WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

As expected, the Germans have resumed their offensive against Verdun, attacking yesterday the French lines which run from the river to beyond Douaumont in a powerful frontal assault, gaining a footing in a small salient south of the two and a half mile front assaulted. The storming columns of the foe came on like the waves of the sea and they were encountered by a curtain of fire and maxim volleys, and everywhere they were swept back whence they came.

West of the Meuse, the Germans heavily bombarded Hill 304 and the French second line of defence. It is pretty certain that they will again launch an offensive with great force here, for they naturally do not plan to let all the shells used by their artillery go to waste.

VILLA REALLY DEAD? SKEPTICISM SHOWN

Report of Exhumation of Bandit's Body Seems Less Likely.

EL PASO, APRIL 17.—Gen. Gabriel Gavaera, Carranza commander at Juarez, announced tonight that the Mexican telegraph wires between Juarez and Chihuahua had been blown down near Pearson about noon, and for that reason he was unable to learn any further details of the reported discovery of the body of Francisco Villa. At the same time a telegram filed at Chihuahua City presumably before the interruption of the wire service, was received by the Associated Press from Consul Letcher saying that nothing was known in the state capital regarding the finding of the bandit's remains. These two circumstances combined to reinforce the growing scepticism here as to the truth of the story that death had ended the career of the fugitive brigand.

MAY BE FORCED TO PAY ADDED COST OF ROAD

Municipalities May Not Have Choice, Says Hon. Finlay Macdormid.

EXPRESSION OF VIEWS

All Will Be Given Chance to State Attitude on the Matter.

Legislation may force municipalities to pay for the added cost of the Toronto-Hamilton highway whether they like it or not.

The bill provides for the increasing of the township contributions from $4000 to $6000 a mile, and the franchise assessment from $3846 to $4000 a mile.

This Hamilton had refused, said the minister, Toronto, Mimico, New Toronto, Oakville, Burlington, Nelson, East Flamboro and Wentworth had agreed.

The minister gave as reasons for the increased cost: carrying work during winter, wash-outs, and the increasing of the width of the road from 16 to 18 feet.

C. M. Bowman, Liberal whip, criticized the government for not having placed the construction under the supervision of the engineers of the roads department of the department of works.

Relations between the engineers were most amicable, said Mr. Macdormid. The government was undertaking 40 per cent. of the cost.

Mr. Howell was given notice that on Wednesday he will move a resolution in appreciation of the courage and valor of Ontario soldiers.

His proposal that copies of his resolution shall be sent to commanding officers at home and abroad and to the representatives of the allied nations resident in Canada.

Hugh Munro (Glengarry), has given notice that he will ask if the T. and N. O. has quoted any special rate to other prospective shippers other than the Imperial Oil Company, and if so to whom and what.

TRANSFER THE MEDICAL INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS

Stated That Duplication System Wastes Forty Thousand Dollars a Year.

The wheels of the legal committee of the legislature ground slowly yesterday on the proposed transfer of the medical inspection of schools from the board of education to the department of health.

John Ross Robertson said that the present system of duplication wasted $40,000 or $40,000 a year, that it was inefficient and that it was not the job in the summer. They wanted a department on the medical inspection for children got sick even during vacation, he said.

Trustee Hodgson said board of health nurses would carry disease from home to home. The city had 47 nurses, the board only 38.

The board of education with their solicitor, the mayor, Controller Cameron and City Solicitor Johnston attended.

The first factor is that the enemy has availed himself to the full of every suspension of the battle to fill up both his ranks and his siege parks.

But the quality of his new infantry drafts is plainly inferior to the quality of his initial storming parties. They can attack, but they cannot get on exhaustion is that, behind his siege batteries and his storming columns, little or no support can be detected.

He was to wait a week to bring reinforcements. When he does attack the French it is not on a front of eight or ten miles, as at first, but on a front of two or two and a half miles.

Guns and mines were the chief engines of destruction brought into operation on the British front yesterday. The shelling was heavy in the area between St. Etienne and the Ypres Canal, and also about Voormezele and Dickebusch, while it was less noticeable about Hebuterne, between Carnoy and the River Somme, and about Souchez and Noeux-les-Mines.

The notable event reported from the Italian front yesterday was the repulse of an Austrian attack on the Italian positions, which extend from the Lerganza torrent to Mont Celio, in the Suga Valley. The Austrians came up to the assault, but they were counter-attacked and driven back with the loss of two officers and 60 men taken prisoner and many killed and wounded.

It is being generally taken as a fact by the initiated that the signs on the eastern, as on the western, points of contact combine to show that the second or "deadlock" stage of the war is approaching its end and a new phase may be said to have begun.

