Expansion Sale

Sales as a rule are held half heartedly at the end of the season to clear out surplus stock. Without having fully decided on our Western enterprise, we bought for our season's trade a larger stock than usual, and on top of this comes the sudden demand for extra cash capital. There was only one thing for us to do, and we are doing it with a right good will. This explains why you are buying goods so much below regular value right at the commencement of the season. You have never had an opportunity of buying New Dress Goods as cheap as we are now showing. They were bought from the makers at the lowest possible prices, and are being retailed to you up to 25 per cent. below regular values.

MR. CLEMENTS' POSITION ON THE HOG CHOLERA SCANDAL

An article appeared in Mr. Stephens' local organ the other day alleging to deal with the protest of the farmers of Dover township against the ruthless and unfair manner in which high salaried and indolent officials of the Government temporarily located in the city deal with the hog-raising industry in this county. The article was headed "The appeal of an Ignoramus," appeared abusive rather than argumentative and was not deemed worthy of notice.

The organ yesterday seeks to explain that it did not mean that all the protesting Dover farmers were "ignoramuses," and now desires to have its unfortunate and insulting comment changed to apply to Mr. Herbert S. Clements and his position. This being the case, it is well to see what Mr. Clements' position is and how far it is the "appeal of an ignoramus."

Mr. Clements has no word to say against every reasonable precaution being taken to prevent the spread of hog cholera, but he does find fault with the way in which this is now being alleged to be done and the manner in which the farmers have been treated by these officials.

There are, we understand, four men located here drawing large salaries from the Dominion Government treasury as experts in hog cholera. These officials are now appointed "inspectors of shipping." By an order in council they are to prevent the farmers and buyers sending to the packing houses hogs which are under 150 lbs. in weight. The packers, it is said, have been in the habit of buying any hog and reselling to farmers for breeding purposes the light ones. In this manner much damage may be done by shipping these light hogs from infected districts.

But surely the farmers and buyers in Kent do not require four veterinary surgeons to watch them lest they sell hogs under weight. What Mr. Clements advocates is that a fine of $100 or $500 should be imposed on the Packing House for reselling any hogs shipped in from infected districts and the country could, in this way, be saved the expense of keeping four officials to watch the farmers. Is this such an unreasonable proposition?

If so, how do these men enforce the quarantine? They do wait and sit around the Garner House until some poor farmer has a sick or dead hog and comes in to report and if he does not report he is liable to a fine for not doing so. If the farmer is to stand a fine, and this is the way the government expects to enforce their Orders-in-Council, surely the packer could be subjected to a fine for reselling the hogs and thereby spreading the disease, and how much more easily would the law be enforced against half a dozen packers than against the thousands of farmers? It means little or nothing to the packer, but may mean ruin to the farmer.

Mr. Clements believes if this was done there would be no necessity for keeping in office at large salaries, which the people pay these experts, or at least, all of them.

Mr. Stephens' organ says they have other duties to perform, viz., that of inspecting and killing diseased hogs. That is true, but let us ask how many cases have been reported and acted on by these men within, say, the last month, and let the people say whether it is necessary to keep them here at these large salaries or not. Some have said: Do you expect them to go out and look for cases? Mr. Clements says, No, but if the Government had treated the farmers fairly, they would report themselves. In the past if a farmer reported his hogs sick one of these officials went out and he was the sole judge. The result has been that in many cases the whole herd were declared diseased and the farmer only paid one-third of their value, when, if they were not all diseased, the farmer should have received two-thirds value for the sound ones and one-third for the diseased hogs. The method has rightly caused universal dissatisfaction among our farmers.

Now on the eve of an election the Government has seen fit to give the farmer the two-thirds value on all. This further destroys the necessity for keeping the four officials in this County at the public expense. Mr. Clements believes and says simply that the law could be carried out much more economically and fairly towards the farmers of this County. And Mr. Clements is right—and the farmers are with him.

STEPHENS' PROMISED REFUTATION DELAYED THROUGH DISAGREEMENT

His Committee so far Unable to Meet Serious Charges—Many Schemes Suggested and Criticized—An Anxious Time for the Party Workers—Speculation as to What Proposition Will Finally Be Accepted.

Another day has passed and still Mr. Stephens declines to furnish any refutation of the serious charges preferred by Reeve Purser and Councillor Boyer that he made immoral overtures to them to enlist their assistance in securing a big bonus of $75,000.00 from the farmers of Dover to an electric railroad corporation in which he is one of the charter holders and provisional directors.

The people of Kent County are naturally at a loss to understand his continued silence. They take the position that a man charged with such a grave offence and unwilling or unable to furnish a clear and satisfactory refutation has no right to continue to seek their support for a position as their parliamentary representative.

The reason for the delay is gradually leaking out—and it places Mr. Stephens and his committee in a strange and very uncomfortable position. The key to the whole situation was probably given by Mr. Stephens himself in his interview with The Planet yesterday when he said of his promised refutation of the charges:

"I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT IT. I have been out of town for two days and I HAVE NOT SEEN THE BOYS DURING THAT TIME AND SO I DON'T KNOW WHAT THEY ARE DOING ABOUT IT."

As everyone knows, the definitely charged changes of the two respected and representative Dover farmers at the Pain Court meeting and the resultant uprising of an indignant public opinion staggered the friends of Mr. Stephens. A long and anxious meeting of his executive was held, there were many heart burnings and plain things were said. There was a choice to be made: Could the charges in some way be answered or side-tracked, or must Mr. Stephens' candidacy be withdrawn?

The latter course was more or less regretfully abandoned. While Mr. Stephens is generally thought, in the language of the street, to be a "load to carry," the Liberals appear to be very awkwardly tied up to him. It was, perhaps, an unwise decision, but it was evidently decided to—as one "bluff" it through.

It is gathered from Mr. Stephens' own statement, before quoted, that he has abandoned the matter himself, that he knows of no defence to make, but has thrown the onus of preparing one on the "boys," by which it may be presumed he means the workers of his executive.

"The boys" have not been idle. They have tackled the herculean task to the best of their ability. They have had long, anxious and exhausting sessions; they have worked day and night. Yet day after day has gone by without any results—and still they are only enabled, as Mr. Stephens said at Tilbury, to promise "a statement later."

Many plans have been formulated and prepared by the various factions, only to have their weaknesses and uselessness exposed by colleagues.

The first effort planned was to endeavor to secure a visit and statement from one of the outside promoters of the proposed railroad. The duty of this man would be to declare that it was he, and not George Stephens at all, who made the $250 proposition to Reeve Purser and Councillor Boyer. But objection was taken to this. It was argued that it would be madness to attempt to make the people of Kent believe that Mr. Purser could mistake this man for Mr. Stephens.

