FURIOUS FIRE.

Indiantown the Scene of Great Conflagration.

(Sun Friday.)

Indiantown had a narrow escape from annihilation yesterday afternoon. All the conditions favored a widespread conflagration. There was a stiff wind blowing, the houses were as dry as tinder and the water supply was not equal to the occasion. Indeed it was not until the flames had made great headway that the force of water was anything like what was needed. This is a matter which the authorities should promptly investigate.

The fire started in the roof of P. Nasse & Sons' warehouse at 1.10 p. m. and fanned by a southerly breeze soon enveloped that building in flames. Spreading from the warehouse it caught and destroyed the three story building occupied by J. W. Keast, and from there to the large wooden building on the corner owned by E. H. Horsfield. Jumping Bridge street the fire quickly worked its way to the store and warehouses of the McLary Co. Ltd. At this time it was seen that the fire was likely to assume large proportions as the sparks and cinders were flying in every direction and the wind had seemingly increased in a few minutes from a gentle breeze to a violent gale. Bridge street was soon in a mass of flames, and the fire swept across, taking in both sides of Main street in its sweep. Householders and storekeepers along these streets saw the danger, and the place was soon alive with people transferring their goods to places of safety.

The freshening of the wind sent the fire with terrible rapidity up Main street, the wooden buildings along which proved only too good fuel. The large Lorne hotel was quickly enveloped in flames, and the burning cinders were thrown in a southerly direction towards the buildings lining Kennedy street, the lower side of which was swept bare by the fury of the fire. So quickly did the conflagration advance that in an hour's time it was practically impossible to traverse the lower part of Main, and Kennedy street was fast being wiped out of existence. At this time the fire took another turn and the north side of Main street caught, and the flames swept down Bridge, Holly and Charles streets towards the open fields beyond. At the foot of Main street the flying sparks caught in the warehouses, and they soon were raging, throwing out an intense heat and blinding smoke. Down Bridge the flames went, a branch ran out to Victoria and up it, uniting with the side fires that ran out along Holly and Charles. The entire blocks were then a burning mass, fire on all sides and in the centre.

Up Victoria and Metcalfe the flames rushed, bearing everything before it. The houses were built closely together and were light wooden frame buildings upon which the fire spread with amazing speed. Upon Metcalfe street it reached past Charles and half way to Albert, while along Victoria it ended at Albert. Residents on the latter street moved their household effects out upon the open fields which look towards the creek and Spar Cove, but the move failed to ensure the safety of the goods, for fire was soon discovered among the mattresses and bedding, and practically nothing moved in that direction was saved. So great was the heat that hens perished on the street, burned to a crisp.

Albert street for a long time seemed to be doomed. The buildings upon both corners were on fire, and the burning wood from the scene of the central conflagration was continually being thrown upon the houses by the wind. But anxious owners kept watch upon the roofs and water which was to be had only in scanty quantities, was thrown upon each spark as it settled with a seemingly devilish intent of finally accomplishing its work. But constant care and attention upon the part of occupants and firemen defeated its purpose and Albert street was saved. Had it caught, in all probability nothing could have saved the Free Baptist and Main street Baptist churches upon which anxious eyes were kept throughout the afternoon.

But though the fire in this district was somewhat under control, Bridge street, Main street and Kennedy street were rearing masses of flames. The upper side of Kennedy street had caught and the fire was working its way slowly down to the water, and up toward Cedar street but one house could be seen to stand to the lower side of the street, and in the large garden which surrounded it, the larses and penates of the residents of that district were piled in shapeless confusion. Here and there a house had been blown up to arrest the fury of the fire, which every now and then seemed to gather new life, but only to succumb to tireless efforts and constant streams of water.

From the river to the public steps on Main street, and to the water at the south, from Bridge to Albert, along Metcalfe and Victoria, and almost down to the mill, was a smouldering mass of ruins, bursting occasionally into new life, as the breeze fanned the embers. Along the water front the ferry house seemed to be the only building remaining to mark where once were stores and warehouses. Woodlows and steamers filled with household effects stood out into the centre of the river and over to the other side. On the upper side of Bridge street a portion of a wall bearing the advertisement of a well known soap manufacturer was the only thing left standing.

The scene well along in the afternoon was an alarming one and calculated to appeal the stoutest heart. The roar of the flames could be heard a long distance away and the sky was as red as blood. The wind seemed to have increased in velocity. Fortunately, however, it dropped again as sundown approached and the firemen were able to stem the advance of the fire. The greatest excitement and confusion prevailed as people hastily removed their household goods to places of safety. Shopkeepers piled their goods out on the street and many willing hands carried them away, in some cases never to come back. The Salvage Corps supervised as well as possible this work, and soon were assisted by the city men. The roar of the fire, the noise of the engines, and the shouts of firemen and others all made a thrilling drama. Many persons piled their stuff in what they believed to be safe places, only to have them burned up by the devouring flames.

