Stations To Se Opened in the Maritime Provinces.

Ottawa, Aug. $1.-Prof. Robertson. commissioner of agriculture, left yesterday for the Maritime Provinces, to establish chicken-fattening stations at various points. Arrangements have been made for carrying on chicken-fattening stations in Ontario at Carleton Place and Woodstock, in Quebec at Bondville and St. Hyacinthe, in New Brunswick at Sussex and Andover, in Nova Scotia at Trurc and Kentville, and in Prince Edward Island at Charlottetown and Summerside. These will be conducted on lines similar to those which were so successful at Carleton Place, Ont., and Bondville, Que., last season; the chickens being fattened after the manner which has been most successful in the south of England, and Northern France. They are to be forwarded to markets in Great Britain in order to further open up the trade in fatted poultry from Canada, Prof. Robertson will also arrange for the establishment of creameries in some parts of Nova Scotia, where co-operative dairy work has not yet been introduced or been

AT THE CAPE.

Cape Town, Aug. 31. - There was a violent scene in the Cape House of Assembly yesterday, when Mr. Cecil Rhodes repeated his conviction that the Transvaal secret service fund was largely used during the last Cape Colony elections for the expenses of the Afrikander candidates. He said he hoped that in the forthcoming Transvaal settlement, the secret service payment list would be destroyed, otherwise many Cape families would feel uncomfortable. Several ministerialists were afterward reproved from the chair for fiercely retorting against this statement. The government has refused to provide facilities for women and children to leave Johannesburg. There is great activity at the Simonstown dockyard in drilling men on shore and overhaul-

Reitz, the reply of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain to the Transvaal's alternative proposals to the joint commission suggested by Great Britain to inquire into the effect which the proposed franchise reform measures would have upon the uitlanders. Mr. Greene afterwards had a long audience with the state officials. The nature of the dispatch is not disclosed. It is understood that another conference may occur at Cape Town. The result is anxi-

Cy Warman Enthusiastic Over the Gold Country.

It Has a Great Future-The Atlin Country Sound - The Truth About the Edmonton Trail.

Mr. Cy. Warman, the author, has just arrived home from a trip to the Yukon. He is filled with enthusiasm for the gold country and with abundant material for a new book. Mr. Warman was more than delighted with scenery and the manliest people in the world are to be found, he says, in Louth, a further conference of all branches of the Nationalist members of parliament will be held to consider the question of the unity of the Irish party in parliament.

The Well A DVICED beauty of the country and the activity of mining operations. "The Americans and Canadians at Atlin," said Mr. Warman, "are highly pleased with the administration of Judge Irving, of Hamilton, Ont. He has caused the right of discovery to be respected above everything. Atlin was this: Yesterday there were 750 graders on the White Pass Railway. Five hundred of them stampeded to Atlin, many without even waiting for their wages. They swarmed into a houseless country, with nothing to eat saw myself. Captain John Irving, the steamboat man, brings out nuggets the size of walnuts, which look as fine as hammered gold. The Atkin district is a Klondike, which has barely been scratched. The most wonderful thing is that the people who have spent a winter there rave over an Atlin winter as a tenderfoot raves over a Klondike summer. "There is one misapprehension that should be cleared nearly every In paper ton trail, under the heading of the Klondike. Now as a matter of fact the Edmonton trail has nothing to do with the Klondike. We all know where The officials of the British colonial that trail begins. God knows where it Northwest-just wherever the man happens to die or strike somebody coming back. That is the end of the Edmonton trail. To say that the transportation companies are responsible is childlike. We will grant that the C. P. R. might profit by carrying people to Ed-monton from Calgary, but the C. P. R. would get more money by carrying them on the Imperial Limited to Vancouver and do it easier because they are heading and going that way. Mr. Warman is firmly convinced that both the Americans and the Canadians have a great heritage in Alaska. Mr. Warman's pen is in requisition by a number of leading magazines and newspapers, and he will turn his Alaskan trip to good literary account. A number of readable sketches may be expected soon by the public.

Rev. Father Tiernan Presented Three Important Witnesses With a Handsome Testimonial

wast evening Rev. Father Tiernan the retiring rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, was presented with an address, handsomely engrossed, and a check for 1912, from his many friends in the city. The presentation was made in the partors of the Catholic Club, which were crowded. Mr. John Forristal was chairman of the meeting and Mr. J. S. McDougall secretary. Mr. John O. Dromgele read the address, which was as follows:

To the Rev. Michael Joseph Tiernan Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Lon-

We are here today, very dear Father to express in some measure our appreciation of the fact that you have spent the best years of your life in unselfish and devoted exertions for our spiritual and 'temporal welfare.

The tears of many, old and young, and especially the poor and needy, convey more eloquently than can pen or tongue, the sacred place you hold, not only in the hearts of your parishioners but in the depths of the hearts of the citizens of London, without distinction of race or creed.

"Quarter a century's service! Wearing thy cassock of black O'er thy camps and thy battles and triumphs! Soldier of Jesus! look back From the day when thou kissed thy first altar, In love with youth's fervor athrill, To this day when we meet and greet

So true to the altar still!"

Many of us here present were bap-tised by you; when old enough to make our first communion it was you who taught us to appreciate the wondrous gift of that divine food, and we had hoped that your consoling words and presence would also smooth for us the dread passage to eternity.

We trust that the respite from your labors, granted by our already loved bishop, may be the means of renewing your strength and vigor, and that you may return to the diocese where you are so well known and loved to spend the remaining wars of your life. spend the remaining years of your life in health, peace and happiness.

