In a joint meeting of the training and inspector's departments of the Ontario Educational Association held at Toronto, Inspector N. McDougall suggested divid-ing the Normal School course into two terms: one of four months to prepare students for an interim second-class teaching in Ontario schools, and then a six months' Normal training for a second-class permanent certificate. He thinks this arrangement, besides being more convenient for many students it would retain teachers in the Province it would retain teachers in the Province for two years at least, and would also provide better training. He proposed one year courses for a first class public school certificate in connection with the Normal schools or with one Normal school set apart for the purpose. This would be for academic and professional training open to all teachers holding would be for academic and professional training open to all teachers holding permanent second-class certificates and who have taught successfully for five years in the public or separate schools.

Author, Director and Star.

(Berlin Telegraph, April 18th,)

It was not known, except to a very few, until this week that there is in Berlin a second George M. Cohen a second George M. Cohen-director and star-in the person of Prof. John F. Roche, whose appearance in the auditorium of St, Jerome's College a few evenings ago in his own play "The Captivating Widow" made the hit of the season. The large and representative crowd which witnessed the performance is still talking of the play and numerous requests have been made that it should be repeated. While Mr. Roche's musical and historionic abilities are well known his acting eclipsed his successes in "The Toastmaster" and the "College Chums." The concert presented by St. Jerome's L. & D. Society, was a splendid success from all standpoints, and added another laurel to their already generous collection. The action of the play was light and full of breezy comedy, supported by a well-developed plot that ended as all good stories do. The musical numbers, dances by the chorus, and Mrs. DeFoe's dance in the last act, were excellent, and the superb costuming gave the scenes an added charm.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

A 125 horse power gasoline engine. six cylinder, weighing only 400 lbs. has been perfected. It is of the twocycle type. It looks as if steam in power.

The ordinary wire screen for doors and windows offer no protection from prying eyes. This can be remedied by giving the outside of all screens a coat of thin white paint. Strange as it may seem, the paint will not be noticeable, and while those inside may look out through the screens, outsiders cannot see into the room. The paint should be made as thin as possible with turpentine and applied with a broad, flat brush.

The New York State food investigating commission has carefully looked iuto the matter of cost, killing, shipping and selling some shipments of meat by the big packing houses. It found that 29 cattle sent from Omaha to New York yielded a profit of 10 cents per cwt.; 350 sheep and 50 spring lambs returned a net profit of 17 cents per cwt.; while 36 hogs cents per cwt. A showing as good as that, however, could not be made in handling meats on a small scale.

There is a movement on foot in Ontario to allow the "West" to do its own "booming." Ontario is beginning to realize that she has been advertising a not overly-generous rival, and advising her own sons and daughters to go out and help the little fellow grow big. Well, he's growing big, now, and according to some writers, is manifesting a desire to "put the boots" to the old man who has fed him on milk and honey since the days of his infancy. Ontario has given of its best and plenty to feed the West, but the time has now come when she needs and can well requite every one of her own and many of her neighbors' children at the old home.

Happy is the boy who early in life chooses his profession or calling, and makes everything he does contribute to efficiency in it. One of the evils of our industrial system is that a boy can work for years without learning a trade. It is this fact that is causing our educationists to advocate technical schools, where our youths can be taught to be procient in the mechanical art. Factories are willing to employ boys at ooy's wages, but when these boys become men, they will want men's wages, and what probability is there of them receiving them unless they are able to do men's work with proficiency and dispatch?

Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysteries of the starry heavens, he has harnessed the lightning and made it pull street cars and light the great cities of the world. But he can't find a spool of red thread in his wife's work basket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in a closet; he can t hang out clothes and get them on the line the right side up. He can't hold clothes pins in his mouth while he is doing it either. He cannot be polite to someone he hates. cannot sit in a rocking chair without banging the rockers into the base boards. He cannot put the tidy or the sofa pillow right side out. He can't sew on a button. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.

Children and Good Roads.

It is pleasing to learn from the officers of the Canadian Highway a few years will be an obsolete Association that the children through out Canada are taking a keen interest in the essay competition on "What Good Roads Mean to Canada" and from all parts of the Domion papers are being forwarded to the headquarters of the association at New Westminster, B.C.