All St. John was apparently on hand to witness the fire and the streets were blocked with teams. It brought back to many a heart the scenes of June 20th, 1877. Business throughout the entire north end and in many parts of the city proper was suspended.

Early in the afternoon, when it looked as if the cars of the Street Railway Co. must surely burn, the spare cars were got out and sent over to the city for safety, and a little later traffic was suspended along the entire line. The bus men took advantage of this stoppage of electric transit to reap a rich harvest, and every old bug that could be found was pressed into service. Some of the antiquated vehicles broke down on the road, but the bulk of them pulled through all right.

Many city merchants sent over their teams to the assistance of friends in the fire district—an act of thoughtfulness that was greatly appreciated, as the demand for wagons of all kinds to rescue goods was far above the local supply.

All told fully 200 houses and other buildings went up in flames. The total loss is variously estimated at from $750,000 to $1,000,000. A conservative insurance man last night put it at $900,000.

The total insurance in the vicinity is $300,000, most of which is, of course a total loss. There must be at least 600 persons homeless, or rather that number were turned out, but all of them found shelter last night. Still in the nature of things there must ensue a great deal of suffering, and already arrangements are being made to care for the children who have been thus rudely cast out into the world.

The Salvage Corps, both north and south ends, did noble work in saving and protecting property and in assisting the police in preserving order.

Mayor Sears, the chief of police and most of the aldermen were early on the scene, and did all they could to help the local officials.

W. S. Harkins, who is himself an old fireman, told the Sun last night that it was one of the fiercest and most ugly fires he had ever seen. He heartily praised the firemen for his gallant way in which they conquered the flames.

Miss Ann Conard, who resided on Holly street, perished with her house. Shortly after the fire started several men warned her not to remain longer in the place, but she refused to go. She told James Odell that she would not leave the house till it caught fire. She was dressed at the time and seemed as well as ever. Mr. Odell told a Sun reporter that the man about the street urged Miss Conard again and again to seek a place of safety, but she paid little or no attention to them. Miss Conard, who was about 80 years of age, was a sister-in-law of Dr. McCleary of Main street. About 7 o'clock the remains of the unfortunate lady were found by C. W. Green and others. Coroner Roberts gave orders for their removal to a house near by.

Mrs. Geo. Mowrey, who resided on Victoria street, died during the process of the fire. The lady, who was 57 years of age, had been in delicate health for some time. She will be buried this afternoon from the residence of Arnold Mowrey, Adelaide street.

Mrs. Captain Fred Belyea, who was in a delicate state, was removed from her home to Dr. Roberts' residence on Douglas avenue. The firemen worked away all night or up to midnight on the ruins of the buildings. No damage of any consequence was done by the flames after 8 o'clock. Owing to the destruction wrought around the wharves the down river boats were compelled to land their passengers on the opposite side of the river.

Chairman McGoldrick instructed Chief of Police Clark to put some extra men on duty at Indiantown last night. Ten men were put on and did duty all night. All was quiet at the North End at midnight.

The Mayor has called a meeting of the common council for 11.30 o'clock this morning to take into consideration what is best to be done with reference to the fire sufferers.

The electric cars were hung up for several hours in the afternoon, but after that they did a great business. Every car was filled to its utmost capacity.

The firemen were furnished with refreshments during the evening by many North End citizens.

The scholars in W. J. S. Myles' room in the high school were dismissed an hour early yesterday afternoon on account of the Indiantown conflagration. Mr. Myles resided in the brick building which stopped the fire on the north side of Main street.

A careful count of the burned district shows that more than 240 buildings were completely destroyed. This includes dwellings, stores, warehouses, barns and other outbuildings. Well on to 200 of the buildings were occupied as dwellings, and many of them held two and some three and four families, so that at least three hundred families were rendered homeless. A careful estimate of the insurance, made up today by the local agents, places the loss to the companies at $200,000. These figures may be slightly altered when it is known exactly what has been ascertained. The insurance men figure the total loss, insured and uninsured, at about $500,000 in round figures, and do not think it will quite reach this figure. Many people were surprised to find that if the loss is only as estimated that the insurance is so high.

The Pangs of Sciatica.

MRS. PALMER OF FENLON FALLS TELLS HOW SHE SUFFERED.

Continued to Her Bed for Weeks—Her Limbs Became so Numb That a Bed Hot Iron Could Be Placed Upon It Without Her Knowledge.

