MAJOR F. E. HICKS Late of the 58th Battalion, mentioned in despatches by Gen. Haig.

Last Great Roumanian Granary Taken, and Defence of Dobrudja is Ended

London, Jan. 6.—The Danube port of Braila, Roumania's chief commercial centre, has been captured by Mackensen. Troops of the Danube army advancing from the south and west united with the Bulgarian forces on the Dobrudja side of the city to effect its capture.

Kaiser Renews His Former Partnership

"With God's Help," He Blasphemously Boasts, "Our Arms Will Enforce a Peace Understanding"

London, Jan. 6.—The German Emperor, according to a copy of an order to the German army and navy received here charges the allies with rejecting his offer of peace because they desire the destruction of Germany.

Amsterdam, Jan. 6.—A Berlin telegram says that the following order of the Emperor to the army and navy has been officially announced: "Conjointly with the Allied (Central) Powers rulers I proposed to our enemies to enter forthwith into peace negotiations. Our enemies refused my offer. Their hunger for power desires Germany's destruction. The war will be continued. Before God and humanity I declare that on the governments of our enemies alone falls the heavy responsibility for all further terrible sacrifices which I wished to save you."

Germany is Alarmed by the Shortage of Food

Circular of Food Regulation Board, It is Stated, Was a Confession of the Impotence of the People

London, Jan. 6.—A discussion of the food problem in the Berlin municipal council is described in a despatch to Reuter's from Berlin, by way of Amsterdam. At the end of the discussion, two resolutions were adopted. The first introduced by Socialists, demanded uniform distribution of food in the towns and in the country, and the adopting of steps to prevent producers from withholding supplies in order to increase their profits.

He addressed several important commercial, industrial, banking and educational bodies on Canada's resources, the press speaking in high terms of his pictures and descriptive talks. He leaves in a few days for other three months of engagements in the central and western states, from Chicago and St. Louis to New Orleans.

Brantford friends of Mrs. J. P. Baldwin of New Ontario, who has been a popular visitor in Brantford many times, will be sorry to hear that she has received a cable from Paris informing her of the death of her brother, Dr. Pike. The Doctor has been a prominent resident of Paris for many years, and was distinguished in medical circles, having had the legion of honor conferred upon him. He was a member of one of the most noted families of New Orleans, but for the last 20 years or so has made Paris his home. The Doctor was a visitor to Brantford, several years ago where he made many friends. He was possessed of a most charming and cultivated personality.

The marriage of Earl Curzon of Kedleston and Mrs. Grace Elvina Duggan took place privately in London, England on Jan. 2nd. A small luncheon party followed. The marriage ceremony, which was fully choral, took place in the private chapel of Lambeth Palace, the Archbishop of York, officiating. The bride was accompanied by one lady attendant, while Francis Curzon acted as best man for his brother. There were only eight or nine guests, including the children of the bride and Lord Curzon's daughters.

Lord Curzon, a member of the British War Council, and formerly Viceroy of India, was a widower. His first wife, Mary Victoria, daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, of Chicago, died in 1906. Countess Curzon, a native of Alabama, is the eldest daughter of the late J. Munro Hinds, formerly American Minister to Brazil. Her first husband was Alfred Duggan of Buenos Aires.

"The self-denial" slogan is abroad in the land, and Brantford should fall in line with other cities. In Toronto a big committee of prominent ladies was formed this week to discuss the vital and far-reaching question of thrift in war time.

A strong appeal was made to the totally unnecessary extravagance in dress. Shoes of colored and non-wearing material, gaiters, furs, hats, jewellery, etc., all came in for censure, especially expensive confectionery, in which there is an enormous trade at present. The example of the Toronto ladies is well worthy of emulation in Brantford. Among the many prominent women in the Queen City who are giving their support to the movement are Mrs. Hearst, wife of the Premier, Mrs. Rowell, wife of the leader of the Opposition, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Plumbre, Mrs. G. C. S. Lindsay, Mrs. Annot, Mrs. Torrington and Miss Church, sister of the Mayor of Toronto, Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister, is heartily in support of the movement.

C. S. Lindsay, Mrs. Annot, Mrs. Torrington and Miss Church, sister of the Mayor of Toronto, Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister, is heartily in support of the movement.

Miss Hilda Hurley has been visiting friends in Toronto for the past week or so.

Mrs. Miller and family, Brant Avenue, spent New Year's with friends in Hamilton.

Lieut. Ransome Wilkes of Toronto, spent New Year's at the parental home, Darling St.

Miss Reading of Hamilton, spent New Year's in the city, the guest of Mrs. T. J. Fair, Park Avenue.

Dr. George Watt of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, was a New Year's guest at the parental home, Park Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Preston are spending a week or so in Montreal, the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Alex. Wood.

Miss Gwen Wilkes entertained the "Not-Outs" at an informal dance on Friday evening at her home on Darling street.

Captain Ned Davison, of St. Catharines, who has recently returned on sick leave from the front, was a visitor in Brantford for a few days this week.

Miss Kathryn Bressnahan, who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Savage, Duke street, has returned to her home in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Gurd and family have returned to their home in Sarnia, having spent the Christmas holidays in the city with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wilkes.

A recent cable received in the city by Mr. W. C. Boddy, states that his son, Captain Boddy, will return home shortly on an extended furlough.

Miss Clara Doyle leaves on Tuesday for her home in Detroit, Mich., where she has accepted a lucrative position. Her many friends wish her every success in her new venture.

Lieut. Curran Hunt was a visitor in Brantford this week on his way to Winnipeg. Mr. Hunt, who is in poor health, has just returned from active service in France.

Mrs. Bert Boddy, who is spending the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Boddy, will receive with Mrs. Boddy on Thursday next, Jan. 11th, at their home, 95 Nelson St.

The Rev. Mr. Fotheringham was in the city this week from Goderich. The rectory on Albion street, is being thoroughly renovated and the Rev. Mr. Fotheringham is family expect to occupy it about the third week in January.

Miss Loraine Logan was the hostess of a small tea on Tuesday afternoon, given in honor of her guest Miss Mackenzie, of Toronto, and Miss Cora MacFarland, who is spending a week in the city from Chicago.

Mr. George Watt and Mr. Leslie Watt, have returned from Toronto, where they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jennings, Mrs. Watt and Miss Margaret remaining in Toronto for a couple of weeks.

Miss Cora MacFarland, who has been on a short visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew MacFarland, Arthur street, leaves for St. Lukes Hospital, Chicago, where she is in training for a nurse, the first of the week.

Miss Helen Muir was the hostess at a masquerade ball last Saturday evening, a number of her friends, guests were present, and the fancy costumes were for the most part very striking and original. The dance was given in honor of Miss Glynis Howard of St. Catharines, Miss Muir's guest.

Mrs. Harry Etches, who has been a very popular visitor in town the guest of her sister, Mrs. Julius Watrous, returned to her home in Toronto yesterday. While in the city a number of informal little teas and bridge parties were given for Mrs. Etches, among those entertaining were Mrs. F. Paterson, Mrs. W. T. Henderson, Mrs. A. Duncan.

Tuesday evening the members of the "Every Girl," the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Paterson-Smyth, Miss B. Roberts, Miss Mae Roberts, Miss Keene, Miss L. Torry and Miss Reville, paid a visit to St. Lukes Church and gave a very enjoyable performance in the Sunday School room for the benefit of the fund of St. Lukes. A large audience greeted the visitors from Grace Church, most enthusiastically and the little play was possibly better produced than on the first performance in Grace Church Assembly Room the preceding week, the youthful actors and actresses having gained confidence and experience. Besides giving the play, several numbers were put on, a duet, "La Manola," sung by little Miss Nellie Morland, and Miss Gladys Jaggard, in appropriate Spanish costume, was deservedly encored. A piano solo by Miss Grace Ogilvie also won much applause. Speeches were given by the Rev. Mr. Lester, rector of St. Lukes, and responded to by the Rev. Paterson-Smyth. At the close of the program after a hearty vote of thanks had been tendered the visitors, refreshments were served to the members of the cast by the Ladies Guild of St. Lukes.

BRITAIN'S COURAGE (By Fern Thompson, 12 years old) The cry was heard and answered Three short years ago, When England sent a message, And not one answered "No."

They got into the khaki, And heartily worked and drilled, Until at last the parting came, Then all with grief were filled.

They went away with heavy hearts, But curtailed it with smiles, And when a letter they received from home, Tears of joy would fill their eyes.

They fight for Britain's honour, Yes each and every one; They fight to hold the emblem up, And to wipe out the cruel hun.

Now some are in their glory, Some are done for work, But until the huns are all wiped out, Not one little task we'll shirk.

COLLEGE SCHEDULES The schedule for the Stanford University baseball team which will tour the East next spring is rapidly being completed. My Kidneys are a constant worry to me.

That is because they are Weak. Let Dr. Cassell's Tablets give them Strength and Activity.

A little strength is worth a lot of drugs in curing kidney trouble. Vital strength, generated in the nerve-centres—the power-stations of the body—is the living force that keeps the kidneys healthy and active.

That explains why Dr. Cassell's Tablets are so good for your trouble. They nourish the nerve-centres, and thus keep the kidneys supplied with all the motive power, all the strength they need. There is nothing random in that method of treatment; it is wholly scientific. Test it, prove it by taking Dr. Cassell's Tablets. They must help you as they have helped others. Read what a scientist says of them:—

Dr. CHAS. FORSHAW, F.R.M.S., F.C.S., D.Sc., &c., a well known English scientist, writes: "My knowledge of Dr. Cassell's Tablets leads me to the opinion that the ingredients form a remarkably potent medicine for the safe for young and old in cases of nervous prostration, de... anemia, malnutrition, and many forms of stomach and kidney trouble."

Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are Nutritive, Restorative, Alterative and Antispasmodic and of proved therapeutic value in derangements of the nerve or functional systems of old or young. They are the recognised remedy for

Nervousness	Staplelessness	Indigestion
Nervous Breakdown	Anemia	Palpitation
Neurasthenia	Malnutrition	Kidney Trouble

Specially valuable to nursing mothers and women of child-bearing age.

Sold by Druggists and Storekeepers throughout Canada. Prices: One Tube 50 cents, six tubes for the price of five. War tax two cents per tube extra.

FREE SAMPLE. On receipt of 2 cents to cover mailing and packing, a generous free sample will be sent at once. Address: Harold F. Kitchin & Co., Ltd., 10, McCaul Street, Toronto.

Carpentier Has the Advantage over D'Arcy

A Comparison of the Merits of French Heavyweight and the Australian Middleweight

New York, Jan. 6.—The possibility that Les Darcy, the Australian middleweight, and Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight, may meet in an American ring in the near future makes a comparison of their pugilistic careers of more than ordinary interest. Should events so shape themselves that the French boxer and the fighter from "Down Under" face in the roped arena Carpentier will have the advantage in weight, height and reach.

