MCCOLGAN-CAMPBELL.
A fashionable wedding took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Miss Margaret Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Campbell, was united in marriage to Adam T. McColgan, of West Somerville, Mass.
The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, Hazen street, Rev. Gordon Dickie was the officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. McColgan leave on this evening's train for a trip to New York. They will reside at West Somerville. The bride is one of St. John's popular young ladies. She was a valued member of the teaching staff of Centennial school. Mr. McColgan is a successful druggist at West Somerville. He is a native of St. John, and is a son of the late John McColgan. His mother, and his sister, Miss Minnie McColgan reside on Brussels street. Miss Grace Campbell, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid at the happy event and Bruce McPheerson supported the groom.
Many beautiful and costly presents were received by the happy couple, among which were a purse of gold to the bride from the trustees of St. Stephen's church, and several bronze ornaments from the choir of that church, of which she was a valued member.

MADRID, Oct. 31.—The cabinet has decided to introduce a bill with the object of ameliorating the conditions of women and children, who are compelled to work for a living.
The death occurred in Boston last week of Mrs. Samuel Thibideau, formerly of this city. Mrs. Thibideau left here about six years ago to live in Boston. She leaves a husband, two daughters and four sons.
The funeral of David Willet was held this afternoon from the residence of Robert Reid, Hazen street. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Graham and interment was made at Fernhill cemetery. There were no pallbearers.

Suits and Overcoats THAT STAND THE TEST

When you think of how we have worked up one of the largest clothing, furnishing and tailoring businesses in St. John in a little over five years, and that our customers today are those who bought for years at the other city stores it proves that our clothing is right. DR. FISHER TAKES CHARGE OF SMOX SITUATION

He Has Gone to the Infected District and Will Establish a Rigid Quarantine—Man Found in Freight Car Gets Three Months.

MONCTON, N. B., Oct. 31.—Expressing amazement at the terrible conditions which have been revealed in Kent County, Dr. S. D. Fisher, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, arrived here this morning after consultation with the local authorities left for the district where the small-pox outbreak is centered. Dr. Fisher will drive by way of Richibucto to St. Andrews and St. Norbert, two small villages, which shelter nearly a hundred cases of the disease. He stated that he would establish a most rigid quarantine. He had a short consultation with Secretary Northrup, the Chairman Murray of the local board before leaving, and was informed of the particulars. A telegram has been received from Premier Tweedie commending the Moncton board for promptness in grappling with the situation, and adding that every effort will be made to confine the outbreak to the district now infected.
William Day, who was taken out of a sealed box on an I. C. R. train in the yard here last night, was given three months in Dorchester Jail by Magistrate Kay this morning. Day claimed to belong to Houston, N. B., and he had been working in Halifax. Arriving here he had gone into the car while ill and had been locked in the car from which he was taken was partly filled with coal, and was on the night freight bound for St. John. Albert McDermott, ex-convict of Dorchester Penitentiary, last night assaulted I. C. R. foreman August Edward Harvey, while the latter was on his way home. McDermott had a grudge against Harvey, and walking up to the latter, struck him in the face, inflicting a severe gash. McDermott had been drinking and saved the latter from being arrested. No one appeared to prosecute him this morning and he was given four days in jail for drunkenness.

TELLING THE STORY OF A RUINED LIFE

The Castellane Divorce Case Before French Courts

Count Bonil-Treated His Wife and on One Occasion Struck Her in the Presence of Servants.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The Castellane divorce case was heard this afternoon before M. Henry Dite, president of the Tribunal of the first instance of the Seine. Neither the count nor the countess was present. Maître Cruppi, for the countess, pleaded for a divorce upon the documentary evidence submitted. In an extended review counsel declared that the countess at beginning of the suit was not acting under influence, but solely for the purpose of ending the marriage. He explained the marriage contract, by which the regime of separation of property was established from the very beginning, and stated that domestic difficulties arose over the question of money. The treatment soon followed, the count even striking the plaintiff before the servants. When he reached the question of infidelity charged against the count, Maître Cruppi did not mention names, or even initials, designating the co-respondents as "Madame A.," "Madame B.," and so on.
Maître Cruppi asked that the countess be given the custody of her three children. The court room was crowded, among them being many members of the American colony. Counsel for the countess spoke for an hour and a half and the court adjourned until the next recess. His presentation of the plaintiff's case constituted a complete and pitiful story of the wreck of her married life.

ABOLISH THE DEATH PENALTY IN FRANCE

New Cabinet Plans for State Ownership of Mines and Will Conduct Them on a Profit Sharing Basis

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The cabinet has decided to include in its parliamentary programme the purchase of the western railroad and a bill providing for the abolition of the death penalty.
War Minister Biquart's plan for the reform of courts martial amounts to their entire suppression, substituting therefor civil procedure in the case of offenses punishable by common law, while disciplinary courts will deal with infractions of discipline. Minister of Public Works Bauxant's project for the revision of the mining law contemplates the taking over by the state of all mines and the participation of the miners in the profits.

GIRL GAVE-DWELLER SUBSISTS ON NUTS

Ran Away From Home Because Maltreated to Lead Simple Life.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—A little girl, aged nine years, was discovered by sportsmen wandering in the forests near Brest yesterday.
They discovered she had been living in the woods for several weeks, and had made herself a bed of leaves in a snail's shell, the other food from the hedgerows, where she picked berries and nuts.
She told the men she had lived, at Ernaulle, in the Commune de Saint Elie, and ran away from home because she had been maltreated. Her right arm had been broken and having received no medical treatment, had grown crooked.
The sportsmen tried to persuade her to go with them, but she became frightened, and running away into the woods disappeared.
The Brest authorities have ordered a search to be made.

$7,500,000 PORT USELESS

Shifting Sands and Insufficient Water Make It Impracticable.

ANTWERP, Oct. 30.—The port Zebrugge, near Heyat, on which the Belgian Government has spent $7,500,000 is pronounced to be a failure.
Shifting sands, an insufficient depth of water and danger of collision with the jetties in rough weather, says the Nieuwe Precurseur, made the harbor absolutely impracticable for large vessels. It can only be used for the fishing trade and small coasters.

LIQUOR FOR RAND COOLIES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Portuguese Government has been informed that the demand for opium among the Chinese coolies on the Rand has led to extensive smuggling of opium between Lourenco Marques and Johannesburg. The Portuguese authorities have already confiscated a considerable quantity.
An Englishman named Cummings has been arrested at Johannesburg and heavily fined for engaging in the trade. He was betrayed by a Chinese smuggler at Lourenco Marques, who accused him of breaking faith.

PRINCE'S CAR KILLS MAN.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—A tramcar conductor was killed at Nancy today by a 100-horse-power racing motor car, in which the Duke of Montpensier was driving.
The Duke, who is a brother of the Duke of Orleans, was travelling through the town when a tramcar in front stopped suddenly. The Duke's driver swerved, and dashed into the tramcar, who had alighted to shift the points. The man was thrown twelve yards along the road and killed instantly.

NOT PARTED IN DEATH.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Thomas and Elizabeth Stringer, husband and wife, of Salford, 55 and 57 years of age, respectively, were buried together in the same grave at Great Crosby, near Liverpool, yesterday. The husband died two days before his wife.
Last evening a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dunfield called at their home, 122 Waterloo street, and took them completely by surprise. After spending a very enjoyable evening E. W. Patterson, on behalf of those present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Dunfield with a handsome solid oak secretary. Luncheon was served and the company broke up in the wee small hours of the morning.

CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 30.—Thomas Fawcett, an aged farmer, was arrested tonight, charged with the murder of his wife on September 13th last. Mrs. Fawcett's body was found in the home of the aged couple in Maple Township, near Media, this county, by the husband on his return from the city. The head had been crushed to a pulp and there were numerous wounds on the body.

VERDICT FOR $500 DAMAGES FOR WILLIS

Case Ended This Morning—Action of John McKay Against the City is Now Being Heard.

The case of Willis vs. The St. John Iron Works was finished this morning in the district court and a verdict of $500 damages was awarded the plaintiff.
Howard Willis brought action against the St. John Iron Works to recover damages for injury which he received while in their employ. He claimed $1,500 but the jury after considerable discussion reduced this amount to $500.
The case of McKay vs. the City of St. John also came up this morning. John McKay claims that a sewer, built by the city from Burpee avenue to Spring street, burst and flooded his house and undermined the walls besides causing other damages. This morning the jury was taken to Spring street to view the premises and evidence in the case will be heard this afternoon. C. H. Allen appeared for the city and A. A. Wilson for the plaintiff.

