PHIL'S STORY IS VERIFIED

Civil Servant, Arrested in Connection With the Case-Important Particular in the Astounding Tale of Phil I o t Fave Been Correborated Bogus Ballot Bexe Case Adjourned to Next Friday.

Toronto, Nov. 21.-G. F. Shepley, R.C., of Toronto, who has been employed by the Dominion Government to look after its interests, came down on the midnight train and was present in court Saturday morning. He took no part in the cross-examination of the witnesses but sat nation of the witnesses, but sat a silent listener beside Col. Percy Sherwood and Secret Service Inspec-tor Chamberlain, the two keen Sominion Government detectives.

James Gay, No. 2, West Hunting-don, a scrutineer for Mr. Porter in the election, who was the first wit-ness called Saturday, told of a con-versation with Simeon Ashley, the deputy returning officer at the poll. Gay examined the box thoroughly and Ashley said: "There is no wire handle about that one." He said he

T. J. Riley, the Kingston school teacher, who had the scheme in hand, was called but did not respond.

Wilbert Carter and Harry Lane told of being sent to Lott's house at Springbrook for the boxes.

Alex. White, farmer of Sidney, swore he was a regular subscriber to The Ontario. He had seen the copy of Nov. 4. Mr. McCamon queried along a line that might possibly in-

Confident of Phil.

James Hurst, the friend and confidant of Phil, related the interview in Corby's office between himself, Lott, Qus Porter and Harry Corby and agreed with the previous witnesses in his account. He told how Lott had revealed to him the conspiracy that was on foot to use the ballot boxes. Lott having apparently confided in his friend to the fullest extent. THE COMING CAMPAIGN IN WEST KENT HAS STR. FOUNDERED?

The present Provincial campaign, and valued service in the Legislature the tight-drawn lines of partyism upon the threshold of a contest, not between Grit and Tory, not essentially between policy and policy, but one waged by the people of both political parties in righteous demand for a which, through long lease of power and laxity of moral stamina, has become surrounded by the grafters, the heelers and ward politicians-the men who surround every party in power and cling to it so long as there is a "barrel," and who, as the past history of Canada shows, inevitably bring rain and disgrace to the party they cling to until such time as that

The convention of Saturday, inaugarating this campaign, was unusually nspiring. A universal faith in the platform of their Leader was animated by a desire to make his cause a uccess, and never before in the history of Kent was there such a representative gathering. It was a striking testimony to the righteousness of the cause that so many good men permitted their names to be placed in nomination. Any one of them would have made a strong and successful standard-bearer by reason of his worthy position in the county, and it speaks volumes to their credit that, knowing their strength, they were heartily ready to relinquish personal ambition for the time being in order to promote the cause and the object all good citizens are so earnestly striving for, and withdrew unanimously and without pressure in favor of Mr. Clancy, the nominee of the convention. Their action was characteristic of the men and highly appreciated by the gathering.

Enthusiastically the convention supported this choice, Mr. Clancy's long told of going to Phil Lott's house, and securing one of the trick boxes. His evidence was unimportant, ex-critic has made him one of the most valuable men in the Liberal-Conservative party, both in the Provincial and Federal parliaments. A practical and progressive farmer, his thorough knowledge of agriculture and his acquaintance with the needs of the agriculturist will be an assurance to the electorate that the progressive agricultural policy laid down by Mr. Whitney will be a reality, carried out by a man whose practical knowledge will be of immense value to the new Government and the people of this Province. Of the people, he understands the necessity for such a revision of the Public School acts as will turn out from the Public Schools of this Province pupils better fitted than they ever have been before to fight the battle of life, as the vast majority of the people of this country have to do with the Public School as their foundation. A man whose own personal record is clean, against whom no scandal or charge of corruption has ever been hinted, he is in himself a type of the campaign now being waged against the present Government. With the people knowing that a change of Government is an absolute certainty, Mr. Clancy's election against any candidate the supporters of the Ross administration may put up-no matter how strong he may be -is assured. The main thing now is to keep the existing splendid organization in its present state of efficiency. Don't be over-confident: the battle is to the watchful, tireless, conscientious workers. Eternal Vigflance is the price of Liberty.

