

Guest of Honor At Union Club

Sir James A. M. Aikens, Lieut. Governor of Manitoba, Was Guest of New Brunswick Barristers' Society Last Evening.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and president of the Canadian Bar Association, Sir James A. M. Aikens, K. C., was the guest of honor at a dinner tendered him at the Union Club last evening by the New Brunswick Barristers' Society. In the absence of the president of the society, A. J. Gregory, of Fredericton, who was unable to be present because of illness, the vice-president, Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., presided and acted as toast master. He had seated at his left the guest of the evening, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and on his right, His Honor William Pasquier, the Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick. Others present were: Chief Justice Keown, Judge Crockett, Judge Armstrong, Hon. Robert Ritchie, L. P. D. Tilley, M. G. Teed, Daniel Mullin, J. S. M. Baxter, J. P. D. Lewis, W. J. Manning, R. S. Smith, L. A. Conlon, E. J. Hennebury, G. Earl Logan, G. V. H. Belyea, W. R. Scott, H. H. McLean, Jr., J. F. H. Teed, F. R. Taylor, C. P. Lynch, W. H. Harrison, J. R. Campbell, W. M. Ryan, Louis Ritchie, K. J. MacLachlan, E. C. Weyman, E. S. Ritchie, A. M. Wilson, S. B. Burns. Amongst the out of town lawyers were E. B. Hanson, A. R. Slipp, Hon. O. S. Crockett and J. F. Winslow, of Fredericton.

The toast to the King was responded to with musical honors. The proposing of the toast "Our Guest" was delegated by the toast master to His Honor Governor Pasquier, who introduced the guest of the evening in a very happy manner. He said that he had much pleasure in accepting the task imposed upon him, that he was proud to see the health of the guest of the evening, and equal pleasure in his office as Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick of extending a welcome to the province a welcome to the Lieut. Governor of Manitoba. He had known Sir James when but a struggling lawyer in the early days of Quebec. He had met him again as an opponent at Ottawa, and even as today when head of the great province of the west, he remained a gentleman and a man of high character. He proposed the toast "Our Guest."

The toast was responded to by singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." In rising to reply Sir James spoke of his happiness in being a guest of the New Brunswick Barristers' Society in the opportunity it afforded him of meeting so many of his fellows. The pleasure of the evening was marred only by the fact that illness was responsible for the absence of two distinguished members of the society, its president, and Sir Ezekiel. Since meeting the members of the Bar of New Brunswick some six years ago, great events had transpired, the war had brought out the spirit of the nation; Canada, a spirit whose existence had not been known previous to the great struggle for democracy. Canadians at home and overseas had united in a supreme effort, and now, the final victory of the war was won. Canada had won her right to nationhood, and it was now incumbent upon the legal profession to strive towards the developing and fostering of a national spirit which should embody the ideals of the founders of the Dominion, and perpetuate the glorious traditions upon which was founded the greatness of the British Empire. This, he urged, could be accomplished by the union of lawyers of Canada in an association, which, embracing every province, could stand with a oneness of idea and a singleness of purpose towards instilling into the hearts of the people a spirit worthy of that of our splendid armies overseas.

One of the results of the war was intellectual ferment, temperamental restlessness, class consciousness and conflict. Now Canada was becoming normal in breath and blood, pressure and temperature, but it had developed by the war its national soul. Every nation worth a place in history had developed out of its history, its traditions, its religious faith, its ideals and purposes a dominating national spirit. True, it might require centuries to create it, but it may be accelerated, as in Canada by the war. The birthplace of Canada, where he had breathed into it the breath of life, where it became a living soul, was in the East of Canada, and a peculiar sense, in Quebec and Quebec City, where the blood of Wolfe, representing the English, and Montcalm, representing the French—spirit flowed into our Canadian mother earth over towards our national soul, and where the British North America Act, formal expression of that soul, was framed. We are too prone to our progress to forget the past and the material part Quebec has played in it, too prone to think lightly of the love of the people of that province for the traditions, the ideals, the laws peculiarly their own. Hence the sensitiveness of many Quebec lawyers to their excellent code of laws might be ruthlessly affected by an endeavor to have uniformity or similarity of business laws in the several provinces. It was never the intention of the Canadian Bar Association to interfere with that code system of Quebec but, on the contrary, to follow it by codifying or re-stating by statute the best principles of our laws relating to inter-provincial business.

We can learn much from the jurisprudence and the jurists of Quebec and should welcome all light from them in our attempted improvement. He spoke of the public spirit of the Bar, and of its giving the public service to our country, especially in the advancement of Canadian Jurisprudence, if the administration of justice giving it greater simplicity and efficiency and in upholding the honor of the

GIOLITTI WILL FORM CABINET

London, June 11.—Signor Giolitti, according to a Central News despatch from Rome, has approached the Socialists with a view to the formation of a coalition government, whose foreign policy, he said, would not differ materially from that of the late government. The Socialists, however, are reported to have refused to co-operate.

THE GERMANS FACE ANOTHER ELECTION SOON

Coalitionists Have Won by Narrow Margin But Victory Only Temporary.

BITTERLY OPPOSED TO THE PEOPLE'S PARTY

By the Autumn They Hope to Be Able to Elect Clear Majority.

By S. B. Conger, Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.

Berlin, June 10.—The present coalition parties, on the count-up today, have apparently a slender majority of about ten seats, with about 10 per cent of the vote still out. They are two holdovers from the constitutional National Assembly who continue to represent their districts in Parliament until their nationality is decided.

It is theoretically possible, should this lead be maintained when the time the coalition government is proposed by those socialists who are unalterably opposed to any pact with the People's Party of the old Liberal party, on account of its sponsorship and big business connections and at the same time are unwilling to go out into the wilderness of the opposition with the independence, Socialists and Communists. The solution would be admittedly temporary; new elections are inevitable by autumn. It is hoped by that time, particularly after the results of the Spa conference are known, that public opinion will have been sufficiently crystallized in one direction or another to permit the election of a new parliament in which some stable majority is possible. The favoring of the solution points out that the months of June and July have been, ever since the beginning of the war, the most difficult from the viewpoint of political stability, and it is a guess that once these are over the German people may swing back to reaction on the national shield.

Canada had won her right to nationhood, and it was now incumbent upon the legal profession to strive towards the developing and fostering of a national spirit which should embody the ideals of the founders of the Dominion, and perpetuate the glorious traditions upon which was founded the greatness of the British Empire. This, he urged, could be accomplished by the union of lawyers of Canada in an association, which, embracing every province, could stand with a oneness of idea and a singleness of purpose towards instilling into the hearts of the people a spirit worthy of that of our splendid armies overseas.

On the other hand, a plea for broadening the lines of the present coalition government by taking in the People's party, is being heard with growing insistence from all the non-Socialist parties, even the extreme conservatives of the National party who, with all their deep-seated and passionate dislike of socialism, know in their hearts that it is impossible to rule present Germany against the will of the labor. The Catholic organ, Germania, representing the views of the Centre party, which is itself erected on a coalition basis of workers, landowners, peasants, etc., united by a common faith, declares this is the best possible solution. The motto of Herr Stresemann, leader of the Peoples party, is "Barkis is willia."

The decision is for the moment up to President Ebert. The present ministers have placed their position at his disposal, giving him a free hand for cabinet making, the ministers negotiating the administration provisionally until a new cabinet is formed.

The decision to postpone the Spa conference is, under these conditions, received here with general satisfaction. Chancellor Mueller and his colleagues would undoubtedly have liked, for personal reasons, to conduct the negotiations at Spa and an early decision on the appeal for a stronger army is desirable, but other reasons all for a postponement.

The election of Chancellor Mueller, Vice-Chancellor Koch, Minister of Defense Gessler and nearly all the members of the present cabinet is now assured. Count von Bernstorff definitely has been defeated, but Matthias Erzberger returns triumphantly with a big majority from his home district. Von Koenitz, the author of the Mexican note of 1917, as successful candidate of the People's party at Frankfurt-on-Main will be one of the automatic experts of the new parliament.

Bar and encouraging good fellowship among its members. Sir James paid a high compliment to the Bar of New Brunswick which, from the organization of the Canadian Bar Association had taken such a leading part in advancing its purposes.

Following Sir James eloquent address, the toast "The Supreme Court" was proposed by the toast master, and responded to by Chief Justice Keown and Justice Crockett. The toast "Promotion of Uniformity of Legislation in Canada," was proposed by the toast master and responded to by M. G. Teed, K. C., vice-president of the board.

The dinner was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

BOARD COMMERCE SUGAR JUDGMENT

Declares There Has Been Profiteering in Sugar of a Flagrant Character.

Ottawa, June 11.—(Canadian Press)—The first "sugar judgment" of the Board of Commerce since it abolished control of this commodity on February 26th was issued this evening. While dealing specifically with a complaint made by J. Gale, of Ottawa, against the firm of Durocher and Gosselin, general merchants of Eastview, the board declares that there has been profiteering in sugar of a flagrant character which has not been confined to those involved in this particular case.

The board's questionnaire system, which extends throughout Canada and whereby many thousands of traders report their costs and prices, discloses undoubted and indefensible profiteering in sugar by wholesalers and retailers alike, says the judgment and it goes on to state that there has arisen a new sugar profiteer—the pure speculator—who purchases second hand from wholesalers and retailers alike and then resells at relatively enormous profits, the consumer ultimately suffering.

The board is determined to put a stop to the practice, it mentions, says the judgment, "and it invokes, because it needs the assistance of the various attorney generals of the provinces. For the first time of any kind as a warning to all those persons who are engaged in profiteering the board states that it proposes to recommend the prosecuting attorneys of every firm and trader whose profits seem to the board to be unfair or whose prices seem to be unjust and unreasonable."

Referring to proceedings which it is taking and proposes to take against sugar profiteers, the board in its judgment states as follows: "The board will, so far as its powers extend, exercise in these proceedings such powers for the suppression of profiteering in sugar. It will prohibit all others than refiners from selling to wholesalers. It will prohibit refiners from buying from others than refiners. It will prohibit speculators from buying or selling at all. It will define the legitimate trade of refiners, wholesalers and retailers respectively. In the absence of justice, however, which is not always best served by insistence upon

EXAMINING INTO PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Public Expenditures Aggregating $300,000,000 Came Before Committee Yesterday.

Ottawa, Ont., June 11.—(By Canadian Press)—Public expenditures aggregating approximately $300,000,000 and covering several items of public interest, including $121,640,016.62 for pay of Canadian forces overseas, came before the Public Accounts Committee today. The committee passed the formal motions asking for the production of documents, etc., also for the attendance of witnesses.

A. B. Copp and J. H. Sinclair, who have been prominent opposition critics of the government expenditure since this session, with J. Archambault, were the sponsors for most of the motions submitted today. The next session will be held Wednesday, when the Auditor-General will be the main witness examined.

This is the first sitting of the Public Accounts Committee this session; in fact for nearly two sessions. Interest, however, was somewhat lacking there being a bare quorum present. It was decided to call the House to reduce the quorum number from twenty-one to twelve.

Among the items named today were the following: $23,668.80 paid to Major R. Napier for travel and expenses; $45,103.12 for advertising and $27,103.50 printing in connection with the National War Savings Committee; $4,800 paid to W. S. Leckie, Secretary of the War Purchasing Commission; $17,124.63, visit of French missions; $1,793.03 to Colley & Scott, Customs brokers; $147,169,187.98 Outfits.

