

EDITORIAL The German General Election

On Friday of this week, Jan. 12, the German Empire will elect a new Reichstag of 397 members. It occupies the same position in the German political economy that the house of commons does in the Canadian, and the house of representatives in that of the United States. The imperial legislative functions are vested jointly in the Reichstag, and in the Bundesrat, which represents the individual states of the German Empire, and comprises 61 delegates appointed. by the governments of the states for each session. Its functions are chiefly those of a confirming body, the it has the right to reject measures passed by the Reichstag, and has besides a limited initiatory power which it occasionally exercises. Members of the Bundesrat have the right to speak in the Reichstag on any question in which the state they represent is directly interested. The latter body is elected by universal suffrage and ballot for a term of five years, and of its 397 members, 236 are elected from Prussia, 48 from Bavaria, 23 Saxony, and the remainder the other states in equal proportion. ranging from 1 to 17. Members are paid an allowance of $750 per session, with a deduction of $5 for each day's absence.

The last Reichstag was elected in January, 1907, and at its meeting the strength of the parties and the number of votes recorded for each party was as follows :----

During the five years from January, 1907, the only party that has increased its representation is the Socialist, which gained ten seats at the expense of all the others. From the table it will be observed that while the Socialists polled 3,260,000 votes, they only secured 43 members, as against 104 Clericals elected by an aggregate vote of 2,145,000. This remarkable disparity is accounted for by the distribution of rural and urban constituencies in Germany. Since the electoral districts were formed 40 years ago, when they were supposed to contain, roughly, 100,000 inhabitants each, there has been a very large migration of the rural population into the cities and towns. No redistribution, however, has been made, and there is now a great disparity between the value of a rural and an urban wote. For example, Berlin was originally allotted 6 members, based on its population of 600,000 in 1871. The population within the city limits is now 2,000,000, while its membership remains unchanged.

The nine generally recognized parties assumed their present shape in 1887 when they settled down to definite programs of policy. Certain of them usually act together-others retain a more indepen

IN AN AWKWARD FOSITION

1912-the year of the United States presidential elections opens with a recrudescence of the Roosevelt boom. The former occupant of the White House a few months ago took pains to ask a personal friend and supporter, the editor of a Pittsburg newspaper, to refrain from men-tioning his name as a presidential possibility; while Son-in-law Nicolas Longworth has assiduously declared, apparently of his own indepen-dent volition, that Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate.

Roosevelt

Despite the ex-president's attitude, however, the Roosevelt boom will not subside and with the approach of the day on which a candidate of the Republican Party will be selected the proba-bility increases that the American nation will in November march to the polls to vote for Teddy and the Big Stick.

Why this cry for Roosevelt? Didn't he hand-pick a successor who would develop and carry out My Policies?

But Taft-it can't be disguised-has failed to make good. He appears to be a man of splendid aims and resolves who lacks the personal power to sway the nation's rulers and effect reforms. Hence it is that the pe ople turn from him to the occupant of the editorial chair of The Outlook. The American people want a man who Does Things and no man has so completely ful-filled the expectations of the masses as Theodore Roosevelt.

A religion in the making is surely believe that their form of religion think that all things are as they were from the beginning and will so coninue to the end. The older the form the more devoutly do its adherents recard its authenticity. Mohammedlooks but lightly on Christian Science. Christianity regards Mohammedanism as an interloper 600 years its junior. Buddhism, 500 years older still looks on Christianity as a dear child. The Brahmans go back for milenniums earlier and dispute for priority with Zoroastrians, the Chaldeans call it, or into the fulness of and the Egyptians, and the immortal in record of the Vedas claims a still more hoary precedence. Behind even these stands the monumental Book of Dzyan, its existence still doubted by scholars whose cherished theories it all upsets, but whose fragments when they are permitted to reach the public mind carry the profoundest conviction. All the great scriptures of the world draw their inspiration from its symbols. "The Voice of the Silence." little volume in which some of its wisdom is rendered into English by H. P. Blavatsky, was a favorite study of Lord Tennyson, as it is the devotional manual of hundreds of mystics. But such things must ously good have learned bad habits. In some cases health has suffered. But such things must be, as dear old Kaspar puts it, "in every famous victory." It is thus a question whether in the aggre-gate Colonel Sam Hughes' intention will prove beneficial or not. It is probable that a consensus of opinion will be in its favor. Still other points of view must not be overlooked, and it is more than likely many lads whose parents have a con-scientious objection to excess of militarism will defy parental authority in order to be with their dent attitude. Acting with the straight Conservatives are the Imperial Party and the Anti-Semites, described as Agrarians, Protectionists and Reactionaries in every sense of these words and they stand together on all matters concerning national defence. In 1887 their combined strength in the Reichstag was 122 seats-the lowest place they have occupied was in 1903 with 90 seats. In 1907 they were 112 strong and polled their best aggregate of 2,050,000 votes. The Centre or Clerical Party represents the interests of the Roman Catholic Church and this directs its policy. Their membership since 1887 has steadily remained at about 100, altho the number of voters has increased from 1,516,000 in 1887 to 2,145,000 in 1907. From its character the Centre Party is not likely materially to diminish or increase. On the other hand the National Liberals that in the early years of the Reichstag constituted nearly half the house have now only a remnant of their original importance. Their Liberalism is of a shadowy description and appears to offer little that can secure popular support.

Next come the Radical sections which united in 1907 and increased their representation from 36 to 50, polling in that year 1,311,000 votes. They are described as possessing an admirable program, as far as it goes, but to be without energy, doctrinaire rather than practical and with little of the inspiration, the initiative or the creative power associated with British Radicalism. German Radicals are said to suffer from the lack of a great leader, a constructive statesman who can influence the Reichstag or the government in favor of Liberal legislation. Still further to the left of the house sit the Socialists who now again command the attention not of Germany only, but of the whole civilized world. The one question being asked is what additional voting force this election will bring them. The growth of German Socialism has been the leading feature in recent European history. To the first Reichstag only one Socialist was returned and in subsequent parliaments the numbers were in their order 19, 12, 9, 12, 24, 11, 35, 44, 56, 81, 43. The drop from 81 in 1903 to 43 in 1907 resulted from a combination of the other parties against the Socialists-after 1907 other to seats were captured, making their strength at the dissolution 53. But the increases in voting strength are more significant than the representation. In 1871 the Socialist Party received 102,000 votes, by 1874 they had risen to 352,000 and three years later to nearly 500,000. Then came hostile government action causing a recession to 424,000 in 1878 and to 312,000 in 1881. The tide turned again with 550,000 in 1884. rising three years later to 763,000. At the election of 1890 came the tremendous spurt to 1,427,000; in 1893 it rose to 1.787.000; the se-cond million was topped in 1898 and in 1903 the third million.

Will the election of January 12 see the fourth million? Observers on the spot do not consider it unlikely and if that figure is reached the Socialists' vote will be almost double that of the combined Conservative parties and equal to that of the combined Conservatives and Clericals. It is the unequal distribution of constituencies that alone prevents the Socialist Party from holding at least a third of the Reichstag representation. As matters stand the, to public usefulness for eleven months and two Socialists confidently expect to increase the number of their membership to 100, thus placing them on a practical equality with the Clerical Party. There can be no question that the government regard the prospect with disquietude and it will render the Prussian Government less inclined than ever to modify the indirect system of electing members to the chamber of deputies which enables the landed proprietors and men of wealth to secure an absolute majority in the chamber.

The Conservative Wave

There was nothing uncertain about those elections in the Province of Prince Edward Island on Wednesday except the size of the Conservative majority. The Liberal opposition was reduced to two members.