Darcy is strictly a middleweight, while the Frenchman in 1914 was a light heavyweight. The Australian has never entered the ring over 160 pounds, while Carpentier's fighting weight two years ago was fully ten to fifteen pounds above these figures. It is reasonable to assume that he has gained additional poundage in the period he has served with the French Army.

There will also be a difference of between four and five inches in the height of the two pugilists with the advantage resting with Carpentier. The physical statistics of the boxers show that Darcy's reach is not quite as great as that of the French ring idol but so far as can be judged by results there is little difference in the hitting powers of the two pugilists when allowance is made for the variance in weight.

So far as the records show, but one pugilist—Jeff Smith—has met both Darcy and Carpentier. The French boxer in 1913 won a twenty-round decision from Smith, who weighed 160 lbs. Some fifteen months later Darcy lost to Smith in five rounds at Sidney. In a return match fought a few months later Darcy won on a foul in two rounds. It is doubtful if Smith was a better boxer when he faced Darcy than in his match with Carpentier.

In a majority of the contests in which Carpentier has met American boxers he has given away weight. Joe Jeantette who defeated the Frenchman in fifteen rounds, weighed more than 190 lbs. Gunboat Smith, from whom Carpentier won on a foul in six rounds was over 185 pounds. Bombardier Wells, twice knocked out by Carpentier, was within a few pounds of 190 in his two battles with the French pugilist. Darcy has faced more American ring men than Carpentier, but has seldom given away weight. (Lobby, McGoorty, Murray, Chip, Smith and George Brown all scaled 160 lbs, or under, when they faced the Australian.)

To Remove Dandruff

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scourge will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

WANT PHOTOS OF RUSSIANS

215th is Confronted With Difficult Task Set by the Government

The necessary authority has been received from headquarters, to take Private E. Hind, left behind by the 114th Battalion when they went overseas, on to the strength of the 215th battalion. Private Hind had the misfortune to be taken ill with an attack of measles at the time his unit was sent overseas, and could therefore not cross the ocean with them.

Lt. Col. H. E. Snider expects to be in Cayuga on Tuesday, January 9th, for the purpose of attending a meeting of the executive of the Haldimand county recruiting league. Lt.-Col. MacLaren and Major Beggie, of the 3rd Brigade, were in the city yesterday, and conducted their usual inspection of the battalion, apparently being thoroughly satisfied with the conditions prevailing here in local military circles.

An order has recently been received at the Armouries, requesting that some necessary information be obtained from Russians residing in the city for the Canadian and Russian governments, and also a photo of each Russian from whom the information regarding himself is secured. Some difficulty has been experienced in eliciting the desired facts, the subjects of the enquiry evidently suspecting some motive not in conformity with their best interests. For the benefit of these it was announced this morning that the move was of a purely protective nature, adopted solely for the purpose of preventing Russian reservists, who wish to serve under the Canadian colors from being recalled to their own country for war service.

In regard to Pte. John Livett, formerly of the 168th battalion, who was discharged as medically unfit, and who although now employed at one of the local factories, is anxious to work on the production of war materials, a letter was received by Lt. Col. Snider this morning containing the instructions, that the man in question be placed before a medical board, for the purpose of ascertaining as to his ability or inability to serve with a "Home Guard" battalion, and if it be found that he is unable to do so, and if there is an opening here for his services, such an opportunity as he desires will be found elsewhere.

CONSTANTINE DEFERS ACTION

Will Not Break With Entente at Present, For Germany Can Give Him No Help

London, Jan. 6.—A despatch to The Times from Piraeus, dated December 31, says that the real key to the situation in Greece is the military position in Macedonia. According to this story King Constantine has received discouraging news from beyond Monastir to the effect that Field Marshal von Mackensen considered it impossible to move on Monastir before another two months at the earliest. The Greek government realizes, therefore, says the despatch, that if it broke with the Entente it would have to support the struggle alone.

SIXTY KILLED IN MONTH

By Courier-Les Wire. Geneva, via Paris, Jan. 6.—Sixty persons were killed or injured by avalanches in the Tyrol during December, according to Innsbruck newspapers. The snow fall is said to have been the heaviest in many years. On the Brenner Pass yesterday an avalanche killed ten and injured eighteen workmen, who were engaged in clearing a road.

A Military Cross has been awarded to Capt. Paul Poisson, who enlisted at CVhatham with the Army Medical Corps. Word was received by relatives of the death at Chicago of Judge Andrew Gillespie, son of the late Daniel Gillespie, of Cornwall.

MUNITIONS WORKERS—MORE SPEED IS NEEDED

Making munitions is no common task. Neither should it be governed by common laws of labor. Nothing short of 100 per cent. efficiency is accepted in the finished product. Consequently 100 per cent. efficiency is required of the worker. This 100 per cent. efficiency implies more than the ordinary worker does so much work for so much money. It means doing all that one is capable of doing in the period of time one is at work. It is not sufficient to be satisfied to do a little work and get a little pay. The munitions worker is to turn out the greatest possible amount of work within the time allotted. The worker owes a duty to the soldier that is beyond all money considerations.

What would one think of a soldier who, after killing one of the enemy in battle, stopped his efforts and offered as his explanation the excuse that he had destroyed one enemy—his work was done, and he wanted to go home?

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons. Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters. Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Wish One and All a Happy and Prosperous New Year

Our friends generally will be glad to know that the old agency is still forging ahead. We take great pleasure in stating that our business for 1916 was in advance of 1915, and is coming back to the good times of 1907-12. Our farm business is growing. We would be glad to have any who wish to sell properties place them with us, and we will explain our terms thoroughly. Any wishing to buy, cannot find a better list than we have. During the last month we have sold some very fine farms and city properties, including a deal of $25,000, in which Mr. Hess and ourselves were jointly interested.

We have for sale this week a very fine farm in the County of Oxford, No. 5385, containing

THE SITUATION

The Teuton chiefs held a conference recently at the field camp of the German Emperor, and Premier Lloyd-George and Lord Milner, a member of the British War Council, have arrived in Rome for an exchange of views with Italian and French leaders.

Teuton forces have occupied Braila, the chief commercial centre of Roumania. The event had been anticipated, but nevertheless shows that the driving force of the foe in this section of fighting has not been appreciably lessened.

The United States Senate, by a substantial majority has backed Wilson's recent move, but there is the plain intimation that if Germany carries out her "U" boat threats to the prejudice of the United States, that country will enter the war.

THE HARD PRESSED ENEMY.

The New York Times, whose sane articles with reference to the war, have been a marked feature of contemporary U.S. journalism, is of the opinion that Germany's first so-called offer of peace was merely a feeler, and that in all probability she has a second one under way.

"She (Germany) must have peace because she cannot win; because, with the most highly organized military system ever devised, she has ever seen, she stands utterly frustrated at the end of thirty months of the most terrific fighting the world has ever seen; because her internal situation, which is certainly unsatisfactory, cannot possibly grow better, but only worse; because her three allies must have it for all the reasons which press her, but which in their cases are multiplied and made imperative. Her first request has met with the answer she undoubtedly expected; now let her move again. It is not too much to believe that that second move has already been planned. The Allies have not closed the door to peace; they have left it open. They pointed out to Germany that before the door she has opened there is a vestibule, and that vestibule is Belgium. When she retires from that, and indicates a willingness to discuss reparation and guarantees, they show plainly, as they have repeatedly shown since her first impermissible bid was made, that they will enter the open door."

The fact that the food situation in the Fatherland—thanks to the British navy—is becoming more and more acute no one can doubt. A Holland newspaper the other day published an article from a Berlin correspondent, during which he stated that the inhabitants of that city have for some time past been living according to the strict routine of a careful and far-seeing government. Their purchases of necessities have been reduced to a minimum. The shops make no display of their wares, because they can sell only to the holders of Government cards. Their supply of extras is scanty at best. For young children, for the sick and weakly, there is still a sufficiency, and the rest of the populace can live on their prescribed rations; but actually there is nothing more to be got. The groceries are empty, the provision shops likewise; and it is left to the delicatessen shops to do a roaring trade at fancy prices. A hundred marks for a goose is nothing uncommon, forty for a duck, two and a half for a pigeon, and so on. A mark is worth a little over twenty cents.

This it should be remembered, is in the German capital; what the condition of affairs must be in the rest of the country it is not difficult to imagine. With bread winners in the ranks of the army, with outside supplies cut off, and with manufactured exports at a standstill, there must be constantly growing distress. Not a doubt of it. Without any question, the Huns and their partners must soon have a cessation of hostilities unless they are to be plunged into the abyss of absolute ruin. The Allied countries would also cordially welcome peace.

but it must be upon the terms for which they have been fighting and be inclusive of sufficient guarantees for the future.

Blatant Prussians, resident of Kitchener, might as well realize first as last that their time for carrying matters with a high hand has passed just as surely as it has for that other Berlin.

This is the 855th day that the British Empire has been at war with Berlin and the Hohenzollern outfit are not nearly as close to their goal as when they started.

John Bull now controls the maize trade, while the Huns are unable to control the maize in which they now find themselves.

Mayor Bowly, who boasts that he was retained in office on a non-political basis, made the statement at the annual gathering of Brantford Reformers:

"The Liberals, he felt confident, were on the eve of power, for the Tories would fade away like 'the morning mists'."

One thing is certain. The Crisis as a Government, have never been misled, either in Ontario or in the Dominion.

If Brantford's City Hall had to fill out a service card, the one answer would suffice, "No good for anything."

Better settle down now for some weeks of real winter.

A woman in New Jersey slid from a burning house down a fireman's hose. Her own were not available under the circumstances.

Without any doubt Mrs. Cornwallis West will come in for an Easterly experience.

MR. KEENE AND MR. CROTHERS The Editor Courier, City.

Dear Sir,—Enclosed I beg to hand you copy of a letter I have today received from the Minister of Labor in reply to the letter I sent him on behalf of the Civic Committee on the high cost of living. Yours faithfully, GEORGE KEENE.

Ottawa, Jan. 4, 1917. Dear Sir,—I thank you for your letter of the 2nd instant. I do not know whether you refer to the Dominion Canners or to some other concern of a like character, but I may say that I have already partially investigated their operations and propose following the matter up more carefully as soon as possible.

You will readily understand, in attempting to administer the Order-in-Council respecting "W.P." doubtless so large as Canada, that all investigations demanded cannot be made in a short time. We are proceeding as rapidly as possible.

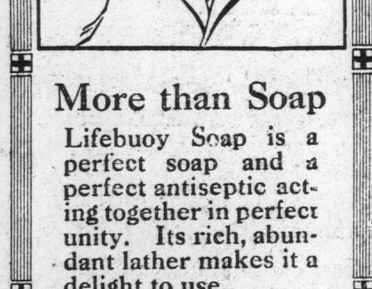

I need not attempt in this letter to answer your suggestion that the government ought to fix prices of certain kinds of food. You will permit me to say, perhaps, that it does not follow because somewhat similar action has been taken in Great Britain that it should be tried in Canada.

