

VOL. LII.

HAMILTON, CANADA, FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1909.

NO. 168.

TORONTO WON ON THE GREEN.

Hamilton Aldermen as Bad at Boules as at Ball.

Mayor Oliver and His Colleagues Entertained Yesterday.

Had Automobile Ride and a Dinner at Commercial Club.

The City Hall flag came within an ace of floating at half mast this morning and Sam Garrity, motorman on the vertical limited, seriously considered decorating the "lift" with crape, and all because the Hamilton aldermen were trimmed again by Toronto yesterday.

Shoot to Kill

Pittsburg, July 16.—"Shoot to kill if a man reaches for a gun," is the order under which members of the State constabulary are working this morning at Shenville plant of the Pressed Steel Car Co., owing to the increasing gravity of the strike situation.

IN THE LAKE.

Daughter of Thomas Power Had a Narrow Escape.

Tommy Power, of the Mansion Hotel, his wife and several children went to the Beach yesterday afternoon for a family picnic, and it came near having a fatal ending.

PYTHIAN CLUB.

Organization Completed and Good Quarters Secured.

The three city lodges of the Knights of Pythias, last night organized their new club, to be known as "Pythian Club," which is for the exclusive use of members and their friends, and visiting brethren.

FLASHES FROM WIRE.

The dirigible balloon Ville de Nancy, piloted by M. Kapferer, left Sartruville, France, at 10 o'clock this morning, bound for Nancy.

NEW INDUSTRY

American Weather Strip Company Has Secured Factory Here.

Another new industry has been established in Hamilton, and promises to become one of the institutions of the city. It is the American Weather Strip & Hardware Company, a branch of a large manufacturing concern of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

TO SET ASIDE SALE.

Messrs. Poulton & Ogilvie have issued a writ, on behalf of the Crescent Oil Company, against Mr. George Morris, to have a bill of sale set aside and declared fraudulent and void against plaintiff and all other creditors.

When Ants Invade

the house sprinkle Ants' Death around the places where they frequent. This compound is non-poisonous, but ants can't stand it, is 25c per package.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES

To rent at $2 a year, no p.w.a.s., for the storing of deeds, bonds, stocks, wills, silver and other valuables.

WOMEN WERE SUBJECTED TO INSULTS ON STREETS.

Disgraceful Scenes as Result of an Advertising Scheme Being Perpetrated in Hamilton—Many Complaints Made.

A number of young fellows who parade the uptown streets every evening, making insulting remarks at ladies and generally conducting themselves as fresh young loafers do, last night took advantage of the presence in the city of a supposed lady, who goes by the name of Dolly Dimples, to accost a flumber of respectable women and cause them much annoyance.

Further west on King street, a lady living in the southwest, who had never heard of the fake that is being worked, was accosted. She tried to get away, but was jostled along to James, down James street and into an alley.

On Rebecca street another young woman was attacked, but made her escape into a store between James and Hughson streets, with her assailants following. So serious did the affair look that the proprietor of the place found it advisable to go out and warn the crowd away.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD LOSES HIS LIFE.

Joseph Gower Got Beyond His Depth While Swimming in the Bay This Morning.

While swimming in the bay near the old power house east of the foot of James street this morning, Joseph Gower, an eight-year-old lad living with his widowed mother at 470 MacNab street north, got beyond his depth and was drowned.

The deceased, in company with his brother Charles, went to the bay front shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, and had been swimming around in the shallow water for about three-quarters of an hour when the accident occurred.

Printers' Picnic.

To-morrow will be printers' picnic day. The Times men want to get away early.

THE MAN IN OVERALLS

Bargains to be found in Times ads. Hamilton must take what it gets, says Beck.

FISHY.

Which of the Stories is the Real Fish Yarn?

All yesterday morning two enthusiastic fishermen sat on the bank of the Desjardins canal, near the T. H. & B. bridge, fishing. Of bait for both man and fish there were plenty, but of hungry fish there were few.

NO TRACE.

Mother of Missing Young Man Now Residing Here.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Toronto, July 16.—There is still no word of Frank Boulton or Jack Kennedy, the two Toronto young men who were last seen on Sunday cruising about Lake Ontario in the neighborhood of the Niagara River.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Arthur McKay and family are summing at Lake of Bays, Muskoka. Miss Marietta Steiner, of Boston, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. S. Lyons at the Beach.

PICNICS TO-DAY.

The Laidlaw Memorial Sunday school held its picnic this afternoon at Grimsby Park, and about 300 enjoyed the ride over the H. G. & B. electric road.

Tempting Delicacies.

Spring chickens, spring ducks, squabs, spring lamb, well hung beef, canteloupes, watermelons, peaches, ox head, cherries, black cherries, red and white currants, gooseberries, grape-fruit, cauliflower, quinces, tomatoes, butterbeans, green peppers, cucumbers, celery, beets, carrots, olives in bulk, sea salmon, fresh and smoked fish.

COL. SERGET J. FREEBORN, Who made the remarkable score of 17 bull's eyes out of 20 shots at 800 and 900 yards, in the MacKinnon match at Bisley yesterday.

LECTURED MAGISTRATE,

But Hotel Proprietor Lost Case on Second Trial.

Young Lawyer Defended Man Who Had Pleaded Guilty.

William Gibbens Appears to be In a Bad Way.

OBJECT TO THE CUSTOM.

Toronto Storekeepers Distribute Bills Around Hamilton

And Local Merchants Want Stop Put to It.

G. T. R. Must Protect Wellington Street All the Time.

Prominent retail merchants here, principally the owners of the large dry goods stores, have complained at the City Hall about Toronto department stores being permitted to circulate advertising dodgers around the city.

City Solicitor Weddell to-day was notified that the Dominion Railway Commission had passed an order compelling the Grand Trunk to keep a watchman at the Wellington street crossing over the main line, day and night.

The London papers speak very appreciatively of the Hamilton Mountain Sanatorium, which was visited the other day by a deputation from the London Health Association.

The London Council is trying to arrange a meeting with the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto on Tuesday to discuss the whole power situation.

City Engineer Macallum and Consulting Engineer Barrow went to the Beach this morning and looked over the ground where the new pump house will be erected. They are arranging for the construction of the foundations at once, so as to avoid any delay in having the motors installed as soon as it is decided which power is to be used.

Mayor McLaren and the aldermen spoke appreciatively to-day of the kindness of members of the Hamilton Automobile Club and the Ferneligh Bowling Club in helping to entertain the visitors from Toronto yesterday.

MASONIC.

Grand Lodge Benevolent Board Meeting In London To-day.

R. W. Bro. John Hoodless left for London to-day to attend the meeting of the Committee on Benevolence of the Masonic Grand Lodge Board of General Purposes, of which he is a member.

Saturday Cigar Bargains.

Bouquet and Hilda cigars, union made, 8 for 25c. Julia Arthur cigars, 6 for 25c.

The reopened case of A. L. Kline, proprietor of the Brant House, who was charged with refusing to pay Kate Stevens $16 wages, was tried by Magistrate Jells at the Police Court this morning.

"Didn't you refuse to do the work the housekeeper asked you to do?" questioned Mr. Kline. "I refused to count the linen, because that is not my duty as a housemaid."

The defendant went into the box and began a dramatic plea about hotel proprietors being at the mercy of their employees, and finally demanding that the Magistrate make an example of the complainant and dismiss the charge.

"I was going to give my reasons for giving judgment in this case, but since you interrupt me every time I am only going to tell you that you will have to pay it."

"I'll appeal the case, your Honor," said Kline. "A legal light, in embryo, made a rather ludicrous mistake in court this morning. His client, Percy Stride, 484 MacNab street north, was charged with assaulting Annie Stride. He pleaded guilty, but in such a low tone that neither his counsel nor the magistrate heard him."

"We had better adjourn this case until to-morrow," said the bench. "This hint was taken and the principals began to leave the court room, when Sgt. Pinch told the magistrate that the defendant had pleaded guilty."

"Pleaded guilty, did he? Then I'll fine him $5 and finish the case," turning to the reporters he said: "Think of a lawyer defending a man who had pleaded guilty!"

A witness said that he accused her husband of murdering Mrs. Gibbens. So strong was that impression on his mind that he took a policeman into his yard to get him to investigate the matter.

Love Finds the Way

CHAPTER XXVII.

It was the last night of the party at the Towers. Mr. Besant's proposal for immediate flight for Sir Ralph, of course, declared that he must return to Rivershall at once—important business, steward worrying, the home farm going wrong, a dozen sufficient reasons were adduced why he and Lillian could not remain longer.

Lady Melville discovered, a morning later, that she was compelled to be in town, and Lord Harcourt found that it was absolutely necessary for him to put in an appearance at a certain club dinner at the same date.

Misses Dalton and Amot, at last fully persuaded that his lordship and Claude Ainsley had neither hearts nor taste—in fine, would not be captivated by the glass dainties—also intimated that their mammas were growing anxious.

Lord Harcourt shook his head and was about to make some slighting allusion to Lady Melville, but a glance at the dark face kept him silent. The new Claude was a very different person to the old—a great deal sadder and a great deal wiser.

"Dinner, my lord," said the footman, and the two gentlemen strode off arm in arm.

That evening, by some management, Mr. Besant was seated next to Lillian. Claude Ainsley, who was quick at reading faces, noted that Lillian was not altogether delighted by the arrangement.

She was no quieter than usual, but a keen observer might have traced a shade of wistful sadness upon her brow, and a slight tremor of almost fearful timidity about her lips.

Mr. Besant paid her every attention and most markedly—too markedly, perhaps, for Sir Ralph, as he heard the self-assured tone in which he pressed Lillian to partake of such and such a dish, or advised her to sit a little farther this way from the draft, or to be careful that the glare of the light did not make her head ache, frowned with doubtful displeasure.

Surely the master of the Towers made too certain of his prize!

With Sir Ralph frowning, and the Misses Dalton and Amot dull, not to say sullen, the dinner was scarcely a success, and it was not to be wondered at that the ladies were glad to escape. But it was out of the frying pan into the fire; Miss Dalton grew from sullen to amiably spiteful, and chose for a first victim, quiet, inoffensive Miss Lucas, who was seated in her usual corner, bent over the usual piece of embroidery.

"What an elaborate strip that is of yours, my dear Miss Lucas," said the young lady, smiling sweetly as she examined it; "what a time it must have taken you to!"

"Yes," said Miss Lucas, monotonously, without raising her head or looking up from her work. "A very long time."

"It must be interesting, oh, very, I'm sure; dear me, you never do anything else?"

"Why do you think you think you will have finished it?"

"About the same time as the completion of the pair of slippers you were so kind as to commence for Lord Harcourt, my dear Miss Dalton," retorted Miss Lucas, with a fixed, expressionless look.

The tormentor flushed hotly under this application of her own flunkeyism, and with a glance of infinite scorn and hate bent a retreat.

Miss Lucas smiled deeply and looked up to see if her bosom friend would take her part, but Miss Amot thought discretion the better part of valor, and left the Tartar alone.

Lillian was at the piano when the gentlemen entered, and Mr. Besant, who was longing to practice his new role, walked towards the instrument at once, and Lord Harcourt, who followed him with his eyes, shot a quick glance of meaning towards the graceful figure of Lady Melville, who was very comfortably nestling among the sofa cushions, beating time with her white, tapering fingers to the waltz Lillian was playing.

Lord Harcourt dropped into a vacant seat beside her ladyship and leaned forward to murmur, in a low voice, "See where the present master of the Towers and the future lord of Rivershall stands?"

Lady Melville's eyes flashed and the delicate hand clinched for a second.

"Be not too sure," she murmured back; "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip."

"A pleasant proverb," he retorted, with covert sneer. "But it will need more than a slip, nothing but a dash from his hand will keep the Besant flag from the Rivershall turrets. Does he not look like winning? He looks as if he had bought the poor girl in hard cash and had the receipt in his pocket. Come, even you pity her—eh?"

The beautiful woman breathed hard.

"Why should I?" she asked between her teeth. "He is good-looking, rich, and—but it will not be."

"Will not?" he repeated, softly.

"Shall not!" she retorted, unguardedly.

His keen eyes fastened on her face with the piercing scrutiny of a hawk.

Lady Melville paled beneath it slowly and distinctly.

"Mr. Dalton calls you," she said, suddenly, unable to endure his fixed regard longer.

Lord Harcourt rose and left her, but his eye wandered back once or twice while he stood talking at the farther end of the room, and the question was revolving in his brain: "How far will she dare to go?"

The room was hot and the conservatory was tempting.

From the piano Lillian strolled thitherwards on Mr. Besant's arm.

She had determined on a desperate move as the last chance.

They were seated in a delightfully cool corner which Mr. Besant had hoped to secure for Lillian and himself.

"Ah, my dear fellow!" said Claude Ainsley, jumping up with a positive air of relief. "Finished your song, Miss Melville? It was too short, you must get Mr. Dalton to write you another verse."

"Yes, I have finished," said Lillian. "Is it not warm? Miss Amot, Lady Besant is seeking you everywhere. I am so sorry to disturb you, but a promise is a promise, and I offered to help her. She wants you to sing the 'Maid of Athens.' Miss Amot devoutly wished the 'Maid of Athens' and Lady Besant at Jericho, but smiled sweetly and glided off on Claude Ainsley's arm, convinced now that it would never be her fate to call that arm her own.

Claude Ainsley seated his charge at the piano, turned over the leaves, and strolled out onto the lawn.

It was a beautiful night, with just enough moon to soften the stars and sharpen the outlines of the trees and shrubs.

The man of the world looked above and around him. It was all very beautiful for it jarred with his inner self.

Four years ago he would have been happy under such a sky. Now—well, it was very beautiful, but his heart refused to rejoice in it; he saw it all through a glass darkly: the green spectacles were ever before his eyes. Such a night as that could only remind him of the old, waking dream, the dream of his youth.

If he had been all his heart fondly painted her! If the sweet flower had no poison worm hidden at his core!—

"Is that you, Mr. Ainsley?" came the voice that still found its answering chord within his heart.

"Yes," he said, turning to where the woman he had loved came half hesitating over the velvet lawn.

"I thought so, and yet you were so motionless I fancied it was one of the stars."

"No," he said; "it is I, living flesh and blood."

"Living flesh and blood!" she repeated, with a subtle emphasis. "And you are looking at the stars?"

"Yes," he replied. "They are beautiful, are they not?"

"I hate them!" she said, and her eyes flashed upon his.

"Why?" he asked, striving to be calm, and in consequence speaking with more than his ordinary coldness.

"Because they are cold and fierce. See, is there one that does not change?"

He remained silent and his head drooped slightly.

She came a step nearer and laid her hand gently upon his arm.

"Why do you avoid me, Claude?"

"He moved his arm."

"You are going to the East?"

"I am," he said.

"Why do you fly from me? Am I poison?"

The word had slipped from her tongue before she knew it. Strangely, she had unconsciously given it a marked emphasis.

He started slightly and turned to her.

"Why do you ask me such strange questions?" he asked, in a constrained manner. "If I avoid you, if I fly from you, is it without a cause? Answer me."

She shrank from the stern words and the still sterner eyes which she knew were bent on her.

"You know," of the marriage, she would have said, alluding to the compact which Lord Harcourt was going to make with the baron, but she faltered, and he took up the thread with a blither voice.

"I know of your shame! I know all, and I fly from you!"

Her hand could not stop him, though the agony with which it trembled upon his arm was a prayer in itself.

Jerking it from him with a groan, he strode away, and the beautiful and charming Lady Melville, who looked as if she never had a care in the world, returned to the drawing room.

That night the young Miss Lucas' head was marked and rapid.

That young lady listened for a while, and then with a gleam of light in her usually lack-lustre eyes, she stole up the stairs. Not to listen this time.

A gentle tap at the door and the painting ceased.

Another and Lady Melville stood in the open doorway.

The light from the wax candles burning beside the dressing glass fell upon the face of the inoffensive governess.

Lady Melville confronted it and its grey, flickering eyes for a full minute, then said:

"Come in."

As for Mr. Ainsley, as he never had any appointments, never dined at clubs and was answerable to no one for his whereabouts, it was enough excuse for him that all the rest were going, that he must follow my leader and be going, too.

Lady Besant was sorry to lose her distinguished guests, but she had some consolation, as in a few straggling forward, triumphant words her fox-hunting son had given her to understand that the heiress of Rivershall—beautiful Lillian Melville—was his, and the devoted mother was satisfied.

"Oh, dear me, Henry," she said, with a profound sigh, "I wish the dear olderman could have been alive to see this day!"

"In that case my existence might have been somewhat uncertain," replied Mr. Besant, rather quizzically.

"Yes, yes," murmured Lady Besant, "or your poor father, dear Besant, how pleased he would be."

"Don't count your chickens before they are hatched, mother," hinted Mr. Besant, but in a tone that showed pretty plainly that he did not refrain from the somewhat unwise calculation himself.

"No, no," said Lady Besant. "But I don't think you have much to fear, Henry, if Sir Ralph gives his consent. Lillian is a very ladylike girl—I'm sure I'm proud of her, already—she has been well brought up and seems quite devoted to her father. If he says 'yes,' I don't think you need fear a 'no' from her. Dear, sweet, obedient girl!"

"No, no, just so," said Mr. Besant, confidently; "Lillian is very fond of the old gentleman and will do just as he bids. 'No, no, I'm not very much afraid, mother.'"

