HOME LESSONS.

The following is the Editorial of the January number of the N.T.A.
Journal, published by the Newfoundland Teachers' Association. The editor has the happy faculty of seeing both sides of the question, but there seems no doubt that on the whole he realizes that Home Lessons as we know them, are detrimental to the physical well-being of the child.

I question the fact that "objections of agents to Home Lessons are at the present time not very general," but agree with him that "public opinion is slow in its operations." The fact tends to minimise the force of the objection. I should like very much a full-length explanation of the writer's idea of a "central organization" that could deal with matters of general policy and their merits, also what is meant by "those who are thirtled to our course are thwarted, etc." Pitiful "Gladstone minds" are not needed in all cases, yet there would be fewer "dull pupils" if our system of education did not deal with scholars in a mass and expect all to reach the same standard. Dull pupils are a niche somewhere, so let us help them to find it. However, I am glad that this editorial has been written and also glad to find that teachers, as well as scholars and parents will welcome the time when Home Lessons are abolished. There is no feeling that we have reached a perfect educational system or that we should not progress in the coming fifty years as much as we have during the last fifty years. The child has no rights of its own as a subject of the Crown when Queen Victoria saw to the throne; but, before the Queen died she had set her signature to over one hundred.

If eyesight, nervous system, or disposition of a child suffers on account of Home Lessons, then the child has a right to be protected from them; as the girls and boys in the old times were rescued by law from working in mines under revolting conditions.

It is obvious that non-teachers, whose minds are engrossed chiefly with their own work, do not really know as much about the matter as we do ourselves, especially those of us who have children of our own attending school. We admit, nevertheless, that the opinions of thoughtful persons outside the profession cannot be put altogether on one side. In this connection we must not forget that some of the leading educational reformers of the past were men who had had no experience in conducting class-work, and any person of the present day who can support his opinions by sound reasoning deserves a hearing.

What is rather irritating, however, is to hear folk, in debating a question about which they have not had the opportunity to learn a great deal, maintaining the position that they know all about the matter, and even going to the extent of pronouncing decisions from which they will not allow the right of appeal.

There are men in this country, engaged in other walks of life, who are fully convinced that if they were engaged in teaching for a few years they would accomplish wonders.
Their personalities, their methods, and systems, would result in developing, elevating and inspiring youth to such a marvellous degree, that we should, in a generation or two, have a race of "supermen" who would be the embodiment of all the virtues.
Such a mixture of confidence and ignorance should not surprise anyone who has given the least attention to the study of human nature. We all have a touch of it. There are teachers, even, who would be quite willing to go out and put the world in order, if it were not for the fact that our educational fabric would speedily crumble to the dust if they were to resign; and, to take another illustration, if some of our outport friends could visit the lobby of the General Post Office occasionally, they would hear such military strategy unfolded as would put the British troops in Berlin almost without the Germans knowing anything about it.

However, we must not digress further. In considering the question of Home Lessons, we should think only of their effect upon the child. Supposed advantages of the present system to the teacher, and the inconvenience to the home, are beside the question. If Home Work is held to be a real gain to the child, there can be no sound objection to it. If, on the other hand, the advantage to the child in one direction is offset by disadvantages to him in other directions, Home Lessons should be abolished.

Everyone will admit, presumably, that without evening study a student could not advance in his ordinary school work at the same rate that he does at present, but it may well be asked if this extra rate of advancement is being secured at the expense of the child's physical well-being.
For instance, what is the effect of Home Lessons upon the nerves, the eyesight, the disposition? Does nature intend that a child below the age of twelve years, say, should spend his evening hours in study, or does she rather demand that he spend it in leisure and play? In short, does the average boy, after ten years at school, with Home Lessons in addition, grow up to be a better all-round man than he would be if Home Work were abolished? Does he become a citizen of greater benefit to the State? Some say "Yes," decidedly; others say "No," emphatically. It would be difficult to decide such questions by actual tests, but our own opinion is that evening studies constitute a more serious strain to children than we imagine, especially to those who try to make up for backwardness at school by an extra application of energy at home. We repeat that without Home Lessons progress at school would be necessarily slower than it is now, but we fear that while the schools are thus trying to increase certain powers of the child, Nature is being interfered with in the developing of other powers of the highest importance.