A second, and perhaps more ingenious, proposition was to the effect that Mr. Stephens' statement that it would "be worth $250 to the Dover Reeve to support the big railroad bonus should be made to appear quite harmless. That it should be construed to mean that Mr. Stephens intended to convey the intimation that the building of the electric road would be a valuable thing to Mr. Purser and Mr. Boyer as farmers in giving them increased conveniences and facilities. But the objection raised to this by the other faction was that there would be no explanation as to why Mr. Stephens had waited until after the meeting was over and adjourned to make the proposition, why it was made in a secret and whispered conversation and how his arrival at the specific sum of $250 was to be explained away.

A third scheme was then propounded that seemed to promise better things. This was to endeavor in some way if possible to get affidavits or statements from the other two members of the Dover Council, Messrs. Lewis and Crawford, who were at this meeting of the railroad promoters, to the effect that they were not approached by Mr. George Stephens and knew nothing of any attempt at bribery. This looked at first promising, but these statements could be secured, they would be more damaging than helpful, for Messrs. Lewis and Crawford were both outspokenly in favor of submitting the by-law, and the very fact that Mr. Stephens had ignored them and sought out privately only the members who were opposed to the bonus by-law to make his proposition, would go to show that his object was what was charged, viz., to corruptly bring about a change of front on their part. Thus that plan would only go to corroborate and sustain the character of the charges.

Then the Chatham Township representatives were considered. How would it do to visit them and solicit statements from them that they knew nothing of any corrupt approaches? And yet, other factions again urged, what would that have to do with the case? How was that going to help it? The Chatham Township representatives could hardly have anything to do with the hoped-for bonus from Dover Township.

Still another plan was considered. How would it be to get signed statements from every other person at the meeting that they knew nothing about any corrupt proposition and prospects for or see one made? Get them from the promoters, the provisional directors and every one at the meeting. But again more thoughtful objection was raised. Of what use would they be? The proposition was not made to these men, nor in their hearing, nor at the meeting—of what value in refuting the charges would statements from them be?

Other proposals have been made and negatived as similarly absurd and the days have passed with no result. The refutation was not forthcoming. There is one proposal that may yet be acted upon in the hope to save the day. It is not unanimously favored but has a large following and may secure final adoption. It is to combine most of the proposed courses, to collect and secure every signed statement suggested, to hold them off as long as possible in order to give less opportunity for their examination and exposure before election.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14.

THE NOBLE STAND OF A NOBLE MAN.

The Liberal press has exhausted every means within their power to persuade the people of Canada, and particularly the people of Ontario, that the issue between the Government and Lord Dundonald had to do with the introduction of military into Canada upon a scale equal to that which prevails in European countries. They have endeavored to show that Lord Dundonald was arrogating to himself powers which were subversive of responsible Government. They pretend that he endeavored to make himself a military director in Canada—to over-ride not only the views of the Minister of Militia but to force upon the Government a policy which its members were opposed to and which would be inimical to the interests of Canadians. This presentation of the case between Lord Dundonald and the Government is deliberate misrepresentation. The issue raised by the Earl was of an altogether different character. He proved that the Minister of Agriculture had interfered in the making of appointments to a cavalry regiment from purely political motives. In other words, that the Government applied partisan principles in officering the militia. They used the militia force to reward their political friends for political services. Lord Dundonald, whose reputation was at stake in the character of the Canadian militia, resented such conduct and for that he was dismissed. It will be remembered that upon the floor of the House of Commons, Hon. Sidney Fisher at first denied that he had acted from partisan motives but when pressed by the leader of the Opposition, he admitted that the reason Dr. Pickle's name was scratched from the list of officers of the proposed regiment was that he was an ardent Conservative. That is the admission of the Minister of Agriculture himself, who was responsible for the difficulty between Lord Dundonald and the Government, so that when the Liberal press-endavors to make a new issue to convince the people of Canada that Lord Dundonald was unwarrantably interfering with the prerogatives of Government, it assumes a position that the facts do not support, and is convicted before the people of deliberate misrepresentation. The point that the electors should keep before them is that the issue between Lord Dundonald and the Government was whether officers should be appointed to the militia because of their political value or because of their military fitness. However, the righteous editor of the Globe may try to twist the facts, the one that stands out prominently is that Lord Dundonald was driven out of Canada because he insisted upon keeping the militia force of the Dominion freed from partisanship and political influence.

CHURCHGOING IN LONDON.

Christian Intelligencer.

A year ago attention was called to the proportion of the population of leading cities which are found in church on a given Sunday. The census of church-goers in London and New York, much more complete in the former than in the latter city, showed in London somewhat less and in New York somewhat over one-fourth of the population actually in church on the Sabbath when the census was taken. A later census in London shows a slight change for the better in this population, i. e., 1,524,025 persons in a population, including suburbs of 6,240,386.

SPLENDID TEA

Delightful Program Presented Under the Auspices of Ladies Guild of Christ Church

The annual tea given by the ladies of the Christ Church Guild was a grand success in every way. The ladies had far more visitors than they had expected but ample provision was made for everyone.

The tea was given in the Sunday school room and the three long tables were filled twice to accommodate the many guests. The ladies of the Guild deserve to be very highly complimented on the success of their entertainment. As early as six o'clock the people were there and the entertainment lasted until ten o'clock.

After the sumptuous repast a program of music and speeches was given. It consisted of addresses from Rev. Dr. Battisby, Rev. Mr. Malott and Rev. G. H. Cobble, and vocal solos by Miss Edith Barassin, Miss Verna Heyward, C. O. Wregg and R. W. Angus, and male quartets by J. W. Wilson, J. R. Smith, W. M. Smith and R. W. Angus, and mixed quartets by Misses Verna Heyward, Helen Smith and John and Wilf. Smith. Miss Bedford gave a well received recitation. Miss Helen Smith and Walter Dolman were the accompanists of the evening.

W. E. Rispin was chairman of the evening and he made an excellent one. Before the meeting was dismissed Mr. McCosh, in behalf of the Ladies Guild, thanked those who attended and also those who took part in the program.

The church will be re-opened on Sunday, when the new vested choir will make its first appearance and Principal Waller, of Huron College, will preach. A special musical service has been arranged and profitable services are anticipated.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough? The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more. But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop? That's the point. The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific. It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease? It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry out the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks? In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO! Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No! In food.

"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend, but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative drugging.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick-you-up," "tone-up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy—out of your Food.

If taken starving, they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to over-eat (and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets), than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result, you will be astonished to find how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you will get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There is more truth than poetry in this. Try it once.

STORIES OF ARTISTS AND THEIR METHODS

Surely never was a picture painted under such dramatic and costly conditions as one which may be seen in the Strelina Palace, near St. Petersburg, which depicts a battle between the fleets of Russia and Turkey. To commemorate the victories of the ships under his command, Count Alexy Orloff had commissioned Hackert to paint four pictures, and sea-fights, and during the progress of the painting, the artist represented to his patron that he had never seen a ship on fire and that he feared he might not do justice to his subject.

