

ADVERTISING RATES. $1.00 per inch for ordinary transient advertisements. For Sale, Wanted, etc., 50 cents each insertion.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN

BRITISH TRADE. Whatever views may be held in Great Britain on the subject of free trade and other trade, there is no question that the foreign trade has not increased during the past six years, but has fallen off.

General Hutton declares that he has had no dispute with Minister Borden. It appears to be admitted that the General retired Major Talbot and afterwards restored him to the service.

PECULIAR POISONS. The result of imperfect digestion of food. Every living thing, plant or animal, contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

BRETHREN AT VARIANCE. Mr. Richardson, M. P., who in the interest of the old-fashioned liberals, leads the revolt against Siftonism in the west, has expressed himself with energy against the pledge-breakers of his own party.

HIS MISSION ENDED. The German emperor, having cried "Peace on earth" on Mount Zion, will now return home to inspect the bear driving machine in the world-Springfield, Republican.

The Canadian sealing fleet has been valued by two appraisers. If by paying the largest amount estimated the United States could obtain a monopoly of the sealing business for all future time, the bargain would be good enough even for a Yankee.

General Hutton declares that he has had no dispute with Minister Borden. It appears to be admitted that the General retired Major Talbot and afterwards restored him to the service.

PECULIAR POISONS. The result of imperfect digestion of food. Every living thing, plant or animal, contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

BRETHREN AT VARIANCE. Mr. Richardson, M. P., who in the interest of the old-fashioned liberals, leads the revolt against Siftonism in the west, has expressed himself with energy against the pledge-breakers of his own party.

HIS MISSION ENDED. The German emperor, having cried "Peace on earth" on Mount Zion, will now return home to inspect the bear driving machine in the world-Springfield, Republican.

NOVA SCOTIA NEWS.

HALIFAX, Nov. 25.—The Atlantic port committee submitted a report to the council of the board of trade today concerning the attitude of the railway department and the minister of railways as detrimental to Halifax and a violation of the government's promise to this port.

WOLFVILLE, Nov. 28.—The tongue of the college bell, which was removed during the annual sophomore racket, has been restored to its place, at the solicitations of the president.

AMHERST, Nov. 29.—On Thanksgiving day Henry Horseman was practically caught red handed and now awaits his trial before Judge Morse.

LAWRENCE TOWN, N. S., Nov. 28.—The concert and turkey supper held in the Baptist church realized $42.

AMHERST, N. S., Dec. 1.—The funeral of the late Nelson Albert, who died at the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Mr. McGowan and Rev. Mr. Macdonald.

HALIFAX, Dec. 1.—Tonight the Wanderers are giving the victorious football team a smoker.

GLOBE LOAN AND SAVINGS CO., COR. VICTORIA AND LOMBARD STS., TORONTO.

E. W. Day, manager Globe Loan and Savings Co., says: "I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable. We have thousands of testimonials from prominent business men all over the Dominion."

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON.

LESSON XI—December 11. GOLDEN TEXT. The word of our God shall stand forever.—Isa. 40: 8.

THE SECTION. Includes only a brief but critical period of four years, the three months of Jehoiachaz.

THE PLACE IN THE HISTORY. The last four years of Judah, before the first captivity began.

HISTORICAL SETTING. Time of this event, B. C. 605-4, about the fourth year of Jehoiachaz.

TRYING TO DESTROY GOD'S WORD.—Jeremiah 36: 20-22. Read Jeremiah 36.

20. And they went in to the king into the chamber of Elisheama the scribe, and told all the words in the ears of the king.

21. So the king sent Jehudi to fetch the roll; and he took it out of Elisheama the scribe's chamber, and Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes which stood beside the king.

22. Now the king sat in the winter house in the ninth month; and there was a fire (a) on the hearth, burning before him.

23. And it came to pass that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves, (b) he cut it with the penknife and cast it into the fire that was (a) on the hearth.

24. Take thee again another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the first roll, which Jehoiachaz the king of Judah hath burned.

25. And thou shalt say (d) to Jehoiachaz king of Judah, Thus saith the Lord: Thou hast burned this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall cause to cease from thence man and beast:

26. Therefore thus saith the Lord (d) to Jehoiachaz king of Judah, Because thou hast burned this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall cause to cease from thence man and beast:

27. And I will punish him and his seed, and his servants for their iniquity; and I will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced against them; but they hearkened not.

28. Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it to Baruch the scribe, the son of Neriah; who wrote therein from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiachaz king of Judah had burned in the fire; and there were added besides unto them many like words.