On bidding you adieu, we ask you to

The recipient made a beautiful reply which was frequently punctuated with applause. He feelingly thanked the Harding in the yard. He had not of the city for their generous sift, and, in a reminiscent vein, made eloquent reference to the many years which he had spent in the city. During the quarter of a century which he had spent as rector of St. Peter's Cathedral in Lordon he had baptized 4,393 children, maried 400 couples, prepared 3,000 children for first communion and confirmation, and administered the last rites of the church to 2,000 people. Addresses were also made by Rev. Father Aylward, the new rector of St. Peter's, and Rev. Fathers L'Heureux, Clearey and La Douceur.

An impromptu musical programme was then introduced, and songs were given by Messrs. J. Leach, W. E. Miller, J. C. Lockhart, M. Keogh and others. Mr. B. J. Conway gave a couple of recitations most acceptably. Rev. Father Tiernan will leave short-Europe for the benefit of his

LUCAN DROVER BADLY HURT

His Arm Caught in the Buggy Wheel Shoulder Dislocated.

Lucan, Aug. 31.-While driving into the country yesterday afternoon after a load of sheep, James Laughlin, the well-known cattle drover, met with what might have proved a serious accident, but luckily the injury sustained will be only temporary. The horse behind which he was driving became unmanageable, and bolted, causing the bussy to swerve. Losing his balance, Mr. Laughlin fell, his left arm being caught in the wheel, giving it a wrench that dislocated the shoulder. The accident happened opposite Mrs. C. Harrigan's residence, and aid was summoned without delay, the injured man being conveyed to A. McFalls' hotel, where Dr. Sutten, assisted by Wm. Reid, Z. McCormick and A. PROGRESS OF THE INQUEST Examined Last Night.

Two of Them Testify That There Had Been Some Wrangling

Between Gowanlock and Hard ing-Thos. Shaver Saw Harding Strike Gowanlock Twice

The Men Had Been Separated Once, but Gowanlock Returned Later With His Coat Off, Looking as if He "Meant Business."

The adjourned inquest to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of the late Andrew Gowanlock. who was killed in the O'Neil House yard on Monday night, was resumed at the pelice station last night, when the evidence of three witnesses was taken, and an adjournment made until tonight at 7:30. Coroner Dr. Piper was on the bench, and the following gentlemen acted on the jury: Joseph Brown, foreman, and Messrs. John C. Holliday, Richard Wray, Thomas Sparks, John Pocock, James A. Gauld, George W. Pitt, John S. Brown, Philip Cook, Morris Scarrow, Wm. J. Turner, Geo. Taylor, Albert E. Ladell and Wm.

The evidence, in the main, went to show that Gowanlock was under the influence of liquor and was looking for a fight, and that finally Harding, who appeared to be sober, hit him, with fatal results. One of the witnesses was sure Gowanlock "meant business," when he took his coat off and went towards Harding. Benjamin C. Beach, hostler at the O'Neil House, who lives at 28 Center street, West London, sworn, said he knew deceased quite well. Had seen him at the O'Neil House at about 12 o'clock. He (Gowanlock) was under the influence of liquor. The first time witness had seen Harding was about 7 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Magee—Did you hear any words between Mr. Harding and Gowanlock.

Witness-Yes, sir, about 7:20 o'clock The prayers of your people will attend you on your journey abroad, and we beg that you will ever remember us in the Adorable Sacrifice. May God bless you and grant us a remember to the control of the c and Gowanlock were facing one another in a warlike attitude. I went over and stepped between them, and took hold of Harding by the arm, and told him to come out of the barn into the yard. He did so immediately. Gowanlock stepped back about a pace, and Harding never offered to strike Mr. R. H. Dignan, treasurer of the him. Harding then walked out with > been over three minutes at his supper when he heard sounds of loud talking, as if a fight was taking place. He came to the window and saw W. Collins and D. Blue carrying Gowanlock to the stable. He did not see the act that caused Gowanlock to be carried to the stable, and did not know until told afterwards. When he came into the yard he saw Harding standing in the yard near the Talbot street sidewalk. Mr. Magee-What did you do then? Witness-I went to the stable.

Mr. Magee-What did you see? Witness-the apparently lifeless body of Mr. Gowanlock, and also a officer. Shortly after Dr. Teasdall arrived and prenounced Gowanlock dead. Mr. Magee—Did you know of any trouble that would cause Harding to fight with Gowanlock?

Witness—No sir. Cross-examined, witness said that Gowanlock was a large and powerful man He could not say as to which one provoked the trouble in the first

Mr. George Taylor asked Mr. Beach how he knew that Gowanlock was somewhat intoxicated, and Beach replied by his talk and his walk. Thomas Shaver, of 33 Bruce street, was at the O'Neil House on Monday, and was present when the trouble took place between the two men. He was in the hotel yard, and Harding and Gowanlock were there. They were there when he came. Mr. Blue and Mr. H. O'Neil were also in the yard. Shortly after he arrived Gowaniock went into the house, but soon after ame out again.

Mr. Magee—What happened then?

Witness-Harding struck Gowanlock

Mr. Magee-Did Gowanlock say anything to Harding? Witness-I don't think he did. Mr. Magee-Did Harding say anything to the deceased? Witness—He said something that sounded like, 'Did you come out here to lick me?' Gowanlock did not re-

Mr. Magee-Did Harding strike more than one blow? Witness-He struck two blows, apparently about the neck or on the upper part of the cheek. After the blow Gowanlock fell forward on his face to the ground. Gowanlock put up his hands, as if to defend himself, but uttered no words. Previous to this, Mr. Blue had told Gowanick to go into the house and not kick up a disturbance. Gowanlock replied telling Mr. Blue to keep away from (Shaver) could not whether Gowanlock was intoxicated or not. Harding, after striking Gowan-lock, walked out of the yard onto Talbot street. Mr. Magee—Did you have any conversation with Harding?

Witness-No, sir, Cross-examined, witness said that Harding and Gowanlock were not quarreling when he arrived. He heard no row between the two men before the blows occurred. He did not expect that trouble was brewing. When Gowanlock came out of the rear door of the hotel he walked towards Harding with his coat off.