"Oh, we'll soon remedy that," the Russian Count answered, and forthwith he gave orders that a 74-gun ship should be placed in a suitable position for the painter, and then be set on fire; and, in the words of a chronicler, "as the flames devoured the gallant ship, Hackert, with skilful hand, transferred the scene to canvas in all its terrible realism." Probably no artist was ever more conscientious in his work than Meissonier, who spared no trouble or expense to make his picture true to life and Nature. "How did you paint the snowy road in your picture of 'Napoleon in 1814'?" Verestchagin once asked the great French artist, who picked out from under the table a low platform about a yard and a half square, and said:

"On this I prepared all that was required; snow, mud and ruts. I kneaded the clay, and pushed across it this piece of cannon several times, up and down. With a shod hoof I then pressed the marks of the horses' feet; I strewed flour over it, pushed the cannon across again, and continued to do so until I obtained the semblance of a real road. Then I salted it and the road was ready."

"What did you salt it for?"

"To get the brilliancy of the snow. Why do you smile? How else could you do it?"

"It was very ingenious," Verestchagin answered. "Accept my compliments. But if I had been you I should have gone to Russia, where nearly every road is dug up in the way you represented, and should have painted a study from nature."

It was Meissonier, too, who, when he wanted to paint a wheat-field in a battle-scene, actually bought a field of growing wheat and got a squadron of cavalry to charge through it, so that he might see exactly how the wheat fell under the flying hoofs.

Mr. Stanley Berkeley, the painter of so many stirring pictures of battle and sports, also takes infinite pains to get realistic effects. Speaking of his "Charge of the French Cuirassiers at Waterloo," he says:

"For the animal pulled on to its haunches by its frantic rider, when I had completed my picture, I got one of my own horses, and rested its jaw on the head of my groom, in order to see whether I had some details correct about which I was a little anxious. Again, with regard to the Wellington boots the rider was wearing, you will recollect that the field of Waterloo was almost a quagmire on the day of the conflict. Well, I went hunting one wet day, and galloping over ploughed fields got my top-boots literally splashed with mud. When I arrived home I carefully examined those boots to see how the spatters of mud fell upon them, and then compared those natural mud splashes with those which I had painted upon the boots of the cuirassiers in my picture. The precieuse was obtained by a visit to some sandhill in my neighborhood; but when I had completed this part of the picture I made a fresh start upon another canvas and transformed the original into another subject altogether. I may say that I expended a great amount of trouble and time upon this canvas. Many of the figures of horses were painted over and over again before I was satisfied with it."

Before Mr. Luke Fildes painted his pathetic and beautiful picture, "The Doctor," he spent several weeks travelling over the country to get thoroughly acquainted with cottage interiors and their tenants; and when the cottage-room he wanted was finally pictured in his brain, he had the room carefully built, exactly to size and perfect to the minutest detail, at the end of his studio, so that he was able to transfer to canvas exactly what he saw, even to the massive rafters of the ceiling.

For the doctor, he says, "Several people sat for him, but I knew perfectly well the kind of man I wanted long ago—that is to say, I had the type in my mind—and I got the brow from one model, an eye from another, the head from a third, until I had my doctor complete as I had pictured him in my mind."

Mr. Holman Hunt spent months in the desert fringing the Red Sea, when he was painting "The Scape-goat," and took with him the very goat he wished to paint. To get local color for his "Triumph of the Innocents" and other Eastern pictures, he built a house and studio for himself on the outskirts of Jerusalem, and there he spent many years producing his wonderful canvases; and so stern and exacting a critic is he of his own work that he has often destroyed a picture on which he has spent months of hard labor rather than allow it to go out into the world branded with what he, though perhaps no one else, would consider an imperfection.

He gazed on the maid with passion, With fervor his eyes were hot; He addressed her after this fashion—"Oh, say, will you share my lot?" And the maid, who was munching things—Most innocent damsel on earth—Raised her eyes unto his, and demanded— "Please tell me how much it is worth."

THE MONKEY AND THE NUT.

An extraordinary instance of animal intelligence has recently been recorded as having been shown in the Royal Park, Melbourne, Australia. "I was watching some monkeys," says Mr. Thomas Hutton, of Tynemouth, "in a large cage, when one of them came to the front and tried to reach a nut which had been thrown and lying on the gravel path. Putting its arm through the bars, and stretching as far as possible, it found that the nut was just beyond its reach. There was straw on the floor of the cage, and going to the back where it evidently expected to find the straw less damaged, it tested straw after straw, discarding them one by one, not thinking them strong enough for the purpose. At last it found a satisfactory one, returned with it to the front of the cage, and very quickly, with its aid, hooked the nut close enough to be picked up."

SOLDIERLY DISCRETION.

Just after the Russian Admiral Alexeff departed from Port Arthur a member of congress met Admiral Dewey and discussed the situation.

"What made Alexeff quit in such haste?" inquired the statesman.

"I will answer that by relating an anecdote of our civil war," replied Admiral Dewey. "When Gen. Hood left Nashville on one side of the city just as the federal general was entering upon the other, his colored servant was captured. When asked why his master quit in such a hurry, the old dandy answered—

"Well boss, 'spect Massa Hood don't think he kin do his'n justice in this yere town."—New York Times.

DEEPEST OCEAN SOUNDING.

The deepest sounding ever made by any vessel was by the United States ship Nero while on the Honolulu-Maui cable survey with apparatus borrowed from the Albatross. When near Guam the Nero got 5,269 fathoms, or 31,614 feet, only 66 feet less than six miles. If Mount Everest, the highest mountain on earth, were set down in this hole it would have above its summit a depth of 2,612 feet, or nearly half a mile of water.

WOMEN OF AUSTRALIA ARE MEN'S EQUALS

Under the laws of most countries women possess no legal rights, no political freedom; they do enjoy certain privileges, but of these they may be deprived at any moment by the same power that granted them. The ballot is the only weapon with which to secure and retain legal and political rights. "Advance Australia!" in our national motto, and we Australian women have good reason to glory in the advance of our country, which, in granting women absolute political equality with men, has reached a position unique in the world's history.

The Australian constitution has no sex limitations whatever; women vote on equal terms with men, they are eligible for membership in our National Parliament, they may even ascend to the dignity of office.

It has always been the "privilege" of woman to tidy up after man. Man seems to be constitutionally unable to keep things tidy. Take the daily round, the common task—he leaves the bathroom in a state of flood, his dressing-room a howling wilderness of masculine paraphernalia, his office a chaos of ink and papers. The wonder is he "gets there" so well as he does. Untidy at home, untidy in business, so he is untidy in the nation; he does his best, but as he does not understand the first principles of household management he gets the national household into a terrible state of muddle. He is so busy looking after the big things that he forgets all about the little things that make the big things a success instead of a failure. And so the women have to come along and help to evolve order out of chaos, but they suffer no illusions as to the magnitude of their task.

Women will vote as their men folk tell them, was an argument of the anti-suffrage party. The elections proved, that, on the whole, the women cast an independent vote. The political parties and the daily papers have of late years made an effort to introduce the "ticket" system of voting into Australian politics in spite of the knowledge that the system has had the most vicious results in the United States; but at the time the "tickets" got fairly well broken up, an encouraging sign to those genuine patriotic Australians who desire to see the people really self-governing, neither press-ridden nor party-ridden. The "ticket" system is utterly repugnant to all true democratic principles. Parliament should be elected by the people, not by one man or any small class of men. The people's "ticket" should be the candidates who head the polls.