Let us reflect for a moment upon just one aspect of the question. The number of school children wearing spectacles to-day is greater than it was in the boyhood days of our fathers. Surely this is a matter that should arrest our attention. What is the cause of it? Do we blame the opticians, or do we explain it as the result of a natural degeneracy for which we are in no sense to blame?
Must all Newfoundlanders go blind before we begin to look for the causes of weak-sightedness? Are Home Lessons a strain upon the eyesight?
If so, should they be discontinued?
Do we believe the doctors who tell us that the frequent attendance of chil-
harmful to the eyesight? If so what is our duty in the matter, and when
are we going to do it?

Since there appears to be a wide divergence of opinion upon the question of Home Work, how long are the public to wait before they are told definitely whether evening lessons are in the true interests of their children or not? Who is there among the whole public capable of weighing the argument on both sides, and giving a decision that would allay our doubts and fears? Whose business is it to face the question? This, to our mind, is the real question. If we could, at the present moment, bring before us a dozen of the best minds of this community, and ask each of them for an answer to the last question, we should not expect anything approaching unanimity in their replies.
In this, as in many other things, we lack the authority of a central organization that could deal with matters of general policy upon their merits, and save us from a great deal of the halting and side-tracking that are now dissipating a part of our energies. Our aims are now indefinite, our policy uncertain. Those who are best fitted to direct our course are thwarted at every turn by forces we are unable to withstand or remove. We are "out of step" with each other, and so long as we try to get along without a voice of authority, we shall often find ourselves "forming fours" when we should be "presenting arms."

The objections of parents to Home Lessons are at the present time not very general, and until there is fairly general agreement upon the matter, the "status quo" will probably not be disturbed. In a democratic country, such as this, public opinion is the one and only force that can secure reforms of any sort, and among people of British temperament, public opinion is usually a bit slow in its operations.
Another point not to be overlooked is the fact that those parents who have already decided against evening lessons, seem to have done so chiefly because the study of such lessons frequently disturbs the social arrangements of the family. They talk of the "bother" in hearing spelling, and the "nuisance" of having to listen to children reciting poetry, &c. Such objections are based rather upon selfish motives. They result from the ever-increasing tendency of the home to throw the whole responsibility of the child's education upon the school.
Some parents openly state that as they are paying the teachers to educate their children, they do not see the necessity of any further inconvenience to themselves. They take the attitude that because their children have Home Lessons to prepare, the teacher is neglecting to do the work for the performance of which he is being paid. Such statements are absurd. Home Lessons are the bane of a teacher's life, the source of all his worries. He sets such lessons, and makes the best use he can of them, simply because the majority of parents demand them. If any school in the country were at this moment to abolish evening study, there would be an immediate outcry among the supporters of that school against such a policy. It is probable, nevertheless, that if we had an educational body invested with power to demand for the whole Colony a law against prescribing Home Work for children under twelve years of age, say, the public would accept such a measure.

We feel, however, that the teachers of the country cannot altogether escape censure in connection with Home Lessons. During the past decade or two the amount of evening work prescribed for pupils has gradually increased, until it has now become a sort of nightmare to the majority of children. For this increase teachers must bear the chief responsibility.
Under all circumstances a teacher must ever regard it as a sacred duty to see that he does not overtax the minds of the children committed to his care. If by overwork he impairs the faculties of the child, he destroys that which it is his duty to assist in developing.

We wish to point out to our readers, in conclusion, that in writing these brief notes, we do not assume to possess a superior knowledge of actual conditions to that of the humblest member of our ranks. Our object is simply to recall to the minds of our co-workers matters over which they have often meditated ere this.
We ask them to think over the question again, and to resolve, each for himself, that the evening tasks prescribed shall always be such as can be thoroughly mastered by the pupils without undue exertion. Perhaps, as teachers we are doing some things we ought not to be doing. If we are, it is not because we don't know what ought to be done, but rather because we are making a strenuous effort to meet the demands of an insatiable public. In all our efforts let us first and foremost deal justly with the children. They are our especial charge. Let it be granted that in educational affairs the public in general don't know what they want. So long as the law of heredity remains in operation, and children come to us with but the brains of their fathers, we shall be unable to give some of those fathers what they think they ought to get. If we could give a Glad-stonian mind to every dull pupil that comes to our schools, we should, perhaps, convince the public that we are conscientiously striving to do our duty.