I shall be very glad to give the other matters referred to by you very careful consideration. Thanking you again, yours very truly, (Sgd) T. W. CROTHERS.

Foresters Hold Their Installation of Officers In the Foresters' Hall, Heyd Block, Friday night, the officers of all the Courts of Brantford and District, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, were installed into their respective positions by the High Chief Ranger, Bro. A. Martin of Hamilton, assisted by D.C.R. Bro. Smith, also of Hamilton. The court was formally opened in the usual way and the Chief Ranger's chair was occupied by District Chief Ranger, Bro. William Harris in his most capable manner. The High Chief Ranger addressed the officers concerned and impressed upon them fully the important and responsible duties that they would be called upon to perform during the coming year, more especially as the High Court was holding their Convention in Brantford during the present year. He also informed them that Toronto and Hamilton Degree teams, along with the Knights of Sherwood Forest, would in all probability, be at the convention, and render what assistance they possibly could. Past Chief Rangers Bros. Inch and P. Farnsworth were presented by the High Chief Ranger with the Past Chief Ranger's jewels, also certificates stating that it was always a great pleasure to perform such duties. Short speeches were made by the recipients. After the foregoing ceremony had been performed the Court closed for business by singing the National Anthem. Refreshments were then served, and cards were next in order. The Paris members returned by the 10 p.m. car and the Hamilton members by the 11 p.m. car. The gather-

LOCAL COMING HOME ON FUR Mr. W. C. Boddy has recently stated that his son H. Boddy sailed for Canada 29th on six months' tour is expected in the city the of next week.

PLAYED WITH CANDLES A small blaze that occurred at 185 West Mill street about half past seven, was caused by some small child, playing with a lighted candle which the curtains became. However, prompt action by the inmates of the house fire was practically out, as firemen arrived on the scene resultant damage will be very little.

BELGIAN RELIEF The response of Brantford to the appeal for funds to support Belgian families, has been gratifying up to a large number of citizens, pressed their willingness to this beneficent undertaking, hoped to at least secure the 7500 francs. It is the intention of the Board of Trade to have the names of those who have toward the enterprise.

POLICE COURT Two Frenchmen, Arnold and Joseph Morneau, who went down to Montreal returning, brought with them liquid refreshment, and a child of ten freely, were charged here last night. They were faced with a being drunk. They were fined $10 and costs.

THE MARKET The local market suffered lapse this morning after holiday seasons. Practically tables were in evidence, a very small amount of apples were meted out to the purchase quantities. Meats of all were more than usually, while there was also an abundance of poultry. Dairy products, slightly better showing than been the case for some time, was reflected in the prices were slightly lower. A sub drop was also experienced in toes, this being accredited to the fact that there are large quantities of "margarines" in which the dealers are having trouble in selling.

COMING HOME ON FURLOUGH. Mr. W. C. Boddy has received a cable stating that his son, Capt. A. H. Boddy called for Canada on Dec. 24th on six months' furlough. He is expected in the city the first part of next week.

PLAYED WITH CANDLE. A small blaze that occurred last night at 159 West Mill street, necessitated a run from the firemen at about half past seven. The fire was caused by some small children playing with a lighted candle, from which the curtains became ignited. However, prompt action was taken by the inmates of the house and the fire was practically out when the firemen arrived on the scene. The resultant damage will amount to very little.

BELGIAN RELIEF. The response of Brantfordites to the appeal for funds to support destitute Belgian families, has been exceedingly gratifying up to date. A large number of citizens have expressed their willingness to assist in this beneficent undertaking, and it is hoped to at least secure the amount asked for. It is the intention of the Board of Trade to have published, the names of those who contribute toward the enterprise.

POLICE COURT. Two Frenchmen, Armand Forrest and Joseph Morneau, who recently went down to Montreal and when returning, brought with them some liquid refreshment, and then imbibed of it too freely, were taken in charge here last night. They appeared in the police court this morning, and were faced with a charge of being drunk. They were each fined $10 and costs.

THE MARKET. The local market suffered a lapse this morning after the two holiday seasons. Practically no vegetables were in evidence, and only very small amounts of apples (that were meted out to the purchaser) in small quantities. Meats, of all kinds were more than usually plentiful, while there was also an abundance of poultry. Dairy products made a slightly better showing than has been the case for some time, and this was reflected in the prices which were slightly lower. A substantial drop was also experienced in potatoes, this being accredited to the fact that there are large stores of imported "murrhies" in the city which the dealers are having some trouble in selling.

MILITARY DANCE IN CONSERVATORY

Enjoyable Social Event Staged by N.C.O.'S of 215th Battalion

The most successful social military event of the season, and one that will leave its impress on the minds of those who had the pleasure of being present at the occasion, was the dance held in the Conservatory of Music last night by the N.C.O.'s of the 215th Battalion. The auditorium was tastefully decorated with patriotic effects, consisting of flags, bunting, and ensigns, and together with the gay throng that crowded the hall, presented a merry appearance.

With military promptness, the programme was commenced at half past eight, with about eighty couples in attendance, and from then on until the gathering broke up at about three o'clock this morning, joy reigned supreme.

The occasion was graced by the presence of Hon. Col. Cockshutt, Ex-Mayor Spence, Mrs. W. G. Oxtoby, Captain and Mrs. Andrews, Chief and Mrs. Slemm, and a large number of the officers of the battalion.

The programme which was in charge of an able committee composed of B.Q.M.S. T. Thornethwaite, Sergt. S. E. Fairfield, Sergt. H. L. Oldham, Sergt. G. C. Knowles and Bandmaster E. F. Walters, was an admirable one in every respect, being interspersed with musical numbers and dancing.

Battalion Sergeant Major Salavenech, made a most efficient and capable Master of Ceremonies, discharging his duties very acceptably. A violin selection by Miss Marjorie Jones; songs by Sergt. S. E. Fairfield and a duet by Sergt. and Miss Oldham, comprised the musical numbers which were contributed toward the success of the evening.

Women of City Willing to Assist the Empire

Plans Discussed at Meeting of Women's Patriotic League Held Yesterday Afternoon

That the women of Brant County compare favorably with their men folk in their willingness to serve the Empire, was clearly demonstrated yesterday afternoon at a well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Patriotic League in the Y. M. C. A. During the course of the meeting, plans were discussed as to the most expedient way in which the services of the women of the city who were willing, could be devoted to assisting the nation in its present crisis.

The gathering was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Livingston, who in opening the meeting outlined the principal purpose for which it had been convened—to discuss ways and means of co-operating in the National Service movement. Personally, Mrs. Livingston suggested the re-opening of the registration bureau in the city, where those women who were willing could signify their desire to relieve and replace men, where such was possible.

A letter from Premier Borden was read urging that insofar as was in their power, women should take some action, to assist the country through the strenuous times it is now experiencing. Under the existing conditions of labor scarcity, it was the consensus of opinion that there should be no difficulty in obtaining work for those women who are willing to accept it.

The opinion was voiced by some of the ladies in reply that a previous venture of a like nature had not been satisfactory as no work could be found for those willing to take advantage of the opportunities had they been offered. It was also brought to the attention of the meeting that in some cases, work could not be procured by returned soldiers, one case being cited where an applicant had visited seven factories, and had been turned down in each case. One of the ladies present thought that some training should be given to prospective workers before they should attempt to replace men, and in this connection, it was moved by Mrs. S. W. Secord, and seconded by Mrs. Dunnean, that a committee be appointed to meet with the manufacturers for the purpose of arriving at some understanding.

Not only did the women decide to inayde the manufacturing field, but also to engage in agricultural pursuits, where it was considered that there was an opening for women.

It was suggested that the names of those willing to work on farms be enrolled, and the government asked to send an instructor here, and conduct a class in that line. It was thought that the production of the country could be increased if vacant lots throughout the city were utilized, and women and children put in charge of them. Mrs. Malcolm, who has already taken a course in agriculture, offered to supervise one of these lots, if the scheme was adopted, and her generous offer was followed shortly after by Mrs. J. J. Hurley who also expressed a willingness to work in conjunction with Mrs. Malcolm.

Some of the ladies present were also of the opinion that the school children could lend their services to advantage, and in their spare time, assist the ladies in the cultivation of the vacant lots. It was considered advisable to communicate with the board of education for the purpose of ascertaining in what way the scheme of utilizing the services of the children, could be worked out. To this end, a committee was appointed.

The report of Major Blackcock was read, giving a good account of the work of the Canadian Red Cross in France. In spite of the earnest efforts of those at home, it was pointed out that it was no longer possible to contribute the usual five thousand bales of supplies to the French hospitals, as had hitherto been the case. The chairman of the donations being due to a proportionate decrease in the contributions at home.

The treasurer's report was then read, showing that since the last meeting, a large amount of money had been expended. At the time of the previous meeting there was $2000 in the treasury, while at the present time the balance on hand amounted to $931.41, a condition of affairs that warranted immediate action.

The report of Mrs. Labord, containing a statement of the articles sent out of the rooms during the year was read, showing that an immense amount of clothing and other comforts for the soldiers, had been made and sent overseas.

The Women's Auxiliary of the 215th Battalion, acknowledging the donation toward the Christmas tree held in the Y.M.C.A. Institute during Christmas week for the kiddies of the members of the unit.

THE BANTAMS ARE BACK AGAIN

Recruiting for the 216th Is Re-Commenced in the City

"The last hundred" is the objective toward which the 216th Bantam Battalion is now striving in its recruiting activities, which are being renewed in Brantford in common with all the other principal cities of Ontario and Quebec. The little fighting unit now require only between 75 and 100 men to bring the battalion to full strength, when a quick voyage overseas will be the order of the day, and neither time nor energies are being spared in the recruiting efforts of the unit. The Bantams are too well known in Brantford to require further introduction, and many friends of the little fellows will be pleased to learn that they have opened their office at 124 Dalhousie St., where all are invited who intend to embrace "the small man's opportunity" while there is still time. The local office is in charge of Ptes. Fotheringham, Cheadle and Brown, while Lieut. P. K. McKissock, who was stationed in the city last spring, is in charge of the recruiting activities of the Bantams in No. 2 Military District. He visited the city yesterday, and completed arrangements for a vigorous campaign to be carried on here, and is overflowing with confidence that the desired number of men will be obtained in the coming two or three weeks.

ANOTHER PEACE BID IS COMING

Terrible Food Shortage Must Impel Germany to Further Action Soon

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Jan. 6.—(New York Cable)—Another and far more passionate bid for peace is coming from Germany before Easter, when the seriousness of economic conditions and the terrific food shortage may compel Germany to end the war. This prediction is made by the editor of the Spectator in today's issue. Though generally conservative in expressing opinions on the war, he insists this prediction is based upon information from the highest sources. He writes: "We have asked the Allies to announce to Germany and her allies and to the world at large that we mean to apply the principle of the Sibylline books, the power behind the throne, even of the fates, already has begun to apply that policy. Germany already is burning some of the books herself."