"Women will lose the chivalrous attentions of the men if they are enfranchised" was another argument of the distrustful anti-suffragist. To the women who are influenced by such a prophecy of man falling from his high estate when he finds woman his political equal, I would say: "My dear friends, your fears are groundless. You place a high value on the chivalrous attentions that men now show you. Why, you have not the remotest idea of the vast store of chivalry hidden away in the inner recesses of man's nature. When you get a vote you will find that the chivalry of the middle ages was a poor thing in comparison with that of the 20th century. The chivalrous attentions paid by candidates to women voters are most embarrassing—Sir Walter Raleighs and De Lorges are thick as leaves in Vallambrosa at election time."

The elections had an added interest in the appearance of four women candidates in the field—Mrs. Martell, Mrs. Moore, New South Wales, myself, Victoria, standing for the senate, and Miss Selina Anderson, New South Wales, for the house of representatives. All were defeated, but the defeat was not unexpected, as we were well aware that it would be altogether phenomenal if women were to succeed in their first attempt to enter a national parliament. I was nominated by the Women's Federal Political Association of Victoria, of which I am the president, and I accepted the nomination because I saw at once what a splendid educational value the campaign would have. Although we possess the suffrage there are still many women who do not want it, do not see why they should be bothered with it, but they only need to have the case for woman suffrage stated to them to accept it."—Vida Goldstein, in The Nineteenth Century.

A FLY-KILLER.

W. W. Jacobs, the English humorist, is as modest as he is brilliant. "The things that people laugh at most in my stories," he said to an American, "are nearly always things that I have heard and noted down. They are not original with me."

"On that account, wherever I go, I keep my ears open, and thus I get hold of many a good thing."

"I got hold of a good thing last week in Margate. I was looking at a butcher shop's display when the butcher came out and said to an old man:

"Henry, I want you."

"What do you want?"

"Why," said the butcher, "I'll give you a shilling and joint of meat if you'll kill all the flies in my shop."

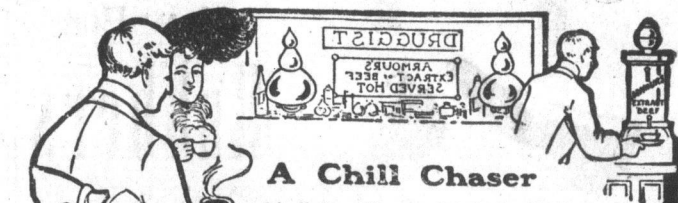

"All right," said the old man. "Give me the shilling first and the meat afterward."

"The butcher handed out the shilling. Then the old man asked for a stick about a yard long. This was brought to him. He gripped it firmly, went to the doorway, and said:

"Now, turn 'em out, one at a time."

SLEEP AND SUICIDE.

A well-known man had among his ancestors a number of men and women who committed suicide. He himself became melancholy, and his children, who knew the hereditary taint, were much worried about him.

A physician told him that mental fatigue was the trouble, and persuaded him to try an experiment. The man was a very busy man, and scoffed at the idea of taking a nap in the middle of the day. He finally agreed to the following:—

He would sit up in his easy chair every afternoon with his hands over his knees, holding a dinner bell in both his hands. If he lost consciousness and went to sleep, he would be willing to sleep for as long a time as it would take for the dinner bell to fall to the floor and wake him up.

The doctor who suggested this arrangement declared that the mere mental relaxation of going to sleep if only for a few seconds would suffice to save him. He invited his patient to study the activity of the brain by noticing how many things he could dream in the second of time he could sleep.

Every day for several months the man with the suicide heredity sat down after luncheon with the dinner bells in his hands. Every day he went to sleep, slept for half a second, while the bell fell to the floor, and his mental condition improved steadily, partly because of the rest which his mind got by losing consciousness for a second, and partly because of his interest in the extraordinary dreams which passed through his brain while the bell was falling.

These dreams carried him all over the world, and seemed to last indefinitely. A dozen or more human beings were mixed up in them. A long succession of events, which were perfectly clear, passed before his eyes, gradually interrupted by a sound from a distance, which at first would mix in with the dream, and ultimately would prove to be the dinner bell striking the floor.

The person who says that he has been dreaming all night probably does not realize that he actually dreamed about a second and a half while he was waking up.

LOCOMOTIVE DEVELOPMENT

Leaving out narrow gauge, switching and other light engines, there were twenty-nine American locomotives at the World's Fair in Chicago, in 1893, having an average weight of 126,558 pounds. At the St. Louis Exposition there were twenty-nine American locomotives having an average weight of 195,239 pounds. At Chicago the total weight of the heaviest locomotive was 195,000 pounds. This was criticized for excessive weight and the general opinion was that it was the limit. At St. Louis the average is greater than the heaviest at Chicago, the heaviest being 393,012 pounds, light weight engine and tender. This is a mountain climber, which is yet an experiment. The next heaviest weighs 287,580 pounds, and there are six others weighing over 200,000 pounds each. The total weight of the twenty-nine largest locomotives shown at St. Louis is 5,603,425 pounds. The heaviest engine at Chicago was exceptional, weighing 26,000 pounds, more than the next heaviest, which in turn weighed 13,000 pounds more than the next. Perhaps it would be fairer to omit the heaviest at St. Louis as being entirely exceptional, a sporadic case. We would then have the average weight at St. Louis of 188,176 pounds, as against an average of 128,558 in Chicago, an increase of about 46 1-2 per cent. If the Malet compound is included in the comparison the increase has been over 50 per cent.

THE RUSSIANS RETREAT

Japs Drive Them From Their Positions in Disorder.

Mikado's Men Attacked All Along the Line and Made An Advance—Kurapatkin Whipped—Gen. Oku's Army Alone Captured 25 Guns, While the Enemy Was Repulsed With Heavy Slaughter.

Field Headquarters of the Japanese Left Army, Oct. 12, 5 p.m., via Fusan, Oct. 14.—The left army made an advance last night and early this morning occupied a position close to a village and field occupied by the Russians. The Japanese attacked along the whole line, driving the Russians out of the positions which they retired to yesterday. At three o'clock this afternoon the Russians were retreating northward in disorder. The Japanese captured a complete Russian battery. The Japanese are pursuing and shelling the retreating Russians, whose loss is probably large.

Russian Disaster.
Tokio, Oct. 14.—It is yet too early to measure the results of the tremendous struggle which has been engaged for the past three days south of Mukden, but all reports reaching Tokio indicate that Gen. Kurapatkin has been decisively whipped and severely punished. The Russian commander was evidently caught while making his dispositions with his forces scattered, and he was beaten before he could recover.