The question of where the allies will strike in their grand offensive is still unrevealed. The Italian commander-in-chief hinted at Paris the other day that his Alpine corps were only waiting for the reappearance of the sun to inaugurate their much-longed-for offensive in the Tyrol—on what, after all, may prove the shortest road into Germany.

A leading British military authority suggests that such a stroke may synchronize with a French offensive in Alsace. Italy has generously supplied a large number of skilled mechanics and metal workers to the French arsenals, and it is not conceivable that she should decide to pool her reserves of man power with those of France for the more rapid attainment of the coming goal.

Official War Statements

British

The British official communication, issued last evening, says: "There was heavy shelling today about Voormezele and Dickebusch, and also in the area between St. Etienne and the Ypres Canal. There was some anti-aircraft activity by both sides today about Hebuterne between Carnoy and the River Somme, and also about Souchez and Noeux-les-Mines. There has been a bombardment of the Hohenzollern sector, the Double Crasser and west of Vimy."

"Yesterday, there was considerable aerial activity."

French

The French official communication, issued last night, reads: "Between the Avre and the Oise our batteries shattered enemy trenches and shelters in the regions of Desaulvaines and Lassaigny."

"The Argonne destructive fires were directed on the German works north of La Harasme. At Yauquois one of our batteries blew up a small enemy post with its occupants."

"In the course of this attack the enemy suffered very heavy losses. Our artillery displayed great activity against his 804 and our second lines."

"On the right bank, after a bombardment of increasing violence, begun in the morning against our positions from Oostkerke and Dixmude, the Germans at about 2 o'clock launched a surprise attack with effect on the left bank of the Meuse the night before last. The waves of the assault, against a front of about four kilometers (two and one-half miles) were met by our curtain of fire and the line held firm. Our half-mile line saved a footing in a small part of our line south of Chateaufort Wood."

SEEKING RECRUITS FOR BRITISH NAVY

Hon. Rupert Guinness and Party Now on Way to Canada.

MUST BE SEAFARERS

Maritime Provinces Expected to Make Response to New Call.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, April 17.—The British admiralty wants recruits in Canada for the navy, and a recruiting party, headed by Hon. Rupert Guinness, is on its way across the Atlantic.

The party will be in Ottawa in the course of a few days. The naval service department meanwhile states that only seafaring men are required as recruits, and the rate of pay, pensions and separation allowances will be those in force in the royal navy.

While there is no official statement on the subject, it is expected that the Canadian Patriotic Fund will take care that the emolument to the dependents of the Canadian sailors will be made up to the standard of the militia.

Age Limit Forty. The limit of age is 40 and the period of engagement will be the duration of the war. Persons resident in the maritime provinces who wish to join should send a preliminary step their names and addresses to the captain, superintendent, H.M.C. dockyard, Halifax; those resident in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, to the superintendent, H.M.C. dockyard, Esquimalt, and those in the remaining provinces, to the secretary, department of naval service, Ottawa.

Applicants will be supplied with a form to fill in, giving particulars as to themselves, their service, their experience, and also with a statement containing all the information with regard to pay, etc., which is at the disposal of the naval service department. Fuller particulars will be available later. The recruiting party on arrival in Canada will take over from the naval service department matters relative to this recruiting.

Beyond the regular naval service the recruiting party wants recruits for the auxiliary patrol service of the admiralty. This is a motor boat service which has turned out to be one of the most valuable adjuncts of the navy. Several hundred experienced motor boatmen have already volunteered, and hundreds more can be got if they are required.

A legal change of some importance has been made in the accession of R. T. Harding, Stratford, to the well-known firm of Dewart, Maw & Hodgson, which will in future be known as "Dewart, Harding, Maw & Hodgson."

Mr. Norman S. Macdonnell, who has been with the 118th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, at the front for over a year, still remains a member of the firm.

Mr. Harding has been head of the firm of Harding & Owens of Stratford, where he has practised nearly 20 years, and has acquired a fine reputation as one of the leading members of the western bar. He will be more particularly associated with Hartley Dewart, K.C., in the counsel work of the new firm.

WARD TWO TORIES SUCCESSFUL SMOKER

Mayor Church Asked Recruiting for Beavers—Staged Boxing Bout.

Ward two Conservatives packed Victoria Hall to the doors for their smoker last evening. The speeches were all good, but it was the boxing bout which attracted the most attention. The Choquette's and Bourassa's were anxious to see, and they were rewarded by some of the best boxing seen in Toronto in some time.

Particularly the last two when Hilliard Lang went four rounds with Private Crawford of the 107th, and Major E. G. Watt of the Buffs, took on Lieut. McKellar of the Beavers. Lang and Crawford mixed it freely, and both were bleeding at the finish. Lang showed a shade the better in the long range work, but there was little between them.