Only those who have felt the agonizing pangs of sciatica can form any conception of the tortures which the victim undergoes. The case of Mrs. J. H. Palmer, of Fenlon Falls, was one of unusual obstinacy and severity, and she makes the following affidavit in reference to her cure, for the good of humanity. "I am 29 years of age and have lived in this vicinity all my life. I had always enjoyed the best of health until November 1897, when I took a stitching pain in my right hip which seemed to be in my very marrow as it effected every muscle and joint. For weeks I kept up for several weeks although suffering the most intense pain, freely using liniments and many other internal and external preparations that sympathetic friends would suggest. I was then compelled to stay in bed as I got so weak and run down that I could sit up no longer. I received several courses of medical treatment such as electric batteries, poulticing, etc., but got no ease from the excruciating pains which would shoot down through my leg into my very heel where it caused a burning feeling. Often I prayed that my heel would burst thinking this might give relief. The limb at last became so numb that a hot iron could be placed upon it without my having any knowledge of it. The closing or opening of a door or anyone entering or leaving about in my room, seemed to increase the pain. For weeks I could not move any part of my body and had to lie in one position all the time. My brother was cured of rheumatism after every other remedy had failed, by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so I thought as a last resort I would try them. As the directions said that in severe cases three pills could be safely taken at a dose, I took this number three times a day for about a week although I got the relief I so long prayed for in three days after taking the first dose. Then I kept on taking the pills two at a dose. In a week after commencing the pills I was able to get out of bed and dress myself and a few weeks later when I had gained strength enough, I was able to attend to all my household duties and I have ever since enjoyed the best of health. Friends and neighbors who were conversant with my case can also tell you of my terrible suffering and the remarkable cure effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Mrs. SUE PALMER.

Taken and declared before me, at Fenlon Falls, in the County of Victoria, this 11th day of May, A. D. 1898.

Salmon are being caught in the harbor in considerable numbers. Nearly everybody in the city except the newspaper men took a day off Wednesday; the latter have no holidays and are accustomed to their daily routine that they might be annoyed by its interruption.

Rev. William Estabrook, for many years, curate of Trinity church in this city, died last Thursday morning, aged 37 years.

On Wednesday three city policemen were badly injured by an accident at Digby pier, and Matthew Dalton of the North End, fell into the harbor while drunk and was fished out with difficulty.

S. McDiarmid, who some years ago succeeded John Chaloum in the drug business at the corner of King and Germain streets, has moved his wholesale department to commodious and elegant quarters on Market Square, once the drug centre of the city, and is yet one of the best stands in the city for wholesale business.

During the last ten days two representatives of the largest tea growing firms in Ceylon have been interviewing the wholesale trade here and while prices of common and medium Ceylon teas have only lost part of the recent advances, one of these houses is offering standard grades of fine at lower prices than ever before.

The GAZETTE probably has already in type some of the details of the disastrous Indian town fire of the 25th inst; more than 150 homes in ashes; more than 500 people homeless; more than half a million dollars worth of property destroyed in a few hours, and one lady, Miss Cunard, burned to death.

AFTER THE FIRE.

The employees of the street department have made a wonderful change at Indian town since Friday morning. They have cleared away the debris from the streets and sidewalks and the public thoroughfares all over the burnt district are now passable.

There is much speculation as to who will rebuild. Mr. Wm. P. Court, it is said, will put up a brick building on the old site. Mr. C. B. Pidgeon intends putting up a temporary shop and replacing it with a brick building.

Mr. Archibald Tapley intends to up a new residence on the site of the old one. Mr. J. McOann intends rebuilding on the old site and George Dalton and M. L. Day intend to rebuild.

Dr. Case intends putting up a temporary drug store. Messrs. Tapley Bros. will erect a temporary wooden building for an office.

The police are keeping a sharp lookout for stolen and missing property. A copper boiler, stolen from the ruins of Mr. Arch Tapley's house was recovered to-day in Jacobson's second-hand store by Officer Garmett.

Another boiler was found in this shop and was marked by the police for identification. Captain Hastings and Captain Jenkins searched a number of houses, barns and sheds at Bygones to-day, and located quite a lot of articles belonging to various people. It is believed a lot of valuable stuff was carried away to the woods.

Literature.

NELLIE THE DANGEROUS.

"Very well; wait till she comes, girls that is all," quoth I, amidst general flutterings and feminine cries of indignation. It was the cosy old home at Newbury, cold enough, too, we found it there, but Mrs. Haydn only kept up the better fires, and we had a better excuse for gathering about them. There was Lou and Vivian—and I need not say to any friend of theirs, after that, that Doctor Guy, and Philip also, were every evening in our horizon, and my respectful self, Belle Stanley and Otto Winstanley. It was just after dinner, and we were all in the library; Vivian was sitting near me, as I think the little puss was fond of doing, reading out to me here, and there, a line from "Geraldine's Courtship" that happened to please her, and occasionally casting a side glance over at Philip, who looked half jealous; Lou was teaching Dr. Guy to crochet, with the drollest little purred-up face imaginable; Belle and Otto were playing chess, and also, if I am not much mistaken, flirtation; Mrs. Haydn and Polly were doing over a couple of neighbors' characters; and I, having read Nellie Middleton's letter, brought down on myself a general... of indignation for warning them to look out—the men for their hearts, the girls for their lovers; in reply to which I made the answer with which this story commences, and was put down by Belle Stanley, who, I think, has small notion of having Otto interfered with. "Girls, Mr. Martial is simply teasing us. I have seen Nellie Middleton. Last winter Victor Mellen showed her to me at church and asked me if I didn't think she was a 'stunner.' I told him if 'stunner' meant pretty, no. She has no particular complexion, (Belle's pink and white cheeks were her forte), and I am sure she is as stiff as a ramrod." So I contented myself with quoting to Vivian, "Whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad." And Vivian said softly, "Dear Mr. Martial, is she really so pleasing?" "She really is."