CORPORATION FINED $3000 FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

Packing Company Failed to Produce Books as Evidence

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 31.—The Consolidated Rendering Co., a Maine corporation, was found guilty of contempt today and fined $3,000 by Judge Rowell in the Chittenden county court.
The contempt proceedings followed the failure of the company to produce before the grand jury certain papers and memoranda connected with the alleged purchase of diseased cattle, and the sale of meat for food.
A large double team owned by Sandy Doye and hauling a heavy load of vegetables, was run into by a street car at Indiantown this morning. The team had stopped on the track and Mr. Doye was replacing a barrel which had rolled off the wagon, when the car came round the turn by the fountain and struck the wagon, knocking it completely off the track and breaking the king bolt in front. After considerable labor the sloven was repaired sufficient to proceed with its load. It is said the car was driven by a new man who was just learning and did not know how to handle it.

MONK ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTED MURDER

Charged With Trying to Poison 7-Year-Old Niece With Sweets.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—M. Parisot, a Benedictine monk, will be charged on Saturday with attempt to murder his 7-year-old niece, Marianne Parisot, by poisoning her with sweets containing corrosive sublimate.
Mlle. Parisot was taken dangerously ill after eating the chocolates, which were purchased at a confectioner's shop at Mulhausen, and posted from Evian, at the time when the monk was travelling in Germany and France. The Mulhausen confectioner and a ferryman from Evian, who are to appear as witnesses on Saturday, have identified the monk from his photograph.
Mme. Parisot stated that a previous attempt was made to poison Marianne by administering corrosive sublimate while she was staying with her grandparents two years ago. The monk was then living in the home.
On the death of Marianne her fortune would revert to the grandparents, of whom the monk is the only surviving son. The latter claims that the charge has been brought up against him out of spite.

Plaintiff in Divorce Case at Fredericton Breaks Down on the Witness Stand—Long Delayed Application.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 31.—In the divorce court this morning Judge Gregory went on with further hearing of the case of Mrs. Ida Lottimer of this city, who is suing for an absolute divorce from her husband, Robert A. Lottimer, of New York, from whom she has been separated for the past fifteen years. About one hour was spent mostly in going over phases of the case which had already been heard but some new revelations were made and during the hearing there were some sad incidents.
The plaintiff who was on the stand and was examined at length by the judge, broke down completely and wept bitterly for some time.
First of all a witness went on the stand and proved that the plaintiff had married Robt. Lottimer and that on December 27th, 1891, a daughter was born to her.
The plaintiff was then sworn. She told the judge of being married in September, 1891, of the birth of her child in December, 1891, and of her husband having deserted her in September, 1891, one year after their marriage, and she produced a letter from him, about June 20th, 1891, asking her to go to New York to live with him, she never heard from him. The witness told the court that the letter had been destroyed in some way unknown to her. Mrs. Lottimer said that the purport of the letter was that her husband wanted her to go to live with him in New York and that he would send her the necessary money to go with.
She accepted the invitation, but an answer to her letter or the necessary money was not forthcoming. From the time the letter was received until last winter when she found him at 2440 8th Avenue, New York, living with another woman and raising another child, she never saw her husband.
The judge said that it was remarkable that the plaintiff's relatives had not taken some interest in her case so long ago and lent her some assistance or helped her find her husband. Mrs. Lottimer said that her relatives did not have the means. The judge went on to say that the law did not favor long delayed applications.
Seeing that the court appeared to doubt what she was saying and being unable to stand up under the strain of such a severe examination, Mrs. Lottimer broke down and cried bitterly. His Honor asked the plaintiff if she had been content to be without her husband, but she was crying too bitterly to heed his question.
Since the last sitting of the court, however, Mrs. Lottimer had been at New York on November 16th, with her brother-in-law, H. E. Allen of Providence, R. I.
They had visited 2440 8th avenue, and there Mrs. Lottimer swore that she recognized a woman who Mrs. Lottimer saw as the one who had been introduced to her as R. A. Lottimer's wife. This woman said that she was Mrs. Lottimer, but that "Bob" as she called Mr. Lottimer, had been away on a drunk for four days. The woman said that her maiden name was Julia Cronan and that her child, who was seven years old that day, was named Margaret.
Lottimer had lost his job and was drinking. The woman said that the minister who had married them was dead for some years, but they were married in Brooklyn, though the witnesses could find no record.
There was no further evidence offered, and judgment was reserved until the next sitting.

FALLIERES IN TEARS AT HIS OLD HOME

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The village of Nazin, the birthplace of President Fallieres, paid the president a very pretty compliment on his official visit there today.
The home in which M. Fallieres was born had to be pulled down some years ago, but in honor of the president's visit a replica had been built in paper-mache for him to see this afternoon. M. Fallieres shed tears as he thanked the villagers for their kindly act.
During the festivities held at Nazin in honor of the president's visit, a herd of cattle, frightened at the firing of the cannons, stampeded the crowd, killing a woman and seriously injuring two men and a little girl.
The guards attempted to drive the animals back into their sheds, but two cows, maddened by the rush of people, attacked the gendarmes and gored them. The beasts were shot.

A GREAT TRUTH.

(From a speech by President Roosevelt.)
"The liar is no whit better than the thief, and if his mendacity takes the form of slander he may be worse than most thieves. It puts a premium upon knavery untriflingly to attack an honest man, or even with hysterical exaggeration to assail a bad man with untruth. An epidemic of indiscriminate assault upon character does no good, but very great harm. The soul of every scoundrel is gladdened whenever an honest man is assailed, or even when a scoundrel is untriflingly assailed."

KNIFE ONLY REMEDY FOR CURE OF CANCER

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Professor Monprofit of the School of Surgery at Heidelberg, says that cancer is undoubtedly curable by surgical operation if taken in time. No serum has yet been discovered that will cure cancer, "and I find," he says, "that the Germans are not further advanced in this respect than we are in France."
"Cancer, if taken in its earlier stages, is curable, but only by means of a surgical operation. That is the only remedy. The public must not be allowed to go on believing that the only practical cure for cancer is from some purely medical discovery instead of the surgeon's knife. Even if the remedy were ultimately discovered, the surgeon's intervention would still be necessary, for the tumors would have to be removed."

The following teamsters were reported yesterday by Robert Harris, inspector of vehicles, for doing business in the city without a license: William Klipstick, Fred McAlister, Edward Chisholm, James McAleer, Wan. Howe and Edward Cronan, driver for Wm. Klipstick's.

MAKING APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC

Historical Soc. Still Working for Champlain Monument. Interesting Relic of the Days of French Occupation of the St. John River.

At the meeting of the Historical Society last evening a most interesting paper on the "Loyalist Regiment of the Revolution" was read by Rev. Dr. W. O. Raymond; an interesting relic of the French period of occupation was presented to the society, and the matter of the Champlain monument was discussed.

Col. Armstrong presided over the meeting, and a large number of members of the society were present. Col. Armstrong submitted a report in reference to the placing of the canon in Queen square. Several bills were ordered in going about the work, and the mayor to discuss ways and means for the erection of the proposed Champlain statue, stating the proceedings of the paper and the feeling of the society appeared to be that the statue could only be erected through the agency of the government.

TO EXTEND ROSS RIFLE FACTORY.

QUEBEC, Oct. 30.—An attempt was made at Friday night's meeting of the City Council to have the body petition the Federal Government to give away another portion of the Cove Fields, the historic battleground of the extension of the rifle factory. It was explained that before giving the land the request made by the council representing the citizens of Quebec, as some objections have been made by a member of the council thought this was a good and sufficient reason why the council should not take the action asked of it, and the matter was consequently postponed.

MAY REVOLUTIONIZE MOTIVE POWER.

Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway officials have been asked to have tests made of an entirely new type of engine which is the invention of two Chicago men. The new engine bids fair completely to revolutionize the motive power of boats, automobiles, trucks and railroads. Most severe tests have been given to it, and on each occasion it is said it has more than exceeded the expectations of the builders.

Word has been received in the city of the death at Winnipeg, of John G. Cochrane, an estimable young man who left St. John a few years ago to try his fortune in the West. He was a son of John Cochrane of H. M. customs here. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. J. F. Substant, of Wright street. He leaves a widow and one child. The remains will be interred at Neepawa, Manitoba.