The officers' bout was the result of a special challenge issued by the Beavers. McKellar had not boxed in a year, and was badly out of condition and had to quit in the third. Altho he outweighed Major Watt by fifteen pounds the latter displayed splendid judgment, and, in fact, is as clever with the mitts as a lot of the reputables.

Mayor Church roused the crowd with a spirited reference to the statements in the senate of Senator Choquette. The Choquette's and Bourassa's, he said, would all be put in the background when the soldier boys returned. "Nothing," he declared, "was too good for Canada's fighters, who should be put in a preferred class. He made a strong appeal for recruits for the 204th Beaver Battalion."

Other speakers were Mark Irish, M.L.A., Dr. Chas. Sheard, C. C. James, and Lieut.-Col. Fieard.

HEBREWS ATTEND SUNSET SERVICES

Twelve hundred Hebrew members of the University Avenue Synagogue attended the sunset service yesterday. Some 200 Hebrew members of overseas battalions who were granted leave of absence attended the services in the various synagogues.

The feast lasted for eight days. After the services concluded special prayers were read in the homes. Special hymns will be chanted and this morning, Mr. Rabbi Julius Price will deliver a sermon on "Courage."

Stationery Supplies in Big Variety at Moderate Prices

OFFICE STATIONERY is unlike furniture, in that it does not last a lifetime. The huge output and demand gives necessity for constant re-stocking, so that this list of office supplies most of which are offered at the same old prices, despite the increasing scarcity of paper, should be an incentive for many office supply men to stock up; some because they need it and others so that they will be well supplied when any further price advances are made.

Clip out the following list and keep it for reference when ordering your supplies.

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD RACER HAS A NOTABLE RECORD

Budweiser Furnishes Example of Value in Stability, Speed and Endurance.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Possibly no better demonstration of the value of the thoroughbred from a racing standpoint, in terms of stability, speed and endurance can be furnished than that of the sixteen-year-old horse Budweiser, which has now reached his sixteenth year and yet is racing as creditably today as in his first year. He was foaled in the year 1900 and has since that time won 102 races, including 10 stakes, 100 of which he has won. He has won 102 races, including 10 stakes, 100 of which he has won. BOSTON RED SOX WIN THEIR FOURTH STRAIGHT Knock Johnson Out and Easily Defeat Washington—Detroit Beat Cleveland.

At Boston—The Red Sox performed the rare feat of driving Walter Johnson from the box in five innings. In the sixth inning Boston hammered the delivery of the Washington star for a double and four singles in a row, winning four runs. The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of rain. Score: Boston, 4; Washington, 0.

At Chicago—Pinch hitters won for the White Sox as game their regulars tried to throw away. A single by Neas, batting for Williams in the ninth, drove in the tying run, and Lynn, batting for Cloutier in the eleventh, sent the run that gave Chicago the game over St. Louis, 5 to 1.

At Cleveland—Detroit bunched five hits off the pitcher in the seventh inning and defeated Cleveland, 3 to 1. Coveleskie had pitched hard ball up to that time, and had been spectacularly supported. Cunningham was very effective against Cleveland. Speaker was the only one he could not puzzle, the ex-Boston man getting four hits and scoring Cleveland's only runs. Score: R.H.E. St. Louis, 3; 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—5 9 1

At Cincinnati—In a one-sided contest, Pittsburgh won the second game of the series from Cincinnati, 10 to 1. WEEDING OUT PROCESS STARTS AT INFIELD

Wheeler is First Man to Be Shifted by Manager Birmingham.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., April 17.—Manager Birmingham of the Toronto Club tonight commenced the thinning-out process in the ranks of the Leafs, preparatory to getting as close to the player limit as possible before the opening of the season. Infielder Wheeler was released to the Worcester Club of the New England League on an optional agreement. This led to a sensational fielder and thrower and fast on the bases, but he lacks experience.

Edward S. Berwick, whose father conducted a grocery business near corner of Charles and York streets in Toronto, many years ago, has organized a Poughkeepsie-Toronto Baseball team here and will head a large delegation of local fans at the Toronto-Newark opening game on the 20th. Coach Fitzgerald Goes Across Line on Washington Order

GENEVA, N.Y., April 17.—Acting President Durfee of Hobart College received a telegram from Washington stating that the state department had wired the immigration department at Niagara Falls to release Coach Fitzgerald of the Hobart lacrosse team and allow him to come into this country. Fitzgerald, who is a champion lacrosse player in Canada, had signed a contract to coach lacrosse at St. Hobart, but was denied entrance to the United States on account of a clause in the immigration law which prohibits certain classes of labor from entering this country on contract.

MAJOR FEATURES

Both Boston teams are still unbeaten. Two overtime games were the feature in the American League yesterday. Cleveland and Detroit played a doubleheader, St. Louis and Chicago eleven innings.