REVISION CHANGES. Ver. 22, (a) In the presser. Ver. 23, (b) That the king cut. Ver. 26, (c) The king's son. Ver. 29, 30, (d) Concerning.

LIGHT ON THE TEXT. Nebuchadnezzar had besieged Jerusalem in the third (Dan. 1: 1) and fourth (Jer. 36: 1) years of Jehoiachaz. His father was king of Babylon, but died while the son was at Jerusalem.

PENTAGOEI MISSING. A Steamer that Formerly Ran Between St. John and New York.

900 DROPS. SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF EVERY BOTTLE OF GASTORIA. Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose" for the fact that you get O-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

What did he promise them? When did the event of today's lesson take place? (36: 1.) Who was king? What kind of a man was he? (2 Kings 24: 3, 4.) What great disaster had come upon him? (2 Chron. 36: 6, 7; 2 Kings 24: 1.)

1. What was Jeremiah commanded to do? (36: 1, 2.) Who aided him? (v. 3.) What was the sum of these twenty-three years of prophecy? (v. 2; 1: 15, 16; 4: 26-29; 5: 15-17.) What was the object of all this warning? (3: 4, 13, 14; 1: 2, 3, 4.)

2. What was done with this book when it was written? On what day? In what place? By whom? For what purpose? Should all the people read God's word? Is a revival of religion almost always accompanied by a revival of Bible study?

3. To whom was the book next read? How had they heard of it? What was its effect upon them? What did they determine to do? (v. 10-12.) Why was Jeremiah told to hide? What did he do with the book when they went to the king? Why? What did the king do? How much of the book was read to him? What did he then do with it? Who tried to prevent him? What was the king's object in burning the book? Could he imagine that destroying the book would destroy the warnings in it? Does disobeying the Bible render it any the less true? Who are guilty of the same folly as this king? How should we treat those who warn us?

4. What did God tell Jeremiah to do? What did he say to Jehoiachaz? What befell him? What befell his people? Could they have escaped if they had repented? Are God's warnings certain to be fulfilled? Why are they sent? How should we treat them? What words of Solomon describe this king's conduct and fate? (Prov. 1: 24-32.)

5. What was the result? What are some of God's warnings to us? (Matt. 25: 46; Eph. 5: 6; Rev. 21: 27.) How do those who wish to do wrong treat God's word? (John 3: 20; 8: 37; 2 Tim. 3: 8; 4: 3, 4.) Will this keep the evil from coming? How should we treat God's word? (Matt. 13: 23; 1 Thes. 2: 13; 2 Pet. 3: 1; Rev. 1: 3.)

BEN. J. SCOVILLE OF ST. JOHN. A Boston reader of the Sun, writing under date of Nov. 23, says: "Last night several St. John people had the pleasure of listening to a splendid classical recital by Ben. J. Scoville, a tall but slight young man, with blue eyes and a beautiful light, wavy hair."

PENTAGOEI MISSING. A Steamer that Formerly Ran Between St. John and New York.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 30.—Up to a late hour tonight no information had been received in this city from the missing steamship Pentagoet of the New York and Bangor line.

LOST. In last Sunday's gale from South Musquash, a Salmon Skiff, painted green, with one yellow and one white streak, and white washboards. Any information will be thankfully received by the owner.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF EVERY BOTTLE OF GASTORIA. Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose" for the fact that you get O-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

COWS ARE SCARCER. J. Frank Tilley, dairy superintendent, tells the Woodstock Dispatch that it is only within the last few months that he ever heard a farmer say that dairy cows were scarce in his county.

HALIFAX SCOTTISH BANQUET. HALIFAX, Nov. 30.—One hundred and forty people sat down at St. Andrew's banquet tonight.

MORE TROUBLE IN AFRICA. BRUSSELS, Nov. 30.—The Soli says that trouble has arisen in Africa between Germany and the Congo Free State relative to the respective boundaries of German territory and Congo territory.

RETIRED FROM BUSINESS. HARNES!

DAVID BROWN, -- 9 Charlotte St.

THERE WILL BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION ON SATURDAY, the Fourth day of March next, at fifteen minutes past twelve o'clock in the afternoon, at Child's Corner (so called), in the City of Saint John, in the Province of New Brunswick, all the estate, right, title and interest of WILLIAM THOMPSON in and to all that certain tract of land, situate in the Parish of Simonds (formerly a part of the Parish of Portland), in the City and County of Saint John, in said Province, bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at a marked tree on the western line of a tract of land belonging to Nathaniel H. DeWolf, on the north side of the road to Loch Lomond, thence south fifteen degrees east about one hundred and twenty-seven chains, until it meets the line of a lot sold by James White to Charles Burt, thence south seventy degrees west forty-eight chains and twelve links, thence north fifteen degrees west ninety-six chains to the south side of land in possession of Henry Graham, thence along the said line north seventy-five degrees east forty chains, thence north fifteen degrees east to the Little River Road, and thence along the said road to the place of beginning, containing five hundred acres, with the buildings and appurtenances, being the premises conveyed to one James Knox and the said William Thompson by the Trustees of James Kirk, by deed bearing date the eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and registered in the Records of Deeds in and for the said City and County of Saint John, in Book Q, No. 4, of said Records, pages 278 to 280.