Mr. Love—Did Gowanlock have his coat off when he went into the hotel a few minutes before?

Witness-No, sir. Mr. Love-What did you think Gowanlock came out for?

Well, it looked to me, when he went and took his coat off, as if he was looking for a scrap.

Mr. Love—In what way did Mr. Gowanlock tell Mr. Blue to keep away from him?

Witness—In an angry tone. Witness would not be sure that words had passed between Harding and Gowanlock. He could not say as to whether the deceased fell on his head or face, and did not suppose, for a minute, that fatal results would follow. Harding was assisting Mr. Blue in cleaning a horse.

Dunean Blue, of 20 Horton street, employed at the O'Neil House stables, was in the stable on Monday night. He was walking a horse about, and heard some jangling in the stable. Just after three men, Mr. Beach, Mr. Gow-anlock and Mr. Harding, came out. He could not distinguish any of the voices, and did not catch the conversation. Wm. Dyer was standing near the stable door, but witness could not say whether he was in the barn or not. Harding went over and sat down on the water-trough, in obedience to Beach's request. Harding sat there about three-quarters of an hour, and conversed with the men about him. Nothing was said about Gowaniock. During the conversation, when Gowan-lock came out of the stable, he went direct to the hotel, and came out in a few minutes with an old coat on, and went into the stable. Shortly afterwards he again went into the house and came out without a coat on. He (Blue) told him to go back to the house and not raise a disturbance in the yard.

Mr. Magee-What made you these remarks to Gowanlock?
Witness-Well, when a man comes out with his coat off, after some words, he generally means business. Mr. Magee-What did you do then? Witness-I went into the stable and watered my horse, and upon coming out saw Gowanlock lying on the ground, with a man holding up his Witness and Mr. Collins had carried Gowanlock into the stable, and a physician was summoned immediately; Stimulants were given, but were of no avail.

To Mr. Love, witness said that Gowanlock had had some words with the young women at the hotel, and they had thrown some water over him. When Gowanlock went toward Harding he was sure there was going to be a fight. That was the reason he spoke Gowanlock.

Mr. Magee-You know that Harding is a professional boxer? Witness-No, sir, I don't Adjourned at 10:45.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 31.—A number of changes have been made in the Buffalo team by Manager Shannon, who released Greminger, Fertsch and Cock-man. He has signed Jack Shearon, who will join the team in Buffalo on Sept. 1, and play in the outfield. Catcher Hausen and Outfielder McKevitt have also drawn their releases, and Shan-non expects that Bonner will join the team in a few days and play second base, which means that Hallman will be shifted to short. Pitcher Jimison, the Indian, will report to the Bisons for duty at Buffalo, when the team returns home. Shannon says that President Franklin is disgusted with the playing of his team, and other changes are anticipated when the men return to Buffalo.

THE AMATEURS. The Imperial baseball club will play at Clinton on Labor Day.

FOR THE FANS. From Milwaukee comes the report that Congalton, the Canadian Leaguer, will be drafted at the close of the season, while it is certain that Crawford will be sold by Loftus. Baltimore is right up close to Philadelphia and Boston, and there is still a chance for the Orioles to win the flag, while second place is much less than a remote possibility for the Oysterville

Several members of the Milwauke team will go on a barn-storming trip after the Western League season ends, the members of the co-operative organization being as follows: Reidy, Rettger and Barnes, pitchers; Speer, cat-cher; Chech, first base; Husting, Shortstop; Atherton, second base; Leewe, third base; Nicol, left field; Congalton, center field; Cantillon, right field, or second base.

Future of the Dark Continent.

There can be but one outcome of the dispute between the Boers of the Transvaal and the suzerain power, Great Britain. No doubt the rivals of Great Britain would be more content ed if the outlook were of a differ ent character, but they had better bereconciled to the idea that British institutions are bound to dominate not only South Africa, but in a large part of the North. This is recognized even by well-informed United States authors. A noteworthy contribution to the literature on the subject is the book just published by Wm. Harry Brown, an American who has both traveled and observed. He points out that every part of Africa is bound to come under the control of one or other of the European States, hence before condemning Britain's policy of expension, we should consider what flag will signify the greatest good to mankind. On that score there need be no misgivings. With British rule in Africa come equal privileges and justice to men of every nationality. Portuguese their own blood, a characteristic which so true of the French, the Bel gians, the Boers and the Germans Furthermore, our author thinks should inquire what the nations are doing to develop their African posses With the exception of Great practically nothing. The Portuguese have practically nothing to show for their 400 years of African occupation, except the record of the fact that great wealth was taken from the country, and that their territories drifted again into the hands of savages. Place the record of British progress in Africa alongside these chronicles of the failures of her rivals. Britain and the British have spent millions in the opening and developing of new territories, and that with small hope of immediate returns from investment. From all of these sources, the author of this interesting book draws no misgivings as to the future race supremacy in Africa. The Transvaal may or may not become de facto a British possession, instead of a republic under the suzerainty of Great Britain, but that the Anglo-Saxon will gain the supremacy there is inewitable. It seems to be indeed, foreordained that the British are to wield a gigantle influence in the future development of Africa, What with the heroic improvement of the native tribes through the efforts of the missionaries, and the inculcation of a wholesome commercial spirit by the ever progressive British, we shall see the undoubted great natural resources of the continent developed early in the ensuing century, as they have never been before. In the mature and rounded development of this new Empire will be completed one step more toward the accomplishment of the des for which Providence seems to have chosen the Anglo-Saxon race—the wielding of the balance of power for the world." A Request From the Gold Field. A number of the mining companies of the Yukon have made representations to the Government advocating changes in the mining law. They complain that the ten per cent royalty is excessive, falling unequally on the miners and retarding the development of the country. They suggest that the royalty be reduced to five per cent, or that the present rate of ten per cent be levied on net output-i. e., the value of the gold over and above the cost of mining it. The existing law taxes the gross output, excepting the first $5,000. The protest against the royalty is nothing new. Every miner in the Yukon naturally wants it abolished. The Government that imposes this tax must necessarily be unpopular there. But the ten per cent royalty must remain until the Government can devise some other scheme of taxation that will bring in the same revenue. The Yukon must pay for itself. No doubt the Yukon would prefer the older provinces to do the job; but the older provinces see no assurance that the Yukon will return the favor. The Yukon might as well be a suburb of Seattle, for all the commercial advantages Canada derives from it. Canada has done her duty by providing absolute security of life and property and other administrative services, and for these the Yukon and not Canada should pay. The royalty is the falls unequally on the miners. The poor miner feels it least. As he has little or nothing to spend in mining operations, except his labor, the gold he cleans up is largely clear profit and he is a rich man relatively before he pays a cent of royalty. The law presses more heavily on the big comporations and syndicates, which go to considerable expense in development work, and perhaps sink a great deal of money before they get returns. It is corporations of this class that are now, petitioning against the tax, but it is better that the impost who engage in mining in the Yukon a position to get her legitimate share of the commerce of her own gold fields. Meanwhile the steady progress of the checking the sources of revenue. There is no lack of activity and enterprise. The mining companies ask for other amendments in the laws relating to the security of titles, representation of claims, surveying work, etc. Their request is courteously worded, and whatever is reasonable will be granted. The Government have already made one important modification in the royalty, and will lighten the burden of taxation wherever it can be done without letting revenue fall below expenditure.