As an encouragement to the children to busy themselves in the preparation of these essays, the president of the Canadian Highway Association, Mr. W. J. Kerr, is offering valuable gold, silver and silver gilt medals, and also a silver souvenir pin to all competitors whose paper attains a certain standard of merit.

While it should not be necessary for this incentive to interest the young people of Canada in good roads, and their relation to the wellbeing of the country, the fact remains that in this, as in other things, some inducement is often necessary in order to awaken the younger generation to the economic needs of this country.

Good Roads, as everyone will admit, are badly needed in Canada at the present time, but it is only when the people at large are ready to demand this - not merely to request it—that we can expect the authorities, whether local, municipal, provincial or federal, to act on this matter on anything like a large scale.

purchased in Kansas City netted 31 | The aim and purpose of the Canadian Highway Association, as is well known, is to establish a Transcontinental road that will reach from Halifax, N.S., to Alberni, B.C., and while it is not the intention of this organization to do more than educate the public and act in an unofficial advisory capacity, it is yet doing much good work in this cause and will be largely instrumental in getting this highway, four thousand miles long, completed within five years. We in this district must do our share of this work, and it behooves the Good Roads advocates of Lambton, to bestir themselves and lend all the assistance they can to the officers of the Canadian Highway Association in the good work they are doing for Canada.

It is amazing that anyone should have supposed that watertight compartments would be a safeguard in such a case as that of the Titanic. When 46,000 tons of metal are hurled against an iceburg at twenty miles an hour, nothing could prevent the destruction of the vessel. It is not improbable that a great number of passengers and seamen were instantly killed by the impact, as they would have been by a head-on collision of trains.

Holidays in Old Days.

There is a general belief that holidays in Canada at the present are far more numerous than they were in civilized countries in bygone ages. This is clearly a misapprehension, for an old almanac of 1792, or one hundred and 20 years old gives forty days that were observed as holidays by all the government offices and the banks. In addition the excise and exchequer offices observed six other and exchequer offices observed six other days, making in all very nearly eight weeks. Every month had its holiday, some three or four, the only month having a single day being May during which month, for some reason or other, the 25th was observed. This will be quite a revelation to the Scroogos who imagine Canadian people have too easy a time. As a matter of fact there are few countries that have so few holidays. There are also few thave so few holidays. There are also few countries in any in which the people are as diligent and industrious. At Christmas time in the eightcenth century the public offices and the banks were absolutely closed for four days in succession. At other times two days were frequently given up to holiday making. Including the Sabbath Day, it will be observed that one-quarter of the entire year was devoted one-hundred and twenty years ago to that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zamlated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue FROM BELOW is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co., and told them that for over tweuty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in 739 Survivors of Titanic Disaster. 1601 Go Down With the Vessel.

"The last I will remember of the Titanic was hearing the strains of 'Nearer My God to Thee,'" said Mrs. A. A. Dick, who was saved with her husband. "There was a great sound of rushing water and the vessel sank.

"There was the wildest excitement when the ship struck. The crew at once ran to the rails to prevent passengers from jumping overboard. I was standing near the first two lifeboats launched. At near the first two lifeboats launched. At first a few men struggled to gain seats. They calmed down when they saw the women and put us aboard the boats. Their brayery was wonderful. I shall never forget it.

"Lowering the boats into the sea was a horrible experience. The boats, with the rescued passengers, lay in the vicinity of the foundering vessel about ten hours.

THE RECORD.

Henry Beasley, London, Eng., one of the survivors, tells how the Titanic sank in these words:

"Presently, about 2 a.m., as near as I can remember, we observed her settling very rapidly, with the bow and bridge completely under water, and concluded it was only a question of minutes before she went down, and so it proved. She slowly tilted straight on end with the stern of the boat vertically unwards, and stern of the boat vertically upwards, and as she did, the lights in the cabins and saloons, which had not flickered tor a moment since we left, died out, came on again for a single flash, and finally went out altogether.

"At the same time the machinery roared down through the vessel with a rattling and groaning that could be heard for miles—the wierdest sound surely that

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked ween as the family remedy.

upon as the family remedy."
Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

Back To Common Sense.

