AFTER 20 YEARS

Mrs. Ashmead Reappears in Philadelphia After a Mysterious Absence.

Philadelphia, July 4.-For three weeks in advertisement in New York and Philadelphia papers gave notice that letters of administration had been applied for on the estate of Mrs. Maria L. Ashmead, daughter of William F. Huckel, a former instructor in the business college, from whom she inherited property. Twenty years ago Mrs. Ashmead took a sudden departure from her home on Ellsworth street, below Thirteenth, leaving behind her husband, Edwin A. Ashmead, to whom she was married in 1866, and two sons, both now grown to manhood. The only explanation she gave of her departure wrote that she was going away and would never be heard of again. Since that day, Sept. 21, 1878, neither husband nor children have ever seen her, and the presumption of the law was that she was dead. In 1881 the husband applied for a divorce on the ground of incompatibility. Efforts were made to serve a notice of the proceed ings on the wife. She could not be found, and the decree was granted without her answer. Her father. Wm F. Huckel, died, leaving a small estate which Mrs. Ashmead inherited. The two sons could not find her, and recently proceedings were begun to secure an administration of the estate in favor of her children. Then advertise ments were inserted. While the hearing was under way before the registrar of wills the other day, a woman dressed in black, apparently 60 years of age, came into the room. She sat quietly until the proceedings were partly over. Then she advanced toward a chair in which Robert M. Huckel sat. She raised a veil and asked him if he recognized

"I know your face," he said
"I am your sister, Maria L. Ashmead," the woman said. The eldest son, who was present, remembered his mother, and the uncle, who was first appealed to, after scanning the woman's features, fully identified her. The application for letters on the estate was abandoned promptly and all concerned left the scene. Nothing could be learned about the mystery of the woman's twenty years' absence beyond the fact that she has lived during that time in New York city.

A DINNER PILL. - Many persons suffer excruciating agony after par taking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and vey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. Siboney, Cuba, July 2-7:30 p.m.-A conservative estimate by army men, not official, is that the American casualties during Friday's fighting were near ly, if not quite, a thousand, about 15 per cent, of which were deaths. Saturday's casualties on the American side were much fewer, because the troops had been well entrenched the night before.

SATURDAY'S FIGHTING. 2:50 p.m.-The fighting on the right of the Americal line this (Saturday) afternoon developed unexpectedly, and for some hours almost as severe firing as on Friday, when General Lawton was assaulting El Caney. The Spanish made an attack in force on the American position, pouring in volley after volley in quick succession and with remarkable regularity. The return fire of the Americans was effective and con-

New York, July 4.- A dispatch to the World from Madrid says: Admiral Camara's fleet was detained in Egypt the entrance to the Suez Canal because the Spanish Government believed it might be more useful at home in repelling an American descent. But the government's perplexity was increased when a few far-sighted statesmen pointed out the Camara could do something in the Philippines. Even if he arrived too late to save Manila he might co-operate with Germany in the settlement of peace, whereas if he returned to Spain he would be simpl rushing to destruction. They argue that after the fall of Santiago, America will dispatch to Spain enough naval forces to dispose of both Camara's squadron and the second reserve fleet,

THE PLEBISCITE AND ITS MEANING

Rev. W. J. Clark Preaches Two Thoughtful Sermons on Prohibition.

A Matter for Earnest and Conscientious Consideration.

A Dispassionate Review of the Quesion-Mr. Clark Gives His Reasons Why He Will Vote "Yea"-Christian Men May Differ-What Prohibition Involves.

At First Presbyterian Church, London, yesterday, at both services, Rev. W. J. Clark dealt with the question of prohibition and the coming plebiscite. He thought himself justified in so doing, the question being one of much importance. Both sides were at work. The Licensed Victuallers' Association had recently met at London to organize in opposition. Those in favor of prehibition were organizing, also, in large conventions and local gatherings. He wanted to promote the formation of opinion founded on facts, and to promote intelligent discussion and decision. it was a question upon which it was not easy to be judicial. There were ee classes interested. Firstly, those financially interested in various ways; the evils, directly or indirectly; third-ly, those who deplore the evils of the did not think that under prohibition liquor traffic, honestly enough, but an individual would be debarred from who believe that the personal use or manufacturing intoxicating liquor in individual liberty. Nor could it be said | ister of the present government, who of men they all knew, who were not total abstainers, that they were not good citizens, and even good Christians. Of the churches, it could be said that they were not good countries and even good christians. they were generally antagonistic to the tude seemed to be that a prohibitory liquor traffic. There was not, however, law would mean absolute prohibition and good men might honestly differ as sort. Here were two distinctly difabout that some of those who would ists should not trouble

"PUT LAURIER IN A HOLE." They were going to vote on what, if prohibition was the result, would be the largest experiment, taking account the amount of tory covered, that had into terribeen tried in the world. Various causes had brought us up to this point: an accumulative sense of the evil and suffering caused by the traffic; also the earnest work of various temperance organizations, notably the W. C. T. U.; also the changed conditions of society and public opinion In favor of the present license system it had been urged it the saloon-the mere place for drinking, apart from traveleliminated; that under it there was an opportunity for protesting against of reducing the total number of licenses. For example, eight years ago, the number of licenses in London was 69, from which it had been reduced to 40, where it had remained, in face of an advancing population. Liquor selling was prohibited on Sundays. The pre-sent Meense law is a prohibitory law on a limited scale. The license law as a license law had been fairly successful, and he knew of no civilized part of the world more sober than Canada. Against ildense, it had been urged that it allows temptation to be placed before the weak: that it is not a business which elevates those who engage in it, but the contrary. The liquor business certainly promotes crime, disease and distress. Not all crime, by any means, but much of it. Then it tempts men to make gain of their fellows' weakness. deed, if you could take away the love of gain, and the excessively

There is such a thing as a false, a maudlin pity. The drunkard is himself largely blame. No man is forced to become When he does so, he sins against God, and against his own manhood. He deserves his punishment. The moral universe is based on the principle that sin always brings suffering.

IN THE EVENING. Mr. Clark began his evening argument with the question. Have the people a right to abolish the liquor traffic? a government of the people, by the people, and for the people. The people visited with a heavy penalty. It would neme the main court of appeal, and had at least destroy the awful temptation a right to say that this drinking should in the present traffic that came to ounted in the campaign upon which they were entering, and if the govern- expected that there would be either a ment of the people was to be a wise one. each person must earnestly consider this matter and conscientiously act upon it. There was no doubt that in this, as in all public questions, unworthy motives would lead men to vote this way or that Every sort of influence would be employed. One might not he responsible for that, but he was responsible for what he did and how he voted. Good would come out of the campaign. People's opinions would be more clearly defined to themselves. They would find what was possible, and what impossible to do. Evil would also come out of the campaign. Bitter things would be said. It might be that division and strife would be begun which would have no end in this life. But no great public question ever came be-fore the people without penalties at-tached. The civil war of the United states was an illustration.