There are many evidences of prosperity in Manitoba today. There ha een more immigration into the prov ince, both from eastern points and the United States, this summer than in any year since the boom. What is more satisfactory is that there is not any boom -just solid progress, which under the altered conditions of the past three years is likely to be permanent.

Bathe and seak the bands on retiring in a strong, het, creamy lather of Cuticura Soar.

Dry them thoroughly and anoint freely with CUTICURA, greatest of emollient skin cures.
Wear during the night old, loose, kid gloves, with the finger ends cut off, and air holes cut in the palms. For red, rough, chapped, and discolored hands, dry, fasured, itching, feverish palms, shapeless nails, with painful finger ends, this treatment is wonderful.

It is no exaggeration to say that never in the history of the Dominion were the trade conditions so good or the auguries for the future so promising. The manufacturing industries have certainly never before reached such a high state of development, and such a high state of development, and they were certainly never so busy. The difficulty with them now is not the securing of orders, but the filling of them. This is true of every branch of the manufacturing trades. The agricultural industry, which is after all the chief industry in the country, is in a better condition than for many years.

DREYFUS DAY

The Captain's Alleged Confession Explained.

Dreyfus Creates a Deep Impression on the Audience.

The Governor of the Prison on the Witness Stand-Dreyfus Credits His Wife With Saving Him From Suicide.

Rennes, Aug. 31.-The court-martial of Capt. Dreyfus opened behind closed doors today and lasted until 9:15 a.m. Majors Hartmann and Ducros and Gen. Deloye, all of the artillery, were present. The court discussed the secret documents relating to the artillery subjects of the bordereau. The public was admitted to the court at 9:30 a.m.

The first witness called after the public session was opened was Capt. Lebrun-Renault, of the Republican Guard, who reiterated his testimony, given before the court of cassation, repeating the terms of the alleged confession of Dreyfus: "I am imocent. In three years they will recognize my in-nocence. The minister knows it. If I delivered documents to Germany, it was to have more important ones in return." Witness explained that he did not refer to the confession of Dreyfus during his interview with President Casimir-Perier, because he over-heard a conversation, during the course of which he was called "traitor," "canaille," and "cur."

A SURPRISE.

This came as a surprise, for he did not mention this in his evidence before the court of cassation, as M. Labori, leading counsel for the defense, pointed out.

M. Labori also laid stress on the fact that Capt. Lebrun-Renault should have kept his notebook (in which, he asseris, he made a note of his conversation with Dreyfus), for four years, only to have it destroyed on the very morning the matter was brought up in the Chamber of Deputies. The captain's reply, that he looked upon the copy made by M. Cavaignac, the minister of war, as being sufficient, was considered rather lame

DREYFUS REPLIES.

Dreyfus, replying to the witness, began by calmly declaring that Capt. Lebrun-Renault's statement that a certain Capt. Dattel was present during his conversation with Capt. Lebrun-Renault was inaccurate. The witness, how-ever, maintained that Capt. Dattel was WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 30.—At to-day's cheese board offerings from 11 factories were 1,420 boxes—white, 795; colored, 625. No sales off board; highnot speak to him.

Dreyfus then raised his voice excitedly, and, accompanying his words with short, emphatic gestures of the right hand, which was quivering in his emo-tion, he protested that Capt. Lebrun-Renault should have repeated to his chiefs his utterance, which began with a protestation of innocence, without asking him to explain his words."Those are maneuvers," cried the prisoner, "which must fill all honest men with indignation." ("Bravos" in court.)