THREE POINT RISE FOR BRIDGE AT MONTREAL

Steel of Canada Led Market With Overnight Gain. MONTREAL, April 17.—The opening today was strong and active, but the advance was checked by New York's weakness. Final changes were small except in bridge, which retained a 3-point rise, after going up 2 points. Laurentide was marked down 3/4 from last board lot transaction.

Steel of Canada still led the market, opening at an overnight gain of 7 at the new high record of 68. Last sale at 61 1/2, left a net gain of 1/4 for the day, with 61 1/2 bid at the close. The other steel stocks were relatively quiet, iron fluctuated between 5 1/2 and 60 and closed unchanged at 51, while Scotia sold between 106 and 107 1/2, and closed 1 lower for the day at 107.

Outside of Steel of Canada, the heaviest trading of the day centred in Canada Steamships, and on the Dominion Bridge. Steamship common advanced one point to a new high of 23 1/2 and closed 27 1/2, the voting trust certificate rising 1 to a new high of 26 and finishing at 25. Steamship preferred rose 1/4 to a new high of 82 1/2, but closed at 81. Hollinger shares rallied sharply, selling at 82.50 and closing strong.

WEEDING OUT PROCESS STARTS AT INFIELD

Wheeler is First Man to Be Shifted by Manager Birmingham.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., April 17.—Manager Birmingham of the Toronto Club tonight commenced the thinning-out process in the ranks of the Leafs, preparatory to getting as close to the player limit as possible before the opening of the season. Infielder Wheeler was released to the Worcester Club of the New England League on an optional agreement. This led to a sensational fielder and thrower and fast on the bases, but he lacks experience.

BATTILING LEVINSKY WILL ARRIVE TODAY

And Fitzgerald Tomorrow for Heavyweight Fight Wednesday Night in Arena.

Sir Sam Hughes, minister of militia, has been asked to attend the patriotic professional boxing tournament at the Arena tomorrow night. A special box has been reserved and would the minister accept the invitation this box will be specially decorated for the occasion. Battling Levinsky arrives in Toronto today and will complete his training here at the Varsity gymnasium. Fitzgerald will arrive tomorrow. The latter, who has been in the game for a couple of years, has a very good record. It includes a draw with Frank Moran over six rounds, a draw with Soler Kearns and the famous black heavyweight Sam Langford. A message was received from Dan Morgan yesterday that Levinsky has been matched to box Frank Moran at Ebbets' Field in the latter part of May. Moran is to receive a guarantee of $600, while 50 per cent of the gate is to be split between the two boxers. Levinsky has consented to forfeit his percentage if he does not beat Moran. As Fitzgerald is showing on Wednesday with the Kansas Cyclone, it will be local fans' idea of what chance the Hebrew champion will have with Moran. Fitzgerald has defeated numerous others, and with Moran, so that a defeat for one of Wednesday night will be a serious main event will mean the cancellation of the match with Moran. That should be sufficient to make the two box for all they are worth. The other bouts are: Kid Barrieh and Harry Westbury, 110 lbs.; Matty Baldwin of Boston; Joe Haggerty of California, Johnny Peora (twice), Young Brown, Johnny Kelly, Harry Westbury, and Phil Bloom. Harry Westbury has been outboxed and has never been knocked off his feet. Peora has defeated Harry Westbury for his bout with Mike Gibbons, also fought that night himself before the second largest crowd ever attended a fight in New York State.

Mining Notes

The shaft on the Genesee property north of the Hudson Bay mine is down about 80 feet, and results are still promising. The work on this project is being watched with much interest, inasmuch as it is the first consistent attempt to open up the area of conglomerate ground north of the producing mines of the Hudson Bay, Nipissing, and latterly the Chambers-Berland.

Kerr Lake Mining Company's March production of 214,250 ounces of silver broke all records of the company in recent years since 1910-1911, and is the first time for several years past that the 200,000-ounce mark has been passed as a monthly output. February production was 168,995 ounces, and 181,000 ounces for the previous quarter, or last three months of the calendar year 1915. Production marks in excess of 200,000 ounces per annum are unknown since the early bonanza days of Cobalt prior to 1911. It is likely that the company will continue to force production during the prevailing high prices for silver. March earnings are estimated at close to $80,000, based on a 21-cent cost and 56c silver. A lot of 21c cost and sold at 62 1/2-26 the present price, would net $48,000 monthly. Dividend requirements at 25c quarterly call for but $50,000 per month.

Two new stocks have been added to the list at the Standard Stock Exchange. They are the Advance and the North Thompson. The former is a silver stock and the latter a gold stock. The North Thompson mine, which adjoins the Vipond, is continuing its shaft to the 500-foot level. Considerable development work has been done on the 100, 200 and 300-foot levels. The

Gasoline to $18 a Barrel

This is the age of oil. Gasoline at 36 cents per gallon, or $18.00 per barrel, is the cheapest power producer in the United States.