their respective "particulars," behaved, in short, more like a grandmother than a belle of twenty; won them all over, even including Belle, who seemed to like her grudgingly and under protest, and then was ready for action. During her week of quiescence there had been, though she had appeared unconscious of the fact, masculine observers. They had found that she was not only lovely but after that piquant fashion which depends much on expression and keeps you studying it. She sang sweetly, played well, conversed delightfully, had a keen eye and soft touch; grew on you in short; strengthened her hold upon you day by day. One thing however puzzled me—an unusual timidity, in Nellie, and Otto Winstanley's almost incomprehensible conduct. He had joined in none of the conversation anticipatory of her arrival; and when she was presented, there was a start and sudden paleness on Nellie's part, and a sudden dark unpleasing color and feeling to his face, as he muttered something about a previous acquaintance. I think no one also observed this or the fact that his indolent fixation with Belle glowed with sudden and unaccountable ardor since Nellie's arrival. Perhaps, also, no one else remarked that he certainly treated Miss Middleton with downright rudeness and neglect, or thought to ask themselves if a man was apt to be rude and neglectful toward a sweet and winning girl to whom he was perfectly indifferent. But he that as it might, two slow weeks went by, and I saw no more clearly into the mystery than I had done at first. But one evening came Nellie, and sat down beside me in the twilight. She sat very still, looking even paler than usual, and I caught myself pitying her, but being at a loss how to manifest it, I remained silent. Presently she heaved a little sigh, which gave me an excuse for asking what was the matter. "Oh, nothing; only I am tired—not physically, but mentally. This is a very unsatisfactory life. Don't you think so?" "That depends."

hopelessly separated." "No," said Nellie timidly, "don't you think we might be friends? You need not treat me quite as an enemy. If you have suffered, so do I; and you cannot think what a pain it is to see the eyes that once were my light look so coldly at me. It makes me wretched. Let us, at least, be friends." Otto looked at her earnestly, took her hand, drew her towards him. Half unconsciously she sank down on the little stool at his feet, her head close to his hand, that following its old habitude; began to stroke the soft bright hair. Presently,— "No," said Otto, firmly. "We can never be friends." "You are unforgiving."

TEMPERANCE COLU MN.

Contributed by the I. O. G. T.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND TEMPERANCE.

Mr. Lincoln was a Temperance man, not from an influence due to the enthusiasm aroused by some temperance orator; his attitude was a conviction within. All the influences surrounding him in childhood and young manhood were of a character to induce him to drink. In later years, referring to the drinking customs of that period, he said: "When all, such of us as have reached the age of maturity, first opened our eyes upon the stage of existence, we found intoxicating liquors recognized by everybody, repudiated by nobody. It commonly entered into the first draught of the infant, and the last draught of the dying man. From the sideboard of the parson down to the ragged pocket of the homeless loafer it was constantly found. Physicians prescribed it for this, that, and the other disease; government provided it for soldiers and sailors; and to have a rolling or raising, a lunking or 'hoed-down,' anywhere about, without it, was positively insufferable. So, too, it was everywhere a respectable article of manufacture and of merchandise. The making of it was regarded as an honorable livelihood, and he who could make most was the most enterprising and respectable. Large and small manufacturing concerns were everywhere erected, in which all the earthly goods of their owners were invested. Wagons drew it from town to town, boats bore it from clime to clime, and the winds wafted it from nation to nation; and merchants bought and sold it by wholesale and retail with precisely the same feelings on the part of the seller, buyer, and bystander, as are felt at the selling and buying of ploughs, beef, bacon, or any other of the real necessities of life. Universal opinion not only tolerated, but recognized and adopted, its use. No reader of the Bible ever imbibed its spirit or learned the lessons it taught more fully than did Lincoln. Its truths appealed to his reason, and especially to his experience. His declaration as to the effects of strong drink were fully confirmed by the condition of those about him who used liquor. Before he had ever tasted liquor he resolved to always totally abstain from its use. This was a courageous decision to make in that day, much more so indeed than it would be to-day. He even refused to sell liquor in his store at New Salem, and when his partner insisted on the plea that its sale would draw custom, he retired from the business rather than consent. His unflinching practice, of his temperance principles attracted attention, and when he was young some of his associates determined to make him break his resolution. In order to get him to take at least one drink of liquor, they declared that he could not lift a full barrel of whiskey, and take a drink out of the bung-hole. Lincoln accepted the challenge, lifted the barrel above his head took a mouthful of the liquor and set the barrel down upon the ground. At once the shout was raised, "Wall, Abe, you've taken a drink of whiskey for once in your life, and broken your pledge!" But the sentence was scarcely completed before he spit the liquor out of his mouth, and quietly said, "And I have not done so, now."