Mr. Clark put the question, HAS PROHIBITION BEEN A SUC-

where it has been tried? He thought it might be said that it had been a success in Maine, Vermont and Kansas. He did not mean by success that the use of liquor as a beverage had been annihilated, but that the consumption of liquor and the evils attendant upon it had been lessened. In 1889 the New York Voice, a leading temperance paper, submitted to the probate judges of the 106 counties of Kansas these two questions-whether the prohibitory law had been successful in closing the saloons, and whether drinking had been diminished? There were replies from 97 counties-75 written by the judges, and the other 22 by the county treasurers or other officials or prominent citizens. Ninety-four of these declared that there were no open salcons; the other three made qualified reports. Ninety-two said that drunkenness and consumption of liquor had greatly diminished-from 75 to 90 per cent, the majority said-and the others claimed that drunkenness and drinking in their sections had been entirely eradicated. They had the distinguished testimony of James G.Blaine and Hannibal Hamilin, that the con-sumption of liquor in Maine had greatly decreased, and that in the country districts and smaller towns drunkenness was unknown The fact that a prohibitory law had been successful in these three states was not positive assurance that it would be a success in so large a territory as Canada. Mr. Clark referred to the

The speaker however, thought such points should be intelligently and earnestly discussed. It was foolish for anyone to say, "I vote for prohibition," without knowing what prohibition meant. The speaker said he did not think absolute prohibition could be intended, or that any law could be effective that said, You shall not make cider, or wine in your own home, or drink anything intoxicating." The objection was that if a man were permitted to make liquor it would be almost impossible to prevent the illicit sale of it. The only reply was this: There was NO LAW PERFECTLY KEPT. Prohibition did not mean annihilation, ers' accommodation—had been largely but if the law was vigilant and heavy to lose Dr. Carson. She has been a penalties were imposed upon all who censes in particular neighborhoods and ried out. He intended to vote "yea" in answer to the question, "Do you is no vain repetition to say that our wish to prohibit the importation, loss is Chatham's gain in this inmanufacture and sale of intoxicating He admitted liquor as a beverage?" that he was not sure that a prohibitory law would be a success. Did he believe a prohibitory law would be a very great advance on present con-The only answer he could make was that he was very hopeful. It was an experiment, and he was will-"If every man votes as I do, because he is willing to be prohibited, and if there are enough of such votes to give a large majority for prohibition, then I believe it will be a success; but if men vote for other purposes such as I mentioned this Bay City, a brother of the deceased. morning—to put the present govern—Mrs. McFalls, whose maiden name was ment in a difficult position-because their emotions are played upon without much consideration-and are not willing themselves to be prohibited; if as a result of such voting a prohibityou would almost cut the throat of the ory law is enacted, I believe evil will result and not good. I would no more ask a man to vote 'yea,' who believes a prohibitory law will be a failure, than I would ask a man to join the church if in his heart he was not willing to pledge himself to the law of the Lord Jesus Christ."

ANOTHER SYSTEM. Mr. Clark asked if there was any system, other than prohibition, which would be an advance on the present He had thought out one himit closely approached the nationalization system. The government might take entire charge of the sale of liquor. It might establish certain depots where the best liquors—brandy, whisky, etc.—would be sold, put up in sealed packages of different gizes. The men who sold it would be government employes. No treating would be allowed, and there would be no drink-He thought they had. They lived under ing on the premises. The salaried official who broke the law would be be done away with. Each individual young men, and the present evils would be much lessened. The speaker small majority for prohibition, or that defeated altogether. He it would be was afraid that some good people who had been looking forward to this as the one solution of the great difficulty would lose heart altogether. He had an entirely different conception of God's way of working in this world. He knew of no great evil that was suddenly destroyed. Mr. Clark alluded to the Bible teaching with regard to drink. In Biblical days drunkenness was not unknown, but distilled liquors were unknown. Just as in France today, wine was then the common drink. He could never understand the authority of those who said the Bible strongly condemned that would intoxicate, and did not condemn wine that did not intoxicate. He was satisfied that whatever wine was used in Paul's time, a man could take enough of it to become intoxicated. The Bible taught that drunkenness was a sin and that no drunkard should enter the kingdom of heaven. It did not say that to drink was a sin. The man who could find that in the Bible had a keener eyesight than he.

OPPOSED THE GENERAL ASSEM-BLY'S MOTION.

In conclusion, Mr. Clark asked his hearers to discuss the prohibition question, to have it clearly and accurately defined in their minds, to read the information in the public prints, to pray over it, and to go to the polls and vote earnestly and conscientiously. He confirmed the print-ed report of his statement at Somerset Hall—that if he had been in the General Assembly when it passed the resolutions exhorting every member to vote "yea" in this matter, he would have snapped his fingers at it. He would have voted for Principal Grant's amendment that all members should be exhorted to earnestly and intelligently consider this question and vote on it. There were Christian men who might differ on it, and no pope or bench of bishops, or conference, or general assembly, or any other church court had a right to say to the memoers, "You must vote this way," or 'We exhort you to vote this way." He had tonight spoken his convictions, and for what he had said he was answerable only to his Master. He exhorted his hearers to purge themselves of any evil passions, to keep clear of those bitter words that were as poisonous seeds, and brought forth fruit that made glad the heart of Satan. He asked them to speak, work and vote as in the sight of God.

AT THE LAKESIDE

Quite a number spent Sunday at the The L. E. and D. R. R. report an increase of travel over last year thus far this season. A new cottage has ben erected on New Orchard Beach, which will be occupied by a Brantford family. The steamer Melbourne arrived at Port Stanley early Sunday morning. After unloading a cargo of sugar, iron, etc., it left for Cleveland about 2 p.m. The dock is assuming quite a business-like appearance, with its several which is being pushed forward toward The steamer Flora, which carried to Cleveland some 400 Londoners Thursday night brought back a large number of Clevelanders, who, after visiting London, returned home on Saturday The London excursionists returned home this morning, making the trip across Lake Erie on Sunday night.

The various summer resorts about Port Stanley are fast getting into holiday shape. A number of cottagers have taken up their residence, and it is expected that by the end of this week summer cottages will be at a premium. "Liberty Hall" has been rechristened, and will in future be known by the name of "Hill Crest." A large building has been erected, which, it is said, will be occupied by a number of southerners. Other improvements have been added, which will tend to popularize the hill.

"The Swimmer" made its first trip this season, leaving London 2 11 p.m. Saturday. It was patronized by a number of Londoners who could not leave on an earlier train. It will prove a welcome addition to the train service of the L. E. and D. R. road.

A sudden wind and rain storm occurred Sunday afternoon, and acted roubhly while it lasted, clearing away in half an hour. It left the balance of the day very enjoyable. It however succeeded in smashing Mr. George Sayer's boat before it let up.

NEW WORDS NEEDED.

English Demand For Such Combinations as "Killment" and "Lovist."

There is one thing that has not yet been "treated" by the universal improver—that pest who tries to set everything right-and that is our English language. None but foreigners have as yet had cause to complain of it, every Britisher seems to be satisfied with itexcept me.

Now, why aren't there more words? We have something like 150,000, but that is not enough, and we often experience difficulties on this account. For instance, when a bus topples over in the street the newspapers boom out with long winded headings about "the falling over of a bus," "collapse of a bus," or "the overturning of a bus," etc. But these are more or less clumsy. Clearly it's the word "overturnsion" that is wanted. "The overturnsion of a bus" hits the situation perfectly. Then, again, if you want to say that a hundred Gordon highlanders were annihilated by an Arab tribe, you could considerably shorten your sentence by the concise expression, "Arab killment of 100 Gordon highlanders."

Thousands of colloquialisms could be medified in a similar way. The awkward word photograph could be changed to "fotofy," puncture to "punk," cigarette to "cigette," situation to "sition" or "sitment," and so on.

In more sentimental matters new words would be a decided boon. A man somehow can't help blushing when he calls the woman of his heart "sweetheart," "lover" or "intended." They are ugly words. "My girl," of course, is low, and "fiancee" is avoided because it cannot be pronounced properly. "Levist," "spilcer" or "matcher" are infinitely more tasteful and convey the proper meaning.—London Answers.

The Saginaws played their last game of the series in London at Tecumsen Park on Saturday, and succeeded in winning by a close score. London and Saginaw have now played fifteen games, and the Tigers have taken nine from the Cockneys.

Saturday's game was another repetition of indifferent and at times very indolent ball playing on the part of the home team. The visitors commenced the game with a rush, determination being noticeable in the hearty manner in which they opened up proceedings. Manager Black had Hagerman in the box, and the home team had no trouble in solving his speedy shoots; but at opportune moments his compatriots gave him excellent support. In this series London should have had all three games, but lost two of them through reckless field work, which cost runs on every occasion. The attendance was very small for a Saturday, the extreme heat probably deterring many from going, while those who were present keenly felt the inability of the home team to win the victory.