There can be about three hundred thousand barrels of oil produced in Kansas and Oklahoma that will produce at the price of no higher.

The greatest opportunities in America are in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas oil fields today. The Uncle Sam Oil Company is the pioneer independent.

It now controls over 20,000 acres of oil and gas lands and leases in the real oil belt. Has over 100 producing wells.

It has work under way on headway on eighteen (18) wells at this hour. It has seven different properties that by just little good luck in its drilling operations will have over 100 producing wells.

It was determined to start the balance of forty drills. About twelve per cent of the stock is unissued.

Remember, this is an independent company. For ten years the Uncle Sam Oil Company has been the thorn in the side of the Trust.

Spaghetti and Its Uses

HOUSEHOLD HELPS By ISOBEL BRANDS

WE think of spaghetti, or any member of the macaroni family, as distinctively an Italian dish, to be partaken of once in a while as a novelty. As a matter of fact, when we look into the history of the macaroni we find that it comes of ancient lineage—Japanese or Chinese, rather than Italian—and also that far from being a dish only suitable for occasional use, it has all the elements for making a staple, substantial dish. The Japanese have used it for hundreds of years, their specialty being a very fine kind of flexible vermicelli cut up in little bundles of stalks from six to ten inches long.

Macaroni derives its great nutritive value from the fact that it is made from a very hard, very glutinous wheat, known as "macaroni wheat." The best varieties are made in Russia, and also are grown in southern Italy and France from seed imported from Russia. The good brands of macaroni, vermicelli, spaghetti, etc., contain almost as much protein as mutton, lamb and fresh pork, and considerably more carbohydrates.

Macaroni is first boiled, then drained and chopped fine with the onion, then mixed with cream and seasoning. Then either individual ramekins or a casserole is buttered and the mixture spooned in the dish. On top are sprinkled a layer of grated cheese and a layer of breadcrumbs and a few bits of butter. In about 15 or 20 minutes inside a hot oven this will brown in a form a most appetizing luncheon or dinner dish.

Mushroom Spaghetti.
1 cupful of boiled spaghetti,
1/2 cupful of mushrooms,
1 cupful of milk,
1 tablespoonful of butter,
4 well-beaten eggs,
1 teaspoonful of salt,
1 teaspoonful of chopped parsley.

The mushrooms are mixed with melted butter in a saucepan and cooked for four or five minutes, then the milk and spaghetti are added and cooked very slowly until they simmer and the beaten eggs, salt and parsley are added. The mixture is then stirred until it is thick. It is then poured on toast and served hot.

Macaroni and Chestnuts.
4 heaping teaspoonfuls macaroni,
2 tablespoonfuls of cream,
4 heaping tablespoonfuls cooked, mashed chestnuts,
1 onion scalded,
2 tablespoonfuls grated cheese,
1 teaspoonful of butter,
Salt, pepper.

Which Is Better—Office Work or Housework?

By WINIFRED BLACK

Drawing By WILL NIES

HOMEMAKING THE MOST FASCINATING BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

MISS MARY MORGAN of California says that women are going to business because it's such a bore to do housework. She declares that they will stay in business till somebody invents some way of taking the drudgery out of housework, and making it more or less diverting.

What an interesting point of view! And yet, somehow, I can't even begin to try to understand it.

What's most office work but drudgery, and wearisome, boring drudgery at that?

I don't see anything particularly diverting about stenography, and if there's anything amusing in adding up accounts or pressing the right button in a cash register all day long, I must be lacking in a sense of humor, for I don't believe I'd ever be able to see it.

Diverting—business life? So is a funeral, if you happen to look at it that way. Anything is entertaining if you put your mind on it, and everything is wearisome if you make it merely a matter of routine.

I'd rather broil a steak and make a nice pan of biscuits any day than try to sell some disagreeable old person a life insurance, or attempt to persuade a feather-headed young one that what she wanted and really needed was a feather bed instead of a warm coat.

Just or Drudgery?

Business is just exactly like housework—whatever you choose to make it. I know stenographers who watch the clock harder than they do anything else. They find business a good deal of a bore and their employers find them worse than tiresome. So do the people who try to make sense out of the letters they write.

I know other stenographers who are always ahead of time at the office, interested in their work, really fascinated by it, eager to get to it and loath to leave it. Nobody is bored by them either, not even the men who pay them their salaries. They work in the first place to earn money and in the second place because they love it, just as that sort of woman will always love any kind of activity when she puts her mind to it.

She'd love sweeping a floor—because she'd really sweep it, not just make a few futile dabs at it. She'd love making a bed, and the bed that she made would be worth lying in, too. If she did her own cooking, she'd love that. Everybody loves anything that they can do well. No woman who ever made bad coffee liked to make it, and no woman who likes to make coffee can make a bad cup of it to save her life. It's all in the mind and all in the woman, and nowhere else.

