C. P. R. CONFIRMS THE TORPEDOING OF THE MISSANABIE

FARMERS' DAY BRINGS CROWDS TO FAIR IN MOTOR CARS; CLOUDY WEATHER NO DETERRENT TO THEM

Prohibition of Motoring About the Grounds Is Appreciated, and Enforcement Is Good—No "Taggers" Allowed in Spite of Many Petitions.

London has been invaded today by a great host of motor cars. Never in the history of the city has such an array of automobiles assembled all in one day. From north, south, east and west they began rolling in at an early hour this morning. True to long-established tradition, Wednesday once more Farmers' Day at the Western Fair and, no longer dependent on railroad companies, the members of the farmers of Western Ontario have elected to come to the exhibition in their own motor transport. The new mode of traveling means that more members of the family are brought along, hence, with the growing popularity of the Western Fair, notwithstanding the threat of rain, the attendance today is said to be the best of any previous Wednesday in fifty years.

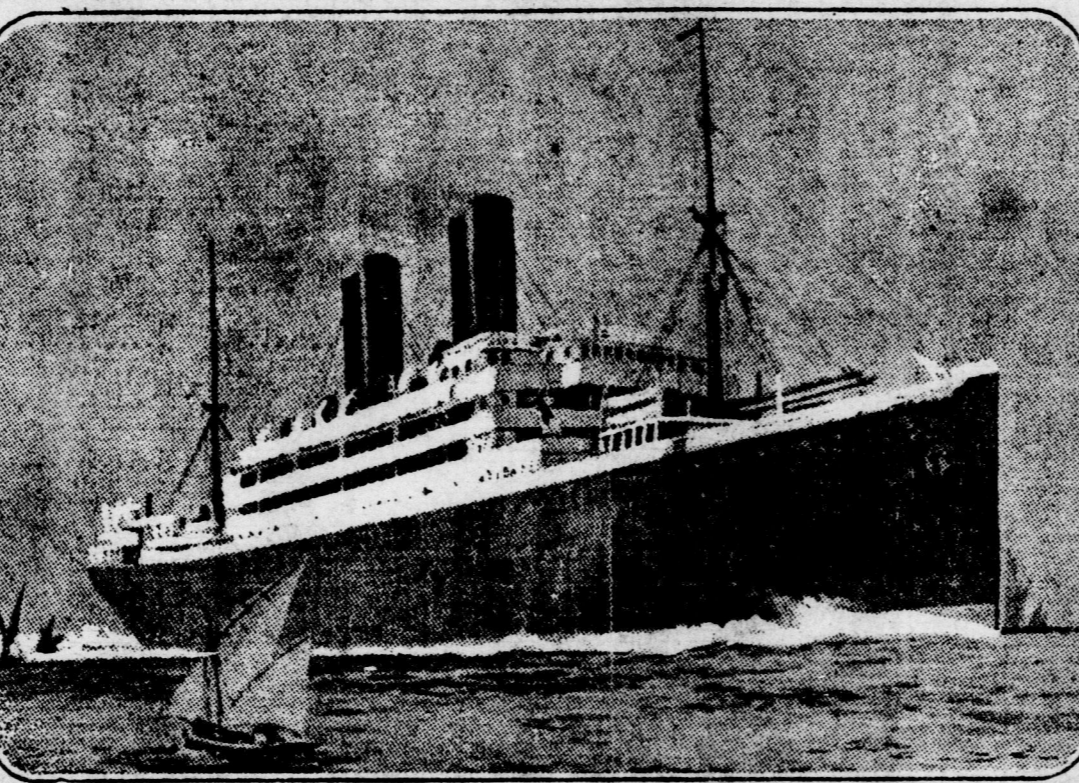

Cloudy Thoughts Dispelled. About 9:15 o'clock this morning, the directors began to have some doubts about the outlook for Farmers' Day. In the first place, the sky was overhung with clouds, and in the second, the people weren't arriving in the numbers they used to at that hour. Ten o'clock, and the visitors were pouring in. The explanation was discovered. The city folk got up an hour earlier than formerly, governing their lives by daylight saving. The farmer has an hour later to sleep in the morning. He can't do anything in the dark of the early morning hours, so life on some farms goes on the same schedule as in former years.

Automobiles soon filled up the parking spaces in the ring, reached by the Dundas and Egerton street entrance through the subway, and lawns, backyards and lanes for blocks in every direction had their quota of parked cars. Small boys, whose homes were near the grounds, were doing a land agent business in diverting traffic into the guard-rails.

It is believed by the company that none of the passengers were lost.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE AND RE-MARRIAGE, TO BE DISCUSSED

Vital Statistics Covering All Phases of Great Problem.

ANGLICAN GENERAL SYNOD

Grave Moral Dangers To Be Considered in Detail at Sessions in Toronto.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Sept. 11.—Marriage, divorce and remarriage, are to be live topics for discussion at the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, which opened its business sessions this afternoon in St. James' Parish House. A resolution of the synod, which was adopted, is the "indissolubility of marriage" follows:

"That in view of the grave moral dangers which must inevitably result it should be proposed that alterations in the English marriage law, which stand in the name of Sir A. Conan Doyle, be put into effect. The general synod of the Church of England in Canada be respectfully petitioned to reaffirm the church's belief in the indissolubility of holy marriage and her determination to resist any attempt to facilitate divorce and remarriage; and that a copy of such reformation be forwarded to the mother Church of England."

The Anglican Council for Social Service at its pre-synod session yesterday took up the question of making it necessary to secure a health certificate before marriage, indorsed all legislative action for securing the same, and expressed the belief that the time had come for the church to emphasize very clearly the moral failure involved in the act of impurity, while at the same time it would remind the public that legal enactments and physical prophylactics alone would not eradicate a moral evil.

Resolutions to Consider. Among the resolutions which the council has sent on for the synod's approval are the indorsation of the Government liquor legislation, establishment of a substitute for the saloon to meet the social needs of the men, measures for social purity, protection for the feeble-minded and removal of the cause of the evil, indorsation of Field at Fenway Park Lightening Fast.

Batteries: Boston, Mays and Schang; Chicago, Tyler and Killifer.

FIRST INNING. Chicago.—Thomas took Flack's hopper and got his man easily at first. Mays and Schang kept closely around the batter's knees. Shean tossed out Hollister. Scott got Mann at first. No hits. No errors.

Boston.—Hollocher made a nice play of Hooper's grounds and threw him out. Shean reached on a bunt. Hollister made a fine try for Strunk's Texas Leaguer, but it got away from him, and the official scorer gave him a hit. Tyler held Strunk closely pinned to first base. Whiteman sent a long fly to Esker. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Boston, Sept. 11.—A chilling wind nipped the ardor of the fans today, and less than a score were waiting for the gates to the unreserved sections to be opened. Those that came early lined the playing field was lightning fast. "We'll play the game, and tomorrow if we lose, we'll be back," said Harry Hooper to the players that an adjustment had been reached. Just what settlement the players made with the club owners was not made known.