Just before the Titanic wreck it was announced that steamships were to be constructed like apartment houses, with suites of rooms in which a family might have absolute privacy, even kitchens in which their own food might be prepared. It is possible that the awful disaster may check this particular form of lunacy. For several years there has been a fierce competition in luxury, size and speed. The fact that the latest boat beat the fastest of her predecessors by a few minutes, was bigger, and contained a few more of the comforts of a modern hotel, was chronicled with joy and pride.

It was all foolish, as we see too plainly now. The craze for speed is expensive as well as dangerous. The consumption of coal is enormously increased as the speed is augmented. The eagerness to shorten the voyage leads, not only to excessive and dangerous speed, but to the selection of the northern route, when the more southerly route would be safer.

Luxury also has been carried to excess. It does no harm to a wealthy man or woman accustomed to luxury at home to rough it a little for a few days on the sea. People are ready to do without luxuries or even comforts when they go hunting, mountain climbing, or camping, and they should be able to cross the ocean in something less luxurious than a great hotel or apartment house. Obviously, it is difficult to build a ship like a palace, and at the same time make it seaworthy and easy to handle.

A Forward Step.

Doubtless the time will come when those about to be married will be required to produce, prior to the ceremony, physician's certificates that they are physically and mentally fit to take upon themselves the responsibilities of matrimony. Such a regulation would work no hardship except for those who, for their own sake and the sake of succeeding generations, should not be wedded, and there is no doubt that it would mean a great decrease in the number of mental incompetents and physical unfits in the country.

In the meantime, a start in this direction has been made independently by the dean of the Cathedral of S. S. Peter and Paul, in Chicago, who has announced that no couples will be married there unless they are able to present certificates of health The first marriage under these conditions has already taken place and it does not appear that any objections were made by the happy couple, who were able to qualify.

For its own protection the state must effectually take cognizance of this question. One step which, in Ontario, might help considerably in the right direction, says the St. Thomas Journal, would placing of the issuing of marriage licenses in the hands of responsible physicians, giving them authority to use their own judgment when the fitness of any candidate for matrimony was in dispute, and making it obligatory for both man and woman to appear before the granting of a

The Titanic Tagedy.

The world stands stunned at the nagnitude of the disaster which overook the Titanic, the latest word in the building of luxurious and supposedly safe passenger steamers. The greatest tragedy of the sea in all history is recorded in the story which tells of the Titanic striking the huge iceberg, of the hours of fearful waiting, of the plunge of this ten-million-dollar boat to the bottom of the ocean, two miles below, leaving only a few hundred of the men and women above water.

Everything human ingenuity could suggest had been employed to strengthen the colossal creation and insure its safety against the uttermost perils of the ocean. Watertight compartments were many; by ordinary injury the vessel would have been unsinkable. But without thoughtful and even scientific calculation, the mind can hardly comprehend the power of the impact of the moving monster against the unyielding ice barrier. Steel must have crumbled, rivets and joints broken, beams and columns buckled, throughout the mighty fabric. Fitly named Titanic to accord with its giant frame Titanic also was the shock which in a moment produced the greatest shipwreck the world has ever known.

AN IMPROVEMENT

ASSOCIATION. While all the towns around us are forming associations of their business men for the purpose of improving the towns, what is the reason that our town could not have one? It will cost nothing to meet once in two or four weeks and talk over the situa-While it might not do much to boom the town, yet we should get better acquainted with one another and with one another's wants and wishes. A community of spirit creates an enthusiasm which is very apt to display itself in some direction. The old saying that every thing comes to him who waits, may have been true in the old time, but under the spirit of the present age if a person wants a thing he must go after it. We believe there is goahead spirit enough in town to carry an improvement association through to good results if it were only started; and we also believe that after it was fairly started the good effects of it would be felt immediately. Perhaps not as some towns have done in getting great branches of industry to settle here, but in plans of beautifying and improving what we have, and in being ready to embrace opporturities, if any should come. An association of this kind could be made useful in providing men to fill the public offices who have the interests of the town at heart and who, are willing, with the assurance of support, to sacrifice their time and talents for the betterment of the town, and thus do away with the haphazard way of electing town officials that has been in vogue here for some years past. Such an asso-cration could be made a pleasant and profitable institution even if not much in the way of a "boom" resulted from it. Who will make a move in the matter?

NOTE AND COMMENT.

