TWO BILLS PRESENTED HOUSE

One to Place Inland Shipping Under Jurisdiction of the Railway Commission.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Two bills were presented in the House this afternoon both of which were introduced last session, but failed to pass. J. E. Armstrong, of Lambton, renewed his bill to place shipping on inland waters under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission.

E. W. Jacobs, of Montreal, again presented his bill to amend the House of Commons Act. The bill provides that a by-election must be held within sixty days of a seat becoming vacant; that persons elected for two or more seats must declare within thirty days for which seat they will serve on a penalty of $200 a day, and further that polling days and elections shall be public holidays. The bills were read a first time.

Mr. Jacobs asked if it were true that the Canadian trade mission in London was being abolished. The Minister of Justice replied that no decision on the matter had been reached. Mr. McKenna, acting leader of the opposition, asked what the financial position was in regard to Romania. He had read in the press that the $25,000,000 credit was exhausted and that Canada had no security.

Mr. Doherty said a House committee with the Minister of Finance and five information later. Mr. Rowell read a statement in regard to war gratuity for returned soldiers which he said Sir Robert Borden had intended to lay before the House, but was unable to do so on account of his illness. The statement reviewed the correspondence between Sir Robert Borden and the G. W. V. A. in respect to the requested appointment of a commission to inquire into the question of further bonuses.

Mr. Rowell also read a comparative statement of the gratuities granted by the various Allied countries for war service. The figures given were based on the gratuity of a private with three years' service. They showed that Australia granted her married men in this class $114.15, and single men $92.52. New Zealand granted $54.15 plus $7 for each child under sixteen years, single $34.90; and Canada, married men, with overseas service, $600, single $420, and with home service, married men $300, single $210. In addition to the gratuity, said Mr. Rowell, the government accepted responsibility for giving pensions to the widows and orphans of dead soldiers; pensions to soldiers partially disabled; retraining of soldiers partially disabled; assisting returned soldiers to obtain employment; and assisting soldiers who desired it on the land.

Mr. Rowell stated that a bill to assist in the re-establishment of returned soldiers was now before the Senate, but as the Upper House had adjourned till September 22nd, it had been decided to introduce the bill into the House of Commons without delay, appointing a special committee to give it consideration.

HALIFAX G. W. V. A. RESOLVE FAVOR OF GRATUITY

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 12.—The G. W. V. A. of Halifax, at a meeting to-night, passed a resolution endorsing the request of the Dominion G. W. V. A. for a commission to inquire into the matter of a gratuity of $2,000 for returned soldiers. They also adopted a resolution favoring the housing scheme, under the Federal grant, which the City Council rejected at a meeting last night.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS FRIDAY APPROVED TREATY WITH POLAND

Debate on the Address Was Scheduled for Yesterday, Once Resolutions Were Out of the Way, But No Speakers Were Ready and it Was Again Adjourned.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Following brief discussion the House today approved the two more treaties, one in regard to administration of occupied Polish lands; the other, a treaty with Poland. Debate on the address was scheduled to resume once these resolutions were disposed of, but as no speakers were ready, it was again adjourned. In the course of discussion of the Polish treaty, Mr. Jacobs took the opportunity to protest against the

Former St. John Man, Professor At "Tech," Commits Suicide By Hanging

Special to The Standard. Winchester, Mass., Sept. 12.—Professor Charles Francis A. Currier fifty-seven years old, formerly of St. John, N. B., and a professor at Tech, ended his life by hanging himself to a bedpost in his home here.

Missed by his wife, she investigated and found his door locked. She called for assistance and Fellow Sergeant Thomas F. MacAuley succeeded in entering the room from a window overlooking the piazza, and found the body. Life had been extinct for several hours, according to medical examiner, Stewart of Webster.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home. Professor Currier had long been a resident of St. John previous to his coming here to assume the professorship of history at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For three decades he has been an authority on American and European history, constitutional law and municipal and town governments both in Canada and here. A brother, Robert Albert, resides in Fredericton, N. B.

SOLICITOR GENERAL GUTHRIE AND REV. KENNEDY-PALMER PASS COMPLIMENTS AT GUELPH HEARING

Rev. Henry Bourque, Rector of St. Stanislaus' Novitiate, Before the Examiners—Claimed Exemption for Students Because of Their Religious Work—Plenty of Pep in Yesterday's Proceedings.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—When the inquiry into the Guelph Novitiate charges resumed this morning Hon. Hugh Guthrie, solicitor-general, was called and was examined by Mr. E. L. Newcombe.

Mr. Guthrie said he had known Captain Burroughs all his life. He met him on the train one day returning from Guelph. Burroughs told him the Jesuits were protecting certain men in connection with military service. Burroughs gave witness the names of Craig, Newman and Alexander, as men of that class, and Mr. Guthrie handed those names to the Minister of Justice on his return to Ottawa. Witness had no idea this would be followed by a night raid, as there had been no discussion of that phase of the case.

Mr. Guthrie did not admit that he told Rev. Kennedy Palmer that the Jesuits were all right. He had no conversation with Mr. Palmer in regard to that matter.

To Mr. Ferguson Mr. Guthrie said he had not discussed the Guelph affidavit with Hon. Mr. Doherty until about three weeks ago, and he had no recollection of having said the Jesuits were all right. Mr. Kennedy Palmer thanking him for support in the Union election campaign, Mr. Guthrie identified his signature, but did not remember having written that particular letter. He had written similar letters to practically all the clergymen in Guelph.

Rev. Henry Bourque, rector of St. Stanislaus Novitiate, said that, prior to the raid, he had received one letter and two telephonic calls from Mr. Westobey of the registrar's department in London, asking why the young men of the Novitiate had not registered, and witness replied it was not necessary as they were exempt as members of religious order. He had also had a message from Col. White asking why his young men did not present themselves at exemption tribunals. To this he returned a reply similar to that given Mr. Westobey. He had had no other request for information prior to the raid which consequently came to him like a thunder-bolt.

Father Bourque said he had given exemption certificates to all the novices in the institution. Twelve such were produced in court.

Speaking of the night of the raid, Father Bourque said he was called down stairs to meet the visitors. One of them, Captain MacAuley, said he wanted "a roll of the members of the house in five minutes."

Witness then asked for Captain MacAuley's authority, and the visitor drew from his pocket a brassard bearing the initials "D. P. M." Witness told MacAuley that was not sufficient, and asked if he had nothing in writing to which no answer was received. Witness had read the copies of an order carried by Captain MacAuley, and recalled one section which stated that an officer, searching for military deserters, should produce written authority.

Mr. Justice Middleton: "It is not good form for one witness to say what another had said in false, you may say his memory is wrong."

Mr. Palmer: "Mr. Guthrie said certain evidence I gave was untrue, that is why I used the term I did."

Continuing Mr. Palmer said he had met Mr. Guthrie several times and had had conversations with him. Mr. Newcombe cross-examined witness as to his career as a minister. The witness said he was still on the roll of the Presbyterian church, but was preaching to Protestants all over the country.

And I'll be glad to preach to others, too, if they will listen to me."

Halifax, Sept. 12.—Bringing over eleven hundred returning soldiers, and the White Star liner Geopline arrived this evening from Liverpool.

The troops were in charge of Colonel Oler, C. M. G., D. S. O., of Ottawa. The Geopline will sail at daylight for New York.

EXTRA GRATUITY FOR SOLDIERS IS IMPOSSIBLE

The Parliamentary Com. Appointed to Deal With the S. C. R. is Not in Response to Soldiers' Demands.

$2,000 GRATUITY MEANS BANKRUPTCY

Should Gov't Accede to the Demand it Would Mean Borrowing $1,300,000,000 This Year.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Sept. 12.—A great deal of actor and purpose of the parliamentary committee that is being appointed to deal with certain matters connected with soldiers' civil re-establishment. It has been stated, for example, that the committee is being set up in response to the demands of Great War Veterans for a cash gratuity of two thousand dollars for each returned man, and that, consequently, it is a surrender of the position taken by Sir Robert Borden in his letter of last week to the Dominion secretary of the Great War Veterans in which the premier stated that the demand of the most absolutely prohibited by the country's finances, and that an enquiry into the position was wholly unnecessary.

Not justified. There is absolutely nothing to justify such an assumption. The parliamentary committee, appointment of which was announced by Mr. Rowell in the house today, has nothing whatever to do with the question of gratuities. The government takes the position that the financial capacity of the country to pay out gratuities which under the demand of the Veterans, would amount to $950,000,000 is so self-evident, that it is quite possible, that there is nothing to be investigated. The committee is merely for the purpose of dealing with amendments which have been introduced to legislation in connection with the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. A bill providing for such amendments was introduced in the Senate about ten days ago. It is quite possible, of course, that, in the event of the Veterans seeking for a hearing before the committee, their request will be met, and an intimation they might do so was given in the house today by Major Redman of Calgary.

Position Plain. The position of the government in regard to the demand for a two thousand dollar gratuity is plain. It is that, while the nation ought to stand prepared, and does stand prepared to do everything in its power for the men who fought its battles there is a limit beyond which the country cannot go without involving bankruptcy and ruin. At the present moment the national debt stands at $1,700,000,000, and at the end of the fiscal year it will exceed two billion dollars. Expenditures contracted for this year alone exceed $800,000,000. To meet there is a revenue of less than $300,000,000. The position, therefore, is that the government will have to borrow something like half a billion dollars to bridge the gap between expenditure and revenue. In other words, in order to make both ends meet it will be necessary to add to our present national debt at the beginning of the war.

It is a gigantic deficit an amount like $800,000,000 would mean only one thing. It would mean that the country would have to borrow within the next year something like $1,300,000,000 which, having regard to conditions, is absolutely unthinkable. The government, however, is dealing with the Veterans in no miserably fashion. Canadian pensions are the highest in the world. This year they will total $40,000,000. The gratuities now being paid out are greater than those given by any other country, and in addition the soldiers' land settlement scheme, recognized as the most generous and successful land policy adopted by any of the war nations, involves an expenditure of $130,000,000. Mr. Rowell emphasized all this today and showed by quoting statistics, that no other country compares with Canada in the generosity of its treatment of returned men, and it was significant only one witness, Inspector Dawes, was on the stand today. Inspector Dawes gave evidence as to the finding of Richards' body on the afternoon of August 22nd near the Nowlan home at Roy, and also told of conversations he had with the Nowlan woman on that day, which elicited little material information. The hearing closed about 4 o'clock this afternoon with addresses by E. R. McDonald, of Shediac, asking for the dismissal of the accused, and Louis P. Robichaud, of Richibucto, who represented the Attorney-General, R. W. Hewson, K. C., of Moncton, represented the Minister of Justice at the examination. Magistrate Daigle committed Nowlan to stand trial at the Kent Circuit Court, which meets on the second Tuesday in October.