The Sox came on the field for batting practice at 1 o'clock.

PRICE OF MEAT IN ENGLAND TO RISE. London, Sept. 11.—The food controller announced that the retail price of meat will be increased two pence a pound after September 22.

The announcement explains that the increase is necessitated chiefly because of the heavier cost of importation of meat from America and the rise in freight rates.

Huns Mutiny

Amsterdam, Sept. 11.—A German regiment, the 25th, mutinied at Cologne on August 31, according to the Telegraaf.

An eye-witness of the incident says that the soldiers, on being ordered to leave Cologne for the western front, refused to board a train. Another regiment was then ordered to force the refractory troops to enter the cars, but they refused to fire on their comrades.

A detachment of the home defence guard, composed of youths, was then ordered to undertake the task, and a fight followed, in which eleven boys of the defence guard were killed or injured.

PETROGRAD IS REPORTED TO BE IN FLAMES; MANY CITIZENS BEING KILLED

Pillage and Riots Prevail in All Parts of City—No Semblance of Law or Order, Either Military or Civil.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Word reached Washington today from a European source that reports there said Petrograd was in flames in many places and that indiscriminate slaughter of citizens, pillaging and riots were taking place in all parts of the city. According to these reports, there is no semblance of law or police or military regulations.

GERMANY MUST RENOUNCE ALL HER PAN GERMAN IDEAS BEFORE PEACE CAN BE DISCUSSED SAYS PROFESSOR

Prof. Hans Delbrueck of Berlin University Says That the Spirit of Superiority and Might Is Not the True Teuton Spirit.

Stockholm, Sept. 11.—As the first step toward peace, Germany must renounce the pan-German ideas, in the opinion of Prof. Hans Delbrueck of the University of Berlin. Prof. Delbrueck, in an article in the magazine Prussian Year Book, declares that the Pan-Germans not only bear a portion of the responsibility for the war, but also the chief responsibility for its prolongation. "The world demands, and has a right to demand, that the German people give a guarantee that the pan-German spirit, the spirit of superiority, of might, of heathendom, is not the German spirit. The best method of showing the world that the German Government has definitely and irrevocably shown the pan-German attempt at the door would be for the Government to collect all of these anti-illuminist pan-German incitements and demonstrate by means of our enemies' literature how great their conduct damaged us and helped to light the fire of this catastrophic war."

TROOPSHIP WITH 2,800 SAMMIES ABOARD SUBBED

London, Tuesday, Sept. 10.—A troopship, with 2,800 American soldiers on board, has been torpedoed. All hands were saved. The troopship was beached.

In order to save time, instead of launching the boats, the men clambered down ropes to destroyers, which swarmed around the stricken ship and came close alongside. This operation was greatly facilitated by the fact that the sea was not rough.

The troopship was a member of a large convoy approaching the English coast, which was torpedoed last Friday off the coast of the city from Byron.

An Inland Rest Camp in England, Sept. 10.—The majority of the 2,800 American soldiers from the troopship which was torpedoed last Friday off the English coast, but was not sunk, and upon which there were no casualties, have arrived here none the worse for their thrilling experience.

The men are finding some consolation for the loss of their vessel in the assurance that the submarine that attacked her suffered a far worse fate at the hands of the avenging destroyers, which were speedily on the scene hunting the U-boat with depth charges. To aid in caring for the men here the American Red Cross rushed in large quantities of supplies from London.

BYRON WOMAN, HIT BY MOTOR CAR, DIES ON WAY TO CITY

Mrs. Gonnell, aged 55 years, of Byron, was hit and killed by an automobile at 11 o'clock this morning.

The lady was walking on the Byron road, and evidently misjudged a motor car approaching and stepped in front of the automobile and was run over. She was carried to a house near by and Dr. Roy Routledge of Lambeth was called. An ambulance from this city went out, but Mrs. Gonnell died one hour and a quarter after the accident while coming in to the city from Byron in the ambulance.

The car was driven by Mr. Spoor of Mount Brydges, according to information received, the motor car was going at an ordinary speed. The accident happened shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, and the woman died about 12:15 o'clock. Mrs. Gonnell suffered a bad injury to the spine, which proved to be fatal. Her face was cut a little, and she also had a few scratches on her body. An inquest will be held, but the date has not yet been set.

READJUSTMENT AFTER THE WAR WILL BE QUICK

Lord Shaughnessy Bases His Opinion On Canada's Great Resources.

GOVERNMENT MUST ACT The Returned Soldier Problem Should Be Handled Carefully, Says C. P. R. President.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Prof. William Dyer, 11.—"Canada, with her great natural resources will be able to adapt herself and adjust her industries very quickly after the war is over." This is what Baron Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had to say as he stepped off the special train which arrived at the Union Station today.

BARON SHAUGHNESSY.

"At what skill and science can do should be done for our wounded men, some of whom will go on farms, I hope many will, but I fear they will not be very numerous."

CANUCKS AT IT DAY AND NIGHT TO LICK THE GERMANS

Sir Edward Kemp Returns From Trip to the Front.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—"Canadian troops are working daily and nightly to lick the Germans," said Sir Edward Kemp today on his return from England, where he has been overseas minister of militia.

"No matter what the conditions are, there is never a kick or growl. When I saw them east of Arras they were in the shape and before I left they had some beyond the Hindenburg line, and were, in fact, the first troops to penetrate the Hindenburg line. The corps is probably the most mobile at the front. Despite all casualties, the corps has been kept up to full strength."

Speaking of the Canadian air force, he said the personnel would be about 400, including all ranks.

LA FERRE IS THREATENED BY CAPTURE OF TRAVECY VILLAGE

Paris, Sept. 11.—The village of Travecy, near the southern end of the main Hindenburg line, has been captured by the French, according to reports received here. If the French can hold this town the important enemy position at La Fere, a northerly defence of the St. Gobain massif, two miles south of Travecy, will be virtually outflanked.

HAIG'S FORCES ADVANCE LINES TO NORTHWEST OF ST. QUENTIN

London, Sept. 11.—During the last night, the British line was advanced slightly in the region of Vermand, northwest of St. Quentin, Field Marshal Haig reported in his official statement today.

The Germans delivered a counter-attack in the region of Ecourt-St. Quentin. It was repulsed in stiff fighting.

There was sharp fighting also at Gouzeaucourt. The Germans were beaten off except at one point, at which the British posts remained in enemy possession.

The text of the statement reads:

"We advanced our line yesterday in the direction of Attilly and Vermand.

"In the evening the enemy again strongly attacked our positions on the ridge west of Gouzeaucourt. Sharp fighting followed, as a result of which the attack was completely beaten off, except at one point, where one of our posts remained in the enemy's possession.

"Local fighting took place yesterday afternoon and evening in the neighborhood of Moeuvres and at Ecourt-St. Quentin. In the former case an attack by a strong party of the enemy succeeded in entering our trenches, but was repulsed by our counter-attack. At Ecourt-St. Quentin also the enemy was repulsed after stiff fighting.

