Founded by the Right Rev. I. Hellmuth, D.D., D.C.L., Lord Bishop of Huron, A.D. 1869.

PREFACE.

Young ladies admitted to the Hellmuth College, should endeavor continually to bear in mind the important purpose for which they have been received within its walls. The object of the Institution is to afford a thorough Christian education; not only to impart a certain amount of useful information, but so to develop and train the faculties, and form the manners of those who enter it, as to fit them to fill and adorn any position the benefits of such an Institution may be fully enjoyed by all its members, it is essential that both teachers and pupils should act in perfect accord. Each in her own position must seek zealously to discharge her duty, and carefully observe those Rules and Regulations which experience has, from time to time, shewn to be necessary for the general comfort and advantage, and the furtherance of the common object in view. It is also necessary that due respect and obedience should at all times be paid to the lady teachers, as well as to all in authority. Disrespect to a teacher is an infringement both of human and Divine law; and is as detrimental to the personal character of the pupil as it is subversive of good discipline. good-breeding, and the invariable mark of a Christian gentlewoman.

Whilst it is the intention of the Founder, and the aim of those who represent him in the government of the College, that it should be rendered as far as possible a comfortable and happy Christian home, it is yet apparent that, to preserve order in so large and varied a household, and to secure due attention to the different studies, there must be certain restrictions and requirements to which pupils, as a rule, have not been accustomed in their own homes. This is an indispensable feature of every successful scholastic establishment. A well-ordered mind will at once recognize the propriety of such demands upon personal liberty, and yield them a loyal and ready obedience. The best of all books has taught us," It is good to bear the yoke in youth." Those, therefore, in whose case in life to which, in God's providence, they may be called. In order that the accompanying Rules may appear to be unnecessary, must have regard not only to their individual convenience, but to the general welfare, and the good name and success of the Institution with which they have become connected; remembering that, "the law is not made for the rightmas, but for the lawless and disobedient." One disorderly person, unless confined by wholesome restraints, might be able to mar the peace and injure the reputation of an entire community. Further, it is worthy of being noted that in learning betimes to live by rule-properly to apportion our time—to have a place for everything and everything in its place—we are laying one of the best foundations of a useful and happy life. It is to this end the following Code of Rules has been drawn Moreover, in all their intercourse with each other, pupils should be care-up, with which every pupil is expected to make herself fully acquainted, ful to manifest that consideration and courtesy which are the essence of and to which it is also required that she subscribe her name, and faithfully and conscientiously adhere.