Business is business—in the office, in the shop, in the schoolroom, and most of all, in the way of the woman who makes a living for herself. The business of homemaking—not just housekeeping—homemaking.

I've known pretty good housekeepers who didn't know a thing about making a home, and didn't want to find out. And I've known women who could make a home out of a hall bedroom with a yard of blue and white Japanese cotton print, a couple of pillows and some photographs of the folks.

Housework is not drudgery—unless it's done by a drudge. When it's done by a woman it's a woman's work, and the best and finest and most worth-while work a woman can really do. What payment is there on earth that can equal a pair of rosy cheeks and a clean, well-nourished body of the little child of your heart, healthy, happy at home, because you make it so, as no one else in the world could possibly do it.

You can hire the housework done. You can pay money and get a stenographer to do her best. You can engage a dressmaker and let her do her worst. But nobody can make a home for your husband or your children but you.

There is no substitute for a real mother, a real wife or a real home-maker, even if she's just a maiden aunt without any real home of her own at all. I know just exactly such a maiden aunt. She's bringing up her brother's children for him. And the poor brother never had a home till his wife died and his old maid sister came and made one for him.

The brother's wife was one of the women who say housework is drudgery, and it was—for her. She never did anything thoroughly in her life; she just dabbled at things. When she went to dust a room she dabbled at it. When she went to bake a pie, she dabbled at it. When she went to read a book, she dabbled at that. And, finally, poor soul, she dabbled at death—and did it thoroughly, for a wonder.

Find Your Sphere.

But now, since their husband is dead, the two boys have a hot bath every night and keep their teeth brushed, and they eat what they ought to and play when they should, and they are loved and cuddled and told stories to and made much of in the good, old-fashioned way, which their poor, shabby, well-meaning mother called "drudgery."

The children never miss her at all. Why should they? She wasn't really a mother to them at all. She was just what she made herself—a drudge.

Housework a drudgery? What's work, do pray, tell. Is there anything particularly gay about a carpenter shop or a butcher's block? Does the plumber work for exhalation? Does the grocer sell sugar and salt to be diverted? Why should his wife think that she's the drudge to make a home for him and that he's a gay butterfly of fashion and diversion just because he does his work down town in his shop, instead of up town in his home?

The woman who told her husband he little knew how she had to drudge to keep his home in order while he took his ease in the nice, cool sewer he was digging seems to be only one representative of a large class of strange and puzzling human beings.

Of course, there are some women who are not fitted for work in the home and are fitted for work in the office. Those women ought to get right into the home where they don't belong and right into the office where they do. They'll be better off and so will the world.

Why is the business woman, Miss Mary Morgan? She is, just because she is born so, and that's the very best reason in the world—to me.

BREED OWES NAME TO YEAR OF ORIGIN

Columbian Wyandotte Came Into Its Own During Time of Chicago Fair.

THIS is a variety of the Wyandotte family which was originated about 1892 by B. M. Briggs and named in honor of the Columbian Exposition, then in progress. It was designed to preserve the beauties of the Light Brahmas plumage on a fowl of practical size possessing the utility qualities demanded by the market.

It was originated by crossing a White Wyandotte cock on Barred Rock hens and carrying the resulting individuals from the resulting progeny. Fanciers adopted the breed, but as the original stock was very light in color they strengthened it by an infusion of Light Brahma blood. Some crossed White Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds and produced fowls of similar markings.

In common with all Wyandottes, the breed is active and can be depended upon to produce plenty of eggs all seasons.

The chicks are hardy, make rapid and vigorous growth and are a staple for market at all ages. The fowls should weigh from 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 pounds for males and from 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 pounds for females.

The breed is not bred in sufficiently large numbers to stock large poultry plants, but it is steadily increasing in popularity, and the time is not far distant when Columbian Wyandottes will be as widely used for practical farms as are the other breeds.

POULTRY NOTES

Laid today, marketed tomorrow and consumed the next day is the slogan for every live poultry man to preach.

Select eggs with a hard, firm shell, that will not be easily broken. Often the breaking of one egg in the nest will spoil a whole setting of eggs. Try to select eggs from the hens that have begun their laying period in late winter or early spring.

Don't try to raise chicks in a dark cellar without sunshine. Sunshine acts for a tonic to the little ones, and it is absolutely necessary that they have the light.

If you use an old brooder it is advisable to clean it thoroughly before putting the chicks therein. Also sprinkle a little air-slacked lime on the floor and then sweep it out. This will make the brooder sanitary.

Feed the oft-repeated advice not to feed the chicks too soon after they are hatched. Some people feel sorry for the newly hatched chicks and imagine they are doing them a good by giving them something to eat at once. Instead they are doing the chicks an injury. Don't feed for three or four or eight hours after they are hatched.