"We advanced our line slightly during the night west of Erquinghem, west of Armentieres."

GERMANS STILL ATTACKING ALONG MONT ROUGE PLATEAU

American Forces on the Aisne Front, Tuesday, Sept. 10.—(Reuter's).—The Germans this evening were still attacking on the Mont Rouge Plateau with desperate determination. The losses of the enemy in the last three days must have been appalling.

ITALIANS REPULSE ENEMY ATTACKS.

Rome, Sept. 10.—The following official statement was issued tonight by the Italian war office:

"In the Dosso Cassina region, north of Mount Altissimo, repeated attempts of hostile attacks failed under our fire. The enemy sustained heavy losses.

"In the Alano Basin, one of our parties raided the enemy line, overcoming the sentinels and putting to flight a strong enemy detachment that came to their help.

"In the Lagarina Valley, in the region north of Grappa, along the Middle Piave, artillery and reconnoitering parties have been very active.

"Our fire exploded a large deposit of munitions on the Zugna Torta slopes."

WHAT THE GERMANS CLAIM.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—(Via London).—An attempt made by British forces to advance yesterday south of Ypres and north of La Bassée Canal, says the official statement issued today by the German war office, was repulsed.

Prisoners were taken by the Germans. South of Gouzeaucourt and around Epehy, British attacks reached the German first lines at a few points. The British were driven back, the statement adds, 3,000 prisoners being taken.

WANT RETURNED MEN TO GET SHARE OF REPAIRING

The London command of the Great War Veterans' Association has sent a letter to the minister of militia asking him if it would be possible to give a share of the returned soldiers who have opened shoe repair shops in this city. At the present time there are about four or five returned men who have shoe repair shops in this city, and as the association understands that the department of militia has 20,000 pairs of shoes to be repaired, this would be a great boon to the men in the repair business. The letter asks that the association be given a share of the work and repaired shoes evenly in every center.

G. V. V. A. TO ORGANIZE TILLSONBURG BRANCH

A new command of the Great War Veterans' Association will be organized at Tillsonburg within the next few days. Secretary J. W. Cummins of the London command, received a telegram Tuesday from the headquarters at Toronto stating that there are 150 members ready to be enrolled in this district and asking him and the president, Col. W. G. Coles, to go to Tillsonburg and form the command. The local command is growing and many returned soldiers from Western Canada are coming daily. It is expected that within a short time this command will be one of the strongest in the organization.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" relieves stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches, belch gases and acid eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal feast without rebellion, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops fermentation and acidity and sets things straight, so gently and surely that it is really astonishing.

NEARLY A THOUSAND RETURNED MEN ARE RESIDENT IN LONDON

S. A. Commission Monthly Report So States.

According to the report for the month of August, recently submitted by Secretary Ed Logan of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, 473 returned soldiers have taken advantage of the facilities provided by the commission for their benefit during the month.

It is interesting to note that at the annual meeting of the commission held recently, Col. W. G. Coles, president of the London command of the Great War Veterans' Association, expressed his hearty approval of what is being done for the returned soldiers in this district by the Soldiers' Aid Commission of London. "Our men, and also the soldiers' families, are looking more and more to your commission to provide a central clearing place for the complaints and for obtaining of information," said Col. Coles.

The employment department of the branch is also kept busy endeavoring to place the discharged men, who often find it difficult to secure a suitable position, in some of the many shops disabled as to hinder their return to their former positions and necessitating individual attention in order to find a position that can be successfully handled by them.

In this part of the work a number of employers have assisted by offering to employ returned men in various positions. The employers are greatly appreciated.

The first time in almost three years no returned soldiers arrived in this city during the month of August. A very busy time is expected when the men begin to return home.

The number of returned men resident in London has now grown to 987, according to the records on file in the office of the commission, which are subject to change by the removal of men from London on the arrival of any men without the knowledge of the local secretary.

The figures do not include the men who are temporarily in the various hospitals and who are not actual residents.

Conductor Lost His Chair But Old Lady Saw Great Picture

Not a seat was left in the Majestic Theatre last evening long before the hour came for the presentation of "Hearts of the World." But one little old lady had come in from a distance hoping to see the picture, and when Manager T. W. Logan realized her disappointment, he made another search of his own theatre in the hope that he might secure a space in which her chair might be placed. But it was not to be found. Then the manager directed his gaze toward M. Jules Biazzi, director of the special orchestra. Mr. Biazzi approached him and, before the director was aware of it, had the patient lady in the seat occupied by the conductor for the few minutes during which the score may be handled from a chair.

It was unprofessional, it was highway robbery, it was worse, and for a moment the director felt like saying things, but he deferred, when he saw who had taken his seat, and he stood through the program of more than an hour and a half, conscious of the enjoyment that the lady in the chair was securing from the performance.

T. AND L. CHARGES AGAINST THE FIRE DEPARTMENT OFF

The finance committee of the city council this morning agreed to the withdrawing of the trades and labor charges against the fire department. The withdrawal letter was received at the last meeting of the council from President Joe Dean, and was referred to the committee.

The committee discussed the matter this morning. City Clerk Baker said that the judge would not go ahead on the 12th. Mr. Meredith has asked for instructions in regard to his part in the affair. He wanted to know what the charges were and how they were to be put.

The committee decided that it had no instructions to give in regard to the only charges standing, the Capt. Todor charges, taking the stand that all the committee had was contained in the charges.

This information will be sent to Mr. Meredith, and it is likely that the probe will go ahead at an early date.

JUST OUT OF HOSPITAL; WOUNDED SECOND TIME

Out of the hospital only three weeks, Pte. Howard Wilton of Mount Brydges was wounded a second time on August 21 and was removed to No. 3 Australian Hospital, Arthur Wilton, his father, received word that he had been wounded in the right arm and leg. It is not known how seriously he was injured.

MAKING PUNISHMENT FIT SERIOUS CRIME

Ald. Manness and Ald. Holmes did not prove equal to the call of the finance committee to get up early enough for a meeting at 9 o'clock this morning. They were late.

Mayor Somerville asked the chairman if there was not some law to make the aldermen get on the job on time.

Ald. Harley said there were lots of rules, but no way to enforce them.

However, as punishment the crying ones were named, with the mayor, as a special committee to go into the hole relating to the fire department and adjust it.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO FILL PLACE OF M. O. H. FOR LONDON

Body Appointed by Board of Health Will Report Tuesday Night.

E. H. Russell, E. H. Johnston and H. M. Douglass were appointed a committee of the board of health to deal with the question of choosing a man to fill the position of M. O. H. After some discussion this committee was appointed by the board of health at its regular meeting on Monday evening. The committee will meet and will have a recommendation ready for the next regular meeting of the board.

The report of Dr. Dowhann, acting M. O. H. for the month of August, shows that the city has very few communicable diseases. There were only two cases of scarlet fever, one of diphtheria and one of typhoid. Several other diseases were reported, but none of them were serious.