And having thus disposed of the subject he clanked out of the room to see a new brood mare, which he had added to his stables, the possession of which had been a matter requiring more finesse even than that expended in his successful negotiation for a wife.

Lady Besant was therefore pretty well content, but some of her guests were rather dissatisfied.

Miss Dalton had looked forward to great results from her visit to the Towers.

Summary of Canadian North-west Land Regulations.
ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions. Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister. In certain conditions a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section of his homestead. Price—$1.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to secure homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra. A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price—$2.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $500.00.

SIMPLICITY AIM OF LONDON TAILOR.
Some Radical Changes in Styles For Men's Wear Over That of Last Year Noted.
London—There are some radical changes in the styles for men for this season over last. Last season coats were invariably cut only medium length and never full either at the chest or hips. This season the very opposite holds good. The coats are extremely lengthy, verging on a "skirty" effect in their full hips, but the extreme features are modified by one another, so a coat with plenty of skirt is cut fairly full across the chest, and whatever shaping is done around the waist is exaggerated in the sides, so as to give a clean curve over the hips. The back is not curved and more inclined to give a flat effect.

STREET CARS
Made Wholly of Steel; Trial to be Given in Chicago.
The Chicago Railways Company is conducting an experiment in building street cars entirely of steel that is interesting the street railway men throughout the country. Fifty of these all steel cars are about to be put into service. The first ones received from the builders are now at the shops being fitted and finished. They are all steel in reality, and not a piece of wood is used in them excepting a wood strip on the step, wooden hand grips for mounting, a running board on top for the trolley bases, and the doors, which will probably be made of steel in late future. Steel is used even for the window sashes, frame work of the cane seats, and the panel finishing at the sides and top.

POWER WAR.
London Advertiser Says That City Will be Centre.
The London Advertiser prints a story in which it says: Signs are not wanting that London will be the storm-centre of the Niagara power fight. Already many evidences to that effect have been noticed, and the end is not yet. The story was current to-day that MacKenzie & Mann had purchased the Southwestern Traction Company, intending to use the road as one of the implements of the warfare. The Electrical Development Company or one of its kindred companies has the charter for the Hamilton to Windsor railroad, which will pass through this city.

TO HELP SCOTCH. CANADIANS' MACKINNON
Million British Miners Voting on Proposed Strike.
London, July 16.—The Miners' Confederation of Great Britain, after a prolonged meeting, has decided in favor of balloting its million members as to whether or not a national strike shall be declared in support of the Scottish miners, who are resisting a wage reduction of sixpence a day. The ballot will not be completed before July 27, and the executive committee of the confederation will meet July 28 to take action on the result. The present feeling seems to be in favor of the stoppage of all mines, a condition which would entail practically the complete paralysis of British industry. In view of the consequent expected shortage in the coal supply, many factories already have served notice to their employees of the termination of contracts.

BARTONVILLE.
Methodist Ladies' Aid Gave a Garden Party.
A very successful garden party was held at the home of Mr. Daniel Croshaw, Bartonville, last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Bartonville Methodist Church. Rev. Thomas H. Ibbott, P. B., the newly appointed pastor, presided. Speeches were delivered by the pastor and the following reverend gentlemen: W. N. Vollick, W. G. Davis and T. McLaughlin. Mr. W. O. Sealey, M. P., also gave an address. Songs were sung by Mrs. Faskin McDonald and Mrs. D. Cline; a recitation given by Miss A. S. Young, and a part of the Thirteenth Regiment gave a very interesting camp scene, representing the experiences gone through in South Africa, with patrol selections from members of the regiment. The illustrated songs by Mrs. D. Cline were also a special feature of the programme.

COST TWO LIVES.
Murder and Suicide on the St. Clair Flats Yesterday.
Port Huron, Mich., July 16.—Joseph Rosenberg, cigarmaker, of Cleveland, was murdered early to-day on a lonely island on the St. Clair Flats. A few hours later Frank Elbers, also of Cleveland, who is charged with the murder, was also found dead from a dose of poison, self-administered. A third Cleveland man, Sam Frisbie, is held as an accomplice to the murder, and has made a confession of the details of the cold-blooded killing.

LANNIN--WILSON.
A very quiet wedding took place at the home of Rev. John Young, pastor of St. John Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Mr. W. C. Lannin, of the Traders' Bank, Lynden, formerly of this city, and Miss Mildred Isabella Wilson, eldest daughter of Mr. Ross Wilson, 250 King street west, were married by Rev. Mr. Young.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1906.

LET IT GROW.

The Victoria Colonist is a British Columbia Tory paper which has not lost its head over Chamberlainism and the war scare. It rejoices that Mr. Balfour's recent speech pointing out that the true bond of Imperial unity is sentiment is an indication of returning sanity on the part of British public men. It quite approves Mr. Balfour's statement that close commercial relations can do much towards begetting good feeling between the several parts of the Empire, but the real foundation must be community of sentiment. The Colonist says Canadians "have been dosed with tariff imperialism ad nauseam. People on both sides of the Atlantic have been asserting that Canadians are just waiting to see if the tariff reformers are going to triumph before deciding whether or not the Dominion will cast its lot with the United States." It expresses pleasure at hearing the leader of the British Opposition giving expression to sentiments which are generally so well received. The care with which he avoided the acceptance of Chamberlainism in its entirety but indicates to the Colonist his wisdom. No responsible statesman can afford, it says, "to take the extreme position that the British Empire could only be kept together by tariffs. Doubtless he is too well read a historian to assent to any such proposition. Speaking for ourselves, we welcome Mr. Balfour's declaration with the greatest satisfaction. Possibly it will have the effect of restoring the sanity of those perverted Imperialists, who think an Empire can be taxed into solidarity." The Colonist declares its desire to see inter-Imperial trade promoted by every legitimate means, but it denies that "bonds of enduring friendship can be created out of tariffs alone, or even principally." It is satisfied to trust Imperial development to the instincts of the British peoples; and it thinks that "if those individuals who only discovered last year that there is a British Empire cannot understand how solidarity is compatible with freedom of action, they would do well to read British colonial history." It is prepared to find that some of its readers think the latter expression is rather strong, but it says it takes it from a recent English paper which rejoices that so many people in England have recently made the discovery.

TOO DEAR A WHISTLE.

Chicago is not receiving the encouragement which it desires in the matter of the 14-ft. waterway for deep-draft vessels from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. It does not appear to make much progress in inducing congress to come down with even the $100,000,000 asked to commit it to the enterprise; and in some quarters the scheme is treated with ridicule. Perhaps the reason for its failure is to be found in the paucity of arguments in favor of such a waterway. The only one yet seriously put forward is that Chicago wants it of the commercial utility of it nothing is said. It will be remembered that congress authorized the appointment of a board of army and civilian engineers to investigate a number of specific questions. The board was appointed in March, 1907, and reported in March, 1909, certain subjects being covered in a provisional way in the absence of complete data, which had not been obtained at that date. The investigation was very thorough and the reasons for the conclusions reached will carry conviction to all who have kept their minds free from bias. Seven different methods were considered and reported upon, and the cost was estimated at $158,700,000. The annual maintenance cost was placed at $6,810,000.

A scheme of such magnitude would be justifiable only in prospect of great commercial benefits. Are they to be expected? They are not. The New York Engineering Record points out that at present an 8-ft. channel is maintained from St. Louis to the Gulf, except on rare occasions; and with such the river is able to carry all the traffic, which is rapidly falling off. It is pointed out that in 1890 there were 611,779 barrels of flour received at St. Louis by river and in 1906 but 29,160. In 1880 15,700,000 bushels of grain reached New Orleans from St. Louis by river and in 1903 but 2,700,000, although the navigability of the river was greater in the latter than in the former year. In 1880 the total tonnage on the Mississippi and its tributaries other than the Ohio was about 12,500,000, while in 1906 it was only about 4,300,000. In 1886 the river tonnage at St. Louis was 1,332,000 and in 1906 it was only 366,000. There is here not the slightest encouragement to spend so many millions in an artificial waterway.

Chicago, however, dreams of a canal from New Orleans to the Great Lakes that would practically turn it into a great seaport and make it a naval rendezvous. It shuts its eyes to the fact that of all the vast freight traffic of the continent, not 2 per cent. of the vessels carrying it could use the proposed waterway. If such a canal is needed at all, a vastly greater one is required. It is a Chicago scheme, pure and simple; and it will not be easy to induce congress to waste money on it. Moreover, it might raise serious issues as to the diversion of the 14-ft. waterway for deep-draft vessels for Congress and the Canadian Parliament. In view of its lack of justification, and of the great cost involved, it is very improbable that Congress will pay its price to produce a new crop of troubles.

WIRELESS TROUBLES.

Wireless telegraphy already has its troubles, and they are likely to increase. We learn from a contemporary that great complaint is made in New York harbor of a confused babel of voices in the air, though the ordinary citizen is not troubled by them or even aware of them. They affect the wireless operators who are engaged in serious business, though other wireless operators are responsible for them. Currents of varying power meet and mingle and messages frequently get so mixed up that neither receiver nor sender can untangle a meaning from them. The business is so new that rigid rules do not prevail, and wireless gossip on trivial matters is as common as the telephone variety in a rural community. In New York more and more vessels are being equipped with the wireless. Cargo boats, ocean tramps, oil carriers and coastwise vessels have them, and when they get generally in action some confusion is sure to result. Of course the difficulty complained of here is not likely to be felt, where sending and receiving stations are few. In the world's great ports, however, it is probable that much trouble will be experienced. It is proposed by those immediately interested in the business, and who feel the great inconvenience to which they are subjected, that the Government compel the companies doing a wireless business to operate at stated frequencies and to cut out all unnecessary intercommunication between individual wireless plants. With the increase of the accommodations of the public there inevitably comes an increase of demand for the regulation of those who are serving it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Don't ask the Herald to produce a certificate of veracity from Judge Monk! The Judge knows it.

Nobody yet appeals for glorification on the ground that he was the assassin of the Art School. Speak up, gentlemen!

But Whitney finds no time to look into the conditions of our fraternal societies in the interests of the members. So busy with party politics.

But why not buy an automobile for the use of sub-committees of the Council, without the subterfuge of charging it to the Chief of the Fire Department?

Inspector Sturdy does not appear to have any better luck with the "Indian list" than had Inspector Birrell. Is Sturdy's official head secure on his shoulders?

A woman kissed the Iowa State Auditor, and she has since been declared to be insane. There are some of the factors lacking to logical completeness, but the case sounds suggestive.

Drowning is a watery death at best—or worst; but there is something particularly harrowing at the thought of a lot of men going to the bottom, like rats in a trap, in a submarine boat.

The labor cost of a ton of pig iron in the States is $1.07. The tariff protection is $4. That looks as if labor was not getting its full share of the protection given to "American labor."

The London aldermen are learning something about the Hydro scheme that makes them wish they had looked into it before burning their fingers by monkeying with it. Hamilton is not yet in the trap, but there are those who are doing their best to lead her into it.

Whitney may be proud of his bottling up of the Toronto press so as to prevent it from publishing the news as to the petitions for disallowance of those vicious statutes, but should the Toronto people be proud of a press so servile or so prejudiced?

The Toronto aldermanic bowlers administered a terrific defeat to their Hamilton entertainers yesterday. The Hamilton aldermen fared no better than they did in the baseball contest. What's the matter? Is there too much beef in the Hamilton team?

The Ontario Crown Lands Department has decided to adopt the system of tender for the right to cut ties on Government land. The timber industry is becoming quite important and competition for the privilege of cutting will probably increase the Provincial revenue.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth has been appointed by the Imperial Government as its agent to represent Canada and Newfoundland in connection with the adjudication of the Atlantic fisheries before The Hague Tribunal. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick is the Imperial member of the Tribunal.

Interviewed in England, Sir Frederick Borden expresses the belief that the practical outcome of the Imperial Defence Conference will result in an agreement for action along the lines of the Canadian Parliamentary resolution on the subject. What will the ardent advocates of presenting Dreadnoughts have to say to that?

The Dublin Express hears rumors that the Earl of Aberdeen will soon resign the Lord-Lieutenancy of Ireland. The story is to be doubted. Lord Aberdeen is exceedingly popular in Ireland, to whose people and interests he is devoted. It will not be safe to accept such a rumor on the authority of the Dublin Express.

Some of the local moulders who have been on strike for a few months talk of opening a shop of their own, and say

Joseph McClung Tells of the Semi-Ready "Lonely" Sale

I have decided to clear out every Summer Suit in a week's time --and every suit is genuine "Semi-Ready," bearing the label which you all know. It is my purpose to effect the clearing by the concise argument of making the price so tempting that you will buy now for future needs.

To-morrow I Will Offer:

$8 for 50 Semi-Ready Suits that were $15--but which if kept until next month, will have been a year in the store. This is an unpardonable fault in any Semi-Ready store, as all our clothes must be sold while they are seasonable and stylish in pattern and fabric.

$10 for 60 suits in "A" type, for men of smaller stature, and for boys budding into manhood. Sizes 34 up. Some of these are fine blues and black Serges. Others in imported British Tweeds, worth from $15 to $18 and $20 regularly.

$10 for a choice of 150 Semi-Ready Summer Suits, including all the two-piece suits I have left. All single-breasted styles in Worsteds and Tweeds, and sizes and types to fit every man. Not one of these ever sold for less than $15. You can see the label; even though it must come out before the suit leaves the store at a cut price.

$10 for 36 suits in "F" and "G" types, the physique types for large and stout men. These are a fine lot of blue and black Serges, and some cultured tweed patterns and pure Worsteds.

Again let me emphasize the welcome to this store to those who come "Just to look." You can always take away some knowledge of style and good dress even though you may not want to buy at the time. Come, anyway, and feel right at home.

JOSEPH McCLUNG The Semi-Ready Store 46 James Street North, Hamilton

the necessary capital is ready. That is a course to be commended. If there is money in the business they will profit by it. And in going into the business they are exercising a common right and wronging no man.

Senator Perley, of Wolsely, who died suddenly yesterday was one of the early territorial politicians. He was elected to Parliament in 1887 as the first member for his district. He resigned his seat in the following year to make way for Hon. Mr. Dewdney, receiving a Senatorship as his reward. Senator Perley's death is a loss to the ever-decreasing Tory group, in the Upper Chamber.

This man Beck is either very elusive, or his organ, the Herald, is living up to its odorous record. It represents Adam as denying over the wire his statements made in Hamilton on Wednesday. But as it takes care to refrain from stating to whom the denial was made, it is only fair to give Adam the benefit of the doubt. It would be unfair to convict even a yellow dog on the testimony of the organ, after its treatment of Judge Monk.

Whitney's legislative denial of civil rights and his closing of the courts of justice to the appeals of the wronged, affect more than the people of this Province. His legislation is a wrong to every resident of the Dominion and a cause of disgrace and want of confidence in Canada throughout the world. Those statutes must be disallowed, and the people look to Sir Wilfrid Laurier for prompt action.

The argument for putting in force a frontage tax system of street paving from the acceptance of the frontage tax system of building sidewalks is exceedingly weak. The cases are not at all parallel. Justice to the property owners requires that an owner of a house and lot be not required to maintain at his own cost a heavy traffic pavement for the use of others when that traffic may be an evil to him. The frontage tax for pavements is mostly advocated as a means of adding just so much more taxes to the ratepayers' burden. It is perhaps most popular with those who have never carefully studied it, or who have had their own streets paved at the general expense and wish to avoid paying their share of the cost of paving the rest.

So Donald Sutherland, Ontario's Superintendent of Colonization, finds that the cost of living is due to the facts that too little farm land is worked, and that which is worked is not worked well enough. But does Donald think that if the farmer realizes $1,000 from the expenditure of so much work on so many acres of land, he is likely to produce $1,500 by doing twice as much work on it, and then give the increase in cheaper prices of the product to "lower the cost of living"? Na, na, Donald! Ye may be gay pawkie, but ye canna work that!

The Cleveland Plain Dealer is disgusted with Cuba and its lottery. It says with some bitterness:

"But the official lottery of the Cubans does supply one more proof of what a desperately unworthy lot of creatures America took the trouble to free from Spanish oppression. Leave the Cubans alone, by all means, and let them work out their own salvation—or destruction. All that America can now demand is that Cuba pay some share of Cuba's debts, and keep clean enough to avoid being a pest spot at America's threshold. Cuba has come to be a tiresome, dirty, immoral, irresponsible nuisance. It is nicer not to handle it at all."

FAKE PROPHETS. (Ottawa Journal). And some of the weather predictions look so foolish the day after!

JUDGING BY HER DEMANDS. (Boston Transcript). Bach—I suppose, old man, your wife still thinks she married a treasure? Benedict—No—a treasury.

ANSWERED. (Christian Register). "What happens when a man's temper goes down as far as it can go?" "He has cold feet, ma'am."

NATURAL HISTORY. (Women's Home Companion). The teacher was giving a lesson on the animal kingdom.

"You have named all the domestic animals but one," she said. "It has bristly hair and likes to get into the mud." "I know," replied little Teddy, making himself very small behind the desk. "It's me!"

and then proceed to persecute in the name of the Lord. Toronto and her absurd Sunday laws are to-day the laughing stock of the continent, and the cords will unquestionably be drawn tighter and tighter just so long as these zealots have command.

A MODEST HOPE. (Washington Herald). "Do you take this woman for better or worse?" "I do, judge, I do. But I hopes we kin kinder strike an average."