The balance in respect to the number of prorinces is now with the Conservatives. Nova Scotia, of the three Maritime Provinces, is still. held by the Liberals, and that party is also strongly entrenched in Quebec; while two western provinces, Saskatchewan and Alberta, are likewise Liberal. The Conservatives hold the other five provinces of the Dominion.

The Sifton government in Alberta is believed to be verging on collapse. It contains the seeds of disintegration, and it may not survive another session. With the Conservatives in control of federal affairs the forces that held the Liberal governments together in the two new provinces have weakened considerably. It's the season for Conservative rejoicing. And look at the trend in Great Britain. A turn-over is about due there.

Our Exhibition Buildings

The management of the Canadian National Exhibition have issued a handsome little brochure! giving Earl Grey's speech at the opening of the last exhibition. If that speech had been delivered at any other time than when the hubbub of Toronto's big festival is on, there are several things in it that would have attracted more attention than they have. Earl Grey has a tremendously practical side and therein lies much of the cause for the admiration that is his. People of to-day have passed the spread-eagle period and delight in common-sense.

Among other suggestions made by Earl Grey is one to the effect that permanent use should be made of the art building, the women's buildhistory building. "It seems a pity," says his lord-ship, "that these buildings which belong to the city, should be in commission only for one fortnight in the year instead of being the permanent university of the people."

The earl is right: it is a pity not only that the buildings mentioned, but that all the two million dollars' worth of structures, should be closed weeks in each and every year.

A large hall for the conventions, horse and cattle shows, indoor sports, flower shows, dog shows, promenade concerts and so on, was promised long ago. Altho hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended on buildings since then, the hall has not only not been forthcoming, sociated with him in this splendid project, to but it appears further away than ever.

of opinion will be in its favor. Still other points defy parental authority in order to be with their mates. Of a certainty games will be played and encouraged, among them it is to be hoped, the colonel's old hobby, lacrosse, altho his worthy brother, James L., has not shown that energy in , favor of the national pastime that might have been favor of the national pastime that might have been expected, considering the prominent part he took in the same game in his student and earlier teach-ing years. If the inculcation of the spirit of the true sportsman goes hand-in hand with instruction in military ethics and requirements there can be little objection to the colonel's "warlike" move-ment. All the same it is a matter for argument tions for new styles of poles and globes, and these might very well be encouraged. For instance, Rosedale and other high-class residential sec-tions advocate the burying of the wires and the erection of ornamental poles and clusters. Eventually Toronto must grapple with the problem of burying all wires. There must be an end to the disfigurement of the landscape with problem of burying all wires. There must be an end to the disfigurement of the landscape with unsightly poles and wires, and a beginning might well be made in the better residential sections. In a year or two Toronto will be one of the best-lighted cities on the continent. The Hydro lights have fulfilled the expectations of the pub-lic as well as of Hon. Adam Beck and those as-sociated with him in this splendid project, to whom we must continue to give full credit.

Make deep breathing a habit. Give the lungs a housecleaning several times a day. The morning is the best time to begin. And this is what to do. Stand in an open window.

On rising wrap yourself in a warm dressing gown, throw open a window and, standing before it, slowly and deeply inhale. It will ald the intake if you raise your arms slowly above your head. Stand with the palms turned out-ward, the elbows straight and the traces your knees unbent. Firmiy close your lips, and without raising your shoul-ders slowly draw in the air, countfour. While the lungs are thus packed keep the air in so that every cell will be laved while you count one, two, three, four. Then. In the same time, to the same number of counts gently expel the air. Repeat this until a slight sense of dizzlness warns you that you have gone far enough for that exercise. Repeat the exercise whenever pos-sible during the day. But choose the time and place where the air is freshest. If possible go to the roof for there the air is fresher than on the street levels. At any rate a window is always available. So whether or not you take vocal lessons the deep breathing and its advantages are open to you. I have told many of my friends and patrons, indolent folk who dreaded the thought of extra ef-fort, that if the thought of deep breating involved the thought of unwelcome work, just to sing long and often. That serves the same purpose and is a sign nature gives us that we need a current of air to sweep through and cleanse the

His Mistake IN Chinese visititing etiquette the rank of the caller is denoted by the size of his card. Thus the visiting card of a high mandarin would be an immense roll of paper, neatly tied up. A gentleman who has travelled in China brought home a Chinese servant, and his wife soon after held a "recepand his whe soch after held a tecep-tion." John Chinaman attended the door, and received with great disgust the small pasteboards of the visitors. Evidently with an opinion of his own of the low condition of his mistress's rinds, he pitched the cards into a basket and with scant ceremony showed their owners into the drawing-room.

This Tickled Him .

Napoleon married "the beautiful Creole" on March 9, 1796, and then had to rush sway to the campaign in Italy, of which he had been made their owners into the drawing-room. But presently the gas-man called with a bill-a big piece of cream-colored paper. The "card" satisfied John. With deep reverence he received it. With low salaams he ushered the bearer not only into the drawing-room, but with pro-found bowings, to the dismay of the gas-man and horror of the hostess, right up to the centre of the room, where that commander-in-chief. "A short man in size and very excit-able, he went down to the crossing, and, sure enough, there stood, in defiance of his orders, a long freight train, anchored squarely across it. A brakeman who didn't know him by sight sat compla-cently on the top of the car. "Move that train on!" sputtered the little 'super.' 'Get it off the crossing so people can pass. Move on, I say!" "The brakeman surveyed the tempest-ous little man from head to foot. 'You go to the deuce, you little shrimp,' he replied. 'You're small enough to crawl under.'" number of practical pumps now are on the market and in use, ranging from the one cylinder pump. One of the strongest arguments against the use of a power air pumping free alr not mixed with oil, as the latter tends to deteriorate the rubber in the tire. In one at least of the four cylinder pumps this difficulty has been entirely overcome, as the construction is such that it is impossible to pump anything but free air. This pump is operated by simply attaching the end of the hose to the tire valve and be inflated to any desired pressure in less than three minutes. Another development of the motor driven garage pump, consists of a four cylinder power pump mounted on a portable stand and driven by a ne-quarter horse power electric motor. The main advantage of this is that it

WHY VARNISH IS DULL.

In such cars as the Everit, for ex-ample, whose equipment typifies one of the most desirable systems, a small amount of illuminating gas is taken from the standard prestolite tank. A small handle on the dash, operating a "distributor," connected by pipes to each of the cylinders, is revolved one turm, the switch turned to the battery side, and a button pressed. The re-sulting impulse is ordinarily sufficient to start the motor, altho occasionally in cold weather a second charge of prestogas is necessary. The owner of a car so equipped, therefore, has, minety-nine times in a hundred, prac-tically nothing to do but press a but-ton. Why the average man's motor car of popular price class so soon loses the glossy finish which it wears when he buys it is a question which many an owner-driver asks during his first month of experience. When he bought his car it was as bright and shiny as anothing which the showrooms along the local automobile row had As the result of this innovation, the owner of a modern' and properly equipped car takes no chances on a broken arm or bruised fingers. Dear Sirs :--

I had delivery of your Model R, 1911, five-passenger car, a short time ago, and I have given it a fairly good trial, and I wish to say that I am delighted with it in every way.

You know I had a 1909 model of the same car in use until now and it gave me very good satisfaction. Your 1911 Model is improved in many ways, running more smoothly, more noiselessly and is easier of operation.