Reading between the lines it is almost clear that Ald. Edmondson will be a candidate.

Ald. Mounteer was not in when the reporter called, but it is likely his friends will again urge his candidature,

A young man, 19 years of age, named David Berdan, residing at 104 Colborne street, was out thunting with a companion, when his gun accidentally went off, the shot lodging in his thigh. The shot has not yet been extracted. It is as yet impossible to tell how serious the wound may turn out.

British Royalty in South Africa Princess Christian's journey to the Cape emphasizes the close connection between the royal house of England and South Africa. A simple inscription in the cemetery at Pretoria tells of Prince Henry of Battenburg in Ashauti during the expedition of 1495-96 was another reminder that 1995-96 was another reminder that the greatest enemy in all campaigns in tropical countries is disease. Fewer was more fatal than the bullets of the Egyptains at Tel-ol-Kebir proved in 1882 aga-ust the Duke of Connaught, then ix ommand of the Grands Brigade. Thus in north and west and south the Dark Continent has had witness of the identity of interest between members of the reigning house and the Empire at large. Prince Francis of Teck, it may also be mentioned, went through the Soudan campaign of 1898 under Lord Kitchener.

All the ministers holding portfolos have been returned by acclama tion—Premier Parent in St. Sauveur, Hon. Mr. Robitaille in Quebec Centre, Hon. L. Gouin in St. James, and Hon. Mr. Turgeon in Belle-chasse, while Hon. W. A. Weir and Hon. Dr. Guerin, ministers without portfolio, are being opposed in Argenteuil and St. Anne's, respectively Hon. Mr. Leblanc has been return sell by acclamation in Laval, while Hon. E. J. Flynn and Hon. L. P Pelletier are without seats in Nicolet and Dorchester. Liberals have taken their places in the new house.

Hon. P. E. Leblanc appears to be the only Conservative returned unopposed, the ex-speaker having no opponent in Laval. The Conservatives are also putting up candidates in Argenteuil, Berthier, Beauharnois, Champlain, Joliette, Maskinonge, Richelieu, Shefford, Soulanges and Stanstead.

There are two Liberals candidates in Bonaventure, Chambly, Hochel-aga, Lake St. John, St. Mary's, St. Louis, St. Lawrence, St. Anne, Ottawa, Napierville, Quebec East Sherbrooke, Terrebonne, Vercherre

FORCE OF LIGHTNING

SOME OF THE FEATS PERFORMED BY THE MYSTIC FLUID.

The Way Great Masts of Ships Have Been Shattered-When a Bolt Strikes a Tree It Generates Steam From the ap and Explodes the Bark.

The explosive force of lightning acting on dead wood is not, as a rule, so great as when living trees are struck, though Sir William Harris shows that "the masts of ships of the line, three feet in diameter and 110 feet long, bound with hoops of iron half an inch thick and five inches wide, the whole weighing about eighteen tons, have been in many instances torn asunder and the hoops of iron scattered about the decks." It will be found, as a rule, that trees are struck by lightning far more often than are buildings, even if the trees and buildings are close together. This is partly because the trees are highef.

But there must probably be some un-known reason not only for the frequency with which trees are struck, but for the recurrence of such shocks in the case of particular trees or trees in the same locality. The commonest form of injury is that the current passes down the bark of the tree, strip-ping off the band, wider or narrower, top to bottom. Sometimes on an oak two or three of these lightning marks are seen, evidently caused at

There must be something in the form or situation or earth below the trees which endangers it. An instance is quoted in Mr. Anderson's descriptive book of the Church of St. Mary in Genoa, which was frequently struck by lightning, sometimes as often as twice a year. It was noticed that the electric force always followed the same track. It was discovered later that the walls were clamped with iron, and that the lightning had followed the patch in which the metal offered the greatest continuity, destroying the zone

If the ground below the tree or building is hard and dry, the contact with the earth, in which the lightning ex-pands its force and disperses, is difficult, and the destruction of the object struck is likely to result. This may explain the frequency with which a "blasted" tree is seen extending its dead arms on the summit of some rocky cliff or peak. The ground below it is dry and does not easily lead away the current into the earth.