The same having been laid out and sealed by me, the undersigned Sheriff, under and by virtue of Two Executions the sealed state of the said City of Saint John, on the 21st day of March, 1898, against the said William Thompson, and the other at the suit of Messrs. B. Seabright and the said William Thompson.

Dated at the City of Saint John, N. B., this 26th day of November, A. D. 1898. H. LAWRENCE STURDEE, Sheriff of the City and County of St. John.

LOST. In last Sunday's gale from South Musquash, a Salmon Skiff, painted green, with one yellow and one white streak, and white washboards. Any information will be thankfully received by the owner.

WHAT TO BUY AND WHERE TO BUY

Christmas Presents for Man and Boy.

No matter how far you are away from, whether it be ten, twenty, fifty or a hundred miles, this stock is accessible to you. The chances of getting what you want are as great and safe as if you visited us in person. Scores of persons avail themselves of our mail order department each week because we have made it easy to buy what they want, and easy to get your money back if you want it.

Now is the time to do the Christmas shopping before the city rush begins, while stocks are fresh and full of sizes. Your chances of being suited are double what they will be during Christmas week. The following hints taken at random from our vast assortment of clothing and furnishings for man and boy may put you at ease as to what to give to each male member of the family.

NECKWEAR.	SUSPENDERS.	HANDKERCHIEFS.	UNDERWEAR.	COLLARS.
Bow-strings, four-in-hands, tacks and puffs, showing the newest shapes, patterns and colorings produced by the up-to-date makers in Canada and English markets at 25 and 50 cents each.	All the good substantial makes in great variety of webs, buckles and ends, for either work or dress, at 25c, 35, 40c, 50c, and 75c. Fancy embroidered satin suspenders at 50c and $1, in separate boxes.	Fine Irish Lawn by the dozen, $1 and $1.50. China Silk Initial Handkerchiefs at 25c, 35c and 50c. GLOVES. The cheapest glove we keep is 50c. Comes in several shades of tan, calfskin, and is fleecy-lined. Better quality calfskin gloves	fleece-lined, are 65c, 90c, and $1. Undressed kid gloves, fleecy-lined, $1.00, $1.35. Then we have fine kid gloves fur-lined, fur top, at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.50, which represent the largest and finest display of dress gloves for cold weather wear that we have ever shown. Heavy Canadian wool, double-breasted, the best value we have ever shown, at 50c and 75c a garment. Fine Canadian selected wool underwear, at $1 and $1.50 a garment. Heavy fleecy-lined underwear at 50c and $1 a garment.	Straight standing, turnover point and turn down, popular styles in a four-ply linen, at $1.50 a dozen. CUFFS. Link, or straight at $1.25 per half dozen pairs.

CLOTHING.

A clothing bargain that now stands out brighter than all others in this stock is the offering of one thousand men's ulsters at about one-half the regular prices. This large stock bought from a manufacturer who has given up the making of low priced clothing and closed out the entire stock in his warehouse to us at a price which was less than the bare cost of the cloth contained in the garments.

These ulsters are priced as follows, $4, $4.50, $5, $6 and $8, and are worth at least from $2 to $4 more. Along with the ulsters came one thousand overcoats and reefers, about five hundred of each, which are priced equally as low as the ulsters.

We would urge any person who needs either a reefer, overcoat, or ulster to see these, and if it is impossible for you to see them, let us send you what you want by express. If it happens not to be what you want, we will pay the return charges and return the money, thus dividing the risk with you.

Overcoats and reefers, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $6.00 and $8.00.

BOYS' CLOTHING.

How many families are there within hearing of this advertisement that have boys that want Reefers, or Ulsters, or Suits?

We would like to know, we would like to supply their needs with the best values that ever left this store.

REEFERS.

A heavy blue nap reefer for boys, 4 to 12 years, at $1.50.
A heavy black frieze reefer, boys, 4 to 10 years, at $2.00.
For boys 11 to 16 years, $2.50.

Heavy Canadian frieze Reefers for boys, 4 to 16 years, at $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00.

BOYS' ULSTERS.