The Lilliputians delighted another large and fashionable audience at the York last evening. Teddie McNamara as usual kept all in merriment. Daphne, as the Duchess was for year, excellent. This winsome little lady has many warm admirers in St. John. The whole company was in perfect form, and their presentation of In Town was all that could be desired. Tonight the company will sing a decided hit in this place when they presented it here before.

The position of signal master at the Curlew House, made vacant by the death of the late Jeremiah Drake and which has been filled up to the present time by his son, Thomas Drake, has been given to L. R. Morton of this city. Mr. Morton has been a life-long Liberal in politics, and is a son-in-law of the late J. Christie, who for years kept a shoe finding establishment on Germain street. After the death of Mr. Christie, Mr. Morton continued the business. There was a score of applicants for the position.

A meeting of the appeals committee has been called for tomorrow afternoon and is likely to be the most lively session which the committee has had for years. It will be remembered that D. G. Lingley, of the chamberlain's office, was appointed to take charge of the collection of the tax arrears. Mr. Lingley has systematized the work and his results promise to be noticeable. At least $2,000 of taxes of former years have been collected while he has served much notice for taxes that there will probably be a large attendance at tomorrow's meeting.

Here is the St. Andrew's Rollaway programme for tonight. In honor of Halloween. After the last band two races, one mile each, the first between Hamlin and Campbell and the second between Dan and Dalton. For bands five and seven the ladies can choose their own partners, and it will be their own fault if they are forced to state alone, as no gentleman will refuse. After the races the floor will be in splendid condition and those who want to speed can do so for fifteen minutes. As usual there is a band.

Joseph Kenney of Bathurst, while working in the lumber woods in Maine, met with a very painful accident last Friday. Kenney was driving a team of horses when a tree fell across his right leg, breaking it below the knee. A doctor was not procured until Monday, and in the interval the unfortunate man suffered intensely. Yesterday Kenney started for his home in Bathurst, and arrived in this city last evening on the Boston train. The injured man now has to wash out their cans wherever they find it most convenient. About eight dealers have not yet taken out licenses and unless they do so shortly the board intends prosecuting. The milk dealers met yesterday morning and transacted routine business. It was decided that the present price of milk was satisfactory to the dealers.

SUPT. OBOURNE
ON RAILROADING
Returns From an Extended
Visit to England
And Compares British Methods With Those of Canadian Roads—The London
Police Made a Hit With Him.

(Montreal Herald.)
Mr. James Osborne, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific, has just returned from a ten weeks' holiday trip to the United Kingdom which embraced a comprehensive itinerary of travel over the railways of England, Scotland and Ireland. He went as far north as Aberdeen, up and down England and around Ireland.

Mr. Osborne is one of the keenest of the practical men that have risen and found scope for their abilities in the service of the Canadian Pacific, and he travelled with his eyes wide open. British railway men come over here to see what they can learn from us, and Mr. Osborne took advantage of the opportunity of quizzing the conditions over there. It was his first trip to the Old Country—he is a Montrealeur born—and what he saw with a good deal of a revelation to him. He was accompanied by Mrs. Osborne and his two sons. "I am sure the value of the trip, from an educational point of view, was very great to all of us," he said, as he recounted some of his experiences to the Herald.

"I started with the idea that I would find London old-fashioned and lamentable behind the scenes," remarked Mr. Osborne, "and was astonished to find that it was as modern as New York or Boston—that architecturally it was quite as up-to-date and just as busy."

"I wondered when I landed at Liverpool how they could possibly manage to handle the traffic with the little bits of cars they have there as compared with our larger ones, but I found that they did manage and managed very well, too."

"Of course, the conditions are very different over there. The whole country seems a network of cities strung together by the railway lines. London is a world in itself. You have a population there equal to that of the whole of Canada, and naturally the arrangements for transit must be adapted to the circumstances. But the way they have done it is really something to be admired."

"What was the most wonderful thing you saw over there, Mr. Osborne?" The Herald inquired.
"Well, really, I don't think I saw anything more wonderful than the magical forefinger of the London policeman, as he points the halting and dividing line for the processions of vehicles and pedestrians, while the man himself is answering any questions you may put to him with imperturbable politeness. The way the crowd falls into line is astonishing."

"So far as the railways are concerned I do not think the equipment is quite so good as ours. The fares on the first class cars are a little higher than our first class fares plus Pullman charges for day travel, and I do not think they are as comfortable."

"I noticed that there was very little second class travel over there. Everybody travelled first or third—mostly third. In France, on the other hand, I find that the majority of the people—the bourgeoisie—travelled second. The continental trains that I travelled upon—and my experience was confined to France, and more particularly to those about Paris—impressed me as something between the British and our own."

"I think that as regards comfort and cheapness—I am leaving out of consideration now the third class class—the advantage lies with us."

"I spent most of my time in the cities, for I wanted to see the people and how they did things, and was unable to pay much attention to the great scenic attractions, such as the lakes of Killarney."

"One thing that surprised me very much was the water hydrants concealed from the public view. The only place where I saw an open hydrant as we have them here, was in the old city of Chester, and that was not considered up-to-date."

"The inconsistencies of human nature, in all the nakedness of their frailty, are shown in the lack of judgment of otherwise good business men, who attend to everything well, except advertising, and expect poor advertising to do good work."

RIVALRY BETWEEN TWO MAIL ROUTES
Sydney May Give Rimouski
Another Tussle for the Prestige.

Mr. George Hannah Discusses the Possibilities—Handicap of I.C.R. Single Track.

(Montreal Star.)
Sir George A. Drummond has come out in favor of a four-day Atlantic steamship service between Europe and Canada, but whether the experiment of bringing the mails from Liverpool to Sydney, C. B., in order to have a possible three hours over the Rimouski route to Montreal will be repeated next spring depends, according to Mr. Hannah, the passenger manager of the Atlantic, upon the action of the Government in the premises.

"That matter is now in statu quo," said Mr. Hannah, to a Star representative. "The experiment may be repeated, and again it may not. To carry it out means a deflection of about one hundred and fifty miles on the part of the steamer. The difficulty is that the Intercolonial has only a single track between Sydney and Montreal, a distance of over ten hundred miles. This means that to carry out this experiment with any success the ordinary traffic would have to suffer. If there was a double track, the case would be entirely altered, for, of course, you would have a train going at the rate of forty miles an hour, and the eighteen which the steamer would make."

"However, that is a matter for the Government and not for us. If the Government desires the matter to be still further attempted, then, of course, we would do our part. Naturally, the people of Sydney are anxious to have their port given a reputation."

"If a saving of only three hours could be accomplished, at the best, is the same worth the cost? The cost of a difficulty in the case is the exceedingly tortuous character of the Intercolonial in the eastern section. It would be impossible to make fast time upon the line in the neighborhood of Sydney. Then there is the Gulf of Canada to be ferried over—the train being placed upon the ferry and drawn across a work taking time. This means another loss. It is considered by experts that if the road were straightened, and a bridge built across the Gulf of Canada, and another across Picquet Harbor to connect with the short line of which we have spoken, the saving would be the case of a fast train travelling at the rate of perhaps fifty miles an hour as against the present which would not make more than eighteen."

NO EXPERIMENT UNTIL SPRING.
The experiment, then, of course, was open for navigation. As far as the Atlantic is concerned, the only real trial, the Virginian did splendidly, but the train connections were not prompt enough, nor the speed fast enough to make a record."

Nothing has really been proved as yet, as between the two routes, but there might be better fortune next time, should the government order a second trial.

GORED TO DEATH BY BULL IN FIELD.
Pennsylvania Farmer's Wife Killed as She Attempted to Replace Bars of Fence.
PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Mrs. Magdalena A. Berger, wife of Otto Berger, a prosperous farmer, residing three miles from Port Jervis, in Pike County, Pa., was gored to death by a bull on her farm this morning. She had gone for wood in a field in which the bull was grazing.

There was no eye witness to what occurred, but her daughter Rosanna heard a piercing scream and ran to the scene. Mrs. Berger lay unconscious near an opening in the fence. The bull was about one hundred yards distant, quietly grazing. The woman was evidently in the act of putting up the fence bars when the animal bore down upon her.

