ON TRIAL BUT NOT PRESENT AT COURT

Unusual Procedure in Relation to Charges Against Potato Shippers - Star Chamber Methods Condemned.

It is said, and it seems that there s considerable truth in it, that the otato shippers are to be tried without being allowed to be present at their trial or to be represented by counsel. It is understood that Mr. Hereford, the investigator, has intimated his intention to examine any witness alone excluding everybody counsel, Mr. P. J. Hughes. K. C., and that this examination will take place at any time or at any place withou notice to any of the parties whose conduct has been brought into ques-tion. It is understood that the investigator was willing to have Mr. T. W Caldwell, M. P., present when the witnesses were to be examined as he was the man who had been nam by the complainants to represen them, but he would not allow Mr Caldwell to be present if the shippers objected.

It is also understood that Mr Hereford, after examining any wit ness that he chooses to call in that way privately intends to take a run up to Harland, Perth and Bath, and go into the offices of Hatfield & Co., information that there may be there in the way of correspondence hat he may call some of the gentlenen representing these various firms separately to give evidence bemay cross-examine them privately.

The intention seems to be to preent any of this information being tal in this locality. given to the public.

Mr. H. H. Hatfield, one of the WONDERFUL RESULTS FROM shippers in question expressed himself very strongly against any such Star Chamber methods of investigainto any question where charges had bee. made against any present against whom the charges ade to be present and to take part in the proceedings. It is understood that all thes shippers are perfectly willing to have Hereford or anybody else who as authority from the Governmen to go into their offices and examine anything they have in the office or btain any information in reference to this matter but their objection is that people will be called in to give any evidence they choose to give privately and that the persons accused should be excluded from the roon and not have an opportunity to hear what they have to say and they also object to the fact that the names of those people who have caused this trouble and publicity are not

SAD DEATH

Sheriff A. R. Foster returned on Monday, from New Bedford, Mass., where he had gone on Thursday to attend the funeral of his neice, Miss Mabel Perkins, who was a daughter of Mr. Foster's sister, Maud. Miss Perkins, who was only 21 years of age, had just completed a course of nursing and had graduated with honors. The funeral was held on Saturday and was most impressive. There were 53 sister nurses in uniform present. Sympathy is extended to Mr. Foster and the other members I the family in the loss of this bright Experimental Farm's Note. The winter months afford the bee keeper an excellent opportunity of increasing his knowledge of bels and bee management through reading. There are, at the present time, so many good books and journals devoted entirely to bee-keeping the beginner is often at a loss to know which tc choose. Mr. C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist recommends one of the following for general reading: Honey Bec." by Langstroth and Dadant; "Beekeeping," by Dr Phillips or "Productive Beekeeping," by F. Pellett. In addition to one of these, every beekeeper should have a copy of the "A. B. C. — X. Y. Z. of Beekeeping," which is the best refernce book obtainable as it deals with practically every phase of bee keeping and has, in addition. special articles for beginners. These books can be purchased from any dealer in bee supplies.

It is also advisable that the beginner subscribe to at least one good bee journal, any one of the following can be recommended: "The Beekeep er," published at Pcterboro, Ontario orice $1 per year; "The Western Garlener and Be Keeper," Winnipeg Manitoba price $1 per year "The American Bee Journal." So far the essential principle of the harp had been maintained, for whatever mechanical improvements might have been added the music was made by plucking the strings-first with the fingers, then by a plectram worked by a lever from keys struck by the fingers. But about the middle or the eighteenth century a new method of emplaying the strings was proposed; instead of being plucked they were to be struck by little hammers worked by the levers from the keys just as the plectram had been This invention is generally credited to an Italian named Christoforo, who lived in Milan. As the violin as we knew it, was perfected at Cremona, to a small district in Northern Italy belongs the honor of evolving the

Shortly after Christoforo's invention, Erard, a Frenchman, brough out an improved "action" or mechinical means for connecting the key and the hammer to the best advan tage; and his pianos were followed almost immediately by those of the Englishman, Broadwood, one of whose instruments was presented to Beethoven. Though there have of course been changes in detail, most modern pianos are constructed on the same mechanical lines as those of Erard and Broadwood more than a century ago. It must be remember ed that the horizontal or "grand" piano was earlier in date than the