Let us reflect for a moment upon
number of school children wearing
was in the boyhood days of our fa-
the cause of it? Do we blame the op-
which we are in no sense to blame?
Must all Newfoundlanders go blind
Lessons a strain upon the eyesight?
If so, should they be discontinued?
Do we believe the doctors who tell us
are we going to do it?

Since there appears to be a wide

The Rotary Plow.

The rotary plow which the R. N. Co. have been using now about 12 years has shown a good bit of service since placed on the road, and Canadians who have seen the plow at work clearing the heavy snow and ice from the rails, say that no better machine is in use throughout the Dominion.

Patriotism of I.C.R.

A gentleman in the city received a letter yesterday from Chief Clerk Stewart of the C. R. Foster Office in Sydney, C. B., saying that many of the clerks from that office, besides employees in general from there and elsewhere had enlisted in Canadian troops, and that at the time of writing the office was really short handed.

Gold Saved in Africa.

The gold mining operations of the Union of South Africa were its salvation during the recent critical period of history, according to a recently issued report. By arrangement between the Imperial and Union Governments the continued production of gold was assured after the outbreak of war even at times when the export of the product could not be carried on with safety.

An Inspiring Life Document.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Some weeks ago a correspondent asked me if I could tell him how a man with a family of six could live on a wage less than ten dollars a week.

I didn't see how it could be done, and passed the problem on to my reader friends. In answer I had the following letter. I publish it not because I am thereby persuaded that less than ten dollars a week is a living wage for a family, but because the splendid courage of its writer is so inspiring.

"You ask if it is possible for a family of six to live on less than ten dollars a week. No doubt there are many families living this winter on this amount or less, who would neither ask nor accept charity.

How One Woman Liven on Less Than Ten Dollars a Week.

"Since coming here, eighteen months ago, I have found it necessary to reduce living to the lowest possible notch and yet try to give my family of five a nourishing, well-balanced ration. If one has been forehand during the summer months when fruits are cheap and other expenses are less, the storeroom should be well stocked with fruits and jellies and canned tomatoes. I had about one hundred quarts to begin the winter. So for the months of September, October and November my grocery bill, including meat and milk, never exceeded twenty-two dollars.

Rent, including water, was $8; light, 80 cents, and gas, which I used only to cook with, $1.80. This gives you a total of $32.50. This you have a balance of $6.40 for carfare and other expenses.

Her Household Budget.

"It cannot be done without careful planning. I buy in quantities of most things. My bill is something like this: Potatoes, $2.25; flour, $1.90; butter (three pounds a week), $4.20; meat, $2; ham or bacon, $2; canned milk (one and one half dozen), $1.35; coffee (three-pound can), $1; sugar, $1; cereals, $1; ten pounds lard substitute, $1.35; head rice, 25 cents; white beans, 25 cents; pink beans, 25 cents; spaghetti, 25 cents; fresh vegetables and eggs, $2.

"I have made no entry for clothes, but that is a story alone. However, I've managed; the family are all warmly and neatly dressed at all times.

They Find Plenty of Pleasures That Cost Nothing.

"Do we have any pleasures? Yes, many. The outdoors is all free. We can take long walks and enjoy the sunshine, flowers and scenery. We can visit the 'beach' and try to carry some of the outdoors to them. We can always help those less fortunate than ourselves, if it be only a kindly word or a day helping with the children. The Public Library gives us plenty of good reading and the daily newspaper is our only luxury. There are a few public meetings and lectures that we can enjoy, though most of the 'free things' have the 'aliver offering' clause, and as we still retain our original pride and independence, we cannot attend when not able to donate something.

"We can be thankful that God has given us health and strength to bear these times and keep our heads above water. With faith in a Heavenly Father, faith in ourselves and faith that the future has something bright behind the present dark clouds, we shall struggle along with the great army about us, and not ask or accept charity from anyone. Just give us a chance to work at a living wage and life will be 'one glad, sweet song.'"

"Two Zeppelins were signalled at 10.25 o'clock at night, by an artillery officer, in a listening post in the first line trenches of the Argonne. The night was clear and the wind moderate. The officer could not see the airships, but he heard the noise of their engines and telephoned to the Battery Base, whence the news was forwarded to the Army Corps Headquarters. All the batteries of the district were at once on the alert and within five minutes searchlights were sweeping the heavens in all directions.