Heavy Canadian frieze Ulsters, for boys 4 to 16 years, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00.

BOYS' SUITS.

For boys, 4 to 10 years, 50 patterns to choose from, in plain and fancy tweeds, and blue serges. Pleated Jacket, at $2, $3, $4 and $5.
For boys, 10 to 16 years, single and double-breasted suits in tweeds and chevrets and serges at $3, $4, $5, and $6.

TO HELP YOU we have issued BUY BY MAIL a book which contains detailed account of the entire stock, illustrated with pictures taken from life, and which we will send to any address free on request.

CLUB TOGETHER and have your orders sent in one package, thus reducing the express charges and liability of articles going astray. We prepay express charges on all orders over $5.00, with the exception of the men's ulsters, overcoats and reefers mentioned in this advertisement.

GREATER OAK HALL

Scovil Bros. & Co.

CITY NEWS.

Recent Events in and Around St. John,

Together With Country Items from Correspondents and Exchanges

When ordering the address of your WEEKLY SUN to be changed, send the NAME of the POST OFFICE to which the paper is going as well as that of the office to which you wish it sent.

Remember! The NAME of the Post Office must be sent in all cases to ensure prompt compliance with your request.

THE SUN PRINTING COMPANY, issuing weekly $500 copies of THE WEEKLY SUN, challenges the circulation of all papers published in the Maritime Provinces. Advertisers, please make a note of this.

Thomas Trainor, aged 90 years, died at Emerald, P. E. I., on Nov. 23rd.

The steamer Horton will load 110,000 bushels of oats at Charlottetown for Great Britain.

Charles McClosky of Gibson now denies the report that he was recently robbed in St. John of $30.

A counterfeit ten-cent Canadian piece is in circulation. The coin is well made and hardly can be detected from the genuine article except in the "jingle." The counterfeit seems to be composed of lead and tin.

Dunn's mill at Grand Bay started sawing on 23rd ult. and will probably run until a week or ten days before Christmas.

Messrs. Fruing & Co. of Alexander's Point, Gloucester Co., cleared two brigas last week loaded with cod fish for foreign ports.

Dr. Mary E. MacLeod, sister of W. F. MacLeod, has opened an office for the practice of medicine in this city.

Ben Hachey, son of J. I. S. Hachey, merchant of Bathurst Village, was married Tuesday, Nov. 22nd, to Miss Kelly of Chatham.

The steamer Hampstead came down river Tuesday morning on her last trip of the season. She will be laid up at Indiantown at once.

Rev. D. H. McQuarrie of Port Maitland has been called to the pastorate of the Fairbairn, N. S., Baptist church in succession to the Rev. E. H. Howe.

Henry B. Irons of St. John and Miss Elsie J. Smith of Houlton, Me., were married by Rev. A. E. Lepage on Friday, Nov. 25th.—Woodstock Press.

D. C. Fraser, M. P., left Vancouver, B. C., for the north by the steamer Drigo on Nov. 22nd. He is going on business to the White Pass, near Skagway.

Rev. Howard Doane died last week at Newark, New Jersey. He was a native of Barrington and formerly a member of the Nova Scotia Methodist conference.

The Summerside Methodist church has extended a call to Rev. Nell McLaughlin of Gagetown, N. B.

Advertisements in the "Semi-Weekly Sun."

Maynard Fielden of Hantsport, N. S., has passed as first mate for coast trade and will go to Buenos Ayres as mate of the bark Palmouth, now loading at Bear River.

The marriage took place at Portland, Me., last week of Wesley J. Murray and Miss Minnie M. Meyer of Yarmouth. Mr. Nelson S. J. Murray of Broadbent, P. E. I., was best man.

John W. Mosley of Penfield, Charlottetown, has been sworn in preventive officer of customs for the district of Lepreau. The sub-collectorship of customs at that point has been abolished.

The late Thomas Lynch, recently drowned at Woodstock, is the fourth son whose death his mother has been called to mourn within two years. Her husband died less than three weeks ago.

Capt. J. A. Harris will leave Yarmouth to become second officer on the new steamer Pharsalia, which it is expected will sail from Liverpool in December. He was an officer on the Arabela, which was lost last summer.

Corporal James Standerling of C. Co., 82nd Fusiliers, died suddenly at the public general hospital on Wednesday, 29th ult., of peritonitis. He was buried with military honors on Friday at 2.30 p. m., from his late residence, Erin street.

A birthday party was held at the residence of Capt. C. Gibbons, Bayswater, on Thanksgiving day, in honor of his daughter, Miss Edna Gibbons, who is a general favorite in the community. The affair was a great social success.