At the same time thunderclouds un doubtedly tend to discharge, or perhaps it would be safer to say that the transmission from the cloud to the earth more frequently takes place, near pieces of water and along the courses of rivers than elsewhere.

In a park in one of the eastern counties of England there is a large lake. The park contains more trees struck by lightning than the whole of the rest of the estate. Some miles away is a road called locally the "Lightning road" from the frequency with which accidents have occurred there either to trees, horses, cattle or passengers. In this park there recently occurred an in-stance of the explosive effect in certain circumstances not perfectly known. A very tall spruce, probably 100 feet high, was "exploded" from top to bottom into pieces the size of the wood used in making chairs. Every shred of bark was stripped from them, and the wood looked as if it had been shredded up for firing. A similar instance occurred some years ago when an oak in the grove below the foot of the White lodge in Richmond park exploded under lightning shock. The bark flew off and simply disappeared in small patches, and the rest of the tree was shattered into white fragments.

In these cases it is probable that the current sets up such a tremendous heat that all the sap in the tree is converted into swerheated steam, which explodes. The greater the heat the more of the cells in which moisture lies are exploded and the greater the destruction of the tissues of the tree. As there is most moisture between the bark and the trunk the first and greatest explosion takes place there, instantly driving the bark away into space. quently the explosion only takes place at that point.

As Sir Hiram Maxim pointed out after the great explosion of Mont Pelee, a very similar method is now used by the American manufacturers of wood pulp. The logs of fir are placed in a strong chamber, and there ubjected to the action of superheated steam until the water in every cell is converted into explosive gas. The chamber is then opened and the log plodes, converting itself into wood powder.-London Spectator.

Egyptian Weather. As a topic of conversation the weather is branded with infamy in Egypt. It is never mentioned—except by a fool.

I am not saying this maliciously, for I was that fool often enough. More than once on being introduced to Europeans I would pass the usual compliments and add, "What a charming day it is!" I got more than one withering look of contempt for this species of crass forgetfulness. Why, the sun shines like a ball of fire for eight months each year, and there is practically no varia-tion in the weather. In my diary I read the following entries: "Beautiful morning;" "Beautiful morning again; "Another beautiful morning;" "Ol bother, they are all beautiful mornings here, so I must take it for granted.

Reversed. "Mrs. Closely, do you still maintain your rules as to when the servants must be in at night?"
"Certainly. The only difference is that the cook now makes the rules."—Detroit Free Press.

THE SERVAN'S PROBLEM.

Co-operative Registry Planued in England to Solve It.

Further details are given of the scheme looking to the solution of the domestic servant problem. It is cal-bulated that exclusive of the ordi-nary fee charging registry officers there are over a thousand societies there are over a thousand societies, clubs, and agencies of more or less philanthropic character dealing in one plase or other with the servant question. Outside of these agencies then are some 8,000 registry offices where have received in fees paid by employers and servants a sum estimated close upon $6,500,000.