STMR. CHESLTON REPORTED ASHORE ST. PAUL'S ISLAND

Halifax, Sept. 12.—A message was received this evening from the steamer Cheslton, reported ashore at St. Paul's Island, that she was in no danger, and that arrangements were being made to take her to Sydney. The vessel was on a voyage with lumber, from Chatham, N. B., for the United Kingdom.

St. Stephen Man Starts Enquiry Into Mystery Surrounding Death of Uncle

Special to The Standard. Mattapoisett, Mass., Sept. 12.—Asserting that his uncle, George Pierce, a summer resident at Crescent Beach, was murdered and was not burned to death through accident, Albert Pierce, of St. Stephen, N. B., has requested that a thorough investigation of the recent fire on the Pierce summer estate be made by Assistant District Attorney William F. Kane. George Pierce was burned to death. In his request for an investigation the nephew names a man who, he alleges, was an enemy of his uncle back in St. Stephen years ago because of family difficulties. It was because of this trouble that his uncle announced his intention of leaving there. On August 30, Pierce went to the barn on his estate to put his horse up for the night. He carried a lantern. A short time later the barn burst into flames. The charred body of Pierce was found in the ruins. The inquest finding stated that Pierce was kicked by the horse and rendered unconscious and that the overturning of the lantern set the barn on fire.

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS MUST KEEP FAITH WITH THE GOVERNMENT, SAYS O'CONNOR

Board of Commerce Has Schedule of Prices for Years Back and Investigation All Must Tally Correctly.

Special to The Standard. Toronto, Sept. 12.—"There has got to be good faith," declared Vice-Chairman O'Connor, of the Commerce Board today, when explaining that manufacturers and dealers would sit with fair price committees to be appointed for Ontario and Quebec, when prices being considered. "The cards are to be placed on the table. The actual figures to be disclosed, and if good faith is not being kept, it must be remembered that the Board of Commerce has, in Ottawa, all data for years as to costs, etc."

Mr. O'Connor also declared that manufacturers or producers exported necessities out of the country to enhance values, embargoes would be placed on the exportation of such goods. In giving evidence before the vice-chairman, D'Arcy Hinds advocated the establishment of markets throughout the city as a means of combating the increased cost of foodstuffs. He declared that the activities of larger firms had forced small dealers from existing markets, and that he would prosecute, said Mr. O'Connor. "The price of the brown sugar should have been only eleven cents."

"No dealer can at the present charges more than twelve and a half cents a pound for granulated and only that if it is purchased from the St. Lawrence Refinery. The price for other granulated sugar is twelve cents a pound. The price of yellow sugar from the St. Lawrence Refinery is twelve cents and other refineries eleven to eleven and a half cents. There is no justification for any higher price."

NECESSITIES MUST NOT BE EXPORTED

Various Schemes Suggested as a Means of Combating the Increased Cost of Foodstuffs.

Grand Falls, Sept. 12.—The inquest into the death of Felix Francoeur was held here this evening before coroner George Ryan, the following verdict being brought in: "We, the jury empaneled to enquire into the death of Felix Francoeur, find that he came to his death as the result of a bullet fired from a revolver in the hands of Joseph Grenier, in the Parish of Drummond, County of Victoria, Province of New Brunswick. Victor Burpee, foraman; Norman Warnock, Dennis Burpeeaux, M. Rainford, Patrick Baker, Burton Rideout, Dennis Paradis, jurors." Evidence was given by Napoleon Michaud, Alfred Michaud, Joseph Beaulieu and Dr. Claude Pée.

Dr. Pée, who made the autopsy, testified as to the nature of the wounds. Napoleon Michaud said he and his son, Alfred Michaud, were sitting on his doorstep with the deceased when Grenier came along. Some remarks were passed about the weather, when Grenier, addressing Francoeur, said: "You are a thief, you stole my logs." Francoeur made no reply and Grenier drew a revolver firing one shot which took effect in Francoeur's side. After firing the shot, Grenier went to his home and medical aid was summoned for the victim of the shooting, but to no avail.

Yesterday afternoon Grenier was landed in the jail here. In the morning Allan McLaughlin and W. E. Powell went out to his home, but they were told he had not been home and they returned to town without the prisoner. In the afternoon McLaughlin and Powell, accompanied by Jerry Sullivan, again visited the home of Grenier and were told the same story. They started a search, however, and located their man in the woods back of his home. He made no resistance and came quietly with his captors, who, a few hours later, lodged him in the jail to await trial for his deed.

REPORT THAT SIR ROBERT REFUSED TO MEET VETS' COMM. IS DENIED

Prime Minister States He Would Be Pleased to Meet Deputation from the G. W. V. A. at Any and All Times—Have Right to be Heard Before Special Committee.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—A recent statement in the press intimated that Sir Robert Borden had refused an interview to a deputation of G. W. V. A. officials, was given an absolute denial by Mr. Rowell today, who said the prime minister was glad to meet such deputations at any time.

Captain Manion asked that it be made clear that representatives of the G. W. V. A. who were here in regard to the bonus demand would be heard by the special committee of the house. Mr. Rowell replied there would be full provision for the hearing of all interested parties in the same as there had been on the case of pensions committee. The house then went into committee on the resolution respecting provisions for military occupation of the Rhineland and providing for approval of the agreement between the Allies and Germany on that subject.

GOAMPERS TRIES TO SETTLE THE POLICE STRIKE

Intercedes With Mayor Peters of Boston Requesting That Disputes be Held in Abeyance for a Time.

INCIDENT RIOTS LAST NIGHT

Governor Coolidge, Who Has All Authority, Remains Firm and is Insistent Policemen be Not Reinstated.

Special to The Standard. Boston, Sept. 12.—Tonight the city is quiet with the exception of incipient rioting in the suburbs, especially in South Boston, where the state's guardsmen killed two men Wednesday night. Stones were thrown, and shots were fired by the Guardsmen, but no one was hurt.

Efforts were made today by President Gompers of the A. F. of L. to have the men return to work. He sent a message to Mayor Peters asking that enforcement of the order forbidding the men joining a union affiliated with the A. F. of L. be held in abeyance until after the general Labor Conference called by the president for October 6.

Mayor Peters was told that if he did this, he would wire State Labor Organizer McCarthy to order the men back to work, and he was certain they would return and the situation would go back to the point where Mr. Curtis issued the order.

Mayor Peters replied that authority had passed out of his hands and into that of the Governor, who is in control of the armed forces, and the police. Governor Coolidge was asked what action he would take if the majority was presented to him, and said that he would probably discuss the situation with the men who brought it. The Governor stated today that, instead of being strikers, the policemen should be classed as deserters and, as such, should be punished by not reinstating them at all in any event. In the opinion of Governor Coolidge, expressed in an interview today, the members of the Boston Policemen's Union are not strikers, but are guilty of desertion of duty. There can be no arbitration, the Governor says, of the question whether they should be permitted to join the A. F. of L., because such action is expressly forbidden by the rules of the Police Department, which are "the law of the Commonwealth."

The Governor says there can be "no arbitration of government and law." The Governor could not think of any circumstances, he said, under which the striking police officers could be reinstated.

"Governor, Will you tell us why the police objects to affiliation of the police with the A. F. of L.?" one reporter asked.

"That is something that the State has nothing to do with," replied the Governor. "Internal direction of the police department is wholly in the hands of the police commissioner."

The Governor was asked: "What are the objections to permitting them to affiliate with the A. F. of L.?"

"Those have been stated so many times that I hardly think it necessary to go into them again. They were stated last night by President Wilson very clearly, but, perhaps, I might once more suggest that the primary objection is that it is fundamental that the control of the government and of the maintenance of law and order must remain in the hands of the properly constituted authorities."

The next query put to the Governor was: "Will you negotiate with the strikers to see if a basis can be arrived at for their return?"

Tax Collections During Three Days

Seventy-Five Per Cent. of Assessment Gathered in Under Discount Scheme—More Money Than Last Year.

While the total amount of money received by the City Chamberlain in 1919 was greater, the total number of persons paying their taxes this year before the ending of the discount period was considerably less. The chamberlain announced yesterday that 75.4 per cent of the total assessment had been paid while the percentage last year for the same period was 75.

The figures in detail as given out by the Chamberlain follows:

1919.	1918.
Total assessment $1,295,573	$1,041,685
Total taxes paid in discount period	983,182
Total percentage in discount period	75.3
Number of taxpayers in discount period	9,558
Number of taxpayers in discount period	8,704

Last year the tax-paying period ended on August 2, and in the three days, July 31, August 1 and 2, a total of 2,774 taxpayers paid in $557,173. This year in the three days, September 8, 9, and 10, 5,184 taxpayers paid in $704,592.

No More Deposits From Bootleggers

Police Magistrate Issues Instructions Regarding Arrests Under Prohibition Act—Other Police Court Matters.

With the remark that he could recognize a bootlegger at sight and that some would get by him without the full fine being imposed, Magistrate Ritchie yesterday ordered that in future no deposits would be accepted for the appearance of those who have been arrested on a bootlegging charge. In the case of a deposit being forfeited, no conviction is registered against the offender and the full penalty, in case of a third offence, cannot therefore be enforced.

Charles Crawford, arrested on the North Market Wharf on the charge of violating the prohibition law, failed to make his appearance and forfeited his deposit of $200.

One drunk was given the usual sentence. Richard McLeod, Almas Marr and Lee Livingstone met Alexander Ford somewhere along the Marsh road on Thursday evening and as a direct result these three married men, with families, were up before the judge yesterday morning, charged with being drunk and with stealing vegetables to the value of $5 from the garden of James Hume, Lakewood. The three men were re-arrested until Tuesday when Mr. Turner will report the extent of damage done.

J. Everett Watters was fined $10 for driving on the wrong side of Main street and for obstructing the path when passengers were alighting from a street car.

Isaac Babb was fined $5 for allowing his cow to run at large on Water street, West St. John, on Sunday last.