"Soon peace may be as terrible as war, there may be no ships in which to bring corn to save the German people from famine. Only a sudden and universal determination of the German people not to let themselves be starved can save them but this is revolution. Revolution seems beyond the daring of a Prussian."

The National Service campaign will be successful in the province of Quebec if the Roman Catholic church authorities are able to influence the people.

Morley Pettit, 133rd Deserter, Receives Hearing at Simcoe

(From our own Correspondent) Simcoe, Jan. 6.—There was a full house at the police court yesterday for the trial before Magistrate Gunton and Squire Earl, of Morley Pettit, an alleged deserter from the former 133rd, hailing from Wingham. Tom J. Agar produced what Pettit claimed was the second attestation paper, signed by him, the first having been signed in blank with "cancelled" written across the corner. This was to be used while working in the neighborhood of Pettit's home. The second paper was not filled out on the reverse by the medical examiner, and Pettit claimed that he was not examined, neither was he issued uniform or any outfit. He had a verbal promise, so he stated, that he was not to be put in the ranks. He was sent to look for recruits, and he got some and paid their railway transportation to Simcoe and their hotel bills here with his own money. He went to the pay office for his allowance, and was told his name was not on the list. He went away. This was the gist of his story—a deal of the same was rumored about town at the time. Pettit says he got $5.00 from the O.C. on one occasion. H. P. Innes, K.C., pleaded that his client had not been used as a man and the bench allowed him to go on suspended sentence, providing he would consent to transfer to the 215th, which he did. He was examined and pronounced fit by Sheriff Snider, but is detained on advice of an information laid against him in Hamilton.

Thos. Sutton, alias Thos. Henry Gelling, mentioned at Waterloo during the trial of Jacobs and LeGard, was gathered in while settling down for the night in the "Woodstock" station, waiting-room, on Wednesday and is detained on a remand from the Magistrate. He is said to be absent without leave from a Hamilton unit since Dec. 27th.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK

Steamer Fama is Victim of German Sub.; Erica Arrives Safely

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Jan. 6.—The Norwegian Steamer Fama is believed to have been sunk. Lloyds shipping agency announces. The Norwegian Steamer Erica, erroneously reported sunk, has arrived in port, says another Lloyds announcement. The Steamer Fama, of 1,532 tons net, sailed from Portland, Me., on December 8, for Marseilles, putting in at Sydney, C.B., on December 11 with a broken bulkhead, and resuming her voyage on Dec. 21. A Lloyds announcement on January 31, reported the sinking of the Steamer Erica.

WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are extremely hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They regulate the stomach and bowels and prevent or cure colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TESTING MACHINE HAS ENORMOUS STRENGTH

Instrument at Dodge Brothers Plant Has Lifting Power of 100,000 Pounds

Instrument at Dodge Brothers Plant Has Lifting Power of 100,000 Pounds.

Recent Panama Canal pictures show an 8,000 pound rock being hoisted on a flat car by a gigantic derrick, establishing a record for lifting dead weight. At the plant of Dodge Brothers, Detroit, is a testing machine that excels this derrick. It is known as the Universal testing machine, and is one of the most important of the many vital instruments of a like nature in the Dodge Brothers physical laboratories. It has a direct capacity of 100,000 pounds. Through levers it is capable of exerting an almost inestimable power. To make it a trifle more graphic, it may be stated that 1000,000,000 pounds come within the range of "inestimable."

A simple comparison with an ordinary crow-bar may give the imagination a better grasp on weights and figures of such tremendous proportions. With the aid of a crow-bar objects can be raised which would not yield an inch to a direct application of a man's strength. Similarly the huge testing machine with a direct force of 50 tons, would be able to actually push a concrete pillar in a factory building straight through the roof, provided a suitable fulcrum and lever arrangement could be made.

The machine is used for tension, compression, shear, transmission and sometimes torsion tests, the last three named requiring special fixtures. It will press a steel pin through a gear in a twinkling; it will tie knots in shafts or axles; it will tear a started chain into two pieces, determining the weakest point and recording at the same time the exact amount of force applied. There are dozens of other equally remarkable things. Among the parts regularly tested by this method, besides the starter chain, are wheels, bolts, front axles, front axle spindles, and ball bearings. Despite the great power required of this machine, it is also called upon for numerous delicate operations. For instance while a pulling force is being applied to an object, a needle records the progress of the test on a chart, so that a complete record of the operation is available. The operator cannot make a mistake with the scales, for a bell rings the moment the beam is not properly balanced.

TICKET FRAUDS

(Associated Press)
London, Jan. 6.—In reporting an increase of more than one hundred per cent in ticket frauds by passengers since the war began, the Great Western Railway Magazine says the chief offenders are women and girl munition workers. This year one railway company alone prosecuted five hundred and thirty persons for fraud.

Music and Drama

THE BRANT

The management of the Brant has secured for the first half of next week one of the season's most popular successes in the Schiller production of Robert W. Chambers' great story, "The Common Law," featuring the stage star supreme, Clara Kimball Young, supported by an all star cast. Miss Young has never been seen to such wonderful advantage as she appears in this stupendous 7 act drama, and the theatres all over the country report record business while showing it.

Mr. Moule has contracted for several star masterpieces, at a figure for the franchise that would astound the average photoplay patron, but the intention is to secure all the big productions that appear on the market keeping up its policy of second to none.

An excellent vaudeville offering of seven Lady Mirel will be shown along with "The Common Law."

The Grand

"The Only Girl," among the recent of the joint writings of Victor Herbert as composer, with Henry Blossom as librettist, will play a return engagement at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday evening, January 9th.

During an engagement which lasted an entire season at the Lyric Theatre, New York, this delightful musical comedy was pronounced as the biggest hit seen in that city in years. The answer to this great success is not hard to find, as for "The Only Girl," Victor Herbert has composed some of his best melodies and Henry Blossom has never done better work than that found in this new piece. The fun throughout is decidedly clever and far above the average found in so many musical comedies of recent date.

The company furnished by Joe Weber includes many musical comedy favorites in Laura Arnold, Helen Tyler, Adele Hassan, Marion Carson, Nettie Velle, Ernest Torrence, Alfred Fisher, Emanuel A. Turner, Richard Bartlett, Frank Coombs and others.

THE COLONIAL

Brantford theatre goers will be interested to hear that Mr. Moule of the Brant Theatre has taken over the Colonial and will have it remodelled and equipped for the exclusive presentation of high-class photoplay dramas and comedies. The Theatre will be closed Saturday night and will be in the hands of the contractors for the next week. It is expected to re-open with a big Fox production. Variety will be one of the strong points of the program and features from several of the leading producing companies have been contracted for already.

The services of one of the finest five piece orchestras in Canada has been arranged for and with the same management as has made the Brant Theatre such an unequalled success, the new Colonial is bound to become one of the popular resorts for lovers of the screen art.

Annual Meeting of the South Brant Agricultural Society will be held in the Court Room, Brantford village, on Thursday January 18th, 1917, at 1.30 p.m. for the purpose of receiving the Directors and Auditors report and disposing of the same, and to elect officers for the ensuing year and other business.

The Board will meet at 10 a.m. W. F. MILES, Secy. Treas.
Brantford, January 4th, 1917.

JACK BARRY TO RULE RED SOX

Ex-Athletic Will Continue to Play His Position at Second Base

Boston, Jan. 6.—Harry H. Frazee, president of the Boston American League baseball club, announced today that John J. ("Jack") Barry had accepted the management of the team. The contract will be drawn up Monday. Its duration has not been fixed, but Mr. Frazee said that he would let Barry "sign for any number of years within reason," and that he would be the sole manager, with the privilege of choosing his own assistants.

Before announcing his acceptance, Barry made it known that he desired to continue to play at second base position and President Frazee granted his request. Barry was captain of the team last year. The amount of his salary as manager was not made public to-day.

Plans for the spring training trip will be made at a conference between Mr. Frazee and Hugh J. Ward, the owners of the club, and Manager Barry Monday. The team will train at Hot Springs, Ark., and play a series of exhibition games before the opening of the league season.

A BUDGET OF NEWS FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN LABOR IN THE WORLD OF LABOR
 GLEANED FROM THE EXCHANGES AND OTHER SOURCES

The United Garment Workers have established a 48-hour week for its members in Boston, Mass.

Women navvies are now employed in England, and many of them are said to do their work as satisfactorily as men.

The membership of the Lady Garment Workers' International Union increased last year by more than twenty thousand.

Allied shopmen employed on the St. Louis, Mo., Terminals, have secured an increase in wages averaging five cents per hour, 625 employees being affected.

Stogie makers in Wheeling, W. Va., have won their strike for a wage increase of $1 per thousand in all the local factories, except two, controlled by the Pollack concern.

Stage employees at the Poli Theatre, Hartford, Conn., have adjusted differences with the management. Substantial wage increases are secured. The agreement dates from January 1.

At a meeting of the Musicians' Union Charles Carbon of Philadelphia, stated that prior to the formation of the union the highest paid theatre musicians received $10 a week. To-day the average salary is $27 a week.

About 350 negro longshoremen, affiliated to the International Longshoremen's Association, suspended work in Savannah when they were refused wage increases. They asked 20 cents an hour and 25 cents for overtime. They have been paid 12 1/2 to 18 cents and 22 cents for overtime.

Twenty-seven miners were killed and seven injured in an explosion in the Reedy and Ryan coal mine near Pittsburg, Kansas. With one exception, this is the greatest loss of life in the history of Kansas coal mining. Forty men were killed in 1889 in a mine explosion at Frontenac.

The municipal authorities of Milan, Italy, recently seized 100 cars containing fifteen million eggs as the result of a public campaign to prevent the hoisting prices, and demanded that the Government seize and sell all eggs for which a higher price than three cents each are asked.

A recent investigation in Chicago to find out if charges that goods were allowed to stand in the railway yards until they were unfit for food were true, led to the discovery that 2,000 cars of vegetables were held on side tracks outside the city which were in advanced stages of decomposition.

Carpenters' Union No. 1,756 of Philadelphia, raised wages 2 1/2 cents an hour for its members employed at the Cramp ship yards, after a two days' strike. The Kensington Dry Dock Company, a subsidiary of the Cramp concern, raised wages of its carpenters 3 cents an hour after a six weeks' strike.

C. P. R. western telegraphers are far from satisfied with the $5 per month advance in wages given by the company as an outcome of recent negotiations.

The Canadian government Railway System has purchased 400 heavy locomotives, half of which have already been delivered, the remainder will be received before the end of February.

The British Chemical Company has awarded the contract for the construction of a half million dollar plant at Trenton, Ont., which will include some forty buildings of reinforced concrete and steel. It will prove a big boost to the town, and employ a large number of hands.

In regard to the new wage scale recently negotiated by the representatives of the Typographical Union and the employing printers in Lethbridge an increase of $1 per week was given to handmen. It is understood, however, that a subsidiary arrangement was made with the employers to pay all these employees $1 per week over the new scale.