You know I have had considerable experience with several makes of cars and I believe your 1911 Model is the best car to-day for the money

You are quite at liberty to make whatever use you desire of this letter.

able car he knows. "Power and appearance are import-ant," said Mr. Jeffery, "and cannot be overlooked, but the real pleasure of ownership depends upon com-fort." The Rambler designers in producing the new Cross-Country model, have held that above everything else. See what they have done to accomplish it. They have giv-en this car 36-inch wheels, 120-inch wheel base and 38 horse-power, the only car with these features within

Cost Less Per Horse Power and Per Wheel Base Inch Than Any Other Automobiles Selling in Canada for $1650 or Over

N this day of strenuous competition and large production, there is only one way in which a motor car manufacturer can hope to develop and maintain a successful business and that is by producing a better product at a lower price than that which already exists. The Clarke-Carter Automobile Company has done this in its 1912 product.

Outting Cars cost less per horse power and per wheel base inch than any other automobile selling in Canada for $1650 or over. Furthermore, they are also equal in quality and finish to many cars in the three and four thousand dollar class. For the purpose of comparing twenty-five of the best known cars in Canada, so that the buyer may see, at a glance, the relative value of each, we have compiled a table in which are listed the important features of these several makes. This comparative table of automobile values will be sent to any one interested upon request. After even a cursory examination of this chart, the most prejudiced buyer will admit that the Cutting Torpedo Roadster, fully equipped with mohair top, side curtains and envelope, wind shield, speedometer and Presto-o-lite gas tank with all bright parts nickel plated at $1650 and the Outting Model T-85 Torpedo Touring Car with same equipment and finish at $1725, are values, the equal of which are not found else-where in Canada.

The men behind the Cutting Car are all seasoned motor car manufacturers who realize that in order to meet and overcome competition with a car which has heretofore been widely advertised, they must put an excess of value into their cars if they expect to make any great inroads into the sales of their more widely advertised competitors.

Thus you see that logically the Cutting Car must possess great alue, and, of course the purchaser gets the benefit. Every dollar he puts into a Cutting buys more than a dollar's worth

Mrs. Samuel Hughes, who will this eason occupy a prominent position in Ottawa, is already well known in that city, having been a frequent visitor there for the past twenty years, dur-ing which her husband, Colonel Hughes, now minister of militia, has been a member of the house of com-mons. Mrs. Hughes' father, Mr. H. W. Burk, of Cobourg, also sat in par-liament, but on the other side of the bouse in the Mackensie covernment liament, but on the other side of the house, in the Mackenzie government, at which time Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the youngest of the members. Mr. Burk was afterwards sheriff of the county. Mrs. Hughes was born in Whitby, Ont., has lived nearly all her married life in Lindsay, where she and Colonel Hughes entertain a great deal in their pretty home and also at their summer cottage at Fenelon Falls. They have two daughters, Roby, who will be a great help to her mother ir her social duties, and Aline, who 's still at school. Their only son, Mr. Garnet Hughes, is in British Columbia, where he is engaged in work for the taa-dian Northern Railway.

How Science Is Used To Fight the Criminal BY HENRI FERRER.

(By Henri Ferrer.)

PARIS, Jan. 6 .- It is remarkable PARIS, Jan. 6.—It is remarkable what a difference exists to-day between our theories of crime and our attempts to punish and repress it. These latter, the punish and the punish in fact, seem almost archaic in the light | of the scientific explanations of the of the scientific explanations of the eriminal and his work which now meet with widespread acceptance. Crimin-ology, the science of the evil-doer is into individual, physical and social groups. The individual factors comology, the science of the science of the multiple causes of disease, nev-of the multiple causes of disease, nev-ertheless persisted in the primitive ertheless of two or three centuries back, and regarded a calomel pill or blood-letting as the only remedy for all hu-calimate, fertility and disposition of the soil, relative length of day and night, the seasons, meteoric conditions, tem-perature. The social factors com-prise age, sex, civil status, profession, domicile, social rank, instruction, edu-cation, and the organic and physic con-stitution. Physical factors are race, comicile, social rank, instruction, edu-cation, and the organic and physic con-stitution. Trance, however, has decided to go into the matter on a scientific basis and it is interesting to note the work of the special committee that has been appointed for the study of criminology, which has just suggested possible changes that may be brought about in oriminal law by the adoption of mors scientific methods in treating with the criminal. The report, in part is as follows: More or less, we accept scientific ex-planations of the cause of crime and criminals, but we do not adopt scien-tific remedies. Various experiments have been made to prove this. Pro-fessor Liszt, for instance, arranged a mock attempt at murder in his class in criminal law before sixty students. After the incident the professor asked the students to testify as to what had taken place. Scarcely ten out of the sixty gave a faithful account of what had happened, while the others made more or less grave errors, especially in reference to details. patients whose malady had succumbe to the Professor's treatment. The results seem incredible until one has actually visited 167 Dundas Street; they are true nevertheless.

A HOST OF INTERNAL DEMONS.

A host of internal demons, thirteen in number, were expelled by Professor Mulveney's World's Famous Tapeworm Cure, from John Harkanon of No. 12 Drummond Place. Mr. Harkanon was ate alive with these evils parasites, which would measure over 20 feet; to all appearances he looked like a person who was dying with consumption, as he was so thin and weak. On the night of October 19th, 1911, he purchased Prof. Mulyeney's Famous Tapeworm Cure. At 9 a. m. on October 20th he took the remedy and at o'clock of the same day was relieved of thirteen tapeworms. This is the greatest tangle of tapeworms that the Professor has ever had brought to him in all his long experience, the largest in all his long experience, the largest number taken from one person at one time, previous to this, being seven. These were taken from a lady of this city. Mr. Harkanon is a young man about twenty years of age, but appears much older, being wasted away to a shadow. Recently he has suffered much from headaches and excruciat-ing pains in the bowels, these monsters ing pains in the bowels, these monsters having made life almost unbearable. It is needless to say that he is now a happy man, and owes his life to the merits of Professor Mulveney's World Famous Cure. This big colony of tape-worms is to be seen securely sealed in a large glass bottle at 167 Dundar a large glass bottle at 167 Dundasstreet, Toronto. TAPE WORM.

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is of pear shape, hav-ing two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected fo-rether with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to he much larger than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, treeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. He goes on to record that in 15 years or less Toronto will boast a population of at least a million people, and proves it by comparison with the official increase shown in 1911. Land values are not inflated, ac-cording to Mr. Hayes, because the sup-ply is not sufficient for the demand. He reports a brisk demand for both duy and suburban land, as well as homes, but reports a scarcity of cheap-er houses ranging from $2000 to $3500, and the better and more expensive homes from $12,000 to $20,000. MURRAY-KAY. LIMITED Kay's January Furniture Sale An Opportunity to Purchase Furniture of "Class" and Distinction at Prices

Although we devote four immense floors to the display of Furniture the space is all too small for the needs of our rapidly-increasing business in this line. It is largely this fact that compels us to devote January to a clearance sale. We cannot afford floor space for incomplete sets, discontinued lines or oddments. These must be disposed of to make room for Spring shipments and importations soon to arrive. The Sale, however, is not confined to special articles or oddments. It embraces the whole immense assortment of Furniture now on our floors, and during January every piece of it is on sale at a reduction of AT LEAST 10 per cent. To obtain an idea of the importance of this sale you should visit the store and judge for yourself the high quality of the Furniture offered. Note particularly the articles described in the following list. They are indicated by large tickets:

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 .- It was announced to-day by Thomas Andrews, representative of Hugh McIntosh, the fight promoter, that the Jack Johnson-McVey agreement might not be formally signed for several weeks. Andrews said the main thing-Johnson's agreement to fight -had Leen settled and that the remain-der of the details, including definite fix-ing on the place of the contest, would be a matter of deliberation. Andrews declared that no word had come to him from McIntosh changing the place of meeting from Sydney to Paris.