This declaration of the prisoner made a deep impression on the audience. Dreyfus spoke the last few words through his teeth, and was evidently laboring under the greatest excitement and indignation. The audience broke into "Bravos," which the gendarmes suppressed. Capt. Antoine followed, and repeated what Capt. Dattel hed said, confirming the confession. Dreyfus replied that he had not spoken to Capt. Dattel. On being recalled, Capt. Lebrun-Renault said this was true, but he added that Capt. Dattel was present, and could have overheard the conversation. M. Labori here pointed out that Capt. Dattel had not spoken to his chiefs on this subject and Gen. Mercier, who, like all the military witnesses, followed the proceedings today with the keenest attention, rose and admitted that this

Col. Jouaust told Dreyfus he had not explained why he mentioned the term of three years, to which Dreyfus re-plied: "I did not give three years as the term. I only said that I hoped that in the course of two or three years my innocence would be recognized. All I wish to state, my colonel, that as my letter to Gen. Gonse shows, my words did not have the sense evil minds

M. Labori then had Gen. Gonse called to the bar, and asked him if he had not used the alleged confession of Drey-fus in opposing Col. Picquart's arguments in favor of a revision. Gen. Gonse replied that he had not, where-upon M. Labori asked that the letters exchanged between Gen. Gonse and Col. Picquart should be read.

The clerk of the court began to read a letter beginning "My Dear Picquart," when Gen. Gonse interrupted him and asked that Col. Picquart's previous letter by more described by the control of the contro ter be read first, but as the letter was not available for the moment, the read-

Major Forzenetti then declared that on visiting Gen. De Bolsdeffre to express fears about the health of the prisoner, the general asked him his opinion of Dreyfus and the major replied: "My general, had you not put the question to me I would have kept my counsel but since your later." my counsel, but since you ask my opin-ton, I declare I believe he is innocent." The witness then recounted Col. cluded with the words. When I am gone let them seek the culprit."
At the conclusion of Major Forzenetti's evidence. Dreyfus, on Col. Jouaust's invitation, and after reference to the last interview of Paty de Clam, said, looking with gratitude toward the major: "There is a letter, which Major Forzenetti has just recalled, which has greatly moved me, and which I wish to recall, for I wish to which I wish to recall, for I wish to say to whom I owe the fact that I have done my duty, to whom I owe having done it for 50 years. After my condemnation I had been determined to kill myself. I had made up my wind not to undergo the frightful for mind not to undergo the frightful torture of a soldier from whom they wished to tear the insigna of honor. Well, then, let me say this, that if I went to that torture, it was TO MADAME DREYFUS who showed me my duty, and who told me that if I was innocent, I ought to go to it for the sake of her and our children. If I am here it is to her I owe it, my colonel."

Here Major Forzenetti said: "It is quite true that in his last interview with his wife, Dreyfus said: 'For her and for my children I will undergo De Boisdeffre, the former explaining that he did not speak to Major Forzinetti of the Dreyfus confession, because he had received instructions to keep silent. Gen. De Boisdeffre denied that Major Forzinetti had expressed to him his letter.] Chicago: Wheat started off a little ragged this morning on the disappointing Liverpool cables which did not re-flect our little bulge towards the close yesterday afternoon. There has been quite a lot of scattered September liq-uldation all morning, and this acts heavy on the December option, which has sold considerably below puts so far. The only support has been from sellers of privileges and by some of the more timid shorts covering their lines. Car lots are again very much below those of last year: the latter fact, however, seems to be ignored by most people for the time being as the short side is the most fashionable, and there is a lot of wheat for sale on all bulges. With September option relegated to the past we look for a little improvement in prices, and would not be surprised to see a general covering movement started at any moment from now on. Corn, as of late, is very firm and in good demand. There is very little of-fering, and on all fractional breaks

FLUCTUATIONS IN GRAIN AND STOCKS.

[Private wire, Roath Bros. & Co., noon

It is well taken. Oats firm, with an upward tendency. IN THE OLD LAND.

[Private Wire, Roath Bros. & Co.[London, Aug. 31-1:30.- Wheat car-goes held firmer and higher; options &c up. The Price Current says: More evidence, and certainly of some cur-tailment of corn yield by recent dry weather. Wheat indications un-changed. Production of winter wheat east of Rockies, 130,000,000 bushels under last year, and spring wheat 70,-000,000 bushels. Total winter wheat east of Rockies, including last year's surplus, less than similar comparisons for spring wheat.

The oat yield causes some disap-Packing hogs, 280,000 against 345,000 last year.

WALL STREET GOSSIP. [Private Wire, Roth Bros. & Co.] Summary, New York-Public . confidence increases with the return to the street of the leaders, and reports of important deals. Twenty active stocks advanced 48 per cent, and twelve in-dustrials advanced 78 per cent. The speculative undertone is very strong. English selling ceased and buying began again. Feeling regarding Trans-vaal situation better. Independent distillers announce a conference for plans to fight the trust. A final agreement between the sugar trust and the wholesalers is expected to be reached today, to be effective Sept. Advances in anthracite prices and also grain rates announced. Steel stocks show an up-ward tendency. Sixty-nine roads the third week in August show an increase

There is almost a water famine in Melbourne. The swamp fire is still burning. Many roads are impassable, and fears of greater damage are entertained if rain does not soon come in abundance. A Littlewood correspondent says: The high standard of proficiency our schol-atre have attained during the past five years is largely due to the untiring efforts of our esteemed teacher, Mr. Parkinson, who, we very much regret, is soon to leave us, as he is already preparing to enter upon the musical profession. A serious runaway accident happened at Glencoe Wednesday night, in which Mr. McCrae, Dunwich township, was seriously injured, and may not survive. A hasty examination by Drs. Wilker and MacIntyre shows the right arm broken close to the shoulder. The arm broken close to the shoulder. The horse became unmanageable, through the lines getting under his tall, and at once started kicking as he came down Main street from the G. T. R., and coming into collision with a tree of the horner of the McKallar House at the corner of the McKellar House, threw Mr. McCrae violently to the ground. Several guests of the hotel had miraculous escapes, and Mr. Thos. Pool, who ran for safety was caught by a shaft and thrown to the ground, leaving a portion of his coat attached to the cart. Strange to say, the horse received very slight injuries.