Johnson pitched, making his third game for the week. Why he was put in is a mystery. Krampf had but six innings of a game for the week at St. Thomas, and only pitched five innings on Saturday last in the game with Bay City. It was one of those turns taken by the management that are unaccountable. Johnson pitched a poor game. His speed was like that of a fagged horse, while his shoots were never a mystery. Especially heavy was the onslaught of the visitors in the fifth. Up to that time but two triples had been made. The outfield put up a brilliant game. A total of eleven fly balls was gathered in, thus showing how severely Saginaw pounded his delivery. A change was made by placing Sechrist in left. It was thought advisable to try this move

Sechrist was injured the last time this change was made in the game with Hamilton on June 7, which put him out of active work for nearly two weeks. In the third inning of the game, in stealing a base, he slid into second. Jones was playing the base, and Sechrist went in feet first, his customary way. His right foot struck Jones' shoe and caused a severe sprain of the instep. He was helped off the field. and may now be out of the game for a week or two. The run in the fourth was scored on a base on balls to Knapp, a steal and Underwood's triple to left. The latter was caught at the plate, endeavoring to make a "homer" out of it. Snyder's double, with singles by Miles and Reed, and a safe bunt by Jones, yielded two runs in the fifth. Carey doubled up Reed at second on Knapp's fly, closing and one in Sarnia. The Sarnia end of Keenan was responsible for the run in the eighth, which gave Saginaw the game. With two out he threw wild to first, allowing Eddy to score from

For London, Johnson drove in the first run with the first safe hit in the third. Sechrist had reached the first bag on Reed's muif, stole second and crossed the plate on Johnson's hit. Keenan opened the fourth with a triple. Grimshaw scored him with a hit which struck Hagerman's foot and bounded into right field. Carey sacrificed and Sanders drove in Grimshaw. The noticeable features of the sixth and seventh were two double plays by Saginaw. In the eighth Grimshaw singled, and Carey eventually made a home run by the ball being fielded badly to head him at third. Score:

> TROUBLE IN THE LONDONS. Saunders, the Chicago man, asked for his release last week, and is probably now at his home in Chicago. Sechrist dislocated his ankle in Saturday's game, and will be laid up for a week. Clark, the pitcher, has been released. The management have signed a new twirler—Thomas Lipp, of Baltimore—and he is expected to join the team today. This is incomprehensible to many. The club has not wanted pitchers-it has always been strong in the box. Clark's release has not been justified by his work, which has been If anything has been wanted to strengthen the team it has been hard-hitting fielders-not a continual change of pitchers. BAY CITY KICKED AND LOST. In the ninth inning of the ball game between Bay City and Hamilton on Saturday afternoon at Hamilton, a dispute arose, and, Bay City refusing to play, the game was given to Hamilton, 9 to 0. LACROSSE.

A ROW. A lacrosse match between the Torontos and Shamrocks on Dominion Day ended in a disgraceful row. About 2,500 people were present. In the seventh game Feeny went on for Finlay son, who was hit over the eve, and in eighth, D. Murphy took Hoobin's place, who got a crack over the jaw. At the end of the twelfth game the Torontos had victory in sight, by 8 goals to 4. There was a good deal of bitterness when the thirteenth game opened, and Gamble and Hinton got into a row very quickly, and were ruled off. Then Griffith and Tucker quarreled and were wrestling. Capt. O'Connell started to separate them, when a burly spectator jumped the fence and hit the captain in the face, receiving in turn a tremendous whack on the head from the stick of one of the players. Then the mob streamed into the field, and a rough-and-tumble fight ensued, ending by the retreat of the Shamrocks to the dressing room. Capt. O'Connell entered a protest, on the ground that there had not been sufficient police protection to keep the grounds clear.

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN-Mc-DUFFEE BEATS MICHAEL. Boston, July 4.—All world's records from 1 to 15 miles, inclusive, took a sudden drop at Charles River Park Saturday afternoon, when Eddie Mc-Duffee, of Boston, defeated Jimmy Michael, who had long held the title of champion of the world. Early in the race, while in the lead, Michael's handle-bars came loose, and he was forced to leave for another machine, which proved to be in little better condition, and he left the track. McDuffee gained a full lap during the transfer and continued to reel off the miles, cutting record after record, until at the end of the fifteenth mile and the race, he was 20 3-5 seconds better than the world's record held by himself. The pace was terrific, and at the end of the first mile the watches recorded 1:46 2-5, against 1:48 3-5, the former world's record made by Elkes in his race with Martin one week ago. The two miles were ridden in 2:24 3-5, a gain of 4 3-5 on the previous twomile record. TOM COOPER WAS FIRST. Philadelphia, July 4.-Tom Cooper. of Detroit, won the two-mile national championship race yesterday afternoon at the national circuit meet at Willow Grove. There were 27 entries in this event, Kiser, Stevens, Cooper, Eaton and Major Taylor riding in the final heat. Gardiner and Bald failed to qualify in the preliminary heats. The race was a close one throughout. Coming into the stretch they were all bunched, but Cooper managed to cross the tape a winner with less than a wheel's length to spare. Stevens was second and Major Taylor a close third. Kiser finished fourth and Eaton last. Cooper, Bourott, Gardiner and Bald on the scratch in a half-mile handicap event. It was a close race between Kimble, Kiser and Major Taylor. Kimble won by about a foot from Kiser, with Taylor third. Fred J. Titus, of New York, in an exhibition ride of five miles, unpaced, lowered the world's record for five miles. His time was 11:05 1-5. The former record was 11:36. The Spaniards Driven Back All Along the Line.

Capture of Caney-Two Thousand Prisoners Taken Into the American Camp.

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandy, off Juragua, Friday, July 1. via Kingston, Jamaica, July 2.-7:11 a.m -The battle of Santiago raged all day, and at four o'clock in the forenoon, drove all the Spaniards from afternoon fifteen thousand American troops were thundering at the outer but owing to the broken railway daybreak Gen. Shafter's army fought arated them from the little town, and fortifications of the doomed city. Since Its way across two and a half miles of bitterly contested and strongly fortified country, and the entire line from left to right is within gunshot of Santiago town. The American losses are thus far estimated at the hospital corps headquarters at 20 killed and 50 wounded. but it will be hours before the death roll can be accurately given The Spanish killed and wounded are undoubtedly numbered by hundreds. The Spanish strongholds of Caney and El Paso have fallen, but the fort at Aquadores, just east of Morro Castle, on the coast, has been blown to ruins by the guns of the fleet. With the exception of arout a thousand troops, who are guarding Baiquiri and Juragua, the entire army is engaged, together with 4,-000 of Gen. Garcia's Cuban troops. The men fought gloriously. The battle began just at daylight at a point about eight miles from Juragua and four miles northeast of the outer fortifications of

At 4 o'clock in the morning hundreds of bugles rang out the reville, and before the sun had risen the great line was complete.

It had been arranged that Gen. Duffield should make a feint of attacking Aguadores, in order to draw attention from the main movement, and at 5 o'clock Gen. Lawton's troops moved forward, led by A Battery of the First Artillery, under command of Capt. Allyn Capron.

FIRST SHOT.

The first shot was fired from the battery at 6:40 by Capt. Capron. whose son, Capt. Allyn E. Capron, of the Rough Riders, was killed in the battle at Sevilla. The shot was directed at Caney, where the Spaniards were in force, and it fell in the heart of the town. The firing continued 20 without response

After the enemy had been driven from El Paso. 21 shots were fired by Capt. Grimes and Capt. Capron from that position into the outer fortifications of Santiago before a response When it did come, however, it came with unexpected accuracy, the shots being from three and four-inch rapid-fire rifles, evidently taken from Cervera's warships, and mounted behind the fortifications. The Spanish gunners raked the hill on which El Paso stands, and which had been made the headquarters of Gen. Summer. and the Cuban generals, Garcia and Castillo, Capote and Rabi. One shell struck a large sugar storehouse, on the red corrugated roof of which stood Cubans viewing the fight. The roof fell, and all the Cubans were wounded and three of them will die. A detachment of 200 Cubans went forward from El Paso, and then Col. Wood, with the Rough Riders, Tenth Cavalry, started down the hillside and straight for the enemy's fortifications. Capt. Grimes' battery poured a steady fire into the Spaniards to protect Col. Woods' ad-

ARTILLERY DUEL.

