribune.) "They" got Dave Stone yesterday. It wasn't a particularly clean job and Stone lingered in agony for three hours after "they" got him, but true to his creed, he refused to give up to the detectives a single word of information which might help them to make an arrest.

"Keep out. No bulls admitted. This is my busy day. I'll fix it my own way," was what the dying gangster told Detectives Nemitz and Hoffman who hustled over to the Harlem Hospital from the West 123d street police station as soon as Patrolman Michael Harris had reported the killing. The name "David Stone" apparently didn't mean anything to the police. The well dressed chap who was shot down in Bernie's poolroom, the circumstances of the shooting and the fact that Stone kept his teeth clamped tightly on his lips and resisted all inquisition with a taunting smile, stamp the affair as a gang fray. "They got me," Stone said, but when the detectives told him he was dying and begged him to tell just who "they" were, he simply shook his head. Stone entered Bernie's poolroom at 2004 Eighth Avenue, near 110 street at around four o'clock yesterday afternoon. For three-quarters of an hour he shot pool with an acquaintance. There was no indication of an approaching murder cloud. The thirty or more customers went peacefully about their absorbing pastime. Perhaps "they" had set a quarter to five o'clock as the zero hour for Dave Stone. The hands of the clock marked that precise moment when there came the staccato bark of a single revolver shot. Stone, clutching his waistband, crumpled on the floor. The poolroom emptied as though a magic vacuum cleaner had sucked its customers into the street. In thirty seconds every one within sight or sound of the shooting had sought the open air, grabbing hats and coats from the racks on the way to the door. The proprietor, who was in a nearby restaurant, hurried back to his premises. He found the place deserted, save for Stone, who writhed on the floor, blood trickling from the corners of his mouth. Patrolman Harris, who is attached to the West Sixty-eighth street police station, was on his way home in a surface car when the sound of the shot and sight of the sudden exodus brought him out of his seat and into the poolroom. He called an ambulance from Harlem Hospital and reported the shooting to the West 123d street station. Stone died at eight o'clock the wise smile still on his lips, his secret inviolate.

(Special to The Times.) Hopewell Hill, Mar. 12.—After a four day absence, the C. N. R. branch line train arrived at Albert early on Sunday morning, breaking the worst snow blockade of the winter. On Wednesday morning the train left Albert some hours late and on reaching Salisbury the storm was so severe, with the cuttings filled, that the return was not attempted until Thursday morning. All day Thursday, Friday and Saturday the train, with the assistance of a plough special from Moncton, worked at the drifts, finding the hard packed snow very difficult to remove. Besides

A. W. Covey has received from Julian T. Fitzgerald of Chicago, head of the International Skating Union, the following letter relative to skating matters:—

A. W. Covey, President Maritime Province Branch, A. A. U., St. John, N. B. My dear Mr. Covey:

I have carefully read all of the newspaper articles regarding the resignations of the Maritime Province Skating Association, and while I am thoroughly familiar with the fact that there is a factional grievance in the Canadian skating circles and believe myself that some investigations could be looked into for an improvement of the skating sports in Canada for the future, I take exception to your remarks in reference to myself as head of the I. S. U., being an out and out professional and a promoter of professionalism and, as an officer of the Alfred Johnson Skating Co., highly commercializing the skating sports.

While I want to help you and the rest of those good officers who have given so much time, and perhaps money, to the further promotion of the skating sports in Canada, I would like to know where I have commercialized the sports in any degree. I have been connected with the skating sports for twenty-five years, served every office in the Western Skating Association from the lowest office to the presidency, in which organization I am, and while the remark of my commercializing the sport has been mentioned numerous times during my official capacity with the other skating organizations, I have never given the Alfred Johnson Skating Co. any financial aid that has been mentioned in your article.

The matter of commercialism from my standpoint of view is merely a matter of jealousy from our competitors who have not men in their organizations that understand and know the skating sports as I do. I have said, a life study I have given to the skating sports and athletics.

I am also secretary and treasurer of the Central Association of the U. S. vice-president of the Amateur Bicycle League of America, and hold numerous other official positions in athletic and skating organizations, and hardly believe that I could serve any of these organizations during the past twenty-five years in such a manner as to have if I had not been so busy to commercialize the sport in the different organizations in which I have held, and still hold, office.

