evidence of the success of municipal telephones before investing their money.
We will tell Mr. Preston that if private capitalists were governed by the conditions which he lays down as necessary to a trial of municipal telephones there would be mighty little private enterprise in this country. Private capitalists would jump at the chances which are offered the City of Brantford in the field of municipal telephones. They do not wait for "certainties." There are no certainties in the initiation of business enterprise. Of this fact Mr. Preston is well aware. But instead of advising the City of Brantford to take a step which ordinary business prudence would warrant the member for South Brant warns the city to wait till the advantages of municipal ownership are proved beyond a doubt. He asks the people to wait for further information. Where is the information to come from? Mr. Preston is making no effort to furnish it. He is evidently willing that the further information should be supplied by the Bell Telephone Company.

have had time to overhaul and refit, while the Baltic squadron will have suffered more or less from the effects of its long voyage and from the tension under which the latter part of it will have to be passed. In view of the whole circumstances it must be pronounced very doubtful whether the czar's home fleet will do more than make a demonstration. But it does not follow that Russia will cry "Hold! Enough." Too much hangs on the issue of this war for Russia to yield while there remains one chance in a hundred to reverse its early history.

AN EXPEDIENT, NOT A POLICY.
The maritime board of trade has passed a resolution condemning the anti-dumping clause in the Fielding tariff. Its objections are based on the theory that the clause will in some respects be detrimental to trade. While these objections are not specifically stated in the resolution, they seem to round off a fairly general criticism of Mr. Fielding's plan for protecting Canadian manufacturers against dumping.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

A MUNICIPAL ENEMY IN DISGUISE.
The further T. H. Preston, M.L.A., is dragged into the open the more clearly is revealed his treachery to the principle of public ownership. Mr. Preston's various professions have been under suspicion for some time.

The trouble is that the anti-dumping legislation is an expedient, not a policy. Dumping would not be possible if there was not a glaring inequality between the tariff of Canada and the tariff of the United States.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

When he sought by every means in his power to prejudice the City of Brantford against a municipal telephone system, The World openly questioned his good faith as an advocate of municipal ownership. In ringing repudiation of this aspersion Mr. Preston asks:

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

"Who put thru the legislation necessary to give Brantford and other municipalities power to do their own engineering?"

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

"Who assisted in the preparation of the statistics dealing with the operation of municipal utilities in this province?"

"Who secured for the municipalities the right under certain restrictions to engage in the fuel business?"

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

This is Mr. Preston's case as he presents it himself in the columns of The Brantford Expositor. The World has no desire to disparage the deeds of progress which he mentions as proof of his sincerity in the advocacy of municipal ownership.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

But what does Mr. Preston's statement of defence prove? It proves that he has not had the courage to carry his municipal ownership convictions to the point of antagonizing one powerful franchise-holding corporation. He was ready to go boldly up against the few carters who were doing the scavenging work in the City of Brantford. He was perhaps prepared to cross the path of the coal and wood dealers of his native city. He did not even hesitate to allow his name to be attached to the statistics dealing with the operation of municipal utilities in Ontario. His brave heart failed and his municipal ownership sympathies weakened when the foe to municipal interests was a street railway company, an electric light company, an electric railway company or a telephone company, or a combination of these interests.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The Conmee Act, which was aimed at the very life of municipal ownership, had the support of T. H. Preston, M.L.A. The effort of the municipalities of Ontario to curb the Niagara Power monopolists found in Mr. Preston an aggressive enemy. He exerted all the influence he could command to prevent the provincial government competing with the private companies in the production of electric energy.

The streets of Toronto can't be expected to please everybody. They are said to be too dusty in the daytime, and late at night the complaint is that they are not wide enough.

The pretex which he used to play the game of the corporation influences behind the Conmee Act and the quibbles which he raised to guard the Niagara power companies against competition are very much like the weapons Mr. Preston is turning against municipal ownership of telephones in Brantford. Mr. Preston asks that Brantford should have such reliable data respecting the proposed investment as private capitalists would demand. Such information he thinks has not been afforded. Whose duty is it to present information of this kind? Does the obligation rest on a public man like T. H. Preston, M.L.A., and a public journal like The Brantford Expositor? Neither Mr. Preston nor The Brantford Expositor is attempting to enlighten the public. They are telling the people that there is danger in municipal ownership of telephones without explaining where the danger lies. They are warning them against deciding in favor of a municipal system without offering information which would enable them to come to a safe conclusion.

Mr. Preston claims to be a confirmed friend of municipal ownership, and when he is put to the test he raises doubts just like a convinced enemy of public ownership. A genuine advocate of municipal ownership would give the principle the benefit of the doubt if he was uncertain in his choice between municipal control or corporation control in a particular case. Mr. Preston gives the corporation the benefit of the doubt. Mr. Preston is bound to admit that where municipal telephone systems have been an unqualified success. He cannot point to one case of a failure. And yet Mr. Preston cautions Brantford against taking the decisive step. Private capitalists, he says, would require more

TREASURER AND CLERK SHY, REFUND THOUSANDS

Peculiar State of Affairs in Tilbury West Disclosed by Recent Audit.
Windsor, Aug. 18.—The audit by F. H. MacPherson of this city of Tilbury West disclosed the fact that the township treasurer, Thomas Beattie, was $8000 shy in his accounts. Mr. Beattie at once deposited the full amount in the bank. There was no intention of defrauding the municipality. The shortage was due to bad book-keeping.

It was also found that J. Anderson, township clerk, had in his possession considerable sums of money, collected by the clerk at various times. He promised to make the amount good within a few days. Several adjacent townships were reported to be indebted to Tilbury West, but the municipalities west of Glendonwynne-avenue were requested to settle.

No Taxes Need Apply.

Port Arthur Chronicle: During the past month many men have arrived in other places in search of work. The message they bring of conditions at the Soo is far from encouraging, and to add to the other evils which have overtaken that town and the works upon which its past prosperity and future hopes were based, the fact that the government has introduced in all appointments. One of the qualifications, and the main qualification for a position of job or of a humble character is that the applicant must be a Smith supporter. One man who came up this week says that men who supported Miscampbell have been refused work, and that the men who supported Smith have been given employment. Other Miscampbell supporters have been discharged and Smith's men hired. In view of the fact that the government of Ontario has taken from the people of the province two millions of dollars and given them to the Soo company, it is a discrimination should be shown in employing men to work in the assisted enterprises. As a means of punishing those who do not support the government, it is a discrimination to exercise their franchise as they thought best, this move, if it be that could be thought of. It means that scores of men who have bought homes at the Soo will be left for them to do than to abandon their all and seek a livelihood in a more just community.

Enraged Knights a Hindrance.

Louisville, Aug. 15.—Too many officers have hurt the uniform rank of the Knights of Pythias, according to the report of Supreme Chancellor Tracy R. Bangs, which contained the following: "The military branch of the order has been the cause of much concern. We have for years taken it upon faith, and it strikes me that it is about time to stop long enough to think over the matter. It is not a matter of rank, as you have managed and controlled, is a benefit or a hindrance to the order of Knights of Pythias. The statistics show that we are going steadily backward in this rank. It appears to me therefore that there is something radically wrong with this branch of the order. I am of the opinion that one of the causes, in fact, the great cause, for loss of interest, loss of membership and general deterioration, is lack of home rule, and the fact that the rank is over-officed, over-controlled and has run to form rather than substance. I believe that it is due to the uniform rank that it should be absolutely without reservation released from any and all control by the supreme lodge."