Druggists and Doctors Astonished At Wonderful Power of Nicotol To Stop the Use of Tobacco To Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco Try These Simple Tests

New York.—Mr. Tobacco User, any druggist will tell you that a remedy to be so successful must, above everything, possess merit, otherwise failure is inevitable. Nicotol, the famous remedy for the tobacco habit, was a success right from the start, simply because we published a few letters from some of the best known druggists in the country to give you an idea of what they think of Nicotol, and you may rest assured that they would not permit the use of their names unless Nicotol was something out of the ordinary. The Peoples Drug Stores have five of the best stores in Washington, D. C. They write: "Since we have handled Nicotol the sale has been greater than that of all the rest of the articles of this nature which we have ever sold. The demand was so great that we were compelled to order it from you direct." Schramm-Johnson, who has six stores in Salt Lake City, says: "We take this opportunity of expressing ourselves most warmly to you. We have enjoyed a very large sale of same and it has given entire satisfaction to our customers." Jacob Brothers, of Philadelphia, Pa., have this to say: "Our sales of Nicotol have passed our expectations. Our first order was placed late in March and we were forced to re-order before the end of April; the sales have kept up ever since. There is no doubt that we are receiving many repeat orders from our customers and many expressions of opinion regarding the merit of this article have been very favorable." Dr. Conner, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, tells how to detect the harmful effects of tobacco. Here is what he says: "Many men who smoke, chew or snuff incessantly and who are seemingly healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been affected had it not been for the use of tobacco to excess, and thousands would soon not well if they would stop. The chief habit forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which when absorbed by the system, slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer or the common affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco to excess in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects, by making the following simple tests: Read aloud one full page from a book. In the course of reading your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct; you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next, in the morning before your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stairs at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or snuff to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case you have just two alternatives—Keep on with the self poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula. Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets, take one tablet after each meal, and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco—the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison out of your system, your general health will quickly improve."

Note—When asked about Nicotol tablets one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol tablets are sold in this city under the iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists.

Loggieville. Loggieville, N. B., June 6.—A meeting of more than usual interest was held in Knox Church on Tuesday evening, when the Women's Missionary Society celebrated its twentieth anniversary. The President, Mrs. J. N. McKenzie, presided, and on the platform were Rev. F. W. Thompson and Rev. W. B. Williston, who has been engaged in missionary work in China for upwards of ten years, and who is now on furlough, spending the summer with his parents in Hardwick. In the audience were members of the various missionary societies in the neighborhood of the town. The service began with singing "Jesus Shall Reign," then followed the reading of the Scripture lesson, Psalm 67—the same Psalm as was read when the local auxiliary came into existence 20 years ago; prayer by Rev. F. W. Thompson; hymn, "Christ for the World We Sing." At this point in the meeting a presentation address was read by Mrs. C. J. Blake, the following being made life members (be- lieving charter members of the society): Mrs. J. W. S. Baskirk, Mrs. James W. Johnstone, Mrs. N. I. Loggie and Mrs. D. Russell.

Rev. W. B. Williston then gave an exceptionally fine address, which was delivered with passionate earnestness and eloquence. Mr. Williston told how that when a boy he had listened to an address on missions and was so impressed by what he heard that the wish was born in his heart to be a missionary when he grew to manhood. This idea, formed in childhood, grew stronger with the years and finally became a fixed resolve. In the course of the remarks the speaker gave some very interesting accounts of incidents in connection with his labors in that far-off land. The devotedness of those who have embraced the Christian religion in that foreign country puts to shame many of the Christians in the home church. During the service W. W. Hiestly and D. J. Galliver sang acceptably the duet, "Come, Spirit, Come." The offering was a liberal one. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The rain on Wednesday interfered somewhat with the plans of many for the holiday, but proved a great blessing for the country where lumber lands were being destroyed by fires. Many spent the third quietly at home. A few went trout fishing, but were not rewarded with any quantity of fish.

Mr. and Mrs. John Savoy have a new member in their family circle. Congratulations are also extended to Mr. and Mrs. Eutrope Malley on the arrival of a stranger in their home.

Gagetown

Gagetown, June 8.—A large number from Gagetown went down on Thursday to Quapanstons to attend the funeral of the late S. L. Peters, Judge of Probate for Queens, who for so many years has been an outstanding figure in the public life of the county. Mr. Peters was Government Fruit Inspector and took a great interest in agriculture, his various duties taking him up and down river a great deal. Even up to last winter, despite his advanced years, he was able to be out in all kinds of weather. Mr. Peters will be much missed and his family have the sympathy of many friends.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructer which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

"The Canada Life Man" (A word in behalf of our representatives)

The Canada Life Man comes into close touch with the people. He is known to be honest and sincere, with a true appreciation of his mission, which is to relieve distress and point the way to thrift and prudence in the affairs of men generally.

The Confidential Man. He knows when the average man is prosperous and also when he is not, because he tells the Canada Life Man the story of his progress. The Canada Life representative in fact becomes the confidential man of the community.

To the Canada Life Man everything speaks of the need for insurance. Finding this need all around him he tries to fit the plan of insurance to the individual need; just as the experienced lawyer is expected to give the best advice to his client or the physician the best course of treatment to his patient.

His sympathy and advice are indeed very important factors in his success. Trained for Special Service. He is trained for this service through the "Canada Life Course of Life Insurance."

He visits factories, offices and homes, pressing forward his mission, arranging interviews for his clients with the medical examiner, discussing questions of health and finance, pointing the way of satisfaction and progress to everyone he meets.

The day ends before he is ready to give up his interesting work, but he has caused many a man to stop and think,— he has helped widows in need, and impressed upon all those he has met the importance of economy in their affairs and the need of protection for those under their care.

Will you, in the spirit of the above, discuss with the Canada Life Man, or correspond with the head office of the Company, freely and fully as to your need for protection,— your desire to save?

Thrift, always a virtue, is now a patriotic duty. Take stock of your affairs; adopt the best method of caring for your obligations; find out how to plan your estate.

In other words, consult an old, tried Company, with abundant evidence of success; experienced in life insurance, paying large dividends to policyholders, and safely and sanely managing its business.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION CONTINUED SESSIONS YESTERDAY

S. H. Midram, the Board's Expert, Presented a New Schedule for the N. B. Telephone Company, Estimating an Increase of Earnings by $287,500 a Year—Sessions Will Resume This Morning.

At the session of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday morning S. H. Midram, the Board's expert, presented a new schedule for the N. B. Telephone Company, which he estimated would increase earnings by $287,500 a year.

In the proposed schedule there are six groups of which No. 1 will comprise respectively exchanges of less than 50 subscribers with and without mileage; No. 2, 50 to 200 subscribers; No. 3, 200 to 1,000; No. 4, 1,000 to 2,500; No. 5, 2,500 to 5,000; No. 6, 5,000 to 12,000.

The company's proposed schedule was similar to that in operation by the Maritime Telephone Co. of Nova Scotia.

In the Midram groups no changes are made in 1, 1A or 11 but in No. 11 the business rate is increased from $35 a year to $39, and the residence from $27 to $30, while the 4-party line is eliminated. There are slight changes in the farmers' residence line.

Group IV, Fredericton:	Prop.	Proposed
Class of phone.	Rate	Rate
Business—1 party	$45	$48
" 2 party	32	36
Residence—1 party	30	33
" 2 party	24	27
" 4 party	34	34

The 4-party business phone would be eliminated.

Group V, Moncton:	Present	Proposed
Business—1 party	$48	$54
" 2 party	35	45
Residence—1 party	33	36
" 2 party	27	30
" 4 party	27	27

For Group VI, St. John, Mr. Midram suggested for business phones a measured rate, whether individual or switchboard line, with a minimum rental of $35 a year for 720 messages; in addition a charge of 2 cents a call for the next 1,200 messages and a charge of 2 1/2 cents a message for all other calls over 1,920 a year.

For residences, he suggested $20 annual rental for a one-party service; $33 for a two-party and $30 for a four-party line. For farm lines in Group VI, he proposed $45 on business and $31 on private phones.

Group I would show an increase per station from $17.35 to $19.29; Group 1A, from $16.94 to $21.27; Group II, from $15.18 to $20.17; Group III, from $17.15 to $23.17; Group IV, from $18.74 to $25.53; Group V, from $18.49 to $28.43.

Mr. Midram interpolated that Moncton with an increase of $10 per station had relatively the largest increase, but he said that in the last year Moncton had grown 10 per cent and the increase was not high in consideration of the present number of subscribers.

The average rate per station outside of St. John would increase from $17.39 to $23.73, or a suggested increase of $6.50 per station.

In St. John the present average revenue per station is $24.50, and the suggested rate $36.35, an average increase per station of $12.

For all groups the present average per station is $20.97, as compared with a suggested average of $28.50, or an average increase of $7.53 per cent.

On toll lines, Mr. Midram said the present rate is six-tenths of a cent a mile, and he proposed seven-tenths, thus making the St. John rate comparable with the rate charged throughout all the other lines on the American continent.

In regard to the night toll rate, he said, he is from 6.30 p. m. to 7 a. m.; the company pay for from 8.30 to 4.30 and he suggested from 8.30 p. m. to 7 a. m.

On toll lines the present earnings are $193,200 a year, and his increases would bring a total revenue of $250,000. He would increase the revenue from inter-company business, as between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia from $22,000 to $71,000 a year, and an annual increase of $49,000.

His schedule would increase earnings from short toll lines, Rethely for example, from $12,000 at present to $18,000 and for pay stations from $16,500 to $20,000.

A decrease would come in earnings from bank interest, etc., on account of sale by the company to provide money for renewals of government war bonds. The total interest revenue would drop from $27,520 to $25,000.

He referred to the free service between St. Stephen and Calais and suggested an increase of 5 cents in tolls or an additional revenue of $2,000.

His suggested increase in rates on phones of physicians, boarding houses, etc., would give an increase of $3,500. Nurses were not included.

Referring again to the alleged advantages of the measured service over the flat rate, Mr. Midram stated that here there would be an individual business rate of $72, instead of $45, to produce the relief suggested for the company even were private exchanges measured; where both individual business phones and private exchanges on a flat rate, the rate would be $98. The measured service he had laid out allowed six messages a day on the minimum charge.

His schedule provided for an addition in revenue of $15,000 for changes in location of phones.

There was no just cause of complaint. One big Halifax concern found that its business calls cost less under the measured service than under the old flat rate. But social calls in business hours ran up a considerable bill.

Mr. Weyman—What increase would the farmer pay under your recommendation?

A—Farmers in small exchanges now pay $15. They would be raised to $18.

Q—The farmers' increase is about 20 per cent?

A—Roughly.

Q—Whereas the general increase is about 4 1/2 per cent. How did you arrive at the farmers' rate?

A—By the application of common sense. Exchanges serving the farmers are small.

Q—Are the farmers getting plow for less than cost?

A—No. The farmers often contribute poles and labor to their lines. The farmers are paying about all they can stand now. The more rural development there is the better for the business community.

Coun. Gaskin said farmers' rates should not be based on mileage tolls.

To Mr. Weyman the expert said the present revenue from St. John was $217,423, and outside St. John $54,362. The estimated revenue under the proposed rates were: for St. John, $238,400, an increase of 33 per cent; for outside St. John $314,600 an increase of 44 per cent.

Q—What will be the increase in residential tolls in St. John?

A—The present residential revenue is $124,786; under the proposed rates they should be $170,411, an increase of 37 per cent, roughly.

Q—What would be the increase under the measured service?

A—From $83,500 to $121,938 or 65 1/2 per cent.

Q—Would there be charges for calls between departments on principle exchanges?

A—For inter department calls not involving a call to central there is no increase.

Mr. Lewis—Is the automatic system cheaper?

A—Maintenance would be higher, but operating cost less.

Mr. Robinson said they had an engineer at work, but were not yet in a position to tell the effect of an automatic system.

Mr. Weyman—Have you allowed for loss of revenue through subscribers not paying as much as now?

A—Yes. About 3 1/2 per cent. Some may drop out. Some may want a cheaper service.

Chairman—Is there any possibility of wiretaps?

Mr. Weyman—What are the business rates elsewhere in Canada?

At this point the Board decided to adjourn till 10.30 a. m. today daylight time.

Irregular Price Movements

New York, June 11.—The market slowly gained strength during most of the afternoon, but there was some irregularity in price movements and the volume of trading was light.