A Transient Experience

He did not wish to delay a day in finding out where he stood, and having retained a deep discrust of all his elder relations, he wrote, as has been seen, to Helena herself, after a brief visit to Mrs. Fenwick nad posted him up in her recent history, intending to meet her either in the spirit of an honor-able and respectful foe, or as a fellowvictim equally desirous with himself of escaping from the toils which had been spread for them.

He did not calculate on the effect upon his feelings of a beautiful young woman placed in a relation to himself which appealed so strongly to his chivalrous instincts. Her straightforward simplicity, her dignit;, and the evident effort with which she controlled her distress, made a powerful appeal to him, and he went away from her more full of her wrongs than of his own.

He then paid a visit to Ashdew, looked at the register, and, to his great surprise, saw George Gladwyn's name there. He remembered him as his former fellow-pupil, and heard from Mrs. Fenwick of his presence at Whitebury. He then had a confidential interview with the Normans' family solicitor, from whom he had to receive the few thousand pounds which had lately come to him on the death of a sister of his

Mr. Gibert had known all the family well. He gave the young man a good deal of information about the previous money losses which Mr. Wentworth's misfortunes or imprudence had caused, and then he listened to Gerard's short, blunt, and unemotional statement of his marriage, and of his desire to have

1t, if possible, set aside. Mr. Gilbert did not commit himself. He listened, took notes, and said that it would be a complicated matter, and that he must confer with the lady's solicitor before he could express an opin-

"Oh." said Gerard, "of course, I ascertained her wishes at once. I have seen her, and, as in any case I am her nearest relation, I must attend to her interests more carefully. I suppose you can act for both parties? It might save her worry and annoyance." That, Mr. Gilbert felt quite sure, was out of the question.

"I will carefully consider the matter, Mr. Wentworth-Norman. But before setting the law in motion, and exposing your cousin to certain publicity and possible misconstruction, it would be well, I think, carefully to consider, whether the more natural and obvious conclusion would be absolutely distasteful to both parties?"

"How?" said Gerard. Whether, if it proves that you are legally married to this young lady, it might not be possible to accept the situation as it stands? Of course, if that idea is entirely distasteful to both

"It is distasteful to the lady, sir," said Gerard, reddening and feeling curiously hot and angry.
"Ah, well, well," said Mr. Gilbert, "we will make every inquiry." The immediate result of this interview was to send Gerard to Whitebury that he might suggest the necessity of a solicitor to Helena in the most delicate manner, and also that he might judge for himself whether "the old harridan of an aunt" would make it difficult for her to act for herself. Distasteful! Of course, it was distasteful to any rational beings to be bound by the acts of others. It was absolutely necessary to see Helena in order to convince her that he was in one mind with her in the matter. In fact, he could not possibly keep away from her.

He came down again to Whitebury. It was better, he thought, not to give Miss Wynne any warning beforehand. and there was no saying how difficult she might make matters for Helena, if he did not go and confront her hienself. Of course, it was an embarrassing and painful task, but it would indeed be a cowardly thing to leave Helena to act unaided, and surely he would be able to make that underhand treacherous woman thoroughly ashamed of herself. He did not know Miss Wynne. The ladies were at home, and he was ushered into the bright, warm, little drawing-room, where that lady was sitting alone. Before he could speak, before he could apologize for his appearance, or indicate on what terms he meant to meet her, she was close to him and had taken both his hands.

said. "This is indeed noble of you."
"Not at all," said Gerard stiffly. "I have come on inevitable business. He was much less fitted to deal with her than was George, who appreciated the oleverness with which she endeavored to manage him. While Gerard was m rely disgusted, and as a north-countr man would say, "outfaced" by was indeed like a sister in your dear home. It is so right of you to come and see us, and so original." After this Gerard wished that he had stayed away. He heard, however, at the instant it stirred, a quick footstep overhead. Then the same light pur-poseful tread on the stairs, the door opened, and Helena, crimson, but with upright head and outstretched hand, then agreed.' Gerard would rather have gone on talking about the novel. He felt that he did not like to tell Miss who thing, and he knew that she was watching him.

"Oh," said Helena. "Girls write stories as they play pieces. It's common enough.

"I have come," he said, "to ask my cousin to have a solicitor act with mine in the matter on which we are agreed, Her interests must, of course, be carefully guarded, and she will need some one with whom she can consult without embarrassment."

"I suppose," said Helena, "that I must ask Mr. Bradbury, my trustee. Next Wedneslay I shall be 23, and then I am of age, under my great-uncle's will. I suppose he must be told."

"May I ask," said Gerard, "whether he is already aware of the state of the case?" 'Oh, no, no, no," said Miss Wynne, "the cold eye of business was never let in on that sacred intuition which taught us what was the right thing to do. Your father, in every real sense, was our trustee, our trusted one, and, Gerard and Helena, remember, I can-not lend myself to undo his work, to cross his wishes, nor to make light of the holy tie between you. If I thought-if I was sure; sure, Gerard, you were worthy of your dear father, that you had been frue to the bond laid upon you, I would implore this foolish girl-on my knees, if need "As if that would make any difference," Aunt Nora, interposed Helena. 'It is a matter of business, and I shall speak to Mr. Bradbury myself.'

"I think," said Gerard, "that it will be perfectly satisfactory.' "If your motives," began Miss Wynne "are altogether pure-"Mr. and Miss Fleming."

The sounds of an arrival had been unheard in their excitement, and Fanny and her father were in the room before they were aware.

"Ah, rector," exclaimed Miss Wynne, of them; Earl Gray, a director of the chartered Company, 500 shares; Dr. Rutherford Harris, Mr. Cecil Rhodes' right-hand man, 2,500 shares. "our dear young colonial cousin, So glad to introduce him to you." introduction. So you have come back to

Why Women Were Barred From the Show.

"How do you do?" she said, and Savage South Africa in the British Metrop lis-A Race Problem Object Lesson.