POOR BARGAINER. (Boston Transcript). Ethel—Didn't I hear you offer Reggie a penny for his thoughts a little while ago? Maud—Yes. What of it? Ethel—Oh, nothing; only I was going to get you to do a little shopping for me and now I guess I won't.

NO MONEY IN IT. (Buffalo Express). "No wonder I am furious," the druggist exclaimed to the first person to enter. "That fellow who was just here bought a stamp and then asked for a drink of water at the soda fountain. The drug business is certainly deteriorating."

THE SPOT FOR YOU. (Toronto Star). "Hamilton, Ontario, is the place for you," says an advertising stamp, evolved by the publicity man of that ambitious city. And what more subtle thrust could anyone receive than a nice letter bearing one of these little stickers.

MEN OVER FIFTY. (Buffalo Enquirer). "There are men at 65 years who are daily in comparison with younger men beside them, doing not only better, but more, work. It cannot be laid down as a rule that all men over 50 are the more desirable. Nor should it be laid down as a rule that all men under 50 are the more desirable. The matter should be determined on the individual himself. And when so determined it will be surprising if it is not found that a very large percentage of men over 50 are found to be the more desirable employees."

SUNDAY LAWS. (Toronto Saturday Night). I am of the opinion that the large majority of Toronto's citizens strongly favor rational Sunday laws. The difficulty has been the indifference shown by the rationalist in the days gone by, in direct contrast to the aggressive and zealous minority who raise their banner in the name of the Lord's Day Alliance, will be so much to be deducted from the earnings of the business. That will affect the cost of conducting it and hamper its productiveness. It will have the effect, however concealed it may be, of enhancing what the corporation charges for its products or for its service to customers, and diminishing what it pays for labor or the service it employs.

SIR JAMES GIVES THANKS. (Canadian Courier). "Thank heaven," said our bluff Sir James. As he laid the paper down, "That no disturbing suffragettes harass this peaceful town."

"What would I do, if war-like dames, With stern and haughty taunt, Demanded votes in awful tones, Like those who Asquith haunt."

SHARING WITH THE MEN. (Toronto Mail and Empire). One of the best solutions of the labor question is that furnished through the medium of co-operation. The International Harvester Company is going in for it strongly. Of its employees 29,000 are shareholders, and the company is now offering them 12,500 preferred shares and 15,000 common at prices $6 and $10 under the present market quotations. It is expected that a large majority will take advantage of the offer, as easy terms of payment are provided—on instalments to be taken from wages. When the worker becomes a sharer in the business his interest is different to that of an employee. He looks at things from the point of view of the inside.

THE PEOPLE PAY IT ALL. (New York Journal of Commerce). One of the reasons given for the support of the corporation income tax, which is expected to carry it through the Conference Committee and through the House, is that it is believed to be "popular." This belief is based upon the assumption that "the people" are favorable to almost any burden upon corporations, and politicians are seeking for what will please the people and not for what is best for their interests. Whatever tax payment, cost incurred in connection with payment, and loss on account of interference there may be,

"We want you to give us a lecture, sure, about New Year's, Mr. Bryan," he said to Mr. Wilson.

"Then Mr. Wilson realized that he had been mistaken at close range for William Jennings Bryan by a citizen of that redoubtable Presidential candidate's own State. He laughed, saying he would be glad to deliver a lecture, but pointed out the Nebraska error. The latter took a closer look and then beat a retreat."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES. At the regular monthly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. arrangements were made for the closing of the building during the month of August, when the present building will be remodelled and will be prepared to re-open on Sept. 1st. The paper for the reception room in the old building has been donated by Mr. E. B. Turnbull and for the office by Mrs. John B. Gay. This will make a great improvement on the appearance of the house. New donations to the Building Fund were also reported, as follows:

- E. Van Allen, $500.
- H. L. Frost, raised from $600 to $1,000.
- J. Orr Callaghan, from $300 to $500.
- Mrs. M. Henderson, $35.
- Miss Edwards, $35.
- Dr. H. Husband, $25.
- Mrs. W. F. Ambrose, $25.
- Mrs. E. K. Pass, $25.
- C. W. Cartwright, $5.
- A. Mason, $5.
- Miss Reita Moore, $5.

THREATENED TO KILL HER.

Evelyn Says Thaw Made the Threat—She is Afraid.

Declares the Thaw Family Has Not Treated Her Right.

Anthony Comstock Among Witnesses Who Believe Thaw Sane.

White Plains, July 15.—Harry K. Thaw's wife, formerly the chorus girl, Evelyn Nesbit, went on the stand here to-day and gave damaging testimony against him.

When to-day's session was over, adjournment was taken until July 26. For three days the State had been trying to bring out that Thaw threatened his wife's life on one of her visits to Matteawan, as tending to show his irrationality.

And she told, as if in fear, what Thaw's lawyer has sought most to keep back, of his alleged threat to take her life if he were released from the asylum.

Whether assumed or not, she expressed fear while testifying. She was quoted afterward as saying that she had testified because of the treatment she had received at the hands of the Thaw family, but on the witness stand she apparently struggled hard not to tell, and when compelled to do so by the court, she obeyed reluctantly and tearfully.

Deputy Attorney-General Clary asked her: "Did Harry K. Thaw at any time say this to you, or in substance, 'I shall have to kill you when I get out of here?'"

She replied: "I do not want to answer that question. It places me in a terrible position. My husband will refuse to support me the minute I answer it, and I will incur his everlasting enmity. I know it. I am very much afraid to answer it."

"I do not care how he has treated me, I am still married to him and I do not want to answer it."

Justice Mills instructed the witness to answer, and she did, with a long sigh: "Yes, he did."

"What were his exact words?" demanded Mr. Clark.

"He said, 'When I get out of here I suppose I will have to kill you.'"

"Why did he say that?"

"We were discussing his mental condition. I had asked him what he meant, and he said: 'You know I was not crazy on the night that I shot White.' I asked him again, and he said, 'You know that I missed White by two minutes on the day before.'"

Thaw and his counsel were not unprepared for this testimony. Immediately after Evelyn Thaw had voiced the quotation, Mr. Schaeffer, counsel for Thaw, had the witness identify four letters which Thaw pulled out of his pocket, as having been written by her to him since his imprisonment, after the shooting of Stanford White. These, marked for identification before the court, will tear the unfavorable presumption of Evelyn Thaw's testimony to tatters when they are submitted in evidence, said the counsel for the plaintiff.

THAW DENIES IT.

Thaw, when asked about his wife's testimony after court, said he was not surprised at her attitude, but he emphatically denied that he had ever threatened her life.

"It is very plain to everyone that her story is not true," he said. "First she says one thing and then another."

"Is it true that you made an attempt on White's life on the day before the homicide was committed?" he was asked.

"If I had, you would have learned it before this," replied Thaw.

Evelyn Thaw on the stand gave a preliminary Thaw trial touch to the proceedings, as did some of the other testimony, dragging out the unsavory details concerning Stanford White. Dr. Adelphi Meyer, of the New York State lunacy commission, testified that he had talked with Thaw in regard to the reasons which led him to shoot Stanford White, principally the seduction of young girls, which Thaw said was carried on by White.

THAW SANE, SAYS COMSTOCK.

Anthony Comstock, President of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, told of his efforts to assist Thaw in getting sufficient evidence of White's practices to prosecute him criminally. Up to within a day or two of the tragedy he had seen Thaw and obtained data from him in regard to White's conduct. He was of the opinion that Thaw was sane.

Other witnesses told of their experiences with Thaw when he appeared sane. Three more witnesses beside Thaw himself were to testify, but the long adjournment was taken in order that both sides may study the evidence given at Thaw's two trials for the murder.

It was decided to do away with a physical examination of Thaw by the state's alienists and confine the insanity tests by the experts to the mental examination of Thaw as a witness.

Before leaving for New York to-night, Evelyn Thaw discussed her testimony to-day, somewhat at variance to her attitude on the stand.

REVENGEFUL FEMALE.

"If the Thaw family had done the right thing by me I would never have taken the stand to testify against my husband," she said. "But they would not guarantee me the allowance I asked for when the annulment proceedings were begun. If they had done that, I would have been far away from here to-day and Harry would have a better chance of getting his liberty."

"I don't know what I shall do now. I must go out and get a living somehow. I can't go back to the stage. My notoriety would prohibit that. I may try to get work as a model. I can do it, too, I am sure."

"If I had not been compelled I would never have testified against Mr. Thaw. But when my husband cut my allowance to $70 a week and $200 a month he left me with many debts on my hands. I used my allowance to clear off my debts. My studio costs $79 a month and

OH, DEAR! SHE DARE NOT BREATHE HER BREACH OF PROMISE CHARGES

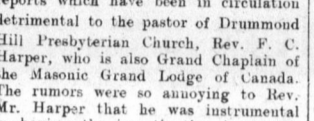

Boston, July 15.—Miss Josephine Flynn is the prettiest woman in the courts to-day, lawyers and courts officials say. She is waging a determined fight to get her charges against W. T. Sullivan for $50,000 damages into the newspapers.

She wants the money from Sullivan, who is wealthy, and charges him with refusing to keep his promise to marry her.

What is in her remarkable petition that judges will not allow her to publish it?

Boston is anxious to know, yet cannot until the trial of the suit, because Judge Waite, sitting in motion equity session of the Superior Court, enjoined Miss Flynn from saying a word about her charges until the suit comes to trial. However, the judge refused to enjoin the newspapers against printing the story and enterprising reporters are hard at work.

Sullivan says he will deny all her charges of faithlessness.

BUILDING FALLS; SEVEN KILLED.

DISASTROUS COLLAPSE OF A BUILDING IN PHILADELPHIA.

Five-Storey Structure in Process of Erection Becomes a Mass of Ruins, Burying Laborers and Injuring Pedestrians.

Philadelphia, July 15.—The five-storey building at the northeast corner of Eleventh and Market streets collapsed at 1:15 this afternoon, burying workmen who were employed in the construction works in the ruins, and injuring many men and women who were passing along the sidewalks.

The entire Market street end of the building fell, and became a mass of timber, brick and twisted steel. Of the workmen, seven were killed, one is missing, one is mortally hurt, and twenty-four are more or less seriously injured. In all thirty-three were buried for a time in the ruins.

All the lower portion of the building, which was being remodelled for the United Gas Improvement Company, had been cut away, the weight of the upper stories being supported by heavy beams.

A huge girder that was being slowly hauled into the building struck one of these timbers, knocking it from its position. The rest of the supports were not strong enough to carry the weight, and the sides and front of the building fell, carrying everything away with it.

Hundreds of citizens secured ropes tied to timbers, and helped drag them into the street.

When the men first began to dig in the ruins, a little woman crawled through a hole in the wall and entered the cellar of the building at the risk of her life. She groped beneath the tons of wreckage that was held by the first floor of the building, until she reached the side of one of the workmen. He found her crawling along still further, she was dead, a man, still living, though unconscious. Climbing back the way she came, she called for aid, and was lifted to the street.

At 1:20 o'clock, owing to the courage of Mrs. Simon, a Red Cross nurse, five men had been carried to the street and rushed to a nearby hospital in ambulances. Again and again the plucky nurse was cheered by the crowd. She did not cease her labors until the work of rescue was over.

A patrol was hurried to a hospital to obtain apparatus for administering oxygen. Upon the arrival of the apparatus the surgeons climbed as far as possible to the bodies in view and attempted to administer oxygen.

By this means a physician kept a man held down by a beam alive for an hour. Finally the beam that held him down was sawed in two and he was released. Painfully standing up, the man said: "I'm still on the job, boys." Another physician kept a negro alive by the same means. He was dying, however, and asked for a priest, who administered extreme unction. The negro died soon after.

WINNIPEG'S PROBLEM.

Police Magistrate is Inclined to Support Segregation.

Winnipeg, July 15.—Hon. T. Mayne Daly, police commissioner, and magister, in a statement to-day regarding criticisms following a raid on a number of resorts last Saturday night, declares that the raid of five years ago, breaking up the "segregated district" has resulted in a feeling of fear. Since then records show 883 illegitimate births in Winnipeg, including 115 already this year.

"Hundreds of young girls," said Mr. Daly, "are going to the devil, not in houses of ill-repute, but on street corners and their own homes."

COLE-PHIN.

The residence of Dr. C. A. D. Fairfield, of Beamsville, was the scene of a quiet marriage on Wednesday morning, when Mrs. E. Marena Phin, sister of Mrs. Fairfield, and widow of the late George B. Phin, was united in marriage to Mr. S. E. Cole, of Hamilton, traveler for the J. P. Wisner & Sons, Prescott, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Cole left immediately on an extended trip to the Pacific coast. They will also visit the Seattle Exposition, and will return to Hamilton in October to reside.

SIX DROWNED.

Five Girls Meet Watery Graves Near Vancouver.

Peterboro Little Girl Drowned While Bathing With Others.

Vancouver, July 15.—Five girls, Gertrude Ankers, aged 25 years; Annie and May Murphy, and 14; Signa Buck, 15, and Alfhild Paulsen, 11, a New Westminster picnic party, were drowned at Alceville, Burrard Inlet, below Moodyville, yesterday afternoon. The girls belonged to a large party of young people and went to bathe separate from their companions.

Signa Buck got beyond her depth at a sudden dip in the shelving beach. Miss Ankers hastened to her assistance. Both were soon struggling helplessly. The three girls remaining made heroic efforts to save their companions. Another of the Murphy sisters barely escaped. Two bodies were recovered.

Four bodies have been recovered. Miss Gertrude Ankers was a teacher at Brownsville, on the opposite side of the Fraser. The picnic to Alceville was organized by her for the pupils. The younger children were accompanied by their older brothers and sisters. At low tide four children waded in, hand in hand. The fifth, Annie Murphy, sitting on the shore, rushed in to assist. All were drowned in sight of their young relatives. Boys put out in a boat. Miss Ankers' body came to the surface. She was wearing swimming wings. It is thought the others held her down, or she died in attempting to save them.

Messengers were sent to Port Moody, and word telephoned to New Westminster police.

Miss Buck was a daughter of the Dominion fire ranger at Timberland, and Miss Paulsen a daughter of the Timberland postmaster.

PETERBORO GIRL DROWNED IN LAKE.

Peterboro, July 15.—Last night May Martin, six years old, in company with other children of the same age, while bathing in a little lake, got beyond her depth and was drowned.

OLD SALT SCOFFS.

Recalls Days When Sailors Were Hardened to Endure All.

(Montreal Herald.)

He sat on the wharf and chewed his quid in true sailorly style, while nearby two barquentines raised their lofty masts, gaily decked out with flags, and made the eye of the untrained land-lubber. The decks were deserted or nearly so, for all who could get leave had gone ashore to celebrate—also in true sailorly style—their arrival in port. But he sat there quietly and complacently, working his jaws, gazing out at the great steamships, which law beside the giant wharves not far away, while the only two sailing vessels to arrive in Montreal during three years swung at anchor close by, relics of old times, and an era almost forgotten in the rush of modern commerce.

And he—she was also a relic, but a hardy one. One of the old school was the sailor, who, for close on fifty years, had sailed to every quarter of the globe, and whose seamed and weather-beaten countenance, which put on a welcoming sailor smile, as the reporter approached, bore scars which told of accidents in bottles with wind and wave. The sight of the huge steamers, and the contrast between them and his own small ship, in a city which he had not seen for many, many years, unloosed his tongue and brought a reminiscent mood upon him. The offer of tobacco, even though ever remedy, and if one bottle was empty the other could be as usefully employed. If a man was nearly drowned, it was not gentle artificial resuscitation, but black draughts and salts for him. Fever and cold were treated alike by skippers.

"Later they got more civilized, didn't they?" he was asked. His opinion was interesting.

Did they, why yes, of course they did. The captains were given chests of medicine, with a list of diseases and their remedies. Well, sir, before long one medicine would run out, and what was the skipper to do. Medicines were fool things anyway, and did no good, but his orders called on him to treat the sufferer. Oh, yes, it was a rough way of doing business, but it served for many years all right, and the sailors then were the best ever. The old fellow believed in the theory of the survival of the fittest; if a man wasn't strong enough to sail atop the water the sooner he was to be twenty fathoms under it the better; but the doctor and hospital business was ridiculous and unnecessary. The old times and the men who were men, were surely best.

He walked back to his ship with the reporter, and there said good-bye. Even that ship was not pleasing to him. It was far too comfortable for the young fellows.

Mrs. Will. Anderson, Christie's Corners, and Miss Green, of Guelph, are spending the week at J. Vanderlip's. N. R. and Mrs. Vanderlip visited relatives at Cainsville on Sunday.

K. and Mrs. Vanderlip and Dr. Robinson spent Sunday at A. J. Vanderlip's. R. Brown and family were guests at Henry Ferguson's.

The baseball club has reorganized for the season.

Mrs. W. A. Davis, Hamilton, Mrs. G. N. Peer, Mrs. J. Bradshaw and Miss Alta, Cainsville, visited Mrs. O. L. Bradshaw recently.

Mrs. Arthur Markle, who has been under the doctor's care, is much better. Miss Vera Smith, Southport, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. M. Bradshaw.

Ed. Morwick, Hamilton, spent a couple of days at the beginning of the week with his father, Hugh Morwick.

Mrs. Jackson, Rockton, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Lane.