Crucible made a sharp, adding several points to its former gain, the apparent reason being that the directors are to meet next week and some of them are rumored to be in favor of another stock dividend.

Despatches from Chicago, while of course inconclusive, seem to hold out the idea that London was gaining strength and it was generally assumed that the market would continue his nomination bullish.

The market closed generally a little below the best prices of the day, but with some substantial net gains running through the list. Sales 548,500.

Power Boat Club Races Interesting

Two Closely Contested Events on Indiantown Harbor Last Evening—Meeting Held Regarding Events for Dominion Day.

There was some exciting motor boat races held on the Indiantown Harbor course last evening, and quite a crowd enjoyed the contests.

The results were as follows: Cabin Cruisers—1st, Freddy K., owned by A. Kline; 2nd, Venus, owned by Edward Brown; 3rd, Oula, owned by Fred Roberts.

After the races a meeting of the members was held in the club house concerning the big time to be held on the river on Dominion Day, when a series of races will be held on Crystal Beach.

There will be a speed boat race, in which some fast ones will participate, and it is expected that there will be at least eight boats to take part in this event and the winner will make thirty miles an hour.

The entries for the semi-speed and cabin boats are about full, and this will also prove an interesting event.

Hilton Belyea, Robert Belyea and John Shillington have entered in the single scull event, and this race will certainly be well worth looking at, as these well-known scullers are training every day to be in the very best condition for the race.

Another meeting of the club will be held on Monday evening at the club house to complete arrangements.

Royal St. Lawrence Club's Weekly Race

The second race of the Royal St. Lawrence June series for "B" class boats will be held over the Palace Claire triangular course this afternoon, to be followed by a race for the handicap class and one for dinghies.

This will also be the second appearance of Red Patch with her Macrom rig, and all yachtsmen will be keenly interested in seeing whether she will repeat her performance of last Saturday, by trimming the other boats of the "B" class.

Last Saturday there were two of the Seawanhaka Cup class yachts racing, namely St. Lawrence, Ross Hutchinson, and Dorval J. Hunter, and it is hoped that this Saturday there will be three of these flyers out, when they will be started as a separate class.

The dinghy class should also fill well this weekend, as several of the new four-foot boats built by the St. Lawrence Yacht Club Co., at Dorval this year are now in commission.

The club launch, as usual, will be at the disposal of members and their guests to view the races from, and keen racing is expected, as this is the second race of the June series, for the "B" class crew prizes.

Brussels Skaters

Send Congratulations to Winnipeg Falcons.

Toronto, June 11.—W. A. Hewitt, the Canadian Olympic representative who accompanied the Winnipeg Falcons to the world's amateur hockey championships in Antwerp, received the following letter today from Belgium:

The members of the Club des Patineurs de Brussels, having met on the occasion of their annual dinner to accept their best wishes and hearty congratulations for their great success at Antwerp."

HALIFAX MAY SEND SOME.

Speaking of the sports in St. John on June 25, the Halifax Chronicle says:—This event (the 15 mile race) should be in line for Martin, Rogers, and other local winners who are at present going well. While the fifteen mile course is a very modified type of Marathon it is a sufficient grind to give the road men a chance to show just what they have in the way of reserve power. Baker, among the favorites as well as some of the returned men should be able to make a showing in the shorter distances but the field events look to be pretty bare so far as prospects here are concerned.

HALIFAX HAS AT PRESENT NO FIELD FORMERS and this branch seems very slow in filling up.

ROCKWOODS WON.

In a game on the Rockwood diamond last evening the Rockwoods defeated the Beavers by a score of 7 to 2. The battery for the winners was Daley and Power; for the Beavers, the Loblane brothers.

SHAMROCKS WINNERS.

A junior game of ball on the North End diamond last evening resulted in a victory for the Fort Howe Shamrocks over the Young Curlew by a score of 11 to 8. Flynn, Colohan and Corry worked for the winners; Barry and McNulty for the Curlew.

The Netherwood Closing Yesterday

Large Attendance Enjoyed Programme at Rotheay—Rev. Canon Daniel Presided and A. C. Skelton Presented the Prizes—An Excellent Programme.

Netherwood Closing is an event always looked forward to with pleasure and anticipation and yesterday those who attended the closing exercises were not disappointed for as usual it proved to be a very pleasant entertainment. There is an air of slowness and good comradeship among the scholars and Miss Goring, Miss Stodart and the staff are to be heartily congratulated not only upon the excellent showing made in the results of the examinations, but upon the ideas which they set before the school. Rev. Canon Daniel presided over the exercises which were held in the gymnasium and also addressed the graduating class. A. C. Skelton made some interesting remarks in presenting his prizes and Rev. Canon Armstrong spoke to the students reminding them that the day was that of St. Barnabas and asking them to remember in their lives the example set by this New Testament character, who was generous, kind to strangers and open hearted.

Miss Alice Walker presented Dr. Walker's prize and Mrs. A. L. Fowler that of the Old Girls' Association. Several pretty choruses were sung by Miss Louise Anderson's class. Miss Anderson accompanying and the programme included piano solos beautifully played by Elsie Lee and Joan Barwash. A violin solo by Margaret Smith, accompanied by Amy McKean and a vocal solo by Lella Boulton. The valedictory by Katherine Skelton was cleverly written and well delivered. The rooms at Netherwood were decorated with Mica, roses and butter-cups with a lovely effect.

Addressing the school in his valedictory Miss Annie Puddington who has continued the instruction begun by Miss Catherine McCarthy. This drill was splendidly done. Scenes from Peter Pan with the little white bird, Peter, Wendy, the wolves and Indians appropriately costumed closed the programme. Those taking part in the Peter Pan scenes were Peter Pan, Ann Allison, Wendy, Margaret Fairweather, Indiana, Mary Gray, Billie Robinson, Muriel Henderson, Patsy Fowler, Muriel Hibbard, Jean Palmer and Helen Blanchet. King's Daughters Meeting Yesterday

Large Attendance to Consider Organization Plans for the J. J. Fraser "Faraline Home for Aged People" at Fredericton.

A special meeting and one of the largest in point of attendance, ever held took place yesterday afternoon, when the King's Daughters met at the Guild, Chipman Hill, to consider organization plans for the J. J. Fraser "Faraline Home for Aged People" at Fredericton.

Mrs. Charles A. Clark president, was in the chair and appointments made to the board in Fredericton by members of the provincial executive were endorsed as follows: Board of Management—Mrs. A. Pierce Crockett, Mrs. W. H. Nice, Mrs. Cunard, Mrs. Edith Stevens, Mrs. W. E. Halsey, Mrs. J. F. Bullock, Mrs. E. E. Thomas, Mrs. R. A. Sinclair, Mrs. H. W. Robertson, Mrs. E. B. Nixon.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with the Fredericton committee, a representative being chosen from each circle as follows:—Mrs. A. P. Crockett, Doorkeepers; Mrs. W. H. Golding, Lead-A-Hand; Mrs. J. J. Gordon, Opportunity; Mrs. R. E. Plimpton, Comfort; Mrs. George A. Henderson, Good Cheer; Mrs. E. E. Thomas, In His Name; Mrs. Cunard, Individual Members.

Those present realized that the undertaking is a big one and the income of $800 inadequate to meet the needs. Ways and Means were discussed, and it was decided that the entire province must be interested as the Home is to be a provincial one and that endeavors will be made to form circles in every town to support this new work of making the old age of New Brunswick people happy and comfortable.

Arrangements for the luncheon to be given for the National Council were reported by Mrs. Crockett and Mrs. C. H. Peters. Miss Ella Thorne, delegate from Fredericton has sent word, it was stated, asking that Mrs. A. P. Crockett shall represent the Order which is federated internationally, as Miss Thorne has not yet returned from her recent trip to attend the sessions.

The Cow Hides And Wool Take Big Drop

Hides This Time Last Year Were Selling at 45 Cents, Now Down to 12 Cents—Wool 25 Cents a Pound.

The farmers while getting more for beef, do not receive so much for hides as they did a few months ago. Cow hides are down to twelve cents a pound, which is practically the pre-war price. At this date last year they were from 42 to 45 cents per pound. Calf skins are bringing only 25 cents per pound, lamb skins 15 cents each, sheep skins range in price from 90 cents to $1.50.

Last year calf skins sold brought 60 cents per pound and lamb skins sold as high as a dollar a skin. Wool is also away down in price. The dealers this week have been offering 25 cents for unwashed and 30 cents for washed. Wool at one time during the war sold for better than 80 cents a pound.

While the price of the raw material is low, the purchaser of boots and shoes and clothing have not yet felt the benefit of the low figures of the raw material, but will probably feel the effects in the near future. The market for hides is entirely demoralized and the probability is that hides will shortly be selling for 9 and 10 cents a pound—Sussex Record.

Agreement Reached Between Scotia Steel and British Steel Corporation.

Montreal, June 11.—The agreement between the Nova Scotia Steel Company and the British Empire Steel Corporation sets forth the terms on which the holders of the 3 per cent. cumulative preference stock of the Scotia Steel Co., Ltd., a subsidiary of the Scotia Company, shall be exchanged for shares in the British Empire Steel Corporation.

The British Empire Steel agrees to deposit with the Prudential Trust Company 10,000 shares of the par value of $100 each of its 7 per cent. cumulative preference stock, for the purpose of being exchanged by the trustee for the outstanding preferred stock of the Scotia Co., and of the Car Company, on the basis of one share and one-half for one share of Scotia Co., 3 per cent. preference stock and share for share for the Car Company. The Car Company issue consists of 7,000 shares and is cumulative. The right of exchange of shares may only be exercised up to and including the 30th day of November next, unless such time be extended by the Company.

A circular to Scotia Shareholders, issued by the Scotia Board alludes to Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., saying that the inclusion of that company in the merger provides the additional facilities required to handle the larger tonnage of raw materials and finished products which the new company will be called on to transport, and the addition of a number of modern shipbuilding and ship repair plants will provide a valuable market for the steel products entering into the construction and repair of ships.

POLITICS HOLD UP MARKET

Affairs at Chicago Cause Hesitation in Stock Transactions.

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.)

New York, June 11.—The Republicans being elected at Chicago has the virtue of being a compromise which practically eliminates any fear of a party split, but in many quarters it will be taken as a weak evasion of what promises to be the main campaign issue.

The question of the Candidate still remains an open one with General Wood having somewhat strengthened his position, so that it is now his candidacy against the field.

The steel corporation statement of unilled tonnage affords basis for the confidence with which the future of the industry is regarded and, while it is probably true that much of the increase is attributable to the difficulty of getting shipments out because of the transportation tie up, nevertheless it is evidence of the vast amount of business waiting execution when conditions permit.

The International Mercantile Marine directors have declared another 7 per cent. payment toward the redemption of the accrued back dividends on the preferred stock.

The market can hardly be expected to move much today with the nomination imminent and the delicate market condition also continues as a restraining factor even though lately it has somewhat lost its destructive effect on prices.

BANKERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Montreal, June 11.—Toronto members of the executive of the Canadian Bankers Association in session here, take an optimistic view of the situation in Canada. A prominent banker expressed the opinion that the banks will be able to cope with the situation and that there should be no difficulty in financing the wheat crop even should it be unusually large.

NEW RECORD FOR FINANCING

To Increase Issue of Preferred Stock of Riordon Co.—Subscription Now Over $7,000,000.

Montreal, June 11.—In connection with the recapitalization plan of the new Riordon Company, Limited, a new record for financing has been established by the Royal Securities Corporation. It was only a week ago that the preliminary prospectus was issued to underwriters, and at that time it was thought the total issue to be made would include about $4,000,000 of preferred stock.

By Monday evening, the total subscriptions received amounted to over $7,000,000 and on this account, it was thought advisable to increase the issue of preferred stock and reduce the amount of bonds which the company would put out at the present time. Arrangements were accordingly made for an issue of $10,000,000 of preferred stock.