Fully a thousand men are employed in the fishing industry on the Miramichi River in New Brunswick, the shipments largely going to New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. The market for fish at present could hardly be better, and excellent prices rule. The past month witnessed good catches on the river, which means prosperity to the fishermen and good money for the district.

The Montreal local of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees recently gave a grand concert and ball in that city, the proceeds of which were forwarded to the Montreal cooks serving at the front. There was an exceptionally large turnout and a handsome sum was raised to show the boys who cater to the wants of the men in the trenches that local 440 is surely keeping the home fires burning.

The recently reorganized local of the Street Railway Employees' Union in Windsor is making good, and under the new agreement reluctantly conceded by the management things are working out far more satisfactory than was formerly the case. There was a complaint in regard to car equipment, but the manager of the company, who was interviewed by a committee from Division 416, promised to remedy it in order to prevent future misunderstanding.

The Western Drydock and Shipbuilding Company of Port Arthur, Ont., has changed hands. James Whalen, a local man, and John Burnham of Chicago, by an investment of one and a half million dollars, having secured exclusive control. They have contracts for a number of boats and assurances that the plant will be kept going at full capacity for an indefinite period. They expect to turn out at least twelve boats during 1917, which will afford employment to a large number of hands.

From all parts of the Dominion there are reports of new branch factories to be erected by big American firms, who believe Canada will have preferential treatment after the war in the extensive territories in Europe. They look for immense expansions in Canadian trade and are preparing to get in on the ground floor. Many of these firms, up to the present, have manufactured their wares in the United States and shipped them over the border. They will be new industries for the Dominion and add materially to the number of the army of skilled workers on this side of the border line.

General Manager F. P. Gutellus of the Canadian Government Railway system states that the Canadian government railways will show a larger surplus this year than they did a year ago, when it was $2,000,000. So far gross receipts of the freight business for the first eight months ended December 1 were 25 per cent. in excess of the corresponding period in 1915, while passenger receipts show an increase of 47 per cent. A large amount of military business was included in this year's increase, although regular passenger traffic was surprisingly good. The steel trade was a heavy contributor.

The Halifax, N. S., Board of Control has asked the local Trades and Labor Council to appoint a committee to confer with it on the question of the high cost of living. The invitation has been accepted, and statistics have been gathered to present to the board. These show the prices prevailing towards the close of last month were: Bread, 9 cents; butter, 50 cents a pound; eggs, 50 cents a dozen; milk, 10 cents a quart; sugar, 10 cents a pound; potatoes, $1.25 a bushel; hard coal, $12.50 a ton; rents $20 to $35 a month. It may be said that wages are considerably lower in Nova Scotia than in the Province of Ontario, and as a rule prices are generally more moderate, those quoted above will show that when wage rates are compared the easterners are up against the high living problem just as hard as the workers farther west.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR, THICK, WAVY, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant, and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few minutes you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be, after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair, growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, charming, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knott's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and try it as directed.

THE JUVENILE COURT IN CANADA

(By F. J. Billiard in "The Canadian Churchman")

In dealing with the subject of the juvenile court in Canada is well at the outset to consider the chronological order of the development of this movement.

The juvenile act, under which the juvenile court operates, had its origin in a law passed in the State of Massachusetts in 1886; but while the origin of the law sprang from the United States, strange to say the first country to establish a juvenile court was South Australia, which began to introduce juvenile courts as early as 1890. Then came the juvenile court of Chicago established in 1899, 9 years after that of South Australia. Ontario had a children's court as early as 1894, but this must not be confounded with the juvenile court.

The Ontario Court had neither the power nor the legislation behind it which belongs to the present-day juvenile court; indeed, it could not have had, seeing that the Canadian juvenile act was not passed till July, 1908, and under the act, Manitoba was the first Canadian province—and Winnipeg was the first Canadian city—to establish a juvenile court, which it did in February, 1909. Since then courts have sprang up in Vancouver, Montreal, Toronto and have either been established or are being established in most of the important cities throughout the Dominion.

It is meet that at this age of our review to mention that the man primarily responsible for having the juvenile act placed on the Statute Books of Canada was Mr. W. L. Scott, one time president of the Children's Aid Society at Ottawa. Mainly through the unceasing and untiring efforts of Mr. W. L. Scott, this beneficial piece of legislation became law and the juvenile bill became an act on the 16th day of June, 1908. No doubt in years to come, the date of the passing of the Bill, or act, as it is now, and the name of the man who so nobly fought for it and stuck to his guns until it became law, will be looked back upon with pride and affection by social workers and philanthropists and all having the welfare of the Dominion at heart throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

The agitation for the application and proclamation of the act, in so far as the city of Winnipeg was concerned, was carried on by the late Hon. T. M. Daly, then police magistrate of Winnipeg; the late Hon. Colin Campbell and the writer. A good deal of preliminary educational work had to be done; meetings were addressed, the act was explained, its scope and usefulness detailed and finally the Hon. Mr. Daly and the writer were constituted a deputation to wait upon the Attorney-General and to ask that the act be proclaimed in and for the city of Winnipeg. To this deputation the late Mr. Colin Campbell, then Attorney-General, replied by promising that he would see to it that Winnipeg should be the first Canadian city to have a juvenile court. How he kept his promise is now a matter of record.

Since the court was inaugurated in this city we have dealt with juvenile delinquents to the number, approximately, of three thousand. That is to say, children dealt with in the court itself. Outside the court, we have, I believe, dealt with another two thousand five hundred cases.

The juvenile court was introduced with rosy views and optimistic ideals as to its ultimate success. Before its inauguration, children guilty of petty crime were dealt with in the police court along with the riffraff that is usually found in such places. If, for any cause, a boy or a girl had to be detained, the only place in which they could be locked up was the ordinary police cell. If the accommodation at the police station was taxed the child or children would have to occupy a cell in which there were already a number of adults. "A propos" of this, I wish to say that the police have at all times manifested a large amount of common sense and a very great deal of kindness in dealing with children's cases, and never, to my knowledge, have they placed a child in a cell with an adult when they had room; but of course circumstances were sometimes against them, and then they could not help themselves.

The utility of endeavoring to uplift children from paths leading to delinquency and crime under such conditions will at once be apparent, and it was this which led to the inauguration of the juvenile court. Under the old system these child were placed in the same cell with the adult criminal; he was tried in the same court by the same machinery, according to the same law, and the associations and environment surrounding him were such as are familiar to any visitor to any ordinary police court. It is hardly necessary for me to say how entirely and altogether detrimental such conditions were to the child's welfare, and detrimental in ways that were not apparent to the casual observer. For instance, the police were inclined to deal leniently with offenders who really should have appeared before some other court. But they hesitated to bring a child into the ordinary police court; hence a boy might be warned time and again by police men until their warnings began to be looked upon with contempt by the boy. This attitude could have but one ending, the boy goes from petty theft to petty theft until at last he is released in committing some serious offence which places him in a line for a sentence to the Industrial School for a period of years, or to a Reformatory.

On the other hand if a child was brought before the magistrate the magistrate was faced with two alternatives—he could either send such a child to a reformatory institution, or release him under suspended sentence. In most cases a child would be released under suspended sentence, and I feel safe in saying that 50 per cent. of the children so released eventually found their way to a reformatory institution. Why? Because there was no officer whose duty it was to supervise his conduct during the suspension of the sentence; in other words he walked out of the court without any supervision and naturally, after a time when the first fright had worn away, fell back into the old groove, the last stage being worse than the first. However, all this is now changed.

The next House of Representatives will be the closest in its history. With the third party men holding the balance of power. Notwithstanding this, it was predicted in Washington that Champ Clark will be re-elected. Speaker, though the organization of committees worried the Democrats. My Seeman, thirteen years old, was shy and killed in her bed at the home near Camden, N.J., by a fellow, Thomas Conway, who then attempted to take his own life with a home by the girl's father when he was unable to find work elsewhere and was treated kindly. In the absence of Mr. Seeman, Conway entered the girl's room after she had retired and when she ordered him out he shot her.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to back slowly. For agencies are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty. Age is not a time for harsh physical. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

PRODIGAL PRINCESS OF DETROIT DEAD

Life Story of Clara Ward Reads Like a Romance

(Detroit News.) A score of years ago Clara Ward was the idol of Detroit young womanhood. Wealthy and beautiful, she left her native Detroit to marry the Prince de Chimay and Garaman, a Belgian nobleman closely allied to the royal family. Her light burned brightly in the capitals of Europe. She was favored of kings, the leading figure in many startling episodes, the toast of Paris. She was a princess, an American princess, who had captured the old world by her lovely face.

To-day she lies dead in her home in Padua, Italy—the prodigal daughter spurned by her mother, shunned by her former companions, her life ended, if not in poverty, at least in unlovely circumstances. She died a woman without illusions. She had gone the pace; she had lived intensely, a slave to her desires; she died an outcast, an old woman who had been in her prime.

Wedded Amid Pomp. The story of Clara Ward reads like a romance of the Duchesse. At the age of 17, in 1890, when this country was stormed by impetuous noblemen of Europe seeking gold in exchange for their damaged titles and equally damaged selves, Miss Ward, daughter of a multimillionaire Michigan lumberman, was married in Paris to the Prince de Chimay. The ceremony was performed with great pomp; a papal nuncio officiated and the witnesses were the British and American ambassadors.

Then it was that Clara Ward embodied the ideal for the American girl. A slip of a girl, but with the beauty and charm of a mature woman, she had married a prince. She had a yearly income of $50,000 from the estate of her father, and besides the fortunes of her mother and her millionaire uncle were hers to draw on. She had been educated in a fashionable London school. By her marriage the courts of the continent were opened to her, and now began a period of tranquil domesticity, the only time in her life when she was not buffeted by stormy passion.

Regarded as Contented Mother. For several years the prince and his American wife lived, to all appearances, contentedly in Belgium. Two children were born to them, and it seemed that their union was to be an exception to the rule of unhappy alliances of the sort. The princess was a contented mother, so it was thought, and the prince rejoiced in his lovely wife and their pretty children.

But beneath the surface the fires that were later to consume her were burning fiercely. At last they burst forth and the princess began to make trips to Paris incognito. Once there, she squandered her money riotously, making the rounds of the gayest cafes and music halls, everywhere dazzling with her beauty and startling with her prodigality. On one of these unbridled tours of the French capital she met in a restaurant a Gipsy fiddler. He was—and is—a man of unprepossessing appearance physically. He is short and slender, his shoulders stooped, he wears a black mustache and his black hair sweeps romantically back from his forehead. And in his eyes burn searing lights.