Some of the greatest achievements ever accomplished in athletic and skating sports have been started by my untiring efforts in trying to see that athletic and skating sports were placed on a higher scale. I have assisted in making the Western Skating Association one of the greatest skating affairs of the I. S. U. I have resisted in placing the I. S. U. before the skating world as a real skating organization which in the past few years has grown from a small organization to one that is now recognized as the greatest skating union in the world.

I have assisted in making Chicago one of the greatest skating cities in the country, and still with all of these achievements I fall to see where, if I had commercialized the sport, I have done anything to the detriment of the skating and athletic public would still wish to retain me at the head of their organizations.

As to Commercializing. There is no greater way in the world to commercialize the sports than some of the many things that happened during the big circuits this year, and, I might add, for the past few years, among officials and other members of the skating organizations affiliated with the I. S. U., who have been allowed to act as officials when they had their hearts and souls interested in their own skating who were competing in the races in which they were acting as officials. This has been allowed repeatedly when the rules of the I. S. U. specifically state that no official is allowed to officiate at any meet under the jurisdiction of the I. S. U. wherein any skaters from his club, organizations or otherwise, are competing. This is what I call commercializing from this standpoint of view—that during the past few years it has been known that certain officials acting as active officials in meets where sums of money have been paid on the results of their skaters, and this is no secret either. Still, these things have been allowed to go on without objection and the parties to the crime have not been censured or even referred to as commercializing the sport.

Now, I have no connection whatsoever with any skaters competing in any of the races. They all look alike to me, if they care to use our skates, we make a good enough skate for them to wish to use or they would not do so. We have never paid any skaters for using our skates, but we do know of other skaters who have made this practice and are still doing so, but they are getting away with it and not commercializing the game because they have no member of their concern who is before the skating public like myself.

Many remarks have been made about Bill Small and some of the skaters going on a "barnstorming tour" after the close of the circuit at Moncton, and if there is any truth in the statement that these skaters competed in any of the races for a split of the gate receipts, the charges should be brought to the attention of the I. S. U. and no doubt the members of the Board of Control of the I. S. U. are honest enough to mete out whatever punishment is due

POLAR AIRSHIP READY JULY 1

New York, March 10.—The 680-foot dirigible ZRI which is to carry American naval officers and crews over the North and South Poles, according to Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, is more than three-fourths built and will be ready for service on July 1, it was learned at Lakehurst, N. J., where the dirigible is now being constructed.

The engines are now being tested by the Packard Company in Detroit. Its 2,000,000 cubic feet of helium will be carried in 18 gas bags.

The dirigible trip over the North and South poles is perfectly feasible and is bound to be made in the near future, according to Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer and author of “The Friendly Arctic” and other books on the far north.

It was the certainty that such trips were to be made and were to continue that caused Mr. Stefansson to retire from his life work of exploring and pioneering in the Arctic. The remaining work of writing in the detail on the blank spaces of the map of the world will be accomplished by photography from dirigibles and the exploration is gone, according to Mr. Stefansson.

Scientists will continue to make intensive surveys of little-known localities. But discoveries in the few remaining unexplored regions are all to be accomplished incidentally as a by-product of air travel, according to Mr. Stefansson.

The explorer, who is a Canadian and who, two years ago, sent a party to Wrangell Island in the Arctic north of Siberia to occupy it as a British air base, discussed its strategic value today. With future development of flying, Mr. Stefansson asserted that Wrangell would become a key point of air strategy in the Arctic. On the question of transpolar air commerce Mr. Stefansson said:

“In crossing the Atlantic the dirigible or any flying craft has to compete with ocean liners, but in crossing the polar area there is no competition with any form of transport except for the possible development of the submarine which has been suggested by various writers, including Simon Lake and myself.”

“If you look on a globe you will see that the shortest route between Great Britain and Japan lies across the north polar area. The difference in distance between that route and the shortest railway and steamer route by the region of the midnight sun before your first sunset. You will not leave the continent until you approach Japan, so that even at the speed of dirigibles so far had been highly satisfactory greater than that of the 1-34 there, today.”

“Then in the summer there are other advantages beside shortness of distance. Perhaps the most important is continued daylight. If you leave England in the early morning you will reach the region of the midnight sun before your first sunset. You will not leave the continent until you approach Japan, so that even at the speed of dirigibles so far had been highly satisfactory greater than that of the 1-34 there, today.”

