THE TRIBES "FULL OF ALARM." Simla, Nov. 1.—The Ameer of Atghanistan received a deputation of the Afridis and Orakzais at Cabul, his capital, on Oct. 17. In notifying the British agent at Cabul of the fact, he wrote that the tribes were "full of alarm and repentance," and had asked him to submit their apology to the British Government and to ascertain the conditions of pardon. He inquired of the agent whether negotiations were of the tribesmen mediation is useless, to notify the Haytian Government that as they deserve every punishment." In concluding his letter to the British agent, the ancer warmly asserted his tion to the legation of the United "undeviating friendship for Great States, thus breaking off all relations

Britain." In a separate letter to Lord Elgin, the viceroy, the ameer says that he is trying to arrest the haddah mullah, and that if he succeeds he will expel the priest from Afghanistan. He also promises to prevent Afridis who take refuge in Afghanistan from interfering with British territory. The ameer has been thanked by the government for both these friendly communications, and has been furnishadvance of the punitive expedition.

Arhangha Fass Captured by the British Forces. Simla, Nov. 1.-According to a dispatch from Karappa the expected advance to the Arhangha Pass was made. Gen. Westmacott seized the villages covering the line of advance, and the artillery soon expelled the tribesmen from the Sangars. Only slight opposition was encountered. The crest was had wrought such fearful havoc, reached and the pass captured by Gen. Westmacott in two hours. The British sustained only trifling loss. Capt. Earl, of the Sikhs, was lightly wounded. The mullah of Saihakhar has fled to Jelalabad, and Sir Wm. Lockhart is now descending into the Afridi Tirah. The Arhangha Pass is thirteen miles from the Afghan frontier, at Safed-

The comparatively easy capture of Sempagha Pass was due to a maneuver of Gen. Lockhart, who feigned an attack upon the enemy's right, which was immediately reinforced by the commanders of the insurgent tribes-By so doing the chiefs weakened their center, and the British commander, acting with great quickness, threw the main column of his troops against the enemy's center. The tribesmen were thus taken by surprise, and their leaders did not have time to recall the forces sent to reinforce their right, and they were obliged to abandon their positions, as a hurricane of shells swept entrenchment after entrenchment, which were immediately occupied by the British troops. Only four British soldiers were killed and twenty wounded during the engage-considerable excitement among the native population, and some of the peo- Filbustering Scheme to Seize the Klonple have threatened to kill the German minister and all the Germans in this place and vicinity. The affair grew out of the arrest here a few weeks ago of a young German named Linders. The Germans say that a dozen policemen entered Linder's house and arrested one of his servants. Mr. Linders went to central police headquarters to complain against this action of the police, but was himself arrested, charged with a aulting and attempting to murder police officers in the execution of their duty. Linders was condemned to pay a fine of $48 and to undergo one month's imprisonment. Claiming he was innocent, Linders obtained a second trial, and was condemned to pay a fine of $500 and sentenced to one year's imprisonment. When the second judgment was rendered the minister telegraphed to Berlin asking for instructions. He then Linders be set at liberty, and also dein prison, 23 in all, an indemnity of J. N. Jordan adopted the 5-9 line, but at the sixth move Stewart left the usual course and played 29-25 where 23-18 is usually played. Jordan replied with 9-14 and this led into fresh play of an open nature, quite unlike the usual "Switcher" play. Stewart with White gradually closed up into a strong position, and it seemed possible that he might score a win. Jordan, however, was equal to the occasion, and when the following position was reached, it was thought that matters were tending towards a draw. This result ulti-

One of the first thoughts that arose in my mind after reading Mr. Clarke's paper was this: How vast is the importance, in these days, of a thorough and sound theological education for the young men who are going out to be teachers of the Christian religion, and

I observe how carefully Mr. Clark proceeds in the comparative view of the doctrine of sanctification as set forth by the Keswick disciples. The perversion of truth is most plausibly made, and its divergence from holy writ is silently and gradually accomplished. Their doctrine of passivity humble in character, is actually pharisaic. It is also radically incorrect, inasmuch as it ignores the greatest of all man's moral faculties-the will, on which so very much turns in the formation of human character. How es-

Pingree Protests the Yantic's Acceptance for Use of Michigan Naval Militia.