The opposing batteries banged away, Capt. Grimes sending a storm of lead down into the outer fortifications, and the Spaniards pounding away at the hill top with vicious persistence. Most of the Spanish shells went over the hill top and fell in a ravine beyond. Here several detachments of Cuban troops were stationed as reserves, and before they could be moved several insurgents were seriously wounded and several slightly hurt. At the same time two Americans were killed and nine wounded. The Spaniards used smokeless powder, and shot with much more accuracy than during the previous engagement. The wonder is that many more lives were not lost, as the opposition batteries were less than two miles apart.

SPANIARDS FORCED BACK. Twenty minutes of fearfully hot work silenced the Spanish batteries. en shots were sent into them after they had ceased firing, but there was no response, and it is presumed that the guns were dismounted or the gunners Away to the left Gen. Lawton's division, with Chaffee's men and Capron's battery were meantime fighting flercely, with the enemy entrenched in and about Caney. The Spaniards con-tested every inch of ground bitterly, and fought with unexpected coolness and courage. But the irresistible onward movement of the Americans slowly forced them back upon and beyond Caney.

THEY RUN.

About 10 o'clock the terrible fire from Capt. Capron's guns and the muskets of the men broke the Spanish line, and a retreat began toward the line of outer fortifications. The enemy took the trail known as the main Santiago road, and Capt. Grimes' battery immediately began pitching shells in ahead of retreating men, while a detachment of 200 Cubans, headed by Garcia, were started to cut off the retreat.

GEN. WHEELER'S BRAVERY. All this time Gen. Summer had commanded the center, owing to Gen. Wheeler's illness, but about 11:30 Gen. Wheeler started on the two-mile journey to the front in an ambulance. About half-way he met a number of litters bearing wounded. The veteran, under protests by the surgeons, immediately ordered his horse, and after personally assisting the wounded into the ambulance, mounted and rode on-ward. The men burst into frantic which followed the general along the line. By noon, although still very ill, Gen. Wheeler had established arters at the extreme front and center of the line, and still holds his

THE HEAVIEST FIGHTING.

Count of the Fighting seems to have been on the right flank, and heavy casualties are reported from there. The advance there was more rapid than at other points on the line, and Gen. Chaffee's brigade was the first to cross the little San Juan River, close to the line of outer fortifications.
At 2 o'clock Gen. Shafter went forward to assume personal command of the operations. Some surprise is expressed that he did not wait for siege guns before beginning the final attack, as the siege guns are still on the beach at Baiquiri, but he decided that they were unnecessary and determined to strike at once.

ONE FAILURE. The only movement of the day which did not meet with success was Gen. Duffield's attempt to occupy the sea village of Aguadores. The New York. Sewanee and Gloucester shelled old fort and the rifle pits during the the vicinity and bowled over the paranet from which flew the Spanish flag. bridge Gen. Duffield's troops were un were compelled to go back to Juragua. It was reported at Juragua that Genis not true, however, as he did not encounter any large body of Spaniards The Cubans behaved with skill and valor and rendered valuable aid. Gen. Garcia and the other Cuban generals led the troops in person, and showed great coolness in tight places. SPANIARDS FOUGHT STUBBORN-

LY. The Spanish fought stubbornly throughout, and their retreat, though steady, was slowly and coolly conducted. They contested every inch of the way, and fought with unexpected skill, their officers handling the troops with bravery and good judgment. As in all of their fighting, so far, however, they did most of their work under cover, rarely showing themselves in large bodies in the open. All the retreats were toward Santiago.

TWO THOUSAND PRISONERS. At 6:30 Friday evaning, General Shafter said to the Associated Press correspondent at his headquarters: have Caney in our possession and the whole crest of the plateau at Caney. We have taken some 2,000 prisoners on this side of Santiago. General Lawton is moving to the left to join the line with General Wheeler. The Spaniards have been driven back into the city, and tomorrow morning we will take and enter Capture of San Juan.

WAY TO MORRO OPEN. In the field. 'two miles from Santiago, July 1, cabled from Playa del Este -San Juan heights have fallen, and the way is now opened for an advance on Morro Castle. It was a glorious victory, but very dearly purchased. The place was the strongest outpost, well fortified and valiantly defended. San Juan hill is steep, and an artillery battery was located on it. It was also occupied by barracks and other buildings. But the American troops stormed the heights, and Spanish valor had to yield to the bulldog tenacity and courage of the Anglo-Saxon, As I white, our troops are swarming up the hill and covering it like ants. The Spaniards are demoralized. The fighting has been of the hardest kind, and our troops have suffered severely, but the enemy's works are in their hands, and they do not count the cost. The losses on both sides are heavy. A bursting Spanish shell almost annihilated an entire company of our troops.

The Fleets.

WORK OF THE WARSHIPS. With the fleet off Santiago de Cuba. July 1, via Kingston, Jamaica, July 2.

—8 a.m.—Before 5 o'clock this morning the crew of the flagship New York was astir, eating a hurried breakfast, and at 5:30 "general quarters" was sounded, and the flagship headed in toward Aguadores, about three miles east of Morro Castle. The other ships retained their blockading positions. From the quarter of the flagship there was a signal by a vigorously wig-wagged letter, and a few minutes later, from a clump of greens, at the water's edge, came an answer from the army.

FIRST CO-OPERATION for offensive purposes between the army and navy. The landing of the army at Baiquiri and Altares purely a naval affair. With the flag in his hand, the soldier ashore looked like a butterfly. "Are you waiting for us to begin?" was the signal made by Rear Admiral Sampson to the army. "Gen. Duffield is ahead with the scouts," came the answer from the shore to the flagship. By this time it was 7 o'clock, and the admiral ran the flagship's bow within three-quarters of a mile of the beach. She re-mained almost as near during the forenoon, and the daring way she was handled by Capt. Chadwick within sound of the breakers, made the Cuban pilot aboard stare with astonishment. The Suwance was in company with the flagship, still closer in shore, and the Gloucester was to the westward, near Morro Castle. From the southward the Newark came up and took a position to the westward. Her decks were black with 1,500 or more

THE SHIPS HEARD FROM. At 10:15 a signal flag ashore wigwagged to Admiral Sampson to commence firing, and a minute later the New York's guns blazed away at the rifle pits and at the old fort. Suwanee and Gloucester joined in the echoes which rumbled around and filled the gullies. All the stored-up thunder of the clouds seemed to have broken lose, and smoke rose over the hills, and the gully was shut from view. Then the firing became more deliberate. Of the American troops ashore in the brush nothing could be seen, but the "ping" or the small arms of the army floated out to sea during the occasion-al lull in the firing of the big guns, which peppered the rifle pits until clouds of red earth rose above them. An eight-inch shell from the Newark dropped in the massive old fort, and clouds of white dust and huge stones filled the air. When the small shells hit the battlements, almost hidden by green creepers, fragments of masonry came tumbling down.

FIRING AT SPAIN'S FLAG. A few more shots leveled the battlements until the old castle was a pitiful sight. When the firing ceased Lieut. Delehanty was anxious to finish his work, so he signaled to the New York, asking permission to knock down the Spanish flag. "Yes," replied Admiral Sampson, "if you can do it in three shots." The Suwanee then lay about 1,600 yards from the old fort. She took her time. Lieut. Blue carefully aimed the four-inch gun, and the crews of all the ships watched the incident amid intense excitement. When the smoke of the Suwanee's first shot cleared hardest fighting of the day away, only two red streamers of the flag were left. The shell had gone through the center of the bunting. The

At 12:18 p.m., the New York, having discontinued firing at Aguadores, commenced firing eight-inch shells clear over the gully into the city of Santiago. Every five minutes the shells went roaring over the hillside. What destruction they wrought it was imposthing. In reply to Gen. Duffield's question, "What is the news?" Admiral Sampson replied: "There is not a Spanlard left in the rifle pits." Later Gen.
Duffield signaled that his scouts thought reinforcements were marching to the battered old fort, and Admiral Sampson wig-wagged him: "There are no Spaniards left there. If any come the Gloucester will take care of them." A little later the Oregon joined the New York in sending eight-inch shells into the city of Santiago.