> London, Aug. 31.—The occurrences at the Kaffir Kraal, in the Earlscourt Exhibition, were matters of public rumor so far back as the month of Since then the culmination of disgrace in the announced marriage of the Kaffir chieftain, Lobengula, to Miss Florence K. Jewell, who had been presented to Queen Victoria, and is a wealthy, pretty, and well-connected young woman, has brought a search-light to be directed on the Kraal, with the result that an appalling condition of affairs has been proved to exist.

WOMEN VISIT THE VILLAGE. Day after day hundreds of pretty women, some of them of excellent position in society, visit the negro village and "chum" with the aboriginies. It has become the fad. And yet it is hard to believe that the word "fad" can be sufficient excuse for so much brazen effrontery and downright licentiousness. Pampered society women give money and bon bons to the half-naked Kaffirs, and go so far as to allow themselves to be caressed by them. Perhaps it is fortunate that they do not understand the remarks that the 'niggers" make on these occasions.

A COLONIAL'S EXPERIENCE. During a recent visit to the Kraal a colonial gentleman, who had spent 25 years in Natal, and who knew something of the language, was good en-ough to interpret for me the proceedings of which we were witnesses.

A lady threw a silver bangle to one boy. "Why does her husband not buy her some teeth with his jewelry money?" he remarked to a brother native. And he added: "Wow, how she grins! I would kiss you, lady, for a dublish (sixpence)," making an expressive smacking gesture towards the woman. She seemed quite pleased, and put forward her face to be kissed. But the boy drew back, and showed, by rubbing his thumb and forefingers, that he wanted money for the favor. The lady handed him a shilling, and then he allowed himself to be kissed. The remarks which the colored men made about their lady admirers, were such as could not possibly be alluded to in print, and their gestures and general demeanor were such as to make one wonder that the husbands and brothers of these women do not come around and blow the brains out of the whole section. of the whole party.

SPLENDID ADVERTISEMENT. The scandal has been a splendid advertisement to the show, and the greedy money-makers who organized it are pleased thereat, and do not care what ugly consequences may follow. Yet the majority of them are men prominently before the public, whose names hitherto carried weight and respect. Here are the more conspicuous

The seandal and outery against it have been a "good thing" financially for the company, which, from the start has conducted its business in a shady way. When it was forming its collection it circulated the following advertisement in the South African papers: SOUTH AFRICA IN LONDON. Wanted, horned animals, baboons, zebras, giraffes, koodoos, springbucks, hartebests, tall natives, young Afri-kander girls (good-looking and to be slightly colored). The girls were given to understand true destination.

Arrived in London the men were let loose. They ran riot. About a month ago one of them was brought up be-fore Mr. Lane in the West London police court, and charged with chasing women with an iron bar on the night As many as twenty women supported the complaint. Several other Zulus were up before the same magistrate. It was a similar story. They had been running after respectable women and catching hold of them in the public streets.

REALIZED A PROBLEM. The people of London soon began to realize that they had a race problem in their midst. So far, however, the fault was all on the part of the "savages." Then the society dames came forward and aftered the circumstances by deliberately visiting the negroes in their huts and encouraging them to insolence. Finally Miss Jew-ell announced her engagement to the Kaffir chief. As is known no minister could be found to unites this ill-matched pair, but the couple would not be baffled, and now they are living under what they call a state of "common law marriage."

The young woman's mother, Mrs. Jewell, is heartbroken. She affirms that her daughter is lacking in comflete brain power. "I have the best of reasons," she said, while the tears streamed down her cheeks, "for stating that my daughter, who is only 23, has never fully recovered from an accident she met with on Table Mountain. Last autumn she had a fall, and severely injured her head. Ultimately she recovered, but not until a piece of bone had been removed from her skull. Since then she has been subject to abberations.

Suffered for Six Years-Advised by Physician to Go South-Too Weak, but Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and Was Completely Cured.

Brantford, Aug. 30.-The most fatal disease to which human flesh is heir is Bright's Disease of the Kindeys. Incurable until nine or ten years ago it stands today with only one conqueror— Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other remedy is of avail against Bright's Disease, and even the doctors whose professional rule is against patent medicines are obliged to confess that without Dodd's Kidney Pills they are powerless against Bright's Disease. Mr. R. S. Tuttle is proprietor of the American Hotel, Brantford, and lessee of the Stratford Opera House. He suf-fered from Bright's Disease for six years. His doctor advised him to take a trip south, but his condition was found to be too weak to permit of this. Mr. Tuttle was finally advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He did so, and the first box brought relief. The fourth, although he had been too weak to get out of his chair, completed his cure, A letter was received from Toronto by Mr. Tuttle recently, asking if he had found Dodd's Kidney Pills satisfactory. Mr. Tuttle's reply read as fol-

It was only when on the ocean that they learned of their cars in carrying east the grain crop of that year. This season they have added to their equipment for this purpose two thousand new thirty-ton cars, which were constructed in the car shops at Perth during the past summer. These cars have a capacity of something like one thousand bushels of grain each. Of this complement of 6,500 cars which it is proposed to use in moving this year's crop, some 5,500 empty cars have already been trans-ferred to the western division of the road, and are ready for immediate use. The locomotive power for this addi-tional rolling stock will be taken from the other divisions of the road, with the exception of a few new locomotives, which have been built in anticipation of the extraordinarily large traffic expected in handling the crop this season.

Cake-Walk, Speeches and Sports-Presentation to President Mattinson.