The remains of James P. DeVine, mate of a coasting schooner, who died in the St. John public hospital, were taken to Dipper Harbor on Thursday for interment. Mr. DeVine had been in the hospital about two months.

On Friday evening David Gay of Tabusinae, aged 75 years, while endeavoring to get his horses out of the barn, which was on fire, was himself burned to death. The crops and farm implements in the barn were all destroyed. Mr. Gay leaves a widow and one son.

John Kent of Portland, Me., aged 74 years, and a native of Truro, N. S., was found dead in the woods at Beech Ridge, near Portland, on Saturday. He was a sparker. He was married in Truro, and moved to Portland thirty years ago. He leaves a widow, two daughters and three sons.

Mrs. Alice M. Case, wife of John P. Case, grocer, of Duke street, died Wednesday morning after a long illness at the residence of E. W. Thomson, Main street, north end. Mrs. Case was a daughter of the late Charles Cowan of north end, and had a large circle of acquaintances.

Mary E., widow of the late William Bubar, died Sunday night at her home in Maryville, at the age of eighty-two years. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Wm. White, of Maryville, and four sons, one of whom is A. L. Bubar of St. John.

Charles Covey of Halifax died on Friday. Mr. Covey was 85 years of age, and he and Mrs. Covey had celebrated their sixtieth anniversary of their wedding on the previous day. He was then apparently in excellent health and spirits.

The remains of James P. DeVine, mate of a coasting schooner, who died in the St. John public hospital, were taken to Dipper Harbor on Thursday for interment. Mr. DeVine had been in the hospital about two months.

VETERINARY DEPARTMENT.

Conducted By J. W. Manchester V. S., St. John, N. B.

THE WEEKLY SUN takes pleasure in notifying its readers that it has perfected arrangements with J. W. Manchester, V. S., whereby all questions with respect to diseases of the lower animals will be answered by him, and treatment prescribed in those cases where it is asked for through the columns of THE SUN.

All enquiries must be addressed: VETERINARY DEPARTMENT, Weekly Sun, St. John, N. B.

J. C. D.—A valuable four year old colt bruised one of the bones of his nose about six months ago. About three months ago it turned into a running sore, and will not heal up. The matter that comes from it is yellow with bloody streaks, and smells very bad indeed. What can I put on it to heal it?

Ans.—Nothing but an operation will cure your case. A part of the bone is dead and must be removed. You had better consult your nearest veterinary surgeon and get him to operate on the colt.

Subscriber—I have a colt about eight months old. I weaned it when it was four months old, and it seemed well and fat then. I have given it plenty of oats, cornmeal, hay, etc., but it is not doing well. It is thin, bloated and its coat is rough. What had I better do about it?

Ans.—You have probably been feeding your colt too much, and it has got indigestion. Give less food, no cornmeal, and also give it a quart of limewater daily in food or drinking water, also give it two drams of Pepsin daily in food or dissolved in water and given as a drench.

Theophilus—A cow six years old is troubled with fits of some kind. She will tremble all over, wink her eyes, froth at the mouth and then fall over.

After she falls over she seems all right again, except that she appears to be partially blind and will walk against objects that are in her way.

Ans.—The trouble with your cow is some kind of epileptic disease, and will be very difficult to do much with. In some cases bleeding from the jugular vein is useful. Take about six quarts at a time, and bleed twice a month. After bleeding give a sharp purgative, say about one pound of Sulphate of Magnesia.

Farmer—Yours is a well marked case of Lymphangitis, or inflammation of the lymphatic of the leg. The acute attack is over by this time. Give plenty of regular exercise and good nourishing food. Also give daily in food one tablespoonful of the following mixture: Sulphate of Iron, ounce 4; Sulphate of Copper, ounce 2; Veratrum Album, one dram; mix. Also give in drinking water one ounce of Fowler's Solution of Arsenic.

SUICIDE AT SUMMERSIDE. A Summerside despatch of Tuesday to the Guardian says:

"A particularly sad case occurred at Summerside, N. B., on Monday. Mrs. Hayden, who had been suffering from puerperal fever for about a week past, could no longer endure her condition, and she took her life by suicide. Early this morning before the family were up she left the house in her night-dresses, and this forenoon her dead body was found in a well about three quarters of a mile from her home. She was about sixty years of age and leaves a husband and family of five children."

Five steamships have arrived at St. John this week.

FREE AT THE SIGNATURE OF...
HITCHCOCK...
ON THE UPPER EVERY...
TITLE OF...
TORIA...
one-size bottles only. In Don't allow anyone to sell the pills or promise that it will answer every case you get O-A-S-T-O-E-I-A.
HITCHCOCK...
is an every wrapper.