The funeral of the late Bristol Dawdy, Trinity, took place on Tuesday from his residence to White Brick Cemetery. Mr. Dawdy died on Sunday forenoon after a protracted illness, dating from February. Their many friends extend sincere sympathy to the family.

J. Campbell, Brantford, paid his customary visit to the village this week.

Stoney Creek

Miss Gagne spent Sunday last at E. Snider's.

Misses Iona and Irene Swagie have been spending a week at Edward Lee's. The cherry crop is very large this year. The farmers in this vicinity are very much in need of rain.

Master Reginald Smith, son of John Smith, was kicked by a horse last Sunday, but is now almost well again.

The tennis club met at Miss Lott's on Wednesday evening.

A jury at New Liskeard, inquiring into the death of Elmer Kline, found that the evidence indicated that death was due to a kick administered by W. E. Montgomery.

Stanley Mills & Co., Limited Beach Delivery Every Wednesday

it was hot chopped hay to his own strong brand, made him even more communicative.

His language was inimitable; but, even in ordinary English, bereft of its quaint accent, what he said was interesting.

He would not go ashore bent on a good time with the others—not he. He was too old for that kind of fun, although he could still lie face down on the sixth spar, in a howling gale, and reef his sail with the best of them.

NEVER INSPECTED MODERN BOAT. He had never been over a modern passenger boat, and so he accepted readily the invitation to visit one. Amusement at times held him dumb as the reporter told him of the comforts of the modern sailor; then he would break into exclamations of disgust, as he expressed freely his opinion that such methods would develop "molly coddles." There will never be sailors like these used to be, thinks he. The old days, with the living in supreme command for weeks, and the rough and ready life of the open sea, when hard knocks and rough living were the usual thing, were what he longed for. That was what hardened and made men. That, in fact, was what had made Great Britain supreme on the sea.

But to look the sight of special hospitals on a ship to really rouse him and commence him yarning. Hospitals and doctors on board a ship! It seemed to him incredible. When he was young the men shipped, and if they got sick they were generally hammered till it was more comfortable to be in the hospital. But it had no effect in restoring them they were allowed to lie up for a while; but if they got well there was always rough work for them to make up when they regained their feet. If they did not recover it was "Davy Jones' locker," and that quickly.

Corpses are nasty things to carry about, and one may rest as peacefully, sewn in a hammock, with a chunk of lead tied to one's leg, as in the stateroom walk ever erected.

"But did you have no medicines at all?" the reporter queried.

Oh, yes, indeed, they had medicines, and the "old man" (the captain, he explained) was always doctor; but it was wiser to suffer than to go to him. Black draughts and doses of salts were his two remedies, and were given on every occasion. He had seen some funny things, he had—funny! they seemed more like tragedy than comedy to the reporter; but the old sailor was hardened and laughed even as he spoke. He gave a glimpse into the sufferings, which sailors once had to endure through ignorance and carelessness on the part of owners and captains; but to him it was all a part of the day's work—surely sailors were intended to suffer, it hardened them and made them real men; and he longed for the good old times, when to modern and educated people seem so filled with cruelty and brutality, dimming the romance and the glamor which should rightly be theirs.

TWO ETHERAL MEDICINES.

Black draughts and salts! Everything, all kinds of suffering, the skippers thought, should shrink before their potent power. He had seen a man, who accidentally dropped a marling spike on his hand, go to the "old man," his hand streaming blood from a gaping hole. The "old man" glanced at it. "Hum! hum! a bad case. I guess a dose of salts will do you a world of good."

So the man had salts for three days, till his stomach gave out, and, to avoid them longer he swore he was better; while to check the bleeding, he put on Canada Balsam, bandaged it roughly, and kept on at work, as best he could. Tooth-ache, raging tooth-ache, broken limbs, headache, biliousness, and every complaint received either one or the other remedy, and if one bottle was empty the other could be as usefully employed. If a man was nearly drowned, it was not gentle artificial resuscitation, but black draughts and salts for him. Fever and cold were treated alike by skippers.

"Later they got more civilized, didn't they?" he was asked. His opinion was interesting.

TO BANISH RATS. Chloride of lime is infallible; it should be put down the rat holes and spread about wherever they are likely to appear.

ANT EXTERMINATOR. Purchase 5 cents' worth of tartar emetic from your druggist. To one teaspoonful of powder add one-third teaspoonful of sugar and moisten with a little water. Put it on shelf or any place where ants are found. Powder will dry, but can be moistened again, and left in place until ants entirely disappear. One day is sufficient.

SPARROW HINT. To keep sparrows from roosting on your porch take an old paint brush and some tar and late in the afternoon paint the top of the pillars and the birds will not come back.

CROCHET DOILIES. When crocheting an edge on round luncheon doilies, simply turn the hem on the wrong side and tuck the hem. Then place a large needle in the machine, leaving it unthreaded. Follow the hem carefully around and you will have a number of holes of sufficient size to insert the crochet needle and of equal distance apart. Crochet the edge and when done pull out bastings and hem will hold and still have a neat finish not obtained by hand hemming.

Care of the Cellar. Whatever else you do, keep the cellar dry, and scrupulously clean. It is like the weakest link in a chain. If the cellar is unsanitary, the rest of the house cannot be pure and clean.

It is true that microbes and dust collect more quickly there than anywhere else. A window or ventilator to the outside air should be open all of the time.

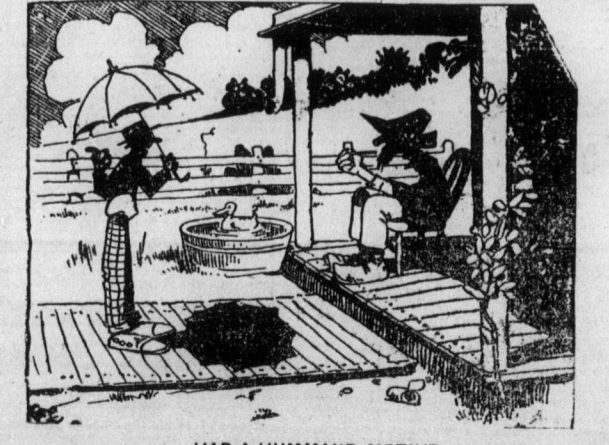

Do not in your effort to keep the cellar cold in summer time keep it shut up that it becomes damp and musty.

Keep a wary eye out for such damp spots, and remove the cause at once. Walls should be whitewashed frequently.

A little carbolic acid mixed in the whitewash is an excellent precaution. Microbes may be collected in a pile of ashes, as well as decaying vegetables.

The cellar should be as spotless as the drawing room.

Poise is Revealed in a Woman's Walk. A woman who walks well is a more helpful member of society because she has better health. She is alert and alive, and finds all the world interesting. Then, too, the woman who has learned to walk gracefully finds a reaction on her nervous system. A new consciousness of herself, for her every manner and face, and even more in her voice, for those delicate muscles which we call the vocal chords vibrate in harmony with the movement of the individual. And, free from self-consciousness, the graceful woman expresses her best self, for her every motion suggests dignity, kindness, and nerve power, sympathy, and that most charming of all womanly attributes, graciousness.—The Delineator for August.

HAD A HUMANE MOTIVE. Summer Boarder—Do you keep a cow? Farmer—Sure. She's over in the pasture. But don't you go near her. Summer Boarder—You fear she will chase me? Farmer—Yes, and I don't want her to get overhaul.

A STRANGE STORY.

HOW BERLIN FIRM IS SAID TO HAVE MANAGED THINGS.

Witness Makes Some Remarkable Statements — Allegation is That There Were Several Bankruptcies and Fraudulent Means Afterwards Adopted to Obtain Goods from Toronto Firms.

Toronto, July 16.—"I have heard many extraordinary stories in this court, but this is the most extraordinary one I have ever heard," exclaimed Magistrate Kingsford in the police court yesterday at the conclusion of a story told by Mr. R. G. Baillie, of West Toronto, the principal Crown witness in a conspiracy trial against Messrs. A. O. Boehmer and C. M. McCarthy, of Berlin. Boehmer was arrested recently, but the police have been unable to locate McCarthy.

The case arises out of a recent assignment of the dry goods firm of R. G. Baillie & Co. of Berlin. The business, which had changed hands frequently of late, was once known as Boehmer, Erb & Co., and was bought by Mr. Floyd Boehmer, a son of the defendant, for $1,400.

The Crown's case is that the two defendants put through a bogus sale of the business to R. G. Baillie, and on the representations that Baillie had paid over $7,000 for it, and had $3,000 cash besides, induced several Toronto wholesalers to ship large consignments of goods to them.

The answer of the defence is that Mr. Baillie is romancing, and that the sale was a genuine one. Cheques and notes for the alleged sale have been produced, but Baillie says that these are worthless, and were only used in order to obtain credit. He told a long story of acknowledged deception, and when twitted with having been merely an automaton, replied: "I am ashamed to say I was."

Not the least startling feature of the evidence was the acknowledgment by Mr. John Creighton, a Toronto barrister, that he had written several letters in the name of J. A. Rogers, of Buffalo, acknowledging an indebtedness to Baillie of $3,000, and making repeated promises to pay. These letters were shown to bankers in Berlin as evidence that Baillie had $3,000 coming to him, and credit was sought to be raised on it.

R. G. BAILLIE'S STORY.

Mr. R. G. Baillie, who was called at the opening of the morning's proceedings, said he was the man who had traded in Berlin under the name of R. G. Baillie & Co. He said he got into touch with it by answering an advertisement in a Toronto paper for a manager for a dry goods business for a thriving western Ontario town. He was visited at his father's home in West Toronto by Mr. C. M. McCarthy, who offered to put a business in Berlin into his name. He was taken to the King Edward Hotel to meet Mr. A. O. Boehmer, and was appointed to the position at a salary of $15 per week. Mr. Baillie said he went to Berlin two days later with Mr. McCarthy, and was introduced to the store assistants and Mr. Floyd Boehmer. An agreement between the parties was in readiness in the office, which witness said he signed. The agreement, dated February 1, 1909, was produced in court and filed as an exhibit. It set out that Mr. Floyd Boehmer was to sell the business to Baillie for $7,314.48, $3,000 being in cash and the balance in notes. The notes and cheque purporting to be for the payments were in readiness, said the witness, and he merely signed them. Despite the agreement, witness said he did not look upon himself as a purchaser, and was only to get a salary of $15 per week.

NO ACCOUNT TO MEET CHECKS.

The cheque for $3,000 was drawn upon a Toronto bank in which Baillie said he had no account, and he had never been asked to pay it.

There were present at the time, he said, Mr. A. O. Boehmer, Mr. Floyd Boehmer, Mr. C. M. McCarthy and himself.

Two sight drafts, one for $700 and one for $1,200, payable to J. A. Rogers, of West Chippewa (South Buffalo), and signed by Baillie as "R. G. Baillie & Co.," were produced. Baillie said he did not know Rogers and did not know why he signed them. Mr. A. O. Boehmer had brought them to him to sign, and told him that Rogers was a man who owed him $3,000, which he was unable to pay at the time, but he was to be paid by Rogers later on. Mr. A. O. Boehmer, he said, gave him several letters purporting to come from Rogers, saying that he had the $3,000, but would pay as soon as he could. These letters were shown by Baillie to several bank managers at Mr. A. O. Boehmer's request.

HE WAS FAMOUS FOR HIS MODERNIST SYMPATHIES.

London, July 15.—Father George Tyrrell, whose sympathies for the modernist movement in the Catholic Church caused him to withdraw from the Society of Jesus and brought him into conflict with the Vatican, died this morning, after an illness which began on July 6th. M. D. Petre, in whose house he died, states that the priest of the Diocese of Southwark was called in, because both M. Petre and Baron Friedrich Von Hugel, one of his friends, were convinced that Father Tyrrell would wish to receive all the rites of the Catholic Church. He apparently made a confession to this priest, and received a conditional absolution, the extreme unction usually administered in communion being out of the question owing to the absence of the powers of absolution.

HE HAD BOUGHT THE BUSINESS AT 75c ON THE DOLLAR FOR $7,500, PAYING $3,000 IN CASH AND THE BALANCE IN FIVE NOTES, AND THAT I HAD $3,000 DUE ME FROM A FRIEND IN BUFFALO.

"And were you doing all this for me for $15 per week?" inquired Mr. Kingsford in surprise.

"I haven't even got the $15 a week. They never paid me," replied the witness.

He told of visiting the warehouse of Robinson & Dale, Mr. A. O. Boehmer introducing him, and telling the tale agreed upon. An account was opened and goods purchased. Next they went to Bradshaw's. Mr. McCarthy introducing him and telling Mr. Bradshaw the story agreed upon. From there they visited Gordon, Mackay's, Money Penny's and S. F. McKinnon's. At each place Mr. McCarthy introduced him, and said Baillie had purchased the business of Floyd Boehmer for $7,500, paying $3,000 cash and the rest in notes. Accounts were opened at some of the places, and next day Baillie, at Boehmer's instruction, went and bought goods. Later, at Mr. A. O. Boehmer's order, he went to wholesale houses, making representations that the business cost him $9,750.

"And all this time did you know that not a cent of that $3,000 cheque had been paid?" inquired Mr. Dewart.

"Yes."

"Who prepared the statements for the mercantile agencies?"

"Mr. Floyd Boehmer prepared them and I signed them."

HOW BAILLIE MANAGED.

Asked by the Magistrate how he lived during his stay in Berlin, if he received no wages, Baillie said he drew $5 for his board and about $1 for pocket money from the cash each week. The books of the firm showed him to have received an average of $6.50 a week.

The signature of A. A. Pike on the back of the $1,200 draft, witness said, he knew nothing about, and denied having negotiated it with Mr. Pike.

"This is the most astounding story I have ever heard in this court, and I have heard many extraordinary ones," remarked Mr. Kingsford at the close of the witness' story.

"I am instructed that this man is romancing," said Mr. J. W. Curry, K. C., in rising to cross-examine.

He at once plunged the witness into a searching examination of his business history from his 13th year up. Baillie told of serving six different firms during a period of 35 years until he went to Berlin.

ACTED AS OWNER.

"You exercised the right of ownership when you assigned that business to Mr. Martin, didn't you?" inquired Mr. Curry.

"I did it at the request of the creditors," replied Baillie.

"But you exercised the privilege of ownership when you handed this business over to Mr. Martin, didn't you?" "Yes, I did."

"You want us to believe that you were a mere automaton, doing this thing and the other just as you were told?" inquired Mr. Curry a few minutes later.

"I'm ashamed to say that's what I did," replied Baillie.

He said that had he been making a genuine bid for the business he would not have given nearly so much for it as the agreement mentioned: $5,900 would have been fair price for it.

Baillie admitted that the reason he practised economy was because he wanted to meet the notes, and he hoped to get the business in time.

"But how could you hope to ever pay the $3,000 cheque?" inquired the Magistrate.

"Mr. Boehmer told me, 'You do your part and leave the financing to me. You'll never be called upon to pay anything,' and I believed him."

JOHN CREIGHTON WROTE LETTERS.

Mr. John Creighton, barrister, of Toronto, was called, and showed the "J. A. Rogers" letters. In a scarcely audible voice he admitted that they were in his handwriting.

"Do you know any man named J. A. Rogers, of Buffalo?" inquired Mr. Dewart.

"No."

"Then how did you come to write them?"

"Mr. McCarthy came to my office with Mr. Boehmer, and asked me to copy the letters. I asked Mr. Boehmer if it was all right, and he said 'yes,' so I copied them."

"Prior to that you didn't know McCarthy?"

"And you had known Boehmer for a long time, and done work for him?" "Yes."

"When Inspector Duncan saw you, did you tell him that the letters were dictated to you by Mr. A. O. Boehmer?"

"I may have done so."

"Surely you can remember that. It was all done within a week."

"I can't say for sure."

"Probably they frightened the witness so at the time," suggested Mr. Curry, smoothly.

"Mr. McCarthy came to my office with Mr. Boehmer, and asked me to copy the letters. I asked Mr. Boehmer if it was all right, and he said 'yes,' so I copied them."

TYRRELL DEAD.

London, July 15.—Father George Tyrrell, whose sympathies for the modernist movement in the Catholic Church caused him to withdraw from the Society of Jesus and brought him into conflict with the Vatican, died this morning, after an illness which began on July 6th. M. D. Petre, in whose house he died, states that the priest of the Diocese of Southwark was called in, because both M. Petre and Baron Friedrich Von Hugel, one of his friends, were convinced that Father Tyrrell would wish to receive all the rites of the Catholic Church. He apparently made a confession to this priest, and received a conditional absolution, the extreme unction usually administered in communion being out of the question owing to the absence of the powers of absolution.

Father Tyrrell's intimate friend, Abbe Bremond, was present at the end and had the opportunity in a moment of very clear consciousness the evening before his death of speaking to Father Tyrrell as to his accepting such confession as he could make by sign and giving him the last absolution.

Roosevelt on a Bust

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A marble bust of ex-Vice President Theo. Roosevelt is soon to be placed in a niche in the senate chamber alongside all the other vice presidents of the United States since John Adams. The sculptor, Jas. L. Frazier, of New York city, has modeled two busts and it only remains for the committee of the library to choose.

The trouble is that the two busts are so different. One shows the calm, pleasant Roosevelt and is said to be perfect in its way. The other portrays him as the senate knew him best, with fiery eye, protruding jaw and tense facial muscles, the real strenuous Roosevelt. This one is regarded by all who have seen it as a splendid likeness also.