Thomas Clarke was fined $4 for allowing two horses to be at large on Water and Lancaster streets, West St. John, on Monday last.

Daniel Doertry was fined $5 for having a revolver in his automobile in the public streets on Thursday afternoon. In pleading guilty, he said he had taken it to keep it from the hands of his smaller brothers, but the fine was ordered to be paid, nevertheless.

SALVATION ARMY TO ESTABLISH HOME FOR GIRLS

Special to The Standard. Moncton, Sept. 12.—Brigadier Moore of St. John, head of the Salvation Army in New Brunswick, and Col. Miller, of Toronto, launched a movement here tonight for a Provincial Home for Girls.

Mayor Price presided over the meeting which was held in the City Hall. Several citizens participated in the meeting and the consensus of opinion was in favor of establishing such a home, to be located at Moncton or some central point, as different parts of the province may decide. Brigadier Moore states that the records showed that from 250 to 400 girls passed through New Brunswick courts every year.

An organization committee, with Adjutant Elsworth chairman, was appointed to visit other parts of the province and get the views of the people of the province on the advisability of erecting the proposed home.

BAPTISTS REOPEN THEIR CHURCH AT BURTT'S CORNER

Burt's Corner, Sept. 12.—"The end of a perfect day" came more than poetically to our Baptist brethren last Sabbath at Burt's Corner, when the crowded congregations went home and the happy and expected goal had been reached by Pastor and people.

After a strange medley and the most wondrous improvisations of weather during the week, the gracious weather man, by the sun, blessed the day into golden beauty and the evening into moonlight glory, which brought far more people to the church all day, than could get in even after crowding communion-rail and choir alongside preachers and singers.

Pastor and people of the church showed both grace and courtesy to their fellow-workers in the community, in that they asked Rev. C. E. Cooke, Diocesan, and Rev. W. Lawson, Methodist, to be the preachers. Morning and afternoon, which was evidence of the brotherly and happy relations obtaining between the Christian people and ministers of the community. The only reason why an Episcopal minister was not asked to participate in the auspicious event, was that Church is without a minister at present. I say so on my own account, as reported, because I know good Pastor Brown and people so well to be lovers of Christian fellowship with all God's people.

The preacher of the morning, Bro. Cooke, was greeted with an audience enough to impale his very best message for his Master, as he spoke from St. Matthew's Gospel, third chapter, and third verse: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Your correspondent was not able to be at the service, but heard that Bro. Cooke excelled himself in his discourse, and an "Uncle" from the Holy One" attended its deliverance. The result financially was excellent.

The afternoon preacher happened to be your special correspondent and of course modesty prevents him from saying anything about himself more than that, the people thronged outside as well as inside of the church, and gave him such a hearing that he could not help feeling as we Methodists say "Great Liberty" in preaching. An ancient to the modern church" from the Prophet, Ezekiel, 37th chapter and first verse: "The hand of the Lord was upon me and carried me out in the Spirit of the Lord and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones."

In the evening as under gathering influences for good, the people again stood outside the wide open vestibule of the church and listened to another of those able, eloquent and practical sermons in which they have delighted ever since Mr. Brown became their pastor, with as close attention as if seated comfortable inside the church. The text itself, commanding and inspiring under any conditions, but more so in these exceptional ones was captivating, as the preacher with his natural, and acquired habit of fine exposition, opened up its treasures to our receptive minds. Ephesians third, twenty and twenty-one: "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly, above all we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us; unto Him be congratulated. The only "Fly in the ointment" that day was, the fact

Trades And Labor Met Last Night

Two New Unions Organized—No Delegates for Canadian Convention—Will Save the Money.

The Trades and Labor Council met last evening, with President Campbell in the chair. In spite of the weather there was a good attendance of delegates and considerable business was dealt with.

President Campbell reported that the fair had been a success, but that all accounts had not yet been made up. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the carnival next week reported progress. Complaints were made that the pictures taken of the procession on Joy Day did not do justice to labor's part in the parade.

Sincerely yours,
WM. LAWSON.

Phillie Selick.
Special to The Standard.
Moncton, N. B., Sept. 12.—Phillie Selick, veteran hunter and guide, known to many sportsmen throughout the province, is dead at the age of nearly ninety. Some twenty-five or thirty years ago Hunter Selick was a prominent figure at exhibitions in this province, having a menagerie of moose, bear and other animals caught in the wilds of New Brunswick. He claimed to be the first man in the world to breed moose in captivity. Deceased was a native of Prince Edward Island, but had resided in this province for many years. The Canadian woods had been his chief hunting ground in his active hunting days.

Justice Must be Even-handed.
(L'Evenement.)
"But when all the guilty monopolists and profiteers have been brought to justice, it will be equally necessary to arrange before the same tribunal those who, in another sense and for the profit of a popularity to which they have no right, have excited the people by unjust accusations against those who are not responsible for the economic discomfort we are suffering. These people, like the others, unjustly exploit the working people, and are the cause of grave disorders in society. Justice for all. That is the price of peace and good order."

The Case of the Veterans.
(La Patrie.)
"The Government ought not to turn a deaf ear to the claims of our glorious combatants. It is their duty to hear them and render justice to the men. If financial resources are lacking, let the Government take from those who contributed nothing from those who contributed nothing from their riches during the tragic years the national existence was in peril and give to those who have saved the country."

At Gross Purposes.
(Toronto Times.)
"The opposition is divided against itself. Mr. D. D. McKinnon holds that Canada cannot vary the Peace Treaty by so much as the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't.' Mr. Lapointe at the same time demands that Parliament accept the treaty only with stipulated reservations. How are such diverse views to be harmonized?"

Live Canadian Political Views

Extracts from Articles on Conditions in the Dominion During Reconstruction.

Carleton.
(Fredericton Gleaner.)
Premier Foster, in opening the Woodstock Exhibition on Tuesday, were very liberal in their promises of expenditures next year in Carleton. There is to be a Federal by-election in the county this year, on October 27th next, in which Premier Foster and the members of his Executive are not interested. There may also be a Provincial by-election before another. Mr. Veniot, the Minister of Public Works, promised a large and handsomely designed bridge from the Woodstock station to the Exhibition grounds—next year. Mr. Tweeddale announced that, if he recommends it, the Government will make the Woodstock show an annual fair—beginning next year; and he felt that the people should know that his whole interest centered in Carleton county. The Minister of Lands and Mines, and another Minister, but without portfolio, were now satisfied that there is nothing too good for Carleton—next year. The Premier needs only to be asked and he will grant his ideas, you would have me do?—next year. And so on. Mr. Foster evidently lacks appreciation of the intelligence of the people of Carleton.

Another Liberal Better.
(Ottawa Journal.)
Hon. W. B. Fielding is not the only Liberal leader to accept the National Liberal Convention's tacit platform with "interpretations and reservations." Mr. J. A. Robb, the chief Liberal Whip in the House of Commons, has been giving his ideas on things political to the Vancouver Province and, in the course of the conversation, said:
"I am not aware that the Liberal party of Canada under Mr. King's leadership is a free trade party. I do know that the Liberal party is a tariff reform party today as it has always been, but a party of free-traders. Such can not be the case."
"A tariff reform party today as it has always been." That will be an interesting reading for the western trader when he remembers the extent to which this "tariff reform party" reformed the tariff during fifteen years of power. Also, it should be interesting to those in the west who, fearing a general desertion from the ranks of Liberalism to the ranks of the Grain Growers, expect that there is really no difference between the fiscal views of the Grain Growers and the Grifts.
"They have used our label, but the goods are not in the cans," said Gladstone of a famous Tory proposal. A similar thought must come to Mr. Cramer and his friends as they compare the Liberal platform with the words of Fielding and Robb.

(Montreal Gazette.)
The House of Commons is still debating the Government resolution expressing Canadian approval of the Peace Treaty. The discussion is scheduled to end today, and there is no reason why the schedule should not be adhered to. The discussion certainly has furnished no such reason. Beginning with a proposed agreement as to the nature and extent of the responsibilities to be assumed by the Dominion by reason of its membership in the League of Nations, the opposition have, with some encouragement from the other side of the House, come down to an entirely profitless palaver on the question of Canada's national status as affected by the treaty. The proposition that Canada has attained a higher position of nationhood must depend for its proof upon something other than the character of this debate. If Canada has indeed risen to a new place among the world's nations, the fact is due to the part which the Canadian people played in the war, rather than to any formality of penmanship performed at the war's conclusion. The fact does not was the due in these things.

Routine Matters Were Considered By Common Council

A Special Meeting of Commissioners Was Held Yesterday Morning—Tax Collections Quite Satisfactory.

A special meeting of the Common Council was held yesterday. Commissioner Bullock was absent.

The report of the committee of the whole was adopted without amendment. That authority be granted the Imperial Motor Company to install a gasoline tank and pump at 269-300 Union street; that the request of the Motor Agency & Repair Co. for permission to install a gasoline tank and pump at 69 City Road be not complied with; that the Telegraph Publishing Co. be allowed to discontinue operation of their electric sign on Saturday of each week instead of Sunday; that the commissioner of safety be authorized to buy 75 pairs of cloth from Mark Fisher at $7.50 per pair.

A petition for the renewal for three years of these leases to stores in the city market building was received from the following: A. Chipman Smith & Co., $1,500 per year; DeForest & Co., $1,000 per year; J. J. Manson, $1,000 per year; and W. Peterson, $1,000 per year. Referred to the commissioner of safety.

A complaint concerning catch basins on Wright street, entered by V. E. Lavoie, was referred to Commissioner Fisher. The latter stated that catch basins had been provided on Wright street and the street put in a good state of repair.

A petition from owners of property on Protection street, asking that a fence there, alleged to be a menace to the health, be removed and the street put in good condition, was referred to the commissioner of public works for a report.

A request from Charles A. Macdonald for a reduction in assessment on the Macdonald building, King street, occupied by T. McAvity & Sons, Ltd., was referred to the committee of the whole.

A request by R. A. Davidson for the Motor Agency and Repair Co., that his clients be permitted to install a gasoline tank and pump in a yard in the rear of 69 City Road, was referred to the commissioner of safety.

A letter from the sub-district Board of Health, asking that the city prevent trespassing on city property on the shores of Spruce Lake by parties likely to pollute the water supply, was referred to the commissioner of water and sewerage.