The usual monthly report had not been received from the Hospital, but from the records of infectious diseases kept in the office of the M. O. H. it was found that 5 scarlet fever and 6 diphtheria patients had been admitted. All the scarlet fever cases were discharged, while 1 of the diphtheria patients was discharged. The public health nurse made 144 visits during the month, besides seven visits to the children's hospital. She also attended four child welfare clinics.

Three hundred and thirty-six visits were made by Dr. B. nurse. Twelve new cases were reported. There were only two deaths during the month that had come under the observation of the T. R. nurse.

Latham and J. W. Scott reported that sanitary conditions in the city were generally good.

The public utility commission, in a letter to the board, intimated that steps were being taken to prevent the collecting ponds at Springbank Park. The commission also stated that it thought the city should have a better system of sewerage and that the board of health should take the necessary steps to prevent the collection ponds at Springbank Park.

The board of health thinks that the collection ponds should be added as an extra precaution, and will accordingly.

TRAINED NURSE OF TORONTO NOW INDORSSES TANLAC

Graduate of Dominion School Tells of Wonderful Results Obtained.

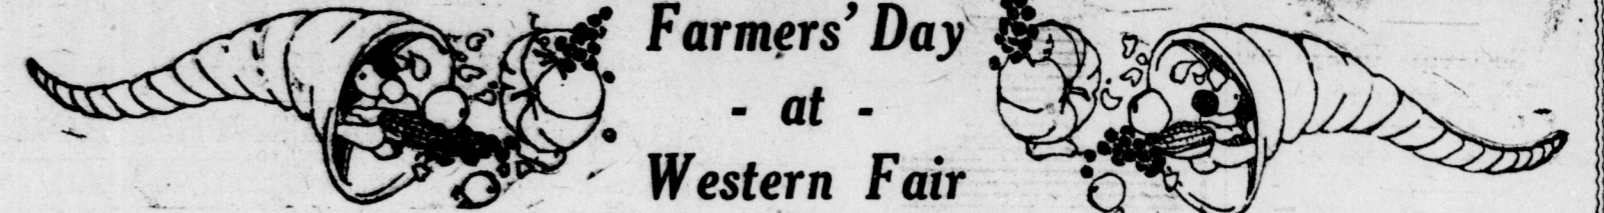

"I have found out the value of Tanlac and I would advise anyone suffering from stomach trouble and a rundown condition to take it," said Mrs. Minnie Edmondson, residing at 116 Mackay avenue, Toronto, recently. Mrs. Edmondson, who is a graduate of the Dominion School of Nursing, has been a trained nurse for the past twelve years and her statement, coming as it does, from one of so much experience in relieving suffering, will be of wide interest.

"For some time," she continued, "my appetite had been poor and I suffered from nervous indigestion. I suffered constantly from a heaviness and pain in the middle of my stomach, together with a gaseous condition, that kept me feeling miserable and badly nearly all the time. What little I did eat seemed to give me no nourishment. I felt tired and didn't seem to have much life and strength. My nerves were rather bad, and I was unable to rest well at night. My case had not reached a serious stage, but I knew if neglected it might develop into chronic indigestion.

"So I decided to try Tanlac, as I had read so much about it, and now I can't recommend it too highly. I have now taken two bottles, and all the pain and distress has left my stomach. My appetite is fine, my food seems to assimilate properly and I can eat what I want without suffering in the least from indigestion. The gas has stopped forming, and all that disagreeable feeling after eating is gone, and my nerves have improved until I sleep splendidly. After Tanlac helped me so much, I told my sister about it, who also took it for stomach trouble with fine results. I have never made a statement about a medicine before, but I certainly do think Tanlac is fine and gladly tell others about it."

"Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug Limited, and by an established agent in every town.

necessary that the sale of bread on Sunday. Quite a number of dealers in various parts have combined to discontinue Sunday sales. The example of the United States is being followed in this country in requesting that gasoline be not used on Sunday by motorists, that a vital war supply may be conserved. It having its effect on Canada. Motorist associations here are calling upon their members to eliminate Sunday use of motor cars. Garage owners are acting independently and in concert to stop Sunday sales and repair work, with a view to conservation.

"Well done," we say, in the interest of gas, but more emphatically in the interest of men. Why, before the war or since, apart from the example of the United States, people could not see that this form of Sunday trade was unnecessary and deprived hundreds of employees of Sunday rest, seems inconceivable to us. Now that the light has dawned, let there be no half-way measures. Stop Sunday sales completely, except in case of emergency, everywhere and permanently. In the United States the disposition to use for pleasure a motor car on Sunday is being effectively discouraged by the application to offenders of the epithet "Snacker." "Give up your Sunday pleasure," say they, "and win the war." The Lord's Day Alliance uses no epithets, but urges "cease Sunday buying and selling to save our day and help our men, and if we have less Sunday motoring, so much the better for the relief to all classes which a quiet Sunday brings."

The Lord's Day Alliance furnishes large cards reading, "Buy your gasoline Saturday," to all dealers upon application. DR. W. M. LOW-MESTER.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary unsifted coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get purified coconut oil at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Adv.

LABOR-SAVING DEVICES.

Food, fuel, money and labor-saving devices of the latest invention, may be seen at the Hydro-Electric exhibit in the Crystal Palace at the Western Fair. Toasters, irons, broilers, percolators, the new Vitafix mixer, washing machines, the Majestic heater, electric "Wax-Rite" floor polishers are all to be seen here, and their good qualities will be demonstrated to you at your wish. The "1900" Electric Washer is one of the chief attractions of the Hydro-Electric exhibit. This machine is made of the very best material that money can buy, and is built to last a lifetime. The frame is of solid rock maple, seasoned, straight grained wood. The machine is so constructed that when placed in position directly in front of your stationary tub, the electric wringer, which normally occupies a position over the copper tub, may be swung around between the two stationary tubs. After the clothes have been taken from the copper tub, put through wringer into the rinse water in the stationary tub directly in back of it; the clothes may then be taken from the rinse water and passed through the wringer into the blue water in the adjoining stationary tub. The washing process may be continued without interruption while the clothes that have been washed are being rinsed, blueed and passed through wringer.

Those visiting the Fair should not miss this exhibit of labor-saving devices.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER DEMONSTRATED.

The exhibit of the Magic Baking Powder Company of Toronto is appropriately situated in the Pure Food Building, where from a dainty pink and white booth, attractive buns and cakes are offered. Vouchers for Magic Baking Powder, fifty samples of this product, are distributed to the children are distributed to all who pay a visit to the booth. C. W. Apps, representative of Magic Baking Powder, is in charge of the booth, while Mrs. Hunt, graduate of the Syracuse School of Domestic Science, conducts the demonstrations, cooking on a Hydro-Electric range, kindly loaned by the Hydro-Electric Company.

Magic Baking Powder is the only medium-priced baking powder free from alum and consequently does not taste the cake. Every sample of Magic Baking Powder cooking tastes like more.

GET A SAMPLE OF CLEANNALL.

