THE great and decided success which has ale

The Syracuse Convention Illustrates a distinct tive feature in the political existence of the Republicans, which experience has gradually mouldpublicans, which experience has gradually moulded and fashioned, dittil it has grown to be a perfect system or organization, as compact, controllable, and effective, as a military force. It is the concentration of thought and action, it is certain in its object, and irresistable in its impetus—no other country in the world presents a like instance of the perfection of political training. The Republicans are reproached by those Monarchists, who dwell in the stagnating pools where police and armed men keep guard-with a fondness for the incessant agitainseparable from electioneering life-the tiste has been begotten by necessity—they must devote time, and expend money, to preserve unimpaired the glorious privileges, which they possess and the penalties fall far short of the substantial benefits which they secure. We, in Canada, lack sadly that systematic organization, which we cannot fail to admire; though we neglect to imitate it, we watch, with interest, the progress of public opinion in the United States, from the incipient stage of journalism, through the primary sectings-until at last, a Convention pronounces in tones of authority, some name, upon which the confidence of the nation reposes. A stranger sojourning here would be impressed with the conviction, that we are a passive, unreflecting race, -- that we have been so nurtured to look for counsel and instruction, to a Colonial Office Gover---- that we are without will, or resolution, of cur own-that we may be stirred suddenly, to exasperation, but that we subside as rapidly into indifference; and drag on a cortemptible existence, from an intuitive inability, to manage our own flurs, or carve out, a worthier destiny, The on is not altogether groundless, for seles is one of our worst vices. Let a man of or as impulses and ardent temperament throw into any struggle, which may arise in this ony, the chances are ten to one, that gradually the Committee, who figure as active partizans, will slink away, one by one, leaving him to bear the toil and sustain the loss. We are nearing a stage of our existence when such short-signted setfishness cannot with safety be tolerated; we are approaching that period when, through the polis, $20.

The Revolution, of which Prince Frederick William is the responsible author, and his Frime Minister, Hassenpflug, the directing agent, involves an interference with personal liberty, the suppression of the Press, and the assumption that the ruling powers can drag from the people taxes without their consent. In a word, the constitution of 1830 has been suspended, and Martial Law substituted in its stead. The present ruler is described as a weak, obstinate, constitute, and heartless man, of fifty years of age, eccentric, and heartless man, of fifty years of age, had been issued, and with the avowed determina-tion of appointing their friend, no matter who the lis infamous family. His confidential Minister, Rassenflug, is the same individual who now the control of the country. stands indicted before the Courts of the country, for stealing the public money, and falsifying pub-I'c documents. The Ministry abstained from convoking the Diet, until long after the ordinary period. The first business laid before it was the Builget. or Appropriation Bill for 1850, which must be Hease may thus become the nucleus, around which may gather the armed legions of the various German Thrones; and a war may arise, destined, ere it terminate, to decide the supremacy of the two great rivals. Should such be the course of events, the predictions of the German Seers may yet be verified, which indicate this year as peculiarly calamitous to Germany. this year as peculiarly calamitous to Germany.

A day or two since, we noticed the arrival at this port, of the schooler Shickelman, Capt. Kehee, from Halifax. As some few particulars of he trip may be interesting to our readers, we will state what we have been able to gather. The Shickelman was built for the lake trade, 202 tens burthen, by measurement, 8 feet draught of water, but with a slip keel, draws 32 feet. On her outward trip sine curried 2,000 trips, slour, and affive at Halifax in twenty-one days after sailing from St. Catherines. The market was tolerably well supplied when she arrived at her destination, but, nevertheless, a safe of the cargo was effected immediately. On her return, she loaded with fish, molasses and rugar, and arrived here in twenty-live days usifing from Halifax. Part of her cargo she anloaded at Quebec, and replaced it with gods for the Upper Canada trade, at Montreal; the reraining part of the sugar and molasses she sold amount. The Chamber remonstrated, and asked for the details of expenditure; their resistance was set aside by dissolving the Diet, levying the taxes, and proclaiming Martial Law. Such is a Toronto Patriot.

Foote, true to his ruling passion, wound up the Session by a blow. He struck a brother Senator for not believing him a gentleman. If he has made up his mind to fight his way through the world on that issue, he is a doomed man, and the sooner he gives himself a quietus with his own revolver the hetter. There is not a deeper fixed idea in the great majority of the American people, than that Senator Henry S.