"The Zeppelins were first sighted by an officer commanding a battery of 75 millimetre guns. The nearest was then about two miles off, flying at an altitude of about 5,000 feet and rising rapidly. The second Zeppelin was some three miles behind the first. The first officer was unable to get the elevation necessary to hit the airship, but he managed to give the exact position to the searchlight operators. From that moment until it was destroyed, the first dirigible was never left to view and the searchlights never left it. As it was moving against the wind, its progress was relatively slow.

Autos in Pursuit.

"As soon as the warning reached Revinny, five autos, with searchlights and with special anti-aircraft guns manned by naval gunners, started in pursuit. These guns throw a shell which is expressly designed to explode on contact with the aluminium-painted covering of the Zeppelins and to burst into flames once it is inside. The guns on the moving autos opened fire as soon as they came within range. A shell burst just behind the Zeppelin, throwing it into strong relief, and immediately the gunners seized their opportunity. Another shell passed over the target, but the next of the inflammable type, hit the mark squarely, about 75 feet from the stern. There was a shout of triumph from the Frenchmen, as the shell appeared to go through the body of the airship and to adhere to the right side of the framework which it set afire. A few seconds later two other shells went through the rear of the car, badly damaging the steering and elevating mechanisms.

"For an instant nothing seemed to happen and then a thin red line crept along the side of the Zeppelin, which shone with a bright ruddy glow, as the flames spread and moved upwards. No explosion was heard as the Zeppelin began to fall. The great mass, now blazing more and more fiercely, descended slowly, while burning fragments of the cover fluttered away in the wind, and all the onlookers expressed surprise that the airship took so long to come down.

Bombs Exploded.

"The cargo of bombs, which there is reason to believe were to have been dropped on the inhabitants of Paris, exploded with a terrific roar as the Zeppelin struck the ground. Fragments of its car were hurled over 2,000 feet away and the remainder of the huge frame work collapsed in a heap, the fire continuing to burn for several hours.

"The second Zeppelin, which had witnessed the disaster to its companion, turned tail and hurried back to the German lines."

"The gun crew which fired the shot that proved fatal to the Zeppelin will receive prizes amounting to 15,000 francs, 10,000 francs being awarded by a leading Paris newspaper and 5,000 by Marquis Ornano. Checks for these sums have already been sent to the Minister of War for distribution.

Days of Rheumatism Now Over!

Wonderful Miracles Worked by "Nerviline"

Its Storage Power is the Marvel of Thousands It Has Cured.

You will welcome the good news that "Nerviline" rapidly relieves the most excruciating pains.

Nerviline penetrates deeply into the tissue, and possesses pain-subduing power at least five times greater than anything heretofore discovered. Its curative influence upon rheumatic pains is really wonderful.

Nerviline is offered to the people of this community under a positive guarantee of its reliability.

As a curative agent of severest pain, every rheumatic should test this great remedy.

Rheumatism is the greatest test Nerviline has to meet. It cures pains, big and little, but to rheumatics especially it is a great blessing. Just as it is to those who suffer from neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, stiffness or enlarged joints.

Remember this: There is nothing harmful in Nerviline.

You can use it freely on your children for their aches and pains. It is dependable, reliable, safe. Nothing to equal good old Nerviline as a general family remedy.

Get the large 50 cent bottle. It is far more economical than the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

The writer dates the story from July 30, 1914. After describing how, on August 2 at 11 p.m. when at Messina, the admiral announced to the crew that England had declared war, the writer says that the crew became quiet.

At midday August 6 the admiral issued an order that the Goeben and the Breslau were to put to sea on a course for the Adriatic, but were later to veer round and steer for Cape Matapan. Soon after leaving the harbor an English cruiser of the Weymouth class, alleged to be the Gloucester, appeared on the horizon. The English cruiser was emitting signals in three groups, and wireless receivers finally deciphered the message as follows:

"Goeben making for Adriatic."

At 10 o'clock in the evening came an order from the bridge: "Right about starboard. Make for Cape Matapan."

A watching British cruiser saw the manoeuvre, but before it could send out wireless news that the Germans were making for the east the following order flashed out from the admiral:

"Jam the wireless. Jam it like the devil."

The Goeben operators then began a work of confusion. Wireless waves broke in upon wireless waves and sound interrupted sound for two solid hours. During all that time the British fleet lay securely off Malta and the Straits of Otranto. The British might have been able, after a great delay, to understand a word or two, but in those critical hours the Germans broke through.