In the agricultural building, the Cleanall Soap Manufacturing Company of Toronto has its rows of little white tins, containing wringer soap, exhibited. This soap, which is packed very compact in tins, can be used for all household purposes—in the garage and in the kitchen. Nothing is better than this soft, white soap for ladies' white kid gloves and boots, or any fine white leather of any kind, the soap not containing any harsh ingredients whatsoever. When sending boxes overseas slip a couple of these little tins of soap in your box. A little of this soap rubbed well into the hands and water into a creamy lather, and when water is not just handy, Cleanall, no-water soap is carried by all the leading wholesalers and retailers in this city. 82u

AEOLIAN-VOCALION EXHIBIT.

Visitors at the fair are being attracted by the Nordheimer Piano Company's exhibit of Aeolian-Vocalion phonographs. These instruments, the product of the world's greatest musical establishment, although but lately introduced in Canada, have already firmly established themselves as the most perfect phonograph at present before the public.

The Graduo—the wonderful tone-control device—enables the listener to put his ear over thought and to experience the selection being played, thus eliminating the continual sameness so apparent in the usual type of phonograph. It is also equipped with a variety of other features, such as a simple and sure automatic start stop device, arrangement to play records in reverse order, including Edison, Columbia, Victor, and Brunswick records, and a tone that is unexcelled in richness and stability.

A host of other features, such as its connection with such great music companies, assure it a wonderful future.

MCCORMICK'S EXHIBIT.

When the housewife speaks of biscuits, she thinks of McCormick's and the Jersey Cream Soda brand. Many's the time that the sign is the sign of cleanliness and purity.

The McCormick factory in London, Ontario, is a wonderment at the magnificent model of the McCormick factory. It is an example of the magnificent plan of factory buildings that are a credit to the McCormick Manufacturing Company, Limited.

The buildings, the facade, the grounds put in by the McCormick family, the Union Jack flying in the breeze, the pure whiteness which gives the absolute cleanliness, all exemplify the aims and objects of the McCormick Manufacturing Company. At the factory, which is situated five minutes' walk from the fair grounds, visitors are cordially invited to see through the various departments to see the making of the famous McCormick lines. There they will see what pains are taken to assure perfect purity. None but the best ingredients are used. Modern science and hygienic methods have been employed in the company in manufacturing goods that are perfect in every way. A visit to the fair to see the exhibit and to the factory is really worth while.

HEAR THE BRANT-OLA CONCERTS.

There is a tent just beyond the Crystal Palace, the first one in Society Row, where concerts are constantly being furnished free to all who wish to go and hear them.

The Brant-ola concerts are given by the best-known musicians on the Brant-ola phonograph. This phonograph, manufactured by the Brantford Piano Case Company, to meet the demand for a phonograph which would play all disc records and sell at a popular price. The Wright Piano Company, of Brantford, Ont., has the sole selling rights of this district.

A special feature of the Brant-ola concerts is a boxing match and dance executed by two tiny puppets above the disk of the Brant-ola at the entrance of the tent. No one should miss these splendid concerts.

SIR WILLIAM MACKENZIE HAS INCOME OF $225,000

Premier Hearst's Income Assessed at $12,500.

TORONTO, Sept. 10.—The assessment rolls for No. 3 ward, which have just been handed over to the city clerk, show that Sir William Mackenzie is still to enjoy the distinction of paying municipal taxes on the highest income entered on Toronto's rolls. His income assessment for 1918 is $225,000, so that his income tax to the city will be over $8,750. The Premier of the province pays taxes on the comparatively highest assessment of $12,500. Most of his colleagues at Queen's Park apparently contend that their residence is outside of Toronto, and thus escape taxation here.

A GLANCE AT THE DAY.

IT IS A SINGULAR fact that a few days before the outbreak of war a writer in Munsey's Magazine contributed a sketch of Wilhelm II. of Hohenzollern, which reveals the life of the emperor from childhood to ripened maturity. As the war carried the world away from the immediate past in the twinkling of an eye, few people gave a second thought to the article, and it did not come within the purview of The Advertiser until a reader sent it in just a few days ago. Much of that which is contained in the sketch has already been told in the biographies of the German ruler. His warlike utterances have been printed broadcast. While no estimate of the Kaiser could have given a conception of the man's capacity for evil deeds, as proved since he launched the world into war, the personality had given many signs of determination to dominate ruthlessly all with whom he came into contact. From early childhood he was a singularly restless and active personality, and as a youngster he elicited from Prince Gortschakoff, the Russian Chancellor, the prediction:

"This young Hohenzollern will considerably outshine all his predecessors on the throne. He will be the mainspring of Germany, and his influence will be felt throughout the world. When the time comes he will astonish Europe!"

Obsessed, as he was, from early boyhood with a passion for everything naval and military, the Kaiser's life in his seventh year, when the sentries in the garden of the palace at Potsdam failed to respond to his eager desire for a salute. When Paris was forced to capitulate in 1870 the prince threw up his cap with delight, but when he visited the French capital in 1878 he is said to have become impressed with the tremendous power of recovery exhibited eight years after the historic disaster of Sedan.

The education of the future emperor proceeded on grim lines, and he was the first Prussian prince to go to a public school. This was at instance of his father who no doubt believed that such a violent nature as his should be submitted to the discipline of a wooden bench, shoulder to shoulder with Hans and Fritz. After completing his education he paid hasty and precipitate court to Princess Augusta Victoria, and while the junkers raved because the princess was practically a pauper, he announced his betrothal, and was married with extremes in court show.

His military activities proceeded at such a rate that he won the name of "warlord" long before he stepped to the throne. While he caused frequent controversies in the press, he eventually elated with his father, and when the latter died in 1888 made the people of Germany gasp by surrounding the palace at Potsdam, where the emperor had breathed his last, with a formidable array of troops. It was at first thought an effort had been made to prevent the succession of Wilhelm to the throne, but the real explanation of the startling incident was much simpler. The new ruler had made the discovery that his enemies, known as the Friedrichers, were about to publish the secret memoirs which his father had been writing for the past thirty years, and which, it had been plainly intimated, contained bitter reflections upon the character and policies of Prince Wilhelm. The boldness of the stroke led to the prompt suppression, if not the destruction, of the document that endangered the future of the young ruler.

Immediately upon his accession to the throne he made a direct appeal for the support of the soldiery, declaring a policy that bore fruits in a reign of iron-fisted autocracy, backed by a tremendous war machine. He said:

"We belong to each other, I and the army; thus we were born for one another; and firmly and inseparably we will hold together, whether it be God's will to give us peace or storm."

This invocation to the God of war caused a worldwide discussion of the kind that Wilhelm has constantly and deliberately provoked. At the same time he had played up to his people as "the just and clement chief," and constantly quarrelled with that "eraglike and immovable personality," Prince Otto von Bismarck. The first momentous clash came when the Kaiser announced his plan of calling an international Socialist congress, to which Bismarck was unalterably opposed. No good for the people came from the congress, but the rancor between the Chancellor and his young master was aggravated by a widespread campaign of ridicule, which Bismarck instigated at the expense of the Kaiser.