Much depends on the ability and resolution of the Japanese in applying and following up their advantages. Kurapatkin may turn up on favorable ground and succeed in beating back the Japanese onslaught, but the tide seems against him.

The Japanese yesterday began a desperate effort to turn the Russian right, and if this effort should be successful it will carry disaster to the Russian arms.

The struggle around Benshu is being followed with intense interest here. The Russian force there is estimated at 5,000, and its isolation or loss would be a severe loss.

Estimates of the total forces engaged vary. One telegram from Liaoyang says that the Russians have two hundred thousand men, with 1,000 guns. The Japanese force exceeds the number engaged at the battle of Liaoyang.

Oku Captured 25 Guns.

The latest telegrams from the front indicate the continuation of Japanese success.

Gen. Oku's left army alone bagged 25 guns.

The Russians made two desperate counter-attacks against the Japanese left, but were repulsed with heavy slaughter.

The Japanese commanders, in their reports, give expression to their admiration of the valor of the Russians.

The Manchurian headquarters, in a telegram sent yesterday, reports "as follows":

"Since the last report our right army has been continuing a vigorous pursuit of the enemy towards the north."

"The column which was despatched in the direction of Shihohotou to intercept the retreat of the enemy from Benshu continues its operations."

"The central army continues its attack on the Russians, and expects to occupy the line between Tungshankou and Huchakuchiatu yesterday. The enemy in this direction appeared to retreat continuously until dusk Wednesday evening."

"A report that a large column of the enemy is moving to the southwest and is commencing the erection of defensive works at Chienhuangohiatu cannot be verified."

Capture Guns Everywhere.

"The number of guns captured by the centre column of the left army is 16, instead of eight, as previously reported."

"The right wing of the centre column of the left army captured four guns."

"The right column of the left army, while pursuing the enemy west of the Schili River, captured five guns, making the total number of guns captured 25."

"The supports and the artillery reserve advanced to Kuchiatu and vicinity, driving the Russians from Huanhianchian."

Port Arthur Soon to Fall.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 14.—General Stoessel's report of the condition of affairs at Port Arthur, received yesterday, shows that the garrison on Oct. 7 was in unimpaired spirits, making a heroic defence against a series of most bitter assaults in all the history of sieges. The closeness of the fighting and the deadly character of attacks and counter-attacks are shown by the fact that both sides are using hand grenades, and that the Japanese, after a bloody capture of the important signal station, were unable to hold the position in the face of the fire from the fortress. The reckless ferocity of the assaults seem to make it certain that Port Arthur can only be held by an immense expenditure of ammunition.

Russians Fight On.
St. Petersburg, Oct. 14.—Desperate fighting and heavy losses on both sides, with varying success for the Russians—such is the summing up of the situation by General Kurapatkin in a telegram filed Oct. 13. There is no sign of the battle slackening. On the contrary, Gen. Kurapatkin telegraphs that he had ordered the army to resume the fight with unabated vigor to-day. General Kurapatkin himself is in the thickest of the fighting, and General Sakharoff, his chief of staff, is personally directing reconnaissances. The conflict has been most desperate at the centre and on the west flank. The advance guards at these points had to be repeatedly reinforced, owing to the great pressure of the Japanese attacks. At nightfall, on Oct. 12, the Russian right was withdrawn from its main position, but one of the abandoned positions was retaken at the point of the bayonet during the night. Contrary to Field Marshal Oyama's report, no indication is given in General Kurapatkin's telegram of an enveloping movement by General Oku. The only positions captured by force were at the centre, where the Russians were compelled to retire during the afternoon. There is no mention of the loss of guns. The War Office maintains that even if it is true, it is of no material consequence.

Our New Overcoats

Our new Winter Overcoats are ready for your coming. Such a fine lot you never saw. Even our own people differ as to the most attractive style.

"This will be the banner seller," says a salesman.

"No, this one will," says another.

"Both wrong. Her's the star coat," says another.

And so it goes, all the styles are so good that no one can pick the best. But it is the private opinion of the writer that for young men, at least, the full comfortable long coat at $10 and $12, which hangs so beautifully from the shoulders, yet feels so light when on, will outstrip them all.

$7.50, $10 up to $13.50 or $15.00

Delighted patrons are doing a great deal of advertising for us but we want you to see these handsome coats before you select YOUR Overcoat.

The Tourist Overcoat

The Tourist Overcoat is a great favorite. If a coat can confer distinction on the wearer, a Tourist certainly does. It's a long, wide shouldered coat, loose fitting in the back, where it is confined by a belt. It is made from choice fabrics, some quiet fabrics, broken pinstripes, checks and stripes, in medium and heavy weights, some are single breasted, some double, some have velvet collars.

AYLESWORTH'S WORK

Prevents Him Repudiating Sullivan, Says Mr. Gamely.

Exposition On "The Law of Descent From Edward Blake to Mr. Aylesworth" By the Hon. From Manitoba—Col. Ward Gives a Sample of His Opponents Skillful—Fire Bug Work For Liberals.

Bowmanville, Oct. 14.—The Gamely meeting was held last night in the splendid chamber of the new Town Hall, which was crowded. Albert Barber, secretary of the Durham County Conservative Association, presided, and on the platform were Col. Ward, the Conservative candidate, E. R. Gamely, M.P.P., and others.

C. Jonas Thornton was received with great applause. He had been through the western part of the riding and was satisfied that this man Aylesworth was going to be snowed under in the hundred.

"What did the electors of Durham owe him? He pursued us like a sleuthhound after the election of 1900, until he finally succeeded in depriving West Durham of her representative in the House of Commons," said Mr. Thornton. "He was the man, perhaps, above every other man, who disfranchised you one whole year, and yet he insults you by coming to ask you to send him there as your representative."

Can't Elect Aylesworth On Record.

Col. Ward was received with great enthusiasm. After 30 years' personal acquaintance with Mr. Aylesworth he would still enquire why he had come to contest Durham. He could not hope that the name of fame he had achieved was sufficient to elect him, nor could the Government have thought so, when sending him into Durham, but must intend by other than fair and honest means to elect Mr. Aylesworth. Col. Ward had up his well-thumbed copy of the evidence and read from it of the suggestion of Aylesworth to Stratton for a letter to hold this fellow to his agreement.

"A beautiful duty, wasn't it?" was the comment of the speaker as he turned again to 677, a record page for Aylesworth, which he commended to the perusal of the Liberal electors of West Durham.

"You could mark your ballot's with a great deal more fluency," he said. Then Aylesworth had acceded to Stratton's suggestion to see him, the speaker.

"Certainly, if he came to me," who no man knows better than a man elected as a Conservative member of parliament has no business signing such a letter, even to the brilliant mind of Aylesworth suggests it. The average man would say that he, Gamely, should not have taken the money.

A Man of Broken Honor.

"Well, Aylesworth should not have done as he did, so that we are both broken ideals so far as high honor and principle are concerned." Then, when the matter of an enquiry came up, the Government went to Mr. Aylesworth to get them out of the hole.