replied Mr. Lincoln, "I cannot allow you to do what I will not do myself. Some Democratic citizens, however, who felt that Springfield had been honored by the nomination, sent several baskets of wine to Mr. Lincoln's house, but he returned them, thanking the senders for their intended kindness. After the formal ceremonies connected with the business of the committee had passed, Mr. Lincoln remarked that as an appropriate conclusion to an interview so important and interesting, he supposed good manners would require that he should furnish the committee something to drink, and opening the door, he called out: "Mary! Mary!" A girl responded to the call, to whom Mr. Lincoln spoke in an undertone. In a few minutes the maid entered bearing a large tray containing several glass tumblers and a large pitcher and placed it upon the centre table. Mr. Lincoln then rose and gravely, addressing the distinguished gentlemen, said: "Gentlemen, we must pledge our mutual healths in the most healthy beverage God has given to man. It is the only beverage I have ever used or allowed in my family, and I cannot conscientiously depart from it on the present occasion; it is pure Adam's ale from the spring." And taking a tumbler he touched it to his lips, and pledged them his highest respects in a cup of cold water. A few months later he started on his journey to Washington to take his seat as President of the United States. In a number of the cities, his visit was honored with grand banquets, at which wine was served, but of which he never partook. On one occasion being urged to take a glass of wine, he replied: "For thirty years I have been a temperance man, and I am too old to change." It is declared that actions speak louder than words. The cause of temperance would possibly have been victorious had the action of all temperance men been as consistent and as persistent against liquor traffic as their utterances have been. But when men's acts and words are in accord, great is their power. Such were Abraham Lincoln's. He not only abstained from the use of intoxicating liquors, but he was bold in publicly advocating total abstinence.—D. O. Thompson in Methodist Review.

Quick and Slow Cooking.

One great mistake cooks make is to huff fast certain articles should be cooked. For instance meat is always tough even though it falls from the bones, if boiled hard. For soup it should be put to cook in cold water and heated so slowly that it will not come to a boil in less than an hour, and then it should boil very gently. When one wishes the flavor all to stay in the meat it should be put to cook in boiling water and allowed to boil a few minutes, and then set back where it will just simmer. Meat should not be salted until nearly done. Potatoes should be boiled the first five minutes and then boil more slowly the remainder of the half hour. Beans, peas, and corn should boil hard till done. Green vegetables should generally be cooked in salted water to best retain their flavor. This is particularly true of onions and cabbage. One reason that young cooks pay so little attention to the above rule is that they think the difference is only in the flavor and that isn't much. But the greatest loss is in the value. And that we may have all the nutrition certain foods possess we must give them the treatment they require.

Churning Sweet and Sour Cream.

It is well known that the durability of cream depends largely on its handling during ripening. Sour cream churns more easily than sweet cream. The reason for this may be that the presence of lactic acid has some effect on the surface tension of fat globules. Since sour cream churns more readily than sweet cream, it will not do to mix creams of unusual richness just before churning. The sour cream would churn first, and the sweet cream would be left as buttermilk. If it is necessary to mix cream of unequal richness, it should be done at least 12 hours before churning, and the mixture should be thorough. It is important to stir the cream while it is ripening for a similar reason. If the temperature of cream is not exactly alike throughout, as is nearly always the case, the warmer parts ripen more rapidly, and unless the cream is occasionally stirred it does not ripen uniformly. This leads to heavy losses of fat in the buttermilk. If cream has been handled exactly as it should be, the churn may be stopped when the butter is in granular form without loss of fat in the buttermilk, but if the cream is not uniformly ripened the churn cannot be stopped at this point without considerable loss. ### Spring Has Come!