The bitter conflict was certain to have its climax, and it came suddenly. After a stormy passage between the two Bismarck made the mistake of offering his resignation verbally, hoping that it would be instantly declined by the emperor. This was not the purpose of Wilhelm, however, who had decided to govern Germany in person. When Bismarck had left Potsdam, the Kaiser immediately sent an aide-de-camp to the old Chancellor's residence with a firm request for his resignation. Bismarck offered to deliver his resignation in person on the day following, but the aide-de-camp was ordered to remain at the house of Bismarck until the document was written and signed. For the next twenty-four hours Germany rang with the news that the empire had lost its builder and greatest man. Wilhelm was attacked in the press of the world in the most offensive terms. Other chancellors held the post, but it has always been understood that from that day forward the emperor became his own Chancellor.

At the time the Munsey article was written it was pointed out that the Kaiser's most blatant boast was that with all his armies he had been able to achieve for Germany without plunging her into war. It is proved now beyond possibility of doubt that while the ruler strutted and prayed he was planning to hurl a thunderbolt at the heart of the world.

SAVING THE GASOLINE.

ON A conservative estimate it is stated by the fuel controller that $150,000 can be saved in Canada next Sunday if gasoline consumption in motoring is reduced to the necessary minimum. A general call has gone forth to have the press back up the appeal, and there will be no dissenting voices in urging upon the public the need for a practical show of thrift and economy.

"While the 'motorless Sunday' idea looks like a direct inspiration from Washington, where so many Canadian campaigns and movements have originated, the lateness of the appeal will be forgiven by everyone who realizes that the time has come to conserve gasoline and to save wear and tear on motor cars. The production of motor cars has been cut down by a large percentage, and the present cost of used machines indicates just what value should be placed upon all such vehicles, while the seriousness of the fuel situation this winter demands that all kinds of heat-creating material should be saved to the last gallon and pound.

A vigorous appeal will be made to the people of Canada during the next few days, and it is certain that the response will be made in a spirit of real service to the whole community. Motorists have had an exceptional summer, and few drivers ever before ran up such a mileage as in 1918, when weather and roads made the appeal of the open so strong as to be irresistible. Gasoline was never consumed before in such large amounts, and a day's saving will work no injury.

THOSE WHO COULD NOT VOTE.

Mr. Rowell says that "the manner in which reinforcements should be provided was decided by the people of Canada in September last." By the people of Canada who were allowed to vote, to be more accurate.—Quebec Telegraph.

THOSE who were disenfranchised because of alien birth cannot be classified with the thousands of women who had no relatives at the front, but who are quite as vital factors in the nation as any others. The great shame of the last election contest was in the refusal of the franchise to any properly-naturalized Canadian woman, the woman who did her share in assisting the cause by knitting or sewing for the soldiers. She may not have been loud in claiming this right, but she knew that there was no good reason for withholding it from her, and she has not forgotten.

Nor has the country forgotten. The evils of the last election, the threats and bribes, the subterfuge and deception will do more to arouse a great national consciousness than any other force. The people have been taught to value their franchises, because they had to fight to secure them, and many would have been without a voice in the affairs of their country had they remained inactive and failed to force themselves on the list, in many instances. A whole machinery of elections was operated for the party that won. The half has never been written of what was accomplished, but some day men who know will tell the story. As another session approaches there is a feeling that much may be revealed through the discussions certain to occur in camps of the Union party that have never been reconciled, and are now more than ever antagonistic.

MUTUAL DISGUST.

AMERICAN poets and advertising writers have been placed in the same class as being members of an essential industry. Beasty, says the poet! Abominable, says the ad writer! The one is angry and the other is raving! An ad writer being classified with art, sniffs the poet! Those long-haired ginks, dignified by being teamed with a useful, industrious profession, storms the ad writer! Gen. Crowder, who arranges these matters for Uncle Sam, must have smiled as he did it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Don't burn gasoline next Sunday! Hitch up old Dobbin if you must ride!

London is the mecca of Canadian trade and agriculture this week. Dame Nature is, as usual, making friends for the city.

The health authorities should be most careful to examine the places from which food is sold at the Western Fair ground. Too many violent pains are being reported.

Most inspiring words are those of Sir Douglas Haig: "The enemy has spent his effort." No military commander in the Allied armies would commit himself to so encouraging a statement unless the words were fully justified. Sir Douglas has never underestimated his difficulties nor overestimated the value of victories, but the last blow has been so great as to decide the issue.

THE DYE INDUSTRY.

Whether anything can be made of the British dye industry has yet to be proved. The president of the board of trade is still unable to say that the dye situation, as a whole is "anything like satisfactory." He has lent at once £1,000,000 to those engaged in the industry, given them £600,000 for building purposes, £150,000 for research, and prohibited except by license the import of dyes for ten years after the war.

Various members of the House have criticized the program on the ground that its beneficiaries are unduly small amount set aside for research and the uncertainty as to who is to administer it. The best results department of research which in its three years of existence has started a genuine revolution in British industrial thought and practice. To split it up among a number of learned or commercial institutions would be to dissipate it in scattered and ineffective ventures. To vest it in the department of research would be to bring it under the concentrated care of the best scientific brains in the kingdom.

Where the Germans have beaten us in the last thirty years has been almost wholly in the field of applied science and research. But we cannot expect to overtake them by subsidizing a little research here and a little more somewhere else. Research, like everything else, has to be organized if it is to bring forth its fruits and to prove a real hand-maid to industry.

The Finest Words of Tongue or Pen

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The text of Field Marshal Haig's order of the day reads:

"One month has now passed since the British armies, having successfully withstood all the attacks of the enemy, once more took the offensive. In that short space of time, by a series of brilliant and skilfully executed actions, we repeatedly defeated the same German armies whose vastly superior numbers compelled our retreat last spring. What has happened on the British front has happened also on the enemy's assault."

"Less than six months after the launching of the great German offensive which was to have cut the Allied front in two, the Allied armies everywhere today are advancing victoriously side by side over the same battlefields on which, by the courage and steadfastness of their defence, they broke the enemy's assault."

"Yet more has been done. Already we have pressed beyond our old battle lines of 1917, and have made a wide breach in the enemy's strongest defences."

"In this glorious accomplishment all ranks, arms and services of the British armies in France have borne their part in the most worthy and honorable manner."

"The capture of 75,000 prisoners and 700 guns in the course of four weeks' fighting, speaks for the magnitude of your efforts and the magnificence of our achievement."

"My thanks are due to all ranks of the fighting forces for their indomitable spirit in defence and their boldness in attack, to all commanders and their staff officers under whose able direction such great results have been achieved, and also to all those whose unparalled labors behind the actual fighting line have contributed especially to the common cause. To have commanded this splendid army which at a time of grave crisis has so nobly done its duty, fills me with pride."

"I thank you for the simple reason that every word and note of that very necessary song had fled from my brain when she recognized that face in the orchestra."

"She concentrated with all her will, but those eyes in the pit which she could not see but could feel piercing her through and through, so disconcerted her that she was unable to apprehend the elusive words and notes."