Deep Digs in the price of High Quality Garments

Our Annual "Lonely Sale" begins Monday, and we are making a strong effort this month to get the people to know the "lonely truth" that Semi-Readys at regular prices are GOOD VALUE, and at these reduced prices they are DOUBLY GOOD VALUE. At our reductions in prices they are GENUINE BARGAINS.

For ten days we will give $10 off any of our $25 Tweed and Worsted Suits or Overcoats.

Here are a few of the good things among several hundred "lonelies" marked for quick clearance, and for the good they may do in missionary work. We want you to know that Semi-Ready Clothes are both in quality and style always the best for the money in Canada.

Two Prices Only

$15 and $18 Tweed and Worsted Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters $10.00 $20, $22.50 and $25 Tweed and Worsted Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters..... $15.00 Including a few blues and blacks, in sizes

tish collegians, who use the word russet to denote the game of Rugby, from which the American style of football was de-veloped. For the last ten years efforts have been made by followers of the game to plant it firmly in this country, but h was only when more or less dissatisfac-tion was expressed with the American same that these efforts began to bear fruit. Five or six years ago, when foot-ball was barred at Wiscensin, the direc-tors of athletics procured some Associa-tion balls, but the students could not be induced to do more than kick them around in an almiess manner. Two or three years later the western conference took up soccer. Chicago and Hiliføis put teams in the field, and now nearly every college in the west bas, its soccer team. The game took more readily in the east trar colleges, getting its start mainly from

GENUINE ACME SKATE

This famous skate, so generally in use throughout Canada, is the greatest value to be had for ordinary skating, and is universally popular.

It is simple in construction, easy to fasten and unfasten, adjustable to any size shoe, clings most closely to heel and ball of foot. Durable, comfortable and of good appearance.

A leading feature which the "GENUINE ACME SKATE" possesses, is that it can be adjusted centrally, or on either side of a central line, on the bootsole. Other styles of self-fastening skates lack this feature.

WARNING: Owing to its extraordinary success. we ask the buyer to see that "THE STARR MANU-FACTURING CO." "MAKERS," as well as our registered trade mark, "GENUINE ACME CLUB," is stamped on each skate. Avoid all imitations lacking the above.

There is no other skate to be had to compare in quality and value at the price.

We are also makers of the celebrated "MIC-MAC" & "REX" Hockey Sticks.

"A Horse or a Load Here for Everyone at Anyone's Price."

All horses sold under any warranty and not as represented may be returned any time before 12 o'clock noon of the day following sale, when the purchase price will be promptly refunded. We have special vehicles for the hitching and trying of all horses. Our facilities for shipping are the best.

Forty-four of these horses were purchased for the Christmas trade, and are bays, browns, blacks and chestnuts, as greys could not be had. They are all good, capable horses, and will be sold absolutely without reserve. There are a great many mares in the lot, and any intending purchaser of car-load lots for shipment West will do well to make a note of this. Without the least doubt no firm in Canada has such a spiendid lot of light delivery horses as The Robert Simpson Company. If you want a horse or a car-load, come Tuesday. You cannot do better. These horses would be most suitable as well for any delivery purposes or for liverymen.

There will be 300 other horses following this sale, so if you want a horse, or a number of them, your opportunity was never better. The sale of The Robert Simpson horses commences at 11 alm, sharp, and every horse is to be sold.

We have a car-load of these, just sent in from the Faber Sulky Company, Rochester, N.Y. They are as good as new, and will be sold very reasonably. We have a great stock of these for private sale, and we also have a very large consignment for auction. They are good, warm blankets, and just what your horse needs.

Sleighs of all varieties and styles. We are Toronto agents for the MCLAUGHLIN CARRIAGE AND SLEIGH, and equal it you can't. They are reasonable in price, and, anyway, if you want a sleigh we will be pleased to show you anything we have. We devote four floors of our building to the display and sale of sleighs and carriages.

It is cheaper to buy GRIP CHAINS for your horses than to have them allo and break their legs. We carry all sizes of them.

We are sole Canadian agents for REDUCINE, the great absorbent and remedy. Price $4.00 per tin, and it adds dollars of value if your horse has a bog spavin, curb, splint, theroughpin or wind gail.

CHARLES A. BURNS ISAAC WATSON Assistant Manager and Auctioneer.

It is evident that the French govern-ment is firmly determined to develop the horse-breeding capabilities of the country, so that she can rely on her The present time the government owns to stallons about 250 of them being what are known as "English thoro-breds." The rest are half-breds, Ar-abe and draught horses. Last year these stallions served 243,416 mares under government supervision. It will be seen, therefore, in what a favored position the French army stands. The produce of these mares are available for cavalry remounts, for the artillery, and other draught purposes. In addi-tion to the money spent by the state in the purchase of stallions, large sums are distributed as pitze-money among the various race societies on the under-standing that the government has the option of buying the winners of certain races. Substantial grants are also giv-en to horse shows, and altogether last year about 34,500,000 was devoted to own resources in case of war or other en to horse shows, and altogether last year about $4,500,000 was devoted to the improvement and encouragement of the horse industry in France. Is not this an object lesson to the agricultural department at Ottawa and of all the provinces? The race societies al-so give over $500,000 in premiums to the breeders of winners, and this goes entirely into the pockets of French-men, for no foreigner or foreign horse is entitled to a premium. OFFICIAL STUD BOOK The French Stud Book is kept under the direction of the minister of agriculture, and no thorobred stallion or mare can be entered in the Stud Book without his authority. A notice wa issued calling upon owners and breeders to give notice before Dec. 39, 1911, to the minister of agriculture of all thorobred horses born abroad which they desire to have officially inscribed in France. A "certificat d'origine" had to be supplied, signed by some recognized authori y in the country of birth, and proof also had to be given of the horse's identity. If it had changed hands on several occasions the name and address of each successive owner had to be given, and if it bad been bought at public auction an affidavit of the owner at the time of sale had to be supplied. Every pre-caution is taken to prevent cases of substitution, and the system of official substitution is most carefully conregistration is most carefully controiled.

been presented to the French chamber and in that it is stated that the gov-ernment has decided to purchase 350 more stallions next year. This ex-plains the decree mentioned above giving a percentage to native breeders. The stallions to be bought are such as are likely to beget horses for the army endowed with speed and capable of carrying heavy weights over all hinds of ground. It is said that the introluction of the automobile has ser-leusly interfered with the horse influsleusly interfered with the norse inter-try in. France, and an endeavor is to be made to rectify this. You have probably never given this question of Pure Air much thought, but as a matter of fact the first thing we need is air. Man can live without food for weeks, without water for days, without air less than five minutes; yet some people have no regard for the air in which they live. You would not think of drinking water contaminated with sewage. How about the aerial sewage we are often obliged to breathe, and which is so plentiful in some offices, schools, churches, public buildings, dwellings, railway cars, etc.?

THE MOST ENERGETIC DISEASE MAKER IS THE BAD AIR WHICH WE BREATHE

THE AIROZONE ELECTRIC VENTILATOR solves the problem of ventilation by introducing free Ozone into the air and destroying all noxious gases and other impurities, making the air you breathe as pure and invigorating as that of the pine woods or the seashore. No one would think of washing in the same water used by someone else, yet thousands breathe over and over the disease-laden air used by others. Is it any wonder that they are less efficient in the afternoon than in the morning and suffer from bad air headaches?