There has been founded a co-operative society which in grouping together a large number of these semiphilanthropic organizations proposes to make them a sort of co-operative states of the semiphilanthropic organizations proposes to make them a sort of co-operative gistration society. The projectors are going to wield the broom of reform vigorously, and domestic settlements will be established in the east end and other great centres of life. Into these centres unemployed women and girls will be drafted in order to be trained for housewifery. The benevolent London County Council will train city typowriters, but stony is the path of typewriters, but stony is the path of typewriters, but stony is the path of the would-be domestic servant. At present living in the system is irk-some to a large class of girls, as it often is a barrier to service, but now housework is to be made to compete with factory work, and reformers propose to force the recognition of the day girl by the establishment in large manufacturing disabilities of recipitation which will deal lishment in large manufacturing districts of registries which will deal exclusively with day servants. In this way it is believed a number of factory hands will be attracted to day service, and so set free a correspondingly large number of domestic servants proper, thus relieving to that extent the tension of the demostic labor market.

KING HENRY'S TOMB.

Only British Monarch Buried in Cauter.

Archbishop of Canterbury's The Archbishop of Canterburys visit to America serves to call attention to the peculiar fact that his ancient cathedral at Canterbury shelters the remains of only one English King, Henry IV. That this particular monarch should have been entombed there is the more remarkable since he breathed his last in the Jerusalem Chamber of Westminster Abbey, and the might naturally have been supposbreathed his last in the Jerusalem Chamber of Westminster Abbey, and it might naturally have been supposed in the circumstances that he would have been laid to rest in the Abbey, where so many other of England's Kings sleep their last sleep. It seems, however, that Henry, before his death, gave orders that he was to be buried in the rathedral at Canterbury, opposite the tomb of his upcle, Edward, the Black Prince. For hundreds of years a story was current that on the way down the river a hurricane arose, and that the people on board the vessel, convinced that the storm was caused by the fact that a King's body was on board, east the corpse into the water in the dead of night, and filling the coffin with rabbish brought it with all pomp and circumstance to the cathedral. Some years ago the dean and chapter resolved to get at the truth of the story. So they opened the royal tomb. First they came to the coffin of Joan, the King's wife, who lies beside him in effigy on the tomb; then they saw the King's coffin. The lead box was opened, and for one brief moment dean and chapfin. A humble French official who was sent to one of the hottest departments of France found his bureau a perfect furnace until he had a brilliant idea. He improvised a cistern and sat in it all day. The public came into his of-fice and panted, but he was up to his armpits in water, cool and comfortable. Nobody minded; it was thought very clever of him, and he grew in the local esteem. But one day there came an inspector whose business it was to maintain the dignity of the public service. He stood aghast. What! A registrar sitting in a cistern? It was a stigma on the republic. The case was reported to Paris, and the offender was on the point of being dismissed when a cynic suggested a more humorous punishment. "Send him to Algeria!' Even the cisterns are hot in that climate.-London Chronicle.

ABOUT OUR CITY

Notwithstanding the prominence that politics have been demanding during the past few weeks, it is very satisfactory to note that the municipal interests of our city—which certainly have a more direct bearing on the welfare of the community—are 8 ociocs.

Evangelist McHardy, at Victoria Ave. Methodist Church; song service Cordial Invitation Extended to all Interested in the Cause to be not being altogether neglected. The article on the second page of this issue, relating to the intentions of the present members of our City splendid recruits at the January polling, will be read with much inter-

The year 1905 promises to be an im portant one to the City of Chatham. Our people have entered an era o civic development and progress-and good men are wanted at the helm. The decision of many of the present aldermen to offer themselves for reelection will meet with favor. What-ever the individual shortcomings, it has been felt that the general policy of the present Council has been along the right lines, and, in so far as the actions of each alderman have commended themselves to the judgment of the people, he is entitled to their consideration.

Such new names as are being urged by the electors are meeting, too, with distinct favor. Men like Wm. M. Drader, Fred. Stone, John McCorvie, Arthur J. Dunn, J. T. O'Keefe Harry J. Stevens, and many others, are safe and progressive men, men of character calculated to best promote the city's interests and men who would receive a hearty endorsation from their fellow citizens.

The record of our retiring mayor Mr. W. E. McKeough, who has wellded the civic sceptre for the past two years, has been a satisfactory one Under his worship's regime the city has prospered and developed and it should be the aim of his successor to continue this advanced policy. And we feel sure that this will be done.