Sir Thomas G. Esmonde's Fine Home in the County Wexford, Ireland, Burned

Historic Home, Where St. John People Have Been Guests, Put to the Torch on Sunday.

Ballynastagh House, Residence of Sir T. H. G. Esmonde.

A Canadian Press Cable today from Dublin reports that the historic residence of Sir Thomas H. G. Esmonde, at Gorey, county Wexford, Ireland, was burned to the ground yesterday. Clonin Castle, near Delvin, county West Meath, a magnificent Norman structure, formerly the residence of the Greville-Nugent family, was burned last night.

The loss of the magnificent home of Sir Thomas Gratton Esmonde will be keenly regretted by many St. John friends. Sir Thomas has been a frequent visitor here since his first visit some 88 years ago. Last fall he was a guest of Hon. R. J. Ritchie at a delightful dinner gathering at Bond's. Since his return home Sir Thomas had the great misfortune to lose his wife, Lady Esmonde succumbing to illness in the home which is now destroyed.

It was called Ballynastagh and was situated at Gorey, County Wexford. The estate has been in the family some 1500 years and the house dated back some three centuries. Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Vincent and Miss Vincent and Hon. Mr. Ritchie have been delighted visitors there at various times, and all today deeply regretted receipt of the news of the Wexford senator's great loss.

Hon. R. J. Ritchie was shocked and grieved this morning when he learned that the magnificent home of Sir Thomas Gratton Esmonde had been destroyed. While enroute to Rome last year he visited Sir Thomas and was a guest of his for some days. He said it was one of the most beautiful estates in Ireland and the home could compare favorably with many of the famous chateaux in France. Ritchie had been in the house, which was a regular castle, of stone construction of the artistic architecture, and it tastefully furnished and surrounded by some 700 acres of land. A charming and picturesque lake was almost at the door. There were twenty rooms in the home, in addition to a small but beautiful chapel, where priests came to celebrate Mass. The interior of the chapel was very pretty and the altar a masterpiece of art.

Upon entering the grounds the drive passed the lake and over to the right stood a large tower, from which a panorama was unfolded to the eye. Upon entering the house there was a large hall, to the left of which was Sir Thomas' private room. Passing through folding doors the hall proper was disclosed and at the end of it was an immense wide stairway. To the left of this was a very large dining room and to the right was an equally large drawing room. Adjoining the dining room was a large library containing hundreds of volumes from the pens of many of the famous writers. On the second floor were situated the chapel and the bedrooms, while in the rear of the house were the quarters of the large number of servants.

Throughout the house were more than 400 magnificent pictures, some of them original masterpieces while others were copies of some of the great masters. The fixtures throughout were beautiful and everything was arranged so artistically that the house was a veritable palace.

Old Furniture. While writing at one of the tables one day Hon. Mr. Ritchie happened to look down and saw Cromwell's name on a plate and inscribed alongside was "two years ago." This furniture was secured in 1640. This family heirloom was handed down from generation to generation. While looking at this antique his attention was called to the chair on which he was sitting. It was a chair used by the famous Sir Henry Gratton in the Irish Parliament.

AFTER 22 YEARS New Brunswick's Reply to Advertisement of 1901 Delivered a Few Days Ago.

Another possible world's record was established the other day when a letter reached the E. A. Strout Farm Agency at 150 Nassau street, New York, in reply to an advertisement which appeared in a newspaper twenty-two years ago. The letter was written in Central Millstream, N. B., and had been forwarded by the P. O. Department from Kent's Hill, Me., to which it had been originally addressed. A key number on the envelope traced the letter back to an advertisement which last appeared in the newspapers of the Strout Farm Agency was in the little village of Kent's Hill, four miles from the nearest railroad station. The total business for the year 1901 was twenty sales. The main office was moved to 150 Nassau street, New York, nineteen years ago.

SMOKING IN STREET CAR CHARGED

Allison McKelvey was charged with smoking in a street car. He said that he did not know that it was against the law and that he had gone to the manager of the Power Company about it. On being told that there were no ladies in the car at the time the Magistrate imposed the usual fine and allowed it to stand. Edward Sprague was before the Police Magistrate this morning charged with driving his car into No. 6 shed on March 9. He pleaded guilty saying that he had been told by an official to do so. Evidence was given by Dock Policeman Kilpatrick who said that he had had no previous trouble with the man. A fine of $40 was allowed to stand.