Assistance came and Mrs. Berger was carried to her home, and Dr. De Kay, of Matamoras, summoned. When he arrived she was still unconscious, and died half an hour later. The physician found that her skull had been fractured. There were many desperate wounds about her body and one six inches long on the side of her head. Mrs. Berger was sixty-five years old and had considerable money invested. She leaves her husband, one son, A. C. Berger, of Elizabeth, N. J., and two daughters.

Advertising is an art which pays, and it is indeed the secret of prosperity.—M. B. Waters, G. E. A. People's Line of Hudson River Steamers.

NEW FORCE IN MOROCCO.

Raisuli, the Brigand, Has More Power Than Sultan.

Has Relieved Arzila When His Sovereign Failed Utterly, and Has Acquired Immense Authority and Prestige for Himself.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Times has received the following cable from its correspondent at Tangier: "Raisuli, accompanied by a strong force, started to relieve Arzila Friday morning. The inhabitants, hearing of his approach, surprised Borein and his bandits, captured the town, and killed many of his followers. Fighting proceeded inside the town for two hours. Raisuli arrived at night, and restored order. He summoned the inhabitants, and addressed them, guaranteeing absolute security. He is now installed in the Arzila Governor's house. He has accomplished in twenty-four hours what all the officials and troops of Morocco, under strong European pressure, failed even to attempt. The only vital force in Morocco is Raisuli, who for two years has kept the floor and warships on the move, and already to his own advantage, has secured the respect of the Sultan, and the famous brigand will now have a clearer idea than ever of the almost unlimited possibilities of his position."

ENGLISHMEN SENT TO JAIL IN CAIRO

Severe Punishment Means That British Subjects Are on an Equality With the Natives.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 30.—In the British Consular Court at Cairo, Lampony and Griffith, Englishmen, were condemned to fourteen days' imprisonment without the option of a fine. They will be incarcerated in an Egyptian jail. Their offence was creating a violent disturbance at the Nouveaux Theatre and resisting the police.

The comparative severity of this sentence is supposed to be the outcome of Lord Cromer's new policy, and is designed to demonstrate that British residents in Egypt are on an equality with natives in the eyes of the law.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Max Davis, of 21st Street, Jersey City, beg to announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Henrietta Goldstein, to their son, Louis Davis.

The above announcement was published yesterday. Max Davis is a Hoboken shoe dealer. Louis is his son by his first wife. Mrs. Davis was Mrs. Mollie Goldstein, a widow of this city, when she married the shoe dealer a year ago. Miss Goldstein is her daughter by her first husband.

The stepbrother and stepsister became members of the new household and followed the example set by their elders in falling in love with each other at sight. Their wedding will take place a year from now.

SICK, KICKED OUT OF CAMP; HARD TALE OF IMMIGRANT

Correspondent of London Paper Says Workmen on Railway are Swindled by Contractors.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—A correspondent of Reynolds' Newspaper, Parry Sound, Ont., says Englishmen on the C. P. R. construction are swindled, fed unsound meat and preserves, drink typhoid fever, or mistimed at their work, are kicked out of camp to find their way back to civilization, or perish in the bush.

Reynolds' says the charge is laid to the account of big labor contractors, who find they can kick and bully foremen, and get more out of them, while Britishers will not stand the injustice.

FROM POETRY TO MINING.

Dr. Drummond Hard at Work in Cobalt

A special correspondent of the Toronto Globe, who has been visiting Cobalt, found 'the habitant poet' hard at work there. He says: "Sitting beside a box stove in a comfortable room, overlooking Kerr Lake, was found Dr. Drummond, of Montreal, commonly known as the 'Foot of the Habitant.' Hearing the noise of the heavy machinery operating mines of which he is part owner, the day's story had begun to assume its proper place. The days of wild excitement, of foolish, thoughtless investments, he thought, had pretty well passed away, and now there was more real business. Cobalt, he said, had had too many untrials told about it, at times it had been over-boomed, and then again there had been statements made which hampered development."

"Keep your eye on the vein, for there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, and if you're not going to get away down, You're going to go away up!"

"These few lines he quoted, and then he added, with a smile, that they embodied in his mind the entire philosophy of Cobalt. With that he picked up his gun and left for his cottage a few yards away. Outside the doctor's office is a flag pole, where there constantly flies a rafter of British Union Jack. It was explained that a flying rock from the blasting had torn a hole in the flag."

POOR WOMAN LIVES ALONE IN A PALACE

Is Now the Sole Inmate of the Memorial Home for Aged Couples.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 30.—"Yes, it's pretty grand here, and everybody here are good to me, but, oh, I am so lonely among all these empty rooms and in these big halls. I wish I had some company here or I could go to some little place where it wouldn't be so kind of awesome."

It was thus that Mrs. Isadore Hatfield spoke a few days ago of her solitary life in the splendid Margaret Kloek Armour Memorial Home for the Aged Couples in Kansas City. Mrs. Hatfield may feel lonely, for she is the sole inmate of a magnificent building that raises its imposing gables from among stately trees that shade an estate several acres in extent. A matron and every body are good to me, but, oh, I am so lonely among all these empty rooms and in these big halls. I wish I had some company here or I could go to some little place where it wouldn't be so kind of awesome."

Several years before Mr. Armour's death he and his wife, while discussing what they would do in the way of establishing a permanent charity, decided upon a home for aged couples. Mr. Armour contributed $50,000 to give the home a start, and after his death, in 1890, his widow announced that she would supply whatever other additional sum was necessary to complete the institution.

TO SUPPRESS "HOLY GHOSTS"

Governor Cobb, of Maine, Urged to Stop Their Alleged Cruelties.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 30.—Petitions asking Governor Cobb to find some way in which cruelties and sufferings heretofore exist at Sillhou, the settlement of the Holy Ghost and Us believers, may be stopped will be circulated at once as the result of a conference held here today between local ministers and Mrs. Alice Phelps, of Kansas City, Mo.

The conference was called to aid Mrs. Phelps in efforts to obtain the removal of her daughter, who is alleged to be a victim of cruelty and abuse at Sillhou. It is admitted that there is no legal process by which Miss Phelps may be removed against her will.

JAPANESE JOURNALISTS
ENTER A PROTEST
Against the Action of San Francisco School Authorities.

Japanese Journalists.
TOKIO, Oct. 31.—A number of journalists had a meeting yesterday for the purpose of considering the anti-Japanese action of the San Francisco board of education. The following resolution was adopted:
"Resolved that the action of the San Francisco authorities in segregating Japanese school children is a great violation of the existing treaty and an insult to Japan."
It was further resolved that the journalists combine in an effort to excite public opinion and cause the authorities to effect a solution of the difficulty. It was agreed not to advocate anything of a violent nature.

TYPEWRITING CONTEST

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Rose L. Fritz, of this city, who won the world's typewriting championship in Chicago last June, came out ahead in the contest at the national business show in Madison Square Garden last night. She wrote 2,467 words from dictation in half an hour, making five errors. Of the other thirteen entrants, Paul Munter, who defeated Miss Fritz last fall, came nearest to her record. He wrote 2,466 words, but made 61 errors.

THE STREET RAILWAY.
An official of the Street Railway Company complains that the city has not shown any favors to the company during the past few years. He goes on to tell of difficulties which have been placed in the way of car line extensions, how the company has been put to great expense, and pictures what a hard time the directors have had in being compelled to lay tracks which they did not want and which are not profitable.

But seriously, the St. John Railway Company has received from the city practically everything that could be given, and has granted nothing in return. Beyond a few dollars in taxes and a little contribution towards shovelling snow the city gets no value for the privileges enjoyed by the company, nor do the citizens receive even fair treatment. For years there was a demand for a car line to Rockwood Park, but no attention was paid to repeated requests. Then the company bought a lot of land on Bay Shore and ran cars over there, leaving Rockwood almost deserted, and making a line to the public park altogether out of the question. Such a service would meet the wishes of the people but it would interfere with the Seaside Park business, and of course must not be thought of.

A two-way service on the Paradise line is a necessity, but it will not be granted. This is explained by the fact that there is delay over the location of tracks on a proposed new route and until the city gets down on its knees and grants whatever the company is inclined to ask the present wretched one-way arrangement will be continued.