A department of good manners has been instituted in the Los Angeles high school. In this department the pupils will receive special instruction in deportment, courtesy and general good conduct. Such a department properly conducted might render a very useful service to this community. Courtesy and good conduct in the child form the foundation for good citizenship in Experiments conducted by the Agriculture Experiment Station of Nebraska have shown, says a press bulletin issued by that institution, that corn and alfalfa will form the most profitable ration for fattening hogs. The cost per 100 lbs. grain in these experiments varied from $3.60 for hogs fed three parts corn to one part chopped alfalfa, to $4.34 for those fed three parts corn and one part shorts, and 45.59 per 100 lbs. gain for those fed one part corn and one part shorts. Alfalfa grows to perfection in Lambton.

One of the cheapest things that have appeared in connection with the loss of the Titanic is the attempt, as recorded in the press, of Miss Pankhurst, and other English suffragettes, to belittle the courage and chivalry of the male passengers on the great liner, who sacrificed their lives in order that the women and children might be saved. As long as the suffrage movement is headed by such women as these it has little hope of recognition.

Man is naturally a home-loving animal. In fact; most animals are home-loving. And when a man asks a woman to share his life, it is usually taken as a gentle hint that he wants her to make him a home and ak a fort of general oversight of his affairs and a special oversight of himself. He likes to know that she does things for him just for the reason that she loves him, and is interested in him and his well-being. He loves his home more if there is some impress of her personality upon it. He likes best the meal she prepares for him. Of course, he says very little—perhaps nothing—of all this, being a man.

Meddlesome persons who are continually prying into other people's affairs and carrying tales between meet all price competition.

friends and acquaintances great deal of mischief and are best contented when they can spread scandal. It seems more natural for them to speak ill of a person than to utter words of praise, and their habit of gossiping becomes so fixed that they can talk scandals almost unconsciously. It is just as easy to say a good word for friends and acquaintances, even if not wholly deserved, as it is to speak ill of them, and the effect on the community is always beneficial in a general way. Scandal gathers as it travels by word of mouth and can never be recalled when once in circulation. Try speaking well of everyone and see what a change it will make in your own happiness as in the well-fare of

There are a lot of people in this world that seem like the dog that used to lean against the fence to bark—dead tired. Motion is as foreign to them as a steeplechase to an elephant. If they are in the race at all they manage to be at the tail end. They never think of doing anything until the time for action is past and somebody else has reaped the benefit that always accrues when a man's heels follow his thoughts Slower than molasses in January these people give an indescribable pain to those who have anything to do with them or their affairs. One feels like giving them a thump in the back of the neck or otherwise assisting their thoughts and members to more concerted and rapid action. Laxiness of either mind or body is a fatal disease. A man in this age must step a lively pace if he expects to have a fighting chance, even. Get up and dust. "Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy

BACK OF A SNAKE.

It Can Easily Be Broken by a Crack With a Cane.

The first impulse of a man on The first impulse of a man on seeing a snake is to stamp on its head, which, according to The Rosary Magazine, is unwise. A snake's skull is very tough, as behooves a part of the body that is always liable to be knocked against stones, etc., owing to the extreme shortsightedness of all serpents.

the extreme shortsightedness of all serpents.

The back, on the contrary, can be broken with a light rap, for it consists of a delicate system of ball and socket joints. Should snakes be harmless the best plan is to leave them alone; should they be dangerous a shot from a revolver is asfe and effective. In case no revolver is at hand a rap with a cane will be sufficient, but care must be taken to keep away from the head of the creature.

A snake does not normally go about hitting its skull against hard objects. It does this only when in a hurry. Moving at its ordinary pace, it feels to the same way with its long, delicate, forked tongue.

In the same way when about to swallow its food it touches it all over with its tongue in order to ascertain where to take hold, and this process where to take hold, and this process has given rise to the mistaken idea that a snake covers its prey with saliva prior to swallowing it. No doubt a considerable quantity of saliva is generated during the process of deglutition, but it does not come from the tongue, which is merely used as a feeler.

When a snake bites it bisects its head up to the nape of its neck and opens its jaws till they are in the same plane—i.e., at right angles to the body. These jaws are provided with six rows of strong, sharp teeth, four on the upper jaw and two on the lower jaw.

four on the upper jaw and two on the lower jaw.