ARE SCARCE. Dairy superintendent, tells Dispatch that it is only few months that he ever saw that dairy cows were so fat. There are more dairy cows than last. Last winter one from Hill to Hill, $25 is a low figure, and so at that. The low price of the increasing interest in the cause of this says he wrote to Prof. the Agricultural College, asked him how much a pig for his own feeding said making butter that he per lb. Prof. Dean answered with other grain gave a cents, with butter of ing on the soil a more valu-

OTTISH BANQUET. Now 300—One hundred sat down at St. An's tonight. Hon. Mr. elected but did not receive the seal and was fallax and would see it air show from the gov- gratulations from sister received. The dinner the most brilliant in

UBLE IN AFRICA. v. 20.—The Solr says that in Africa between Ger- nio Free State relative to sundries of German terri- tory, north of the Congo added by the Solr that Germans has been sent country while the Congo- va have been considerably

FROM BUSINESS. will sell his entire stock of on the highest driver, the Farm and Lumber, Harness, Sags, Blankets and Stable Re- sistance for cash. Call early as the entire stock must be in three months. The Collec- and Beautiful Display Horse

BE SOLD AT PUBLIC TURDAY, the Fourth day at fifteen minutes past the afternoon, at Chubb's in the City of Saint John, of New Brunswick, all the and interest of WILLIAM a marked tree on the tract of land belonging to the south side of Leonard, thence south fifty feet to the line of the James White to Charles in seventy degrees, and twelve links, thence west ninety-six chains of land in possession of hence along the said line degrees east forty chains a degree west to the line and thence along the said of beginning, containing with the buildings and the premises conveyed to and the said William Trustees of James Kirk, by the eighteenth day of year of our Lord one hundred and fifty-nine, and records of Deeds in and for County of Saint John in of said Records, page 275 been levied on and seized Sheriff under and Execution issued out of County Court, one of the Fairweather against the money, and the other at St. John's against the money of Saint John, N. B. November, A. D. 1898. LAWRENCE STURDEE, and County of St. John.

LOST. my's gale from South Salmon $250, painted yellow and one white hite washboards. Any libe be thankfully re- JAMES DRISCOLL, Wash, St. John County.

SUNDAY SCHOOL COLUMN.

The superintendent's union will meet in the Main street Baptist church on Thursday evening, Dec. 8. All superintendents and assistant superintendents with their wives are invited to be present. Light refreshments will be served by the teachers of the Main street school during the evening.

Prince Edward Island provincial convention met last Tuesday and Wednesday. The field secretary and Rev. J. D. Freeman from New Brunswick met with them. One characteristic of International Sunday school work is that of interchange, passing any methods successful in any one part, all along the line. Committees feel that there is no patent right in Christian work.

A whole series of parish conventions were well planned by Westmorland county executive, and carried out by the field secretary recently. Nineteen meetings were held in ten days. Only Sackville convention failed, through a heavy storm. Several of these parish conventions marked a decidedly upward growth in several features of the work.

A similar series will be planned by the county about the 15th inst. Capt. J. E. Masters and Miss Ada Crowhurst are respectively president and secretary, leading an earnest county executive.

Moncton Primary Union, under the presidency of Mrs. Hinson, is bringing much profit to teachers by its weekly meetings.

An excellent parish convention of Upham was held at Salt Springs last Thursday. Rev. A. M. Hubby, president of Kings county association, and the field secretary were in attendance. Rev. Mr. Watson presided. Mrs. A. H. By is the new president and Miss Georgie Reid secretary. The attendance was large and the interest deep. A series of special services had just been held in that place, and the convention aimed to direct the young people in definite Bible study to confirm their new life. They desired to have the next parish convention in the same place, but this was not decided.

On Friday last an evening meeting was held by the field secretary at Hardingville, St. John county. He was aided by T. S. Simms and Rev. L. Watson. The new school there was found there. They will probably form the nucleus of a new class at Hardingville.

Restigouche work will open this week. A meeting will be held in Upper Belisudine this (Tuesday) evening, and the Restigouche series will begin on Wednesday.

The annual report, containing full proceedings of Moncton convention, will be out from the Sun press in a very few days. Send all orders, at the rate of ten cents per copy, to A. Lucas, Sussex, and it will be mailed post free.

Germain street Baptist reports three normal classes; a post graduate class of twelve, led by S. H. Davis, and two first year's classes, led by Messrs. Nash and Belyea. The number of first year students is not yet reported.

