Several days before he died Gen. Grant wrete to Dr. Douglass:

I feel sorry at the prospect of living through the summer and fall in the condition I am in.

I do not think I can, but I may, except that I do not gather strength. I feel quite as well from day to day as I have done heretofore, but I am losing strength; I feel it more in the but I am losing strength; I feel it more in the land living to move about than in any other way, in rather in the lack of a desire to try to move. "When I had read that," said Dr. Douglass, "I turned to the general and tried to cheer him by telling him of the apparently improved condition of his throat and neck, to which in reply he again wrote":

of the Halifax battalion to-night was of the most enthusiastic and joyous description. The train bearing them reached the city at a quarter to 8. At the exhibition building, where the formal reception was to have been held, the crowd made an impetuous rush and a number of women were found to have fainted and a couple of women and several children had limbs broken, but none are reported fatally injured. The building was so crowded and the confusion so great that nothing was done excepting to give the men a collation. All in the battalion speak very highly of their welcome along the route in the upper provinces, referring particularly to that of Sarnia, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton.

He Was Too Long Away. OTTAWA, July 24.-A man who left Ottawa some eighteen years ago for fortune, returned the other day to find his fortune, returned the other day to find his wife, to whom he had never written during his absence, remarried and living in paceful ignorance of his still being in the land of the living. It appears that after waiting for some years for some communication from her husband the lady gave him up for dead, and after mourning his supposed demise for a time was induced to reenter the married state. It is understood that the first husband is content to allow matters to remain as they were before his arrival here so far as his wife is concerned, provided his son and daughter will live with him, which however they are not willing to do.

The Ninth at Torente.

From the Journal de Quebec.

The ovation received at Toronto by the 9th Battalion has a considerable signification. It is evident that race prejudices are vanishing, and the more we intermingle the more-fairly will we deal with each other. Colonel Amyot's speech pronounced in English was a new proof of our advancement. The welcome which was tendered him at Toronto assuredly indicates an astonishing change in opinion.

A "find" of a very novel and remarkable obaracter took place in the West Retford mine, at Tinsley Park, on Wednesday last. A coal getter named Joseph Booth of Darnall was engaged in the Barnaley seam at a distance of 320 yards from the surface undermining the coal for the purpose of bringing it down. While working with his hand underneath the coal to remove the dust he had loosened with his pick he felt something so unusual that he proceeded with more care. In a few minutes a lump of coal came away, and lying imbedded in it was a live toad. The sides of its little bed were perfectly smooth, and as follows:

LEBREWS OF NORTHERN CAUCASUS, A HOME DRUGGIST

From the London Times. The Kaukas gives the following f a colony of Jews called Dagh Toho font, who live in the mountains northern Caucasus: "The Dogh Tohoufont live in several small but distinct communities in the provinces of Daghestan, Tered and Kouban. They say that they are the descendants of Persian Jews who arrived in Daghestan in the 15th century, and who established themselves some time later among the Koumyks, whose princes greatly valued their commercial aptitude and their skill in the cultivation of madder, rice and the vine. Considerably before the Russian conquest of the Caucasus the Jows were established at the acul of Andreievsky, on the plateau of Koumyk, and it was after this that they came into the Terek, where they settled in a place named Portytch, between the present stanitzas of Schelkazavodskala and Stehedrinskaia. With the view of more successfully resisting the attacks of the mountaineers, they were then installed in the aculs Andreievsky. Taschketchi, Kizil-Yurt. and others, which they occupy at the present day. They number about 500 families. They speak different dialects of the Circassian mountaineers, but thay prefer writing and talking the language of Farsistan, which they occupy at the present day. They number about 500 families. They speak different dialects of the Circassian mountaineers, but thay prefer writing and talking the language of Farsistan, which they brought with them from Persia. Their Talmud is translated into that language. They have nothing in common with Russian Jews except their religion, which, however, possesses some distinctive features. Their rabbis are subordinate to the chief rabbi of Derband. The Dagh Tchoufont are engaged in both commerce and agriculture. They were the first mountaineers of the Terek to visit the towns and distant fars of Russia, and their example has much contributed to the industrial development of the mountaineers. At the present time they enjoy the same rights as the other Circassians—they can possess lands and pay equal taxes with the rest."

Mr. G. Morgan, editor Maple Leaf, Port Dover, says: Maple Lear, Port Bover, says:

"Having known Mr. Cluthe for several years, and used his instruments, I have no hesitation in saying that his work is far superior in every respect to any of the instruments of the best makers in New York. Philadelphia or Indianapoils, for whichmuch higher charges are made. Mr. Cluthe is an adept and enthusiast in his business, and for ease of fit and adaptability for the purpose designed, his superior in America is hard to find. As an instrument maker and fitter I can most cordially recommend him to any unfortunately in need of his services. He is thoroughly homest and reliable, and will do what he says."

Another Murderous Revelation.

—Toronto is once more the talk of the dominion, and the Canadian Harness company, 104 Front street, opposite hay market, is the cause; and no wonder. They are selling a $35 harness for $18. The people are wild to think they have been paying $10 to $15 more for, a set of harness than it is necessary. They must be alive to the fact now, for the above house is selling about 40 set per week. They make an affidavit that they use nothing but No. 1 stock and all hand stitched.