PRESBYTERIANS PASS IMPORTANT RESOLUTION

Warmly Commend Movement in Many Industries Toward Giving Workers Share in Wealth Produced

Ottawa, June 10.—The Presbyterian General Assembly, in a resolution today warmly commended movements now on foot in many industries toward giving the workers an equitable share in the wealth jointly produced.

"Co-operating with the state, and with the workers themselves, in providing insurance against unemployment, accident, and old age, and in providing pensions for old age and widowed mothers.

"Securing for workers such hours of labor as will afford them assurance of self-improvement and for service to their families and the community.

"Providing in every office, factory, shop, and business, facilities that will safeguard the health and brighten the lives of employees while at their work.

"In the interests of efficiency, as well as of industrial peace, the Assembly would urge that such efforts be continued and extended.

"The General Assembly affirms the sacredness of human personality and would point out that such conditions of work must be secured as will afford every worker the opportunity of the highest personal development.

"The General Assembly would point out the danger in the present movement to organize in groups and classes, each for the furtherance of its own interests. While such organization may be necessary to secure class to protect itself against exploitation, still the spirit of faction and mutual suspicion can be avoided only by the different classes subordinating their particular aims in devotion to the common good. In the grave difficulties and dangers of the period of reconstruction a constructive Assembly would call on all people to unite in the service of the Nation as a whole, and to establish firmly the principles of justice and brotherhood which alone can bring an enduring peace."

HILLSBORO

The W. M. S. of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. V. E. Bennett on Tuesday of the week.

Robt. Brown, general merchant Hillsboro, had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse, and also a quantity of oats a few days ago. He alleged a young man of the name who has been employed with him, took possession of a number of bags of oats belonging to employers, getting entrance through a trap-door in the stable floor. When the oats were found, the man was arrested and the horse was found in the barn. The young man was taken to Hillsboro and is awaiting trial. Mrs. James Blake returned on Monday last from a month's visit to the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Bennett of Hillsboro, Mass. She was accompanied home by her son, Lloyd Blake, who has been spending

WOMEN AMUSEMENTS

KITCHENETTE COOKERY AND MORE FREEDOM

Good Riddance to the Ten Acre Kitchens of Our Grandmothers.

THE LESS SPACE THE LESS WORK

Modern Utensils Procurable Which Lessen Toil—Methods of Cooking Can be Re-adjusted.

By Prudence Bradish. "What where is your kitchenette?" I asked of the agent, as we looked over the "two-room-bath-and-kitchenette apartment" advertised on a gold and black sign outside of the highly respectable apartment building and reached by what appeared to be perfect elevator service.

"Kitchenette" the repeated, blankly, as if hearing the word for the first time in his life. "Oh, yes, here it is." And opened the door of an absolutely dark closet about three feet by four, without window, airshaft or ventilation of any kind. I said I would "think it over," and I have been thinking it over ever since, all the more because I have been moving out of a house in the suburbs where there was a glorious kitchen of the old-fashioned kind—spacious because it was a Sabbath day's journey from the sink to the roller towel, and cooked used to ask for more wages on the ground that they were out shoes.

The kitchen of our grandmothers is gone; we can't spare the space for them any more. And it is probably just as well, for the old-fashioned servant is gone, too, and the average woman must do a good deal more of the domestic work herself. The time consumed in journeys back and forth across a great space of kitchen floor counts up, and we must save it for other uses, if we are not to become mere household drudges.

Another thing I discovered that day was that even where there was a reasonably light little asset for cooking, the best I could have in the way of a stove was an electric plate—even that much frowned upon by the fire laws and to be conducted in a separate room. In any event, I must readjust my old methods of cookery and get along with a small outfit compactly tucked into mere cubbyholes.

The situation would have disturbed me more I believe if I had not recently been waiting in a check on a railroad car where the entire arrangement of kitchen butler's pantry and dining room was of the dimensions of a linen closet. I had been in a country kind. Also I remembered a cosy little dinner party with a friend in a studio apartment where a complete dinner was served at a table with a kitchenette with a gas stove, a very small refrigerator, tiny sink and a few small shelves in the wall for all the outfit of pots, pans and dishes.

The pretty table, with its lace doilies in place of the books which had graced it a few minutes before, was set in a corner of the studio a few steps from the kitchen corner. Two of the guests sat on a divan, and there were chairs enough. The first course of grapefruit was on the table when we sat down. There followed soup, chicken, two vegetables, salad and dessert, all without any fuss; nor did it take two maidens to cook and serve the meal. One level-headed, competent woman took two hours to do the whole thing. Dishes were used with economy, to save space and dish-washing later. The soup was served in cups, the vegetables around the chicken on the platter, the salad was ready on a table nearby, and the simple dessert of treated crackers and cheese, cut and bon-bons were set sitting around the fireplace afterwards, while a screen was put round the dinner table so that we forgot the culinary department.

BUSINESS GIRLS AND TEACHERS

Suffer from Overtaxed Nerves and Often a Complete Breakdown.

Thousands of earnest, intelligent young women who earn their livelihood away from home, in the school room, in public offices and in large business establishments, are silent, suffering victims of over-taxed nerves and deficiency of strength. Weak, breathless, and nervous, they work against time, with never a rest when headaches and backaches make every hour seem like a day. Little wonder their cheeks lose the glow of health and grow pale and thin; their eyes are dull and shrunken and heavy slowly but surely fades business women and girls because of their work and worry, look older than their years. What, they need the frequent help of a true, strengthening remedy to carry them through the day. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best for the tired nerves and tired brain of the business girl. By making rich, red blood they supply just the kind of help girls need to preserve their health and cheerfulness and their good looks. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills bring bright eyes, rosy cheeks, high spirits and thus make the day's duties lighter and easier.

Miss Mary H. Hunt says: "Many people think of the life of a school teacher as one of comparative ease, with short hours and holidays plentiful. But the reverse is the case. When one has to stand day after day, year in and year out, with the worries great and small, from handling children it begins to tell upon even the strongest, and especially upon the nervous. I have been teaching about five years and was then located at Springfield, Ont., when I found I was far from having the vitality I started out with. Before my term was out I had a complete nervous breakdown. I tried doctors' medicine and it helped, but only for a while. I then tried osteopathic treatment but with no better results. I suffered from loss of appetite, slept poorly, was nervous and troubled with severe headaches. Holidays came and I tried a change of schools, but got into a harder place where I had over fifty pupils under my care. There were days when I seemed impossible for me to carry on my work. At this stage my sister, who had also been a teacher, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the advice, and by the time I had finished my second box, I felt that the pills were helping. There was no necessity for continuing the treatment, as I had never felt better. I had gained twenty pounds in weight. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, with plenty of fresh air, worked wonders in my case. I have since used the use of them to any other run-down teacher."

Significant Coincidence

American Newspapermen, Canada's Leading Women and England's Prominent Players Foregather in This Eastern City Same Time Next Week.

St. John will have its accustomed mid-summer tranquility rather disturbed on Monday of next week when incoming trains, boats and motors will bring to the city not only the New Brunswick and Maritime Provincial delegates to the National Council of Women, but ladies from the farthest most sections of the Dominion, even to Vancouver and Victoria. Then will arrive the large pilgrimage of American editors and press writers in general who have been touring Nova Scotia of late. Not least by any means will be the galaxy of English actors and actresses who are to present "Grumpy" at the Imperial the first two days of the week.

Flags of greeting—and it is expected St. John will do its most courteous on this visitation occasion—will therefore be flying in honor of no less than three distinguished gatherings, people who will set foot upon the soil of this historic city for the first time. Upon this opening day of the week, too, it is natural to expect there will be considerable commingling of the strangers, and no doubt the promoters of the "Grumpy" company will be a common meeting place.

The English playpeople who are to be in town for a couple of days include the following notables, people whose names in the Mother Country and in the principal American cities are worth conjuring with dramatically.

Frank Compton, leading man with the Drury Lane Co. London, New York. This season leading man with Robert Mantell Co. Captain Royal Lancers, wounded and M. C. son of famous English comedian Ed. Compton.

Rupert Lumley, leading man with Sir Herbert Tree, Sir George Alexander, Gerald Du Maurier and others. Lieut. Royal Garrison Artillery. Bailey Hick, original "Kobbe" in Cyril Maude's "Grumpy" London and New York. Commission in Princess Pats wounded.

Edward Lawes, last thirteen years player and director with Robert Mantell, previously with Martin Harvey. Well known English star.

Violet Hall, comedienne of famous author, Ingenu with Sam Bernard's company, also in "Bells of Bond Street," etc. etc.

Peggy Dundas, ingenue with J. C. Williamson's company in Australia, also with Drury Lane production of "The Whip."

Mansfield Harris, Lindsay, on Saturday. Mrs. Harris was formerly Miss George Nelson of Jacksonville.

Lieut. Miss Glenn Gardner, of Woodstock, has been spending several days at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. C. Tilly.

Miss Ethel Estey was called to Brooklyn, New York, on Monday to speak for the Presbyterian congregation on her work in Korea.

Mrs. Richard Ople, of the Methodist paragon, Milltown, is spending a few weeks with her son, Mr. Clarence Ople, at Hillside Farm, White Rev. Mr. Ople is attending the Methodist Conference in Fredericton, Thursday morning, where he is to receive medical treatment.

At a special meeting of the United Farmers' Co-op of the Branch, Thursday evening, Mr. Wesson of Fredericton, gave a very interesting and instructive illustrated lecture on "The Egg and its Development."

ANNUAL CLASS RECITAL HELD

Pupils in Music of Mrs. J. C. Rayworth Pleasued Audience in Queen Square Church Last Evening.

Mrs. J. C. Rayworth last evening held the annual class recital of her pupils in music in the school room of Queen Square Methodist church. The platform was beautifully decorated with apple blossoms and white lilies. There was a very large attendance of friends of both teacher and pupils, and Mrs. Rayworth received many congratulations upon the excellent showing made by the students in her charge. Much talent was displayed, and a programme of good music presented, many of the players giving promise of becoming fine musicians.

Miss Adeline Holder and Miss Mildred Bustin, pupils of Miss Louise Knight, assisted and their vocal selections were greatly enjoyed.

Devil the evening Miss Eleanor Holder presented Mrs. Rayworth, on behalf of the class, with a large box of bon-bons, in token of the appreciation felt by her pupils for the interest taken in their studies.

For the benefit of the Ladies' Aid of Queen Square, a silver collection was taken. At the close of the programme, a social half hour was spent by the class, at which delicious refreshments were served. Those taking part were: Kathryn Paterson, Kenneth Brown, Laurence Smith, Ross Stuart, Eleanor Holder, Evelyn Hanson, Helen McKay, Ronald Smith, Dorothy Nice, Adeline Holder, Marion Thompson, Nora Fairweather, Mary Roderick, Dorothy Belyea, Elsie Williams, Maud Lawson, Daryl Lawson, Marion Porteous, Marion Henderson, Myrtle Paterson, Josephine McQuade, Vicars McLaughlin, Mildred Bustin.

MODERN CRIME PICTURE IS FATAL

Aviator and Photographer Killed in Getting Thrills for Movie Films at Johannisthal Airdrome.

Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co. Berlin, June 11.—A plan to make a thrilling motion-picture film in which up-to-date criminal use of all modern methods to execute crimes and escape pursues resulted yesterday in the death of two men in an airplane accident at the Johannisthal airdrome.

The scenario called for the flight of the criminal in an airplane and a parabolic plunge into a lake to escape a German Sherlock Holmes on the trail in another machine. An airplane with two cameramen had just left the ground and signalled the other two machines with the orders to follow when it crashed, killing the pilot instantly and fatally injuring the photographer.

The latter had carelessly tied his apparatus to part of the steering gear.

IV.—THE SURVIVOR

"Mr. Tredways, this is why I have come to you: I have returned from a five years' absence in America and find a charge brought against my fiancée of having spent the last three years in a convict prison. This terrible accusation he protests against in the strongest possible manner. Of course I am bound to accept his word, but—"

The lady stopped and the incomplete of her sentence was full of meaning.