Yes, beautiful spring has really arrived and all the little songsters are in full blast. Down in the swamps and mud ponds hundreds of frogs are making their presence known by discordant croakings, and up on the highland poetical bipeds are doing likewise. Spring has come! The meadows are green and lovely, and many other things. Once more the famous "spud" is planted, while stray bugs walk leisurely about and survey the fields with hungry eyes. Spring has come! Farmers hasten to meet and sit around in groups manipulating tobacco, and moisten the earth with juice therefrom. Spring has come! Mosquitoes lie waiting in the dark places of the earth and seize their victims with unalloyed vigor. Spring has come! and the fertilizing agent rushes by filling the air with the odor and dust of dead men's bones. Spring has come! Interiors of dwelling houses are in wild confusion and many men go wandering about with bare shins and sooty faces. Spring has come! "Windmiller, the Big Chief," is calling together his tribes and starts on his war-path once more, while his whippersaw frantically in the sultry air. And all the little "Rolyard" Kiplings keep time to the "Sun-What." Spring has come! David Webster points from his pedestal and says sorrowfully,—"No, no, Noah!" While "Subscriber" sinks into oblivion. Without doubt, Spring has come!

Swopt Over The Rapids.

OTTAWA, May 12.—Stanley and George Mead, 12 and 11 years respectively, sons of Charles Mead, who keeps a boarding house at Britannia, and Blanche Dallas, was swept over Deschamps Rapids yesterday afternoon in a skiff. Both lads were rescued a mile and a half below the rapids after being an hour and a half in the water. Blanche was drowned. She was a step-daughter of Wm. McConnell, of the Ottawa wire works.

A Traveler's Tales.

"Oh, yes," remarked the amiable liar, "I had many strange adventures when I was in Africa. I happened to be in bathing on one occasion when a bear came prowling along. I being in my bare skin he took me for one of the family I suppose. At all events, he didn't trouble me.

"At another time I came across a lion. A lion, you know, will not attack a man who is apparently dead. However, it is not the most agreeable thing in the world to stretch yourself out on the ground and let the best nose you can find be satisfied you are dead most. Fortunately, on this occasion I had a friend with me, a lawyer, and I got him to lie for me. It was right in his line, don't you see.

"One day a leopard fell in love with me. Least ways he paid me the compliment of trying to make me resemble himself. He spotted me don't you know. Fortunately, mine were fast colors, very fast.

"How did I come to quit my travels? Why, I became unpopular with the party I was in. They could not endure me for two reasons; one was that it was impossible for me to tell a lie, and the other objection to me was that I never was known to indulge in a pun. See?

Armistice Refused.

MANILA, May 20, 10 a. m.—General Gregorio del Pilar, commander of the insurgent forces in front of General Lawton's division; Lieut. Col. Alberto Baretto, judge advocate; Major Zaelcica, of Aguinaldo's staff, and Senor Gracianoza, a former member of the Filipino cabinet, the commissioners appointed to co-operate with senores Florentino Torrea, Pablocampo and Theodore Yanco, of Manila, for the purpose of negotiating terms of peace with the American commissioners, reached Manila by special train from Hualoh at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The party was closed with General Otis for more than an hour, but the interview was decidedly unsatisfactory, the commission having nothing definite to propose and being unempowered to negotiate terms. The commissioners brought a communication direct from Aguinaldo asking for an armistice pending the decision of the Filipino congress as to what policy should be adopted. As before, General Otis refused to entertain the proposition. The commissioners, after leaving the city hall, accepted an invitation to visit the Oregon and the other vessels of the American fleet in the bay, and they were also granted permission to see their families before returning.

"Don't" for the Baby.

An infant should be given no food containing starch until it cuts its teeth. Starchy foods include biscuits, corn flour, tapioca, sago, rice, potato, etc. An infant cannot digest any of these until his teeth are cut.

Violent noises and shakings or tossings are hurtful to a baby and should be avoided as much as possible.

Infants should never be put in a sitting posture until they are at least 3 months old, when they will probably sit up of their own accord. They should be carried flat in the nurse's arms, if the little back is at all curved it may lead to curvature of the spine or chest disease.

Until children are six or seven years old they should have 12 hours sleep every night. In addition to this a nap for two hours, either in the morning or afternoon, especially in hot weather, will do a great deal towards keeping them bright and well.

To give high gloss to shirts, collars and cuffs, add a little dissolved gum arabic to the starch. A bottle of this should be kept with the laundry supplies. Prepare by pouring an ounce of boiling water over two ounces white gum arabic, add a teaspoonful powdered borax and bottle before it gets quite cold. One tablespoonful of this added to a quart of starch gives a nice gloss.