"If Stratton wanted a letter, Aylesworth suggested it. If the government was afraid that the manner of the investigation would convict them, Aylesworth suggested a better method. That is his position in life. That's why you ought to elect him here and then you ought to have the honor to have a representative who was able to pull the Ontario government out of a hole for the last two or three years. If you want to support perjury, bribery, and calumny in Durham, vote for Mr. Aylesworth," was Gamely's conclusion as he bespoke support and victory for Col. Ward.

INCENDIARY FIRES.

Kindled in Bowmanville to Break Up Mr. R. K. Gamely's Meeting.

A deliberate attempt to break up the Gamely meeting by criminal methods was resorted to last night. Incendiaries got to work in two quarters of the town. Unsuccessful in one endeavor they went to the opposite end of the town, and there were successful to a degree in their nefarious designs, but the expected stampede of the audience did not ensue, only a few leaving the hall.

At 8.30 John Trimble, implement agent, whose business place and residence is at King and Liberty streets, about a quarter of a mile east of the Town Hall, noticed a light in the big unoccupied shed in the rear of his home. He was crossing the yard to the shed when three men emerged and ran off.

"I chased them in the direction of Mr. Beith's house, but they got away," said Trimble, who, returning to the shed, extinguished the incipient blaze.

Proof that the fire was of incendiary origin was made clear by the discovery of a new tin pail containing coal oil, which the incendiaries had deserted.

At 9.05 the fire bell was rung for a fire in the west end of the town. It turned out to be an unoccupied frame building, owned by James Petrie. It was totally destroyed.

While the firemen were at work some one cut twenty inches of their new hose.

EVERY WOMAN CAN BE GOOD LOOKING

"I was not born pretty," confessed a pretty girl, "but I had beauty thrust upon me. For me it was a case of be pretty or die. I chose to be pretty."

The situation was like this: "I had four sisters, and all were beauties. One excelled in the matter of eyes. She could look at you with a glance that was absolutely melting. Another had a lovely complexion. It was a joy to gaze upon her. A third was a marvel in expression and the fourth had the loveliest profile I ever beheld."

"When I was with my four sisters I was a fright. Alone I did very nicely, but to my friends I was known as the homely Miss X. I stood it as long as I could, and then I went to work upon myself."

"I began in three directions at once. I got up in the morning and took the right kind of exercise and the right kind of a bath. Then I followed it up by going to the right kind of a dentist—a cosmetic dentist. For I realized that no girl could be pretty with crooked teeth in her mouth."

"Then I did a queer thing. I made some of the most delightful little capsules for the breath. They were very easily made and I carry them in a tiny reticule upon my wrist. Our grandmothers used to carry their fragrant little seeds in this manner and it was the fad to eat one now and then. I do the same with my tiny tablets. They exhale a fragrance which is very pleasant."

"My lips I am compelled to tint a little. I do not like to admit this and, in time, I shall restore my circulation so that this will not be necessary. But at present I am in the habit of touching them very lightly with vegetable rouge. I use so little that it is not visible at all, only my lips, which are naturally pale, are made to glow with just the right hue. Then I tackled the complexion problem. I dieted and I treated my skin from the inside. I knew it would do very little good to treat the skin from the outside alone. I began upon the fruit and vegetable diet. Each day I ate vegetables at the table and all kinds of good warm food, including the right kind of hot breads. I ate nothing fried; I ate nothing very sweet; I took no sharp acids and I was careful to drink plenty of scalding hot water."

"Teeth can be bleached and kept bleached. A little finely powdered pumice, used once a month gently inside and outside, is good for the teeth. Don't use it vigorously enough to take off the enamel. Then, too, there are the stains. These must be taken off with acid, and vegetable is excellent. Get the kind used internally and put ten drops upon your tooth brush. It will make the teeth fairly gleam."

"The nose can be made prettier by many little arts. If irregular it can be massaged into shape. The nose is built up on a very soft cartilage and by gently kneading it with the finger tips it can be brought back into its proper form."

"The proper washing of the face is something to be considered. Every face is clean. That goes without saying. But oh, how few faces are properly washed. If the face is washed as it should be washed the pores will be free from impurities."

"Cover the face with a lather of soap suds, using a good shaving soap or any other perfectly pure soap. Then wash the face with water and in a dozen different waters, apply a weak solution of benzoic acid and water to close up the pores. This will in time contract them so that they are pretty again. Benzoic closes the pores of the skin and where there are big, open pores it is of the greatest possible benefit."

"Keep the pores cleansed, then apply a good stringent lotion and in time the pores will close up."

"There are many things which the homely girl can do to make herself attractive. Each case requires a different treatment. Keep on working at yourself until you achieve the desired result. Every woman can be good looking. And it is her own fault if she remains plain."

"I ate regularly three times a day, choosing anything I wanted, indeed I ate entirely from the family table."

Detroit Specialist Making Men's Diseases a Specialty for Years. Will Accept Your Case, Giving It Individual Treatment. You may Use it in the Privacy of Your Own Home.

You May Pay When You are Cured. A Detroit Specialist who has 14 diplomas and certificates from medical colleges and state boards of medical examiners, and who has a vast experience in doctoring diseases of men, is positive he can cure a great many so called incurable cases;

DR. S. GOLDBERG.
The possessor of 14 diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn. In order to convince patients that he has the ability to do so he says, Dr. Goldberg will accept your case for treatment, and you need not pay one penny until a complete cure has been made; he wants to hear from patients who have been unable to get cured, as he guarantees a positive cure for all chronic, nervous, blood and skin diseases, which he accepts for treatment. He not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney troubles, blood poison, physical and nervous debility, lack of vitality, stomach trouble, etc. The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up; so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you and when you are cured, he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It seems, therefore, that it is to the best interests of everyone who suffers to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, which will receive careful attention, and a correct diagnosis of your case will be made free of charge; if you have lost faith write him, as you have everything to gain and nothing to lose; you must remember not one penny need be paid until you are cured. All medicines for patients are prepared in his own laboratory to meet the requirements of each individual case. He will send a booklet on the subject, which contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 288 Woodward Ave., Room 617, Detroit, Mich. For Canadian patients letters sent from Windsor, Ont., consequently there is no duty to be paid.

but I was careful to select well cooked vegetables and the more digestible of the foods that were set forth. When we had pork or veal, liver or very fat meat, I ate sparingly, filling up on vegetables. At night, just before I went to sleep, I ate a big dish of stewed prunes, or apple sauce, stewed figs or stewed peaches, or canned fruit, cooked until it was hot."

"And this is what I did to my eyes. I bathed them in boracic acid to take out the redness. I made this solution by dissolving borax in a little water. Then I painted my eyebrows every night, using a small camel's hair brush for the purpose and some almond oil. I heated the oil a little every night. I literally painted the brows with oil. This gradually made them more luxuriant."

"I massaged the wrinkles away from the corners of my eyes. And, where once I had dozens of crow's feet, my eyes were soon smooth and clear and I knew that I had gained many years in my looks beside being much prettier."