This is a very formidable arrangement, but when you remember that a medium sized constrictor can project its head with sufficient force to knock a man off his feet and will either on provocation or sometimes without it let go his catapult, rat trap machinery you are likely to avoid constrictors so far as is possible. Such a snake can take hold of a man and shake him or strip the skin and flesh from the part seized as if it were paper.

The First Cigarette.

Before the discovery of America the old world had never imagined tobacco and its delights. Christopher Columbus and his followers were the first from the eastern hemisphere to see men smoking. When they landed on Cot. 12, 1492, on the island to which he gave the name of San Salvador they beheld, to their astonishment, a group of natives sitting on the shore puffing clouds of moke from their lips and nostrils. On closer inspection it was found that the dried leaves of some herb were wrapped in the tion it was found that the dried leaves of some herb were wrapped in the leaves of the maize or corn plant and formed into cylindrical rolls, one end of which was put into the mouth, the other kindled and the smoke was drawn in and puffed out again.

DARK ROOM TESTING

Every child on reaching the age of seven years should have the eyes examed. Many children have defective vision, and it often happens that one eye only is affected. This throws all the work on the better eye while the other through disuse frequently loses its function entirely. With proper lense correction this trouble will be wholly overcome. If accompanied by parents we will be glad to examine children's eyes free of charge.

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, April 17th, 1912, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weedmark, when their eldest daughter, Gertrude May, was united in marriage to Mr. George Westgate, of Warwick. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. Stephenson. Promptly at five o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Ruby Williams. The bride, who was attired in white swiss embroidery and unattended, was given away by her father. The large number of beautiful presents testified to the esteem in which these young couple are held by their many friends. Congratulations being over guests numbering about sixty-five over guests numbering about sixty-five sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper, after which the happy couple left for their home on the fourth line east, Warwick, carrying with them the good wishes of a host of friends.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, April 30th, May 1st

We have the sales agency for the line of all-purpose varnish, which is so far ahead of any varnish that has ever been sold in this community, that we particularly desire an early opportunity to show its good points to some member of every household in our business district.

What we want you to know about this wonderful varnish is something that cannot be told; but we can show you in a very few minutes that you get more for your money every time by using Chi-Namel Varnish for floors, woodwork, furniture, or anything about the house on which varnish is used. This varnish is furnished in the natural color and also in a full variety of colors. It can be hammered and boiled and otherwise abused without showing any signs of abuse. Any amateur can apply it to large surfaces and get just as smooth a finish as a professional finisher-no laps, no brush marks, no blotches to make a patchy appearance. You will thank us for this invitation after you have come to know all about it. Other features we want to show you are the Chi-Namel Ready-to-Use Graining Process, by which you can cover all blemishes in your old floors and make them any color you wish, and also produce the grain of oak or other woods. Old carpets can be made into rugs and a new hardwood border will take the place of the ugly flooring at a cost of but 2c. per square foot.

A Spook Farm

A Wrong Is Righted by Means

By CLARISSA MACKIE Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When my law partner, Jack Rogers returned from lunch I was agog with excitement.

"Guess what has happened, Jack," I crowed. "No need to guess. Something in the detective line has turned up," grinned my partner as he tossed his hat on its accustomed peg and sat down in his chair.

"How did you find out?" I asked, chagrined. "You always look especially foxy, old man, and nothing, not even a dead client, with prospects of rich pickings from the"-"Oh, keep still!" I growled. "You talk like a bird of prey."

"I am—we are birds of prey. This detective side line of yours, Hal, or hobby, or whatever you call it, will run us out of our legitimate course of business if you don't slacken up a bit." "Have you any important case on your mind?" I asked sardonically, Rogers felt tentatively of his head. "Nothing doing, I must confess, Hal. I know there's something on your mind. There's a look about you that says we must catch the two-something for somewhere—and it's 1:45 now." He glanced at his watch.

"The train leaves at 2:03. I'll tell you about it on the way up."

After we were comfortably seated in the smoker of the train and were headed up the bank of the Hudson river I deemed it expedient to un-bosom myself lest in the telling of the story we might reach our destination before I had completed it.

That noon while I sat alone in the office I had received a call from a

She was a little old woman, sharp featured and white haired, with hard, cold blue eyes and a thin lipped mouth that seemed made for secrets. was garbed in shabby black and car-ried a rusty satchel filled to bursting that she watched carefully.