The general service has for years been abominable, and it is only of late that any effort towards improvement has been made.
The Carleton line was not forced on the company as is asserted, but on the contrary was proposed by it. It was the only important condition made by the city was that a complete circuit should be operated, and not that the most profitable part of the West End should be worked while residents of other sections were left without the service. The company evidently believed that the city should build streets and wharves and put everything in proper shape for the laying of rails, maintain these thoroughfares in the company's interests and not charge a cent.

Turning to the lighting question, the city has entered into a ten year contract for street lamps at ten dollars per lamp more than is paid by almost any other town of this size in Canada. The incandescent light is supplied at fifteen cents per thousand watts, or five cents more than it should be. There is a monthly charge of not less than twenty cents for incandescent gas, of a very poor quality is furnished at $1.75-$1.85 per thousand feet, or one hundred per cent. more than is fair and honest. The company will not reduce prices on lighting, will not comply with the wishes of the people in regard to new car lines, and still complains that every request is not granted. If justice were done here, there would be a price of not more than one dollar per thousand fixed for the gas, with a proportionate reduction in incandescent lighting. Every foot of street in the city would pay an annual rental for the use of the streets, and the property of the company would be taxed to its value.

STUDENTS IN TROUBLE.
A rather serious state of affairs has developed at McGill College, arising out of the disturbances on theatre night. Members of the first and second years who attended the theatre amused themselves by destroying the furnishings of the building and doing other damage about the city. The authorities were compelled to take notice of the conduct of the students and appointed to Principal Peterson. He asked the guilty parties to admit their share of the disturbance and when there was no response a second request was made in the form of a declaration of non-participation to be signed by those students who conscientiously felt that they had not committed an offence. The two classes have been given until tomorrow to sign this or to tender an apology for their conduct. No signatures have as yet been affixed to the declaration nor is the apology forthcoming. The students are holding together, the innocent protecting the guilty, and the offenders are selfishly seeking shelter behind the somewhat distorted idea of student honor held by their companions. Principal Peterson, their companion, is in a very awkward position.

THEY WOKED UP.
"A pressing engagement with my dressmaker sent me downtown in Broadway car the other morning," said Lillian Russell. "The sleepy morning passengers sat up and snored to impress when the car stopped at a crossing and a shrill, musical voice plaintively demanded:
"Why can't you wait till I get my clothes on?"
"Every man in the car lengthened his neck like an ostrich, only to behold a very small, woolly-headed negro, patiently tugging a huge laundry basket up on the rear platform. Then the necks were suddenly shortened and the car proceeded downtown, every man oblivious of his neighbor."—November Young's Magazine.

MIGHT FIND HER FRIEND.
In one of our large department stores an obliging salesman had taken every roll of cloth but one from the shelves to show to a persistent woman. The last roll was on the top shelf.
"You needn't bother any more," she replied to the weary clerk who was about to reach for the remaining roll, "I was simply waiting for a friend."
"Madam," said the clerk, "if you think she's in the last roll I'll gladly get it down for you."

FAR WORSE.
"Ah!" cried she regretfully, as he released her. "I have broken your heart."
"Worse than that," replied the faintly pained, "you have busted my fountain pen."

CURED HIM.
"Does your husband smoke as much as formerly?" asked the friend of the family.
"Oh, no," replied the hostess. "He doesn't smoke at all now."
"That's queer," rejoined the man. "I sent him a box of cigars only last week."
"Yes," she replied. "That's what broke him of the habit."

however, seems determined to have no more nonsense, and has announced that unless his wishes are complied with by this evening an entire personnel of the first and second years will be suspended from the college for one year.
McGill students, it would appear, need such a lesson.

ALL SOULS' NIGHT.
I heard last night through all the soundless air
Of that dark room beyond the topmost stair
The tolling of the twelfth-hour midnight bells;
And then I woke—and saw her standing there.

I wondered long to see her standing there
In that lone room beyond the silent stair!
I knew I dreamed; but yet I called her name
That made such music on the soundless air.
That strange, cold music on the trembling air
Made echoes through that room beyond the stair
That froze my heart; I knew I only dreamed
The dark Dream-Sydney came and harkened there.

Clad all in white she stood and harkened
The moon upon her face, her frosted hair;
And love and pity within her eyes—
I sweet love and pity within her eyes.
I only dreamed within the censored
Of that vast room beyond the lonely stair,
Untroubled by the darkness and the dawn—
I only dreamed; but I was happy there.

I knew that she would come, that she would care;
So sweet she smiled, in answer to my prayer
To bless my dream! And, though I
The whole night long I saw her shining there.
—James E. Richardson, in November Lippincott's.

ROOM FOR THE LADY.
Perhaps nobody in New York appreciates the humor of Fred Stone, of that funny team, Montgomery & Stone, who are making New Yorkers roar once again in "The Red Mill," better than a certain much harassed conductor on Broadway.
Mr. Stone was standing on the platform of a downtown car the other afternoon, when a lady swept out and tried to make her way through the men to the gate on the closed side of the car.
"Other side, please lady," said the conductor.
A frosty glare was the lady's response. She took another step toward the gate.
"You must get off the other side," said the conductor.
"I wish to get on this side," came the answer in tones that concealed that official into momentary silence. Before he could explain or expostulate Mr. Stone came to the platform and said: "Stand to one side, gentlemen," he remarked quietly. "The lady wishes to get on this side of the gate." — November Young's Magazine.

KEEPING AHEAD.
"William Farnum, leading man in that spectacular performance, 'The Prince of India,' at the Metropolitan theatre, while on the road, one day after he visited an insane asylum and was shown over the establishment by one of the inmates. He was Farnum with the man's sanity that he finally asked:
"And what are you in here for, my man?"
Immediately a cunning look came into the eyes of the inmate and he looked about him warily.
"I'll tell you if you keep it dark," he said, "I've got a mania for wearing, I write 'cuss-words' all around. It's great sport. Why, they have to hire a man just to follow me around and rub 'em out. But," coming a little closer, "I'll tell you a secret, I'm four 'damns' ahead of him, and I've got 'hell' written all over your back!" — November Young's Magazine.

Tide Water Mills Will Haul Out About
15,000,000 Feet and as Many
More Up River.

(Bangor Commercial.)
The rafting and sawing logs on the Penobscot is being closed up for the season. Rafting at Argyle boom was finished for the season last Thursday and the logs which are left at the Penobscot boom will stay there until next spring. The early rafting and the crew at the Penobscot boom, divided between Argyle and Pea Cove. Five or six million of these are logs which have been rafted and which will be wintered behind Fresse Island. These logs will have to be rafted again next spring and will probably be the first logs to come down the river. There are about 6,000,000 of logs which will be wintered at the Penobscot boom, divided between Argyle and Pea Cove. Five or six million of these are logs which have been rafted and which will be wintered behind Fresse Island. These logs will have to be rafted again next spring and will probably be the first logs to come down the river. There are about 6,000,000 of logs which will be wintered at the Penobscot boom, divided between Argyle and Pea Cove. Five or six million of these are logs which have been rafted and which will be wintered behind Fresse Island. These logs will have to be rafted again next spring and will probably be the first logs to come down the river.

The last steam mill drive of the season will start down river Tuesday and will contain six or seven million feet. With the logs in the last steam mill drive and the logs that are now in the river between the boom and Old Town, will have work for three weeks or a month to come. The crew has a remarkably good season and the amount of logs rafted will be very near that of last year.

The water mills will have a big stock of logs to start in sawing with next spring. Already at the Eastern Mill Co., Lowell & Engel, Morse & Co. Sargent's, and the Sterns Lumber Co. mills there are big piles of logs hauled out and these piles are constantly growing. Sargent's and Sterns' will have about a million feet each, Lowell & Engel about three million, Morse & Co. about four million, and the Eastern Mill Co., at South Brewer, about six million. These figures are conservative if anything, so that with the logs left at the Penobscot boom, of which perhaps 15,000,000 feet are to come down river, there will be a stock of about 30,000,000 feet for the mills to start in sawing with next spring.

The shipments of lumber from the port of Bangor this year as shown by the books at the surveyor general's office show that there is a falling off of about 20,000,000 feet this year as compared with the shipment during the same period in 1905. The figures for the year 1905 are as follows: 1904, 113,182,181 feet; 1905, 138, 178, 270; 1906, 104,264,471. The falling off is in proportion to the decrease in the output of the mill in 1906. The output of the mill in 1905 was 150,000,000 feet less than in 1905. There is a gain in dry feet this year of about 3,000,000 feet. Normally the mills shut down about the middle of November and at best the production of lumber this year can hardly be reckoned as better than 30,000,000 feet behind that of last year.