CLEARED THE RIFLE PITS.

HEAVY LOSS SUSTAINED. At Gen. Shafter's Headquarters, Friday, July 1, 4 p.m.-Gen. Shafter's army has had its baptism of fire. With desperate courage it has conquered the Spanish works before Santiago. The victory was won at heavy cost in killed and wounded. In some cases every officer in a company was lost. Spaniards opposing Gen. Lawton's division lost in killed, wounded or taken prisoners, 2,000 men, and the loss on the center and left must be double that

THE BALLOON.

About 8:30 the balloon was sent up in front of the cavalry division. This drew the first volley from the Spanish Though volley followed volley the daring officer made a reconnoissance and got down safely after having obtained complete details of the disposition of the enemy The advance of the cavalry and Gen. Kent's division immediately began along the line of the main road to Santiago. It was about two hours' later before the American advance began, breaking ing through the cover in front of the Spanish trenches. It was met with

A MURDEROUS HAIL from Mauser rifles, which temporarly stayed the forward movement. The Spaniards had the range, and their practice was good. The Americans lay on their breast and poured volley after volley into them at a range so close that the opposing lines could see the whites of each other's eyes. Capt. Grimes then reopened with his battery and in the second duel with the Spanish artillery and much better execution, planting shell after shell in the front main redoubt and silencing two guns. The Spanish gunners then turned their attention to the United States infantry, and began dropping States iniantry, and seguard.

GALLANT CHARGE. A few minutes afterward Clark's brigade, on the right of Kent's division. made a gallant charge up the knowl to the north of the extreme left of the Spanish line and took possession of the hacienda in the shelter of an orange grove. This marked the beginning of a magnificent charge through the first line of entrenchments. The cavalry division and Gen. Hawkins' brigade charged up the slope against a storm of death. It was in this awful charge that the Americans were so badly cut up that they started on a double quick, but no troops could face such a terrific fire without annihilation. The Americans staggered; they threw them selves on the ground; again they started; again they prostrated themselves: but

ON, ON, UP, UP, THEY WENT, until with a cheer they sprang over the trenches dividing the sides of the hill checkered with their fallen comrades. There was hand-to-hand fighthere in which an officer of the 24th was macheted by a Spanlard, but the Spaniards could not resist the onset of the United States troops and they scrambled out of the trenches and broke over the line of knolls on which they were situated. Hundreds of the Spanish lay dead or wounded in the trenches. The main redoubt was then carried with a rush. The two remaining batteries were ordered up, and with a rattle and clash, Captain Bates' battery went tearing up the road, encumbered as it was with a stream of wounded going to the rear. The bat-tery got in position to the right of the main Spanish redoubt at 3 o'clock and at 3:03 Captain Bates sent the first shell, which went whizzing down the line of entrenchments, enfilading the enemy murderously. The American advance line remained behind the crest of the hills until Captain Bates had driven terror into the already beaten and discouraged enemy. At this time the American fleet was also at work, Shortly before this dispatch was written the United States line again moved forward, and the Spanish began to retreat into the town.

SPANIARDS ROUTED. The retreat soon became a rout, and at 5 o'clock an officer just from the front says the enemy are hopelessly eaten. .The most critical time was after the trenches had been taken when the ammunition ran low.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Girl at Exeter.

Startling rumors are being circulated regarding the mysterious disappearance of a girl named Cook from Hen-Suspicions of foul play had steadily grown until Thursday last, when the father of the girl, at the instigation of Reeve Urquhart, dug under an old outhouse in search of the body, supposed by some to have been buried there. The several hours' labor, however, returned no reward. The circumstances surrounding the affair are peculiar, to say the least. The girl, when quite young, was adopted by an aged couple living somewhere in Michigan. Some time ago the foster-parents died. and bequeathed to the girl a goodly sum of money, which was invested in her behalf until she became 21 years of age, in the meantime the interest accruing being applied to clothe and educate her. The girl was brought home by her father, and one night, five weeks ago, while a storm raged wildly, she disappeared, and has not since been seen or heard of. Several registered letters bearing her address lie in the postoffice at Exeter, and, according to her request, cannot be given to any

SMOKING DID IT

Blaze Over Murphy's Store Caused by Throwing a Match on the Floor.

The fire brigade were called out about 12 o'clock yesterday to extinguish a blaze in the second story of J. B. Murphy's premises at 246 Dundas street. Mr. Murphy was lying on a sofa smoking in the front room, immediately over the store. He lighted his pipe and unconsciously let the burning match fall to the floor. He did not notice it, and left the room for only a short time to go to the back veranda. When he returned the lounge and pillows were ablaze. He tried to extinguish them by means of quilts, an overcoat and oilcloth. This latter caught and burned furiously, soon enveloping the room in flames. Timely assistance saved the building and possibly the whole block, as a little more headway and the intense heat would have caused a serious conflagration. The damage amounted to about $100.

Starvation Staved Off Owing to the Mild Winter-The Pinch May Come Next Season.

Kingston, July 4. - A prominent Kingstonian holding a place in official circles writes on April 18 from Dawon City, where he is located, saying: "The weather is getting warm and snow is disappearing. This promises to be a very early spring. The starvation scare has long since gone by though last fall it was a most serious matter, and but for the mildness of the winter, permitting hundreds to go out over the ice, there would have been actual suffering and possibly deaths from want of necessary food Even as it is many have felt the pinch and not a few have lived on flour, beans and bacon.

"Unless, however, the Stikine-Teslin Railway is built in time this summer the trouble will be repeated next winter, only on a larger scale, owing to the vast crowds that will come in "I notice that there is a big effort in parliament to frustrate the government's plans as to the immediate construction of that road. Certainly the opposition are assuming a terrible re-sponsibility if they succeed in preventing the completion of that road before the ice closes the Lewes and Yukon."

SPAIN'S RETRIBUTION

The Hebrew Proverb Is Exemplified by Her History.

[London Spectator.] We expect a terrible outbreak in Spain, and our judgment is in no way modified by the statements that the ruling classes of the cities expect nothing of the kind; that they believe the army can and will protect them, and that the tide of amusement shows as deep a volume as ever. The theaters were all open in Paris while the tumbrils were rolling toward the guillotine, and would be open next week if the plague were carrying off 500 men a

We pity the queen-regent, who is a good woman, and a brave one; we pity the present government, which has been possibly untruthful to itself as well as to its supporters; and we pity Spain itself, which is responsible only for part of its misfortunes; but if there is one truth more certain than another, it is that men inherit misfortunes as well as fortunes, or, as the old Hebrew put it. that "the fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge." The past treatment by Spain of her transmarine possessions has earned for her the retribution which is now falling on a generation which, except by its indifference-an indifference shown in the second appointment of Gen. Weyler-has not earned the penalties it will suffer. The Spaniards may point to the Indian mutiny as proof that insurgents may rise upon the guiltless; that when Sepoys sprang at our throats, tens of thousands of other Sepoys took service with us to put their countrymen down. Are there ten men not pure Spaniards in all the colonies who will stand to the death by Spain?

Kidney Trouble FOR YEARS.

Nothing Did Mr. R. E. Pitt Any Good Until He Got Doan's Kidney Pills.