Ald. Arch. B. McCoig is practically announced as a candidate for the mayor's chair. So far there is no intimation of any opposition. Fortunately, in our splendid young city, politics do not enter actively into our municipal life-and politics are Mr. McCoig's one weakness. For five years and over this young man has served the city capably and honestly at the Council Board. He has filled in turn all the responsible chairmanships-and filled them well, and the impression rightly prevails that he has earned his spurs. His work during the present year as chairman of the Board of Works, has been particularly creditable, and the results have been highly beneficial to the city. The election of Ald. McCoig to mayor's chair would be a fitting tribute to worthy work well done.

The future of Chatham is, to large extent, in our own hands. Let us build faithfully and well a solid foundation. The good work has already been started and it is the duty of us all to do our part year by year. We look for big things in the coming enough to carry it out.

-GOOD MEN HONORED

The unanimous tribute of gratitude and esteem tendered to the officers by the Convention on Saturday in their enthusiastic re-election and by the many cordial words spoken was well deserved. Particularly applicable were they to the zealous and energetic President and Secretary. Few know the amount of earnest, arduous effort that fell to the lot of Dr. A. W. Thornton and Mr. S. B. Arnold in the recent campaign. They did not know what the word Rest meant. They were at it—always at it. The myriad matters of detail, the perfection of organization, the conduct of the campaign, all and more fell to the lot of these two workers, and results speak for thembelves.

The Association is fortunate in again securing their services—it The unanimous tribute of gratitude

At the English universities the libra ries s.e so little used that they have become famous as places of unbroken solitude. One yarn told to illustrate this is to the effect that an elderly fellow of Caius college, Cambridge, got tired of life and determined to put himself quietly and unostentatiously out of the way, so that the world in general and Caius college in particular should know him no more. Being a man with a great love for his university and a greater love still for his college, he made up his mind that no scandal should be caused by his sudden departure, so he debated in his mind the ways and means. His decision was an inspiration. He bought a decent length of rope and hanged himself in the col

It is a common fallacy to imagine that the crime of forgery consists in signing another's name, though, in fact, committing any forgery consists in making and uttering any false instrument in writing with attempt to defraud; thus, it may be a forgery to omit a word from a document, and it will be a matter of considerable surprise to many to learn that it is possible for a person to forge his or her name. A person, however, who fraudulently inserts another's name on a picture, thereby selling it as the work of some other artist, is not guilty of forgery, as a picture is not an "instrument in writing."

This is correct with the important qualification that the fact the witness has sworn to must be material to the case. Thus, if a witness on being duly sworn gave a false address on being asked where he lived, this, though untrue, would not amount to perjury, as the idace where the witness lived would be quite immaterial.

We must not conclude this article We must not conclude this article without a short reference to a comparatively recent case in which a man, not possessing the means to pay, entered a restaurant, where he ordered and ate a good dinner; as, however, he was unable to pay for the same he was given in charge, and subsequently indicted for "obtaining goods by false pretences." The case resulted in the prisoner's acquittal on the ground that he had not been gullty of any false pretences.

The lucky individual, therefore, had a good meal on the cheap, but we should not advise any enterprising reader to emulate his example, as, although he could not indeed be prosecuted, it seems that he will still be criminally liable under the Bankruptcy Act for obtaining credit by fraudulent means.

Field Arrived. After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince," and before he went to Denver, he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a leading St. Louis hotel and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well known, copperplate chirography. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance and said:

"Do you wish a room, Mr. Field?"
"No," was the answer.

"Dinner?"

"No."
"Then may I ask what you do
want replied "I just wanted to arrive," replied Field solemnly. "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you," and he stalked out with long, heavy strides.