The M. A. furniture sale means merely the year of bargain home fittings of the city each day. New ventures are added to the list of bargains and on Saturday and Sunday there will be an assortment quite satisfactory to all callers. It is a well-known fact that M. A. furniture is not common furniture; it is good enough for any home, and superior to most bargain goods of the kind.

NEW YORK TOWN WANTS WATER FROM NIAGARA.

E. A. Canal Supply Has Become Polluted—A Question for the Government.
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A special to the Tribune from Washington.—Lockport, New York, is anxious to obtain legislative authority for taking the water supply from the Niagara River. It has been obtaining its water from the Erie canal for many years and has been compelled for sanitary reasons to seek relief. The city has obtained bids for the new installation and now the municipal officials are anxious to place a restriction to begin the construction and while authority to construct the "locks" and shore connections, which are to be laid some distance from the bottom of the river. In other sections of the city, the water is to be allowed to pass through the system until its amount has been determined by congress or the secretary of war in the operation of the act of June 29, 1906. The work now being regarded as an obstruction which will not interfere with the navigation of the river and which will be allowed to pass through the system until its amount has been determined by congress or the secretary of war in the operation of the act of June 29, 1906.

GLOSING DAY OF THE W.C.T.U. CONVENTION

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 31.—The white ribbons attending the annual convention of the W. C. T. U. here today began the last day of the session. The general meeting at Parson's Theatre was principally taken up with short addresses by superintendents, followed by a business session. The reading of the reports of the standing committees in the afternoon and the final report of the executive committee wound up the regular business of the convention.
Tonight's short addresses by the presidents will be heard and prize membership banners presented before the final adjournment is taken.

Norman L. McGloan, president of Dramatic Club, of Young Men's Society of St. Joseph, called on Manager Zira for the purpose of securing a large number of seats for the members who desire to attend the performance of Zira, on Friday night and to give an expression of regard for their engagement at the Opera House. As there are about three hundred members of the society it is a compliment to Mr. Col. who is a young man of promise and will make his mark in the profession.

BOARD OF WORKS. STREET LIGHTING.
Sand Point Dredging Will be Done in Time
Remember the Recent Contract When Election Day Comes

No Change in the Carleton Street Car Route—The Orange Street Dump Again.

About half of the dredging at Sand Point has been completed, and from the present outlook the work will be finished a week on Saturday. These facts contained in the report of the sub-committee, read by Ald. Bullock at the board of public works meeting last evening.

An application from the D. A. R. asking that their wharf and warehouse receive some improvement was recommended to the council. The matter of appointing a harbor inspector was referred to a committee. A plan of the proposed location of the Street Railway Company's tracks in Carleton Street was submitted. Communications from Charles Coster and W. O. Dunham were read. These gentlemen protested against the action of the Street Railway Company in running their service through Queen Square, (W.E.) The war department has no objection to this, provided the city of Lockport is willing to take the risk of legislative disapproval of its request for authority to take water from the river in the operation of the act of June 29, 1906. The work now being regarded as an obstruction which will not interfere with the navigation of the river and which will be allowed to pass through the system until its amount has been determined by congress or the secretary of war in the operation of the act of June 29, 1906.

The Orange street dump was the next subject for discussion. Ald. Vanwart said that he had visited the dump and thought that something should be done to improve conditions there. Miss Staines whose residence overlooks the dump has made several complaints. Through her legal advisers she has offered to sell her property to the city for $15,000.
The director was told to look into the matter and to report at a future meeting. During the discussion over street railway matters, H. M. Hopper stated that the company was willing to give a better service, but the city authorities would not meet with their wishes.
The director submitted a report in connection with the fencing at Sand Point. He suggested that a fence, 16 feet long, be placed at the head of No. 2 warehouse, a fence 100 feet long between Nos. 3 and 4 warehouses, and one 40 feet in length between Nos. 2 and 3 warehouses.
The estimated cost was $50. On motion the report was set aside to get the Recorder's opinion.
Application for the position of harbor inspector were received from J. L. Lee and Geo. H. Clarke. The matter was referred to a committee.
Ald. Willett suggested that the jail prisoners be sent to do some work in Dufferin ward. Nothing definite was decided on. The meeting then adjourned.

Allowing the contract to be for 300 lamps it will be seen at least by its necessary to increase the assessment by an amount of $5,000 or in other words to give the Street Railway Co. a present of $3,000 per year for ten years, as it is the only right to suppose their plant as cheap as any of the foresaid plants. In point of fact, on the greater number of lamps the maintenance per lamp should be proportionately less. When it comes round to electing time, which is not very far off the citizens should make it a point to distinguish between the councilors who had a hand in this deal, and those who had not. Also it might be worth noting by how much the taxes of the Street Railway Co. are increased on account of this increase in their business.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

COMMERCIAL.

PLACED $5,000,000 AT 88.
Mr. William Mackenzie, who is working hard in the interests of the Canadian Northern Railway, has returned from England, and has sold $5,000,000 4 per cent. Canadian Northern of Quebec debenture stock at 88. The Springfield house is putting it on the market.

Once or twice Canadian Northern issues have met with rather a chilly reception in London, but they seem to be in more favor now.

Mr. Mackenzie says that he is well pleased with the result of his trip.

BIGGEST GOLD FLOW IN HISTORY.
Last month's gold movement was the greatest in history.
England exported $46,885,875 gold, $24,815,000 of which came to the United States.

Never before has such a flow of the precious metal taken place from England, and only once has the movement to the United States been exceeded.

The maximum monthly gold export to the States from England in the same year 1893 was $27,115,835, in August.

Russia drew $7,400,000 gold from England, Egypt $2,500,000, Britain $2,014,000, and other countries of the world $9,163,000. Thus a new record was established in the history of Great Britain's exports, and the Bank of England's action is further explained.

The following table shows England's exports of gold last month and their destination, compared with a year ago:

To:	Sept. 1906.	Sept. 1905.
Russia	$7,400,000	$2,850,000
Germany	222,945	4,255
France	148,358	1,429,414
Spain	18,000	550,000
United States	4,983,000	658,000
Brazil	18,000	608,000
Argentina	480,000	200,000
India	403,900	387,200
Other countries	429,777	477,292
Total exports	$8,337,175	$4,446,573

SHAREHOLDERS TO GET $700,000 MORE.
Canadian banks in 1906 will distribute $700,000 more in dividends than they did in 1905.

Bank after bank within the past twelve months has come to the front with an announcement of some sort, either of a larger dividend, a quarterly instead of semi-annual payments, or an increase in capital stock.

Some have announced all three and all, with one or two exceptions, have shown greatly increased profits in spite of the costly expansion in the way of new branches.

Thirteen banks have increased dividends, and the table shows approximately the amounts they paid to shareholders in 1906 and the amounts they will pay in 1906:

UNIONS' WAR ON JAP LABOR

Fighting California Began Ten Years Ago.

Segregation of School Children Only an Incident in the Effort to Exclude All Japanese Workmen

The fight waged by organized labor against the Japanese on the Pacific Coast, in Hawaii and Alaska, which has now developed into an international matter, has been of about ten years duration and of a scope much broader than the present difficulty over the exclusion of Japanese children from San Francisco's schools indicates. The Japanese Government doubtless has been advised before this time of the character of the labor campaign against its citizens, but has awaited this last manifestation before taking action.

A law passed by the Legislature of California five years ago providing for the segregation of all Orientals into separate schools is the only legislative act that the organized labor party has been able to invoke in its fight. The rest of the campaign has been carried on unaided and in a manner characteristic of labor agitators.

Before the entrance of the Japanese into the labor field of California and the northern coast States began to be seriously felt their presence in the fields of Hawaii and the fish packing plants of Alaska was taken by white laborers as a menace. In Hawaii the labor situation became acute last year, when in one instance the Japanese field hands on a plantation on Oahu became so incensed at the effort of organized labor to oust them from their work that a week of rioting followed, and the militia from Honolulu had to be hurried to the scene.

Most of the sugar plantations in Hawaii are worked on the sub-contract system. The contractors are directly by the owners to cultivate and cut the cane, parcel out their acres to Japanese coolies on the islands and who in turn employ the labor. This system, begun about ten years ago, has proved so profitable that now all the great plantations in the islands are worked by Japanese, to the exclusion of other laborers, and the immigration of Japanese coolies has been yearly greater, save during the period of the Russo-Japanese war.