While Senator Wetmore, chairman of the library committee, has not committed himself in favor of either one, it is rumored that he and the other members of the committee are disposed to award the palm to strenuously.

WOMEN'S CLAIM.

London, July 15.—Secretary Gladstone has written to the Women's Freedom League informing them that he submitted to the King their petition asking for a personal audience, but that he could not advise His Majesty to grant it. If, however, the league would present a petition setting forth their grievance and plea for redress he would submit it to the King.

Mrs. Despard replied that the law entitled petitioners to a personal audience of the King, although custom had transferred the duty of receiving from the King to the Prime Minister. As the latter refused to receive them, and as Mr. Gladstone used his own official position to shield the Prime Minister, there was no way out of the difficulty but to insist upon their legal right of seeing the King.

Young Farmer in Dunn Township Killed in a Painful Manner.

Dunnville, July 15.—An accident occurred on a farm in Dunn Township, four miles west of Dunnville, on the River road, when Aaron Anger, about 25 years old, was impaled on a three-tine hayfork, and died almost instantly, about 6 o'clock.

The unfortunate young man, along with his nephew, Arthur Anger, and Harry Dickson, were drawing in a load of hay. Part of the load slid off and Anger and a fork went with it. The handle of the fork struck the ground first, and before it could turn Anger alighted on the upturned tines with his full weight. DRUNKEN DEBAUCH.

An Aged Woman Found Dead in a Toronto Cottage.

Toronto, July 16.—As the result of a debauch lasting two days, Mrs. Catherine Bruce was found dead yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Rocks, 366 Lippincott street. The dead woman lived at 218 Albany avenue, and Mrs. Rocks, as well as her husband, are under arrest on a charge of drunkenness, but principally to be held as witnesses.

It appears that the three were drinking for some time, and that they went to the cottage on Lippincott street yesterday. They apparently all went to sleep in a drunken stupor, and when Mrs. Rocks awoke she tried to rouse the other woman, but could not. The police then came in, and the two people were placed under arrest. The doctor's examination revealed the fact that death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

SERVIAN COURT.

MUCH OF COMIC OPERA ABOUT THRONE OF PETER.

Garlic State Perfume—Balls Rank With It, But the Women in Short Skirts, Hair Down, Don't Mind It.

Belgrade, Servia.—To a foreigner the Servian court seems like a comic opera. What is usually essential to a court (an aristocracy) is wanting in Servia. Every Serb is a peasant, or, if he is a shopkeeper, the son of a peasant. If he is a farmer he has a few acres of land, lives on a little corn, a little pork, and some brandy which he makes at some out of pocket shop in one of the towns. Those who keep shop in Belgrade go to court. They look on it as a right, not a privilege.

"We put the King on the throne and we pay for his palace and his houses and servants," said the king. "The right," a bootmaker explained, "to go and see what he is doing." This bootmaker goes to all the court balls.

Those balls are a sight. Two large rooms are thrown open to the guests, who begin to arrive at about 9 o'clock. The King is there in uniform and shakes hands with all his guests. Evening dress is not necessary. Some ladies go in short skirts and with their hair down their backs. They are accompanied by their husbands in frock coats and waistcoats of many colors. One of the most elegant men in Belgrade goes to court balls in a silk shirt.

KING ENDURES COARSENESS.

"One cannot remain long in the room where the dancing goes on," a foreign diplomat remarked. "The odor of garlic is all-pervading. The room gets hot, the windows are kept closed and the effect is overwhelming. The members of the diplomatic corps find it convenient to stay in another room, which the very few 'civilized' Serbs go to as well. From time to time one of us darts into the other room, takes a turn around with one of the ladies and hurries back. When at home the guests sleep, eat, cook and dine in two rooms, never open their windows in the winter and the ballroom air is not oppressive to them. I admire the old King, who stands about and talks to the people as calmly as if he was in the fresh air."

Princess Helen, the King's daughter, is nearly always away, and, therefore, escapes these functions, but when she is present she makes herself agreeable to everybody.

Some of the guests do not wait. They only dance the national dance, Kolo, a wild sort of thing, unknown outside of the Balkans.

"It is the only court in Europe, I think, where the King and his tailor meet at dinner or at a ball," a courtier said. "We are used to it, being a very democratic people, but foreigners are amazed. Yet it is not so funny as they suppose. In every other court one meets rich merchants. There are no rich merchants here, so the poor ones go because they are no poorer than other people at the court. Look at the peasant deputies. They go in their own clothes, and are proud of it. They are just as proud of their peasantry as the King is of his throne. Go to the Parliament. Any day you see the King there you will find him standing talking with a deputy who remains seated, his legs crossed and his arms folded. Such a thing would not be tolerated in any other court in Europe, but the deputy sees no harm in it, and if the King does he dares not say so. The deputy pays him to be King and there's an end of it."

INSULTED KING'S COUSIN.

No courtier thinks it necessary to stand when the King talks to him. Foreigners are much more respectful, and it is said that the King avoids talking to his subjects in the presence of strangers because there is such a difference between the way they treat him and the way his own people do.

A foreigner whose business had called him to Belgrade was walking about with a friend who knew the place fairly well, having lived there some years. They met a big untidy-looking fellow, who slouched about smoking a cigarette. His clothes were soiled, his linen more than rumpled, his boots "rusty."

"That chap looks like a valet out of work—look at his side whiskers," observed a foreigner to his friend, who happened to be in want of a servant.

"He must be," announced foreigner No. 2.

Next day foreigner No. 1 met the man again and offered him a job of valet.

"The man stared in astonishment and the offer was repeated.

"How dare you make me!" shrieked the "valet." "I shall challenge you. Don't you know I'm the King's cousin? And you dare to offer me a situation as your servant!"

The foreigner collapsed and apologized. The King's irate cousin wanted to fight a duel, but the King advised him to let the matter drop.

WOMEN DO THE WORK.

Women in Servia have very little liberty. They take no part in public life and are by no means emancipated. They spend most of the day indoors in dressing gowns, smoking cigarettes or doing needlework. They are gay by nature and very talkative. The peasant woman does most of the work and lets her husband sit at home, drink plum brandy and talk politics.

Everybody talks politics, from beggar to banker, from child to old man. The court circle is always engaged in political intrigue.

Whenever the more democratic party has had the upper hand it has been bad for the King. The former Crown Prince hated this, and said so. Those who were powerful determined that he should not reign, and they have had their way. They set about making him very unpopular.

"The Prince behaves so badly at court parties," they said, "that the King has had the chairs placed as far apart as possible, so that he can't annoy the ladies next to him."

Word was passed around that no father or mother ought to take a daughter to a court dinner because the Prince behaved disgracefully. But the facts were distorted. There is only one huge dining table at the Konak, as the royal palace is called, and that is screwed to the floor. The King does not want to go to the expense of taking it away and putting in a new one; so when a dinner party is small the guests sit four or five yards apart and conversation is next to impossible.

The late King, being a good judge of cooking, gave good dinners. King Peter does not. The dinners are had and miserably served. The dishes come to the table cold; the meat is of had quality and indifferently cooked. Vegetables are almost unknown in winter. The floral decorations are either absent or so ugly that people wish they were dispensed with. But the coffee is admirably made and served in Turkish fashion.

SMALL FRUIT.

PRICES FOR STRAWBERRIES FELL PRETTY FLAT.

Cherry Crop Will be Good—Raspberries Will be Better After Yesterday's Rain and Gooseberries Are Coming In.

Hr. P. W. Hodgetts, director of the horticultural branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, has prepared a fruit crop report up to this week, which shows that the crops of small fruits are very good. The report follows:

The strawberries are practically over. The crop this year was a good one, and prices in some cases fell pretty flat. The demand for berries is very low in consideration that it is the end of the season, fancy berries only realizing from 7 to 8 1/2c. The returns of the shipments of strawberries by the St. Catharines Association to the Western markets are nearly all in. Those sent by express, and which arrived in good condition, netted the growers $1.50 per crate. These results may be considered encouraging, and much better success may be looked forward to next season. As these are the first and only experimental shipments made by the association, they have every reason to be congratulated on their initiative and success.

The cherry crop promises to be very good. The Swains and Richwoods are getting off rapidly and the Montauvey will be in full picking this week, and when the northern sections commence to ship cherries will be very plentiful. Sour cherries are fetching from 60 to 75c per 11-quart basket; small sweets from 75c to $1; and fancy sweets from $1 to $1.25.

A quantity of sweet cherries have been shipped into the Toronto markets which have not been ripe enough, and the market has strongly discriminated in favor of the fit fruit. Hence the low prices this week.

The raspberry crop promises to be from fair to good. However, the prolonged dry weather has commenced to show its effect. A few crates were shipped in last Saturday and sold at 20c per box. Some of the canning factories now contracting at prices ranging from 7 to 9c per quart.

The currant crop promises to be a good one, and is now coming on the market. Prices are as follows: Cherry currant, 11-quart baskets, $1; small reds, 11-quart baskets, 75c.

Last week in Toronto there were two carloads of California fruits, while Montreal received fourteen. One of the commission men accounts for this by the fact that Toronto is more plentifully supplied with home fruits than Montreal, and therefore the trade is more cautious in handling foreign fruits.

SOCIETY QUESTION.

What Should be the Social Status of a Hangman?

An American paper puts the question, What should be, in a civilized country, the social status of a hangman? This has been asked before now, but is surely a somewhat idle query. Nevertheless, the position of the executioner has undoubtedly varied at different periods and in different countries. In France, "Monsieur de Paris," as the representative of the haute justice was called, seems usually to have been held in some esteem, and students of French history are familiar with the tradition that the executioner Tristan was one of the famous heroes of that powerful, eccentric Sovereign Louis XI. At a very recent execution in France, the manipulator of the guillotine, Diebler, was cheered both on entering and on leaving the town. In Russia at the present day an executioner would scarcely be received on these terms, but the minor details of the law ought not to be blamed for the law's unrighteousness. Dr. Mercier discusses the subject in the chapter entitled "Wrongdoing," in his treatise on "Criminal Responsibility." The hangman does not merit execration as long as he fulfills his ugly duty in a proper and seemly manner. It is rightly held to be misbecoming when an executioner, some years ago, pretending to lecture on his business, exhibited his ropes, straps and white cap, and attempted to show how a victim was "worked off"; but this was an abuse of the hangman's office and position. Dr. Mercier says:

"No doubt a hangman deserves a certain satisfaction from turning off his victims in a workmanlike manner—the satisfaction that we all derive from dexterity and success in whatever upon this occupation, we do not blame him as a wrongdoer, so long as his primary motive is to earn his wages, to carry out the contract he has made, or to perform a public duty. But the man who should hang another merely to gratify his own desires, merely to obtain gratification by so doing, or to obtain his victim's clothes, or in any way to obtain satisfaction to himself would do wrong." The case of the hangman is, of course, an especial one. We should not, as Dr. Mercier says, care to eat with him, drink with him, or shake hands with him; but, though we may and do look askance upon his calling, we cannot fairly class him with the bravo who stabs in the dark to satisfy the private vengeance of the person who has hired him. We feel, or should feel, that the hangman, though he works for hire, does not work solely for hire. He undertakes to kill or to ascertain some person whom society, as personated by the law, has decided must be slain for the welfare of the community. The hangman who acts thus is merely giving effect to the wish expressed by society; he is, in fact, and to this extent, co-operating with society.—Law Times.

The Martian Invader

(By Frank H. Williams.)

The townspeople stood in wonderment about the big, ball-shaped, metallic object which had fallen on the commons near the town during the night. As they watched, the top of the object began to slowly revolve.

"Look!" cried Harry Crawford to his pretty sweetheart, Bertha Dunbar. "There's something or someone inside!" In a moment the top had been unscrewed sufficiently from within to enable the living being inside to topple the cover off into the ground. Then from the interior stepped a being fashioned in the shape of a man, but covered from head to toe with a peculiar, tight-fitting metallic appearing suit. On this being's back rested a tank, and in his hand he carried the end of a tube attached to the tank.

HARRY GRABBED A REVOLVER AND TORE THROUGH THE TOWN FOR THE COMMONS.

The townspeople stood in wonderment about the big, ball-shaped, metallic object which had fallen on the commons near the town during the night. As they watched, the top of the object began to slowly revolve.

"Look!" cried Harry Crawford to his pretty sweetheart, Bertha Dunbar. "There's something or someone inside!" In a moment the top had been unscrewed sufficiently from within to enable the living being inside to topple the cover off into the ground. Then from the interior stepped a being fashioned in the shape of a man, but covered from head to toe with a peculiar, tight-fitting metallic appearing suit. On this being's back rested a tank, and in his hand he carried the end of a tube attached to the tank.

The town policeman, officious as always, stepped up to the invader and grasped him somewhat roughly by the arm.

"Here, what're you doing here, boy?" the policeman asked.

"I'm here to see you," said the invader, pointing the muzzle of the hose at the official. Frantically the policeman intended to flip the nozzle issued a thick, heavy, black vapor. As the policeman inhaled this he toppled over, writhing in a frenzy. Fear seized on the townspeople and they turned to run. The bloodshot eyes of the being swept the ranks of the multitude before the people ran and fastened themselves on the fair face of Bertha Dunbar. The look which the invader gave Bertha sent a cold shiver up her lover's back.

"Come," cried Harry, somewhat gruffly. "Let's get away from here."

As he urged Bertha forward, the girl, as though fascinated against her will, cast many backward glances at the Martian.

Not until Harry had seen Bertha safely in her home did he breathe freely again. Then he let her hurriedly to see what the town authorities intended to do about ridding the municipality of this dire invader. He had not been gone from Bertha over fifteen minutes when a fear-stricken citizen ran up to him.

"Your girl has been kidnapped by the Martian!" the citizen cried.

Harry, with a few quick, stern questions, learned that the Martian had followed him to Bertha's home and, after Harry had left, had grabbed Bertha and made off with her for the ball-shaped object. Harry rushed into a nearby shop, grabbed a revolver and tore through the town for the commons. On the commons he saw a little ring of people gathered around the invader's ball, and he also saw the Martian roughly throw the girl into the interior of the ball and then turn to face the people.

"Bertha!" Harry cried in frenzy, as he dashed up. A wailing cry from his sweetheart spurred him onward.

Harry jerked his revolver from his pocket and fired it time and again at the Martian. The shots had no effect. Then Harry sprang for the invader. The latter directed his fatal black vapor at Harry. Harry staggered backward, nearly overcome, then again rushed in, tackling the Martian about the legs in football style. Back and forth the two struggled. Finally, with a quick, nifty movement Harry threw the Martian.

As lightning Harry grabbed the nozzle of the hose and directed the vapor at the invader until the latter, with a final struggle, died. With a little, thankful cry of relief, Bertha weakly clambered from the ball and fainted in Harry's arms, while the crowd cheered mightily.

AEROPLANE'S RIVAL.

New York Infant Drops Safely to Pavement From Fifth Storey.

New York, July 15.—Possibly it was because little Rose Zuckerman is the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter that she was able to sit up and giggle after she had fallen from a fifth floor fire escape last evening and hit the pavement in front of her home.

What made Rose giggle was the fact that she hit slantwise on the side of a wicker baby carriage. The baby was taking an after-dinner nap, and when Rose dropped in to see him so unexpectedly, she springs tossed him in the air and he awoke with a bump in the gutter.

SEIZED ON BORDER.

Pearl Worth $23,000 in Hands of United States Customs.

New York, July 15.—There is a pearl in the safe of Collector Loeb here which was seized on the Canadian border. It was surrendered on the demand of the Customs authorities. Its value is given as $23,000 and it belonged, or belongs, to Mrs. Fremont B. Chesbrough, whose husband owns the Chesbrough coastwise line of steamers with headquarters in Boston. Mrs. Chesbrough is in a sanitarium near Boston. She is under indictment for smuggling.

Abertdeen to Retire?

London, July 15.—A despatch from Dublin to The Daily Express says it is rumored that the Earl of Aberdeen will retire soon as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and that the Earl of Granard may succeed him.

NEW OFFICES.

Palatial Building For Grand Trunk in London England.

The crowning importance of the Grand Trunk Railway System, the expansion and extension of business, has necessitated the building of a new Grand Trunk building in London, Eng.

The need of more room has been made all the more apparent since the Grand Trunk Pacific was projected. The company has been fortunate enough to secure a site at No. 17-19 Cockspar street, S. W., from the London County Council. Upon this site they have erected a splendid building. The Canadian Government emigration offices are at Charing Cross, but a stone's throw from the Grand Trunk building. It is at the very hub of London. It is within five minutes of half a dozen leading hotels and near the intake to the tube at Trafalgar Square station. Motor buses pass the door every few seconds to all parts of London, north, south, east and west.

The inside furnishings of the new building are luxuriously complete; mail is picked up every hour of the day.

The public offices entered from Cockspar street, through the great central doorway, is a fine room, forty feet long and eighteen feet high. The floor is marble, the walls are paneled in oak, with inlays of ebony and holly.

The new offices were opened on Dominion Day, and hereafter the European traffic department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will occupy these new premises, which have already become one of the sights to be seen in London.

SHOVEL PRICES.

Manufacturers Object to Wholesale Cutting Rates.

Montreal, July 15.—There was a conference here to-day between the wholesale hardware people and the shovel trade, in which an over stocking has, it is alleged, brought about a deal of price cutting. So much so, in fact, that the manufacturers threaten that they will do the retailing themselves, instead of selling to the wholesalers and jobbers.