A letter from the sub-district Board of Health, calling attention to nuisances on the Shamrock grounds and Elm street dump, was referred to the commissioner of water and sewerage.

A letter from the National Conference on moral education in the schools in relation to Canadian citizenship, asking that the Council consider sending a representative to Winnipeg to participate in the conference on October 29-31 next, was referred to the mayor with power to act.

An appeal of the N. B. Power Co. for relief in assessment was referred to the committee of the whole.

Authority was granted the commissioner of water and sewerage to charge an additional amount of $1,072.45 against maintenance to compensate for the extension of the water pipe at Lake Fitzgerald. It is the final estimate.

Commissioner Fisher remarked that attention had been called in an evening paper of the authority vesting in regard to assessment had been chiefly about increase in taxes, which resulted from an increase in assessment, over last year, of $250,000. The increase had affected some people to a considerable extent. So far as the working of the new act was concerned, there was little complaint.

AROUND THE CITY CLEARING.

FOR ORPHANS' HOME. Mayor Hayes yesterday morning acknowledged receipt of $33.38 from the Sutton Knitting Circle for the Protestant Orphans' Home.

INSPECTION TRIP. John Kelly, inspector of lights, left yesterday on his annual inspectional visit to the light stations along the St. John river.

LURCHER LIGHTSHIP. Work on the Lurcher Lightship is progressing rapidly and it is expected that the well known beacon will be back doing business at the old stand within the coming week.

PRIZE WINNERS. The drawing of the prizes in connection with the Bishop's annual picnic recently held at Torriburn resulted as follows: Gold brooch, Mr. Caplan, 49 Paddock street; clock, Mendel Flaherty, 145 St. James street; razor, Kenneth Shellington, Lake Wood; bureau set, Mrs. Callahan, 25 Bridley street.

ATTENDED EXHIBITION. Rev. C. S. Young of Apohaqui, was a passenger on the C. P. R. from Woodstock on Friday morning. Mr. Young has been paying a visit to his brother, J. C. Young of Woodstock, and to his sister, Mrs. C. M. Dow. Mr. Young attended the St. John Valley Exhibition and reports it excellent and largely attended by many visitors from Maine and New Brunswick.

A PROTEST. This resolution has been adopted by the Centenary Church Official Board: "It having been brought to the attention of this Board that there is a movement with a view of introducing Sunday evening concerts: Resolved, that this Board regrets that such a proposition should be made, and strongly deprecates the action of the promoters, and trust that the idea may be abandoned."

CHILD WELFARE WORK. A visitor in St. John yesterday was Mr. O'Brien, secretary of the University settlement work in Montreal. During his stay here Mr. O'Brien interviewed Mrs. Richard Hooper of the board of health concerning the child welfare work being undertaken in this city and offered every assistance in his power towards the success of a child welfare exhibition if this could be arranged for St. John at some future time.

SCHOOL CHANGES. Arrangements to cope with the crowded condition of the city schools are being made and on Thursday a room was opened in the assembly hall of the High School. This will accommodate the scholars from grade nine, and will be in charge of Miss Mary Lingley.

Decks were yesterday moved in the Alexandra School to the assembly hall there and a grade five will be installed.

BROKE HIS LEG. The many friends of F. S. Thomas, the well-known North End merchant, will be sorry to learn that he is confined to his home, Douglas avenue, suffering from a broken leg. On Wednesday, while doing some work around his home, an outside trapdoor gave way under him and the fall resulted in his breaking his leg in two places. Last night he was reported to be resting as well as could be expected.

FISH AND CHIPS. Fishermen just now are making fine catches of hake. There are plenty of fine sardines for sale. A returned man remarked yesterday that it was a wonder the quick lunch counters did not serve fried fish and chips, which is a favorite form of snack lunch in England. Fish are very plentiful this summer, and a greater use of fish would have a tendency to bring down the prices of meats. For a night lunch men and canteens are more agreeable and more satisfying than the pies which are eaten in enormous quantities here.

WANT POLICE PROTECTION. In reference to a letter in yesterday's papers from a resident of the Parish of Simonds complaining about the lack of police protection, a County Councillor stated that the Parish had the remedy in its own hands. The Parish can apply for powers to assess itself for police purposes. The Parish of Lancaster pays for its police protection. One of the complaints of Simonds, however, is that it needs police protection from some people who ordinarily live in St. John.

It is understood that attendance is by invitation, and that one of St. John's women physicians will leave for New York shortly.

Cathedral Holy Name Communion Sunday tomorrow.

Board of Health Closely Watching Typhoid Cases

Present Outbreak Said to be Due to Unsanitary Housing Conditions—Water and Milk Inspected.

The typhoid situation and the premises in which the disease has found a fertile breeding ground were subjects thoroughly discussed yesterday morning at a conference of public health officials composed of Dr. G. G. Melvin, chief medical health officer; Dr. J. F. L. Brown, district health officer; Dr. W. L. Ellis, health officer for the city and county; Solomon McConnell, chief inspector, and T. M. Burns, secretary of the Board of Health.

After considerable discussion, the finding of the conference was that the present number of typhoid cases is not in excess of the average number for past seasons, and that those which have arisen in the city are due mainly to unsanitary housing conditions, especially in cases where there was no proper sewer connection. Dr. Johnson, daily inspector, went on a visit to various districts yesterday and will make a thorough investigation of the milk supply sources, but it is the general opinion of the medical fraternity that the milk sold and vendored in the city is of an exceptionally high quality. In no case of typhoid yet reported has there been any "repeats" in respect to the milk supply issued to patients now under treatment have secured the lactical fluid from different dealers.

Dr. Melvin has ordered that the city water be thoroughly examined twice monthly, so that in the case of the bacteria increasing the authorities will be informed in the shortest possible time.

The Board of Health will go ahead with its fight for better and more sanitary housing accommodations, especially in Erin, Brunswick, Chesley and Lombard streets, where most of the present infection has been located. The fact that some 257 houses were reported to have sanitary conveniences installed at the quarterly meeting of the board gives rise to the belief that the matter will be dealt with promptly and efficiently.

Following the conference in the Board of Health rooms in the morning, the members visited the General Public Hospital, where the situation was discussed with Doctors. Abramson, Rowley, Bentley, Addy and Dolan.

No additional cases of typhoid have been reported to the board either yesterday or the day before, which gives foundation to the belief that the disease is being held well in hand.

G. W. V. A. Members Establish Stores

Province of Manitoba to Have Chain of One Hundred Cooperative Stores. Under Veterans.

Of in Manitoba some of the members of the G. W. V. A. have started cooperative stores and much interest is being taken in this scheme. The idea is to cement a firmer friendship between the returned soldier and the civilian and try to make the soldier better for everyone. The money to finance the venture is put up by individual members and while the stores are to have the support of the G. W. V. A., the capital is not association funds.

In the town of St. James, Man., such a store was opened recently, the company in charge being known as the St. James' Veterans Co-operative Society. This is a limited society to be managed for the people by the people.

At the present time the majority of the directors are members of the G. W. V. A., and seeing that these men organized the scheme, it was thought it only right and proper that these men should place the society on a working basis. But two of these men will retire in the month of November of this year and five more in February of next year, which will create a vacancy that can be filled by citizens who are shareholders may then elect. The society has secured the services of F. E. Corbett as manager. For a number of years Mr. Corbett was a departmental manager with the T. Eaton company, previous to enlisting. He was assistant instructor of the sanitary class at the vocational schools, Manitoba college.

The plan at present is to have a chain of one hundred of these co-operative stores throughout Manitoba first, then to be in the city of Winnipeg.

The matter has not come up for discussion as yet at any of the meetings of the St. John branch of the G. W. V. A., though members are familiar with the idea and have discussed it among themselves.

PERSONALS

Mrs. George McDavitt and daughter, Miss Mary McDavitt, of Shediac, spent the last two weeks visiting Mrs. McDavitt's sister, Mrs. William O'Keefe. John L. Armstrong, Mrs. Armstrong and Miss Armstrong, who have been visiting Mrs. Armstrong's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Thomas McKenna, St. John West, left on Thursday evening to return to their home in Binghamton, N. Y.

Miss Winifred Dowd returned Thursday from a two months' visit with her sister, Mrs. H. G. Atchison, Parkdale, Toronto. Miss Dowd, while away, also visited Niagara, Boston, Detroit, Mrs. Atchison and her husband were former residents and left here a couple of years ago.

Brigadier Moore, commander of the local division of the Salvation Army, left yesterday for Moncton on a business trip.

Cocoa Shipment From St. John For New York Market

Fifteen Hundred Bags of Cocoa Will be Sent to New York by Barge No. 46.

Something rather unusual in the line of export is the work of the motor barge Number 46, which arrived here yesterday from Yarmouth in ballast and will load a full cargo of cocoa at the West Side docks for the New York market.

The cargo which the hopper is taking was brought to this port on the American schooner Mabel Gale, and consisted of some 1,500 bags, consigned to Messrs. Nagle & Wigmore. It is not a common thing for a port so far north as St. John to export such a tropical article as cocoa, particularly to such a large port as New York, where there is direct steamship connection with producing countries.

After High Rents In The Queen City

A City Council Committee in Toronto Investigating Matter of Rents—Tenants Have General Kick.

"Toronto is full of troubles, and life for the authorities there is one long worry," said Arthur Lewis, of the Queen City. "Between the Veterans and the poor who are going before the courts, and the politicians who are earning their money if they don't light out—not because they want to, but because they have to."

"The latest thing is the investigation, started by the City Council, into the question of rents. And it is not only the poor who are going before the committee and registering loud kicks. The well-to-do are joining in the outcry against rent profiteering. The City Council committee being urged to go after legislation putting a limit of ten per cent. on the landlord's returns."

"One case brought before the committee by a well-known lawyer showed that the landlord was charging rents which netted him a return of two hundred per cent. after allowing for depreciation and every conceivable expense. These disclosures being made before the City Hall committee have aroused the people. The City Council will have to call on the law to set up Fair Rent Courts such as they have in Australia, and the landlord will have to be content with a moderate return on his investment."

Fredericton Fair Is Event of Season

Capital City in Gala Attire for Opening of Mammoth Exhibition There Today.

Fredericton is all ready for the big exhibition which officially opens today and the capital city is in gala attire to receive the thousands who plan to do the day before the big agricultural, industrial and mechanical event of the season. The Fredericton exhibition has always, in years past, been a hummer and it was the intention to have it because you always received, in an educational and entertaining way, more for your money than you could get elsewhere.