Washington, Nov. 1.-The navy department has had its attention brought formally to the collision between the United States steamship Yantic and the Canadian steamboat Canadienne, indirectly, through the filing of a protest by Gov. Pingree, of Michigan. This came by telegraph to the navy department, and records the governor's disapproval of the idea of accepting the Yantic from the government for the use of the Michigan naval militia in her present condition. The governor has gathered that the ship is disabled, and moreover he feels disinclined to accept any responsibility for the accident. He has instructed the agents of the state

E. J. Musson, Jun. Sings the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills - He Was Bedridden for Months and His Strength Was Sapped by Diabetes - He Found His Cure in Six Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills,

St. Catharines. Nov. 1 .- For several months E. J. Musson, Jun.; one of the most capable painters in the city, was confined to his bed, a sufferer from that painful disease-diabetes. The complaint sapped his strength, fed upon his muscles, and reduced him to a skeleton almost. Then, providentially, he heard of what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done in similar cases. He bought six boxes. This is what he says of their work: "After using the third box, I could lift light weights. nearly 20 years ago. All experts know that the Indian treasury is in a state of exhaustion from the fearful strain imposed by the frontier warfare, and a large financial operation of some kind will be inevitable, for it must not be forgotten that the costly war was concurrent with the enormous additional expenditure of X &&&&&&&& fighting famine and pestilence. The three combined must have drained the treasury of quite $50,000,000, which means absolute depletion.

The council of India, sitting in London, recently had many anxious discussions, and, if the current report in financial and political quarters that are usually well informed on such matters may be accepted as correct, the city of London will be called upon be-India from bankruptcy.

One of the schemes proposed, in addition to an ordinary loan, is the conversion of the existing Indian debt from 31/2 and 3 per cent to 21/2 per cent stock, and presumably with the guarantee of the British government behind This will present little practical difficulty.

It was for some time proposed that imperial government should ask the House of Commons to vote $10,000,-000 toward the expenses of the campaign. Theoretically all that has passed on to the northwest frontiers is purely an Indian concern, and, as the chancellor of the exchequer in his speech at Bristol on Thursday spoke hopefully of reducing taxation at home. it is evident that he does not contemplate the possibility of having to hand surplus to help India.

HARD WORK AHEAD.

The sincerity of the ameer's professions of friendship for England is questioned, in spite of the proclamation warning his subjects against assisting the tribesmen. The pacification of the country remains a question beset with difficulty. To the perplexities of frontier diplomacy is added a new menace—the plague has again appeared in the Punjab, at Hurdwar, a great resort of Hindu pilgrims.

Meanwhile the trouble in the cotton trade has reached a decisive point, and this week may see the beginning of another great war, involving 200,000 operatives, which will paralyze the greatest trade of the empire. The spinners and weavers will decide on Monday whether they will submit to the 5 per cent reduction in wages which employers declare the exigencies of the trade demand. The leaders of the operatives' unions are using their influence to secure a negative decision, coupled with an offer to curtail production. It is extremely doubtful if the manufacturers will accept the alternative, which, they protest, is altogether inadequate. They affirm, on the contrary, that a reduction of 10 per cent in wages is neces-sary in order to make production yield any profit. In the present state of the the Polish language was used to be market the reduction would have to be at that rate to insure a profit, but the agreement with the operatives' unions forbids more than a 5 per cent reduc-

The English Liberals have increased their majority in Barnsley, which is a mining district, where the employers' liability bill was expected to help the "Unionists." The next session of Parliament will be an Irish one, but changes in taxation and the local government bill will fully occupy it without an additional university bill, which would divide the "Unionist" forces, as it once broke up the Liberal majority under Mr. Gladstone.

Caron Comes to Whitney's Rescue.