It is understood that while not coming to a definite agreement, the wholesale men gave the manufacturers a good assurance that prices would be maintained in future.

NO DREADNOUGHT.

Australia Wants Fleet to Ply in Home Waters.

London, July 15.—In a Melbourne despatch of July 14 Minister of Defence Cook states: "I am thoroughly in favor of a local squadron provided it becomes the Australian section of the Imperial navy, but would the home authorities prefer to offer the money in building swift cruisers for the protection of Australian trade routes, so much the better. These could train Australian sailors and work in conjunction with local destroyers."

SCANDAL DEVELOPS.

Pittsburg Strikers Say They Paid For Their Jobs.

Pittsburg, July 15.—This was another day of rioting at the McKee's Rocks plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company, where almost 6,000 men, principally foreigners, are on strike. The authorities are satisfied to-night they have on their hands a strike almost as serious as that of Homestead. The illiterate foreigners at the McKee's Rocks plant were like so many savages to-day when they first caught sight of the khaki-clad State constabulary, who came in during the night to take charge.

GINGLES CASE.

Evidence All in and Both Sides Are Confident.

Chicago, July 15.—Taking of testimony in the case of Ella Gingles, charged with larceny by Agnes Barrett, which has proved one of the most sensational trials ever held in criminal courts, concluded at noon to-day, and with the opening of the afternoon session the State began its arguments to the jury. Attorney P. H. O'Donnell made a strong effort to impeach the testimony of witnesses from Canada, and attacked the character of Miss Gingles. The defence succeeded in showing by the number of witnesses that it did rain about 11

ELECTORAL REFORM.

Earl Grey Gives Evidence Before Royal Commission in London.

London, July 15.—Earl Grey to-day gave evidence in favor of proportional representation before the Royal Commission on Electoral Reform. He mentioned that after Premier Asquith's speech at St. Andrew's in February, 1906, and his reply to a deputation, he (Earl Grey) said to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that if Mr. Asquith really intended to bring forward a new reform bill, based on a single transferable vote system, he regarded it as so important that he would be tempted to resign from the Governor-Generalship of Canada, which he believed, was the most enviable billet in the service of the Crown, so that he could come back to England and support Mr. Asquith. The present system, said Earl Grey, was government of the people by caucus for the party.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Toronto Markets

LIVE STOCK. The railways reported 120 cars of live stock, consisting of 1,748 cattle, 2,170 hogs, 61 sheep and lambs, 281 calves and 1 horse.

There were fewer stall-fed cattle on the market than at any time this season, and outside of these the quality of offerings was far from being good.

Trade was good for the stall-fed, but slow for the rest at easier quotations, as will be seen by the sales given. The number of sales reported at $5 and over are small compared with those under that figure.

The prices might be considered good, when the quality is taken into consideration, but there is no getting away from the fact that prices are coming down, being fully 25 per cent. lower than at the beginning of the week.

Exporters—Few were offering and few wanted to-day, a few of lightweights sold from $3.25 to $5.50, one load of 22 cattle, 1,230 lbs. each, being sold by Mayne & Wilson at that price.

SHOOT HIS WIFE

In Attempt to Kill the Destroyer of His Home.

"If You Are in Heaven You Know How Much I Love You."

Albion, Pa., July 16.—"If you had only listened to me, little woman, we both would have been much happier to-night. God knows I did not intend to kill you, and if you are in heaven, you know how much I love you."

With these words Frank Ernest McMillen, one of the most respected residents of Greenwood, a suburb, today bade farewell to the body of his wife, whom he had shot to death by a short time previously, accidentally, he avers, after having found her in the company of William Blaine McDowell at the McMillen home last night.

The husband is under arrest with a charge of murder against him. He had been permitted by the police to take a last look at the body of the woman he married eight years ago, when she was but 15 years of age.

The husband knelt by the body of his wife, seized her hand, and raising his face to his lips, showered upon her kiss after kiss. He then collapsed.

McMillen is 31 years old and has been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad for several years. McDowell is also an employe of the railroad. About three years ago McMillen introduced McDowell to Mrs. McMillen. A year later McDowell had his attorney write a letter to McDowell advising him to refrain from visiting Mrs. McMillen or paying attention to her.

McMillen, who has been working at night as a railroad car inspector, suspected his wife's infidelity, and instead of going to work last night remained in the neighborhood of his home. Near midnight he went to the house, and peering through the window saw McDowell and the woman in the parlor. He fired through the window at McDowell, and when the man ran toward the rear door, fired again through the door. The woman was hit by one of the bullets fired through the window, and was dead when McDowell entered the house. The husband directed that the authorities be notified, and remained at the home of his sister near by until arrested.

The following players will represent Westinghouse in their benefit game at Cotten's Field to-morrow at 3.30: Teague, B. Thombs, Gillespie, Taylor, Corbin, H. Thombs, J. Wands, Whyte, A. Thombs, Wilson, R. Wands, Reserve, J. Hunter.

Frank Greer, the sculler, whose amateur status has not been taken very seriously for some time, is now definitely a "pro." He is coaching Jack O'Neill, of the St. Mary's A. A., of Halifax, the man he beat out at Springfield last year. O'Neill will carry a lot of Canadian money at the N. A. U. regatta in Detroit.

A full attendance of the Senior Harvesters is requested to-night in the Y. M. C. A. yard at 8 o'clock sharp, when special coaching will be given for the games next Wednesday night.

W. S. MARSHALL IS CHAMPION.

The final contest in the gentlemen's single handicap lawn tennis tournament at Ingersoll was between W. S. (Wally) Marshall, formerly of this city, and Geo. Batcheller.

SAINTS BEAT THE CATARACT'S NINE.

The Cataracts crossed hats with St. Patrick's in a game of soft ball. The game was altogether too soft for the Cataracts, and the manner in which they handled the ball was a "shock" to the spectators.

EEL BREAKS RECORDS.

Good Trotting at Port Huron Yesterday.

Selling War Still On at Fort Erie.

Woolwinder Ran Up $900 by R. L. Thomas.

Port Huron, Mich., July 16.—The third day of the "short ship" race meeting passed off with a record-breaking crowd in attendance and the favorites winning, as on the first day of the meet. Billy W., a St. Thomas, Ont., gelding, won the 2:20 trot in three straight heats, which were marked by pretty finishes. Stroller took three straight heats in the 2:30 trot, but was closely pressed at the wire by Glen C., a Detroit gelding, in the third heat. Allen, the driver of Glen C., was replaced by Fleming at the request of the judges, after the second heat. The Eel broke the local track record, pacing a mile in 2:04.12, and also broke the State and the world's pacing record on a half-mile track. Summary: 2:20 trot, purse $400—Billy W., W. AT FORT ERIE TRACK. Buffalo, N. Y., July 16.—F. J. Pons' Ben Double furnished the chief surprise of the racing at Fort Erie yesterday afternoon, when he romped home in advance of his opponents in the second race after being backed from a high price of 50 to 1 to 15 to 1. Nearly all the layers here paid out handsomely on the victory, and stable connections are reported to have won large sums. Yesterday's ordinary card resulted in frequent upsets, and favorite players experienced the worst day of the meeting.

Subjects began in the first, when King Solomon, confidently showing, stumbled and unseated his rider. Short Order was the ultimate winner, after wearing down Ben K. Sleet. Western Girl, considered a sharp contender in the race, had her chances spoiled by the poor send off she got, but was good enough to beat out Bedminster, a recent New York arrival. Phil T. Chinn attempted a coup with his first-time starter, Judge Lassing, in the third race, but was unsuccessful. W. J. Young's Mesmerizer upsetting the plans by taking the judge into camp handily after a spirited last furlong drive. Judge Lassing is a good looker and gives indications of developing into a useful racer with a little more experience.

The victory of Woolwinder cost his owner $600 to retain the horse. R. L. Thomas bidding him up to $1,500 from an entered price of $900. The bidding was done in a spirit of retaliation, Thomas claiming that Weatheroff, owner of the St. James stable was responsible for Shilling leaving the employ of Thomas. Lou Marion, acting for the St. James Stable, claimed Ceremonious out of the race for $1,000.

The closing race enabled the Pittsburgh delegation, headed by Frank Hawthorne and G. B. J. Bissell, to make a handsome clean-up by Red Hussar's victory. The following rules were made yesterday by the officials of the Niagara Racing Association, and notification sent to Algonquin Daingerfield, of the New York Jockey Club: "For refusing to complete the delivery of the horse Steel, taking from him in a selling race, William Walker and his horses are suspended and the case referred to the Canadian Racing Association for further action. Jockey Andy Minder made his appearance in the saddle yesterday morning on several of the Fizer horses. It was the first time in nearly a year that he attempted to sit in the saddle, and he claimed, after galloping several horses, that he felt go ill effects from the exertion. Minder sustained a bad fracture of his right leg at the Fort Erie track last summer while riding Cora. Yesterday's summary: Price. First race, purse, two-year-olds, 54 furlongs—Short Order, 108 (Kennedy), 8 to 1, 8 to 5, out, 1; Ben K. Sleet, 108 (Reid), 5 to 2, 4 to 5, out, 2; Western Lady, 105 (Howard), 3 to 1, even, out, 3. Time, 1:49. Bedminster and King Solomon also ran. King Solomon lost rider. Second race, purse, three-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs—Ben Double, 108 (Barton), 12 to 1, 5 to 1, 2 to 1, 1; Protagonist, 105 (Hammond), 25 to 1, 10 to 1, 5 to 1, 2; Uncle Toby, 110 (Kennedy), 8 to 5, 7 to 10, out, 3. Time, 1:14.3-5. Challice, Tammie, Serenade, Bertha E., Duke of Milan, Argonaut, Minot, Beatrice K. and Orlandot also ran. Third race, two-year-olds, 5 furlongs—Mesmerizer, 108 (Warran), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, 4 to 5, 1; Judge Lassing, 112 (Preston), 8 to 5, 3 to 5, out, 2; Broadwood, 105 (Reid), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, 1, 2 to 3. Time, 1:02.5. My Henry, Royal Report, Ben P. Kenneth, B. Harry Somers, Two Drop and E. G. also ran. Fourth race, purse, three-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs—Dr. Waldo Briggs, 100 (Ross), 3 to 1, even, out, 1; Dainty Dame, 105 (Howard), 9 to 10, 2 to 5, out, 2; Darington, 109 (Preston), 8 to 1, 8 to 5, 2 to 3, 3. Time, 1:15. Desirous and Pills also ran. Fifth race, selling, three-year-olds and up, one mile and 70 yards—Woolwinder, 97 (Ganz), 9 to 5, 7 to 10 and out, 1; Ceremonious, 95 (Rogers), 9 to 1, 3 to 1, 3 to 2, 2; Giles, 102 (Reid), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, 2 to 3, 3. Time, 1:44.2-5. Minnie Bright, Tom Holland, Thomas Calhoun, Usury, Posing and Beau Brummel also ran. Sixth race, selling, three-year-olds and up, one mile and three furlongs—Red Hussar, 102 (Reid), 3 to 1, 7 to 5, 3 to 5, 1; Doubt, 100 (Ganz), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, 3 to 5, 2; Autumn King, 100 (Paul), 19 to 1, 7 to 1, 7 to 2, 3. Time, 2:22.2-5. Queen's Message, Irrigator, Billy Pullman, Lubin, Malediction and Quagga also ran.

FORT ERIE DOPE FOR TO-DAY. The following is the London Free Press expert's comment on to-day's card at Erie: Purse, three-year-olds and up—In this we have the toughest race on the card, and unless some scratches take place it will be a hard one to beat. Great Heaven is the one I like in spite of the class. This one only centered home last time and is extra good. The Minks and Old Honesty are also keyed up, and are hard to separate. Reidmore is sure to try hard as he will be a price to-day.

Two-year-olds, six furlongs—If Kyrat has been working in this going she will make a runaway race of it. Paika's only win in this kind of going. Gallant Pirate also has been close up for some time. Three-year-olds and up—Paul Ruinart is the one I like here. He is much better than ordinarily rated. King Avondale, if he starts to-day, should be close up Mozart with a good boy will fight for the small end. Clarborne is the best take-a-chance bet, first and third. This one is a whirlwind in the mud and can do the same thing here as she has done in Latonia.

The best won at New York yesterday. Arondack, 5 to 1, was successful in winning the Whirl stakes. But the best bet at Fort Erie ran second. He beat Short Order last time out by nine lengths pulled up. Yesterday they both took on a few pounds, went the same distance, under practically the same track conditions and Short Order wins. Get your pencil and figure.

Canadian 3-year-olds and up—Cannie Maid will return to her form here to-day. Cape Sauce is sure to be close up. Out of Step will also make an effort. This is the best I can make of a bad lot. Stalechase handicap—Stellaland is a beautiful fencer and if her rider stays on her back will win here to-day. Creolin likes the fences and is a speedy jumper. John Dillon is consistent and loses many times through inadequate rides.

Three-year-olds and up—Ragman is in here light and is ready for a good effort. Woolstone has had a good rest and will be hard to beat here to-day. Punky also has been under cover. ERIE TRACK LICENSE.

Welland, July 16.—Another step in the fight to prevent the sale of liquor at the Fort Erie race track was taken when the Niagara Racing Association, owners of the track, J. and T. Crooks, who have the license privilege; George House, the license inspector; Wm. Best, D. Sherk and Dr. Musgrove, the License Commissioner, were served with writs yesterday, calling for an injunction to stop the selling of liquor there. The case comes up at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Thursday, July 22. Peter E. A. Miller, on behalf of the residents of Bertie, is taking the steps, and German & Morwood, Welland, are his solicitors. The case was brought up a short time ago before Judge Wells, when Mr. Haverson, for the defendants, claimed that the license granted by the commissioners had not been issued by the inspector on account of needed repairs to the building, his Honor had no jurisdiction. The contention was upheld, and the license was granted afterward. The place cannot be considered a hotel, and is only open when the races are on. The people of Welland county are determined to stop the sale of liquor there, a great deal of opposition being manifested.

Racing at Fort Erie this season, under the new management, has been of a higher order than ever before at the border track. There has been very little in and out running and the judges and stewards are apparently doing everything possible to keep the sport clean. There are two matters, however, that are not in the best interest of racing, and if the directors of the Niagara Racing Association are not far-seeing enough to eliminate them themselves, the Canadian Racing Association, which has developed great strength during its short existence, should give them a quiet tip. The two matters are syndicate betting and the runners of bookmakers in the ladies' section of the grand stand. The books in the ring are no longer allowed to accept $1 bets, although many of the big store keepers are anxious to accept those wagers, as well as the big bets, for as a rule the $1 betters are simply visitors who are at the track for recreation and sport and have no knowledge of the game and bet "for the fun of it." Under the new ruling $1 betters must go to the syndicated field books, where they are short-changed—the prices are much lower than at the "big stores."

CREWS CHOSEN.

The Hamilton Rowing Club held their last night when crews were chosen to represent the club at the Canadian Henley at St. Catharines on July 30 and 31. In the junior shells championship the four chosen are: J. Mahoney (stroke), E. H. Sloan, E. Pilgrim and C. O. Pilgrim. The spares are E. Hogg and K. Murray. The club will have two crews in the working boat championship, the quartette given in the preceding paragraph and J. W. McAllister (stroke), M. Sinclair, N. Clark and C. Athawes. The spares are E. Tassie and C. Grantham.

was worked out years ago by "Yours truly," John L. Sullivan and disgusted the real sportsmen of "Frisco and every one else who cared little for prizefighters or prizefighting, so called. A few nights later Ketchell went into the ring with a husky hammer of heads named William Papke, who a few months ago was digging good coal out of the ground in Kewanee, Ill., for $3.10 per. Papke was looked upon as a sacrificed goat or something else in that line and even his friends thought he was there only to get the short end of the purse. But what he did to the ex-elevator boy in a shame to put in print. According to some of the newspaper reports he should have been arrested for attempted murder, for he did everything, from spreading Ketchell's countenance all over the map of "Frisco" to using him for a Gaelic football. And they called it, or the referee did, a "victory" for the man who stopped all the punches and was so blind from puffed eyes that he could not see. That's what they call sport out "Frisco way"—or some of them do. A few nights ago "Battling Nelson," with a awful of his "Life in the Ring," crawled through the ropes of a Los Angeles ring with a bored expression on his face and a head full of talk which he expected to spring on the crowd present. eH had signed to meet Ad. Wolgast, a Milwaukee beer handler, who, having no work at his trade, took to the fighting game. Nelson to a number of his satellites had informed them that he only took "Wolgast on for a work-out," and that it would be a shame to prophesy the amount of harm he would do the brash youth from Nugentville. When Nelson gets out of the sick room and the private hospital ward, where he is recuperating from about the worst beating of his life, he will be able to state that in the future he had had all the "work-out" of the Wolgast kind that he wants. No more "easy marks" for him. That was surprise No. 2. No matter who is reinstated by the Canadian Racing Association, around Dufferin Park the impression gains ground that there will be no more outlaw racing and they'll all be glad to get back in the fold. Sterling McKinney, 2:06.3-4, for whom $25,000 was paid last season at the Detroit meeting, did some lively stepping over the Peoria track last week. He went a mile in 2:09 1-2 and "just jiggered" the last quarter in 30 seconds. W. L. Shuler, who sold the horse, was to get $10,000 additional if he beat 2:03 1-2, and it may be that he'll win the extra coin this year. Following the Canadian Henley, the oarsmen and scullers go to Detroit for Uncle Sam's annual national rowing regatta on Aug. 6 and 7, and already the oarsmen of the States are turning their attention to winning one of the much-coveted medals. There will be a small entry list from around Boston, but the New York, Philadelphia, Western and our own clubs will make up for it, and, like the C. A. A. O., the outlook for a big entry is encouraging. The following programme has been prepared for next Wednesday night's athletic meet at Britannia Park: 1—100 yards dash, boys. 2—100 yards dash, men. 3—12-pound shot. 4—Half-mile run, boys. 5—One mile run, men. 6—Half-mile bicycle race. 7—Three-mile bicycle race. These events are all handicap, and are open to all young men and boys in the city. First and second prizes will be given in each event, and they are now on exhibition at J. W. Nelson's, James street north. From a spectator's standpoint there is nothing to equal handicap events. Very often in a championship meet a good sprinter has his race won at seven-fifty yards, but not in a handicap. It is a race all the way. Additional Sporting News on Page 8 Truth is mighty and will prevail, in spite of the fact that most of us are too polite to tell it.