A writer on flamingoes, which he has studied in their haunts in the Bahamas, says of them: "They are prob ably as near to the geese as to any other order of birds, having a similar structure of bill and feet and somewhat similar feather character. They are unique, however, in their curiously bent bill, which, though gooselike in general economy, is constructed in every detail upside down, as the bird in feeding reaches down to the bottom and places the top of the bill down. The tongue is also constructed in same inverted way. The webbed feet are for sustaining the birds In the soft ooze they love to feed in, acting like snow shoes."

Florence Nightingale's Work—Founder of a Great Movement That Celebrates

October 24th marked what may fairly be termed the jubilee of nursing, says The London Daily Telegraph. It was on that date that Miss Nightingale set out upon her great mission to the Crimea, starting at her own request in the most absolute privacy and quiet, but in the knowledge that she possessed the fullest confidence of the country as the official announcement of her en terprise appeared in the newspapers in the following terms: "We are authorized to state that Mrs. (sic) Sightingale, who has been for so time acting as superintendent of Ladies Hospital at No. 1, Upper Harley street, has undertaken to organize a staff of female nurses, organize a staff of female nurses, who will at once proceed with her to Scutari at the cost of the Government, there to act under her directions in the English Military Hospital, subject, of course, to the authority of the chief medical officer of the establishment."

The awful conditions of untender wounds, fever, over-crowding, dirt, the complete absence of any system of sanitation, and even of provision for food, might well have unnerved her, but within a few days of her arrival there was improvement, and ere the year closed a complete transformation had been effected. Queen Victoria wrote her personal letters of approvat and encouragement, and Miss Stanley brought her out a re inforcing party of nurses after a fe

An influential committee was formed to present a testimonial to her, among its warmest supporters being Madame Jenny Lind, and £50,000 was quickly raised, of which the non-commissioned ranks of the army contributed £4.

But she asked to decline it for motion of nursing education mately, as the outcome of this public-spirited determination the Nightingale School and Training Home for Nurses was established in connection with St. Thomas' Hospital, and was opened in 1860. All its original rules, which have needed very little modification, since wice very little modification since, were drawn up by her, and this may be regarded as the parent institution of the many splendid training schools that have arisen in more recent years. In the sixties and the earlier seventies it was difficult to induce ladies of refinement to come forward for instruction as nurses, but a fey of strong convictions and undaunted courage did so, and the influences in these early days set a very high standard of devotion and competence

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We Will Buy

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can teil you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn, that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results: you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease rerm that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that killis germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken infernally. Every physician knows that signify the control of t with many important powers. The title colonel comes from the word almost the same in several languages, signifying a column. The colonel was so called because he led or commanded the column.

The title mayor comes from the French and originally signified "one who keeps guard." He was the head steward of a city, administering its affairs in the name of the king. Imperator was originally a title of honor bestowed on a victorious general.

After the downfall of the Roman republic it became the title of the su-preme ruler and had the sense of our word emperor. The royal title beg has now almost disappeared and when used in the altered form of bey is applied to a mili tary rank in the Turkish army. Originally it was deemed more honorable than that of sultan.

Mistaken Identity. Sir Thomas Robinson was a tall, un-couth man, and his appearance was rendered still more striking by his hunting dress, which consisted of a tight green jacket, buckskin breeche and a postilion's cap. He once set off in his hunting suit to pay a visit to his sister in Paris. He arrived at the house while there was a large company at dinner. The servant announced M. Robinson, and in walked this remarkable figure, to the amazement of the guests. One of them, a French abbe, lifted his fork three times to his mouth and each time laid it down without tasting the food. Unable at last to restrain his curiosity longer, he burst out eagerly, "Excuse me, monsieur, are you the famous Robinson Crusoe so remarkable in history?"