THE AIROZONE ELECTRIC VENTILATOR is a simple apparatus, which can be attached to any electric light socket, and turned on and off with a switch the same as an electric light.

No chemicals are used in the apparatus, the air in the room is passed over electrodes, with a continual silent discharge of electricity, producing the Ultra-Violet Ray, which changes part of the oxygen in the air to Ozone.

Many of the leading Mercantile and Financial Institutions testify to the merits of Ozone Ventilation, and the increased efficiency of employes who receive the benefits of Ozone.

part succeeded in realizing their inten-tions, for it is an undeniable fact that everywhere there is a growing anxiety of a war with England... This anxiety is naturally strongest among the lower classes of the people, who in spite of all have preserved a traditional respect of the printed word side-splitting laughter. One of the leaf-lets will probably become immortal as the greatest masterplece ever pro-duced of Tory stupidity and Tory bad faith. It was a leaflet headed with the significant words, "Half Truths." The wrinkles about Lloyd George's brilliant and expressive eyes were seen to be puckered as he approached this leaflet, and everybody knew that some-thing that appealed to that great sense of humor which rarely deserts him, and is his saving quality—saving from the occasional fits of tempestous pas-sion and of broading melancholy to which. like every Celt, Lloyd George for occasionally is subject. This was the half-truth, that if one were to say that the Liberal members put 5 cents tax a s week of the working men in order to get a salary of $1000 a year, it would the a "half-truth": the whole truth if would be that he was putting a tax of m would be that he was putting a tax of 20 cents on the working men in order that he might have a salary of $2000 a year. In other words, that the only ect of the insurance bill was to put a year. In other words, that the only object of the insurance bill was to put $20.0 a year into the pockets of the Liboral members. A mis-statement at once so gigantic and so comic appealed to the whole house, and even the Tories themselves were compelled to join in the side-splitting laughter with which this leaflet was received. Brilliant Peroration. Thus Lloyd George went on for some time; now humorous, now passionate, now appealing, now denunciatory, un-til, in the end, he wound up in a bril-liant peroration. He seemed fresh and vigorous even at the end of this great effort, and his step was alert and his face wreathed in contented smiles. There was no trace whatever of the langour and the pallor of the days of suffering and ill-health which followed the great fight over the Budget Bill-a fight that nearly ended Lloyd George's career and even life. After all, the house of commons is very human, and career and even life. After all, the house of commons is very human, and when, at the end of the division and the splendid majority in favor of the bill, Lloyd George, engaged in talking over some details of the bill to the last moment, walked up the floor of the house, there was a great outburst of congratulatory cheers; and in that moment there was some compensation for all the months of terrific labor and of splendid hopefulness and tenacity thru which this wonderful little man has passed to put on the statute book this great message of hope and redemption to the toiling millions of this country.

THE KING OF SIAM. BANGKOK, Jan. 6.-During the re-cent Coronation celebration the King of Siam ordered the production of a sala theatrical performance. Because one of his noblemen objected to his wife taking part, the king had him stripped of his title and treasures, and ordered that he receive thirty blows with a rattan and be thrown into prison for one year. The woman was compelled to attend all rehearsals and go on with her part in the entertain-ment. The king has been severely criticized because of his act. THE KING OF SIAM. Too Early for Understanding. A very prominent German who was once a minister of state, with whom I talked of the possibility of reaching an understanding between Germany and England, which would practically mean the prospects of realizing a uni-versal peace program in Europe, said to me quite candidly: "It is far too soon yet to think of any entente cor-diale between England and Germany, tho we all agree that no greater bless-ing could come to Europe. It must not be forgotten that rightly or wrong ly Germans still have a very proly Germans still have a very pro-nounced feeling that England insulted Germany deliberately when she inter-fered with unjustified threats in the Moreocco question Democrats, who adopt extreme views on internationalism and denounce war very heartily, have no disloyalty on the whole in the time of a national crisis. In the event of war, they would march shoulder to shoulder un-der the flag. But war is the last thing we want and least of all with England. We are a peace-loving people, in spite of fiery words by retired generals and naval officers. But we claim our right to develop our strength as a great na-tion, and to secure our safety on land and sea. * * The time is not ripe yet to arrange an Anglo-German and sea. * * The time is not ripe yet to arrange an Anglo-German friendship. We must wait quietly un-til the spirit of the people has cooled down and calmed itself."

Coming to the Grand

Norman Hackett, the distinguished young Canadian-American actor, will appear for the week of January 8, at the Grand Opera House in his latest success, "Satan Sanderson," drama-tized from the well-read book by Hallie investign Data has that claver De-"Lized from the well-read book by Hallie Erminie Reives, by that clever De-troit newspaper man, Kirk Alexander. Mr. Hackett's last appearance in Tor-onto was in the West Point play "Class-mates." In years past he has appear-ed with such well-known stars as Madame Rhea, Madame Modjeska, E. H. Sothern, Julia- Marlowe and other well known actors and actresses. Mr. Hackett was born in Amesburg, Ontario.

World's Tin Supply Limited. Early in the present year tin was quoted at $981 per ton, or close to 50 cents per pound, and, altho a decline began at this point, the prices have been abnormally high all the year. Fifty cents per pound means that tin was valued in the world's markets at nearly four times the value of copper. According to The Artisan and Hard-ware Record, the world's supply is limited to about 100,000 tons a year, ard of this amount the tinplating in-dustry alone is credited with using 25,000 tons.

The Wotkairwee Club held a success-ful dance on Friday evening of last week, in St. Mary's Assembly Rooms, Bathurst and Adelaide-streets. The dancing hall was decorated for the occasion with evergreens and holly, the red berries, all of which lent a pleasant glow to the room with the red and green shades on the lights. From the chandellers and door posts sprigs of mistletoe depened. Refreshments were served from a prettily decorated buffet. The patronesses of the even-ing were: Mrs. J. J. Burns, Mrs. G. Cassidy, and Mrs. J. McGann.

Dominions Favor Irish Home Rule

Sister States Thruout Empire Favor National Unity and Self-Government," Says T. P. O'Con-

T. P. O'Connor on Home Rule. LONDON, Jan. 6 .- Mr. T. P. O'Conhor, M. P., addressing a mass meeting, dealt with the question of home rule, and said if the English and Irish home rulers were in favor of the disintegra-tion and dismemberment of the empire, so must be the Canadians who were unanimously in favor of home rule. The unanimously in favor of home rule. The truth was that there was no great public figure in any of our great sis-tor states thruout the empire who were not in favor of home rule for ireland. The outlying parts of the empire understood imperial situations better than the Torles at home, and that the best interests of the empire would be the establishment of home rule for Ireland. By extending to Ire-land the blessings of self-government, which had made our colonies prosper-ous and loyal, they would unite and strengthen the empire. What they were asking for was national unity-and self-government, which was what were asking for was national unity and self-government, which was what they had in America. He ridiculed the notion that the Roman Catholic ma-jority would prosecute the Protestants, and said appeals to violence and dis-order came very badly just now, when we had just emerged from something like civil war owing to the labor trusts in the country.