Miss Janet Cassidy had entered my friend Hugh Tredways' sitting room a minute before she committed her act to that surprising outbreak. It was not the headlong plunge of nervousness or mental pain. She wanted to call Tredways' attention to abruptly chain up his interest before it even wanted to escape. You will see that Janet Cassidy was practical, prosaic; but heaven had tempered those austere gifts by a face of such beauty and the warmth and coloring of twenty-seven years.

Tredways shot at me an amused glance. "But you are not bowed down with the weight of his contradiction," he smiled.

"The lady was no whit abashed. "It is far from being a matter for a smile," he was earnestly rebuke. "And because I cannot but feel that there is something very mysterious in the matter, I have come to you."

"I am honored, Miss Cassidy, but suppose you let me have the facts?" "They are soon told. My fiancée's name is John Barrie. We were engaged to be married when I went to America. He had a position of engineer in an electric power station in Sheffield. I went to America because my parents are there, and we were in haste to be married, as it wished John to be quite unfettered when opening up his prospects. He was much opposed to my journey although my parents were of an anxious nature. I went. I fear we quarrelled at the last. He wrote me afterward, though not very often. Then his letters ceased altogether. I had not heard from him. Suddenly I received one from him. He acknowledged his fault, implored me to forgive him. I was not disposed to do so, but my parents, dying at that time I came to England, where I met John, and our engagement was renewed. A few weeks later a most extraordinary thing occurred, which has greatly interfered with our happiness.

"John was to take me to Drury Lane Theatre, and as we were there he had agreed to meet at St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden. It turned out a dark night, and he did not appear. I waited in the porch. He was there, although at first I did not see him. It was his voice, speaking to someone, which told me he had returned. I went in and saw him. He was in a state of great excitement. 'If you come to me again do you know what I'll do? I'll thrash you until you are the sickest sort of dog that ever stood on two legs.' I was so angry that I staid behind one of the stone pillars. 'Not you,' was his answer. 'Not by a jugful.' 'But you mean the rain of my life. And what is it? Just a mouldy couple of sovereigns for me to drink the health of a fellow chump who was in question along of me? I'm fair ashamed of you. Is this the way of a prison pal—'

"I heard the sound of a blow that made me feel faint. I ran to the spot in time to see a man pick himself up with blood upon his face. John leaped toward him, then caught sight of me and stopped. The other went off without speaking a word.

"The scene asked for an explanation. I told John what had happened. He instantly denied the charge, and I should not have doubted that for the extreme agitation which at first made his words almost unintelligible. The theatre was out of the question, and I returned home feeling very unhappy.

"The next morning I received a visit from a man who had been followed from the church by the man who my fiancée had knocked down. He had shadowed her every movement, then caught sight of me and stopped. The theatre was out of the question, and I returned home feeling very unhappy.

IV.—THE SURE WINNER

"Mr. Tredways, this is why I have come to you: I have returned from a five years' absence in America and find a charge brought against my fiancée of having spent the last three years in a convict prison. This terrible accusation he protests against in the strongest possible manner. Of course I am bound to accept his word; but—"

The lady stopped and the incompleteness of her sentence was full of meaning.

Miss Janet Casely had entered my friend Hog's Tredways' sitting-room ten minutes before she committed herself to that surprising outburst.

It was not the heading plump of nervousness or mental pain. She wanted to call Tredways' attention to abruptly chain up his interest before it even wanted to escape. You will see that Janet Casely was practical, prosaic; but heaven had tempered those austere gifts by a face of much beauty, and the warmth and coloring of twenty-seven years.

Tredways shot at me an amused glance. "But you are not bowed down by the weight of his contradiction," he finished.

The lady was so white as to be almost transparent. "It is far from being a matter for a smile, but he earnestly rebukes. 'And because I cannot feel that there is something very mysterious in the matter, I have come to you.'"

"I am honored, Miss Casely, but suppose you let me have the facts?"

"My fiancée's name is John Bartle. We were engaged to be married when I went to America. He had a position of engineer in an electric power station in Sheffield. I went to America because my parents are there, and we were in no haste to be married, as I wished John to be quite unattached while opening up his prospects. He was much opposed to my journey although my parents were only and very anxious for my departure. I fear we quarrelled at the last. He wrote me afterward, though not very often. Then his letters ceased altogether. That was three years ago. Suddenly I received one from him. He acknowledged his fault, implored me to forgive it. I was not disposed to do so, but my parents dying at that time I came to England, where I met John, and our engagement was renewed. A few weeks later, however, a extraordinary thing occurred, which has greatly interested you and my happiness. John was to take me to Drury Lane Theatre, and to St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden. It turned out a dark and wet night, and I took shelter under the porch. He was there, although at first I did not see him. It was his voice, speaking to someone, which told me he was before me. I called to him, saying: 'If you come, to me again do you know what I'll do? I'll thrash you until you are the sickest sort of dot that ever lived on this island.'"

"While I stood half-paralyzed by this remark, I heard the reply come from the darkness under the porch where the two men were standing behind one of the stone pillars. 'Not you, this was my answer. 'Not by a jug-full, but only my raising of my price. And what is it? Just a mouldy couple of sovereigns for me to drink the health of a fellow chump who was in good luck of me? I'm fair ashamed of you. Is this the way of a prison pal—?'"

"I heard the sound of a blow that made me feel faint. I ran to the spot in time to see a man pick himself up with blood upon his face. John leaped toward him, and caught sight of me and stopped. The other went off with out speaking a word."

"The scene asked for an explanation. I told John what I had heard. He instantly denied the charge, and I should not have doubted but for the extreme agitation which at first made his words almost unintelligible. The theatre was out of the question, and I returned home feeling very unhappy."

"Ten minutes later, I received a visit from a man who followed from the church by the man who my fiancée had knocked down. He had shadowed us, had surmised my name, and he had done wrong to listen to this creature. At any rate I let him speak for if John was in trouble I wanted to know how to help him. The man affirmed that he had known him in prison; that he had been with him for two years. Could anything be more terrible? And then he bluntly demanded a sum of money to keep him silent. I had become a little afraid of him. I temporized, and he went to my house again in seven days' time, at the same hour, which was ten o'clock. That time he had arrived in thirty minutes from now."

"I spent a night filled with bitter self-reproaching. I felt I had done very wrong in listening to that man. The following evening I went to John. He followed to tell him what I had done. As I mounted the steps of the house where he lodged, he opened the door, and I saw that he was seeing a lady out. She was in the act of drawing down her veil, but I saw her face clearly. It was very lovely, with a great mass of beautiful red-gold hair half-concealed by the sweep of her hat. Her costume left nothing to be desired, and a necklace of sables was secured by a magnificent emerald which flashed in the light of the hall electric lamp. As she went out she left a delicate perfume of verbenes. I looked at John. There was a light in his eyes which I had never seen before. That perfect vision of red lips, of eyes black as jet, of splendid red-gold hair, appeared to have died him."

"He listened to my story with but a poor attention. He showed anger, but I felt that it was quite half feigned. Then he said: 'You have been feeding on a monstrous lie. But say long, you will not accept my plain denial. I cannot do more than deny it, however. And I won't do more. Go ahead and give it again to your man. He'll never believe you and my Maker, that I never stood in a dock for any crime, any offence whatever. Good God, Janet, what a thing is this you force me to swear!'"

"That was six days ago, Mr. Tredways. Tonight, he has disappeared. The appointment I made falls due, and I have spent a week of the most complete wretchedness. I know there is something wrong, I thought of you several times, but hardly dared to come to you with my story. At the last moment I suddenly made up my mind. Such was Miss Casely's story. Personally, the only interest it held was in listening to a nice-looking girl's expression of her trouble. Would Tredways plumb for depth in so simple a narrative? He questioned at once: "Can you let me have a picture of John Bartle?"

"She pressed open a gold lock suspended round her throat and took out a small photograph."

"Thank you, Miss Casely. And your fiancée's address?"

"Twenty-two Cadogan Mansions, Piccadilly."

"That is a block of expensive flats?"

"Yes, indeed."

"But Bartle was just an engineer?"

"When I went abroad he was. He has come into some money since then."

"He must have. Now I want you to send me to him, directly you get home, the last letter you received from Bartle after you went to America. The question of comparing dates may arise. Have you his letters?"

"All of them. You shall have the one you ask, without fail."

"Very good. And now I should like to see this very commonplace black-maller and put two questions to him."

A motor bus rumbled up to the Boston Road, Miss Casely living in the street of that thoroughfare. Tredways' designation of the fellow as commonplace was keenly accurate. He had arrived, and was slouching about in front of the house; an undersized travesty of the human animal, half-way back on a reversion to type only not a villain because he was a weakling. Miss Casely's mysterious Lattition was in the house; an undersized travesty of the human animal, half-way back on a reversion to type only not a villain because he was a weakling. grim snap of his jaws. I took up the note. It held three unsigned lines:

"Unless you instantly abandon your present research, Miss Casely, John Bartle, or Hog Tredways will be shot dead within twenty-four hours of your receipt of this warning."

The clearly written words, traced by an illiterate hand, seemed to strike me in the face.

"Is this serious, Tredways?" I interrogated at last.

He was looking straight at me, but not seeing me at all. And by the despondent lines between his eyes, and his steady, hard look I perceived that it was indeed serious. All at once the that familiar type of athletic, a sardonic young man. On his right eyebrow was a rather large mole.

Tredways introduced me.

"Come inside, gentlemen," invited Bartle cheerfully. He led the way into a room at the back, snapped on the lights, jerked the curtains to shut out the world view of the rear of the premises. Then he faced us, sitting astraddle across a chair, his arms on the back of it. "Now, Mr. Tredways, I am very much at your service," he smiled.

"Which means that you have changed your mind," answered my companion gravely.

"How so?" was the swiftly-shot demand.

to serve the remainder of Branna's time in prison. And you were paid for this, whether before or after I cannot tell, fortune."

"A tissue of lies," said Bartle, breathing with difficulty.

"Ergo, possibly, to it by a woman member of the gang. By a very beautiful woman with black eyes, with a crown of magnificent red-gold hair; with lips—"

"Stop! I say! I want proofs. It is impossible that you can prove such an insane assertion."

"Here is one," continued Tredways, taking out his pocketbook. "It is a note to the effect that if I do not instantly drop my investigation either you, or me, or Miss Casely, will be shot dead within twenty-four hours. True, that interval has lapsed; still—"

"My soul!" ejaculated Bartle, staring at the letter as if it were a rearing adder.

He tried to pull himself together. "Look here, Mr. Tredways," he went on, endeavoring to sooth, "you know more than any one else, how impossible, how wildly impossible, it is for one man to take the place of another in such circumstances. It is unthinkable!"

"To me, analyzing astonishment: I have discovered that it is thinkable," answered Tredways with admiration.

"Let me refresh your ailing memory, Bartle, by telling you of the procedure. Having prepared their plan to deliver Branna by substitution they must have got into communication with him at Blackmoor prison. A warden hugely bribed? Questionable. Major Stark having mentioned to me that the man had knowledge of fruit-tree grafting, and was sometimes so employed, it is likely that a message in cipher reached his hands via a consignment of trees, suppose we say apple-trees. Cox's Orange, the governor's favorite kind? Branna undoubtedly got the instructions. He was known that on Wednesday morning he worked with the outside gang on the moors. His instructions were blissfully simple on the edge of a certain quarry he was to slip, to roll down, to vanish. The sequel had been arranged to the last detail."

"Of that sequel you were the pivot. On the night previous you were taken to the spot, to the quarry on the moor. There was no moon that night, and the plain was black as the pit. You were led down the sides of the quarry; you were shown a big hole, a hole almost large enough to be called a cave, and which was practically concealed by a dead thorn bush. Here you were left to carry out the rest of the program. It was simple. You were to dig, you took off every stitch of clothing, and you exchanged it for the convict's full garb which had been made for you and left with you. It was an exact duplicate of that worn by Branna, of the Blackmoor prison garb, with the necessary changes. When you had changed, you buried your own clothes in the cave."