The Camel as a Soldier. The camel is a good soldier, says a condon writer. It may be stupidity, and if may be bravery, but a camel is as steady under fire as a tower. The Persians mounted small cannon on the backs of their camels and called them zambwahs, or "little wasps." This fashion was adopted in India, and after the battle of Sobraon 2,000 of these artillery camels were captured. In the Indian mutiny the British had a camel corps of 150 beasts, and on the back of each camel sat a Scotch highlander in his kilt. In 1845 Sir Charles Napier had a camel corps in Sindh, and in one day he marched seventy-five miles, defeated a brigand chief and marched home again. In 1878 the British used camels against the Afghans, and the government paid for 50,000 camels that died in those campaigns. Many of these were driven to death by their owners in order that they might claim the government bounty.

At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Rose announced that he was willing to be interrogated.

"Kickingberg took the floor. He said.

Why don't white men do as white man says? Raising his arm and pointing to Fort Sill he continued, saying, 'Lots white men there got no squaws, no farm—they carry guns!"

QUEER THINGS TO PAINT. Peculiar Subjects For Pictures Se-lected by Students.

A noted artist was addressing his "Young men," he said, "when you be gin to paint don't choose peculiar and uncanny subjects for your pictures. Some of you, though, despite me, will choose such subjects. That has been the case with all my classes.

"A country lad painted under me a picture of Nebuchadnezzar eating grass. The picture was intended to be horrible and sad. In a gaunt land-scape the king, nearly naked, crouched on his hands and knees. He was eating greedily of a big bunch of grass that he held in his left hand. His aspect was bestial and insane. The pic ture wasn't badly done, but whoever looked at it laughed. "Another student of mine once painted a picture that he called 'The De liverance of Jonah. On a sea beach Jonah knelt, his hands clasped and his face turned skyward in grateful prayer. The whale was disappearing. Its vast bulk was sinking into the sea.

"A young Australian painted 'The Pound of Flesh." In this composition the judge and the multitude of spectators looked on while Portia held a long knife against the bared ribs of Sny-lock. In the famous trial of the dean of St. Asaph, Mr. Erskine, the great English lawyer, put a question to the jury relative to the meaning of their verdict. Mr. Justice Buller objected to its propriety. The counsel reiterated his ques ion and demanded an answer. The judge again interposed his authority in these emphatic words:

"Sit down, Mr. Erskine. Know your duty or I shall be obliged to make you know it." Mr. Erskine, with equal warmth, replied: "I know my duty as well as your plied: ') know my duty as well as your lordship knows your duty. I stand here as the advocate of a fellow citizen, and I will not sit down."

SECOND BATTLE OF SHA

Tremendous Artillery Duel Now On At River-Junction.

Infantry Rushes At Night.

The bombardment was continuous until after dark, when infantry rushes were made for the possession of the Russian outpost positions along the north bank of the Sha and for the capture of the entrenched town of Changshing.

In the atternoon of Friday General Kuroki's right army began an artillery fire from the southerly slopes of Shingking Mountain. Russian patrols on the southerly side of the Mukden road at Kaolin Pass were attacked by a superior infantry force, Rein-forcements were hurried from Chuiforcements were hurried from Chui-balyu, and it was then discovered that a large flanking force of Japan-ese had moved up the valley from Lengkao, proving that a wide turn-ing movement evidently was under way. A general engagement was on at this point when the couriers left for Mukden, and it is their opinion that a battle of great importance has begun. begun

This news from the several wings of the army shows the Japanese offen sive operations to extend from the junction of the Sha and the Hun Rivers, twelve miles west of the railroad, to the Shinping Valley, forty miles east. Gen. Kuroki's right army is somewant in advance of the Japanese centre and left, and moving with the apparent motive of crossing the northern Hun River at Fushan about thirty miles east of this city. Heavy gune fire has been heard all day, and there is no doubt that a tremendous artillery duel is on. Whether the infantry forces are in a general engagement is not yet known, but if so the battle did not begin accordance when the control of the control yesterday morning, as otherwise the wounded would now be coming into Mukden. The weather is intensely cold, the snow, at the drifting points, more than two feet high, and the soldiers of both armies undoubtedly are suffering for lack of shelter and warm clothing.