Deserted Husband for Gipsy. These eyes kindled anew the tempestuous fires within the girl. These eyes won the princess from her husband and made her for years the slave of the Gipsy, Jansey Rigo. When the princess left the prince behind for the next time she was impelled to seek the false gaiety of the capital she was accompanied by Rigo. In the train it is said their courier asked her if she had no reason for her children's sake. Her answer was:

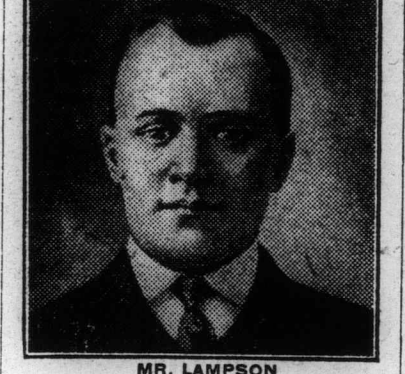

"It is too late to think of them. Let us face facts and have a good dinner when we reach Paris." So lightly did this wanton cast off bonds that all women have been taught to hold most sacred. So thoughtlessly did she take an irremediable step, a step which in her life she was to regret, for it lost her the respect of decent society and made her life from that time a miserable butterfly existence with transient pleasures and abiding sorrows. As she lived on, tossed about on a stormy sea of desire, she slipped down and down, tasting the bitter cup of repentance ever seeking true happiness, but never finding it, for she sought where truth does not dwell.

Just as she had climbed up from a Detroit school girl to a princess, so now she put aside her coronet and made the descent. And a turbulent time it was. In 1901 her uncle, Thomas R. Lyons, who was appointed conservator of her estate, showed that in seven years his niece had spent nearly a million dollars, $750,000, and most of it was frittered away in company with the sparkling-eyed Rigo. Two years in Egypt cost $150,000; six weeks in Paris $25,000. She paid $25,000 for a pair of diamond earrings and then, tiring of them, pawned them for $4,000.

After this investigation of the state of her finances was made, the family purse strings tightened and she was forced to seek engagement to meet expenses. The princess announced that she would help and she made pretentious plans for going on the stage, but little came of them. She did pose in living pictures in Berlin, but the police declared her poses were shockingly undraped. After dint of hard work on Rigo's part, enough money was scraped together to visit Italy.

ardi, an employee in a railway station in Naples. He was a handsome fellow, 25 years old, 10 years younger than me. Rigo, for the Prince had divorced her, Ricardi carried her luggage to her compartment and she asked him to get into the carriage with her. Rigo watched, but let them go. That night she slept on a rug outside Rigo's door, c-eping piteously and begging him to let her enter. He told her he would never forgive her and the next day went back to Paris. She followed but he was adamant and so she went back to Naples and sought out Ricardi.

Takes Fourth Husband. Rigo divorced her and she married the Italian. Meanwhile her Hungarian Gipsy brought another American woman under the spell of those flashing eyes and that moaning violin and they were married. In 1891 Mme. Ricardi divorced her railway porter husband. Nothing was heard of her in this country until last summer, when she stirred Paris by attempting to obtain the release of Albino Cachhabata, a 23-year-old orchestra director, under arrest in the Italian consulate in France. She called on the country's mobilization call. Failing to obtain his freedom, she married, it was reported, a man named Casalota, her fourth husband, in whose home she died.

King Leopold Fascinated. Shortly after her marriage to Rigo, she gave a very frank interview. Here are some of her statements:

"The prince was a gentleman. He was always kind, courteous, always calm. "Heavens! I suffered after my marriage as I had suffered when I first came to Europe; my mother immured me in a convent for the sake of the discipline. I remember yet the frightful effect it had upon me. The calm quiet of the place aroused in me a gentle-frenzied, soft-stepping sister in sombre garb, I longed to do something to shock her. I guess I succeeded, for even as a child I was what you might call uncontrollable. "Long before I left the convent I knew that I was beautiful. How I rejoiced the day I left there for good.

The true cause of my elopement with Rigo lies at a king's door. I did not leave home for the sake of caprice, but because I had lost my position and was too proud to remain anywhere under sufferance. From the very first saw a gentle-faced, soft-stepping sister in sombre garb, I longed to do something to shock her. I guess I succeeded, for even as a child I was what you might call uncontrollable. "Long before I left the convent I knew that I was beautiful. How I rejoiced the day I left there for good.

Snubbed Because of King. "At a moment, at a certain fete, during a dance, that will live in my memory till I die, I stood alone on one of the steps of the great staircase leading to the palace conservatories. "I entered the great hall every woman there turned her back upon me, or gazed at me contemptuously. "What I suffered in that moment of insulted pride no one will ever know. Then it was that I broke the strictest law of court etiquette, which demands that no one shall re-fire from the assembly until the queen has left. "An officer stood near me. I turned and asked him to give me his arm out of the palace. He refused. I left alone, banishing myself from the court for ever. "I am done with it all. I wanted to be free. I am at least out of the rotten atmosphere in which modern society lives. It does not want me, and I do not want it—so we are quits."

Rigo Played in Detroit. The last chapter in her life, as far as Detroit is concerned, was written two years ago, when Rigo, her gipsy lover, was engaged by a local cafe to feature its cabaret. Relatives of Clara Ward—and there are many of them living in the city and in the vicinity—could have seen her fiddler husband jauntily stepping about the smoke-filled cafe, ogling the women and playing his sensuous Hungarian airs on his eloquent violin.

Here was a man who cut a wide swath through Europe with one of the world's most beautiful women for his companion. Together they spent nearly a quarter of a million dollars. While he was here he recalled what she had said to him about her home. "Once we thought we would go back to her native city together," he described the incident. "And she said, 'Ah, Jansey, in belle Paris is not more beautiful than Detroit when the lights are shining on the river.' I have visited the church she attended and the school where her education was begun, and on the stones of each I carved my name and shed bitter tears."

Her Picture on His Arm. On his wrist is tattooed the picture of Clara Ward. When he exhibited it, he said, "In my heart is engraved as indelibly, her image." And so Clara Ward has come to the end. Now she lives only in the unhappy memories of those who once loved her, and on the supple wrist of this violinist who makes of her picture and of his relations with her cheap publicity for himself.

Her life was a hurricane in which she was a trail hawk at the mercy of her fate. She sank into ignominy through her excesses, and so far had she gone on the down grade that death alone could restore to her name something of the dignity it once bore and the respect it once commanded.

Character Sketch of Ex-Premier Venizelos

A Brief Biography of the Famous Leader Whose Followers Now Menace the Monarchy

Ex-Premier Venizelos has lived in Athens for the last few months in almost feudal state. Forty Cretans guarded his person and his house day and night. Close at hand—so close, that if there were need they could be summoned almost by a cry—were more than 100 others. There is no question in the minds of any of these that M. Venizelos' life has been in danger at the hands of his political enemies. There is no question in the minds of those who know the Cretans that the man who attempted Venizelos' life would die immediately after. They are fanatically loyal.

One often hears of Venizelos that "he started life as a bandit." That is sheer nonsense. When he first came to manhood his parents lived in Crete, then under Turkish rule. Every now and then the unreasonable Turks tried to collect taxes and punish offenders. Then a rebellion broke out, which only ended after the Turks had hanged enough Cretans to satisfy them and had burned a few villages. The Turks permitted a legislative assembly to the Cretans but the Cretans did not precisely play the game.

"The side that won the election chased all the deputies elected by the other side out of the chamber of deputies," according to an authoritative publication. "Sometimes the side that lost the election did."

Young Venizelos was hardly 20 years old when he was elected one of the eight minority members in this unrespectful chamber of deputies. The other seven know what would happen to them. The day they came to meet they put on their oldest clothes and carried green sticks for canes. They knew they would be thrown out, but it is not in the Cretan character to refuse a fight. Venizelos wore new clothes and carried no cane. He dared the majority members to listen to him. The resolution of expulsion for the eight guilty of being a minority had been adopted. The majority was inclined toward laughter, before the hard work of throwing out the minority began.

"You," said Venizelos in elegant and baring Greek, "are not worthy of our ancestors."

Venizelos verbally laced the gathering of elders until they compromised with him. They said they would let the eight minority members remain if he would only quit.

That, of course, made Venizelos the big man in Crete. A little later he organized the Cretan rebellion in Ireland. They took up arms against Turkey to get away and against Greece to get in. At one time and another they fought England, France, Turkey, Greece and Italy, and were, of course, soundly defeated.

Nevertheless they made themselves so very unpleasant for every one that Crete was finally admitted as an integral part of the Grecian state. Prince George, a brother of the present King Constantine, was sent to Crete as governor-general, but after a time Venizelos expelled him.

"We have only the most loyal feelings towards Prince George and the whole royal family," he explained at that time, "and we want George to stay. All we ask is that he do as he is told."

That fairly expresses Venizelos' present feelings toward King Constantine.

The more recent history of M. Venizelos is fairly well known. He was elected to the Military League and might have made himself the dictator of Greece—except that the powers never favor dictators—but did take over the prime ministry. In five years he almost rebuilt Greece. He crushed a little of the graft that the state reeks with, bettered the laws, cleaned the administration of justice and started the state in the path of modernity. Naturally enough he is tremendously popular as the hero of the latest Balkan war. Each felt that the other was a rival in the limelight. The king has punished Venizelos out for the present.

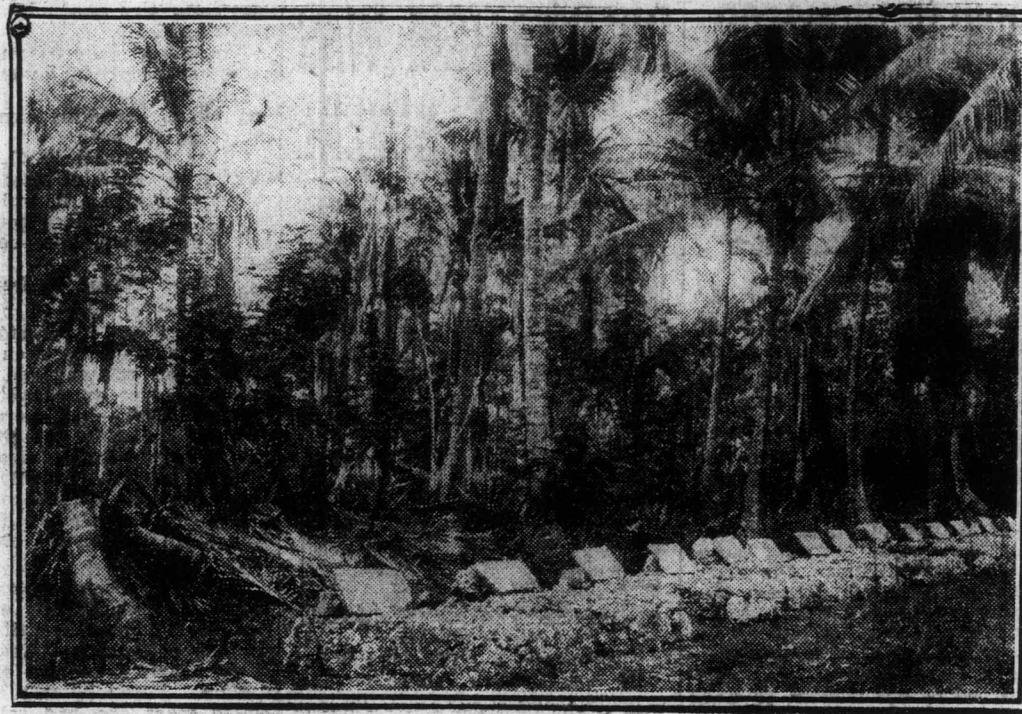

Those who know Venizelos best say that he is absolutely unselfish and unworldly. He seeks power continually, but it is because experience has shown that he is the one man in the present state who does use it to best advantage. It is said of him that he is surrounded by mediocrities and this is probably true. It is also pointed out that his chief aides of a few years ago are almost without exception his enemies to-day.