Even though the weather is cold, don't house the chicks too close. A tight brooder without the proper ventilation will raise havoc with the brood.

Don't use sawdust as a litter for chicks. Chicks are very apt to eat some of the sawdust, and some may get into their eyes. Fine sawdust also helps to breed lice.

Use drinkin' fountains for the chicks which can be easily cleaned. They should be so arranged that the chicks cannot get into them.

Cause of Toe-Pecking

Toe-pecking, a form of cannibalism sometimes found in flocks of little chicks, is frequently caused by punching the webs of the chicks' feet after they are several weeks old. When done at this time there is usually some bleeding, which attracts the attention of the chicks.

The trouble may easily be avoided by toe-marking the chicks when they are removed from the incubator. There is very little blood flow at that time and the chicks will not notice the marks. By the time they are a week old the holes will have healed.

The toe-marking is done early and care is taken to cut the hole in the centre of the web there will be little or no bleeding; if punched close to the toe there will be considerable bleeding. A scab usually forms in the hole, closing it up, but this will drop out in about ten days. The holes will grow larger as the chick grows older.

APPLES WITH MARSHMALLOWS

One of the nicest ways to cook a hard apple is to core it and place in the centre one marshmallow. The apple cooks, the marshmallow bubbles up and no sugar need be added.

Polish up the garden tools, sharpen the hoes and spades with a broad file or a grindstone and get them ready for the early spring work.

Some seeds that are slow in germinating should be started by soaking in water. Vines can be soaked for a long time before planting with beneficial results. Hard-shelled seeds will be benefited by soaking in water before planting and germination will be hastened by this process.

The annual pyrethrum, called golden scabber, generally used for borders, should be sown in February.

WHEN CLOSET ROOM IS SCARCE

A nickel towel rack, which can be purchased, including screws, for ten cents, fastened to the ceiling of your closet on which to suspend extra coats and hats, will increase your closet room fifty per cent, and will keep your skirts and coats from being mussed.

CODDLED APPLES.

Here is a variation of the baked apple which will be well received by apple-loving members of the family. Wash and core as many apples as desired, but do not pare them. Choose tart red fruit with as few spots as possible. Make a syrup of two cups of water and one cup of sugar; place the apples in it and cook until they are tender, but still retain their shape. Remove from the syrup, which should then be boiled until it is thick, after which it is poured around each apple before serving.

The Amateur Gardener

By RACHEL R. TODD, M.D.

Transplanting. While it is too early to actually do any transplanting by several weeks yet, still it is just as well to consider the matter in all its points.

Transplanting is the most important of all garden operations, without an exception. Everyone can prepare proper beds, if they have had experience, but transplanting is a matter of which to work. But transplanting is an art and should be spelt with capital letters.

The number of gardeners who raise splendid healthy seedlings successfully and then ruin all their work either by careless or ignorant transplanting is legion. Long ago I came to the happy conclusion that, aside from experienced gardeners, women who have had the management of homes and the raising of families make the best transplanters for one reason only: they understand "little things" and spare no pains over the smallest details. They do not rush the work; they do nothing haphazard and what is done is done with a thoroughness that cannot be questioned.

And it is on the watching of the "little things" that the future success of the transplanting depends.

Your beds have all been properly prepared for some weeks or months before you start to move the seedlings. This allows for the necessary settling that is sure to occur where perfectly new beds have been laid out. Your soil has been sufficiently watered the day before, so that the earth can be handled with comfort. You can't work in a mucky soil, you know. If you don't believe it, just try transplanting an hour or so after you have watered the beds. Some people have to learn by experience.

If possible choose a "gray day" for the work. If this cannot be managed altogether, take the early hour or two before breakfast, when the sun has not grown too strong, or late in the afternoon and an hour or two of the evening. I think the reason will be obvious to you.

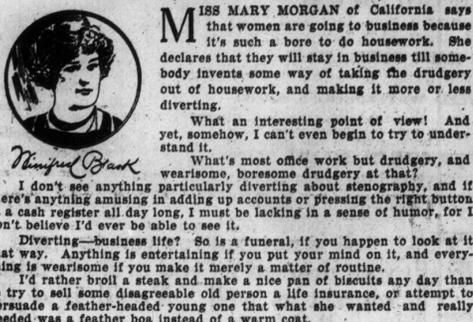

Where the beds are rather wide, four feet or more, plant the central portions first, otherwise you will need to lean across those already planted.

If you are putting in long lines of plants, keep your distances exact with some sort of a measure or a length of twine. The longer the bed the more necessary it is to use a measure, or some sort of control.

One of the best helps in all transplanting work is a square or rug prepared, or a bit of matting, on which you may kneel, and when you may place the lifted transplanting. It protects the limbs from a certain amount of dampness, and is a fine aid in keeping much litter of leaves and soil from the sod. Always remember that the after cleaning-up process is apt to be very tiresome, so save yourself all you can. Gardening is the hardest work at all times, don't forget.