"Horror! she thought. What if some one from home were a witness of her plight! A woman tittered foolishly and a man's guffaw followed. "Sounds like left Sullivan and Kittle 'Prickles," she told herself. "This is terrible!"

"She shifted her weight from her right leg to her left foot, as a preperation streaked a canal through her artificial complexion. She had stood in that one pose at least a week—so it seemed—when it suddenly dawned on her that a whisper was floating up from the orchestra pit. A husky voice was repeating over and over:

"Back on the old plantation lives a white-haired negro man. Maybelle St. Clare suddenly came to herself. These were the first words of her song. Her mind pounced upon them and with them the time. She smiled and opened her mouth once more, and her 'sweet hit' scored another success."

After the show there was a little party in a nearby cafe. The participants were Maybelle St. Clare and Philip Warner. On her bosom she wore a bouquet of red roses which he had sent an usher to get when he received the note telling her that she wished to see him and "thank him."

She nibbled a chicken sandwich she remarked casually:

"Do you know, Philip, I've changed my mind about the whole thing. I agree with you that woman's place is in the home. I've carved my career, but I'm sick and tired of it all."

She dipped a spoon in his coffee and sipped testily.

"I've changed my mind, too," he announced. "In favor of giving woman the vote or anything else she wants."

She laughed, hesitated somewhat confusedly and held a menu card before her eyes.

"If that's the case," she said simply, "you'll give me back that ring I returned to you two years ago."

She laughed, hesitated somewhat confusedly and held a menu card before her eyes.

"It's always kept it with me," he declared.

In defiance of curious eyes at nearby tables, she allowed him to reach across and place the ring on her finger, and he reached into a vest pocket.

"I've always kept it with me," he declared.

"Now, will you explain how you happened to be acquainted with the words of 'Where the Cotton Grows'?" she asked. "And how you knew I needed that song to make my act go?"

He signaled the waiter to bring the check.

"Certainly," he replied amiably. "The program told me you were supposed to sing that song, although it didn't inform me that Maybelle St. Clare was Mabel Clare. I knew the words of the piece because I had seen it in the music book. If you'll dig up your copy you'll see printed on it, 'Words and Music by Philippe de Warraine.'"

"THE HATERS."
By R. W. Baker.

Maybelle St. Clare sat in her dressing-room, smeared grease paint on her face, recited sotto voce her great song hit and hated men.

"Here's some more gorgeous flowers— from a Mr. Kendrick," announced Geraldine Alston, her maid, entering the room and holding a bouquet of red roses at arm's length, so she could survey it with the eye of a critic.

"And why shouldn't Geraldine Alston be considered a competent mistress of flowers? Hadn't she personally received 219 bouquets addressed to her mistress in the year and a half since Maybelle had made her debut as a singer and dancer on the vaudeville stage?"

And hadn't each and every one of these offerings from admiring men been crushed obediently under the same small foot or else dumped unceremoniously into the wastebasket as refuse?

"Well, don't bother me about them," grumbled Maybelle, as she panned little Geraldine across at any other matter of adding lustre to her already vivacious countenance. "Drop them out the window, I tell you. I don't want 'em."

"Not that Maybelle St. Clare, 'dainty, diminutive, dancing diva,' and an 'average' for the vaudeville stage, she possessed a normal girl's fondness for them. It was the fact that many of them had been sent to her to spurn these particular bouquets that were devoted to her room on the average of four a night."

When she lived in Ludington, Mich., Mabel Clare the extra "y" and "ie" and the "St." had been acquired since the aforementioned debut had not been a successful one. In fact—impossible as it now seemed—she had been in love, tremendously in love, at one time. That was her only love affair. The young man he loved was a carpenter, three years and won her, when along came this question of women's rights. The wedding bells were about due to ring, when study of suffrage and sundry other subjects put that career idea into Mabel's head. Her fiancé objected seriously to the stage, although she insisted that she should accompany her and utilize his musical ability to help make her famous. She had just about won him over to her way of thinking when the suffrage question came up to have its fate decided by the voters of the state. Mabel took a prominent part in the campaign and when the amendment was defeated she was left with a broken heart and the tears of disappointment, while her husband-to-be was attempting to comfort her, she ceased sobbing sufficiently to remark that she supposed, of course, he had voted to enfranchise women. Being an underhand, unscrupulous young man, he confessed that he had marked his cross in the "No" square. And from that moment he stopped being a prospective benedict.

"You're just a lowdown, with backward ideas, and you'll never make any progress," she had cried as she showed him the door. "I never want to see you again—any other man. I'll never be married—never! I'll carve a career on the vaudeville stage, as I have planned, but I'll do it without assistance from any other man's. I'll show that men are not necessary to a woman's success, and rust into a grave."

She gave up her position in a dreary, gloomy office, and her husband, who she had an aunt whose husband exercised some influence in the theatrical world and who had taken considerable sympathetic interest in Mabel's footlight ambitions. The other aunt, with whom Mabel lived in Ludington, tried to dissuade her, but the objections were overruled; and as both the young lady's parents were dead, there was no one to interfere with her working out a future in her chosen career.

She sent no letters to her erstwhile sweetheart—not even a postcard picture of Lincoln Park. "He's too narrow-minded and he's got nothing in common," she repeatedly assured herself to assuage the pain that was borne in her heart as she thought of the long and serious affair of the heart.

While Mabel St. Clare "made up" for her first appearance in the Detroit vaudeville theatre, Philip Warner sat in the orchestra pit, suffering with the making of melody for the first act on the bill. As he puffed out his cheeks and performed a duet with the trombone soloist, he kept his eyes averted from the snickering artist, principally because the artist was a woman—and he hated women. His one disastrous love affair had embittered his heart against the sex.

Maybelle St. Clare's act was third on the bill. She was electric-lighted out in front as the headline; consequently the audience was in an expectant mood. The orchestra rendered a "dashing, soul-shrilling selection, and when the crescendo had reached its climax the girl who had carved a career tripped daintily out on the stage and bowed and blew kisses in response to the generous applause.

She was feeling especially full of the artistic spirit this evening, possibly because she was playing her first professional visit to her home state and someone from "hip home" might be an observer of her performance. She had been with her from the start, and anybody who ever had doubted her vocal or her artistic ability would have been forced to amend his opinion upon witnessing her offering that evening.

Near the close of the act was when she always made the "big hit." She did it by rendering a song that she had written by accident in a music store in the west. It was not a popular song; she had never heard it before, but it had seemed to fit the one void in her repertoire, so she had annexed it. Shortly after that she got recognition on the "big time" circuits, and she had been told her "landing" there was due largely to that one selection.

The orchestra became silent and the audience hushed as she stepped close to the footlights and waited for darkness and the spotlight. Evidently there was a misunderstanding at the switchboard, for there was a vociferous outcry about darkening the house. It was only a moment that she stood waiting, but that moment was enough for her gaze to meet that of the trombone player—and that settled it!