Bernhardt was good enough to give me, in her dining-room at the theatre, some details of "Elizabeth d'Angleterre" and of her new part as England's great queen. "My Queen Elizabeth play," she said, "begins after the death of Mary Stuart, and deals with the queen's relations, with Essex and the time of the great Armada. M. Moreau has made good use of the incident of the ring given to break by the queen, which the earl Hesex by the queen, which the earl sent to her majesty after he was sen-

You see Drake playing bowls with the sea cap-tains and refusing to be disturbed in his game by the appearance of the Spanish fleet. The next act takes place on the terrace of Richmond Pal-ace and the third is Wastimizeter Hell ace, and the third in Westminster Hall during the trial of Essex for high treason. Before the earl is led away he has a final scene, which is v finely written, with the queen. In very

THE SCOTLAND WOOLEN MILLS is beginning the year of 1912 under remarkably good conditions. The branches of the Company now extend as far west as Calgary in Canada, and in the United States take in the big cities of Cleveland and Detroit. In these last two places the Company has very large workshops besides the best located stores possible to secure.

Beyond this, however, 1912 looks good to the man who wears clothes in Toronto for the Scotland Woolen Mills Company has enlarged and made perfect the big workrooms on Queen Street. They are perfectly equipped and the different departments are in the hands of experts who are made personally responsible for the workmanship, fit and finish of each individual garment. Only the best of linings and trimmings are employed. Every suit is guaranteed and if it is not satisfactory money will be cheerfully refunded.

DICKENS' BENEFIT

Some Sections of the Family Object to Charity.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—"Why should I be preparing a benefit for the Dickens' family?" interrogated Cyril Maude, when asked about a report to this efwhen asked about a report to this ef-fect. "One has already been arranged for them, that is for the daughters of the novelist's son. Charles. Other members of the Dickens' family strong-ly object to being made the recipients of 'public charity."

THE LAWYER.

The lawyer is a pillar of society who The lawyer is a pillar of society who makes a juicy living by selling his vocal chords to the highest bidder for cash. When a lawyer's voice fails him, all is lost save honor. The lawyer who can express an unbiased opinion of the defendant in a six-hour argu-ment filled with deep thought and bench-legged English, without intro-ducing creeping paralysis and hardenducing creeping paralysis and harden-ing of the arteries into the jury box, will never have to have his larynx pushed back into place by some rude specialist with an obtrusive forefinger and an acetylene searchlight. One of the lawyer's most pleasing duties is to gather in a little loose alimony for some deserving divorce, who has thoughtfully deposited a corpulent re-tainer in his collection box. Owing to the increase in litigants, the legal pro-fession is loaded up at the present with lawyers who can't tell a writing writ of habeas corpus from a marriage certificate, / and this has caused the state to require an examination based on lung expansion and freedom from throat trouble. Every lawyer has a very sensitive conscience, which will not permit him to take a case when there is nothing in it. Some lawyers win cases with a ten-inch flow of legal verbiage, while others pack the jury with near and dear relatives. The latter process is considered sounder practice. The lawyer is said to be in contempt of court when he refers to the judge as a mild crook who ought to be foreman of a corkscrew factory. The shyster is a new lawyer who comes to ancholy frazzle. The legal profession is very loyal to its members, and no one ever heard of a lawyer being disbarred by anything except an unexpected demise.

DROMINENT among the suburban home localities in the vicinity of Toronto is The Highlands-situated on the plateau overlooking the Don Valley and the grounds of the Rosedale Golf Club.

THE TORONTO SUNDAY WORLD

Favored by a munificent nature in the matter of stately pine, birch and maple-among which wind gracefully curved boulevardscoupled with the magnificent view of the entire city, glimpsed through the foliage, the location of The Highlands is especially advantageous for the purpose for which it is intended-a district by itself of strictly high-class suburban homes.

THE HIGHLANDS lie just north of and adjoining the grounds of the Rosedale Golf Club, and in addition to the scenic advantages it has it enjoys the social and athletic features of not only the Rosedale Golf Club, but also the beautiful grounds of Lawrence Park, with its magnificent walks, sequestered nooks, bowling green and tennis courts.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in the history of Toronto's suburban subdivisions, a property is being placed on the market where one will be enabled to acquire not a lot but a small estate to himself, some of these tracts containing over an acre of ground, and a number of them have 100 feet frontage by a depth of 400 to 600 feet. NOTHING CAN BE PROBLEMATICAL about the future location of the best residential section of this big and constantly growing city-"North and Northwest-the Hill and North Toronto." A few short years will see the peace, quiet and beauty of Rosedale marred by the hum of the street car, increased traffic, and ruined from a residential standpoint by the very necessary but very ugly apartment house. Had I told you fifteen years ago that Jarvis Street, with its stately homes, would become in a short time a street of apartment and boarding hous my statement would have been designated as "one of Hayes' pipe dreams." Well, here is another: "Before we see fifteen years slide by again, Sherbourne, Parlia-ment, Wellesley, Wilton Ave., Bloor, Howard, Glen Road, and all the southern por-tion of Rosedale, from Yonge Street to the bridge, will be one congested mass of apartment houses, boarding houses, hotels and stores, and Toronto, with a popula-tion of 800,000—multiply 33,000 (last year's increase) by 15, and yeu have 900,000 to 1,000,000—will have forced the building of its permanent homes to the north and northwest. Take the history of any city—St. Louis, Chicago, Denver, Montreal, Portland, Oregon, San Francisco—the wealthy class became tired of moving every few years, and in every city I have named they finally moved out far enough to be left alone. You will have to come to it here—better DO IT NOW. In a year or two you will pay $50.00 for what you can buy for $25.00 to-day, or $10.00 for what you can buy for $5.00.

IN EVERY ISSUE OF THIS PAPER for the next week or so you will find some interesting facts relative to THE HIGHLANDS. In the meantime, talk to us. Our LONDON Jan. 6 -- Money in good suppy, and discount rate quiet. The stock exchange closed the week irresu-lar, but quiet. Home Rails were de-abessed on labor troubles in the conl and cotton irades. Argentine securi-ties declined on labor trouble and cron news. Kaffirs and rubber shares 'ardened a fraction. The final tone was duil.

COTTON MARKET HIGHER.

COTTON MARKET HIGHER. Brickson Perkins & Co. wired: The cotton market advarced sharply to-dey, reaching new high ground for the movement. The really started in the Englisch market, where prices firmed on heavy buying in anticipation of an early settlement of the strike at Laa-cashire. Local spot interests oon-tinued their purchases and ecattered shorts came in as buyers at the high levels. Public buying is becoming more of a feature. The statistical po-sition of the cotton continues unfayor-able but is offset for the time being by growing evidence of a trade revival in this country. Later on the distant options will be confronted with the probable large carry-over of low grade cotton. Against this, however, builts use the argument of probable acreage curtailment this season. For the pre-sent the trend is upward. Buffiels Live Stocw.

immediate action. The discussion arose on a report from the asylums committee detailing how a woman, aged sixty-seven, was admitted to Colney Hatch asylum on September in last, having been in that and other asylums twenty-six times previously. She was married at eighteen years of age, and has had thirteen children five of whom are dead. Two have recently shown signs of insanity; two of the woman's aunts are in asylums and two of her sisters have suffered from insanity, one having died in Colney Hatch some years ago, the other committing suicide by hanging. Last April, the committee reminded their report with the observation that here the frequencies and then discharged at a time they are to have been supplemented by a recommittee, suid there was a patient at Banstead who had been there eight for prevention. Mr. A. O. Goodrich, chairman of the committee, said there was a patient at Banstead who had been there eight times and five times in other asylums. It was an alarming fact that twenty-nine per cent. of the patients dis-charged between 1895 and 1910 were re-admitted. Various suggestions had been put forward, among them segre-sation, colonization, and sterlization under proper safeguards. None of these things had yet been attempted because there was no law authorizing them. The experience of the asylumis commit-tee showed that nearly all patients there was no law authorizing them. The experience of the asylum's commit-tee showed that nearly all patients had relatives who showed more or less signs of insanity, and the committee were agreed that some state control ough to be exercised in order to pre-vent a recurrence of insanity. Mr. O. Gordon said he understood that the religious conscience of the people was opposed to sterilization, the only effective method of dealing with the problem. If that were eso it lay with the religious community to deal with the evil. Sir John McDou-gal, who has been a member of the asylum's committee for twenty-two years, said that not long ago a woman who had been in the asylum for child-birth was let out on trial. She was out for five days only, and then returned ultimately to give birth to another child-a degenerate like the others. Mr. E. G. Easton said there were scores of cases in the asylums where they had reared the third generation of lumatics. Only that day they had passed plans for a mental hospital for one hundred patients who were to be