GIBSON NOT OUT. Hamilton Cricketer Made Good Stand Yesterday. Philadelphia, July 16.—The Canadian Zingaris met the Pilgrims here yesterday, and play was very slow, the entire day being occupied in scoring 282 runs for a total of less than 14 wickets. It looks like an exciting finish to-day. Capt. Bailey of the Pilgrims, won the toss, and disasters came quick and fast for the home team. A. M. Wood and H. P. Bailey were the only two Quakers who did any meritorious batting, and the score was 200 when the side was out. Runs came at a painfully slow rate for the Canadians, and when the stumps were drawn for the day the score stood at 82 for a loss of four wickets. Seagram took five Pilgrim wickets for six runs. Gibson was still not out, with 36 to his credit. The game was left fairly even, as the visitors are 118 runs behind, with seven wickets in hand. The score: Pilgrims. J. B. King, c and b Seagram 25 H. DOINGS AT THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Steam Shovel Digging Coal Out of Heap at No. Two.

Militia Department's Reply to Mayor Douglas.

Conditions in the Several Militia Camps.

Gloucester, N. S., July 15.—Another increase in the output from the banks and collieries was claimed by the coal company to-day. An extra steam shovel is now at work, digging the coal out of the big heap of a quarter of a million tons lying at Dominion No. 2, and with this augmentation of their forces the company stated to-night that the tonnage secured from the banks would be probably six or seven hundred tons greater to-day than yesterday. They also anticipated an increase of several hundred tons from the collieries. They claim that about 100 more men came to work to-day at the various mines, and state that there will likely be a much larger increase in the number who turn up in the next few days. If their information as to the temper of the men is correct, they say they are almost certain that there will be much larger numbers than hitherto at work within a very short time now.

The United Mine Workers' officers still claim that the company are not getting one-half of the tonnage that they claim, and members of that union declare, among other things, that tubs are being brought to the surface empty in some of the collieries in order to convey the impression to those outside the fence that things are booming inside.

MORE ARRESTS.

There were few new developments during the day. Some more arrests were made during the day for intimidation, and Mayor Douglas received an answer from the Militia Department, in response to his last telegram regarding who should appoint the magistrates to control the movements of the troops. The Militia Department politely informed his worship that the troops having been called out at the request of the civil authorities, they have nothing more to do with the matter, which is about tantamount to an invitation not cause any more departmental expenditure for telegraphic tolls. It is likely, however, that his worship will have some more communication on the matter yet.

TRAINING FOR THE TROOPS.

Gloucester, N. S., July 15.—One good result of the calling of the troops to Gloucester has been that the five hundred men of the Halifax garrison now doing duty here are receiving training that they would not get under other circumstances apart from actual war. It has been a succession of night patrol duty. At the different collieries strong detachments are continuously on duty after dark, and as much zeal has been thrown into the work as if a hostile force were assailing Gloucester. The force is split up into a number of small detachments. At headquarters on Table Head, the main body of 250 in number, are encamped at Dominion No. 6, the most isolated of all the mines, there is a strong detachment of infantry. The fifty engineers garrison Dominion No. 3; at Caledonia there is a detachment of fifty artillerymen, and another detachment of twenty-five men is stationed at Bridgeport. At Dominion No. 1 there is an infantry garrison, and all the rest of the troops are at the headquarters, from which the garrisons for Dominion No. 2 and Dominion No. 7 are supplied. Between 5 and 7 o'clock strong guards are placed on all the roads leading to the various pits. For two hours they march up and down the streets, working which time the men who are stirring come to the various mines, and again in the afternoon they are turned out in case of any demonstration as the men doing duty here, although everything has been absolutely quiet since they arrived on the scene, there has been no relaxation in the vigilance of the officers in charge, and they are taking the opportunity to put the men through a stiff course of training.

UNDER WAR CONDITIONS.

It has been impressed on the men that they are living under war conditions and all enter into the spirit of the thing heartily. On the first two or three nights several of the garrisons, practically all in fact, were turned out two or three times, but in each case it was a false alarm. The only complaint is that there is nothing but guard duty to do, and now the time is beginning to get very monotonous to the men. At practically all the "forts" canteens of a sort have been fitted up. Here the men are supplied with the Halifax papers, soft drinks and tobacco, but they, of course, are unable to obtain all the various little things that the regular canteens supply. In the absence of fully equipped canteens, many of the men are able to supply their stores, all practically within the fences. Bathing parades take place every day for an ample supply of water is generally to be procured, and there is a great rivalry to show the cleanest and most sanitary camp in the district. Only two or three passes a day are permitted out of each camp, and games and visits to the mines occupy the main part of the day. The men on duty at the collieries have a better chance to go into the depths, than their comrades at headquarters and every day parties of them are taken through the workings. This is an absolutely new experience to them, and their trips to the dark underworld are an ever-fresh source of pleasure. The engineer have been kept busier than any of the other corps in getting water supplies laid into some of the camps, and preparing a dozen and one things; the sappers have been kept busy hitherto, but now there is little for them to do. The health of the troops has been very good so far. Two cases of typhoid have been reported from the headquarters force, but this is about all the sickness in evidence yet.

CANADIAN FEDERATION MESSAGE.

Ottawa, July 15.—The Executive of the Canadian Federation of Labor sent to-day the following telegram to the headquarters of the Provincial Workmen's Association at Gloucester: "The Canadian Federation of Labor extend greeting to the P. W. A., with whose policy and stand in the present difficulty we are in entire accord. The Canadian Federation of Labor look forward to the time when the P. W. A. will control the coal mines of all Canada, as they now do the mines of Nova Scotia. Yours in the cause—Canada for the Canadians—J. W. Patterson, President; George G. Mercere, Secretary." The following reply was received this afternoon: "Many kind thanks for approval of the policy. P. W. A. will, in spite of threats, intimidations or violence, adhere rigidly to agreements contracted voluntarily; will keep honor of our Canadian Association inviolate. Look forward to all Canadian miners becoming affiliated with your honorable body at an early date. S. B. McNeil, Grand Master P. W. A."

LADIES' AND MISSES' COLLARS AND CUFFS.

No. 8550.—The low Dutch collar bids fair to be a most important adjunct to the toilette this season and is very smart and dainty. They may be made of several materials, all over embroidered, tucked, lace and plain linen. Motifs, either of embroidery or lace are often used in the trimming, although the prettiest finish is an embroidered scallop with a row of eyelets or embroidered dots above. The set illustrated contains four different styles of Dutch collars, a turn down collar and cuff. The pattern is cut in three sizes for ladies and misses. Small, medium and large. The medium size requires 1/2 yard of 24-inch material for each.

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to you absolutely upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps or silver.

Address, "Pattern Department," Times Office, Hamilton.

It will take several days before you can get pattern.

BIG STORM.

SEVERAL HOUSES STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AT STRATFORD.

Catholic Church Burned—Team of Horses Killed in Downie and Driver Stunned—Great Damage to Crops.

Stratford, Ont., July 15.—A terrific electric storm passed over here at noon to-day, accompanied by a tremendous downpour of rain and hail. For the space of an hour the air was filled with vivid flashes of lightning bolts, which caused thousands of dollars of damage in the city and vicinity.

The houses of Mr. E. E. Clifton, Huron street, and Mr. D. A. MacLachlan, principal of the Central Business College, were ignited by lightning bolts during the storm, but the flames were extinguished. Chimneys on three other dwelling houses were demolished and the power plant of the Stratford Electric Light Company completely disabled.

Damage to the crops can hardly be estimated, but it will be considered owing to the hailstones, which were as large as marbles. Word was received here at 2.30 p. m. that a team of horses valued at $500, the property of Mr. J. Klien, Concession 2, Downie Township, had been instantly killed during the storm by a bolt. Young Klien, who was driving at the time, was rendered unconscious by the shock, and the escape of father and son was miraculous.

The fine new Roman Catholic Church at Dublin, one of the most commodious and of the finest architectural design in the inland counties, was struck by lightning during the storm and burned to the ground. The building had only been recently opened and was erected at a cost of $30,000.

A "WANDERLUST."

Taft So Called But House Votes Him $25,000 Expenses.

Washington, July 15.—An appropriation of $25,000 for the travelling expenses of the President was voted by the House to-day. When the salary of the President was increased last year from $50,000 to $75,000 the annual allowance of $25,000 which Mr. Roosevelt had received to defray the cost of his journeyings, was provided for Mr. Taft's benefit. To-day's action of the House was intended as a permanent provision for the Presidential allowance. President Taft's desire to visit the Pacific coast and other sections of the country to which he has been invited was made the subject of bitter discussion in the House by Democratic orators while the travel allowance was under consideration. "Wanderlust" "show performances," and other terms of ridicule were applied to the President's peregrinations.

TO REDUCE PRESS RATES.

Action to be Taken if Parts of Empire Are Willing.

London, July 15.—At a meeting of the representatives of telegraph administrations transmitting telegrams via the eastern extension and via Teheran to India, Australasia and South Africa, it was resolved that provided British Indian and Colonial Governments were prepared to take their ratable share of the reduction in the press rate between the countries mentioned, the rate would be reduced to nine pence per word from Aug. 1 next.

The Provincial Bank of Canada will start branches at Moncton and elsewhere in New Brunswick.

RESULTS OF THE ENTRANCE EXAMS.

Very Large Percentage of Failures Among the Girls—Boys Did Much Better.

Probably no list of successful pupils is as eagerly looked for, from year to year, as the entrance examination results. This year there has been a good deal of disappointment among the students, for the proportion of successes generally is smaller than for a good many years. In Hamilton a somewhat remarkable condition prevails—the boys have done very much better than the girls. In all about 640 wrote on the examinations in this city, and only 420 passed. This is less than two-thirds—65.7 per cent. to be exact.

Among the boys the proportion of those who succeeded was not so very far behind the average, being 75 per cent, but the girls did badly, only 201 out of 843 passing, an average of 58.5 per cent.

The pass standard was the same this year as last, and the number of examinations the same. Among the candidates it was noticed at the time the examinations were being held that they seemed to think the arithmetic and geography papers were particularly hard, and some of the examiners thought so, too. That might account, in a measure, for the failure of the girls, for as a rule these two, especially arithmetic, are the boys' good subjects, and the girls' poor ones.

Pupils who have failed will receive their marks by mail, in a few days, and the successful ones their certificates when school opens in September.

ATTEMPTED MURDER

Italian Charged With Shooting Another Foreigner Named Dinoff.

Parry Sound, July 15.—An Italian, who gives his name as Nicolo Aielle, for whom the police have been watching for some time, was to-day captured at Depot Harbor by Constable Wm. Madigan and lodged in jail here.

The crime for which Nicolo is arrested is said to be a deliberate attempt at murder and robbery. The victim is a Bulgarian named Dinoff, who was working in a cut on the C. P. R. near Shawanaga. Aielle, who claimed the Bulgarian owed him some money, went to where Dinoff was at work, and after some words, Dinoff turned to leave. The Italian carried a shotgun, and he deliberately shot the Bulgarian in the back.

The wounded man fell, and Aielle started towards him, but the Bulgarian was able to jump up and run towards a gang of men who were working at some distance, shouting at the top of his voice. The Italian, seeing that his victim was escaping, and seeing the other men, turned and fled, and has been at large about two weeks. Dinoff was supposed to have $250 in a belt around his waist, and it is thought it was to secure this money that the attempt was made.

ASSAULTED BY SON.

Alfred Drouin, in Quebec Hospital May Die.

Quebec, July 15.—His skull crushed to such an extent that it is said he cannot recover, Alfred Drouin, aged sixty years, of St. Sauveur, lies in the Hotel Dieu hovering between life and death, while his son Arthur is held a prisoner in the Quebec jail charged with the responsibility of the assault. The assault occurred during the night in St. Sauveur, but the family appear to be trying to shield the man under arrest, claiming he did not commit the assault on the aged man. The victim was brought to the hospital early this morning, and his condition was so bad the hospital authorities feared he might expire at any moment, so they sent for the authorities of the law to take the man's deposition. The victim deposed that he was walking along St. Felix street last night, when he was struck from behind by an unknown hand. The police authorities took the matter in hand, however, and an investigation was made, with the ultimate arrest of the victim's son in his house on St. Joseph street, St. Sauveur. The man arrested at first denied that he had any part in the assault, but later admitted he fought with his father because he was beating his mother. The father and son live in the same building in Colombe street, the victim and his wife downstairs and the son and wife upstairs. When Arthur Drouin was arrested this afternoon he bore evidence of having been drinking.

SEN. PERLEY DEAD.

A Member of the Upper House for Twenty-One Years.

Wolesey, Sask., July 15.—Senator W. D. Perley died suddenly to-day. He was 71 years of age.

Senator Perley was a life-long Conservative and was a member of the Dominion House for West Assiniboia from 1887-1891. He was called to the Senate in 1888. He was a farmer and leaves a son and two daughters, living here.

CALLED "LIAR."

British Commons Shocked by an Unseemly Incident.

London, July 14.—The House of Commons, the tempers of whose members have been sorely tried by the frequent all-night sessions, was thrown into an uproar by a scene between Earl Winter-ton and William James Thorne, a Labor member. Earl Winter-ton, replying to an interruption from the Labor benches, remarked that Thorne was unfit to take part in the debate. Thorne replied by saying that he was as sober as any member of the House, and concluded by exclaiming: "I call him the complete liar that he is."

Thorne left the House, and invited Earl Winter-ton to follow. The latter apologized, but Thorne refused to withdraw his remark, and was suspended.

BIGAMY CASE.

DEFENDANT WAS FORMERLY TORONTO MILITARY MAN.

Gertrude Lomax, a Young English Girl, Tells a Story of Cruel Betrayal Against H. B. Wiling, Who Has a Wife and Family at Whitby.

Whitby, July 15.—Bigamy of a peculiarly aggravated nature was uncharitably to-day by a pretty young English girl, Gertrude Lomax, by one Charles Henry B. Wiling, an Englishman, prominently engaged in insurance and latterly as manufacturers' agent for a large concern in Chatham, with marrying her last May in New York while having a wife and family here in Whitby. Her story is a romantic but sad one of knowing Wiling from childhood in Manchester, England, where his father is a leading cotton manufacturer. Last October Wiling, while visiting his parents there, renewed his acquaintance with her, telling glowing stories of how well he was doing in this country. Finally he persuaded her in letters to come to America and meet him in New York and they would get married. This plan was carried out on May 5th last, Wiling telling her as a reason for his visit to Gotham that it was to meet a brother who was coming to the United States. After spending a fortnight with her, he explained that his business as a commercial traveller compelled lengthened absences. Remittances however, were regularly sent up from Toronto.

In some way her faith in his professions became weakened, and finally Wiling on her urgent request for the truth admitted having another wife, but offered to leave her and go to the western States with his new wife. Finally locating him here, she reached town last night, staying quietly at the Royal Hotel, and this morning told her tale to Police Magistrate Harper. No word got to Wiling of her presence, and, advising with County Attorney Col. Farewell, an information was laid, and Chief Jamieson made the arrest shortly after 6 o'clock, while Logan was dining at home. Finally locating him here, she reached town last night, staying quietly at the Royal Hotel, and this morning told her tale to Police Magistrate Harper. No word got to Wiling of her presence, and, advising with County Attorney Col. Farewell, an information was laid, and Chief Jamieson made the arrest shortly after 6 o'clock, while Logan was dining at home.

Admitting his actions as described by the deluded girl, he tried to lay the blame on her by saying she knew of his first marriage. But this does not coincide with letters which wife number two possesses. Wife number one stood by him to the last, and he never argued her to go and see number two and plead for him.

He was taken to jail and the preliminary hearing will be held to-morrow afternoon.

Wiling is very tall and slightly built, and during the early days of his residence here was a member of one of the Toronto regiments, from which city he came six or seven years ago. He married a very pretty girl here, Miss Mary Ruttan. Three fine children compose their family.

CHOOSE AYLESWORTH

Will be Agent of Great Britain at Hague Tribunal.

Ottawa, July 15.—Hon. A. R. Aylesworth has been appointed by the Imperial Government to act as the agent of Great Britain as well as representative of Canada and Newfoundland, at the Hague tribunal next March in connection with the adjudication of the Atlantic fisheries dispute with the United States.