C. N. Scott and Louis Young are leaders of large classes in Woodstock.

E. R. Macdonald met with the grading committee of Protestant Methodist Sunday school last week. He reports the committee very much in earnest. Their main difficulties are lack of room and teachers, but he has no doubt that all difficulties will be overcome and that the school will take rank amongst the foremost of the province.

SPEAKING CLOCKS.

In Switzerland they have begun making photographic clocks and watches, which, if appears, leave anything heretofore accomplished far in the shade. By merely pressing the button of the new timepiece it processes the hour distinctly. The alarm clock is the sleeper: "It's six o'clock; get up. There are some who sleep again." The form is changed to suit the buyer and make the watch more or less ornate. This application of the photographic principle is due to a French watchmaker settled at Geneva—Moutier de la Riposterie (Paris).

RUSSIA'S DUPLICITY.

Russia has just ordered the construction of twenty-five new torpedo boats, destroyed the car's disarmament proposition doesn't seem to be taking root firmly at home.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS
SICK HEADACHE
Positively cured by these Little Pills.

They also relieve Distress from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Too Heartly Eating. A perfect remedy for Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, TORPID LIVER. They Regulate the Bowels. Purely Vegetable.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Substitution
the fraud of the day.

See you get Carter's,
Ask for Carter's,
Insist and demand
Carter's Little Liver Pills.

DISTINGUISHED PERSONS.

Men and Women from the Maritime Provinces,

Whose Achievements Shed Luster on the Land of Their Birth.

No. 2—THE NAVY.

It is a most interesting fact that the careers of only three officers link together the whole period of Great Britain's supremacy upon the sea, a period covering two centuries and a half, commencing at the Restoration, when the navigation laws were passed, and continuing to the present time. These three were: Admiral of the Fleet Sir John Norris, who was promoted to a captain in 1690, and lived to 1749; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Peter Parker, who entered the navy about 1735, and was senior admiral when the third of these war-scarred veterans entered the service. This was Sir Provo Wallis, who became a midshipman in 1780, and was admiral of the fleet at his death in 1832, at the age of 51 years.

Only one life but lives—full of experiences was what the fates allotted to Sir Provo Wallis, the "Father of the Royal Navy" in his own day. He was a man of the ordinary mind to estimate and appreciate the changes that he saw and the vicissitudes that he passed through. He was a lad of nine when the century got it tight and he was in the thick of the stirring times that accompanied the opening of the century. He saw England extend her dominions and power bit by bit, multiplying her sovereignty and building up a Greater Britain into a living, grand reality. He beheld a complete metamorphosis in the modes of war by sea and saw the navy transformed from its wooden walls to steel clad. He gave to his country sixty years of active service, he saw great men come and going while he escaped all dangers to live through decades of unceasing conflict until the days of peace came. He saw the map of the world undergoing tremendous changes and he lived in times when the pulse of men beat high, when action was intense and men were at fever heat. Such a life has almost no counterpart in history.

Sir Provo William Parry Wallis, G. C. B., was born at Halifax, N. S., on the 12th of April, 1781, the son of the chief clerk in the office of the commissary of the navy yard at that port. His naval career commenced in 1804, at the tender age of 23. He saw fifty-four years of constant active service, but his connection with the navy was of 23 years duration, until Feb. 13th, 1857, when he died at the hale and hearty old age of 76 years.

In 1804 young Wallis was appointed midshipman on the Cleopatra, under Sir Robert Laurie. On February 17th of the following year he was in his first action, the Cleopatra having engaged the French frigate Ville de Milan.

The British were overpowered and the Cleopatra captured, but later she was rescued by the Leander. In 1808, at the age of 17, he was appointed lieutenant on the Curlew, a ship which ran ashore during the blockade of Guadaloupe and was burned by the orders of the captain. He was transferred to the Globe and participated in the capture of Guadaloupe. In 1812 he was appointed to the Shannon, under Captain Broke, and his name will go down to posterity more through his services here than almost anywhere else.

The momentous duel between the Shannon and Chesapeake occurred and the mantle fell upon a Halifax boy, Lieutenant Wallis, to convey his prize, the gallantly defended and bravely won Chesapeake, into Halifax harbor. It was one of the old time deadly sea-battles at close range. Capt. Broke was wounded, the first lieutenant was killed, and Wallis led his hearts of oak to victory. Later Wallis received a letter of approbation from the admiral and a sword from his captain.