After an enforced suspension, on account of the war, the association comes back this year with greater of every class of displays, and the satisfaction than ever before. New buildings have been erected, grounds improved and the whole vast equipment put in first class shape for the exhibition. The management is at its wits' end to find room for the many class grades that are to be shown. All floor space in the agricultural, horticultural and industrial buildings has been snapped up by eager exhibitors and the best products of the farm, garden and factory class are here aplenty.

The "Midway," an attractive side issue of all fairs or exhibitions, will be all to the merry. The fifty up to the minute attractions from Luna Park and Revere have been secured. Airplanes will fill daily over the grounds and there will be numerous other attractions to please, entertain and mystify. The whole affair is on one week beginning today. This is the exhibition you want to see.

MISTAKEN FOR A MOORISH MAID

When Nina Morgana, the youthful soprano who will be heard here on Oct. 7th, at the Imperial Theatre, was studying in Milan, she was only fifteen at the time, and very dark in color—Maestro Tullio Serattini called upon her with a view to engaging her for the soprano lead in "Il Vardiere di Siviglia."

Nina Morgana, wearing rather an Oriental robe, opened the door to admit the Maestro, who said "Little Moorish girl, will you please tell your Mistress, Nina Morgana, that Maestro Serattini wants to see her and take her away for the part of 'Rosina' in 'The Barber.'" Miss Morgana at once informed the Maestro that she was not a Moor, despite the evidence present, and that she would be very glad to sing the part if her teacher would allow it.

Mrs. Teresa Arkel, however, thought otherwise. She refused to give her permission. "If you go away from here now, you will never come back, and you will be a spoiled girl, the instance of a great one. When you are ready you shall sing in Grand Opera."

Professional Engineers Seek Incorporation

To be Known as Association of Professional Engineers of New Brunswick.

The first steps toward the forming of the Association of the Professional Engineers of New Brunswick, and the having passed at the next session of the Legislature, an act bringing such body into corporate existence was taken yesterday afternoon at a meeting held in the board of trade rooms. A provisional executive, composed of a president, vice president and nine councillors, was chosen and they were given power to make any changes necessary in the draft act to meet local conditions.

The meeting was called to order by C. C. Kirby, who represented New Brunswick on the committee which drew up the draft bill. Mr. Kirby was chosen chairman and A. R. Crookshank secretary of the meeting.

After the chairman had outlined the reason for calling the meeting, Geoffrey Stean of Chatham, moved, supported by G. E. Martin, that the meeting endorse the principles of the suggested legislation and take steps to form an association to further the legislation called for and that a provisional executive be elected by the meeting. This was carried unanimously.

The election of officers resulted as follows: C. C. Kirby, president; G. Stead, vice president. On motion St. John was made the headquarters of the association. On motion of F. G. Goodspeed, seconded by G. E. Martin the number of councillors was placed at seven.

It was moved by C. O. Foss and seconded by R. Fraser Armstrong, that a nominating committee of three be chosen by the chair to nominate the councillors. This carried and the committee were named as the committee: G. Stead, G. N. Hatfield, G. E. Howie.

Fame is a shadow, reputation is a bubble, and fifteen years is a long, long time; but there may be some who recall Solomon Lee, who pitched the Corsairs to two pennants before the bright lights got into his eyes and blinded him.

Lee came up from nowhere with a good right arm, a steady nerve, a strong body, and an individual style which set the baseball world ablaze. Expert opinions differ as to his ability; but the old-timers who played against Solomon Lee when he was at his best say that "it wasn't so much what he had as how he used it." There were men in the league with more speed, and men with better curves, yet there was something about the Corsair recruit which caused him to be hailed as the greatest find of the decade—and he was. It was his style that did it.

Solomon Lee had a style, individuality; personally, if you like. Personality is a great thing on the ball field as well as off, and Solomon Lee's performance in the box after the fall of personality. He did the common things in an uncommon way. He copied no pitcher that ever lived; and every move he made was hall-marked with the peculiar individuality of Solomon Lee.

Lee was a sensation for two seasons, and then the bright lights got him. He made the common mistake of thinking that youth, strength, and nerve force are indestructible qualities. The splutter of the limelight was music to Solomon Lee. He loved to have men point him out as he walked along the street. The "sports" flattered him; and he swallowed the flattery with the drinks which were proud to buy for him. Solomon Lee was "a good feller," which means that he was a combination of bad fellow and a fool. He made his friends among those who were always glad to strike the match which would light his candle at both ends. An athlete does not last very long after the bright lights begin winking at him.

Solomon Lee began to fade during his third season, and snuffed out entirely during his fourth. Ed Terrill, the veteran manager of the Corsairs, found that he could not trade Lee. The once great pitcher was an exploded skyrocket—an empty shell. Nobody wanted him at any price. He had a reputation as a demoralizer, and no manager wants that sort of player on his pay roll.

Solomon heard the mutterings of the approaching storm and paid no attention to them. One morning, he pitched up his favorite pipe, and the first paragraph which caught his eye stung him until the red crept into his neck.

Solly Lee is all through as a big leaguer. He will go to the minors next season. It seems a pity to say it, but he will never be a millionaire. He has been an evil influence on the team, and has reflected no credit on the national game. His conduct has been a bad example to all decent ball players, his dissipation has become a scandal; and, as a result, Solomon Lee, who might have continued on as a great pitcher for years to come, is all done when he should be beginning his career. The memory which he leaves behind him is in the nature of a warning. Men like Solomon Lee add nothing to the dignity of clean sport, and leave nothing but a bad name behind them when they go.

This editorial sermon on the sporting page got under Solomon's thick skin. At first he burned to go down to the office of the Sphere and walk the man who wrote the article. With that idea in mind, he clipped the item from the paper and put it in his pocketbook. That night, at the hotel, he received no less than fifty letters, all inclosing the same paragraph from the morning paper. Two or three of the writers, friends of the bright-light newspaper, urged Solomon to whip the newspaper man; but all the rest were on the other side of the fence.

His Friends Turn.

One anonymous fan wrote: "You've been a drunk and a bum, and if it hadn't been for you we'd have had another pennant this year. I hope they tie the can on you so tight you'll never be able to get it off."

Another: "Read this, you big stiff. We're getting on to you in this town. Solomon Lee was nostroneg go logic and when forty-five men sided with the paragrapher, he changed his mind about revenging himself. He read the article over and over again, and some of the sentences burned themselves into his memory deep enough to leave a scar."

"Men like Solomon Lee... Leave nothing but a bad name behind them when they go." Nothing but a bad name! That was the phrase which hurt the most.

Solly knew that he was going away. He knew he was going to the minors. He realized that his effectiveness had deserted him; but he had blamed his losing games upon hard luck, the convenient alibi of the ball player. Terrill had warned him, threatened him, and fined him times without number. Lee had made himself believe that this was because the manager "had it in for him." Never once had he looked at the situation fairly in the face, and now, at twenty-six, just when he should have been on the crest of the wave of popularity, he found himself in the breakers with the rocks beyond.

talk with Billy Bigelow. Billy was the clever shortstop of the club, the brains of the Corsair infield, and the only real friend Lee had on the team. "They say I'm all done," said Lee bitterly. "It's a dirty lie, Billy. Don't you believe it. I'm as good as I ever was in my life, but things haven't been breaking right for me this season. You know that. Terrill never had any use for me, and those stiffs on the bench—"

"Get in shape as early as you can in the spring, cut out the booze this winter, and show them that you're still there. Terrill hasn't got it in for you, Solly. You know you've been stepping some pretty fierce heats; and that row you had in St. Louis didn't help matters any."

"Yes," said Solomon Lee. "Give a dog a bad name, and then everybody takes a kick at him. I'm down now, but I won't stay down. I'll make Terrill send for me."

"That's the stuff!" said Bigelow. Solomon Lee really meant it at the time, but he found the minor league a little faster than he had expected. All leagues are a trifle fast for the ball player who does not take care of himself.

To begin with, Solly did not take the trouble to get into good condition. He had no money, so he sought work in a bowling alley where drinks were served. High-ball averages was a high one; and when he was particularly well oiled up, he used to say that, in the minor league, he would "get by" on his class. He had all a big leaguer's lily disdain for those who have never been in "the big show."

Solomon Lee did not get by on his class. He did not get by at all. The wild young men from the bushes out-pitched him, and the opposing clubs fell on the big-league club without proper respect for his feelings, and hammered his peculiar delivery forty-two ways from the home plate. He did not even finish the season with the Clags A club.

Next year there was a Lee pitching in an outlay league on the Pacific Coast; but not for long. It is many miles from the Sierras to the bright lights, but word drifted back—bad news will always find its own messenger—that this Lee was the once celebrated Solomon, all in, down and out, and drinking like a fish.

After the outlaws dismissed him, he dropped out of sight entirely. Solomon Lee became no more than a memory, which stirred slightly in the springtime when the papers were full of the doings of the new men at the training camps.

"This recruit," the dispatches might say, "is another Solomon Lee, or 'The now pitcher'—one strongly of Solomon Lee. He has many of the mannerisms of that unfortunate athlete."

Lee Was Forgotten.

The last remark of course, might have been taken for a knock-off or a boost. Managers did not want any more Solomon Lees; nor did they get them. Not one of the recruits carried the fancied resemblance far beyond the opening day of the season.

A new generation of fans was growing up which had never seen Lee. The man was forgotten, as he deserved to be; and by his conduct he had robbed himself of everything—even a decent epitaph.

Solomon Lee was gone; and he had left nothing but a bad name behind him.

Years wheeled along, teams changed from bat boy to manager, stars of the diamond rose, and flickered away into minor-league gloom. In time, Ed Terrill said good-by to public life, and went out on the western slope of the Rockies, there to raise apples and meditate upon the glorious past.

The owners of the Corsair franchise, casting about for a man to fill Terrill's shoes, went no farther than their own infield, where they hit upon the aging Billy Bigelow. The great shortstop was arching them over to first, his "whip" was dead, and he was a longer a shadow on the bases; but he still had his baseball brain; and it would have been a thousand pities to waste that gray matter upon a minor-league pay roll.

they did not love him, for he was a hard taskmaster. He would not have a drinking man on his team, and his motto was: "Do as I say, and not as I do."

Smith Never Wrote.