With Sir Charles Fitzpatrick as imperial member of the tribunal, and Canada's Minister of Justice acting as agent for the British Government, the national status of the fisheries at the Hague will be accorded significant recognition.

According to the treaty governing the arbitration, the statements of claim by each party to the dispute must be printed and exchanged by Oct. 4 next. After that there will be replies from each side, and the case is set for hearing on March 4 next. Hon. Mr. Aylesworth will return to Canada about the end of September, and in February will leave again for The Hague to attend the hearing in March.

DEATH BEFORE CANNIBALS.

Captain's Wife Prefers to Cast Children Into Sea.

Sydney, N. S. W., July 15.—The steamer Tufua came in here bringing five survivors of the Norwegian barque Errol, from Chimboite, April 1, for Newcastle, N. S. W., which was wrecked on June 18 on Middletop Reef. Seventeen of the ship's company, including Captain Anderson, his wife and four children, lost their lives when the ship was wrecked.

The survivors tell a story of fearful privations resulting from the lack of food and water. One of them alleges that the captain's wife threw her children overboard because she feared cannibalism.

Mr. George Fraser has been elected Reeve of Thamesville.

GOOD SHORT STORIES

The new principal of New College, Edinburgh, Dr. Alexander Whyte, was asked on one occasion by a Highland girl, but ungracious in manner, for work in the North. Dr. Whyte regretted that he could not afford to assist the Highlander, but advised him to visit a wealthy layman in the city. The latter was not only disinclined to give but ungracious in manner.

Nettled at his reception, the Highlander answered brusquely, "Resenting the tone the rich man asked, 'And whom do you take me for?' 'A hell-deserving sinner, like myself,' he called the quick retort. Returning to Dr. Whyte, he explained the circumstances. 'You did not say that,' eagerly asked the doctor. 'Aye, I did!' replied the other.

"Well, well, I've been waiting to say that to him for the last fifteen years. Here's a five-pound note for your fund!"—London Tit-Bits.

"Hypocrisy," said Dr. Pankhurst at a farewell dinner in New York—hypocrisy is often not hypocrisy at all. We all have had it in us. Well, if we hide that badness, it's a sign that our goodness preponderates over it. Yet, the shortsighted, detecting something of bad in good men, dub them hypocrites.

"The sincere and honorable, these shortsighted people think, must always show their worst side. But surely that would be a foolish thing to do."

"Take, for example, the inscriptions on our tombs. Apt to err, you say? Apt to put the best side foremost? Well, isn't that better than putting the worst side foremost, like the self-righteous, pharisaical woman who ordered to be carved on her headstone after her death the inscription: 'She was not like the woman who lies in the next lot.'"

"Some of these anti-suffragettes," said Dr. Ida Harper Huestis, of Duluth, "remind me, in their strange humanity, of the Widow Skinner."

"She had been twice widowed, and she was telling me about her two husbands over a cup of tea."

"Boggs was the first," she said, dreamily: "an orange hound what used to git drunk and come home and lambaste me all over the place. After Boggs died I married Skinner. He was a good-for-nothin' ornery critter wot 'ud turn up full and I'd lam him till he couldn't see."

"She chuckled with quiet amusement."

"Well, said I, 'the last was better than the first, at least.'"

"But the widow shook her head. 'No, 'twas'n't,' she said. 'I'd kinder got used to Boggs' little ways, and in Skinner's case I never cottoned to the idea of doin' a man's work about the house.'"

E. H. Harriman, discussing prosperity with some reporters last month, said of panics:

"Panics, as a rule, are caused by ignorance. I, the bull, am ignorant about you. You the bear, are ignorant about me. In our enlightened, ignorant terror of one another we cause a panic."

"This mutual ignorance, but for its results, would be funny—like the ignorance of grammar in the chicken-stealing case out west. In that case the judge and the witness talked like this:

"Have you ever saw this man before?"

"Yes."

"Had he come before you went?"

"No."

"Is them your chickens what you say was stole?"

"Yes."

"Would you have recognuz them if you had saw them before they wuz bring here?"

"Yes, judge; I would have knowed them."

"Tut, tut, young man; speak grammatic. It ain't proper to say 'have knowed.' You should ought to say 'have known.'"

CLOSING UP GAPS.

Important Contract Let on Grand Trunk Pacific.

Edmonton, Alta., July 15.—Foley, Welch & Stewart have been awarded the contract for building that part of the Grand Trunk Pacific between MacLeod River and Tete Juane Cache, B. C., which will carry the line through and fifty miles to the west of Yellowhead Pass. This section is one hundred and eighty miles long. Rails are being laid from Edmonton west to MacLeod River, to which point, it is announced, trains will be running from Winnipeg by September.

The railway company is also calling for tenders, to be in by August 15, for the construction of 140 miles of line from Kitsalas Canyon to Aldermere, B. C., Buckley Valley, being the second section inland from the Pacific coast end of the line. With construction under these contracts in operation, there will be left but one section of 350 miles of gap in northern British Columbia.

MILLER IN JAIL; SENDS FOR WIFE

Turns From Affinity Whose Husband Was Murdered.

Clergyman, Beside Saylor's Bier Commends Defense of Home.

Miller's Wife Pleaded With Rival, Who Laughed at Her.

Waukegan, Ill., July 16.—With the climax of the Crescent City domestic tragedy reached to-day at the funeral of one of the principal actors, J. B. Saylor, a banker who was slain on Sunday by Dr. W. R. Miller, the first scene of the last act was staged with Mrs. Saylor prevented by jail bars from attending her husband's obsequies, while through jail bars a letter went from Dr. Miller to his wife, asserting it was she alone that he loved.

Thus fate handed the principal actors, the betrayed husband suffering death in addition to humiliation and the alleged faithless wife finding herself deserted by the man whom she is charged with aiding to slay her wronged husband.

Following receipt of a despatch from Blairsville, Pa., quoting Mrs. Miller as having forgiven her husband and only awaiting his summons to fly to his aid, and a private message from Mrs. Miller to Sheriff Peikes, of the same import, Dr. Miller wrote a long letter to his wife to come to him.

While nearly every other adult resident of Crescent City attended the burial of the slain vice-president of the First National Bank, Mrs. Saylor was not allowed to attend, although she begged the sheriff for permission to do so. She went much of the day, but the sheriff was determined.

"I have had one experience with a mob; that was 12 years ago, and I don't care for another," explained that officer. "The people of Crescent City are quiet now, and I do not feel warranted in an act which might cause a renewal of lynch talk." This action on the part of the sheriff is generally commended.

In the principal address at the funeral, Rev. Joseph Bell, of this city, dwelt on the sacredness of the home, of a man's duty to defend its honor and counsel that the law be allowed to take its course. Business for the day was suspended in the village.

"I pray God that the whole light of truth may be on this awful tragedy," cried the preacher, searching the crowd with his eyes. "But let it be according to the law. It is slow, but it is best. The instinct for self-defence is strong in mankind, for it was put there by God, and self-defence means defence of the home."

all at his home and he couldn't stand it. He asked me about rates by the mouth and said he feared he would have to come and live at my place. If he really attacked Dr. Miller, it certainly was not premeditated, or he would not have been thinking of where he was to live.

MILLER'S WIFE KNEW.

Blairsville, Pa., July 16.—Clasping her 12-year-old boy to her heart, and with tears streaming down her cheeks, Mrs. L. Cora Miller, wife of Dr. W. L. Miller, now being held on a charge of killing Vice-President J. B. Saylor, of the First National Bank, of Crescent City, Ill., told her story to-day.

"I have known of my husband's intimacy with this woman for two years, and, like Mr. Saylor, rather than let the world put shame on my boy, I kept silent. I pleaded with this woman to let my husband return to his family, and was laughed at. The couple went away together on several trips, telling me of their experiences afterward. Rather than let our friends see that I was cognizant of my husband's fondness for this woman, I kept up my social duties with a fair amount of hypocrisy on both my part and this woman's I told her frankly that the scandal in which she had dragged my husband had gone far enough, and that I would tell the world what I knew and try to regain my husband's love—I love him still and stand ready even now to go to him in his trouble. I wired the sheriff at Waukegan to-day that I stood ready to come at once if needed.

"I left Crescent City only last Wednesday a week ago, and thought that if I stayed here quietly with my mother, perhaps my husband would miss me and want me back with him. I didn't hear of the shooting until Tuesday.

Mrs. Miller was married to Dr. W. L. Miller, July 16 in Blairsville 13 years ago.

*MAKING PROGRESS.

The James Stewart Manufacturing Company, of Woodstock, which went to that city from Hamilton a good many years ago, has established a large branch in Winnipeg, which is now installed in its new five-story warehouse on Portage avenue, where, with railway sidings to its doors and huge electric elevator, it is well equipped to handle trade.

In addition to their Winnipeg branch and Edmonto agency, the company has distributing agencies at Nelson and Vancouver, B. C.

SHOT MARKSMAN.

Hamburg, July 16.—An unfortunate accident occurred at the shooting ranges to-day during the completions, in which the German-American marksmen were taking part. One of the German competitors dropped his rifle, which resulted in the discharge of the piece. The bullet penetrated the heart of a bystander, a marksman named Schmidt, from Turlingen, who died immediately.

Special despatches received here from France say that the proposed channel flight of Herbert Latham, the French aviator, has ended in a fiasco, and that M. Latham's return to Paris this morning marks the definite abandonment of the enterprise.

TO EXTEND CADET CAMP.

The Boys Are Having Fine Time—Two Presentations

Each day sees the H. C. I. cadet camp becoming more active, and the boys wish it was just beginning rather than drawing to an end.

The question of extending the camp for a week is being discussed, and if the required number can be induced to remain and make the extension a success arrangements will immediately be made.

Before going to camp the boys fully decided to hold a field day, to which they should invite their friends from the city. Wednesday, the 14th, was the day decided upon, and it was an ideal day. At 3.30 p. m. the visitors, about forty in number, arrived at the camping ground, and the games were immediately proceeded with. The result of the events was as follows:

100 yard dash—Binkley, Baby, Thompson.
Potato race—Binkley, Rilet, Richardson.
Obstacle race—Binkley, Lamsden, Baby.
Standing broad jump—Lamsden, Binkley, Rilet.
Three-legged race—Rilet and Baby, Fraser and Jarvis, Brown and Richardson.
220 yard dash—Binkley, Baby, Henderson.
Senior swimming—Whitecock, Lamsden, Baby.
Junior swimming—Brown, Binkley, Henderson.
Consolation race—Wright, Jarvis, Black.
Senior shooting—Collier, 21 out of 25.
Junior shooting—Thompson, 19 out of 25.

Owing to the prizes being valuable and limited no competitor was allowed more than two prizes outside of the all-round championship, which was won by Sergt. Binkley, having a total of 16 points out of a possible 21, while Pte. Baby came second with 9 points.

After the sports the boys served a dainty lunch to their visitors, who afterwards retired to the lakeshore, where a monstrous camp fire had been built. Here Staff Sergt. Instructor J. J. Syme in an eloquent address welcomed the visitors on behalf of the members of the corps. Immediately following the prizes were presented.

Perhaps the most pleasing and impressive event of the day was the presentation of a testimonial and stick pins to Cadet Lieut. Weber and Sergt-Major V. R. Stevens. This was a complete surprise to them and the result of their faithful devotion to the corps during the past term. Both members made feeling replies, regretting that they will soon sever their connection with the corps.

Instructor Syme read the address and Principal (Hon. Capt.) R. A. Thompson made the presentation on behalf of the corps.

The Distance We Dance.
Dancing is a strenuous exercise. Calculations show the distance negotiated in a night by fair enthusiasts and their partners to be worthy the performance of athletes. Thus, the average waltz turn will require a dancer to travel over 1,300 yards. Other round dances in their accomplishment involve: The mazurka, 1,050 yards; the polka, a trifle under the thousand; the pas de quatre, barely 900 yards. Quadrilles, however, hold the record since dancing one entails on each of the eight persons in the set, the achievement all unwittingly of a constitutional mile and a quarter long, while dancing the full card, inclusive of the cotillon, at a ball beginning say at 10 o'clock at night and winding up at 5 o'clock the following morning necessitates the taking of 28,000 steps, or a total distance covered of over 11 miles.—Tit-Bits.

SCRAP BOOK POETRY

WHITE HORSES.
(Rudyard Kipling.)
Where run your coils at pasture?
Where bid you your mares to breed?
Mid brags against the ice-cap
Or woe Sargasso weed;
By lightest reef and channel,
Or crafty cotswain bars,
But most of the deep-sea meadows
All purple to the stars.

Who holds the reign upon you?
What meat is in your manger?
The glint of all the sea.
That shows us where we tread—
Great store of newly dead.
The bones of those that faced us,
And the hearts of those that fled.

Afar, off-shore and single,
Some stallions waiting swift,
Neighs hungry for new fodder,
And calls us to the drift:
Then down us where we tread—
Ten million hooves ungod—
Break forth the wild white horses
To seek the meat from God!

Girth-deep in hissing water,
Our fannies wet with spray,
Through mist of mighty tramping,
Roll up the fore-borne manes—
A hundred leagues to leeward,
Ere yet the deep hath stirred,
The groaning of the herd!

Whose hand may grip your nostrils—
Your forelock you may hold
Even when their wild white heads
The riders bred and bold.
That spy upon our matings,
That show us where we tread—
They know the wild white horses
From father unto son.

We breathe about their cradles,
We race their babes ashore,
We snuff against their thresholds,
We muzzle at their door—
By day with stamping courses,
By night with whirling wheels,
Creep up the wild white horses
To call them from their loves.

And come they for your calling?
Not wild of man may save,
They herd the wild white horses
Above their fathers' grave.
And in of those we cripple
And show us where we tread—
Sour down the wild white riders
To lash the herd as lead.

What service have ye paid them,
O jealous steeds and strong?
Slay me that throw their workings

FAKE CLAIMS. Canadian Street Railways Trying to Control Them.

In an attempt to curtail the growing list of alleged fake accident claims registered against them, the electrical railway systems of Canada intend to establish a "bureau of information and identification." By means of this, all suspicious claimants can be traced from city to city, and their records kept almost as minutely as the police chronicles of criminals.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Windsor, Ont., July 16.—Walter G. Gunk, 29 years old, one of a gang of laborers employed on the C. P. R., was fatally crushed by a heavy steel rail which he was helping to load on a flat car at St. Joachim yesterday, and died within 20 minutes. He leaves a widow and two children.

QUIET WEDDING IN DUNDAS.

Thomas H. Ralph and Miss Gerlie Gerrie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gerrie, were quietly married at the home of the bride last evening.

HANGED HIMSELF.

Brampton, Ont., July 16.—Nebon Vasey, a youth confined in the jail here for alleged insanity, committed suicide. Tying the towel to the handle of the door of the corridor he made a loop and strangled himself. His knees when he was found by the jailer, were touching the floor. Coroner Lawson will hold an inquest.

TEA TABLE GOSSIP.

The many friends of Frank Campbell, corner John and Wood streets, will regret that he is dangerously ill at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Burke Bros.' refreshment booth at Maple Leaf Park was broken into last night and $40 stolen from the till. The police are investigating.

In yesterday's report of the successful candidates at the county entrance examinations the name of Alice E. Buttrum was inadvertently omitted.

William Douglas Chavaliar, son of James and Mrs. Chavaliar, died last night at his parents' residence, Barton street, Crown Point, aged one year and five months. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon to Stoney Creek Cemetery from his parents' residence.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society of the Trinity Lutheran Church held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Max Nimmert, Hamilton Beach.

The next meeting will be held August 19th at the home of Mrs. A. L. Lay, 312 York street.

Upon application by Messrs. Chisholm, Logie & McQueen, his lordship Justice Britton has ordered that Jacob Kurtzman, a Russian Jew, be declared a lunatic, and that Jacob Goldblatt and Mrs. Elias Kurtzman be appointed a committee of his person and estate with a reference to the local master to decide upon a scheme of management.

The Summers Stock Company drew another large crowd to Mountain Theatre, East End, last evening.

"Niobe" is no doubt one of the most pleasing pieces that has been produced by this ever popular organization. For next week "May Blossom" will be the offering, with Miss Belle Stevenson in the leading role, so excellent a performance may be looked forward to.

INDIAN LIST. Chatham is Going to Try a Scheme Pretty Soon.

In Chatham the License Inspector and police are experiencing the same difficulty as the local authorities in dealing with the Indian listers and the hotel-keepers. A scheme has been proposed there which possibly will have the desired results. The hotels which are suspected of violating the law by selling to the restricted persons will be closely watched by plain clothes men and all offenders will be strictly dealt with.

LAST DAY. To Secure Free 12 to 14 Cents on Every Yard.

BAY VIEW SERVICE.

The Hamilton Ferry Company's dock at Bay View will be completed to-day, and the service to this favorite resort will be inaugurated to-morrow. It is not so many years since Bay View was one of the most popular pleasure resorts in the vicinity of Hamilton, and with a first class service by water, it promises to regain its old popularity.

NO LIQUOR ON BOATS HERE.

None of the steamboats on the Toronto-Hamilton service are interested in the move that is being made by the Provincial License Department against some of the lake steamers for selling liquor. It is said, however, that some of the boats running from Toronto to Niagara and from Toronto to Montreal maintain almost wide open bars.