Good For Weeks.

Good For Weeks.

The failure of Gen. Nogi's army to capture the western fort at Port. Arthur in the four-day attack last week' probably accounts for the assault now begun by Marshal Oyama. It is apparent here that Gen. Stoessel can hold out in the forts at Golden Hill and Tiger's Tail for weeks to come, and hence the Japanese army before Port Arthur cannot be release. before Port Arthur cannot be released in time to co-operate effectively with the army confronting General Kuropatkin. The Japanese on the Kuropatkin. The Japanese on the Sha River were in all probability waiting for Port Arthur reinforce-ments. The belief that these cannot come before the middle of December. come before the middle of December, if then, has hastened the present operations of Marshal Oyama. This will prove the most stubborn battle of the war. The great Russian army has been reinforced by more than 30,000 men since Oct. 10, and 15,000 of those wounded in the first battle of the Sha are back in army quarters. The miles of entrenchments south of Mukden practically are permanent, and the attacking force must lose a great proprtion of its men in attempting to take the entrenchments.

ments. Japs Beaten At Night.

Tokio, Nov. 21.—Despatches from the third army, filed on Friday and made public last night at Imperial Army headquarters, tell of another unsuccessful attack on the extreme westerly side of Port Arthur. The fighting began on Wednesday night, and although several redoubts were taken before dawn on Thursday the Japanese troops were unable to hold them because of the severe and accurate gunfire from the forts on Figer's Tail Peninsula. On Thursday night the engagement was resumed and small detachments of infantry made their way through the breaches opened on the preceding night. Handto-hand fighting with bayonets and revolvers took place, both sides being reinforced, and before 4 o'clock on Friday morning the Russians had been driven from all their positions.

Japa Had to Retire.

Japs Had to Retire.

Before field guns could be brought up Russian artillery fire was concentrated on all the points captured by the Japanese battalions, and it was found necessary to retire. The sappers and miners were the last to evacuate the points captured, but it was impossible to hold the slopes because of the range of the Russian guns from across the harbor. On Thursday night a sortic was made from Quail Hill on the northerly end of the old town of Port Arthur, and for two hours there was fighting in the streets of the city. A Japanese battalion blew up several warehouses and set fire to three Government buildings before retiring at Japs Had to Retire.

Porter Acted Against Lett.

Hon. J. R. Stratton's statement was shown E. Gus Porter on Satur-day. Mr. Porter said: "Mr. Strat-Mr. Porter said: "Mr. Stra contends that Phil Lott mu have dragged his name into the af fair because of his refusal to accede to his (Lott's) request in the sum-mer for the remission of a liquor fine. The firm of Porter & Carnew acted for the complainant against Phil Lott in that affair, and on learning that the department was likely to turn a favorable ear to the likely to turn a favorable ear to the defendant's request, asked for delay in order to place before it reasons for not extending to Lott the relief sought, and on the delay being granted these reasons were presented. I believe Phil Lott knew of the efforts made by my frm to defeat his object. The late Provincial Section of the p retary's claim, therefore, would seem decidedly inconsistent with the con-dition of things, which has actually been witnessed—a professional man who was not only compelled in pro-moting the interests of a client, to assume in the case a hostile attitude towards another, but had to prac-tice similar unfriendliness with liti-gation in the case of Bell v. Lott being materially, even vitally sup-being materially, even vitally supported by his adversary.

"Mr. Vance suggests that Phil
Lott's story, by which Mr. Stratton has been incidentally connected with the bogus ballot-box outrage, cannot be accepted on the ground that his name was only introduced because he had not resigned earlier and that, if such had been the case, another member of the Cabinet would have been associated with the affair. Mr. Vance must have overlooked the fact that Phil Lott was well aware of the fact that the Provincial Sec-retary had resigned when he went on the stand, the event being known in Belleville hours before.