After Bigelow was well in his stride as manager, the fat man subscribed to several Eastern papers, and watched the progress of the Corsairs with an interest which was almost painful. Several times he was tempted to write that letter, but always stuck after the first paragraph. The fat man had buried a past, and was not anxious to dig it up.

Three years later, Billy Bigelow was pounding away in the first division and praying for one more good pitcher. In the first paragraph, the fat man had buried a past, and was not anxious to dig it up.

they prepare to buy. Praise might have sent the price ballooning.

"He's fair, just fair," said Sladdin. "Of course, he'd have to be farmed out—"

"Lay off that stuff!" growled Smith. "You can't put any of that over on me. Where do you think I was raised? In the woods here? Now, I'm going to tell you something. I've seen all the great pitchers of the past fifteen years. Know some of 'em well—Mayberry, Harris, Potter, Kiniasd—all that bunch. Name me tell you that here's a boy that's as good today as Mayberry ever was. Yes, better. You saw the way he handled himself. You saw the way he used that quick return ball. Is there any man in the big league today who can whip a return strike back like that? Is there? No, I guess not. You're whistling there, ain't it, I know."

"You're on!" said the scout. "And I don't mind telling you that you've skinned yourself out of a nice chunk of money. I was going to grab him, anyway, and take no chance on the draft."

"You bet you were going to take him!" said Smith warmly. "If I had to jahn him down your throat, I would have him on you!"

The Wolf Goes In.

Toward the middle of September, the timber wolf from the Tillamook League dropped in on Billy Bigelow. The manager had heard just enough about him to be interested, and he proceeded to look the gift wolf in the mouth.

"And you're the fellow who looks much like Solomon Lee, are you?" he said. "I'd give a nice piece of money to know that you could pitch like that old horse."

"Mike Mulrooney, the old-time catcher, who was in his prime when Solly Lee was burning up the big league, and who now devoted his time to working out with the recruit pitchers, was instructed to put the boy through his paces and report. Marsh had his first trial at the park in the morning; and when Billy Bigelow arrived at the clubhouse in the afternoon, he found Mike sitting on the porch in the sun and talking to himself.

"Go away, Billy!" said Mike. "Tis a ghost I've seen today. This kid—this Mars—dye know who he is? What he is? None but owd Solly Lee come back to life. It's the truth I'm telling ye, Billy. Wait till ye see him go. Every little wiggle in that box, every move of his hands, the funny windup; everything even to the return strike. Solly Lee, to th' life."

"He's good, is he?"

"A sweet pitcher!"

"God knows," said Mulrooney solemnly. "He says a man named Smith taught it to him out in the bushes somewheres. I tell ye, he'll give ye a chill the first time ye see him come back to life. It's like catching a ghost."

"You think he could go in some day this week?" asked Bigelow.

"Any day. Any day at all, at all," said Mike earnestly.

"Only look at him!" said Mike Mulrooney to Bigelow, as the two old-timers sat on the bench, their chins in their fists. "Look at him! He takes it as easy as if he was but step pin' into a soddy parlor."

"You're on!" said the scout. "And I don't mind telling you that you've skinned yourself out of a nice chunk of money. I was going to grab him, anyway, and take no chance on the draft."

a glutton like Truck could not pitch enough winning games to clinch a pennant. The rest of the pitchers were only ordinary performers.

The Corsair outfield was as fast and hard-hitting a trio as might have been found in a month's march. The infield was a stone wall at defense and a wasp's nest at attack. The catching department was unusually strong, but the Corsairs needed pitchers, and needed them badly.

"Get me one more cracking good pitcher," said Bigelow, "and I'll walk with the pennant next year. Get me a man who can win twenty games and back up old Truck, and I'll be a shame the way we go through this bunch."

So the Corsair scouts went questing East, West, North and South, combing the tall grass of many States for another pitcher. Other teams were scouting for pitchers, too. There has never been a time when good pitchers were plentiful, and there never will be.

Pitchers, like gold, are where you find them. There is telling where the next great pitching stars may come from. They rise out of the mist. You look up, and there they are, fully fledged, born up and ready to hand, and that is why Hank Sladdin, dropping into Tacoma on his Western trip, did not scorn the private tip that a man named Smith, at Fremontville, in the Tillamook League, had a timber wolf who was setting the forest afire.

His name is Bud Marsh," said Sladdin's informant; "and Smith has had him three years. He's a rip-roarer!" Sladdin went up to Fremontville on the first train, and presented himself at Smith's billiard parlor.

"From Bigelow, eh?" asked Smith. "Lemme see the credentials!" Sladdin wondered at this, but produced his card-case.

"I guess it's all right," said the fat man shortly. "I've got a pitcher here. I want you to see him work." I'll send him in this afternoon."

"Now, I'll tell you something else," said Smith quietly. "I know this fellow any more," said Sladdin. "This was only one man ever had that down line, and that was a fellow named Solomon Lee. If he hadn't been a booze hound, he'd have been the greatest pitcher in the world. I saw him once over in Chicago, and somehow this kid's style reminds me of him."

Smith Springs a Surprise.

of memory, started across the field toward the clubhouse. A fat man with a stubby mustache dropped out of the front row of the grand stand and hurried after the manager of the Corsairs.

"That's a great kid, that Marsh," said the stranger as he ranged alongside.

"You bet he is!" said Bigelow despatchly.

"Sort of reminded me of a man who used to pitch for this club a long time ago," said the stranger. "Did he make you think of anybody you ever saw before?"

Billy Finds Out.

It was the tone more than the words that made Billy Bigelow turn his eyes. "Think of anybody," said he. "Why, the Solomon Lee all over again."

"Yes," said the fat man quietly. "I thought you'd get the old stuff, Billy." Bigelow stopped in his tracks; and then, with a wild yell, he launched himself at the fat man.

"Solly!" he cried. "Where on earth did you come from?"

"From the bushes," said Solomon Lee. "And that's where I trained this kid."

That night the old friends had dinner together; an Solomon Lee, running true to his old-time form, took more than was good for him. Billy Bigelow also, alleging that the occasion warranted it, stepped down from the water wagon, but wet no more than the soles of his feet.

"You've got to let me pay my price for this kid," said the manager. "I didn't take him unless I can pay what I think he's worth."

"You'll take him as a gift," said Solomon Lee, a bit thickly. "For a gift, Billy! Understand?"

"No, I don't understand. Why would you want to toss that money off?"

"Now, I'm going to tell you something," said Solomon Lee. "Do you remember what they said about me before I went away? They said I'd been a bad influence—and I had. They said I left nothing but a bad name behind me. It was true. I didn't see it then, but I have since. I never forgot what that fellow wrote about me. I couldn't get rid of it. It got on my nerve. I thought maybe, if I could send up a man as good as I used to be, I could square myself. Kind of play even, somehow."

"Listen! I found this kid out there in the woods, and I saw that he could be taught. He had the makings of a great pitcher. After I got to working with him and saw how easy he learned and how natural it was for him to do the same things that I used to do, it came to me one day that I might make him another Solomon Lee. You see, Billy, I knew you and Mike and a few of the old-timers would know where he got the stuff. I wanted you to recognize it; so I started in to make him work my way. I wouldn't let him make a move in the box unless I taught it to him. You know I used to be a pretty pitcher to watch, Billy."

"Bigelow nodded, and Lee lifted his glass, and drained it in a breath.

"It took me more than two years, Billy," he continued. "I hid him out from the other scouts. I scared them off when they wanted to talk about him; I wanted to save him for you; but didn't want him to go until he was ripe. When I had him in shape—when I'd given him all my stuff and coached him to use it naturally and easy, I tipped it off in the right place, and Sladdin came up to look him over."

"This kid's got everything that I can give him, Billy—everything but a thirst for this—"

Solomon Lee lifted the champagne, bottle and refilled his glass, watching the tiny bubbles curiously as they raced to the surface.

"He's the fellow I might have been if I'd got started right; but—you know how it was with me. I got to traveling with the wrong bunch. He mustn't go that, Billy. He's a good kid. He doesn't know what booze tastes like, and he's got a nice girl back there in the bushes. That'll help some. I've had better if I—well, never mind that. Billy, I've taken a lot of pain with this boy. He's just like a son where I fell down. He must be the old Solomon Lee might have been but for—this stuff."

The fat man raised his glass again, and emptied it at a gulp, coughing slightly.

"I'm all in," said he. "I'll never be any good any more, and I know it. The bright lights got me, and they got a good and plenty. They sent me out into the bushes. I'm going back there, Billy; but this time they can't say that I didn't leave anything good behind me. They can't say that."

The manager nodded his gray beard over his empty glass.

"You've squared it, Solly," he said sently. "Don't think any more about it. You've made good. It's all right now. Come on, let's get out into the air. We've had enough of this stuff." (Copyright, 1919, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Bunches of white lilies, roses, palms and ferns were used in profusion to decorate the customary church, Friday street, on Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Salmon Tennant, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tennant, St. George street, and Mr. Joseph Kay of Toronto. Miss Tennant was given in marriage by her father, and made an ideal bride in her wedding gown of lustrous white satin, with long court train. The tulle veil arranged in coronet effect, and worn of the face was fastened with orange blossoms, and a double string of pearls formed a bandeau across the forehead. Orange blossoms were effectively used also on the train. The bridal bouquet was of white sweet peas and snapdragons. The Rev. H. A. Goodwin, minister of the church, officiated. Miss Dorothy Tennant of Amherst was the bridesmaid. She wore a green brocade, draped with fresh colored net, embroidered with silver; a silver lace hat with crown of pale green brocade, trimmed with green feathers, and carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas, shaded from maroon to pink.

The four ushers were Miss Margaret Tennant, Miss Helen Tennant (Montreal), Miss Christine Tennant (Fredericton), and Miss Greta Metzler of Campbellton. As they preceded the bride, they carried pink, blue, mauve and maize satin gosses, respectively. The bridesmaids were dressed in wraths of French flowers and tulle, and hats of gold lace with amethysts corresponding with the dresses, encircled with black velvet ribbon streamers which fell to the neck to form collars and were fastened at the shoulder. The ushers carried nosegays of pink and mauve sweet peas surrounded by a lace frill.