If Your Throat is Husky, Catarrh May be Starting

A weak or irritated throat is the first step towards Catarrh. Everything depends on your remedy. A cough mixture slips quickly over the weak spots, drops into the stomach and does little but harm digestion. It's altogether different with Catarrhozone—it cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrhozone, breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen and restore the weak throat tissues. You'll never have colds or coughs. Great trouble and catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrhozone. Get the large dollar outfit which includes the inhaler, it lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure. Smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c., sold everywhere.

THINK TWICE

Think twice before you mail the note in which you give your anger vent, in which you recklessly devote yourself to skinning some poor gent. For doubtless when your anger cools, you'll kick your spine up through your hat, and say, "I was the prince of fools to send a man such a note as that!" Think twice before you pass along the scandal that you heard last night; you may do some good man a wrong that years of effort can't set right. And though the story true may seem, why rob a neighbor of his goat? From your own eye remove the beam, before you reach for your neighbor's mote. Think twice before you jaw your wife; there was a time, some years ago, when you declared you'd make her life as cheerful as a picture show. Alas, she took you at your word, as damsels do, and always did; and all her married years she's heard her husband yawning through his lid. Think twice before you do a thing your soul refuses to endorse; for every wicked act will bring the certain penalty, remorse!

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

UP D. R. McLEOD'S DISEASE.

Novi Scotia Man Tells How He is Enjoying All His Health and Vigor.

West, Tarbot, Victoria Co., Feb. 29th. (Special)—"You're healthy and full of my old-time vigor. This was the answer of Dr. Leod, a prominent resident in place, to a question regarding present health. Everybody knows that last winter Mr. Leod was a severe sufferer from disease. And he is most enthusiastic to the cause of his cure.

"I used seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills," he says, "and I have been greatly benefited. I am entirely cured of my symptom of kidney disease."

The reason people talk so much about Dodd's Kidney Pills is that they make them well. Acting on the kidneys they purify the organs in condition to strain impurities out of the blood, make pure blood carried to all parts of the body. And people who are healthy all over are always enthusiastic.

Copra From Queensland

Coconut cultivation, though small industry in Queensland, is rapidly extending. Herberto it is supposed that copra from Queensland did not contain enough of commercial value, but the examination of a sample of copra from these nuts at the Imperial has now established that the quality is normal and the copra is good, and brokers state that the nuts would be readily sold in this country at good prices. It is interesting to note that before the outbreak of the copra shipped from Ceylon, India and elsewhere crashed in Germany and France, and representations on this subject were made by the Imperial on the outbreak of war to the crushing firms in the United Kingdom some of whom have now started work copra, with the result that is a new and good market for the product in this country, which is rapidly expanding when the new factories building start work.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CLEARED UP D. R. McLEOD'S KIDNEY DISEASE.

Nova Scotia Man Tells How and Why He is Enjoying All His Old-time Health and Vigor.

West Tarbot, Victoria Co., N. S., Feb. 29th. (Special).—"Yes, I feel healthy and full of my old-time vigor." This was the answer of Dan R. McLeod, a prominent resident of this place, to a question regarding his present health. Everybody here knows that last winter Mr. McLeod was a severe sufferer from kidney disease. And he is most emphatic as to the cause of his cure.

"I used seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills," he says, "and not only have I been greatly benefited by their use, but I am entirely cured of every symptom of kidney disease."

Copra From Queensland.

Coconut cultivation, though still a small industry in Queensland, is rapidly extending. Hitherto it has been supposed that copra from Queensland concerns did not contain enough oil to be of commercial value, but the examination of a sample of copra from these nuts at the Imperial Institute has now established that the oil content is normal and the copra if good quality, and brokers state that shipments would be readily saleable in this country at good prices. It is interesting to note that before the war the bulk of the copra shipped to Europe from Ceylon, India and elsewhere was crushed in Germany and France. Urgent representations on this subject were made by the Imperial Institute on the outbreak of war to the oil-seed crushing firms in the United Kingdom, some of whom have now started to work copra, with the result that there is a new and good market for the product in this country, which is likely to expand when the new factories now building start work.