It was stated by Mr. A. A. It was stated that the evil is assuming alarming proportions, and there was an almost unanimous agreement that the matter was one for immediate action. In the car smash enquiry a good deal of fencing between questioners and witnesses is observable as to the mat-ter of the speed at which the cars are habitually driven. Surely it is im-possible for any one to be in any of the Toronto streets, even for an hour a day for a week, without seeing many street cars traveling at a speed which would get the chaffeur of the private motor-car fired—if not jugged. The drivers of the street cars say they have to keep schedule time, and that seems to be, in their manner of thinking, sufficient excuse. If, not justification, for a dangerous excess of speed. Ob-viously if a penalty attaches to their failure to be on time, a much heavier penalty should be provided for those in authority who impel these drivers to endanger human life in what must. In the circumstances, be a natural en-davor to avoid it. If a schedule is drawn which, allowing for necessary stops, is impracticable inside the regu-stion limit of speed, then it seems wise that those possessing greater au-thority than the Street Railway Com-pany (if there be such), should insist or ensure the possibility of the jour-neys being accomplished in schedule In the car smash enquiry a good deal of fencing between questioners and

Henry Childs Merwin considers Bret Harte in his new biography. The book, moreover, is an exhaustive defense of this famous story-writer against the popular charge of "perverse romanti-cism." Harte has been bitterly accused of misreprenting pioneer soclety. "It is strange," writes Mr. Merwin, "that Carlifornians themselves should have been so anxious to strip from their state the distinction which Bret Harte conferred upon it, so anxious to prove state the distinction which has have have a mercan interature. Dawn of Home Rule--Growth of National Spirit in Scotland

By Hector MacPherson.

LONDON, Jan, 6 .- A notable feature of the present day is the rapid growth of the spirit of nationality. This feature is not confined to the political sphere. In Ireland, for instance, the demand for Home Rule is accompanied by a revival of national literature, and in Scotland in 'recent years the literary revival has been as marked as the political. The expectations of those who negotiated the union with England have been signally falsified. It was expected that the political union would so foster the spirit of cosmopolitanism that by and by the two races would practically blend into one. Certainly, the men of letters who dominated Edinburgh in the eighteenth cen-tury did their best to destroy the na-tional spirit in Scotland. They despised their native language, and slavishly copied English models. The result was, as Lord Rosebery has said, that after as Lord Rosebery has said, that after the union Sotland was in danger of lapsing into obscurity, Burns and Scott rescued the sentiment of nation-ality, and since their day the patriotic spirit has flavored the writings of dis-tinguished Scotts. The influence of this can the Scottich capital ling here markon the Scottish capital lias been mark-ed. Edinburgh, which the eighteenth century men of letters did their best to convert into a suburb of England, is rapidly, regaining her old unique posi-tion, and with the coming restoration of her ancient parliament, will once more give to Scotland inspirational power. Thanks to Scott, Edinburgh has long onload power. Thanks to Scott, Edinburgh has long enjoyed a certain popularity, but it has been of the picturesque ra-ther than the national type, but en-ough and more than enough, has been written of Edinburgh of the ancient days. What was needed was a book which would link the present with the past, a book which, while doing justice to the romance of by-gone times, would indicate how much the national spirit was doing, and still had to do, in the sphere of social reform.

of social reform. Studies of Edinburgh. Such a book has been published by The Edinburgh Evening News, under The Edinburgh Evening News, under the modest title "Edinburgh Street Studies." The author is fully equipped for his task on the antiquarian side. He knows every nook and corner of Edin-burgh, and at the touch of his magic pen the spirit of the past appears, be-fore us. At his bidding the old his-toric abuses tell their ancient stories and familiar figures repeaple the out and familiar figures repeople the old familiar scenes. But ever and anon the author turns from the fading glorthe author turns from the fading glor-des of the past to remind us of the stern realities of the present. Edin-burgh, the city of romance, was also a city of dirt, disease and death. The guide-book writer, the patriotic chap-eron of the strolling visitor, has had his day; it is now the turn of the social reformer. When in the early sixtles of last century the social reformer. of last century the social recorder, bidding adieu to sentimentalism, be-gan to look at Edinburgh from the standpoint of health and comfort, he found a death rate of 34.46 per 1,000 in most repulsive form." It was clearly time for the progressive politician and the municipal reformer to subordinate historical sentiment to practic utility. Thanks to the progressive spirit, no one can now point "to two stairs in Edinburgh with 348 people without a drop of water or sanitary convenience." In the matter of drunk enness, Edinburgh has a record the reverse of satisfactory; but thanks to ten o'clock closing, a great improve-ment is visible. Not till Scotland is allowed to manage her own affairs will while entries public opinion exercise its proper influ-ence. Again and again Scotland has pressed her claims for temperance leg-islation, but parliamentary congestion blocks the way. Does any patriot suppose that if a Scottish parliament sat in Edinburgh the present distribu-tion of public houses in the city, for instance, would be tolerated?

Saloon As a Saga.

The writer of this book states that in the course of a short walk he passed twenty-six public-houses. In the words of the author: "What have the people of Edinburgh to say about this sort of thing? Things are at such a pitch that if you ask for a direction the native brings in the location of a licensed house to aid you on your travels. Can it be said that the people are betting a fair chance to lead decent lives with ETHEL BRANDON, IN "THE BLUE BIRD," MAETERLINCK'S FANTASY SPECTACULARLY STAGED AT THE ROYAL ALEXANDRA temptation at every street corner? A vivid idea of the drink craze in Ed-inburgh is had from the following brief sentences:

Social Reform

"At one prominent hostelry—the rent of which runs into four figures—the other Saturday night, from nine o'clock till five minutes past, fifty-five per-sons entered, of whom five were women; and from ten minutes to ten till ten o'clock, 120, including six women, passed thru the doors. Round the cor-ner a five minutes' record was thirtyeight, mostly countrymen and miners." This is deplorable enough, but it is satisfactory to know that an improvement is to be noted in consequence of

"the Lloyd George budget, with its increased charge for liquor." But after strange weird folk as the souls of all the evil will not be effectively dealt water, fire, sugar, bread and milk, strange woird folk as the souls of with till the housing conditions of the people are grappled with in earnest. For twenty-flive years-a quarter of a century-I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine; something to attribute that others have for the cure of stubborn chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people-they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures those diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to rend them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair. Kingdom of the Future. The big scene of the play is the kingdom of the future. It seems to be somewhere in the deepest recesses of the sky, for everything is of the most dazzling and celestial blue—the palace, with its endless corridors and the columns and even the pavement itself is of the same dazzling color. But the inhabitants are even more wonthe inhabitants are even more won-derful than the palace. They are the sculs of unborn children waiting for the summons which is to call them to earth. As Tyltyl and Mytyl are talking with them, the enormous gate which leads from the palace to the cloud filled depths swings open cloud filled depths swings open and there appears a great ship of gold and mother of pearl, with Father Time at the helm. The ship has soared up skyward from the earth, as it does every dawn, to take the children who are to be born that day. Father Time hustles the fortunate few aboard and the golden galley launches into space and sails slowly down to earth. And as it becomes a mere speck in the dis-tance there arises, from the earth, the joyful song of the waiting mothers, eager to clasp their newborn children in their arms. The illusions, the spectacles, are all conceived merely to interpret the poet's light, and better, to tell the poet's

A Long Gallop.