Sir Adolphe Caron, the Quebec Conservative leader, has no misgivings as to the effect of the defeat of the Liberals in the forthcoming Ontario elections, if that could be secured. He wants to see Mr. Whitney win, because by that means an agency would be secured for the Conservative leaders by which to force their way back to power at Ottawa. This is the explanation of the Quebec leader's intervention in Ontario Provincial affairs. Sir Adolphe spoke at Ottawa in favor of Mr. Whitney last week, and further exposed the hollowness of the statement made by the Ontario Opposition leader when he asserted that neither Sir Charles Tupper nor any of his lieutenants were interfering in the Ontario contest.

Sir Adolphe Caron is the politician against whom, in the late Parliament, serious charges of corruption were brought. Full inquiry was denied by his associates in the government, the indictment laid down by Mr. (now Speaker) Edgar was emasculated, so as to prevent full inquiry, and justice was not done. Little wonder that Sir Adolphe has no love for Liberalism, and that he is now attempting to get a further whitewashing by way of Ontario. The people of this Province will tell Sir Adolphe that the fulfillment of his aspirations would be their injury. Discredited in Quebec, he and his associates will not be allowed to use the resources of this fair Province to aid them back to power in the Dominion.

W. J. Akers, director of charities in Cleveland, Ohio, has recently published an attack, in most intemperate language, on the authorities of Toronto. Montreal, London and Hamilton. He asserts that for a number of years past the Canadian cities named have been imposing upon Cleveland and other United States cities by shipping their paupers over the border. Inquiry in London, Toronto and Montreal brings forth a denial of the allegation from those charged with the care of the poor. In this city, the authorities have had far more trouble with citizens of the United States seeking relief to aid them on their tramping journeys through the Dominion than they have had with city

Death on the Asphalt.

In Toronto, according to the Globe, asphalt as a material for paving between the street railway tracks has proved a disastrous failure. The constant jarring produced by the passing cars, says our contemporary, cracks the asphalt very quickly during cold weather, and the life of asphalt under these conditions-which are aggravated by frequent watering-does not exceed five years. This experience, which may be duplicated in London, proves the wisdom, from a civic standpoint, of the bargain arrived at by our City Council with the street railway company. While the new agreement was under discussion, ex-Ald. J. W. Jones promulgated the idea that the street space taken up by the railway tracks should be maintained by the company. He visited Detroit, and closely examined the asphalt along which the electric cars ran. He found many cracks such as those to which our Toronto contemthe aldermanic board in their deter- ground while the world lasts. mination to stand by the demand that the company, during the continuance of its lease, shall maintain the pavement within its tracks, and to a reasonable distance on either side. This provision was finally incorporated in the bylaw, and is the best stipulation in the entire agreement. Though Toronto gets a percentage of the street railway revenue, the taxpayers must keep the whole street in thorough repair, and the evidence now before us shows that that will be no small mat-

Great Britain injure not only the people of the Motherland, but hurt business in every country with which Britain trades, it is to be hoped that the threatened great disturbance in the cotton trade will be averted. If a strike or lockout takes place, as a result of the proposed reduction of 5 per cent in the wages of the operatives, the evil effects of cessation of production will be far-reaching in its effects. We will probably be told by the advocates of high import taxes that the proposed reduction is a result of Great Britain's policy of trade freedom. Before an argument of that kind is listened to, it will be well to have it asked why wages in the English cotton factories are 30 per cent higher than they are in Germany, which has a "protective" tariff? The cotton weavers of Lancashire, indeed, today are paid the highest remuneration in the world for the amount of work they produce. Whether, as a result of the dullness of the demand for cotton

Not one friend has been severed from through patriotic motives. Many an opponent has admired his statesmanlike course and will mark a ballot opposite the name of Hon. G. W. Whoever the Conservative representative may be, it behooves the Liberals to stand shoulder to shoulder, and, strong in the justice of their cause, once more place their candidate at the head of the poll by the biggest majority of his life."