men and return their fire. Two Americans were wounded. The road wound close to the stream and was thickly settled. It was a picturesque march. Many groups of hundreds of natives were grouped under the trees on the opposite bank displaying white shirts, towels, sheets or anything white on poles. Some shouted welcome to the American soldiers, but most of them maintained a sullen silence. An old man in a carriage met the troops two miles outside of the town. He said: "I have lived in England and I have told the people that the Americans are like the English, and they need not be afraid." A Capuchin priest, one of the few whom the Filipinos had not imprisoned, was found at Candaba. He said it was useless to try to convince the natives that the Americans had not come to oppress them, as they believed their leaders, who had strongly impressed this belief upon them, and who have told stories of massacres, rapes and Filipino victories. The walls of the town were plastered with reports of slaughter of Americans, hundreds of whom were said to have been taken prisoners. As soon as Major Kobbe reached San Luis the natives raided the insurgents' rice stores. All day a stream of half naked people emerged from the store house in the manner of ants, rushing to their homes with bags of rice on their heads. On Thursday night a body of rebels returned to San Luis and burned part of the town. Lieut. Cunningham, with a signal corps party engaged in running a telegraph line, was camped near the place. Major Kobbe sent the army gunboat Cordovanga there today and found the party in the town. The Rio Grande, since Major Kobbe started, has been the highway for the exodus for the natives and today there is a continuous procession of thatched houses with white flags drifting down river and containing whole families of twenty to thirty persons with their household goods and animals on board. Thousands of these boats have passed the army gunboats.

Students and Circus Men.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 15.—Princeton students and Pawnee Bill's Wild West Show employees indulged in a pitched battle today, and much serious rioting was prevented only by the presence of men with cool heads and the action of President Patton of the University in calling a mass meeting of all the students. It has been an unwritten law here that no circus parade shall pass through the streets. Every show proprietor in making his dates has always left Princeton from the list. When posters were hung up announcing the advent of Pawnee Bill a few days ago it was first considered a joke. The town authorities advised the circus men not to attempt to parade, but this advice was unheeded. The college boys were out in force waiting for parade, a great majority of them near the campus, armed with cannon crackers, eggs and vegetables bought or confiscated from stores and others armed with clubs of wood. The students made a wild rush to head off the procession. The employees of the circus were rotten egged. The cow boys and Indians charged the students, using their whips freely. Stung by the whips and bruised the students became ugly and missiles changed to stones. Some of the Mexican or South American cowboys used their bows with great effect. Several were injured. President Patton later had notices posted calling a mass-meeting of the students at five o'clock. He forbade any student going to the circus tonight and thus ended the trouble.

Farming in the Maritime Provinces

Differs materially from farming in Ontario and the West. Conditions are different and our markets not the same. A product profitable in those sections would not pay the tillage here, and a suggestion valuable to a westerner would prove disastrous if followed by our farmers. In subscribing for a agricultural publication it is well to bear this in mind. There is only one paper that treats of farming from a Maritime Province standpoint. It is the

A RESIDENT.
To EDITOR QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE
 Sir: In your issue of May I noticed an insertion to the effect that I am going out of the trade as blacksmith and going to travel as agent for P. S. McNutt. Through the medium of this paper I wish to state that the rumor is without any foundation and the correspondent who authorized its publication is guilty of making and publishing a lie from his imagination and let me tell him that the most childish of all defects is illtemperance; it is a male peculiar to the undeveloped intelligence; but may people grow to manhood physically while mentally they remain children and are to be pitied more than blamed as their reasoning faculties lie forever in abeyance. Now thinking the public for past custom I wish to say they can continue to get any work done as before between the hours of 5 a. m. and 6 p. m., and in cases of necessity after said hours.

Yours,
J. N. FOWLER,
 Coles Island, May 29th, 1899.

Remarkable Rescue.
 Mrs. Michael Curran, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all Druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

FREDERICKTON, May 24, 1899.
To EDITOR QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE.
 Dear Sir: On the morning of the 18th day of May the "Mythic Hand of Death" entered our midst and claimed for its victim (Odel Vanwart. Mr. Vanwart was twenty-eight years old. His genial disposition and goodness of heart won for him a host of friends, who truly mourn the loss of such a worthy citizen. For several years past he has suffered almost continuously from hip disease, but although he went to Boston and elsewhere in search of the most skilled medical aid yet available, his condition and he returned to his native land fully convinced that James A. Casswell, M. D., of Gagetown, was second to none and superior to many of the most noted physicians.

During the past months of the present year Mr. Vanwart has been confined to his room by a disease believed to be consumption, gradually his strength gave way, his sufferings increased, and his bed became his grave. By his demise one more link in the family circle is broken. One more loved one gone, one to that radiant land of bliss where joy eternal reigns.

Mr. Vanwart leaves a widow, two brothers, and a large number of relatives who mourn for him as a companion and friend, but they are comforted by the sacred truth "Blessed are they, who die in the Lord." The remains of Mr. Vanwart were laid to rest, on Sunday forenoon, in the Free Baptist graveyard on the farm of Stephen E. Clarke. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. W. H. Perry, who preached an appropriate sermon, in which he urged all to prepare for that great and notable day when the Lord will come to claim his own.

Yours Truly,

COOK'S NEW BLOOD PILLS.

Instantly Killed.

A slight tempest of rain, thunder and lightning passed over the city, late yesterday afternoon but it was very severe in up river sections, and at least one fatality from its effects is reported. At Upper Hainsville the house of Mr. Henry Ricker was struck by lightning but the residence was but slightly damaged.