Now, when putting the young plants, lift as much of the first soil in which they grow as possible, leaving it clinging around the fine hair-like roots. Plant quite deeply. Just here is where many make serious mistakes by not carrying out this rule. You must bear in mind that the earth in which you are working is loose and in a few days will settle down a great deal, what with wind and weather and rain and dew. Remember it is absolutely necessary to put the young things in as deeply as your conscience will allow. Having done this, shove them down a bit deeper yet, and they will probably be just right. See that the earth is settled down very firm around the central stalks. And be sure to spread out the rootlets along the loose soil, giving every chance to find themselves. Then last of all, sprinkle a layer of loose soil around them.

You should water them almost at once, especially if the work has been done in the sun. In any case they need a good refreshing drink after the shock of being moved from one spot to another. Where possible protect them from the sun for a day or two. Water in light sprinkles every morning and evening for several days, but do not soak.

SECRET OF THE PERPETUAL OVERCOAT

MY winter overcoat," said the man of moderate means. "I bought it in the winter of 1904-5, so it is now in its eleventh season; but it doesn't think that it is mean and shabby. For from it as a matter of fact, it is a pretty decent looking coat still, thanks to its original quality and the care I have taken of it.

"I buy my clothes ready made, but I buy pretty nearly the best, which I find to be sound economy. Good clothes look better, wear better and keep their shape better; they are better in every way, and in the long run they cost less than cheap clothes.

"For this overcoat, which I don't have cost, custom-made, anywhere from $40 to $75. I paid $40. It was a little too heavy, but it was of very excellent material, lined through with heavy silk of superior quality, and it was beautifully made. It had a velvet collar, which I don't fancy; but taken all together it was so fine a coat that I wore it with pride and pleasure.

"In the third winter the elegant silk lining began to show distinct signs of wear around the bottom. If there is one thing I can't stand it is a coat with a ragged or worn or patched lining. But this lining was still perfectly good everywhere except around the bottom edge, and I hated to go to the large expense of a complete new lining just for that ragged edge at the bottom.

"Then I had a bright idea. Besides having a velvet collar, which I don't like, the coat was originally a little longer than I like. I used to spatter mud up its back from my heels in sloppy weather. So what I did now was to have four inches cut off the bottom of the coat, and of course we shortened the lining to correspond, and this shortening cut off that ragged edge and left it completely whole again. I have always thought that that was a grand and scientific operation; and I like the coat much better so, too.

"The next winter the velvet collar began to show signs of wear. You can't wear a coat with a shabby collar; and I had a new silk velvet collar put on. So here was the coat still going very strong, sound in every way and looking all right, in its fourth winter's wear. But the next winter that highly superior heavy all-silk lining began to show unmistakable signs of wear. It started around the armholes, and I had them patched. But I had the work done by a tailor who was an artist in such things and who took an interest in his work. He put those patches on, precisely alike in both armholes, in such a way that really they looked as if they had been put on from the start. He used, to reinforce the fine silk lining there.

"But in the next winter, the sixth, that wonderful lining began to disintegrate. It was just simply worn out; and then, of course, there was nothing to do but to put in a new lining.

"I didn't feel warranted in spending the money that a new silk lining would cost and so I picked out a lining of some sort of material that I don't know the name of. It is black and with a little lustre, it looks a little like silk and it wears like iron. Of course the coat doesn't slip on now like a silk lined coat; but still the new lining does very nicely. In the eighth winter I had the collar again renewed, a new silk velvet collar.

"Besides having done so to it the things that I have described to you I have taken the best possible care of it in every way. In summer I put it in cold storage. This costs a little, but it is much cheaper than having it spoiled by moths while hanging in a closet. Before storing it I have it put in perfect order; buttons, button-holes, any little things that need doing I have looked after then so that when I get it out in the fall it is in perfect order, all ready to put on. This is always a great comfort to me.

"So now here is my winter overcoat in its eleventh season, still in proper shape and condition and quite fit to wear. But I will admit that it is now getting just a little threadbare, in some places, and that is something you can't restore; and also now it is beginning to get a little gray, a little faded in fact; and there comes a limit beyond which I can't afford to go.

"So next winter, if all goes well, I think I shall give this coat, sound as it still is, to somebody whose means are yet more moderate than my own, and treat myself to a new winter overcoat."

A BOUQUET EVENING BAG.

One of the newest evening bags has the bottom formed of closely placed, stemless rose buds; about these are rose leaves arranged like the old-fashioned stiff corsage bouquet. The upper half of the bag is of pale colored silk, neither very wide nor high; it is a delightfully spring-like affair, of slight cost to the maker.