The relations of Pullman, the millionaire car builder, are evidently afraid that his body will be stolen, and they have adopted extraordinary precautions to prevent the remains being carried off. If body-snatchers succeed in getting away with the corpse it will be after they have blasted through concrete and asphalt as hard as granite, and burst steel rails capable of holding up a modern skyscraper. The body of the magnate was or more were in the vicinity. The doors this week placed in a lead-lined coffin lined with tar-paper, and rested upon a bed of cement a foot and a half thick, in a grave eight feet deep, nine feet wide, and thirteen feet long. An inch of asphaltum was plastered under and around the coffin. Then the spaces calm face-the left arm rested lightly at the head and sides were filled with concrete, which quickly hardened to stone. Eight heavy steel "T" rails were laid across the top of the box, the ends resting on the concrete walls at either side, and their lower surfaces clearing the asphaltum covering by half an inch, the distance to which the side walls of concrete had been built above two hours the crowd came at the rate porary refers, and the discovery but the asphaltum. "LESE MAJESTE" IN GERMANY. [Chicago Times-Herald.]

Strange are the workings of German jurisprudence under the rule of the emperor. Where all else fails the old charge of "lese majeste" is dragged in to break the spirit of the refractory, and at times there are almost as many radical editors in jail as there are out of jail. Several months ago a journalist had the temerity to speak of Leopold, king pold, for not only is he a stock ex- the Plymouth choir. Rev. But the court decided that "he ought to have reckoned with the possibility that among his audience there might be some who would place upon his words a meaning constituting 'lese majeste.'

This is probably the most astounding decision ever handed down even a German court. Those who know the determined character of the German citizens of America can only wonder how long their relatives across the sea will tolerate such gross perversions of justice. No class in the United States would be quicker to resent tyranny than the Germans, yet in the fatherland they accept the yoke with scarcely a protest and apparently are cowed by the prevailing militarism.

New York, Nov. 1 .- The body of Henry George lay in state in Grand Central Palace yesterday. The crowd that began to assemble at dawn swelled to a multitude, until 75,000 persons were opened at 9 a.m., and immediately several hundred entered the hall with bared heads. They saw at the of floral tributes, a plain, heavy, blackcloth-covered casket, resting on a framework, draped in black. Through on the breast, the other by the side The body was clad in black broadcloth, a turn-down collar and a plain black tie. For the first half-hour the throng filed up the hall in twos, passed at the rate of 1,500 an hour, but the numbers swelled and grew passed in the minute. At the rate of 5,000 an hour, the crowd passed, until the churches emptied their audience into the vast concourse. For the last of 6,000 an hour. At 3 o'clock the line was stopped. CURE Diseases of the Liver.

When the liver becomes disordered and diseased, the person so afflicted is indeed miserable. He suffers with dull pains in the side, bad taste in the mouth, spots before the eyes, flushes of heat, irregularity of the bowels, piles, coated tongue, disordered stomach, heartburn, costiveness, and pain in the head. He frequently has a dry cough, high colored urine, yellow skin, and dull sleepy sensations, rendering him unfit for business or for employment. The hands and feet are cold, circulation of the blood is sluggish; the patient suffers with vertigo, ringing in the ears, loss of appetite, nausea, and dry, scurfy skin, etc. By the use of Ross' Kidney AND LIVER PILLS all the above painful sensations are removed. The skin loses its sallow appearance, and the bloom of health and beauty takes the place of the haggard and sallow hue of dis-

Weak and Run Down, With Heart and Kidneys in Bad Condition -Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla. "I was very much run down, having been sick for several months. I had been trying different remedies which did me no good. I would have severe spells of coughing that would leave me prostrate. I was told that my lungs were affected, and my heart and kidneys were in a bad condition. In fact, it seemed as though every organ was out of order. I felt that something must be done and my brother advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before it was half gone I felt that it was helping me. I continued its use and it has made me a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly." MRS. SUMMER-VILLE, 217 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Get only Hood's, because

LONDON.
At no time this season were the offerings on the local cheese board so large as they were Saturday, when 15,537 boxes were boarded, including 4,550 white. The feeling was sluggish and buyers were not inclined to offer more than 814 cents. That was the best bid and ½ cent below last week's prices. The cable, too, was down 6d-to 4 4-6d. Not a sale was effected, holders preferring to wait until the recent heavy shipments have become distributed, and the market takes on a more encouraging aspect. The fol-

Assessments Reduced. 172 and 174 Dundas Street

$80,500 Cut Off by the Court of Revision.

Au Effort to Get at Taxable Wealth That Is Hard to Reach.