"The night passed, what a night for you!"

"The day was fine. Presumably you proceeded to soil your brand new suit, and to inflict plenty of scratches upon hands, etc. The outside gang at length passed by the edge of the quarry. Down fell Branna with a yell of well-learned terror, pitched over and over, came to the bottom muddy and scratched, and was promptly helped and pushed by you into the cave. What followed was beautifully natural, charmingly simple. You allowed yourself to be discovered in the pit or doleful, struggling painfully up it, and you were rescued."

"For three years," added Tredways steadily.

"And my crime?"

"Choose a sorer word, say 'adventure.' Bartle did not start; he did not change color. He looked amused. 'Is this a pleasant?' he questioned."

situation which had seemed so shallow showed us a black, a menacing depth. He started to his feet. A timeless gleaming flash of light saw that something had occurred to move him strongly.

"Thanks, Francis," said he simply. "We have now only to return."

"Well, what did you find down there?" I asked, somewhat snappishly.

"The extraordinary. Something undreamed of by my experience. You have had a dull hour? You shall have one satiated with sensation. Good God, Francis! what an atmosphere of crime you and I live in. I am drenched with moisture, and you are shivering with cold. Let us walk quickly. Give me the pistol. Thank heaven the dawn is breaking."

We were in London again at noon. Tredways' first act was to ring up 222, Cadogan Mansions. He got the occupant who was just going out, it seemed. "You will not be back this side of midnight?" I heard Tredways' reproachful voice. "Oh, but I must see you before then, Mr. Bartle. What? Pardon, you do not quite get me. I said I must. That is better. No, not now; I shall come at about ten this evening." He rang off.

An English Custom Becoming Quite Common in Canada. Every country has its national customs and habits. For instance, England has the custom of serving afternoon tea. English homes, stores, offices, factories, work shops, hotels and tea rooms serve afternoon tea. It is part of the national life of England. Our soldiers poked fun at it, but were not long in acquiring the habit. And they are not giving it up now that they are back home. They are influencing a more general adoption of afternoon tea in Canada. To-day this English custom is quite common in Canadian homes. It is spreading. New tea rooms are opening all over Canada. Hotels are making a specialty of afternoon tea. The habit is invading offices, stores and work shops. A few minutes rest in the afternoon with a cup of good tea is a wonderful reviver, giving new zest to the busy business man, stenographer, clerk and worker. Afternoon tea is a good business proposition. Easily and quickly made. Very inexpensive. T. H. ESTABROOKS COMPANY, LIMITED. June, the month of apple blossoms, lilacs and countless other wild flowers, is rightly called the month of brides—when flowers and foliage lend themselves so admirably to trimming the home and sanctuary for many happy events. Socially the week has been a quiet one and other than the accounts of marriages which have taken place during the week, and the informal meeting of friends for afternoon tea, there is little of a social nature to record. The Port William, Ontario, Daily Times-Journal of Wednesday, June 2nd, has the following of interest to many friends of the bridegroom in St. John, accompanied by an excellent photograph of the principals in the happy event: "St. Paul's Church, Port William, was lavishly decorated with ferns, potted plants and spring blossoms, on Tuesday, June 1, for the marriage of Captain Stanley M. Smith, M. C., and Miss Norma Kathleen Young. The bridegroom who won military honors in the great war, is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Smith of St. John, New Brunswick, and the bride the second daughter of Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Crawford Young, and Mrs. Young, Selkirk Avenue, Port William.

The wedding brought a large number of the people of both Port William and Port Arthur to St. Paul's, and attracted wide interest. Long before seven o'clock every available seat in St. Paul's was filled save those reserved for the invited guests and for the house party. The service was held in the beautiful church in its appointments of gold and crimson, made picturesque setting for the ceremony and an extraordinarily beautiful picture was presented, when the bridal procession entered and afterwards when the bride and bridegroom mounted the steps to the sanctuary, passing along the crimson carpet to the altar, then the lovely bridegroom was fully seen, the shimmering satin of the square train, lined with pale green tulle, the sparkling crown and the large satin panache which edged the train, and the panache fringed of satin piped with satin, at the sides of the skirt, giving the bouffant effect which is in vogue, the bodice finished with a tiny vest of old lace, and the same filmy lace outlining the shoulders, from which the train descended gracefully of satin edged along hung heavily, the tulle veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and a headdress brought from overseas for the occasion, and wore her bridegroom's gift, a diamond ring. She was given in marriage by her father, the officiating clergyman was the Rev. W. H. Trickett, rector of St. Paul's. Schoolmaster's wedding, and the sister of the bride, and Miss Myrtle Penman, wearing frocks of pink, rose pink, shading to buttercup tones, graciously draped with French buds, and girdled with apple green sashes, the picturesque poke bonnets completing the lovely picture and finding an echo of quietness in the Victorian, dressy, of yellow panache and sunburst roses. Their souvenirs from the bridegroom were silver vases. The best man was Major Jack Young, D. S. O., M. C., and the ushers were Mr. Norman Beverley Robinson and Mr. George Ewing. After the ceremony at the church Mrs. Samuel C. Young held a reception at 405 Selkirk Avenue, a very large number of invited guests offering their congratulations to the bridal couple in the well proportioned drawing-room, only the knowledge of the large number of people passing telling of its spacious proportions; the dining-room, with its rose-colored candelabra and table tented with greenery and bright with spring blossoms, and the large sitting-room upstairs, where a large array of wedding gifts held the admiring attention of the guests, setting off the exquisite gowns that were donned for the occasion. The bride's mother wore a charming dress of taupe georgette, with touches of burnt orange, and a small hat banded with orange, and Mrs. E. R. Wayland, aunt of the bride, looking well in a Paris gown of pale taupe georgette with overness of deep fringe and Napoleon hat of black tulle, straw lined with satin and with this costume Mrs. Wayland looked very becoming a graceful lavender cape of black satin lined with grey. Mrs. Gerald Ham, sister of the bride, and herself a bride of a few months, wore the "rose de noce" of white trimmed with plumes of Alice blue. Colonel J. E. Swinburne proposed the toast to the bride. Later on in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith left by the moon trip which includes a visit to the bridegroom's father and mother in St. John, N. B., the bride travelling in a very smart and of grey taffeta, the flounced bolero sash being belted with narrow corded ribbon in gold rose pink, the same tone of color appearing in the becoming hat of fine rose straw and crepe with glycerine feathers. The bride's bouquet, thrown from the head of the staidway, was caught by Miss Violet Cameron. On their return from their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Smith will take up residence at 493 Selkirk Ave., while Lieut. Colonel Young and family spend the summer months on the St. Lawrence, near Montreal. A special compliment was paid by the attendance at the church of the McGillivray pipe band, Pipe Major Bruce leading the tartan kiltsed band who "played up" the bridal party on the broad balcony at the house, to the tunes of Tullynet, the Kill in My Delight, Bonnie Dundee and Highland Laddie. Mrs. E. R. Wayland who remained over for the wedding of her niece, leaves on Friday on her way home to England, taking passage on the Victorian, June 8th.

A wedding which has been anticipated with interest took place in St. Andrew's Church on Wednesday morning at 9.30 o'clock, when Miss Annie Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Mason, 24 Queen street, became the bride of Mr. Robert Wallace of Regina. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming suit of navy blue tricotine, with hat to match and carried a showy bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley, and was attended by Mrs. R. D. Magee, who wore a suit of navy blue with blue hat to match and carried a beautiful basket pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. R. D. Magee, brother of the bride, Lieut. Colonel Frank Magee, acted as usher. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left by automobile on a short wedding trip, after which they will reside in Regina. Mrs. Wallace will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends in this city, who wish her much happiness in her new home in the West.

Miss Phyllis Kenny, West St. John, entertained a few friends at an enjoyable tea last week-end. Mr. and Mrs. James Marrie, Alexandria street, were given a delightful surprise party on Wednesday evening by a number of their friends, in honor of the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding. Many beautiful gifts accompanied by congratulations and good wishes were presented to the happy couple. A short musical program was given by the friends in the evening after which delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Marrie who before her marriage was Miss Thorne of this city, appeared during the evening in her attractive wedding gown of thirty years ago, which was made of beautiful blue satin. The evening proved most enjoyable to all present.

Weekly Chat

Dearest Kiddies— We are always delighted to have new members join our Children's Corner, for as those who are situated near it, age drop out they leave very important gaps to be filled. By some letters which I receive it seems evident that the boys and girls under that age do not know for sure what the conditions for membership are, so today I thought we might "chat" about the subject just a little, and thereby ease the minds of those uncertain little friends. As soon as children are able to print or write (or indeed perhaps before that) and send in their names, their postal address, the date and month of their birthday, with the age or year in which they were born, they may become full-fledged members of our great big club for little folks. No money, you see, is required at all, just a few lines of the young folks (as most of our own page each Saturday you will find stories, puzzles, games, poetry and many other features which are intended only for grown-ups, and so you can feel that at least one page a week is full of interesting things which you may understand. Then there are many other advantages in belonging to us, for you may contribute articles such as puzzles, verses, stories, etc., to our page. Particularly do we welcome accounts of any odd or out-of-the-ordinary experiences which the members may have, for every child enjoys reading about what other boys and girls did or saw. Just here, though, I wish to make it very clear that all contributions which may be sent to me are not printed unless considered worthy of interest. You can easily understand the means of adding to the other members to fill the pages with things just because the kiddies sent them, unless they helped to make good readers of the pages. You are not to forget that you may not be the best judge of just what is best on our own Children's Corner. You are to send in your letters occasionally to Uncle Dick, telling all about yourselves, what you are doing, how you are getting on, work, your play and doings. Your letter is answered on our page. Generally the first name and initial are placed before the address, so that any personal remarks may be in a certain degree private. Besides all these advantages, we have contests which have been the means of adding to the enjoyment of all our members; not only do they give pleasure, but they add the young folks to develop their talents either in writing, drawing, guessing, observing, and in many other ways. Many prizes have been won in these contests, and dozens of the members who are now past the age for winning prizes could tell you of useful and valuable gifts they have received. Even though our members may not reach their sixteenth birthday some day, that does not mean they cannot contribute to our page; it just means that they cannot win prizes and do not appear in our birthday lists.

To you, little friends, I think I have made everything quite clear, and trust that the older members will explain to the younger brothers and sisters just what it means to join our Club, and to say now how you may make as well. All are welcome, we have many hundreds as members all the time. Most organizations have their dues, and you will always find ours on the top of our page. "Kindly deeds make happy lives." Then we pledge ourselves to be kind and helpful to all our friends, and to help in the best way we can the experiences of helping the little animals have made many a little one's letter very interesting. So now, kiddies, you have a very good idea of the aim and object of our page. You have a chance also of corresponding with other members whom you may meet in life in another way. In the membership, you may have enjoyed the letters exchanged among the members, even though they may not as yet have seen each other. With all these advantages and privileges we are a very happy group. Let us all do our share to make the C. C. what we often think it to be, and those who have often wished they could belong to the Children's Corner will surely feel after reading this that we have room for all. Then let us show by our living that we do kind deeds and make many lives happier.

As ever a friend to all the boys and girls.
UNCLE DICK.
WHAT TWO CAN DO. "You can do more than you think you can do." "You can get all sorts of things for one penny." "I bought these beads, which I am threading, with a penny." "But I want sixpence," Geoffroy said. "I want that box in Mrs. Jones's toyshop, and it's sixpence. You can't save pennies; they rattle in your pocket, and you spend them." Annie looked at her little brother thoughtfully. "I have a penny, too," she said. She put down her beads. "Geoff, let's go down to Mrs. Jones's toyshop now. I'll buy a money-box for you with my penny; then you can put your penny inside it, and that will be one penny saved for the box." "Can you get a money-box for a penny?" said Geoff. "Yes," said Annie. "I saw some there the other day—painted like pillar-boxes—red and white." "Hurrah!" said Geoff. "When they went into the village street, they saw a baby moon up in the sky." "Look!" said Geoff. "Isn't it woeny?" "Yes," said Annie. "but it's saving up, and going to grow big." They went into the toyshop, and they bought the money-box, and when it came out, Geoff took his sister's penny. "Wonder," he said. "If the little moon has any one to help it to save up, Annie. It ain't easy to do it by yourself." "No," said Annie. "two can do it better than one." —Alice Massee. "No," said Geoff. "I've got a better idea. Why does a hair-dresser die a sad death? Because she curls up and dies."