Mr. Byron Cushing was the best man. The full church choir under Miss A. Hea rendered special music, the soloists being Mrs. L. M. Curran. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Orange street, where the decorations were of palms and ferns and quantities of white roses. The bride's table was set under a large bell of white roses. During the reception Miss Kathleen March sang very sweetly "O Promise Me." Mr. and Mrs. Kay left on the Montreal train for St. John, N. B. Branch of the Oromocto on a camping trip, and on their return will reside on Coburg street. The bride's travelling suit was of white serge with amethyst blue hat to match, and she wore fox fur. Mrs. Tennant, mother of the bride, wore silver grey broadened satin embroidered in gold, and becoming green hat trimmed with plumes. Mrs. W. H. Tennant, Amherst, aunt of the bride, wore black over white trimmed with henna, and a black hat. Mrs. F. M. Tennant, Moncton, wore black and white, with black hat. Mrs. Richard Hocken, Wolfville, was attired in a rose satin gown, with hat to match, and a white fox fur. Miss Maude Tennant's gown was tan and rose figured georgette with a black hat. FREQUENT HEADACHE

A Sure Sign That the Blood is Watery and Impure

People with thin blood are more subject to headaches than those with thick blood. The blood is watery and impure when it contains too many globules of red blood cells. This condition is always accompanied by headache, which is often accompanied by other symptoms of disturbance of the circulatory system. Whenever you have constant recurring headaches and pallor of face, they show that the blood is watery and impure. Your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood, and treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively. It will remove the headache, and the blood will be restored to its normal condition. You will be able to enjoy life again. If you are troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica, muscular aches, or if you are undernourished, a watery blood will be a great hindrance. If your blood is watery, you begin to show symptoms of these disorders, try building up your blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the blood is restored to its normal condition. Every symptom of trouble will disappear. There is no other way to get good health than to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at any dealer in medicine, or you can get a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Are You Superstitious? BY IMOGENE BURCH

ABOUT DOGS. The howling of a dog at midnight foretells a death, according to mod- ern superstition. This is an old be- lief which can be traced to an Aryan superstition that it is a dog who guides all departed souls to heaven. If a dog was heard to howl shortly be- fore the death of someone it was con- sidered an especially favorable sign, interpreted that the dog was to be the guide who would conduct that soul to heaven. Japanese and Chinese regard the dog as one of their favorite animals, but not so the cat. There is an old Oriental proverb which says: "A dog remembers for three years the kindness of three days; a cat will forget in three hours the kindness of three years." Ancient Persians believe that dogs

I couldn't sympathize with him, Whose face was very long and sad, He bade me know his tale of woe. But still I thought he should be glad, The skies above him still were fair, His cheeks were bronzed by sum- mer's tan, And yet he wailed, because he'd failed To profit by a cherished plan.

TODAY'S TALK BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS. KEEP DIGGING.

You never know what is hidden in the ground until you have done a lot of digging. And no human knows what is hidden in the depths of his native abilities until he has dug deep into them. For, usually, the deeper you dig the more precious the treasure! Many are content with the ordinary pay gravel on the surface of things—but not the alert one. He wants to discover a streak of 90 per cent gold ore! And he finds it, in greater or less degree, by keeping to his plan of digging deeper.

Rann-Do m Reels THE UMPIRE.

The umpire is a human target for contumely, scorn and pop bottles which is seldom allowed to live out the al- lotted years of man except by mis- take. Once in a while an umpire will have his vocal chords paralyzed by an ambitious pop bottle and be forced to retire, in which event he may live to a ripe old age, but few instances of this kind are on record. The usual fate of the umpire is to die in some lonely spot as the result of remorse over a rotten decision at second base.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I'd like to stop the world from going round For years and years the poor thing's been so busy Revolving on its axis night and day That just to think about it makes me dizzy.

WAR'S GRAVES AND WORLD'S HOPE

By William T. Ellis. The International Sunday School Lesson For September 14 is, "The Future Life."—Matt. 25:1-6. For half a year I seem to have been moving among graves—Ameri- can graves on the edge of the Bel- leau Wood; forests of French and British and American and German grave markers in the terrible de- vastated region of France; fever-died graves in Salonica; and graves of Australians and British soldiers on the Mount of Olives. The hillside east of Jerusalem are covered with the graves of devout Jews. For more than two months I dwell in Egypt, the land of graves; and I have gone again to the traditional Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Even if I would I could not confine my present thinking only to the problems of the living.

Two Fathers And One Experience.

My other friends, a physician, was trying to explain the tragic trans- formation in the character of a man we both know; and we agreed that a personal bereavement has left him embittered and hopeless. "There were the two families," he roused, "the As and the Bs; each lost a beloved and noble child at about the same time. A was rebellious and un- comforted; he never speaks of his child, apparently, even in his own family; and has turned to a pagan stoicism to see him through his ordeal. But his grief has taken the sweetness and hope and progress out of his life. "On the other hand, B, whose be- reavement was by its circumstances the more tragic, bowed sweetly in resignation to what his religion taught him was the will of God. He speaks

Is Grave the End of the Road?

War and influenza have sown the earth with graves as perhaps never before within so short a period of time. Alas, many bereaved hearts see only a question mark at the head of the graves, and miss the cross. That is why current litera- ture abounds in discussions of the old question of immortality. "Be- cause I live, ye shall live also." The faith that underlies all Christian creeds has given its testimony by the graves of our fallen heroes. "Newspapers echo the cry of the stricken mourners for War's Greatest Victory.

If Christendom has not in its spirit won a victory over the fear of death, then victory by arms means nothing. I remember that once a battle-field soldier who did not be- lieve in immortality. That great ex- perience of surrendering the body through death seemed to have left and simplify men's judgments. The mighty and eternal things loomed larger; the petty and over-sophis- ticated trivialities of our time sim- ply seemed non-existent.

It is not all of life to live.

Grief needs more than diversion; it calls for comfort. Ambition cannot really be satisfied with automobile and luxuries. Labor will not be content to accept merely higher wages as the reward of its vitally expensive, cheaper food and other necessities will not meet the ultimate needs of the people. Political and economic reconstruction do not fulfill the longings of the universal heart. In a word, people today want higher satisfactions than are commonly held out to them. In our sacrifices and ser- vices for the prosecution of the war we reached a lofty level of life; dis- covered new capacities in ourselves; got glimpses of the glory possible to our own souls. Now we covet more of the same. We would breathe at- ways the air of that elevated plane of living which seemed to prove us to be the sons and daughters of im- mortality.

The Great Hope.

It was easy to believe in brother- hood while sharing the comradeship of the army in France. Altruism seemed normal as we rolled at home in the holy cause of patriotism. 2.—WAR'S GRAVES— Standing on that level, why may we not look still higher and realize that God's plan for human souls is just this exalted and purified spirit of life, which is ever discovering and practic- ing new and noble inner resources? God's revealed thought for man is that he shall live always, in ever-increasing degree, by these heavenly standards. Humanity's capacity for self- greatness, as proved by the war is

Weekly Chat

Dearest Kiddies:— This is the week I think for just an old fashioned chat, we haven't had one for a long time. If I could only have your chatter for a while I imagine it would be all about school and its new interests, but since I can't hear all the news of that interesting (?) place, we will just consider the subjects well discussed during the last two weeks and forget it for the present.

A Fight Fiasco in Quebec City

The Quebec Chronicle, in speaking of the recent fiasco in that city, in which Eugene Brosseau and Young Brusso, of Revere, Mass., were the participants, says: "The main attraction at the Arena last night, which was supposed to have been a ten-round bout between Eugene Brosseau, of Montreal, and Johnny Wilson, of Boston, proved to be a complete fiasco. The man who fought Brosseau, or tried to fight him, did not land more than ten blows during the three rounds that he was in the ring, and spent most of the time in running round the ring with his gloves in front of his face, trying to avoid punishment. Brosseau tried hard to get his glove away from his face in order to land the sleep-producer, but was unable to do so. He went down in the third for a count of nine from a left jab to the stomach, and when he got up, he got a real crack to the jaw and was out to all appearances, but was saved by the gong. He refused to come up for the fourth round."

Mental Depression.
"You seem gloomy, my friend, fear you are suffering from nervous depression."
"I don't naturally this way, doc. It is just reading the literature in your anteroom, that's all."

Teacher (to class)—What is the largest river in Africa?
"Small Bay—The Nile, sir."
Teacher—And what are its tributaries called?
"Boy—Juveniles, sir—Boston Globe."

Brown—Now, what would you do if you were in my shoes, Miss Cutting?
"Miss Cutting—'I'd point the toes towards the front door and give them a start."

Hayes—"Sandstone" has asked me to lend him a couple of pounds, and I don't know whether to do it or not, would you?
"Gays (earnestly)—"I would, old man. He has invited me to dinner this evening."

He—"Oh, pray, Miss Dimple, don't call me Mr. Brooks."
She—"Oh, but our acquaintance has been so brief." (Evidently) "Why shouldn't I call you Mr. Brooks?"
He—"Oh, only because my name's Somersett."

Photographer's Assistant—"Mrs. Perkins has sent her new pictures back, sir, and says she won't pay the bill. They don't look like her, she says."
"Photographer—"Mrs. Perkins? Don't look like her, eh? Well, I ought to charge her double if that's true."

Poor old Professor Dreamer went home the other night, and he knew there was something he wanted to do, but didn't remember at all.
"Oh, yes," after thinking about two hours he realized that he had wanted to go to bed early.

What Ailed Them.
A rural editor received this question from one of his readers:
"What is the matter with my hens? Every morning I find one of them laid out stiff and cold on the hen-house floor."
Next day this answer duly appeared in the query column:
"Your fowls are suffering from the death. It is an old ailment, and the only treatment that we can prescribe is burial."

Father: "You are very backward in your arithmetic. When I was your age I was doing cube root."
Boy: "What's that?"
Father: "What? You don't even know what it is? Dear me, that's terrible. Here, give me your pencil. Now, we'll take, say, 1, 2, 3, 4, and find the cube root. First you divide—say, you let me see—um—yes—no, well, never mind—after all, perhaps you're too young to understand it."

Tommy Knew.
"Now," said the schoolmaster, glancing round the small class of more or less bright-looking boys during a reading-lesson, "can any of you tell me what is the meaning of 'divers diseases'?"
Their silence reigned for a few minutes, while the master scanned the faces of his scholars, in the vain hope that he might see a ray of dawning intelligence on one of them.
"Yes, Tommy?" he said, eagerly, to a little chap holding up his hand. "Don't be shy. You generally have an answer for everything. Come now, speak up!"
"Please, sir," said Tommy, with superb confidence, "divers diseases is water on the brain!"