In the cellar under the house, however, a sad fatality occurred, a son of Mr. Ricker being smitten with death. Mr. Ricker, his twelve years' old son, and a neighbor, Mr. Hoyt, were in the cellar during the process of the tempest, cutting potatoes for seed. When the electric fluid struck the house it passed down the chimney and into the cellar. Mr. Ricker and Mr. Hoyt were temporarily blinded by the flash and stunned by the shock, but they soon recovered consciousness and were not injured. The young lad suffered a worse fate, he being instantly killed. The parents deeply feel their sudden bereavement and have the sympathy of the whole community.—Cleaner.

He Cooled the Surgeons.
 All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Eczema, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on Earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by all Druggists.

Horrible Discovery.
 FREDERICKTON, N. B., May 22.—In the filth and stench of an outhouse connected with the Commercial hotel of this city a horrible and shocking discovery, and one that is shrouded in mystery, was made tonight about 10.30 o'clock.

While men were at work cleaning out the place they unearthed the remains of a man so much decomposed as to be almost unrecognizable. They at once gave the alarm and in a short time an eager and excited crowd had gathered, but among all the number none have so far been able to identify the remains, many, however, expressing the opinion that they are those of a colored man.

The body is apparently that of a man who weighed 180 pounds, of middle height and undoubtedly not that of an elderly person. He was fully dressed, the coat being of some dark material, black cashmere socks, boots about number 8, but narrow and of rather stylish appearance.

Corner Coulthard viewed the remains and gave instructions for their removal, but has not yet ordered any search of the body for clues of identity.

It is evident that the man has been in the place for a considerable time as one limb was pulled completely from the body while it was being brought to the surface. Notwithstanding the advanced stages of decomposition, the face bears signs of bruises or cuts, but whether these were inflicted before death or after is of course a matter of conjecture at present.

The body was found with face downwards, with the coat pulled up over the shoulders. The discovery following so closely on the Stanley murder, has caused much excitement, which will only be abated after a thorough and searching inquiry.

FREDERICKTON, N. B., May 23.—The remains of the man found in an outhouse of the Commercial hotel last night have been identified as those of William O'Brien, a young man well known about the city, who disappeared from his home early last fall. O'Brien was addicted to strong drink, and at times to opium, and when last seen before his disappearance he was under the influence of liquor. He must have visited the place at a late hour in the night, lost his balance, and fell head foremost into the cesspool. The unfortunate young gentleman was an employe of Kitchen & Shea of this city, and was for several years previous a bookkeeper in New York. The body was removed to the residence of Dennis O'Brien father of the deceased, and was buried this afternoon. Great indignation is expressed throughout the city over the fact that Corner Coulthard did not hold an inquest. It seems to be the general opinion that a strict and searching inquiry should have been made into the affair, and that the good name of the city demands it. That a young man should meet his death in such a peculiar way and place and then have the matter passed over with scarcely an inquiry, is something that the citizens of Frederickton can not understand.

Gold and Bonds.
 It is quite true that it is well to have a supply of gold, or bonds on hand but after all worldly riches cannot compare with good health. Women who have pale and sallow complexions, and whose systems are all run down can find no such blood builder and blood purifier as the old reliable English remedy, Cook's New Blood Pills. Price 50 cents per box, sold by all dealers.

Railway Disasters.
 WATERLOO, Iowa, May 28.—The through train from Chicago to Minneapolis over the Rock Island and Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railways was wrecked at 1.15 Sunday morning at the crossing of Sink Creek about four miles southeast of this place. The train consisted of six coaches, including mail and baggage car, smoking car, two passenger coaches and a sleeper. Nine persons were killed and twenty-three injured.

A sandburst had washed the sand and gravel roadbed, leaving the track unsupported for a stretch of twenty feet. The rails and ties held together and there was nothing to indicate the insecurity of the road.

The engine struck the washout and was derailed in the ditch beside the track, and behind it the cars were piled up in a confused heap. The mail car tipped over and was telescoped by the baggage car behind, while the rear end of the baggage car in turn telescoped the smoker. The roof of the sleeper ploughed its way through the day coach, while the lower half of the latter crashed through the sleeper.

The engineer and fireman jumped from the train and escaped with slight injuries. Mr. Schvert of Alton, Ill., was brought to this city, but died shortly afterwards. He was badly cut about the head, and it was evident from the beginning that his injuries were fatal. He was on his way to Minneapolis, where he was to be married today. He asked his physician to telegraph his father and his sweetheart. "Tell her," he gasped, "that I have been detained by a wreck, and cannot keep the appointment on time. Don't say any more."

The news was brought to this city by a mail clerk, the whistle was blown, a switch engine and coach hastily prepared, and a relief train sent very speedily. The injured passengers were extricated from the debris and brought here.