Commander Wallis was appointed to the Snipe and for a while went out of active service on half pay. He was in Paris when Napoleon made his escape from Elba, and he succeeded in escaping from the French capital through the kindness of a dignitary of the Roman Catholic church. On re-entering active service a few years later, he gained the rank of post captain. As captain of the Madagascar he protected the British subjects at Vera Cruz when the French fleet bombarded the place in the Franco-Mexican war. In 1844 he was the special envoy of England when Tangier and Mogador were bombarded by the French under Prince de Joinville, and for the skillfulness and success of his service in this mission he received the thanks of the British and French governments. In 1845 he was senior officer on the Syrian coast during the Syrian war. He was some years later made an aide-de-camp to her majesty.

In 1851 he obtained full flag rank and in 1857 he was appointed commander-in-chief of the southeast coast of America. In 1858 he was recalled in consequence of his promotion to vice-admiral. He did not go to sea again after 1858, but in consequence of his long and active services he was placed upon the active list for life, an exception being made in his favor from the rule that admirals must retire from active service at the age of 70.

In 1875 he became admiral of the fleet. His first wife was a daughter of Archdeacon Balmstope, his second wife daughter of General Sir Robert Wilson, M. P.

In the Blossom. He was promoted to the rank of commander in 1839 and served on the coast of Africa and of Portugal, rendering in the latter service valuable assistance to the British residents by protecting their property during political troubles. From 1836 to 1842 he was employed in the Sloop, a surveying vessel, and he gave in his "Narrative" an exhaustive account of their scientific investigations on their voyage around the world. In 1841 he rendered a series of important and valuable services in China by sounding and exploring the various channels of the Canton river and making a reconnaissance which contributed in a great measure to the success of Lord Gough and Sir H. F. Semhouse. On the same day he brought about the destruction of eight of the enemy's vessels. For these services he was knighted. Afterwards he was engaged in the surveying service in the East Indies and was severely wounded while assisting the Rajah of Sarawak, Sir James Brooke, in his efforts to subdue the pirates of Borneo. From 1852 to 1854 he commanded the expedition in search of Sir John Franklin. This was his last mission, successful in his quest, and on his return to England was tried before a court martial for voluntarily abandoning his ship. The case against him was not legally supported and he was acquitted, but he received a tacit censure, for he was never more employed in the navy. He rose by seniority to the rank of admiral, a distinction which could not be withheld, and died on March 18, 1877. For his eminent contributions to geographic and hydrographic knowledge he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society and a Fellow of the Geographical Society.

Admiral Sir Edward William Campbell, Rich Owen, G. C. B., was born at Campbell Island, N. B., Feb. 14th, 1771, a son of Capt. William Owen, N. S., who, with three of his relatives, was given about 1790 a grant of Campbell Island. He was entered in the navy at a very early age and rapidly rose to high rank. He commanded a large squadron during the Napoleonic wars of 1805 thereabout. He was stationed off the French coast, and succeeded, in spite of a heavy fire from his batteries on land, in driving ashore and capturing the Commodore and another vessel. A powerful division of the great flotilla which the French had formed for the invasion of England, was endeavoring to effect a passage from Boulogne to Brest. This division was attacked by the squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1809, as commander, he distinguished himself in the Walchen expedition, particularly in the attack on Flushing. He was stationed as commodore until 1825, when he returned to the navy. In 1823 he held the general command in the West Indies squadron under the orders of Captain Owen and the junction prevented which was to have been one of the links in the chain of Great Britain's destruction. Capt. Owen's knowledge of the coast of France, his courage and the discomfiture of the French was complete, several of their vessels being destroyed. In 1

Alonso McCalm, North... A frog he would exploring go.

A FROG HE WOULD EXPLORING GO. A frog he would exploring go.

We attended the play, which was of absorbing interest to both of us.

sure was painful. Within a week the... Francisco and its immediate environments.

muscles relaxed, and he pitched forward upon his face.

EARLY WATCH. Earn this valuable Watch, Chain and Charm by selling twenty Topas...

THE DRACONS. Scottish player, was the Yale-Harvard game.

THE DRACONS. Scottish player, was the Yale-Harvard game.

Upon my request to be allowed to stop for ten minutes in the morning...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

TRIP FOR IT. Verona, the guests are... RISON, M. D. LIMITED TO DISEASE AND THROAT.

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

YVES' TMENT. A very important medicine for all kinds of skin diseases.

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

LIS BROWNE'S RODYNE. LONDON NEWS, of 1898, says: "Which single medicine I use abroad with me, as generally as possible, is Rodyne."

HEAVY DUTY. (London Daily Mail.) He was considered eccentric by most of his acquaintances...

At the end of three weeks "Doctor" informed me he was ready to start...

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CONSOLIDATING VICTORY. Signs of England's Growing Domination in Egypt.

CALIFORNIA GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE. LOW RATES ON OUR PAPER CONDUCTED TOURIST EXCURSIONS.