A Cute Dog.
A man who was looking after a large dog in a friend's house, and who was annoyed by the animal always sitting in his best armchair.
One day an idea struck him. He clamped into the room and found the dog in his usual seat, so he walked up to the window and called: "Cats! cats!"
Up jumped the dog and rushed to the window, while the man went and sat in the chair.
A few days later the dog entered the room while his master was sitting in his armchair. Going to the window he barked loudly.
The man got up to see what was the matter, and the dog secured the chair.

A Mixed-Up Meaning.
It was the first day of school, and the roll was being called. Each one answered "present" until Willis's name was called. He burst into tears. When the teacher asked the cause, he sobbed:
"Please, I haven't any present but I'll bring one tomorrow."

Encouraging.
The caddies employed on some well-known golf links generally speak their minds freely. An illustration of this is given with much gusto by a gentleman who was never a very clever player at the popular game.
"He had gone to the place for a holiday, and in the cool of the first evening he journeyed out to have a round of the links. When he had covered some of the distance with far from brilliant strokes, he remarked to his caddie:
"I say, caddie, do you know a 'Mr. D—' who sometimes plays here?"
"Yes," replied the caddie.
"And does he—does he play a strong game?" pursued the golfer, anxiously.
"A strong game?" exclaimed the caddie, with contempt. "The man can't hit the ball. He can't play a decent stroke."
"Ah," said the golfer, in a tone of relief. "That's all right. I've to play him tomorrow in the first round of the visitors' tournament."
"He's a good one, though," inquired the caddie.
"He's best yet!"

Must Report When Disease Is Found

Department of Health Intends to Do Its Best to Stamp Out the Disease.

Dr. J. F. L. Brown, district health officer, informs The Standard that an erroneous idea is being held regarding the application of the new health act regarding the suppression and reporting of all cases of venereal diseases.

Though all doctors are required under the act to report every case that comes under their observation, and keep reporting progress until the patient is classed as cured or non-infectious, the board knows the individual patient by case number only, so personal relations entering into the matter whatever.

However, if the person affected refuses to report, or if he does not comply with the law and neglects to report progress after his case has been taken up, of course the matter must be taken up with that offender individually, for the department of health intends to stamp out this evil as completely as possible.

LITTLE BITS OF SPORT CHATTER

Buck Freeman, who used to hold the home-run record before Babe Ruth knew how to swing a club, is now an umpire. Wonder will Babe follow in Buck's footsteps after he gets through with the game.

Down in Providence report has it that a new $400,000 boxing club is going to be built. They are stealing some of the Boston stuff. The old Boston Arena has been going to be built for it, these many moons, but no building as yet has appeared. Hope Providence hasn't contracted the Boston habit.

Apparently it isn't safe to cast off any of the big league twirlers, especially if they happen to have worn Red Sox uniform before. Ray Caldwell came back and did the prodigious stunt against the Yanks, and of the no-hit variety, too. Now they are wondering how he got away with it.

Glad to see the baseball heroes, Babe Ruth and Honus Wagner, butting into the movies. Doug Fairbanks, Billy Hart and Charley Chaplin have things pretty much their own way. Now let some of the real big leaguers have a chance.

Irish Patsy Kline failed to show up for his bout against Lew Tender in the Philly ball park the other night, so Phil Glassman decided to call off the whole show. We'll have to hear Patsy in mind if he ever happens to sign up for an appearance in this town.

Jimmy Coffey, the Roscommon Giant, is back on his native heath and recently slaughtered our old friend "Cyclone" Bill Warren in two rounds. Warren is the boy who had $3,000 to bet on himself to beat one Bill Pendegast at the old Cyclorama building. Warren had the spendthrifts all frightened, and none would take a dollar of his money, but when Pendegast knocked out the Cyclone in about half a minute, there was an outburst of weeping and groaning such as has seldom been seen at a rigside.

Jack Coyne, war hero and one of the contenders for Jack Britton's welterweight crown, returned to the ring with a bang the other night, having recently come out of the hospital after many months' confinement because of receiving 100 shrapnel wounds in action in the Argonne forest. Coyne has been cited. He got back into the ring game by stopping Joe McCartney in a bout at Harrison, N. J., and he says he is now ready to go after the welterweight championship of the world.

Some Athletic Titles Reviewed

H. Lambe, a Canadian, Won A. A. U. Titles in Half Mile and Mile.

In 1876 H. Lambe, a Canadian, won the A. A. U. titles in the half-mile and the mile in 2m. 10s. and 4m. 51 1/2s., respectively. Johnny Cregan, of Princeton and the New York A. C., was the next man to double in these events. In 1897 he won the half in 1m. 53 3/5s. and the mile in 4m. 27 3/5s. Jimmy Lightbody, of the Chicago A. A., was the last man to win these two championships. That was in 1905, but he did not have to show great class, as he won the half in 2m. 3 3/5s. and the mile in 4m. 48 4/5s.

Cregan has the great distinction of double wins in the 880 and mile in both the A. A. U. and the intercollegiate meets. In 1895 at Berkeley Oval he duplicated his performance in the A. A. U. meet of the year before, and his times were 1m. 53 2/5s. and 4m. 22 3/5s. Guy Haskins, of Penn., won in 1m. 57 4/5s. and 4m. 20 3/5s. in 1907 out on the Harvard Stadium track.

But the "daddy of 'em all" was John Paul Jones, of Cornell, who in 1911 on an ideal day and track ran the half in 1m. 45 4/5s., after winning the mile in the then world's amateur record of 4m. 18 2/5s.

Ban Johnson On The Stand

Hearing in New York's Suit to Restrain Johnson from Interfering With Use of Mays.

New York, Sept. 11.—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, admitted today on the witness stand before Referee Gillespie, that he was interested in the Boston American League Club, while that club was owned from 1911 to 1914 by James McAleer and Robert McKay. The latter, now deceased, formerly was Johnson's personal secretary.

The fact that Johnson had been interested in the Boston club was admitted by Johnson on the witness stand before the referee of the New York City suit to restrain Johnson from interfering with the use of Pletcher Carl Mays, recently purchased from Boston.

The fact that Johnson had been interested in the Boston club came up while Johnson was being questioned as to his alleged animosity against Harry Frazee, the present Boston owner, said to have been retracted in the case of Mays. Johnson defended Mays' suit to restrain Johnson from his right to communicate with Manager Barrow, rather than with President Frazee on matters of disciplining ball players.

Johnson said he did not suspend Mays immediately upon learning of his alleged insubordination because he was waiting to see what the Boston club would do in the matter. He said that he suspended the player after he had read a newspaper account of his sale to the New York club. He also defended his right to employ umpires in getting facts concerning disciplining on the field, and said he was within his rights in requesting Umpire Hildebrand to question Boston ball players and ascertain all the facts in regard to Mays leaving the field in the game played in Chicago on July 15.

New York Won Championship

National Junior Track and Field Meet of A. A. U. Held at Philadelphia Yesterday.

Philadelphia, Penn., Sept. 12.—The New York Athletic National Club won the national junior track and field championship of the Amateur Athletic Union here today on Franklin Field with a score of 34 points. The Boston Athletic Association was second with 30 points, while the Meadowbrook Club, of Philadelphia, and the Multnomah A. C., of Portland, Oregon, tied for third place with 18 points each.

Winning both the mile and half-mile runs in an A. A. U. or intercollegiate championship meet is a great big task for one man. I do not know how many men have tried to turn the trick, but I do know that only three men have been successful in the A. A. U. meets and the same number in the "intercollegiate," and these organizations have been conducting championships from 1876 down.

Joe Ray is going out for these two titles in the National championship in Philadelphia Saturday, and if any one is entitled to think he can win both the 880 and the mile, "Chesty" Joe is the man. His mile in 4m. 14 2/5s. in Toronto last Saturday would seem to indicate that this is his year, if any, to win double titles.—Boston Post.

Look at the Essex

Do as 10,000 Owners Are Doing. Compare Its Qualities With Large Costly Machines, the Only Type by Which Essex Performance Can Be Compared

From this Viewpoint

We ask you to ride in the Essex that you may know how it matches the performance of costlier, larger cars.

Until you have experienced its performance you will not know that it is an unusual car.

Its size and cost naturally leads you to regard it as you do other cars of similar size.

But 10,000 owners and other hundreds of thousands of motorists know that except for its price, its size and the economy of its operating cost, the Essex bears no relation to even cars of the better quality light weight medium priced class.

Choose the Essex for Performance

Any Essex owner will tell you the most inspiring things about acceleration and speed.

We have many customers who tell us they prefer driving the Essex to any car they have ever known.

Its ease of operation, the power which eliminates much gear shifting, the speed that puts the Essex in the lead of any car they wish to pass, are qualities that account for much you hear among motorists.

Endurance Too, Is Now Evident

Remember the Essex has seen hard service. Its performance range is so large owners use their cars on trips heretofore undertaken only by larger cars. The Essex has shown it has no narrow limitations. It is safe to use for any trip you would undertake with any automobile.

It meets every service and Essex owners tell their friends how little attention they are required to give their cars.

Let Those Qualities Decide You

Regard the Essex in the service you expect from it, as you would any car regardless of size or cost.

If the Essex were as large as the cars whose performance it matches, the price would have to be as high.

But because it has no useless length or useless weight, costly car quality in every detail, is possible with proportionate saving in cost.

Let us show you the Essex in the way that reveals its true qualities.

There is a five-passenger touring model, a sedan for five and the roadster.

Each is as beautifully and completely done as any car you could want. Think how people endorse the Essex. The sole reason for their enthusiasm is Essex quality.

Add your personal experience to what everyone is saying for the Essex.

WOMEN CURED AT HOME

Women's disorders always yield from the very beginning of the treatment to the mild but effective action of Orange Lily. Within two or three days after commencing its use the improvement becomes noticeable, and this improvement continues until the patient is completely cured. Orange Lily is an applied or local treatment, and acts directly on the woman's organs, removing the congestion, toning and strengthening the nerves, and restoring perfect circulation in the diseased parts. In order to convince all suffering women of the value of this remedy, I will send a 40 cent box, enough for 10 days' treatment, absolutely free to each lady who will send me her address. Enclose three stamps and address Mrs. Lydia W. Ladd, Windsor, Ont.