The lights went out and the spotlight found her, but she stood in a trance. She opened her mouth, but no sound came forth—for the simple reason that every word and note of that very necessary song had fled from my brain when she recognized that face in the orchestra."

"She concentrated with all her will, but those eyes in the pit which she could not see but could feel piercing her through and through, so disconcerted her that she was unable to apprehend the elusive words and notes."

"Horror! she thought. What if some one from home were a witness of her plight! A woman tittered foolishly and a man's guffaw followed. "Sounds like left Sullivan and Kittle 'Prickles," she told herself. "This is terrible!"

She laughed, hesitated somewhat confusedly and held a menu card before her eyes.

"If that's the case," she said simply, "you'll give me back that ring I returned to you two years ago."

A grass widow imagines that nearly every married woman of her acquaintance would like to change places with her. And she isn't so far wrong, at that.

A husband can always get his wife's goat by bringing home a railroad timetable and looking it over and sticking it back in his pocket. She sniffs around suspiciously and waits for him to volunteer some information, and finally detours where he thinks he is going.

We don't think we will ever be in such a hurry to get anywhere that a tin bath tub tied on to a motorcycle will attract us as an acceptable mode of transportation.

There is something wrong with the man who is prouder of his ancestors than he is of his children. And there are a lot of men that way.

FORDSON TRACTOR

DEMONSTRATIONS AT
THE WESTERN FAIR GROUNDS AND ASYLUM FARM Corner Oxford Street and Asylum Side Road

THE FORDSON TRACTOR will draw plows, harrows and cultivators to prepare the land; seeders, drills, etc., to put in the crop; binders, mowers, etc., to do the reaping. It is already fitted with a bevel gear for a side-drive belt pulley, which will permit it to drive threshing machines, ensilage cutters, saws, etc., when this belt pulley is supplied. Its usefulness does not stop at farm work, however. There are practically as many uses for the tractor as there are lines of agricultural and commercial activity.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Crawling May Relieve Mild Forms of Heart Disease

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG. A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

Odd as it may seem, effort and muscular work of a sort are of great assistance to the heart and arteries when they are diseased in some ways. To be sure, there are many kinds of heart trouble, several of which cannot be treated in this way.

Ordinary walking does this in only a trivial way. The deep breaths taken as you climb enhance the activity of the heart and also aid in the motion of the blood toward the heart.

The victim is to begin with short distances on the level. About 100 yards on the ground with 40 to 50 steps to the minute, and a deep breath every other step is a good start.

If the pulse beats too fast after this attempt and does not quiet down within a few minutes, nothing further should be attempted. If this walking cannot be resumed, the doctor will then know it.

Finally, you will know that you can climb hills without harm, and can be without the presence of a doctor. You should, nevertheless, always find out the exact grade of the slope, and never trust the eye alone.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Lillian Said, "It May Be Best To Lay The Cards Face Upward on the Table After All."

I caught my under lip between my teeth in grim determination not to betray by tone or phrase how the words of the girl at the other end of the telephone had affected me.

Edith Fairfax just returned from a journey! All the suspensions which had been bedeviling me redoubled. I knew that at any cost I must know once for all the truth concerning my husband's friendship with this girl.

"Wait a moment, please." I heard the quick tattoo of her high heels as she hurried away from the telephone, and a minute or two later Edith Fairfax's soft, well-bred southern intonations sounded in my ears. And to my heated imagination there was a tremendous fright in the girl's accents.

"Yes, Mrs. Graham?" she said hurriedly. "I have been very busy, and Mr. Graham has been out of town." I went on smoothly, "therefore haven't telephoned before. But I'm going to be in the city for some days, and I particularly wish to see you. Will you not, therefore, waive ceremony and come to see me tomorrow, here at Mrs. Underwood's home, where I am staying?"

A firm hand, Lillian's, took the receiver from my hand, but her own lips to the mouthpiece.

"Come over to luncheon, Edith," she said heartily, "bring Lillian with you."

"I didn't hear the girl's response, but Lillian's answer was crisp and to the point."

"That's all right, then. We'll expect you at 1. Good-bye."

She hung up the receiver abruptly and turned to me grimly.

"If you had to do this thing, why didn't you tell me so that we could have arranged it smoothly? Ten to one now if she comes she'll be so frightened you can hardly talk with her intelligently!"

Edith Fairfax just returned from a journey! All the suspensions which had been bedeviling me redoubled. I knew that at any cost I must know once for all the truth concerning my husband's friendship with this girl.

"Will you please convey to Miss Fairfax—I adopted my most formal manner—"Mrs. Richard Graham's regards that she is fatigued, and—"

"Is this Mrs. Graham?" the other woman exclaimed rather than questioned. I heard the quick tattoo of her high heels as she hurried away from the telephone, and a minute or two later Edith Fairfax's soft, well-bred southern intonations sounded in my ears. "Then you think?" I queried breathlessly, ignoring her very evident displeasure.

HOLDS TO DECISION NOT TO LAY WALKS The board of works last night reiterated its stand not to order Engineer Braider to lay any sidewalks this year. It reached this decision some weeks ago, but at a meeting since then a couple of the aldermen said they wanted walks laid in places where they were badly needed. Ald. Watt fought hard for one for Ingleside street, but the majority of the committee decided that if it laid one there would be a general clamor from the residents of the 35 blocks where bylaws ordering walks have been passed, but not gone on with. The 1919 council will be asked to give the walks in question first consideration.

The matter of the Ridout street breakwater, which has been hanging fire for a couple of years, was ordered filed. The members of the committee could not reach an agreement with the property owners. The residents of Grosvenor street west and McClary avenue, formerly their streets changed. The committee filed the first and decided that if the people of the latter street want the name changed back they will have to pay for it. The cost of the last changes was about $400.

MIDDLESEX MEMBER OF "FIRSTS" DIES IN CAVALRY CHARGE

Corp. Isaac W. Bennett of Oil Springs Killed on the Somme. Another member of the already sadly thinned ranks of Middlesex boys of the first contingent has made the supreme sacrifice in the person of Corp. Isaac W. Bennett, who was killed in action in a cavalry charge on the Somme front on August 8. Word to this effect has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George N. Bennett of Oil Springs, who were for many years residents of Melbourne.

Corp. Bennett enlisted at Saskatoon with the 25th Light Horse on August 8, 1914, and met his death on the fourth anniversary of his enlistment. He was with the Royal Canadian Dragoons at the time, although a member of the cavalry corps. Corp. Bennett has been through practically all of the hard trench fighting with the Canadians during the first three years of the war, and during his long service was only wounded once, but slightly, previous to August 8 last. In a recent letter home he spoke of his extreme "good

NO RELIEF IN SUGAR CRISIS TILL THE BEET CROP IS HARVESTED TORONTO, Sept. 10.—The sugar situation is serious in Canada and will remain so until the beet crop, not yet harvested, begins to come onto the market, according to statements made at a meeting of the Toronto Retail Merchants' Association held today to discuss various phases of the situation. W. C. Miller, secretary of the association, attributed the shortage, to some extent, to the operations of submarines between New York and Cuba.