The city druggists held their second annual picnic at Port Stanley yesterday, and as all the stores were closed at 10 a.m., it gave everybody a chance to spend the day at the lakeside. Mr. Young, of the L. E. and D. R., provided a special car for the trip each way. The druggists believes that nothing succeeds like success, and in consequence everybody enjoyed themselves. On arriving at the Port the programme, which was headed "Pharmacopolists' Frolic," was opened up by President Mattinson, who stated the object of the social gathering, and welcomed all the guests. He also hoped that all would eat, drink and be merry. Vice-President McCallum fol-lowed, and during the course of his remarks, referred to shorter hours for druggists and their clerks, especially on Sundays. He thought it was a step in the right direction, and also that if they could close their stores on picnic day it would require no great effort to shorten the hours of the seventh day of the week. Short addresses were also made by Messrs. John Callard, W. T. Strong, George Anderson, E. W. Boyle, W. S. B. Barkwell, Ward Sutherland, J. J. Jepson, Dr. Balfour, George Leslie, Toronto; Walter Bartlett and George McIntosh. Mr. Leslie is an old London boy, having served his apprenticeship in this city. It was two weeks ago when the wholesalers lost the first game of the series, and it was naturally expected they felt their defeat b adly, particularly because they lost the game in the last inning, but everything comes to those who walt, and the wholesalers waited, and evidently put in some hard practice, as they went at the retailers with hammer and tongs, piling up eight runs before their opponents got a tally. The battery work of Breen and Woolley was lined with gold, while as much could not be said of their op-ponents. Wardell had lots of steam, but poor control, and after pitching three innings was replaced by Childs, who proved more of an enigma. The retailers are good hitters, but were weak in the field, as the score shows. "Jimmy" Childs carried off the batting honors with a percentage of 1,000, while Bert Sheere did his best work in the field, cutting off two runs at the plate. A return match is being arranged. A running catch by Munroe, and a nice pick-up by Breen brought down the grand stand. The score follows: RETAIL. A.B. R. B.H. P.O. A.

The Municipal Ownership of

Street Railway Franchises. The Ottawa Journal Cites Toronto's

Experience-How Promoters

Made a Gold Mine.

[Ottawa Journal.] When, in 1892, the question came before the city of Toronto of the future disposition of its street railway franchise, two courses were open, one to sell or lease the franchise, the other to operate the railway as a municipal work. Against municipal operation was urged the argument that the management would be inferior, and that under pressure of the labor vote, wages would become inordinately high, and the working conditions deplorably lax. A decision was come to not to attempt to operate the system as a public department. Bids were asked for the franchise, which eventually leased to a private syndicate which agreed to make to the city treasury a large annual paymentnever so far less than $100,000 a year, and now approaching $200,000 a year. A magnificent bargain, may it not be said? Better, must not one admit. than municipal ownership with its dangers of mismanagement and extravagance? And if there be any case to be made out for municipal ownership in this matter, it must be a tremendously telling argument against other cases of private ownership, seeing that the private ownership in Toronto is nominally on a basis so favorable to the

Consider what else has happened in The prvate bidders having secured the franchise set to work to load it up with an unnecessary burden of capitalization.

The syndicate had had to pay to Toronto a million and a half of dollars for the franchise to begin with. They borrowed this million and a half on bonds of the railway, and paid Toronto. Then, to help convert the system from a herse car one into a trolley one, they borrowed nearly a million more. Finally they issued six million was needed to complete the conversion to an electric system, but it is estimated that three-quarters of the stock, or to allow a big margin, let us say four million dollars of stock, became net swag for the promoters.

That stock paid dividends from the stant of 3 per cent and for a couple of years has been at four per cent. Four per cent upon four million dollars is $160,000 a year. In other words, the Toronto street railway is paying to its private owners $160,000 over and above all the revenue which it would have been necessary to take from the public had the road remained a municipal property—if, that is, it was equally as well managed by the public as under the private owners.

"Ah," you say, "but it would not have been as well managed." Precisely. Suppose we admit that without argument. It does not settle the question; it brings us simply to the real point.

The point is this: Would the public owners are taking $160,000 out of the public for which no value is or ever has been given.

Do you think that public management, even if much inferior to the private management, would cost that much a year. Suppose the surplus toll of $160,000 a year had not to be paid to private owners by the railway, and the public who use it, how much extra wages could be afforded to the men? How much easier hours? Could not very large risk be taken of less efficient management? And, with all that, could not fares be reduced? And this property is jumping up in value year by year. It is likely to pay 5, 6, perhaps 7 or 8 per cent dividend before the term of franchise expires. Instead of $160,000 a year of unnecessary toll, the public before the end will be paying $200,000 or $300,000 a year to the private owners. Frankly, it seems to us almost ludicrous the fear some critics have that workingmen will get too high wages and too easy hours out of public employment when we see a few capitalists walking off as in the Toronto case with four million dollars out of a public franchise and no work to do at all. If we have to make a choice, we prefer to present the good things to the workingmen. And remember, the Toronto case is a favorable one to private ownership. The public does get somefranchises the public gets nothing except an expensive service. In every theng. In the case of disposal of most case of private company to do public work, the promoters plan to get big gains, the stock is watered, special advantages or profits are conceded to people whose help is needed, construction cliques are formed by the inside rings to make special profits out of the company's contracts, and invariably the company starts out to do its public work loaded with a bogus capitalization upon which the public must supply the dividends by paying high rates for the service performed. We decline, therefore, to be scared by the bogey of extravagance in municipal ownership. We believe that the capitalist who is allowed to exploit a public franchise squeezes a heap more out of the public than the labor interest will ever do. Finally, to be flat, we thing the assertion that there is sure to be serious extravagance or mismarragement in municipal ownership and operation is largely unwarranted by facts. It is not visible in the government administration of the postoffice; it is not visible in the civic administration of the waterworks or the fire brigade, we do not believe it will ever be a crying evil in any description of public service. Enormously more of the people will always be tax-payers than tax-receivers, and no matter how the principle of public operation of public services may develop, there will be hundreds in the community interested in keeping down expenses to every individual who is receiving the public money, and interested in getting all he can of it