I learned that her name was Sarah Penny and that she lived on a small farm near Poughkeepsie. She said she was a widow and, besides owning her farm, possessed a tiny income on which she lived. She also said that for two weeks past she had been haunted by a spectral farm that seemed to adjoin her own. She related that night after night when the moon was high in the heavens she had seen low lying farm buildings where in broad daylight nothing appeared but a grassy meadow dotted with ancient fruit trees. On dark nights the visitation appeared as a luminous glowing outline of buildings.

Mrs. Penny's old face seemed to become more wrinkled and careworn as she imparted these facts to me and when she had concluded, saying that she had visited me with the intention of making her will and had suddenly determined to confide her fears of the "spook farm," as she called it, hoping I might be able to explain away this horror in her solitary life.

1 had promised to come up there to look the situation in the face, and I declared my intention of bringing my partner with me. So now that we were on the way I related all these facts to Jack Rogers, and together we tried to piece out some fabric of logical explanation of the phenomenon.

"Derry!" yelled the brakeman, throwing open the door, and as that was the nearest station to the spook farm we got off and watched the train wind out of sight among the hills. A station agent was puttering around a couple of empty egg crates, and I approached

"Which road shall I take to reach Mrs. Pennsy's farm?" I inquired, "One to the right," and he disappeared quickly, as if fearful of further catechism. It led away from the river and then doubled back again, and this performance it repeated over and over until Jack announced that he felt as twisted as a spiral bed spring.

"I don't wonder your old lady sees things," he complained as he rounded another turn. "I feel all wound up just like a clock."

"I guess you can run down now." I said, for just then the trees and dense growth along the road thinned, and we could see the gray shingles of a weather beaten house just beyond.

Before we reached the house, which stood in a grove of gloomy cedars, we met a how with an empty not lead here.

met a boy with an empty pail and ber-

"Son," said my partner kindly, "can you tell us where the Widow Penny lives?"

The boy turned a grimy little finger toward the weatherbeaten house. "In re," he half whispered.

"Do you know her?" pursued Jack arelessly displaying a silver quarter.

The boy nodded. "I'm afraid of her," he said with more spirit. "She's a miser; that's what my mother says." "Who lives next door to Mrs. Pen-my?" I asked him as he clutched the sil-"Nobody lives there. It's all grass and apple trees. The house burned down before I was born." And he scampered away and disappeared in the wooded road. "Huh!" ejaculated my partner. And in silence we approached the home of Mrs. Sarah Penny.

The shutters were all closed, and the place appeared deserted. The ground was quite flat here and a wide creek meandered through the rank grass back of the house, and the adjacent low lying ground appeared damp and marshy.

"Nice, malarious spot," I remarked as we walked around a weed grown path to the back door.

"Might raise a good crop of spooks here," said Jack, pausing and looking over toward the adjacent property. "The kid was right; there must have been a farmhouse there one day. See the sunken rectangles of turf where the buildings once stood? You can even get an idea of how the yard must have looked in those days. There's a snowball bush and a clump of lilacs and other flowering shrubs, and those apple trees in the background must be the remains of the orchard."

I followed the direction of his noint-

"Here we are, Mrs. Penny," I said cheerfully, introducing my partner.
"Mr. Rogers and I propose to sit up tonight and lay all these spooks of yours." She fingered her spectacles rather nervously and then removed them and rapped the table smartly with them, eyeing me keenly.

"This is no joke, young man," she said gravely.

"Indeed, madam," I replied warmly,

"we do not consider it as such. I spoke lightly because I wanted to allay "Your own fears may need quieting

"Yes; the whole family. They're all dead now.' "You can recognize them from your window?" he asked incredulously. She nodded an affirmative and then sat in moody silence while Jack and I conferred together. The result of this interview was that my partner and I wandered about the spook ridden field next door until Mrs. Penny summoned us to supper. We ate without referring to the object of our visit. In fact a great depression seemed to have settled upon the three of us. The air was heavy and damp, but the sun set brilliantly, and in the east a splendid full moon was rising.

Jack and I both shuddered as she departed. We whispered to each other and marveled that any sensible ghost would care to return to such a gloomy, God forsaken spot as this. We lighted cigars and tried not to admit that an eerie sensation was creeping over us when Mrs. Penny's shrill old voice broke excitedly on the air.