In the fish canneries of Alaska and the Columbia River region of Washington the Japanese padrone system has been duplicated. Several thousands of Japanese are now employed in manual labor of the lowest order involved in cleaning, cutting and packing the salmon. Their wages are paid by the sub-contractor and are lower than the wages formerly demanded by white labor. The number of white laborers employed in the fish packing plants has steadily decreased.

In California the Japanese labor first sought the fruit fields, and it is in the work of cutting, drying and packing fruit that the unorganized, ununionized Japs has the most strongly entrenched himself. In this field the padrone system is not in use, the manager of the fruit ranches deals directly with the individual Jap laborer at a lower wage than that demanded by white laborers.

In the raisin picking district throughout the San Joaquin valley region, in the citrus belt of Southern California and in the apple country along the foothills the Japanese have been growing more numerous every year. Yet the labor field has not been monopolized by the Nipponese as is demonstrated each year when the ranch owners are hard put to it to get laborers of any kind to pick their fruit.

Other fields of unskilled labor invaded by the Japanese are those of section work on the railroads, clam and abalone digging along the coast, and house service. In the latter occupation the Japanese have been engaging in greater numbers yearly. Most of the Japanese house servants are young men who attend school between meal times and sit up over their books every night.

As a class they have been found more efficient than the average Swedish or German girl from the employment office. The Japanese house servants usually ask smaller pay than that given other servants out of consideration for the fact that they are absent from their duties certain hours each day. The average pay of a Jap boy in the employ of a white family on the employment agency gets $30 and more.

In the cities the men from the Orient own non-union restaurants, they run non-union barber shops and even do carpentry work and jobbing. In Fresno, one of the cities where the unions have boycotted the Jap restaurants, put sandwich men in front of their stores and even resorted to some instances of violence. The Japs are not recognized as eligible to join the unions, nor would they do so if they could, each individual being, as a matter of fact, the member of some far older and far more powerful trade union in his own land.

The organized labor protest against the brown men in California began first in the fruit industry, and there it is still the strongest. No attempt is made to exclude the Japs from the non-union work, but they have been frequent armed clash between the whites and the Japs, resulting from an attempt on the part of the white laborers to drive the little fellows out of the field, sending them to the death there last fall and no arrests were made.

ifornia labor and inserts a Japanese exclusion plank in the coming platform all the Pacific Coast and half the mountain states will go Democratic. This manifesto is really from the union labor party in politics. The league is its league and the league's principles its principles.

MAYOR SEARS AT Y. M. A. RE-UNION

Pleasant Gathering in Portland Street Methodist Church Last Night

The Y. M. A. of Portland street Methodist church held their annual reunion in their rooms last evening. The function was a pleasing one and was attended by about double the number that were present at the same gathering last year. His Worship Mayor Sears was present and responded to the toast to the city in a manner that was appreciated. After a very tempting repast a very enjoyable programme was carried out consisting of a number of toasts interspersed with recitations and musical selections.

The president, Allen Lingley, repeated the King which was responded to in the usual manner. A. McGinnis proposed Canada which was responded to by F. A. Armour and M. E. Grass. The city was proposed by J. N. Harvey in a practical speech and responded to by Mayor Sears, who in speaking of the establishment of industries mentioned some men in the city who were exercises of their own powers and personality had succeeded in establishing industries in this city.

POLICE BLAMED FOR ATLANTA RACE RIOTS

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 29.—In its presentments today the Fulton County jury declared that had the city police "opposed a determined front to the mob at the inception of the riots Sept. 22, all serious trouble could have been averted."

The jury also declared that the police were guilty of neglecting to guard the streets during the riots, and that they were guilty of allowing the mob to burn the homes of several negroes.

WEDDINGS.

BECKWITH-URQUHART.

At Dorchester, Mass., Oct. 19th, the marriage took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Urquhart, 37 Dilson street, of Miss Caroline M. E. Beckwith, to Mr. Charles W. Beckwith of Dorchester, the ceremony being performed by Rev. N. B. Jones of Rosindale, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white tulle with bridal veil and carried a bouquet of white roses, and was attended by Mrs. Lloyd E. Urquhart and Miss Sadie McAdams, both attired in white silk, while the groom was supported by Lloyd E. Urquhart, brother of the bride.

SELLER-MARSH.

Rev. W. E. Seller, son of Rev. Jos. Seller, formerly stationed at Richfield, was married last week to Miss Mabel Marsh, of Chicago, Illinois. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Seller will be Chicago, where Mr. Seller is taking an advanced course in theology.

COULLE-BELLIS.

Miss Aurelia Alice Bellis, of Bathurst, N. B., and George Farnsworth Coulle, of St. John, N. B., were married Wednesday, October 24th, by Rev. W. H. Van Allen, in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Bathurst, N. B. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Coulle is a former well known resident of Carleton, a son of the late Nelson Coulle and a brother of Mrs. Charles F. Wade of this city.

Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Gibson were passengers on the Allan Line Transatlantic on her last voyage to Liverpool. On the passage a contest was given in the Liverpool Seamen's Orphan's Institute, and at this contest Rev. Mr. Gibson acted as choirmaster. Mrs. Gibson, nee Miss Edith Louise Henderson, was accompanied, and also contributed a number of vocal solos.

Such an experience could not fail to emphasize Mr. Gryce's interest in the case and heighten the determination to solve the mystery. He had explained all its extraordinary features. Arrived at Headquarters, where his presence was doubtless awaited with some anxiety by those who knew nothing of the cause of his long detention, his first act was to inquire if Barton, the butler, had come to his senses during the night.

The answer was disappointing. Not only was there no change in his condition, but the expert in lunacy who had returned to pass upon the case had expressed an opinion unfavorable to his immediate recovery.

Mr. Gryce looked sober, and, summoning the officer who had managed Barton's arrest, he asked how the mute had acted when he found himself detained.

The answer was curt, but very much to the point.
"Surprised, sir. Shook his head and made some queer gestures, then went through his pantomime. It's quite a spectacle, sir. Foot, he keeps holding his hand back, so."

Mr. Gryce noted the gesture; it was empty of any meaning, but he had a feeling that he had recognized it. He had a feeling that he had recognized it. He had a feeling that he had recognized it.

The officer went out, and Mr. Gryce sat for a few moments with his head in his hand, during which he took out a little package from his pocket, and examined it. It was a small package, and he had a feeling that he had recognized it.

"You want a hand in this matter?" he said interrogatively. "I don't know closed behind them and they found themselves alone."

"Oh, sir," began the young man in a glow which made his more than plain features interesting to contemplation. "I am a detective, sir. I am a detective, sir. I am a detective, sir."

"I should at least like to try," he said. "I should at least like to try," he said. "I should at least like to try," he said.

"I should at least like to try," he said. "I should at least like to try," he said. "I should at least like to try," he said.

stress of extraordinary emotion or fear. The name of the owner was not on it.
"Nor that of the maker?"
Mr. Gryce had expected this question, and was glad not to be disappointed.

"No, that would have helped us too much."
"And the hour at which this lady was seen on the curbstone at Hudson's?"
"Half-past four, the moment at which the telephone message arrived."
"Very good, sir. It is the hardest task I have ever undertaken, but that's against it. When shall I see you again?"

"When you have something to impart. Ah, wait a minute. I have my suspicion that this woman's first name is Evelyn. But, mind, it is only a suspicion."
"All right, sir," and with an air of some confidence the man disappeared.

Mr. Gryce did not look as if he shared young Sweetwater's cheerfulness. The mist surrounding the affair was as yet range as a barrier. But then he was not twenty-three, with only triumphant memories behind him.

His next hope lay in the information likely to accrue from the published accounts of this crime, now spread broadcast over the country.

Adams' wealth and culture must necessarily have possessed many acquaintances, whom the surprising news of his sudden death would naturally bring to light, especially as no secret was made of his means and many valuable effects. But as to this affair, destined to be one of the last to engage the powers of this sagacious old man, he had no time to spare.

Even his landlord could add little to the general knowledge. He had first movement he saw Mr. Adams through a Philadelphia lawyer, since dead, who had assured him of his client's respectability and undoubted ability to pay his bills. When they came together and Mr. Adams was introduced to him, he emptied out on his desk the asetic had been struck, first, by the asetic and, secondly, by his reserved manners and quiet intelligence. But admiring as he had found him, he had never succeeded in making his acquaintance.