A Child's Tongue Shows if Liver or Bowels Are Active

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, give fruit laxative at once.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue. Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Stealing Wood on Private Property.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Reading your paper of Friday last, an item appeared headed "Back to the Past." The old custom of citizens taking to the woods; and one of the other daily papers contained an item referring to the same matter and said that they (the wood haulers) visited crown lands to obtain their wood supply. Now it is a good thing to encourage people in the way of thrift and industry but your paper on Saturday last contained another item headed "Without the Law," where persons owning country residences have been invaded, and mentions Mr. Hodder's estate better known as Lindberg Castle. As I have already said it is good to encourage people in the way of thrift, but in a case of intruding on private property they certainly should be condemned and severely punished so far as the law will allow. The property referred to above was bought by an old gentleman named Hodder who had two sons (if I am not misinformed); one of them went to the United States and unfortunately was accidentally killed, and the old gentleman died about a year after his son's death, and I have been given to understand the property was divided up for sale, and if this wood cutting business is allowed to go on much longer the place will soon be denuded of its beauty, and certainly will be valueless. It was certainly one of the most beautiful places in the country, but if this state of things are allowed to go on its value will be lost. The parties who are guilty of this kind of work mostly enter by the road leading from Portugal Cove Road so that they will not be so much noticed by the public who reside in that locality. I contend it is nothing short of barefaced robbery, and as an illustration of that kind we have a case in police circles to-day where a person is charged with entering private residences and taking things that doesn't belong to them, and I think that the matter of entering on private property and taking the wood therefrom is just as liable for punishment as any other case of robbery. If there is no one here to look after this estate, I believe the law should take a hand in the matter and punish the guilty parties. Trusting I have not transgressed too much on your valuable space.

I remain, yours sincerely,
M. PROTECTION.

Letter From Sergt. Wm. Phelan.

Amongst the latest English mail to hand was a letter from Newton Park School, Ayr, notifying that Willie Phelan, who left here as a private with F Company, had won rapid promotion since he went to Ayr and recently received the rank of Sergeant. He had recovered from an attack of measles, but at time of writing was about to leave for St. Hill Hospital to be operated on for varicose veins in the left leg. He says quite a crowd of the boys are back from the front and another draft will be leaving here in a couple of days. The officers going are: Capt. Ledingham, Capt. Pippy, Adj. Robertson, Lieuts. Hendell, Keegan and W. Ayre. I certainly would like to be going with this draft.

Shipwrecked Crew Returning.

The shipwrecked crews of the ill-fated vessels Mabel D. Hines and Idalia are coming on the Red Cross liner Stepano and will arrive in New York today. The former vessel was abandoned in a sinking condition in mid-ocean and her crew rescued by the Dutch steamer Alphard and brought into New York. The Idalia's crew, excepting the cook, who was washed overboard and drowned, were taken off by a passing steamer near the Western Islands and taken into Galveston, Texas.

Later.

A well-known Scottish architect was travelling in Palestine recently when news reached him of an addition to his family circle. The happy father immediately provided himself with some water from the Jordan to carry home for the christening of the infant and returned to Scotland. On the Sunday appointed for the ceremony he duly presented himself at the church, and sought out the beadle in order to hand over the precious flask from his pocket, but the beadle held up a warning-hand and came nearer to whisper: "No the noo, sir, no the noo! Maybe after the kir's oat!"

Fads and Fashions.

Some-coats cover the entire dress. Metal laces continue to be favorites. Platings are very much used as decoration. Tricornees are favored among spring hats. Afternoon dresses mostly have high collars. Lingerie collars are finished with black cravat bows. Navy and beige are favorite colors for street suits. Even muffs, in London, are being made of glazed kid. Collars are apt to cascade into little pointed capes. Large flower aprays and scrolls adorn the new veils. Both skirts and coats of the new spring suits are full. Tailored suits have many boleros and short wide skirts. Spring suits are made of serge, gabardine and taffeta. Mignonne green is seen used with a light beige color. A few styles of button-in-the-back waists are being shown. Bows and floating ends are seen on some of the new hats. Sometimes both the coat and skirt of a suit are box pleated. Pretty nearly every jacket one sees ripples below the waist. Only fine linen will stand continual laundry work in blouses.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTEMER Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

WARNING!

It has been brought to our notice that some dealers are using

Carr's Biscuit Tins

to assist them in selling cheap low grade Biscuits of other manufacture. While we appreciate the compliment, we trust that the practice will be stopped at once, and we ask the general public to insist on getting "CARR'S" Biscuits. Manufactured by Carr & Co., the oldest Biscuit House under the Union Jack.