Presumably the best horse of his time, Gimcrack after winning the chief events on this side of the channel, was bought by Count Laranguais, who took him to France in 1766. His new owner backed him to gailop 22½ miles within the hour, which, to the astonishment of the onlookers, he did, finis'hing with something in hand. After this, however his owner found it impossible to back the little grey for matches, so he was brought back to England in the following year. C LAH SEVAR, "the riding king," chief of a warlike tribe in Western Baluchistan, is sitting one evening smoking his pipe at the campfire in front of his black tent, which has been pitched near a tamarisk. The tale teller has grown silent. From out of the darkness of the night appear two men dressed in white with white turbans. They tie the dromedaries and prostrate themselves in front of Shah Sevar, who bids them rise and help themselves to tea from the big iron pot. In a moment everything is full of life. More men come up to the fire, all carrying long muskets, lances, swords and poniards. Several of them are leading dromedaries. Now fourteen men are seated around the flaming fire. It is strangely silent in this circle and Shah Sevar's face is stern and in-

"Yes," comes the answer from everywhere. "Is the powderhorn full, and lead in the bags?"

"Yes." "Have the waterskins been filled?"

"Yes."

"Have you provisions in your pockets?" "Yes. Dates, sour cheese and bread for four days."

"I told you the day before yesterday our goal this time is Ba.n. Bam is a very populous village. If we are discovered too early, the fight will be hot. We must sneak up to it like the jackals of the desert. The distance is five hundred kilometres, four days' ride."

Shah Sevar sits for a while staring into the flames, then he asks: "Are the dischambas fresh?"

"Yes."

"And have we ten extra dromedaries for the booty?" "Yes."

"He arises and all the men follow his example. Their herce faces are glowing, red like copper, in the firelight. They are not thieves; theft is contemptible, but plunder and robbery are manly occupations and a man's fame grows the more slaves he takes. "Sit up," the chief commands in a low voice. Muskets are thrown across the shoulders and clash against the belt with its powderhorn, leather pouch with bullets, fint, steel and tinder. "In the name of Allah," Shah Sevar cries, and the little crowd trots away into the night. They follow a well known trail, gained by the stars. Dawn comes, the sun rises and the shadows of the dromedaries fall on the firm yellow sand in which nothing grows. Not a word was spoken during the night. When the first 120 kilometres have been covered, the chief says: "We will stop at the hot springs."

When they reach there they fill the waterskins and let the dromedaries drink. Then they withdraw into the hills close by as the desert itself; the only noise is the labored breathing of the dromedaries and the sound of their feet against the hard ground. salt spring. During the third night the dromedaries begin to breathe more heavily and, when the sun rises, their lips are covered with white foam. They are not tired, only angry and out of breath, but onward they have to trot always toward the West, raising great clouds of gray dust. At last they are out of the desert and, with funious speed, they race across the ground that is white with alkali. No living being

When the sun sets they still have twenty kilometres to cover. Then Shah Sevar stops his dromedaries, and, as if he feared that his voice might be heard in Bam, he whispers: "Halt!" A soft whistling and the animals bend their knees and lay down. The men jump from their saddles and tie the front legs of the beasts together with short ropes that they may not run away and betray the plan. All are dead tired and stretch themselves out on ground. Some of the men slept, while excitement kept of awake, Four sentries keep a sharp lookout. The town of is not in sight, but the hills at the foot of which it lies are pla visible. If night were only here now!

The day has been calm and sultry. Now comes a faint h from the north and Shah Sevar smiles. An eastern wind have forced him and his men to make a detour, that the wa clogs of the village might not scent them too soon. It is 9 o'c In an hour all Bam will be asleep. The men have finished meal and put the remaining dates, cheese and bread back into "Do you want us to empty the waterbags to lighten packets. dromedanes for the attack?" a man asks.

"No," replies Shah Sevar, "perhaps we shall not have the fill them again when we retreat."

"The hour has come," he says, "arms ready!" The me up and ride slowly toward the village. "I will ride faster when I discover anything suspicious, and then you will follow Three men with the extra dromedaries remain a little behind.

Like falcons the riders stare toward their goal. It is still kilometres away, but their sharp eyes even now distinguish trees in the gardens of Bam. They draw closer. Suddenly a barks and all others follow. They have scented the dromedant "Forward!" the Shah cries. The dromedanies race along; know the game and need no spurring on. Their necks are a parallel with the ground and the white foam flies from mouths. The dogs bark more furiously than ever: some of run out to meet the attack. The robbers reach the village The air is rent with cries of despair; the sleeping people aroused; women and children flee to the hills. There is I to organize a defense, there is no leader and the attack has too suddenly. Like scared chickens the miserable inhabitants hither and thither and the robbers fall upon them. Shah directs the attack sitting high up on his dromedary. The jump off and overpower three men, twelve women and six ch who are tied and placed under guard of two Beluchis wh others search the nearest houses. Their booty is two young who fight desperately, two bags of grain and some silver.

"How many slaves?" roars Shah Sevar.

"Twenty-three," comes the answer.

"That is enough. Pack up." The slaves and booty are tied to the backs of the extra dr daries.

"Hurry, hurry," cries the chief. "The same way back. There is some confusion. The ropes of some of the d daries have become tangled. The chief's eyes have discover crowd of armed men coming up. Three shots ring out and Sevar falls backward in his saddle. His dromedary is scared starts to run toward the desert. His left foot is caught in the rup, his head is trailing in the dust, which staunches the from a wound in his forehead.

Then the foot slips out of the stirrup, and "the riding king" a dead body at the gate of Bam.

PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY. If it is the province of pathology to the surgeon to know thoroly the form and structure of the tissues, in order that abnormal or diseased parts may be removed with the hope of bringing about a normal condition again; then about a normal condition again, then is it equally important for the medical practitioner to know thoroly the func-tions of the tissues and their system of co-operation, if he is to restore the diseased organism to its normal physiological standard. Therapeutics must be invoked with a knowledge of those agents which will stimulate the weak-ened parts to their normal tone, or which will soothe the over-irritable or over-excited tissues to their natural calm. Without anatomy we may as-sume there could not be proper surgi-cal procedure; we may equally assume that without anatomy there ould not cal procedure; we may equally assume that without physiology there could not be satisfactory medical practise. In-deed, the practitioner's service is but an extended laboratory course in physi-ology.—Professor Pierre A. Fish in Science.

COPPER IN NORWAY.

In various parts of Norway copper is found and has been worked from time to time, but the deposits have thus far to time, but the deposits have thus far proved poor and limited in extent, and none of the mines have been commer-cial successes. The same may_be said of the few deposits of coal and iron. It seems possible, however, that Nor-way may find an unlooked for value in some of her deposits of minerals of rare elements, for which at any time there may be a great demand. Among her older rocks have already been dis-covered many minerals of great sciencovered many minerals of great scientific interest, including groeggerite, the most radio-active of known minerals. Nevertheless, it is to her unrivaled waterpower that Norway must prima-rily look for her industrial development. --Dr. James Lewis Howe, in The Popu-lar Science Monthly.