Commissioner Grant Says Proper Assessment Would Reduce the Rate to Seven or Eight Mills.

The prospect of London's tax rate being reduced to 7 or 8 mills on the dollar suggests the happy social condition pictured in Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward." Yet Assessment Commissioner Grant was not indulging in any dreamy forecast of the municipal government of the Forest City one thousand years hence when he made the assertion that with a proper assessment the rate could be made 7 or 8 mills on the dollar, and that without anyone having to pay an excessive amount of taxes. It was easy, he said, to raise the assessment to $60,000,000 or $75,000,000 by applying principles of equity. The assessment act as it stands, he claims, is unjust insomuch as it allows people to be assessed for what they do not own, and allows capitalists in certain cases to escape taxation. For instance, a man steady: veals, $5 to $5 75; grassers, $3 escape taxation. For instance, a man to $3 50; city dressed veals steady, at may own a house worth $1,000, and owe on it $500, in which case he is obliged Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3,100; to pay taxes on the $1,000 and interest steady; sheep, $3 to $4 62½; lambs, $5 on his debt, while the capitalist from to pay taxes on the $1,000 and interest whom the money is borrowed pays no Hogs-Receipts, 2,359 head; dull, at taxes on such asset. Another example $3 90 to $4 20.

And it is altogether probable that within a few years the amount of personal property taxes paid into the city treasury will be double and treble what it now is. The court of revision have practically completed their work, and below is a complete statement of its decisions where appeals were allowed. The grandeur of the globesurmounted pile provoked a murmur of applause from lips which up to the moment of the removal of the canvas had been hushed in expectancy. Dr. Campbell remarked that the system of benefits involved in Oddfellowship had a few imitators but no superiors. It was only through the spirit of altruism which was basic in Oddfellowship that the higher civilization could be reached. Anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot Celebrated.

Rev. Wm. Walsh Criticises Archbishop Cleary-The Lesson of the Plot.

The presence in the city of Rev. W. Walsh, of Brampton, chaplain of the Grand Black Chapter of British America, Royal Black Knights of Ireland, coincident with the anniversary of the gunpowder plot, was the occasion of a in attendance noticed a change for the and True Blues. Mr. James Tuffield marshaled the procession at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, and the brethren marched to the Church of St. John the Evangelist, corner of St. James and Wellington streets. Rev. Mr. Walsh prefaced his sermon by an allusion to the late manifesto of Archbishop Cleary, and condemned the unprovoked attacks frequently made by the archbishop, which, he said, were full of misrepresentation and insult. He had called the Church of England the offspring of Henry VIII.'s adultery. The Orangemen were justified in celebrating the anniversary of the gunpowder plot, for which they held Romanism responsible. It was the worst plot ever conceived in the corrupt heart of man. Its object was the re-establishment of popery; why should the followers of William not hold the event in grateful remembrance? The preacher sketched an outline of the gunpowder plot, and held that its promoters were wealthy and influential Romanists. There was yet danger, the speaker held.

Bradstreet's weekly trade circular says: Mercantile business in Ontario is stimulated by the free movement of grain at good prices, following the large sales of dairy produce that have been made in the past few months at most remunerative figures. The outward flow of grain, particularly wheat, is more active than in years past, and sellers are getting higher prices than obtained since 1892, except in occasional end-season flurries. Retail trade in the province is reported to be getting more active. Bank circulation now stands at high water mark, and is still increasing. Bank clearings for the week were unusually heavy, totaling $7,678,413, as against $6,196,270 the corresponding week last year, and $6,041,-007 in the corresponding week of 1895. AHEAD OF EDISON.