"I was careful never to read in too strong a light; and, of course, I did not read in a fading light. I took great pains not to use my eyes on boat or train. Nor did I rock while reading. The habit of rocking while you read is a bad thing."

"Repose of manner has a great deal to do with beauty. Unless you can sit with your hands in your lap you cannot expect to be considered good looking. Women who constantly move about, who move the fingers, who bite the lip, or who tap the floor with one foot are not handsome. Nothing as quickly detracts from beauty as this lack of self-repose."

"Repose is in itself beautiful. The girl who can keep her hands and feet quiet; the girl who can look at you pleasantly and steadfastly is the girl who will be admired."

THE FOREST STREAM.

Glamour of sound; the far-off silver ringing
Of errant orchestra of fitful chiming,
And harmony of myriad voices singing—
Celestial melodies and fairy rhymes,
Processions swaying with the torches gleaming
And all the pomp of mystery and rite—
These things I see as half awake,
half dreaming,
I hear the forest stream flow through the night.

A tiny stream, and I beside it drowsing—
O'er the memories the crooning waters make;
Old ghosts of sorrows, wraiths of pain arousing
And vain regrets for that I did not take.
So with the diapason of the troubles,
Mingles with the music of the chanting bright
And chafing life fits into foaming bubbles
Doomed to the silence of the pool at night.

CINEMATOGRAPH OF A CHINESE HONEYMOON

With the up-to-date war correspondent, the camera may be said to have superseded the pen.

Mr. G. H. Rogers, who has just returned to London from Manchuria, carried the equipment of the war correspondent a stage further by accompanying the Russian army with a cinematograph machine, and he has brought back with him some exceedingly interesting films.

His most remarkable experience was cinematographing an execution of Chinese by the Chinese authorities at Mukden. The Chinese, of Manchuria, are Chinese brigands, mainly Manchurians.

"These films," said Mr. Rogers, when interviewed the other day, "were not taken for exhibition in public; but as I had the opportunity, I thought I would take them. I can assure you it was an experience I never wish to have again."

"The execution itself is not the worst thing in China; it is the preliminaries that would correspond to our police court proceedings that are so terrible."

"According to the Chinese law, no criminal can be executed until he has confessed his crime. If the prisoner will not acquiesce in the sentence, they take steps to make him by applying torture, and it is beyond the Western mind to comprehend the appalling depths of cruelty that the Chinese nation can sink to."

DAYS OF TORTURE.

"First, the bastinado is applied to the soles of the feet, and then the knees. This failing, the bones are broken until the wretched victim has not a whole bone on his body. This agony producing no result, a twisted cord is applied to the head and gradually tightened. This dreadful torture is continued day after day until the sufferer agrees to his own execution."

"So great is the pride of holding out amongst the Chinese, that, incredible as it may seem, I have seen two men who sustained this ghastly treatment twelve and eighteen months respectively."

"The unhappy creatures were perfectly helpless, having all their bones broken, and were dragged like bales of merchandise, moaning and groaning from the prison to the court house, where their daily agony was undergone. Their faces were green and swollen like that of a drowned person, and covered with dirt furrowed by the tears that were forced from them. The court having arisen—it generally sits from nine to four—they were dragged back to prison."

"The prison at Mukden is only thirty feet long, by ten feet wide, with a wooden platform running down it, which forms the prisoners' bed. Into this loathsome den the accused men were thrust after being shackled with chains fastened to great wooden blocks so that they could neither sit, walk, lie nor stand upright. In this miserable little place have counted as many as ninety-four prisoners at one time."

THE PLACE OF DEATH.

"The execution itself is quite an imposing affair. A long procession of police and soldiers is preceded by a black banner, about 20 feet by 15 feet, with white Chinese characters on it. Then come the prisoners, riding in a cart with the driver counted as many as ninety-four prisoners at one time."

"The place of execution is just outside the western gate of Mukden, and it literally reeks with blood, so constantly is it the scene of execution. There is very little delay—the less the better the victim seems to like it, for they are anxious to end their misery."

"There is generally a number executed together, and the scene is more like men waiting at a barber's shop to be shaved, than criminals waiting death."

"They watch the executioner behind their comrades, and comment, with approval or the contrary, according to his dexterity in the use of the two-handed scimitar that is to end their own existence. A good stroke calls forth shouts of 'shongga,' and a miss, 'poos shongga'—no good. The onlookers are not at all upset by the gruesome spectacle. Indeed, some of them are seen smiling, so common are such sights to them."

"After the last of the executions the assistant executioner soaks some little balls of wool, which he has arranged on sticks, in the blood, as evidence that justice has been done. If the victim's family want the corpse they are allowed to take it away. If not, it is left at the execution place and the bodies are left where they fall, to be eaten by the dogs. No executions are carried out by the Russian authorities. If they capture any Chinese they hand them over at once to the Chinese authorities."

KEEP OUT THOSE COLD FALL CHILLS

By Putting the Stomach in Shape to Supply the Stomach With Heat—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it. After the summer heat you should tone up your stomach and put it in shape for its winter's work of supplying the body with heat. If your stomach is working right you will never feel those chills that make the fall the coldest season of the year. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will make your stomach right. Thousands who have used them will tell you so. Miss Lizzie Watling, 177 King William St., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I suffered for several years with Dyspepsia. Nothing I ate would digest without great pain. I could not get anything to relieve me till I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have only used one box and now I am cured."

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering may be quickly and permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."

—MISS ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee Minneapolis Study Club.

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health. The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women published in this paper constantly.

Mrs. C. Kleinschrodt, Morrison, Ill., says:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered ever since I was thirteen years of age with my menses. They were irregular and very painful. I doctored a great deal but received no benefit. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking a few bottles of it, I found great relief."

"Menstruation is now regular and without pain. I am enjoying better health than I have for sometime."

How is it possible for us to make it plainer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and poor, high and low, all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak and sickly, discouraged with life and without hope for the future, when proof is so unmistakable that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure monthly suffering—all womb and ovarian troubles, and all the ills peculiar to women.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

The notable successes achieved by Mr. Jules Murray, of New York, as a theatrical manager are due to the fact that every detail of every play presented under his direction is the product of the most careful study. Only those who are best fitted are selected for the roles in his casts, and the mechanical effects are arranged with equal fidelity to the requirements of the piece. To make it known, therefore, that he has chosen Miss Marie Wauwright for Viola in his big production of "Twelfth Night" now touring the country successfully, is also to make it known that the auxiliary characters are assigned to artists of superior excellence, and that the stage settings are all modern skill in stagecraft can suggest.

"TOWN TOPICS."