The rent had been uniformly paid with great exactitude on the very first day it was due, but his own visits had never been encouraged or his advances met by anything but the cold politeness of a polished and totally indifferent man. Indeed, he had always looked upon his tenant as a bookworm, absorbed in study and such scientific experiments as could be carried on with no other assistance than that of his dead and dumb servant.

Asked if he knew anything about this servant, he answered that his acquaintance with him was limited to the two occasions on which he had been ushered by him into his master's presence; that he knew nothing of his character and general disposition, and could not say whether his attitude toward his master had been one of allegiance or antagonism.

And so the way was blocked in this direction.
Taken into the room where Mr. Adams had died, he surveyed in amazement the huge steel plate which blocked the doorway, and the high windows through which only a few straggling sunbeams could find their way. Pointing to the windows, he remarked: "These were filled in at Mr. Adams' request. Originally they extended down to the wainscoting, and were plastered with brick and plaster. The plate had been introduced and also the window was prepared and arranged as a barrier. But he could give no explanation of it or divine the purpose for which it had been placed there so great an expense."
The lamp was another curiosity, and its varying lights the cause of increasing astonishment. Indeed, he had known nothing of these arrangements, having been received in the parlor when he visited the house, where there was nothing to attract his attention or emphasize the well-known oddities of his tenant.

KENT COUNTY IN GRIP OF SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC

75 Cases in Small Radius—Quarantine Ineffectual and Disease is Spreading—Moncton Endangered—N.S. Lumber Camp Infected—Local Authorities Appeal to Provincial Board of Health.

MONCTON, Oct. 30.—Seventy-five cases of smallpox within a radius of a few miles and in one house thirteen members of a family seriously ill with the dread disease, shows the fearful spread of the epidemic in Kent county.

The affected district is in the vicinity of St. Anthony and St. Norbert, and at a meeting of the city Board of Health last evening a detailed report of the prevalence of the disease was submitted by Dr. Botford.

A man named Ella Gallant went through Moncton from the infected district some few weeks ago and went to Shiole, securing work in a lumber camp. Last Friday he developed smallpox and was seen there by Dr. Botford.

Chairman Fisher of the provincial board arrives here tonight and will confer with the local authorities tomorrow morning.

Premier Tweedie was in the city yesterday, and in conversation with a Sun reporter said that he had wired Dr. Fisher of the Provincial Board of Health to proceed at once to St. Anthony's and take charge of the work of caring for the patients and of preventing the further spread of the disease.

THE SMALLPOX CASE.

The smallpox patient, Miss Mary Guy, is reported to be no worse today, and it is not thought that the young woman's illness will end fatally. Dr. Pratt is attending the patient.

A new guard, named Black, was appointed today to take the place of one who was put on yesterday. Ernest Flewelling was night guard, and he was relieved yesterday morning by another, who, by his conduct may help the disease to spread. The man became intoxicated and went into the quarantined house, where he slept for some hours. He was seen coming out of one of the windows in the house at one o'clock this morning. Quarantine was summoned and relieved him. It is needless to say that the man at once was dismissed from the employ of the board of health.

Mr. Stevens, an inmate of the house, admits allowing the guard to pass by way of the window. Mr. Stevens' action was also a careless one, as it was his duty to hold the guard there. He would have then been quarantined in the house, and a week or two of confinement, would have been but his just deserts. The guard left the house and went to his home which is near the cotton factory.

At a meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon it was decided to notify the provincial board so that steps may be taken to prevent infection from Piquash, N. S., where Miss Guy probably contracted the disease.

BURIED ON THE BANK OF ST. JOHN RIVER

No Religious Service Over the Body of George Murphy.

He Was Found Dead From Liquor in an Abandoned Building at St. Leonard's People Excited About Matter.

The village of St. Leonard's, in Madawaska County, has for some days been in a state of excitement over developments following the finding of a body. Briefly, the body was not admitted to the Catholic cemetery, no application to the owners of the Protestant cemetery was made, and the dead man was buried on the bank of the St. John river at a place used as pasture for horses and cattle.

It appears that about a quarter of a mile below A. J. Ridd's hotel on the railway track, there is an old, unused building which has fallen into decay. The windows and doors are all gone, and the building is almost tumbling down. On Sunday morning, a number of children who were playing along the track went into this building and were horrified to find the body of a man lying there. In terror they fled back to the village and told people what they had seen. A number of citizens went down, accompanied by Coroner Brockett. They looked at the body and identified it as that of George Murphy, aged about 40 years, who had been knocking around St. Leonard's for some little time.

Nothing was done on Sunday, but on Monday afternoon the coroner secured a jury and they went down and looked at the body. It was evident that the man had been there for two or three days, and also evident that his death resulted from the effects of liquor. Alongside of him was a whisky bottle, partly empty, was lying.

Coroner Brockett notified the parish priest, who, in turn, examined the body, but finding no evidence that the deceased was a Catholic, declined to admit him to burial in the Catholic cemetery. The Star is informed from a reliable citizen of St. Leonard's that no effort was made by the coroner, or anyone else connected with the case, to have the man interred in the Protestant cemetery, but that without the help of the village he was taken to the river bank and buried there without service of any sort.

George Murphy was supposed to be a native of Fort Fairfield, Me., and it is understood that he has a brother now living there. He worked for some time at Brown's Mill at Van Buren, and was also employed as a section hand on the Bangor and Arrowscroft Railway. He had been drinking for some days. In his pockets there were a few dollars, and a check for $15.00, including a check for three dollars from some party on the Van Buren side of the river. There is very strong feeling in St. Leonard's over the action of the officials in not taking further steps towards giving the unfortunate a proper burial, and it is not unlikely that complaints will be made to the provincial government.

TAKING STEPS TO STOP THE DUMPING OF ASHES

Aldermen Think the Ash Holes Should be Closed While Steamers are in Port.

The harbor inspectors have not yet been appointed. One of their chief duties is to prevent the ashes from the winter port vessels being dumped into the harbor. The dredge which has been at No. 1 berth has dug up a great quantity of ashes, in fact the greater part of the rubbish brought up was dumped overboard from steamers. In other parts the ash holes are sealed up as soon as a steamer comes into port, and several aldermen think that the same thing might be done here. The ashes may be dumped into the harbor right along, however vigilant the inspectors may be, as the ash holes are under the surface, Mayor Sears says that the old Dominion charter gave the mayor authority to deal with such cases, but he did not know exactly what steps could be taken under the new charter. It is very probable, however, that the officials of a city are entitled to deal with such matters, whether the offending vessel be a royal mail steamship, or a schooner. The current at No. 1 berth did not move the pile of ashes, so it may be easily imagined that the spot was well filled up.

HALIFAX ENGINEER WAS SENT BACK HOME

James Mutch, Weak in His Mind, Was Stopped When Trying to Leave for Boston.

James Mutch, a retired marine engineer, whose home is in Halifax, attempted to board the steamer St. Croix this morning but was put ashore by the United States immigration officer as an undesirable person. The man seems demented and his absence from his Halifax home has caused his relatives some uneasiness. The police department was communicated with by Mrs. Mutch and the old engineer was escorted to central police station by Sgt. Baxter. He was restrained by an officer, Chief Clark in answer to the Star's inquiry said that the man was not detained but was allowed to stay there of his own accord although his wife had been worried about him. Sgt. Baxter escorted Mr. Mutch to the I. C. R. station and saw him safely away on the Atlantic express bound for Halifax.

SNUG COSY ENGLISH FLANNELETTES

For Women and Children's Underwear, Children's Dresses; Shirts and Pyjamas for Boys and Men.

WE HAVE ALREADY HAD A FORETASTE of winter's harsh biting airs, more's to follow. It's warm woollen underwear time, and mothers know it. In our Linen and Flannel Section we are showing an immense range of the best imported Flannelettes. Patterns are staple and novel; colorings just what are wanted. High grade materials in the widths and at prices quoted alongside here. The "Non-Flam" quality is a new thing; it is a non-flaming fabric, which ensures children, or anybody, from the frequent danger of burning nightclothes. For stirring children it is a safeguard worth considering. Good mannish Flannelettes for Shirts and Pyjama Suits, in fact our stock is most comprehensive along these lines.