"They are here—it has come!" We lifted reluctant eyes and gazed upon the spook farm. There was a fascination about the weird scene that drew us to the dividing fence.

There had arisen before our unbelieving eyes white misty buildingsfarmhouse with adjacent wings, dairy barns-and here and there were forms of people, white wraiths with beckon ing arms. It was a windless night, and the moon shone brightly.

Sarah Penny's voice again broke the stillness, this time hoarse with fear. She was at my elbow. "Do you see it?" she whispered.

?" she whispered.
"Yes," I answered, "but"—
"Does he see it too?"
"Yes, but"— "Then it is so!" she moaned. And I saw that she was holding her black bag under her arm. "I must give up the papers, and perhaps they will go There was an instant of intense silence, and then I turned my back on the spook farm and said quickly: "Yes, you must give up the papers, Mrs. Penny, and right the wrong. You leading her into the house, quite broken in spirit.

"Yes, I will go away. I have a sister in the west, who wants me to come. I can sell this place—and—here are the deeds. I executed them years ago, but I hated to part with them. I have so little money!" she wailed pitifully, opening her black bag.

Little by little I wormed a confession out of her of how she had held a mortgage on the farm next door, which was owned by a German family. She had coveted the land, but the farmer had been industrious and paid his interest promptly. Then one night, sorely tempted, she had set fire to the buildings, and when they lay a heap of ashes on the ground she took the land for the amount of the mortgage, and the Germans were homeless and penniless. They had gone forth, helped by charity, to make a new start, and she had heard from some source that each one had died years ago. All this had happened fifty years before, and she had had a long time in which to repent of her crime.

The next morning when Jack and I went down on the early train we carried proper legal papers conveying the spook farm property, as well as the home of Mrs. Penny, to the heirs of the German farmer, Fritz Steber. And I may add here that in due course of time his children were found and their inheritance restored to them. Mrs. Penny, who possessed a comfortable fortune through her miserly habits, went west and was heard of no more. I never knew what became of the spook farm after that.

SPRING REMINDERS

OF RHEUMATISM

Raw, Damp Weather Starts the Pain, but the Trouble Lies in the Blood.

Spring weather is bad for rheumatic sufferers. The changes from mild to cold, the raw, damp winds start the aches and twinges, or in the more extreme cases, the tortures of the trouble going. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism. The trouble is roated in the blood. The The trouble is rooted in the blood. The trouble is rooted in the blood. The poisonous rheumatic acids must be driven out. Liniments and rubbing may give temporary relief, but cannot possibly cure the trouble. The sufferer is only wasting time and money with this kind of treatment and all the time the trouble is becoming more deeply rooted—harder to cure. There is just one speedy cure for rheumatism—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the impure, acidtainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and thus root out the cause of the en it and thus root out the cause of the High Class Tailoring

Tailoring

Here is strong proof of the above statements. Mrs. Robt. Luffman, Midland, Ont., says: "About three years ago my grandson, Robert Luffman, was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. He became so bad he could only walk where so we helped him. only walk when someone helped him about. One arm he had to carry in a sling, and we felt sure he would be a cripple tor life. The trouble also affected his heart. The doctor said his blood was transitated to water and we had little heart. for his recovery. The medicine the doctor gave him did not do more than soothe the pain a little, then he would be as bad as ever. On a former occasion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured my daughter of rheumstein and we facility Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured my daughter of rheumatism and we finally decided to try them in Robert's case. After the use of three or four boxes there was a slight improvement and he continued taking the pills until he had used 12 boxes when the trouble had completely disappeared, and he has not been afflicted with it since."

The Strathroy Will Case.

The Strathroy Will Case.

Toronto, April 22.—Forty-one relatives, heirs and legatees of the late Richard P. Smith, of Strathroy, are engaged in a legal contest over the disposition of his estate, valued at $152,674. Justice Sutherland to-day heard a motion from the twelve plaintiffs, who are dissatisfied with the will or its execution, asking that the twenty-nine defendants be limited as to the number of counsel they may have to represent them at the trial. They asked that the defendants be allowed one counsel for each group, which had the same interest, but his lordship in giving judgment, stated that he found no authority by which he could interfere with the defendants' right to be represented at the trial. Among the defendants are the Salvation Army, the Presbyterian church and the Sarnia General Hospital.