Wizard's Latest Copied From a Canadian Patent. Toronto, Nov. 1.-There has been sent out from New York the report that Inventor Edison has claimed to have invented a process of recovering by electrical means the iron contained in low grade ores. The Electrical Review has a long article giving a description of the process. This invention was patented five years ago in Canada. It has been in operation in Toronto for at least three years, and, though as yet little has been done in the United States, the machine has been patented for some time there. Mr. George H. Patterson is the patentee and manager of the company which controls the working of the machine. Mr. Patterson says: "When I was in Denver, Edison's men came to me and got all the information possible, and made as accurate an examination as circumstances would permit." Since that time which was two or three years ago, it seems that the Edison Company has been trying to discover Mr. Patterson's invention. From the description, not one feature has been added in the Edison machine which is not found in the Patterson machine. No patent has yet been issued by any government for the Edison machine, but Mr. Patterson has secured a patent. THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the oreathing organs. A group of four, sitting at ease, with very little of the air of expectancy us. ual to the waiting minutes before dinner. The hostess reclined in a wide, easy-chair beside one of the bay windows. She was a large, languid woman, elegantly dressed, but possessing in her handsome face that great want which all her house held. She had three claims to individuality, and three only -a fine figure, a great ambition and an overweening pride in her only child. And Mrs. Trent was performing her own peculiar mission as she sat smiling upon her daughters and her guests, and, bringing in, at every op-portunity, dainty allusions to her titled acquaintances. In the corner of a small couch near her reclined her daughter Theodora, leaning forward gracefully from the cushions, while her long skirts of green satin lay in rich folds upon the white rug. Her hair, of pale brown, was dressed high upon her head, as was the fashion of that year, and a butterfly of gold and emeralds with dazzling luster among the plaits above her temple. Her features were clearly cut and regular, like her mother's and her eyes were of the same light blue, but her lips were still more haughty in their curves, and even a little colder in their rest. A hand-some woman undeniably was Theodora sees that one vague deficiency which is about him always in this

Upon the rug, with his elbow on the chimney-piece, and the fingers of one hand toying with his silky, pale mustache and whiskers, lounged Captain Hervey Trent, nephew of his hostess and the husband selected for her only daughter-not simply because he was so sure to inherit old Myddelton's moity; easy and indolent, he would not be likely to rebel against the will of a mother-in-law. Decidedly Captain Trent was a handsome man. There never was heard a dissentient voice when that fact was asserted, while no one was more thoroughly aware of the truth than Captain Hervey Trent himself.

He was 25-his cousin Theodera's age exactly-and boasted the regular features and blue eyes which characterized the Trents; he stood five feet ten in his shoes, and measured the approved number of inches across the shoulders and, beyond all this, he possessed equally the power, and the time, and the inclination to dress to the very perfection of what he termed "good form." He was a man with a musical, passionless voice, and white, listless hands, able to bear with no unhand-some grace the burden of himself, and the boredom which surrounded him, and to go through life as a gentleman should who rightly understands the exigencies of "good form" and can utterly ignore so vulgar an abstract idea as

A great contrast to her nephew, was the one guest whom Mrs. Trent entertained this evening—so great a con-trast to them all, indeed, that not for years were they to comprehend the unreached heights and unsounded depths of a nature such as his. Nineteen women out of twenty would unhesitatingly have pronounced Captain Hervey Trent the handsomer man of the two; not one woman out of twenty could have lavished on Hervey Trent one tithe of the thought and curiosity and admiration which were won from them -sometimes even against their will-by Royden Keith. We have seen him before in the evening dusk at Abbotsmoor. Theodora Trent had seen him before, but his face was still a riddle to her, as it had been from the first, and as it was still to be. It was a grave face when at rest, with its strange mixture of power and patience-a face full of deep and concentrated thought, but with never a shade of gloom upon it or trivial fretfulnessface that could be only brave and fearless, whether overshadowed by that depth of thought, or brightened by

YOU GET your money's the rare smile which Theodora tried to provoke. Its skin was so browned by worth in Tea when you the sun, the mustache, and the short hair were so chick and dark, the lashes so lor, and the teeth so white, that many took Royden Keith for a native of Southern Spain or Italy. But that idea vanished after the first few minutes, and most especially when he spoke. Though puzzled a little now and then by the trace of foreign travel, no one could help being struck by what was essentially English in him; the straightforward glance of his eyes, clear-judging and far-seeing, and the voice which, whether ringing to anger, falling to quiet irony, or softening to pathos, was, despite an accent or an idiom, picked up unconsciously in foreign lands, most thoroughly English.