"Town Topics" is a title that suggests all kinds of humorous possibilities, and they are found in the farce comedy of that name that will be played at Chatham, to-morrow night. The scene opens in Mrs. Quick's boarding house. The American boarding house is familiar to most of us, and we know that there is always something to promote fun and indigestion in that interesting institution. The boarding house in "Town Topics" is a lively place and there is too much laughter for the prunes and torn beef to lie heavy on your chest. The second act takes place at the seaside, and here the husband of the presiding goddess of the boarding house meets some nice gentlemen who give him the glad hand and lead him into all kinds of scrapes. He thinks he is smart, but he is not smart enough. He meets some beautiful girls, too, and they help the fun along. They sing, they dance, and there is a rip-roaring time. In the last act we find the husband home again, and he has to settle matters with his wife. The story is straight and to the point, but it is interrupted frequently to allow of musical and terpsichorean numbers, and specialties of novel idea. These specialties all grow out of the action of the play, and are not tacked on awkwardly, as is so often the case in performance, and so happily blended.

WERE SEEN HERE

John W. White's son, John White, Jr., saw Trembley and Boyd walking down the Grand Trunk track yesterday morning. The lad is almost positive enough that it was the famous pair of burglars that he would swear to. There is little doubt in a good many quarters who committed the burglaries, and the seeing of the two well-known burglars is quite proof enough. The boy wasn't quite close enough to the two to be absolutely certain. He knows both Boyd and Trembley, but they were some distance away.

tion, and then to explode the big avalanche of affidavits and statements with a great hurrah, kick up a vigorous dust to belound the issue and hope to get through before it is thoroughly understood. It is a desperate chance but desperate men sometimes have to take them—and the situation otherwise seems hopeless, unless another bright brain can relieve them, by some other plan, from the ugly dilemma.

Everyone is waiting with interest to see which of the many courses will be risked and adopted.

In the meantime, of course, the statement handed out to the people is the same as that of the past five days, viz., "There is nothing for you to-day. When we are ready we will give you a refutation all right enough."

Aylesworth At Port Hope.

Port Hope, Oct. 14.—The Hon. William Mulock and A. B. Aylesworth spoke last evening in the Opera House, which was well filled, but many left towards the close. Mr. Aylesworth, the Liberal nominee for Durham, spoke for an hour and a half on the Grand Trunk Pacific tariff, and added a few words on the Trent Valley Canal, but did not promise to have it brought by way of Port Hope, which was a great disappointment to the audience. Sir William Mulock spoke for an hour and a half.

WOULD NOT BE EVICTED.

Irish Tenant Barricades His House—Serious Fighting Results.

London, Oct. 14.—At Fellsport, near Cork, an attempt Wednesday to evict a tenant named Edmund Murphy for unpaid rent of six years, led to serious fighting. Fifty police arriving early in the morning found the place barricaded. A crowd assembled and assisted Murphy, assailing the police with red-hot irons, boiling water and stones, compelling them to desist. The conflict continued all day.

With the arrival of reinforcements the police charged the mob with fixed bayonets and many on both sides were injured. Late in the evening, through the mediation of the Parish priest, Murphy was induced to surrender.

Altogether 30 arrests were made. One policeman had all of his front teeth knocked out.

Redmond Welcomed Home.

Queenstown, Oct. 14.—John Redmond and his party, including J. J. O'Callahan of Boston, secretary of the United Irish League of America, were given a great reception upon landing from the steamer Baltic yesterday morning. In replying to addresses from the national bodies, Mr. Redmond emphasized the immense success of his mission to America.

Reeve Salmen Must Pay $800.

Hamilton, Oct. 14.—After deliberating for three hours a jury brought in a verdict of $800 for Miss Gawley, who sued Reeve Salmen, of Brook, for $10,000. After promising to marry Miss Gawley, the aged man jilted her because his sisters were opposed to the match.

Central Prison For Edmund Behm.

Hamilton, Oct. 14.—Edmund Behm, who shot his brother Fred, was yesterday sentenced by Justice Street to 28 years in Central Prison. The charge was shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

CONFLAGRATION.

Wallaceburg Suffers a Hard Blow—Several Buildings Completely Destroyed—No Lives Lost

From The Planet Correspondent.

Wallaceburg, Oct. 14.—Wallaceburg has again experienced another bad fire. About five o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the furniture store of Jacob Helm. This building being a wooden structure the fire soon spread and nothing was saved. Mrs. Helm and children barely escaped with their night clothes. The new brick block containing two stores was next gutted and the roof was completely destroyed. A small cottage on the south side of the burning building was also demolished. The furniture, belonging to Mrs. Hall, was saved.

Ollison Bros. moved their stock of implements out of their building. Thos. O'Donel, who lives in the Boulton block, had his furniture destroyed. The grocery store was moved out to the vacant store in the O'Donnells' block. The building of Thos. Harrison caught fire once or twice, but was readily put out. The large plate glass windows in the Herald office, Harrison's jewelry store and the New Empire Hotel, owned by M. Doyle, were all broken by the heat.

The good work of the firemen saved the Ellison block.

The principal loser will be Arthur Fisher, who owned the building occupied by Jacob Helm and Mrs. The loss on the different places is mostly covered by insurance.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE

Ex-Aid. William Blight, of the firm of Blight & Fielder, called at the Police Station this morning and complained about the manner in which the granolithic walk laid by his firm yesterday on Wellington St., near the C. P. R. track, had been destroyed. Apparently someone had taken a stick and just wilfully ruined about 25 yards of the walk. Mr. Blight said it was beyond repair. "It is something awful what we have had to contend with this year," remarked Mr. Blight. "Yesterday when the men returned after dinner they found about forty initials of the school children cut in the fresh laid cement. We are tired of having our walks damaged, and now we're going to make an example of someone."

Fall and Winter Suits

These crisp Fall days are hurrying men after their New Fall Suits, for the old Suit is out of date, and a man looks badly and feels worse until he gets his new one.

The handsome New Browns are in high favor and we have them in a multitude of varieties, covering practically every new style that has been brought out.

There is style, character and betterness about T. & D. Clothing that makes it important for Men and Boys to see what we are showing; and there's a saving in the price which is quite worth while.

LAURUSSE

Final Lacrosse Match for the Gray Cup championship, Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 4 p. m., on Tecumseh Park, between Thamesville and Chatham. This will be one of the best games of the season, as these teams played a tie game on Thamesville ground.

The Bogle Lacrosse team went to Wallaceburg yesterday afternoon to play the first game in the series of home-and-home games for the Gray cup. They were defeated by a score of 2-1, and Wallaceburg comes to Chatham next week to play the final game. In this last game the goals count and it is fully expected that the Bugle Band team will land the cup.

The Chatham boys have not many words of praise for the referee of yesterday's game, Labatt, or of the treatment they received from the Wallaceburg players. Roughness reigned supreme and there were none of the Chatham boys who were not used up after the game. Only two Wallaceburg players were ruled off and one Chatham man.

Chatham scored first in a beautiful shot by Tackaberry and the score remained 1-0 until half time, when Wallaceburg scored once. The last goal was a fluke. One of the Wallaceburg men shot and the ball glanced off Brundage's stick and entered the nets. This last goal was made about three minutes before the end of the game.

When Wallaceburg comes here the Chatham boys say they will be used well and the game will be a good, clean one. A good referee will be