Throughout the county of Leeds and the town of Brockville there is no medicine spoken so highly of for all kinds of Kidney Diseases as Doan's Kidney Pills. As Canada's pioneer kidney pill, introduced by Mr. James Doan, of Kingsville, Ont., in 1885, they stand today far superior to all the imitations and substitutes that have been offered the public in their stead. Mr. R. E. Pitt, the well-known contractor and builder, voices these sentiments when he says: "I have had kidney trouble for years. I had tried numerous remedies without much relief, and had given up m (ack as gone for good, but since using Doan's Kidney Pills the result has been marvelous! The pain is all gone. I feel like a new man, and can highly testify to the virtues of Doan's Kidney Pills." Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of price; 50 cents a box, or three boxes for $1 25. The Doan Kidney Pill Com-

Thereupon the foreign consuls at Santiago made a joint representation, requesting that women and children in the city have until Tuesday noon to withdraw before the bombardment begins. The Spanish general declined to surrender at the time first set by Shafter. At present a truce exists, pending the expiration of the 24 hours asked for by the foreign consuls.

SAMPSON SAYS NOTHING Washington, July 4.—Up to 10:30 o'clock nothing had reached the navy department from Admiral Sampson on the subject of the destruction of Cervera's fleet. No uneasiness, however, is felt. Gen. Miles had a conference with Secretary Long at his hotel shortly after 9 o'clock, at which the present necessity for sending troops to Shafter's relief was discussed. The secretary was in great spirits over Sampson's great victory yesterday, and the favorable news from Dewey. He was hopeful that today's news would show that the capitulation or destruction of Santiago was a question of only a short

THE PRINCESS' FAIRY BIRD

[By Elizabeth Platt.] The king's daughter, Elsbeth, had fallen under the spell of an evil enchantment. For weeks she had been asleep. The most learned doctors and wise magicians had come from all lands, but all their arts and incantations failed to awaken her. She was the only daughter of a great king who had incurred the displeasure of a queer creature called a Kobold, who lived in a fairy wood, not far from the palace, and, out of revenge, he had cast his spell upon her. In vain the king beg-ged the Kobold to lift the spell from his beloved daughter; but the Kobold only laughed in his most wicked manand none dared touch him, for fear of a greater evil coming upon the kingdom. Now, there lived near by a young man by the name of Otto, so handsome and good and with such courtly manners that the people all called him Prince Otto.

Otto had long loved the princess, and so much did he grieve that this trouble had come upon her that one night he dreamed that away to the north, in No-man's-land, was an old witch called Mother Timeless, who had a magic song-bird whose song was so wonderful that could the princess once hear it the dread sleep of enchantment would be broken. Such an impression did the dream make washington, saily 1.— It is not tell by the war department officials upon Otto that he resolved to go in that there is a general dispatch from search of the bird. His way lay Shafter regarding the demand for the through the fairy wood, and as he walked on, he saw the fairies and gnomes stare at him from the forest considered. The officials decline to give had walked a long distance when he saw a bird, that had hurt its wing fluttering on the ground. Otto tenderly took up the bird and put it back into its nest. The bird was very grateful, and said: "Otto, take feather, and when you are in danger throw it into the air and call on the King of the Birds, and I will help you. Otto thanked the bird, took the feather, and put it into his pocket Newark, N.J., July 4.—The news from He was now at the end of the forest, and as he rested the North Wind came hurrying by, and, knowing Ot-to's errand—for the wind always knows secrets-and having heart in spite of his rough manner, he spread his broad wings, took Otto upon them, and whisked him over land and sea, and dropped him bewill take the blue casket." The old witch, laughing wickedly, handed it to him, and he started homeward. He had gone but a little way when he heard a loud noise, and. looking around, saw Mother Timeless riding on that curious staff, coming after him as fast as ever she could. Mercy! How frightened Otto was! throwing it into the air, said, "King of the Birds, come to my rescue!" and immediately there sprang up a thicket of thorn trees so dense and tangled that the witch was caught thereby, Washington, July 4.- The secretary of and held fast for one thousand years. the tree-tops bowed their head as he passed, and, the princess' window being open, he landed him right in the chamber at the feet of the king, who was sitting in a crimson chair by his daughter's couch. The king was very angry, but Otto told him of his dream and his journey, and the king said, "If your bird can awaken the princess, then may you have her for your wife with half the kingdom." Otto opened the casket, and out came the beautiful bird, its little body white as snow and its wings a faint rose color. As it hopped on the silken cushion of the fair Elsbeth, it sang a song so sweet and wondrous that it sank into her very soul. And lo! the spell was

> The princess awoke, took Otto for her husband, and there was feasting and rejoicing throughout the kingdom. The wicked old Kobold vanished, and was never seen again. THE FARMER WON

But Schaefer Considers It the Shortest Game of His Life.

-pome years ago," said a sporting man, "when Schaefer kept a billiard room in this city, he was always ready to play all comers who desired a game. Many strangers and people unknown to Schaefer naturally strolled in; many, too, who probably did not know him. But it made no difference to Schaefer. Sometimes strangers would desire to play for money, but this Schaefer would never do. To all such propositions he would say: 'No, I won't play for money, but I'll tell you what I will do-I will play a game, the loser to treat the

"One day an old farmer entered the place, and after wandering about looking at the pictures on the walls and examining the tables he asked if there was any one present who would like to play him a game of billiards. Schaefer, as usual, said that he would play the stranger.

"'How much shall we play for?' asked the farmer. "'I never play for money,' replied

Schaefer, 'but I will play you for the drinks for the house. "'All right,' said the farmer. 'How many points shall we play?' "'Oh,' replied Schaefer demurely in all the consciousness of his superior powers, 'we'll just play until you are satisfied, and we will call that a game. "The crowd smiled as the players prepared for the contest. The balls were placed on the table, and Schaefer brought out his favorite one, and it fell to his lot to open the game. "The opening shot in a billiard game is a somewhat difficult one, as most players know, and Schaefer, probably through indifference, missed it. He not only missed it, but left the balls close together near one of the cushions. It was what is termed in billiard parlance a 'set up.'

"The old farmer carefully chalked his cue, and after deliberation made the shot. He then gazed at the balls a moment. laid down his cue and exclaimed:

"'I am satisfied.' "The score was then 1 to 0 in favor of the old farmer, but as Schaefer had agreed to make the game as long or short as the farmer desired he had to be satisfied. Schaefer of course had to invite all present, including his conqueror. to partake of the hospitality of the house. As the crowd laughed and drank Schaefer remarked that the game was the shortest he had ever played, and probably the shortest on record."-New York Tribune.

LOVED LIFE TOO WELL.

Ancient Natchez Indian Who Rebelled

Against Being Sacrificed. One of the repulsive features of the laws under which the Natchez Indians were governed was that when a member of the royal family of the nation died it was necessary that several others of the people should accompany him to the tomb by suffering death at the hands of executioners. When the "great sun," the hereditary chief of the whole nation, died, all his wives, in case he were provided with more than one, and also several of his subjects, were obliged to follow him into the vale of shadows. The 'little suns,' secondary chiefs, and also members of the royal family, likewise claimed, when dying, their tribute of death from the living. In addition to this, the inexorable law also condemned to death any man of the Natchez race who had married a girl of the royal line of the "suns." On the occasion of her death he was called upon to accompany her. "I will narrate to you upon this subject," writes an old French chronicler of Louisiana, "the story of an Indian who was not in a humor to submit to this law. His name was Etteacteal. He had contracted an alliance with the 'suns.' The honor came near having a fatal result for him. His wife fell sick. and as soon as he perceived that she was approaching her end he took to flight, embarking in a pirogue on the Mississippi, and sought a refuge in New Orleans. He placed himself under the protection of the governor, who was at that time M. de Bienville, offering himself to be the governor's hunter. The governor accepted his services, and interested himself in his behalf with the Natchez, who declared, in answer, that he had nothing to fear, inasmuch as the ceremony was over, and as he had not been present when it took place he was no longer available as a candidate for execution."-New Orleans Picavune.

determined to wear violet silk?" "I thought—I think"— stammered the other woman, reddening through her sallowness.