He was sitting opposite Miss Trent, his elbow on a table near the couch on which she sat. She looked from him 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c up to Captain Trent, and down to him again. Even her unobservent eyes were puzzled by the difference in the attitudes of the two younger men; and cousin's leaning form, and the slow. motion of his hands, to the tall, wellknit figure which, though full of strength, and activity, was yet capable of an ease and stillness almost remarkable.

"And can you really mean, Mr. Keith," she said, dropping her fingers on a cabinet portrait of herself which lay upon the table beside her, "that broke her right ankle.

"Why before?" " asked Royden, extending his hand for the picture.

"After all, I am glad," she mused, smilingly; "because now your first photograph will be taken with us."

"How will that happen, Miss Trent?" "I will tell you," she answered, watching his face as he examined the por-trait. "On the day of our picnic at Abbotsmoor, a little French photographer, who lives in Statton, is to be there with his camera and take us all, with the old mansion for a background. Now, you see why I am glad that will be your first portrait."

"Hardly." Mr. Keith said this quietly as he bent over the picture, and Theodora looked in vain for a smile. "Interesting scene," remarked Captain Hervey, raising his eyes slowly from the rug:"Lady Lawrence requires

"I do not know all old Mr. Myddelton's relations." "You know the chief of them, Mr Keith," Theodora axswered, unconscious of the vanity of her words, and of the smile which accompanied them; "and you will see them on Thursday at Abbotsmoor. You will not be too proud to be photographed among them, will you?"

"Without being one of the family, ought I to be included in the picture? There was an intonation that baffled Theodora and she looked up uneasily. "Certainly; I shall insist."

She said this with her sweetest Trent, yet in her faultless features that smile, and a certain manner which many young ladies of the present age affect-a gracious condescension and self-assertion which, in the last cen- 8 7-16c. Radway & Co.:

Dear Sirs—I have been keeping in the house your kadway's Ready Relief for the last six years. I have used it in every way, and found it to be the best on earth. Six years ago I was sick; I tried all kinds of medicines, but they did me no good. My father saw the advertisement in the paper; he told me to try a bottle. I did so, and by using it three days I was able to be out. I have kept it on hand ever since, and have told my neighbors about it. My wife has been troubled with toothache. I gave a trial of the medicine and it sured her pain instantly. I was gathering corn and got my hand caught between the wagon bed and standard and mashed it badly. I gan to the house and poured on a lot of Radway's Ready Relief and had no more pain. I tied my hand up with a piece of fiannel, poured on more Radway's Ready Relief, and in an hour I was ready to take hold of my work again. I cannot be thankful enough. I could write a great deal more, but this paper would not hold half of what I could write. Yours truly,

HAMILTON ROAD ANNIVERSARY.

The Hamilton Road Methodist Church held their anniversary services yesterday, and they were the most successful in the history of the church. Rev. R. Warner, principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, preached morning and evening. Morning subject, "The Gospel and the Poor"; evening, "Fight the Good Fight of Faith." Each discourse contained many beautiful thoughts, and were full of inspiration tacked two of Mr. Robins' children, and encouragement. Rev. E. B. Lanceley preached in the afternoon on "The Development and Growth of Christian-ity." All three services were well attended, especially that of the evening, when the ushers were obliged to place chairs in the aisles. The collections were large, and will greatly help in lifting the mortgage from the church. which the officials expect to do this week. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Fallis, since his arrival last July, has been constantly growing in popularity in that community, and at the rate the congregation is increasing the trustees should soon see their way clear to pull down the present structure and erect a large and more up-to-date church. A good time is expected tonight at their old-fashioned tea meeting, at which a splendid programme will be rendered.

should be true of the individual church. The equipment of these disciples came When given, they were enabled to meet their responsibilities and seize opportunities for work. Each inquidual was qualified. The symbol of this was the tongue-shaped flame which rested on the breaking of bread and prayer. And they were equipped for a service which communicated itself to others, for these Galilaeans were able to speak in other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance, thus bringing the gospel to those about them. In those days, said the speaker, the method by which the Spirit was manifested differed from that of the present time, but the effect was the same. In closing, he expressed the hope that this church might be like the upper room in Jerusalem-a place where the Holy Spirit would reveal himself to an expectant people, equipping them for service in the community