FIRST AID TO TIRED MEMORIES

To the Editor:— I suppose that they're a great many amongst your readers, and a specially the older ones, that find themselves all the time forgetting things that they should ought to remember and I was the same way myself and one of my friends suggested that I can probably get one up for myself that's just as good and maybe a whole lot better so I set down and figured out a system of how to remember different things, and now I am going to pass the good news on to my admirers and the different between the other memory courses and I believe I don't charge nothing for my lessons but all as you half to do is send in a stamp self-addressed envelope so I won't forget wife by her first name, which is more than she could do to him as she didn't even answer him. Personally I could give you other proofs about how this system works, for instance I can set down right this minute and without going into news paper files or calling up any sporting editors I can tell you who won between Willard and Dempsey last July or win the world serious last October and I can tell if Babe Ruth swings right or left handed and I can remember what yr. I was married, and why, and I can recall the names of the school I went one semester to before they decided that 2 semesters was 1 too much, and etc.

A Big Satisfying Aid.

Where this system comes in as handy as any other place is when a man is dressing. For instance how many of you puts on your collar only to find where you live at, and I will tell you the complete system but in this issue I will give you a few examples of how the system worked with me and you can judge for yourself if it's O. K. or the opp.

Next Night he Come Home and Called His Wife by Her First Name, Which is More Than She Could do to Him, as She Didn't Even Answer Him.

Well to begin at the beginning, the first time I felt like my memory was slipping was about 2 years ago when I was out on the golf link with a couple of friends and we were playing for a berry a hole and along about the 4th hole one of my friends said he had a six and the other said he had a seven so they asked me what I had and I said a five.

"Listen," said my 2d friend, "how about them two times in the ploughed ground when you swung and never hit the ball at all?"

So that set me to thinking that I had entirely forgot them 2 whiffs, so I kind of laughed to cover up my embarrassment but I made up my mind right there that I would find out some way to remember them missed swings a specially when the boys was keeping close tabs on a person, so that night I remembered to come home and after dinner I worked out a system and the next morning I tried it in the nursery and all 4 of my kids was in there to say nothing about the nurse, and without consulting no notes I called them each by their list name.

"Well," I said to myself, "this system looks like it was A-1 and I would be a fine stiff if I didn't pass it on to my friends that is in the same way."

So then I used the new system to try and think of some of my friends that had forgot different things, and the 1st one I thought of was a bird that him and I had been down to N.

that your shirt is still off, or don't your shoes and then recalls that the history is still missing? Since I got up this system I can always manage to get my garments onto me as they should come and at 1st I tried to do it in alphabet order, but I soon found out that I hadn't a long while before the underwear was yet to come and the coat had been on a long while before it come time for the vest. But the way I overcame those difficulties was to just make up my mind to discard that vest and then do the rest of it from omega to alpha instead of vice versa, so now when I don the old costume, the underwear comes first, then the vest and then the coat and shoes and shirt and necktie and finally wind up with the coat which is just as it should be.

This is only an example to show you how good the system works and it don't stop with dressing, but goes all through a man's daily life and as I say I will pass it on to my admirers if they will send me a stamp addressed envelope but no money, and if they are satisfied with the course they can maybe come across with a few flowers or a 12 dozen doughnuts.

So then I happened to think of another old pal that couldn't remember he was married and his wife had complained about it several times, so one night we was over to his house but he wasn't home but his Mrs. thought she knew where she could reach him by telephone, so called up the No. down town and sure enough there was there, and I got him on the wire and told him to not forget he was married and he said he wouldn't and the next he come home and called his

SPRING'S PROMISE.

Out of the winter now we come
Into Maytime's splendor,
Smiles that once were gray and gloom
Every tree that we behold.

Now are fair and tender;
Apple blossoms everywhere
Petals bright are spilling,
Gardens that were bleak and bare
Beauty now is filling.

Breezes that were harsh and cold
Now are mild and fragrant,
Every tree that we behold
Homes more feathered vibrant;
Mornings now are sweet with song
And with childish laughter,
Though the winter days were long,
Joy has followed after.

This was promised long ago,
Smiles should follow grieving,
Roses fair should bloom and bow
With the water's leaving;
Peace should take the place of pain,
Blister days of sadness,
Should not be here in vain,
But should end in gladness.

Violets blossom where the snow
Lays has kept them sleeping,
So shall joy be ours to know
When we've done with weeping;
Just as springtime with her flowers
Makes the whole world splendid,
So shall rest and peace be ours
When our cares are ended.

DIETING.

Dieting is a painful operation by which a turbulent and high-spirited appetite is reduced to a slow walk.

In early life the appetite does not cause any more trouble than the conscience. No attempt is made to hold it in check, hence it roams from corn to grape with foot which it uses most recklessly. But after a while the most roused appetite begins to get shiny and threadbare in spots and refuses to grapple with food which it once could pile to the mat three times out of five. When this occurs, the owner of the appetite takes it to a specialist and is put on a diet which would keep the breath of life in a humming bird.

Dieting consists of eating some thing which will not talk back to the stomach. It is a wonderful change to a man who has been accustomed to wash down a bowl of broad and

Some people diet by going without breakfast and lunch and then eating everything down to the dollies at dinner. The most popular method, however, is to go without everything that tastes like food and thus keep the stomach in a placid and submissive state. Once in a while some conscientious dieter will be invited out and partake of real food, which will prove such a shock to his stomach that nothing but two quarts of hot water will calm it down.

Dieting is a good thing for people who object to weighing more than all of the other neighbors in the block, and if kept up long enough will take off more flesh than a hot wave.

Works Both Ways.

"One by one children leave us," said the mother sadly, as the fourth daughter started on her wedding journey.

"Yes," replied the father, a little more sadly, "and one by one they bring our sons-in-law back to us."

Something Free

Manly Strength

TO MY READER:

Whether or not you lack an abundant vigor, here is a free offer which will surely interest you, and through which you may easily profit from now on to the end of a ripe, healthy, advanced age. I have compiled a little treatise for self help (book form), which I am pleased to send absolutely free by mail in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope to any man anywhere who writes for it. Over a million copies have already been thus distributed to those who wrote for them from all over the world. There is no obligation whatsoever involved in this offer, nothing which you are required to pay for in any way, either now or in the future. It is just simply an out-of-pocket free proposal. In this little book of 72 pages, 8,000 words, and 30 half-tone photo reproductions, I have endeavored to give a straightforward talk to men, young and elderly, single and married, a concise compendium for self-reference, a perfectly plain discourse upon those important, personal matters relating to vital strength of men, the preservation of virility, its possible self-restoration, its legitimate uses and its wanton abuses. Every man should be in possession of this manly part describes a little drugless mechanical vitalizer which I make and distribute, but whether or not you wish to see one of these vitalizers is for yourself to determine.

However, aside from anything it contains in reference to my vitalizer, the book should be read by all for its real worth. Therefore, please use free coupon below.

SANDEN, Author.

Reader, the whole world is today alive to the importance of a better general understanding of sex hygiene. The much-discussed science of eugenics is teaching the great mass of people that strong, healthy, rugged parents beget equally sturdy children.

Manhood, no matter where or in what condition of life we find it, is the single power that most fascinates both men and women. The one who radiates this manly influence, this result of a vigorous, sturdy nerve force, is the ego who forges to the front, while weaker people stand aside.

It is my opinion that any man may hope for a complete restoration of his manhood and vigor if he but make up his mind that he WILL conquer himself. Of course I do not include the man of extreme old age or the one who is incurably diseased. Lost vitality is not, according to my theory, an organic disease. It is more a sick condition of the mind and the nerves, and a lowered state of the whole body, all combined. My free book tells you just what you do.

The vitalizer referred to above, which I make and distribute, is a little appliance that men who desire to restore lost vitality are using everywhere today. The book in one part fully describes it. You wear this vitalizer comfortably upon your body all night. It weighs but a few ounces, and apparently pours a great, gentle stream of FORCE or VITALITY into your blood, your nerves, your muscles and organs while you sleep. Men say it drives away the nervous weakness or pain in small of back, that vigor is restored in 60 to 90 days. With special attachments my vitalizer is also used for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc. It is a wonderful little appliance and generates and sends out a marvelous force. Possibly you might want to use one of these vitalizers in your own case. If so you can, after reading the free book, let me know and I will make a special proposal whereby you may have one. If you live in or near this city I should be most pleased to have you call and get a free demonstration of the vitalizer, otherwise write. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case.

Let Me Send You This Book Free

If you live so far to call, or if you cannot call, please fill in the coupon below and send it to me. You will receive free, sealed, by return mail, my 72-page illustrated book, containing 8,000 words, a complete compendium of useful information for men, young or elderly, single or married, who want the truth about the subject of vital strength, its preservation, its possible self-restoration, and its legitimate uses and wanton abuses. You get it all free.

WANTED:--AN ANOINTED MAN

By William T. Ellis.

Candidates for public office are now under examination, analysis and discussion. In larger view, thoughtful persons are considering not merely aspirants to high political places, but also the kind of leaders the world is to have in years just ahead of us. Never before was the question of such profound concern. The sort of men and women who are to guide the destinies of the race in the next twenty-five years is a matter of supreme importance. Certainly they will not be persons who are first of all bent upon securing offices and honors for themselves. Probably, like young David of old, they will be called to national leadership from posts of humble service, wherein they have been thinking the great thoughts and living the noblest lives of their generation.

Innumerable articles have been written about the qualifications, real and imputed, of candidates for official position. For each candidate, occupying a prominent position and being a leader are usually, alas, two different things—there is today no supposition that a man can be both.

Not in any idle or conventional or "pious" sense do we in this Sunday School Lesson. What we most require at the present time in posts of responsibility and leadership is a man who can do both things.

The Statesmanship of Teachers.

Some teachers have been here who have looked upon their calling as somewhat patterned after the Samuel of old. They have been called to prepare men for service of their generation. Their own work they have seen to be that of making young men ready to do the work of their generation. They have carried the torch which set afire the heart of youth. To incite youth to noble deeds, to patriotic loyalty, to self-sacrifice, to the opportunity and their reward. They have been, in a new sense, the king-makers of democracy, the builders of a sovereign people. Their own work they have seen to be that of making young men ready to do the work of their generation. They have carried the torch which set afire the heart of youth. To incite youth to noble deeds, to patriotic loyalty, to self-sacrifice, to the opportunity and their reward. They have been, in a new sense, the king-makers of democracy, the builders of a sovereign people. Their own work they have seen to be that of making young men ready to do the work of their generation.

What Are the Real Values?

God is concerned chiefly with spiritual values. That truth, written upon the tablets of our hearts, and linked with the other truth that the present needs of the world are spiritual in their nature, having to do with hopes and aspirations and new-awakened sensibilities of mankind. If the clear spiritual verities of the Bible, especially as they relate to allegiance to God and his will, to the brotherhood of man, and to justice on earth, were being consistently and clearly and generally stated, the vagaries of Bolshevism and reaction would not now be so fearful. "The Lord looketh upon the heart," and it is a new hearts that the hope of the world lies in.

So it was not the big and handsome older sons of Jesse that were to receive the royal anointing at the hand of Samuel, but the ruddy young poet from the sheep-herding, the boy whom his family regarded as "only a boy," and so did not call him in from the field, where he had been improving his skills on his shepherd's reed flute that later were to lift up the hearts of uncounted millions to new conceptions of God. What a dreamer of that time! What a dreamer of that time! What a dreamer of that time! What a dreamer of that time!