"Then be sure to remember my advice and put on plenty of powder-yes, I think in that case you might venture to wear violet silk." The sallow blond did not say another word, but sat over ostentatiously and gave a newcomer a seat. Perhaps she had not meant to be rude, with her sorrow and her highways and hedges. But people were smiling around her, secretly glad, as we cannot help being, of witnessing the neat pat with which a skilled fencer drops a roistering and bullying antagonist. - Chicago Post.

A Nice Little Order.

A man who had "got on" in life and rapidly amassed a large fortune, on furnishing a new and luxuriously fitted house, suddenly discovered, to his great distress, that he had omitted the "harmless necessary" library. He went to a local shop and ordered a supply of books.

"What are your particular tastes?" asked the bookselller. "Oh, I've no hideas about the matter," was the reply. "You're a bookseller-you ought to know all about it. I simply ask you to provide me with a library. "And you have no preference?" "No, but wait a second. I 'ave a preference. There's a man whose books I ought to 'ave. Now, bless me, what's 'is name? Shake-Shakes-Shakes some-

Washington, July 4.-An indication of the feeling of cordiality existing between the United States and Canada was furnished today by the application John Jarvis, who served in her Maof a battalion of Canadian troops to enter the United States with arms to assist in the celebration of the Fourth of July. The application came from the Forty-third Battalion of troops stationed at Ottawa, consisting of the Royal Scots and the Carleton Rifles. Their desire was to go from Ottawa to Portland, Me., to participate in the celebration. When the application was submitted to President McKinley he granted it promptly, and the state department at once notified applicants of the action taken. Buffalo, July 4.-Today's celebration of the Fourth of July was a memorable one in the history of this city. At 9;30 there was a great parade of military and civic societies. Fifteen hundred school children were grouped in the form of a living star at the corner of Broadway and Washington streets and sang patriotic songs as the procession passed.

FATAL STORM

Swept Over Lake Ontario on Sunday.

Three Young Men Drowned at Hamilton-Narrow Escape of Others.

Hamilton, July 4.-A terrible windstorm swept over the city and bay at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, causing a triple drowning and a great deal of damage to local shipping. The boat that fared the worst was a centerboard yacht, owned by W. H. Long, carpenter, 78 Burlington street west. With Mr. Long in the boat were his prother-in-law. Charles Williams, 78 Burlington street; Charles Searles, son of Mrs. P. Murphy, 449 Macnab street north, and Roy Sinnett, son of James Sinnett, market gardner, Bartonville. The squall struck their boat with great fury, and she began to fill with water from the high seas, and finally sank, the quartet starting to swim to shore. Long was the only one to escape, the other three becoming exhausted and drowning. Mr. Long was an elderly man. Searles was 28 years of age and unmarried. Sinnett, who had been visiting Searles, was 23 years old. Williams was about 25 years old and left a wife and a child. The fatality occurred within sight of several people, who could not do anything toward rescuing the unfortunate young

Waves From Lake Linderman Demo.ished the Klondikers' Scow and All Perished,

Seattle, July 4.-Information has been received of an accident on Lake Linderman on June 16, which caused the death of sixteen men and women bound for the Klondike. They had constructed a scow to navigate the lake, and placed upon it sixteen horses and the entire outfit of the party. When the scow reached the point on the lake known as Windy Arm, the waves demolished it, and all on board were drowned. The names of the party are not given, excepting that of Albert Cavanagh, of Seattle.

COLORS OF NATIONAL FLAGS

Though the policy of military authorities in using less glaring colors in uniforms has been very marked of late years, red remains the most popular color for national standards. Of 25 countries, 19 have flags with red in them, the list including the United States, England, France, Germany, land. Belgium, Switzerland, Turkey last, but not least, Cuba.

The countries which have blue as an element of their flags are the United States, Russia, France, England, Holland, Ecuador, Sweden, Chili, Venezuela, Portugal and Cuba. countries have black as one of the elements of their flags, Germany, Belgium and China, but Germany is the only one of the three which has black and white together. There are five countries (excluding from consideration Ireland, the familiar flag of which is not officially recognized among the national standards) which have green as a color: Brazil, the flag of which is green chiefy; Mexico, Egypt, Italy There are nine countries in which the flag is partly of yellow. These countries are Austria, Spain, Belgium, Egypt, Sweden, China, Persia, Brazil and Venezuela. Countries with flags partly white are the United States, France, Germany, Russia, Austria and Italy, six of the seven chief powers. There is no white in the national standard of England, but the British naval flag has a white background. Other countries having white in their flags are Switzerland, Turkey, Persia, Japan, Mexico, Holland, Denmark, Portugal, Cuba, Chili and Ecuador, the flag of which is nearer white than any other country, being made up of two parallel white columns, between which is a column of blue, upon which are white stars .- New York Sun.

[McClure's.] The native of Manila is a queer mixture of Malay, Chinese and Spanish characteristics, and you find him combining the looks and traits of these three types in all sorts of proportions. He lives on rice, cigarettes and cockfighting, and rarely tucks his shirt in-to his trousers. Being, as he is, a born gambler, he substitutes the fighting cock for the dog and makes as much ado over his pet rooster as we do over a clever terrier. In case of fire it is the first thing rescued and removed

The Manila tramcar is a thing by itself, as is the one lean pony that pulls it. It takes one man to drive and one man to work the whip; and if the wind blows too hard the service is suspended. The conductor uses a valise suspended from his neck, and whistles through his lips-up hill to stop and down hill for the starting sign. Smoking "goes" everywhere, and everyone smokes, even to the conductor, who generally drops the ash from a fifteenfor-a-cent cigarette into your lap as he hands you a receipt for your "dos centavos." No one is allowed to stand inside, and if the car contains its quota of passengers the driver hangs out the sign, "Lleno" (full), and doesn't stop even for the archbishop. Sit at the front end of the car, please, if you fear smallpox, for it is no strange sight to see a Philippine mamma brush into a seat holding a scantily-clothed babe well covered with evidences of the disease.

It is the guardian of the elegances of life if not of its loftier verities, of its proprieties if not of its honesties. Then it makes a fair setting to those human jewels whose fortune it is to seem, as well as to be, great. That it does not always recognise or respect rough diamonds is nothing against it, any more than it is its fault if it sometimes frames pudding-stone. But you must be in one way or the other. Why, even the Koh-i-noor was not chie till it was cut. The chief fault of some people in society is the believing that it is everybody's Grand Mogul, just as it is their own. And another fault is that it will pretend to be good, instead of being

"It was never immorality that excluded a person from society; it was bad style," said Miss Cromo, who pre-tended to know all about the matter. "But don't you think it would be better not to pretend to be so very

Of Interest to Women.

Seasor About the Season's Hats. "This is the way I have to sit in a carriage this summer," said a girl, and by awkwardly crouching her shoulders and thrusting her knees well forward, she managed to lower her sitting posture until her head was some inches from the carriage top. "There's no other way with the height of the season's hats, and there is no pleasure in driving except in a no-top. A carriage with a top means discomfort to you and destruction to your hats. I don't see what fashion was thinking of this year to decree a style of hat trimming so utterly impossible for carriage wear. I have ruined three hats one after another, and the only reason I have not ruined more is because I haven't worn the others when driving. Quills have been snapped, feathers broken, aigrettes beheaded and flowers smashed, and all because they are elevated to an extent incompatible with carriage tops. country carriages that are that have been wrecked by hansom tops this spring. Some hansoms are, of course, higher than others, but few affairs. Miss Campbell-you of them are tall enough to accommodate the fashionable hat. I am sure I don't see how it's going to end. The present carriage has probably been designed with an eye to proportion, just as the fashionable hat has evidently been designed with an eye to nothing save exaggeration, and it will therefore be a pity if the symmetry of the one must suffer for the lack of symmetry of the other. Still, our ruined hats are an eloquent excuse for higher things in wagon tops, and if we women should happen to choose to demand those higher things, it is not unlikely that we might get them; women generally get what they want.. Perhaps the best thing would be to re-

Do you know why so many women are suffering from nervous prostration? Why so many physicians are acquiring wealth by catering to a long list of feminine patients, and supplying names to their many ailments, which, summed up, mean nerve affections? It is the high rate of living. This modern civilization in which we take so much pride is acquired at a tremendous sac-rifice, harder for women than men, because of the physical and social con-The life of fashionable women is an incessant and never-ending effort to be agreeable. She has to be always smiling when she appears in public, no matter how worried or tired or i'll she may be. If she is not willing to make the effort she must seclude herself or lose her popularity, which she would never consider for a moment. Few men ever trouble themselves to be always simulating a pleased interest in everybody and everything at dinner parties, balls or social gatherings, for their popularity does not depend upon their charms of manner. Hostesses are glad to secure their presence in any condition.