"Venizelos is too hard a leader," is the comment of one man who knows him very well. "He expects his followers to give up everything, obey everything, do everything, and find their reward in a conviction that they have been serving the country. That is too thin a diet for the average man. He never praises. Most of us are human enough to hunger for praise."

Venizelos is a man of great personal charm. His blue eyes shine at one benignly through thick glasses, his cheeks carry a rather sparse white beard and his lips seem always parted in a kindly smile. He is mildness and candor and benevolence.

His library is filled with books in half a dozen languages, and all show the signs of wear. An omnivorous

EASY TO LIVE A CENTURY

Yale Professor Tells How to Lead the Simple Life and Reach 100 Years

Chauncey M. Depew told the members of the New York Academy recently that thousands of people have died prematurely just because King David fixed the duration of human life at "three-score and ten." Mr. Depew, who at 82 is as alert physically and mentally as he was twenty years ago, said King David died in the early seventies because "he had led the life." "A man can live to be 100," Mr. Depew added.

Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale University, who is chairman of the hygiene reference board of the Life Extension Institute, which has William H. Taft for chairman of its board of directors and numbers on its advisory board the leading scientists and health authorities of the United States, including Maj. Gen. William C. Gorgas, Surg. Gen. Rupert Blue, of the United States public health service; Herman M. Biggs, health commissioner of New York; Alexander Graham Bell, and C. B. Davenport, director of the eugenics record office at Cold Spring Harbor. The institute was founded by Harold A. Ley, a millionaire philanthropist, and Prof. Fisher. Its purpose is to diffuse knowledge of the principles of hygienic living throughout the country.

"But I have no opinion as to King David," added the Yale professor of political economy, who is regarded generally as the ablest lay authority on health problems in the country. "Under moderate doses muscular efficiency is at first increased a little and then lowered, the total effect being a loss in working power."

lists who are members of our board," Prof. Fisher said, "Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk and I have prepared a book of which the title is 'How to Live.' In this book we place the rules of health as fifteen." They are:

1. Ventilate every room you occupy.
2. Wear light, loose and porous clothes.
3. Seek out-of-door occupations and recreations.
4. Sleep out, if you can.
5. Breathe deeply.
6. Avoid overeating and overwork.
7. Eat sparingly of meats and eggs.
8. Eat some hard, some bulky, some raw foods.
9. Eat slowly.
10. Cleanse the body thoroughly, regularly and frequently of its waste.
11. Stand, sit and walk erect.
12. Do not allow poisons and infections to enter the body.
13. Keep the teeth, gums and tongue clean.
14. Work, play, rest and sleep in moderation.
15. Keep serene.

Alcohol Called Poison
Prof. Fisher includes alcohol among poisons which must not be allowed to enter the body.

"Alcohol is not a real brain stimulant," Prof. Fisher said, "but acts by narrowing the field of consciousness. The man who wakes up under alcohol is really going to sleep, as far as his judgment and reason are concerned. Complete abolition of consciousness is brought about by sufficient doses, as when ether or chloroform is taken."

Right Age to Marry
The advocate of life extension thinks it most desirable to marry between 25 and 30, when the period of growth has been attained. "I believe that as soon as men and women acquire the knowledge that their choice of a mate will determine whether or not their physical and mental faults and virtues will reappear in their children they will feel a sacred responsibility toward marriage."

How to Select a Mate
Here are some of the rules for the selection of a mate put forth by the Life Extension Institute:
Learn to analyse individuals into their inheritable traits—physical, mental and moral.
Differentiate between socially noble and ignoble traits, between social and education veneer and sterling inherent capacity.
Do not expect physical, mental and moral perfection in any one individual, but look for a majority of sterling traits.
Join your family line to one which is strong in respect to the traits in which yours is weak.
But remember also that injuries can be inflicted on offspring by unhygienic living.
In addition to the rules of health and eugenics, Prof. Fisher says that people who want to live long should avoid the hurry habit, should cultivate a religion of healthy mindedness, should learn to control their desires and should cultivate the habit of happiness.

"I know a very wise physician who prescribed to a business man worrying over his financial responsibilities that he start each day by saying over to himself for five minutes: 'I don't give a hang! I don't give a hang!' Prof. Fisher concluded.
So here we are—all together now! If we want to live long and prosper hygienically.
"We don't give a hang! We won't give a hang!"

President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo, it was learned, are puzzled over a means to raise revenue. Thirty-three convicts who volunteered to fight a fire in Sing Sing prison on Dec. 19, received rewards of $10 each.

PREFERRED TO BUY NEW SKIRT

Rather Than Insure Her Soldier Husband's Life—Experiences of the Patriotic Fund

Some interesting experiences fall to the lot of the Canadian Patriotic Fund Committee that looks after soldiers' insurance.

It has been hard in many cases to bring the soldiers' wives to see the necessity of keeping up the insurance and only through constant effort and interest do the officers prevent policies from lapsing.

For example, one Toronto woman preferred to buy a new skirt rather than renew a policy on the life of her husband, who was battling in a Flanders trench. Another woman, whose husband is daily facing German bullets, would have allowed her policy to lapse rather than take the amount of the premium out of the savings bank. Another instance worth recording is, unfortunately, typical. The woman had an idea that insurance was all right for the rich, but that in her straitened circumstance she should not be expected to make any sacrifice to maintain her husband's insurance, in this case amounting to $1,000. After an hour's argument with her on behalf of herself and baby boy, she reluctantly consented to accept a loan of $50 from the fund to cover the premium, this amount to be repaid in monthly instalments. The husband was subsequently killed in action, and the wife received the full face value of the policy. It was a grateful mother who called a few days later, and tearfully thanked the committee for their advice and assistance.

Since this branch of the work was organized practically every woman interviewed has acted on the committee's advice. In all, this branch is looking after insurance representing not less than $50,000.

THE LIFE TRAGEDY OF A GREAT ACTOR

The Pathos of John McCullough's Last Appearance On Any Stage

John McCullough, the tragedian, died in an insane asylum. Writing about the famous actor's last appearance on any stage, E.H. Sothern in his Remembrances, in Scribner's says:

"He went through a scene in 'The Gladiator,' then he went to the last scene in 'Virginius,' where Virginius raves after he has killed his daughter. He then spoke a speech that has one he had often told me that his great master, Edwin Forrest, had only read to his own satisfaction once in his life:
Oh, now, forever
Farewell the tranquil mind; farewell the content;
Farewell the plumed troop and the big wars
That make ambition virtue; Oh, farewell!
Farewell the neighing steed and the shrill trump,
The spirit stiring drum, the ear piercing fife,
The royal banner, and all quality,
Pride pomp and circumstance of glorious war!
And, oh, you mortal engines, whose rude throats
The immortal Jove's dread clamors counterfeit!
Farewell! Othello's occupation's gone."
It was pitiful in the extreme to hear McCullough read this at any time and trebly so now. He wandered through others of his various characters, the people about him weeping and seeking to hide their grief. At length he drifted into the part of Cardinal Richelieu.

He played the scene in the garden where Baradas, the creature of the king, comes to take Richelieu's ward away from him he had spoken his tender speech of protection to Julie, and now Richelieu says to Joseph, who holds him up on one side while his ward assists him on the other, "Well, well, we will go home!" Here he walks feebly up the stage. Baradas, seeing how broken he is, says aside to De Beringhen, "His mind and life are breaking fast." Richelieu overhears him, turns with his old fury and cries: "Irreverent rascal! If so, beware the falling ruin! I tell thee, sooner of these witching hairs, when this snow melteth there shall come a ed through others of his various characters, the people about him weeping and seeking to hide their grief. SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson I.—First Quarter, For Jan. 7, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John i, 1-18—Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, John i, 4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In these four gospel portraits of Christ we see Him as the King (Matthew), the Servant (Mark), the Son of Man (Luke) and the Son of God (John)—the same Jesus in each, revealed to us a little differently, that we may know Him more fully and more intimately. This gospel is certainly the eagle gospel, as the others are suggestive of the other faces of the cherubim, the lion, the ox and the man. Here we are lifted far above the others and carried back to the beginning, before the creation, to Him by whom all things were created. His name, "the Word of God," takes us back to the ten times repeated "And God said" of Gen. i, along with Ps. xxxiii, 6, "By the Word of the Lord were the heavens made."

When on to Rev. xix, 13, when He shall come in glory as "the Word of God." How grand the statement in verse 3, "Without Him was not anything made that was made," reminding us also of Col. i, 16, and leading us to exclaim Jer. xxxiii, 17.

I often think of and quote these lines: "The Scriptures and the Lord here are one most holy name; the written and the Living Word are in all things the same. Then the word of any one, if sincere, is the utterance of the heart, and in Him we see and know the heart of God the Father. As Creator He is too far above us to be known by us, but when we see Him in human form, the Word made flesh (verse 14), then He comes near to us in such a way that we may know Him. Though no man hath seen God at any time, any believer can see Him in the only begotten Son (verse 18). Those of whom it is written in Ex. xxiv, 11, "They saw God and did eat and drink," saw not the Father, but the Son, whose goings forth have been from the days of eternity (Mich. v, 2, margin). So was it also with Abraham, and Jacob, and Moses, and Joshua, and Gideon, and Manoah, and Job, and Isaiah, and Daniel. Let us be content with the words of our Lord to Philip, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John xiv, 9).

Not only is He God the Creator, but He is the Life and the Light of men. His first recorded utterance in Scripture is, "Let there be light," and then we remember that "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (Gen. i, 3; II Cor. iv, 6). So peculiarly is He the Life that there is no life apart from Him; for "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (I John v, 12). Life and light and love are three of the great words of this gospel, and in Him alone are found the three. He is called "the True Light" (verse 9), as He is also "the True Bread from heaven," "the True Vine," "the True Tabernacle" (John vi, 32; xv, 1; Heb. viii, 2). John the Baptist bore witness of the Light that men through Him might believe, and one of the last words of our Lord before He ascended was, "Ye shall receive the power of the Holy Ghost coming upon you, and ye shall be witnesses unto me" (Acts i, 8, margin). Could anything be more pitiful and pathetic than the statement of lesson verses 10, 11, that He was in the world that He had made, and it knew Him not, and His own people received Him not. Yet so it has ever been since Adam and Eve turned from Him in the Eden, where He placed them to enjoy Him and it. Israel would none of me. I would, but ye would not. Ye will not come to me. Such are some of His words concerning our treatment of Him. Yet He loves us and pleads with us. Although He knows all the truth about us, He is full of grace toward us; "full of grace and truth."