A Wise Man to Bethlehem.

We are so familiar with the Christmas story of the visit of the wise men to Bethlehem that we overlook the earlier visit of a wise man to the little town that was the birthplace of David, as well as of David's greater Son. It was to the hillside village of Bethlehem, which so many allied soldiers have seen since that day, that the Prophet Samuel came with his cruse of anointing oil, having been directed thither by the Lord. He knew the place, and he knew the family; for he had not known, God does not usually give all His directions at once. His servants would by a succession of sealed orders, which are opened as they proceed, be led to the position. How the hearts of the majority of Americans would leap were some presidential candidate of size to appear declaring himself to be the servant of Christ, and animated primarily by desire to do only what Christ would have him do. For all our grief, the world is waiting for that only in the spirit of Jesus are these vexed national and international questions to be met successfully.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. Lurie

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"IN" AND "INTO."

The distinction between the uses of two words, "in" and "into," can be expressed best by giving examples of proper and improper usage. Therefore, compare the two sentences which follow: "The man walked in the house" and "The man walked into the house." In the first case, the action was confined entirely to the house; that is, the man was in the house, and he walked therein. But in the second case, the man was outside the house, and he entered it. "In" shows state of being, or position; "into" denotes action, movement, tendency or direction. Do not say, "I fell in the water," but say, "I fell into the water." Following is a case in which the two words are used correctly in one sentence: "I threw the stone into the house, and it lies in the house." "Come in the house," says the mother to the child. She should say, "Come into the house."

Faint And Dizzy Spells

Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation etc.

Many men and women become run-down and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. B. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much.

It Pays to Feed Empire Feeds!

Cattlemen, farmers and dairymen have learned that it is profitable to buy stock feeds by proteins and that the feed containing the proper amount of proteins is the feed that brings results.

Another consideration steps in, however, and that is, that beyond a certain point, protein ingredients may be present in too great quantity for the animal to use, and there is waste.

EMPIRE FEEDS are rightly balanced

Empire Dairy and Hog Feeds contain not less than 16% proteins (guaranteed), which will be used for the nourishment of the animal, without waste.

We aim to put up feeds that will pay the user. Only good sound grains and other ingredients are used, and certainly no filler or other useless stuff will ever enter into EMPIRE FEEDS. Try a quantity for a fair testing time. We will abide by the resulting improvement in your stock. Ask your dealer for the honest feeds—EMPIRE BRANDS.

HUDSON SIX

EMPIRE FLOUR MILLS LIMITED - ST. THOMAS, ONT.

This is the Secret of Hudson Supremacy

The Super-Six Motor Is Exclusive

It explains why the Hudson rides so pleasantly and endures so long against the hardest service.

That is Why no Car Has Ever Rivalled Hudson's Records

It will be years before we can know the final limit of Hudson endurance. But already it is evident that endurance is doubled through this exclusive principle. More than 100,000 cars in service and nearly five years' experience reveal the character of Super-Six endurance.

The proof is also shown in Hudson's unequalled records for speed, hill-climbing, and acceleration. They cover the field. Can there be any question of its supremacy in these respects?

Also a Leader in Beauty

If it had no other appeal than its distinctive beauty, the Super-Six would hold high position. That is recognized in the way Hudson has set motor car styles. Its exclusiveness in that respect is maintained by creation and advancement. Others can always be just behind its mode. But with its motor there can be no imitation. There it holds a monopoly.

Strive as they may to accomplish the same results, no one has as yet by official proof shown that any motor equal or satisfactory supplants the Super-Six in those qualities for which it is famed.

Slight Falling-off from Tuesday's Record—Paper Group Leads.

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.)

Montreal, June 11.—Total shares traded in on the local exchange this forenoon amounted to 22,409. This was very much more than the amount traded in yesterday forenoon, yet was well above average trading and at almost any other time would occasion comment. The most noticeable reactionary tendency in a few instances more especially in such stocks as recently experienced sharp advances. Brompton fell from 140.75 to 139.25. Atlantic sugar was mostly 115 and showed very little activity. The most interesting development of the forenoon was the receipt by shareholders of N. S. Steel and Co. a circular letter from management of the company to the terms of their British Empire Steel Corporation merger. Considerable information was contained in the circular, and among other things was the announcement that the average combined profit of the constituent companies for the past three years were the equivalent of 8 per cent. per annum on the common stock of the new merger. The aggregated amount to $49,770,930 against a common and preferred capitalization of $212,750,000 less $6,760,000 held for constituent companies. Current liabilities amount to $25,200,000 against current assets of 75,306,623, of which one-third is cash and call loans.

JOY AND GLADNESS FOR THE CHILDREN

Every child—whether it be poor or rich is entitled to joy and gladness. Health is the birthright of all and there is absolutely no doubt that the healthy baby is a happy baby. It is the baby's nature to be happy—not cross. Only the sickly baby is cross. The well child is a joy to the home—it is a laughing, gurgling, happy little piece of humanity which drives duty care from the household. The sickly baby is the opposite—he is cross and peevish; cries a great deal and is a source of constant worry to the mother. But mothers there is no need of your little one being sickly. Regulate his bowels and sweeten his stomach with gentle but thorough-laxative and baby will soon be well and happy again. Thousands of mothers have proved this through their use of Baby's Own Tablets—there is a smile in every dose of the Tablets. Give them to your baby and make him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

The Firefighter heartily congratulates the Hampton Tuxis Boys and the Rothery Trail Ranger Camp...

Word has just been received that the winning boys have won 212 badges for successfully completing their tests in athletics, handicraft, hobbies, camp-craft, etc.

Swimming week at the Y. M. C. A. has been a great success, about 40 boys have been attending during the afternoon and about 20 at the night classes.

Did you ever transform a old baby-buggy into a wagon, make a grocery box into a sled, or build a bench or stool?

Most boys like to make things. Every boy enjoys tools if he just has a chance to use them.

When you finish work remember Bobby and have mercy on the fowl. Mother—Bobby, did you use this towel before you went to the Athletic Meet last night?

Trail Ranger—Yes, Mother. Mother—Well, why did you clean your boots on it?

Trail Ranger—Why, Mother, I only wiped my hands and face on it. —Firefighter.

BREAKING OF GLASS, WASTE OF LIQUOR

Amusing incident on Charlotte Street last evening when bottle of prohibition booze slipped from young man's pocket.

An amusing incident occurred early last evening on Charlotte street. A young man's hat in the busy throng was calmly pursued, the even top of his way, and he would have passed unnoticed except for a trick of fate. One of the folds of his overcoat a bottle suddenly dropped and, striking the pavement, with a crash, broke into many pieces, while the contents slowly trickled over the curb. The catastrophe did not phase the young man a moment. He kept calmly on as if nothing outward had happened; there might have been only the slightest quickening of pace. From the interest that he displayed it is to be presumed that the bottle contain "liquid refreshment."

A policeman was patrolling his beat with stately step on the opposite side of the street. When he heard the crash and the sound of tinkling glass he looked around, taking in the surroundings with rapid glance. His eye travelled upwards, searched the buildings above, but nothing rewarded him. Nonplussed, he stalked on, and the owner of the booze escape his notice.

Rothsey College Premier Corps

At Last Night's Inspection They Scored Total of Fifty-Six Points Out of a Possible Sixty—Other Cadet Corps to be Inspected.

Though ineligible to compete in the Lord Strathcona competition yet the cadet corps of Rothsey Collegiate has probably won the coveted honor of being the premier corps in the province. At last night's inspection they scored the magnificent total of 56 points out of a possible 60.

There are several corps yet to be inspected but the only one that has any chance of wresting the laurels from the Rothsey boys is the corps of the Chatham Grammar School and the possibility is only a remote one. The inspection of the Rothsey Corps took place last evening on the Collegiate campus. Inspector General Macdonald was present and took the general salute. He later inspected the corps. In an address to the boys he remarked on the excellence of the turnout and said he was especially pleased with the steadiness of every platoon as they marched past.

Le Col. Snow who conducted the inspection complimented the boys on their splendid showing and said that there has been a wonderful improvement since last year. The boys went through every drill with dash and energy spurred on no doubt by the determination to show the other corps that though they are not eligible for any prize yet they had the most highly trained of them all.

Sergeant Doce is the instructor of the Rothsey Cadets. The following are the scores made in each branch of the training:

Table with 2 columns: Branch, Points. Includes items like March Past, Manual at Arms, Company Drill, Signalling, Physical Training, Extended Order.

This gives the Rothsey Cadets a total of 56 points, 4 points beyond the nearest contender the St. Stephen Corps of this city.

"I am not at liberty to tell you anything about the financial arrangements yet," he added.

DIED.

McLEOD—At Hampton, N. B., on June 11th, 1920, Sir Ezekiel McLeod. Funeral at Penobscot on Monday at 2:30 o'clock. Service at Hampton on Saturday at 5:45 (old time).

Sir Ezekiel McLeod Died Last Evening

The End of a Distinguished Career Came Peacefully and Quietly at "Linden Heights," Hampton, His Summer Home.

Sir Ezekiel McLeod, an eminent jurist of this province, and, during his active career, most prominent in the affairs of the province and nation, passed away at "Linden Heights," Hampton, his summer home, at 5:30 last night.

He had been ill only three days with pneumonia, and his transition to the higher life, was peacefully and quietly accomplished. The deceased was born 50 years ago at Cardwell, the son of John and Mary McLeod.

He received his education at the Cardwell High school, U. N. B. and at Harvard College. Called to the bar in 1882, he soon took a leading place in his chosen profession and received the honors his ability so richly merited. As a lawyer practicing in the courts he was one of the ablest. As a judge, presiding over the courts, he brought a dignity and fairness in judgment, based upon his thorough conception and understanding of law, that commanded the respect of all who practiced in the courts.

He became Judge of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick in 1906, and also local Judge in Admiralty. In 1914 he was elevated to the position of Chief Justice, which he retained until 1917, when he resigned to employ the retirement from active work which he had so well earned.

While practicing law in the city he was associated for times with his brother, Robert, and on the latter's death he became associated with the late William A. Ewing.

Politically he was a Liberal-Conservative and represented St. John City in the Local Legislature and in Parliament. He was an adherent of the Baptist faith. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Conference With Mayor Yesterday

Representatives of Power Company and Union of Employees Discussed One-Man Car System Regarding Present Situation.

Mayor Schofield is not going to have a strike on the street railway during the office if he can help it. At city hall they have some reason to remember the street railway trouble some years ago, and the cost of a strike of the city a pretty penny. Yesterday His Worship had a conference of representatives of the New Brunswick Power Company and the Union of the employees at his office in city hall, the object being to see if a way can be found out of the present situation. The question at issue was discussed for some time, and though no agreement was reached, it is believed that some progress was made towards an understanding by which a strike may be avoided. In any case both parties agreed to meet again in the Mayor's office and continue the discussion.

The action of the Mayor in bringing the two parties together has assured the citizens against any precipitate action on either side, and if the Mayor does not succeed in his role of conciliator the dispute may be referred to a board of arbitration. Although the union has reiterated its decision to call a strike of the employees of the N. B. Power Company if an effort is made to introduce the one-man car system here, it is believed that the announcement made by Manager Macaulay that none of the employees will be discharged as a consequence of the new system, but that more cars will be put on and that labor reduced, has modified to some extent the original opposition of the men. It is likely that representatives of the men will be sent to Halifax or some other city to investigate for themselves the operation of the one-man car.

PLAYGROUNDS ASSN. MEETING

The grounds which will be opened include the Allison playgrounds at the Exhibition buildings, the Alexanders, Aberdeen, King George, West Side, and North End playgrounds.

"In Friday's paper it was announced that Major Magee was in command of the St. Andrew's and St. Stephen's Cadet Corps. This was a mistake, as Major Magee was in command (not of the St. Andrew's Cadets, while Sergeant Vail had charge of the St. Stephen's Corp."