But women, poor, tired, overworked women, pay their way through this un-even old world. They are buttonholed for half an hour by the most tiresome old bore in town, and the effort they make to seem interested is nothing short of heroism. A call for half an hour from a stupid acquaintance is followed by a perceptible lowering of the hostess' vitality, which is part of the feminine armament in life, must never be laid aside, except in the privacy of one's bedroom, where nature may be put on with one's wrapper, and the world may be forgotten for a brief space of time.

Rag Carpet Again. The rag carpet, after many years, has returned. It is once again fairly popular, and the rags that have for a quarter of a century gone to the rag-man are now being treasured up, since -if they are of wool-they are almost worth their weight in gold. Why the rag carpet ever did go out of style it is hard to determine, and its reappearance in society is not sufficient to understand. Properly put together, and made of a good assortment of rags it is exceedingly pretty, and withal easy to manufacture, all the knack needed being the skill necessary to cut the rags in strips, sew them together in lengths, and wind them into a ball. For a small sum the rag carpet weaver does the rest. Bathroom and study rugs are the chief uses of the rag carpet of today. It is not so much rag carpets in fact, as it is rag carpet rugs. The rag carpet rug is not large, as a rule. Six feet by three would be quite an extraordinary size. The idea is to have quite a number of them, and these much smaller. They clean easily and wear like iron. These facts especially commend them. Then, too, there is commend them. Then, too, ther much sociability in their making. much sociability in their making. A rag carpet party is a jovial event, and la "function" that, long neglected, is coming in again once more. The girls meet of an afternoon and sew rags until 5 or half-past. Then the especially asked for this hour, begin to drift in, and there is afternoon tea. It is the memorizing of the old-time "sewing bee" and it works marvelouswell as an amusement.

2 2 Usefulness of Lemons.

Lemons taken externally, or rather used, will aid in beautifying anyone. There is nothing more valuable for the toilet table than a solution of lemon juice; a little rubbed on the hands, face and neck at night will not only whiten but soften the skin. A paste made of magnesia and lemon juice applied to the face and hands upon lying down for a fifteen minutes' rest will bleach the skin beautifully.

For discolored or stained finger nails, at fault. I know of a hundred of hats this is one of the very best manicure acids. It will loosen the cuticle from the finger nails as well as remove discolorations.

Lemon juice in water is an excellent tooth wash. This is about the only thing that will remove tartar. It will aiso sweeten the breath.

Nearly all serious maladies are the result of imperfect nutrition. Imperfect nutrition is just another name for starvation. A man may eat voraciously and still starve. He may put on an eighth of a ton of sickly flabby flesh and have a big, corpulent stomach, and still be starving. He may scorch antil he goes to the opposite extreme and gets thin as a rail, and he is still starving. The trouble lies in the fact that no matter how much food is taken it is not properly assimilated. The blood does not receive the life-giving elements of the food that build firm, healthy flesh, solid muscle and vibrant nerve fibers. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the assimilation perfect. perfect. It makes solid, healthy flesh, without raising the weight above Nature's normal. At all medicine stores.

It is interesting to note that in Mr. Dalton's case, as in many other 'talented people's, he was designed by his parents for one profession and his gifts led him into another. After seven years of apprenticeship at the printing trade he worked six months at it and then took to studying music with fortunate results. His fine voice was trained by Santley. a famous English baritone, and he came to this country to sing with an English lady of renown, Alice Oates. He was also a member of the Soldine company. PASTORS PREACH

At the First, Dundas Center and Wellington Street Churches

Able Sermons by Dr. Smith, Dr. Saunders and Rev. Joseph Edge-Local Ministry Well Reinforced.

REV. DR. J. V. SMITH. A large congregation attended the services at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning to welcome the new pastor, Rev. J. V. Smith, D.D., who succeeds Rev. Dr. Daniel. Rev. Dr. Smith is no stranger in London, and has returned after a lapse of nine years, during which time he has occupied pulpits in many of the leading churches in the larger centers of the Dominion, where his abilities, his personality and kindly, sympathetic nature, have endeared him to a multitude. The new pastor is a fluent and powerful speaker, and his delivery is marked by a gratifying distinctness of enunciation. Physically he is a strong man, of more than average size. He was born in the lake district of Cumberland, England near the birthplace of the immortal Wordsworth, in 1847, and at the age of 16 years began his career as a preacher. He secured his training in the best schools of England, and the degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by one of the best universities in Canada. During his probationary days he preached at the missions of Sheron, Bondhead, Sarnia and Niagara Falls. He was ordained in the Centenary Church, Hamilton (from which he has just come) in 1874. which was the last year of the old Wesleyan conference. He was called to St. Thomas, where he spent three years, and since then he spent three

Toronto, three years in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and four years at the Centenary Church, Hamilton. The preacher yesterday morning chose as his text the words: "Behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha" (II. Kings, vi., 18). The discourse was an eloquent one, in which the prophet Elisha and the King of Syria were pointed to as illustrations of the power and influence attained by righteous men, and the contemptibility of the

Rev. Dr. Saunders occupied his pulpit at the Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday for the first time since being transferred by conference from Kingston, and was greeted by large in a biographical sketch of Dr. Saunders recently published by The Advertiser, he was stationed at London some years ago, and has many old friends here. By them and by all others to whom he has been known in name only, his return to the city is hailed with pleasure. His sermon yesterday morning was eloquent, earnest and At the outset he referred briefly to his appointment, and said he did not know how to introduce himself better than to call attention to Romans i., 15: "So as much as in me is I am ready to preach the gospel to you.' After dwelling upon Paul's characteristics as revealed in the text, the speaker said he thought the congregation had done a risky thing when they had invited him to become their pastor, and it was a risky thing, also, for him to consent to come. It was one thing to accept an invitation and another to put oneself under the awful responsibility of preaching the gospel to such a congregation. Reverting to the text he supplied the words "that are in Rome also" to complete the verse, of which the text is but part, and pointed out that even though Paul knew how despotic, autocratic and intolerant Rome was, yet he was ready to preach the gospel there. So was the speaker ready, "as much as in me is." He was there to preach the gospel-not for anything else; to preach the gospel that Paul referred to, and no other. People objected to the dogmatism of the pulpit, but the gospel was the most dogmatic thing under the blue vault. Truth was always dogmatic, unflinching, inexoracid in contact with alkali. The conflict was started at once. The claims demanded a total surrender. It insisted upon a life of absolute purity. The responsibility of attempting to preach such a gospel was great, and so, too, was the responsibility of a congrega-

This gospel to sinners was like tion in asking one to do so-to let a man show up their short-comings. Dealing with another side of the question, the speaker dwelt upon the joy of preaching-the joy that comes from the consciousness that he has not either from fear or favor changed the gospel in any particular; but that he has told the truth just as he got it: There was the joy, too, of seeing the happiness the gospel brought to others. This point was eloquently elaborated. and in closing the reverend gentleman complimented the choir and expressed the hope that during his ministration he would have the hearty co-operation of all connected with the church. of God and the church. His earnest prayer was that a good work might be done for Christ, and that all members would take a hand in it. The subject of the morning discourse was found in Acts, iii., 6: "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I mone, but such as I have I give thee. In the name of Jesus Christ of Newteth, I say, rise up and walk."