Praise God for the comfort and the assurance of verse 12, for knowing that I did truly receive Him as my Saviour and put all my trust in His precious blood, this, we may say, is the only way to be saved. It has become a child of God, born of God, and, with John v, 24; I John ii, 12; Isa. xliii, 25, and other words of life, gave me assurance of the forgiveness of sins that they would never be remembered against me and that I had passed from death into life. I have had this comfort now (June, 1915), for forty-two years, ever since 1873, but had been a church member in good standing without such assurance for some years before that.

It is not a feeling, but simply a resting on the infallible word of God that it is as He says. While Matthew, Mark and Luke refer quite fully to the glory of the transfiguration, John seems to sum it up in one sentence. "We beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father" (verse 14). The only way of true humility on our part (verse 15) and of victory over all present vanities of this world is to behold His glory according to I Cor. iii, 18. Then we shall be unable to see self and circumstances and hindrances because of the glory of that light and because of the city we have so recently been learning about, whose light is the Glory of God and of the Lamb (Acts xxii, 11; Rev. xxi, 23).

BROADWAY, NEW YORK, A COSMOPOLITAN THOROUGHFARE

Gaiety, Wealth and Luxury Mingle There With Misery, Want and Despair

(New York Herald.) Through the part which is Broadway, between Eleventh and Forty-second streets, there flows each night in the space of a single hour a stream of life in which are cast together the antipodes of humanity and all the shadings between.

The jumble of sounds which comes to the listener in an office high above the street at midnight is a chromatic scale of emotions. The master fingers of the spirit of Broadway are playing upon love and hate, greed and generosity, gaiety and sadness, hope and despair.

Leave your sky high office near Forty-second street and walk into the street just before midnight. The crowds are hurrying from the theatre and the opera to supper. They have money to spend and they spend it. If it is at the cost of reckless dissipation, ruined complexions and jangling nerves, what matter? It is the thing to do. Thousands of others do it. We must do it.

Smug, heavy faces, of overfed pleasure seekers peer through the windows of one limousine. In the next machine by its dim lights you can see delicate features, clear, intelligent eyes, the acme of refinement and beauty.

The Contrasting Types At one side of you a young man with a slurred voice is calling for his motor car and helping into it a tired-looking girl who might be his sister. At the other elbow a clean-cut, vigorous young fellow is jangling two dimes in his pocket. It is enough to get his "girl" home by the subway, and he can then ride home himself.

But no matter what is in their pockets, no matter what they wear, their quest is the same—pleasure. One is not apt to look for paths in this glittering, chattering, smug throng, but see that man and woman standing by the curb among the many who nightly watch the expensively dressed men and women pour from the Metropolitan opera house into their warm, luxurious motor cars.

He is straight, rugged, pleasant looking eyes clear but touched by something that is more tenderness than sadness. She clings to his arm as though she were afraid the gay stream might sweep her away with it. Her clothes were made two years ago. There is nothing of the showy about them. Her face tells of longings suppressed, of sacrifices made.

The man passes his hand once across his eyes. "Let's go, Mary," he says. "I like to look at it, and I don't. You still would have been part of it—if I hadn't slipped just that once."

Setting Off the High Lights "Do you think I want to be part of it again?" she answers. "Do you know, Dave, I wonder if we would have kept each other if we had kept that. I won't."

And they stroll away, elbow to elbow. It makes a bit of that contrast which makes Broadway the living Broadway. It is a touch of the pathetic, but it is not gruesome. It sets off the high lights of the gayest, saddest in the world.

Sandwiched in between the restaurants where all is glamor and music, food and wine, we pass bakeries and confectioners' shops where hundreds from the balconies and galleries are enjoying ice cream soda, coffee, cake and what not with a zest that cannot be surpassed by any of the boxholders who have sought the more luxurious place.

At almost every corner you meet orators. Some are mounted on the classic soap box, others are perched on the seats of motor cars, some have little stands built for them, occasionally one harranous over the tail-board of a wagon, although wagons are more or less out of fashion these days.

All of these enthusiasts have some thing different to talk about, but each one of them is trying to change things. The theme of the majority of them is discontent.

Two blocks south, Greely square is a popular rendezvous for enamored young folks from the apartments in Seventh and Eighth avenues who wish to be free from the prying eyes of derisive neighbors. Seventh avenue is in some respects a village street. You can't get away with anything without everybody else knowing about it. So in the shifting scenes of Broadway we come upon a veritable lovers lane bounded on one side by trolley rails and on the other by the temporary subway construction.

New York might be a deserted village judging from the next few blocks before we reach Fourteenth street, where, in a different key, the same piece is being played as at Forty-second street. The motion picture houses and the dance halls are giving up their crowds of merry-makers. Street vendors are reaping modest fortunes in pennies and nickels, and the restaurants are doing a big business.

Scenes Change Sharply You will hear considerable German spoken in the crowd because there are places in Fourteenth St. where the best of German cooking and in peace times the best of German beer may be had. The motor car and the bus are the favorite vehicles in this district, as is the taxicab in the Fort. For a dollar or two you may have as much fun in Fourteenth St. as can be had for $10 or $12 further up Broadway. Sailors and soldiers are in evidence and pretty girls from the east side who find energy and inclination for amusement after a long day's work in the tailoring and millinery shops of the district.

Grand Trunk Commissary Car.

When the full account is written of Canada's participation in the war there will be no more interesting chapter than that dealing with the methods employed in transporting this great army of men from the training areas to the seaboard, over distances, in many instances, of thousands of miles, and thence from our Atlantic ports to the English camps and the trenches of Flanders and France. One side of this work which stands out most clearly is the use of the Military dining car which has been specially created in Canada to provide our soldiers with meals while on their long railway journey. The dining car in the world ever faced the problem of carrying over so great a distance by rail so many men and to meet the nature houses and the dance halls are giving up their crowds of merry-makers. Street vendors are reaping modest fortunes in pennies and nickels, and the restaurants are doing a big business.

line apparatus and sixty-foot refrigerator space and stero-room capacity for many tons of provisions. Eight cooks work in it without confusion, while a passageway running the whole length of the car allows the military waiters to pass on their way to and from the coaches. The movement of a battalion (two of these cars are used, the military special being run, as a rule, in two sections. The commissary car is placed in the centre of the train in order that it is easy of access from all the coaches. When a battalion enters the Commissary Department is always the subject of keen interest among the men in the dining car. The commissary car is usually in charge of a specially chosen steward. The system of service is explained to the soldiers by the steward at the first meal on the train. The non-commissioned officer in each coach appoints his own waiters. Usually a minute man of the head of the watch reaches the head of the train and the last car walk through the commissary. The cooks have been preparing for hours and everything is ready and piping hot. Along the great counter is spread the various portions of the meal. It is breakfast time and the morning menu calls for oatmeal porridge, meats, potatoes, bread and butter, jam and coffee. Two men take the big trays of meats and potatoes, another the bread, already sliced and buttered another the porridge, another the coffee and so to the end. As soon as the first two coaches have been supplied two more squads of waiters arrive until all are served. Within fifteen minutes without fuss or favor means organization and that is the secret of this railway's method of handling the problem. The rule is that every man shall be amply supplied and nothing delights the cook more than to see boys relish some favorite dish so well that they come back for "more." Three fine meals a day make happy holidays on the long rail journeys. The appreciation of the officers and men for the service given makes the hard work necessary in carrying out the task a pleasure to the men concerned.

NO SECOND CHANCE SAYS SUNDAY

The Whirlwind Evangelist Hands Out Some Home Truths in Boston Billy Sunday is conducting a series of revival meetings in Boston, and the Herald of that city publishes the following account of one of his services: "There is no second chance for the sinner!" preached Billy Sunday in the tabernacle last night. "And you've got a lot of brass, old man, you've got a lot of cheek, to ask a second chance when you wouldn't take what was offered you here!"

Irish No Longer Rule Baseball

In the olden times when the baseball gods Went out to report the games, The task was light for the ancient Jeds— No trouble at all with the names. A crack of the bat, a flurry of legs. And he wrote of a lightning play: "Our boys went out on a double, Riley to Burke to Shay."

Prospects For Hockey

The prospects for a junior hockey team in this city during the winter are exceedingly bright at the present time, the interest already displayed in spite of the poor weather conditions, being very encouraging. Thursday a practice was held at the Alfred St. rink, thirteen candidates for positions turning out. The ice was too soft for fast work, but a good workout was given to the players. Manager "Ed" Good, stated this morning, that there were more applicants for places on the team than ever before, and that with good ice, there was absolutely no doubt but that the best team could be rounded up, to represent the city, in the history of hockey in Brantford. Those who were present at the rink and took part in the practice, were Lloyd Booth, J. Hurley, Jack Adams, Art Kelly, W. Carruth, R. Bennett, T. Hayes, J. Whitaker, T. McHutchison, H. Stewart, A. Forrester, N. Gillan, while there have been others, who are desirous of playing with the juniors, but were unable to turn out last night.

EDUCATIONALIST DEAD

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 5.—Word has been received of the death at Pasadena, California, of G. W. Johnson, a widely known educationalist, formerly headmaster of Upper Canada College, Toronto, and for many years principal of the Central school here when such distinguished pupils as Sir John Gribble were in attendance. The remains will be brought here.

MODIFIED MATRICULATION

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—The question of modified matriculation requirements, which has been the ground for much sharp discussion among local educationalists for some months past was settled for the time being yesterday afternoon, when, by a vote of 18 to 16, the University Council decided to retain the present two language standard of entrance to the University.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Two Russian priests have begun work among their fellow-countrymen in the city of Halifax, Dr. V. E. Harris, of the Anglican clergy, co-operating with them.

Here's Holiday Sense! The day of Yuletide trinkets—that never are used, is gone forever. Now it's practical giving—but, of course, it must not be commonplace. Broadbent would suggest for the men some of the following Jaeger specialties: Jaeger Underwear, Jaeger Sweater Coats, Jaeger Dressing Gowns or House Coats, Jaeger Sox, Jaeger Rugs, Jaeger Wool Taffeta Shirts. Then you'll find nothing more acceptable than the special "Ely Ties" that we have selected for Christmas—not sold elsewhere in Brantford. There's not a pattern that the best dressed man in Brantford would not be proud to wear. THAT'S SAFETY FIRST FOR YOU. Our store is laden with the kind of goods that men are known to like—May we show "YOU" BROADBENT Tailor and Haberdasher—4 Market St Agents for Jaeger's Specialties, Ely's Neckwear, Artex Cellular Underwear. See Broadbent for your Furnishing needs.
